
Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These three, the ucchiṣṭha, and the dust, and the washing water, there is a verse.

[Possibly these verses]

kṛṣṇera ucchiṣṭha haya 'mahā-prasāda' nāma
'bhakta-śeṣa' haile mahā-mahā-prasādākhyāna' bhakta-pāda-dhūli āra bhakta-pada-jala bhakta-bhukta-avaśeṣa, - tina mahā-bala ei tina-sevā haite kṛṣṇa-premā haya punaḥ punaḥ sarva-śāstre phukāriyā kaya tāte bāra bāra kahi, - śuna bhakta-gaṇa viśvāsa kariyā kara e-tina sevana

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu states: "The remnants of food offered to Kṛṣṇa are called mahā-prasāda. After this same mahā-prasāda has been taken by a devotee, the remnants are elevated to mahā-mahā- prasāda.] [The dust of the feet of a devotee, the water that has washed the feet of a devotee, and the remnants of food left by a devotee are three very powerful substances.] [By rendering service to these three, one attains the supreme goal of ecstatic love for Kṛṣṇa. In all the revealed scriptures this is loudly declared again and again.] [Therefore, My dear devotees, please hear from Me, for I insist again and again: please keep faith in these three and render service to them without hesitation."]

He who has got genuine attraction for these, this māyā cannot do anything about him. Something like that. _____ [?] Narottama Ṭhākura has also written so many things.

So, ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi. Uddhava says, "No other means will be necessary, but only taking the remnants of the Vaiṣṇava we will conquer the whole of māyā."

Adopting one means, many have attained. Some śravaṇa, some kīrtana, some smaraṇa, some vandana, in this way it is mentioned. And there are many who contributes the whole thing. The general recommendation about Nāma saṅkīrtana and that will also, that everything must be with the spirit of service. That must be present everywhere. Not with any other motive. Motive must be sincere, this spirit of service. Whatever you'll do, the common thing, the spirit must be that of service. Not seeking anything else but the favour of the Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava. Service means that; only the favour of Viṣṇu and Vaiṣṇava. And neither siddhi, nor mukti, nor any mundane aspiration. Externally it may take any shape, any shape, but the serving spirit must be present there.

Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234 & 2.109] That ātma-nivedana, ātmā-samarpaṇa, surrender, that must be the beginning. Whatever I do I do it for Him, self forgetfulness. And self-forgetfulness and full memory for the service of Guru, Vaiṣṇava, Govinda, etc, positive side. Not only self-forgetfulness, self-forgetfulness in the service of the Lord. Mere self-forgetfulness has no value. A stone also may be self-forgetful. Madness, that is also self-forgetful. Self-forgetful in the service of Govinda.

Badrinārāyaṇa: So Mahārāja, that feeling of recognition, one is servant and he feels he wants to be recognised by the Spiritual Master or by the Vaiṣṇavas, that also..

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The standard will come from the Spiritual Master. There is absolute consideration and relative also. That is return something. So there is gradation in the Guru also. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ.

śraddhāmayo 'yaṁ puruṣo, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ]

["O Bhārata, all men have a particular type of faith according to their individual mentalities. The very nature of the living being is based on faith - their internal and external nature is modelled according to their faith. Therefore, their nature may be discerned according to the manner of worship or reverence in which they have faith."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]

A karmī will have śraddhā for karmī Guru, a karmī. A jñānī will have śraddhā for jñānī Guru. The previous sukṛti, that will guide to select a Guru. Also the free will is there. But still, backed by previous sukṛti. Otherwise, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ, according to śraddhā he will rank, gather around the Guru, yogī Guru, jñānī Guru, karmī Guru. Guru is everywhere, guṇḍā Guru. Guru is everywhere necessary. But the field of action will be selected by one's inner realization, what aspect of life. Of course there is a comparative line, comparative possibility is there, what is good, what is bad.

But they won't care, a guṇḍā won't care to take. Just as the viṣayī, that ordinary exploitationist has put, "I must look after my family. That is my positive duty. Leaving that, if we all go to serve Kṛṣṇa, how the world will go on?" That is the general cry.

But this world is a prison house. You are to know first you are in prison. So as soon as this world will be dissolved and the jīva will get freedom, it will be better. No charm in this worldly life. The disease, death, just as in the case of Buddha. Buddha had enough for his own comfort. But he read in the society that infirmity, old age, the disease, the death is here, and how one can rejoice and make cheer here, or another place, the fools. He does not know that that will fall upon him as a prey. For future you must think and do accordingly. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi-duḥkha-doṣānudarśanam [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] Where is birth, where is death, where is disease, and where is infirmity, there cannot be any happiness, permanent. We must leave that soil and seek some other higher soil to live on.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, you said that to get to a Guru one must have some sukṛti, some sukṛti is necessary?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, of course.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Then we hear that whatever we acquire from the Guru is his causeless mercy. What is this causeless mercy in relation to sukṛti? We hear that some sukṛti is necessary, and then we hear of causeless mercy. What is the meaning of causeless mercy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have to approach that department of causeless mercy. Causeless mercy, mother is approaching the child with some affection, but child won't accept it, the causeless mercy. Mother has got some natural affection for the child, she wants to do some good. But child won't take, something like that. Ordinary mother is not the real example, but somewhat. Causeless mercy. He won't accept that advice of the guardian. He'll go, śraddhā, he'll go to keep company with the guṇḍā, won't hear mother or father. His previous tendency will draw him towards the guṇḍā class, won't hear mother, father, guardian, etc.

Similarly, śraddhā, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ, according to śraddhā one goes to select his company. And śraddhā comes from sukṛti of previous life. And causeless mercy, they're wandering, they're independent of the person, they're trying to distribute them. Just as in ajñāta-sukṛti, a flower garden, a sādhu takes some flower, give it to the Govinda, but his energy used in that purpose, for Govinda sevā. So sukṛti comes automatically, unconsciously in him, because his energy is utilised without his conscience. In this way the causeless mercy there, underground. It is causeless mercy, when accumulated, that sukṛti in sufficient quantity then it creates what is śraddhā. And that śraddhā, faith, then leaving aside other topics he goes to the sādhu, to Kṛṣṇa, to this and that. Śraddhā of different kinds, tamasic śraddhā, rajasic śraddhā, sattvic śraddhā, nirguṇa śraddhā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They are known as Huns, furious Frank and fiery Huns, the French and German fight has been related by one gentleman, the furious Frank and fiery Huns. So they're called as Huns, means haṁsa.

In ancient India two section, paramahaṁsa and haṁsa. In the beginning, there was not these four varṇāśrama, brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra. Before this classification there was two classes of people, one paramahaṁsa, wholly devoted to the Lord, spiritual life. Another was haṁsa; they were not so much intense in their religious life but anyhow they lived a spiritual life, haṁsa.

Haṁsa means, the derivative meaning of haṁsa, who can take out the milk from the water. If you mix water with milk, the haṁsa, the swan, can drink the milk away and the water will be left. This is a wonderful thing. The water will be left and the milk will be taken by them.

So those in the world living who can draw the extract of the advice in one's life, can gather from outside, they're haṁsa, who can understand the real purpose of life and deal accordingly with the environment, haṁsa. Paramahaṁsa, they can do anything and everything. They're well established in their position. They do not lose their relationship with the centre, any time.

Swāmī Mahārāja I think has told that in some ancient time some people migrated from central India to this side and that side.

Badrinārāyaṇa: In his purport of his story of King Yayati, he cursed his sons and he sent them out, Swāmī Mahārāja has said.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They are banished that side, yes in Bhāgavata it is said.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And also Paraśurāma, some of the kṣatriyas they flew.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣatriyas, they flew the field, they exported. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hans.

Max Muller came from German, Max Muller. Amongst the western scholars Max Muller was the first who appreciated Vedic education, Upaniṣad. He told that, "India has got so much wealth in her treasury. The whole world, if they get it, they will be all rich, but the wealth won't be lessened, anything. The wealth will not be less, but the whole world will be wealthy. Such wealth India has got in the store of her Upaniṣads." That was the declaration of Max Muller. He was a German.

And even now, in Germany also only perhaps, a half an hour radio transaction in Sanskrit. And coming from Germany Indira introduced in India in Sanskrit language, the radio. But in the whole of the world they have got appreciation for Sanskrit and Indian culture, in Germany.

Badrinārāyaṇa: They say that Hitler took that Dhanur Veda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. Hitler was pro-Indian. When the war was continuing, I was in Karachi. One European gentleman asked, "How do you like Hitler?"

And, "I like him for some, in some respect."

"What are the respect?"

I told him that, "He says the ladies go home and give good children, and I shall reward you. Don't fill up the office." This is according to Indian custom. They work in family, not outside.

Then another, so many points I told him, "I like bravery."

Hitler. But he was a hater of the Jewish, too much. And he was the greatest enemy of the communists. Jews as well as the communists.

One Mr. Kreech, he was a good politician, diplomat, he went to Russia and converted Russia against Hitler. Hitler had a truce with Russia and wanted to attack England. But one Mr. Kreech, he was first sent to India, but he consulted Gandhi, Jawalarl, etc. but they could not come to any conclusion, and solution, went back. Then he went to Russia, and there he began to preach that, "If Hitler is victorious in this world, he will exterminate the whole communist section of the world, it is sure."

And that perhaps moved Stalin. "Yes, he's the worst hater of communist." So it was possible that Russia joined England.

And Churchill he told at that time, many asked Churchill, "Why you have come in terms with the communist? You are the hater of the communists number one."

He told, "Now we are in such a position, what about communists? If I'm to contact with the hell, come in understanding with the Satan, I'm ready, to come out of danger within which we are at present." That was Churchill's answer.

And America came to back both English and Russians. But I think, if Japan could help Hitler at that time attacking Russia from the east side, then Russia would have been finished. But Japan he was busy with America only, and the British, neglecting Russia.

In the meantime the atom bomb came. And we are told, some people say, the atom bomb that was prepared by Hitler. Of course at that time I closely followed the newspapers.

Hitler told, "Supernatural, mysterious nature are working in my favour, but let the providence save me from that heinous action." This came from his mouth.

And the Allied party they thought, everyone was researching atomic energy, and they thought that Hitler was already successful inventing atom bomb. "Then, in the process if he can fulfil wholly to utilise, then it will be impossible to defeat him." So with all their might, in full force, very quickly they came to attack Hitler. "No time should be spared. If he comes with that weapon in our land, then there will be no other alternative but to fall at his feet." So very quickly from all sides they came to Hitler.

And some says so much that the atom bomb made by Hitler came to the hands of the American and that was thrown into Japan. Some are of such opinion.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gandhi also, when France submitted, then Gandhi gave a statement, I saw in paper. "Four qualifications: bold, then a brave soldier and for a quick decision, and boldness." And other two qualifications given by Gandhi to Hitler.

Bon Mahārāja had some engagement with Hitler, but when he went to see him, the war was going on at that time, Bon Mahārāja told that, "Very busily he's walking in a corridor, and I saw him from distance. The brain surcharged with very heavy thought. Then when he was intimated that he had some engagement with Swāmī Bon, then he asked some other man, "You go on my behalf, meet him." Hitler, though he already engaged Swāmī Bon to some conversation, but he could not attend personally. He sent one of his representative to meet Swāmī Bon. Swāmī Bon told that, "I saw him in a corridor, he's walking and with heavy thinking on his brain."

Hitler. Very tactful, very quick, how he could took up Mussolini from Italy. Mussolini was captured, and one day here, and one day there, in this way they're moving him from different parts. But Hitler, with the help of his SS army, traced where he is and jumped from over and took up Mussolini and took him to Germany.

And this Crete also. All the parties, the island of Crete, in the mouth of Dardanelles, the one island.

Devotee: Near Greece.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "With that way the Allied party may help Russia." So he thought that, "This island must be captured." So how? The French, the British, Americans, all there, having full possession, and he wanted to snatch it from their hands. And he did it.

England told, "What he prepared to attack us, that is finished in Crete."

The gliders, and the helicopters, some imitation men, they're coming down from helicopter, and they're using their bullets uselessly. In this way. Then some imitation man, and some real man are descending. They're perplexed. "Who is the real man and who is imitation?" In this way, anyhow captured the whole island, which was in full strong possession of the parties, French, English, and others. He showed much wonder, in the fighting.

And this blitzkrieg. In one month, maybe only fifteen days. First week of a month was preparation, and the second week he attacked, and by third week almost finished his battle. And fourth week then he captured the administration. Only one month, then one country, he showed. First it began from Denmark, Denmark and Norway. Next month we found, first in Poland, and next after the winter, the next summer, Denmark and Norway. How long Norway is, and how he could reach Norway, the farthest northern corner of Norway, they could not think it out, how he could do it. Magic. Denmark, Norway, then the battle of Flanders. Holland, Belgium, and a part of France, in one month.

And in America some gentleman who was, not Wilson, Kennedy or someone who told then, "The history of the world, the battle of Flanders is the unique. French, British, Belgium, one side. And Germany on the other side. And then next attack came to France. But when the plans were closely followed, one afternoon, some came French, there was margino [?] line was built between France and Germany after the first great war. Then we were told that one afternoon in some German...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...dynamite, and they put into the pyramids and began to crush them, blow them. Then they told that a mechanised army came, in a round way. They're going in this way, cutting, advancing in this way. Those that were wounded, they come this side and new, the mechanised army is going, always new going, and the wounded are coming and they are treated accordingly. And the new is going. Like a fan, they described, like a fan. In this way they began to advance. And a part of France, Belgium, Holland, in this way, the Flanders. The soldiers that were to withdraw, and when they reached the British shore they began to sleep - no food, nothing. Wherever they're carried, the allied from the ship and they began to sleep. No sleep for a whole week, such was the position of the allied soldiers. It followed like that, Battle of Flanders.

Again we had to see that when America also joined the side, Russia. Russia is a vast country. Blitzkrieg, that is lightening war was impossible there, and that was the cause of Hitler's downfall.

There was one Mr. Hess, he consulted this astrology. He told, "We should not go to the east side. We can't be victorious there. But if we approach, march towards west, the possibility of victory for us."

But Hitler did not take his advice. Hess was sent to make treaty with the British, in a plea that he has fallen accidently. But really he went to make treaty with England, before Hitler comes to announce war against Russia. But Hess was taken to prison. No proposal for treaty was accepted by Churchill. Then what to do? That failed.

Hitler told that, "Russia is such a great power, keeping at back, I shall go to attack England, this will be foolish. If Russia approaches at that time then I'll simply be crushed, so I must." In the meantime, though there was some truce with Russia, but Russia, they built many aerodromes on the line of Germany, on the border. Many aerodromes in the meantime they built. So that brought suspicion to Hitler. "If I attack England with my force, then Russia in the back will come to conquer me."

So leaving England, Germany went to be at war with Russia. It was a vast land. Blitzkrieg won't work. And Russia had also some military power, strong. None could break the front line. Previously Hindenburg he was the cause of Russian, the fall of the Jarhad [?] Empire. _____ [?] Only General Bock, he suddenly broke the Russian line, and in one day two hundred miles entered deep into Russia.

At that time Stalin he cried, he told, remarked, "The hated enemy has entered into our homeland. With the whole of our energy we must oppose him." In this way.

Then of course they came to Stalingrad. And Rommel also, this side, Africa, that circumambulating Mediterranean he approached this side. And they came to Caucasus and they had a mind that they will meet here in India with Japan. But providence decided otherwise.

Hitler told that Napoleon that, "I'm not defeated by anyone, but destiny has defeated me."

So also we see in the case with Hitler.

na vidvan na ca parosam bhagyam phalati sarvatya na vidvan na ca parosam [?]

Destiny defeated him. But the valour he has shown, that is wonderful. Not yet history is admitting him, but sometime after. Just as the first General is Hannibal, second is Alexander, the world Generals. Third Julius Caesar, fourth Napoleon. So far the recognition has come from the historians. And the fifth must be Hitler, according to me. But the present history is not so impartial. They still hate Hitler for the devastation of the world. What he showed that is wonderful, in the war history. This mechanised army, and this blitzkrieg in the word of Germany perhaps, this lightening war. Lightening war and mechanised, that only the fighters on the motor and tank _____ [?] not on foot.

And when France was conquered within fifteen days the whole world was amazed. "A power like France." That man Petain he was hanged afterwards by De Gaulle. Petain surrendered to save his country. The whole country will be devastated, he could not tolerate. Then he submitted, he came to conclude a peace with Hitler.

And there was another trouble. Everywhere French and British navy they're together, and France declared peace, and they're in difficulty. Somewhere they joined, French joined the British, and somewhere they began to fight each other.

And one Mr. Darlan, who was the head of the whole navy of France, he went to Africa and he was stabbed there by a British gentleman. In this way. And at that time America came with fresh energy, to land her soldiers.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Then again that battle came to the French in Belgium' shore. And Hitler had to retire gradually. And we are told that when his followers asked Hitler, "Come away from Baldwin."

"No, I can't go. I asked my soldiers if any general comes to retreat, wants to retreat, you'll shoot him. And how can I say that I shall live warning? I must die here. I can't live warning."

And the followers, "Oh, we want to save you."

"Again they may come. With double energy I shall oppose them."

"If you live, then our leader lives, then I shall have everything." In this way.

What's the time?

Badrināyaṇa: It's five after nine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

...1915 was a student in _____ [?] college. About death ray, perhaps that is also ready by this time, death ray.

Badrināyaṇa: The Russians have a bomb that you can't hear it, you can't see it. It just devastates everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We are told that some bomb, only the vitality will be finished.

Devotee: That's right. The French are making that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No disturbance of any building, or any articles, only the vitality will go.

Devotee: French are making that. That's what we heard. What will happen now Mahārāja when there will be war?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Einstein told that, "What you are dealing with, if you commit mistake in the process, a slight mistake, then whole earth may be burned into ashes within few seconds. The oxygen will take fire, and in a second it will spread throughout the whole of the world. And the earth will be burned into ashes in a few seconds. Don't go further." He gave warning, I was told. "You're tackling with so many dangerous things. The earth may be burned in few seconds, reduced to what?"

Devotee: They're afraid of, now anyway, in international circles they're start talking Gandhism now. It is fact. But they won't have any success there as well as we know. They have to follow our line to have success or peace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Providence is there.

Devotee: But as we see in India Mahārāja, corruption and all bad things. So I think it will be very soon war.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If there is war, then also in the beginning perhaps they may not use that dreadful weapon.

Devotee: They will try to avoid it but still.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Previously when there was another war between Israel and Egypt, Russia wanted to interfere. Then America only told to Russia, "Israel has got atomic energy in his hand. And if he finds that his life is in danger, he may use that." Russia came back. So Israel is so great only because he has got in possession of atomic energy. He does not care for small countries.

So we don't like to live in this world, so nasty. We are trying to realise, to live in the land of the soul. We are soul and we should live there.

[na tad bhāsayate sūryo, na śaśāṅko na pāvakaḥ]
yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

["My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16]

It is coming into being and then again vanishing. Being created and destroyed. Creation and destruction. That is the nature of this plane of māyā. And we must leave this dress, find out our soul person, and live in the plane of soul, beyond the jurisdiction of this world of death. By the use of our intelligence, and mainly, as you told, the causeless mercy of the Vaiṣṇava, the sukṛti. The sukṛti accumulated creates śraddhā, for the unseen. What is seen, that is neglected. What is unseen, appreciation for that. That is more reliable. The unseen is more reliable. Unseen means not under material experience, that is more reliable, than this flesh, concrete life, what to say. That is sure to go. And not only mine, everyone. So this bogus plane should not be trusted more. We must seek something. If we enter within our heart we shall find, yes, there is mind, there is intelligence, there is soul, and Supersoul, and so far, so on, that subtle world. And world without pain and change, distraction.

mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate

yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

Our ambition of life is there. We want to live in a country where this sort of insult, the general insult and disregard is absent, honourable. Honourable life we can live there. And this is sure to go, we are seeing every day, every minute.

Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja told, "What is more wonderful than this? That every day we see only that they're going into the jaw of death, and we're not preparing ourselves for that. Our tendency is that as much time as we can stay here which is impossible. The whole of our energy we are using almost for nothing; for impossibility, we're using our energy. I shall have to leave, and grieve. All of us will have to leave this place. Still we want to construct here, give so much attention, to construct houses, and this, that."

Then why do you do temple and others? In this way the energy should be used for the purpose of the Lord and you'll be saved. Energy should be used for Him. And that is the way through which we can go there. All aspects of our life should be utilised for His service. And that is royal road to go swiftly to His domain. The whole energy should be used for His purpose. For Itself. Reality is for, everything for Him. We must realise this truth. Nothing for us. I'm also for Him. The infinite absolute is such in His nature. By His existence, He's such, everything for Him. We are separatists, we think this is for mine. I may be monarch of all I survey. This is the anti-current that has taken me far away from Him. And so death, disease, they come to make me prey of their life.

The criterion is there. Whatever I do. I commit a murder, but if for the interest of Kṛṣṇa cent per cent then it is no murder. And Guru Mahārāja he gave the highest promotion. It is such, something like that. Outwardly I heard in Benares from the lecture, a discussion between one Māyāvādī and our Guru Mahārāja. I was present there. That cid-vilāsa, what is cid-vilāsa, Guru Mahārāja is explaining. Anyhow the friend came.

simha prasena avadhuta simho jambavata [?] The [Syamantaka] jewel was taken by Prasena, a brother of Satrājit, father-in-law of Kṛṣṇa. Satyabhāmā's father, Satrājit. Satyabhāmā's uncle was Prasena. He took the gem and went out in the forest, and one lion he took that gem and killed Prasena, Satrājit's brother.

There our Guru Mahārāja explaining, the Prasena was killed but he was happy. And the killer and the killed, both, they're happy. Such is cid-vilāsa. One who is being killed, he's also very satisfied. And who is killing, he's also satisfied. Such is the nature of the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Just as in a drama. In a drama a man is killing a person, and he's playing the part of being killed, and he's playing the part of a killer. But if the play is good then both are satisfied. "Yes, he played the part of being killed in a very satisfactory manner." They will all applaud, "Yes."

So because killing is not possible or eternal, only superficial function, show, so no pain of being killed there, only for the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. Such show has been affected there. Both parties, the looser and the gainer, both parties are satisfied ultimately. Like a drama, a play. So, it is such. Because all is eternal, can't be harmed, but only a play, to produce some satisfaction for Kṛṣṇa, a play. If drama is done to satisfy suppose the king or the audience, so for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa and His men the drama is going on. Something like that. That is not for show but that is really the substance, that is the difference. It is not a show, only superficial. But if our deepest interest is there, that is līlā. Here it is a play, a show, but there that is līlā, the heart is there, fully, heart's satisfaction is there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotees: Witch.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Witch? Not in witch. An artificial form of a mother, in the garb of a mother, disguised. So that dhātri, who is supposed to help the mother.

Devotees: Nurse. Dhātri means nurse, one of the seven mothers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not nurse exactly but guardian nurse, nurse as guardian. He came with the boy, with the gem on the neck of the boy, around, Jāmbavān's son, and she began to sing this poetry, poem.

And Kṛṣṇa caught from there, "Then it is all right, that gem is here."

simha prasena avadhuta simho jambavata sukha mada kamadabi tava desa [?]

"Such a valuable gem you have got around your neck, and boy you are crying. What is this?"

There Kṛṣṇa caught that, "Here is the gem." And just came to snatch it, and the dhātri fled away, being afraid. And there was an uproar, and then they came and then the fighting began.

_____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The fight was going on for long time, twenty eight days or so perhaps. And the Yādavas they thought that Jāmbavān has killed Him, and they all came away, and performed Kṛṣṇa's śrāddha. And there placed in such a way that śrāddha's food, that gave strength to Kṛṣṇa more. And then He began to fight with greater vigour.

Then Jāmbavān thought, "What is this? I can't defeat this man. I did so many things in Tretā-yuga, and this ordinary man I can't fight him out. So I must have committed something wrong against Rāmacandra."

With a special mālā he put in the neck of Rāmacandra and that came to fire, and then found that same mālā is on the neck of Kṛṣṇa. "What is this? Again go, this is there, how it can come here?" Then he was perplexed. "Who are you? You're fighting a month with me, which is impossible for any human being. And how is it that garland has come around your neck? Who are you? You are Rāmacandra Himself."

Then there was a compromise. Jāmbavatī was given to Him, and the gem also. Presentation, the gem was given to Him.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is Dvārakā līlā. Vṛndāvana is more. _____ [?] Dvārakeśa, when He finds His own photo of Him in Vṛndāvana life, He becomes charmed Himself, what to speak of others. When He Himself finds His Śrī Mūrti of Vṛndāvana, Kiśora, He becomes little outside. _____ [?]
Normal position. So charming, Kiśora, Nanda Kiśora. Yaśomatī Nandana. This parakīya, the rareness makes it more valuable.

A glass of water on the battlefield, only one glass of water is so valuable in a battlefield when a man is dying, a general is dying, only for a glass of water.

So circumstance makes it sweet or bitter. Circumstance. And that is done by Yogamāyā, Baladeva, potency of Baladeva. He's at the backing. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca, feeling, thinking, willing. Bala, energy, that is arranged in such a way as to make possible the play, to perform the circumstances favourable to the play. Vṛndāvana.

So Rādhārāṇī though met in Kurukṣetra, the very Kṛṣṇa - "That He's that very Kṛṣṇa, I'm that very Rādhā, but still no pleasure. I want to have Him in Vṛndāvana. That is My place there where I'm free."

Vṛndāvaneśvarī. Hari-niṣkuṭa-vṛndā-vipineśe. [From Rūpa Goswāmī's Śrī Rādhikā-stava, 1] She's all in all in Vṛndāvana. There She wants Kṛṣṇa otherwise She's not happy with any half hearted _____ [?]
That gives Her more pain.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura wanted that, "I shall construct a thatched cottage in Kurukṣetra and there I shall pass the rest of the days of my life."

Both are nearer to one another, but the pangs of separation is more acute. Very near but They cannot meet, cannot be united according to Their necessity and will. So that is at the highest point, the spirit of separation. And that is the time when we should serve our _____ [?] Service is more valuable there only, according to the necessity. There the necessity of the service in its highest form. They're both there but can't meet. Can't meet according to Their own way. So the feeling of separation in its highest point, and that demands service, acute and the most intense service for both the parties at that time. They're going to faint, can't contain Their own personality, going to faint. This is the moment when service is necessary, very urgent.

And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "There I should construct a cottage and pass my days, the whole life trying to render service to my Lord and Lady, my Master and Mistress. Service is valuable according to the urgent necessity. There we can fetch more value from a little service."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

sei śloka sunera radha kunde sakha badha krsna prapti sei viddhi _____ [?]

What Kṛṣṇa told, the external meaning was, "All people come to Me with affection for their best benefit. You have got also affection for Me, so you also will serve Me."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. The external meaning. And the internal meaning, "All people will come to Me to show affection for their highest benefit. I am the goal of everyone. And such am I, and that I, has highest affection for you. All people want Me, and I want you, to be fulfilled in My life. So you rest assured, wherever I be, I am yours."

When Rādhārāṇī came to understand the meaning of that śloka in this way, She was satisfied, She came back. "He's coming. He's coming very soon." With the satisfaction of Her heart He came back.

sei śloka sunera radha kunde sakha badha krsna prapti [?]

"Wherever He may be does not matter, but He's mine." That confidence satisfied Her, that He will come very soon to Vṛndāvana.

And Jīva Goswāmī has shown, nitya līlā, Gopāla Temple, that Kṛṣṇa came to Vṛndāvana. That is another kalpa. But Mahāprabhu and the Goswāmīs, they have arranged the līlā in Mathurā, up to Mathurā of Sanātana Goswāmī. Up to Mathurā, it was necessary in the rasa, then after _____ [?] again the wheel moves in such a way, the wheel of time again comes to his former position. Just as after the summer, the winter comes, so Mathurā go on.

Again such circumstance, environment was created that Mahārāja Nanda has no child for long time, Yaśodā childless, pray, they can get some child. Such atmosphere in such time again comes suddenly. And they began to expect that Nanda must have a child, Yaśodā must have a child. She's worshipping this god, that god, "I may be blessed with a child." Then again that comes in, Kṛṣṇa comes in Mathurā. Vasudeva carries Him to here. And this līlā goes to, after development, goes to Mathurā again. Kaṁsa is killed. After _____ [?] wheel again comes. Sanātana Goswāmī has described in such a way in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, up to Mathurā.

[krsno 'nyo yadu sambhuto yah purnah so 'styatah parah]
vrndavanam parityajya sa kvacit naiva gacchati

[The Kṛṣṇa known as Yadu-kumara is Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa. He is different from the Kṛṣṇa who is the son of Nanda Mahārāja. Yadu-kumara manifests His pastimes in the cities of Dvārakā and Mathurā, but Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Nanda Mahārāja never at any time leaves Vṛndāvana, even for a moment.]

[Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Purva-khanda, 165] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.42]

Vṛndāvana means Vraja-maṇḍala, up to Mathurā, because that sort of separation, that is also a peculiar rasa. Vipralamba rasa, that is a necessary part of rasa, otherwise this sambhoga rasa may not go on independent. So there must be prabāsa. Then again the wheel comes in the same position. In this way nitya-līlā is going on. The sun is being set and again sun rising, in this way, a cyclic order. Everything which is to continue for eternity, that is posed in a cyclic order, automatically it goes.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Anurādhā: So what is the position of Devakī? She doesn't have any children. Her last son also taken.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Devakī's child has gone back to her.

Anurādhā: When?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From there he goes to Dvārakā. That part. Devakī also goes to Dvārakā. That is another part. That is not Vrajendra-nandana, not Kṛṣṇa of Vṛndāvana. That is Devakī-nandana, Vasudeva. From Mathurā to Dvārakā, all these play. Rūpa Goswāmī has connected between the two līlā, he has given some connection. That is also very peculiar.

I asked, "Why this difference between Rūpa and Sanātana?"

Our Guru Mahārāja, he answered in a word, "Why it has been told as adhokṣaja? Acintya bhedābheda, everything is possible simultaneously." That was his word.

Rūpa Goswāmī has connected, he has taken from Vṛndāvana in a modified way Rādhārāṇī, then Candrāvalī, then Jāmbavatī, all from there to that Dvārakā līlā. Lalitā was Jāmbavatī. You say Anurādhā, Lalitā. She was Jāmbavatī there in Dvārakā. And Rādhārāṇī became Satyabhāmā. And Candrāvalī became Rukmiṇī. Rukmiṇī, Rādhārāṇī as regard sentiment, Rādhārāṇī had the highest position in Vṛndāvana. But Candrāvalī was more clever. And in Dvārakā in some lower position that cleverness comes to the higher position, and sentiments go down, in lower level. But in Vṛndāvana, sentiment has got the highest position. And Rādhārāṇī _____ [?] everyone there, sneha. Love, sentiment, bhāva. But as regards this intelligence of lower order in Dvārakā, that gets the supreme position, that soberness; intelligence and sober. Rukmiṇī, she got the higher position _____ [?] lower position. The lower gets higher position there. In this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. These are very high talks.

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?] desire.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ for Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ for Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: She always acts humble.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: British say 'humbug.' Hindenbug, Hindenburg. Self Hindenbug, as well as self Hindenburg, German.

Devotee: _____ [?] This is one letter from her. One, two, three...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Three letters came from her.

Badrinārāyaṇa: She took Hari Nāma mantra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, Hari Nāma _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Devotee: That letter was so beautiful, I can remember.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very sincere, heartfelt appeal.

Devotee: They were going through much difficulty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My Guru Mahārāja, he desired me to go to the west, I did not go. Now he is fulfilling his desire in some way or other. It is his wealth. Of course, all my Godbrothers mostly say that what I say, they feel that our Guru Mahārāja is saying that, of that nature, in my talk, my speech is of his nature, ontological. As Mahāprabhu, He was the highest scholar, and then He came to be a devotee. So the real devotion is above scholarship, above knowledge. Karma, jñāna, anāvṛtam. Crossing the exploitation and renunciation, then there is the exploitation of Kṛṣṇa, not of any plurality but of unity. So words must cross, must be conscious of these two outer coatings. Then talks from that realm, it will have something.

These three covers, anyābhilāṣa, fleeting desires, karma, organised exploitation, morality, and then renunciation, liberation. These three layers, outward covers, must be crossed, then the domain of reality. And one must talk from that plane, being conscious that this salvation and elevation, all down. From that plane one should talk. And the sweetness of that plane will be real sweetness, sweetness proper. That is devotion proper. Otherwise it is a mixture, something. It is anyābhilāṣa, karma, and jñāna, mixture, yoga, karma, jñāna, anāvṛtam. From that plane I should talk. That is śuddha bhakti, bhakti proper.

Has she any inclination for song, any capacity, singing, any connection with?

Devotee: I like bhajans very much.

Anurādhā [?]: She says she likes bhajans.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And of what character, bhajan means that singing?

Devotee: Singing, yes kīrtana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is most, or talking, or reading, or worshipping?

Devotee: Singing with instruments. I like musical instruments.

Devotee: She likes musical instruments.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And interested in Vṛndāvana līlā of Kṛṣṇa? Eh?

Devotee: Interested in Vṛndāvana līlā of Kṛṣṇa?

Devotee: Oh. Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More interest with the service of the gopīs?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. So I shall go now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You don't know what is kṛpa?

Devotee: Yes, I know what is kṛpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is kindness, you know. That has got its quality. One may give, a poor has come without food, begging for food, you can give some food, that is a kindness, kṛpa. A material transaction, to help materially, that is also kṛpa, of lower kind. So education, the solution for the food, no longer begging, given a job you work and earn your food, that is greater kṛpa. In this way we are suffering.

Our ultimate suffering, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9], the kṛpa of those that are above the standard of janma-mṛtyu they will then some knowledge get out from this disease, that is kṛpa. From higher to lower, the help that comes, that is kṛpa. Kṛpa means help, from higher to lower. The higher stage, what he extends his help towards the lower, that is called kṛpa. So in the lower level, material, and the mental, and the spiritual, the gradation is there. So kṛpa proper which can help us from all sorts of wants, that is spiritual help, generally that is known as kṛpa. Real kṛpa is our spiritual extension, extension of spiritual knowledge and love. That is kṛpa, which comes from higher to the lower. That help, it begins from lower level, and it goes up to the highest level, kṛpa. The help that comes from upper towards lower.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The gentleman who has come yesterday, is he here?

Devotee: Yes, Vedānta Prabhu.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: ...[17th] verse, 4th Chapter, Bhagavad-gītā.

karmaṇo hy api boddhavyaṁ, boddhavyaṁ ca vikarmaṇaḥ akarmaṇaś ca boddhavyaṁ, gahanā karmaṇo gatiḥ

[The intricacies of action are very hard to understand. Therefore one should know properly what action is, what forbidden action is and what inaction is.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.17]

So Swāmī Mahārāja, in the purport he's saying like this: "If one is serious about getting free from material bondage, one must apply himself to an analysis of action, reaction and perverted actions, because it is a very difficult subject matter. To understand all this one has to associate with authorities in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and learn the secret from them."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the beginning? Akarmaṇaś ca boddhavyaṁ, gahanā karmaṇo gatiḥ. The most unintelligible, unknowable. That is infinite probability, karma. To energise, karma means to energise. Its result, its consequence is unlimited. According to the posing it will fetch different results.

kiṁ karma kim akarmeti, kavayo 'py atra mohitāḥ
[tat te karma pravakṣyāmi, yaj jñātvā mokṣyase 'śubhāt]

[Even very learned men are baffled in ascertaining the nature of action and inaction. Some cannot comprehend action, while others cannot comprehend inaction. Hence, I shall now teach you about such action and inaction, knowing which you will attain liberation from the evil world.]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.16]

What is karma, what is absence of karma? To understand this the scholars also are befooled. Then what is the beginning of the śloka?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Karmaṇo hy api boddhavyaṁ, boddhavyaṁ ca vikarmaṇaḥ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Karmaṇo hy api boddhavyaṁ, boddhavyaṁ ca vikarmaṇaḥ. What is vikarma, what is karma? Boddhavyaṁ ca vikarmaṇaḥ. Akarmaṇaś ca boddhavyaṁ, gahanā karmaṇo gatiḥ. What is akarma, what is vikarma, what is karma? Karma means generally which is recommended by the śāstra, that varṇāśrama dharma. That is karma. Vikarma, immoral action. And akarma, to stop all sorts of energising. That is not possible altogether. One must take food, one must sleep, one must work. So akarma, akarmaṇi ca karma yaḥ.

[karmaṇy akarma yaḥ paśyed, akarmaṇi ca karma yaḥ
sa buddhimān manuṣyeṣu, sa yuktaḥ kṛtsna-karma-kṛt]

[One who realises that the selfless action performed by the man of pure knowledge is never subject to bondage and is therefore in fact inaction whereas the abnegation practised by a renunciate of impure heart is the ill-fated cause of bondage he is, among men, the intelligent yogī and factual executor of all works.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.18]

He's the real intelligent man who can find karma in akarma, and akarma in karma. That means that by controlling our inner self we can get out of karma. A man, yoga-sthaḥ kuru karmāṇi, [saṅgaṁ tyaktvā dhanañjaya

siddhy-asiddhyoḥ samo bhūtvā, samatvaṁ yoga ucyate]

["O Dhanañjaya (Arjuna), after giving up desire for the fruits of action, situate yourself on the path of devotion (bhakti-yoga). Equally disposed to success and failure, carry out the duties prescribed according to your nature. To remain equipoised in either success or failure of the outcome of action is certainly known as yoga."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.48]

A man who is, who works properly adjusted, that does not want any consequence of his karma, really akarma is there. And when one wants to, in mind he's wanting so many, when mind is fickle, always moving, wanting this or that without checking that he stops the external karma, that is foolishness. So karmāṇi akarma, he's seen to do many karma outside but he does not want any result. He's in really akarma. And the one who has stopped all his physical activity but mentally thinking of so many things, he's in karma. Not only physical, external, but internal position should be marked very carefully.

[kāryate hy avaśaḥ karma, sarvaḥ prakṛti-jair guṇaiḥ]

[No one can remain without acting even for a moment. Everyone is forced to act helplessly, stimulated by the modes of material nature. Therefore, it is improper for a person of impure consciousness to reject the purificatory duties prescribed by the scriptures.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.5]

Really none can stop wholesale the karma.

[niyataṁ kuru karma tvaṁ, karma jyāyo hy akarmaṇaḥ]
śarīra-yātrāpi ca te, na prasidhyed akarmaṇaḥ

[Perform your ablutions, worship, and other daily duties. Since even bodily sustenance is not possible without action, it is better for an unqualified person to perform his duty rather than renounce it. By giving up fruitive action and regularly performing your daily obligatory duties, your heart will be gradually purified. Then, surpassing the plane of renunciation, you will attain pure devotion, beyond the mundane plane.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.8]

What more? Even you cannot live altogether if you leave all karma. You must take your food, you must go to the latrine, this is also karma. But to get out of karma does not mean that we should get out of the physical karma, but the mental desire, karmana vasana. That is the real karma and not external. Externally we can do anything, we can kill the whole brahmāṇḍa, still, we may not do anything. So external activity has got no value. The valuation of karma is within, vasana. I want something separate. The ordinary wave, the universal wave is passing. And I want to put something special on it. I can't, do not adjust with the universal wave, but a separate wave I want to create. That is karma. And that will come in clash with the universal wave. So many, local, provincial, so many waves there are.

But the final wave, the most fundamental wave, that of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, I must come to understanding with that wave, that harmony. Then I'm not in karma. I'm dancing with the universal wave. That is what is necessary. And without that, in whatever planes, different waves are going, if I participate there, identify there, then I have got reaction, I will have to get reaction. That is karma. Karma proper means to create wave of separate interest in this world. So such attempt internally, that you face, and what nirguṇa wave is going on Kṛṣṇa consciousness, you must come in understanding with that Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And then there will be no karma.

Otherwise all different waves are creating according to separate interest, that is all karma, of different waves. Everyone is suffering from his own karma, reaction. Reaction clashes with the higher wave and becomes destroyed, in this way. So internally try to get out of the spirit of karma. That is, try to be one with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that universal wave, and dance there in that. Vikarma means immoral action, karma that moral action is better than that, but again akarma, that vaidantic karma that is to give up all internal desires for different resolution, all stop. Then a party wants samādhi like slumber.

But the Vaiṣṇava they want to connect with Kṛṣṇa consciousness which is a dynamic one and healthy wave, all good, absolute. That is dynamic and not static like the Buddhists and the Śaṅkarites, not nirvana. But they can connect with Kṛṣṇa consciousness which is moving, and that is the ultimate, the wave of love. The wave of love, and beauty, charm, mercy, that wave, connect with that. So movement, or giving and taking, that is not bad. But there must not be black marketing. It must be based on universal truth.

He's the possessor. He can deal absolute with everything. We can't do. But if we think ourselves that, 'I'm a king, I can do, I can give,' ultimately it's not possible for me. We're all black marketeers. From the possibility of prospect we make transaction and ultimately we fail and we are victim of reaction. This is the matter.

Vikarma, karma, akarma. Vikarma, kukarma one thing. That is immoral, not recommended by the scriptures. And varṇāśrama karma, that is generally karma, do this, and further instruction you will get when you will finish this duty. Then naiṣkarmyam which is recommended by Bhāgavatam, jñāna-virāga- bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ.

śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ purāṇam amalaṁ yad vaiṣṇavānāṁ priyaṁ
yasmin pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ jñānaṁ paraṁ gīyate
tatra jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ
tac chṛṇvan su-paṭhan vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ

["Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the spotless Purāṇa. It is especially dear to the Vaiṣṇavas; it has knowledge that is especially appreciated by the paramahaṁsas. When carefully studied, heard, and understood again and again, it opens the door to pure devotion through which one never returns to the bondage of illusion."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.18]

The naiṣkarmya, the yogīs and the jñānīs, by naiṣkarmya they understand like this, samādhi, that is eternal slumber. But Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that bhāgavata naiṣkarmya, that stop your selfish activity and act for Kṛṣṇa. That is naiṣkarmya. Jñāna, vairāgya, bhakti, with all this naiṣkarmya, give up your selfish transaction, work for Kṛṣṇa. The stopping of every movement is naiṣkarmya, it is not. Naiṣkarmya means to give up all local desires, separate interest, and work for universal, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That is naiṣkarmya proper in Bhāgavatam. And that is different from the speculation of the salvationist that only in samādhi, eternal slumber, there is naiṣkarmya. Bhāgavata dismissed that, Vaiṣṇava School. The naiṣkarmya to join the universal movement, karma. That is naiṣkarmya proper. Jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ. So Bhāgavata naiṣkarmya means proper bhakti, busy, but busy for Kṛṣṇa's interest. That is naiṣkarmya, a dynamic naiṣkarmya, not a static naiṣkarmya recommended by the yogīs and jñānīs vaidantic.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. At the initiation the karma is taken by the spiritual master, that is a fact? And we're struggling actually to become free of karma, yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To do everything, that will help, that will throw yourself in nirguṇa movement, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Throw yourself, the teaching underlying in mantra, throw yourself to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Connect with naiṣkarmya proper. Work on behalf of Kṛṣṇa, not for any selfish, or any national, or social group, extended selfishness there.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: In Sudhīra Goswāmī's seventeen page paper he mentions Bon Mahārāja _____ [?] from England. And he said to yourself and Swāmī Mahārāja, "There were questions that cannot be answered. There were questions in the west, the westerners were asking questions that could not be answered." So I was wondering, because the next line says that, "You answered all the questions. You asked him what are the questions and you answered. And Swāmī Mahārāja, he spoke, "Today India has conquered the West." Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When I answered and he could not say anything, then Swāmī Mahārāja pronounced, "Here Europe is defeated by Asia." He told this, "Europe is defeated by Asia." This was pronounced by Swāmī Mahārāja at that round table conference.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I was interested when I read that to ask if you can tell us perhaps some of those questions and some of those answers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I do not remember it now. I shall have to try hard to again remember them.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: There is one question that the Christians come with in our preaching activities in the West. And it is one difficult question to answer. I was wondering if you might say something about: In the Bible and also the Koran there is some mention against idol worship. So this is one complaint they have against us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is their inconsideration. If we can use the sound, why not the colour and figure. God is not within the sound, He's above sound. The ethereal expression. Then this light, heat, all these mundane. Sound is also mundane, but if sound can be utilised to have any idea of Him, why not the colour, figure and other things. Those emblems also similarly may be utilised for His purpose. It's a general question. We can't avoid sound. Some sort of medium must be necessary from that world to this world, some symbol. Generally they use sound. We also lay much stress on sound, śruti. But if śruti, the sound can be utilised in the mundane plane to understand the transcendental thing, then why not the colour, the figure and other, the taste? Everything will have some contribution, can help us to certain extent. If sound can do, the others can do more or less. Everything can be used an emblem to take us to that realm. Do you follow? On that basis, if He can come through sound, He can come through colour, He can come through figure, He can come through taste, He can come through touch. He can approach towards us in any way. Only ear, but ear is extensively admitted by all. We also lay much stress in śruti. But at the same time we admit that He can approach to us in this mundane world through every possible medium, He can come. Then what is the objection there? He can come only through sound, mundane sound and He cannot come in other way He cannot approach us?

One thing, another gentleman told, one Christian Father was explaining Bible in a meeting and one boy, the old man told, "When I was a boy, at that time, when that Father explained that Moses saw in his dream that such and such things happened, the boy asked to the Father, that in dream he saw God, but in what form he saw? He saw, it is written in the Bible that Moses in dream he saw that God has come to him and He's addressing, saying, in what form, in the dream. Must be form of some way or other. What is that? And if that form may be seen in dream, why not that may be utilised when we are awake?"

"This boy has put a very serious question. Yes, I shall try to think it out and answer tomorrow."

The general basis that He's transcendental, it is all right. But we're in the mundane plane, we cannot but He can communicate with us in any way. Generally sound is the most subtle. So through sound He can communicate with us. But why the other things should be neglected, only the ear? The eye, the nose, everything can be used as His weapon to approach us, a medium. All sorts of medium may be used by Him to approach us, to embrace us, and that is true, not only one. Their idea of God is a vague one, no definite conception of what God is, a hazy something. So their ways of obtaining Him also something like hazy. But here it is clear in all phases.

prati aṅga lāgi kānde, prati aṅga mora

["Every part of My being cries for the corresponding part of Him."]
[From Jñāna Dāsa's Vaiṣṇava-padāvali - Anthology of Vaiṣṇava Songs]

My every limb can be utilised for corresponding limb for His service. This is full-fledged theism, not haphazard, not at distant, but full-fledged and very near, very close connection with Him. So all these things must have to come. But everything is transcendental. When we approach the Deity, the eye is not the master of the subject mind to measure Him. He's seeing me. I'm there as an offender and I'm standing in such attitude. He may have a kind glance on me, that my sins may be removed. The subjective conception there. Not only wood, or white colour, all these things, but He's in the subjective realm. He's in the superior position and He may cast a graceful glance towards me. Then what sort of seeing? And their figure is also, suppose the coronation day, do they not put the portrait of the King and garland, all these things, they do not do?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, any utility, or all ludicrous? To show some veneration to the photo of the King, or any father, what is this, it is all ludicrous? Or there is some substantial message there, showing respect to their photo?

So why this cannot be utilised for His case, the Almighty who can do anything and everything? I cannot approach Him, but He can approach me in any way He likes. And it is His ordination that He will come in every way. It is possible, not impossible, not unreasonable. All reasonable thing. He can come through sound, He can come through eye, He can come through touch, He can come through taste. Why not? What is the reasonable objection to that?

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, I follow Mahārāja. Guru Mahārāja, specifically the Bible states, "A graven image, or an image carved by one man." That is the opposition to that sort of thing, that a man could actually carve an image of God. They are saying this is wrong.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you understand this then you'll be able to understand all other subsidiary questions. All sounds are not God sound. It depends on the man. If a father is well established, his word about God is not equal with another ordinary man as God. So the sound, vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14] So some may see idol. All does not see idol. All sound may not be effective about God but, vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam. So there is nāmāparādha, nāmābhāsa, viśuddha-nāma. In the sound also there is classification. A sound from a proper plane, it will be effective and not any imitation sound. So also in the case of the idol, and everywhere, it is such. The quality must be present there. It must have some connection with the Lord, the mundane and the transcendental sound. This Śrī Mūrti and the doll, transcendental and mundane, the conception there is different.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Prasāda also, when the Vaiṣṇava has taken to take that, mahā-mahā-prasadam. Only one is taking prasādam that is not prasādam, there is degree of the presence of divinity there. The gradation is there everywhere.

In Vigraha darśana, Mahāprabhu used to have darśana of Jagannātha, tears flowing from His eyes incessantly. Can we have such darśana when looking at Jagannātha? And Mahāprabhu was not an ordinary foolish man. As a scholar also He was a genius. And how did He see the Deity? With tears running down, incessantly, like a stream. What does He see? Is He only wood?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, if prasādam is distributed to the mass of people, they benefit, yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It depends upon who is the director, who is at the bottom, it depends on him, his connection with divinity.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: As to whether it is properly sanctified?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The current must be there. Only wiring has no value. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I'm hearing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Electric wiring but no current. So vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam, the Vaikuṇṭha connection, transcendental connection must be there. Otherwise form is form, useless. But the spirit must be within the form. Form is also necessary, wiring also necessary to utilise the electric current. But mere wiring has got no utility. The current must be there. So prasāda distribution, all these external exhibition, but if the real connection with divinity otherwise all trade, otherwise ulterior motive may be there as a business. Yati Goswāmī, the Bhāgavata reading, taking money and reading Bhāgavata, is a class of trade. That may be trade, but if the man who is at the back he has got sincere connection with the Lord, then the connection coming and pervades everywhere, that is prasādam. Otherwise imitation. Imitation is not a real thing.

So Bhaktivinode Ṭhākura's congregation saṅkīrtana. At least one man, the leader of the party must be śuddha bhakta, pure devotee, the kīrtana party guided under a pure devotee. Then we shall join that, otherwise all will be dancing and jumping in the mundane plane. Connection must be there, the electric connection. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: How can one perceive that connection? This requires some...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That who has got eye, for that we have to get eye.

oṁ ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjana-śalākayā, [cakṣur unmilitaṁ yena, tasmai śrī-gurave namaḥ]

Our own realisation will be the guarantee, our own knowledge. We see that sort of eye, that is given by Gurudeva. Ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjana, cakṣur unmilitaṁ. The cataract is removed by Gurudeva, he gives the divya darśana, the divine eye. Divya cakṣur, dīkṣā, dīkṣā means, divyaṁ jñānaṁ yato dadyāt, [kuryāt pāpasya saṅkṣayam

tasmād dīkṣeti sā proktā, deśikais tattva-kovidaiḥ]

Transcendental knowledge is imparted. And as much as he has got that sort of knowledge he can detect, as in other fields, other cases. How we can know whether this is a gem, it is gold, or it is brass? How to detect whether it is glass, or it is diamond? How we can detect? The expert knowledge must be there. And one who has got that knowledge he can detect. The fools, ordinary persons, ignorant, cannot differentiate. Everywhere this is applicable. Whenever we go to purchase anything, the medicine, this, that, everything may be tampered, imitation. And this ____ [?] how we understand. Here also, something like that. That expert knowledge must be there. Mundane, what is mundane, what is transcendental. The sevonmukha, the sincere, the sevā, where it is meant for the service of the Lord, or to fulfil some ulterior purpose of him. Who has got that fine eye they can detect.

jigana vaisnava cinya loilya arya kori vrajave [?]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, "We shall serve Vaiṣṇava. But before that we shall have to get the capacity of recognition who is Vaiṣṇava who is non Vaiṣṇava. Only this figure, tilak, mālā, dress, that cannot be the criterion of a sādhu. All these things we're to understand. And that capacity of recognition is possible, and that is dīkṣā, divya jñāna. We're all expert in some stage, in some plane. We're to differentiate things everywhere, every time, the gold marketing, this, that. We're to discriminate. We must have that knowledge, otherwise we'll be exploited by the merchant. If we can know the thing before purchasing. So everywhere, in every stage of life, that understanding with him. So it is only with the case of divinity, transcendental truth. That is also possible, only transcendental eye, transcendental capacity, judgement. That must be with us.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Devotee [Nārada Muni?]: Mahārāja, there are numerous reasons why I have left.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have you seen Swāmī Mahārāja? Did you see?

Devotee: Prabhupāda.

Devotee: No, I have not.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: I came from San Jose, California with Bhakti Sudhīra Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're coming now?

Devotee: Just now, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was the zone of Tamāla Kṛṣṇa?

Devotee: I was in Austin, Texas, Mahārāja.

Cornelius: Does that mean that we have to give up material life at once, and become...[?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not at once: gradually, according to one's own particular case. Who has got much affinity towards worldly life, suddenly, if he leaves that, he may not keep up, he may again go down. So, according to personal question, individual question, that is to be. But we should have our eagerness always to give up everything and to devote us exclusively for the highest duty. That sort of. And who will have courage enough, he'll jump into the unknown. "Krsna will protect me. I'm jumping in the name of God. He's everywhere. He will take me on His lap." With this idea he may jump, who has got such eagerness for the truth.

Cornelius: For ten years, I've tried to come into this process for ten years. In ten years I keep from eating the meat, and fish, and eggs. I don't want all the outward material things, I have no attraction for them. I have leave this all behind. But there's only one thing what is, I want to give it up, and also, I don't want to give it up! This is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He's saying that he has been trying to enter purely this process of devotion, and he has been able to give up everything except for one attachment, one thing, and that is he smokes ganja, and he likes the effect of that.

Cornelius: And I've also tried not to smoke that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a small thing. The real difficulty is women for the men. And the second, money, and the third, good name, fame. If classified, then these three things are our enemy. And this ganja, intoxication, that is a small thing, anyone can give it up easily. But these three things are fundamental aspiration of every animal, whether a tree, whether a bird, whether a man, whether god, these three are everywhere. But this intoxication, and other fleeting habits, they're very negligible thing, and they can be conquered very easily, gradually, it is a gradual process, it will go in gradual process.

Cornelius: But I can't... for ten years I...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As you have come, and you have entered in gradually, so you are to come out gradually, and not suddenly.

In the time after War, that Goering, Goering was a great intoxicating man. But when put into jail, no intoxication is supplied, as a law. Then he got sick, and the treatment went on, but no intoxication was supplied for the prisoner. You know it well, I have seen it from the newspaper that Goering, he was habituated to take much intoxication, Hitler's air general. But when he was put into jail, he was not supplied with any intoxication, so he was sick, and the treatment went on, and he was cured, that disease was cured by the medicine.

So with this opium, we have seen with our own eyes, so many opium eaters also came in the Maṭha, and they left it gradually. Generally these ordinary sādhus, they use this ganja. Ganja helps concentration, but that is material mind, concerned with material mind, and disturbs the faith, the enemy to the faith. Only faith can take us there, śraddhā, and not any material intoxication. But the misguided souls, they think that ganja, siddhi, charas, so many things helps in our meditation. It may do something, but that is limited, that will frustrate in time of need, and cannot rise up very high, cannot help.

Cornelius: I know, but I cannot keep from the ganja. I keep from the tobacco, the coffee, alcohol, opium,...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, coffee, this tea, the betel, everything, this tea also, tea, coffee, betel nut, all these things, that is Kali. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam advises us that these five things should be rejected, should be renounced.

[abhyarthitas tadā tasmai, sthānāni kalaye dadau
dyūtaṁ pānaṁ striyaḥ sūnā, yatrādharmaś catur-vidhaḥ]

[Sūta Gosvāmī said: Mahārāja Parīkṣit, thus being petitioned by the personality of Kali, gave him permission to reside in places where gambling, drinking, prostitution and animal slaughter were performed.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.17.38]

Dyūtaṁ, gambling, that is diplomacy. Pānaṁ, this intoxication. Dyūtaṁ pānaṁ. Striyaḥ, this unlawful, illegal woman-love, striyaḥ. Sūnā, then this butchering. And the transaction of the gold. Trade in gold, that is also very apathetic to ones progress in the line of faith. Very tempting towards them. What to speak of this mania that intoxication will help me in my meditation about the transcendental, Devaṛṣi Nārada says,

[mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati]

Even by prāṇāyāma, by meditation, what we acquire, that is for the time being, no permanent effect. Only śraddhā, in bhakti mārga, in śuddha bhakti, the basis is only faith and sādhu saṅga. The association with the saint, and the good scripture, and the faith, and no other help, that is all material calibre. Even mental meditation, that is also not to be relied on, what to speak of physical things, material things, even mental things, that prāṇāyāma, pratyāhāra, all these things, dhyāna. This is all empirical, ascending method. But ascending method cannot give us that. Descending method to be adopted. He can come down, we cannot go up. This basic principle should be understood. He can come down to my plane and take me up, but I cannot go by the dint of my own abilities of different kinds. Can't even touch His domain. So subtle, and so great, so noble. This is the basic position of both the parties. He can connect, but I cannot connect. Only I shall hanker, "You please come." He's positive, I'm negative. So, I should encourage my quality of negativity that I'm the most wretched. I'm the most desirable fallen soul, that needs the best help, best attention of You. So wretched, there is no other. Please come down to help me, to deliver me from this lowest position. This is progress.

Even Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanya Deva says that, "I'm shedding tears so much in the Name, taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] But it began with some other thing. That is acquired fortune, bhāgyavān jīva, sukṛti.

[brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva
guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

When we are wandering in this universe unconsciously we come in contact with so many saints, and anyhow we collect some spiritual tendency from them. And that is accumulated, to be as śraddhā, and then when śraddhā is awakened, one can come to the saint proper, and surrender to him. Ajñāta-sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti, then śraddhā, ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo'.

ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ
athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati
sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."]

That maybe come anywhere and everywhere. Now he's in America, perhaps in previous life he was in India, or in some other place, or he gathered some sukṛti. Sukṛti means energy. Unconsciously one's energy is utilised by the saint, and as a reaction some sukṛti comes there. One's energy. Suppose one has built a garden, some sādhu came and took the flower and offered to the Deity. The energy of the man who created that garden, he gets something in return, because by his energy the flower has been produced and flower is offered to the Lord. And then the reaction, whose property, that flower, he gets. Or one has dug a tank, and one saint comes and takes bath there, and also with the water, he offers to the Lord. Man who has built that tank, he gets something in return. In this way, unconsciously. In this way, sukṛti is gathered, and when accumulated to a certain degree, then it produces what is known as śraddhā. Then when that śraddhā he gets, śraddhā guides him. Śraddhā means faith. Faith guides him towards a proper person, and then the transaction begins, his spiritual life begins there.

The scientist, Jagadish Bose here, and another gentleman far away perhaps in America or England, both at the same time came to invent that electric wireless. Wireless was discovered by Jagadish Bose, here, and far away, perhaps in England or anywhere from another gentleman. They both combined, in the same time, far away, but they came in consciousness of electric power. Some Faraday or someone.

So also devotion, may awakened here, and in America, in Africa, and everywhere. Not only in human species, but even in animals also we can trace that sukṛti, or śraddhā. It is possible. A dog may have sukṛti, and he will roam, wander about the temple and guard the temple properties. Dog's fortune has taken him to engaging him in the service of the Lord, it is also possible. Trees also, there are so many plants whose flower is dedicated to the Lord, but not all. He has got that birth as a particular flower, and he's serving as a plant, serving the Lord. The milk cow, giving service, that is going, offered to the Lord. In this way, anywhere the sukṛti may be gathered, and that produces śraddhā. Śraddhā means faith, proper faith, and faith takes us to the sādhu, then the transaction on the surface begins. Otherwise all underground. So, anything can be utilised, even stealing may be utilised for the service of God.

The collective karma-phala, the result, the consequence of the karma, of the whole. Circumstances is created by the persons, collectively. At the same time it has got its advantage, so much so that even persons who really can understand the gist and substance of the thing and not the cover, they in Satya-yuga they pray for a birth in Kali-yuga. The special grant is in the Kali.

They aspire after a birth in Kali-yuga, in this age, this iron age. Everything is unfavourable, but still it has got its advantage, a great advantage. What is that? A special grant of the Lord, for the fallen. Just as at the time of famine, government helps the relief work begin. So, in Kali-yuga also, the Name of the Lord, if it is taken sincerely, it will absolve all difficulties and take him up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If the medium is true, then anything can be utilised by him for the service of the Lord. Stealing property also, what to speak of by selling, getting money. If I steal something from another's house and give it to Gurudeva, and if Gurudeva utilises that for the service of the Lord, then my stealing is also justified because whose property I am stealing, he will get benefit from the service of Kṛṣṇa. So, I'm doing no harm to anybody, but I'm doing well. I'm distributing Kṛṣṇa. Because I'm using the energy of someone for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, and as a reaction whose energy he will be benefited. So, if Guru is all right, then under him, whatever we do under his direction then it will fetch some value.

In the Rāmānuja sampradāya we find that one Āḷvār, he engaged some dacoits. He first approached some moneyed men for the construction of the temple, Ranganatham, but they refused. Then he organised a party of dacoits, and by committing robbery, collected money and constructed. And at last by one clever man, he destroyed those dacoits also. In _____ it is mentioned. And that man who managed, he was Āḷvār, means of eternal interest, parṣada bhakta, he came down from up to here. He used in this way.

So, stealing, stolen property also may be utilised for the service of Krsna, and no harm because whose property is stolen he will get benefit unconsciously. So, what to ... by the sale of ordinary people, they are addicted to thievery and supplying them and getting money, and money paid to Gurudeva, and Gurudeva will utilise. So, that should not be any cause of leaving spiritual master.

But when spiritual master is engaged not in service, but ulterior motive is seen that he's not serving the master properly, and he's committing some aparādha, offence against the Lord and His servants, the Vaiṣṇava, then of course we must cut off his association.

Devotee: That is one other thing Mahārāja. When I came back to ISCKON, after being gone for six months, when I left at first, your Divine Grace was considered by all ISKCON devotees as a pure exalted devotee of Kṛṣṇa. And then upon my return, I'm hearing this, "That anyone who is associated with Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, and anyone who even thinks of him is a wholesale demon." That I could not understand. So, I cannot, I've formulated that this is some kind of offence to a pure devotee of Kṛṣṇa. And in order to save my spiritual life I cannot remain in that place any longer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As a policy, they have taken such a step. Because Swāmī Mahārāja gave some recognition about me, and now after he has disappeared, general inclination of the mass that heard about me, their attraction will come naturally towards me. And if it be allowed in such way, then of course their position will be a little lowered. They won't be able to maintain their prestige, their activity, which has got so much respect in the country. That will be at stake. So they are taking some caution.

In the beginning they told, "Śrīdhara Mahārāja is too old, so none should go and see him, that means disturbance. So none should go to disturb him."

Because they thought that if they come in his connection then they may be attracted by his personality. But when they saw that in this way their motive is not going to be satisfied, then they took more strict measures. That none should go there, because in the meantime many who were living with them, many devotees of Swāmī Mahārāja, came with some complaints to me.

And at one time three Ācārya also they were found criminal to the committee. And I dissuaded them from taking, giving any punishment to them. That will be a great harm to the very institution, the very ISKCON, in general. Anyhow they submitted, they accepted my proposal.

But in the meantime many dissatisfied persons with ISKCON they came to me and complained. I put those complaints towards the committee. But they saw that it is not possible to obey by my request, accept my request. Then, these people being disappointed again and again approached me, and at last I told them, you form a committee and go on with 'relief work.' Those that are disappointed, dejected, by the behaviour of ISKCON, collect them together and keep them under the banner of Mahāprabhu and Swāmī Mahārāja. And they began that work. I asked them, don't be aggressive, no competition, but only relief work, with submissive spirit, to save those that are away from ISKCON. In this way many came, and now they have organised them, in some form or other, and going on in their activity.

So your, that Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, that Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī, he's one of them. A very strong person, with very deep knowledge in the scriptures. And he found a special interest in my _____ [?] recorded from, tapes from my discussions. And he's preaching that for the benefit of the people.

And many others came. Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, Ācārya of London, he also could not keep his association with the ISKCON, because they told him to stop totally any connection with me, they won't allow them to give my tapes, not even the words of our Guru Mahārāja.

They asked, "You must confine yourself to the books published by Swāmī Mahārāja. And you can't have any association with Śrīdhara Mahārāja or Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī."

But he refused that. "No. I can't." He told also in a modified way, "That amongst the disciples I shall discuss about Swāmī Mahārāja's work. And for myself, personal interest, I shall go through Śrīdhara Mahārāja, and Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, and others."

"No."

Then he replied, "Then I cut off your connection. I can't cut off my connection with Śrīdhara Mahārāja, and Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura."

So he, and so many others, who lost their faith in present ISKCON, they come and trying to form a committee and going on independently there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. You are a little sick?

Devotee: Little sick, yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some stomach troubles?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you should take some diet, not take anything and everything, but curd, rice, and potato boiled diet only, and _____ [?] powder. Boiled potato, _____ [?] powder, and curd, and rice. No other curries or anything.

Devotee: Jaya Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: So, Mahārāja, so after hearing that they were once considering you pure devotee, and then they were blaspheming you. They were calling you demon, and they were calling everyone else demon that has anything to do with you. And so, in order...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're outside of ISKCON, and they're under those that differ from ISKCON, they're considered to be demons?

Devotee: Yes. They're saying that, "Unless one is in ISKCON one cannot go back to Godhead."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Godhead of their concoction.

Devotee: Ah. So after hearing this blasphemy I could not stay in the association of ISKCON any longer. I had to leave, to save my spiritual life, because where there's blasphemy of a pure devotee I cannot stay. So then I have ran to San Jose to take shelter under your banner.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. How long you are out of ISKCON?

Devotee: Almost three months now Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Three months. And when you cut off the connection did you meet Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja?

Devotee: I sent him one letter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Letter, with the purpose?

Devotee: I sent him letter explaining, just to through out a feeler to see how he would react. I suggested, I submitted to him that I have accepted Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja as my śikṣā Guru, that I'm asking his blessings on this matter. But I did not get no response, in a personal response, but through one other medium, er, what's his name? Um? He just took, Ācārya?

Devotee: Pañca Dravida Mahārāja.

Devotee: Pañca Dravida Mahārāja, he had called on behalf of one other boy that also left with me. And he had said that, "Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja is not concerned about Nārada Muni, but he's wanting his other disciple, Paradoya. That is all he's concerned about." So that was my only response.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So another gentleman, who is he? He's the disciple of Tamāla Kṛṣṇa or Haṁsadūta Mahārāja?

Devotee: Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja. His name is Paradoya dāsa. And he is also in San Jose with Bhakti Sudhīra Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So I hear that you have a mind to stay here for some time more.

Devotee: I have three month visa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Three month visa. August, September, October. And you are not required by Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja to go back to help him, no?

Devotee: No Mahārāja. He says I could stay as long as necessary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari. The class, the pāṭ, that takes place here, you cannot understand. So Vidagdha-Mādhava Prabhu, you hold a class amongst them sometime.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: O.k Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sometime, suitably. As Haṁsadūta Mahārāja used to take class _____ [?]
So either in this hall, or there in that room, together you take class _____ [?]

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Discussions, questions answered _____ [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja, we've been reading from The Nectar of Devotion, together, every night at around five o'clock we had started doing this. That was very enlivening, I found.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nectar of Devotion, ____ [?] Ambrosia? A book? What is Nectar of Devotion?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, as translated by Swāmī Mahārāja?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a science of devotion. In a scientific way that has given us what is bhakti, to understand, what is devotion proper, what does it mean? Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu.

End of 82.07.26.A_82.07.27.B

Start of 82.07.27.A

Vidagdha-Mādhava: They're not initiated into ISKCON. They have known about ISKCON for some time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. These two?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: These three. This boys name is Cornelius, this is Hans, and this is Eric.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, what for they have come to India?

Visitor [?]: Pilgrimage.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They speak Dutch?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: They also speak English.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: English also?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Visitor: We came to just visit the holy places like Navadwīpa, Vṛndāvana, Purī. That was the main reason we came to India.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How have you come to know all these things, by books?

Visitor: Yes, by books, Śrīla Prabhupāda, Bhaktivedānta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What books?

Visitor: Bhagavad-gītā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhagavad-gītā. Gītā As It Is by Swāmī Mahārāja?

Visitor: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Long, long before, one German scholar he stressed his opinion that the Gītā is the highest spiritual book. And his point was that Gītā clearly advises us not to correct the environment, but correct your own self to adjust with the environment. That is the key of the advice of Gītā. Cure thyself. You have no power to bring about change in the environment. That is the Divine Will. That is irremovable. The result of all the forces that are acting outside, you have no hand to interfere with that. That will be useless loss of energy only. Try to correct yourself so that you can adjust with the circumstances outside. This is the key to success of life.

Visitor: We have to appreciate also the life outside.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo. [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8] You have your duty to do but don't aspire after the result, mā phaleṣu kadācana.

[karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana
mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

The result depends on the external force. You have your contribution. There are thousands of lākhs of contributions of others and the result, that will create the environment. So you may contribute, you may give up your quota. But what you will find, you are to take it as the best because it is the interference of the highest, of the Absolute there. That so many result of individual activity but harmonised by the Absolute Will. You are to see and look at it like that and adjust yourself accordingly.

hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

In Bhāgavat it is said, and Gītā [2.47] says: karmaṇy evādhikāras te, you have responsibility in only discharging your duty, your quota, mā phaleṣu kadācana, and never aspire after any definite environment. It will go in its own way. You can't transform it, you can't change it, you have no power to change the circumstance, the environment. You try your best to change your own self so that the suit, that you may come in consonance with the environment. Karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana, never in the result, never in the consequence of your action. You are doing something but the result you find another thing. So because I work for this particular result and I don't find that so I should be discouraged? No. You go on doing your own duty and it is throwing in the Infinite and Infinite will shape it in Its own way. Whatever you are contributing, contribute it towards the Infinite and the Infinite will mould it in Its own way. You are not to detect that. If you do that you are lost. Karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana, mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, so never aspire after any particular consequence for your action. Mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi, at the same time don't be idle, don't be worthless. Go on discharging your duty, go on discharging your duty independent of any consequence outside.

Visitor: But we have to remember Kṛṣṇa. While we are doing this we must remember Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Then you'll be able to come in the relativity of Kṛṣṇa, the Autocrat outside. And you'll gradually come to realise that that is friendly. When your previous actions will disappear in this way, you will find everything, every wave carrying good news to you. When your egoistic attitude will vanish you will find yourself in the midst of the sweet waves all around. To do away with what wrong you have done hitherto, such attitude is necessary. Do your duty, never expect for any definite result. You cast it towards Infinite and then one day will come when you'll find when your egoistic feeling will be dissolved and from within your real self, real member of the Infinite will spring up, awaken, you will find yourself in the sweet wave of the environment, everything is sweet.

madvena santosa dina damat santosana madhu madhu madhu [?]

Sweet, sweet, sweet, everything. The breeze is sweet, the water is sweet, the trees are sweet. Whatever you come in contact with, everything is sweet. Your internal ego is you enemy, and to dissolve that ego such process is necessary. Do your duty as you think fit, but never expect any response according to your will.

Then this karma-yoga if you adopt then in no time you will find that the wrong ego, or who was expecting something crooked for you selfish purpose, that vanishes, and the broad, wide ego within, that has come out, and you are in harmony with the whole universe. The harmonious world will come before you. The cover will disappear, the cover of our selfish desire, selfish end, that will disappear. The disease is within. The cause is not outside, for everyone. A paramahaṁsa Vaiṣṇava, a saint, he sees that everything is all right, nothing to complain. The furthest extremity everything is good, everything is sweet. Then he comes to live in the plane of divinity. The ego is creating disturbance, and that ego should be dissolved.

In Bhāgavatam [10.14.8]: tat te 'nukampāṁ, not only the environment is enemy, but we shall try hard to find out that this is the grace, whatever is coming to me like enemy, this is the grace of the Lord. I can't see. The dirt is on my eye. I can't see, I see rather opposite. But everything is divine. Such searching attitude is necessary. All grace of the Lord. Really it is so, but the disease in my eye, disease in my feeling, disease in my ear. I am diseased and if disease is cured I shall find I'm in the midst of the graceful world. I'm a member of the gracious world. Only the cover is deceiving me from having the real estimation of the world.

hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk

You will be a bona fide student of the devotional school, who will be able to accept such attitude towards the environment, towards the Lord, because we're to think that His will is everywhere. Even a straw that is shaking, it can't do so if not sanctioned by the Supreme Authority. Every detail detected and controlled by Him. In this way we are to look out on the environment, to be optimistic and the pessimism with me. My ego, that is responsible for all sorts of evil. This is Vaiṣṇavism. If we can do such, then in no time our disease will be cured and we'll be in the midst of ample, infinite blissfulness. Not to cure what we see on the outside, not to cure. Our tendency at present is like that, "That everything may be favourable to my will, my understanding," we all want that. "Let everything follow my control, my sweet will." Then we are happy. "Everything will obey me then I'm happy." But just the opposite direction to be taken. Do you follow? No?

Visitor: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

No resistance we should create for the environment. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api. Still if some attack, undesirable things come towards me, I am to forbear that. To my utmost patience I am to tolerate. I won't harm, but if some attack comes to me I shall have forbearance to the extreme. Amāninā mānadena. I shall honour everyone but won't seek any honour. In this way we shall contact with the sound aspect of the Lord Himself, the Name. This is with least energy, and in the least time we can attain our highest goal. The plane of Kṛṣṇa where He's living, that is the most fundamental plane. We can, our inner heart, our inner soul, all these encasements will vanish, die, and the inner soul will awaken and that soul will find that he's a plane in a sweet wave dancing. Dancing and merry making in Vṛndāvana, in relation to Kṛṣṇa and His followers, His group.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
What do you think? Is it unreasonable?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No. It's completely ecstatic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Most general explanation, what is Vṛndāvana, not a fable, not any concocted story. The broadest, the widest plane of the whole universe, that is beauty and sweetness and blissfulness is there. We have to dive deep. The ego has floated us on the surface of trouble in māyā, illusion, concoction, imagination, the selfish aspiration, crookedness, most crooked. Seeking for our selfish satisfaction, searching for selfish satisfaction has taken us here. And that must be dissolved for final, for eternity, that must be dissolved. And from within that golden self will come out and find that he's in the plane of happy, dancing mood in Vṛndāvana, golokete sthiti: Self-determination, according to Hegel, self determination. Die to live. Die to live. If you want to have a real life, self-determination life, you'll have to die as you are at present, wholesale die.

Visitor: Leave the material life, leave all the material habits _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That ego, all these material habits from different births. Not only the experience of human birth but the animal birth, the tree birth, all these, so many births and those colours are collected in the ego in subtle forms. The wholesale dissolution of the ego, that concocted selfish figure within, that is the enemy and has covered me and my real self is buried under that, hopelessly. I do not know my own self, I do not know my own self, I can't recognise it. So far I have come from my real self. So much is the depth of my forgetfulness, I do not know who I am. So, "Die to live," Hegel says, the German philosopher. Perfectionism is the name of his philosophy. And "Reality is for Itself." The world is not created for our selfish end. It has got a universal end and I'm a part and parcel of that. I must come to an understanding with the whole. The whole is there. He's dancing and playing and singing in His own way, and I must go to enter into that harmonious dance. It is necessary. And I'm a point. "I shall want that the whole infinite that will be controlled by me. By my whim everything will go on." This is the most crooked and most heinous object ever conceived, and we are suffering from such disease.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Now any question, on this?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, they have one question. In the west, many people are afraid of the war. They're thinking it is coming soon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. That is a point in the line, or a line in the plane, or a plane in the solid. So many times wars are coming and going. So many times the sun, earth, the solar system, disappearing and again springing up. We're in the midst of such thought in the eternity. This is a point, what of that? Every individual is dying and the earth will die. The whole human section will disappear. Let it be. Try to live in the eternity, not any particular span of time or space. Prepare yourself for that, that eternal benefit, not any particular thing. You are to be conscious of the fact that sun, moon, planets, they come and they vanish, they die and again they are created. In such eternity we are to meet and live in. From that standpoint, religion covers that sort where you will go. Not only this body, even the human race, the animals, the trees, and with whole, the earth, the sun, all vanishes and again springs up. Karma, brahmaṇḍa, creation, dissolution, creation, dissolution. It will continue in the domain of misconception. At the same time there is another world which is eternal. We are requested to enter, to have a cottage in that plane which does not come in the jaw of death, of any change.

yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

["My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6]

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna
[mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16]

Up to Brahmā the creator, the creator himself also has to die. Ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna, up to Brahmaloka the whole material energy changes in such way. But if we can cross that area of misunderstanding and proper understanding area, then there is not creation, that is eternal. And our soul is a factor of that soil, a child of that soil, our soul. And the body and mind they're child of this soil which comes and goes, is created and dies. So we're to get out of this creation and death, dissolution. Yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama. Mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate. You have gone through Bhagavad-gītā?

Visitor: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are in such area. What to do? So you try to get out, try your best to get out of this mortal area. And there is a zone, and you are really: śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ: really you are a child of the nectar that does not die. You are anyhow misguided here.

But really you are a child of that soil which is eternal, no death, no birth. And with wide and broad heart we are to approach there. And that is our, Mahāprabhu, or Gītā, or Upaniṣad, Bhāgavat, they all say such. And that is very sweet, sweet home, back to God, back to home. So try your best to go home, and other also. "Come home my friends, let us go home. Why in foreign land we're suffering so much trouble unnecessarily." That is real, this is rather unreal. One springing, vanishing, springing, vanishing, coming, going, coming, going. A farce, from the world of farce, come to reality. That is the point. Not only one war, but wars after wars, wars after wars, so many, this civilised war.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Your question again, over this?

Visitor: Maybe you can give some advice. It is difficult for us to make a choice.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Mahārāja, the question is, "How to attain this platform of eternity? How to escape this world of war?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How you are getting this idea, how? This sort of dream, that this is a possibility, how are you getting?

Visitor: That it is possible to escape? I was reading in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now you have come to, "How we can attain that?" This idea, how you have got?

Visitor: From Bhagavad-gītā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhagavad-gītā, that is śāstra and śāstra is also given by, written by whom? Some saint. So the association of the sādhu and śāstra.

sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya yadi kṛṣṇonmukha haya / [sei jīva nistare, māyā tāhāre chāḍaya]

The sādhu, saint, is a living scripture. And the scripture is also there in a passive way to advise you. Sādhu actively can approach, and passively we may get benefit from the scripture. The association of these two can help us to have our realisation in that way. Sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya. By the grace of the scripture and the saints, the scripture personified who are living the life of the scriptural advice. They're more powerful. By their association we can imbibe such higher, subtle knowledge and faith. Faith can lead us, śraddhā, faith. All our experience are futile. Just as if we are to connect with the sun and the moon, the air, earth, these instruments will fail. But only electricity will help to have connection with the furthest place. So śraddhā, faith, can give us information and the necessary achievement that faith can give us. It is far, far away, beyond the jurisdiction of our meagre limited experience of eye, ear, mind, all these things. It is very meagre, very limited. And faith can rise up and pierce through this area and go far away to the moon, sun, in this way.

Do you follow? Faith should be developed with the help of the scripture and the saints. That this is real and this unreal. This will be night, that will be day. Now this is the day and that is night to us, all darkness. The eternal world is dark to us, and we're awake in this mortal world. But the opposite has to be effected. We must be awake there and this will be neglected and will be disregarded and it will be dark to us, night.

yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

Do you understand?

Visitor: The Sanskrit I cannot understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is night to one is day to another.

Visitor: This I understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A scientist, he's awake in some matter, and a dacoit he's working in another plane. Two worlds, they're living in two separate worlds. A saint is living in a particular world, and a rowdy is living in another world. Is it not? Ones day is night to another, can't see. The ignorant ordinary persons cannot see what the Einstein and Newton has seen, they cannot see. And what they are seeing, they ignore it, they don't see it, in selfish life, mundane.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Visitor: Should we associate with the saints of ISKCON, or with the saints from Caitanya Association?

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a direct question put. If you want my clear impartial decision I may say that what they're doing that is primary. They fail to catch the higher realisation. They're going at present in a business way. The connection with pure spirituality has been lessened there, degraded. As regards to the adherence with the highest ideal, the real ideal, according to me they have deviated and going lower to the material conception of the thing. The monopoly of trade, that is to enjoy the credit of their Gurudeva, exploiting the name of their Guru. Going far down from the high ideal, the abstract thing, and more or less being materialised. Organisation to be admired according to the ideal for which they're organised. The deviation from the high ideal, then the organisation will fetch a lower value. The ideal will have the best importance.

So I cannot give ditto to their activities, so they're now preaching against me. And I'm told that so much that they have been preaching me as a demon, and I'm injecting poison, according to them. Because I say that they're below the standard. A big organisation, that is good, approaching many souls for their delivery. That is one thing, that quantity. But as regards quality, they're lacking, according to my decision, as sincerely speaking as I feel I say so.

I have got my fifty-five years experience in the Maṭh, and seen many things, and experienced many things. Though it is not within this mundane experience, but experience with the association of the sādhu, that is something. And with that experience and aspiration, and as supported by our God friends also. What I can understand is that they're afraid of keeping, or making contact with Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Bhaktisiddhānta Sarawatī Ṭhākura, and my faith. What I say, I'm saying from the beginning, from the time of Swāmī Mahārāja. They're also coming, during Swāmī Mahārāja's lifetime many came to me, even Swāmī Mahārāja, we had a talk. I think I'm in that standard, my talk is of that standard. But they say that is going against them, against their committee, their combined resolution. I have got my independent opinion. And when it comes in clash with them they say it is a poison.

Of course: sisye dikari ya nista [?] It is the fashion that the karmī will say: "This is the highest, not jñāna, not devotion." And the jñānī will say: "This is the highest, karma is also bad, devotion is also bad." To make firm the mentality of their own persons it has been adopted in the different departments of the scripture: "Do this faithfully. Don't disturb yourself with going this side or that side for then you'll not be able to finish your duty. So be attentive in your duty. This is the highest." This fashion has been adopted in the scriptures and by the Ṛṣis also. Sisye dikari ya nista saguna parika [?] Be attentive in your own duty. Don't look hither, thither. Then you won't be able to do your duty perfectly. So this process has been adopted by many. But still if we want to go up we must leave the place.

sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."]

By discharging ones own duty he will rather die. Don't be carried by the ideals or duties of ABC and so on. Then when that stage will be finished he will automatically be put in the higher position. So jñānīs they say that: "This is all." The yogīs say: "This is the best." Still there is a possibility of comparative study and we are to note that bhakti, or pure devotion, that is the highest. And there is Nārāyaṇa devotion and Kṛṣṇa devotion, one is of love, another is of a sense of duty. The differentiation, the progress, is always there. And for the lower section it is necessary sometimes: "Mind your own lesson. Then don't go to put oil in the machine of others. Oil your own machine. Don't move hither thither." This is also a class of advice. But for the ambitious, they won't be satisfied with them, all won't be satisfied with that. They will hanker after progress, elimination and acceptance. Progress means elimination of the present and acceptance of the future, that means progress. So one who has got a hankering for the progressive life they're compelled to neglect all these things.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ [śaraṇaṁ vraja

"Give up all your duties. Come at once to Me. I shall look after you."

This will attract them, more. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Start of 82.07.27.C_82.07.29.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's high. I'm dependant to Him. And that consciousness, that is true. And if we can put himself in that plane of truth, then automatically He cannot leave me. He'll come to embrace me, according to my purity. And purity is negativity, not any positive thing. We're to think in that way. The śakti, and potency, not potency holder. The master of the potency is He, and we are potency, we are dependant. That is our position.

Visitor: We should be dependant on Kṛṣṇa all the time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What does he say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He's saying, "One must be fully dependant on Kṛṣṇa, His mercy."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. As much as the degree and intensity of dependent conception on Him will be within us, found within us, He cannot but be attracted towards us. We're not subject. He's super-subject. We may be subject of the objective world. But He's super-subject. He can make us object, but we cannot make Him object of our experience. He's adhokṣaja, transcendental, not to come within the jurisdiction of our sensual activity. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Anything else, enquiry?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Still, Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pure devotion, definition.

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam
[hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Devotional service to Kṛṣṇa means engaging all our senses in the service of the Lord, the master of all the senses. By rendering service to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, there are two side effects. One is freed from all material designations and one's senses are purified."]
[Nārada-Pañcarātra] & [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Purva-vibhaga, 1.10]
& [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.7]

In all scripture, all the upādhi means foreign covers. The body, the mind, all foreign covers. We're not represented there. This comes and goes like garments. But the soul within, that is with our own real acquaintance, the soul. And this mind and body are coming and going, changing like dresses. Sarvopādhi- vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam. And only one ended, the all interest in Him, the centre current, that attraction towards the centre, which represents everything. That should be our characteristic. Tat paratvena nirmalam. Purity depends upon our faithful adherence to the centre, to the Almighty. That is chastity, that is purity, and that can give us enough, than we can imagine. This is devotion, thorough submission, cent per cent submission to the Absolute. There we thrive most.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167] & [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

So we're to understand what is devotion. Karma, jñāna, anāvṛtam, this energetic life, and the knowledge, they're enemy. Can you think that knowledge is enemy to a high soul? Can you think it? It is very difficult to think.

Visitor: Knowledge is an enemy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That knowledge is enemy. That we're subject, we can know many things, that is enemy. Because, what I'm seeing, it depends on His will. He can show it in any other way if He likes. Nothing is stable, nothing is firm. His will.

"Let there be water. There was water. Let there be fire. There was fire."

Whole thing designed and destined by Him. So no fixed or stable thing. It is His will. Acintya bhedābheda. And that is inconceivable within our calculation, or our reasoning process. So submission, so faith and submission, that can give us our highest prospect. That is bhakti, jñāna-sunya-bhakti.

In the talk with Rāmānanda, jñāna miśrā, that I can know, as a subject, and I can make that my object of knowledge. This is a mania, this is false. As He'll like you to see, you're bound to see in that way. Your seer is under His control. You, the seer, is under His control. If He wants you to see that this is black, you are compelled to see black. If He says, "No. This is white." You are compelled to see, controls the seer.

So what is this world of experience? That has got no value. So give up that mania, that I can know.

_____ [?] the submission, devotion, jñāna-sunya-bhakti. I don't like any calculation. Only through submission. Whatever He will say, I will do that. I'm His slave, kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'. That is the highest position of a jīva soul, and that can give us admission, visa into the highest loka. If we're so much faithful, then we're allowed to enter into the highest realm. So much faithfulness, blind faithfulness, so slave mentality, that has got real position there. And mastership, it will throw us down in the lower realm. And as much slave mentality we can develop within us, for His cause, we'll be taken in and in, higher and higher, nearer and nearer.

Blind love. The love, the beauty, is autocrat, it does not give recognition of any second thing. All comprehensive beauty captures, wholesale, captured by beauty, by love. That is the nature of beauty and love. And if you like to have that company, no injustice there, that is above even justice. That is the land of mercy. Justice, what we can think as justice is the highest thing, justice cannot enter there. So benevolent, so generous, so great, no possibility of injustice there. Beauty and love profuse, everyone may get it to their hearts fulfilment, no want. The land of love divine. No question of deception. No question of encroachment, selfish attempt. Where's the room for justice there? But justice cannot enter in that plane. It is so sufficient, so perfect, so full in its own way.

Gaura Hari. All giving. The competition of sacrifice. Competition of sacrifice, so many units all sacrificing, very eager to sacrifice to the highest point. And no selfish absorption, all giving away, just opposite to this world, all eager to give away. Die to live. If we can create such temperament within us, of welcoming death at every point, we'll gain in every point. Die to live. The Hegel's expression is very favourite to me, very dear, favourite, die to live. As much as you can die, you will find that you are living in such a high degree. So we're in the midst of negative side, all, give up, give up, and be pure. Be pure. All this rubbish, give up, give up, as much as you can give up, the purest thing will come within you, will spring up. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Tat paratvena nirmalam, the purity depends on the the intensity of dedication towards the Absolute Centre. This we're to understand. And as much as we'll be self seeker we shall go to hell. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, there's one other question. These boys, they want to know, when they go back to Europe, they understand they must study śāstra, but who - could you explain association and sādhu, and how will they know who to associate with.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then by, in present situation, and because ISKCON has put me in the rank of their enemy, then I'm compelled to say that who is in my connection, that Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, or that Sudhīra Goswāmī, or those that are in connection with me, their connection may help you the best. I'm bound to say like that. Because the other party they have declared that I'm their enemy.

Still, one may have their association, with internal cautiousness, that what they say, that is not all, but there is something more. With this idea, cautiously, they may associate there.

What the ISKCON says, that is the beginning of things, and there is many things above. With this idea you may associate with them. But at the same time when they will say ill about anything truth that will create some offence, with this risk you are to mix with them. But you are to go through the scripture. Swāmī Mahārāja's scripture, so many English translation books, you may go through them. And if to connect with some person, then you may try those that are in association with me. I can say so. Haṁsadūta Mahārāja is also there. He has got some love for me. And Jayatīrtha Mahārāja will be nearer, whose centre is in London. He was in charge of London ISKCON Maṭha, but now he's banished. He has found another mission somewhere. You can connect with that. Holland and England, nearby, closer. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Visitor: If it is also possible that if we chant maybe six rounds, and we read, consulting the books, we can do it on our own?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He's saying, "Can they work independently, chanting rounds, reading Swāmī Mahārāja's books? Chanting maybe six rounds, something. Trying to make progress by themselves. Can they do like that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Doing regular, but a connection with a living source is indispensable. In the beginning you may, something like rehearsal, you may do something, but connection with a saint, His bona fide agent, that is indispensable for real spiritual life. But in the beginning, as spade work, you may go on with reading books, Swāmī Mahārāja.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, I have a question. Can you explain sādhu saṅga in its different aspects. Higher and lower association with sādhus. Is there a gradation of associating with a sādhu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, gradation. It is according to Mahāprabhu's direction, Rūpa Goswāmī has written that, kṛṣṇeti yasya giri taṁ manasādriyeta, dīkṣāsti cet praṇatibhiś ca bhajantam īśam śuśrūṣayā bhajana-vijñam ananyam anya-, nindādi-śūnya-hṛdam īpsita-saṅga-labdhyā

["One should mentally honour the devotee who chants the Holy Name of Lord Kṛṣṇa, one should offer humble obeisances to the devotee who has undergone spiritual initiation (dīkṣā) and is engaged in worshipping the Deity, and one should associate with and faithfully serve that pure devotee who is advanced in undeviated devotional service and whose heart is completely devoid of the propensity to criticise others."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 5]

According to his status we'll have to deal with him in a different way. Ordinary devotional spirit we find anywhere, or we may have some liking, some preference for them, adoration. Manasādriyeta, mentally I can encourage him, encouraging words should be said to him, but not submission. Then, one who has got dīkṣā, who has got real connection with a real saint, then I shall show my obeisance to him. Because he has got some connection with the divinity real, reality in him, so I must show some respect towards that person who is a bona fide student of the devotional school. And who has not got such connection we may appreciate them, admire them, mentally. But who has got that initiation, that real connection with that higher type saint, we must show our obeisance to them. Then, who is cent per cent engaged in devotional activity, we'll try to serve them, and thereby to get their tendency imbibed within me. Serve them. And if such a person is found, by the touch, by connection of him, one feels that he's getting devotion, then he will adore him in any way with all his energy and force and knowledge and everything. This is said. According to the gradation of the sādhu our behaviour with them has been advised to be done in such a way.

Have you not come with this śloka?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, Upadeśāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Upadeśāmṛta _____ [?] this is mentioned, how we are to deal with what section of devotees of the Lord.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: You also mentioned Mahārāja, association is not necessarily in the presence, vapu, in the presence of the Spiritual Master, it was more a mental connection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is, his body may be far away, but if we have submission to a particular centre that will flow to me from soul to soul. Just as all these sounds are passing, by mental submission we can associate with a person. The physical distance, material distance, cannot affect. Mental nearness, that is necessary, soul nearness. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Visitor: _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: One of the men has one problem. He took one initiation from Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī of Rādhā-kuṇḍa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: This boy. Not Kṛṣṇadāsa who just left us in Nandagram, Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, who gave one initiation. But now...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We do not care for that imitationist. We do not consider them to be pure devotees.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. But he's wondering should he...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're, according to our Guru Mahārāja and our best of knowledge they're all imitationist.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So he's wondering if he should take this initiation seriously or not, because now he has found out that maybe he's not so bona fide.

Visitor: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is not deepest connection, not soul to soul, that is mental connection in the external plane. The transaction in the mental plane, not in the plane of soul. That is mental concoction. That is not reality. What the sahajiyā bābājī are doing, their transaction is all in the mental plane, never in the plane of the soul proper.

Visitor: He said he would have a mental connection with me, but for me it is the soul.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He said, the same as you just said Mahārāja, he said he would have mental connection with him. But he's not satisfied, he wants soul connection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. So you are to give up that. If he feels it really, then he will shake off that. That is imitation, that is a concoction. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Very cheap. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: His question is, "How can such a person live at Rādhā-kuṇḍa for forty years?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Not only such persons, there are so many monkeys...

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and so many dogs are also living in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. That Rādhā-kuṇḍa or spiritual Rādhā-kuṇḍa, and what in the mundane feeling Rādhā-kuṇḍa and between the two there are so many covers, covers. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, how should one try to meditate? In your book, Ambrosia in the lives of surrendered souls, there is one verse where it is encouraged that one meditate on the name, qualities, form, pastimes, of the Lord.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No meditation, but it will come automatically if we can acquire serving attitude. Meditation will progress in such a line that to have touch of the plane proper where the name, the quality, the colour, rūpa, all these things. With that earnestness, eagerness, with that devotional prayer, we should want to be reinstated in that plane. That sort of meditation. Meditation does not mean that in the mental sphere.

jayati jayati nāmānanda rūpam murarer viramita nija dharma dhyāna pujyadhi yatna [katham api sakṛdāttam muktidaṁ prānināṁ yat paramāmṛtam ekaṁ jīvanaṁ bhuṣanaṁ me]

[Sanātana Goswāmī says: "Let ecstasy in the service of the Divine Name be victorious. If somehow we can come in contact with that sound, nāma rupaṁ murāreḥ, then all our other activities will be paralysed; we will have no necessity of performing any other activity. Our many variegated duties will have no importance to us at all if we can achieve the service of the Divine Name of Kṛṣṇa."]
[Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, 1.1.9]

Viramita. That will put a final stop to all the meditation. Dhyāna pūjā. Even worshipping, the arcan, viramita, dharma, and the duty of the varṇāśrama, all will go, will vanish gradually when we shall get the touch of the fitness, of the smell, of the pure name of Kṛṣṇa. These attempts will be slackened and go down, and we'll have entrance there in the flesh and the separate plane of His līlā. And these things meant, to enter that varṇāśrama dharma, the meditation, all these are meant to lead us to that level. But more or less they're all ascending, so we get the chance of Nāma bhajan, then we must be indifferent to all these things which are recommended for the lower section of the people. These will go away, vanish. Dying means, die to live, dying means a progressive stage. And in dying, as a member of the baby school, as a member of the communist school, as a member of the arcan school, that will also gradually die, and we'll go up.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Many times we look for some higher taste in the beginning, something to attract us away from the gross.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That will be accepted and again that will be left back and we shall make progress. Milestone. We're progressing, one milestone and then after two miles there's a milestone. In this way the stone is mile after mile. So something what is necessary in the beginning, that will be put back gradually and we'll have to make progress.

"Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra, eho bāhya [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59] "Yes, it is, go further." First, "This is external, go inner." Then, "This is also external, go inner." "This is also external, go inner, deeper." "Oh, it is, go further." "It is, go further." "It is good, go more." And, "It is the best. Anything else than this?" In this way it is progressing, in Rāmānanda-saṁvāda we have found. In the talk of Mahāprabhu and Rāya Rāmānanda how through gradual progress.

When we have come in the soil proper, then also there is progress, śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, in Vṛndāvana. There is also progress, the śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. In this way it's always progressing.

So, I'm getting tired.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: OK. We'll close here Mahārāja? Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Loving Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya! A.C. Bhaktivedānta...

...

Viṣṇupāda dāsa, disciple of _____ [?] Swāmī. He has written, he read some books of Sadānanda Brahmacārī, a German devotee, our Godbrother _____ [?] another gentleman. And their representation of Bhāgavatam, and the representation of ISKCON differs. The difference according to him that the Sadānanda Brahmacārī and others they understood Bhāgavatam as rasa śāstra, transcendental rasa, ecstasy. _____ [?] geographical and historical representation. A great difference. What to do? In this way, put some questions, that gentleman. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Where is this devotee from Mahārāja? Viṣṇupāda dāsa. From Australia?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From Brazil perhaps. Brazil in South America?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, from Brazil, and addressed to Parvat Mahārāja, Bhakti Vilāsa Parvat, his names mentioned there. In Brazil generally Spanish?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Portuguese.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Spanish speaking. Portuguese.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. Portuguese speaking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So English is not very good, Portuguese speaking persons ____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: That is interesting question. The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is being cited as historical, rather than rasa śāstra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Historical and geographical, history and geography, has become the principal thing of ISKCON. But the Sadānanda Brahmacārī and the other gentleman, direct disciple of Prabhupāda, they represented Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam as an ecstatic and transcendental ecstasy _____ [?] transcendental ecstasy, ānandam, rasa. He has mentioned the word rasa, rasa śāstra.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is the principal thing, rasa śāstra. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ Kṛṣṇa. But geography and history, that has been given there, especially geography, that cannot be tenable with the present conception of the _____ [?] ...Moon, Sun. Sun is the nearest, Moon is far away. The double distance from Sun, it is mentioned in Bhāgavatam.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Can you explain.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja told that, "I told that this Moon, this is not the proper Moon." In this way he has explained away. Who came to ask him that when Bhāgavatam mentioned the Sun is the nearest, the Moon in the double distance. Then maṅgala more far away. In this way Bhāgavatam _____ [?] Further, further. What is this? This is not even the measurement of the present science.

Then I gave some explanation, that this nearness, not according to the physical distance, but from the standpoint of influence. And I gave example, "Indians may say that Russia is nearer to us than Pakistan." Russia's influence is more harmonious than Pakistan, nearest neighbour.

In this way, from the standpoint of influence, Sun may be the nearest to the Earth. And the next influence we get from the Moon. And the third from Mars. In this way it may be measured, not from the standpoint of physical distance. The interest in distance, measurement about the influence. So in that way it may be explained.

Then, I have got my other conception. That is the Absolute. That what we see, we feel, about the objective world, that is controlled by the Absolute. So, if Absolute Will wills, He can show something to me, and something to you, though we're in one and same place.

"If I say see this, you're destined to see this. And you know you are seeing this, that will be true. Let there be water. There was water. Let there be light. There was light."

The Supreme Will is controlling everything. The subject, the seer, the seer is controlled by the over-seer, and no objective ability, eligibility. As He likes, so He can show us, independent of the objective. Objective things are produced from the sight from the eye, the sound from the ear, in this way it comes down. One may hear a sound, another may not hear, if the Supreme Will wills. One may see a sight, another may not see, if He controls, like hypnotism.

Just as Viśvarūpa. "Oh Arjuna."
Arjuna prayed, "I want to see that sort of Your representation."
"You, yes, see. You see this and that."
Arjuna's seeing, and, "I can't see any longer such representation. Please stop."
It was stopped.

So how it is possible? So super subject is controlling the subject, the seer, the feeler. That's the way. And these are things may seem very rigid, and very stable, but no. Seeing every experience comes from higher, controlled from the higher subjective world. As He wants us to see, we cannot but see that. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Śukadeva when he's describing, he's forced to see some position of the Earth _____ [?] and that is in every case. Some are conscious, some unconscious. The stone, one may see the stone, another may see that is water. In a person also, all visionary, all visionary, no rigidity of this world. That is all controlled from the higher meaning principal.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Only the conception of different things of different type. The world in the mind, not mind in the world. Berkley. The world in the mind. Ideal realism. Ideal is not an abstract unordinary thing. Ideal is the reality. And what is floating on the idea, that stone, and tree, wood, all these things, the brick, so rigid it may be but it is nothing, only different forms of conception of the mind. It is hard, yet that is only a conception. Ha, ha.

Or just as in the dream also we see so many things. We see tree also, we see earth also, we see water also, in a dream, but they're not water, they're not wood, or they're not stone. In persons also, we talk with them also _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So, to try to convince the mundane people about Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam being accurate description of this Earth, that is the wrong approach, because they're seeing differently?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. No stability, of this vision, or sound, or anything, the whole science is gone. Ha, ha. He may withdraw the laws of nature and introduce another law of nature, if He likes. Because He has introduced some law, some higher universal law, and the dependant mind is honouring, following that. If He withdraws that law, and gives another law, just as an organiser of an office, office organiser. In his mind he has organised different table, chair, machine, all these things, so many men etc, then can withdraw the whole thing and can organise in another way.

yadā sa deva jāgartti, jadedaṁ ceṣṭitaṁ jagat [yadā savṛti-śāntātmā, tadā sarvvaṁ nimīlate]

In Manu-saṁhitā. When that universal mind, universal person, He awakens, the creation begins. When He goes to sleep, everything gone, vanishes. Just as we also when we go to sleep everything gone. Again we awake everything comes in. Again when sleeping, everything gone. What I see, that is in the universal mind. Hegel has explained in that way. Our mind is a part of the universal mind. Just as this body is a part of the physical world, so our mind is a part of the universal mind, and it depends on that. If Earth is dissolved then this body and everything will be dissolved. So universal mind dissolved, all individual minds will be dissolved _____ [?] With the dissolution of the universal mind, this individual mind will vanish. The mind is a part of that.

Just as the government in the mental world, the Yāmarāja, he's the judge there. Independent of this physical body so many mental bodies are living in the mental sphere. There is a government. They're caught and punished and rewarded, in the heaven, or in the hell, all these things in the mental world. All in the mental _____ [?] And generally the ordinary soul _____ [?] from the body, they leave entering Moon. _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Satellite.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Satellite, of Earth. The Earth's centre satellite, Moon _____ [?] that the ordinary _____ [?] that crosses the limit of the Earth and enters into the domain of the universe, solar system. Through the Sun, through light, passes up to Brahmaloka, light consciousness. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, Swāmī Mahārāja also caused some excitement by saying the Americans never went to the Moon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was mentioned that this Moon is not the real Moon mentioned in Bhāgavatam. He told like that. And he also gave some sort of analogy, that in every nation there is first Sun, then Moon, then Mars, then Mercury, then Jupiter. These are counted successively in this way. Why? That was his one point.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He told me. Everywhere the first _____ [?] The Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, what is the meaning, that they're successively _____ [?]

But I told him, this may be adjusted in this way, from the question of influence. The measurement not by physical distance, but by the interest of the Earth. It draws more interest nearer the Sun, however physically far it may be, but it gets the highest benefit from the Sun. And next from the Moon, and perhaps next from the Mars. In this way, nearer, nearer in interest, nearer is not in physical distance. I told him like that.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. And there was another question. _____ [?]

And then another island, then _____ [?] The seven oceans. That is also described in such way. Not only this water, but including the atmosphere. That is, Earth is surrounded by the water, then watery gases, and that has got differentiation in the stages. Earth is surrounded. The water is also in the form of gases, in this way. And there are different places where the souls are living, in different mental bodies.

Some other scholars, Bengali scholars, _____ [?] that book was published in _____ [?] purchased perhaps from Swāmī Mahārāja, that he has explained in this way, that set motions of certain types. And not only just the water, but water represented in the gas form. That is the air surrounding the Earth. There we can trace differentiation, in this way.

Anyhow, the last point is there, as He wills us to see, we cannot but see that. Subjective control.

When Kṛṣṇa's entering into the arena of Kaṁsa, different sections of people are seeing Him differently.

mallānām aśanir nṛṇāṁ naravaraḥ strīṇāṁ smaro mūrttimān
gopānāṁ svajano 'satāṁ kṣitibhujāṁ śāstā svapitro śiśuḥ mṛtyur bhojapater virāḍ aviduṣāṁ tattvaṁ paraṁ yogināṁ vṛṣṇīnāṁ paradevateti vidito raṅgaṁ gataḥ sāgrajaḥ

["O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cowherdsmen; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kaṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇis - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.43.17]

Different group having different impression by his sight. He's one, entering, but different groups will see Him in different ways. It is possible. As He likes to express Himself to a particular - he may see that.

When Kṛṣṇa in Kuru sabhā, Duḥśāsana came to bind Him with rope and to put in the prison, He showed Himself in such a way they all wondered, 'what is this?' astonished by His figure. Where to put the rope and tie _____ [?] Bhīṣma and others, Nārada, so many Ṛṣis were there. Kṛṣṇa had come for negotiation of peace with the Kurus. And Yadavas, the Pāṇḍavas, many Ṛṣis also came. They began to praise, hymns, in His favour.

Then Dhṛtarāṣṭra, he was blind, he heard all those hymns, and asked Kṛṣṇa, "Oh. What I hear I understand _____ [?] You are showing Yourself in such a beautiful way, and wonderful way, that they're all astounded to see You. And they're going on using their praise. Please, for the time being, You can do anything and everything, for the time being remove my blindness. Give me eye that I can see You. And again You'll make me blind."

Kṛṣṇa told, "No, no. Blindness is not necessary to be removed. I say, you see Me."

And Dhṛtarāṣṭra saw. What does it mean? Without removing the blindness, Dhṛtarāṣṭra was shown His rūpa. What does it mean? What does it mean that without the sense of the physical the rūpa can be seen. It is mental connection. If He likes, He wants to show, then He can show. No physical senses necessary.

There it is mentioned that, "No necessity of removing your blindness. Only I say, you can see Me, and you will see."

And Dhṛtarāṣṭra saw. What does it mean? That eyes are not indispensable to see _____ [?] the mind can see, if He wants to make Himself...

...that is created through the senses.

I saw in paper, two or three years ago, one French scientist he's of opinion that, not that eye can see the colour, but colour is produced from the eye. So sound created from the ear, not that it enters the outside. So in Bhagavad-gītā, guṇa-pravṛddhā viṣaya-pravālāḥ.

[adhaś cordhvaṁ prasṛtās tasya śākhā, guṇa-pravṛddhā viṣaya-pravālāḥ adhaś ca mūlāny anusantatāni, karmānubandhīni manuṣya-loke]

["Some of its branches extend upwards (in the planets of the demigods and celestial beings), some of the branches extend downwards (in the planets of the humans, animals, and lower species), and its mature (three modes of) nature and aim and object (of sound, smell, touch, taste, and form) are its fresh, young shoots. Some aerial roots also extend downwards, to take root in the land of exploitation, within the human plane."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.2]

Viṣaya, _____ [?] this earth, air, and the water, heat, towards the outside, to be experienced by our senses. That is like pravālāḥ, just as the branches of the tree, the sprouts come out, so from the individual comes out.

The Sun is there, the eye is there, and the colour is there. With the help of the Sun, eye can cooperate, can come in touch with colour. So ether is there, ear is there, sound is there. Three things, one satya guṇa, raja guṇa, tama guṇa, and recipient instrument and they're making it possible another is represented as the thing of experience, in this way, evolved. From subtle, gross is being evolved. Gross has not got its stability. First fossil, and then life, no. The fossil is only a part of the conception of the consciousness. Consciousness presupposes, fossil presupposes consciousness. Everything, every experience, presupposes consciousness. So consciousness _____ [?] and these conceptions floating on the ocean of consciousness, either individual consciousness, or in the universal consciousness, floating.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. These are abstruse philosophic ontological questions.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, this same principle...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So everything is to be, we're ordered to see everything with veneration. They're all of superior position than us. The Earth also, that is a part of universal consciousness. So I shall revere everything. Every part connected with Kṛṣṇa. Every part should be connected with Kṛṣṇa, and should be venerable, worshipped. I'm the worshipper, not the enjoyer, exploiter. I'm a servant. I'm a serving unit in this universe. Everything is of higher origin _____ [?]
universal consciousness _____ [?] transformed. Instead of seeing everything materially, we're requested to see everything spiritually, opposite. Whatever you come in contact with, try to see it with respect, of spirituality, not materially, a product in your view. That will help you to come in real contact with things, reality. So serving attitude takes us nearer to reality, and exploiting tendency takes us far from the reality, māyā, misconception. Exploiting tendency takes us far from the reality, that is misconception, māyā.

Centre of reality may be dependent on Him in all matters, very much giving life, a grateful life. That is noble faculty, devotion, gratefulness, benevolence, worshipping, service. We should live in the midst of these noble faculties, and that nobility will transfer its quality to me. I shall be noble coming in contact with them. And coming in contact with lower things, 'I'm the master and they're like slaves, I can mould him in any way I like,' that association takes me down to be materialised, to my lowest position. It will take me so close to the matter, I'll be as free as stone.

Die to live. And apparently you may think that is we're losing our interest, no. By sacrifice we thrive, and by exploiting we go down, we lose. Exploitation takes us lower. Apparently, 'I'm master of all I see, I'm monarch of all I see,' but that is the most heinous disease, will take down to the lower position. 'I'm servant of all I see' will take you nearer to _____ [?] section of the world. So die to live, try to die for others. You are insignificant of the insignificant - think like that. You may be utilised and earn your fortune by serving of the higher entity. Their influence will be injected in you in their association. So service is your food. You can thrive in service, and you'll have to die in enjoyment, exploitation. We're taṭasthā śakti, we're created with the possibility _____ [?] both kinds of adaptability within us _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Mahārāja, Kṛṣṇa gives the bhakta faith. Kṛṣṇa bestows faith on His devotee, as the devotee needs vision, to see, to have faith one has to see the Lord working through his environment. Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow it. Kṛṣṇa says? Where? In Gītā?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Kṛṣṇa says in Gītā, that if one worships a particular demigod, He makes his faith steady, in that demigod.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He says if you worship demigod you'll get that demigod position.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. But He's making that faith steady. So He's bestowing some vision? As you were explaining, subjective vision, then we're inclined to think this way or that way. So if one is seeing the Lord working through the material energy then his faith is increased. Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. Who will worship the demigods, he will attain the closeness of the demigods.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is there, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3] "But who worships Me, he will come to Me. And who will worship other gods, he'll go there. But that is transient, confined only in this transient world, and I am transcendental."

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. If Kṛṣṇa wants you to see white He'll make you see white, as you explained...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa withdrawn there. When they're worshipping other gods there is no Kṛṣṇa. He's that independent.

na kartṛtvaṁ na karmāni, lokasya sṛjati prabhuḥ
[na karma-phala-saṁyogam, svabhāvas tu pravartate]

["Due to their tendency towards ignorance since immeasurable time, the living beings act, considering themselves the doers or inaugurators of action. The Supreme Lord does not generate their misconception of considering themselves doers, nor does He generate their actions or their attachment to the fruits of those actions."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.14]

"I'm independent. And they're left to their own karma, their own meagre free will. In the māyāic world they're left free. They can have free choice, and they're doing there this thing."

Whenever He comes to interfere that is another thing. And if He comes to interfere, not without cause, must be some sukṛti comes from the sādhu, then His interference. Otherwise they're all left free. You have got your meagre, the small particle of free will, it is with you. You are a particle, your freedom is also a particle. And you're at large in this field, world, you select your own and going on with your own. That is this world of misconception. And here, Kṛṣṇa does not come to interfere.

When, only through His saint, and sometimes He comes here personally, instruction, when He comes as an incarnation and says, "Do this. Don't do that. This is this, this is this. This is black, this is white. If you take white you'll get this thing, if you take black you'll get this thing."

That is from not direct interference in their activity, but a passive advice. And then His saints, devotees, also come and canvas, without interfering with the freedom of the individuality. And if by choice of their free will they accept the advice of Kṛṣṇa or the saints and devotees, then they gradually come in connection with Kṛṣṇa camp, otherwise not. He's aloof.

na karma-phala-saṁyogam, svabhāvas tu pravartate

That is, He has left us in our own nature to handle with the environment. It is there, you are there, you select your own prospect _____ [?]

But sometimes He comes. "Don't do this. If you do this, this will be the bad effect. If you do this it will give you good result."

In this way He comes and advises. He does not partake in control His soul to take a particular course, no. Non interfering attitude. Otherwise, the jīva has got, has not any freedom. So a conscious unit means endowed with freedom. So He does not interfere with the freedom of the consciousness. They're all particle of consciousness, and consciousness means endowed with freedom.

...under the care of Vidagdha-Mādhava Prabhu. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, one last question in this regard, on the subject of subjective vision. There are nine Deity forms, and one of those is, in the mind. There's wood, stone, jewel, there's different substance a Deity can be fashioned, from wood, from stone, from earth, from jewel...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: A Mūrti can be fashioned in nine ways.

Devotee: Eight ways.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Eight ways. So one, is in the mind. Yes?

Devotee: One is mind.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything is in mind. Why one?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Because nothing can, there... that seems to be the best. Isn't it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

śailī dāru-mayī lauhī, lepyā lekhyā ca saikatī mano-mayī maṇi-mayī, pratimāṣṭa-vidhā smṛtā

There is a śloka, in Sanskrit. The mano-mayī, generally the sannyāsīns, it is recommended for the sannyāsa āśrama. They will wander here and there, and mentally they will worship. Everything is mentally done, should be done by the sannyāsī class, mano-mayī. But really He's cinmayī, but the nearest approach is mano-mayī. Then there is lekhyā, only by, in a wall with some paint. Paint means this mud or something like, this cement or something, lekhyā, only by the paint, lepyā lekhyā. Then dāru-mayī, by wood. Maṇi-mayī, then _____ [?] śilā-mayī. In this way, eight kinds of Arcā-Mūrti to be worshipped, representation.

Devotee: But transcendental.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. So how to accomplish the Deity of the mind? How to accomplish? Is there a process to actually accomplish that goal?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To have conception of the principle of Arcā, it has been asked, when you are worshipping any Deity, you are asked for meditation, the mantram is there, the meaning is there. Without the help of the external, material things, you are to do everything in your mind. That is mano-mayī.

Devotee: In worship Deity, that is mano-mayī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You may have a conception of any of the śilā-mayī, or dāru-mayī, or anything in your mind in meditation. In Jagannātha you may conceive, have conception of Purī Jagannātham, and worship in the mind. Mahāprabhu, here or there, in any place, as you, which has attracted you most, you can think of His figure, and will do the necessary things. Everything, in imagination, you are collecting flowers, rubbing candana, but it may be so strong that it can defeat the physical representation also. Jīva Goswāmī has mentioned one instance. That one brāhmaṇa he used to worship mentally. Every day he used to give some paramānna bhoga. Paramānna you know?

Devotees: Sweet rice.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sweet rice he used to give, bhogam to his Deity, in mind. One day, suddenly this thought came in his mind, "Perhaps it is too hot?" So, whether it is too hot, not fit for the eating of the Deity, so he unconsciously tried to measure the heat of the food, and with this finger, thumb, he wanted to touch that imaginary food, paramānna. And suddenly he felt it is too hot, and there was an abscess.

So the mental representation may be sometimes so concrete that it produces _____ [?] result. Though it was all in imagination, it is also possible. So imagination and external things have got an intimate connection. So strong intensity of mental force can create this physical thing. We are to understand by this example.

Let there be water, there was water. Let there be light, there was light. That is mentioned in Bible, that God created in this way. His will is sufficient. So sometimes the will of a devotee is so much intensified that it can create _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. What's the time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nine twenty five _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] He won't think that the blame will be any other person. The whole blame is mine. I shall have to take the whole responsibility for my own self, not to accuse any others.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

We must not be excited. With gentle humility we shall try to go on the way. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. And that according to standard of a standard man, that is Vaiṣṇava. Not as if so many mad that is found in the lower. The standard of humility, that must come from normal thinking man, that is Vaiṣṇava, trnad api sunicena taror api sahisnuna. And when past actions, they will come to take their, to clear, to get back all their dues from me in the previous life, and I must not deny, must not refuse them.

"Oh, I was in loan to you, all right, here, take it, take it." As much as will be exacted from me, "That you are in loan, all these things, you are to clear it." "Yes, take."

Take like a tree, when he's cutting me, still I shall lose no temper. I shall try to keep up my optimistic nature. The Lord is there and He's everything. And whatever is going here, that is all transient, useless thing, so I should not lose my temper. Taror api sahisnuna amanina amanadena. I won't hanker after any name, any glorification of anything else. At the same time I shall be ready to give due respect to the whole environment. With this attitude if we go on with the devotional activities then in the shortest time I shall be able to get the grace of the Lord. No complain. All complain we are to meet, due to my previous due, loan, I'm to clear silently, and maintain the balance of my mind. And I shall try my best and approach towards the highest entity. That attitude helps us best for easy and for quick attainment.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, can we have one darśana this afternoon when Nārada Muni comes to see you, we can have one short darśana, maybe this afternoon? Because he has much news and many offerings from Sudhīra Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who's Nārada Muni?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Nārada Muni is the new devotee who just came from San Jose.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This morning? Yes, I shall talk with him, first what is matter, then I shall say it to you. Might have come with a letter perhaps? Any letter?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. He has letters, and much news from San Jose, and letters and offerings.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have heard something from him already?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, something.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. ISKCON is very apathetic to him. ISKCON is creating trouble?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I did not hear that. He said that Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī is so absorbed in editing your new book, he's hardly going to the program. Both Mukunda Mālā and Sudhīra Goswāmī are very much enlivened by your tape transcriptions, and they're very busy making your book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Deeply engaged.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, and it's going very well. It looks like they will finish shortly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How many months?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He did not say, but it's coming, quickly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. And this gentleman has come only with news?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Some letters and some offerings, some offerings from the devotees also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The other day that lady who took Hari Nāma, that Kṛṣṇa Nandinī?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You did not hear?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I wrote one letter to Sudhīra Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She sent a letter also, and some money, Guru dakṣiṇā. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: ...or chanting aloud, or does it make any difference at all?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The mind is silent or aloud, that matters little, but the attitude is most important, sevonmukha. Whatever I'm doing, I'm doing for His interest, for the interest of my Lord, and not for myself, or for similar persons like me. The centre consciousness, vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṁ viduḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14] It has been told in the scriptures that Name can do away all the sins, but the Name must be Vaikuṇṭha. That Name must be of transcendental type, not mundane type, which can be produced by the tongue and the lip, not physical sound. Sound has to be of colour of transcendentality. That is the all important thing. God-centred. Self-sacrifice and God satisfaction. That nature must be present there. Otherwise only an innumerable number of physical sound imitating the Name, that has got not much meaning. Name proper, Name of the Lord, Lord is Vaikuṇṭha, transcendental. So the sound must have that transcendental characteristic to produce any effect. There's the rub. Otherwise only one Name can do away so much sin as a person has no capacity...

yadā sa deva jāgartti, jadedaṁ ceṣṭitaṁ jagat [yadā savṛti-śāntātmā, tadā sarvvaṁ nimīlate]

["When the jagad-puruṣa, or universal form of the Lord, falls asleep, then everything naturally falls asleep along with Him. Then there is no more creation, no more external activity because all are dissolved. And again, with the awakening of Him, everything becomes active."] [Manu-saṁhitā]

In Manu-saṁhitā. When that universal mind, universal person, He awakens, the creation begins. When He goes to sleep, everything gone, vanishes. Just as we also when we...

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I have one question Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He was, generally, he liked to hear something about Lord Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa's description has been given in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, in a beautiful ontological search. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. If you can conceive that all different types of ecstasy, joy, be personified, He's so. Ānandam, rasam, happiness, ecstasy, blissfulness, that is transcendental, that emanates, not mundane. That is in Upaniṣad, raso vai saḥ.

[raso vai saḥ. rasaṁ hyevāyaṁ labdhānandī bhavati
ko hyevānyāt kaḥ prāṇyāt yadeṣa ākāśa ānando na syāt eṣa hyevānandayati]

["Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the embodiment of all ecstatic bliss; He is the reservoir of all pleasure. Having derived ecstasy from Him, the individual souls become blissful. For, who indeed, could breath, who could be alive if this Blissful Lord were not present within the hearts of all souls. He alone bestows ecstasy."] [Taittirīya Upaniṣad, 2.7] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 9.2]

That is controlling the whole market, that happiness, joy, higher divine joy, divine happiness, not mundane. Anyhow, on the whole, every one of us wants to be happy. Happiness, transcendental, original, that is the most universal thing. In Veda it has been told as rasa, ānanda. Some say it is beauty, satyam, śivam, sundaram. Some say it is prema, love divine.

That can be divided into different parts. Indian transcendental scientists, they have divided that transcendental wealth mainly in two divisions. One transitory, the other permanent. Five permanent rasas. Just as conjugal, filial, friendly. The relation of one friend to another friend, a particular rasam, friendly happiness, interchange of friendly happiness. Then wife, husband, conjugal consorthood, that sort of friendship. Son and mother, father and son, and children of five friends. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya. So man and master, that is also a particular relationship, or rasa, ānanda, happy relation, man and master. Śanta, that is submission to particular authority. That is also rasa. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, five kinds of standing relation of happiness.

And another seven transitory, passing. Just as hāsya, the laughing rasa. Adbhuta, wonderful, strange, that is also a kind of rasa. Vīra, sometimes varied temperament, that is also a particular rasa. _____ [?] sometimes very piteousness, kindness, very benevolent, that is also a kind of rasa. Bībhatsa also, there is a relationship of contempt, we see and we can't see it, rotten things, so many things we can't see, bībhatsa. Bhayānaka, a fearful rasa, a tiger _____ [?] What is in African jungle, a mammoth, it will come and I'm afraid, bhayānaka. These are flickering, that are seven.

Where we find a centre which combines all these rasas in one place. Mainly the Śrī, the beauty, is the main place. That is Kṛṣṇa, Śrī, Reality the beautiful. Kṛṣṇa, reality the beautiful. His colour, His sound, His gait, His temperament, His movement, His laughing, His eating, His laughing. Everything is very, very charming to one and all. But, that is the abode of all His rasa, but still He's personal. He's a person. Not only substance, not an abstract thing, but He has got all the qualities of a great person, caitan, personality is there. If the Absolute Beauty has got any personality, then it is Kṛṣṇa. The Absolute Love having personality, He's Kṛṣṇa. Beauty, charm, love, mercy, all these.

Mercy means above justice. We can't think that any good thing can remain beyond justice. Justice must be the highest standard of our thinking. But mercy is above justice. Justice is necessary when a decision is inevitable between two or more parties. Then the question of justice comes. But when the whole thing is one, no justice. One is paramount power. He's come to get justice from Him. He's all in all. He's autocrat. He can make or mar. The world is designed and destined by Him. He's such. He can design, He can abolish this creation, and if He likes He can do it in any other way. Designed by Him. Diabolically opposed it may be which we cannot conceive even in our present state, sum total, absent.

He's by Itself. The German philosopher Hegel's saying. He's by Itself. He's His own cause. None has created Him. And also, He's for Himself. That means He's meant to satisfy His own whims, not to satisfy the whim of any other, third person, entity, then that entity will hold higher position. So, He's for Himself. That is His līlā, His pastimes. He's not to explain for His activities to any other higher principle. So, He's such. For Himself, and everything for Him, destined and designed by Him. Such prime cause.

And we're part and parcel of His potency. He's got various potencies, and we're a part of His potency, still endowed with certain amount of freedom, free will. And by the use and misuse of that free will, what little we have got, we can thrive or we can lose our prospect, little.

So Kṛṣṇa is such: the fulfilment of everything that is found in this world. Everything may have its fulfilment in Him. In Him means in His service, in rendering His satisfaction. He's for Himself, and other things are for Him.

So Hegel says, "Die to live." Whatever independent free will you have got, give them up, and throw yourself in the whim of that autocrat absolute. Apparently you'll have to die, because your selfish ideas, thoughts, are to be abolished. But you'll gain when you'll come to Him and get Him, you'll find that you have got enough, more than you could expect, beyond your expectation when you have been gainer. So die to live. Real life is there. And this egoistic life of external mundane membership, this is a farce to us. Because there is death, there is disease, there is infirmity, and there is birth. All these influences of nature we're to undergo. But if we're to get rid of all the troubles we find here, wholly, then we're to die as we are. We're to dissolve our ego, the false ego that has been created by false aspirations, that if I get this I shall be happy. If I get that I shall be happy. I get the fourth I shall be happy. All these false notions, ideas, I've fostered, and the ego has been created. That false ego, pernicious ego, that must be put into fire, and golden ego will come out. Fire means, the universal wave, that for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa you'll throw yourself. Not for any particular selfish idea, but for universal. More than universe. Universe is in one part.

Infinite is in one part. He's such. The container of all possible infinites. If from infinite, from zero, if zero is minus, it remains zero. Zero added to zero, zero. Zero into zero, zero. Zero divided by zero. So infinite plus infinite is infinite. Infinite minus infinite is infinite. Infinite divided by infinite is infinite. In infinite it is infinite.

viṣṭabhyāham idaṁ kṛtsnam ekāṁśena sthito jagat

["But Arjuna, what is the need of your understanding this elaborate knowledge of My almighty grandeur? By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42]

In Bhagavad-gītā we see. "What more I shall speak to you? I have spoken much. Nothing again to speak. But in nutshell you know that whatever you can think is in My one part. The conception of your infinite is in My one part. I'm such, I'm so and so."

So with that idea we're to approach Him. Back to God, back to home, that is sweet, sweet home. We have not come to colonise another land, and to give the hoax that we shall _____ [?] Sweet, sweet home. Take us back to our home. It is very, very sweet. Leave the land of death _____ [?] go home. That home, and yourself, is eternal. Sat, cit, it is conscious, ānandam, you will find in your own intrinsic position that it is the path of blissfulness in itself. Now it is covered. This path may be covered with some other thing. Be cautious. This path _____ [?] The jewel is covered with alloy. Remove the alloy, it will shine. Something like that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

So in soul, you're all right, but soul - just as this body is a part and parcel of this earth, of this material world, so the soul is a part and parcel of that world. That is not produced by this mass of flesh. Soul is eternal, immortal.

Socrates had to, support, death was, the penalty of death, because he told, "Soul is immortal." That was his fault. And that existing government imparted capital punishment on him, because he simply said, he told that, "Soul is immortal."

And Christ had also, was given same fate when he declared that, "Everything belongs to Father."

Romans, they're very much disturbed. "_____ [?] then that man he's against, he's preaching disloyalty. Everything belongs to Rome. But he says that it does not belong to Rome. _____ [?] he was tried and put to death, crucified.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu came with this, that beauty is above all, above power.
There is another one. We're habituated to think that the power is ultimately controlling the whole thing, the power is the greatest thing. But Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu _____ [?] change, no, the ultimate controlling principle is love and beauty _____ [?] A powerful man also may be controlled by beauty, the beauty of voice, song. The flute of Kṛṣṇa. Sound beauty and colour beauty, figure beauty. Beauty may be of different kinds. But all beauties combined in Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣ ṇa, Kṛṣ, attraction, and ṇa, giving something in return. Attraction, Sun, Moon, all attracting one another, but when attraction endowed with life, that becomes love, affection. Living attraction means love, affection. Kṛṣṇa, the living absolute principle, is attracting everything, through affection and love, through beauty and charm. And even the most powerful, he's also disarmed by the ____ [?] beauty _____ [?] vanishes. He's defeated by the force of beauty, if it can be told so. Love is the highest thing, principle, and all accommodating. No complaint should be against that.

Rather, if I want to control you by force, by power, there may be injustice. But if I'm nurtured by real love, not a facsimile, this fleshy love, that is lust. Lust and love, that must be differentiated. 'This is what is lust, that is the perverted reflection of love.' That is treacherous, like a trap, this lust. This is mundane, this is very low. It has got bad reaction. But the love divine has got no reaction. All reaction of the similar nature, that love divine, transcendental.

These are the effects, in a general way I give you some idea. But the details if you want it you are to study systematically and _____ [?] and your energy. That is devoting yourself gradually. Higher knowledge if you want to have, then that cannot come to me to serve me. His position is higher. I'm to go for His interest towards Him. I'm for Him. He's not for me. He's for me in another way, but I must oblige Him. I must serve Him. And as a reaction I'll be a gainer. And He has got higher position. He won't come to serve my lower whims. But His noble whims if I can serve then I'll be gainer _____ [?]

Super subjective, He's in the super subjective area, transcendental, supramental, super subjective. I'm subject, this world is object to me. He's subject, higher subject, and I'm object to Him. He holds such position. Jñāta, means knower, knower of many. I'm knower of this objective world. He's knower, including this objective world, and also what's within me. More subtle than my fine conception, higher and subtler conception in all respects.

So praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā, so with serving attitude only can we have entrance into that domain. We're to acquire, collect a visa, and the visa they won't allow if they think that it is for the loss of their country. Everyone will think that if we shall get something from him, then he'll issue visa. Otherwise they won't issue any visa. And without visa we cannot enter. So if we want, if we prove that I'm going for the good of that land where I want to enter, then we'll be allowed. That serving spirit, for the service of that land, then you'll be allowed. And with disservice we'll be dismissed from the going.

The first connection we get, the help to enter that, the sound, divine sound, the Name, Mahāprabhu says, Bhāgavatam says. The sound aspect is the cover of the whole, so that is _____ [?] Ether is the subtle-most of this mundane, and there also that their ether coming together, that is also circumference, devoting all, covering the whole. So sound of the both, who are transcendental and mundane, they come closer. So with the help of the sound we can connect with them _____ [?]

Here, sound is the subtle-most, and there sound is the grossest. Within sound everything. But here, the sound is the finest thing, it permeates everywhere, sound, ether.

So it has been recommended _____ [?] sound, but whatever it may be, it must be of the interest of that land. And the spiritual will never come to serve mundane. But if anyone plodding under mundane trouble wants to be relieved, released, relieved of it, and fix his membership with that world, to serve that world, then they will give him connection. By agents, Vaiṣṇava are the agents of that land. They come here by the will of the divine, and canvas for the good life there. And one who hears them, listens to their words, and thinks that it is very, very good prospect to go and live there, in various ways they'll connect and they'll try to get a ticket. Find out how they can enter into that place, the land of the beautiful, the land of fairness, which is above judgement, which can stand above judgement. That is affection, mercy, love, charm, all these things, above judgement. Here is also poor judgement, very filthy, very nasty. Even so there judgement also fears to come to effect a compromise. That is also, in our judgement, that judgement has nothing to say. My thing I'm giving to you. I'm the proprietor. I'm giving something to you. _____ [?] Why you be kind to him? Judgement comes. The land of giving, every unit they're busy to help others. Here, every unit is an exploiting one, every unit exploiting one. Those that have hands...

["Those who are devoid of hands are prey for those who have hands; those devoid of legs are prey for the four-legged. The weak are the subsistence of the strong, and the general rule holds that one living being is food for another."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.47]

...hands, they're eating those that have no hands. Those that have got legs, they're eating those who have got no legs, creepers, all these things. And the stronger they're eating the weaker. At the cost of so many lives, one body is maintained. To maintain one body, how many bodies are killed in a life? A nuisance. But to every action there is equal and opposite reaction. We can't get off Scott free. We must have to pay for that. And I shall have to come down. I'm riding on the horse, the horse is going to be entitled to ride on me __ [?] To every action there's equal and opposite reaction. Nature wants no vacuum, does not tolerate any vacuum. So I can't take French leave. So here we're all exploiting units, but in that land everyone is a dedicating unit. That's the difference. Our soul really is a dedicating unit. Competition of dedication, here competition of exploitation, and there competition of dedication. But in the land of eternal, stuff is eternal, no dissipation, no want, no death, but all, the whole, dedicating unit. Opulence enough, in the land of opulence all giving. All giving money into the bank but no cheque he's cutting, only giving, giving, everyone is giving to one another. And it's eternal, it cannot be finished, no question of emptiness. Such a possibility, affection, beauty, love, charm, ecstasy.

We're in the world of concrete reality, but everything will evaporate one day. Even the Earth, the Sun, everything will disappear. Even the scientists they're also of such opinion, what about the philosophers. Philosophers they say that this is all transient, all mortal. Scientists they have moderated _____ [?] But it was created, the Sun, Moon, all these, and again they will be dissolved. And after _____ [?] the great dissolution, again they will be created, again dissolved. This fun is going on in this mundane world from time immemorial. And like us we're victims, in the name of mastery, kingship, monarchy, we're crushed about here, like so many units of coolies. We're recruited coolies to fill up this mundane world of death and nastiness.

But the recruiters from that land also they're moving, wandering, though very rarely found. And just as Swāmī Mahārāja went to the west, and how many he has collected for the Vaikuṇṭha land, the higher transcendental land _____ [?] The land of Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Everything, in imagination, you are collecting flowers, rubbing candana, but it may be so strong that it can defeat the physical representation also. Jīva Goswāmī has mentioned one instance. That one brāhmaṇa he used to worship mentally. Every day he used to give some paramānna bhoga. Paramānna you know?

Devotees: Sweet rice.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sweet rice he used to give, bhogam to his Deity, in mind. One day, suddenly this thought came in his mind, "Perhaps it is too hot?" So, whether it is too hot, not fit for the eating of the Deity, so he unconsciously tried to measure the heat of the food, and with this finger, thumb, he wanted to touch that imaginary food, paramānna. And suddenly he felt it is too hot, and there was an abscess.

So the mental representation may be sometimes so concrete that it produces _____ [?] result. Though it was all in imagination, it is also possible. So imagination and external things have got an intimate connection. So strong intensity of mental force can create this physical thing. We are to understand by this example.

Let there be water, there was water. Let there be light, there was light. That is mentioned in Bible, that God created in this way. His will is sufficient. So sometimes the will of a devotee is so much intensified that it can create _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. What's the time?

Devotee: Nine twenty five Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nine twenty five _____ [?]

Devotee: OK Mahārāja. Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda...

End of 82.07.31.A

Start of 82.08.05.A_02_19

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I think...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Something tangible, however subtle. I must be master of some subtle _____ [?] that I can count, that I have got something. Only in the infinite vacuum to remain forever, how one can tolerate, being an energetic man?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, I think this is the reason why some devotees fall down into intoxication. They are searching for this experience and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is some anartha. That may be in connection with real saints then that anartha will go away, leave them. The help of intoxication, with the help of this yoga. Only the minimum medicine to keep up the body together. I have got my fixed program that I'm to do all these kinds of service under the direction of our Guru Mahārāja. And to keep me fit I may take the medicine proper, yukta- vairāgya.

yuktāhāra-vihārasya, [yukta-ceṣṭasya karmasu
yukta-svapnāvabodhasya, yogo bhavati duḥkha-hā]

What will keep my body fit, I shall take such food. And that intoxication will help me in my meditation and when intoxication is taken away meditation will go. To keep the body fit, that we shall accept from the environment, to keep the body fit. And with a sober mind, the service of the Vaiṣṇava, the service of the Lord under the direction of the Vaiṣṇava, both, in the matter of direct teachings. _____ [?]

And particular, just as Tulasī Devī can help us, a creeper, a plant. So why not this ganga? By Tulasī Devī we do not mean a particular shrub, a particular plant. But she is there, just as in Śālagrāma, just as in Śrī Mūrti, just as in the Ganges water, the divine presence, that is there. And not that that particular tree, plant, the physical representation will help us. The spirit behind, you mind that. That is superior, holds superior position than that of mine. And we appeal to them as devotees. And do not use that shrub, that by eating Tulasī we will be, the plants, the leaves of Tulasī if I eat, then I will attain Kṛṣṇa bhakti. This ____ [?] conception, that will be offence to Tulasī. Even we do not use Tulasī as a medicine. Tulasī leaf is considered medicine by the ordinary people. But we don't go there, to utilise Tulasī for my bodily health. For spiritual health we want. It is not an ordinary plant, but there is the existence of the grace of Kṛṣṇa.

So spirit can help our spirit. No matter can help our spirit. Our ailment of our soul must come from the souls region, and never from any material plane. It is a plain thing. And we are suffering from anartha, from ignorance, when we find that this material thing can help me to attain my spiritual realisation. No! It is His own independent sweet will, autocrat. Only He's little dependent to His devotees. Devotees recommendation He cannot avoid, does not avoid. So no dependence on material substance for attainment of Him. He's for Himself. He's not subservient to anything, that that thing will force Him to come down to this man. He's for Himself. Hegelian expression, is very reliable and very substantial, very strong basis. By itself and for itself. And die to live. I use these expressions very often. Helps me a great deal, this Hegel. And it is unchallengable.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: It expresses the idea well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Unchallengable. He's for Himself and everything for Himself. Then He's absolute. Otherwise only give a name absolute and treat Him as our servant, no, the two things won't go together. He's for Himself. And His devotees means His own agent, own servants. They may be considered amongst His group. And _____ [?] is for Himself, is by Himself, and die to live. And not by trying to live. If you try to live you will die. If you can die to this idea, with this idea that He's for Himself, you will die with this idea, it will be great help to you. I'm dying for Him, the main thing, back bone, of the devotional attempt. No compromise. You must have courage to admit this fact, that He's for Himself. I am for Himself. And I have no separate end. If it is there, I'm a culprit. I'm a traitor. I'm a diseased person. Die wholesale death, not partial. We go a few steps and then say no, no further, no, wholesale death. Ha, ha, ha. And as long as you'll go to die, you will feel of course that you are living, you are getting real life. Long missing link, back to home. You are going?

Devotee: I was going.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you are stopped, forcibly?

Devotee: If I had gone I would have missed all of this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mr. Hegel, he has stopped you, very clear, and very bona fide, strong. None can easily deny it. Reality must be by itself and for itself. This has done away with all other philosophy. The absolute, advaya-jñāna.

[vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam]
brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān iti śabdyate

Three genuine conceptions of Him. The lower class is Brahman conception, the second Paramātmā, and the third, highest conception of Him _____ [?] as the enjoyer. All comprehensive, all-cognitive, and all-swallowing, devouring. Bhagavān. Jīva Goswāmī has given the meaning of the word Bhagavān. Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. Bhagavān, He has got so charming representation that everyone cannot do without being attracted to Him, to serve Him. Whenever anyone comes in contact with Him, he cannot restrain himself without casting himself in His service. He's so charming. Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. Bhagavān, He commands our service. Bhagavān means commands our service.

"That My service is fulfilment of your life." He proposes like that. He's Bhagavān.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...back to home, back to God. We shall awake in our home.

Now we are wandering in the foreign land just like a madman aimlessly wandering on the street and collecting some piece of paper, or some piece of cloth. And wandering in the street forgetful of his own home, own father, mother, children everything, wandering in the street. Our condition more or less like that.

If that man, that madman may be roused to his own former temperament. "You are a son of that family. You have got that property. You are so and so."

"Oh." Then he will give up that collecting on the street, the nasty things, he will come back to home and live with the family, happily. That is something like that. Follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dīkṣā means that, to take back to Kṛṣṇa consciousness where is our own home. And at present our attention focused towards the external charm of substances. Sometimes in human form, both men and women, and sometimes in animal form, sometimes in tree. Many stages of living. And wandering just as in a dream, wandering in different stages of consciousness. But the absolute consciousness within, that will be aroused and you will find that I am a child of this soil, the soil of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the land of beauty and love, prema. That is in a nutshell, it may be said like that. So I'm tired, I shall close.

Devotee: Merry making, playful mood.

Devotee: This is Kṛṣṇa's mood with the cowherd boys?

Devotee: No. Kṛṣṇa's mood with the young girls, with most young girls. Juvenile, in juvenile age. Not Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu, he's saying. When Mahāprabhu used to take bath in the Ganges, and throwing water.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sporting mood.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I find Your Divine Grace brings new life to the English language, for myself. I find these words completely adequate to describe that mood. I would not have thought of these words: sportive, like this, merrymaking. This is more like old English. In America the language has lost some of its life, some of its descriptive nature. The old English was better. Now it is business language.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I like the style of Wordsworth. Not even Milton. Milton is too gorgeous. Wordsworth is a lover of nature, simple and deep thinking in the nature, natural resources, Wordsworth. I'm fond of his style.

Devotee: _____ [?] to live in these not years and thoughts, but breaths in feeling of a figure of a child. We should count time by heart throbs _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...first time come here?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nimāi Paṇḍita in His young age...

Devotee:

śrī-nimāi-paṇḍiteti-nāma-deśa-vanditaṁ [navya-tarka-dakṣa-lakṣa-dambhi-dambha-khaṇḍitam sthāpitārtha-khaṇḍa-khaṇḍa-khaṇḍitārtha-sambharaṁ prema-dhāma-devam eva naumi gaura-sundaram]

[During the Lord's adolescent pastimes, Śrī Gaurasundar was known throughout Nadia district as the brilliant scholar Nimāi Paṇḍita. With His ingenious arguments He could humble the proud logicians who thought they were so clever they could outwit everyone they meet. Rendering the scholars speechless by cancelling and reversing their logic and conclusions, the Lord would then refute His own opinions and re-justify His opponent's original proposals. I sing with joy the unending glories of my sweet Lord, my golden Gaurasundar, the One and Only Divine Abode of Pure Love.]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Say that again.

Devotee: Śrī-nimāi-paṇḍiteti-nāma-deśa-vanditaṁ. Who's teaching you this?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Hari Charan prabhu came last night.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is from Premadhāma-stotram, Śrī-nimāi-paṇḍiteti-nāma-deśa-vanditaṁ. Because He was an exceptional scholar, all the scholars that came to Navadwīpa and they were defeated by Nimāi Paṇḍita. He was a genius from His young age. So the fame of Nimāi Paṇḍita was all around the country. Nimāi Paṇḍita was a very strong paṇḍita, personality. Any paṇḍitas, any scholars from different corners of India came to talk with Him, but they're defeated, can't go further. Śrī-nimāi-paṇḍiteti-nāma- deśa-vanditaṁ. His name was honoured throughout the country. Nimāi-paṇḍiteti-nāma-deśa-vanditaṁ. What the others produced He cut into asunder, and again He corrected them and explained Himself very perfectly. But when others put it to Him He cut it, smashed it. Again that _____ [?] He corrected and put the meaning. So, khaṇḍa-khaṇḍa-khaṇḍitārtha-sambharaṁ. Preaching very profusely, and He was such a great logician that He could cut asunder. They could not do anything. Again He corrected them in their front. So in this way, this capacity here. Sthāpitārtha-khaṇḍa-khaṇḍa-khaṇḍitārtha-sambharaṁ. A dreadful figure to the scholars, in His young age.

Again when He came to Kṛṣṇa bhakti that is also of that type, He lost Himself in the ocean of divine love. So much deep, so much intensity. People could not conceive that adherence to the Lord may come to such a great intensity, great degree, of self abnegation, so high. He can't tolerate His own existence.

"I can't stand, I can't stay. Please show Me Kṛṣṇa. I can't live without that, without having a sight of Kṛṣṇa. My friends, help Me. I'm gone, I'm lost. Help Me. I'm dying."

So such intensity, His adherence to Kṛṣṇa.

"Kṛṣṇa is in Your chest."
"Oh, in My chest?"
Gadādhara told, "Yes. Why You are so much eager for Kṛṣṇa? Kṛṣṇa is within Your chest."
"Oh?" He began to break _____ [?] took it, Kṛṣṇa is within Me?"
"Yes?"

Something like that, mad, mad for search of Kṛṣṇa.
So what's your news? Your name?

Devotee: ____ [?] Bāla.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Bāla. Only difficulty that the doctor's not allowing you to come out. Only one difficulty now.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Now they will keep her until Monday.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Monday, so long? Why not Saturday?

...thinking that my patient is a Vaiṣṇava. He dealt like that.

Mālā should be kept in a respectable position, and then obeisance, not on one hand.

Tulasī should always be revered. Put in a proper position, you should keep, that is what should be done.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Tulasī is given to the feet of Nārāyaṇa, not to the feet of Gurudeva. It is also be revered by Gurudeva's hand. Tulasī should be put in the hand of Gurudeva while arcana. So that the Gurudeva will put this Tulasī on the foot of Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa. Tulasī _____ [?]

There is an understanding between Hari and Tulasī that, "Wherever You will be I must be nearby. I shall be present nearby, near about." _____ [?] Wherever there is Tulasī, Hari must be nearby.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. In Garga Saṁhitā perhaps, it is written one is asking Rādhārāṇī, "Where from You have got so much love for Kṛṣṇa?"

She said that, "In My previous life I rendered service to Tulasī, and by her grace I have attained this position."

But this is a part of līlā. Though Rādhārāṇī She's the highest amongst all the servitors, but still She says in some kalpa She might have done such līlā, līlā perhaps. But anyhow it is showing the dignified position of Tulasī. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are eager to start for the place of service. So if you like you can start, leave here today by two o'clock. After that the time will be inauspicious. Then again tomorrow morning, as it suits you tomorrow morning. _____ [?] Nimāi Paṇḍita he was eager to go to London?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. But we'll wait today. We'll leave tomorrow morning, altogether, all three.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. All three will start tomorrow morning.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Devotee: First I must go to Calcutta to book my flight back.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And you want his help? He wants your help?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. I will help both.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Paramānanda he will also go to Bombay, you will have to go to Bombay to help Mādhava Purī Mahārāja.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So he will also start tomorrow morning, start for Calcutta, morning, before sunrise.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. Guru Mahārāja, what is the energy in Thursday afternoon that makes Thursday afternoon inauspicious for starting a journey?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Every day has got some influence of the planet, a little different. So this is calculated. This is meant for aprākṛta līlā. Devotees in the middle stage may not care for it. But these subtle signs in the nature is seen to be read even by the gopīs. They accept every movement to serve some purpose in the līlā.

In Govinda-līlāmṛta it is written, when Rādhārāṇī She's approaching to meet Kṛṣṇa in the forest, some day She finds good signs and can meet Him. And some day it is described that when She's starting there's some ominous signs and that day _____[?] To read from the symbols of the nature, the future. The futures success or failure may be read from different symptoms of the nature.

You see we're told that earthquake is known by some birds. And sometimes also by the deer and other animals. But still, human brain has not yet found out when earthquake will come. But some birds began to cry, not all sorts of birds. There are some that the wave in the subconscious region, when the flood is coming the ants are seen to go up with their eggs, they can know, that intuition is there. It is intuition. What the man cannot know by his brain calculation, so many beasts they can understand by intuition. That is suggestion of the nature, future. Future reflects itself in the present, through different symptoms. And it is not superstition, it is fact.

In the newspaper we found once, a sādhu was living in Darjeeling Hill, here. And he was very liberal and so many animals used to come to him, and some licking his body, and some he's brushing some animal's body. In this way very friendly relation. Now once, the earthquake will come, and that portion of the hill that will be dissolved, separated from the main, the sādhu will have to die. The animals, especially the stag, the deer, they came and anyhow began by their horns began to push this sādhu out of his āśrama. And anyhow they took the sādhu out of that portion and immediately there was an earthquake came, and that portion of the hill was gone, down. It has also been said that intuition, subconscious region, the waves come.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Mahārāja, if one is going to follow the influence, or understand there's some bad influence on Thursday afternoon, what is one to do, or to avoid on a Thursday afternoon?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not always effective. There are so many other things also. Not only the day, but the tithi, the other yoga, so many things, so combination produces something. It cannot be particularly said that Thursday afternoon will always be bad. There are different combinations also. If you're are to calculate in a subtle way, then there are many things to calculate. And generally when we're going forth with service of Kṛṣṇa, with God overhead, suppose if any urgent necessity arises in some inauspicious time, then what should we do? We shall have to attend that duty. So, we shall think about the Lord and go on _____ [?] It is a general thing. But in particular case, whether it's good or bad, we must go do our service. Forgetful of our future, taking wealth of service, we must go on to discharge our service. It is not desirable that in an ominous time, inauspicious time, we shall sit idle. That will also be bad.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Also in West Virginia, America, they see caterpillars, they have much hair, or the horses they grow a full coat of hair, they know it's going to be cold that winter, a harsh winter. The nature certainly points out future in different ways. The country people, they know some of these things. Is there some śāstra connected with some of these indications? Or is it just the people, they know these things, they observe these things?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: The nature, these signs, omens, are they in the śruti, are they in the scripture, any of these omens? Can they be found, pointing out future?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow you. In New Vṛndāvana in America, a part of America, Swāmī Mahārāja has given the name of New Vṛndāvana. And you say that there, the customs, usage of the people of the locality is different from that of other locality? Eh?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. No. My question is this. You were saying before that there are omens. You see a sign in nature and you know a flood is coming, the ants are taking their eggs up and you can see. If you see that you can know the flood is coming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And so, what do you say?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: In śāstra, are these in revealed scripture?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, yes. The ominous side and the auspicious side. When Kṛṣṇa disappeared, Arjuna coming from Dvārakā alone. Mahārāja Yudhiṣṭhira is saying so many ominous things, he's enumerating, "I saw this, I saw that, all ominous signs." Now Arjuna come like a mad fool. "What's the matter Arjuna? I am experiencing all these ominous signs in nature."

Then Arjuna told, "We're deceived by that Great Lord who came in human form and became our friend. He has withdrawn from here my brother. We're helpless now. We're thrown into the great ocean of grief. He has left us alone."

So many bad signs are mentioned in the śāstra. _____ [?] got recognition in the śāstra.

Devotee: Could I ask one question Mahārāja? You mentioned earlier that sometimes Rādhārāṇī sees a good sign and so She goes to see Kṛṣṇa. I didn't hear very clearly. Did you say that sometimes She sees bad signs?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She's in jñāna sunya bhakti, aprākṛta Vṛndāvana, all human characteristic. No divinity they're awake in. Just as, "We're ordinary men." That is the mental imposition there. They're ordinary people of lower section, the milkmaid men. We are so, there in the Deities, there in other Gods.

Yaśodā, if any sādhu comes, ordinarily, takes his feet dust putting on the head of her son, Kṛṣṇa, Gopāla. Saying, "Bless him. He's my son."

This is their mood, jñāna sunya bhakti. No divinity to be traced there. No transcendental knowledge to be traced there. Jñāna sunya bhakti, the life above calculation, the calculative world. No connection with calculative...

Devotee: ... they're great devotees who are suffering in disease and old age. And I was wondering why this is so? Because I have read in some śāstra, for example, Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, that by chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa, by seeing the āratī of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, that even the reactions to past sinful acts can be destroyed. So er?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Different stages, different graduation. There may be some stages where the past actions are being finished by suffering. And in higher stages we can see that may be when the soul is awakened and soul is connected with happy plane, ecstatic plane, the outward suffering is nothing to them.

Suppose a man, when sacrificing voluntarily for his country, he's feeling happiness, joy within. And externally, some sort of suffering. So many patrons they're offering their life for the cause of countrymen. So the external suffering is reduced to almost nothing. Internal joy is everything, something like that.

When in Kṛṣṇa connection, their soul is connected with plane of Kṛṣṇa, there they're feeling ecstatic sentiment life, and only on the surface some sort of bodily trouble cannot affect them much. Still it is shown sometimes to teach others. It is necessary through him to teach others, so Kṛṣṇa manages in that way sometimes.

[visaya-madandha saba kicchui na jane, vidya kula, dhana-made vaisnava na cine]

[When you see a Vaiṣṇava of the highest order who seems to be suffering from material misery, you should know for sure that he is really experiencing the highest ecstasy. (When ordinary people see that a devotee has no material wealth of his own, that he is not enjoying the mellows of family life and has no important position in society, they think that he is suffering. They do not understand that a devotee takes no pleasure in wealth, women, and prestige, but takes transcendental pleasure in humbly serving the Lord.) Bewildered by sense enjoyment and puffed up with pride in their knowledge, education, birth, wealth, beauty, and so on, the ignorant people in general cannot understand the activities or position of a Vaisnava. (One should not think, however, that because a devotee does not consider these things important that he is therefore ignorant. A devotee simply cannot be understood in terms of birth, beauty, education or wealth.) A Vaiṣṇava, on the other hand never considers birth, education, and wealth to be important qualifications, but distributes the Lord's mercy to everyone, regardless of their social position.] [Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Madhya, 9.240-241]

Caitanya Bhāgavata. Whatever you will find, troubles, of the Vaiṣṇavas externally, you can know it really that internally they're enjoying much happiness. Just as in the case of the soldier, the general, giving his life smilingly. It is possible. So some sort of happiness within, and externally some sort of pain. But that is negligible to them. In this way, you can think of that. But whether this country love is very small thing and God love, infinite love, is infinitely greater. The comparison should be drawn in that way. When country love can ignore the bodily misery, then God love can how ignore this bodily misery. Do you follow? This is negligible.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So when one pure devotee, or one very elevated, sincere devotee is suffering, apparently there is some...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So we shall think that God is, that suffering is giving food to me first, the chance for serving Vaiṣṇava, and thereby the Lord will be highly satisfied. I have got a chance. A Vaiṣṇava is showing suffering, is in disease, and trouble in my head, trouble in my ... That is, it is meant by the divine arrangement to give chance to the lower section to serve, attend them. And then through that way you will be able to go inner and higher. Do you follow? The Vaiṣṇava will say, the minor Vaiṣṇava will say, that he's suffering, it is only to make me grace, to give me chance for service, it is really not so. We're to take it in that way. The Guru, Vaiṣṇava, whom we can stress that he's beyond this mortal influence, but still we find suffering.

That as Kṛṣṇa did. "I have got a headache, strong headache. Oh Nārada, give some medicine."
"What is the medicine, Lord?"
"Feet dust of My devotee, take it, take it. I'm suffering very greatly."

Ha, ha, ha. That imitation only to give chance for me to serve. This should be our standpoint.

Devotee: Jagannātha also becomes sick, doesn't He, after Ratha-Yatra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Why? To give chance to the public to receive some special service.
"I'm one of you." He says, that, "I'm one of you. I also have sickness."
This is all līlā. Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: One last question? Our Swāmī Mahārāja was coming to America with such an exalted mission for Lord Caitanya, and he suffered two heart attacks on the boat. Also he was gored by one bull, or one cow. Right after taking sannyāsa, Swāmī Mahārāja was gored by one cow. He was hurt. One cow horned Swāmī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One cow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Knocked him down, and opened him, bleeding. You did not know? One cow attacked him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When? Before starting for America?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, just after taking sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some wound, and bleeding?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, he was very dangerously wounded.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I did not hear so long, this incident.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So, I'm asking, in this situation, how are we to understand that Kṛṣṇa is, in His pure devotee, he seems to be being attacked by some obstacles, you know, very dangerous obstacles. So how are we to understand that? Of course the devotees they...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two angles of vision: one, suppose he's nothing, he's ordinary man, so, mukam karoti vācālaṁ panghum langhāyate girīm

[yat kṛpā tam ahaṁ vande śrī gurun dīna-tāranam]

["I offer my respectful obeisances unto Mādhava, Who is the Personification of transcendental bliss. By His mercy, a blind man can see the stars in the sky, a lame man can cross mountains, and a dumb man can speak eloquent words of poetry."] [Bhavārtha Dipikā, maṅgala stotram, 1]

Krsna entered him and through him did such wonderful work; one angle of vision.

The second, he's a higher realised soul, but all his posing, failure. He has so many defects. He had a wife who was half mad, and stark mad his eldest son. And the second son he was an atheist, communist. And the third son he was an idiot. This is his physical paraphernalia. And he tried his best to trade successfully but he failed. Then his life was full of struggle. All these are show, that he's one of the members of the mundane world, all may be hoax.

From another standpoint as I told, but still an ordinary panghu, cripple, but Krsna's divine will can dance him like anything. Both, his personal realisation, and also if not personal realisation, still, anyone may be used by the Supreme Lord to perform anything and everything. That is one angle of vision.

And even when higher realised soul, they sometimes show that. Mahaprabhu when going to Gaya, He showed fever, to teach His company they are neglecting those brāhmaṇas who are ploughing in the field. And to teach them He had fever. And what, no medicine is curing Him when He's going to Gaya.

Then He Himself told, "Take the feet water of these brāhmaṇas and that will cure."

Then what to do? They took the feet water of the brāhmaṇas that were apparently all cultivators. And by drinking that He was cured from that pernicious fever. He showed purposely, with some purpose He showed.

Devotee: So Mahārāja, we will be leaving tomorrow and booking... (recording difficulties)

Badrinārāyaṇa: Well, we had a discussion before the devotees spoke to you, we had a discussion and we were wondering if he should tell you or not. But your questioning was so intense, so sharp, that he could not refrain from telling you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have you been given the addresses of Sudhīra Mahārāja and Mādhava Purī Mahārāja?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, can I ask a question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] you are creeper in a desert.

> āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣṭu mām, [adarśanān marma-hatāṁ karotu vā
> yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ]

There is separation, separation with desert _____ [?] creeper _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, in Bhagavad-gītā one śloka, "A true yogī observes Me in all beings."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] an inductive process, ascending. You are trying to establish some relation with the _____ [?] control and the nervous system, both are foreign material. By the help of the material you want to have the highest spiritual realisation. How is it possible? It is jugglery. What is there in yoga? In yoga there is some Vasudeva, on the forehead. That comes to Godliness, spiritualism. Otherwise you will take the help, just of so many āsanas and so many other things. It is all concerned with physical, the air and your body. And they can combine a conspiracy to compel the supreme authority. What do you think? What is yoga?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Well, there's also bhakti yoga, yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti yoga is all right. Then, what is the trouble? Why you have any preference for yoga? Because that is a definite way promising you some definite result. Do you find that? Śaraṇāgati is uncertain, indefinite, to hanker after His sweet will? And by following the process of yoga you feel that you are going to control, you are going to solve the result? What good do you find in the yoga?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Well, I was actually, was going to ask you that actually one who sees Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the connection with yoga? Yoga means reconnecting with Kṛṣṇa, that is all right. That is yoga. Yogamāyā, the central in-carrying current. To catch the central in-carrying current, Yogamāyā. It is taking us to connect with Kṛṣṇa, centre. That is Yogamāyā. And Mahāmāyā, out-carrying current. In-carrying current, out-carrying current. But what do you mean by yoga? This prāṇāyāma, pratyāhāra, dhāraṇa, āsana, all these things.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: One who is simply linked up with the Lord. Yoga means linked, linked up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Link up. If you form an alliance with the nervous system of your body and _____ [?] outwardly affected. The authority will be affected by that. Raja yoga and hatha yoga. Hatha yoga only attempting with physical things. The raja yoga, something mental. Yama, yama means _____ [?] all these practices. To make oneself aloof from the material charm, charm of material life. Yama, niyama, āsana, prāṇāyāma, pratyāhāra, all these things. All concerning to this material, dealings with the material environment, yama means. To take out the self, to disconnect the self from the material bondage. But if we cannot have, we cannot establish any real connection with the spiritual, the material disconnection is not complete. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta.

[ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ
āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

We can climb up to the highest degree, the highest position of the negative side, the abscissa, we can climb up to, but if we do not have any visa then we'll have to come back anywhere in this plane. To establish connection with the agent of the visa area, that is what is most important. The agents, the sādhus, they're wandering here, and to connect with them and to secure a visa. And visa people will manage for us to secure a passport here _____ [?]

Devotee: Descending process.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, automatically. They will recommend. 'I want this gentleman to take our notation because this plane has got great respect for the other plane.' The māyā has got its fulfilment there. Whenever such news will come to the agents of the māyā that the other party is now wanting this man for their utility there, they will succumb to that, give to us, agree to that. Because the authority knows that I am only a negligent part of the highest place, so we must abide by the order of the higher authority who has come with the visa. Something like that.

This is Bhāgavata dharma, and this yoga, this varṇāśrama dharma, all the other things, by our trial and dealing with the material things we can go up to that end of this country. And then if we cannot secure any visa, any entrance there, then what to do? Wait for some time here, that will be our fate. That is more independent, more fine, more sweet, than every place that holds superior position. This is only a perverted reflection, having no existence of its own, can't stand on its own leg. It is a dependent state. So this māyā state is always in obligation with that original state. Anyhow to have connection with that state, that is most valuable thing.

harāv abhaktasya kuto mahad-guṇā, manorathenāsati dhāvato bahiḥ

["All the demigods and their exalted qualities, such as religion, knowledge and renunciation, become manifest in the body of one who has developed unalloyed devotion for the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Vāsudeva. On the other hand, a person devoid of devotional service and engaged in material activities has no good qualities. Even if he is adept at the practice of mystic yoga or the honest endeavour of maintaining his family and relatives, he must be driven by his own mental speculations and must engage in the service of the Lord's external energy. How can there be any good qualities in such a man?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.18.12]

Have you come in connection with this śloka? Yasyāsti bhaktir bhagavaty. If anywhere we can trace that faith in the Supreme Lord, in least. Sarvair guṇais tatra. Other demigods, representatives of any power of this world, they cannot but have their presence there. And harāv abhaktasya kuto, and if anyone has got no credit in the supreme authority, the favour of the demigods here can never be counted. Now it is, and now it will fly away. Do you follow?

So many qualities, main quality is faithfulness to the authority. And if that is there in anyone's heart, then other qualities with their masters cannot but be there, reluctantly or within _____ [?] Because the highest authority's representation is there. So they must attend the place. And if the ultimate authority is not represented, then all the partial representations, their presence has got no value. __ [?]

Para bhakti sukrtair maha-jana [?]

The other qualities and their quality holders _____ [?] they have got no value, no reliability there. The paramount power has got any favour there, all will come, flock there. And if the paramount power is absent then the favour of this minor power has got no value. Any moment they will fly away.

Yasyāsti bhaktir bhagavaty akiñcanā, sarvair guṇais tatra samāsate surāḥ. The gods who represent other qualities of this mundane world, they cannot but attend that place where the highest authority is there. Harāv abhaktasya kuto mahad-guṇā. And if one is seen in want of his devotion towards Hari, the paramount power, then this _____ [?] however great qualities there may be, we cannot depend on them. They will fly any moment. Manorathenāsati dhāvato bahiḥ. Because their concern is always _____ [?] they're always tending to that side, outside. That is their nature, out-carrying. They're agents of out-carrying current, deserter. The agents of māyā, they're hypocrites, they're deserters.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, our system is acceptance and rejection, accepting things favourable for Kṛṣṇa consciousness and rejecting those unfavourable things...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is included in devotion, not below.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: But if someone has some trouble concentrating his mind for chanting, or some problem, agitated by body or mind, yoga mitigates these, yes? But it should not be used?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That will not be valuable, that way, intoxication. By his intoxication for the time being he can have some help of apparent concentration. But that is physical, material.

Devotee: Like Viśvāmitra Muni. For some time he meditated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Meditation, this penance, they have got their respective results. But as climbing on the summit of that power, even one may be a demon, one may not be theistic.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: The reason many of Swāmī Mahārāja's disciples have gone away is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Even Śaṅkara, Mahādeva, he's considered to be the highest attainment of all this yoga, tapa, etc. But still he's not considered to be a śuddha bhakta. Jñāna miśra, yoga miśra, karma miśra, something like that.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahādeva is not śuddha bhakta?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ
[na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

Mahādeva says, "If you want to see, feel what is real devotion, devotion proper, pure devotion, go to Prahlāda." Mahādeva saying to Devarṣi Nārada. "Go to Prahlāda. You can find pure devotion there. We have got our personal concern. Sometimes we jump in opposition with the paramount power of Nārāyaṇa. So our position is not reliable. Go to Prahlāda, ananya bhakti, exclusive devotion, you can find there."

Prahlāda says, "Yes." He also denies, "That sometimes I want to fight with Kṛṣṇa, some demonic element is in me. And what I do that is also something like passive things, this meditation and others. But no active service in me. Go to Hanumān." In this way, going up.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, so the westerners I think what's missing is that they're trying to get a higher taste, some experience that's going to give them some reassurance that they are actually practising the proper path. The westerners are impatient for some higher taste.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Westerners are impatient to get something within their fist.

Devotee: Very quickly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Its nature is just the opposite. It is opposite. If you think you have got, then you are deceived. When you think 'I am nowhere,' you will find He's just on your side. So to increase the positive side, to catch Him, that is useless. I told many times, try to increase the negative side. Then you will have Him on your side. So jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3], when you will come to realise that all your acquisition is no qualification to attain Him. Only His grace, and grace comes to the humble. But they're puffed up with their own quality, capacity, grace does not descend there. As a master you will capture Him, He's a property and you are the possessor of the property, give that idea to the burial ground. That is no bhakti. Bhakti is helplessness, and the necessary feeling for the purpose of Him. I'm nothing, I'm nowhere. Your grace is everything, I have got no right. And the right which is asserted by the devotees, that is also of a negative character. I'm the most wretched, so I'm the highest candidate of Your grace. That is an appeal in the negative side.

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Your grace is given in accordance with the necessity of those who really deserve it. In that consideration, I have some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have some claim to Your grace."] [Gītamālā, Yāmuna-bhāvāvali, 19]

This way.

Badrinārāyaṇa: So anartha nivṛtti is always there Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anartha nivṛtti means the elimination of the external elements in us which gives us hope that I shall make me a king, those things, give up our dependence on those things. Those promising friends. God save me from my friends, or so called friends, that are giving hope that I shall make you a king, to disperse them all, wholesale, forever. I don't want your help, you go away.

Try to realise the negative characteristic of our real self. We're potency, not owner of the potency. We're potency itself, not owner of the potency, so always dependent on the owner. That will be our position, real position. The substance and the potency. Potency is dependent on the substance. And to think that we're substance, that is the wrong with us, the possessor of potency, no. We're infinitesimal part of His potency, and the potency also not of the first class; third class potency. An infinitesimal part of the third class potency of the substance, that is our real position. So when we're in our highest realisation, we're also to be adjusted in the third class potency section, to work there.

Svarūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ. The mañjarī class, the sakhī, prana sakhī, all these things here. The Nanda, Yaśodā, the sakhā, there is also different groups. And the new recruits will have a particular position in sākhya rasa. Always under the guidance of the main sakhā of any one, either in the retinue of Subala, or Śrīdāmā, or Mādhumaṅgala, and they are in sākhya rasa. Nanda, Yaśodā, the vātsalya rasa. Anyone in helping hand of Yaśodā or Nanda, in this way. There he will draw the maximum rasa. If misplaced, then he will have to fast, half fed, no capacity.

So 'ham. We must eliminate exhaustively from us the spirit of so 'ham, 'I want something big.'

We're one of many and where your real position is to be adjusted when you are free, from there only you can get your first highest benefit. He's misplaced, you're dead, you're nowhere, you're cast aside. Your body as proper food, this something is poison, something is too much rich, so your body will thrive only with the particular type of food. If you want to eat like elephant, you are gone, or like tiger. Your food will be limited to a particular position.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To America?

Badrinārāyaṇa: America.

Gopeśvara: No, this is a different Svetadwīpa prabhu. This brahmacārī he was actually from Bangladesa and he was working for the Nāma-hatta program in Māyāpur.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Under Jayapatāka Mahārāja.

Gopeśvara: Yes, under Jayapatāka Mahārāja. And one day he came with me to Navadwīpa. I needed a guide. I was doing some work for developing the Māyāpur program, I was speaking with the development board officer, and he took the opportunity, he just took me to meet you. I didn't know who you were but he introduced me, and at that time you spoke with me for over an hour. And since then, those things that you told me, I have been preaching to many people, everyone I met.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What peculiarity you find in my speech?

Gopeśvara: You are teaching that the following of purity is more important. Purity is more important than any show or any external opulence.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, quality, sincerity of the purpose. The quality within, that is more valuable than external energising. All right. So, you were married then? Afterwards married?

Gopeśvara: In nineteen eighty when I came here last time I was married.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Came with your wife?

Gopeśvara: No, then I didn't.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She's coming for the first time here?

Gopeśvara: Yes, to meet you, for the first time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In India she came?

Gopeśvara: Yes, she was staying in Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not Māyāpur?

Gopeśvara: Only for two weeks she stayed in Māyāpur.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Caitanya Candrodaya Maṭha? Which year?

Gopeśvara: Nineteen eighty. Was it eighty, or seventy nine?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhana's mother, Pishima was living at that time, no?

Gopeśvara: No, she wasn't. It was seventy nine, wasn't it? We went to England in January, nineteen eighty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She has entered ISKCON movement how long ago?

Gopeśvara: In [nineteen] seventy four.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seventy four. In England or in Germany?

Gopeśvara: Germany, yes. She was under Haṁsadūta in Germany since [nineteen] seventy four.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seventy four. Swāmī Mahārāja was there, living.

Gopeśvara: Yes. She's initiated by Śrīla Prabhupāda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Sarvabhavana, he comes from Germany. And his wife is also a German lady. Does she know her?

Gopeśvara: Yes. She knows.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And his child, what's his name?

Gopeśvara: Abhimanyu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And, so did she stay in Calcutta with her?

Gopeśvara: Well, we had our own room there in Calcutta, but they were friends.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Does she know that Bhakti Caru Mahārāja also?

Gopeśvara: Yes, she knows Bhakti Caru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First friend of Sarvabhavana.
Now did you write a letter to Akṣayānanda Mahārāja some months ago?

Gopeśvara: Yes sir, I wrote a letter to you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you like farming?

Gopeśvara: Yes sir. I like these things.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Akṣayānanda Mahārāja told that, "He's well known to me and he likes this farming. We have acquired a place for you _____ [?] in the south, boundary wall, less than three acres of land, a garden house." And Akṣayānanda Mahārāja says, "He loves this, but he does not like to take any responsibility, permanent responsibility, but he likes this farming work, service." Something like that.

Gopeśvara: I don't mind the permanent responsibility, but I'm mistrustful any more of who I'm working for. So I'm very careful before I enter into someone's service now. That is actually the predicament.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is all old topics. No news you have come with perhaps from Aranya Mahārāja.

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Did you meet that Goswāmī Mahārāja also, Dhīra Kṛṣṇa?

Gopeśvara: Yes, Sudhīra Mahārāja also came to visit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sudhīra Goswāmī Mahārāja, now he's known by that name. Did you meet him in London?

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, what's the result there? Any letter?

Gopeśvara: I don't have any letter because I had to leave quickly from London. So he wrote down some points for me to discuss with you and then to communicate back to him your answers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then how long we can expect you to stay here? If suitable, for long time. Otherwise withdraw soon.

Gopeśvara: If suitable I would very much like to stay. I have been trying to come sooner. After I wrote this letter to you in April.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Remember the letter?

Devotee: No Mahārāja.

Gopeśvara: Sudhīra Mahārāja read it to you.

Devotee: It's in the file.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And mentioned your name there?

Gopeśvara: Yes. So he told me that you appreciated it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Akṣayānanda Mahārāja was dealing all those letters. Now the points may be discussed tomorrow morning. What do you think?

Gopeśvara: Yes. As you like sir.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By tomorrow's mail you like to send the reply, is it? As soon as possible?

Gopeśvara: Yes. we have some tapes here also. We are making tape of your comment. And Sañjaya is going to London the twenty-fifth.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You met Sañjaya?

Gopeśvara: Yes, I met Sañjaya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Calcutta?

Gopeśvara: Yes, last night.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, then you came via Delhi?

Gopeśvara: No, we came Moscow, Calcutta. Yes, London, Moscow, Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then Calcutta _____ [?] or America. Why? He was compelled to leave?

Gopeśvara: No, he wasn't. Actually Aranya Mahārāja and I went to him and we spoke personally with him. And I asked him just to his face, please tell me what you are doing so I know and I can make my choice as to what to do. There are so many rumours about you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The trouble arose from his intoxicating habit?

Gopeśvara: Yes, but I didn't believe it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The whole party?

Gopeśvara: Not the whole party.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, he himself and other few?

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His closest intimates. They used to take intoxication, regular?

Gopeśvara: Yes. Well, Jayatīrtha told me and Aranya Mahārāja that he was taking regularly, and that some of his intimate disciples like Kedar and some others, they found out that he was using. So he said they forced him to tell us what you are doing, what are your experiments.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who forced?

Gopeśvara: Kedar. Kedar forced Tīrtha Mahārāja to tell him what he was doing and how he was doing it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, what did he play game?

Gopeśvara: And so then Tīrtha he said ok. And then he's explaining to his men, Kedar etc., how to take hashish and LSD for spiritual realisation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has got that sort of conviction?

Gopeśvara: Yes, exactly, conviction, he said.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That this can help him in his spiritual realisation?

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So he?s taking that, and there is no question of leaving that. It is his opinion?

Gopeśvara: Well, he's saying that intellectually he knows that it's not what Prabhupāda says, it's not in the śāstras, and it would displease you also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He cannot feel, he cannot realise that it is anti, cannot realise. But only through śāstra he knows that there is a saying like this and that is all empty words. That is his realisation. That that śāstric voice is only empty. All right. So determined not to give up intoxication he has gone to America side. Do you think like that?

Gopeśvara: Well, he spoke with us a little differently. He spoke that he would feel better if he was not taking these things, but still his conviction is such that he more or less uses it as his sādhana. And he would like to give it up. And he gave the explanation...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He lived here for so many days. He could make any question to me regarding that. He could have done so. Anyhow, I got a telegram from Aranya Mahārāja that Tīrtha Mahārāja is such and such. Then I replied both Jayatīrtha Mahārāja and Aranya Mahārāja. Aranya Mahārāja I wrote that deal slowly, carefully and affectionately. Tīrtha Mahārāja wired that, 'I'm already wiring him.' And I also sent a telegram to Tīrtha Mahārāja, please help us stopping intoxication if any. Situation emergent. But I did not get any reply from Aranya Mahārāja as yet. But Jayatīrtha Mahārāja gave a long telegram reply from America. There it is not very clear but he says that I'm not going to challenge the committee. And I can't come just now to you for want of money. These two important points there. No mention that on principle I cannot give up this intoxication. I don't like to go out of the committee. Is it not? Something like that.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Go against authority.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 'And also I can't go to you immediately for want of money. So many other things. I am a rogue, I am very mean, so and so, nasty, I am not fit for your company.' All those things. In the midst of those expressions, these two points. 'I can't go now for want of money to you immediately, otherwise I would have come and got a settlement direct from you. And another, I don't like to go out of the committee we have constructed.' Something like that.

Gopeśvara: He said that in nineteen eighty, I think when he took his wife back, then he said at that time...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is his wife Manjuali, is in ISKCON?

Gopeśvara: Yes, she's in ISKCON. They're bringing the girls back to ISKCON.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Girls?

Gopeśvara: The girls that were in India, Manjuali is encouraging them to come back to ISKCON.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And her son Vaiṣṇava Carana is also there with her, young boy?

Gopeśvara: Yes. He's in the Gurukula.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She gave a letter to me when Jayatīrtha Mahārāja was ousted from the London temple and Rāmeśvara and Bhagavān dāsa took charge there and ousted him, Manjuali wrote a letter to me.

She said, "Things are such, I want to know from you what should be." She told that, "When he left, had sannyāsa, he was almost forced to take sannyāsa. As gṛhastha he got deputation from Swāmī Mahārāja to do the work of Ācārya, as gṛhastha. But these people pressed him to take sannyāsa. And anyhow he agreed and took sannyāsa. But he could not keep it."

He told that one lady he accepted as his second wife for some time. For some time or so accepted wife, she wrote. But I was told by other members that anyhow, that lady was also the wife of Pradyumna or someone, he's in Canada. Anyhow through intimate service she became very intimate and the two boys they detected him. And when he came to understand that he's caught red handed, then he wanted to commit suicide.

But those boys anyhow prevented him committing suicide, and told that, "We won't give it out to any. You please don't commit."

Then, thinking about his weakness, the wife the boys he took to him, former married wife, took to him. And thinking that I am not fit for the post of an Ācārya, and the managerial, he went on pilgrimage. And when he came to Purī, Jagannātha, on pilgrimage with his wife and child.

Then Jayapatāka Mahārāja came to me. "Such is the things are happening in this way. So please try to help us." I told that ... before this Jayapatāka Mahārāja once again came to tell something against Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. "That he's showing much sentimentalism, and saying that this is all transcendental sentiments." He asked me, "Is it so?"

Never. This cannot be transcendental sentiment. What is the proof? I showed him, that these are the scriptural quotes, and the facts, that we can never accept it as transcendental sentiment.

Then when he left and took his wife and child and came here, Jayapatāka again came. "He has come here, and if you can make him understand the position, the credit of ISKCON is going down. He was one of the principle Ācāryas, his important place in London, he's a good organiser, all these things. If he goes down in this way then it will be a great loss to ISKCON." In this way.

I told that I can't say anything to you, hearing one side. But I want to hear from his side also. So we may take him here, and I shall hear both sides, and then I shall think what to do. Then they managed to take him, only first Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. But after first hearing I asked, I want to see your wife also. Then wife was also taken here. All the sides I heard. Then I asked Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, when once you have accepted sannyāsa āśrama you should not go back to be gṛhastha. Only accidental fall, that is not everything. You must have courage. Your Guru Mahārāja appointed you as a general to fight against māyā. And you must not leave your position.

Naturally Manjuali and the boy also began to cry when he accepted my proposal. I also encouraged them. You are already disciple of Swāmī Mahārāja before your marriage, I heard. So you also encourage him, he's a general, fighting as a general with māyā, with so many soldiers. And if he comes back you must encourage him. Viṣṇupriyā Devī she left Mahāprabhu for the good of the public. You must remember her ideal. And for Kṛṣṇa you must come ahead to do anything and everything, all sorts of sacrifice for Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is not a dead matter. He will look after you. Your greatest sacrifice for Kṛṣṇa. Anyhow they were both encouraged.

And ready to take sannyāsa. Bhakti Caru Mahārāja was also there. Then I sent them, send a letter to your former sannyāsa Guru Kīrtanānanda, that please permit me I am going again to take, retake, for the time being. And I advised to go to Katwa, the place where Mahāprabhu took His sannyāsa, Śrī Caitanyadeva. Go to that place and there you again take that sannyāsa dress. That will give you strength. So Bhakti Caru and Govinda Mahārāja and others were sent and he took sannyāsa. And he went this way, they went that way.

And afterwards he told, "Yes, I have got the strength. As if I have got from Swāmī Mahārāja I have got sannyāsa." Before going to Katwa, they asked me to touch the kaupīna and the daṇḍa and I did it. "I have got strength from all these things, now I'm strong." He was working very well.

Now the trouble arose, in the last Gaura Pūrṇimā. When the ISKCON committee they saw whatever their resolution, and their behaviour, many men are going away. And from long time like this Hiranyagarbha and so many other gentlemen, many came to me, "The committee is not working in the right path. They are working whimsically."

And the committee itself came to me that they are going to punish these three Ācārya, Jayatīrtha and Haṁsadūta and Tamāla Kṛṣṇa, for some reasons or other. I stopped them. What do you say? They got direct recognition from Swāmī Mahārāja. If you do so, what will be the reaction within their disciples? My Guru is vulnerable. These three Guru Ācārya have no real position in the transcendental world. Then they will say your position is also vulnerable. Anyone, no position. ISKCON will lose its hold there. Don't do so. But if they have done some wrong, amicable settlement within you. Don't go to eject or punish them openly, publicly. Never do this.

Anyhow they accepted my direction. But many people are always coming to me, "Oh, they're doing this, they're doing that, many things objectionable. We can't tolerate this."

I first told them, wait and see, perhaps more than a year, wait and see. And I put some letters also to Tamāla Kṛṣṇa and others that, eighteen points of complaint against you. Please consider and do the needful. Otherwise these important persons leave its painful. In this way. They ignored. Then I told the party that are ignored, disappointed, that you meet amongst each other and form an organisation and have some resolution and put it to them, to the committee. That we the aggrieved party are of such an opinion, if you do not consider our case then we shall have to go against your decision. Do something like that. Then they did something like that, but they did not care.

Over again they were more tight, that none could come to me. "Don't go to Śrīdhara Mahārāja." First they told that, "Śrīdhara Mahārāja is an old man. Don't go to disturb him." Next they told, "No, don't go there. You all confine yourself in the writings and advices of our Guru Mahārāja only, and not outside that."

But still any one coming to me and asking questions and they're recording on tapes. And Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja he collected so many important tapes from the beginning. He was president in a temple where all the tapes from the time of Swāmī Mahārāja, they are reserved there. And he got copy of all those and he began to preach my tapes. And they told that it is deeper and more sweet. In this way.

Then the committee they were in a difficult position and they passed a resolution, "No one should have any connection with Śrīdhara Mahārāja, if they want to be within the range of ISKCON." But then Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja or Haṁsadūta Mahārāja they were silenced, but anyhow the resolution was passed.

And Jayatīrtha Mahārāja told boldly, "I have got much faith in Śrīdhara Mahārāja and I can't give up his tape reading." Jayatīrtha Maharaja he introduced against a temple along with reading about Swāmī Mahārāja's books, my tapes also, and of my Guru Mahārāja's books.

But they prohibited, "No. No, only Swāmī Mahārāja's books should be discussed and read, and no other. No other words of Gauḍīya Maṭha, including Śrīdhara Mahārāja."

But Jayatīrtha Mahārāja said, "No. All right, I shall do it for myself. Saraswatī Ṭhākura's Brahmā-saṁhitā and all these things, and Śrīdhara Mahārāja's tapes I shall use for myself, and not for the disciples."

But, "No, you won't be able to use it for yourself also."

Then he revolted. "No. Then I want to cut off my connection with you. I can't cut off my connection with Śrīdhara Mahārāja."

That was the ... and they wanted then, "You leave your centre there."

Then in the television he gave a piece there. "Yes. I do not abide by the resolution of the ISKCON committee, and the temple is under ISKCON so I give it up, my post as the president of that London temple." He gave a lecture.

And at that time they took that incident that, "You lost your character, you had a fall."

He admitted that, "Yes. I had such unhappy accident in my life of that type." That also he propagated.

And on the basis of that declaration that Rāmeśvara Mahārāja and Bhagavān dāsa, they went straight there and took possession of that temple.

Then to some outside members amongst his disciples he sent another telegram. "That such is the case, I have left the temple, but those that are still faithful to me, my guidance, they may come out."

So many came out, more than hundred ladies and gents, some came out there and more than hundred came here. And anyhow he had some trouble, took them, and that house here, and all these things.

Then after long time, I'm not accustomed to go on with so much trouble. He removed some of them to Nepal. And then from there to Bangalore and Delhi, in this way, gradually. And there perhaps the money became short, and he was not caring so much, a fatalist.

Then I told him, the others came out and they're trying to form another centre there. I requested him to go straight to London and to help them, those that are establishing a new centre. And also help those that are here and take them in. He went.

And I got letter, in the name of Kedar, that when they reached there they're very much encouraged. And Jayatīrtha Mahārāja is all right, going on well. And they're sending tickets to those that are here. Gradually they will join.

In the meantime I got a letter from Aranya Mahārāja, and telegram especially. "My previous letter cancelled. What I say in the telegram this is up to date, truth."

Then I gave two telegrams too, to both sides. And Jayatīrtha's reply I got, he wrote from America. And I was just going to wire to Aranya Mahārāja, what is the meaning, that you have come.

In the meantime we got some report from Akṣayānanda Mahārāja from Delhi, "Some have come and they are hearing that there is trouble about that intoxication, and perhaps many of the members are dispersed. The new temple that is dispersed, and Jayatīrtha Mahārāja went to America with very few of his intimate followers, something like that.

And very strongly our Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja as well as Arunya Mahārāja opposed Jayatīrtha Mahārāja and asked his disciples not to follow that way of intoxication. Such is the position.

Gopeśvara: It was done in a very gentlemanly way though. Aranya Mahārāja and I approached Jayatīrtha for clarification of these things. So he told us directly that he was using these intoxications. And he said that ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Experimenting. But, did he not try that it is my centre, the temple of my disciples, so if you do not like it you may preach it outside. Don't come to disturb here my disciples. Did he not say like that, Jayatīrtha Mahārāja and Kedar, his partner?

Gopeśvara: Well. he simply said that he didn't want all of these disciples anyway. He'd been trying to get rid of them twice in nineteen eighty when he came here with Mother Manjuali. That time he wanted to give up all disciples. And then again when he came here to you after Māyāpur festival, again he wanted to give up all disciples. He says but these disciples keep coming to him and so he doesn't have time to be with himself in order to solve his problem. This is what he explained to us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's a man of renunciation spirit. Jayapatāka Mahārāja visited him here three, four days continuously tried to convert him. But he did not budge an inch. Jayapatāka Mahārāja went on frustrated, disappointed.

He says, "I do not want anything. I'm a man of my own principles. What I understand I shall do that."

That is his nature. It's true that he told in the beginning that, "I don't want any disciples. You may take them." He asked me, "You take all these things."

I said no, no, I am not going to capture anyone's disciples. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Now again the same show repeated, "I don't want anything but I'm going on with my experiment."

A very cheap way to Goloka, cheap way by the help of intoxication we can go to Goloka. His foolish idea. After discussing, and understanding, and reading, and chanting, through the śāstra and mahā-jana vākya, still I wonder that he's of such opinion, wonderful.

But it is not a very serious thing that anyone has some little bad previous habit. But the danger is there that he wants to experiment, he wants to have confidence that this sort of intoxication can help devotional path, the danger lies there. But accidental bad habit has got no very great value. It may go. I know that this is bad, but I can't give it up so soon. Take some time and then I shall take it. But to think that this can help devotion, this intoxication through drugs, it is a dangerous thing. But he did not ask it to me when he was here.

Gopeśvara: We asked him why you didn't ask Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva, why you didn't explain to him the situation. Because he was using regularly before he met you even. And he simply said that he didn't have the courage to ask you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He told, he admitted?

Gopeśvara: Yes, he admitted to Aranya Mahārāja and myself, he didn't have the courage to tell you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He is a plain speaker, at least. He does not hide anything. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So he says that he could not come to me for want of money. Otherwise he could try to discuss it with me, and if possible clear it up.

Gopeśvara: I don't think so, sir. If I may say, I don't believe that ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You think that he's determined to experiment, to go on experimenting?

Gopeśvara: Well, I think he's trying to get more time at least to decide what he really wants to do. He's not decided yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If he's got such faith that it is unnecessary, it is harmful, but due to my weakness I can't leave it immediately. I may have some time to shake it off. That is something. But on principle to accept it, that I am making experiment with the drugs, that whether they can help to take us to Vaikuṇṭha or not, that is the most foolish thing, anti devotional conception. What do you say Badrinārāyaṇa prabhu?

Badrinārāyaṇa: In our sampradāya no one has ever done it before.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now that temple is there and very few are there. And Aranya Mahārāja in charge of that temple. So at least it is kept under the vigilance of this party. And Jayatīrtha Mahārāja has gone with about how many, a dozen?

Gopeśvara: He has taken only a few with him, two or three Kedar, Kedar's wife, there is also very much rumour he's having relation with Kedar's wife.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Gopeśvara: Jayatīrtha. There's very much talk about that also in the temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja for some service. But Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja did not like her, for her smoking or the filthy habits. So he asked Kedar to take her away. And Kedar went there and took her away. So he's disgusted with Kedar and his wife already, that Sudhīra Goswāmī Mahārāja. And Sudhīra Mahārāja immediately came and _____ [?] them Aranya Mahārāja and then boldly both of them they approached Jayatīrtha Mahārāja for direct proposal.

Gopeśvara: No. Sudhīra did not approach Jayatīrtha. Aranya Mahārāja and I approached Jayatīrtha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Sudhīra Mahārāja was there?

Gopeśvara: No, he came afterwards.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, he came afterwards. After coming, what was his opinion? Jayatīrtha Mahārāja there, or he already left for America, when Sudhīra Mahārāja came?

Gopeśvara: He had gone into hiding. Jayatīrtha, he asked Aranya Mahārāja and I what should I do? He didn't know what to do any more.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He got my telegram.

Gopeśvara: Because his disciples were going back and forth taking everything out of the temple and going back to Jayatīrtha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The householders they're coming and keeping connection with Jayatīrtha Mahārāja?

Gopeśvara: Not only householders but Navanita Cora and Dāsa Avatāra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The other day we received a letter from Navanita Cora, that Irishman?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, about three days ago.

Gopeśvara: He was...

Start of 82.08.20.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No butter is there. Butter affairs all in Vṛndāvana. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Gopeśvara: So he also went to America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Jayatīrtha Mahārāja was staying in a different house.

Gopeśvara: Yeah, so, er?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Deplorable.

Gopeśvara: Yes. So Sudhīra Mahārāja never got to speak with Jayatīrtha, because after Aranya Mahārāja and I spoke with him...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But now, where Jayatīrtha Mahārāja is at America, that is in hiding or publicly he's staying somewhere?

Gopeśvara: He's staying with some devotees who have bad reputation. They're no longer full time ISKCON devotees, but they are doing business also with drugs and things.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're this side, not that side?

Gopeśvara: Yes, that's right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Such householders, devotees of Swāmī Mahārāja?

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are they, any name?

Gopeśvara: Yes, Bhakta dāsa, Madhuvisa Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know them?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhuvisa, Mahārāja, sannyāsī?

Gopeśvara: Yes, at one time sannyāsī. But long time ago, about seven years he left sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Another gentleman he was president of ISKCON, he has left sannyāsa and went away. What was his name?

Gopeśvara: Yes. Ādi Keśava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know about Acyutānanda, anything you know?

Gopeśvara: I'm asking but I haven't heard from him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know Pradyumna?

Gopeśvara: Pradyumna has gone to California. He was in London, England, but he left to California for some teaching.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He left ISKCON and the four principles and has gone to the extreme?

Gopeśvara: That I don't know actually.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And his wife, that Arundati and son Anhiruddha, they are under care of ISKCON _____ [?

Gopeśvara: Are they?

Badrinārāyaṇa: That's what we heard.

Gopeśvara: There is some good news.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Gopeśvara: Aranya Mahārāja says that he will distribute all of the books, your book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Ambrosia.

Gopeśvara: Yes. He can distribute all of them and collect all the money necessary. He promises he can do that. He has ten men he can...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm anxious for the loan. Purī Mahārāja incurred 80,000 loan for the publication of that book. So that loan may be cleared. I like to see that. I have some sort of anxiety from that loan.

Gopeśvara: He will free you from that anxiety. He said he will take care of that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And _____ [?] may be utilised for that purpose?

Gopeśvara: Perhaps. I don't know specifically about her.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She may do that. She's an expert in distributing books, I was told. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Here when they came, that Karnani, Gurupada, he was a strict follower of Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. Another African gentleman, from South Africa.

Gopeśvara: Yes, Tīrtha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was also delivering lectures here in favour of Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, in the garden, do you know?

Gopeśvara: Yes, Tīrthapāda dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And South African gentleman?

Gopeśvara: That's Dāsa Avatāra, he's South African, isn't he?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Dāsa Avatāra, he's not. He married a lady here. Dāsa Avatāra.

Gopeśvara: No. Different Dāsa Avatāra.

Badrinārāyaṇa: But he was here also at the same time.

Gopeśvara: Did he marry some lady here?

Badrinārāyaṇa: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dāsa Avatāra, perhaps he's a disciple of Swāmī Mahārāja, who married a lady?

Badrinārāyaṇa: No. He's Tīrtha Mahārāja's disciple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dāsa Avatāra?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. There's another Dāsa Avatāra that's Swāmī Mahārāja's disciple. But this Dāsa Avatāra he had some connection...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who married the lady, who came to live in the Maṭha and I refused entrance, that Dāsa Avatāra. You don't know?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes Mahārāja, I know, but he didn't marry, he just had some connection with the lady, but he did not marry.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no, he married. He took the lady to Akṣayānanda Mahārāja in the garden house, wanted to stay here in the blue house. I refused to accommodate him. Both of them came to live here for some time, I refused. No. Come so far for search of Kṛṣṇa and now he was in the temperament of searching a lady's company. I don't like to accommodate such persons here. Far off you have come in search of Kṛṣṇa and that vanishes and you gain again.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Now I'm tired. Again we may meet tomorrow morning.

End of 82.08.20.B

Start of 82.08.22.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow I found in paper _____ [?] "When I drink, I'm two hundred per cent fit _____ [?]

For the fitness of the body, to keep the body fit we can take help of the matter. Otherwise physical, not only this spiritual standard of our own soul, but higher spiritual help, only His mercy can help us. He can come to us. We can't go to Him. Now what to do, to draw His attention to come down, to grace us? What path should we choose?

He's independent. I'm here to invite His sweet will. Not even our knowledge, the high knowledge also cannot touch His existence. Whether He is or He's not, knowledge cannot say that. No knowledge of human beings can reach to that standard where it can find that God is living. That He is, that can be known only by His attempt, to make Himself be known to us. That is śrauta. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

This principle must be understood. This is the main principle to be understood by the devotees. A student of this school must have some idea of this fact, that He can come, we can't go. He can come and He can take us there, but we cannot go there independently. Such play, we're gross consciousness, and that is the highest and finest conscious area. Even where He lives, that area is finer consciousness than the stuff we're made of.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

Where the God lives that soil is more, higher consciousness than we. We are taṭasthā consciousness, unit of marginal consciousness, consciousness of a lower degree, we are made of. We are created from a plane of consciousness that is of lower degree. And in the higher degree of consciousness He lives with His paraphernalia. They can come to us but we cannot go there. So how it is possible to go there? Only by their grace, no other alternative. Nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena. Extensive study of different scriptures, or sharp memory, all falls to take us there, they're useless. Yam evaiṣa vṛṇute. Whomever He will select to take, to make Himself known, he may know. There are so many. He may make Himself known to one, the others may not know.

When Kṛṣṇa was in Kuru sabhā, Duryodhana, Karṇa, Duḥśāsana, came to capture Him. But He showed Himself in such a posing that Devaṛṣi Nārada, Bhīṣma, and others that were there began to praise about His nobility, so much.

Dhṛtarāṣṭra he was blind. He heard those hymns and songs praising about Kṛṣṇa. And his appeal to Kṛṣṇa, "What I hear, I have no eyes, what I hear from the praise sung, praising songs, that You are showing a very noble figure. Please grant me sight for a few seconds and allow me to see Your great and beautiful figure. Then again You may make me blind. Only for the time being please remove my blindness that I can get the chance to have a view of Your magnanimous presence."

Kṛṣṇa told, "No necessity of curing your blindness. I say you see."

And he saw. In spite of his blindness Dhṛtarāṣṭra saw Kṛṣṇa. So eye was not necessary to have a sight of Kṛṣṇa's figure. It is such. His will, the only cause, He wants to make Himself known. Then one can know. For whose favour He opens the door of his sight, he can know. It is coming from that side, consent is coming.

"Know Me Arjuna, Divyarūpa."

"I want to see that Divyarūpa, the Viśvarūpa."

"Yes Arjuna, you see."

Arjuna began to see. Only His will. Yam evaiṣa vṛṇute tena labhyas. Whomever He accepts, admits, gives pass.

"Yes, you may see. Visa, I give you visa to enter My domain. You can enter, none else."

So nothing material can help. Only His agents that is also empowered by Him. They come to say something about Him, to help in some way. To get the eye, oṁ ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjana-[śalākayā / cakṣur unmilitaṁ yena, tasmai śrī-gurave namaḥ]

["I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances."]

The Gurudeva is sufficient to give the eye, the eye of this nature, that He can never be seen by dint of any power raised from this material plane, gross or subtle. The eye that He can only make Himself known by His own grace. That sort of eye, that sort of knowledge, that sort of idea.

Wholly at His disposal. Everything is for Him. And, not a particle to satisfy our individual purpose. Reality is for Itself. Everything in His hand. All right reserved there. And with His consent His devotees they can enjoy some sort of that life, by His sweet will, by His order, they know something like. It is of such independent nature.

Especially Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is more subtle, more rare, and more non-understandable. We are to connect, anyhow, we cannot connect with Him. Some sukṛti has accumulated in us, and that is trying to make us search for that highest thing. It has also come from Him. This ajñāta sukṛti, jñāta sukṛti, then when accumulated to a certain extent it produces some śraddhā. The quality, a tendency of enquiry of that impossible existence, we want to have, running after phantasmagoria.

It is not easy thing. The highest idea. It is our fortune that we have not allowed ourselves to be satisfied with so many stale things, stale products of this nature. We want something else, something higher, charm, all charm. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. We must try to understand the real purport of this life, from the śruti, avaroha-panthā. If He cares to make Himself known, He can do that. He may dash your head against the head of any adventurous thing you may do. You may do or not, but it's no qualification for understanding Him. All right reserved. He's for Himself. He's by Himself and for Himself. He does not care for anything else. Such is the Absolute. It's almost hopeless to get any trace about Him.

Mahāprabhu says, Mahāprabhu is showing Himself as conscious of such a plane.

"That Sanātana it is impossible that they may come down in this human section. Niracana haya [?] Humanity, human section, cannot have any fortune to trace that substance here, in their society. Human society cannot expect to have any conception of that thing. Niracana haya [?] If accidentally, any contact, any connection with any man here, anyone of the society, _____ [?] once connected, never separated. And if he's separated he cannot stand, cannot keep his existence here, maintain himself. His life is drawn by that charm. He cannot exist in this body, in this world. That is so charming, so powerful, so attractive. Once any connection, and if separation he can't exist, maintain his existence barely, he's gone, life is drawn. _____ [?] Cannot live, cannot stand if once connected and then disconnected, he cannot live any longer here in this plane. It is of such nature."

Mahāprabhu says, "I have not got a speck of that, one very minute single drop of that. I'm searching. Only I'm raised to such a position that I can face that such a thing is there, in the upper stage. But till now I have not touched it. So far, so unapproachable. But still it is, and it is the highest thing. And everyone should live only for that, whether he gets or does not get, such a charming thing, such a sweet thing. Existence is possible only for Him. Otherwise existence is a dead thing. Consciousness, if there is any point of consciousness it should exist only in the hope of that conception. Otherwise it is useless to me. No meaning of any life is such a great thing, that far away we can get the scent of such a great thing. It is worth living. In any day I may come to such a thing. If not now I shall go on dragging my life, that one day I may come, such prospect.

To keep up the body fit.

yuktāhāra-vihārasya, yukta-ceṣṭasya [karmasu / yukta-svapnāvabodhasya, yogo bhavati duḥkha-hā]

["For a person who eats, relaxes, and exerts himself in all duties in a regulated way, and who keeps regular hours in proper measure, the practice of yoga gradually becomes the source of dispelling all worldly suffering."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.17]

Only to keep up the standard, we can manage material things. _____ [?] So wait for that, try hard to get the connection of that higher soul. And if anyhow, anywhere it has descended in the heart of a devotee, through there we are to connect.

sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya [yadi kṛṣṇonmukha haya / sei jīva nistare, māyā tāhāre chāḍaya]

["If the conditioned soul becomes Kṛṣṇa conscious by the mercy of saintly persons who voluntarily preach scriptural injunctions and help him to become Kṛṣṇa conscious, the conditioned soul is liberated from the clutches of māyā, who gives him up."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.120]

To give Himself, distribute himself, He has managed to give about His description in the scripture, as well as in the heart of a saint, śuddha bhakti devotees.

_____ [?] Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, through the instrument of the money, or by the disciples, his followers...

...

...devotion proper. But I can utilise my money at my command, energy, and men and money I can utilise in favour of acquiring devotion. But Jīva Goswāmī says that is not the proper side, śuddha bhakti route, that is not pure devotion. You cannot utilise yourself in the service, but you manage to serve through money and through men. But that is not considered as pure service. To help something, to bring some sukṛti to you. So money and men may be utilised to get some sukṛti, and not devotion proper, as far as yourself is concerned. Your position is where, and you try to utilise to get it through some other medium, sitting tight as you are in your position. Negligence.

Ambarīṣa Mahārāja, he left his royal duties, entrusted them to the brāhmaṇa ministers, and he himself used to brush the temple and do other things by his own hand.

And Mahārāja Pratāparudra he was the Emperor of Orissa at that time, time of Mahāprabhu. When he came to brush the ways of the chariot of Jagannātha, then Mahāprabhu Himself came to embrace him.

So no dignity or position of this worldly qualification. But dainyam, humility, helplessness. The real consideration of our own helpless position. That is the qualification. I'm nowhere. I have no support. Why do I stand? I'm in the infinite sky. No support. Where I am I do not know in this infinite sky, no shelter, no support, no prospect, no home. An earnest search for some shelter. Dainyam, ātma-nivedana. Where should I get bhāgyam and make myself safe? All empty. No charm. All things have no charm, dismissed, ending nowhere, no shelter. And earnest seeking for some support, real support, āśraya. And then only a soul can find the subtle support, subtle shelter. _____ [?] One who has got none, _____ [?]

_____ [?] but when he proves some condition real, he's come _____ [?] Spontaneous, sweet will. But when we demand anything, put any demand, not artificial thing that can be produced. It is not of that matter, but may come out of himself.

Once, one gentleman named Hari Kiśora, our Godbrother, went to our Guru Mahārāja, "Prabhupāda, please say some Hari kathā to me. I put this question that I want to hear some kathā from you."

Prabhupāda told, "You can clear your ears, then you come." That was the answer.

_____ [?]

Devotee: Did he come back?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It cannot be forced to come. It is such, automatic.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, "Sudden flash I find, Gaura-Gadādhara, but when I go to see it with a particular attempt, attention, vanishes, at once."

It is of such nature. No exposure to any other, so sweet will, degree of sweet will. Do not care for any other influence from outside, can't tolerate. Very subtle, very susceptible, sentimental, cannot tolerate any external influence or demand. Does not care for anything. Absolute sweet will. The Absolute means such. Without depending, without caring for anything. Self sufficient. _____ purna [?] He's full, He's fulfilled by His own existence. He does not care. That is His nature. And we're out for wild goose chasing. Whether I shall get it or not, no guarantee. Still we should not, we can't, we should not attempt for any other thing. But we get Him or not, but I shall continue with my quest only after Him. That should be the attitude.

nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena]

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the Cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."]

"You may show Your grace or You may be as cruel as to finish with my existence. Viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ. You may give me any kind of punishment, or dayā, You may give Your grace to me. But I have no other alternative but to search Your grace. Nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas. _____ [?]"

There is a kind or bird whose name is cātaka. Its nature is such that won't drink a drop of water from anywhere connected with the earth. Only when rain falling it drinks that rainwater, and never any stagnant water, deposited water, anywhere. That is its intrinsic nature. Cātaka is always with his beak, mouth high, upward. Always, "A drop of water, a drop of water." Rain also can come profusely to quench his thirst or thunder may come and finish him. But still he has no other alternative but showing his mouth upward - "Water, water."

So Rūpa Goswāmī says our position is like that. Not any water, not any rasam, any ecstasy which is already thrown about in this material world we find, either gross or subtle. That won't suite us, we won't want that, even a single drop, but only rain water. A drop of grace coming from up, from heaven, awaiting for that. So many water profusely thrown around, but only a drop of water coming from the heaven. The water also may come, or instead a thunder may come and finish. Still that bird won't _____ [?]

So our ananya bhakti and the higher type of search after Kṛṣṇa should be of such nature. Just as Mahāprabhu in His last śloka of eight,

yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ]

["Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

"Whatever You like You may do with Me. At Your pleasure You may kill Me, You may throw Me elsewhere, You may deal with Me in any way You like. It is Your right, You can do. But I have got no other alternative but to cast Myself, to throw Myself at the feet dust of You, My Lord. No other alternative. Whatever corresponding treatment I get from You, it does not matter. Still a burst from heaven. But still My search will be only for You, nothing else."

This is ananya bhakti. We are concerned with that. We are to preach that. We are to try to accept that, to get that for ourselves, only that type of devotion, serving attitude. Gaura Hari bol. That is our concern. Whatever we do, for the _____ [?] that _____ [?] The compass shows the north direction. It may waver in this way but it is fixed towards the north pole. Is it not, the compass? So our hankering, the compass of our hankering must be always to that direct. All eliminating, and similarly accepting attitude. Don't want anything, not this, not that. All elimination. And that one of such quality. Whether I get it or not, that sort of _____ [?] an infinite type. Still I won't like to fill up my heart with rubbish.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, you asked me to write, or to go deep within my heart, to find what things brought me to Swāmī Mahārāja. So when I did that introspect kind of thing, one thing I came to understand was actually I'm including one drug experience. That is one experience with the same type of drug that Tīrtha Mahārāja is experimenting with. That definitely was part of the experience that brought me to the lotus feet of Swāmī Mahārāja. I have to include that in my analysis of how I came. And I think other devotees also can say the same thing, that they actually had some experience with this type of drug, that actually woke up something inside of them to go to pursue spiritual life, rather than material life.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, Mahārāja, that previously you had asked him to look within himself and find out why he came to Prabhupāda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. You must be true to your inner voice.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inner guide.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he says, he wants to say that, "My habit of intoxication...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, has shed some light on that area.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...anyhow, that took me there.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Not habit, one experience I had with the same type of substance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suppose Nityānanda Prabhu has gone to visit a wine merchant, to take him up. And you are a drunkard, you have gone to drink some wine there, and met Nityānanda Prabhu. And what will be the cause, the wine will be the cause of your coming to Nityānanda Prabhu?

Badrinārāyaṇa: So there's some sukṛti in taking this drug?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ajñāta sukṛti has connected you only.

Just as the case of Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura. He came to the prostitute, and through prostitute a voice came to him, "You are so much energetic and attentive for flesh and blood, for the prostitute. If a part of that you could use for the service of Kṛṣṇa then you'll be lifted so high." Then, should we think that the visit of the prostitute's house of Bilvamaṅgala is the cause of his future bright life? Eh? What do you think?

Badrinārāyaṇa: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Your sukṛti was such that even coming in connection with that you were lifted. Previous sukṛti, that helped you to catch, and not the intoxicating mood.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We're to dive deep. And the śāstra, the ṛṣis, they have traced our coming in connection with such higher divinity in that way. Ajñāta sukṛti, jñāta sukṛti, then comes to sādhu. Not a chance coincidence visit. I have gone to visit to join a public meeting. 'Oh, there is some meeting, or a religious meeting, I went there attracted by the charm of the meeting. And there I found, fortunately, a particular sādhu who attracted me. So many, I have some hobby to attend meetings, especially religious meetings, but I go and dismiss. But suddenly, one religious man caught my heart. And if he's the supreme-most then my inner heart could respond only because that sort of arrangement was there in my heart."
_____ [?] Birds of the same feather flock together. The deep portion of my heart could recognise I want this thing, and not the external, accidental, connecting links. That cannot be.

So visiting that particular prostitute, that was not the cause of Bilvamaṅgala's arrangement. That time came, waiting, and a little, or not little, a voice came from the opposite section. Excited him, the fire, that was living, the time has come. So it should be traced in that way.

Once, I accused some of my Godbrothers, he was of little sahajiyā type, then I told, Mādhava Mahārāja was with me, "That you are of the sahajiyā type."

Then he answered, my Godbrother, and junior, he answered, "That with this sahajiyāism I have come to your Mission." The sahajiyā type.

I told, not your sahajiyāism but some deeper thing that is against sahajiyāism, that has taken you here and not your sahajiyā feeling. So bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

Bhakti is its own cause. None can produce bhakti. Ahaitukī, bhakti is ahaitukī, causeless, because bhakti only causes bhakti, and no other non bhakti can produce bhakti. Bhakti is independent, it is the most fundamental thing. Nothing can produce bhakti. Service, serving attitude, it is the most fundamental nature. Only phenomenal, external things can never produce that most fundamental, fine thing. Bhakti is ahaitukī. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. Just as one candle is lit by another candle. So the candle in the heart of a sādhu, and you can light from that candle. That light from light, fire from fire, and not any mundane thing can produce fire. Something like that. Ahaitukī, it is the most original plane going, and the external, the gross layers cannot produce that fundamental. That is the mother plane, bhakti, nirguṇa. And these are all saguṇa, means diseased condition. And that is the only healthy condition, of the underground, below, of the whole apparent world. That wave, that is bhakti, that is independent in itself, or herself, bhakti. And never created by the product of any other thing. It is self existent, and also _____ [?] free, not to change its opinion by any pressure. It is always independent. Of its own accord it can go and come, to move, everything. It is the nature of the Supreme Lord, devotion, bhakti, prema, love. Love divine, the highest principle ever discovered, love divine. Even mercy becomes pale when it comes to love. The justice, mercy, justice becomes pale when approaching devotion. No room for justice even. It is so full. No complaint...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The question of justice cannot appear there. It is so full, and so sweet, and so all comprehensive. Jñāna. Knowledge is unnecessary. What do you say? Knowledge, the justice, the basis of justice, knowledge, that is unnecessary there. Spontaneous movement for the flow of love, it is for love. Such life is desirable. A spontaneous, unconscious way of life, best form of life in Vṛndāvana, no harm. What harm is shown there, all like show, it is all show. The Pūtanā, the Agha asura, all these things, only to support the līlā that's going on.

Just as serpent goes by crooked way, serpent does not go straight but in a curved way. So the spontaneous flow of devotion should be considered like that. So māna, māna, abhimāna. Kṛṣṇa is doing wrong to Rādhārāṇī. Rādhārāṇī's doing. Kṛṣṇa is doing wrong by thieving to Yaśodā. Yaśodā is going with the whip to punish Him. All these, no defect, not anything wrong. In fact by that natural flow like the crooked movement of the serpent it is such, and enhancing. It will enhance the flow of the love, it is necessary, so it is such. Just as in a drama playing. None is killed in a drama, hero, heroine, the sweeper, the killed, the killer, all may enjoy, but without killing and without being killed.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. One last time. I want to express the peculiar nature of the substance that we're dealing with. This LSD produces a very um? Actually the experience that some have received from taking this substance is, they think, they experience the sat feature, eternality, the Brahman feature of the Absolute. A very vivid experience. It appears that that experience is brought on by this chemical.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says that, "When one takes this chemical he may experience Brahman, brahmajyoti. He may have some experience of the brahmajyoti."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There are so many, a class of sādhu, they show brahmajyoti by pressing the eyes.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Giving pressure on the eye, "Are you seeing something light?" "Yes." "I say you'll be able to see that." In this way ____ [?] Ha, ha, a very cheap brahmajyoti, ha, ha. ____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Perhaps I did not explain it very properly. Listen. Guru Mahārāja, not the light of the brahmajyoti but the eternality of not only of the material energy also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only God can give God, and none else. You can't have comprehension of this?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No, I, as far as...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He can give Him.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He can give Him. No other agent in the whole world can give Him. Sādhu, because they're empowered, delegated by Him. If He delegates that intoxication all ego will be bhakti. Then what you can do?

Badrinārāyaṇa: See, Mahārāja, many...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as prasādam, that is inner, rather than material in our sight. But anyhow you may take prasādam, real prasādam, Vaiṣṇava ucchiṣṭha, something I take, that can give devotion to me. That has some connection, and ostentatiously it is a material thing, but it has the power _____ [?]

Mahāprabhu taking the prasādam of Jagannātha to Sārvabhauma. Sārvabhauma anyhow in the morning he woke with some mantram. And then watching his faith Mahāprabhu had taken it to Sārvabhauma, Mahāprabhu began to dance. "Sārvabhauma has got faith in mahā-prasādam."

So it can do, but that prasāda, Jagannātha's prasāda, not a material thing. So no material thing. Which has connection with the Supreme, that can be delegated to distribute devotion. And that's not disputable.

Suppose Balarāma He drinks wine. Some wine has been offered to Balarāma, and I may take a drop, that wine as prasāda of Balarāma. It will enhance the devotion. That is not wine, but that is prasāda of Balarāma. I may not be mad, so only a drop I have taken to my utmost capacity to digest so much wine. But I take one drop of wine and to touch it to my tongue because it is offered to Balarāma. With this idea, then it may be bhakti. But it is not the wine, but prasāda, in this way.

What is within? There is the sandal of a devotee. I took it and touched my head, the paduka, the paduka of a devotee I took it. The feet dust of a devotee is a material thing, I put on my head. That is devotee. That is material energy. But what connection? Connection with the divinity, not otherwise.

Seemingly material, but really they're conscious. It does not mean that matter, that the feet dust, it does not matter, that is giving bhakti to me, but the feet dust of my Gurudeva, everything to me. Devotion can come everywhere, but none can capture devotion, the main tenor, the main measure. What is devotion, what is God, what is non-God? Non-God cannot give God. But God can come in by every instrument to me. He's transcendental. He can come through anything and everything. That does not mean anything and everything is He. We're to differentiate there. God and non-God.

Gopeśvara: Tīrtha Mahārāja says that this LSD, he calls it sacrament.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Something sacred.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He offers to the Lord?

Gopeśvara: He calls it sacrament. When he gives it to his disciple he says, "I'm giving you the Lord's sacrament." And this is what they call it, sacrament.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, if one has got a whim to give a person meat, 'Oh, this is sacrament.' The meat, anything one may offer. 'This is sacrament.' Generally which is not allowed in the scripture, or in the ways of the sādhu, if anyone comes and offers something, apparently wrong things, apparently objectionable things in the scripture, 'this is sacrament.' But who should go to take such risk, because if a man says, giving wine, 'this is sacrament, and I shall take that.' There are previous scriptures, and previous mahā-janas, ṛṣi, devotees, there.

There are so many, the bābājī class, they also, this sexual connection. Connecting with Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana līlā, they go on using sexual connection, men and women. In this way, everyone is offering pleasing things in the name of God. Then everyone will indulge, what is _____ [?] we're fallen in the world of such bad habitual charm. We want to get out of that.

The tantric is also of such opinion in a more scientific way. 'That we shall use the sexual things, the wine, what are generally thought to be harmful to us, we shall use that in such a way that they will give us liberation.' That is the principle of the so-called tantric. The women, the wine, the well-prepared meat, they use all these things of our temptation they use with the colour of Godliness, apparent Godliness. In a scientific way that is a group of people.

But Mahāprabhu did not take, Vaiṣṇavas did not take. The safe course they take, this ahiṁsā, the vegetable, the sattvic way, not that tamasic. This sattvic things they accept apparently purer things that is told by the scriptures, that Viṣṇu.

And they go to Kālī, Śiva, and they can use in that way, there are so many. Their śāstra is also there, practices. And sometimes they kill boys also, human also they kill for the satisfaction of Kālī ____ [?]

All these things are done. 'We're utilising, done in the colour of Godliness, so-called Godliness. Then, we're to embrace them? Not only this ganga, this Śivaites, they, ganga, siddhi, all this they use, the Śivaites. The Śakta, they use all these things of temptation, giving some colour of Godliness. But should we go to that place, we can become a Śakta, a Śivaite? That section, they use it profusely, this ganga, the siddhi, the intoxication of different types, and women, and many other things, nude, everything connected with God.

Ramakrishna Mission says there is no connection with food and God. It is independent of food and habit, we can go on God cultivation. Should we go to that path, is it that, broad and wide?

But we can't tolerate all these things, to be religious. Even sacrificing human bodies, Narahai. Narahari's also accepted in the tantric scripture. So according to our tendency we may go that side, so many are there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. In the name of God with that colour indulge in debauchery. An organised party, and they have got their scriptures well arranged, the tantric, Śiva tantra and this, so many things. But the Bhāgavata shows a broad way. This karma, the jñāna, and then the prema. Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2] And there will be liberation. Liberation. They do not like Kṛṣṇa. They like Śiva. Their object is somewhere in the midway, they will go there. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3] According to ones śraddhā he will be led to the particular position of his goal, his goal is _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Also, Guru Mahārāja, you mentioned one time that this intoxication destroys śraddhā. You mentioned before, previous darśana, that this intoxication it destroys the faith.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. The intoxication destroys śraddhā, always. What is intoxication, śraddhā has got nothing to do with intoxication. Intoxication is never chosen by any devotee to be conducive to his path of realisation. All the divine devotees, Prahlāda, Hanumān, all these, did they take, resort to any intoxication? They rather discarded, discouraged all these things. This Kali, Bhāgavata has discarded this Kali. Dyūtaṁ pānaṁ striyaḥ sūnā.

permission to live where there is gold, because wherever there is gold there is also falsity, intoxication, lust, envy, and enmity. - Thus the personality of Kali, by the directions of Mahārāja Parīkṣit, the son of Uttara, was allowed to live in those five places. - Therefore, whoever desires progressive well-being, especially kings, religionists, public leaders, brāhmaṇas, and sannyāsīs, should never come in contact with the four above-mentioned irreligious principles."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.17.38-41]

The hiṁsā, then this diplomacy, then the illicit connection with the women, and then this drinking, that is intoxication. An ordinary good man, a man of the leading type, should avoid such environment. This is Kali. Kali is there, that sin. A general knowledge cannot, will come to help us, always, by artificial means I shall control Kṛṣṇa? This artificial policy, I shall use one drug and drug will give me Kṛṣṇa? It's a foolish idea. Hearing so much, so high description about Kṛṣṇa then I shall come to this conclusion, if I take this intoxication Kṛṣṇa will come?

Service, nothing else. Bhakti means service. Service means dedication, and dedication opposite to enjoyment. No enjoyment, no exploitation, no renunciation. The third plane, of service, die, die to live. Dedication, dissolution of ones ego, whatever he wants, the ego, he's hankering after so many things. Wholesale that ego will be put into fire. Then the internal, golden ego will come to work in the plane of Kṛṣṇa.

Gopeśvara: One disciple of Tīrtha told me that, he said, "That actually, we're on the platform of renunciation, but that he and Tīrtha Mahārāja were on the platform of dedication. Because they were so dedicated that they could use these things, for Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dedication is welcome always, but dedication created by a medicine, we're not ready to call that mentality as dedication. That may be worldly emotion, but not dedication.

Generally, the hard drunkard, they seem to be very simple, and open hearted, drunkard. They're not crooked at the time when they're highly drunk. He generally speaks truth, cannot conceal, he cannot have any diplomatic mentality. He may be so, open hearted, but that does not mean he has become really simple and pure. He has lost his control over his diplomatic mentality. When hard drunk, one may utilise him, getting the clues, the secrets. It is easy to get out the secret things from a drunkard. But that does not mean that he's purified, simplified, he's liberated from all these crooked policies.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He looses his power of discrimination.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Discrimination, yes, what is right what is wrong. He forgets about the environment and do anything and everything. In a drunken state one can kill his son, kill his father, without being intimately connected forgets everything. A drunkard may do anything and everything, most heinous thing. If it's necessary to perform a heinous thing, one will drink hard and then go to do that cruel thing, what ordinary man cannot do. So that is devotion of Satan which can be produced by intoxication. Satan is next to God. The next power is next to God, is admitted in Christianity as well as Islam. The next qualified to God is Satan.

"So māyā is powerful, infinitely, than a speck of consciousness that is jīva. So mama māyā duratyayā [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14] You cannot cross easily this māyā, this illusion. But if you get, if you can secure My help, then only māyā will leave you. Not by your own attempt."

In drunken state one cannot do anything and everything _____ [?] Then, should we think that he's out of māyā? He's killing his own son, he's out of māyā? Should we think? When the father hard drunk he can kill the son easily. Then, does it mean that he's out of māyā? The son affection, should we consider like that? Can you consider like that, out of māyā? Temporarily that is like mad.

God can give Himself, nothing else can give Him. That prasādam, as I told, but it is connected with God. That is the helping unit, and not that independent particle of rice, or a drop of wine, Baladeva's prasāda, not the wine, but the prasāda of Baladeva. Only He can give Himself, and none can give Himself. It is a general thing, a common sense. No finite thing can give infinite. Infinite can give Himself. And no finite thing, however greater in magnitude, or length, breadth, if any, he can never give us God. Finite cannot produce infinite. It is infinite that can come to us through finite, not visa versa. With that main principle we must be awake, always. Must be wakeful to that fact, that He can give Himself, and nothing else can give Him. This will save us from all these anomalies.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Such a powerful illusion, to take a substance and think you can approach God. That is a very powerful illusion, to take some substance and that substance makes you think you can approach God in that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, what a powerful illusion it is that you can take some intoxication or some substance and approach God.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Appears, that you can approach God.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When the enemies of God is killed by Him.

yad arīṇāṁ priyāṇāṁ ca, prāpyam ekam ivoditam
[tad brahma-kṛṣṇayor aikyāt, kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ]

["Where it has been stated that the Lord's enemies and devotees attain the same destination, this refers to the ultimate oneness of Brahman and Lord Kṛṣṇa. This may be understood by the example of the sun and the sunshine, in which Brahman is like the sunshine and Kṛṣṇa Himself is like the sun."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.36]

One who's, the demons that are killed by God, they get God. And those that serve Him, they also get Him. But there is a difference between them, like hell and heaven. He says, you know this from beforehand. Yad arīṇāṁ priyāṇāṁ ca, prāpyam ekam ivoditam. In the scriptures it is mentioned, just as both the parties, a demon killed by Him, and His devotees, they reach the same goal. But really it is not so. How? Just as the sun ray and the sun is not one and the same. So demons killed by Him go to Brahmaloka, that is the ray of the sun. And devotees they enter into the globe of the sun.

Have you not come across this śloka, in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu [1.2.278]? Hmm?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is written in the scriptures that,

Desad karmad desad bhayad chedyat dayo nipad [?]

In Bhāgavatam, the Kaṁsa by his continued fearfulness about God, then Śiśupāla for his jealousy towards Kṛṣṇa, they also were killed by Kṛṣṇa and got Him. But this getting of a devotee, of a demon and a devotee, is not one and same. It is far away, just as the ray of the sun and the sun himself. So they go to Brahmaloka, gets out of this flow of māyā, illusion, and on the verge of illusion crosses the māyā. But it is a very great distance to go in the Vaikuṇṭha, and then enter the globe, then enter a particular group of the servitors. That is another thing. The Brahman means the halo of the Vaikuṇṭha Dhāma, the sphere of Vaikuṇṭha, and halo of that Dhāma is Brahman, so they just go to the verge, the abscissa, not entrance into the positive world. They get the advantage of crossing the whole of the negative side and goes to abscissa, the taṭasthā, the marginal position. And no entrance, no visa, but passport, they get the passport. The demons killed by God get the passport. They can go to the extremity of the land living, but they cannot get visa to enter into the Vaikuṇṭha and Goloka. There is the difference between them. To cross māyā that does not mean to have entrance into Vaikuṇṭha.

Just as the Virajā the Buddhists, they go to prakṛti-nirvana, Virajā, the watery conception of the whole universe. And the Śaṅkaraites, a little further, a step further, the illusory, this halo, the lustre substance around the Vaikuṇṭha, around the spiritual cosmos. But both parties cannot enter into the domain of service.

Just as the position of Śiva. Śiva has got enough of intoxication, but he's a middle man there, master of this world. Māyinaṁ tu maheśvaram.

["Understand that māyā is the material energy whereas the Supreme Lord is the Supreme Lord of māyā."] [Within Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.37, purport / from Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad, 4.10]

Māyā and her master, Śiva. He's a jñānī, he's a tapasvī, he's a seeker after truth, but he's in the marginal position, Śiva. He's got some slight conception of the higher loka.

Gopeśvara: Mahārāja, another one of Tīrtha Mahārāja's disciples told me that Tīrthapāda took him to the gates of Vaikuṇṭha. And together they were able to see the gates of Vaikuṇṭha, under the influence of this drug, this medicine. So was he actually seeing Vaikuṇṭha?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be their Vaikuṇṭha, the Vaikuṇṭha of their conception. It is not Vaikuṇṭha of our conception. Vaikuṇṭha means infinite, no kuṇṭha, no narrowness, no measurement. Vaikuṇṭha means where there is no measurement, which cannot be measured. That is Vaikuṇṭha. When anything we can make the object of our senses, both physical and internal, that is māyā. We are subject, and whatever we're experiencing, the world of our experience is māyā, māyāic look. Vaikuṇṭha means transcendental, supramental. We cannot see that. He can show Himself in us. So all is foolishness. In dream one can see Vaikuṇṭha. "That I went in Vaikuṇṭha. I saw this thing, that thing, in dream." In dream we can see a picture, that Nārāyaṇa, all these things. That may be some sattva guṇa, that is real.

What was the conception of Swāmī Mahārāja, advice of Swāmī Mahārāja, to give up intoxication, or to take the help of intoxication for realisation? What was his advice, to the disciples?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He said it is not necessary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not necessary?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But, to avoid it is also not necessary?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Er. No. He has told to avoid all intoxication.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is objectionable, he does not say like that?

Devotee: It's strictly prohibited.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The intoxication is objectionable to devotion?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not necessary, but if we get it, it may not harm, is it of that type?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He did not say like that.

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, it is opposite, intoxication. We shall bow down our head only to one, and everything in His connection. Bhāgavata dharma. Smuggler, smuggling, that without the sanction of the government so many other agents can, closing the eye of the government, they can pass this thing, that thing. Without Kṛṣṇa, there's another thing who can give Kṛṣṇa, take me to Kṛṣṇa. The smugglers. The intoxication can take me to the path of Kṛṣṇa, without the consciousness of Kṛṣṇa. Is it? Those are all smugglers. Only Kṛṣṇa can give Himself and His devotees, they're included with Kṛṣṇa.

Sometimes we see that devotees are smoking, that Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi, or someone. That is ostentatious, something. That is not necessary thing to contribute to advance in the way of devotion. That side, the dress, sometimes one may think that it will help preaching, as the ISKCON and Gauḍīya Maṭha they're using some sort of things to create position, to create a platform from where they're to speak, and speaking will have some importance. For that purpose.

Rūpa, Sanātana, they did not take any advantage of these gorgeous temples and the garb of a sannyāsī or anything else. Plain life they went on by giving directions how _____ [?]

But our Guru Mahārāja he used something. He gave the sacred thread to the devotees. He constructed temples. He took some advantage from the money, and showed to utilise everything for the service of Kṛṣṇa.

We may say that intoxication may also, some service in its own way to Kṛṣṇa. Then we may say other tempting things they may have some contribution for the service of Kṛṣṇa.

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam [rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā.
ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ]

["The six limbs of surrender are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa's guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100]

We must be arranged in two departments. Some helping towards Kṛṣṇa bhakti and some taking away from Kṛṣṇa bhakti.

_____ [?] Mahāprabhu says,

Nityānanda, He may visit the prostitutes house, He may visit the wine shopkeeper, but He should not be disregarded, because He's in such a position whenever He goes anywhere...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...That if you give a good singer party, then I can go for preaching. Otherwise we shall go, body is nothing, soul is everything. And the mind is nothing, the body is nothing, soul is everything. Kṛṣṇa is everything. These technical words there are none to attend. So what is the necessity of going to preach?"

Then Guru Mahārāja told, "You go and speak to the wall and hear yourself. You yourself hear, and speak to the wall."

That was his plane of thinking, with so much earnestness he came to push the divine news to the world.

"Don't come back. Go and speak to the wall, and hear it, you listen yourself."

With so much earnestness he came to preach. Not only by preaching, in any way, pushing.

"Go, push on, with Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

The exhibition, the explanation, the lecture, even any quarrel, even to going in the court. All possible things should be captured and must be engaged in any way with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Even the court, the pleaders, and the judge, they must be engaged with talking about Kṛṣṇa consciousness. They should be forced to do that. Approach everywhere with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Stop the worldly activity. Everywhere the talk of Kṛṣṇa, in some form or other. That idea.

In his last day in Purī I told him when he was alone, I'm alone with him, Prabhupāda, what you have done for the propaganda of Mahāprabhu, of Kṛṣṇa kīrtana, so far, no Ācārya has done so.

"Do you think like that?" he told me. "Do you think like that?"

Yes, I see, the exhibition, the chanting of the scriptures, lecturing, going to the court, and anywhere and everywhere you try to push with Kṛṣṇa consciousness every point. The wholesale opposition to the māyā. The māyāic movement, the flow of māyā must be stopped and Kṛṣṇa consciousness will flow everywhere. _____ [?] The activity of māyā, bring Kṛṣṇa consciousness everywhere.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

"That is life. And this is death. To cultivate misconception means to cultivate death, mortality, changefulness, that is death. And to live means to cultivate about Kṛṣṇa, the centre of supply of all vitality. No gravity and necessity of any, no importance of the māyāic world. Even if you say there is a fire burning. I shall first put out the fire and then I shall come to join the Kṛṣṇa kīrtana. No, no, no. If the whole world is burnt to ashes, you soul, you have got no loss. Rather, if you are saved from the conception of this material world, you gain. The whole world may be burnt to ashes. You are not affected in any way. All your necessity is in the holy feet of Kṛṣṇa."

With such revolutionary instruction he came out to preach.

"Don't lose any time. If there is fire I must extinguish it and then coming and joining you in Kṛṣṇa kīrtana. No, no, let it be burned, that is your enemy. The material conception is your enemy. You are soul. With over soul you have got your healthy connection. And this is your enemy, has dragged you down to this material conception of life and death and disease, infirmity."

Do you follow? That was his spirit. Go on with Kṛṣṇa. Fame, all devoured by māyā, and death. Misconception means death, miscalculation means death.

They're separating me from Swāmī Mahārāja. They're committing suicide. Common interest. I'm not separate from Swāmī Mahārāja. Those that say like that they're committing suicide.
_____ [?] Can you think this? Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: What is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is too much, to swallow this pill. They're committing suicide. Ha, ha, ha. A ludicrous thing.

Devotee: They may have committed suicide. We also have come here to commit suicide We've come here to die to live. It is also suicide.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suicide in what sense?

Devotee: Die to live means suicide also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is give up the undesirable, the body cover. That is not soul proper. You are not properly represented there. Die to live. Die means give up your ego. And the inner golden self will come out. Die to live means, die as you are, as you are at present, die. The whole conception of your own self, all false. A new birth you are to have. And that you will find that your real self is in that plane of immortality. Die. But the other birth, to live. You eliminate that portion. Die means suicide. And to live, why do you exploit that?

kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani

Most revolutionary thought, especially the second point, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. All the doubts will be cleared. Is it possible? I thought it is impossible. When the Gauḍīya Maṭha people, in the beginning, they told like that, that their instructions are absolute. Ignoring all the advices that are coming from so many missions and so many classes. Reject all, sarva-dharmān parityajya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] And what we say, take it. Very, very proud, so much puffed with pride, all else false, they are all false. And what they say do, that is the only absolute truth. How it is possible? Then of course I had, I already knew, came to this śloka of Bhāgavatam, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, that came to my mind. Yes, it is already there, in Bhāgavatam. And in Upaniṣad also.

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

That is something, if we get that we get everything. If we know Him we know everything. It is in Upaniṣad, it is in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. And they are saying from the same plane. If it is possible for me to come to such a universal plane of knowledge then it is a wonderful thing. First with objection and then with this process I came to. And then gradually I found that yes, it is real. It is possible. Chidyante sarva- saṁśayāḥ. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. The entanglement that is within us, that will be untied. A universal necessity of my own life, that will come, disclose itself. I am such and such. This is already tied down, sealed. The inner tendency of our heart is sealed, and it will be broken. It will come out with its golden spirit, I am such and such. All the doubts will be cleared. Kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi. All necessity of energising, to spend energy and to acquire things, that will also evaporate. Everything is there. Nothing to be acquired. Such a plane will be open to me. And I shall find I'm a member of that plane of opulence, of infinite. Revolutionary, the most revolutionary.

Max Muller told, "What is in the treasury of Upaniṣad in India, if the whole treasury is distributed to the world, the whole world will be enriched. But nothing will be lost in the storehouse of India. The whole world will be enriched, but India will still remain as the richest. That Upaniṣad, the knowledge is such there." Max Muller told, German scholar. "What wealth is within the store of Upaniṣad, the whole world may be overfed and not a part will be lost."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

He's such, God is such, the fulfilment is such. Searching for Him, that means all these things. Fullest aspect. What satisfaction, how much we can know, we can calculate, what degree of satisfaction we can calculate? Very meagre. We shall find, "Oh."

Our Guru Mahārāja used to say with this example, that a boy is born in the dark prison house. Now, from outside one gentleman, one boy is going to him and asking him, "Oh, come, I shall show you the sun."

"Yes, sun." He will take the candle.

"No necessity of candle to see."

"Am I a fool? Nothing can be seen without the help of the candle, with a light."

Then he will drag him out. "See the sun."

"Oh. By the sun's light we can see everything."

Such wonderfulness will come to a soul in bondage when coming in connection with that Brahman, that Kṛṣṇa, God conception proper. All wonder.

[One party says: "God exists!" The other says: "God does not exist!" Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that the ātmā is self effulgent, but still we find that one class of men say, "He exists, we see Him, He can be seen," and another says: "He has never existed." This quarrel has no end because one of the parties hasn't got the eye to see what is self-evident. This quarrel is a useless waste of time, but still it will never stop; it will continue forever.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34]

Self-effulgent. He does not depend on any other thing to make Himself known. But still there is a section always that cannot have any conception of that _____ [?] But this is the defect in them. Sun is self-effulgent. But the owls cannot see. There are so many animals cannot see the light. They must be cured. To them only, no existence of the sun, because no existence of eye. Mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ. To a particular section the question is whether God is or God is not. In a particular section, the smallest part of a section. And that will always continue, because that particular section will continue. It does not mean that a section cannot see, so there cannot be sun. It is not. He's self-effulgent. He has the power of showing Himself to all. So, Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...one can go within such memory of Kṛṣṇa.

The doctors, they're also taught a goodness.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Devotee: The Dr. Guha [?] doesn't like me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, because you accused him to be a demon?

Devotee: Yeah, because he came up to me and he told me one evening: I told him, "Why did you cut my appendix? You took the appendix away. You think you're better than Kṛṣṇa?" I said, "You think Kṛṣṇa has no reason for putting the appendix?"
He said, "Well, you have your philosophy, but we have our medicine, to cure people." He said.
I said, "Do not undermine my God." I said to him.
So he was very angry because I'm questioning about taking the appendix.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 'You are my patient. You are not my professor.'

Devotee: Yes. I said, "You will have the material education," I said, "The Dr. D, r, is the one branch of the biggest knowledge that's given by Kṛṣṇa." I told him. "That is only one branch." I said, "There's many branches of studies. The root is Kṛṣṇa. He's the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 'You have come to me to make treatment of you and not to be taught a lesson from you.'

Devotee: Yeah. He said to me that, "You have a big mouth." Ha, ha, ha. He told me, "You're a patient, you're not like a patient." Ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. 'But I'm not an ordinary patient _____ [?]

Devotee: And I said that, "Anything to do with Kṛṣṇa, and you're telling that appendix is not necessary, then I must challenge you." I said. "I must challenge you because God has put everything for human being. And because of your little knowledge of doctor," I said, "You have come up and telling me."

Because this Dr. Bhumi [?] told me that, "Kṛṣṇa has done the operation for you."

Then I told Dr. Bhumi, "You're no more doctor."

And he said, "What?"

I said, "Well, you have become more than a doctor by giving the credits to the person whom it belongs to." See, last time we went he didn't charge any money, last Saturday.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Lalitā Saptamī.

To look after the interest of Rādhārāṇī. So intense attention is never found anywhere. Even sometimes she's chastising Kṛṣṇa, boldly, to serve the side of Rādhārāṇī, taking risk to blame Kṛṣṇa.

"You do not know the dignity of my Mistress. You are _____ [?] Kṛṣṇa, You are _____ [?]

Lalitā Devī's impact is such. Rādhārāṇī's interest is the highest in her consciousness.
These things is over dreaming to us. But such position is possible.

So much so that Rādhārāṇī Herself She felt ashamed. "What does she say about Me, so much?" So dignity of mind towards Kṛṣṇa, She felt uneasiness. "What do you do Lalitā? Don't go further. This is very bad."

"No. You sit quiet. You don't know Your interest. I'm Your Lalitā. I know what is Your interest, Your position. At the cost of my life I can't tolerate that Your dignity should be minimised in any way - never."

One stanza given by Rūpa Goswāmī about Lalitā Devī.

rādhā-mukunda-pada-sambhava-gharmmabindu-, nirmmañcanopakaraṇe kṛta-deha-lakṣyām
uttugga-sauhrda-visesa-vasat pragalbham, devim gunaih sulalitam lalitam namami

["I offer praṇāmas unto the haughty Śrī Lalitā Devī who is charmingly endowed with many beautiful, sweet qualities (sulalita). She has natural expertise in all arts (lalita), thus her sevā self-manifests. She wipes away the glittering drops of perspiration which appear upon the lotus feet of Śrī Rādhā and Mādhava when They meet; and she is perpetually immersed in the most elevated mellow of sauhrda-rasa, or undivided absorption in fulfilling the heart's desire of her intimate friend Śrīmati Rādhikā."] [Lalitāṣṭakam, 1]

Rūpa Goswāmī has composed a song in praise of Lalitā Devī, how is she, the first attendant of Rādhārāṇī. In inauguration he says, rādhā-mukunda-pada-sambhava. Lalitā Devī is a little aggressive in nature, pushing and meddling in the affairs which are connected with Śrī Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa. She goes to interfere. She thinks it is her responsibility, of all the affairs connecting Them. So she goes to interfere with anything in connection of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. Forward, a little aggressive in nature. Intolerant. But Rūpa Goswāmī justified her character. How?

What is the standard of her love and sacrifice about Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa? She says, if a drop she finds in the foot, either of Rādhārāṇī or Kṛṣṇa, rādhā-mukunda-pada-sambhava-gharmmabindu, a drop of sweat if she finds on the foot of any one of Them, nirmmañcanopakaraṇe kṛta-deha-lakṣyām, as if with millions of bodies, with so much eagerness she jumps to remove that drop of sweat. So much affection she feels about both of Them. At the bottom of her aggression, and interference of any affairs connecting Them, at the bottom is such a great affection, deep affection. And that justifies all these activities. As the leader accepted by the whole group of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, she's the leader. And the standard of her love, her affection, she veers towards that couple is of such standard. Can't tolerate a drop of sweat on the foot of the Divine Damsel. On that level she works. Nirmmañcanopakaraṇe kṛta-deha-lakṣyām. As if millions of bodies she wants to create, to remove that drop of sweat. Can't tolerate any trouble, least trouble.

Uttugga-sauhrda-visesa-vasat pragalbham. But she's very aggressive and talkative. And goes forward to adjust that, anything and everything, as if she's mad of leadership. But what is at the bottom? Fortunately the great concern for Them, the justification is there. Uttugga-sauhrda-visesa-vasat. Sometimes chastising Rādhārāṇī Herself.

"You do not know how to behave with Kṛṣṇa. What You are to do, I'm teaching You. You sit here in this way. Don't try to be available so cheap to Kṛṣṇa. You must be careful of Your own dignity."

In this way she treated Rādhārāṇī also as a guardian. Though little lower in age, little younger, but still she takes the care, caretaker of Rādhārāṇī. Always forward to look after the cause of Rādhārāṇī, to espouse the cause of Rādhārāṇī. _____ [?] And always thinks herself responsible for the whole affairs concerning Them. Sometimes she goes to chastise Kṛṣṇa also.

"You don't know the dignified position, what the dignified love my friend has got towards You. You undermine that. I can't allow it."

In this way, it is all, from our mundane plane, a non understandable thing. We are a creature of the plane of lust. Similar, but great and great difference between the two. Only one is perverted reflection of the other. The opposite. One prema, the highest sacrifice. And this lust is gross sense pleasure. North pole and south pole, the distance like that. Just opposite. We are mad with this lustfulness. But such madness is also, it is the effect, perverted. It is in the original and that is fair and noble, because the sacrifice at the bottom. Self-forgetfulness, self-forgetful sacrifice, reckless sacrifice for the satisfaction of the prime cause autocrat whose extent cannot be calculated. Intensity can never by calculated, cannot come in calculation. That is prema, heart-most sacrifice. The renunciation, that is very a very pale thing to that service, sacrifice. Renunciation, liberation, salvation, only to come out of the negative aspect of life. But the positive life, life of sacrifice, the highest, the acme, is to be found there.

Lalitā Devī's position is such. She thinks as a guardian of Rādhārāṇī. "I'm Her guardian. I don't allow, I can't allow, to minimise this great divine love and sacrifice."

She stands guarantee. Even to Kṛṣṇa, not to speak of other persons in the ordinary public market. But to Kṛṣṇa it is also most valuable and makes it rare, valuable and rare. Such is Rādhārāṇī's sacrifice in love, that intensity, dignity. Unthinkable, unknown and unknowable. Only we are to conjecture the ideal. But if we think that we have got that, it is finished. We have got some else. It is such a thing, adhokṣaja. It can never be caught by any force of our level, the mind, intelligence, avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ. It exists transcending our mental speculation and also the consideration of our judiciousness. But still it exists.

So Lalitā Devī is of that importance, unique importance she has got in the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, the guardian of the līlā. There are others, she friends of Rādhārāṇī. Some are neutral spirit, Kṛṣṇa and Rādhārāṇī, some little partial towards Kṛṣṇa. But she's cent per cent partial towards Rādhārāṇī's cause. This is Lalitā Devī.

Her birthday, the day of her appearance was just before that of Rādhārāṇī, the day before yesterday. And yesterday was the day of appearance of Rādhārāṇī Herself.

We're told that She was found to float in a lotus. Her father was childless, Vṛṣabhānu Raja, a chief gopa chief, the cow keepers chief, chief cow keeper. No child. But suddenly found one day that in a lake on the lotus, one beautiful girl, but eyes closed. He found and he took Her. The girl was very beautiful, perfect, but eyes are closed. That Vṛṣabhānu Raja had friendship with Nanda Mahārāja. He was also cow keeper chief, Nanda Mahārāja. Some grazing ground...

Start of 82.08.27.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vṛṣabhānu had some natural friendship. And Yaśodā heard that her friend Kīrttikā has got no child but suddenly found a girl of exquisite beauty, but blind. And taken from some lake from the lotus and she's bringing up. She went to visit, to congratulate, "That you have got at last a beautiful girl." And she took with her Kṛṣṇa also, Yaśodā took Kṛṣṇa with her. They're talking. And Kṛṣṇa suddenly went to the girl. In such a position, the girl suddenly opened Her eyes and first saw the boy Kṛṣṇa. It is told. So first opening of eyes and seeing, meeting Kṛṣṇa. This is līlā, eternal incidents, events, repeated in a particular way like drama. One drama is being repeated many times. This is in the eternal quarter. And sometimes the screen is taken away and it comes to flash in a particular place. So in the original place the līlā is going on, coexistent. All the līlās, subsequent succession, and also coexistent. And by His will some glimpse comes to the current mundane brahmāṇḍa as an exhibition to attract the people for this age. So, it was told in that way. The first, the children's union, interchanging Their vision. Afterwards Vṛṣabhānu came and Kīrttikā, queen, the chief queen, began to nurture the baby, the girl, grown up.

vṛṣabhānūdadhi-nava-śaśi-lekhe, lalitā-sakhi guṇa-ramita-viśākhe

[From Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī's, Śrī Rādhikā-stava, 2]

Vṛṣabhānūdadhi, that the sea, just as moon is supposed to come out of Kṣīroda samudra.

The present geologists, some of them are of the opinion that from the Pacific the moon anyhow was shot forth, thrown. A portion of the Pacific, there was some island, and anyhow by some earthquake, or some push, like rocket, it was sent onto the atmosphere and has become moon. It is also Indian mythology is also that opinion, that the moon has emerged from Kṣīrodaji, that milk ocean.

So vṛṣabhānūdadhi-nava-śaśi-lekhe. Rūpa Goswāmī is describing, that the family of Vṛṣabhānu is compared to that ocean and from this, moon has sprung up, as Rādhārāṇī. So beautiful comparing with the moon that has come from the ocean of Vṛṣabhānu's fortune. The fortune of Vṛṣabhānu is compared with the ocean. And from there sprung up Vṛṣabhānu Nandini Śrī Rādhikā.

The young age is like this. Gradually She grew up and had to marry. And the marriage was performed, and that is only ostentatious. Different angles of vision about that. Some saw that Brahmā one day get Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa married in a jungle. Some say that actually by the social soil Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa was married. Different kalpa, different modification of different stages.

But what Mahāprabhu accepted to be the highest attainment of ones life, that not married, wife, Rādhārāṇī was to Kṛṣṇa, married elsewhere. But each others heart did not know anyone else as Their lover. The hearts automatic connection, full. And to show it is not chance coincidence, but it was a necessity to establish that the free love crossing recklessly the directions and the influence of the society, and the scriptures, crossing the conceptions of religious sentiment, taking so much risk, the union with Kṛṣṇa, that holds the highest position.

It makes very rare, two points. One point, it is very rarely possible, very hard to get that favourable situation. Another, that for this purpose we're taking the greatest risk possible, without caring for anything. This is given the supreme most supreme position.

Of all the services of different rasa, mādhurya rasa is the full and main aim is that to be pushed to its highest intensity than these circumstances are necessary only can produce that sort of intensity. The highest intensity can be produced by artificial dearth.

If we make the rice or wheat underground to create a dearth of food, then food is very valuable. So also, the dearth, the rareness, the impossibility of union has been created. For this, such adjustment is necessary between the two, between the couples. And also They're crossing all sort of conceptions of religion sentiments. And this is the highest. No consideration of anything when They're going to meet. At all cost, at all risk, They're going to serve. So the intensity becomes highest.

It is managed by Yogamāyā. To raise it to the highest level, Yogamāyā manages in this way, the union to be the most important, most worthy, and fruitful, it is necessary. To manage, inform the environment in such a way.

As in vātsalya rasa, Yaśodā is arranging everything, she's mad to feed her child. But child does not find satisfaction there. Kṛṣṇa. He's satisfied only stealing, He's eating stealing things. Yaśodā has reserved very palatable things, and she will kindly feed her child. But child is not satisfied there. He wants to stealthily take them and to feed something and to feed others also. There He finds much satisfaction. Not in ordinary stale _____ [?]

Mother is calling, "Come my boy. Take Your seat here. I have kept much valuable dishes for You. I am giving, serving, all these things You take."

Ordinary. There He does not find, He can't relish. But here stealthily He will go and snatch things and He will throw this side, that side, some to monkey, some to other boy. That is His boyish nature for satisfaction. Not in ordinary way. In vātsalya rasa also showing autocracy. The autocratic nature of exacting affection from the environment. So autocratic nature also of extracting the highest form of love from the consort group. These things are happening. We are to understand the scientific position. Otherwise everything belongs to Him. Yaśodā prepares everything for satisfying Him, to make Him eat, to feed Him. But He's not satisfied to take in that way. So everything belonging to Him. He's the enjoyer of everything, the absolute. But still,

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]

Just as a snake moves in a crooked way, not straight, it is natural for it. So the movement of the waves of the love, in such a way, and it is natural. We are to approach the thing in this way. If we understand that, step by step in a scientific way, then we'll be able to answer any questions that may generally come.

'That what is the ideal of God is a debauch, He's stealing? How it can adjust with the ideal of the holiness in the God?'

Generally people will come and attack in this way. But they forget, but they can't understand, can't follow that this is first in the plane of sacrifice, not in the plane of enjoyment, exploitation. It is beyond renunciation, then sacrifice, dedication. It is there.

And He's the owner and consumer of anything and everything. He can take in any way. Everything is for Himself. And none have been given a position to comment on that. It is eternal, and irresistible, the flow of the plane. The highest fundamental flow, the flow of the fundamental plane is of such nature. No question of morality because not a second party is present there. He's the only party, the only party. His movement is such. You are none to question. It is such by nature. So you come to comment. Who are you? What is your position? You are a party, to become jealous with His activities. He's advaya-jñāna, absolute. You are culprit.

Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2] In the beginning Vedavyāsa says, "What I'm going to say here, it is not meant for the malicious people, for the jealous. The jealous, the party feeling that I'm also party, I have got the right of comment over the universal, such foolish and jealous and malicious people has no entrance into this līlā of Kṛṣṇa I'm going to describe. Only the non-malicious, non-jealous, who understand his own position, what is he. He cannot question. If you put a question in the absolute movement then he's wrong. The absolute līlā can never be wrong. It is ahaitukī, causeless and irresistible. And it is the sweetest, the nature of the sweetest, and purest thing goes in such way. And you as a jealous anti-party, you are going to comment, you are culprit. You are to be punished for that. The universal wave is such. He's the autocrat, everything is for Him, mind it. He's for Himself. He's not to be accountable to any person, or give explanation to anyone. Then His absolute characteristic is gone. The absolute wave is such, cares for none, went in such way. You are represented there. If you can appreciate, you can have entrance, then you can have taste of that finest quality of sweetness. You are allowed. If you can adjust, you can do away with all jealousy and maliciousness, you will find in your heart that it is, and it should be the nature of the absolute sweetness autocrat. And then you will be considered to be bona fide participant in that līlā. And you will find that you will be getting the highest ecstasy in your heart. All accommodating heart, you are to prepare for yourself for the absolute līlā. This is what is necessary for you. Be open to receive the absolute wave of sweetness that comes to you, try to understand. And only through the divine agent you can prepare yourself for the same and you will be able to find."

So this is the background of the līlā of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. And Śrīmad-Bhāgavata and Mahāprabhu took it for us, beautiful. Be selfless, selfless to the extreme. And this is the standard of selflessness, self effacement, self forgetfulness, self surrendering. And then you will be able to participate the universal, the characteristic, the movement, the sweetness of the absolute wave, the wave of sweetness absolute. That is irresistible, which can never be opposed by any anti-force. And it is such, the ultimate existence of the reality is such, of such nature. It is not equilibrium, but it is dynamic. The ānandam, the ecstasy, the happiness, it is dynamic and its movement in such a way. And you can participate in it, prepare it, remove all your selfish, crookedness and jealous temperament. Then you will be considered fit to come in connection with that most fundamental wave of absolute sweetness. This is the background of Rādhā-Govinda līlā. We must prepare ourselves in such a way if we like to approach towards that.

This is Vṛndāvana, characteristic of Vṛndāvana. Mahāprabhu and the Ācārya, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, came with this fact to take it to the world. And what this scientific discovery or invention, or other religious partial conception will come to do it. Swāmī Mahārāja took it to the length and breadth of this world. And they are to come to this thought, at last, to reach there, this is the goal. The groundwork, he has prepared, called so many.

"Come and see. This is not non scientific. The most scientific, the most argumentative, and the most plain, and the most happy goal of our life. Come, all come. Mahāprabhu came with this successful success in life of you all. Know what is your prospect. The prospect of your life can come to such high level. Try to understand what is that. What is that."

Generally we are captured by the lust here, even including the animals. Everywhere we find that there is a sort of pleasure which can attract all, but what is that? Try to analyse that. And when the outer malicious defective covers are broken, separated, then we shall find the priti, originally it is that great thing, the divine love. The divine love, and that perverted reflection of the divine love is acting in this world, masterly, master hand. Even the animals, even the trees also, we are told they're all mad of this satisfaction.

What is at the bottom, the ideal of this charm, go to understand that. In the highest play it is so sweet, it is so pure, it is so desirable, and it is the real fulfilment of us all, including the whole world animation, all the parts. It is there, the cause, the divinity is there. And the perverted reflection is capturing and giving reaction, giving troublesome reaction to this sense pleasure here.

But in the original it is very wholesome, and it is the wholesome of you all. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. Back to home, and home is sweet. And the sweetness, the charm of the home is there. And it is in this way it has been described in Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu. And Gauḍīya Maṭha and to you all Swāmī Mahārāja as a general call to understand your own fulfilment, to get your fate, try your fate and to get the highest fortune.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... Who is He, Kṛṣṇa? Yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdano'pi.

[yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha, dhanyāti dhanya pavanena kṛtārtha mānī
yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdano'pi, tasyā namo'stu vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi]

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī says: "From a reverential distance, with all adoration, I offer my obeisances, unto the daughter of King Vṛṣabhānu, Śrī Rādhikā, who captivated the heart of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Lord, Who is rarely attained even by the foremost of yogīs. Once a gentle gust of wind wafted the sweet scent of Her clothing towards Kṛṣṇa and He felt so blessedly fulfilled that He embraced that fragrance to His heart."]
[Rādhā-rasa-sudhā-nidhi-maṅgalācaraṇa, 2]

He's that Madhusūdana for whom all the yogīs and the jñānīs are searching after and can't find anywhere. That is His position, the position of _____ [?] But all the great men are searching heartily for Him, and they fail to find Him. And that Kṛṣṇa finds, thinks Himself fortunate at the touch of the flowing wind of the outskirts of the dress of Rādhārāṇī. Then how His position?

Mr. Gaowl [?] has quoted this śloka to prove the dignified and noble position of Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana.

Tasyā namo'stu vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi. And the author says that, "I cannot venture to have a look at that Rādhārāṇī. But the direction where She lives, where She is, then here, from far distance I show my obeisance to that direction where that divine damsel has got Her home. Vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi. That direction, I show my highest obeisance to that direction, of that house of Vṛṣabhānu where that damsel has got its highest stage. We have no audacity to approach and enter into that village, of that house, and to see Her and show our respect. No. No such audacity we should have. From far away we show our obeisance to that direction. That is sufficient. That is sufficient for us to get our best benefit." This is the conception.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

And this is not story, this is fact. This is real, this is the reality. And in other words, what we think to be real that is all mortal, illusion, hallucination. But the reality is this, and with this idea we're to approach in the beginning step by step, how it is so. It is imagination, hallucination, or it is reality? How it is possible? First, in the beginning, we're to think where we live, where our consciousness is so busy, that is transient, and that is nowhere. Now and never it may come, the whole globe, sun, moon, all disappears, coming and disappearing. But the soul is permanent within us, and through the soul we're to tackle with the real plane and the development of that plenary position is in such a way. By gradual process we're to - not by jumping, then we shall go in some speculative position and then fall down and break our legs and foot, that will be there. It is sahajiyāism, not an easy thing.

And Kṛṣṇa, He's in such position. When we, overnight, we get that imitationist, very cheap. It is very cheap. Lives after lives, only to remain in the path of search. It is such, to be common in the real path of search, that is our reward. We cannot go astray. That will be our reward. That I have got, as a finite I have got the infinite into my fist - a fool's speculation.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So I close.

_____ [?] In Sanskrit.

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But in India they remember Sanskrit, no written Sanskrit _____ [?] he introduced, and Germans are great appreciators. And they're told as Hans. Furious Franc and Fiery Hans. I read in English poetry. Hans means haṁsa. In Bhāgavata it is mentioned, in the beginning there was two sects, paramahaṁsa and haṁsa, two sections. Hans means haṁsa. So they have mentioned one of the ancient culture, they have mentioned in the _____ [?] Veda.

_____ [?] And their appreciation for the culture which is nearer to Vedic culture. So I have got much appreciation for that.

Gopeśvara: Yes. She joined Swāmī Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Max Muller he announced, about two hundred back, announced that, "The store of Indian Vedic culture, in Upaniṣad, so much wealth, the whole world may take it and will be enriched, but not a bit will be less there. So much wealth contained in the store of Upaniṣad in India. The statement of the ṛṣi, that whole world may be well fed but still not a particle will be less there." That was his historic announcement, of Max Muller.

Then another gentleman also, I can't remember his name, he told that, "Gītā is the highest theological book in the whole of the world. And its speciality is this here, "That Gītā says that you can't change the environment, you have no capacity to do that. Only your peace depends on your own adjustment with the environment. And this is the key to peace of life, and nothing else. This is found in Gītā. The environment you can't change. You have no hand. Only your hand is to tackle you, and you form yourself in such a way that you may have proper adjustment with the environment. And that is only the key to have peace in ones mind and nothing else. That is a great finding. The ultimate finding. Adjust yourself with the environment. You can't change the universal environment. That is under you, and the resultant of so many forces. You can't control that, however attempt you may make, all futile. Only the key to find ones mental peace, to control him, to adjust with the environment, anything, to adjust in such a flexible way with the circumstances, that is the key of success, of attainment of peace of mind. And it is repeatedly told in Gītā, repeatedly it is always advised, do this, this is, karmaṇy evādhikāras te, [mā phaleṣu kadācana / mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "The result has got no relation with your deed. You go on doing your duty, then leave it, and the result is in My hand. Don't worry about the result. Only fully attend, concentrate only in discharging the duty. Whole attention devote only to discharge your duty perfectly and don't look after the consequence. It is in My hand, not in your hand. It is in the hand the resultant of the whole forces."

And that is the special characteristic of the advice in Bhagavad-gītā, and nowhere else. One German scholar told. I forget his name. When I was a college student I came to his circle.

This is Indian culture, nearer to Indian culture.

And Goring told, "A man who is afraid of the battlefield, and a woman who is afraid of the childbirth, they are the worst kind of men and women. Women must not be afraid of the pain of childbirth. And a man must not be afraid of dying in the battlefield." _____ [?]

The Wilhelm Kaiser, in first great war, about England he told - his mother was British and he was German. The German, generally, they hate the British. Once when he was young, he was playing with his mother's brother's son, maternal cousin, he was playing, and anyhow some strike came onto the nose or something, blood oozing. Then he was very much enraged and told, "Let the British blood flow away from my body. The British blood flow away." The mother came from the British. So he was very much proud of that German blood. In that first war we are told of 'free nation and free ocean.' Kaiser fought for free nation and free ocean. "Why the British will have control over the whole of the ocean?" The British was in full glory of its power at that time. _____ [?] Sun never sets on the British kingdom. British held such power at that time.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, the first time the Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta was spoken, was it Uttara from Parīkṣit Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The beginning is such [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: He had that much realisation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very small time left between the hearing of Parīkṣit and his death. Śukadeva parted away after, there is another book where it is mentioned. Śukadeva went away and Parīkṣit had little time to be bitten by the snake, and just at that time Uttara, Parīkṣit's mother came, approached him and told, "What you have heard, speak it in a nutshell to me."

And in a small span of time, Parīkṣit he gave the summary, the substance of what he heard from Śukadeva. And that is the basis of Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta. Sanātana Goswāmī has mentioned. And there is a book, where it is mentioned. I forget the name. It is mentioned there.

Nitāi. Sambandha jñāna, where we are. What is our environment? For this, Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta is helping us make spiritual progress of life, progress, step by step. _____ [?] The peak of spiritual knowledge, the highest attainment, with gradual process. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

A map of the spiritual kingdom. Which country is where, which country is where. If we have a conception of that, then any anomaly we can crush it immediately. Ke?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Daśaratha Sūta Prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Once Kṛṣṇa He became Daśaratha Sūta, do you know? Eh?

In Dvārakā, Kṛṣṇa was sitting with Rukmiṇī, Satyabhāmā. And with some purpose He sent Garuḍa to bring some blue lotus. And Garuḍa went to bring lotus and that was under the jurisdiction of Hanumānji. Hanumānji knew it. And Kṛṣṇa's reason was to check the pride, or something like that, of Garuḍa, Sudarśana, and Satyabhāmā, these three He wanted to check their, er, audacity, or something like that.

Badrinārāyaṇa: In previous Rāmacandra līlā, Garuḍa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He wanted to check their _____ [?] their pride was, as if, I want to say. Hanumān's pride was...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Checked.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And by, no, Garuḍa's pride was, first by Hanumān. Ke?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Anurādhā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Anurādhā has come, taking so much risk?

And then Sudarśana was also, he was just on the outside _____ [?], his pride was also checked.

And Hanumān coming, "Jai Rāma, Jai Rāma." He's chanting the name of "Rāma Rāma." He does not know his object of worship than Rāmacandra, none but Rāma.

Then Kṛṣṇa, He asked Satyabhāmā, "Oh, Hanumān is coming, I must take the figure of Rāmacandra and you take the figure Sītā Devī."

Satyabhāmā could not do that, so she had to go under the throne.

And He asked Rukmiṇī Devī, "You try to get the figure of Sītā."

Then Rukmiṇī managed that, and she sat on His left side, and Kṛṣṇa became Rāma.

Then Hanumān came, and with those blue lotus worshipped Rāmacandra.

And then after some time, Satyabhāmā, she was insulted rather, and her pride that she holds the highest position of all the queens, that was quenched.

And Sudarśana he was moving on the gateway. And Hanumān told him, "I have to go."

"Oh, where do you go? I shall go and take permission and then I shall allow."

Hanumān threw his finger within that round ring and suddenly swelled his finger and it became like a ring on the finger of Hanumān.

And Garuḍa he took him in his armpit.

Then Kṛṣṇa gradually released "The Sudarśana, you are here. Oh Garuḍa, he's under the armpit."

Hanumān told, "They came to disturb me, I lift them up." In this way, wanted to check their pride.

This is the līlā of the Lord. Everything is there but the standpoint is just opposite. That is līlā, all surrender to the centre. Everything is just like this. It is perverted reflection. And that is original movement. So all similar, only the standpoint is just opposite. One, is fullest sacrifice and one is fullest aggrandising principle. Only the spirit, the question on the principle of adjustment. _____ [?]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Inner internal adjustment. The question, the love is there, adjustment question. Our Guru Mahārāja used, every now and then, he used these words. 'Religion is proper adjustment.' We are improperly adjusted, adjusted with the whole. And the conception of the whole also varies according to different stages of understanding. The highest is adjustment with the beauty, adjustment with the love. That is the highest. So no complaint there can be necessarily, only. If there is something else then that is defect in the adjustment, not anywhere else, adjustment.

Poison becomes medicine and medicine becomes poison. What is medicine of Māyāvādī, that is poison to the devotee. Liberation, the question of non-differentiated liberation, that is the highest goal. That is their nectar. That is their highest form of medicine, diet. And that is poison to a Vaiṣṇava.

And none wants slavery. Everyone hates slavery. But slavery to _____ [?] to Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest attainment according to Vaiṣṇava. Most highly valuable. But as much as, according to the degree of slavery, we get our position dignified. Slavery is not so cheap to that highest entity. Slavery means unconditional surrender, wholesale surrender. It requires the greatest fortune to be so much self abnegated. Selfishness means aggression, exploitation. To dissolve the so-called selfishness of aggressive nature, leave it all, whole, and whole represented in its cause, and that cause is love divine, and to have connection direct with Him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I gave the example of Hitler in my religious lectures. Hitler classified the general public into four classes. Clever lazy, clever industrious, stupid lazy, stupid industrious. He told that generally I ____ [?] the working people with clever and industrious. But clever and lazy I put them at the head of the department, a peculiar thing, clever and lazy. Because they are clever, they can manage, and because lazy, at the time of need, they can come with fresh energy. And those that are clever and industrious, they are always labouring and labouring, and they're finished, and at the time of need no fresh energy can come from them. And those that are stupid and lazy, I try to give some sort of engagement. But I'll always keep myself far off from the stupid and industrious. They will do always wrong and some other hands will be necessary to do away with their wrong.

So the karmīs, the exploitationists, they are stupid and industrious. And the stupid and lazy are the renunciationists, Buddhists and Śaṅkara, the mukti kami. And clever and industrious are the devotional group, clever and industrious. And clever and lazy is Kṛṣṇa. In this way I used to qualify to the public.

The whole staff is clever and industrious. They're always engaged in service and cleverly, not misusing their energy. And the opposite is the karmī school, the exploitationists. They are digging their own grave. They're prey to the reaction. For every action there is equal and opposite. Always taking loan and thinking that I'm making progress. Stupid and lazy, the Māyāvādī. Māyāvādīns, they only go to the abscissa and, "No, that is nothing, no more. No more land to go up." They dig their own grave and enter there and finishes there. They're stupid and lazy. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, you said that the goal of the Buddhists is the Virajā. What is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Virajā prakṛti _____ [?], in the verge, the last extremity of the exploiting energy, energy of exploitation. Coming in no contact with their permanent soul within. And the Śaṅkara, Brahman nirvana, that comes to touch their own self, soul, and not towards upper connection of the souls.

apareyam itas tv anyāṁ, prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parām
[jīva-bhūtāṁ mahā-bāho, yayedaṁ dhāryate jagat]

["O mighty hero, Arjuna, this worldly nature known as external, is inferior. But distinct from this nature, you should know My marginal potency, comprised of the individual souls, to be superior. This world is accepted by this superior conscious potency as an object of exploitation for sense enjoyment, by the agency of each individual's fruit-hunting actions and reactions. The divine world emanates from My internal potency and the mundane world from My external potency. The potency of the living beings is known as marginal, on account of their medial adaptability - they may choose to reside either in the mundane plane or the divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5]

Para prakṛti. And the internal potency, unknown to them, the para prakṛti, Brahman nirvana, to come anyhow to the consciousness that I'm a particle of consciousness and no more. In the world of consciousness, there are so many things. They do not care to know that or to enter there.

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

Go up to abscissa with the passport, go to the limit of the country, but without visa, have to come back. No other alternative. _____ [?] told that, "Your visa example has given a very clear conception of the svarūpa śakti land." The visa. Passport is not everything. That is mukti, to go to the verge of the land. Last extremity you can go, with passport. Passport of two kinds, one within the country, and another to have a glance of the other country standing only here. So this is that land, and this is ours, something. Hare Kṛṣṇa. 'Virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya.

Bhakti-latā, one who gets the seed of devotion, their progress goes and it crosses the area of Virajā, and then that of Brahmaloka, and then enters into Vaikuṇṭha, the spiritual cosmos. 'Virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya. The serving cosmos, they enter. And the lower part is calculative cosmos, and the highest part non calculative, spontaneous, automatic. Service is automatic, you do not know. Just as reflexive action. Digestion and so many other things within our system is going on unknown of our consciousness, that we do not know. That is, what is that called? Reflex, no. What is not voluntary?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Involuntary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Involuntary.

Devotee: Automatic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Automatic. That has got a technical name. In a system, in the whole system of digestion we do not know anything. Without our knowledge they're doing...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mechanical.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and that has got some technical name. So it is like that. Unconsciously they're engaged in service. They cannot but do that. This is Vraja, Vrajabhumi.
Brajabhumi is taken by Manjuali to ISKCON, is it not?

Anurādhā: Yes. That was mother Indira, Gopeśvara's wife, Indira. She told me Brajabhumi and Manjuali came to London to get back the other girls, for ISKCON. She was being preached on the way by Dhanañjaya. Dhanañjaya, one ISKCON devotee, he met on the plane, he preached to her. Ha, ha, ha. She had a hard time in Nepal so, very bad time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Let us try to think it is all for the best. It is all for the best. _____ [?]

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Gopeśvara: Mahārāja, our Godbrothers were not successful in their preaching in Germany. They have tried for some years but they have not been successful there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But I heard, it is in Back To Godhead, Haṁsadūta Mahārāja went there. The German people they have banned any kīrtana and preaching in the public places. Only they can do within the room. And some broke the law and preached in the street, so they were put into prison. And Haṁsadūta Mahārāja went there, and the case in the court, and he pleaded himself, and he impressed the solicitor of the opposite party as well as the judge. "That what they're doing, it is for the service of the Lord. They have no right to stop it. Still they take the rule, and the judge also, they have an oath in the name of the Lord, and justice in the court they take the law in the name of the Lord, take the oath in the name of the Lord. So it is over the government system. The law of God they admit, but it is over the man made government, so they should not do this." And since, that has been loosened there, slacked there, control. I was told like that. Is it not true?

Why the German people they're apathetic, because the source is from America, they have got that apprehension. They're still suffering from before. That Eisenhower who was the general of the opposite party, he was a German. Einstein he lived in Germany, who invented that atom bomb which concluded the war in Germany. So Germany is mainly afraid of the opposite camp. So much so, that they do not like that something from America will come. In what colour it is coming, and how, what colour it will take in the last time, and what disaster they will come in our country. Apprehension still lingering there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Eisenhower was of German blood, and Einstein, they're the two main causes of the defeat of Germany. In both the great wars America came in the last time and crushed German people.

Clever and industrious, this is the very nature of German people. Even Churchill, when it happened, came in such a position war that Germany will jump on the shore of England, it was apprehended. And France was captured. And Germany, "Now we must jump over England."

At that time Churchill is giving warning to the people. "Don't think that our navy will be able to protect them. Even any time they may land some land force to the shore. The land soldiers you also be very much attentive, alert." At that time he told, "They're working with German thoroughness." That came from the mouth of Churchill, the worst enemy of Germany. "German thoroughness," and idiomatic word. "What they do, they can do thoroughly. So much thoroughness in activity is never found elsewhere." It came from the mouth of Churchill himself. "With German thoroughness."

That is their national characteristic. What they do, they do well. Industrious, and clever, and cheap. In British India, the German merchantiles used to come to India, efficient also, cheapest, none could compete with them. Then Japan came to compete with Germany, more cheap, but not good things. But Germans peculiarity, things are good and also cheap. So none could cope with them in this affair. A nation blessed with much exceptional quality. Their appreciation for India is solid.

Rabindranatha, when our Guru Mahārāja wanted to send preachers to England, he sent his followers, Bon Mahārāja and others, to Rabindranatha. "Take his advice, what he says."

Rabindranatha told, "Oh, you want to go to England, but they're proud of their rulers, and we are ruled, so they won't care to hear your words. And if you go to France, France also, it can take easily and also shake off easily. And America, the field has been wasted, exploited, so many yogīs and others went there to preach something. And they, especially mixed with the ladies, with some yoga system, and purchased bad name for India. So rather go to Germany. They have got real understanding. They do not take anything easily, but when they appreciate they take it rightly and hold it, accept it. A solid nation." Rabindranath told like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol.

Gopeśvara: Is having a diet of only fruit and milk is that considered fasting?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is classes. Without any water, that is the first class fasting. Then there is the least, one who cannot do that he can take all these things. _____ [?]

A gradual, take only water. Who cannot do without food, without anything, he can take the gas coming out of the milk or something, burning. Then next he can take water. Then next he can take fruit juice. Then next he can take this, roots _____ [?] Then again milk. In this way. Then lastly, after sunset you take _____ [?] a little rice, etc.

But for Ekādaśī it is meant that this _____ [?] especially Ekādaśī day sin takes shelter in so many grains, and those must be left. So fruit and root and milk, generally that may be taken. Ekādaśī. _____ [?]

But with anukalpa it is also the ruling is there that service is first, will be given consideration. So if I fast, do not take any water, I shall lie down and not able to do any service of the Lord, that is not desirable. So this anukalpa and do service of the Lord, that will be better.

Gopeśvara: At one time, our Swāmī Mahārāja advised us who were staying in India to take only fruits and milk and some simple boiled subji. He said that would be best for our health. But does that mean that in order to break the Ekādaśī, then we should also take some grain in order to honour the Deity?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Grain means to break Ekādaśī?

Gopeśvara: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Grains should not be taken.

Gopeśvara: So, usually if one is following this diet of fruit and vegetables and milk, then every day one is following that diet because it is conducive to good health. So then the day on Dvādaśī, one has to break that Ekādaśī. So that means that one must take grains on that day, on Dvādaśī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At least, if he's a patient, he may take, but only he will touch, he gives honour.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

What did you find Karnarni's opinion about Jayatīrtha Mahārāja? Did you have any talk?

Gopeśvara: No. I didn't want to go into these matters with him. But he was very respectful to us and it did not seem that he was disturbed by our visiting him or anything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Did you hear about his son, Gurupāda?

Gopeśvara: No, he didn't mention anything about his son.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Haridāsa Ṭhākura. _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, generally we're told, Haridāsa Ṭhākura is Lord Brahmā, perhaps in a lower representation. So because he was so intimate with Mahāprabhu...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In your story he's Brahmā?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is written in some scriptures also. But... stole cows in Vṛndāvana and the cow calves. For that he... of this yavana, Muslim class, for that. Brahmā had connection with that cow stealing affairs connection. Insulting the cows he had to come to the connection of yavana, the Brahmā. And Advaita Prabhu is considered Śiva. And they are very much connected, Haridāsa Ṭhākura and Advaita Prabhu, from the beginning, even from before Mahāprabhu's appearance, they are connected _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, because his connection with Mahāprabhu was so intimate, we wonder, does he also have a higher connection in Braja līlā, Haridāsa Ṭhākura? It would seem, we do not know, but would there be a higher connection in Braja līlā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Brahmā and devotees also took feet water of Haridāsa Ṭhākura after his demise. They all drank. Paduka pani. [?] Devotees should not be considered within the physical connection.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What is the rasa sambandha of Haridāsa Ṭhākura?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not there, the general. Taking the Name and what is exemplified in him by taking the Name he's going up, but not entered into particular rasa he has been described anywhere, in general.

... with Nityānanda Prabhu and Advaita Prabhu, intimacy with Them impresses us to think that he had not much connection with mādhurya rasa.

But still, _____ [?] Rūpa and Sanātana, they used to take their shelter in the house of Haridāsa Ṭhākura, whenever they came to Purī, Rūpa, Sanātana used to live along with Haridāsa Ṭhākura.

That is for some other reason. Rūpa, Sanātana they were brāhmaṇas, but for their intimate connection with the Muslim rulers. If anyone cast any glance towards them, for this caste question in Purī brāhmaṇas, they did not give any opportunity to those critics. They considered themselves very low and used to live with Haridāsa Ṭhākura.

And even did not use the ordinary road where generally the servitors of Jagannātha are coming and going in general, avoided that road. And in the hot sun went to Mahāprabhu to Tota-Gopīnātha over the sand, and got some boils under the foot.

Mahāprabhu asked, "Why did you not come over this cold road. Over the hot sand you have come."

"No, so many devotees of Jagannātha, they're passing by that road. If any touch of us disturbs them so I have selected this way."

Mahāprabhu He expressed satisfaction. "You have really established the dignity of the arcana mārga. If you do not do, who will teach such things to them? Very careful about arcana. In rāga mārga so much consideration of these trifle things have been omitted. But in arcana kāṇḍa it is strictly observed. And he understands this." Mahāprabhu admired this attitude.

Mahāprabhu asked Haridāsa to come within the house and take prasādam along with Him. Haridāsa Ṭhākura did not come, he refused. He told, "No, no. Only after the feeding of the Vaiṣṇava, some little remains should be cast on this road, and I will be satisfied with that, Vaiṣṇava ucchiṣṭham. I don't dare to go in the temple." So Mahāprabhu's call also was not hypocritical, sincerely He called. But Haridāsa Ṭhākura refused, totally.

Then Mahāprabhu without disturbing him asked Govinda, "Take some prasādam and give him there. He won't come here. Devotees of different temperament may be disturbed, he does not like to see that."

Up to that mark that we have no concern with this body. We're completely separate from any body interest, physical interest, and established in the continuous conception and ultimate vision in one's soul's existence independent of this body. That is the Vaiṣṇava conception, ātmā dharma, soul's function. The body contamination should be absent there. Bhāgavata has condemned in the strongest terms this body conception. One who thinks this body is himself he's a gokhara. Not only an ordinary ass, but those worthless asses that can be used only to carry the fodder of the animals, and not to serve any purpose of the human society. Such an ass is he, gokhara, who considers his body is his own self, he's not separate from the body.

yasyātma-buddhiḥ kuṇape tri-dhātuke, sva-dhīḥ kalatrādiṣu bhauma ijya-dhīḥ yat-tīrtha-buddhiḥ salile na karhicij, janeṣv abhijñeṣu sa eva go-kharaḥ

["One who believes this body, which is composed of mucus, bile, and air, is the self, who thinks of his wife and children as his bodily expansions, and who considers the land of his birth worshippable, who visits the holy places simply to go swimming, without seeking shelter of the holy saints who live there, is no better than a cow or an ass. His conception of reality is condemned."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.84.13]

All consideration of purity is in the spiritual realm. One who thinks that has got material connection is a fool. An ass who has only _____ [?] The purification capacity of Ganges water, that cannot be identified with the water externally which we see. It may be filthy, foamy, muddy, but still it has got the capacity to purify something. Gaṅgāmbhasāṁ na khalu budbuda.

[dṛṣṭaiḥ svabhāva-janitair vapuṣaś ca doṣair, na prākṛtatvam iha bhakta-janasya paśyet gaṅgāmbhasāṁ na khalu budbuda-phena-paṅkair, brahma-dravatvam apagacchati nīra-dharmaiḥ]

A Vaiṣṇava may be physically defective, lame or blind, or any other defects he may have. But that does not affect his status in the world, in the Vaiṣṇava world. It is independent of this material thing. Body connection and mind connection also, mind is only drawn from this material world, that is called mind. To want something and not to want something, that saṅkalpa, vikalpa, I want such and such things, I don't want such and such things. This is what is within us called the mind, and that concerning to this material world.

Avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ, it's beyond the reach of the mental speculation, this spiritual, this revealed truth has got nothing to do for the mind on it. Mind cannot have any conception of this revealed truth. It has got its own law. Mind cannot catch, the ordinary intelligence that also cannot judge. The judging faculty of this world that cannot become a judge in that plane. The domain of revealed truth is completely separate thing which seems to be impossible from this plane. That has its own law, own nature, own capacity, everything different. The world of infinite. The laws of the world of infinite cannot be similar to the law which is invoked in the world of finite, a separate law. We have to imbibe that, we have to forego this law and to imbibe that law. And we must be proficient in that law, consider cases of that domain. This law won't do there any good.

And no law in Braja. All His sweet will, but will is sweet and servitors of the highest dedicated spirit for Him, so no law is necessary there. Servitors are up to any degree of dedication, and the Lord, the absolute good, His sweet will, His will is autocrat but that is sweet. So no question of any law there. Still it seems to be similar. And we are told that this world has come as a reflection of that high world, highest world, but perverted, with opposite prospect, opposite end. Not giving fulfilment but deceiving, deceitfulness. Everyone wants to rob his neighbour, so deceitfulness, so it is perverted.

kṛṣṇera yateka khelā, sarvottama nara-līlā, nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa

He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

Of all the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, the highest is similar to this mundane human society. That is by His will it is so.

And failing to understand the spirit of that, this Vivekānanda, these Rāmakrishnaites, they say that human beings above all, if we serve them then our life will be fulfilled. Misunderstanding of that principle.

Caitanya-caritāmṛta says, kṛṣṇera yateka khelā, sarvottama nara-līlā, nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa. And after that this human society has been created, just in the opposite plane.

And Caṇḍīdāsa says, _____ [?]

"Women and children, hear it attentively, that human fashion is above all, and nothing above it."

That is, Kṛṣṇa in the highest quarter of the existence we find that this human form is passing there, but in opposite spirit. Here cheating, and there generosity, benevolence, giving. Exploiting and dedicating, opposite difference.

In Bhāgavatam also we find after the whole creation Brahmā created last of all this human section and after, that is in imitation of the highest flow, and that is experienced in the revealed quarter.

labdhvā su-durlabham idaṁ bahu-sambhavānte, [mānuṣyam artha-dam anityam apīha dhīraḥ

["The human form of life is very rarely attained, and although temporary, gives us a chance to achieve the supreme goal of life. Therefore, those who are grave and intelligent should immediately strive for perfection before another death occurs. There are so many forms of life: the aquatics, the vegetable kingdom, the animals, the birds, ghosts and other living beings, but only in this human position do we hold the key to the complete solution of the problems of life."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.9.29]

There it is written in Bhāgavatam.

Kavirāja Goswāmī has pleaded in favour of Haridāsa Ṭhākura.

"Māyā came to Haridāsa Ṭhākura. Please give me Kṛṣṇa Nāma."

Then Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Ṭhākura had to come in a pleaders robe, robe of an advocate.

"What is this Haridāsa Ṭhākura, ordinary person with this Muslim connection, and to him the Māyā, the beloved of Mahādeva, she had to come for Kṛṣṇa Nāma to Haridāsa Ṭhākura? How it is possible?"

Then Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja says, "Māyā told, I have got Rāma Nāma from Śiva previously, but not Kṛṣṇa Nāma. By coming in your connection I have got some new inclination in my mind to take Kṛṣṇa Nāma. But if one is to get that, he must have to come through some agent, devotee. And Haridāsa Ṭhākura he's an appointed devotee in the age as Nāma Acarya to give Name."

Kavirāja Goswāmī says, "It is not a ludicrous thing, you must not consider like that. It is a regular process. Whoever he may be. What to speak, even Brajendra-nandana, in the garb of Mahāprabhu He has come and He's cultivating about Name. So the Divine Name is not a very trifle thing. To take the Divine Name, to cultivate about the Divine Name, that is of high order for which Kṛṣṇa Himself has come with His own paraphernalia and engaged Himself only in the taking of the Name. And Haridāsa Ṭhākura is a part and parcel of that, a typical example, one who takes Name every day, more than three lākhs. So Māyā Dasi who is after all the servitor of Kṛṣṇa, in this external aspect she's the mistress. She will come to take Name from Haridāsa Ṭhākura. Then what is the anomaly there? It is all right."

_____ [?] Kṛṣṇa Nāma.

In Purāṇa it is mentioned, one Kṛṣṇa Nāma is equal to three Rāma Nāma. In this way it is more superior than Rāma. Kṛṣṇa, Rāma, to give pleasure, to give ecstasy, Rāma. And Kṛṣṇa, to attract and to give pleasure. Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa akāṛṣaṇa, attraction, priti, prema. Priti, the physical attraction we find, sun, moon, earth, planets, attraction. But when that attraction is endowed with life it becomes affection, love. Attraction, that relation between soul to soul, anyway, animation in the spiritual realm, the attraction in the spiritual realm is what is affection about. So attraction has been here also in the physical world, the attraction is the most basic principle of cosmos. The sun, moon, only through attraction they are posed properly and to form the system solar. So in the spiritual cosmos, the attraction is the most fundamental thing which can give the colour, the figure, and the adjustment. Attraction is the basic power which can give adjustment. So Kṛṣ, kāṛṣaṇa, akāṛṣaṇa, that is love, affection. That can only be the fundamental most of spiritual cosmos for proper adjustment.

And Vaiṣṇava dharma preaches about proper adjustment, preaches about love, or proper adjustment. According to the degree and intensity of love, they are placed nearer and far, and the cosmos is created. So many groups of so many types, śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, different types, quality of attraction, quantity of attraction, according to the calculation the whole spiritual existence is maintained. So Kṛṣṇa attraction is the principle thing, attraction, love. And the next stage comes as feel pleasure, from attraction, out of attraction, feeling of pleasure. Gratification next.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So it is said that one Kṛṣṇa Nāma is equal to three Rāma Nāma. Rāma Nāma, that is the effect of Kṛṣṇa Nāma. The most original thing, Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣ and ṇa. Ṇa means _____ [?] Rāma.

And Hare Rāma here, our Guru Mahārāja told at the time of my dīkṣā, "That is also Rādhā-rāmana- Rāma, not this Dāsarāthi Rāma." He told.

I asked him, my name was Rāmendra Chandra Bhaṭṭācārya. What will be my name after dīkṣā?

"Rāmendrasundar Bhaṭṭācārya," he gave me.

What will be the meaning of the Rāmendra?

"Rādhā-rāmana-Rāma," he told at once. "Rādhā-rāmana-Rāma, not Dāsarāthi Rāma."

Then my name was transformed into Rāmānanda Dāsa. When the party was sent to enquire the position on the banks of Godāvarī where Rāmānanda and Mahāprabhu got Their spiritual discourses.

Bon Mahārāja, Mādhava Mahārāja, Hayagrīva Brahmacārī at that time, _____ [?] Mahārāja, myself, Rāmānanda Dāsa, and another boy, five were sent to find out the place where the great discourse of Rāmānanda and Mahāprabhu took place on the banks of Godāvarī on the other side. Anyhow consulting with the local public, and also the books, we selected a position. And that man out of his own accord came to offer the land as gift to us at the beginning. And then gradually purchased nearby lands, and temple was erected, Pāda-pīṭha first, footprints temple, small, and then afterwards we developed.

Devotee: In your book Ambrosia there is one śloka that says that Śrī Advaita was an incarnation of Lord Śiva, and Haridāsa Ṭhākura was the incarnation of Lord Brahmā.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So what's the question?

Devotee: Well, I want to, you know, because Lord Śiva is supposed to be an incarnation of Mahā Viṣṇu. No? Because me and Purī Mahārāja were talking about this and he wants to know if there's some mistake in the printing.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He's asking in the Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, mention in bracket that Haridāsa Ṭhākura (Lord Brahmā) and Advaita Prabhu (Lord Śiva). But we find elsewhere that Advaita Prabhu is Avatāra of Mahā Viṣṇu. So is there any mistake, that sometimes mentioned as Lord Śiva and sometimes as Mahā Viṣṇu? His question, only.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahā Viṣṇu is Sadāśiva. Sadāśiva and Mahā Viṣṇu, one and the same.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So Advaita Prabhu not that Ekadasa Rudra, not the same as eleven Rudras, Sadāśiva particularly.

But after all, the world of our sense experience is floating in our consciousness. This is its nature, floating in the ocean of consciousness. Not that mind is in the world, but world is in the mind. Mental sphere is more spacious than the world of experience of senses. The colour and the sound, all superficial things floating on the ocean of consciousness. Consciousness is more deeper and more spacious. This mind, and the plane of intelligence, buddhi, that is more spacious and more deeper. In this way, the part of our sense experience is very small, and floating in a part of, in a corner of our mental experience, ____ [?] together. What we see, what we feel, that is a part of our consciousness. That is the real conception of things. Consciousness presupposes its experience, presupposed by the world of experience. The cause is within and not in any external place. Then we can get out of it very quickly. If we can think so, it is difficult, we're accustomed to complain against our suffering, complain against others. That they are, the environment responsible for my misery. But that is misunderstanding. When we will be able to realise the misery comes from within, sometimes individually, sometimes collectively, it comes from within, not from outside, then we'll get relief very soon. The experts they are of such opinion.

In Bhāgavatam it is one step further. When the misery will come to visit you, it is the result of your own action previous. Not only tolerate, but if you can think that it is the grace of the Lord, not only the negative side, to tolerate, that my misery I'm experiencing, I 'm undergoing the past actions, the results of my own bad action. Not only that, but with some positive tinge of nectar. It is the grace of the Lord, His sanction. His sanction is connected with this particular incident. And He's all good, unquestionable good, He is. So there must be some good object in it.

hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

It is His grace. He wants me to purify as soon as possible, to release me as quickly as possible from my own action. That is His Grace. If we can feel that, very easily and very quickly we shall get out of this misery. That has been recommended by Bhāgavatam, to get out of the misery that comes from within. Nothing can occur, nothing can come without His sanction. And when His sanction is there, He's connected there. And His connection means His grace, all gracious. And we're to look to that, we're to invite that element of the great world above. And thereby we can promote our fortune, our fate, to be connected with that domain divine. No chaos, everything is cosmos. Cosmos connected with all good, we are to look like that.

I told that Indira name was given by Rabindranatha to Indira. Indira in European pronunciation, India, Indira, representing India. So Indira name was given by Rabindranatha. And she came to study for some time in Bharpur [?] University, Rabindranatha. _____ [?] She received her education from _____ [?]

Jawalarl [Pandit Nehru] was a student of _____ [?] College and Indira was also student for some time in _____ [?] And _____ [?] he took training in Vṛṣabhānu College. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gopeśvara: What is the meaning of the name Indira?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ind means resourcefulness, prosperity, aiśvarya. Indra the king of the heaven. Indra means master of property. And Indira means Lakṣmī from Ind who can give prosperity. Ra means to give. Rati-dadati, rati-laxati [?], who can protect and who can give the prosperity. She is Indira, Lakṣmī Devī. Lakṣmī's name is Indira. Lakṣmī, Padma, _____ [?] Kamala, Śrī Haripriya, _____ [?]

These are the names of Lakṣmī Devī. Lakṣmī, Padmavara, Padya, Kamala, Śrī, Haripriya, Indira, Lokamata, Ma, _____ [?] Rāma [?] These are the synonyms of the name of Lakṣmī. In dictionary you'll find, Amara-kośa, all synonyms of Lakṣmī. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Indra is the king of heaven, the master of all resources, fine resources. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ultimately all goes to the absolute. That is all relative position. The king, who is the king, that is relative, ultimately, that the king is not master of his own body, but to be master of your consciousness. Indra means absolute, the possessor of all resources is Kṛṣṇa. Everything goes to Kṛṣṇa when the rein is taken off. Mukta pragraha. When the rein is taken off from the horse, horse going, running its best and goes to the absolute. Every word goes to the absolute in its fullest meaning. And partially, relatively, it stands here and there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So cure yourself quickly. The place was waiting for you, partially at least. Gaura Hari.

Kṛṣṇa is the absolute but He says, ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, [hy asvatantra iva dvija sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ]

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

"I'm controlled by My devotees. I'm not independent. I have got My partiality. I can't avoid the request of My devotees. That is My weakness. Who have left everything and come to depend on Me, how can I discourage them? You say Durvāsā, how it is possible for Me, who has left everything for Me and don't want anything from Me, but if any request comes from their side, how can I deny that? Is it possible? Ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra. Though I'm absolute but still I have to come of My own accord to a relative position. A father, a husband, a son, all these relative position I shall have to observe, of My own accord, though I'm absolute. I'm an assistant. They're all depending on Me and I shall have to look after them. The absolute does not mean that He's all cruel. Must be sympathetic also. What can I do?

You say in the case of Ambarīṣa and yourself. You demand you are a brāhmaṇa, you demand you are a sannyāsī, but you flee for fear of your life.

But Ambarīṣa is standing there. He's not going to step back when your created fire wanted to burn him. _____ [?] He did not get back, only one step back, no, he stood firmly. "If I am culprit, let punishment go on with me." He did not back out.

But you, when Sudarśana came to charge you, you were flying from this to that, from the four corners of the world, you're running, after for fear of your life.

Who is more dignified position, Ambarīṣa or you?

You are a brāhmaṇa, he's a kṣatriya, but you yourself observed the Ekādaśī day, Dvādaśī and time of pāraṇa you showed respect that Ekādaśī vrata for Me. And he also did that. He showed respect to Me by observing properly Ekādaśī vrata. And you thought he has dishonoured you. You were his guest. And before feeding you he has taken a drop of water to observe the Ekādaśī day and with concerns to Me. You yourself did that vrata and he also did that only for Me, not for self feeding, self gratification. You could not tolerate, you thought he has dishonoured you.

So you say that you're a brāhmaṇa, very near to Me, and he's a kṣatriya, he's a little far off. He's gṛhastha, he's far off. You're sannyāsī, you're nearer to Me, brāhmaṇa. But this is only a fashion you see. But practically he's nearer to Me. He's not afraid of getting any punishment. And still he's waiting for you. He's fasting.

"That my guest I have not fed, Durvāsā. He's running hither, thither, restless, how can I feed myself."

He's still standing, waiting , and when you will go he will feed you and then he will take prasādam.

What do you say? _____ [?] Left everything and surrendered wholly to Me, should I not protect them? Little gratitude I must not have? Only I'm slave of your formality, and not the spirit? Spirit I shall ignore and only formality I shall make much of? What do you say, Durvāsā? Go to him, you will have to go to him. And to see how magnanimous he is, still unfed, standing waiting for you. Go and see."

And Durvāsā had to come and see and then appreciate.

Ambarīṣa came like a criminal. "What I have done? All these troubles to you brāhmaṇa, my guest, only for my fault. I'm culprit, I'm offender. Please be propitiated with me."

And Durvasa fell flat. "Yes, so magnanimous. It is possible only for the devotees of Nārāyaṇa. You are so great. We think, we boast of our brāhmaṇa birth and our yogīc attempt, but in fact you are really magnanimous people and we're far below." And in this way Durvāsā began to, aho ananta-dāsānāṁ, mahattvaṁ [dṛṣṭam adya me / kṛtāgaso 'pi yad rājan, mangalāni samīhase]

["I have seen the greatness of the servitors of the Anantadeva, Śrī Nārāyaṇa. You are so magnanimous that although I am an offender you have prayed for me. You hold an unparalleled position in the whole universe."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.5.14]

"The greatness of the servitors of Ananta deva, Nārāyaṇa, you all people hear how great, how magnanimous they are. Unparalleled position they hold in the whole universe."

In this way he began to preach, that Durvāsā, whose very nature is always to find fault with others and to give them punishment by his yogīc power. That is his nature. But he began to sing the song in praise of the devotees like Ambarīṣa.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Have you taken anything?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. The diet is everything now in this stage of your disease. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And the God sent friend you have got, that is a good sign. Nitāi Gaura Hari.
_____ [?] Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Optimism, cent per cent optimistic we shall have to become, cent per cent optimistic. And no place, no room of pessimism, Kṛṣṇa bhakta. He will apprehend that I may not commit any offence, specially against Vaiṣṇavas. Very alert, they should have to become. So gracious, so valuable fortune we're aspiring after. So I must be very, very careful. It will arouse envy, jealousy, on different parts, that we're connected with such a great fortune. So as much as possible we must be very much cautious, careful, that no disturbance may come outside to do away with our pure aspiration. Gaura Hari bol. So Mahāprabhu told,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."]
[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

In one word you must be conscious that you are living in a place which is worthless, no value. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, don't go to oppose anyone. No meaning of giving any opposition. It is all fictitious. Why should I lose my energy to give opposition to something, all fictitious. Taror api sahiṣṇunā, if any opposition comes to you, don't care for that. Their motive is only superficial. That may not affect your inner train, trend of thought. Don't be very careful about any opposition coming to you. Don't create any opposition to others, and still if any opposition comes to you, try not to care. It is all futile. Amāninā, and don't hanker after any appreciation from the ordinary public, any name and fame, appreciation. Because they do not know, their appreciation has got no value at all. They are all madmen, besides themselves. Their own good they do not know, so their appreciation has got no value, depreciation has also got no value. So don't hanker after any appreciation from the public. Mānadena, and still you must be alert to give their due respect, otherwise they will come to disturb you. Like bribe you show some, offer some respect to them, and go on with your own campaign. As much undisturbed, try to make progress as rapidly as possible. Your circumstance may cut off this opportunity and connection. So as much as the present circumstance you will be able to utilise, you try to do that. Live, live, in the active present. Trust no future however pleasant. Let the dead past bury its dead. Act, act in the living present, with heart within and God overhead. With this policy, go on.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Gadādhara. Nitāi Gaura Gadādhara. Nitāi Gaura Gadādhara. Nitāi Gaura Gadādhara. Now I shall fall flat on the bed.

Infinite minus infinite is infinite. Ha, ha. Zero minus zero is zero, zero plus zero is zero, zero into zero is zero. So is the question of infinite. Infinite plus infinite is infinite, infinite into infinite is infinite, infinite minus infinite is infinite. Beyond the reach of calculation. So adhokṣaja, beyond our jurisdiction of understanding. But He can connect us. He can connect us, we can't. Then, how we can have His connection? Only drawing His attention to connect with us. That is by increasing our negative characteristic.

'I'm so helpless. My position is the worst position. I desire the best attention.'

Sincerely by such prayer we can draw His attention. That is our purpose. So try to increase the negative aspect of our prayer, to draw His attention, that He may come down to us. We can't go up to His level, never. But He can come down. And how to affect Him to come down to my lower level? That is devotion. That is the very nature of devotion, increase my negative tendency, that I'm the lowest of the low, I'm the most needy. Not the mere statement, but such sincere feeling in one's own heart, that can draw.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. He's positive, the owner, possessor. He can exercise right means His power. We're dependent, relative position, the potency. Master is He. He can utilise us.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Yam evaiṣa vṛṇute tena labhyas. No qualification is sufficient to draw His attention, these mundane qualities here. The knowledge of the scriptures, and the sharp memory, intelligent energy, all failure.

nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
[yam evaiṣa vṛṇute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛṇute tanūṁ svām]

Never, by no means, yam evaiṣa vṛṇute, whomever He wants to speak with, comes to connect, he can have a a touch of Him. He can come, so subtle, so efficient, so powerful in all respect, posing higher position. So He can connect but we cannot connect, going up. A gross thing cannot enter, subtle thing can enter into gross. Ether can enter everywhere, but earth, stone cannot enter into ether. It can float on the ethereal ocean. So our position is gross. Consciousness, fine consciousness, very sharp intellect, that is also gross in comparison with His nature, energy. So āroha-panthā, ascending method is a failure. Descending method, that after He descends to my level, earnest prayer, heart felt prayer, that is bhakti, devotion, śaraṇāgati, surrender.

'No other alternative, my Lord. Without Your grace, no other alternative.'

Such sincere ways can touch Him and attract Him. Dainyam, humility is the beginning of śaraṇāgati. Dainyam really, and not any show of humility but most heart felt sincere humility. Then one helpless, humble, necessarily will search for some support. Then ātma-nivedanam, dainyam, ātma-nivedanam. When one feels himself quite helpless then naturally he seeks for some support. So ātma-nivedanam, 'Where to throw myself for any existence of any improvement and maintenance, I have nothing. I'm no entity, so some entity is necessary to depend on, to respond as necessary, a dire desired necessity. So goptṛtve varaṇaṁ, and then to accept. "You are my protector. You are my guardian. You are all in all. I throw myself in Your grace, sweet will. I have no other alternative. Goptṛtve, rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso. From the first of the idea, He's great, He's magnanimous, He must protect me. He must give me shelter, to foster such idea. Bhakti ānukūl _____ [?] and what is favourable, such life, to accept that, and what is unfavourable, to reject that. This is śaraṇāgati. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. This is the basis of spiritual life, devotional life. Without this, no devotion can stand, can stay, can be considered.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

[mahā-viṣṇur jagat-kartā, māyayā yaḥ sṛjaty adaḥ]
tasyāvatāra evāyam, advaitācārya īśvaraḥ

["Lord Advaita Ācārya is the incarnation of Mahā-Viṣṇu, whose main function is to create the cosmic world through the actions of māyā."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 6.4]

Mahā-Viṣṇu is Sadāśiva. Sadāśiva means the position of Śiva as a devotee. Śiva when he has connection with the - generally Śiva is the representation of the marginal position. Śiva, when the aspect of Śiva on this side, this material specification, that is Rudra. And crossing the impersonal conception, on the other side, that is the side of the Vaikuṇṭha serving section, there the Śiva is a devotee, Sadāśiva. Śivaloka. Just below Vaikuṇṭha there is Śivaloka. In Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta you will see. And there Śiva is a devotee of Nārāyaṇa. And this Śiva, Rudra, is his lower function. And that is the highest points of Sadāśiva on the positive side. And this is in the negative side. Negative side he's the master of the misconception, the opposition party leader. He's the leader of the opposition party, in the negative side. He represents the whole creation, some way or other. _____ [?] The highest misconceived, not, the top rank of the misconceived soul is Śiva, Rudra. So I say the leader of the opposition party. And after crossing that non-differentiated area Virajā, Brahmaloka, on the other side, just below Vaikuṇṭha, he has got Śivaloka. There Śiva is a devotee Śiva. Because anything there all of serving attitude towards the centre, so Sadāśiva. Sadāśiva is a devotee Śiva and here this side Rudra, the māyā-diśa, māyā-pati Śiva, he represents in general the interest of the whole misguided souls, avyākṛtaṁ.

svadharmma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti [tataḥ paraṁ hi mām avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye]

["A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29]

In Bhāgavatam śloka Śiva himself says, "If one can perform his varṇāśrama duty for hundred births purely, then he's given the position of Brahmā, the creator of this whole universe, Brahmā." Viriñcatām eti tataḥ paraṁ hi mām. After that, Brahmā is the leader of the world of exploitation, he's created and he's a member, and he's giving decision, he represents himself and on behalf of this exploiting world, Brahmā. And Śiva just above, in the land of renunciation. Some connection with the exploiting world, and the renunciation proper nirviśeṣa, non-differentiated area, the result of proper renunciation is non-differentiated area. Everything non-specified, non-differentiated, avyākta. And Śiva covers this side, a tinge of exploitation to the other side, lower part of the serving attitude. So there he's Mahā-Viṣṇu, Sadāśiva, and this side the master of the whole of the māyā. Brahmā is under māyā and there Śiva is Rudra.

Tal-liṅgaṁ bhagavān śambhur [Brahma-saṁhitā, 8]. Mahāviṣṇur jagat-patiḥ [Brahma-saṁhitā, 10] The ray from Mahā-Viṣṇu comes to this prakṛti and it creates a movement here and then creation begins. And here Śiva says, avyākṛtaṁ, svadharmma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti tataḥ paraṁ hi mām. "Then next one attains my position, mukta-jīva, Sadāśiva, my position, above māyā, and not a bona fide servitor, that position. Paraṁ hi mām avyākṛtaṁ. Which is not very easily understandable, my position, avyākṛtaṁ. Not very clearly specified, because it is connected with non-specification and non-differentiation, nirviśeṣa, avyākṛtaṁ. Tataḥ paraṁ hi mām, avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ. Above me there is another domain which is known as vaiṣṇava padaṁ, where the Vaiṣṇavas live. And there the bhāgavata, the Vaiṣṇava, they're freely moving there in the service of Nārāyaṇa. Avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye. And one day I also myself expect to enter into that domain, kalātyaye, when the wholesale dissolution will come to be effected here. I also aspire after that position one day to become one with the Vaiṣṇava rank."

This is in Bhāgavatam. So Śiva-tattva, Guru-tattva and Dhāma-tattva, these three things, to have a clear conception is a difficult thing. Guru, bhedābheda is always there. This Dhāma, what we say on the surface, and what should be according to the idea, this differentiation and the adjustment between them, it is difficult to understand. And Guru-tattva in different forms, in different places, in different occasion it may appear to the relative position amongst the disciples.

So, He says, "I am there, one in many forms."

And Śiva-tattva, this side, that side, and even over coming, bridging over the nirviśeṣa. This is saviśeṣa and the other is also saviśeṣa in the middle, the marginal position is nirviśeṣa, not this, nor that, taṭasthā. Neither land nor water, the meeting place of both, neither spirit nor matter. The connecting position, very difficult to understand, to differentiate that. And Siva's position is there, something of the water, something of the land, in this way.

So jīva is also of the same nature. The wholesale representation of the jīva, as a class, may be compared with that of Mahādeva. After renunciation, jīva may attain the position of Śiva. But śivo 'ham, they think, the Śivaites, that this is the highest position. "We say that śivo ham, then after that nārāyaṇa bhakto ham it should begin, it does not end there. Śivo 'ham, it is not the last point. Then bhakto 'ham, bhakta śivo 'ham, it will be higher. It will connect with the world of dedication, the beginning of dedication. A portion of exploitation, a portion of dedication, and in the middle, the whole of renunciation. Three things combine Śiva.

Just as in the border, at Pakistan and Bangladesa border, there are so many families, one house in India and another house in Bangladesa. They have got special passports. When they come this house, suppose their cows are in India and the dining place is in Bangladesa, and the marginal line between the two. 'I'm in India, and few minutes after I'm in Bangladesa.' Something like that.

So visa, passport, perhaps only in one line, their visa and passport. A portion of house in India and another portion of his house in Bangla. So they have got a new class of passport and visa combined perhaps, in one line. Ha, ha. This is the character.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Versatile but no dedication for one place.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Dedication. When they're in India they feel some better position. More want there in Bangladesa. Things are very high price. In India little cheaper. So when they comes here, the land of dedication to them, and when in the other place, the land of exploitation. More money is necessary there to live in. And here cheap rate living is possible, little better. The salt may not be bought there, but here you can get salt easily. In this way.

Just as you enter Nepal, perhaps much facility there. But enter India you do not get so much facility. Nepal is a favourite of America. India has got no such pleasant position with America. So then if you go to Nepal, monetary transaction with America and other countries, that will be easy for you perhaps. But in India that may be difficult.

You will come from England. Oh, you have got a letter from your mother?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You got it?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yeah, general.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And I'm told that she has sent some money? To go to London?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, no, she did not, no. She said she will save it, save the money. But in Delhi one man said he would buy me a ticket, to go there. So, maybe.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: New Zealand, in British commonwealth?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So some happy relation between the members of commonwealth?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: From London, visa necessary?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: For me?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No, for any Indian?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But recently they said we may give also, India said, we may give less facility to commonwealth.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Indians enter in any way and want to stay there permanently, so some caution against Indians. _____ [?] More population and no food.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Also the English are a little racial, they're a little prejudiced.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Against Indians?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Against only Indians?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, against other different colour race.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now there is a great movement. And Margaret Thatcher only on that point here she has got the chance, a hater of other nationalities.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: She got successful on that plea. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only on that issue, in the election, Margaret has come out successful. 'That we don't like that other people will come and throng in this British Isles.'

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. But still, commonwealth are welcomed here. No formality. So more mercy from here. Land of mercy is here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] in the beginning he did not like to stay within commonwealth. When the name was British commonwealth, then he last requested much, he told that 'British must be, this word must be removed. Only commonwealth. Then I can remain within that.' And it was done so. And then he accepted. But at first he wanted that no connection with British.

Atlee was at that time prime minister _____ [?] which was cancelled and Atlee came.

And Swāmī Mahārāja used to say. At lee and char chill. Char means in Bengali four, and chill means kites, Churchill means four kites. And art lee Ar means Bengali eight. Eight lee, lee is a particular word in Bengali literature. Art lee. Eight lees and four kites. Ha, ha. Churchill and Atlee. _____ [?]

Once, Churchill gave appreciation for Jawalarl [Pandit Nehru], "That this gentleman was compelled to live in jail, in prison house for eighteen years, but he does not bear any revenge within his heart." This was once told by Churchill. "In British India he was imprisoned for eighteen years, but he has not that poison in his heart to react against us." This was Churchill's statement once.

And Dāmodara Sabarcarth [?], he was in _____ [?] jail thirty eight years. And when India was independent, he was released. He was student in _____ [?] studying in London. There was a case of murder in _____ [?] college, some gentleman was murdered. I don't remember, _____ [?] or something.

And then Indian leaders were present at that time in London and they convened a meeting and passed a resolution, "That this murder, this is a most hateful thing has been committed. We disown our association from that. _____ [?] This resolution is being passed in this meeting unanimously."

Then Sabarcarth he was a student there. He stood erect. "No, not unanimously, I oppose."

Then all was perplexed. "What this young boy says? He takes so much risk in his life. That murder there and he says we have no connection, we condemn it, this resolution passed unanimously in this meeting. 'No, I oppose.'"

And after that Sabarcarth he ran towards India. _____ [?] And British Government got this information and wanted to capture him. By this time he's on the boat. And they also followed. And when the ship came to Italian port and Sabarcath got down and was running, and with the help of the Italian police, British captured him and took him to India and imprisonment for life and he was sent _____ [?] and he was there.

And we're told, one day when the British superintendent of the jail in _____ [?] when Rabindranatha got Nobel prize, then approached him and told, "When India will be ready for independence, we shall give it to her. We have got our watching eye over India, we love India. And we do not like that India will be always under bondage. You see we have given appreciation to Rabindranatha, your countryman, a Nobel prize. So put faith in us."

And Sabarcath answered, "What you have found in Rabindranatha? Our cultivators, when they're ploughing in the field, they also sing such song that is more higher than, in thought, than Rabindranatha. Don't come to teach me, go away."

Sabarcath was anti Gandhi. And it is told that, 'he has murdered Gandhi through some agent.'

"That man, taking the garb of religion and the matter is there, only politics. Politics within religion is causing a great harm in the religious world, an enemy of the religious world. Politics is politics. And this ahiṁsā, truth, all these big things, which is meant only for spiritual life, and he's using all these things for some mean transient mortal purpose, he's setting a bad example to India. Kṛṣṇa, Bhagavān, He came here, Rāmacandra, They recommended war and They Themselves did participate in the battle, and this man becomes higher than that. He must be removed as soon as possible.

Hari-jana, he has given the name to the lower class as hari-jana.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: The untouchables.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is really devoted to Hari, he has given the name of hari-jana and they are all māyā-jana, living the life of a debauch. _____ [?] What is this? Hari-jana is not a very cheap thing, not so cheap. Hari-jana should be revered and regarded, how high ideal the life of men of Hari. And that is in the lowest bad habits, bad activity. Hari.

And Vivikānanda said daridra-nārāyaṇa, and that is a qualification to become poor, that is the qualification one can become Nārāyaṇa. These fools.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Madness. He, Gandhi, called them hari-janas and then they called him mahātmā. 'If you call us hari-jana then we'll call you mahātmā.'

Sridhara Maharaja: There is one saying, _____ [?]
The camel has got his marriage ceremony, matrimonial ceremony, and the ass has been appointed to sing in the function. Now both the parties, ass says, _____ [?] "How beautiful is the bridegroom." He's singing, praising the beauty of the camel. And camel is also giving his appreciation, "How beautiful the tone of the song, very, very nice tone, very melodious tone of the song." The mutual praise, adoration.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Last night Gopeśvara and myself we were discussing about Guru-tattva, and Śiva-tattva and Dhāma-tattva. We were trying to. Can you tell us some more about Dhāma-tattva and Guru-tattva. It seems not clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything is favourable, but we can't see, rather see it unfavourable to us, unfavourable. The home has become the abode of the enemy. Apparently it looks like that to us. What is that Dhāma? Generally we think Dhāma is like the capitol. Just as a country has got its capitol, so, in one sense that should be considered. Everywhere He is. He's everywhere. Not any place, not any atom where He's not existent in His full capacity.

To Prahlāda, when his father questioned, "Where is your Hari?"
"He's everywhere."
"Is he in this post?"
"Yes."
"Let me see." He pushed, the post was broken and Nṛsiṁhadeva came out roaring. A peculiar figure to prove...

satyaṁ vidhātuṁ nija-bhṛtya-bhāṣitaṁ, vyāptiṁ ca bhūteṣv akhileṣu cātmanaḥ adṛśyatātyadbhuta-rūpam udvahan, stambhe sabhāyāṁ na mṛgaṁ na mānuṣam

["To prove that the statement of His servant Prahlāda Mahārāja was substantial — in other words, to prove that the Supreme Lord is present everywhere, even within the pillar of an assembly hall — the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Hari, exhibited a wonderful form never before seen. The form was neither that of a man nor that of a lion. Thus the Lord appeared in His wonderful form in the assembly hall."]

...satyaṁ vidhātuṁ nija-bhṛtya-bhāṣitaṁ, to make true, to prove the truth of the words of His own servant that He's everywhere, to prove that, He came out. Satyaṁ vidhātuṁ nija-bhṛtya-bhāṣitaṁ, vyāptiṁ ca bhūteṣv akhileṣu. "That I'm anywhere and everywhere." Adbhuta-rūpam udvahan. In a peculiar figure He appeared. Na mṛgaṁ na mānuṣam. Neither an animal nor a human, in such a figure. He's everywhere, with all His force.

But still, what is the peculiarity of the Dhāma? Everywhere the supreme authority has got His power, but still in the capitol, the power is concentrated. More concentrated we find in the capitol. And especially in the durga, in the forts, the forces are collected in forts. But the whole is everywhere in the world, still that concentrated fort. Similarly we can think Dhāma, everywhere though His presence and His power may be displayed, but still it is concentrated in a particular position. That may be thought as Dhāma, from one standpoint.

From another standpoint, it is just like a map to us. The map is not the real country. A map of a country is not the real country, but still it gives some idea about the country. So also what we have in the Dhāma, in the superfluous conception, we can feel it just like a map. Navadwīpa Dhāma like a map. But map has some relation with the reality of the country. So, at least we must have a conception of Dhāma as if from a map now, when we shall dive deep from the surface then we will come into the country from the map. Similarity is there, we shall find. In this way position of the conception of Dhāma. Dhāma to be expected in other countries, there may be other parts of a country priority condition but Dhāma must be favourable for the living of a devotee. But here we find more difficulties for a devotee. How we are to harmonise, adjust, but this is to be adjusted. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura said, ekhon je brahmakule caitnyer ari, ta'ke jani caitanyer lila-pustikari

["I know that these enemies of Lord Caitanya, coming from brāhmaṇa background, are actually assistants for giving nourishment to Lord Caitanya's pastime."] [From Prarthana Lalasamayi, Prayer of eager longing, Song 4, The secret of Lord Caitanya's enemies, 11]

Though in these days also we find that so many brāhmaṇas, in the body of a brāhmaṇa, they're very oppositionist to the cult of Śrī Caitanyadeva. In the fullest adjustment, how should I to reckon them. ____ [?]
lila-pustikari. The necessity, the opposition party is necessary. Anvayāt [direct], itarataś [indirect]. Indirect help. Direct help and indirect help. So indirect position is also necessary to enhance the activity of the direct school. In this way we are to adjust. In Vṛndāvana also so many asura, the friends will be there, and Kaṁsa's servants, agents will be there always in Vṛndāvana. We must be prepared for that. And this is necessary. The opposition is always necessary to the highest quarter.

Yaśodā also, many ladies are coming with complaint. "Yaśodā, your boy, you can't control. He's doing mischief to our own house, breaking the pots, and looting the butter, and all these things. We have complaints almost every day to you. You do not care how wrong it is. It is very objectionable." With such complaint they have come.

One day Yaśodā's sister-in-law she came. Yaśodā told, "You capture my boy and take to me. I shall punish him."

"He flies away, and we fail to catch him."

"Then I don't hear your complaint. Capture him and take to me, then I shall punish him."

Then one day, anyhow she could capture Gopāla and took Him to Yaśodā. "Yes, now, today I have anyhow captured your boy and took him, punish him."

Then Yaśodā, "It is your boy. You have caught, you say, Oh, your son, he's a most wicked type and doing so many wrongs, and you say that my son is doing mischief in your house. See."

Then after looking, "Oh."

Kṛṣṇa in the meantime He has transformed Himself. So in such way.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet [ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]

[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

The līlā, the necessity of līlā fundamentally requires this opposition. It is necessary to help the positive side from a different direction. The more trouble to acquire the wealth, the more tasteful. The more hunger, the more tasteful. So we should not be cowed down by the superficial opposition. It is test. And we want the highest thing and without undergoing any sort of trouble? This must be injustice. Magnanimous from the consideration from the quality of thing which is being sold so cheaply. The quality, we must concentrate to the quality. And then the trouble to get, to make for the piece of the quality. What thing? Brahmādi deva yāra nāhi pāya.

["This is the glory of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu's causeless mercy, which even the demigods, headed by Lord Brahmā, cannot estimate."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 16.76]

Even Brahmā cannot have any conception of the thing. The Brahmā, the creator have nothing of that thing in his brain, such a valuable thing. And what trouble we are going to undergo for that higher thing. In consideration of the quality of the highest order, this trouble which you, the people are, "You, red faced monkey, you lambu." They say, "His fault he's a tall man, he's lambu. I told him that your Mahāprabhu was no lambu." _____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In the primary state Prahlāda had to prove, śuddha bhakti, first stage begins from Prahlāda. And he was in the ordeal. His own father was his enemy, putting him into fire, into ocean, under the feet of the elephant, poisoning, and also using the tantric mantram against him to murder him. No stone left unturned, to murder Prahlāda, but all was futile. Prahlāda had to prove, how the dignity of devotion. That what sacrifice? No sacrifice is greater for the object that are proposed for us to get. The first fight was given in his example how valuable things, and what sort of tribulation we must endure, and the victory is in our part. However impossible it may be, but still the victory is in our side. Prahlāda, in the beginning of this pure devotion, śuddha bhakti, he showed the fight there with māyā.

And then next Hanumān, Pāṇḍavas, how tribulation, though not fighting, but circumstantial...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ..."What is that? What we receive in its, our internal joy, how, why, that, of higher value is that?" Kuntī says. "The external danger, the external difficulties, that is nothing. I invite that. But if external troubles bring along with You, Your recollection, Your presence, Your sympathy for us, and that is so high, we're not ready to give up that for this material comfort."

So, so many, they hate this external joy. Just as an ordinary sādhaka, a man of little independent nature, independent nature of the world, he won't like a kingdom, or any fame, all this is disturbance he will think. He wants to retire in a cave and to think about the Lord. But all these material prosperity is thought to be opposite, tasteless and enemy to him.

And Parīkṣit Mahārāja putting such question to Śukadeva Goswāmī. "The worshippers of other demigods, they are found to live very happily in this world. But the devotees of Nārāyaṇa, Viṣṇu, they have to undergo much penances and difficulty here. What is the cause?"

Direct this question was put to Śukadeva and Śukadeva's answer came straight.

"The demigods, they're masters of this world, mundane world. And when they're propitiated they give these mundane things to them. And Nārāyaṇa, He's the king of the spiritual wealth and He gives His dealings with spiritual substance, not this mundane. This money, this men, this fame, popularity, all these things have got no value there. There, value is serving spirit. The ātmā prasāda, the satisfaction of the soul, and that is given there, and so they do not like these things to be received, so such is the condition."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So Dhāma, our Mādana Manohara Prabhu, he says that, "Vṛndāvana is very favourable. At least there, when we wander in the street, the people do not come to insult us. But here if we go to bazaar, this _____ [?] anything, if seen they come to bite us, like a tiger, just like animals. _____ [?] Animals of two kinds, some meek and some are curious. _____ [?] hiṁsā, just like that animals _____ [?] But Vṛndāvana of course is free from such trouble, so I think I should live in Vṛndāvana."

Badrinārāyaṇa: Vṛndāvana has the biggest demons.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But we must be attentive to our highest attainment. In Vṛndāvana our attainment here may be externalised, may be comfortable, but internal process is difficult. But here if we can collect a ticket from here, Nityānanda Prabhu, Mahāprabhu, then Vṛndāvana is within our fist, and that highest position and of purest character. So the trouble here is ultimately to pay us in cash for the highest goal, Navadwīpa. And especially this place, aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ, all types of crime was forgiven by Mahāprabhu when He came here, back. After sannyāsa, after His tour from the south and conquering the scholar section, the typical, Sārvabhauma, and the rich section, that is the King Pratāparudra, in His glory of a victor when He came to visit His mother land, so to say, with such a magnanimous heart He came. All the previous animistic persons, they fell on His feet. There, a general amnesty was ordered for them, all absolved, from all sorts of crime.

kuliyā-grāmete āsi' śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya, hena nāhi, yā 're prabhu nā karilā dhanya

["At Koladvīpa - the Govardhana Hill of Vṛndāvana, concealed in Śrī Navadvīpa Dhāma - the Most Generous Absolute expressed Himself in His maximum generosity. Without considering any crime, He absolved whoever He found. He accepted them all."] [Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Antya, 3.541]

No one was there who was not satisfied by His grace. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. The obstacles may be removed and they get the grace of Gaurāṅga and the Rādhā-Govinda combined. They're the dispenser, then when combined, both the parties are propitiated in one place, then everything is got by Them. Nothing _____ [?]

tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadwīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadwīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."]

As much as we get, can acquire the grace of Gaurāṅga, automatically we shall find within us the grace of Rādhārāṇī. And negative, and the highest quantity and quality, negative character, both, which can draw the rasa, raso vai saḥ. The ecstasy can be drawn for the followers, with maximum quantity and quality, in mādhurya rasa by Her. Quality is such, of wonderful type.

It was impossible for me to live _____ [?] But now when He has come to found such a tasteful thing, without this, how could I live? _____ [?] eternity." But still, such a wonderful expression comes from his lips. "If I could not get this, then how could I live?" So much fulfilment of life of such high degree, he has tasted there. It is impossible for anyone to contain his life without the taste of such highest thing, highest prospect.

Without His grace, who would be able to know the super excellent devotional path that gives entrance into the transcendental realm of the ambrosial ecstasy of Vṛndāvana? Who would be able to attain the mood and taste of the topmost devotional ecstasy of the young damsels of Vraja?"]

"How could I drag on with my health, my body, if I could not have the chance of coming in contact with such most valuable thing? Prema-rasa-sīmā, rādhāra mahimā, jagate jānāta ke. How could we know that Rādhārāṇī holds the highest position, highest positioned lady, and Who is sometimes condemned by the public _____ [?] and She holds the highest position? Without this broad scholarly explanation, wonderful, full of peculiar knowledge, how it would be possible to come to have such impossible knowledge, impossible understanding, this is such? The highest position is there, crossing the directions of the scriptures, neglecting the society, neglecting the so-called superiors, to come to Kṛṣṇa. That is the highest in the face of connection of Kṛṣṇa, no scriptural, or no social, or no other moral sanctions are necessary. He's above all. The Beauty is Autocrat, Beauty does not care for any laws of the world in any way. Beauty is such, He does not care for any law. What good is there. And that is the ultimate thing, how could we know? How could we know?"

If Gaurāṅga did not come with His most generous example right here, to spread that skilfully, even to the scholars and to the other moralists and others. Your moral calculation how much, why limit Him in a particular meagre society morality it is. To God, your relationship with our own hearty master of our own heart. The moralists they will always come to judge, such noble connection we have got to be challengable. Our relationship with the highest authority to be challengable, by any law or any power or any opposition? It is so low, so mean. He's above all.

Nityānanda Prabhu gives rather another layer. Only His duty concentrated to take anyone, everyone to Gaurāṅga. Fall, make anything, everyone to fall in the feet of Gaurāṅga. Nothing more necessary. All else should be automatically done, the highest fortune he will attain. Only call and collect and fell in the feet dust of Gaurāṅga, nothing else is necessary. Whoever he may be, a Muslim, the lowest class people, not the scholarly, nor the moral and material purification, proud, not these things are necessary. Anyone, the form of the lowest type, to anyhow have connection with the feet of Gaurāṅga. All these disqualification, they may be returned in a second, the qualification. Such touch stone, Gaurāṅga. Such a touch stone. And anything He converts not only to any little type of jewel but the highest type of jewel. Touch stone which can convert anything to the highest type of jewel, such a touch stone. Anyhow to take under the feet of Gaurāṅga, whoever he may be does not matter. There the so called qualification and the so-called non-qualification, the difference is very meagre, in this world. Now qualified, the next minute he will be disqualified. So in this vicious circle, in this circle he's always moving. And now brāhmaṇa, he will become a beast, the next time a tree, then again he'll get the chance to become a god. In this way, so when holding higher position it has no value, permanent value. The next time he'll be here, and next time again he'll be there, everywhere, moving in such a circle, up and down. So no real value to this saguṇa, sattva guṇa _____ [?] That is the difference in this misconception, area of misconception. The conception of good and bad, both is wrong.

_____ [?] When Mahāprabhu went from Purī to Vṛndāvana through the jungle, at that time the elephants, the tigers, the deer, and so many other animals began to dance and to chant the name of Kṛṣṇa. How is it possible? Because the wave of Mahāprabhu, the wave, the nature of prema was so subtle that can pierce through the body and mentality of man or animal, etc, and work independently in the plane of ātmā, in cetana. The finest layer is that of ātmā everywhere. Just as ether, it pervades everywhere. So the ethereal wave can cross the walls and sea and the atmosphere, air, and can go everywhere and anywhere. The light of X-ray, that concentrated light can pierce wall, or pierce our flesh and body and can show the internal things. So our mentality, this physical covering and the mental cover can be crossed in the finest plane of ātmā. Independent of the mind and the body of an animal, the Nāma, Brahman, the wave can spread Itself, assert Itself, and the animal can hear and dance and chant.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja wants to say that if you do not understand the language of the one who is explaining in any language, independent of language the atmosphere, that here is Kṛṣṇa kathā, the bhāva, kanti, and all these things, that won't be useless. That will do some work.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ahaitukī apratihata yayatma suprasidhati. The wave of bhakti, ahaitukī, causeless, and apratihatā, irresistible. Apratihatā, and ahaitukī, most fundamental, that is the cause of everything, and that has got no other cause, causing himself, or herself. Bhakti is cause of herself. And none can resist, no power can resist when she wants to assert herself. She's potency of Kṛṣṇa. Only with the attitude of recipient we should try to interfere with her, recipient characteristic. Śraddhā, we shall open the door to welcome her freely and enter, śraddhā. Jñāna miśrā bhakti, Mahāprabhu cancelled, "eho bāhya."

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

"Eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59]. Then Rāmānanda came with,

jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitāṁ [bhavadīya-vārtām
sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

"Yes, it begins here." So, no knowledge can give any connection with devotion. Knowledge, it is beyond the range of the knowledge, knowledge can connect it with the gross plane, but the finest plane, knowledge cannot approach. It is beyond its jurisdiction. Only by śraddhā, faith, we can come in connection with that plane. Just as force cannot connect, cannot enter into the domain of knowledge. The physical force cannot enter or act in the plane of knowledge, consciousness, So consciousness cannot enter the plane of faith, śraddhā. It is of different type. So bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31], bhakti is its own cause. Neither force, that is energy, nor knowledge can contribute anything to develop bhakti within us. Bhakti is its own cause, bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bhakti is ahaitukī, it has no other cause. Neither knowledge nor energy. They can play on the gross plane, they are covers, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam, they're only covers of bhakti, and bhakti is within. That is faith. Not a deceiver there, that one will go to examine things before acceptance, vicāra. Vicāra, judgement, justice, where there is possibility of cheating, there requires the position of justice. Where no cheating, no justice necessary. So jñāna, tarka, that is of a lower order, because amongst the cheaters they will have to adjust by justice. But where there's no cheating, all utilisation, all favouring to everyone, no room of justice, no jñāna. So jñāna, karma, all futile, they're cover of the māyā, and if you dive deep into your own soul's function, no connection with karma, jñāna. Anyābhilāṣitā etc.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No object can exist without subject. No subject can exist without object. But in introspection a part of subject becomes object. So, consciousness is independent, but this matter is dependent. Consciousness can think of himself. Evaṁ buddheḥ paraṁ buddhvā, saṁstabhyātmānam ātmanā. We can concentrate in samādhi, withdraw our consciousness from outside, and put it in our own subjective nature. Saṁstabhyātmānam ātmanā.

evaṁ buddheḥ paraṁ buddhvā, saṁstabhyātmānam ātmanā
jahi śatruṁ mahā-bāho, kāma-rūpaṁ durāsadam

["O mighty Arjuna! Knowing the soul to be thus perfectly distinct from the intelligence, steady the mind with resolute intelligence and destroy the indomitable enemy, lust."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.43]

And this is highest policy of complete withdrawal from the charm of the objective world. The soul is independent of matter. Soul is independent. Without any part playing by the matter soul can exist independently. And soul can be its own object. The soul can be the world of his own search. Then higher soul is there, more higher subject, to whom the lower soul is object. In this way going on.

Even withdrawal from the material conception, and enter into the world of soul, spirit, where everywhere is spirit. And I'm also in the midst of that. Retire from the land, to retire into water, then from there we can retire into air, in this way. Free from the land, without any touch of the land, without any touch of the water, we can remain in the air. Then we can remain in the ether, air up to fifty hundred miles around the earth, then there is no air. Then there is only ether.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, can you explain this universal particular, universal self, this relationship between universal particular, and individual self.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, both.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Three.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Individual souls are also there, particles of soul, spirit, and wholesale, gradation. Aṅgsi, aṅga, the part and the whole. In this way it is going to higher region, part and whole. Because our conception is limited we sometimes see this whole and a part. Again, if we go further then we see whole is more spacious and the part is here. A greater conception of a part, and greater conception of a whole, progressive, no end.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Is that the same as Brahman, Paramātmā and Bhagavān?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No end, according to the capacity the breadth and width increased. Universe of discourse. According to the capacity of the eye we can - our area of vision is low or high, small or big, capacity of the eye increases. And with telescope your zone will be greater. In this way the progress. Finite can go to measure infinite. Everywhere centre nowhere circumference. But still, progress is there, going on, increasing conception. Everywhere centre nowhere circumference.

So, aprākṛta, when finite approaches to us, as infinite approaches to us like finite in aprākṛta, our fullest realisation is there. Don't lose your energy in the conception of infinite. That is useless to you. But when infinite comes to meet you in a particular form that you can have Him in a fullest way. The vātsalya rasa, the mādhurya rasa, sākhya rasa, He has come to you, so near and so tangible, it is your highest realisation. You cannot approach infinite by your own worth or capacity. But when He comes to you in the finite form, then you can have Him in the closest position. The highest realisation, aprākṛta, which is very similar to prākṛta, phenomenal world, very similar but not phenomenal, aprākṛta means this.

That infinite of two kinds, in its own characteristic, and in the characteristic of your tangibility, aprākṛta. He's infinite but He's approached you in the form of finite as you can feel most. That is aprākṛta, that is in Vṛndāvana. He has come so near, Yaśodā whipping, carrying the shoes of Nanda. So near He has come to finite.

Mahāprabhu told that is only by the transaction of heart we can approach that area, not by brain, understanding anything, power. Attract Him by the heart, by surrender. Increase your negative character. "I'm helpless. I'm the poorest." Then you can draw Him towards you. That is the key. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. Don't, never approach by your knowing capacity that you will measure Him, you will know Him. Jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3] cast away hatefully the attempt to know Him.

"No. I want to serve Him, to be utilised by Him, by His men, those who are in His connection."

Be humble. Tṛṇād api sunīcena [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3] Think yourself of your smallest characteristic that you are most negligent factor in the universe. That will help you to draw the absolute towards you, and not that you will make yourself big and you will swallow the absolute. Not that.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

The approach in Bhagavad-gītā is a thorough approach.

An ordinary qualified man may teach the primary student, and a higher educated professor also can give training to the infants. That will be different.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything is in consciousness. One is conscious of everything, even every dust. Nothing is unknown and neglected. That is a great achievement. Universal consciousness, that just as we're conscious of our own body, our own things, our own deeds, so universal consciousness is there. Not even a dust is not within His reckon. Everything has got fullest record and position in His consciousness. That is another world, adhokṣaja. Adhokṣaja, a diabolical change cannot but come in the heart of any person. We may lose it, we may not have any consciousness, any memory of anything particular. It is clear.

Avaram bhavato janma param janma brhaspata _____ [?]

"I know anything and everything. Even the whole history of a dust. Everything within My knowledge."

It is not non-scientific, if we can rise up to this standard, then we can have a diabolical change in our angle of vision. That the background, fully conscious of every atom, nothing is lost in Him. Such a universal...awake, fully awake to the interest of every atom in this world, background there is that. And not only conscious, but also affectionate. Affection, interest for everything is recorded, maintained there, That is a graphic change in anyone's life, progress towards theism, it is very strengthened. And that is Vasudeva, within whom everything is living, and He's also living within everything, that is Vasudeva conception of the Supreme Lord. This is not the highest conception, but still the primary conception of real theism is here, Puruṣottama-vada.

brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, [amṛtasyāvyayasya ca
śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca]

position of inexhaustible nectar and the sweetness of the ambrosia of profound love divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 14.27]

The Brahman conception, all-accommodating, but inert, but wakeful, vigilant eye to everything. Everything is recorded with interest. That is at the background of the whole. Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ. The gist of the Ṛg mantra is, Brāhmaṇas are advised to utter this mantram before they approach any function.

oṁ tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātatam
[tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgṛvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat paramaṁ padam]

["As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head."] [Ṛg Veda, 1.22.20]

This Ṛg mantra, a primary mantram in the Ṛg Veda, the oldest scripture, revealed scripture of the world. So far it is, has got recognition. Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ. The noble feet of Viṣṇu, padaṁ, aspect, the one noble aspect of lower aspect, noble, lower aspect of Viṣṇu is this. Viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya. The theistic scholars are always to view it in such a way. Sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātatam. Just as a big eye over our head, divī and aca, over our head, a big, an infinite eye is over our head. What is that? That viṣṇo param, that is the feet of Viṣṇu. The feet of Viṣṇu, the lowest conception of Viṣṇu, what is that? That is of this nature. What is its nature? That like an infinite eye, a large eye always spread on our head. Just as like the sun, seeing everything, inspecting everything, whatever is going on here. And that is the Holy Feet of Viṣṇu. The characteristic of the Holy Feet of Viṣṇu is such. That is the so called lowest portion of Him. There the world is accommodated in a fully conscious atmosphere. Think yourself this, and do any activity, any action, that you are such and such.

Sambandha-jñāna, this is your position. So how to approach any action. You get inspiration from such idea, such conception of your life. Draw your inspiration from this sort of conception of your environment. The vigilante eye of your guardian is scrutinizingly inspecting everything what you do. With this idea you approach to anyone, any activity, and person, all detected. Nothing secret, all open, nothing concealed. This idea, your behaviour will be transparent, it will be as clear, as pure as anything. Only just begin to interfere, to handle any activity, this yajña, or this pūjā, or whatever it may be, think your position, you are such and such. You are such and such, and you are going to deal with another one in a particular way for a particular interest. Always be, that your position is such.

Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya. The suris [?] and the devotees, the liberated souls, they get such conception of their position in this universe. Divīva cakṣur ātatam. Cakṣur means eye, the great eye spread on our head, ātatam. And Sūrya also, cakṣur means Sūrya, just like a sun spread on our head, a searchlight, like a searchlight over our head, is there. Then how shall we do? Can't conceive anything. So we must be pure, in and out. Must have to be pure in and out, in every action of us. In all our dealings with the environment. This one mantram of Ṛg Veda, tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya. Always they say like this, their position, and they go on doing. With this angle of vision, go on, approach anything and everything, and it cannot contaminate you in any way. And everyone who will come in contact with you, they will also be purified with the touch of such great normal, happy vision. Darśana, the angle of vision. How to see things, we have to learn. The māyā darśana, misconception, local interested, and to see things overpowered, prejudiced by local interest, that is māyāik darśana. And universal interest, to see things from that standpoint.

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, [yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat
tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam]

Everywhere is His rule. Above provincialism, localism. Universal view we shall have. Then we're not to suffer from the misconception of local interest. In local interests we must have hitch between them. Local may be to the extreme to one person, to a family, to his village, to his country, to his society, to the humanitarian, excluding the animals and the vegetable kingdom. So there cannot but be clash: local interest. See everything from the universal interest.

Īśāvāsyam. Tad-brahma vasudevam mayam jagat. Vāsudeva, He's everything.

yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati
tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati

["For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

"One who can have My, see My presence everywhere, yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sees Me everywhere, and sees everything in Me."

Visa versa, to see everything in Him and to see Him everywhere. One who has got such capacity of his position in the universe, then he's never lost.

"Never lost in Me. He's always with Me, and I'm also always with him."

In Bhāgavatam also,

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]

Who is the highest type of bhāgavata, devotee? Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. One who can see everywhere the connection of the divinity, of the supreme. Not divorced from the cause, prime, but sees things in connection with the highest existence, the best existence. Paśyati sarvatra, and sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. The existence of the Lord everywhere, ātmanaḥs ca, this is cid-vilāsa in Bhāgavatam. And also his position according to that. He's an enemy to Krsna, so he must be my enemy. In accordance to his position. In this way. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. His attitude, his existence, and his attitude with everything, and ātmā-naṣṭa, and then his own position, what it will be about that thing, accordingly, in accordance to his position to the Lord, and his position to that thing he will have to calculate that what will be my position to that thing then. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam, first, then ātmanaḥ, accordingly, what will be my position with them, that, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ. Then cid-vilāsa also it will, in full swing we can get this meaning, ātmanaḥ.

Bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, and visa versa, and everything is adjusted with the supreme knowledge in this way, and accordingly, what it will be, my relation with that thing, how I shall live there. Bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany ca, how He's resting in him, an accordingly how He will rest within me. My relationship is always, should be always calculated in accordance to the relation of anything with the absolute. First what is in connection with the absolute, and then accordingly I shall, 'my relation with the absolute is this , so how I shall have connection with that, in accordance to that.' This is Bhāgavata, cit-vilāsa. Not in general, but in particular it has been described here. Mahā bhāgavata.

So the Vaiṣṇava in Vṛndāvana when they say, "Oh, this is my enemy, enemy party, anti-party." Still they're in particular, universal thought. The consciousness, relationship to the Lord and then calculated how my relationship with that thing. It is friendly, or neutral, friendly, neutral, or animosity, in general. And in particular there may be infinitely different types.

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

In Bhāgavatam there is a śloka,

[śrī-bhagavān uvāca]
para-svabhāva-karmāṇi, na praśaṁsen na garhayet viśvam ekātmakaṁ paśyan, prakṛtyā puruṣeṇa ca

[The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: "One should neither praise nor criticize the conditioned nature and activities of other persons. Rather, one should see this world as simply the combination of material nature and the enjoying souls, all based on the one Absolute Truth."]

Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī came to ask me, "What was the meaning of this? Para-svabhāva-karmāṇi, na praśaṁsen na garhayet. We must not praise or we must not blame the nature of others in this world. Para- svabhāva-karmāṇi, na praśaṁsen na garhayet, viśvam ekātmakaṁ paśyan. Thinking that the whole world is in common estimation, common interest. Ekātmakaṁ paśyan, prakṛtyā puruṣeṇa ca. And that is a play, within prakṛti and puruṣa. It takes this way. Then what is the, if this be the absolute, then how should we not praise of the Vaiṣṇava, Vaiṣṇava praśaṁsa, Gura praśaṁsa, Bhagavān stava, all these things are of lower degree?" He came to me.

I told, this is in the marginal position. Margin, when we drawing from this world of mundane differentiation, it is applied only in that stage. But in the higher stage in the divine cosmos, differentiation is there. According to the degree of serving for the pleasure of Kṛṣṇa, so many groups, so many parties, anti-parties and neutral parties, and their praise of Kṛṣṇa. They are mad in the praise of Kṛṣṇa, and not only Kṛṣṇa, but Kṛṣṇa bhakta, Guru. That is not in miss-balance, not in the stage of balance, that neither this side nor this side. That is to the fullest extent, even stealing, thieving, weeping, are going on there in the highest stage. What is that? All to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, a dynamic design has been inaugurated there.

So, para-svabhāva-karmāṇi, na praśaṁsen na garhayet, viśvam ekātmakaṁ paśyan. It is marginal, from marginal position this view may stand. But when we enter into the Vaikuṇṭha and the Goloka then again we enter into individual interest and group interest, and all these things there nirguṇa. But, one thing, that no selfish existence reins, only playing at the hand of the sweet will of Kṛṣṇa. The ego has been exhaustively removed. There is another ego only designed to satisfy the whims of Kṛṣṇa. So from the worldly standpoint, this ahaṅkāra has been fully eliminated. But there is within the soul a class of ego for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. It is designed, it is there, cid-vilāsa.

If we are to show the Śaṅkara and others, they cannot very easily swallow this field, that how ultimate things may be differentiated in this way. There will be some tears, stealing, lying, and hitch, fighting for interest, and how that can be the highest conception of the absolute. But only, the key is here, that for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Die to live, and after death, there is life, they live. Death, only dying is not its own end, but die to live, a real life. So there is also life, there we shall live, but we shall have to die wholesale as we are at present. We are prey to local interests, and local interest, that is wrong, no interest. That is temporarily supposed, artificial interest, not real. So we're to get relieved from the poison of local interest. But to have a life that is created Lord Kṛṣṇa's interest. Only Kṛṣṇa's interest, this should be introduced there, everything will be all right. But to speak it in one word, it is very easy, but it means much.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja

mālī hañā kare sei bīja āropaṇa, śravaṇa-kīrtana-jale karaye secana

["When a person receives the seed of devotional service, he should take care of it by becoming a gardener and sowing the seed in his heart. If he waters the seed gradually by the process of śravaṇa and kīrtana [hearing and chanting], the seed will begin to sprout."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.152]

upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya ['virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya]

The conceptions of this mundane life, Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, the misconception world is finished in Satyaloka. Then the Virajā, then the Brahmaloka the halo. Then specification in that world of halo, consciousness, Brahmaloka, 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma.' Then crossing Śivaloka it comes to Vaikuṇṭhaloka.

tabe yāya tad-upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana' ['kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpa-vṛkṣe kare ārohaṇa]

["Being situated in one's heart and being watered by śravaṇa-kīrtana, the bhakti creeper grows more and more. In this way it attains the shelter of the desire tree of the Lotus Feet of Kṛṣṇa, who is eternally situated in the planet known as Goloka Vṛndāvana in the topmost region of the spiritual sky."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.154]

Fully-fledged theism and half-sphered, our Guru Mahārāja's words, hemisphere. Vaikuṇṭha means hemisphere. Why? Half, two, śanta, dāsya, and half of sākhya, and śanta, dāsya is represented there in Vaikuṇṭha, and not the other part. That is _____ [?] sākhya, and vātsalya and mādhurya not present there, not open to the public there, to the jīva. But the whole is full-fledged service is open only in Goloka to one and all, there, full-fledged service. And even so much has to go to that parakīya rasa, to enhance the ordinary. Just as we have got general hunger, but if we take little medicine the hunger can be increased and we can feed more, eat more. That way, that arrangement, the adjustment of parakīya, that makes more intensified.

Yaśodā, in vātsalya rasa. "Kṛṣṇa is my son, but some say that, 'no, He's not mine, He's son of Vasudeva.' How that is possible, that He may be Vasudeva's son? Such beautiful, charming boy, He's not mine?"

This sort of mentality increases her affection many fold more towards Kṛṣṇa, towards Gopāla, towards the child.

"If I lose Him, if I lose Him how I shall stand? Then I must serve Him with more affection. I may not have the chance. They say so."

So this idea increases the affection more, and also, in reaction, the satisfaction, the bliss, the ecstasy is also of that order.

So in friendly circle, the friends think, "Oh, some say Gopāla, He's Nārāyaṇa. He's not amongst our friends as we are called. We may lose Him, the chance of losing such a companion, how can we live then?"

So with this apprehension, 'that we may lose, our position may not linger for a long time,' it increases the affection more. So this is the key to parakīya conception. In mādhurya rasa also, in that magnitude, that quality, 'I may lose. How will it be possible to stand? To stand, to remain, to maintain our existence, it is impossible.' With this earnestness, they come to meet, to do any service. This is more intensified. In this way, this arrangement has been invented by Yogamāyā for the service of Kṛṣṇa, very intense, more intensified.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Rūpa Goswāmī says there are four qualifications extra, which is not in Nārāyaṇa, in Kṛṣṇa. Ordinary, fifty qualities we find, very meagre conception in every soul. But there are some gods where we can trace five more with little greater magnitude, Indradi devata, Śivadi devata, pañcānu, fifty-five. But in Nārāyaṇa we find in full sixty qualities, in the fullest form. But in Kṛṣṇa we find sixty-four, in the fullest form. And what are those four which are not in Nārāyaṇa?

It is mentioned as the flute, that is sound, śabda, most charming sound He can produce. Every nerve is attracted by the sound of the flute. Śabda mādhurya, veṇu mādhurya, veṇu mādhurya means śabda mādhurya. Such a peculiar sweet sound He can produce that whenever anyone comes in touch of that, he's mad to run towards the source of that sound, can't help, śabda mādhurya. Nāma mādhurya, śabda means name, sound, the sweetness, sound, śuka, rūpa. Then guṇa is eliminated. I have some suspicion here. Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, parikara. The guṇa is omitted, the quality. What for, I don't, I can't understand. Then rūpa, guṇa, rūpa mādhurya, śabda mādhurya, then second is, namnah sravanam tato, sravavena, rupasya, sphuranam, bhavati [From Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.22. ?]

From name, then next comes the colour, the beauty. The beauty, personal beauty. First the charm of His flute, the sound. And the second, the charm of His beauty. There is no parallel in this world that can attract the heart to travel to every point, rūpa mādhurya. So Nāma, rūpa, then guṇa, the third is omitted here. Then parikara, paraphernalia. His paraphernalia, in vātsalya rasa, in sākhya rasa, in mādhurya rasa, the paraphernalia that is incomparable to any of other Avatāras, of Nārāyaṇa even Himself. It is unprecedented, the paraphernalia. Such a sweet, and such a touching, affectionate paraphernalia we cannot find anywhere and everywhere. Nowhere we can find. And then last līlā karma _____ [?] The fourth is līlā, mādhurya. His līlā, His dealing amongst His circle, that is of such, adbut, means wonderful nature, that wave. That wave whenever and from what point it is oozing, comes out, and how over floods everything, that is all unknown to us.

In Dvārakā, calling, Brahmā. "Which Brahmā has come?"

Brahmā thought, "Which Brahmā? Only one brahmāṇḍa and I'm the master. And he inquires, 'which Brahmā?' What's this? Still, what to do? It is Sanaka-pita, catur-mukha Brahmā, the four-headed Brahmā, the father of Sanaka. Can you please inform."

And when he went there, he found, "What is that? I'm only four-headed This hundred-headed, the thousand-headed, the million-headed Brahmās are all..." Nonplussed.

The līlā, Brahmā, to test Him took the cowboys and the calves and concealed in some cave. Then he came to test, "That while the things are going on, let me see." He has come, "Oh, the same cowboy with a morsel on His mouth, and with a stick in His hand, just like an ordinary cowboy He's going."

A very good comparison has been given here in Bhāgavatam, very nice. Just as in daytime we cannot find any glow worm. In the light of the day, and the stars also. And also in the night of amavasya, the new moon, we cannot find the trace, the existence of fog. The fog is absorbed. The darkness of the fog is absorbed in new moon light, amavasya. The dense darkness can absorb, and also the strong light of the sun can absorb the light of the glow worm.

So Brahmā's māyā, he went to test, to deceive. To test, that was absorbed. Līlā, adbut līlā. Which is simply impossible.

That a boy, Tṛṇāvarta has come like a storm. Yaśodā carrying the Gopāla in her waist, and Tṛṇāvarta has come to kill Him, the boy, sent by Kaṁsa. Suddenly Yaśodā felt that He's very heavy, very heavy, could not keep Him on her lap. She had to take Him down on the earth, and that wind took the boy away far.

And Yaśodā was nonplussed, "My boy, I could not keep, and from my lap I put down the boy. How did the wind take him away?" She's lamenting like anything. She's lamenting, then next moment found that the great demon he fell on the earth, and on his neck that boy Gopāla, embracing his neck, He's just over it.

"Oh, God has sent, how the demon has been lost we don't know. But if the boy had been below and the demon would be above, then would be pressed, killed, must be killed, but chance has saved Him, that He's just over the body, chest of the demon."

In this way, playfully, big demons. It is also stated, just as in Rāma līlā, Rāvaṇa, Kumbhakarṇa, they showed their valour and strength in a great way. But as Kṛṣṇa līlā, Kṛṣṇa is the Svayaṁ-

Bhagavān, they're the demons, but it is not described in such a dreadful way. Still they are more stronger than the demons in Rāma līlā. When they came to disturb Kṛṣṇa līlā, they're more powerful and more strong. But so playfully they were managed that we think, 'that all by accident, Kṛṣṇa is saved accidentally, and no attempt from Him was necessary at all.' This is līlā. _____ [?]

So Nāma, rūpa, śabda mādhurya, veṇu mādhurya, and then rūpa mādhurya, then parikara mādhurya, and vaiśiṣṭya and līlā mādhurya. These four, exceptional, which can never be found any other place, not even in Nārāyaṇa who is the source of sixty full qualifications we can conceive ever. And other gods, Śivaji, including Mahādeva, Indra, especially empowered, fifty-five, and ordinary jīva only fifty. And special qualifications which is not found even in Kṛṣṇa, is found twenty-five in Śrī Rādhikā. Special, twenty-five, there, it has been given for us to understand, to follow, to conceive how they're possible, That is also mentioned.

Raso vai saḥ. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. The background of the knowledge. Knowledge is only searching, searching element, searching for ecstasy, searching for bliss, happiness. That is knowledge. Knowledge means consciousness. Consciousness not in a complete thing, it is incomplete because it is searching for fulfilment, that is consciousness. It holds greater position than ordinary things, as stone, or wood or earth, they have got no conception of their own existence. But consciousness is conscious of his own existence, but he's in want, and he's always searching for something, for his fulfilment.

And what is that fulfilment? That is rasa. Rasa, that is the highest integer. That is the most fundamental substance we can ever conceive. And that is ānandam, that is rasam. Both consciousness and existence is presupposed there, already there. Ānanda means fulfilment plus consciousness, perception, and plus existence. A fossil can have existence only, but no consciousness. But the soul can have consciousness and existence, both, but not the fulfilment. But in ānandam these three fully existing. So sat cit ānanda, satyam śivam sundaram, in this way. The original, the most fundamental thing is rasa. Raso vai saḥ. Rasa is the most fundamental substance, akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ.

And Rūpa Goswāmī says, "What is Kṛṣṇa? All sorts of rasa fully adjusted, coming to show a beautiful figure. They're properly adjusted, wherever, what should be. In this way the proper adjustment of the whole rasa in a particular beautiful figure, that is Kṛṣṇa. And particular beautiful sound in the name of Kṛṣṇa. In this way, so on. Raso vai saḥ, the rasa Himself."

So in scientific enquiry, search, we must have such sort of conception about Kṛṣṇa, and His līlā, and His paraphernalia, and His dhāma, His plane, all these things. We must have some conception in this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Not unreasonable, not unscientific. Quite scientific basis is there.

Start of 82.09.06.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... we're told. Philosophy is that, science of all sciences. So the science of science. The basis of all sorts of science means knowledge, proper knowledge. So knowledge cannot ignore these questions that our internal urge, the inner urge, that will come to,

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ
[kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani]

When the sealed heart, our heart, the heart of a baddha jīva, conditioned soul, is a sealed one, the seal will be broken. And such feeling will come out that all doubts will be cleared, bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, svarūpa adidartika [?] When the inner self will come into light then all doubts will be cleared, bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. The faith, the śraddhā, that is sealed within our heart, as a soul in bondage, that will be broken. And such natural flow will come of faith, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, all doubts about the conception of anything and everything will be cleared.

We shall know of our own self and through our own proper self within thought of relativity we shall come to know the real background, real foundation where we are taking our stand, svarūpa. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi. Then his previous commitment with this false environment will be stopped at once, disconnected, at once. Not a minute will be necessary to disconnect with the present illusive paraphernalia. Kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani.

"I am everything. You are Mine. No complaint. No attempt is necessary. Everything is there. You move in a spontaneous, automatic way. No trouble is to be taken for your movement, of this purpose, that, all, is automatic. Everything is automatic you see, thereby."

Kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani. The government will feed you and you will not have to strive for your individual bread, something like that. Then you'll find according to your different taste, different food for relishing is coming to you. According to different rasa the Yogamāyā is making arrangement, everything, and you are to play on his hand. And there we find the maximum of your fulfilment there, as if without any attempt, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

bhrāmayan sarvva-bhūtāni, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā

["O Arjuna, I am situated in the hearts of all souls as the Supersoul, the Lord and Master of all souls. For every endeavour of the living beings in this world, the Lord (My plenary expansion, the Supersoul) awards an appropriate result. As an object mounted on a wheel is caused to revolve, the living beings are caused to revolve in the universe by the almighty power of the Lord. Incited by Him, your destiny will naturally be effected according to your endeavours."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61]

Māyā intervening and that māyā will be removed, Yogamāyā will be replaced. That is what is necessary. Instead of māyā, the Yogamāyā will come to tackle you, to handle you. Yogamāyā means centre-carrying, in-carrying. And Mahāmāyā means out-carrying current, out-carrying to sense pleasure, kāma, and in- carrying current is Yogamāyā, the automatic.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

["It is the conclusive opinion of Lord Caitanya that Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who is Vrajendra-nandana, is the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself, the topmost worshippable Deity; Vṛndāvana Dhāma which is an expansion of Kṛṣṇa and is non-different from Him is the highest worshippable abode; the gopīs are the highest example of the worship of Śrī Kṛṣṇa; Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the spotless evidence for knowing the Absolute Truth; Kṛṣṇa prema is the fifth and highest goal of life. These are the teachings of Śrī Caitanya in a nutshell."]
[From Viśvanātha Carkravartī Ṭhākura's Caitanya-matta-mañjuṣā]

Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, in one śloka he's giving the whole substance of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava in a tika. What is that? Ārādhyo bhagavān vrajeśa-tanayas. Nanda-nandana, He's our object of worship, our love, our aim of life, vrajeśa. Tad-dhāma vṛndāvanaṁ. And not in Dvārakā or anywhere, in Vṛndāvana, that is the most favourable stage of His līlā, dhāma līlā. And Ramyā kācid-upāsanā vraja-vadhū-vargeṇa yā kalpitā. And a very beautiful, wonderful type of worshipping, of serving has been invented by these damsels of Braja, the Braja gopīs. And very sweet, kalpitā, that is our real want, fulfilment. Ramyā kācid-upāsanā vraja-vadhū-vargeṇa yā kalpitā, śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ pramāṇam. Where did you get this, your whimsical thought, all these things? No, no. Śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ pramāṇam-amalaṁ, and the amala pramāṇa, the purest type of evidence we find in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the last gift of Bhagavān Vedavyāsa who has given all sorts of religious ideas to us, His last gift, Bhāgavatam. That stands guarantee for this prāśana, this offering. Pramāṇam-amalaṁ premā pumartho mahān. And what you will get as benefit? Love, attachment for the truth, for Kṛṣṇa. That will be your remuneration, more and more service, and more and more attachment, no end. Prema pumartho mahan, not dharma, artha, kāma, not salvation, liberation, mere, but prema pumartho, the end of life is to acquire the attention of all the attractive Kṛṣṇa. Śrī caitanya mahāprabhur-matam idaṁ. And who is the propounder of this cult? Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, the great Lord. Mahāprabhu, He stands guarantee for all this truth, He has preached this, you will get this. Matam idaṁ tatrādaro naḥ paraḥ. Our great reverence, attachment and faith in such opinion, such principle of life. Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura says.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nine thirty. All the letters are ready?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Almost.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Almost. So some must be sent to the post office?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. We may get some letters, or some response to their... But not any of them could come yesterday also. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One small question. You had mentioned apratihatā is irresistible, ahaitukī apratihatā, so does it mean, generally we think it means that bhakti cannot be impeded, there's no obstacle for bhakti by material things. But can it also mean that we cannot resist but accept the bhakti. We also cannot resist bhakti, we must accept it, do we take it that way also?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ahaitukī apratihatā, and the hetu, that has got cause and it can be controlled, this is a conception in a, from a relative position, not from the absolute plane.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Like that _____ [?] Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī asked you that same question, so you told that in a taṭasthā-vicāra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not really of that type. That is when we are within some sort of incomplete knowledge, to us, it can't see.

Suppose if we find that after one has got some disease and then using medicine he gets a better health than previous. Then who can see the future, he won't be disturbed by his present disease and taking medicine. And who does not know the future, he'll be very much disturbed. This is one thing here.

And what is in Yogamāyā that is managed by, though they can see, they can feel everything, but jñāna śūnya bhakti, it is already given by Yogamāyā. That is another thing. The responsibility is there. They say, 'we do not know,' jñāna śūnya bhakti, the party, they do not know what is what, instrument in the hand of Yogamāyā. But Yogamāyā knows everything and she stands guarantee for them, jñāna śūnya bhakti. And that is more tasteful, and that is more natural, we are told.

Nanda-Yaśodā, "We have got no knowledge. If any sādhu coming, taking the feet dust of him and putting on the head of Gopāla." Ha, ha, ha. They're in such condition, such ignorance. If you say ignorance, then he's such ignorant then ordinary sādhu taking his feet dust and putting, "Oh, you please bless Gopāla that He may live long." Then what do you say? This is more gain. Yogamāyā is handling them in such a way.

The gopīs say, "Who are we? We're the jungle girls, no capacity. But anyhow we had some good fortune that took us to Your service. But what we are, our position, we're neglected, even not the society girls, the jungle girls. We don't know so much rules of the civilized world, we're such."

The negative conception is such, the positive is mad to help them in such condition, because in heart, they have got no other aspiration but Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction. In that way we have to take. The jñāna śūnya bhakti, and Mahāprabhu accepted, "Here, here it is." The question of faith, they don't come to measure everything by their own futile standard. With a standard of a miracle or a meter (measuring stick) wants to measure the sky. The jñāna means to labour under such mania, that unnecessary mania that I shall devour the whole within this belly. Within the short space of my knowledge, the whole should be accommodated. But this sort of mania give up. Establish a fair relationship with the infinite and allow the infinite to handle yourself, for your best interest, and live yourself fully there, surrendered. Then you will be, through faith you will be best benefited. That is the underlying principle. Don't lose your energy. What is impossible, that is to capture the infinite within your fist. Don't waste your energy in that way.

sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

The way of submission, but not the way of capturing everything within your fist. That is the wrong way your negotiation with the infinite. That is mad, that a finite he will devour infinite. But submission to the infinite is the way to come in real contact with the infinite. Handled by Him you will feel His very sweet existence in you, that is the path of coming in connection with Him. Not in a challenging mood but in a submissive way, when you get His touch you feel inconceivable joy within you of different kinds. The basis is that. So bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

So such is, it does not depend on knowledge, or energy, worldly energy or knowledge cannot give birth to such faith. It is there, it is the most original, most fundamental thing. And you are a child of that soil. Anyhow you have come to awake in this wrongful plane, this is karma, jñāna, all covers of your self. Your proper self is not there. It is a child of that soil, of faith, a fair relationship with the infinite, finite and infinite, a fair relationship, and not a challenging that I shall know everything.

So śraddhā, unquestionable, fundamental, śraddhā, surrender. Knowledge may apparently be our good friend, reliable friend. No. Knowledge is not your reliable friend, in your highest attainment, acquisition of life. So faith and surrender, that is your real friend, to your connection with the biggest. You can't measure Him. You can't have Him, He can take you. If finite can know infinite, He's no infinite. But if infinite cannot make Himself known to finite, He's no infinite. Coming from that side and no connection from this side is possible. Now what to do, think? He can connect with you but you cannot connect with Him. Now find the way how you can get His connection. You have to tackle with His sweet will by service and submission, surrendering. That is trying to enhance your negative aspect you can draw the positive. And you can't take the position of a positive, aggressive, you're not such. You're dependent and not the entity on which everything depends. Śakti and not the śaktimān, the owner of energy, you are energy, and not the owner of the energy, one who can use the energy. You have your master, proprietor. "It is My energy."

Apara-para, and kstretrajnakhya tatha-para, in Viṣṇu Purāṇa, the three kinds of potency. One potency in Bhagavad-gītā too, one this gross, another the taṭasthā śakti jīva. In Viṣṇu Purāṇa it is said kstretrajnakhya tatha-para, another higher potency which is known as ksetra, svarūpa śakti, which is above Brahmaloka, above jīva śakti. So three potencies He has got, cit śakti, taṭasthā śakti, and the jara śakti, māyā śakti, three potencies. Only one potency but to make Him easily understood, it is divided into three.

[visnu-saktih para prokta kstretrajnakhya tatha-para
avidya karma-samjnanya trtiya saktir-isyate]

["Viṣṇu-śakti, the energy of Kṛṣṇa is threefold: para-śakti, or the Lord's superior, spiritual energy; ksetrajna-śakti, or the marginal living beings; and avidya-śakti, or the illusory energy, which is characterized by karma, the world of action and reaction. In other words, the potency of Lord Viṣṇu is summarized in three categories namely, the spiritual potency, the living entities and ignorance. The spiritual potency is full of knowledge; the living entities, although belonging to the spiritual potency, are subject to bewilderment; and the third energy, which is full of ignorance, is always visible in fruitive activities."]

[Viṣṇu Purāṇa, 6.7.61] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 8.20]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So ajñāna in Goloka, and ignorance in the world, that is just the opposite.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: You told one day that man said, "Mahāprabhu passed His last days in madness, we hate that, we could not stand such a thing." Some gentleman had told that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Madras, one scholar came to see me. "That your highest ideal is that of Caitanya Deva?"

Yes.

"We're afraid of what He has shown in His last days, His mad behaviour. What to try to get that, it is a dreadful thing, what He showed in His last days."

And there is another aspect of seeing the thing.

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

Can you think that when a big patron is going to be hanged, he's happy within him, and outside the pangs of his death? Can you imagine that quality of happiness? Can you conceive the happiness of Raja Hariścandra who made a gift of the whole world and took the position of a servant in the cremation ground, the happiness within him? Can you conceive the happiness of Rāmacandra, leaving His kingship, went to the jungle and there experienced the hardness of life, but how He felt within Him? So external things, apparent things are treacherous, in this way. And the sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things.

["Our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought."]
[The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822]

Apparently there is sorrow but internally there may be sweetness. We are to think like that.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite. Already admitted. Externally it seems to be painful, but internally they're feeling some wonderful quality of ecstasy within. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And that must not be acquired by the help of any intoxication, however qualified it may be. It has got its proper soil on which we are to make progress.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he's warning, dekho bhāi, kāma-preme, bheda nāi.

[kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi, tabhu kāma 'premaʹ nāhi haya]

[Kalyāṇa Kalpataru, Upadeśa, 18]

"It is very difficult to detect the difference between this lust and love. I'm warning you. Ostentatiously, apparently, you won't find any difference between this mundane lust and the divine love. Tabhu kāma 'premaʹ nāhi haya. Still, know for certain that this lust is not that love divine. Carmma-māṁsamaya - kāma. This is concerned with material things. And prema, cidānanda-dhāma, and that is the highest goal of your soul's attainment.

[carmma-māṁsamaya - kāma, prema - cidānanda-dhāma]

["The carnal appetite is lust, whereas Love is the Abode of Divine Ecstasy. So imitation is not success. It rather degrades. Imitation degrades. Imagination is only a mental exercise."]

ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara, [kāma-andhatamaḥ, prema-nirmmala bhāskara]

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

The great difference between the two, kāma-andhatamaḥ, one is dense darkness and, prema-nirmmala bhāskara, and one is the shining sun. Just opposite. Gaura Hari bol. We must be always very careful in this aspect, what is what. We may stop today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...So Guru tattva also, different disciples may have different perspective of him. Some say friends, but mādhurya rasa is all combined, so mādhurya rasa Guru, with him we can see all other functions of different rasa in that Guru.

Our Guru Mahārāja once told that, "My Gurudeva, Guṇa Mañjarī..."

Generally nayikā, aṣṭa-nayikā, the types of heroine quality are eight. And that is only found fully in Rādhārāṇī, aṣṭa-nayikā bhāva. But that is not found in the mañjarī class.

But Guru Mahārāja once told, "My Gurudeva is Guṇa Mañjarī, but if I see him, raising my head a little more, I can see him, the full eight qualifications of the eight nayikās of Rādhārāṇī. What the other mañjarī's have, I do not know, I don't like to know. But my Gurudeva Guṇa Mañjarī, if I see her, look at her with a greater look, I find Rādhārāṇī's full presence there."

So the attitude you may calculate from this statement, what is what. According to the depth of our vision, the object of vision varies. He's all present everywhere, no difficulty in arrangement, according to the capacity immediately, the opposite thing is being present there. As you deserve, so you have, the nature of infinite. Every part of infinite is infinite, it is so. Every part of infinite is infinite. The Lord is everywhere with His fullest consciousness and strength, though we may not detect it.

mat-sthāni sarva-bhūtāni, na cāhaṁ teṣv avasthitaḥ.

["In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4]

"It is My sweet will."

Everywhere the power of the military may be traced, but still it is really found in the fort. Because everywhere there is no fort, no soldier, that does not mean that portion of the country is neglected. If we capture that no-one will come to oppose. No. With fullest energy they will come to concentrate in that border when it is attacked. Something like that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There's one other question. We don't like to analyse such things, so much time analysing. But for the sake of explanation or definition, there's one question. That there are two types of jīva, nitya baddha and nitya mukta. So in that sense, is it an offence to say that the Guru is jīva, he's nitya mukta jīva? Can the word jīva be used or not? We want to know this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not desirable.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That's, yes, good. But in the common sense, he's a living entity, so just in a very dry sense he's a jīva, but undesirable to use.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But he's taṭasthā vicāra, taṭasthā, absolute.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Undesirable. That is cleared up, cleared up a doubt.
One boy came to me in New Delhi...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You see, it may be seen that a student he, at times may think that his professor, his teacher was also a student, but that won't help his progress or education.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja:

yadyapi āmāra guru - caitanyera dāsa, tathāpi jāniye āmi tāṅhāra prakāśa.
[guru-kṛṣṇa-rūpa hana śāstrera pramāṇe, guru-rūpe kṛṣṇa kṛpā karena bhakta-gaṇe.
ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, nāvamanyeta karhicit, na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ.
śikṣā-guruke ta' jāni, kṛṣṇera svarūpa, antaryāmī, bhakta-śreṣṭha, - ei dui rūpa]

["Although I know my Guru is a servitor of Śrī Caitanya, I know him also as a full manifestation (prakāśa) of the Lord." - "According to the deliberate opinion and evidence of śāstra, the Guru is non-different from Kṛṣṇa, because it is through the Guru that Kṛṣṇa bestows His mercy upon His devotee and delivers them." - "One should understand the spiritual master to be as good as I am," said the Blessed Lord. "Nobody should be jealous of the spiritual master or think of him as an ordinary man, because the spiritual master is the sum total of all the demigods." - "One should know the instructing spiritual master (śikṣā guru) to be Kṛṣṇa Himself. As Guru, Kṛṣṇa manifests as the Supersoul and as the best of devotees."]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My interest will be to see him as professor. As much as, I will be benefited. But leaving that aside, if I go to analyse his student life, that will be to go astray, to lose one's energy.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. One boy came to me, a young Godbrother. He said, "You are posing as Guru." He says, "I do not accept you as a Guru." I said, that is all right, I do not accept you as a disciple. And he said then, "All Gurus they are jīvas." And then I told, na martya-buddhyāsūyeta. This, gurusu nara-matir [yasya va naraki sah]

["One who thinks that the spiritual master is an ordinary man is said to live in hell."]
[Padma Purāṇa] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 1.56]

I told, you are nārakī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That a man is empowered by the government, delegation of the king, or of the central government, district magistrate, he's a man also. But the magistrate is not the man only, it is a central power there. So he should not be confined to see that he's a man. But the man is also in the background.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: This boy told me, he said Swāmī Mahārāja was also a jīva. I became angry and I told this gurusu nara-matir, that you are nārakī if you say this. Later on he apologized.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja also he's seeing that he was sick, sometimes perhaps blood oozing from any part of his body.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And you told that the arrow which shot Kṛṣṇa's foot, would that blood be spiritual or would that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, yes, yes, that big Ācārya of the Madhva School, he told if Śālagrāma is hit, it burst, all these things. So this is blasphemy, not proper thinking. We must retain our existence in the world of faith and not allow it to come down in the mundane plane. That infinite standpoint, not finite standpoint. If we allow myself to indulge in the thought of finite standpoint, then it will be difficult for me to have any conception about the infinite. We shall try our best to the level of infinite consciousness and the laws and ways of the infinite, if we at all want our contact with the infinite. So that law we are to accept which may be different from this mundane law of the limited world. Both cannot go together. Being finite I shall capture infinite, it is not possible. But I must leave the finite conception and enter into the infinite through faith, through śraddhā. Then we can partake in His līlā, to a particular degree of intensity. To carry coal to Newcastle, they carry these mundane ideas to the, finite to the infinite. Throw finite laws into infinite and then the troubles come.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: They make much of the puruvasrama.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Purvati are guru sakha [?] These laws must be given up and we must merge forever and accustom ourselves into thinking with the law of infinite. Eternal, but here everything mortal, but there, everything eternal. If we thrust this to there, then it will be murdered.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So everything unintelligible should be considered that our offence, should be attributed to our offence, when unintelligible, anything comes to us due to our offence, our mundane affinity. We have not thrown ourself fully to the laws of infinite. That is aparādha. So finite laws should not be applied in the kingdom of infinite world. It is a general, reasonable thing.

Badrinārāyaṇa: You said Kṛṣṇa has sixty four qualities and Rādhārāṇī has twenty five. What about Mahāprabhu? He's a combination of both, and more.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Naturally we shall think that sixty four plus twenty five. But chemical results may be something more. When both come to combine, new enhancement. But the question of infinite, we must keep it in mind. Infinite minus infinite there is infinite. Just in the case of a zero. Zero plus zero is zero, zero minus zero, zero. Zero into zero, zero. Zero divided by zero, zero. So the infinite just opposite. It is difficult to conceive.

oṁ pūrṇam adaḥ pūrṇam idaṁ, pūrṇāt pūrṇam udacyate
pūrṇasya pūrṇam ādāya, pūrṇam evāvaśiṣyate

["The Personality of Godhead is perfect and complete, and because He is completely perfect, all emanations from Him, such as this phenomenal world, are perfectly equipped as complete wholes. Whatever is produced of the Complete Whole is also complete in itself. Because He is the Complete Whole, even though so many complete units emanate from Him, He remains the complete balance."]
[Śrī Īśopaniṣad, Invocation]

If the whole is taken away from the whole, the remains, that is also whole. Pūrṇasya pūrṇam ādāya, pūrṇam evāvaśiṣyate. Infinite minus infinite, the remainder is infinite. How can you conceive that? From this mundane brain we can't conceive that. In the question of zero, the analogy is a very good one. Zero and infinite, similar, opposite, kāma and prema, similar, opposite. Self centred, part centred, and centre centred. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Śrī-rādhikāra, ananta guṇa, pañciśa — pradhāna.

[ananta guṇa śrī-rādhikāra, pañciśa — pradhāna, yei guṇera 'vaśa' haya kṛṣṇa bhagavān]

["Similarly, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī has unlimited transcendental qualities, of which twenty-five are principal. Śrī Kṛṣṇa is controlled by these transcendental qualities of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 23.86]

It is mentioned in this way. He has got infinite qualities, but twenty five is the principal among them. In this way it has been mentioned. In the case of Kṛṣṇa also we shall take like that, ananta. It is not measurable. But still the sixty four is very present. It may increase degrees. Ordinary jīva, suppose fifty. But when he becomes Indra, five is added. Where from does it come? The jīva can be Indra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... this mṛdaṅga, this karatāla, this śaṅkha, we should accept only that, because in the highest ideal of saṅkīrtana these instruments have been used, and that is not defective. The harmonium was not discovered _____ [?] You can't say that. That is the most original quarter. Nothing...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Shortage.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Shortage there, but the perfect saṅkīrtana inaugurated by Śrī Caitanya Deva, and whatever He took as His necessary things, that will be our other idea. We shall try to submit, that is the fullest conception, highest ideal, and not outside that we shall go. But still, according to the time and space and society, social condition, to be lenient, to come down to some lower standard, but there should be some degree there. Of course tat paratvena nirmalam,

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam, hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nāradiya Purāṇa]

Anything, even murder, if that has connection with satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, that is encouraged, in the extreme cases. But still, on the whole, to keep up the balance, it is not so very easy. The sahajiyā will be created, the imitationists, so many lavishly, so many liberal things, that will capture us and the real thing will be evaporated.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Like Gaurāṅga-nāgarī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaurāṅga-nāgarī, so many things will come.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a special case. Deva-dāsī was having a darśana of Jagannātha. Mahāprabhu was standing there. She unconsciously put her feet on the body of Mahāprabhu and madly having darśana of Jagannātha. And Govinda wanted to remove her.

Mahāprabhu, "No, no, no. You see how hankering, how earnestness she has got for the darśana of Jagannātha. She's unconscious of the fact that she has given her foot on My shoulder. Such earnestness. Jagannātha has not given so much earnestness in Me. Don't disturb her."

But this is a case, koṭiṣv api mahā-mune.

[muktānām api siddhānāṁ nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa, sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā koṭiṣv api mahā-mune]

["O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.150]

One in a crore, even more.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Rāmānanda Rāya _____ [?] only one single Rāmānanda. He's in a position to deal with all these things, anything for Jagannātha. Viśākhā Sakhī, who is specialist in singing and dancing and playing instruments, Viśākhā. She has got the highest capacity in that department. To sing, to dance, to play with the instruments. Only one, single. Even a person like Me is not fit for dealing in that way." Mahāprabhu says, including Himself. _____ [?] Persons like Me have no such great standard."

Start of 82.09.08.A

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not to be applied to Ācārya, otherwise risk of offence.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Ha, ha, ha, ha. If he goes towards mādhurya rasa even crossing Kṛṣṇa.
Gaura Hari bol. Adhokṣaja. Namanta eva.

[sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Whatever small portion is given, is allotted, for you to know, you can know that. And that is an offence also, the tendency to know much, that is disturbance in the faith and in the service. So inquisitiveness is loss of energy, see the plane, the peculiarity of the plane of service. It will come automatically. You go on with service, and naturally it will come, of itself. Inquiry in the first jijñāsā, kṛṣṇānusandhāna, jijñāsā.
Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

He can come to my level, but I cannot go to His level.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Mahārāja, I read one translation of Upaniṣad's by one Advaitin, one so-called Śaṅkarite. And that nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, for that we say ātmā means Paramātmā. But he has given ātmā as ātmā. So y*am evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas*, ātmā can only know ātmā if ātmā wants to know ātmā. Only then ātmā can reveal himself to ātmā. This Māyāvādī has given translation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? I can't follow.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He says, nāyam ātmā pravacanena, so we have given ātmā there means Paramātmā. But he says it means ātmā. So in the case, yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, so this ātmā, he can know ātmā. If ātmā wants to know ātmā, then ātmā can reveal himself to ātmā. This is his translation. We say Paramātmā can reveal, but they say ātmā. Nāyam ātmā pravacanena, so that is ātmā they say, how can it be Paramātmā? Otherwise it would have said nāyam paramātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then what about Paramātmā? Paramātmā can be easily known? What does he say? Ātmā, if he wants to know himself, ātmā can know ātmā. And not the conclusion must come, neither this buddhi, nor the mind, the lower faculties, are not eligible to know ātmā. Ātmā can know ātmā. All right. And then, about Paramātmā, what will be his position? Ātmā can know Paramātmā very easily?

Ha. One scholar, he was a Bengali gentleman and this Śaṅkara's philosophy he told, "Intellectual jugglery."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, intellectual jugglery.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From cypher he wants to create everything. So everything is wrong and he's also wrong. Why should we attend him, his words? _____ [?] Without Brahman everything is false, then he's also false. And what is the good of running after such phantasmagoria? Truth cannot assert, only māyā can assert, illusion. And truth is inert, truth cannot assert. Then how truth will know himself to any place, make himself known?

Rāmānuja has caught here Śaṅkara, very strongly. That you cut off the real improvement of the soul hereby, truth cannot assert, then those who are plodding in the falsehood, what is the hope for them?

You must come in contact with us. Brahman nirviśeṣa. Māyā is assertive and he's passive. Then how it is possible to know that Brahman, those that are within māyā? The śruti, the devata, the tīrtha, no position they will have. They're all māyā.

Śaṅkarācārya's mania, ekam evad dvitiyam [?] we can't accept existence of two things, that is his mania. He is very particular about that, advaya, it must be one. "But prakṛti puruṣa, the substance and the potency of the substance then becomes two, it can't be. Māyā is non-existing." he said. And still everyone captured by māyā. This is suicidal. Brahma is only existing, nothing else. So what is māyā? Māyā is anadi śanta, anyhow it has come to exist but it cannot stay forever. So it has got no existence in the real sense. Śanta, anadi śanta. Anadi ananta is only brahma, anadi ananta. And māyā, anadi śanta. Anta means end but śanta means pacified, anadi śanta, subsides. And what is the good of that impersonal conception of truth? That is an intellectual zero. The suṣupti, samādhi, that is the deep sleep, deep slumber, the highest ideal is of that type. Wakeful activity can never be of any holy nature. The holiest position of us is to have a deep slumber, samādhi. And Bhāgavata says,

āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

They may consider themselves to be very liberated, of the first order, but, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha- buddhayaḥ, there is the camouflage, the fraud there within. Tvayi asta-bhāvād, no recognition of You my Lord there. Aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ, there's error in their calculation. Only enjoyment, exploitation, and renunciation. Only these two things are in their calculation, exploitation and renunciation.

And Vaiṣṇava theory demands that both these two things to be eliminated, neither exploitation nor renunciation. You should not exploit anything, neither you should renounce anything. A third relationship you must have with the environment. What is that? That of service. Only the _____ [?], the third way, I won't renounce anyone, at the same time I won't exploit anyone. Then what another alternative there can be, I can serve him. Instead of exploiting, I shall serve him. If every unit is of this nature, then it becomes Vaikuṇṭha or Goloka. Goloka when it is spontaneous, established firmly. Every unit is in competition to serve the whole environment, another unit, the whole paraphernalia, the third law. The first, we are all exploiting one another, the second, the great Ācārya, the exploitation has got reaction. So to avoid reaction, we must take to renunciation. But they say that renunciation is not constructive or happy life. Why then this is created? It must have some purpose and some fulfilment. Then what will be the next alternative? And that we must exist within the environment with the relation of serving one another, not exploiting, the opposite. And this will be the happiest position. And that also has got some reaction. If I serve you, you will also try to serve me. And there may be competition, but it will be a very pleasing atmosphere. If the two parties want to exploit one another, a bitter position, and to help one another, to serve one another, sincerely, then the nectar will come out in the atmosphere. The happy atmosphere will come. And by renunciation, nowhere. And that is also artificial, it is not possible. For some time it may be continued.

Ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ, āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ. By trying their utmost they can come up to that Brahmaloka, to the abscissa. From the negative side they can come to withdraw up to abscissa. And if they cannot enter into the positive side, they will have to revert again. This is natural consequence, they'll have to come back. No visa. Passport secure, I can go to the extremity of the land. And if I cannot secure any visa, I shall have to come back, what to do. I cannot stand forever in the marginal point. And the positive life is life of service, a holy life, mutual, mutually, and it is the central will. It is the key to harmonious life. Harmony is possible only with the serving units, well-meaning persons, harmony. Those that are not well-meaning, they will create disturbance, discord. So the background is to know what is exploitation, and then to know what is renunciation. And to transcend both of these planes, we shall try to have a life, and that is with the life of service. So the life of service, the Vaiṣṇavas and the bhakti proper is not only shedding tears, or dancing, or tilaka. Mere imitation is not bhakti. Bhakti proper, that sort of spirit within the soul. And this may help in the primary stage, to acquire that stage only. But the real criterion is there. How far he's dedicated to the central call, the call of dedication, the call of harmony. And harmony and beauty and love, that is almost one and the same. The love, the beauty, the harmony, similar, same. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We could hear some words from you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. These things are only repetition, ha, ha, almost repetition. But still it is the fundamental things. We must be conscious of this basis of the life of devotion, the all-important.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But when we hear from you we are conscious of something more than repetition.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Newer and newer light comes all the time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To dance, to chant, to shed tears, whenever a small drop anyhow used to come very carefully he's removing that. Always trying to keep up the balance of his mind, not given to sentiment. Very careful not to be carried by sentiment. Take your stand properly in the soil, the soil of devotion. We are acquire, to get our stand on the soil. That is all important. And not the imitation of so many signs, or symptoms, of external symptoms to practice and to be habituated, to show to the public that I'm a devotee. It is not the show, but the substance is there, and we're to anyhow we're to attain that, for our position there.

...

_____ [?] That is our position. Then, what other points?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Everything what he has told us is already known by us, more or less about Aranya Mahārāja in London. We already know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now the important thing about the book affairs, how Mahārāja is doing, how many copies are where, and how London is fared, and how many stock _____ [?]
Innocent persons _____ [?] Purī Mahārāja. So to take some steps towards that.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ...four questions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, four questions, what are they?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: First one, he says that the jīva is, keśāgra-śata-bhāgasya, śatāṁśaḥ sādṛśātmakaḥ

[jīvaḥ sūkṣma-svarūpo 'yaṁ, saṅkhyātīto hi cit-kaṇaḥ]

["There are innumerable particles of spiritual atoms, which are measured as one ten-thousandth of the upper portion of the hair."] [From Bhagavad-gītā As It Is, 2.17, purport]

That size. So is it only a spark, cit-kaṇa, or has it got svarūpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is one. Second, what else?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He says, therefore there's no description of his form, svarūpa, in the Gītā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Then, above jīva. And then third?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then he also says, in the eighth chapter of Gītā, akṣarād api cottamaḥ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah.

[yasmāt] kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ
ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ

["Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yeah. He says, "So the jīva is called Brahman, and his nature is called the self. So what is the difference between Brahman and self? Definition? Brahman is a general thing and self is svarūpa." So he wants to know what is this regarding?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This three?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: This is all in one question, number one, included.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: About jīva?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yeah.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And this is three? Another, four?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Next, number two question. "By sādhana or vaidhi bhakti, we get purification. How do we know that we are near, that we are getting this purification? How can we understand?"

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then, "This pure stage, as far as I understand, is called brahma-bhūtaḥ. Is this correct or not? Is that the brahma-bhūtaḥ stage when we get free from anarthas?" He's asking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Next, the number three question, the Catuḥsana, he has given one verse in the English, the, tasyāravinda-nayanasya padāravinda-, kiñjalka-miśra-tulasī, etc.

[tasyāravinda-nayanasya padāravinda-, kiñjalka-miśra-tulasī-makaranda-vāyuḥ
antar-gataḥ sva-vivareṇa cakāra teṣāṁ, saṅkṣobham akṣara-juṣām api citta-tanvoḥ]

["When the breeze carrying the aroma of tulasī leaves from the toes of the lotus feet of the Personality of Godhead entered the nostrils of those sages, they experienced a change both in body and in mind, even though they were attached to the impersonal Brahman understanding."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.15.43]

Then he has told that, "They were impersonalists. So if they are impersonalists, can they also see the Viṣṇu Mūrti. In that Jaya Vijaya story, history, they could see Viṣṇu. But if they are impersonalists, how could they see Viṣṇu?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm, finished?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Then another question. "Should we try to see Paramātmā in the heart, or should we just do service? As bhaktas should we try to see Paramātmā, or should we just do sevā?"

The last question he asks regarding accepting disciples, I thought I would reply, "When you come here, it will be better to discuss that question of accepting disciples."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Every question, when he comes here, to discuss and know because so many side issues will be raised.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, correct, come up again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And according to one's own understanding, particular understanding. Otherwise, a general answer may be given, that may not be much effective. Because whatever we say again, the explanation of that, if he cannot understand, then again to analyse. Again to answer. So all these questions, general questions, and questions are very...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Broad, very broad, they cover a big, expansive...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very critical, very critical questions are they. And when they will be tackled, many side issues will come, and to understand really, his presence is necessary. And this has been discussed also in the former tapes in many variegated ways. Still, these are the standing questions of any reasonable man. And he's to hear it when he'll be present. That is general. But if you want an answer, I can give it in a very nutshell way, may not be much effective. What do you like?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: This is more reasonable, very reasonable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What you have said. When he can come, in details it may be.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This has already been discussed many times. Still, these are the living critical questions of any man of brain, of a brainy man. General questions, all these. And it will be personally, by personal contact, by many side questions, this is to be cleared. They are naughty questions, very critical. And to make him understand, the attention, and also time, circumstance, necessary. And when the tapes will be out from Goswāmī Mahārāja, these questions have been dealt in various times. Still, every time when we shall deal, it will have a new colour and help one to understand from different directions.
_____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It's all right Mahārāja, I'll manage.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja:

nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ manum api śacī-putram atra svarūpaṁ [rūpaṁ tasyāgrajam uru-purīṁ māthurīṁ goṣṭavāṭīm rādhā-kuṇḍaṁ giri-varam aho rādhikā-mādhavāśāṁ prāpto yasya prathita-kṛpayā śrī guruṁ taṁ nato 'smi]

["Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī prays: "I only aspire after one thing. I cherish the hope that one day I may be welcomed into the plane where Rādhikā and Mādhava are in Their glory, sitting and playing."]

We do not know what is that manum.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Manum means mantram.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Oh, I see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ, mahā-mantra, and manum means mantram.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ manum api, śreṣṭhaṁ manum, śreṣṭhaṁ may be qualified both places, nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ. It may be thought in two ways, nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ, the Name is the most principal thing, then it will be nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ. Nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ, nāma bhajana śreṣṭhata, the best of all bhajana is nāma bhajana, nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ. And nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ has got the highest order of nāma, Kṛṣṇa nāma, Rādhā nāma. Nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ manum api, and the mantram also of the highest type. Both name and mantram we have got of the highest type. And not only that, manum api śacī-putram, the great inaugurater, giver, who has given delivery, that is this nāma and mantra, who has come down with this highest idea of nāma mantra, that śacī-putra, that also we have got, Him. Atra svarūpaṁ, and His most confidential attendant, Svarūpa Dāmodara, he took me to his charge, so I have got his guardianship and sympathy also, śacī-putram atra svarūpaṁ. Then in course of time I got Śrī Rūpa in the line of Caitanya and Svarūpa, Rūpa, that mādhurya rasa dhara, line.

rūpānuga janera jīvana viśwambhara priyaṅkara śrī-swarūpa dāmodara, śrī-goswāmī rūpa-sanātana

["Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanya is non-different from Śrī Śrī Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa and is the very life of those Vaiṣṇavas who follow Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī. Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī, Rūpa Goswāmī, and Sanātana Goswāmī were the givers of great happiness to Viśvambhara (Śrī Caitanya)."]

[This is the sixth of eight verses describing the Brahma-Mādhva-Gauḍīya Sampradāya, compiled by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura.] [Songs Of The Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, p 90-2]

"In this way the mādhurya dhara is coming. Rūpaṁ tasyāgrajam, sanātano, uru-purīṁ māthurīṁ, and the highest position of the Mathurā maṇḍala, the līlā pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, māthurīṁ. Goṣṭavāṭīm, and within Mathurā maṇḍala, goṣṭa, where the cow keepers have their villages, goṣṭavāṭīm. Then rādhā-kuṇḍaṁ, where Rādhārāṇī may have Her most confidential connection with Kṛṣṇa, with Her own paraphernalia. Giri-varam, then the Govardhana Girirāja, and which Mahāprabhu Himself gave by His own hand to me for worshipping this Govardhana Śilā. Rādhikā-mādhavāśāṁ, and with that, on the whole, what we have got, the hope that I can have the service of both Rādhā and Mādhava. Prāpto yasya prathita-kṛpayā, by whose grace I am assured of all these bright achievements. I bow down to that Gurudeva. The lakṣaṇa, the type of highest Guru, what Guru can give up most, that is the symptoms of Gurudeva, the best type. It is written, represented there, that these things our highest achievement, and we have got from him, in any form. I want to bow down, show my obeisance. Rādhikā-mādhavāśāṁ."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Who has written this verse Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī. Āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ. He has given this. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi?
(Vilāpa-Kusumāñjali, 102)

"I'm sustaining such a sweet hope from long, long time and I am come to the last point. If I do not get in this time perhaps my life will be ended. To such the verge of my whole life I have come. Mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi. In the last moment if You don't come to be gracious towards me then I don't want my life, the Vṛndāvana and even Kṛṣṇa I don't want. First I want You, and through You I want Kṛṣṇa, not Kṛṣṇa alone. I have no business to have any connection with Him any direct way. I have no capacity to establish any direct connection with Him, it is impossible. And only through You can we hope to have Him in our fullest faith and our greatest satisfaction. If I don't get that, I have come to understand this is the best achievement, if I have no chance of that then I don't like to live any longer. I've no satisfaction, either with this Vṛndāvana, nor even with Kṛṣṇa. So exclusively, this Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa, my life, all may have fulfilment only through Your grace, You are my master. Swāmīni," addressing Rādhārāṇī as a Swāmīni, She leader. You are our leader, as You lead we shall do. And that is our highest stage, we have come to have such faith, belief, that under Your leadership if we can do anything and everything, that will fetch highest value for us. Otherwise not."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. ...another two letters, from?

Badrinārāyaṇa: One from Mukunda Mālā, and one from Brahmā to Daśaratha Sūta Prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmā to Daśaratha Sūta, what is that?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He's speaking a little about Haṁsadūta...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, Haṁsadūta...

End of 82.09.08.A

Start of 82.09.23_24_29

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ...in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa there's a śloka, snehād vā lobhato vāpi, yo gṛhnīyād adīkṣayā / tasmin gurau sa-śiṣye tu, devatā śāpa āpatet

["A Guru who gives the mantra to his disciple out of greed or mundane affection, disregarding the standards for dikṣā, is cursed - along with that disciple - by the gods."] [Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa 2.7]

So devatā śāpa, what is the meaning of devatā śāpa? _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Oh. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Suppose one is a relative, he gave dīkṣā, Guru gave dīkṣā to a person, snehād, and not considering his position, his earnestness, his yogyatā. But because he's his own in the flesh connection he's got some affection towards him, so he gave dīkṣā, not thinking that he's a real person to accept dīkṣā. And also from the śiṣya, 'because he's my own bodily connection, I have got his affection, so I take dikṣa from him.' That is from this body consideration, 'he's my own' from body consideration. Or lobha, 'I shall get some money, or something I shall get in this mundane.' Anyhow, the mundane connection, without proper method of real dīkṣā, the transaction what is done only with mundane connection, there the adīkṣa, the curse of the gods falls on them.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Demigods.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Demigods. Demigods means they're agents, necessarily, that is worldly transaction. So they are actuated by the higher power to deal with them unfavourably. No real transaction but an imitation. Lobha means money or something else, or sneha means bodily connection, affection. The Guru is not proper Guru, śiṣya is not proper śiṣya, but imitation transaction is there. Adīkṣayā, without proper dīkṣā, that connection, that will be only physical connection established, and that invites the wrath of the natural leaders. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

antavat tu phalaṁ teṣāṁ, tad bhavaty alpa-medhasām devān deva-yajo yānti, mad-bhaktā yānti mām api

["But the fruit obtained by those provincially interested worshippers of the various demigods is temporary. They reach their respective gods, but My devotees obtain Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.23]

The transaction according to its quality has its reaction. That is the scientific explanation. The superficial transaction, imitation, is not proper dīkṣā, and that has got a proper reaction. And no progress is possible there for the real spiritual realization or upliftment. Mundane transaction receives the consequence of mundane result, reaction.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Then there's another, evaṁ gurupāsanayaika-bhaktyā, vidyā-kuṭhāreṇa śitena dhīraḥ vivṛścya jīvāśayam apramattaḥ, sampadya cātmānam atha tyajāstram

["With the sharpened axe of transcendental knowledge given to you by Gurudeva you must cut off all subtle and gross material attachments covering the soul. Having freed yourself from material attachments through knowledge and analysis, you may lay down the weapon of knowledge. Although knowledge is a suitable weapon for cutting material attachments, Śrī Kṛṣṇa is infinite and can never be understood through knowledge and analysis. Once the weapon of knowledge has been used to its fullest extent in cutting off material attachments, one must therefore lay it down. Thus freed from the subtle coverings of the modes of nature, one may progress to the level of Paramātmā realisation. At that time, a devotee should remain faithful in the worship and service of Gurudeva with great care and attention. Gurudeva will gradually reveal to a sincere worshipper that unalloyed loving service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa which is transcendental to knowledge and is therefore known as jñāna-śūnya-bhakti."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.12.24]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the Bengali?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wrong transaction is there. Where he comes in contact with a real Guru, then imbibing proper knowledge from him, he will apply that knowledge, as kuṭhā means which cuts the wood, the axe. By the help of that axe, he will cut up the connection with that bad transaction previous, mundane transaction. And then he will leave the axe also, that is jealous mindedness, he'll be indifferent to that. First he will, with the help of the knowledge of axe, he will mercilessly cut off the connection. And then he will leave the axe also, and he will cast himself exclusively in the service of the Lord. That is fully unconscious of his previous mundane guru connection, and live indifferent, not any indirect connection with that.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. What's the time, eight?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Eight fifteen.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Could I ask Govinda Mahārāja to get the tapes from there.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I can manage it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You can manage, all right.

...then that Bhagavān Ācārya, they had much attraction for Mahāprabhu like mahā-bhāgavata, but they could not detect. Bhagavān Ācārya could not detect his appreciation in good poetry, a good stanza, statement, to Mahāprabhu. He has come with this poem, but he had no idea in the mahā-bhāgavata definition, Kavirāja Goswāmī, mahā-bhāgavata definition given in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. What is there?

śāstra-yuktye sunipuṇa, dṛḍha-śraddhā yāṅra / 'uttama-adhikārī' sei tāraye saṁsāra

["One who is expert in logic, argument and the revealed scriptures and who has firm faith in Kṛṣṇa is classified as a topmost devotee. He can deliver the whole world."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.65]

So those mahā-bhāgavata, dṛḍha-śraddhā, firm affinity, firm position, as well as well established in siddhānta. Both, śābde pare ca niṣṇātam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.21], that this type of mahā-bhāgavata, the Bhagavān Ācārya not much established in śāstra jñāna, śāstra-yuktye sunipuṇa. So śāstra-yuktye sunipuṇa, dṛḍha-śraddhā yāṅra / 'uttama-adhikārī' sei tāraye saṁsāra.

śāstra-yukti nāhi jāne dṛḍha, śraddhāvān / 'madhyama-adhikārī' sei mahā-bhāgyavān

["One who is not very expert in argument and logic based on the revealed scriptures but who has firm faith is considered a second-class devotee. He also must be considered most fortunate."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.67]

So he had some faith, some blind faith he had in Mahāprabhu, but it is not well established in proper understanding. In Bhāgavatam there is a śloka,

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

Bhagavān Ācārya was a brāhmaṇa of respectable family and still he had some affinity and some faith in Mahāprabhu, and so he was respected by the followers as mahā-bhāgavata. But he was not well established in the siddhānta, that what is māyāvādā, what is śuddha bhakti, rāga bhakti, all these things, differentiation, not.
So now things are coming...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, of course. Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

_____ [?] We have obeyed your orders. The ghosts of the soldiers _____ [?] We have kept your order. You have given us _____ [?]

He wanted through Caucasas to come to India, and Rommel will come to India through this side. And Japan that side _____ [?] in India the both will meet, Japan and China, they will meet in India. That was their policy.

But man proposes, God disposes.

Napoleon told, "I am not defeated by any person but by destiny. My destiny has defeated me, none else."

The modern historians say that Napoleon had some bad headache.

One experienced doctor told me, in my young age I had only fifty five beats. I told to the doctor, I have fifty five. Generally it should be seventy two, normal. But at young age I was good health, but only fifty five. Because from previous life perhaps I practised some yoga, anyhow fifty five.

The doctor told, Napoleon had thirty six beats only, and so he could have a good sleep only in five minutes on the horseback. That was his qualification. On the horseback for five minutes he can have a good sleep, Napoleon. And Napoleon had a headache.

I also had migraine, half portion. "The brainy fellow, they have got that disease." Two or three doctors told me, experts, "This is a disease generally found with the persons who has got the good brain."

And this doctor told that, Napoleon had such severe migraine, so much so that he fainted. Two or three days in a month he fainted. And anyhow his enemies had that clue, and when he was fainted, at that time, Wellington and others attacked him. And he was like dead, and captured.

I was told by some good students of history. Wellington, the then General of the British, he was also very good General. There is much admiration about his most scientific General. And by mathematics he used to, step by step he had plan and he must do that. So Napoleon and Wellington, contemporary General of Napoleon, he was not an unqualified man, a good qualified man. So whatever he would make plan, surely he will do that.

But the question of Napoleon was another thing. He was a genius. Whenever he was present in the battle, none would be able to defeat him. His victory is sure. No question of any power, soldiers, or weapons, or anything. He has the knack, he defeated the General of the other party by the power of his brain planning. Going this side, this side, that side, in this way he used to puzzle the brain of the other leader. That was his tactics. His fight, not with the soldiers, but with the General of the other party. And he was a genius, he moved in such a way, sometimes this side, they come, this side, that side, that side. Puzzled. The other party's General's brain is puzzled, and march on. That was his policy. So he was a genius. Wherever he will be present, no chance of anybody to conquer him. His victory is sure. That is the opinion of the historians. No question of any power, the number of soldiers, or weapons, or this or that. He used to puzzle the brain of the conductor of the other party. That was his work. The General against a General, and not soldiers against soldiers much. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Very tactful. When the British captured him and took in a cage, and they wanted to make him a show on the streets, just as a big tiger or lion, something like that. In an iron cage Napoleon was put and a show was arranged.

But Napoleon he did, stoop so low to the lowest level. And without caring for his present position. They thought that, 'he will be such a great man, in such a position like a beast he's going to be shown, he will die mentally.' But he adjusted in such a way, he began to talk with those that came to see him out of curiosity, in such a way that British found that he's sowing the seed of revolution there, encouraging for socialism.

"You must have power. The people must have power in their own hand."

That was the subject of his talking to those that used to come to see him. The lion had been caught and being shown through the streets of England. When they found this, 'He's appealing, take him and put him to the Saint Helena.' And there the very modern exposition that he was injected arsenic.

And before his death he asked his guardian doctor. "I'm feeling much pain doctor. I'm feeling severe pain doctor." In this way he had to breathe his last. Because the recent discovery in the case of Napoleon's tomb. His hairs were there, still, and the examination of the hair has proved that he was injected arsenic, so to kill. From hair it was proved very recently. Napoleon.

First General was Hannibal in Africa. Second Alexander _____ [?] Third Julius Caesar, and fourth Napoleon. And fifth I think may be Hitler. Though now they are very jealous of him. But after some time the historians will come to give this. His organization was very wonderful. So much quick, arrangement for quickness, that is blitzkrieg in their language. Lightening war and mechanized war, two things introduced by Hitler, mechanized.

I followed when Hitler attacked France. First attempt came with Poland, Danzig. First he began in Sar, a place between France and Germany. There will be a precedence as the effect of the first great war. And according to the vote whether it will go to Germany or to France, it will be settled. But Sar came to Germany. First victory.

Second, Rhineland, when England was busy in coronation, perhaps George the VI, he took possession of the Rhineland who was without soldier. It was condition of the first great war that Rhineland, there must not be any soldier put in place, so he captured Rhineland, put soldiers there. He ignored, so easily none can want to enter into war, especially with furious German people.

Then the third he took Austria. And fourth Czechoslovakia, some portion, the German population was included within Czechoslovakia, and the Germans must be German. In this way a portion of Czechoslovakia was taken back.

At that time also Chamberlain was the prime minister of England. All requested him, "What? You're sleeping, you're sleeping. France and other territories are requesting England, you are taking no note. Then where it will go?"

Then fifth, Poland. "Danzig, I want Danzig." A corridor, straight. There, of course, they came, Chamberlain and France, they all met, came. Then Hitler made non-aggression pact with Russia. After Poland taken a war may begun. And within a few weeks Poland was finished and a pact of non-aggression between Hitler and Europe. Poland was dividing into two. Then after passing the winter, the next summer he attacked both, through Denmark, this Norway. And how he could reach the Narvik, the last point of Norway's northern corner, they could not detect it anyhow. "That how so far he reached, so soon?" Anyhow, then first month it was finished, then next month he took Holland, Belgium and a portion of France, that war of Flanders. And the French, Belgium and British, three army combined and was defeated, helpless, most hopelessly defeated, the combined army of France, British and Belgium.

At that time America told, "The greatest war ever fought in the world is this fight of Flanders." I remember it. "Such a great battle had never been seen in the previous history, the battle of Flanders."

Then next month he began capturing France. France was fully prepared for the first great war, for the tank. The pyramids were a boundary, pyramids, the tank may not approach. Then the details were given in newspaper. Hitler's soldiers came in some afternoon and began the policy of dynamite, began to put into the pyramids, to demolish them. Then cut a road, and then in a circular way the forces began to move, like a fan, in newspapers dealt in such way. They began in this way, the mechanized army began to move in this way and encroaching France. They're coming, and those that are dead, and others, they're being, they're dying, and fresh coming in this way. They're coming, and that are wounded in the fight are defected, whether the lorry, or the tank, or the motor, they're going in that way, and then that is taken away, or they are repaired, or anything, and fresh coming, in this way. Like a fan moving and cutting they began to enter into France.

At that time Petain was the General, Petain or something. He found that it would be impossible to fight, so he came for a truce. He saw that, 'our beautiful country will be transformed into desert.' So he came. But Darlan - not Darlan, Darlan and Petain, Darlan was the navy General and Petain the land General. Both of them perhaps together, they surrendered to Hitler.

And this De Gaulle, he fled to England, and he demanded there, "No, France has not. If coming again we shall go and fight him, recover." In this way. But Darlan went to...

And by this time America is coming to help, the British power, the allied power. And they tried to land their soldiers in South Africa, the French territory there. And Darlan went there, and Darlan was, by a visitor he was stabbed in the throat and died. And Petain he surrendered the France and they took possession of the whole front.

And now they thought, 'The next attack will come to England, necessarily.'

But there was some difference in Hitler's camp. One Hess, he was an astrologer, he told, "Westward we have got possibility of success, but not Eastward."

But Hitler told, "No, I shall jump into England crossing the sea with all my force. And if Russia comes from back, then what will be our position?"

And he was already against Russia, this communism. Hitler was the hater of the communistic nature, nation. And Russia also at that time, perhaps for fear of future Germany after attaining victory, of coming victorious from England, Russia began to construct these air bases. That Poland throughout the boundary many air bases they began to construct. So Hitler had doubt, so he thought that, 'We must attack Russia first, leaving aside British.'

So that the British, America, France, they may not help Russia, so he came to take possession of an island near Dardanelles, that is Crete. And there also the allied party, the France, the British, the Americans also combined at that time, they had got full power there, military possession. But still fighting with them he took that Crete island. That was adbut, a wonderful fight there. The gliders came from Greece, he had to take Greece then. Greece was fighting with Italy for long time. Italy could not conquer Greece, they were very brave soldiers.

But when Hitler joined, there was the Alps between Germany and Greece perhaps.
Napoleon told previously, "There will be no Alps." That is a saying.
And Hitler told that, "The Alps stands on the road, blow it out." So they did something like that, some portion of the mountain was blown out and came to Greece.

Grecian soldiers fought very bravely. Hitler was very much satisfied with their valour, and he ordered, they were taken captive, but Hitler ordered that, "They are brave soldiers so they should be allowed to keep sword with them. Though in prison, but they will be allowed to keep their sword with them." He honoured them in this way.

Then this Crete fighting. The gliders, then false persons of wax, imitation man coming from the parachute, imitation man coming there and fighting, and in the middle of that real man also coming down. In this way they took up position in the shore. And then navy was sent and they're not less strong, hard fight, The navy, the gliders, the parachutes, and the bombing, all these. Dive bombers was another thing, Hitler's.

And Roosevelt perhaps, or someone at that time, he told that, "Hitler is frightening us with dive bomber. Dive bomber means from high, they can close their wings and come nearer to the ship and bombing, straight going up and very quickly, the dive bombers, they're very furious."

When that Norway was captured, then British tried hard to enter into that Baltic Sea, tried hard to enter into Baltic but could not, that bombing. The British navy, it was a famous navy, British, tried utmost to enter into Baltic and to attack Germany from the northern side. But that falcon type aeroplanes began to bomb in such hard way they could not advance.
And Hood, one of the great navy named Hood, that was lost there, no trace. They could not have any trace in such way, the Hood disappeared, whole navy, so many things around it. One navy means a big ____ [?] then the aeroplanes, the life boats, then cruisers, and all these combined the navy. The whole thing was lost, in this way.

So Crete was also, and then anyhow Hitler captured, and then entered into Dardanelles to help Russia. But American help came from other side. America was intact, money, food, then shoes, so many things, whatever was necessary for Russia at that time. Hitler's blitzkrieg was a failure. Blitzkrieg, lightening war, that is successful in a small area. All other battle was in a small area. So within no time he could manage. But Russia is a vast land. So as long as still remaining there going back, so this blitzkrieg, that is lightening war, was not successful in the vast land. So he had to come down gradually. And Russia also gave a hard fight. And big Generals of Hitler could not pierce through the front line in Russia, first. But one Mr. Bock, he suddenly, when he was made General, unknown man, Bock, he suddenly broke down Russian front and two hundred miles entered in a few hours.

Then at that time, Stalin was little afraid, and told, "The hateful, contemptible enemies have entered our hearth, home, and we must oppose with all our might." In this way Stalin began to...

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. All this recorded?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. So our experience from here, parokṣa-vāda. Pratyakṣa and parokṣa, this is within parokṣa, not pratyakṣa knowledge, knowledge of my own experience, but that is the experience collected from other's experience, knowledge collected from other's experience, parokṣa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

First and second great war. First great war, nineteen fourteen. I was then eighteen or so, eighteen, nineteen. And second war I was here also. I was in the Maṭha. Forty five or so it was closed with atom bomb in Japan, Hiroshima. It came to finish.

Japan on the other hand began to, told very boldly, "We're prepared for hundred years of war and we shall conquer the whole world. The westerners they'll fight with each other and will be finished. And I shall conquer the whole world, must have to do."

That was their ambition, but the atom bomb put to stop on all this boast.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Atom bomb.

And before this Hitler once told, "Mysterious powers are working in my favour."
I remember his expression. It was in newspaper.
"Mysterious powers are working in my favour. But let God save me from such heinous action."
With this the allied party they thought that everyone is trying for atom bomb and death ray. They're making experiment. By this statement of Hitler, they found that Hitler has come very nearer to atom bomb. So now...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hitler, he told _____ [?] his followers were saying the last minute, "Go away from the - we shall conceal us. Again if we live we shall try to fight again. Now it is hopeless, our position."

Hitler said, "No, no. I have my orders. If any General comes back from the fight, shoot him. Never come back, go forward. That was my standing order. Whenever the General will try to come back, shoot him. Then how can I go underground, when the adverse circumstance? I must die here, by my friends, I must die here." In this way.

Then his friends, "No, if you live then we may have another attempt. But if you go, then we are all gone, the whole country gone. So let us go underground."

"No I can't do that."

Before that Mussolini was captured in Italy. He was leader of the fascist. And Hitler's party was called Nazi, and these are fascist. So when Mussolini was caught, and his body was very much ill treated, the spitting, then the stool, and other things were thrown onto his body, and very much insulted.

So Hitler, we heard, that went some underground room, and there the music was playing, and someone giving some poisonous drink, and with that singing took poison and died. There was some arrangement, automatic bomb, and the bomb broke down and the whole structure that was broken and they were buried there.

But this party tried their best to get out his body and to make some insult, but could not have any trace. Hitler and a few others, they made such arrangement that explosion destroyed their body in an untraceable way, they could not be traced, anything of the body, to insult.

But the Goering, the air General, he was captured and he was taken to jail, and there perhaps he died, or hanged. I don't remember exactly.

Great war, two great wars I have experienced, heard dealings. During first great war when I was studying in Baharampur College, one astrologer told, one man asked him, "After this war whether India will be free or not?"

He told, "No, not after this war, but after this war there will be some pause, and again after few years there will be another greater world war, and after that India will be free."

But anyhow it was told. I am witness to that. That war finished, India could not attain freedom, and another greater world war came, and that was finished in [nineteen] forty five, and anyhow forty seven India has got such liberty, such freedom. What you consider that British rule was better than this, because this condition of government, anarchical.

We had some experience of the British rule. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura recommended British rule very much. That during the British period everyone had got his right to go on with his religion very safely. No interference with our religious feelings, sentiments, preaching, everything. So he loved, liked British rule, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. _____ [?]

In the first fight of Gandhi I was within the camp of Gandhi, but the second and third movement, three movements came, led by Gandhi. The first movement, non cooperation. Second, civil disobedience. And third, rather, do or die. In the first, I was with them. In the second, I'm in the Maṭha, and I had to fight against those with whom I worked. Ha, ha.

What is this? This is a prison house. This is freedom for the senses. You are fighting for the freedom for the senses. But real fight must be to conquer the senses, freedom from the senses. That is the real fight, from māyā, māyā is our enemy, and we must fight with that. India may be independent, what of that? I shall be born as a jackal in the jungle of Africa. And you also may have such chance. Then what is the benefit of the free country? There are so many free countries, are they happy? There also men are dying, suffering from disease, so many difficulties there are. So this is not freedom proper.

Sadhinata [?] in Sanskrit, the word is sadhinata [?] Now we're slaves of the senses, but we must have, we must be controlled by our own self, self interest, real, ātmā. The ātmā must have control over our field, to take out from the hands of the senses. That is the real sadhinita, in Sanskrit. Sa dhinata, the control, to get, to acquire the control of the self. Now we are under the control, we're slaves and under the control of this foreign temptation, this material temptation. The wholesale fight, thorough fight must be to attain real freedom, inside. That is necessary.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

...the control, self control, to get back self control, that is sadhina, not the physical control of physical environment, that is not sadhina. That is not freedom proper. Sa means self, and self, what is self? Sva-rūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ.

[nirodho 'syānuśayanam, ātmanaḥ saha śaktibhiḥ
muktir hitvānyathā rūpaṁ, sva-rūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ]

["The merging of the living entity, along with his conditional living tendency, with the mystic lying down of the Mahā Viṣṇu is called the winding up of the cosmic manifestation. Liberation is the permanent situation of the form of the living entity after he gives up the changeable gross and subtle material bodies."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.10.6]

The real position of the self in connection with the whole universe absolute, that is Kṛṣṇa dāsya, that is svarūpa. The slavery to Kṛṣṇa, that is freedom proper.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' [kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa']

["The living entity's constitutional position is to be an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa. As a manifestation of Kṛṣṇa's marginal energy he is simultaneously one and different from the Lord, like a particle of sunshine or fire."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

We are free when we can think, we come to the real fact, that we are a part of the whole, and we are in proper harmony with the whole, then we are free. Otherwise, no other freedom can be thought real. In a harmonious system when we can realise our proper position in that, proper function, in consonance with the environment, that is freedom proper. And this is freedom for the senses, freedom for the mind, freedom for the group, freedom for the particular forged culture. All these things are slave to mania. Surrender to the truth, that is freedom. To serve different forms of mania, that is all slavery. What is natural, that Reality is for Himself, we are for Him. To live to this concrete fact, what is concrete we can't ignore. Our position is this, we are part of the potency of the whole absolute, and we must submit to that, we must accept that, unmiserly. Then we are free in our own position. Otherwise fighting with one another, fighting each other. They are all local interest, provincial interest and there is a clash and fighting. And only to accept our proper position in the harmonious movement of the whole, absolute, that is freedom. Jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'. So freedom means slavery, and slavery of the absolute good person of knowledge and absolute judgement, absolute love, absolute friendship. We must surrender to that. That is proper freedom.

What do you say?

Devotees: (Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 'Die to live.' That Hegelian expression is very favourable to me. 'Reality is By Itself and For Itself', and 'Die to live.' These three formula is a good basis of Vaiṣṇavism. Gaura Hari bol. Die to live. So freedom is to do away with all our manias of different types and to return back to our real position of so called slavery. And that is, what does it mean? Thereby we can have the whole represented by a person Kṛṣṇa as our friend. That is the highest attainment of a speck, of a point of a speck, to get the whole as his friend, sincere friend.

bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram
suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, [jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati]

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

Who is the all controller, get Him, acquire Him as your friend. And that is your best freedom, position, as friend, guardian. And what is freedom? Freedom, in the land of love, everyone is out to give, to help others. That is more than freedom. Freely, what can you do, what can you acquire? You get more when you live among the guardians. They are all your well-wisher. That is more than freedom. How much you can think by your small intellect?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: There are different quotes from different śāstras glorifying the Holy Name, and in one of those quotes Lord Brahmā is telling Śrī Nārada Muni that in the age of Kali one should chant the Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā-mantra, and that one needs no qualification. And even the impure Name can deliver one from the the influence of Kali. Um.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that śloka?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Which scripture?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I think it's from the Yajur Veda. I have it downstairs. I should have brought it.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Kali-santaraṇa Upaniṣad?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We have no objection to that. That does not mean that ten offences eliminated. From anywhere it will help us, but the Name proper, Name must be real Name, not a perverted reflection of the Name. Nāmābhāsa and nāmāparādha, that means material. The sound must be vaikuṇṭha-nāma- grahaṇam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14] Sound must be proper. That is made of the real sound, real Name. Nāma nāma _____ [?] Real Name, Vaikuṇṭha Name, transcendental Name, not this sound which can be produced by the lips or tongue. We must not take that any sound, that...

nāmākṣara bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya
[From Jagadānanda Paṇḍita's Prema-vivarta]

...only the material sound is the Name Divine. Name Divine and name mundane, we are to differentiate. It is not name at all, we are to understand this. Otherwise where is the necessity of taking it from Guru or sādhu, or from a real source. It should come and enter into our heart. Not imitation. The sound imitation and also taking imitation, that won't help us. But the transaction must be proper, from the real plane. That is Divine and the Name will capture you also, will do with the divine spirit, sevonmukhe. Otherwise no connection with spiritual substance. Not in the plane of exploitation, neither is this plane of renunciation. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234] It exists in the plane of service. We must be practical in our thinking, not theoretical or imagination has got any place here. The Name of the Lord is one with Him.

Vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṁ viduḥ. It must be a spark, a fire, not glow worm, that can burn. The glow worm cannot burn. It seems like fire, so like light, fire, but it must be a real spark of fire, then it can burn. So Name, Vaikuṇṭha Nāma, Hari Nāma, Hari means Vaikuṇṭha, not mundane.

namaikam yasya cihnam smarana-pathagatam srotra-mulam gatam va suddham vasuddha-varnam vyavahitarahitam tarayaty eva satyam tac ced deha-dravinajani-talobha-pakhanda-madhye niksiptam syan na phala-janakam sighram evatra vipra

[Sanat Kumāra told Nārada] "If a person only once hears, chants or remembers the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa, he will certainly be delivered from the ocean of birth and death and attain liberation – whether the Holy Name is pronounced properly or improperly, with correct or incorrect grammar, and whether it is properly joined or only vibrated in part. O brāhmaṇa! Such are the glories of the Holy Name. However, if one chants the syllables of the Holy Name for personal benefit, for material wealth and followers, or out of greed, or in the association of atheists, such offensive chanting will not soon produce the supreme goal of life, Kṛṣṇa-prema."] [Padma Purāṇa, Brahma-khanda, 25.24] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.65]

There is a saying. Namaikam yasya cihnam, if we can hear the Name from the lips of anyone, smarana- pathagatam, but if the Name not expressed outside but in memory, srotra-mulam gatam va, but if the sound is received in the ear, srotra-mulam gatam va, suddham vasuddha-varnam, the pronunciation or the spelling may be right or wrong, does not matter, suddham vasuddha-varnam. Vyavahitarahitam, but must be vyavahitarahitam, that means _____ [?] vyavahitarahitam. The caitan, pure conscious divine and mundane, conscious and material, this difference we are to look out, vyavahitarahitam. Tarayaty eva satyam, it will deliver us, no doubt. Tac ced deha-dravinajani-talobha, but if that falls on a barren ground, deha, in body consciousness, deha-dravina, or greed for money, janita, popularity seeking, lobha, or too much greedy for taking delicious dish, lobha, pakhanda-madhye, or atheism, niksiptam syan, if that seed is sown in a field which is of this disqualification, na phala-janakam sighram evatra vipra, we cannot expect to get the result very quickly.

But some sort of struggle will go on and must come in connection with a genuine sādhu, etc., take a proper way towards the real goal, and then it will come to give its desired result. So mundane sound is not sound divine. The name may be mundane. It may be tackled from the plane of exploitation and the plane of renunciation. It won't be fruitful. When sevonmukhe, with the spirit of service, śraddhā. Śraddhā means Kṛṣṇa bhakti koile, it is all for Him. Reality is for Itself. This is śraddhā, everything meant for Him. With this, however little this may be, but with one drop of such śraddhā, regard, the Name will be taken and it will lead to the proper goal. Do you follow the argument?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow the śraddhā must be our direction, to move towards that, to go towards that, sincere. Sincere hankering to go towards Him, that must be present there, then it will help, śraddhā. Śraddhā _____ [?], then it will be of no effect. It will direct hither thither, different directions. Śraddhā means centre carrying...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That we are all meant for Him, His satisfaction. A drop of this universal devotion must be there, then it will be effective, otherwise everything will be useless. We must want to go Godward. We must make our face to go that side. And then if we accept any process, that will help us. So śraddhā, this is the criterion.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: You have spoken about unity in diversity, and explained the Gauḍīya, the present Gauḍīya Maṭha situation as that. My question is how can we have unity in diversity and still maintain a strong preaching effort, a very powerful preaching effort?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is, in the very original system, it is so, 'nvayād itarataś [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1], direct, indirect process. In Vṛndāvana also it is so, this party feeling, and it cannot but be, and not only it is non-objectionable but it is necessity in an organic whole. Thesis, antithesis, synthesis. This is the nature of the whole creation, our whole substance.

Thus the opposition party in the parliament. Apparently we may think it will be doing some harm to the main party for their smooth working. But in a generous way it is looked for that no, it is good, it is giving more carefulness and enforcing more energy for the work, the opposition. The opposition is not to be supposed to be minimised to destroy the real cause. But it helps to enhance the energy and more carefulness.

Just as kīrtana is better than smaraṇa. Why? The opposition party is there. So we are to collect more energy to convince them, automatically. And smaraṇa, meditation, it is weak though not external disturbance, the meditation, pure meditation, still, the intensity will be less. And when we're engaged in kīrtana, necessarily we're forced to collect all our energy possible to meet the adverse circumstances. So, austhaspandana-matrena.

aghaccit-smaranam visnor-bahvayasena sadhyate, austhaspandana-matrena kirtanatu tato varam

["The remembrance of Viṣṇu certainly cuts sin to pieces, but it is very difficult to attain perfection through remembering Viṣṇu. Only after great effort is such remembrance possible. However, simply by moving the lips, there is the kīrtana of the Holy Name of Viṣṇu, and therefore kīrtana is the topmost process of devotional service."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 11.453] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.19]

For the opposition only it is more intensified than smaraṇa and other things. So Kali, offensive for offensive has been recommended. Not that mere defence will help us in all circumstances. So when offensive, we are to collect more power, necessarily. So opposition there will be, and though sometimes we think it is undesirable but it is considered in the impartial background, that it is necessary, it has got its contribution in a positive direction. The negative has got its necessary position, to enhance the positive. This underlying principle we are to understand, we are to think out, how it is. It is there. How it is justified, we are to understand within ourselves, the harmony within us.

There is Kṛṣṇa, there is māyā. Even in His own harem there are different, Rādhārāṇī's party, Candrāvalī's party, the middle party. It is necessary to enhance His līlā. Yogamāyā invents all these things, or it is co-existent with Him. It is such. And there is no fault there but it is a necessary part. The difference, unity and difference, unity in diversity. Diversity has got its position, real position. The opposition also has got its diverse position.

The branches of the tree, what is that? Every branch wants to draw more juice from the trunk. But still they also help each other, in many cases. It is the nature we are to study how it is useful to us. Our organic body, there is also competition. The brain extracts the one eighth portion of the whole blood. So small mass wants more food. So much is not attached to the other bodies. So high and low, important and less important things will be there. And there will be a fight to draw their own food from the general store. And still they are friendly to us, on the whole. We cannot go on with only brain, neglecting the feet. Everything has got its place in the organic whole. And they have got their allotted service, a necessary part.

Without devotees, the Lord cannot stay. Without son the father is not conceivable. Then without the generous there must be one to be shown generosity. So such relative positions there. Everything for its own existence depends on another thing. The kindness, the generosity, it requires for its own existence that someone there must be who to make pity on.

mahā-kṛpā-pātra prabhura jagāi, mādhāi / 'patita-pāvana' nāmera sākṣī dui bhāi ["Jagāi and Mādhāi, the eighty-ninth and ninetieth branches of the tree, were the greatest recipients of Lord Caitanya's mercy. These two brothers were the witnesses who proved that Lord Caitanya was rightly named Patita-pāvana, "the deliverer of the fallen souls."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 10.120]

Those heinous demoniac persons like Jagāi, Mādhāi, they have got their necessity to enhance the magnanimous līlā of Mahāprabhu.

Judas is necessary to prove the generosity of Jesus. Suddenly some thought came in my mind about Judas. When Jesus with the cross on his shoulders is passing through and two sides the throng of men. Judas is also among the mob. And Jesus with his head bending and on the shoulder that cross, suddenly he looked at the face of the Judas. He's going on in this way, bending. Generally we may not think how he can understand that here is Judas. But where Judas was on the line, suddenly he cast his glance at his eye.

And in such a way that Judas was maddened by that look and ran from there. And he was bribed, he cast off the bribed money, and there he wanted to be forgiven. "I'm the most treacherous man. What I have done is most heinous action." Such reaction came in the mind of Judas.

And what this Judas got in the look of Christ? That a new thing comes to my mind, I don't know whether anyone has mentioned. Christ looked towards Judas, "Not that you have played a traitors part to me. You have committed treachery," not a look of that kind, vindictive. "But Judas, I'm utilising your fame of your whole life, exploiting. I'm exploiting you, not that you are exploiting me. You are being exploited by me most desperately, or hopelessly, or mainly to keep up my banner, my fame, you are being utilised, that you are a traitor. I am utilising for my fame, I'm exploiting your fame forever. So I'm indebted to you, my friend."

That sort of look Judas found in Christ's eye. "He's so thankful. I'm doing wrong to him, and he cast his glance to me that he's so much thankful to me. How it is possible?"

That jujitsu _____ [?] There is a policy from the Japanese, the jujitsu. When one is running with big force to attack, he went away and fell, no opposition. Something like that.

Judas was mad finding that thankful to the extreme he could trace from the eye of Jesus.

That, "Judas I am exploiting you forever. You will stand to prove my case, so high utilised. Forever your fame I have exploited and stolen, so I am greatly indebted to you, my friend Judas. Please forgive me. Forgive me for this action."

So Judas was mad. "So lovely, so affectionate, so thankful to me, a traitor." He could not stand. He ran away madly for penances of his act.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Always the criticism, ease-lover. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. A famous remark of Guru Mahārāja. Not notorious. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Guru Mahārāja was a good astrologer. Suddenly in my notebook, a copy of that horoscope was there, short thing. Anyhow my notebook was opened, in Purī, Guru Mahārāja was sitting by, "Whose horoscope is this?"

Mādhava Mahārāja perhaps told, "It is Śrīdhara Mahārāja's."

"Oh! Everything is good and very promising. Oh! The Rahu is there. It has taken possession of the fortune, a room of fortune, bhāgya, there the Rahu is sitting. So the whole thing paralysed. Otherwise the horoscope was very promising. The Bṛhaspati, the Moon, the Jupiter, the Moon, the Sun, the Mercury, then the Saturn, they're very powerful. And the combination was also _____ [?]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.282]

Mahābhāva. The greatest magnitude of hunger, mahābhāva means, the hunger in its fullest form. So much hungry, but this is unlike the hungry of this plane, _____ [?] distributing herself. No satisfaction by giving itself, or herself, or himself, different condition we are to say. Mahābhāva, prema kṣudhā, power of consumption of the rasa, and that is only possible by surrendering. The highest degree of surrender, when necessarily in the background the highest degree of drawing the sympathy of the proper area. Surrender means what for? Surrender, the petition to the high. Surrender is a _____ [?] term. That son means father, there must be a father, when we say the son. So surrender means surrender to whom? And surrender is the highest force to move the higher power, no other way to move the _____ [?] For the low, the best way is surrendering to move the upper house, the best means to end, to control the upper.

So our greatest friend is surrender. Surrender can bring, can earn for us the highest possible thing. Surrender is compared with hunger. So we are to adjust between the intrinsic conception of them. Surrendering is hunger, surrendering to the higher and for which purpose? To draw His sympathy. The high capitalist, His sympathy we draw, mahābhāva, can draw. The most desirable sympathy of the highest, rasa-rāja, mahābhāva. Positive is rasa-rāja, the master of positive ecstasy Himself, ecstasy Himself, ānanda Himself, happiness, joy or what we may say it. That is personified, infinite is personified. That rasa is person, unlike this mundane rasa, which we can exploit as a subject, this is objective side of ecstasy. But the subjective side of ecstasy, the ecstasy of higher quality, that is person, super-person. And by surrendering to Him we can draw His attention and sympathy towards. We are classified as potency. Have and have not, two classes, they say in the political, have and have not. We are have not, we're counted within the school of have nots. Have, that great, have Himself, is Kṛṣṇa, rasa-rāja. He's the absolute have party. And have not party, in their front, the leader up front, that is mahābhāva, hankering, 'I'm hungry.'

The revolution in Russia, the hungry approached the palace of the tsar. And tsar being afraid ordered fire. And then tsar was devoured, followed by death, the hunger, the hungry. Hunger, have not, we're have nots.

But Kṛṣṇa is not a vulnerable tsar. He's absolute. So without surrender, not any despotic approach will solve the problem. He's above all, even invisible, untouchable, transcendental.

When Rādhārāṇī says, "I can't go any further. I'm too tired. If You want Me to take somewhere else, now You are to take Me on Your shoulder." He disappeared, suddenly disappeared.

"Oh, I knew You fully, I know You fully. Your disappearance is only temporary and artificial."

And Kṛṣṇa wanted to enjoy that how Rādhārāṇī fares in such trying circumstances, deep forest, the dead of night, alone and helpless. He wanted to enjoy Her position.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Mahābhāva. Harmony.

Janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itarataś [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] The prime cause from which everything is emanating, either by direct or indirect connection. The source, the cause of all direct and indirect thought, thinking, conception, that is He. Good and bad, both accommodated there, and our progress would be to see that bad is not bad if we are properly adjusted. That will be our position. There is poison but poison may be utilised as medicine. That aspect must be understood. The poison is medicine. What is poison to me that is food to another. And through him that becomes food again to me, this oxygen and carbon dioxide that humanity and the vegetable. In this way it is adjusted, harmony. Trees are transforming carbon dioxide into oxygen, helping in such a way. We cannot do that, vice versa. This we can get from harmony. Living is possible, individual enterprise, individual existence is possible only by such pastimes. Otherwise it can only be harmonised in the conception of non-differentiated brahman, māyāvādā. They do not find any harmony in difference, unity in difference, so they merge everything in the non-differentiated mass of so-called consciousness. They cannot keep up the beautiful harmony, maintain like the Vaiṣṇavaites. 'Everything must be merged into one, then only we can solve so many different problems of the world, otherwise no solution.' The failure of the māyāvādī scholars, in this way.

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

Humility and patience, forbearance, amāninā mānadena, not to seek for self glory but to give glory to others, to admit others existence, respectable existence. With these qualifications we can live happily with our neighbour and the whole. Mahāprabhu has given these suggestions to us.

Why do you think that your neighbour is undesirable? You must equip yourself in this way. Then you will be honoured by your neighbour, worshipped by your neighbour. And mutual arrangement you will both, all live happily. You can live happily. Only the question of adjustment.

The Gītā also is giving suggestion to that. One German scholar he said, "The Gītā is the highest book of ontology, teaching. Why? Very definitely it hammers on our brain that don't complain against the environment. You have no hand to there. But control yourself and come into proper understanding and adjustment. Then you will find that all harmonious, all happy. The key in your hand and never try to set others right, set right yourself. That is repeatedly told by Bhagavad-gita. Give up your karma-phala, the result is with the infinite, and your duty is within your hand."

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Don't stop your function, and never care for the result, and that will find real peace in you. Your desired end of life you will find, at home, sitting at home you'll find everything there. Ha, ha. Do your duty and never care for the result. This is the key for the successful life of everyone. You'll be able to know that the infinite is your friend. You'll be able to detect, to understand, to follow, and happiness will flow from that understanding, that adjustment.

Becomes more attentive to hear.

So _____ [?] say that no, this _____ [?] that will create disturbance in such stage. But in the highest stage we are told proof there is _____ [?] and so many others. They are experts. They are there. But already established in cent percent satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa's senses. Nothing for their own, it is there. Otherwise it will be capturing my mind towards _____ [?] the sound would not be spiritual but it would be mundane sound. The mundane music, mundane and divine, so mundane music cannot produce divine music, it's another thing, it's eternal. Just as mundane lust cannot produce divine love. It is just the opposite. That has got its own source, own origin, own plane, and not that this is converted into that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. It's exclusive.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is the perverted reflection.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: This morning I read, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura has written that, "If some bird can chant Kṛṣṇa Nāma and someone asks the question, will that bird go back to the Para-Dhāma, if some bird like parrot can chant Kṛṣṇa Nāma, they told, Ṭhākura Gopāla, Ṭhākura Gopāla, this parrot, he said if somebody asks the question, can that bird go back to Godhead?" He says in reply, "There is anukaraṇa and anusaraṇa. So if we think that it is Nāma, then that will be nāmāparādha, to think that a simple bird imitating Nāma will go back to this...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What to speak of bird, there is the tape recorder. That must be spiritual, the element must be spiritual, spiritual basis. And that means that is all service, sevonmukhe, exploitation and dedication. That is springing up from the land of dedication, and imitation in the land of exploitation, and in the middle, the land of cessation, ceasing everything.

My head is reeling again, slightly, suddenly, what does it come from, can't follow...

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ]
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

["No one can understand the transcendental nature of the name, form, quality and pastimes of Śrī Kṛṣṇa through his materially contaminated senses. Only when one becomes spiritually saturated by transcendental service to the Lord are the transcendental name, form, quality and pastimes of the Lord revealed to him."]
[Padma Purāṇa] & [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234 & 2.109] & [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.7.23, purport]

Cent percent dedication, the land of dedication, the land of exploitation, and the land of renunciation, the marginal position. We must be very careful to our taste there. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau. Including both, self deception, no deception.

...

That centre carrying, out carrying and in carrying.

ātmendriya-prīti-vāñchā — tāre bali 'kāma' / kṛṣṇendriya-prīti-icchā dhare 'prema' nāma

["The desire to gratify one's own senses is kāma [lust], but the desire to please the senses of Lord Kṛṣṇa is prema [love]."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.165]

ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara / kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

The dense darkness, nirmmala bhāskara, the bright sun, brightest sun, and this dense darkness, kāma-preme. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi, tabhu kāma 'prema' nāhi haya

["My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love."]
[Kalyāṇa Kalpataru, Upadeśa, 18]

Very similar, but still, this is not that.

carmma-māṁsamaya - kāma, prema - cidānanda-dhāma

It is concerned with this flesh and blood, prema cidānanda dhāma, that is all consciousness and blissfulness. No question of these mundane senses. The ideal must be pure and we should strive to get it. We may be in lower position, but if the ideal is there, clear, then that will help me in my real improvement of life. The man who possesses the good idea, he is the real capitalist.

["He who has imbibed heart's faith in the tidings of My Name, nature and pastimes; who has become indifferent to all kinds of fruitive work and its rewards; who has learned that all forms of enjoyment of sensual passions ultimately transform into misery, yet he is unable to fully abandon such passions - such a faithful devotee, being determined that his shortcomings will be dispelled by the potency of devotion, gradually comes to abhor those evil passions that enslave him, knowing the havoc they wreak - and he serves Me with love: When his object is pure and sincere, I give him My mercy."]

Know what is good and bad but he can't help himself, but only falling in the clutches of the mundane senses. But he will repent, _____ [?] When the boy tries to start his walking, in the beginning he falls down, but again he gets up and again begins. In this way we are to go. But we must not go to deceive ourselves. To deceive, that is māyā, deception, to deceive our own self and others. To live in the world of deception. They are deceiving themselves and the environment also. I won't talk much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and the opposition sometimes is a sign of future success. Opposition, failure is pillar to success. And also once Prabhupāda told me in Bombay, at that time perhaps Swāmī Mahārāja was present. Bombay Maṭha was very costly and to collect sufficient funds for that Maṭha I told Prabhupāda, that it is beyond my ability.

Then Prabhupāda told me, "We are not karmī, but we are servitors. We do not hanker after any consequence, result. But as much as I have got, I want to utilise it and the rest is on Him."

Do you follow? We are servants. According to our capacity we shall try, and there it is finished. Karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana. If we must collect so much funds to defray the expenditure of this Maṭha, you will try your best and the rest will be seen by the Lord. We are servants, we are not karmī. Not we shall work for the fruit, the result. But all our attention will be concentrated in our discharge of duty. The rest with Him, as He likes.

āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣṭu mām, adarśanān marma-hatāṁ karotu vā
yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ

It is connected with that highest aspiration of life. I'm to do my quota, and I must be satisfied with that. According to the physical success I'm not going to measure the success of my activity. It is His will. So to show external success or not to show, as He likes, He may do. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Only I shall think whether I'm engaged in a proper thing in proper direction, self analysis, whether I'm doing it, the selection is right or not. Concentrate yourself in your duty, not in the result.

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Devotee: There's a couple of other letters...

...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ...and give it to Kṛṣṇa. And because in chapter nine that yat karoṣi, he says we should offer everything to Him. So why now we're indifferent rejecting both pious and impious. But previously He said, "Give everything to Me." Yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi. First question.

[yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat / yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam]

["O Kaunteya, whatever your action whether general or scriptural, whatever you eat, what you offer in sacrifice, whatever you donate in charity, and any vow you keep - do everything as an offering unto Me."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And what is another śloka?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I'll get one Gītā for the Sanskrit. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

The difference between the two, in stages. According to previous impression, previous of lower understanding we do things and take it to the guardian. And the second, I do not do anything independently, but I do at the order of the guardian. Something like that. A son is earning some money in good or bad way and offering to the guardian, black marketing, all these things and offering it. That is one thing. And another thing, he does not do anything without the order of his guardian, he's already established there. This is higher.

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati
samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

In Caitanya-caritāmṛta, [Madhya-līlā, 8.59], "eho bāhya āge kaha āra." Kṛṣṇe karmārpaṇa. Yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi. Then jñāna miśrā bhakti, this is karma miśrā bhakti. 'Whatever I do, I give it to Him, offer it to Him, karma miśrā. And jñāna miśrā, 'I do not like anything here. The lakṣaṇa, that is the loss and gain of this world required to me, I remain in that position, and like to do by His order.' That is jñāna miśrā bhakti.

samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

Now his question is whether pious action we won't do? Pious action that is in saguṇa, in relative consideration to this mundane world, what is good, that is pious, puṇya. Pap punya dui pare hare [?] Which is considered to be pure, from the standard of this world, mundane standard, that is also impure when it is considered from the nirguṇa conception. That those that work only in obedience with the inspiration of Kṛṣṇa. Do you follow? The service, that is to do anything and everything as we have received the order of the higher, I do that, that is service. But in the beginning, whatever we do is according to our mental calculation of loss and gain, and then anyhow we try to connect it with God consciousness. Mundane activity connecting with God consciousness, that is kṛṣṇe karmārpaṇa. And there, knowing fully well that both good or bad, in the mundane consideration, wholesale is wrong. And then to pray for the direction from the upper and to do accordingly, that will be higher stage.

'dvaite bhadrābhadra-jñāna, saba-'manodharma', 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

["In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions. Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176]

Just as in dream, a good dream, a bad dream, both false. So in our mundane calculation, good and bad both false. So whenever we're in mundane stage, we cannot do but mundane works.

And anyhow to connect it to give the result to Him, some connection. But we must rise up in a plane where we shall reject good and bad, both things here and wait for His direction and to go accordingly.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Another question he has, "I am trying my best to control my senses, my anger, and my lust, trying to be detached within myself, but I'm finding it very difficult and I'm doing mistakes all the time. So bless me so I could enter śuddha sattva guṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That cannot be earned by speculation, but practical service _____ [?]

[rajas tamaś ca sattvena, sattvaṁ copaśamena ca]
etat sarvaṁ gurau bhaktyā, puruṣo hy añjasā jayet

["One must conquer the modes of passion and ignorance by developing the mode of goodness, and then one must become detached from the mode of goodness by promoting oneself to the platform of śuddha-sattva. All this can be automatically done if one engages in the service of the spiritual master with faith and devotion. In this way one can conquer the influence of the modes of nature."]

By serving Guru. "That I don't know good or bad but I must obey my Guru." In this way one can increase his confidence, he can be easily out of all these tribulations, troubles.

parivadatu jano yathā tathāyaṁ, [nanu mukharo na vayaṁ vicārayāmaḥ
hari-rasa-madirā-madātimattā, bhuvi-viluṭhāma-naṭāma nirvviśāmaḥ]

[Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya said: "The gossipers may slander us, but we shall not heed them. Completely intoxicated by drinking the wine of the ecstasy of Śrī Hari's service, we shall dance and roll about on the ground, and faint."]

There is the ultimate support as Sārvabhauma Paṇḍita says in his old age, he's moving slowly, and he says, "Parivadatu jano yathā tathāyaṁ. Let the public cry aloud against me as they like, parivadatu jano yathā tathāyaṁ. Nanu mukharo na vayaṁ vicārayāmaḥ. We may not care to stop their mouth, nanu mukharo na vayaṁ vicārayāmaḥ. Hari-rasa-madirā-madātimattā. Drinking full the rasa of Hari, raso vai saḥ, and drinking fully that ecstasy coming from the conception of Hari, hari-rasa-madirā-madātimattā, we must become mad, and begin to dance and, madirā-madātimattā, to the extreme we shall be mad and, madātimattā, extremely mad drinking, extremely, madātimattā. Bhuvi-viluṭhāma, and roll on the earth, naṭāma. Sometimes we shall dance and, nirvviśāmaḥ, we will mix ourselves wholly with the earth. We won't care."

That quote in support, that śuddha part, that is what is wanted, and that is one drop. One drop cannot be found in this world. Eka-bindu jagat ḍubāya, Mahāprabhu says to Sanātana Goswāmī.

[kṛṣṇa-rūpāmṛta-sindhu, tāhāra taraṅga-bindu, eka-bindu jagat ḍubāya trijagate yata nārī, tāra citta-ucca-giri, tāhā ḍubāi āge uṭhi' dhāya]

["The consciousness of each woman within the three worlds is certainly like a high hill, but the sweetness of Kṛṣṇa's beauty is like an ocean. Even a drop of water from that ocean can flood the entire world and submerge all the high hills of consciousness."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 15.19]

[prabhu kahe - śuna, rūpa, bhakti-rasera lakṣaṇa / sūtra-rūpe kahi, vistāra nā yāya varṇana
pārāpāra-śūnya gabhīra bhakti-rasa-sindhu / tomāya cākhāite tāra kahi eka 'bindhu']

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "My dear Rūpa, please listen to Me. It is not possible to describe devotional service completely; therefore I am just trying to give you a synopsis of the symptoms of devotional service."] ["The ocean of the transcendental mellow of devotional service is so big that no one can estimate its length and breadth. However, just to help you taste it, I am describing but one drop."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.136-7]

"The nectar of love of the Lord is so, no depth, no limit, limitation, it is infinite, gabhīra bhakti-rasa- sindhu. Tomāya cākhāite tāra kahi eka 'bindhu'. I'm just distributing one drop to you." Then another place He says, "Eka-bindu jagat ḍubāya, only one drop can inundate the whole of the world."

That is the sweet nectar, that beauty, that love, that is transcendental, rasa, amṛta. That is what is wanted. And by thinking that, not this mundane wine or this smoking etc. It is meant that līlāmṛtam, the nectar of the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, we shall drink to the finish that nectar and we'll be mad.

Prakāśānanda asked Mahāprabhu, "Yes, You take Kṛṣṇa Nāma, it is well and good. But what is that You dance like a madman and cry and so many things?"

"But I do not do it Myself. The Name, the appreciation of the meaning of the Name and His līlā makes Me so. And it is in Bhāgavatam."

evaṁ vrataḥ svapriya-nāma-kīrtyā jātanurāgo druta-citta ucchaiḥ hasatyatho roditi rauti gāyatyunmādan-nṛtyati lokavāhyaḥ

["When a person is actually advanced and takes pleasure in chanting the Holy Name of the Lord, who is very dear to him, he is agitated and loudly chants the Holy Name. He also laughs, cries, becomes agitated and chants just like a madman, not caring for outsiders."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.40]

It is such an intoxicating rasa, rasa that līlā, the līlā rasa, that sometimes they dance, sometimes they cry like madmen, in Bhāgavatam it is there. So kāma-preme bahuta antara.

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara, kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara]

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

Very similar to this mundane sense pleasure, sense satisfaction, tabhu kāma 'prema', but lust is not love, prema. It is very similar, aprākṛta, similar, but it is a perverted reflection, and that is the highest. So to be mad by drinking the līlā rasa of Kṛṣṇa, just the opposite.

A man may offer his life for dacoiting, and a man may offer his life for the freedom of his country. That may not be equal, opposite. A dacoit, they also take the risk of giving life, and the saviours from the hands of the dacoits, they may also risk the life, but both opposite.

So Kṛṣṇa prema, drink hard of the love of the nectar of Kṛṣṇa, and begin to dance as Mahāprabhu.

Start of 82.10.08.B_82.10.10.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa is lying, and the persons that are lying and stealing, that will be equal? What is this? Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. With this effect? Mani mayi manderi pasyati cidran [?] In a temple built of diamonds and jewels, _____ paśyati cidran [?], the ants attempt is to find some hole there. So it is to steal the ocean, like to steal the ocean. This dancing, chanting, being mad with the līlā rasa of Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana rasa, and this intoxicating rasa one and the same, this is sahajiyā of the extreme. Their sense experience with men and women, they're to be to the Braja rasa, it is like that, most unfortunate, unhappy. Hari-rasa-madirā, Hari rasa has been compared with madirā, with wine, so hari-rasa-madirā. Drink hard of the Hari rasa, Braja līlā, and begin to dance. That is our most high fortune, and this is the lowest degradation, that by this liquor to drink hard and to dance. What is this, how they can come to see it? And in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam I have quoted the poems of mahā-jana, and not compiled by myself. Some, to give some correction to them, but mostly it is all quoted from Sārvabhauma.

[parivadatu jano yathā tathāyaṁ, nanu mukharo na vayaṁ vicārayāmaḥ]
hari-rasa-madirā-madātimattā, bhuvi-viluṭhāma-naṭāma nirvviśāmaḥ

[Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya said: "The gossipers may slander us, but we shall not heed them. Completely intoxicated by drinking the wine of the ecstasy of Śrī Hari's service, we shall dance and roll about on the ground, and faint."]

In Caritāmṛta also the śloka is there. Perhaps in this way he must have found something, some support from Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam. Ha, ha. Ludicrous, this is ludicrous. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. So God is sweet, so the rasagulla will take the position of God, is it?

madhuraṁ madhuraṁ vapur asya vibhor, madhuraṁ madhuraṁ vadanaṁ madhuraṁ [madhu gandhi mṛdu smitam etad aho, madhuraṁ madhuraṁ madhuraṁ madhuraṁ]

["O Lord Kṛṣṇa! The beauty of Your transcendental form is sweet, but Your beautiful face is even sweeter. The sweet smile on Your face, which is like the sweet aroma of honey, is sweeter still."]
[Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam, 92]

All madhu, madhu, madhu, His connection is all sweet. All the sweetness of the earth, the mundane world, we shall take that and we'll be satisfied. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol. Ha, ha. This representation coming from ISKCON, or from Jaya Tīrtha's party?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Some of it is Jaya Tīrtha's party, some of the people who like intoxication.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Then, any other?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where did you see that Jai Gaurendu?

...

...intoxication and then go on chanting, they will easily dance, the singing, dancing and rolling on the earth, that will be very cheap, with the help of the intoxication.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hmm, come very easily.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's all deception.

yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ
[mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati]

["The agitated mind, repeatedly taken captive by its enemy in the form of depravity rooted in lust and greed, is directly mastered by serving the Supreme Lord, Mukunda. It can never be likewise checked or pacified by practising the eight-fold yogīc discipline, which is generally based on sensual and mental repression (yama, niyama, etc)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.6.35]

"You yogīs, you think that by the process of controlling the breath, you are getting peace of mind and also control over the senses. That is only for the time being. It may continue for lives together, but it is an artificial thing, it cannot have any permanent contribution. Yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha. You think that the control of this lust and anger that is all, and you will find a sort of peace within you, you are master of kāma and krodha etc, lobha etc. But that position you cannot retain, that is a lower position of peace, and that cannot be maintained permanently, you'll have to fall down. Yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ, temporary. Mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati. But by the service of Mukunda, what sort of peace you will find within you, it cannot reach to that point. This is artificial means for checking the kāma, krodha etc, that are disturbing the mind and bringing with reaction. You may be above that, yoga siddhi, for the time being you may find a phase and no troubles from the senses, you may find you are the master of your senses, by the practice of breath, by prāṇa vāyu. But is temporary, just as in _____ [?] also.

Prāyaścittaṁ vimarśanam, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.1.11], hasti snāna prāyaścitta, I've done something sinful and if I do prāyaścitta and only for that one practice it is absolved. But the next moment again I shall commit to that. But by grand prāyaścitta we may achieve some more permanent character of abstention from this sinful activity, veṇu-gulmam ivānalaḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.1.14], a whole year. And the next year, again when the rainy season will come, all the shrubs will come out, but...

aghaṁ dhunvanti kārtsnyena, nīhāram iva bhāskaraḥ

["Only a rare person who has adopted complete, unalloyed devotional service to Kṛṣṇa can uproot the weeds of sinful actions with no possibility that they will revive. He can do this simply by discharging devotional service, just as the sun can immediately dissipate fog by its rays."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.1.15]

But what sort of purity, what type of purity we shall attain in coming in connection with the service of Vāsudeva, that is of eternal factor. And it is of peculiar purest type. That we cannot hope to attain by any other method, what we get by our submission and acceptance of the service of that Reality the Beautiful. That sort of peace can never be found anywhere. That our understanding with the highest centre, proper understanding and adjustment with the highest centre, that will give us such sort of peace and free from anxiety of all types. That cannot be attained, cannot be achieved by any sort of artificial methods which is not in connection with the understanding of the highest centre. In Bhāgavatam,

kṣemaṁ na vindanti vinā yad-arpaṇaṁ, tasmai subhadra-śravase namo namaḥ]

["I offer my repeated obeisances unto the Supreme Lord, who is all-famous as the Supreme Good. Without offering their actions unto Him, neither the liberationists (jñānīs) who are dedicated to austerities, not the charitable worldly workers (karmīs), nor the world famous, nor the performers of Aśvamedha sacrifices, nor the sages or yogīs, nor persons dedicated to chanting mantras, nor persons of virtuous behaviour - none of them can attain any auspiciousness in life."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.4.17]

Śukadeva in his inaugurating speech he's saying to the scholars, "There I know in this assembly, there are scholars, yogīs, tapasvi of different types. But you, I place what I'm going to say to you, you consider. Tapasvino, there are many penance making ascetics, dāna-parā, who has given many, who are famous for their donations, big donations, dāna-parā. Then yaśasvino, there may be many famous by their writings or their sacrifice, yaśasvino. Mantra-vidaḥ, there may be many who are well versed in the application of the mystic words, mantra-vidaḥ. Sumaṅgalāḥ. Kṣemaṁ na vindanti vinā yad-arpaṇaṁ. But you think in yourself, none of them...

So understanding with the highest central that can give us pure peaceful and harmonious life and no partial attainment can cope with that sort of acquisition. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Intoxication. There are so many, in India also by...

So many things, by taking that, they may settle themselves in a particular thought for sometime more by helping. But that won't produce any permanent result. Concentration, artificial concentration, everything is artificial. Contribution from the mundane cannot but be artificial and of lower nature.

In other words this is fossil fatherism, the fossil has created God. From the fossil consciousness God consciousness has come. From fossil when he developed into human section, then in the human mind grows the God conception. So fossil is the cause to produce God conception. The fossil is the father of the God.

So mundane intoxication that can give birth to the happy...

...of the conception of the absolute beauty and sweetness.

This is atheism. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

One may say that how Tulasi, Śālagrāma may help us? Apparently that is matter. The Deity apparently matter, how it can help us? But it is not so. Originally it is spiritual but in the form of matter. So this is theistic line. And this māyāvādī line that we want anything, a model, a doll, and by attending to that I'm to improve my own things, that is...

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Everything must come down, śrauta-panthā, revealed way. And nothing can go up from here, āroha-panthā. Ascending method has been discarded. Only descending. He can come to us. We cannot produce Him, go to Him, against His will. He can take us. As I told, the Ārya Samāj, "If finite can know infinite, approach infinite, He's no infinite. But if infinite cannot make Himself known to finite He's no infinite." Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena

No further way of attaining Him. Nanya pantha vidyate _____ [?] Only one way, that He will graciously descend to me and I shall be able to find. He's of such superior nature. We're to accept that. Otherwise why it is necessary for searching after Him if He's so available in this mundane world as one of us? Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. Only by śrauta-panthā, pāramparyeṇa, Guru paramparā, He can come down then we can find Him. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whose question?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Tamāla Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How many questions?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One, two, three, four, about five. Some of them are quite short. First he says, "In the Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta the different chapters are called by different types of Nāma, Bauma Nāma, Divya Nāma, Priya Nāma, Bhajan Nāma." He wants to know why those chapters are given those names, what's the reason?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First, which name?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Bauma.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then Divya, then Priya Nāma, then Bhajana, and then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He's only given those, he's not given them all, perhaps.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you think? This is a new thing but it is not unintelligible. According to the purity of the name stage, it is classified. Bauma, more material conception mixed with it, more material than spiritual. Divya, then the major portion of its conception is supernatural, natural then supernatural. Then third stage is Priya. Then there we find some natural taste. So long as duty we are to do with śraddhā. And now it has reached the stage of ruci. In the beginning there may not be ruci.

pittopatapta-rasanasya na rocikā nu kintv ādarād anudinaṁ khalu saiva juṣṭā svādvī kramād bhavati tad-gada-mūla-hantrī

In the beginning with the help of śraddhā we are to take it and just, it may not be felt very sweet. Just as when there is biles, attack of biles, this sugar candy tastes bitter. But when the disease is cured and gradually sugar candy will taste sweet. That is the medicine to drive away the disease. First sugar candy is bitter and then we will take more and more and the disease will be off and the sugar candy's taste will be sweet.

syāt kṛṣṇa-nāma-caritādi-sitāpy avidyā-, pittopatapta-rasanasya na rocikā nu
kintv ādarād anudinaṁ khalu saiva juṣṭā, svādvī kramād bhavati tad-gada-mūla-hantrī

["The Holy Name, character, pastimes and activities of Kṛṣṇa are all transcendentally sweet like sugar candy. Although the tongue of one afflicted by the jaundice of avidyā (ignorance) cannot taste anything sweet, it is wonderful that simply by carefully chanting these sweet Names every day, a natural relish awakens within his tongue, and his disease is gradually destroyed at the root."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 7]

In this third state the sweet taste of the sugar candy comes back after doing away the effect, influence of the bile, attack of biles, aravidyā. So in the beginning it is material, more natural, then supernatural position comes, then the sweetness, inner sweetness comes to open it to us Then the third, then we can go on with real bhajana, that is a service, the stage of service, sevā begins. It has become automatic, spontaneous. Otherwise it is laboured, aiming at the desired result. But when it tastes sweet, then only, the basis of that, the natural service begins. And then it comes, attains the stage of bhajana, the fourth stage. And then it will divulge, it will express the rūpa out of it. Rūpa then parikara vaisistha līlā, in this way it goes up.

Then the second question?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the incarnation of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. So is Bhakti-rasāmṛta- sindhu the incarnation of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī? He's asking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is generally told as in Kṛṣṇa relatively Rādhārāṇī and all other serving group included. As in the name of king, so many of his paraphernalia included. So in Bhāgavatam there is everything, not only Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa predominating and there are so many, otherwise along with Kṛṣṇa, so many discussions is not possible. Kṛṣṇa mainly. And in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu there is also Kṛṣṇa and bhakti. Mainly the vaibhava of Rādhārāṇī we may say. Bhakti, she is the most predominating, we may say. But there is relatively Kṛṣṇa and His group also there, the sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, but all mainly serving tendency. Then?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, in the second part, there is mention of ten syllable Gopāla mantra. He says, can you tell us that mantram?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't remember, mention of Gopāla mantra. Dvādaśaka, no, what is it? That is not mentioned?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ten syllables.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ten syllables. No, I shall have to consult Hari-bhakti-vilāsa for that before I can give any definite statement about that. The Vāsudeva mantra is found Dvādaśaka in Bhāgavatam in case of Dhruva. But this Gopāla mantra I did not remember, I found, to consult Hari-bhakti-vilāsa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then one last question, in the Caitanya-Bhāgavata he says, "When Lord Nityānanda Prabhu went to the kingdom of Guhak Candala He fell into a trance for three days." He's asking, "Why did He fall into trance? And who is Guhak Caṇḍāla?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then I'm to consult that portion where it is mentioned. So in general I can say that Nityānanda Prabhu's very type was that Rāmacandra's grace towards the fallen. Guhak Caṇḍāla's case, when Rāmacandra was very much graciously inclined towards Guhaka, the caṇḍāla, patita-pāvana, the deliverer of the fallen. And Nityānanda Prabhu, His main temperament is such. So when they both came together, that memory in Rāmacandra's age of that patita-pāvana, He was one with that temperament and went besides Himself. Welcomed it so deeply that He was fully identified with that idea and was absorbed in that attention, Guhak caṇḍāla, patita-pāvana līlā. He Himself was that, and in Rāmacandra that was depicted, to the high extent there. So the equal temperament that came to meet and lost Themselves, in one function of patita-pāvana, so much absorbed there. So much absorbed in that līlā of Rāmacandra, forgot Himself. The most appreciator of that līlā, Nityānanda. This is the fourth?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, that's all.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Gopāla mantra to be consulted in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa and Caitanya-Bhāgavata, this Guhak caṇḍāla. But this is the gist of the līlā, Nityānanda Prabhu's līlā, He was unconscious. He lost Himself here in memory of the līlā of Rāmacandra there patita-pāvana. That is His own heart. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I had one small question. Recently I saw in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa that for dīkṣā there some months are auspicious, some months are inauspicious, dīkṣā _____ [?]. But we do not attach much importance to that. Sanātana has given that for a reason?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inauspicious or ominous that means according to the adhikāra, the receiving capacity. Anadhikāra, it is not fit for this particular stage. According to that the auspicious or ominous to be settled, adhikāra.

Duṣṭa phala karibe arjjana. That in dream that gentleman got this, they profess like that. That Caraṇ dāsa got in his dream this Nitāi Gaura Rādhe Śyāma. But Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Guru Mahārāja told that is concoction.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, rasābhāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be in his dream but that showed that he's a false man, not having real touch with the reality. Rūpa, Sanātana, and Kavirāja Goswāmī, Narottama Ṭhākura, we must accept their decision, their vision, their estimation. And this is anomaly, Nitāi Gaura Rādhe Śyāma, what is this? This is against. And then to divide the mantram that are coming down, it is rather a living thing and according to our whim, we can cut it asunder and a part of that and another part we can mix together, create, that idea is also not happy.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Was he in the time of Prabhupāda, or before, earlier?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A little earlier. And he wanted to have Prabhupāda within his community, very earnestly. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura warned Prabhupāda, "Don't be a captive to that false man."

Once I heard from Prabhupāda that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is going to Mahāprabhu's house and Prabhupāda is following him, here in Navadwīpa. And just by the front of that Samājbari there position, and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has gone perhaps a few steps further.

And he suddenly came and stood before Prabhupāda, "You are our future prospect." In this way he began to eulogize Prabhupāda very much. Then Prabhupāda was stopped for a minute or so.

When again joined, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura asked Prabhupāda, "What that man was telling you?"

"He was saying like this, that you are our...

"Be very cautious, and don't be a captive to that man's trap."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There's another mantra also, another person perhaps. Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Rāma, Rādhe Govinda, what is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya Prabhu Nityānanda Hare Kṛṣṇa Hare Rāma Rādhe Govinda.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. That's another gentleman, another concoction?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He comes in the name of Advaita Prabhu or so.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: They say Advaita vaṁśa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is one Gandhi, Rāmacandra, Rādhe Rādhe...

No, there was one Balānanda Giri, hodgepodge māyāvādī, Gauḍīya Śaṅkara Sītā Rāma Rādhe Rādhe Śyāma Śyāma. He also entered Gauḍīya Śaṅkara also within that. Gauḍīya Śaṅkara Sītā Rāma Rādhe Rādhe Śyāma Śyāma.

And the Gandhi has also introduced one. Raja Rāma Patita Pāvana Sītā Rāma.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Īśvara Te Nāma, something?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sītā Rāma Patita Pāvana Sītā Rāma. Raghupati Ragava Raja Rāma Patita Pāvana Sītā Rāma. This is main, and sometimes they join, Īśvara Allah Devī Nāma Sat Kure Sumati Devala Vani [?] This is added with that, Īśvara Allah Devī Nāma Sat Kure Sumati Devala Vani [?] Then, partial representation. "You may be told by some as Īśvara, some may tell as Allah, but Your Name, of course, Your vaibhava, there's no harm, but not all equal."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He added that verse. Gandhi added that verse. Hindu Muslim compromise.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Īśvara Allah Devī Nāma Sat Kure Sumati Devala Vani [?]

When he was hit, he was shot, Ha Rāma Ha Rāma, and within half an hour he passed away.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He told Ha Rāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha Rāma!

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Oh! I thought he told Hare Rāma.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We were told at that time in the paper, Ha Rāma Ha Rāma, with pronouncing these words he fell down, and unconscious and within half an hour, two bullets in the heart, by that gentleman, that Godse. That Jawahalarl [Pandit Nehru] he heard that Gandhi will be shot, murdered, so Jawahalarl arranged for his protection, some police.

He accepted but told, "When I shall attend the religious class, I don't want any protection, that would be ludicrous. I'm going to pray for the Lord, and some police guard, and not to surrender to Him, I can't tolerate that idea."

So when he went to attend his class, take his class, thus the kīrtana and all these things. He was living in _____ [?] that Ridge Road in Delhi. _____ [?] is there, residing, and nearby the park I heard.

When I was in Delhi for three years, at that time it was under construction. Now, Delhi of the present day, I do not know anything, but I knew it in [nineteen] thirty-seven, eight, nine, up to thirty, twenty seven, eight, nine, thirty. The Ridge Road that was the end of the western side. _____ [?] is there and then _____ [?] constructed a temple there. I did not see, I heard.

And there was a park and he was going that park, to the park to begin his bhajana. At that time that Godse, perhaps he had some connection with Sabarcath or so, it was told. He came and just bowed down before him, and then went up and with his pistol perhaps or revolver he shot twice.

And Ha Rāma Ha Rāma. That was the last word and he fell down, and his spectacles also cast, thrown to some distance. And some came, and that man was given a good beating. But anyhow police intervened and took him as a captive. And Gandhi was at once removed to that _____ [?] house and within half an hour he expired. No other knowledge came back, unconscious.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Maybe nāmābhāsa.

But we can't tolerate the idea when he came to Purī, his wife, he did not enter the temple because it is not open to the untouchables. But his wife, she privately went to see Jagannātha. And when he came to know this, he was very much enraged. We can't tolerate this idea, that his control over her is more than that of Jagannātha. In that case, in her case with Jagannātha, he should not come to interfere.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja told us that Gandhi has said in a public meeting that he did not believe that Kṛṣṇa really existed, or that He was historic personality, no faith.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I could not trace that anywhere. But once he told, concerning Rabindranatha, "That when I'm engaged in the service of Rāmacandra in restoring the Sītā of Cherka for the country, Rabindranatha wants to play the flute and to make the gopīs dance here." That was his remark against Rabindranatha. "He likes to make the gopīs dance by his flute _____ [?] But I want to recover Cherka, Sītā, like following Rāmacandra." That was his version once.

And what about Rāmacandra? 'He was a man of history, incarnation of Lord, Rāmacandra. Then His incarnation was true, and Kṛṣṇa was concoction?' I did not see it anywhere.

But he tried to express his faith in God conception, so much so that he told, "That once, I was in Africa, I was handling a machine. And some urgent printing was necessary, some printing was urgent at that time. But the machine is in disorder. No way I can repair it and to produce. But I took the Name of the Lord, 'Please come to my relief.' And the machine started and did my desired end. So I have faith in God. In this way."

His son was attacked by a disease, hopeless condition, but he left. "I took to Rāmacandra, the Name. And I believe that my son was cured by the influence of the Name."

And so many other things. "That whenever I'm in danger, of course I try...

Start of 82.10.10.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I have got my living faith in God." He told like that.

But our understanding is this, that you have...

...what is it?...

...so no necessity...

...try your best to give God to the public. And this political freedom of this or that, what is in comparison with that? You must engage yourself cent percent in doing the service to help the people, connecting them with God. Why do you not do that? You want to deceive them by political freedom and wasting your time thereby, that is our contention. You must try your best to take people towards the Lord's feet and no best activity or service can be better than that.

But then he'll come to say, "Why your Kṛṣṇa He played the part of politics and caused the Kurukṣetra battle, all these things?"

According to the capacity, considering the position of the people, He played like that. Or engaged Arjuna to fight.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has mentioned, "Kṛṣṇa produced the Gītā, Arjuna went to fight, but if Uddhava heard the same Gītā, he left the world and went to Badarikāśrama. Arjuna's case was like that, to begin the war, battle again, Arjuna's adhikāra. But if the same Gita was told to Uddhava, Uddhava did not go to battle but he went to Badarikāśrama."

...

...take any money to any zamīndār or rich man. Even to Mahārāja Kṛṣṇanagar, Kṛṣṇa Candra he was very liberal and benevolent. But as a paṇḍita his name was famous.

But one day Mahārāja Kṛṣṇanagar he approached him, and after some formal talk asked that, "You are in poverty, I'm told. I like to help you, something."

"No, no. No poverty I have got. There was some poverty in a particular portion of a particular book, nyāya, in the logic, but now that is cleared."

Poverty, that, not to understand the meaning of his passage, that is also known as abhāva, in nyāya śāstra, abhāva. So first he took to that. That, "I had some difficulty there and that is already cleared. And no difficulty I'm experiencing."

"No, no, I mean about your living."

"Oh! My living. Yes, I'm all right. There is the plantain tree where the fruit and the root, many things we get from that. And my wife she knows to cook very well. I'm getting that, everything is free. And there is this _____ [?] tree, tamarind, and that leaf is such a cleverly prepared acid talk, my brain can prepare very good curry, chutney, from the leaves of this tin tree, this tamarind tree. So I'm doing very well. No, I have got no difficulty in this."

And that has become famous. That _____ [?] dāsa, paṇḍita here in Navadwīpa. Mani Cāṇakya, Cāṇakya was the minister of Emperor Chandragupta and by his advice Chandragupta could establish an empire. But his living was very, very simple. He used to live in a hut and the description has been given, the thatched hut, and there was these cow dung cakes on some level of construction, and some termites, that is also oozing in this way. And that Chandragupta has gone to meet him with his royal dress, the man in a position the Cāṇakya minister, he lives in that position, loves poverty. There are men who love poverty.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I had experience that if I ask anyone for money then no one gives me money. But if I keep quiet, then money comes. I do not know why. For many years I've had this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because the Lord has to look after it. Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]
What is it? "Who don't like to beg, I furnish for them." Where is it mentioned? _____ [?]
It is mentioned somewhere. "Those that do not beg I supply for them. _____ [?]

Mādhavendra Purī, Gopāla, was sitting in Govinda Kuṇḍa and he is ajagara-vṛtti, does not beg, and Gopāla came with some milk in the pot and told that, "The girls came to take water from here and they found you here with your face dried. So they reported and I had to come with this milk for you. Take this, and keep the pot, I shall come again and take."

But the beautiful boy, the charming, Purī took the milk, and then put another question, "Why do you not beg? Anyhow in this Govardhana, none can fast. Who takes by begging, eats by begging, all right. Those that do not beg, then I shall have to come and feed them." In this, He told and fled away.

And Purī he was charmed by the appearance. And the boy will come to take the empty pot, but the boy not coming. Then that pot was broken into pieces and kept into his bag. And one piece, sometimes he wanted to eat, chew, and found, "Oh, that boy, that charming boy, He came with the milk pot. How charming that boy." He was thinking of Him and he was besides himself by the beauty of the boy. That small pieces he used to take, now and then, that it came from the boy, that charming boy. And he used to take and at that time he found very much ecstatic condition.

Ajagardi jani ami diya tuwa har [?] The boy told there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, our Swāmī Mahārāja, in Kṛṣṇa Book, his summary of the tenth canto in Kṛṣṇa Book made a rather startling statement in one chapter. He's saying, "Kṛṣṇa is not particularly beautiful alone but in the association of Rādhikā and the other associates, He becomes very attractive, very beautiful."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And vice versa. They are also interdependent. They have got their intrinsic value, but still, of course, it is told about Them, that thinking about Rādhikā, Kṛṣṇa becomes beautiful. And thinking of Kṛṣṇa, Rādhikā becomes beautiful. That is the nature of the level, vice versa. And everyone is such, more or less. The plane is such that one gives himself to the other party in such beautiful way that enhances their beauty. The plane is such. So Kṛṣṇa does not look well when He's alone, especially towards the followers of the gopīs, they cannot tolerate. Just as [Raghunatha] Dāsa Goswāmī Prabhu says, [śūnyāyate mahā-goṣṭhaṁ, girīndro 'jagarāyate] vyāghra-tuṇḍāyate kuṇḍaṁ, jīvātu-rahitasya me

["Now that I no longer have the sustainer of my life, the land of Vraja has become empty and desolate, Govardhana Hill has become like a great python, and Rādhā-kuṇḍa has become like the gaping mouth of a ferocious tiger."] [Śrī Prārthanāśraya-caturdaśaka, Fourteen Prayers For Shelter, 11]

When Rūpa Goswāmī departed, Dāsa Goswāmī came with such horrible feeling. "This Giriraja Govardhana which I revered like Kṛṣṇa Himself, and Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, Her representation, now these two, this Rādhā-Kuṇḍa seems to me like the jaw of a tiger. And this Giriraja Govardana like a great python. Because Rūpa Goswāmī my Guru is absent. so They're coming to be a dreadful figure."

So relative position is such. The followers of Rādhārāṇī group, without Rādhikā they will find Kṛṣṇa something horrible. "She's so, why Rādhārāṇī is not here. He must have been cruel, very, very cruel. Otherwise why She's not present. She's all in all of us."

And without seeing Her represented near Kṛṣṇa, it feels like dreadful to them. That is all sentiment, nature of sentiment, bhāva. Vice versa. That Kṛṣṇa is beautiful when He's at the side of Rādhikā, in connection of Rādhikā. Rādhikā, one who has seen His figure in the side of Rādhikā, how lustrous, how cheerful they will see. Devoid of Rādhikā is an empty and in some diverse position, forces. All relative questions.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

There is talk between Śuka and Sari, a quarrel, apparent quarrel.

śuka bole āmār kṛṣṇa madana mohana śārī bole āmār rādhā bāme je dekha noile sodhoi madhana
[Vṛndāvana Vilāsinī Rāī Āmāder]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you find, what, you got this passage, no?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, I didn't hear it before.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śuka and Sari, Śuka means parrot, and his wife, the are parrot. The she parrot is towards Rādhikā and the he parrot is towards Kṛṣṇa.

That he parrot, he says, "My Kṛṣṇa is Madana Mohana."

And the Sari answers, his wife answers, "So long my Rādhikā is at His left side, otherwise not. Only _____ [?] Madana, not Mohana."

In this way they are going to fight with each other. A very sweet mock fight is there. Śuka, he's singing in favour of Kṛṣṇa, and Sari, his wife, is in favour of Rādhārāṇī.

"That without Rādhikā, what value have you got, your Kṛṣṇa, nothing."

In this way. So something like that. Doing from the relative position of Rādhārāṇī it may be seen. But there are so many sections they do not like Rādhikā ekala Kṛṣṇa, only one Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa alone, there also, māyāvādī Kṛṣṇa. They do not like Rādhikā, single Kṛṣṇa they worship, māyāvādīs.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hmm. That's a problem, a big problem. Mīrābāī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And we do not admit that Kṛṣṇa to be Kṛṣṇa at all, proper Kṛṣṇa. That Kṛṣṇa, was māyāvādī. Hare Kṛṣṇa. You have seen that point in Swāmī Mahārāja, but when I like to put that, the ISKCON they come there furiously.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I was just thinking that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. But you're so kind, you see it as a play. But we cannot see it as a play, we see it as a war, it is our fate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So sometimes I say that they're committing suicide.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: They're displaying their level of advancement in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, by not understanding Your Divine Grace.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Where do we find the story of these two parrots conversing, Sari and Śuka?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I found somewhere, can't say, may have to enquire. Govinda Mahārāja may say.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I told one friend, perhaps in Delhi, I said do not repeat me, but it seems as though viddhi wants to fight with rāga. It seems, in this present condition, that the proponents of the viddhi-mārga have taken up arms against the rāga-mārga. Of course, I'm not qualified to make such a statement, but it came to me that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] I'm not against viddhi-mārga. _____ [?]

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

We're following, trying to follow the viddhi, and always our look, our aim towards the rāgava. Go on with viddhi, but the crown is with rāgava. That is our aim. Otherwise, why viddhi?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, for what?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viddhi means to regulate oneself, and for which? Regulation not itself its aim or object, but regulation means for something else. We want to regulate ourselves so that we may be free in that land, may become free, acquire the position of a free servitor. Regulation has its desired effect. And what is that? That spontaneous service, we shall get it. Otherwise there will be a master, a teacher with a whip to order me, do this, do that, it may not be the end of life. We must reach a place where freely we shall, with our intrinsic urge, we do that thing. It is, the success of life is there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Sometimes I wonder, Guru Mahārāja, that our Swāmī Mahārāja Prabhupāda had put such a guard, such a big wall to prevent that we will jump into that, he had guarded it so carefully that now perhaps the friends have not caught the gist of that. Because he had guarded it so very carefully as the Ācāryas always do, that it's such a high and fine thing, just not for anyone and everyone. So by guarding it so nicely, perhaps the friends have missed it, or not taken the gist of it. He was very strict. We also hear Your Grace, many times you tell us, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." This line. He also, always, was very, very strict in that way. But still...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is all in all, in our view. We're looking at that highest aim of our life, end of our life. That must be all and end all. From being far away we shall think of Him, wherever we be.

paśu pakhī ho 'ye thāki svarge vā niroye [taba bhakti rahu bhaktivinoda-hṛdoye]

["Be my life in heaven or hell, be it as a bird or a beast, may devotion to You always remain in the heart of Bhaktivinoda."] [Gītāvalī, Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4.7, from The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, page 136]

"May be placed according to my karma in hell or in heaven, does not matter. But devotion to You, I can't give it up. Please grant that may be in my heart. Physically I may be anywhere and everywhere, it does not matter, but internally I must have the taste of Your divine love at my heart, a drop."

[Śaraṇāgati 3.5, From The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13]

"I may have a birth of a worm, worm or insect, does not matter. But I may be granted the vicinity, the nearness of Your devotee, Your connection. Your connection I can't avoid. Physically I may be left anywhere and everywhere, according to my karma."

Hanumān, then Guhaka caṇḍāla, then Vibhisana, their external position is not very high, highly appreciable, but heart consideration, they're so high.

_____ prahlad pasu ____ hanuman garuda _____*raksas kulay vibhisana* [?]

There are so many born in different dishonoured section of life. But in heart connection they are high, become parṣada. Paśu pakhī ho 'ye thāki svarge vā niroye. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Bhāratī Mahārāja's letter has been replied?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] support one's own self. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: We have seen, this paper is, full of distortion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just reeling, came to me and perhaps made me more weak in brain, in thinking, maybe. A warning, retirement from this world.

Our Guru Mahārāja of course he expressed such reeling and after that three years he stayed here. Young, he was. Three years, first reeling we heard when we were in Karachi, [nineteen] thirty-three, and by the end of thirty-six, thirty first January he expired, by the first of thirty seven. Thirty three, some reeling incident was reported to us. Myself and Nimi Mahārāja were preaching in Karachi. At that time that Behar earthquake, horrible earthquake in Behar took place that year. And Bon Mahārāja and other two were engaged in preaching in England at that time. Thirty-three.

Perhaps that year Swāmī Mahārāja joined Gauḍīya Maṭha, dīkṣā. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Swāmī Mahārāja saw Prabhupāda perhaps twenty-two or so it is mentioned?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With his class friend Naren Mullik, perhaps went to see twenty-two, maybe.

I was at that time in Gandhi Movement, Congress, twenty-two.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Swāmī Mahārāja also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Twenty-three, four. Twenty-four I came to Calcutta again from _____ [?] Four, five, six, by the six, I came in contact with Gauḍīya Maṭha, and twenty-seven, April, I joined Gauḍīya Maṭha exclusively, twenty-seven, April perhaps. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

But Mahāprabhu captured me in this life, nineteen-eighteen. And I think I had connection from previous life, because in my childhood when I used to come see the portrait of Mahāprabhu or His name, I felt some charm. Generally, music and dancing, all these things, was very hateful to me. But in connection with kīrtana, both the music and dancing, that was very loving to me. Otherwise any sort of dancing and singing, I was very apathetic to that. But with the exception of kīrtana, from my childhood.

And I remember when I was a boy of eight or so, another boy two years perhaps senior, I asked him whose portrait are this in my mother's village?

That boy, he told that, "This Gaura-Nitāi."

And who are They?

"They preached this kīrtana, Nāma saṅkīrtana."

I asked him, do they know śāstra and have any scholarship?

What he told I don't remember, but I got the meaning from his words that They were so scholarly that They expressed that this Nāma saṅkīrtana is the highest of all individual aspiration, above all. They were great scholars and They recommended that this Nāma saṅkīrtana, that is the object of the whole study and scholarship. I got such impression from that boy. He was perhaps ten, I was eight, perhaps ten, he told me something. But I remember I got such idea from that. That scholarship disappears, merges in prema, this Nāma saṅkīrtana. He told something like that. All education, education only takes up to the feet of that domain of love, some such impression I got, what came from him. Some conception of some aprākṛta, transcendental position. 'All that beauty, all that wealth 'ere gave, awaits alike the inevitable hour.' Something.

[The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Awaits alike the inevitable hour;
The path of glory leads but to the grave.]

[Elegy written in a country churchyard. 1751, by Thomas Gray, 1716-71, English poet]

All these scholarship is only to say and establish that the love of the Lord, that is be all and end all of our life. And then it is scholarship, otherwise it is not education, but it is brain exercise.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, how does one keep from being, becoming illusioned or hard-hearted as a devotee?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Huh?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: How do you protect yourself, not to become hard-hearted?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Or illusioned.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Or falling into illusion?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With the awakening of the soul proper, according to the stage, pittopatapta- rasanasya na rocikā nu.

[syāt kṛṣṇa-nāma-caritādi-sitāpy avidyā-, pittopatapta-rasanasya na rocikā nu
kintv ādarād anudinaṁ khalu saiva juṣṭā, svādvī kramād bhavati tad-gada-mūla-hantrī]

["The Holy Name, character, pastimes and activities of Kṛṣṇa are all transcendentally sweet like sugar candy. Although the tongue of one afflicted by the jaundice of avidyā (ignorance) cannot taste anything sweet, it is wonderful that simply by carefully chanting these sweet Names every day, a natural relish awakens within his tongue, and his disease is gradually destroyed at the root."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 7]

It is sweet, sugar candy is sweet, but if you're attacked with biles, it will taste bitter. So Kṛṣṇa love is not bitter, not dry, nor filthy, but according to our stage, at the stage of the receiver, it seems just like that, just as in the field of biles sugar candy becomes. Mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ sva-lokāt. Ātmā parijñāna-mayo.

ātmā parijñāna-mayo vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ
vyartho 'pi naivoparameta puṁsāṁ, mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ sva-lokāt

[One party says: "God exists!" The other says: "God does not exist!" Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that the ātmā is self effulgent, but still we find that one class of men say, "He exists, we see Him, He can be seen," and another says: "He has never existed." This quarrel has no end because one of the parties hasn't got the eye to see what is self-evident. This quarrel is a useless waste of time, but still it will never stop; it will continue forever.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34]

He's self-existent, all light. Light is self existent, but to the blind it has got no meaning, self-existence of anything. And there will be a particular section who will always quarrel that there's no light, but they're in the class of the blind. Ātmā parijñāna-mayo vivādo, hy astīti. So Kṛṣṇa's service, Kṛṣṇa is sweet, but to some section it may taste as bitter, due to their defect in their existence.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. We'll sleep. Actually only you are taking us out of our idleness. It is we who are so deeply...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. We say that Kṛṣṇa is ugly when there's no Rādhārāṇī. A relative position, none is less important, āśraya and viṣaya, both equally necessary, not one is perfect.

Mahāprabhu says to Sārvabhauma, "By your presence such meaning is coming out."

To Sanātana Goswāmī Mahāprabhu told, "In the company of Sārvabhauma, so many meanings came out. Let Me try by the force of your company, what sort of varieties of meanings come."

And sixty-one different types of meanings came out from Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu says, "By the force of your company it came out. Kṛṣṇa passing through Me to you, I feel it. I do not understand the meaning of all those lessons. What is passing to you through Me that is also we are to hear."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...vanity, that we know, we posses many things of transcendental wealth. Transcendental wealth belongs to Him only. It is really the property of Gurudeva always. We're to see like that. Gurudeva also says, "No, it's not mine, it belongs to my Gurudeva." In this way it is ascending, paramparā.

Ultimately our Guru Mahārāja told that, "If we are able to look in a higher way, then we can see our Gurudeva is Rādhārāṇī." Our Guru Mahārāja told _____ [?]

If we look a little higher then, in this way, the mula āśraya. It is His property, Her property, the whole thing, Her property. But lent to us for this business to help others. The property ultimately belonging to Her, āśraya vigraha, the Predominated Half, Predominated Moiety. Predominating and Predominated, positive and negative, capital belongs to Her, and the transaction through so many agents, all agents, students.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Ha, ha. So Swāmī Mahārāja has written, "Without Her companion, Kṛṣṇa is not beautiful." All relative, dependent. Teacher depending on the students, students depending on the teacher. Kṛṣṇa the enjoyer depending on the enjoyed, and the enjoyed also is depending on the enjoyer, co-relative, one cannot be separated from the other.

guru-gaṇa-śire punaḥ śobha pāya śata-guṇa

["All desirable objects, when offered to our Gurus, become glorified one hundredfold, as Their crown jewels."]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "When I try to look that the Kṛṣṇa's position is just on the head of my Gurudeva, thousandfold beautiful I see him. Guru-gaṇa-śire punaḥ śobha pāya śata-guṇa. Hundred times more beautiful I see when I see, try to look at Him as just on the head of my Gurudeva, revered by my Gurudeva so intimate. I can see him."

This is the angle of vision of the inquired search, search after Kṛṣṇa, brahma-jijñāsā and kṛṣṇānusandhāna, the search of Kṛṣṇa. Reality the beautiful and searching is of the nature of die to live. Everything for Himself, thorough search. Without Him, my existence has got no meaning. No meaning of the existence of anything without Him, fulfilment of everything.

[TRANSLATION

(Refrain) The one who sports in Vṛndāvana is my Rāī (Rādhārāṇī). My Rāī! O My Rāī! Śyāma is yours.

1) Śuka (the male parrot) says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the enchanter of cupid." Śārī says, "Only when Rādhā is on His left side. Otherwise, He is just a cupid."

2) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa lifted up Govardhana Hill." Śārī says, "My Rādhā empowered Him to do so. Otherwise, He couldn't do it."

3) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa wears a peacock feather on His head." Śārī says, "My Rādhā's name is on there. Just go and see!"

4) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa's crown leans to the left." Śārī says, "Yes, to touch my Rādhā's feet."

5) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the life and soul of Mother Yaśodā." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is the life and soul of life, otherwise, life is void."

6) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the cintāmanī (a jewel that fulfils desires) of the world." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is the giver of divine love and even Your Kṛṣṇa knows this!"

7) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa plays the flute." Śārī says, "it calls Rādhā's name, otherwise we wouldn't hear of it."

8) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the spiritual master of the world." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is a kalpataru tree (desire tree). Otherwise, who is the spiritual master?"

9) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the beggar of love." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is the waves of love."

10) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa stays under a kadamba tree." Śārī says, "Only because my Rādhā comes and goes. Otherwise, He wouldn't stay here."

11) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the black of the world." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is the light of the world, otherwise the black cannot be seen."

12) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the servant of Rādhikā." Śārī says, "You spoke the truth, as His flute is the witness. Otherwise, He'd be a beggar."

13) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the life and soul of the world." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is the the cool sweet breeze, otherwise life cannot remain."

14) Śuka says, "My Kṛṣṇa is the life and soul of the universe." Śārī says, "My Rādhā is the giver of life. Otherwise life cannot remain."

15) Śuka and Śārī ended their argument. Filled with love, they chanted "Hari Hari Bol" and flown off to Vṛndāvana!]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Composed by whom? The name is there, no? Composed by whom? No name mentioned? Whose poem? Composed by whom? Authors name is not there?

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]
The beginning of Sata Nāma?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja:

Jaya jaya govinda gopala gadadhara krsna candra kora daya kora nasavara [?]
Jaya radhe govinda gopala bona hari sri radha prana dana mukunda murari [?]
Hari nama bine re govinda nama bine bifale manosa janma jaya dine dine [?]
_____ radha krsna caranaravinda [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Crying and sighing, sigh, and to cry, that is love. Love, divine love, is only to, outwardly it is only feeling pain. "Where is Kṛṣṇa?" The search, painful search, earnest search. "Where is Kṛṣṇa? And it is not easy to be in union always, very rare. I can't see, I can't meet, I can't help Kṛṣṇa. Where is Kṛṣṇa? I can't tolerate His separation, separation I feel to the extreme but I don't feel Him, don't get Him."

The major portion is pangs of separation. Still, anyone coming in connection can't forget _____ [?], the wine of life is drawn. Duncan. Wine of life is drawn.

When Kṛṣṇa conception enters into one's heart...

[14:40 - 16:10 ?]

The chance is lost, prospect, any other prospect of life is gone, no market, lost, for any charm for any new proposal of anything. Nothing can satisfy me. _____ [?] as beggar. The life of a beggar is preferable to them, from door to door, as they're searching for Kṛṣṇa. No possibility of any rest. Without searching I shall take rest, it seems to be impossible to take rest, continuous search. "Kṛṣṇa, where are You? I can't sustain my life without You, my friend." That is the general tenor of them. Market purchasing any other articles, finished. Captured, absolute, the whole heart. Even Nārāyaṇa, Rāmacandra, or any other, even those that have got the taste of the Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa. This Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa, Mathurā Kṛṣṇa, that is also tasteless to them. We want in Vṛndāvana. Why we want You as were in Vṛndāvana, nothing less than that can satisfy these poor persons of Your favour."

So Mahāprabhu says, "They think Me mad. Yes, in the worldly sense, I'm mad. I can't be utilised by anyone in this world in his project or prospect. I'm worthless in consideration of worldly utility, give up, give up. My life is lost, if I do not get the companion of Kṛṣṇa, everything is tasteless, no energy I can collect for any other work."

Kṛṣṇa conception, the flute, the sound Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Name and the flute, two classes of sound.

Rādhārāṇī says, "My fate is lost forever because I have given Myself to many places, I have sold Myself. When I heard the flute I dedicated Myself to the owner of the flute. I heard the Name of Kṛṣṇa, I dedicated Me there. I saw a beautiful picture and I dedicated to that picture wholly. So in three places I have sold Myself completely. No possibility of any happiness, any peace in My life, because in three places I have dedicated. If it would have become one, then there was possibility.

Anya sri vaṁśī ekasya chitra paṭe vikra natha [?]

Seeing the picture, I have dedicated, I can't contain but give Myself to Him, that beautiful figure, I dedicated fully. And the Name Kṛṣṇa also purchased Me fully. And the flute, the sweet sound from the flute, that also drawn Me to the extreme. Then how can I hope peace in My life. It is impossible, My friends."

But the source is one. She did not know. When She found that all three meet together, then that's possible. But that is also very difficult.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Idealism. Hegel's words, ideal realism. Idea is not to be dismissed as abstract thing, but this is the basis of all existence. Reality is there, ideal realism.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "Rādhārāṇī is such and such, and those that have got in their heart the service of such Rādhārāṇī, I want to serve them, feet dust of those that like to serve Rādhārāṇī and who is such and such. Heno rādhā-paricaryā yākara dhana. Those that have got their wealth only in the service of Śrī Rādhikā, I want to fall at their feet and get some dust of their holy feet. Rādhā-bhajane yadi mati nāhi bhelā, kṛṣṇa-bhajana tava akāraṇa gelā." Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's verse. "If you cannot find your mind in the service of Rādhārāṇī then all your attempts towards Kṛṣṇa has gone blank, all useless, you see." Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. "Rādhā-bhajane yadi mati nāhi bhelā. If you cannot acquire your earnestness towards the service of Śrī Rādhikā, then all your labour for Kṛṣṇa gone to hell, akāraṇa gelā, useless.

Ātapa- rahita sūray nāhi jāni, rādhā-virahita mādhava pūjaye sa ajñānī. We don't understand any sun without his heat, his potency. So, also, no conception of Kṛṣṇa is possible without Śrī Rādhikā. Ātapa-rahita sūray nāhi jāni, rādhā-virahita mādhava pūjaye sa ajñānī. We don't, we can't know any Mādhava without Rādhikā. She's the other half, the Moiety, in Prabhupāda's language. Predominated Moiety, Predominating Moiety, other half, whole represented by Her, whole service. Service, dedication, the dedication as a whole represented by Her, both in intensity and the in-comprehensiveness.

Umā ramā satyā śacī candrā rukmiṇī, rādhā-avatār sabe āmnāya-vaṇi. There are so many examples of so many pious ladies in the history, in the Purāṇa of the early times, Umā, Ramā, Satyā, Śacī. Umā means the Durgā, Goddess. Ramā, Lakṣmī Devī, Satyā, this favourite of Kṛṣṇa, that Satyabhāmā. Śacī, the faithful wife of Indra. Candra, even with the antagonistic of Rādhārāṇī, that Candrāvalī. Rukmiṇī, the principle queen of Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa. They're all different parts of Rādhārāṇī. They spring from the main potency which is known as Rādhā, ārādhanā, who can serve, who can worship, who can give respect, who really loves Kṛṣṇa, can render loving service. All other famous ladies for their good actions, they're all product of Rādhārāṇī, partial product. Rādhā-avatār sabe āmnāya-vaṇi. If we note the scriptures then we'll find, scrutinise their position, we'll find their all their source is Śrī Rādhikā, and She's the main. Heno rādhā-paricaryā yākara dhana. Who has got their only wealth as the service of Rādhārāṇī, I bow down to their feet and take the dust of their holy feet. I hanker after nothing else. Bhaktivinoda."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. To know this and to have sincere heart, to travel on that path, that is the most fortunate one. The ideal makes one great and not any possession of anything, high ideal. Highest ideal one has got he's really a rich man, a wealthy man, who has got the high ideal. Rubbish eliminated, less valuable things are eliminated. Concentration to the proper place, he's saved from wild goose chasing. Mahāprabhu came to show us that path. And what intensity we can find if we go through His life and teachings, and the whole Bhāgavatam.

Tomarana koron kulyata gavato bhagavat kukatare veda purana [?]

After union when Rādhārāṇī and Kṛṣṇa will separate themselves, at that time Rādhārāṇī putting to Kṛṣṇa.

"The people say that I have got some bad name in connection of You. But the Bhāgavata-Purāṇa sings very gloriously about Our, this connection. Kukatare veda purana. In the Vedas and in other Purāṇa also, not so expressive but still there's a hint, we find hint. But My Lord, My trouble in the heart is this, that I could not become, only I'm bearing the name, bad name, but really I could not give us to You wholesale. That is My trouble within. They say that I'm connected with You illegally, but I don't find that I could really give Myself to You. I'm not fit for Your service. I'm not satisfied. That's the trouble within My heart. I can't become, only I'm bearing their bad name, but really I could not have the thing, Your service."

One day when in the pasture ground Kṛṣṇa suddenly felt extreme separation for Rādhikā, suddenly. Sent Subal, "My Rādhā, go and fetch Her, I can't live. Suddenly I have got so much earnestness for Her union I can't stand, anyhow manage."

"How is it possible to take Her in the jungle in this daytime, broad daylight?"

"Anyhow manage."

Subal was very intimately connected with the family of Rādhārāṇī's husband, family. Then what to do? Subal came and proposed to the sakhīs of Rādhārāṇī, "That such is the condition, Kṛṣṇa can't stand, can't tolerate the separation of Rādhārāṇī. He's so eager, going to be mad. You have to manage anyhow."

"How is it possible, and nearby in the jungle?"

This is known as Subal milan. Then they discussed within them. And Subal was a boy, and fair looking. So Subal was managed to take the dress of Rādhārāṇī, the dress was changed, and Rādhārāṇī was given the dress of Subal.

The other party, anti-party, "Oh. Why Subal you have come here?"

"One calf is missing and its mother is roaring. So I have come to find out if the calf has come here, in this way."

So anyhow then Subal was, interchange of dress, and Rādhārāṇī was converted into Subal, and Subal took the dress and remained there in the room. And one calf was also given to Rādhārāṇī on Her breast, taking the small calf. She was given the hint where He's near the jungle edge, She's approaching in the garb of Subal.

Kṛṣṇa He's mad, He could not detect. "Oh, Subal, you have come back, you can't bring Her?"

"No." Rādhārāṇī is cutting jokes. "No. It is not very easy to get Her in daytime."

"Then what to do? I can't tolerate My life any longer. If You say, I may go to Candrāvalī?"

"No, no. Curd cannot satisfy the thirst of milk. It is not possible."

"So you could not manage." Kṛṣṇa just falling to be fainted, disappointed.

Then Rādhārāṇī embraced Him. "My Lord, You can't recognise Your servant, maidservant, You can't recognise, You fail to recognise."

Then He was again _____ [?]

So many pastimes are mentioned in the śāstra. These are all high things.

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.83]

It is not a thing to be expressed in the words, but still sometimes those that are outside themselves they are forced to speak. And what is the harm because...

["For fear of them I do not wish to speak, but if they do not understand, then what can be happier in all the three worlds?"] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.236]

Kavirāja Goswāmī gives explanation. "We are afraid for the unfit persons, those that are not fit, up to mark, they will misunderstand and there will be some filthy thing created. But they really cannot know the thing. They're always on the outskirts. Ye lāgi kahite bhaya, se yadi nā jāne."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...ajñāna raja te nato isvata mato [?]

...kemone dharitām de. The scholarship of Śukadeva, the scholarship of Śrī Gaurāṅga, that has helped to certain extent to establish this, that love is above knowledge. Śukadeva, who is admitted on all hands that he's the highest attainment of the knowing section, of the learned, he's almost unanimously admitted by the scholars that he holds the highest position. And when he comes to inaugurate, that love is above, divine. And when Mahāprabhu He also showed His scholarship to the then existing scholars that His intelligence excels that of all, scholarship exceeds all. And He came with the tidings of love divine. Then it was easy for the ordinary man to try for that, 'that yes, it is the highest.' So Vasudeva Datta says, yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, kemone dharitām de [rādhāra mahimā, prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke madhura vṛndā vipina mādhurī praveśa cāturī sāra

"If Mahāprabhu did not appear in this Kali-yuga then how could we tolerate our life, how could we sustain our very life? What He has given, the very gist of life, the very taste, charm of life. Without that we think it is impossible for anyone to live in this world. Such a thing has been invented, discovered by Gaurāṅga. If He did not come, then how could we live? It is impossible to live devoid of such holy precious thing as love divine. Prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke. How could we know that Rādhārāṇī stands above all in the world of love divine? All things we have got from Him and then we think that life is worth living. Otherwise to live was suicidal. Now we feel just such. Jagate jānāta ke."

In this human life we have got some sort of connection with that anyhow. But still we're passing our days in wild goose chasing, how long of our time we can devote for the quest of such thing. So many things which are not so very important are encroaching on our time and energy, can't concentrate us only for this holiest prospect. We're not to be blamed less than those that have got no trace. They have got their solace, they do not know. But we are more punishable, knowing somewhat we're passing our days idly. What explanation we have got to give to our masters? 'You knew certain extent, still you used your energy, you wasted your energy. What will be the explanation for us? More condemned. Heno rādhā-paricaryā yākara dhana, bhakativinoda tā'r māgaye caraṇa.

High talks from the low level. High talk from the low level. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Once, long ago in Vṛndāvana, Bon Mahārāja's bungalow he has got one underground room. There I was explaining that Rādhārāṇī's, pradhana gopī, Rādhārāṇī's talk with Uddhava. I was explaining. Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī was only amongst the audience.

After I finished it Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī told, "You are the expert. None can explain these passages in such a deep way." Bābājī Mahārāja told, he appreciated my high, "In his high hankerings, in the school of Mahāprabhu." he told. But now I have lost his company. He told that, "None can explain this so deeply as you have done, in the whole of our mission, realised in this way." The talk of Rādhārāṇī, Bhramara-Gītā to Uddhava.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu Gaurāṅga Sundar. Gaurāṅga Sundar.

In my verse dedicated to Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura there was one, the last.

["What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 9]

Sanctioned by Gaurāṅga, Mahāprabhu, and which properly understood by Svarūpa Dāmodara. Rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ. Which is adored by Sanātana. Rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ. Which was served by Rūpa Goswāmī with followers. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam. Raghunātha with his followers tasted that fully and enhanced, sevitam. Jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ. And Jīva Goswāmī supported that thing from quoting the scriptures from different places, Jīva and his party. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ. And which is admitted by Brahmā, Śiva, Śuka, Uddhava, respected by all there. What is this? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho. That the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrī Rādhikā. Aho! Wonderful. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are master to allow them to to us. Aho tad dātum īśo bhavān. You are in a position to bestow that thing to us all, the highest gift ever known to the world. It is at your disposal Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

Prabhupāda was very much satisfied, and I thought that was only from that Prabhupāda called me before his departure to hear the Rūpa Mañjarī Pada song from my lips.

He told that, "Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself has written, made him write this śloka."

Very much appreciated, remarked. So Gurudeva was satisfied before his departure by that only poem. After that I have written so many, composed so many poems. But only one poetry to Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in Sanskrit I wrote, due to his presence, lifetime, and he gave appreciation. That is my solace. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Verified.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura.

Could not speak anything to you today but I have spoken so much.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I think you have silenced us forever, from what you have spoken.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu put His palm on the face of Rāmānanda. Do you remember?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "No more." Mukha acchadila. Put His palm on the face of Rāmānanda. "No more. And this is My home, My home, My room I have got. I'm in My home and in My own room. What more I want? Journey stopped."

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, devotees are travelling all over the world to hear such high talks from Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We think we carry, but it is prearranged, something. It will go to those that deserve. And one who goes, he's also conscious of the fact. We're instrumental. If He likes it will spread to the selected and making us bearer. He's free, freedom is only with Him, in the real sense. And we're all vehicle, agents. Still from our plane we shall view like that, that is we shall try to carry it to every corner of the earth for the best benefit of the people. We cannot but feel such tendency, this is the nature. At the same time we shall think that we're all instrumental, of the higher agents.

Where is not to go, if you want to speak it to him, he will come furiously to oppose it.

'What do you say? Credulous people, credulity is very cheap to you. Whatever you get, you devour, swallow. It is a hard nut to crack, people. We have got our good intellect, our guide. We won't accept this weakness.' They'll come with their, who direct.

And there are some also who are hankering perhaps to hear, receive nectarine news. 'Oh, I was feeling something alike but it is there. Where is the source of such nectar? And who else are, that has tasted, I want to meet him, to be in their company.'

Rāmānanda Rāya was there and Mahāprabhu here. Sārvabhauma could not understand Rāmānanda, he ridiculed him. But when he got the taste, by the grace of Mahāprabhu, he could recognise.

"Oh. Only one person who's really fit for Your company, my Lord, is Rāmānanda Rāya. I attacked him many a time. I could not follow his high realisation. Now I request You please meet him, by Your grace I can't understand how high thought is that. I ridiculed him previously."

So they will ridicule, Sārvabhauma Paṇḍita will ridicule. But when by the divine grace he will come to know, then he will come to fall to the feet.

Mahāprabhu after finishing His southern tour, coming back, Sārvabhauma is pressing His feet. The old Sārvabhauma Paṇḍita is pressing the feet of Mahāprabhu _____ [?] boy to him and asking, "How You find? That is a land for the devotees of Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya."

"Sārvabhauma, I had an extensive tour, but I did not find a single Vaiṣṇava like you." Mahāprabhu told.

[prabhu kahe, — eta tīrtha kailuṅ paryaṭana] tomā-sama vaiṣṇava nā dekhiluṅ eka-jana

[The Lord told Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya, "I have travelled to many holy places, but I could not find a Vaiṣṇava as good as you anywhere."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 9.356]

"I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava who can be compared to you. But only with the exception of one, Rāmānanda Rāya. He gave Me much happiness. I met him and yes, I really was satisfied with his company and talk."

Sārvabhauma came, "So I asked Your Holiness to meet him."

"Only with the exception of Rāmānanda. So many Vaiṣṇavas, by name. But their heart's wealth, I did not find a single who is greater than you. That is you, My disciple. What you were before was nothing. But now you are so wealthy." In this way Mahāprabhu says that, "What I have given to you that is matchless, Vaiṣṇavism in the whole of the creation. With the exception of Rāmānanda, he's My previous parṣada, associate, eternal associate."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

yad arīṇāṁ priyāṇāṁ ca, prāpyam ekam ivoditam
tad brahma-kṛṣṇayor aikyāt, kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ

["Where it has been stated that the Lord's enemies and devotees attain the same destination, this refers to the ultimate oneness of Brahman and Lord Kṛṣṇa. This may be understood by the example of the sun and the sunshine, in which Brahman is like the sunshine and Kṛṣṇa Himself is like the sun."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.36] & [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.278]
& [Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, 1.5.41]

So this brahma sāyujya can be easily attained, and be easily given.
Muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam.

*[rājan patir gurur alaṁ bhavatāṁ yadūnāṁ, daivaṁ priyaḥ kula-patiḥ kva ca kiṅkaro vaḥ
astv evam aṅga bhagavān bhajatāṁ mukundo, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam]*

So to have His service, having admission in His own group, ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu, that is very rarely found. And this brahma sāyujya, kiraṇārkopamā-juṣoḥ, is that they go to only Brahma, that can be easily given. So if one is anti Kṛṣṇa, he's easily given, some connection with Kṛṣṇa and thereby easily attains the Brahmaloka. It can be easily conferred. Because the Lord Himself had to deal with them by killing and giving some trouble, so as a reward they get that higher position, that Brahmaloka. That is the verge, then Paravyoma, and ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ, both, that is above. And they come to Brahmaloka. That is easily attainable. Again they can come from there, this side.

āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ*

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

'mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāṅ duṅhāra gati?' 'sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti'

["And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?" Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked.]
[Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept bodies like those of trees. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

Rāmānanda Rāya, 'mukti, bhukti vāñche, they get mukti. That is sthāvara-deha, that is samādhi, Brahmaloka. That is rather a curse to the devotee, to be eternally posted in Brahmaloka, that is a curse to the devotee, brahma sāyujya, that can be easily bestowed to the enemy camp.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So the tanmeyer refers to the sāyujya mukti?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tanmeyer means brahma sāyujya.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, so this cleared the mystery.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yad arīṇāṁ priyāṇāṁ ca, the solution there given by Rūpa Goswāmī. Aikyā and kiraṇa, the sun and his ray, these persons enter into the ray, do not enter into the globe of the sun. Bhukti mukti, muktim dadadi na ca bhakti yogam.

"Whoever wants to get something from Me, I can easily give them mukti, salvation, go to Brahmaloka, I easily give."

A concentration camp, something, the enemies are sent to the concentration and there they're given some good dealings, that is there.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Now he's asking a further question. He says, "Śrīla Prabhupāda, Swāmī Mahārāja comments, that Nārada is feeling deficient in the inspiration of being feelingly absorbed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness." On page thirty-seven.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is that?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It says, "Nārada's feeling deficient in the inspiration of being feelingly absorbed. From humility Nārada has made this remark, perhaps out of humility.

And he reminds us of Kṛṣṇadāsa Kaviraja Goswāmī's verse admitting his position to be lower than Jagāi and Mādhāi.

And also Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's feeling that any devotee who approaches Kṛṣṇa through Her is more exalted than She.

So should we understand that this is a statement of humility of Nārada? Or should we also accept the statement as factually true? So that tanmoya is explained, but should it be also the humility of Nārada Muni to say this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Humility.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Perhaps we should get that book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is explained that as much as we get the conception of the infinite, so much so we also feel us to be the smallest degree. The more we have conception of the infinite, the more we can feel ourselves to be the meanest and meagre. Do you follow?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not humility, that is not hypocrisy, but it is real feeling, because they're fully captured by the greatness of their adorable personality. In comparison to that, the more they have realised their infinite character, the more he sees himself to be lowest. 'I'm the lowest.' Taṭasthā-vicāra, but this is the relative position, taṭasthā-vicāra, impartial judgement we are to find that more that humility dainya, there is more devotion and more intimacy. As much as hunger, so much the health. The other day I told, the health depends upon the hunger. As much as hungry one feels, his health is so much better. Real, natural hunger, something like that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What is the rasa sambandha of Kavirāja Goswāmī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svarūpa is Kasturi Mañjarī. Kavirāja is Kasturi Mañjarī and Rūpa Raghunātha.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: These questions are all clear now. Yad arīṇāṁ śloka is cleared.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmaloka means concentration camp for the enemy, give some comfort attack.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Number one cell. They have first class cell and second class cell.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, Brahmaloka _____ [?] They rather hell than this sāyujya that, Brahmaloka I am one within.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I never heard that verse. But there is one we heard, kaivalyam narakayate [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kaivalyam narakayate. So he enters kaivalya, that is considered to be naraka. Because that is incarceration for long, long time there, detention camp. Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, very good.

...

Mahārāja, what if people say, or we say I have got internal connection with my Guru, but actually we don't do any service. How do we...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then? Once our old Tīrtha Mahārāja told, "You show bald head to the barber." To cheat the barber is to cheat one's own self.

So must be sincere in our offering, our wholesale self towards and his transformation will begin through his agent, current will come and transform our ego, wholesale. There are these anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, filled up with these rubbishes. And those things must disappear and the golden self will come out in its pristine glory. Through service, service is everything, sevā. The opposite force comes from Kṛṣṇa centre, Kṛṣṇa centre. And we are at present we are the prey to māyā, illusion, misconception. We are prey to misconception, misunderstanding. And we shall offer ourself to the proper understanding, Kṛṣṇa jñāna, and allow ourselves at His disposal so that He can transform wholesale our self, and purge out anyābhilāṣa, jñāna, karma.

["How can the joy of holy devotion appear in the heart as long as it is haunted by the ghosts of desire for exploitation and renunciation?"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 2.22]

So the subtle body of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa's service, will emerge from this cover of karma, jñāna, anyābhilāṣa, yoga. This will be evaporated. Transformation will allow the transformation within us. The initiative will be taken from higher centre, and we shall allow at the disposal. The centre of dictation must not be within me. The centre of dictation must be somewhere up. And through devotees it will come to me and begin transformation work. And the centre from which we acquire dictation and we are doing so many things, that must be crushed, finished, that ahaṅkāra, ego. Only Kṛṣṇa centred, our whole attempt, whole endeavour will be Kṛṣṇa centred, not a separate centre within me, that ahaṅkāra, separate interest. Dissolve ourselves into Him and Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa interest.

Die to live, Hegel's philosophy is very favourite to me, die to live. If you want to live you will have to die as you are at present. A very impressive thing, die to live. Don't be afraid of dying. Dying means gross self. And the inner self is eternal, that does not die, that is immortal. And immortal will awake and you will find you are in the world of immortality. So it is a real thing, real transaction, it is not imagination. We have to face the difficulties, not a soft bed of flowers. Do you feel efficacy of this expression, die to live? We shall have to die as we are. Total transformation must be effected. It is not imagination. It is reality, more reality than this mundane world, the stone. A fine thing, consciousness is fine, but more durable than the fossil. We must not be afraid of transformation, must not be afraid of dying. We should welcome death of our ego. Die to live.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then the question will come, that it is not a bed of flowers, you'll have to undertake trouble. But how do we know that the trouble is not vairāgya, not renunciation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As it will come from the proper source, we are to accept that. Not only trouble, but we're to fulfil His purpose. The inner sacrifice is necessary than the external sacrifice. So yukta vairāgya has been recommended to be the most useful. Not physical affliction that is our aim and object. Our object to satisfy Him and whatever policy will be considered for me to be best may be recommended from there and we have to accept the wholesale surrender to the higher agency. That is necessary. And if we allowed to consider our case, then we shall accept yukta vairāgya because not privation or affliction is our end. Our end to satisfy Kṛṣṇa.

There must be fire within us, fire must be lit, and not ice, iceberg. Lit by Swāmī Mahārāja, we must allow it to burn, we must give fuel into fire. It is very, very rarely found. The idea which he has given, that is very rarely to be found. We may come and go thousands and crores of times, but in that process to acquire such a seed to sow in the heart, it is very rarely found.

manuṣyāṇāṁ sahasreṣu, kaścid yatati siddhaye
yatatām api siddhānāṁ, kaścin māṁ vetti tattvataḥ

["Out of countless souls, some may have reached the human form of life, and among many thousands of human beings, some endeavour to attain direct perception of the individual soul and the Supersoul; and among many thousands of such aspirants who have attained to seeing the soul and the Supersoul, only a few receive actual perception of Me, Śyāmasundara."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.3]

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva
guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

It is not so easy, this seed of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, most valuable, in the whole of creation, created world. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Good, bad, everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa and I am His unconditional servitor. The general thought is like that, and details will develop gradually, and no injustice we apprehend. He's absolute good, mercy, absolute love, loving centre. We must make our heart broad, wide, to accept such seed. The most wide thing, love. Love can accommodate even enemy. Love is not afraid of any sacrifice, so it can accommodate enemy also, and he's conquered. And conquering is complete, perfect. Our conquest is not perfect, but love conquest is perfect. So we must be prepared to pay the value of the greatest achievement. Die to live. What I can give? Everything belongs to Him. I also belong to Him, and to admit that I'm His, this much is necessary. Only to realise that I belong to Him. Everything belongs to Him, and I also belong to Him. This is the knowledge, central knowledge and not unreasonable. I'm not out of central control. Everything, that all controlling, but controlling potency is not power, but it is love. The most liberal proposal and news and fortune.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, there's one naughty question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Aprāpya māṁ nivartante. "They never get Me." Kṛṣṇa says.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Who have got no faith.

aśraddadhānāḥ puruṣā dharmasyāsya parantapa aprāpya māṁ nivartante [mṛtyu-saṁsāra-vartmani]

["O conqueror of the enemy, men who have no faith in this hidden treasure of sublime pure love for Me are unable to reach Me, and thus they remain meandering in this deathly mundane plane."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.3]

"They never get Me." So if they never get Me...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Those who are faithless.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Saṁśayātmā vinaśyati.

[śraddhāvān labhate jñānaṁ tat-paraḥ saṁyatendriyaḥ jñānaṁ labdhvā parāṁ śāntim acireṇādhigacchati ajñaś cāśraddadhānaś ca saṁśayātmā vinaśyati nāyaṁ loko 'sti na paro na sukhaṁ saṁśayātmanaḥ]

["After internal purification through non fruitive action, genuine knowledge arises. Such knowledge is attained by the intelligent, sense-controlled theist who accepts this scriptural purport, and who with sublime faith remains devoted to the path of selfless action. He swiftly attains the profound tranquillity of eradicating the vicious cycle of recurring birth and death."] ["One who is a fool devoid of scriptural knowledge, just like an ignorant animal; or who, in spite of possessing knowledge of the scriptures is devoid of faith in their substance, due to being distracted by many diverse philosophies; or who possesses some faith, yet thinks, "Will I succeed or not?" any person whose heart is seized by doubt in this way can never achieve actual good fortune. Such a doubting soul does not attain happiness either in this life or the next, since the anxiety of uncertainty vanquishes his peace."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.39-40]

So, suspicion, hesitation, these are the worst enemies. We are nearer by our previous karma, but this suspecting nature deceives us. In Gītā, saṁśayātmā vinaśyati, very always suspicious mind. They are doomed. Must have a clear _____ [?], life is valuable, time is valuable, time is passing away.

By mere hesitation, if a general sent to the battlefield and he's always of suspicious mind, what result can he acquire? Nothing. He will put all the soldiers to the jaw of the other general, other party, the suspicion. Must be of definite plan and engaged with more intensity, proper intensity.

So fight with māyā and māyā is within, the enemy is within. To feel that he's without and begin fight from the centre. And we must get supply from the higher station. So sādhu-saṅga, sādhu and śāstra. With their help we must subdue the enemy within us, within our house. The enemy is within, that is the worst of the thing, not without, but within. And we must get help from without, that from the most intimate friend of the Kṛṣṇa world, they're our real friend. I'm troubled by my own enemies, kāma, krodha, lobha, etc. and that saṁśaya is also enemy. Mada, moha, mātsarya, from moha hesitation comes, ignorance. Hesitation comes out of ignorance, moha.

Nityānanda is typing?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, he cooks now, assisting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then who types?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Dāsarātha Sūta was helping me, little.

...

We're told that our Swāmī Mahārāja Prabhupāda said that, "I only asked my Guru Mahārāja only one question. How can I serve you? Only one question I asked my Gurudeva. What service can I do for you?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja asked his Guru Mahārāja?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Prabhupāda, Bhaktisiddhānta. He told like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I shall inform, order you in time."

One [Herr] Schulze [aka Sadānanda dāsa] told that, "Generally before three months, or at least one month we make a program and do accordingly. Here at least I want that a week ago I should be informed what I shall have to do."

But in answer to that Prabhupāda told, "I receive from a master the information only a few minutes ago. How can I give you a program one week ago?"

So with time the answer came and he jumped into the service with all vigour, though he was not present in the apparent world, world of appearance. It is tama guṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I was told that there was some difficulty in the earlier, after Prabhupāda, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta left, some of the followers started giving bābājī instead of tridaṇḍī sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They preferred that _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. But I'm told that was opposed by Your Grace, perhaps, or at least that you had stuck to the principle of tridaṇḍī sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I liked that. To continue the work begun by Gurudeva, preferred.

...

...and Rādhā-Govinda with the selected servitors. And Gopīnātha mostly public. And Rādhārāṇī is principle with His own paraphernalia in Govinda, near Govinda. Madana Mohana.

jayatāṁ suratau paṅgor mama manda-mater gatī mat-sarvasva-padāmbhojau rādhā-madana-mohanau

["Glory to the all-merciful Rādhā and Madana-mohana! I am lame and ill advised, yet They are my directors, and Their lotus feet are everything to me."] [Sambandhādhideva Praṇāma]

They are alone, we have nothing to do. And Govinda, dīvyad-vṛndāraṇya-kalpa-drumādhaḥ, śrīmad-ratnāgāra-simhāsana-sthau śrīmad-rādhā-śrīla-govinda-devau, preṣṭhālībhiḥ sevyamānau smarāmi

["In a temple of jewels in Vṛndāvana, underneath a desire tree, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govinda, served by Their most confidential associates, sit upon an effulgent throne. I offer my humble obeisances unto Them."]
[Abhidheyādhideva Praṇāma]

Our superiors have got place there. So we, following them, we can have something to do our duty there. And Gopīnātha, śrīmān rāsa-rasārambhī vaṁśī-vaṭa-taṭa-sthitaḥ, karṣan veṇu-svanair gopīr gopīnāthaḥ śriye 'stu naḥ

["Śrī Śrīla Gopīnātha, who originated the transcendental mellow of the rāsa dance, stands on the shore in Vaṁśīvaṭa and attracts the attention of the cowherd damsels with the sound of His celebrated flute. May they all confer upon us their benediction."] [Prayojanādhideva Praṇāma]

Was so public that Rādhārāṇī had to leave that, to go away, and Kṛṣṇa ran after Her, leaving the rasa. General level, and this is selected few. And there, they're alone. And we're rūpānuga, so ours there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Rādhārāṇī with the sakhīs, preṣṭhālībhiḥ, preṣṭha-ālībhiḥ, ālībhiḥ means sakhī-bhiḥ, selected group.

I want to go now.

_____ [?] if anyone has got a very small enemy, then he, by his own valour he cannot do any mischief to him. Then some other small men should be encouraged to teach that smallest enemy.

There was a mouse who suddenly came out of the hole and just gave a bite of the lion. And the lion, it is difficult for the lion to deal with the mouse. So he invited all the big animals, the bears and tigers, they are afraid of the lion but the mouse does not care for the lion. Then they all came and discussed and gave him advice that we can control the cat, but not the mouse. Then you must invite the cat and engage him to punish the mouse. And it was done so.

So sometimes a similar person should be encouraged to deal with that person. That is the policy. Any other historian who has got some faith in Mahāprabhu, to engage him and to help him with materials and if necessary with money, giving a lesson, teaching a lesson. That should be the good policy. Instead of direct approaching that nasty fellow, to engage another person of the same type of a higher level who has got some faith in Mahāprabhu, to engage him, to catch that man, to spite on that nasty person.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: A nice logic, that's a good policy. Then no need to stoop down to that level.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To that level. _____ [?]
To throw mud with a nasty man, to be engaged to throw, in the play of throwing mud with a nasty. Engage a similar, little better person.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Vidagdha Mādhava Prabhu has one question.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, in one place in Ādi-līlā, Caitanya-caritāmṛta, two verses, this...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja:

ei vāñchā yaiche kṛṣṇa-prākaṭya-kāraṇa, asura-saṁhāra — ānuṣaṅga prayojana ei mata caitanya-kṛṣṇa pūrṇa bhagavān, yuga-dharma-pravartana nahe tāṅra kāma

["Just as these desires are the fundamental reason for Kṛṣṇa's appearance whereas destroying the demons is only an incidental necessity, so for Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, promulgating the dharma of the age is incidental."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.36-37]

Then, ask the question?

Vidagdha Mādhava: So in one purport Swāmī Mahārāja he says, "Kṛṣṇa is coming to kill demons incidentally. But His līlā is simply to demonstrate Vṛndāvana rasa, His rasa in Vṛndāvana. But because the earth was burdened at that time...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is also mentioned in other places, that Yuga-Avatāra. Yuga-Avatāra descends every Kali-yuga, and every Dvāpara-yuga Kṛṣṇa, and every Kali-yuga Mahāprabhu. But in all the yugas, all these yugas, the Svayaṁ-Bhagavān does not appear. Only once in a day of Brahmā.

aṣṭāviṁśa catur-yuge [dvāparera śeṣe, vrajera sahite haya kṛṣṇera prakāśe]

["At the end of the Dvāpara-yuga of the twenty-eighth divya-yuga, Lord Kṛṣṇa appears on earth with the full paraphernalia of His eternal Vraja-dhāma."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 3.10]

Twenty eighth day of Brahmā, the Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, and here also the prema Avatāra of Mahāprabhu descends. It is mentioned somewhere else. But in ordinary Kali-yuga and Dvāpara-yuga that prema Avatāra as in Vṛndāvana and in Kali, They do not come. Once in a day. And that is mentioned as aṣṭāviṁśa catur-yuga. Sahasra-yuga, Brahmā in his day has got thousand yuga. Then twenty eighth yuga is selected for the Svayaṁ-Bhagavān to come to Vṛndāvana in Dvāpara, and also in Kali, that Kali_____ [?]
Kali, it is mentioned.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, Kṛṣṇa killing the demons, Swāmī Mahārāja says Viṣṇu is killing the demon, and this is not necessarily part of Kṛṣṇa līlā in other universes, what to speak of Goloka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But it has got some different characteristic. Just as a servant renders service, but when parent render service, they also render service, but that is more valuable service. In mādhurya rasa, all the services of the servant, of the friend, of the parents, they are, all these services incorporated there, and they become more valuable. So also when the partial Avatāra of Kṛṣṇa descends, that asura maran, dealing with the demons, and when Svayaṁ-Bhagavān comes, there will be some difference. Some difference there will be. The ordinary Viṣṇu function will give general results. But Svayaṁ-Bhagavān when He kills the demons like Pūtanā and others, they may be granted higher position. And also they have got some other colour, some heroistic nature added to the hero. In the character of hero, hero and heroine, hero requires some sort of such representation, that he's a hero, that asura maran, all these things are included there. So it has got some effect in that also, so modified. When it is the same asura maran, doing away with the demons, when it comes with Svayaṁ-Bhagavān connection there will be some difference. The ordinary Viṣṇu when He has come to become Avatāra in Dvāpara, His killing won't be able to grant dhātry-ucitāṁ gatiṁ, which is possible in Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa līlā. So some difference there showed.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So, these pastimes, I've been told, are going on at every moment, somewhere in the material universe.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wherever this is occurring Svayaṁ-Bhagavān there should be the same result. But not all the time in one universe. Wherever Svayaṁ-Bhagavān is playing, the effect will be like that. And wherever partial presentation, the result will be partial.

The killing does not require Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. It is done by Viṣṇu. But when that Viṣṇu is incorporated in Kṛṣṇa, that killing will have some far fetched result.

When a king is representing the function of a magistrate, when he's satisfied, he may grant higher things than ordinary magistrate's jurisdiction. But magistrate cannot grant such jurisdiction, such consequence, as when king when he's taking the function of a magistrate can do. King is present in the district, he's sending the magistrate to meet a rebel party, he's at the back. Then magistrate's power he transcends. If necessary he can grant more in the good or bad which is beyond the jurisdiction of the magistrate. He's there, something like that. Rank is but the guinea stamp, man is the gold for that.

When Svayaṁ-Bhagavān is there with particular form of Viṣṇu is also of course there, included. And such lower functions, it is to be done by Viṣṇu who is there, lower things. But still the presence of Him at the same spot that will have some effect. Viṣṇu cannot confer dhātry-ucitāṁ gatiṁ to Pūtanā without the intervention of Kṛṣṇa.

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī lebhe gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ tato 'nyaṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema

["How astonishing! When Pūtanā, the wicked sister of Bakāsura, tried to kill child Kṛṣṇa by offering Him deadly poison on her breasts, she reached a position befitting the Lord's nursemaid. Could I ever have as merciful a shelter as that of Lord Kṛṣṇa?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.2.23]

If Viṣṇu comes to interfere only, then she will go to Brahmaloka, not more than that. It is only possible because Kṛṣṇa is in the background. Lord of the land of love, mercy. It is possible only there. Otherwise ordinary demons killed by Viṣṇu, they will go to _____ [?] Brahmaloka, not beyond. He's autocrat, He's the Lord of love. He has got the authority to do anything and everything, can make or mar, above law, even Vaikuṇṭha law. He can give the status to Pūtanā as His sweet will, dhātry-ucitāṁ gatiṁ. That is not possible in the case of...

Start of 82.10.20.B_82.10.21.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They will necessarily come to the position where the siddha can reside. That is in Brahmaloka. Kirana kapamor visat [?] Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. So killing of the demons, Guru Mahārāja, is not eternal līlā? It is not something going on eternally, even within the material world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, it is also there in Goloka, but it does not find any principal part there to play. Kasthasa conchi rava [?] Something like show, what is indirect, helps to have the clear conception of the līlā here in prapañca that is in Goloka, just as a mere representation in picture, not very active, but passive. It has been stated, kasthasa conchi rava [?] The indirect pastimes are only a background there. The positive side is more free there, and the indirect background is more or less inanimate, like a stage.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: And also that Lord Caitanya came in the mood of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī and not necessarily to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not in all yugas. Only once in a day of Brahmā. That is the twenty eighth day, twenty eighth yuga. Sahasra yuga constitutes Brahmā's one day, but the twenty eighth yuga day, twenty eighth yuga, only in that day come down. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. We are informed like that in the scriptures, not all the yugas, of Kali or Dvāpara.

Devotee: Mahārāja, then in other yugas the Avatāra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The yuga Avatāra comes _____ [?]

Devotee: He also comes in the form of Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Form is the same, little different. In Mahāprabhu's case it is harit varna [?] Harit means the colour of the parrot, not exactly yellow. It is mentioned in Nārada's Pañcarātra, Nārada saṁhitā, or something like that. Harit varna, Mahāprabhu comes, it is mentioned. So different colour, but not exactly with the colour of Rādhārāṇī and Her posing.

Devotee: And are the pastimes the same, or are they also different?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Saṅkīrtana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Saṅkīrtana goes on, but not so many earnest enquiries after Kṛṣṇa, that viraha, not that. What was played exclusively in Purī, that dvādaśaka, twelve years Gambhīrā līlā, that is omitted there. Not so much earnest searching for Kṛṣṇa, and some such different signs on His body, or Svarūpa, Rāmānanda, that private talk, intoxicating, all these things are absent.

Devotee: And then the Avatāra of Kṛṣṇa? There the pastimes are also different?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, little, that nitya-līlā in Vṛndāvana that is suppressed, underground. That is always there but expressly it is absent.

Rāmānuja and other sampradāyas they are of the opinion that it is for the time being. Nārāyaṇa is the centre, and sometimes He becomes Kṛṣṇa and comes to the worldly people with such dealings. But partial representation of Nārāyaṇa. In Vaikuṇṭha, in the ultimate area, in the centre there is Nārāyaṇa only, Lakṣmī- Nārāyaṇa.

But from Bhāgavatam, from Mahāprabhu, Rūpa, Sanātana, they established, "No. That Kṛṣṇa, there is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān and that is at the root of everything."

Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa nitya-līlā koilya prakasa. Even crossing the zone of Nārāyaṇa we have to enter into a finer area, and that is the most original, and there we shall find that Kṛṣṇa līlā is nitya. Vaikuṇṭha is grosser than that. The land of constitutional king and not the land of autocrat, lover. This is more gross and we are to pierce that. If we can do so, we shall find that is the ultimate plane, the most fundamental plane is that of love and beauty, not of power and grandeur. We're so fortunate and well equipped to find and inspect the subtle-most quarter of the universe. And we are to see beauty and love. That is the origin and not power, awe, reverence, grandeur. The primary causal position is that of love and beauty. That has been found out in Bhāgavatam by Mahāprabhu, and that is established by the Goswāmīs by their references quoting from different scriptures and also reason. This is anarpita-carīṁ cirāt [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4], which was never given beforehand so expressively as done in the incarnation, in the descent of Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanyadeva. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, if the īṣṭa-deva of the rūpānugas is Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govinda, then the sādhaka, we may feel not fit for that. So some more regard for Rādhā-Madana-mohan. We may not like to cross over Rādhā-Madana-mohan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They should revere, they may not have any approach, Rādhā-Madana-mohan, they can't approach, but they must desire that Rādhārāṇī and Madana-mohan They're together. That is desirable to them. But they cannot be represented there by themselves, then private secrecy. They cannot rise so high, so only sometimes the mañjarīs are allowed to enter at that time, and never the sakhīs. So from one standpoint the mañjarīs position is better than the sakhīs. They have got some respectable relationship of reserve.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ants, many ants are here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ants? But mañjarīs are supposed to be small. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Why so many ants?
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, two very powerful, original forms of Godhead have descended very close to this time, and still the influence of Kali seems to be even more powerful. How is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I don't understand myself either.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You try to understand.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Kṛṣṇa has appeared and Mahāprabhu has appeared _____ [?] two incarnations, not one.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Vidagdha-Mādhava Prabhu says, "When Mahāprabhu has come, and Kṛṣṇa Himself previously came, but still the Kali-yuga is so rampant. How is it possible? The Lord Himself has come twice."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura answered in Caitanya-caritāmṛta it is found, in connection with Sanātana Goswāmī's talk with Mahāprabhu, told that, "You have come and the Name vibrations direct from You are reaching far and wide, giving the, not only the yavana yangan [?], that is living, but the sthāvara, the material representation also, all being released."

"But again from the source, that is the Brahmaloka," Mahāprabhu told, "If all you say, Haridāsa Ṭhākura, you say that all will be released, then the whole brahmāṇḍa will be vacant. No, No."
_____ [?] to fill up.

If a general amnesty is announced in any occasion, that the whole jail, prisons, all the prisoners should be released. Then again the prison will be filled up. Something like that. In any auspicious day the government announced that let all the prisoners be released, vacate prisons, then again they will come.

So from Brahmaloka, that taṭasthā-loka, again that sort of person will come and fill up."

Then Mahāprabhu also told,

koṭi-kāmadhenu-patira chāgi yaiche mare, ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pati kṛṣṇera māyā kibā kare?

["If a person possessing millions of wish-fulfilling cows loses one she-goat, he does not consider the loss. Kṛṣṇa owns all six opulences in full. If the entire material energy is destroyed, what does He lose?"]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 15.179]

Mahāprabhu gave the announcement of the infinite characteristic of the rays of Kṛṣṇa. "That one who posses crores of kāmadhenu, if any she-goat dies, what harm comes to him? No harm. So the whole māyā is abolished, this brahmāṇḍa it does not effect Kṛṣṇa in any way." That was told by Mahāprabhu. "Even Kṛṣṇa's ray can continue if this brahmāṇḍa is abolished altogether, no harm in these pastimes."

But Haridāsa Ṭhākura told that, "All these will be filled up from the taṭasthā-loka, that original eternal plane from which so many particles of free willed souls are emanating always."

Purna sukhe jive budbudva kore [?] Just as Rāmacandra when He closed His līlā, the whole of Ayodhyā He took along with Him. It is mentioned in Rāmāyaṇa. But again Ayodhyā was seen to be filled up by others coming there, Ayodhyā is there.

Just as we take from the ocean, we take a big pot full of water, but automatically that portion will be filled up. It is so arranged, infinite. A line also infinite, accommodates infinite number of points, a line. And a plane is also infinite, can accommodate infinite number of lines. And solid infinite can accommodate infinite number of points, lines and planes. So in the characteristic of infinite also there is differentiation: the jīva infinite, the Brahmā infinite, the Paramātmā infinite, anādi, Kṛṣṇa infinite. Different phases of infinite there. And solid can accommodate all sorts of infinities. A line can only accommodate infinite points, not line. But a plane can accommodate infinite lines and consequently infinite points. And a solid can accommodate infinite planes, infinite lines, and infinite points also, in this way, different types of infinite there are. Do you follow? A line is infinite, do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. A line is infinite, goes on forever?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Infinite. As regards the length, the line is infinite. But a plane is not contained in a line, but infinite number of lines can be contained in a plane. Necessarily infinite points also. In a solid are infinite number of planes and lines and points, but all of them are infinite. So Brahmā infinite, Paramātmā infinite, this māyā infinite, but all accommodating, advaya-jñāna, Kṛṣṇa, even Paravyoma in Kṛṣṇaloka. Then intellectual jugglery won't be able to measure, the fathom, that is fathomless. So, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva

[jīvanti san-mukharitāṁ bhavadīya-vārtām sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

You are a small purchaser. Emporium is there. Your necessary thing you get, and you taste. That advice has been given to us. Don't try to dive deep into the inquisitiveness. No end, rather try to join your duty recommended by them, try to find it out and go on. Jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitāṁ. Oil your own machine, jñāne prayāsam means, oil your own machine, you'll be benefited thereby, not by inquisitiveness into the whole thing. No end, no solution. A finite cannot have any solution of the infinite within him, it is a general thing, so why this wild goose chasing? That is a mania, that is a kind of disease. So jñāna śūnya bhakti, service without inquisitiveness.

Mahāprabhu accepted that. "Yes, here it begins. For the finite to have a taste of the infinite, this is the real beginning of life."

Not to try in vain to measure the immeasurable, wild goose chasing, that is not recommended _____ [?]
It is he's still outside of his own real self. He has not come to a proper, healthy position. It is unwholesome, unhealthy position. Inquisitiveness is an unwholesome position. So śraddhā, which is gathered by the product of sukṛti. That can take us to the faith, to the sādhu proper, and go on obeying his order. That is peaceful and that is fruitful, some giving thing. Otherwise, it is impossible for the finite to know infinite, to measure the infinite, that is useless waste of energy. Don't go that side.
But sometimes for the preacher something is necessary, and that may come from that inspiration of service. When one is appointed by Him, then he's given the, appointed general, he's given the weapons and equipment of the general, he will do it. It will come.

Rāmānuja had a combat with a Māyāvādī Paṇḍita once. Continuously fourteen days they discussed but could not do anything, any progress real. Then Rāmānuja came to the temple of the _____ [?] "I'm so unfit a person that I could not establish the essence, the principal of Your devotion. Who is this Māyāvādī? I'm worthless." When he came and surrendered, and then as appointed he approached the person and whenever he went there, he was prepared to serve. "I recapitulate your previous arguments and I admit your arguments are true." When Rāmānuja risked failure, "That I can't do, I can't establish this reality of the service over that impersonal conception...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā.

[tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā / upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ]

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

It is not mere intellectualism, but by service when His presence descends within my heart, within me, then He can do anything and everything on my behalf. His backing may solve everything. His presence, to draw His presence within us, and for that service is most efficient and not intellectualism. So jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva, try to improve your negative side, and not positive, subjective side.

"I shall be master about Him, His knowledge." He's not to be such a thing as to submit to my subjectivity, never. Super subjective existence, transcending, up. So by improving our negative side, if we can draw Him within our heart, His presence may solve anything and everything, all possible difficulties. An ordinary, illiterate person, if he's endowed with the presence in his heart, of the Lord, then he can answer so many questions. But a literate man may fail to answer any question. So He's present and how it is possible?

Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

That He will select me and come down to me, that is what is really necessary. He may come to my plane of heart, and He may withdraw. He may come, but due to affection to me, He may live in my heart, may not deceive me and go away. I can fix Him in my heart, the solution of all solutions, samañjasā, only by my serving attitude, and not by intellectual search or quest, or that sort of attitude. That is given to understand to us. Have Him and you have got everything.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ

If He's within you, then you are free of all doubts, all sorts of doubts, not otherwise. And how to have Him nearest to me? By service, not by search. Search with affection, with heart, with self offering, submission and self offering and serving attitude. Search must be of that nature. "I cannot tolerate Your absence, my Lord." Through love and affection we can draw Him nearer to us by our humility, by throwing ourself at His feet, and invite with much hunger, that sort of prayerful quest may bring Him to us. And when He's there, everything is there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Kṛṣṇa. What's the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ten to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ten to ten. Nimāi told Jesus, but Jesus exploited Judas. If we can think, then Kṛṣṇa exploited Pūtanā for His līlā, it was necessary. Pūtanā was necessary to enhance His līlā, so she was exploited by Kṛṣṇa, and she was rewarded for that. Lebhe gatiṁ dhātry [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.2.23] It will go to that standard. Without His will nothing can be done, not even a straw can move, so only to help His līlā of all these different types. Pūtanā was a sacrifice, "That you have to become a rākṣasi and to play treachery for ever." In this way she was exploited, and she was rewarded. It is not bad. It is quite befitting policy. That is all līlā.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, that Paundraka who imitated four armed Viṣṇu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is also, only in this sense that they contribute to His līlā, something, so they get the reward and got so much, rāga-dvesat-bhaya-krodhaḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.56 & 4.10?] Because from the ultimate standpoint they're all exploited for His līlā, part and parcel of His līlā, to enhance. So considering that position, they're rewarded, get uplifted. This is not whimsical, this considered opinion, sober, they're under.

"Judas, I exploited you. I'm going to be eternally famous, and I'm using you as a traitor to me. Through my connection it has been done. To enhance me, my pastimes, you are used in such a bad way. I'm indebted to you, Judas, for that."

Suddenly with this look he cast a glance to Judas when carrying the cross in the mob, Judas went mad. With that look, glance, Judas became mad. How pitiful that look was. He ran at once to free himself from the service what was thought at that time very bad, nasty.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Homoeopathy treatment, whatever sign is seen in the body, what medicine can produce that sign that is applied. Do you know the theory?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What for? Because the nature is already trying her best to drag the poison, to cure the disease, and what sort of expression has come when the whole health is trying to do away with that nasty disease? What signs have come? Give that sort of help to him which can produce that sign. The nature is only trying to oust it, and whatever signs are on the surface, what can produce that sort of effect, apply that medicine. This is the underlying theory of homoeopathy, so action and reaction.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu. Gaurāṅga.

It would have been impossible to live if Gaura did not appear. What sort of inseparable relationship they're talking, the devotees of Gaura, nitya-līlā svarūpa. It is impossible to maintain our existence without Gaurāṅga. He's the centre of our life, the very gist, support, essence of our life. Without this, I would have died. A dead representation, not proper presentation of us would have been possible if Gaurāṅga did not come and rouse such sort of self within us. We are so dignified, we are so high, so valuable we are. He has come and increased in our eye our own valuation. We can be loved, the object of love of Kṛṣṇa. He has affection and love for us. We are not ordinary things in the market, that unowned, unclaimed articles, not unclaimed articles to be lost in this universe, infinite. But already we have got our position in the heart of Kṛṣṇa. Such dignified essence of our existence has been given out by Lord Gaurāṅga.

Prabhupāda told, "Gauḍīya Maṭha stands for the dignity of human race, not slave mentality, anything. They're not out to create slave mentality of the people, but most dignified position, dignity of human race, of whole creation, bringing Kṛṣṇa, the central Lord of love, that is the greatest call, reckoned, you are in His record, calculation in His heart, hearty cooperation with Him. So you are not ordinary things to be thrown into the dustbin of the nature. How dignified a position."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Here we stop today. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...instead of Madana-mohana, Lord Kṛṣṇa is used in the mantram. And in abhidheya, Govinda. And in prayojana, gopī-jana-vallabha. Kṛṣṇa, Govinda, gopī-jana-vallabha. Kṛṣṇa is represented by Madana- mohana, sambandha. Abhidheya in Govinda section, and prayojana, gopī-jana-vallabha. There is our _____ [?] of satisfaction, personal meeting with Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Sometimes devotees ask, we are living in certain temple, mandir, there may be Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa Mūrti such as here, Gandarva Govinda Sundara and other...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: General way, general way. When we shall reach to a particular stage of our realisation, then the question of differentiation in this matter will arise, not now. Now moving in a general way towards, including all, differentiation. What is this? Two or three ways mixed in one, what is that called? Junction. When we shall reach the stage of that junction then that consideration will come clearly and really, not now. Now we approximate progress in the beginning. And the stage will come...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...then they'll be asked, "What service?" A general recruitment, then a special choice of service, and they'll be enquired, at heart, and the special choice for the special group of service will be given at that time. A general march towards Kṛṣṇa conception as a whole. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, march towards home. In a specific position will be understood after some realising, some sort of realisation up to bhāva-bhakti, it will come. Niṣṭhā, ruci, tataḥ, āśakti, very crudely in the form of ruci after niṣṭhā, continuing Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then the ruci will appear, then āśakti. That stage may be undetermined. And in bhāva-bhakti it will be clear. And prema-bhakti in a definite way, they will march. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Up to bhāva, sneha, mana, praṇaya, rāga, anurāga, bhāva, up to that, general. And only mahābhāva only, reserved for Rādhārāṇī, not to be found anywhere. After bhāva-bhakti there is prema-bhakti. In prema-bhakti there are so many sub-stages, sneha, mana, praṇaya, rāga, anurāga, in this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Now we are to look after how the continued service based on unflinching faith, continued serving attitude is found in our souls function, the awakening of the soul, jīva soul. Niṣṭhā, anartha-nivṛtti, niṣṭhā. Cent percent Kṛṣṇa connection. After that the differentiative nature will be awakened. The intensity will show different stages of the līlā. Kṛṣṇa.

_____ [?] ...direct connection with Brahman, continuous, even himself has that substance.

And the devotional school, "He's so great _____ [?] I'm in search of Him."

"So 'ham", the Vedānta says that "so 'ham", you are He, so near. And they say that Kṛṣṇa is far above. I'm a neglected particle of His feet dust, all these things. His connection is making far away." In this way he began to preach there, in Śāntipura.

When Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu went there, one day, Mahāprabhu was so much besides Himself that He began to give him a good beating.

Then he told, "Now I am come to proper mood. You are showing respect to me and how I have taken retaliation on You. You are forced to beat me with Your own hand, so I have conquered You. You are defeated, I have defeated You. Now You must admit that You are our master, You are our Lord, You hold the supreme position. And before this You used to show reverence to me and keep me aloof, distant, respectable distance. Now my object is fulfilled, I am Your servant."

One day, Jayatīrtha comes back and says, "All those intoxication, all these, I have finished. Nothing there. What is preached by Swāmī Mahārāja, that is the truth." Ha, ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...not make compromise with the quantity. Always we must be used, quality. Elimination, acceptance and elimination. A living soul must have such characteristic, I think that. Adjustment will get new and new colour. It cannot but be. New conceptions, conceptions of new truth must have some influence over the whole, its past experience, cannot but be, if we're sincere. Life should not be mechanical and stagnant. And we must be sincere to our realisation. What we feel to be truth, we must serve that, must be after that.

Vaiṣṇava mata. There is a śloka, anta sakta bahi saiva sabha ram vaisnava mata [?]

A colloquial. Within one should be śakta, and outwardly the clever man should be a saiva, tyāgī, indifferent. And sabharam, in the assembly he will speak generally about ahiṁsā. Vaiṣṇava means ahiṁsā, not harming, not causing any injury or harm to others sentient. Try to come to the lower level of general public. Sabhā rama vaiṣṇava, this is to undermine the Vaiṣṇava feelings by the other party, anta sakta. Within us we must be sakta. Sakta means śakti vyasaka, bahi saiva, heard from Guru Mahārāja. And externally, saiva means outward vairāgya, indifferent. And when you meet the public, then we shall play the part of the Vaiṣṇava, with toleration, and also with modesty, we shall try to deal with them, as if we are servant of all of them, in this way. And outwardly renunciation will have appreciation from the public. And internally you must be self-seeker. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I do not go out to canvass. But who comes to me, whatever I know I say to him. This is my worth. Generally I do not seek for any play outside. But if anyone comes to me, what I understand, I generally say that to them. But also with certain cautiousness, to certain extent. But still outspoken man I am, outspoken.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in rāga-mārga, there's also sādhana. Rāgānugā-mārga there is sādhana, so is that sādhana to be taken as a little mechanical?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, that is not mechanical, that is full of vitality, life. But that stage we must reach otherwise it will be mechanical. And mechanical thing will bring something wrong.

vaidhi bhakta adhikaras tu raga dvesa bhavanavadhi.

Rūpa Goswāmī Prabhu writes, the limit of vaidhi-bhakti is up to the mark when that real rāga will awaken. And then it will be stopped and that will be it. When we reached bhāva-bhakti, then that rāga-bhakti may be given. Vaidhi bhakta adhikaras tu, the jurisdiction of vaidhi-bhakti is up to the mark when the rāga begins, rāga is upward. Vaidhi-bhakti in Vaikuṇṭha, Paravyoma, up to _____ [?] bhakti.

In Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's poem, bidhi-marga-rata-jane, swadhinata-ratna-dane, raga-marge korana pravesa [raga-basavarti ho'ye, parakiya-bhavasroye, labhe jiba krsna-premavesa]

["Kṛṣṇa bestows the jewel of independence unto those persons who are attached to the path of rules and regulations, thus allowing them entrance into the path of spontaneous loving service. Becoming influenced by such spontaneity, remaining under the shelter of the mellows of un-wedded love, the soul finally attains all the symptoms of ecstatic love for Kṛṣṇa."]

When one has completed his vidhi-bhakti, following the scriptural and saintly direction go on, and when real anurāga has awakened in him then he gets freedom, he can enjoy freedom in his quest. Bidhi-marga-rata-jane, swadhinata-ratna-dane, raga-marge korana pravesa. Kṛṣṇa comes to interfere and says, "It is not necessary that you will continue penances, physical penances, and mental strictness about your general movement. But whatever they may be, your environment does not matter. You try to extend your liking, your appreciation, inner appreciation, that is love towards Me." Raga-basavarti ho'ye, parakiya-bhavasroye, labhe jiba krsna-premavesa. Then gradually he comes to Braja rasa, that is parakīya. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. The knowledge retires, calculation retires, and the ruci is only guide, taste is only guide. Sādhu of course and śāstra in the rāga-mārga, that has got appreciation and his inclination is established fully in Braja rasa, parakīya, plainness, simplicity. Ignorant section not any, much qualified.

But anyhow they cannot but remain without this particular relationship with some boy, either in vātsalya, or in friendly, or in mādhurya. "Sometimes at the background we may lose Him, He does not belong to us, some say." But generally they do not care to allow that idea within them. "No, He's ours. He's my son, my friend, very dearest friend." But some sort of apprehension that, "He may leave us, we may lose Him. Any time we may lose Him, He may withdraw." They've got some sort of supernatural background, so the apprehension is there, "That we may lose His company." And with this idea they go on to _____ [?]
"No, no, they must be one of us." This suspicion, the relationship goes on in different rasas. That is parakīya. In vātsalya-rasa also parakīya, friendly also parakīya, sākhya-rasa, mādhurya ____ [?] parakīya.

Raga-basavarti ho'ye, parakiya-bhavasroye, labhe jiba krsna-premavesa. That comes to the level of love divine in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa prema.

premamrta baridhara, sada panarata tanra, krsna tanhader bandhu, pati [sei saba braja-jana, sukalyana-niketana, dina-hina binoder gati]

["Kṛṣṇa is the dear-most friend and master of those who are always attached to drinking the fountain of ecstatic tears of love. Thus, the goal of this most fallen and lowly Bhaktivinoda is to be with all such residents of Vraja within the abode of Supreme auspiciousness."]

That particular spiritual juice they always drink, like intoxication of Jayatirtha Mahārāja. Premamrta baridhara, sada panarata tanra, krsna tanhader bandhu, pati. "His friend is our consort." Always they drink a sort of spiritual juice. Sei saba braja-jana, sukalyana-niketana, dina-hina binoder gati. Bhaktivinoda says that, "My last solace of destination, my dispenser of my faith, my fortune, is at the lotus feet of those persons."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. That is in reality. Just as it is told that a girl at the age of five years, if she is told about her husbands love, she can't understand. But she must attain a particular stage about eleven, twelve, thirteen, then she will be able to imbibe some sort of natural conjugal love, and not before. So the soul must rise to a particular standard and then it will be appreciable to what is divine love. Otherwise it will be to play like dolls. If moral and go on parakīya immoral, that will bring more justice, consequence. In the name of parakīya they will go on with immoral activity, that is with the sahajiyā. Spiritual purity. This physical application of that highest thing in physical body. With the help of physical application of such things, they think that they will rise so high there, by mental concoction.

Our Prabhupāda, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura they are mature in his spiritual body. It is not a play of this flesh concern, mental concern. It is soul concern.

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ paraṁ manaḥ
manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

["The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42]

Then soul will come.

ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame
kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ

["Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

The ātmārāma, not in this level but in the level of soul, pure spirit. And then some higher connection with Nārāyaṇa, Paravyoma, you must have to cross that, and then Kṛṣṇaloka, parakīya. Don't think that is here in the flesh world. This is kāma, this is the worst thing.

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara] kāma-andhatamaḥ, prema-nirmmala bhāskara

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

That is the purest dedication of the extreme type, dedication to the senses of Kṛṣṇa, extreme. And not to be cultivated in this flesh and bone, in this layer when we are addicted to this sort of sense pleasure. This is the opposite. This is the most demonic enemy, the kāma. Kāma and prema, you are to differentiate first between the two. The kāma is not prema, then you are lost. If you commit mistake to accept kāma as prema, then you are gone, finished. The middle place, there is a long space you have to cross and go to the highest portion. There it is such. Śukadeva recommending. Who is Śukadeva? Strī-pum-bhidā na tu sutasya vivikta- dṛṣṭeḥ.

[dṛṣṭvānuyāntam ṛṣim ātmajam apy anagnaṁ, devyo hriyā paridadhur na sutasya citram
tad vīkṣya pṛcchati munau jagadus tavāsti, strī-pum-bhidā na tu sutasya vivikta-dṛṣṭeḥ]

["While Śrī Vyāsadeva was following his son, beautiful young damsels who were bathing naked covered their bodies with cloth, although Śrī Vyāsadeva himself was not naked. But they had not done so when his son had passed. The sage inquired about this, and the young ladies replied that his son was purified and when looking at them made no distinction between male and female. But the sage made such distinctions."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.4.5]

Who has got no recognition of different sexes in this world, he's passing the beautiful girls, she does not, no attention that side. So much so that the girls does not want to dress before him. He's a young man of sixteen or so. But girls, his eyes are such, so vacant, so drawn inward, high ward, then the girls do not care to cover their bodies.

Then before that, Śukadeva is saying that, "The highest conception is this."

So if we do not like to commit suicide, then we shall have to pass through Śukadeva towards Bhāgavatam, finding of Bhāgavatam. The layer of Śukadeva must be crossed, then we are to go to Braja līlā. Otherwise we shall deceive ourselves, belittle.

The mean people they take it in this way, do not care of Śukadeva Goswāmī, ātmārāma. The joy drawn from the spiritual world, not from this mundane world, attempt to have an engagement of this mundane senses. We must have spiritual plane, and the differentiated spiritual plane, and differentiated body, and then there are awakening of so many senses in the spiritual body, and then it is possible to engage those spiritual senses for the highest spiritual purpose. It is not a fun, 'it is only imagination.' Imagination, and that reaction will take you to the bottom of the material misconception world. It is reality. God is reality more than reality we can think. The connection with God which is so vague, so high, so fabulous, God, and His connection. His realistic connection, that is not a very cheap thing in this unknown and unknowable. How much Godliness, how much intensity of the degree of Godliness can take us to Him or His domain, and then it is possible to exercise our senses of spiritual body. What about of spiritual body, where is it? Rādhikā-Mādhava. We must go on lives together with the hope, with that bright hope, if necessary, and not that we shall jump immediately and get that and devour that. What is this? We have not come to contact with such a lower sort of realisation. The highest of the high. Sambandha jñāna. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Anartha-nivṛtti.

ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā [rucis tataḥ
athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

Continuous company with the Lord and His men and nothing else, no gap. Then the real ruci, the real taste will awaken after that stage. When cent percent engaged with Him, with God consciousness, proper God consciousness, in the name of God consciousness so many things are passing. But real God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, we have come in contact with, cent percent twenty-four hours, then our taste will be created. Then āśakti then bhāva. In bhāva-bhakti we come in real connection with the soil, with Vṛndāvana, and from there it will grow, the creeper will grow in its own soil. 'Virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya.

tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana', 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

mālī hañā kare sei bīja āropaṇa, śravaṇa-kīrttana-jale karaye secana

["When a person receives the seed of devotional service, he should take care of it by becoming a gardener and sowing the seed in his heart. If he waters the seed gradually by the process of śravaṇa and kīrtana, the seed will begin to sprout."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.152]

Upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya. Brahmāṇḍa means Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka. These seven stages of material life, up to Satyaloka. Then Virajā and Brahmaloka, the double conception of indifferent, or the marginal zone, the buffer zone, Virajā and Brahmaloka. Passing through the seven stages of this material, and then the indifferent, that is renunciation mood of the material life, that is also two classes, Virajā and Brahmaloka. Then passing through that one enters Vaikuṇṭha, Paravyoma. 'Virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya, tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana'. Then crossing by vidhi-bhakti that Paravyoma, you come to the verge of the Goloka, rāga-bhakti, and there with the help of the so many devotees of such nature, he will thrive there. Kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana. It is clearly mentioned stages.

Now we are to know how far the brahmāṇḍa, Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka. And Virajā, Brahmaloka. Virajā jal, the water of Virajā, that will cleanse us, we shall take bath in there. And then the fire of Brahmaloka, we must be purified through the fire. Whatever there will be, alloy, that must be burnt away in the fire of Brahmaloka. Then one will enter Paravyoma. Paravyoma, that is Vaikuṇṭha, vidhi-bhakti, the land of proper devotion.

And there are checkers to check there is the code, the law is there. And the checkers are there to check how far we have got our devotional serving attitude. And when that is finished, no śāstra, no checker, but our honesty, sincerity of purpose has been passed, got a certificate, then we are allowed to enter into Vrajadhāma, Kṛṣṇaloka. Beyond all checking and suspicion, and the scriptures, the laws, they will give certificate. Then we shall enter Brajaloka safe, quite safe from all our enemies to attack from outside. Then we shall go safely, freely towards that.

It is good to think, but whenever we think 'I have got in possession,' we're finished, it is such, adhokṣaja. Adhokṣaja, to cast our fate with the infinite whimsical authority. What is love divine, that is very, very rare, very, very rare. But we cannot find satisfaction in anything here. If we can be so much fortunate, then only it is possible to go. Naturally I'm dissatisfied. Nothing can satisfy us. Whatever. 'No, that is stale.'

That Gopa Kumara in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, going with new curiosity, but in a few days that is finished. Then again going higher, then with new curiosity and new hope, but within few days that is finished. In this way he's passing away, from different proposals.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

For those newcomers that are going to join, they will have to be satisfied to speak really that Kṛṣṇa's direct connection with their superiors. And that will give satisfaction to these attendants. That is the key to our ambition. It is also told like that, don't aspire after direct connection with Kṛṣṇa, you don't aspire that. You are to be satisfied with that, that my superiors they're in direct connection with Kṛṣṇa. This will help you to get your real wage. Don't aspire after direct connection, in the highest sense. Then you will be loser. You will be loser, your position, your intrinsic position is such, if you want in that way, you will be loser. So always keep yourself in safe side and thereby that your Guru, your Gurudeva, by those that are eternal paraphernalia, the direct connection is going on there, just little above. So rūpānuga mañjarī, take your position there and you will earn best. This strategic advice given to us, if we really follow the scriptures. It is clearly told like that.

vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi-agocara

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura told: "Suddenly a flash came, but when I tried to see that, it disappeared. It was withdrawn."]

If you want to have direct connection, it will disappear, it is of such nature. But by sudden appearance or a little cover of a shadow, some sort of, then it will be, your best appreciation will be from that position. That unknown and unknowable. If you want to have His real intrinsic nature of ecstatic joy then you will have to be satisfied with this sort of appreciation and realisation of your position. If you want more, you will be disappointed, and something wrong will come to take place of that. You will be deceived. What is unknown and unknowable really with autocrat transcendental of the highest order, and from the level you want to get within your fist, you will be simply deceived. Those say that to you, that hoax, they deceive you. From your position, the type of your position, the highest point is such, that you will find, allowed, that also from behind the screen of the līlā. So that will be your highest satisfaction.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura. Nitāi Gaura.

So much so, once one of Prabhupāda's old disciples went away...

End of 82.10.21.B_82.10.22.A

Start of 82.10.22.B_82.10.23.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and gave a letter to Prabhupāda. Though Prabhupāda was his Guru, he addressed, "My brother." Bhai Saraswatī, my brother Saraswatī, let us come and begin direct bhajan of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana."

And Prabhupāda's remark against him was a very ludicrous thing, "Oh, he's already, he's with child perhaps in connection with Kṛṣṇa." Prabhupada's remark was. "His imagination has gone so much that perhaps he has got a child in connection with Kṛṣṇa, that ill-fated man."

Gaura Hari. And another hand Prabhupada's that glance, look. _____ [?]
"It is not so easy to throw flower on the body of Kṛṣṇa. In the beginning, to throw flower in the body of Kṛṣṇa, that is the beginning of the connection of love. But from ages gone by, I'm trying to throw, but still I'm not successful. It is so, so rarely to be done, it is like that." Infinite is in one part. What are we doing? We may think it, we are wasting time in wild goose chasing. We may think like that.

āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣṭu mām, [adarśanān marma-hatāṁ karotu vā
yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ]

["Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

"What will be our relation with Him?" Mahāprabhu says.

Rūpa Goswāmī also says, "Just as cātaka, cātaka is a kind of bird who drinks only raindrop and no water from the land, anywhere. But only when the rain is dropping they're accustomed to drink that rainwater. So a devotee's nature will be that, ananya bhajana."

viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā [gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti
nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena]

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."]
[Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 118]

"Oh, You Lord of the desolate, dīnabandho, viracaya mayi, You may punish me or You may grace me. Gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā. But I have no other alternative but to pray to You for Your grace. No other alternative I have got. Nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas. Whether the thunderbolt comes down, or profuse rain, that kind of bird cātaka has no other alternative but to pray for the water. Water may come profusely by rain, or the thunder may come and finish him, no other alternative. So we have no other alternative but to search after You. You are our attracting centre, Kṛṣṇa. The attraction reaches up to You, You are the centre of attraction to everything, anything and everything. So our bona fide connection is with, to be attracted by You. So must go that side, no other alternatives. But You grace us or You may frown us. But I have no other alternative, whatever You do. You are angry, apathetic, or You may be kind and gracious, favourable. This is the only ananya-bhakti we are to march on. With this spirit, no other alternative, do or die. Die to live. He's for Himself. We're for Himself, no other alternative. With this idea, this is healthy and we must approach with this idea. This is our nature, not for any loss or gain, but with the background that we shall gain by our advance and not loss, if we properly go forward."

Āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣṭu mām, adarśanān marma-hatāṁ. Anyhow we must be in His relativity. That should be the object. And that is ānukūlyena, favourable relativity, not opposite side, not in the opposition, but in the direct support, line of fulfilment of His desire. That will be our business, and leaving the consequence to Him, and to the superiors, our guardians. Don't think of you, think of your guardian. They will think for you. Their property, so near to you, that is the property of your guardian. In this way go, advance, step by step.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in Caitanya-Bhāgavata there is a verse, saṁsārera pāra haiyā bhaktira sāgare, ye ḍubibe se bhajuka...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi cāndere.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Is that ḍubibe to dive in that ocean, is that Guru bhakti? It must be, only.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, to dive in the ocean of nectar.

saṁsārera pāra haiyā bhaktira sāgare, [ye ḍubibe se bhajuka nitāi cāndere āmāra prabhura prabhu śrī gaurasundara, e baḍa bharasā citte dhari nirantara]

["Beyond the ocean of birth and death lies the bhakti ocean. Let those who would swim there worship Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu (the original Guru). I will hold this faith within my heart forever: My Master is Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu; His Lord is Śrī Gaurasundara. (By the mercy of Nityānanda Prabhu one gets the mercy of Śrī Gaurasundara). Nityānanda Prabhu is therefore the original Guru. As such, Gurudeva is considered to be the manifest representative of Nityānanda Prabhu, and is thus non-different from Him."]

[Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Ādi, 1.77.152-3]

The ocean of service, bhakti means service. Cast yourself, throw yourself in the ocean of service. That is nectar. That serving plane is infinite, you throw yourself there. Try to snatch yourself from the ocean of exploitation, don't cast you in the ocean of renunciation, but jump into the ocean of service, dedication. If you want that, you take shelter under the guidance of Nityānanda Prabhu, and pure devotional ocean you will find and throw yourself there and drink the nectar and be happy.

...

Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, may I ask a question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: There is one devotee who will perform no sādhana, but at the same time he will do a lot of service. And then there is another devotee who will do no service practically but he will perform his sādhana very carefully, regularly. So of the two, which will become more advanced more quickly?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the difference between sādhana and service? If by service you mean that is to do work in the external world, and sādhana means only to exercise mentally, this is the differentiation, sādhana? What is sādhana?

Devotee: By sādhana I mean chanting and reading Bhāgavatam, going to class.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When chanting loudly what do you say, sādhana or service? And when chanting within the mind?

Devotee: Mostly I'm considering it to be sādhana more.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That service and sādhana one and the same thing, with spiritual colour, what is the most important thing. We are to, that if it is meant for Guru, Vaiṣṇava, God, whatever in the physical form it is service, it is sādhana. Otherwise only mere meditation, or chanting the Name, or the arcanaṁ, worshipping the God with flowers, all these things, and the selling of the books, and also cooking for the God and for the sādhus, and brushing the houses, all must have spiritual colour, serving attitude. Then they will be fruitful. Otherwise everything may be imitation. Sādhana may be imitation, the work, the physical exertion also may be imitation, but the very life is how much it is God-ward, it is done with the spirit God-ward, towards Kṛṣṇa. That is the criterion, not the physical colour or shape of much value.

Even killing a person may be devotion. It may be devotion at time. Hanumānji and others when direct participation in the līlā of Rāmacandra or Kṛṣṇa, if he kills, Arjuna, in Bhagavad-gītā, Arjuna was asked to be prepared to kill so many, to be a party to the divine irresistible will of the Lord. But different shapes there may be, different stages there may be. But to be reckoned as service, what for he's doing? How much he's independent of his own self satisfaction, or from the satisfaction of a community, or a country? The local interest has been crossed and universal interest has been aimed properly. That should be the criterion of the action.

yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate
hatvāpi sa imāḻ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

It's nirguṇa, what we do, if it is the insinuation, inspiration comes from the most fundamental plane and I'm in consonance with that, whatever I shall do it will be justified, it will be nirguṇa. Not good, bad or moderate, but the wholesale good, because the highest fundamental necessity wants it and I'm in consonance, in harmony with that. I'm to adjust myself with that. There may be different planes, but on the whole, to become service, it must be God centred and not any local centred, either myself, or my family, or my country, or my nation, or my solar system, nothing else but God-ward. As much as it will be God-ward, so much it will be service, whatever apparently it may be. May be cooking, brushing this compound, and to drive away the dogs from the temple, whatever may be the external show, if it is for Him, it is all right. And if I sit idle and do repetition of some mantram which is wholly covered and diseased, contaminated with local values, that will not bring any universal result. Local colour will bring local results.

To be free from all sort of provincialism and to have our aim perfectly towards the centre. And that has got some signs, symptom, according to śāstra and sādhu, and we are to understand that and to conduct ourself in that way. So as we are desired by the superior leader, 'do this', that sanction, that order is of more value. I'm to submit to the order of the higher agent. I'm cleared, not working with any colour of my own mind, my ego. To dissolve the ego, to disown the ego acquired by so many births and deaths in the world from long, long ago. That ego should die fasting. I shall carry out only the order of the superior. That should be the interest, whether counting the Name, or doing this work, that work, or to sit idle. I am satisfying the order of my higher agent, of the Lord, that sort of thing, what is necessary. I don't take any initiative which is originating from my own ego, own dynamo. Don't use your own dynamo, but try to follow the dictation of the dynamo of the superior world. And get out of this dynamo, that ego within you. Dynamo is the, of deposited energy.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: A generator.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generator, generating energy. Everyone has got a dynamo of his own. Then discard them, or connect with higher dynamo.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I think Your Grace is our dynamo.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

Computer also may be of different type, is it not? Local computers giving news and arrangements, and also orders within local, and then higher computer may guide so many local computers, small computers, it is possible. Ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Work as a servant of the highest dictator, that should be the lookout of our all activity and energising. We'll get benefit of the high direction and command, to take benefit of the high looker, high looking eye. The sound aspect is nearer to us, so the Name, then within that the colour side, all divine, not like this world. In this way Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, etc. So generally we're told go on with the Name of the Lord, Divine Name. But that must be tackled naturally, not with any artificial fashion, and for that, whatever will be necessary to do that.

An efficient man is leading a big _____ [?] mill, an efficient man he's manager of a big mill and by the help of his intelligence, it may make so much gain that the lowest kooli may get his wage properly. But a small business if conducted by an idiot then all will have to fast, no gain.

So we must work under a real saint, whatever he says, he asks us to do, we shall do, and we shall get the share of the income of that whole. So under sādhu we shall work. And work may be of different type. Someone only writing in the account book, and someone hammer striking, and someone brushing the compound, but they will all get some wages, some money in return, according to the brain of the leader. He will conduct the whole thing. So under the guidance of a proper Guru, so many disciples are engaged in different activities, they'll all get their salary, properly. And if he's under any bogus direction, he will lose everything. So efficiency will have greater consideration, efficiency in the line of devotion, that is dedication to the right cause, towards Kṛṣṇa, proper dedication, in real quality. And direction from that quarter of real dedication, that will help us to take them up, to that side.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam / hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-Purāṇa]

Everything will be pure, our tendency to service, our endeavour for service will be purer, as much as it will be aimed towards the truths, tatparata. Its quality will be enhanced according to its right aim, towards Kṛṣṇa. How much purely marking Kṛṣṇa's ways, how far? It will depend on that, purity of purpose. Purity of purpose for the service proper and Kṛṣṇa real conception. Not pseudo-conception of Kṛṣṇa amongst the imitationists, sahajiyā. Their conception about Kṛṣṇa is not clear, is not real, some sort of material conception, hazy conception, mental. Purity by sacrifice. Exploitation may be of three natures, three classes, tama, raja, sattva. And then renunciation. And then serving attitude towards the whole. And the service of generally two kinds. One constitutional, calculative, another autonomous, spontaneous. Service of love, that is in Vṛndāvana. And there we find the ultimate cause as Kṛṣṇa. And so many servitors also, perfect order there we find. And we are told that the degree of satisfaction in quality and quantity goes in that way, realisation in that way.

So I want to stop today here. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Śrī, Brahmā Rudra Sanaka _____ Pavana [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: They are also in the arcana vidhi, generally.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Arcana, that is rāga-sevā in Viṣṇu Swāmī sampradāya, rāga-padam. And Śaiva, they differed themselves from arcana. Arcana is they say more artificial and this is simple and humanly, the Śaiva, rāga-sevā.

They don't say that pūjā, or upāsanā, or arcanaṁ, they're very fond of the word sevā. Just as we do here pitṛ sevā, matri sevā, Guru sevā, something like, they are fond of saying that 'we do sevā.' This rāga-mārga Viṣṇu Swāmī, śuddhādvaita-vāda.

And Rudra is the propounder, the first Ācārya. Śrī Brahmā, Śrī Lakṣmī, from Her the Rāmānuja sampradāya coming out. Śrī Brahmā Madhva sampradāya, Rudra this Śrīdhara Swāmī sampradāya. Śrīdhara Swāmī also comes in that line of Viṣṇu Swāmī.

Brahmā Rudra Sanaka Nimbarka sampradāya. The Nimbarka sampradāya divided into two, Haridās and Harivyāsa. Haridāsī sampradāya an offshoot.

And from Viṣṇu Swāmī sampradāya, the Vallabhi sampradāya is an offshoot.

And Madhva sampradāya, this Gauḍīya sampradāya an offshoot, Mahāprabhu.

And from the other Rāmānuja sampradāya, the Ramanandi, Tulasī Dāsī, they're offshoot.

Each of these four sampradāya has a big branch has sprung out. They are not fully one with the beginning, some modification.

Haridās was at the time of Akbar. He was the Guru of Tonsen. From him an offshoot has sprung from the Nimbarka sampradāya.

Now the Kartiya Baba sampradāya again comes from there and very close to Māyāvādā. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dvaitādvaita Nimbarka, śuddhādvaita Viṣṇu Swāmī, and śuddha-dvaita Madhvācārya. And dvaitādvaita Nimbarka. And viśiṣṭādvaita Śrī sampradāya, Rāmānuja. And Mahāprabhu modified acintya bhedābheda, not satisfied with śuddha-dvaita. Madhvācārya laid stress on the difference of the world with God, laid stress in difference, more difference than something common.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yesterday the question came, Mahārāja, that every Dvāpara-yuga Kṛṣṇa comes, but on the twenty eighth day of Brahmā. And the other Dvāpara-yugas that is not Nanda-nandana Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Vasudeva-nandana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vasudeva-nandana. Nanda-nandana Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana eternally present, but that is underground. Sometimes comes over the surface, but mostly underground.

And here also, not Rādhā-Govinda combined...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hmm, Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...but only Yuga-Avatāra for Nāma pracāra.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Why did Mahāprabhu offer this śrāddha in Prayag, in Caitanya-Bhāgavata?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaya.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Gaya, not Prayag, yes, Gaya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because he wanted to show the ideal practice of a gṛhastha, as the custom of the day. Kṛṣṇa went to Gurukula to learn, and get sacred thread from Sandīpanī. Loka-saṅgraham evāpi.

[karmaṇaiva hi saṁsiddhim, āsthitā janakādayaḥ

Thus I will be the cause of social turmoil due to unvirtuous population, and in this way, I will be responsible for spoiling posterity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.24]

Loka-saṅgraham evāpi, sampaśyan kartum arhasi. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Dev Nārāyaṇa Prabhu likes to ask a question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Dev Nārāyaṇa: Guru Mahārāja, I'm going to leave today and I wanted to express my gratitude again for you accepting me as your disciple, and also appreciation for all your disciples and those who have taken shelter of you because they have been so kind and they have shown me more what it is to be a real Vaiṣṇava under your direction. So I'm anxious to receive your blessings, and also I was going to ask if you have any specific instruction for me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is the first time you are coming here?

Dev Nārāyaṇa: Yes, it is.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...no conception is not the ultimate conception. But we accept that He's Īśvara, above Brahman, and has personal existence. And again to say that 'I'm one with Him, I'm His representative,' all these things, 'I represent Him.' That is more hateful, sinful, offensive. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Delirium, delirious statement. It is very good, so soon that the intoxication has taken him so high is possible, preaching, it's a good sign. Ha, ha.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Very effective.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That intoxication can take us where? It is proving itself that intoxication can take us where?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Six years in half an hour.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Impossibility, within half an hour the six years effect within half an hour. And he has taken to such high level that he thinks himself that he's God Himself. So much madness. It will teach the others, sincere persons, how dangerous intoxication is. To the normal thinking person, to the sober section, intoxication will prove its serious heinousness.

Hare Nāma, Hare Nāma means helpful, conclusive realisation, faithful future.

And they're frustrated with Navanita Chora and _____ [?] They could not utilise intoxication as Jayatīrtha did. They're thinking they're human beings. They think, divided amongst them, someone's Jesus, someone's Rāma, someone's Caitanya. Three, Advaita, Nityānanda, Śrī Caitanyadeva. _____ [?] divided into three. Ha, ha. They're not so clever. If combined they could work, then, as a greater whole, on the foolish public. 'We three are three Avatāra.' But instead of that, one has taken the three positions and others dismissed. Ha, ha. A farce.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

We are also to learn from such consequence, we are to learn, man may go from the position of an Ācārya what result may be earned. Gaura Hari. What is the position of the jīva soul? So vulnerable, so vulnerable, the jīva soul.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

Real progress will help to find oneself to be more and more less qualified, empty. "I have nothing, no goodness in me." Durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 2] Helpless, we're all helpless, and His rays are only our solace, everything, the grace of Guru, Vaiṣṇava and Bhagavān. That is our only resort. No faith in our own self, don't believe your own self. Māyā is more powerful than you. So only taking shelter to Hari, Guru, Vaiṣṇava, that is very, very important. Never think yourself independent, then you're gone.

"Mama māyā duratyayā. It is almost impossible for you individually to conquer māyā. Only it is possible with My help and never otherwise, never otherwise. Mama māyā. Mām eva ye prapadyante. Only with My help you can cross the ocean of māyā. Otherwise, individually you can never expect to do so, it is impossible for you. Māyā is more powerful that you. So My connection is urgent, unavoidably necessary path to conquer māyā. For a jīva soul it is impossible by the power of his own individual capacity. Impossible to cross the māyā, misconception. He's within misconception, long, long, long, long, far, far away from Me in the area of māyā."

Anyhow, the help only from outside māyā can help the jīva, no other means. So śrauta-panthā, revealed truth descends from that plane, the connection of that.

naiṣāṁ matis tāvad urukramāṅghriṁ, spṛśaty anarthāpagamo yad-arthaḥ mahīyasāṁ pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekaṁ, niṣkiñcanānāṁ na vṛṇīta yāvat

[Prahlāda Mahārāja states: "Unless they smear upon their bodies the dust of the lotus feet of a Vaiṣṇava completely freed from material contamination, persons very much inclined toward materialistic life cannot be attached to the lotus feet of the Lord, Who is glorified for His uncommon activities. Only by becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious and taking shelter at the lotus feet of the Lord in this way can one be freed from material contamination."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.32]

Without a connection of the Vaiṣṇava, never there can be any phase that the jīva has crossed this māyā by the dint of his own power, never, impossible.

matir na kṛṣṇe parataḥ svato vā, mitho 'bhipadyeta [gṛha-vratānām adānta-gobir viśatāṁ tamisraṁ, punaḥ punaś carvita-carvaṇānām]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja said: "Because of their uncontrolled senses, persons too addicted to materialistic life make progress toward hellish conditions and repeatedly chew that which has already been chewed. Their inclinations toward Kṛṣṇa are never aroused, either by the instructions of others, by their own efforts, or by a combination of both."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.30]

Not by your own power, nor by the help of others, ordinary people, even by the combined effort of you all. It is indispensable that the Vaiṣṇava connection must descend to you, approach to you, and then you have hope to come out. Otherwise, it is impossible. You are deeply in the depth of the misconception, world of, ocean of misconception. So matir na kṛṣṇe parataḥ svato vā, mitho 'bhi. Neither by the help of others like me, nor by myself, nor by the combined effort of one's own and other's endeavour. But it is indispensable that the help must come down from above the area of misconception, this is the condition. Mahīyasāṁ pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekaṁ, niṣkiñcanānāṁ na vṛṇīta yāvat, so no connection with the divine agent, no devotion.

But one day he'll have to come back again, it is sure. But, durdaiva, the previous history is very, very bad, that coming very close to the truth, again to be, when one is, as if in the ocean and then coming nearby the shore, again cast into the depth of the ocean, it's very deplorable, fate is very deplorable in that stage.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' / kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa'

Mahāprabhu. Gaurāṅga Dayal Nitāi.

Potency means whose potency? The dependent, potency depends for its existence on the substance. Potency cannot exist independently. Potency means potency of something, so śakti, and then svarūpa-sakti, that is very closely connected with the substance. Then māyā-śakti, that is in the indirect way to have conception of the substance. And taṭasthā, marginal between the two, neither this nor that, and there faith is very uncertain. So jīvas position is uncertain, this side, that side, dealing with duality, always possibility of dealing with duality. So come to the right side, and have a good fortune. Always be conscious of humility and faith. Remain in the centre of higher souls, Guru dāsa. If that side is kept then he's all right, he can do anything and everything. If that connection is firm, then he can do anything and everything. Only one side, we must be attentive, very, very careful, our connection with Guru, kāṛṣṇa, then the electricity will pass. The connection must be there, otherwise, it is all dark. Connection with the dynamo, with the electric world, that must be all important, otherwise it is as dead matter, no power, electric connection, no light, no fan, nothing of the type, no machine or anything. That connection with the powerhouse is all important. At all cost retain that. That is all in all in our life.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in the six kinds of surrender, śaraṇāgati, humility is the most important, all important.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, important, Jīva Goswāmī has selected, that goptṛtve varaṇa, that is the main, and these are dependent parts. Aṅga, aṅgiri, they have previously shown that goptṛtve varaṇa, to accept Him as the protector, that is the main, very life, central thing. Others are surrounding parts. Dainya, ātma- nivedana is an effect, then ātma-nivedana, ātmā-nikṣepa, then goptṛtve varaṇa, the third.

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam / rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā.

[The six limbs of surrender are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa's guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100]

The positive connection, these are the effects. What is the main, very life, that is to accept Him as protector, the positive connection. Goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā, ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye. And varaṇa, how? Totally surrendering, to accept Him as the protector, as my guide, my master, that is the test, and that must be intensely done, ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye. And dainya, I'm nothing, no other alternative. That will help to throw ones own self more intensely. But that connecting link, that is the very gist of it.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

It has been told, I have mentioned in that Ambrosia, some are of opinion, nothing is necessary, only if we be wholesale attentive to śaraṇāgati, others will automatically come. Even śravaṇa, kīrtana, not necessary. So śaraṇāgati has such high value, they'll come automatically, you're not to attempt for them separately. Only your attention will be wholesale towards goptṛtve varaṇa. "You are my protector, none else." Then others, other parts of śaraṇāgati will come first, and then anything will come, whatever necessary, what is best.

So, before becoming a good preacher, or good writer, or taking the Name continuously twenty four hours, but the basis is that, the key to the success of a devotees life is that, śaraṇāgati, surrender.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

I don't remember the śloka, it is already in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta, this śloka, that mere śaraṇāgati can give you everything, bring for you everything.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Then the symptom is that as much as he advances in the process, he feels that "I'm nowhere. I can't live _____ [?] They say that I have got this desperate connection, absolute connection with Kṛṣṇa. But I feel that I aspire but I could not acquire that position. I'm not able to acquire that position. And they say, they all say, but I feel I that I'm undone, I could not arrive at that position, I can't attain. But they say my achievement is complete, but I feel that I'm nowhere." That is the measurement, unit of measurement is in that way. How much one is advancing. In advanced stage the measurement from the negative side, that hunger. Hunger is the test of the health, as much hungry, so much healthy. Something like that. The test is there. "I can't."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Rādhārāni says, "I want to serve Him, but He wants to enjoy Me. What to do? I'm at His disposal."

But our attention is always towards Their service. "I'm so low, I may try to serve."

mora sukha — sevane, kṛṣṇera sukha — saṅgame, ataeva deha deṅa dāna

["My happiness is in the service of Kṛṣṇa, and Kṛṣṇa's happiness is in union with Me. For this reason, I give My body in charity to the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, who accepts Me as His loved one and calls Me His most beloved. It is then that I consider Myself His maidservant."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 20.59]

Who is He? Inconceivable.

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

Always try to be connected with the lower position, and from there the abode will come to take you higher. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, can you tell us something about the dancing of Mahāprabhu? There was some emphasis on the dancing of Mahāprabhu in His līlā, it was very special kind of dancing. Could you tell us something...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, very intensely. When He, intensely satisfied, doing His function, then that satisfaction takes Him to dancing _____ [?] He has come to distribute Himself, and when He feels some satisfaction in His discharge of His duties, He feels satisfied, dancing, dancing means self satisfaction. The symptom of self satisfaction, and singing and discharging His duty that is delivering to others. And satisfaction is aimed for performing the duty, the works, the function. That produces dancing.

I have mentioned in the Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, no, in Premadhāma-stotra, that Mahāprabhu is the ultimate reality, Śrī Caitanyadeva is the ultimate reality. It is proved by His pastimes. Dancing means He's full in Himself. He's mad in enjoying His own ecstasy, and chanting, He's distributing that to others. Ātmā _____ [?] svabhajana-vibhajana, distributing Himself to others, and He's fulfilled in Himself. That is dancing. Dancing shows that He's fulfilled in Himself, He's tasting. That is the cause of dancing. This _____ [?] it does not depend on any other, no hankering for any other thing. He's full in Himself, His dancing. And His chanting distributing that to others. So this is the real symptom of the most original substance of the world. Ānandam, advayasa lakṣaṇam, advaya. Who is the ānanda, the ecstasy, is, and ecstasy makes Himself known to others that He is. He's ecstasy, ultimate cause is ecstasy _____ [?] and chanting making known to others that "I'm your friend," distributing Himself, kīrtana, nitya- kīrtana. This should be the primary symptoms of the highest existence. I wanted to say that there, advaya-tattva, advaya is fulfilled in Himself, and at the same time He's making Himself known that, "I'm fulfilment." These two signs they must be there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...has written a book ... in the connection of Acyutānanda. Have you gone through that?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the gist?

...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very cold _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We'll take your leave. Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to render a complete service to our object of adoration, paricaryya, personal service. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Vidagdha-Mādhava has a question.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati. Some question, in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam...

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati
samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

Then, what's the question?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: The question is, you're warning us against wanting to know so many things, intellectually, but in this verse it's said, "One who's cultivating knowledge he's situated in transcendence."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This brahma-bhūtaḥ that is the position of _____ [?] marginal position, rather jñāna-miśrā-bhakti, marginal position, the condemnation of jñāna, brahma-bhūtaḥ. He has already realised that he's not a factor of this material world, so much. So he does not care for the gain and loss of this world, he's not affected by the loss or gain of this world, in balance. But he's labhate, not yet entered in the domain of devotion, that is his position. Brahma-bhūtaḥ, he has fully realised that he's not a factor of this material domain. So mind, intelligence, and demands of the bodies, both subtle and gross, he's absent there. He's above this material conception, that is exploitation, above the principle of exploitation. But not entered the domain of devotion, only has a connection, a touch of that. Na śocati na kāṅkṣati. No attachment for the loss and gain of this world, he's above this world of exploitation. But mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām, the real bhakti, śuddha-bhakti, pure devotion, he's only to get, and not got, that position. Samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu. He sees everyone equal, not special consideration for the devotees, all equal to him because he's above this material world of loss and gain. But he has not acquired yet any affinity, any affection towards the land of devotion. The verge, marginal position, jñāna-miśrā, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate.

"He's got a chance to acquire My pure devotion, but he has not attained."

That position, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām.

Then, Mahāprabhu, "Eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59]

Then jñāna-śūnya bhakti - sadhya-sara [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.66]

Mahāprabhu comes, after that Mahāprabhu comes to this position. "This is jñāna-miśrā bhakti."

Then jñāna-śūnya bhakti, he does not care to know about loss and gain, but he has got some taste for the service of Kṛṣṇa. He does not care for anything else. Anyhow he has acquired a peculiar taste, incomparable, unprecedented taste for the service of Kṛṣṇa. And he wants to have that current from the sādhu, and to submit there. He does not know good or bad, this or that, and does not care to know anything else. A peculiar taste he has got, unprecedented, in the story of Kṛṣṇa, in the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, and that is his guide.

"I do not know how it is so much tasteful, Kṛṣṇa līlā is so much tasteful."

So jñāna-śūnya bhakti, no calculation. He's captured by the peculiar taste of that service, loving service, and madly wants to go to those places where Kṛṣṇa kathā is occurring, wants to go, a peculiar sort of temptation he has acquired, jñāna-śūnya bhakti.

jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitāṁ bhavadīya-vārtām
sthāne sthitāḥ [śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

[Lord Brahmā said, "Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Wherever he may be does not matter. He may be a brāhmaṇa, he may be in public, he may be a fool, stupid, he may be a woman, he may be a tribesman, does not matter. But a peculiar taste s/he has acquired anyhow and s/he does not like anything but that type of taste. And he goes to that particular section of the sādhus...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

But there, the Kṛṣṇa Who's unconquerable, He becomes captive to those peculiar types appreciating that.

Devotee: Mahārāja, _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

He had very sharp memory, but during his last days memory fades. We had to remind him about the śloka, what he was searching for. But his age was not much, sixty three, still we found so.

I am also finding such position now, searching for the word, searching for the śloka, but not easily coming, memory failing. What to say? Already eighty seven past, entering eighty eighth year. But memory, to search for the word, appropriate word, to express the meaning, sometimes slow.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

ISKCON may not be very much particular about me. I'm soon going to be done.

What ISKCON wrote in that paper, I did not care to listen to. But should I know the meaning, the points, what they have got to say against me? Last night I was thinking that I must know what complaints they have got against me. And if real we may admit and give my explanation for that. Of course there may be many defects in me, I don't like to say that I am perfect. But that I have caused intentional difficulty, created any difficulty for them. _____ [?] Govinda Mahārāja has also not heard it?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not fully, not word for word.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you have gone thoroughly?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And can you give me the points?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you please do that, 'that these are the points against you.'
Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I have it here actually.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you go on reading I may not be able to follow.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, I won't read it. I'll just tell in brief.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The points one, two, three, four. The points they raised against me I want to listen to that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There's two subject matters. "The influence of Śrīla Prabhupāda's God-brother." They have written. "The influence of Śrīdhara Mahārāja on the ISKCON Movement." Your influence on ISKCON, that's the first subject. There's two crisis. Number two is the activities of Jayatīrtha ending up in him splitting from ISKCON. These two points are dealt with. Actually the whole paper...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jayatīrtha, do they say that I have canvassed him out of ISKCON?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, my mere association caused some damage to him, so I'm so harmful, that is their point? My influence over ISKCON, and I'm responsible for that?

Swāmī Mahārāja had affection for me. He came in my connection and so in the beginning he had some obligation and so gradually I had to come in connection with him. But to some other purpose for some ambition we went to have association of ISKCON to fulfil my mala fide object. Is that any cause like that?

He loved me, he appealed to me, and gradually some connection grew up.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Firstly they say...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who's responsible for my influence on ISKCON? Am I responsible for that?

Swami Maharaja voluntarily came and associated and by going and coming some influence might have grown. I'm not responsible for that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: They say that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If I'm a mala fide object, then Swāmī Mahārāja could not detect, or the brilliant followers of ISKCON who are now controlling, they had no eye to detect and to make careful Swāmī Mahārāja about me? Am I to be blamed for that?

You may collect the points and then I may give the answer. And second is - first my influence to ISKCON, and the second is, Jayatīrtha? That is also, do they think that I took the advantage of his weakness and disconnected him?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: They say that, "Śrīdhara Mahārāja has encouraged him to remain outside of ISKCON. He's encouraged him to stay outside."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I, simply when they came to me, in his connection, and they sought for my help, as I thought best, I gave some help. They took him again to some - discarded him about his sentiments, in the beginning. And then when he left sannyāsa, at that time I tried to help him to come in his sannyāsa again, to re-accept it again to keep the prestige of the mission of ISKCON, I did it, with the help of Caru Swāmī. Jayapatāka Mahārāja also came here and I went to help them.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, their request.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But at that time he might have had some partiality, in that connection he might have acquired some partiality towards me. And then when he barred my connection perhaps, as I was told, he voluntarily discarded their connection. Jayapatāka Mahārāja came here to canvass him. I allowed him fully, twice, thrice he came. He stayed here even for night also he waited. Even tried to canvass him, but he did not hear him. He's a man of independent spirit, he did not do. But my fault is that when ISKCON rejected, why I kept up his connection? A point may come here. That when ISKCON is rejecting, why I am keeping connection with them, not abiding by their decision?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the only one thing which can be charged against me, and that is from the beginning. After the departure of Swāmī Mahārāja, this Pradyumna, he came with eighteen points of difference. Then many others came. And I put them to Tamāla Kṛṣṇa and others, the leading persons. And they did not take any attention, did not give any attention. Then I asked them, you wait and see first. Then appeal to them, then collectively appeal to them and then they do not hear anything, deaf ears to you all. Then you may consult amongst yourselves and form an association to go on. That was my direction. And I am in connection with them. Only the charge can be formed against me, that those that could not abide by the rules, by the ISKCON, and I gave them, I have given them some shelter, their hearing, and my association, and some assistance. This only one charge, and that I have done with freedom of conscience.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Another point, they say you have given sannyāsa to these initiated disciples of Prabhupāda. But they say this is a break, a break of Vaiṣṇava etiquette, because Prabhupāda had told...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because I did not think that Vaiṣṇavism is confined within ISKCON, not outside. Because that was my underlying thought. That it is not confined within the committee of ISKCON but it is still outside. So it is not breach, according to śraddhā. It should go on according to śraddhā and not in a mechanical way. This is my faith, and if that is objectionable, I admit that. If that is offending, then I am offender. According to śraddhā but not by any rules and regulations, formality. I always give higher place of spirit than form. That is my nature. And all the complaints may come to my that decision. If it is wrong, then I am chargeable, otherwise, nothing. I admit that, spirit above form. The form is to serve the spirit and not the spirit to serve the form, that is the principle. So jñāne prayāsam, from so many sections and so many subsections, so many clans, they have all come.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

You have come to Vaiṣṇavaism, to Swāmī Mahārāja. Have you not crossed your existing past forms, to leave them aside like a torn garment and to come clean towards the feet of Swāmī Mahārāja. Because you did not care for the form but you cared for the spirit, for the truth. That must be the characteristic of a true Vaiṣṇava, true devotee, true searcher after truth. That must be the characteristic. Always open, always open to accept the higher conception, eliminating the lower. Without that, the stagnant mentality can never be a Vaiṣṇava.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: The next thing, taking this first point that you have given indulgence to the break-away people like Tīrtha Mahārāja, taking this point they have now given a list of things against you which show why we should not mix with Prabhupāda's God-brothers, any God-brothers. Even although Prabhupāda said, "Śrīdhara Mahārāja is his old friend...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is that Śrīdhara Mahārāja is not a sycophant, not a flatterer. He has got his own principle. And he must be a living person, so he has got his freedom in his ways, and not giving any bond for the slavery of the ISKCON Committee. Cannot be expected to do so.

And it is weakness, it is their weakness, that don't go aside. If you go aside, you'll be poisoned. And they have not the nectar to save them. This is their weakness. Don't mix. Go, pray, anywhere, everywhere, meet them, crush them, and establish your Guru's spirit, truth, and not all cornered, captured in a room, in a prison house.

Be courages to meet one and all. If you have got the real inspiration of the truth, why do you fear in that way, to mix with this and that? That is your cowardice, that is your weakness, that is your defect. You are already in the well. _____ [?]

Where there is hero, I must approach that country. But I shall attack the country of the cowards, the ignorant people, I shall feed. I shall feed myself on ignorant people, less strong. And where there is some danger, I won't approach that, from that side. Why shouldn't I? This is weak mindedness, cowardice.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Now they've given evidence, many different points, "why Śrīdhara Mahārāja is not fit for your association." Different points they've given, so called. The first point is that, "he's responsible for the break-up of the Gauḍīya Maṭha, this is his fault." They tell in this way. "Because Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta told, you must have a Governing Body."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They do not know Governing Body was there and the majority with them, always. Kuñja Bābu [later, Śrīpād Bhakti Vilās Tīrtha Mahārāja] absconded the majority, there were thirteen persons, eight which we supported, that was eight in number, and five gone away. And again we came out Governing Body in their side majority. The Governing Body was there and the majority side was there. But we could not accept the majority came out. So Governing Body is there. What Prabhupāda wanted, that was there. The majority is always with that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It was done.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, they do not know the facts and only throwing mud against me.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Perhaps they do not know also that Goswāmī Mahārāja and [Bhakti Prajñāna] Keśava Maharaja from whom Prabhupāda took sannyāsa, from Keśava Mahārāja, they were also with you in the same opinion. Perhaps they have forgotten that too. Yes, mud throwing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But the difference was that they wanted to break them but I became indifferent, more or less. Then, what other points? So you collect the points, and an answer should be prepared, but whether we publish it or not.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I thought the best answer, this we can do, but the letters which our Prabhupāda has written to you and to Govinda Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that you can put in the beginning, that you may be, in a body you are coming, but your Guru's appreciation is here.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Those letters finish all the points.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

And also one point you can do. That what occurred within the lifetime of Swāmī Mahārāja, they have no right to discuss about that. Because in spite of that, Swāmī Mahārāja accepted him. Was he a fool? Why, in spite of, he knew it clearly well.

Though the fact is that the Governing Body was always that side. And when I left the mission, the Governing Body on the other side, I left, came away. The Governing Body is there, and it is still now. And in the last time I tried a compromise between Prabhupāda's will and Governing Body. Prabhupāda had a will, "that Kuñja Bābu, Paramānanda and Vasudeva Prabhu, these three trustees they will manage the property," willed. And the last word he told that, "they will form a Governing Body of ten or twelve." So Governing Body was formed and the majority ruled the property always.

But I, anyhow managed to make a compromise between the will and the Governing Body. I was the instrument, mediator of a compromise in the high court case. Kuñja Bābu in his favour, Paramānanda and Kuñja Bābu, these two trustees were one side, and the Governing Body and one trustee another side. So a compromise was effected between the Governing Body and the trust board, and that through my mediation. And so the Maṭha was divided, management was divided. One side trustees and another side Governing Body, and had a compromise from the high court.

They do not know the real fact, and dancing in stupidity. Stupid dancing. The whole thing may be named as a stupid dancing, a fool's dance. The facts are otherwise.

And in spite of that, Swāmī Mahārāja he mixed with me. He does not know what is good and bad? And not in ordinary way, but with some respect. And your letter is proof for that. So those fools are coming to discuss against his Gurudeva.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: This is the main thing which we object to.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he knew well that I was not going to give ditto in all his activities, he knew it. Still he had affection for me, and he used to come to me, and used to take me affectionately there, so many times. And came here also, so many times, from the beginning. What for? He did not know anything about me? And they know everything.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Like children, Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not ordinary children, boisterous, naughty children. Not naughty, naughty also submissive. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So you know the points one by one. And take answers from me and prepare, keep it ready.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I was a hoax, I did a great hoax to the devotional public? Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: We're very much interested to _____ [?] this fully.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A great hoax to the devotional public.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: This is a type of cheating. This is the highest cheating, if the Vaiṣṇava community is being cheated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The fact is otherwise, one by one. Ha, ha. _____ [?] There is a proverb in Bengali. Do you follow? _____ [?] whether nose is necessary or breathing is necessary? Nose is a formal thing, but breathing is the material, real thing for which nose is.

Devotee: _____ [?] Purity of the force _____ [?] Why the followers of Śrīla Prabhupāda should not go outside of ISKCON for seeking spiritual instruction?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That is already answered.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it for their weakness?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Cowards.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Weakness? They're afraid of mixing with the public of present Gauḍīya Maṭha? But the caution was it may be in the optimistic way, that they were child, they were all children. So they were cautioned against going out of the area, house. But when they are matured, they'll be given impression, 'go out and conquer.' And when children, 'don't go out.' _____ [?]

Devotee: Prabhupāda gives a similar _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prabhupāda made another point. It is in our favour, not there. In this way push, that they must open their eye to see this, why he wanted them to keep within the compound, because they are minor.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, of course.

Devotee: _____ [?] "But Śrīdhara Mahārāja is responsible for dis-serving this order of Guru Mahārāja, and he and two others _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Why not one Ācārya, Swāmī Mahārāja? There are many Ācāryas. One Ācārya is not current, it could not go on. Many Ācāryas naturally came out, and Swāmī Mahārāja also from the beginning he made many Ācāryas. Why many Ācāryas instead of one Ācārya in the mission, one Pope? Pope must be one. Why you are so many Popes? So naturally in Gauḍīya Maṭha many Ācāryas have come, it is necessary. Swāmī Mahārāja read that and he sanctioned many Ācāryas according to different zones.

The Governing Body Prabhupāda created and that is still there. But there was a quarrel and a compromise was effected between the will. That was also made by Prabhupāda in the beginning. And the last word "Governing Body." So there was a compromise between the two in the management. Gauḍīya Maṭha, this Caitanya Maṭha was direct under will, so that came to be as private will, and the Caitanya Maṭha came under the control of the will. And the Bagh Bazaar Maṭha that was created afterwards when grown up, and the last word, Governing Body, that went to the Governing Body, and a few other centres divided.

Devotee: ____ [?] Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura's order to preach Kṛṣṇa consciousness widened.
In a letter that Śrīla Prabhupāda wrote to Girirāja in May nineteen seventy two, and which Prabhupāda wanted printed in the newspapers in Madras, Prabhupāda says, _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now you collect the points, and you collect the answers also, and in a meeting you may put it for consideration, and what you think necessary you get advice from me about the answers.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, will do, definitely, it was already our intention. Always, friends are coming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Keep it ready, and put at their disposal what they think; that they will also find who are ready to sign your answers.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

[34:44 - 38:00, many devotees speak (Bengali?) and laugh together.]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: …satisfied with present position and always looking for the future, aspiring more and more, to know more and more about the transcendental, nirguṇa, infinite. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And from _____ [?] I have improved in more internal investigation to help the mission. Ideas back I had thought in my mind. Now I have organised the thoughts for the preachers in such a way that it would be better for me to collect the teachers and educate them, than to approach the ordinary public. The teachers should get some sort of beneficial treatment, teaching from me, that will be very helpful for them to preach in the public. I felt for some time, that the ordinary mass won't be able to catch me. But the preachers will be more helped by me. I have got my experience about the preaching so far, and collected the favourable points of different scriptures, and experience, and do discourse with the intellectuals. So more a training school for the teachers than the students, masses, I thought for some time. Their experience when the present relies of the time and scripture, and Prabhupāda, Mahāprabhu, Goswāmīs, all mixed. It is His will. It is unexpected that you have come in my last days in my connection, you all have come. It was beyond expectation. I never thought of it. But the tapes are going away towards the world. It is divine arrangement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He may not manage, but he has got feeling inside. In management, Caru Swāmī he's also a failure in the management department. What sort of responsibility in management he has got? Jayatīrtha, he was an efficient man, but coming in connection with Śrīdhara Mahārāja he's spoiled.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Who told that?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Who said that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That should be their statement.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One would consider this is his statement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because Jayatīrtha proved himself previously, a very able man.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. He was good before, but now look what happened.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now coming in connection with Śrīdhara Mahārāja the wholesale spoiled.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ruination, wholesale ruination.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Such a dangerous poison.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: ...too many Rāmas." He's saying, "He's leaving some syllable out, repeatedly, repeatedly. And perhaps habitually he's been chanting like this for a long time, that he's not chanting perfectly.

Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare, Hare Rāma, Hare Rāma, Rāma Rāma, Hare Hare.

"He's not perfectly pronouncing the mantra." This is offensive chanting?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He says, "If someone chants mahā-mantra, but by habit he misses the sequence, sometimes Rāma Rāma Rāma, too many times. Hare Hare Hare Hare Hare, too many, will this become offence, aparādha, Nāma-aparādha, or what?" His question. The krama of the Name is juggled.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may not be at the status of taking the Name systematically, but ordinary Name if there is śraddhā. Śraddhā is all in all, devotion, affection. then any form of Name that will be productive, but they won't get the result of taking the mahā-mantra. But ordinary Name taking, that may be if śraddhā is there.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Then there is some separate benefit for chanting the mahā-mantra?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Ordinary Name, ordinary Name if there is śraddhā, then any type of Name will be fruitful to certain extent.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: But the pure chanting of the mahā-mantra has...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not that, that consequence they won't get, that fruit. If they do not follow the real system then they won't get the results of mahā-mantra. But ordinary taking of the Name Divine, that will come.

O brāhmaṇa! Such are the glories of the Holy Name. This _____ [?] Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given special note on this. _____ [?] Hari, Hare, Hara, that may bring some result but _____ [?] Ha ri, two words in the middle.

Sanātana Goswāmī has discussed this. Otherwise _____ [?] kamain, kan, kristo. In place of Kṛṣṇa she says kristo. That will also fetch something.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Supersoul deep, is that consciousness one can cultivate consciously when he's chanting japa-mālā, to think of Supersoul?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's a question of faith, difference of faith, stages of different faith will produce different type of results. A thief also may accept the name Hari. Hari means to steal. There also some possibility of good effect. But tatra bavadana, hari, this māyāvādī's hari and Hari of devotee is different. This māyāvādī is mediate, intercept between the two. What is that which comes between the two and separates?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Intermediate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The question of faith, pure faith, that is the primary thing. Anyhow the clear memory, the memory must reach high, that is what is necessary. The consciousness, anyhow it must have to carry the consciousness to that plane. In the highest stage, vana dekhi' bhrama haya – ei 'vṛndāvana', [śaila dekhi' mane haya – [ei 'govardhana']

["When Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu passed through the Jhārikhaṇḍa forest, He took it for granted that it was Vṛndāvana. When He passed over the hills, He took it for granted that they were Govardhana."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.55]

Ordinary forest awakens the memory of that Vṛndāvana. It is possible.

This tamāla tree that gave the fullest recollection of Kṛṣṇa to Rādhārāṇī, tamāla. When She embraced the tamāla, She thought that, "I have got the, I'm embracing Kṛṣṇa." In this way. It is also possible. The question of faith, that is the primary thing.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: This memory of Vṛndāvana is within jīvātmā, every jīvātmā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not jīvātmā. Jīvātmā will have to enter into that high plane where the Vṛndāvana is in this conscious world. Jīvātmā will have to come in touch with that higher plane in the conscious world which is known as Vṛndāvana, must have to come there. Jīvātmā, jīva is taṭasthā, marginal. When jīva is captured by dint of his service, it can enter into that higher plane. And it is taken up for the service there, then he can feel Vṛndāvana. Otherwise from his own intrinsic position he can't do. It is not property of ordinary jīva, not right. But he's eligible if he accept the service and in pursuit of a real sādhu, then he can enter Vṛndāvana. Not as a matter of right, but matter of grace. If the upper persons they are gracious to accept anyone to take up there, then he can go, otherwise not.

Just as an ordinary servant, if he's taken into the harem of the king, a maidservant, or a boy servant, taken into the harem, the most private part, he can go. Otherwise they will have to be outside.

It is their sweet will of the Vaiṣṇava, of the servitors of that plane. And by one's attitude, the purity of purpose, and attraction for that Vṛndāvana līlā, and the grace of Vaiṣṇava, and the servitor Guru can take them up there, can go. Its prospect can go up to that plane, highest prospect. But the atmosphere is only of free grace, svarūpa-śakti. Taṭasthā-śakti, you will have to enter into the higher potency. Lower potency will have to enter into higher potency. Only by the free grace of the higher potency. And that is all serving object, full of serving, adoration, the object of service. The soil, the air, everything is of higher stuff than myself. We are to enter into that place. Only by the grace of the Vaiṣṇava of that land. Visa is granted only for the interest of the land from which the visa is granted. He who thinks that they won't be useful there, they won't allow to enter. It's a higher land, and for their interest only they will take us there.

Slaves, the recruitment of slaves. If you are a good slave, they will come to recruit you for their purpose here, from here. Recruitment of the slave. But by faithful service he may be adored like anything. No narrowness, no meanness is there. But no claim. All out of grace. Their attitude is wholly transformed. They become accustomed to look around crying.

"They're all my Guru. I am to serve all of them." That should be wholesale transformation. "That I'm a serving unit. I'm the meanest of the mean. Only by their grace I'm here. Otherwise I have no place here." So such humility, that is the very nature of the service there. Everyone thinking that, "I'm the most mean, meanest of the mean. Only by serving them that I can keep my position here and my prestige."

All these things, service, serving, wholesale transformed into serving unit. And service is adored according to its purity, sincerity, and the classification of its nature, rasa, and its efficiency, it is adored there. But we should think that we are like so many slaves recruited there. But by our good nature and behaviour the difference will disappear. No claim, no claim. If you want to put any claim, then you are disqualified. Only grace. So high.

His mentality is, "I have no qualification. But anyhow I have got their grace, their kindness. They are giving this chance of serving them. I'm so fortunate. I have no capacity of my own. I'm not qualified. So I have no claim, but out of their grace I'm given the chance."

With that sort of apprehension, they will go on with the discharging of their duty. Dainya, ātma-nivedana, goptṛtve varaṇaṁ, and śaraṇāgati, it is full faith. This is the very nature of the negative existence, self-abnegation. Self-abnegation, the very nature of the potency, the negative side. And one should try to increase the negative characteristic of one's own self, and that will draw the positive so much to him. Dainya, meek, pitiable condition.

ye yatha patita haya, tava dayā tata tāya, tāte āmi supātra dayāra

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Your grace is given in accordance with the necessity of those who really deserve it. In that consideration, I have some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have some claim to Your grace."] [Gīta-mālā, Yamunā-bhāvāvali, 19]

"We're told that as much as one is fallen, Your attraction is towards him so much. You are patita-pāvana. You have come to deliver the fallen, and I'm very fallen so I have got a claim for Your grace. Because I'm the worst type of fallen." The negative side. "I'm the worst type of fallen." And not a hypocrisy but he must feel like that. "And so I can claim for Your grace. I'm needy, the worst needy I am, so I can claim Your grace, Your mercy. Ye yatha patita haya, tava dayā tata tāya, tāte āmi supātra dayāra. I'm really the most fallen, so I think I have claim on Your mercy."

The sincere feeling, to improve the negative side. So jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3], knowledge is a failure here, because knowledge wants to possess something within its zone.

"That it is my captive, I have put something in the box, I can take out and I can show, my property. I'm subject, there are so many objective existence within the subject. And I can show according to my necessity to others." Pratiṣṭhā.

But mukam karoti vācālaṁ [Bhavārtha Dipikā, maṅgala stotram, 1], only by His grace I can talk about Him. If He gives the supply, then I can distribute. But if that is disconnected, I am nowhere, I cannot give any delivery to any goods. The source is there, the powerhouse.

Gaurasundar. Gaurasundar. Gaurasundar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "...marginal portion is covered by my existence. I appear here as the master of māyā and I appeared there as the servant of Vaikuṇṭha. And within me, Virajā and Brahmaloka. Virajā the highest representation of prakṛti. And Brahmaloka the lowest representation of the conscious world."

My avyakrtam na vyakrtam na visisthena jnatam [?]

"Not very clearly differentiated, very vague, my position, avyākṛtaṁ. Bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29] Above me there is another section that are called bhāgavata, Vaiṣṇava, bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ padaṁ, there is another sphere which is known as Vaiṣṇava padaṁ. Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ [Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20] Vaikuṇṭha. Yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye.

Oh Gods, kalātyaye, when the wholesale dissolution will take place after a long time, long, long period, then I also aspire after to enter into that domain, Vaikuṇṭha." That Mahādeva says. But in a clear differentiation of this mundane and the spiritual world. And in the middle, he's as the master of the māyā, māyā-śakti, and as the servant, vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam,12.13.16] & [SCSM's Śrī Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, p 144], and representing himself as the token of service of the Vaikuṇṭha. That is the position of Śivaloka.

There on that side there is Sadāśiva as Mahā-Viṣṇu, and this side the Rudra, known as Rudra, ekadasa Rudra. On the other side, the devotee Śiva, that is Sadāśiva, he's devotee. And sometimes he's identical with Advaita Prabhu or Mahā-Viṣṇu. So Advaita Prabhu sometimes told as Śiva, Śiva Avatāra, or Mahādeva, Sadāśiva. Sadāśiva and Mahā-Viṣṇu are almost one and the same. The devotee Śiva is Mahā-Viṣṇu. And Kāraṇodakaśāyī is he. They're the cause, at the bottom of all the wholesale creation, he's there. Tal-liṅgaṁ bhagavān śambhur [Brahma-saṁhitā, 8], and he sends the ray to this misconceived world. And with prakṛti that is mingled and the first stage is mahāt-tattva and then so many brahmāṇḍas. And in each brahmāṇḍa there is again that Viṣṇu Avatāra Kāraṇodakaśāyī, second representation, that is Garbhodakaśāyī. In each brahmāṇḍa. And then again each jīva soul within, that is Kṣīrodakaśāyī. These are the three Puruṣa Avatāras, Kṣīrodakaśāyī, Garbhodakaśāyī, and Kāraṇodakaśāyī. These are three Puruṣa Avatāras.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, in Caitanya-caritāmṛta we read, sthāvara-jaṅgama dekhe, nā dekhe tāra mūrti / sarvatra haya nija iṣṭa-deva-sphūrti

["The uttama-adhikārī, sees the moving and non-moving entities, sthāvara-jaṅgama, but never sees their outward form. One sees one's iṣṭa, one's most beloved Deity, Kṛṣṇa, everywhere, sarvatra haya nija iṣṭa-deva-sphūrti. This is a completely Kṛṣṇa conscious person."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.274]

And also, bigeha na bhujoya [?], we can't understand them. But still, the question arises, does he see Śyāmasundar playing His flute in every position, or does he see...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to his adhikāra, his realisation. Some may see Nārāyaṇa connection, some Vṛndāvana connection. As he's connected with the conception of the centre, he sees like that. Some may see, are more inclined to Mahāprabhu, he sees Mahāprabhu's recollection comes and captures.

According to intensity, according to the position, the svarūpa, such feelings. Nanda centred, Yaśodā centred, the centre of interest, that will excite us to see about Him. Vātsalya-rasa, mādhurya-rasa, they will give excitement to a particular group of things, paraphernalia. The sākhya-rasa they will see the cow, the grazing, the Kṛṣṇa sakhā, in this way, their līlā with Kṛṣṇa. That is also of infinite characteristic. That will excite them in such. And mādhurya-rasa in another way, and vātsalya-rasa another way. And they're concerned with Nārāyaṇa, or Rāmacandra, or Gaurāṅga, more addicted, and that flash will come within him by any connection.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, one devotee from Orissa, he said there are records, he has heard from his father, one brāhmaṇa, there are records that Jesus Christ stayed in Jagannātha Purī temple and accepted one Guru, worshipping Sadāśiva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. One gentleman of Orissa...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He says, there's a record in Orissa, one temple near Jagannātha...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Jesus Christ came to visit Jagannātha?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He stayed...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: And that he accepted a Guru who was a disciple of Sadāśiva. Jesus Christ has accepted one Guru there, in Jagannātha Purī, who was a disciple or devotee of Sadāśiva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sadāśiva. Where is Sadāśiva in Orissa? A person, or a Deity?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: That was I think his Deity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sadāśiva. Where is Sadāśiva, the location, Jagannātha temple?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No. I don't think it is a formal Deity. It was just that his Guru he chose...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guru, any gentleman named Sadāśiva? Sadāśiva is a name of a sādhu or name of a Deity?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Not sure. But in the Bible Christ is recorded to say, "You have not heard His voice and you have not seen His shape." He was chastising, in a chastising way to the priests. "You have not heard His voice and you have not seen His shape." That's in the Bible.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is mention in the Bible, one priest, who is preaching, reading Bible in Rasayi [?], one churchman used to take class, of Bible, and many gentleman used to go.

One gentleman came to me, he told, "I was a young boy." He was perhaps twenty or thirty years senior than me, when I was here, forty-five, perhaps he was seventy-five or so. He told me, he gave the name and the particulars, correctly, that that was the name of that clergyman, and he was reading Bible.

"One night Moses saw in dream that God is ordering him to do this and that."

"I stood up, I was a boy, stood up."

And they stopped his reading, "And what is your question?"

"There was a custom if anyone had any question to ask, he would stand up and he will take up his question. I stood up. The Moses saw in a dream God visiting. What did he see? He saw in a dream so must be a figure. A dream, he must have seen a figure and what sort of figure?"

He stopped for some time. "This boy, what he has asked I shall have to think for some time. And then tomorrow in this class, I shall try to explain." But he omitted.

This is vague vision, not clear enough. As this, only human have got soul. And the animals and trees, they have got no soul. This Koran and Bible, they have got defect here. Where there is vitality, there is soul. Everywhere there is soul, within. But they say only human soul. If we kill a goat, or an elephant, a tree, there's no reaction. But the Vedic scripture says no, this is also hiṁsā. You are killing a goat, you are killing a cow. There is also soul. Soul is suffering in that condition. Eighty-four lākhs of species soul is wandering through. This is Vedic conception. But Koran and Bible, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has reached a compromise that it is by instalment.

parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, [bālānām anuśāsanam
karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

["Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

So there is revealed truth, śrauta, revealed truth, but according to the paraphernalia, he deals by instalment. So to them it was impossible to take them out of this hiṁsā, this paśu bhajan. So revealed truth does not disclose that there is life, because the receiver was not very qualified. That is his compromise. Anyhow, there and that there is no figure.

In Germany I am told by Bon Mahārāja that they produced a theatre based on Bible. Then the father, they put the father in the drama, put the father in a high balcony and with grey beard and old appearance, old something, not young. Some aged appearance with grey beard and put there, and from there he's saying, "Do this, do not do this," dictating. In a show they placed the position, the figure of God like that. The figure but they can't see the figure, the negative side.

apāṇi-pādo javano grahitā, paśyaty acakṣuḥ [sa śṛṇoty akarṇaḥ
sa vetti vedyaṁ na ca tasyāsti vettā, tam āhur agryaṁ puruṣaṁ mahāntam]

["The Lord has no hands or legs, yet He walks and touches. The Lord has no eyes or ears, yet He sees and hears."] [Śvetāśvatara-Upaniṣad, 3.19]

Śaṅkara is also of the same conception. "There cannot be figure in the spiritual, no differentiation in the spiritual line, spiritual substance. All differentiation only in the material. But no differentiation, differentiated character in the spiritual world."

"But where does it come from?" Mahaprabu says. "Where do you get it?" Paśyaty acakṣuḥ. He can see but He has got no eye, what does it mean? That He has got spiritual eye, not fleshy eye. Apāṇi-pādo. He has got no leg, no hand, but He can catch, He can go, walk. What does it mean? Not this ordinary fleshy leg or fleshy hand. But He has got hand, leg, eye, everything He has got. That means, conclusion, that that is all spiritual, not mundane. What is not in the cause can never come in the effect. It is there. So in the perverted reflection we find it here, the differentiation. That is non-differentiated mass of spirit. That is the primary conception, Brahma conception. But within that there is Paramātmā, all-pervading, then Nārāyaṇa, the dictator within there, that can take initiative, not an innate substance. In this way the key is in progress toward Kṛṣṇa conception.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

There is a saying that when Jesus was disappeared from the place to the unknown quarter for twelve years or so, is it not?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, no record.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No record in his life where he was. At that time he came to India and he got some sort of touch with Indian sādhus and then went back. There is a saying like that. And some say that after his resurrection he came to Kasmir. He did not die. They put, thinking that he's dead, put them in a cave. And the day of resurrection they say, after three days he came back, he got his energy again and he came away from there, came to Kasmir, there is a saying like that, in India. Kasmir is in India.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: In the Christian Church they say Christ ascended, he lifted himself up, and out of sight of the disciples.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And disappeared in the sky.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: That's how they say he left.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be. A devotee's figure is like that, not flesh and blood, it may be, he went up.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So it is possible that Christ knew a form of worship?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Christ knew?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Christ knew of some form of the Lord, some iṣṭa-deva? "Father." He told.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, but the conception of God is not very clear.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He did not teach in detail.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vague, approximate. But Christ's preaching is theistic, but not complete, partial representation of theism.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, you said within Brahman, Paramātmā, and also Bhagavān, dictating, not inert. But Kṛṣṇa He's enjoying in Goloka, He's not so much directly directing things here, is He not? He's not so much dictating, extraordinary...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Ostentatiously His dictation is not clear. But He's the prime cause of His, looking at His pleasure, They're only working. This Bhagavān and Paramātmā, They're all working, but the spirit supplied by Kṛṣṇa.

Start of 82.10.25.B_82.10.27.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...beauty, autocrat. Everything is wanting to serve the beautiful. Beauty has so much command over everything, like everyone, every nerve is moved only for the satisfaction of beauty. Beauty can control external and internal nerve, everything, everywhere. Everyone's internal demand is to go towards beauty, towards ānandam, towards harmony, towards love. At the bottom of everything there is the tendency to go towards beauty, love, harmony: that is Kṛṣṇa. The deepest plane, anywhere and everywhere can be traced, can be found that the current is going towards that, that plane, to meet, connected with that beauty, realisation of beauty. And beauty, ānandam, love, harmony, are the same, same section, sweetness. Everyone wants, that is controlling the whole market. Aspiration, aspiring for the ānandam, sukham, real ecstasy. Every atom everywhere aspires after that sort of realisation and that is ānandam, sukham. That is beauty, that is love, that is harmony, ecstasy. The internal, innermost current everywhere to be traced, that must be found of that nature. Not power, the next hit will be power, everyone wants power to control. But beauty, to aspire after beauty just the opposite, to give out power, to throw away power and to be humble. Humility is indispensable for the company of beauty, for the company of ecstasy, humility, so opposite to power.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

Indispensable qualification for the search of beauty, as much as one can so much selfless, self abnegated, he can appreciate so much love and beauty. Sacrifice, sevā, can take us to it. And power seeking takes us here to capture everything under our control to this brahmānda. And power for rendering service to the beauty, that is in Vaikuṇṭha, aiśvarya, serving the mādhurya. Sweetness is the end in itself, and sweetness is God, the highest Entity, the deepest foundation, the final goal, that is sweetness, that Bhāgavatam says, Mahāprabhu says, very emphatically.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: If someone appears to be proud, or even arrogant, then his position is not, he cannot enter līlā in that position if he's displaying that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Arrogant may be of two types, arrogance to the higher and arrogance to the lower. With a good will if a mother seems to be arrogant to deal with the child, that arrogance for the good of the child, that apparent arrogance should not be considered with the real arrogance of a passer-by to punish the child. The arrogance will be of two types. In some stages arrogance, bistay sabhava janate baho shaste loshay [?]

A devotee may be seen to be little, for little cause he becomes angry, but that anger, that should not be classified with the ordinary anger. His anger will do good to the person to whom he's angry. For the well-being of the man with whom he's angry, that anger, krodha bhakta-dweśi jāne, that is a qualification, it may be. So they cannot be judged independently.

Mahāprabhu was angry sometimes. When Mahāprabhu was going on His kīrtana and the door closed, a brahmacārī who was only drinking milk and nothing else, he wanted to enter.

"I must be considered to be purest. I drink only milk, nothing else. So why they have closed the door against me?" Then at last when a door was open and he told: "Why door closed against me?"

Mahāprabhu showed two fingers. "That to drink milk that is no qualification for Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

And this is seen many times. When there was some misbehaviour against Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit, some tantric ridiculed Śrīvāsa, put some, this wine and other things in the door of Śrīvāsa at night to show that he, to ridicule him. And Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit opened his door, gate, and found all these nasty things, this wine, this meat and other nasty things. Then he went to the good neighbours: "You please see that how tantric I am in that every night I with the help of this meat and wine I worship Devī Kālī."

Then the gentlemen they were very much felt disturbed. "Who is the rogue who has done all these things?"

And when it was informed to Mahāprabhu, Mahāprabhu was very much enraged. "That man must have to suffer." And he was Cāpāla Gopāla, he had got this leprosy within a few days.

In this way, sometimes in this world some anger is shown by the incarnation Himself, of the God, and some devotees also sometimes. But that is not harmful, for the good of the persons. So the excitement which is found in a devotee in a proper way, that should not be taken as ordinary anger.

kāma kṛṣṇa-karmārpaṇe krodha bhakta-dweśi jāne, lobha sādhu-saṅga hari-kathā
moha iṣta-lābha-bine mada kṛṣṇa-guṇa-gāne, niyukta kariba yathā tathā

["Lust I will engage in offering the fruits of my work to Lord Kṛṣṇa. Anger I will direct towards the enemies of the devotees. Greed I will engage by being greedy to hear the topics of Lord Hari in the association of the saintly devotees. Bewilderment will be manifested because I cannot immediately attain my worshippable Lord. Madness will be there when I madly glorify the transcendental attributes of Lord Kṛṣṇa. In this way I will engage each of these in the service of Lord Kṛṣṇa."]
[Śrīla Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura's Prema-bhakti-candrikā, 2.10]

In devotees also sometimes we see:

dṛṣṭaiḥ svabhāva-janitair vapuṣaś ca doṣair na prākṛtatvam iha bhakta-janasya paśyet gaṅgāmbhasāṁ na khalu budbuda-phena-paṅkair brahma-dravatvam apagacchati nīra-dharmaiḥ

["Being situated in his original Kṛṣṇa conscious position, a pure devotee does not identify with the body. Such a devotee should not be seen from a materialistic point of view. Indeed, one should overlook a devotee's having a body born in a low family, a body with a bad complexion, a deformed body, or a diseased or infirm body. According to ordinary vision, such imperfections may seem prominent in the body of a pure devotee, but despite such seeming defects, the body of a pure devotee cannot be polluted. It is exactly like the waters of the Ganges, which sometimes during the rainy season are full of bubbles, foam and mud. The Ganges waters do not become polluted. Those who are advanced in spiritual understanding will bathe in the Ganges without considering the condition of the water."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 6]

Upadeśāmṛta, Rūpa Goswāmī says, according to the teaching of Mahāprabhu, that if we find any defect in a pure devotee we should not be very eager to find fault in him. Because in the water of Ganges it can purify, but if any...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Bubbles.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bubbles or...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mud.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any mud is found with that water, that also can purify. The bubble and mud, that cannot stand in the way of purification. So in a devotee who are only meant for the good of the universe, if we find some mud or bubbles like things, like anger and some other things. In the body also some is blind, some is lame, if we attribute that to their inner self then we're losers, we commit offence.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: But it is understandable sometimes when anger is used in love, it can be understood in that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course. When a mother or father is abusing their child for their good, one can, it is understandable. And another man he's beating a boy. Both is distinguishable different things. So a man of that intelligence, that standard of intelligence that can know. The well-wisher is chastising the boy, and the passer-by is chastising the boy, the difference can be understood by an intelligent man. Ordinary people may not make it out.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Some say that Akṣayānanda Mahārāja is worthless...

Devotees: [laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and a symptom of a worthy man to control men and to earn money.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But he can't get any money, he's useless. ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Money, money and men together, that is the qualification of a substantial, a good man, a sādhu, luck, that is the symptom of a worthy man. Hare Kṛṣṇa. What's the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ten to ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ten to ten. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We might have some worth as an atom of dust at your feet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: If we can be an atom of dust on your feet...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Haribol! Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ...maybe some worth then.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Haribol! Mahāprabhu at least says to Kṛṣṇa that, "It is worth to become a dust in the feet of Kṛṣṇa." What is that śloka? kiṅkaraṁ, patitaṁ māṁ viṣame bhavāmbudhau.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sthita-dhūlī-sadṛśaṁ vicintaya.

["O son of Nanda Mahārāja, I am Your eternal servant, yet because of my own karma, I have fallen into this terrible ocean of birth and death. Accept this fallen soul and consider me a particle of dust at Your holy lotus feet."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 5]

"Not a part and parcel of Your body, but vibhinnāṁśa, a different type of substance. I want connection with Your foot, holy foot."

Vibhinnāṁśa jīva - tāñra śaktite gaṇana, taṭastha-śakti.

["Kṛṣṇa expands Himself in many forms. Some of them are personal expansions, and some are separate expansions. Thus He performs pastimes in both the spiritual and material worlds. The spiritual worlds are the Vaikuṇṭha planets, and the material universes are brahmāṇḍas, gigantic globes governed by Lord Brahmā. Expansions of His personal self - like the quadruple manifestations of Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna, Aniruddha and Vāsudeva - descend as incarnations from Vaikuṇṭha to this material world. The separated expansions (vibhinnāṁś) are living entities. Although they are expansions of Kṛṣṇa, they are counted among His different potencies."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.8-9] mamaivāṁśo jīva-loke, jīva-bhūtaḥ sanātanaḥ

[manaḥ ṣaṣṭhānīndriyāṇi, prakṛti-sthāni karṣati]

["The soul is a part of Me, as My separate fragmental particle or potency. Although he is eternal, he acquires the mind and five perceptual senses, which are parts of material nature as creations of māyā, My deluding potency."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.7]

This is a general word, but in particular really it is the part of His potency, and not the higher potency but in the marginal potency, that is jīva. That is also a part in a general, in a broad sense, everything is a part of Him. He's advaya-jñāna, He's everywhere, He's including everything so everything is a part. But among, there is differentiation in calculation about the reckoning of the parts. Svarūpa-śakti, He and His śakti, potency, and potency higher, lower, and marginal, jīva is a part of the marginal potency.

And Guru also, apparently Kṛṣṇa, but Kṛṣṇa can give only Himself, so it by His will that anyone can achieve Kṛṣṇa consciousness. A general it is Kṛṣṇa, but when we are particular we find, 'no, it is His potency.' And potency there of different kinds, different kinds.

And His representation different in Vaikuṇṭha, Nārāyaṇa, Nārāyaṇa's paraphernalia, Kṛṣṇa's paraphernalia. The Rāmānuja's, their ultimate goal is in Vaikuṇṭha, Nārāyaṇa. The Nārāyaṇa is coming to recruit them through His potency of different type. Kṛṣṇa comes to require him through His potency of different types, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, etc., śanta, dāsya. That differentiation gradually awakens in ones, in the mind of the disciple and can say: "Oh, who went to recruit me in the name of the agent of Kṛṣṇa, now I find he has got such and such function in the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. He went to me with the certificate of an agent of Kṛṣṇa in general to recruit me and he has taken me here to give me engagement in this particular service." Mukunda-preṣṭhatve, guru-varaṁ.

[na dharmam-nādharmam-śruti-gaṇa-niruktam-kila kuru vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-pracura-paricaryām iha tanuḥ śacī-sūnum-nandīśvara-pati-sutatve guru-varaṁ mukunda-preṣṭhatve smara padam ajasram-nanu manaḥ]

["O my dear mind, please do not perform the religious activities prescribed in the Vedas or the sinful activities prohibited in the scriptures. Just stay in Vraja Dhāma, which is manifest on this material plane, and fully engage in the service of the Divine Couple, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. Always remember Śrī Gaurahari, the son of Mother Śacī, is non-different from Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Mahārāja Nanda. Always remember that Śrī Gurudeva is the dear-most associate of Mukunda. These feelings are your transcendental wealth."]

[Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's, Manaḥ-śikṣā, 2] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 1.40 & 18.24]

In first sight everything is seen as He, but by nearer approach we find specification, differentiation there. And the potency, and differentiation again in the potency, and in the higher potency also so many departments. In this way Guru is at last located in a particular service there, mukunda preṣṭhatve, it is he who went to recruit me on behalf of Kṛṣṇa. Rūpānuga. But they're not to be differentiated so tightly, their oneness, one tune they have got, of one heart, one aim, one object, one interest. In that case not to differentiate. There is specific service, in that sense it may be differentiated. So bhedābheda and that is acintya, everywhere to be applied, common and different. Everything, everything has got this common and difference and that is inconceivable to your consciousness. This will apply, this should be applied everywhere.

So I may finish here today. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

Madhvācārya, he was the strongest oppositionist of the Śaṅkara School. Śaṅkarācārya laid stress on advaita, and he laid stress on dvaita, not advaita, dvaita. Īśvara and jīva. The Veda, the difference that is more prominent. So he opposed them very strongly. And not only he stopped there, he tried to prove Śaṅkarācārya as a demon, quoting a narration from Mahābhārata.

Maniman dvaita [?], he was ordered by Nārāyaṇa to preach in Kali-yuga this māyāvādā.

And our Guru Mahārāja also published a booklet, small, Mani-mañjarī, from the Madhva School, Mani- mañjarī. There it is proved from reference to Mahābhārata that Śaṅkarācārya was a demon and his name was Maniman. And he was ordered to do so and he came and did that. That is their contention.

But Mahāprabhu accepted him as incarnation of Śiva and Śiva was ordered, a reference also given from the śāstra. Lokan madvi mokan kuru [?]

With the spirit of harmony, keeping the harmony, not from segregation, from the underlying good meaning was that, who was hopeless diseased persons, to take them out of the, of the patients that are, that have got slight disease. The serious diseased persons, serious patients, to remove them, to save for the safety of the less serious patients. So with that idea Śaṅkara, Śaṅkarācārya, Śiva, was ordered: lokan madvi mokan kuru [?] "Who are very much atheist, take them out in another group, showing that they are himself God, that ultimate object, so ham. So ham means not dāso ham, "I am Him. I am Him."

Generally we see the demons they have got many qualifications, moral qualifications, but only that main difference they're anti Viṣṇu, generally. They even worship Brahmā and Śiva and get boon from them, also do penances and thereby they acquire power. But they are generally anti Viṣṇu, not all, mostly. Only those that are forced to come here by curse, just as Vitrāsura, he also apparently worshipper of Śiva. This Bodi [?], he was a devotee though come in the lineage of asura. Prahlāda, exceptional cases. But generally asura, they are devotees of Śiva and Brahmā, but anti Viṣṇu.

["There are two classes of men in this created world. One consists of the demonic and the other of the godly. The devotees of Lord Viṣṇu are the godly, whereas those who are just the opposite are called demons."] [Padma-Purāṇa] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra,14.1]

And generally the demigods they are submissive to Viṣṇu. The general nature of things is such, āsuras- tad-viparyayaḥ. Devi sampad _____ [?] is thought to be the incarnation of Śiva, Bhīma and Hanumān. During Kṛṣṇa he was Bhīma and during Rāmacandra he was Hanumān, and in connection of Vedavyāsa Nārāyaṇa he became Madhva. That is their contention.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In connection of Vedavyāsa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhvācārya, the Avatāra of Vāyu, Mukha-Vāyu, incarnation of Mukha-Vāyu. That is the general Guru-tattva. So, when Kṛṣṇa came he came as Bhīma. When Rāmacandra came he came as Hanumān. And Madhva is also called the Avatāra of Vāyu, but connected with Vedavyāsa. He's considered Nārāyaṇa Himself, vyāso nārāyaṇa svayaṁ, but He has been taken as śaktyāveśa generally, nārāyaṇa-śaktyāveśa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What is the relationship of Vāyu and Vyāsa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mukhyapra [?] Vyāsa, Vyāsa is the abode of Nārāyaṇa. Mukhya Vāyu's position is that of Guru. Madhva philosophy is like this, that Kṛṣṇa, then another half of Kṛṣṇa to render service of Kṛṣṇa Balarāma. Cid līlāmṛthuna [?] Five stages, a figure, and within Him the devata, or the sūkṣma [?] -tattva, that is mano-mayacor [?], person. And within His heart there is mukhya Vāyu, prana pradhana Guru. And then superior to that, Baladeva, and within the heart of Baladeva, cid līlāmṛthuna Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. In this way he has explained. A material figure of a jīva, within that, that the person. In their words, devata, devata means the real person, and within the heart of the person there is mukhya Vāyu, or Guru, that is Madhva, or Bhīma, or Hanumān, something of such conception, Guru in general. And in the heart of that Gurudeva there is Baladeva, Nityanānada, some similar. And there in that heart of Baladeva cid līlāmṛthuna, Kṛṣṇa with His śakti.

In Gauḍīya also it was written. And one gentleman, one professor, by birth he was a Vaiṣṇava, Professor of English in Barampur College, good scholar, he put a question to the Editor of Gauḍīya.

"Please try to explain this thing more elaborately. Here we may find, sarva-dharma-sāmānya [?], the harmony of all the religious conceptions. Try to elaborate."

But that was, elaborated means repeated. I did not find that anything more was given there. This was only couched in new words and expressions. But I did not find that here is the harmony of all the religions in the field.

Līlāmaya Bhagavān. As Sanātana Goswāmī has mentioned in Bhāgavatam in rasa-līlā. Baladeva also showing His rasa with the gopīs. There, the Sanātana Goswāmī has given his note. Externally Baladeva is seen to perform rasa-līlā, but internally in His heart He's showing the rasa-līlā of, He's connecting with Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is in His heart, in His heart He's connecting Kṛṣṇa in the rasa-līlā, and externally He's found to participate in rasa-līlā, in Bhāgavatam. But Baladeva's nature is such, intrinsic nature, that He's not the ultimate enjoyer. He's composed of such materials which is all service, all service. It's said every atom of His body only meant to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. So His own enjoyment is not possible. That is, the note is given by Sanātana Goswāmī. Lilaya krsna kedar lila koram [?] So Baladeva is such, the highest platform on which the Kṛṣṇa has His līlā, and lower to Baladeva there is Guru-tattva, in general, the fifth stage. And then that Guru-tattva again within the person, and person has got his body. So five stages. This way divided.

And the Upaniṣad also: annamaya kosh, prāṇamaya kosh, manomaya kosh, vijñānamaya kosh, ānandamaya kosh. Division is this way.

Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa says that in vijñānamaya kosh there is jīva, annamaya this physical body, manomaya the mental, the subtle body. Then prāṇamaya the life, and after that vijñānamaya above prakṛti, the jīva, taṭasthā-śakti. And then ānandamaya kosh, whole Vaikuṇṭha and Goloka covered. Svarūpa-śakti, the domain Yoga-Māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Following Madhvācārya, there was one Jayatīrtha, whose Suddhar [?] mādhava haite, akṣobhya paramahaṁse, akṣobhyera śiṣya jaya-tīrtha nāme paricaya.

[nṛhari mādhava-baṁśe, akṣobhya paramahaṁse, śiṣya boli' aṅgīkāra kore akṣobhyera śiṣya jaya-tīrtha nāme paricaya, taṅra dāsye jñānasindhu tare]

[The two other principle disciples of Madhvācārya are Nṛhari Tīrtha and Mādhava Tīrtha. Mādhava's disciple was the great paramahaṁsa Akṣobhya Tīrtha. The principle disciple of Akṣobhya Tīrtha was Jayatīrtha, whose foremost disciple was Jñānasindhu.]

[The Brahma-Mādhva-Gauḍīya Sampradāya, verse 2, compiled by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura]

He was a very good scholar and in his Suddhar he refuted this māyāvādā śāstrictly, wonderfully, so that the Śaṅkara School was bewildered. From Nimbarka section also, that Parapakya Girivajara [?] and other books refuting Śaṅkara School. Many big scholars came. But the Suddhar, Daya Suddhar [?], that very successfully refuted, has smashed the argument of the Śaṅkara School. Then after that, the Śaṅkara School, came another Paṇḍit, a Bengali gentleman from Paripur [?] District, Madhusudhan Saraswatī. He again, many of them tried to refute him but this gentleman, he, Advaita-siddhi, he wrote one book Advaita-siddhi, and he, we are told was successful to re-establish the clamour of māyāvādā.

End 82.10.25.B_82.10.27.A

Start of 82.10.27.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to certain extent, Advaita Siddhi, he has embraced devotional school, and almost accepting both as parallel. Nirvikalpa-samādhi and Viṣṇu bhakta, one and same, in his introduction in Bhagavad-gītā he says:

nirodita tasi punar, sarvikalpa samadhi na [?]
nirvikalpa samadhi stu, bhavi ratra tri bhumika [?]

The samādhi of the yogīs of three classes. In the beginning, sometimes in samādhi and sometimes he awakes not so much. In the second stage when he's in samādhi, if any interruption, disturbance comes from outside, then he comes out, awake to this world, otherwise not. And in the third stage, he never rises from his samādhi, always continuing. No external pressure can bring him back to the world consciousness, that's all. And he comes here to say that, visnu bhaktas ca katyate [?] At that time we can say also that Viṣṇu bhakta. Puzzling all. Ha, ha. So Viṣṇu bhakta is not conscious of any, he's conscious of the līlā, person, all these, but he anyhow draws this to Viṣṇu bhakti in Vaikuṇṭha. This nirvikalpa-samādhi, the highest stage of samādhi and it becomes Viṣṇu bhakti, it's similar, that is his argument.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has warned against him. And many things, he has also compiled a commentary of the first three ślokas of Bhāgavatam, accepted Bhāgavatam, but in his own way he has taken it, he has taken bhakti. Tadīya, in the first ray of devotion, 'we belong to Him,' that is the conception. In the second stage 'He belongs to me.' A puzzle here.

In the case of Candravāli she thinks that, 'I belong to Kṛṣṇa.'

And in the stage of Rādhārāṇī She thinks, 'Hari belongs to Me. Kṛṣṇa belongs to Me.' Tadīya-madiya.

And this gentleman comes and says: "Then, after that, tad-aham, I am He."

And they have created a śloka from the mouth of Hanumānji, in the name of Hanumānji he has created one śloka: deha buddha ... daso ham [?] The śloka does not come to me.

Deha buddha ham daso smi. "When I come to the plane of this body then I am His servant."

Mano buddha tadam sakha. "When I identify with my mind then I feel that I am His part and parcel."

Atma buddha tadeva ham. "And when I go to look to my soul, then I see that I am, He and me, one and the same."

Iti menisti tavati. "This is my desiring of union."

I composed a śloka just in the opposite way, I forgot that. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has warned that there are many expressions in his writings. Apparently ordinary man will think that he's a great propounder of bhakti school. But at the end he has given about pure māyāvādā, so one must be warned against him, tactics.

Some physical strength he had, inconceivable. It is written in some place, "One stone by a single hand he removed from one place to another, which about thirty people could not do." Such physical strength he possessed. And he was very fond of eating plantain, about one hundred plantain he could eat and digest. Something like that, one big cluster of plantains. Hanumān is also fond of plantains. About Bhīma we do not find so much. But Madhvācārya's very favourite food was plantain.

[Madhvācārya is said to be the incarnation of Hanumān and Bhīma]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So what was the origin of this Tattva-vādī philosophy then?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tattva-vādī sampradāya from the Madhva sampradāya, originates from Brahmā. Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Brahmā, Deva, Devarṣi Nārada, then Vyāsa, then from Vyāsa, Madhva, in this way.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But the present Tattva-vādī is the same thing, or distortion?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, more or less the same thing. Their seat is UP, Mayisore, Kanatak, Tattva-vādī, eight Maṭhs are there.

Acyutānanda told he visited them. And one of the Tattva-vādī was a little liberal, he came to visit Gauḍīya Maṭh, a little liberal. And when Acyutānanda visited them they were so orthodox that they did not even talk with Acyutānanda. "A beef eater so we should not talk with him."

Then, that gentleman who came to visit Gauḍīya Maṭh, he was a little liberal, through him, Acyutānanda told me. "I asked that gentleman who did not want to speak to me direct, ask him whether beef has got more capacity to make one sinful, or Kṛṣṇa Nāma has got more strength to remove that sin? Which is the stronger? The beef is stronger or the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa is stronger? One gives us sin and another purifies us. Who is the stronger?"

Then of course he was compelled to say, "The Kṛṣṇa Nāma is infinitely more stronger than beef can pollute."

"Then if we take the Name, we have faith in the Name of the Lord then that sin may not be removed?"

In this way he put the argument, Acyutānanda told. At that time he was a little bewildered and did not say much. Whatever he said he did not mention but he was weakened in his argument. Some question of aparādha etc., might have been taken into that position. Aparādha sunya he raya kṛṣṇa nāma. Then the Name can purify, comes to purify us. When we commit offence it is not possible to be purified in this. The principle he had to accept that Name can purify from any sort of sin committed. Tattva-vādī, very strict.

Mahāprabhu also visited them and He discarded them, as mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta [Madhya-līlā, 1.114 & Madhya-līlā, 4.197 purport.] we find that "You give more importance to mukti, emancipation and to varṇāśrama, karma. But Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has discarded both of them. Neither mukti is our end nor this karma, varṇāśrama, karma, that is our desirable thing, can give us the desired end. Both karma and mukti has been discarded in Bhāgavatam. And you try to establish those two."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Those present Tattva-vādīs they say there's three types of jīva, sattvic, rajasic and tamasic jīvas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be. That does not matter. It is accepted by all. Sattvic, rajasic, tamasic everywhere, not only in human species, but in animals, in trees, amongst the devatas, everywhere this sattvic, rajasic, tamasic classification, sub-classification.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But they say it is a quality of the jīva directly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But the soul is nirguṇa, above sattya-guṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And they all accept, nichotya bhavam gatha [?] Even amongst the liberated souls there is also gradation, accepted by nichotya bhavam gatha. Nicaivam gutya, gradation amongst, they all do not merge in the same position, but there is hierarchy, gradation, nichotya.

Sarotam manca te tam taro tama - bhāgavat tat pujya [?] Written by Madhvācārya perhaps.

Gītā tat pujya, bhāgavat tat pujya [?] From quotation of Madhva in his tikā of Bhāgavatam it was found that tri-śakti, antaraṅga, bahiraṅga and taṭasthā, tri-śakti. He quoted somewhere from some Purāṇa.

Phalam gitam sri tri varnena [?] In this way, in Ekadas-kanda perhaps, to explain some śloka it was found. Alangitam tri ragena [?] That means three potencies, taṭasthā. Bahiraṅga, antaraṅga and taṭasthā.

In Viṣṇu-Purāṇa also. Diti asakti visyate _____ [?] In Viṣṇu-Purāṇa.

And Madhvācārya's quoting from somewhere.

He went to see Vyāsadeva and it is told that he met Vyāsadeva and got some direct instruction. Then he came home and he converted his sannyāsa Guru first, his first conversion was his sannyāsa Guru, Acyutāpreksa, a māyāvādī. And he was given the name [Pūrṇaprajña Tīrtha] Padmanābha. Śrī Madhva, Śrī Padmanābha, Śrī Nṛhari. Mādhava, Akṣobhya, four direct disciples, Śrī Madhva, Śrī Padmanābha, Śrī Nṛhari, Mādhava and Akṣobhya. Four direct disciples are successively Ācārya. Then gradually their eight Maṭhs grow, eight Deities, Temples with Deities, and eight Ācāryas. And in each Maṭh there was one preacher. The Ācārya was there who was busy with the pañca-yajña of the Deity, and another representative of him used to preach, to collect disciples for the Ācārya. But gradually it came that the preachers began to collect disciples of their own. And at first the eight and then became many. Yutavadhi [?] Maṭh, or something like that, they could collect more men in their favour for their Maṭh, we are told.

And I met the Ācārya of that Maṭh, Ācārya or preacher, the Guru, and had a stop-fight [?] Myself, Bon Mahārāja, Hayagrīva Prabhu, that is Mādhava Mahārāja, etc., we were there. Vigraha of Kṛṣṇa.

Deha dehira vibhargo yan yasyari vidyati kachit [?] Our point.

And he told that, "Within the Arcā-Mūrti there is God, and the body is not God, in Arcā."

We told, "No, a wholesale. Wholesale is transcendental. We cannot find it or feel it. But according to śāstra it is so."

He put objection. Then ultimately he had to submit in the case of Kṛṣṇa līlā. I told: "When Kṛṣṇa showed that He's being killed by Jarāvyad, do you admit that there was blood oozing?"

"Yes, it is mentioned, the blood oozing from the body."

"Then what is that blood? Is it really blood or a show?"

"No, it is a show."

"And then? The Kṛṣṇa showed that He's dying, blood oozing, and the blood is not material blood, but to our senses it is material blood."

He told that: "The Śālagrāma if it is crushed by a hammer then it is reduced to pieces."

I told that: "It is our offensive conception, offensive conception, we find is like that. But we must not believe it, it is not the truth. Our offensive experience of our senses, but it is not the truth, it's not the fact. It is a show."

But He did not admit. But as when I gave the example of Kṛṣṇa līlā then he had to admit that. What we experience with our eyes, that blood oozing, that is not real blood, that is deceiving our senses. So a similar case here in the case of Śālagrāma as reduced to dust by the hammer. This is like that. And I gave quotation from Bhāgavatam. That was of course very finer one there. Sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, I heard from Prabhupāda to explain in that way as much I could remember. Līlā-kaivalyam. Sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, in the end of Bhāgavatam.

sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam
vastu advitīyaṁ tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prayojanam

["This Bhāgavatam is the essence of all Vedānta philosophy because its subject matter is the Absolute Truth, which, while non-different from the spirit soul, is the ultimate reality, one without a second. The goal of this literature is exclusive devotional service unto that Supreme Truth."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.12]

What is the highest necessity in us? To try to remain always in the faith of the Revealed Truth and not to allow ourselves to come down from that level and to think that what we experience through our senses that is true. We won't allow ourselves. We must try to keep our faith always.

That what I see it is false, it is māyā, illusion. My mind, my senses, they cannot find truth. An ordinary magician can deceive them, my mind and my senses may be deceived by a skilful magician, so we must not rely on them. We must rely on the cent-per-cent on the Revealed Truth. They're deceiving my mind, my eyes, my ears, deceiving me. And kaivalyam, cent-per-cent we must take our position on the level of that Revealed Truth and never allow ourselves to come down to the world of experience.

Sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, this is the very gist of all the old Vedānta, they say this is all māyā. Brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam, Brahma, Paramātmā and Bhagavān, these three of same level, similar, not same but similar level, advaya-jñāna, vastu advitīyaṁ, advaya-jñāna. Somewhere it comes as Paramātmā to some sections, to some sections it comes as Brahma, to another section it is Bhagavān, bhajanīya, to be worshippable. The highest section, She's the ultimate cause, the object of their service for dedication, and not all comprehensive consciousness, neither all permeating and regulating principal of the Ultimate Reality. But He's for Himself. We are for Him, we are to serve Him, we are to satisfy Him. For His enjoyment our existence is possible, in this way, this is the highest.

Brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam, vastu advitīyaṁ tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prayojanam: and continued consciousness on this plane, tan-niṣṭhaṁ, tan-niṣṭhaṁ, that vastu advitīyaṁ, advaya-jñāna niṣṭhaṁ, advaya- jñāna Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. Tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prayojanam: to maintain uninterrupted continuity our existence in the plane of service, that we are to worship Him, we are to serve Him, we are to love Him. He's so beautiful, He's so loving. Our end of life is in His satisfaction, kaivalyaika-prayojanam. With this kaivalyaika-prayojanam we must not allow ourselves to deviate from the faith which is revealed to us by the scripture, and must not allow ourselves to be drawn down by the charm of the world of this mundane sense experience.

He was a big paṇḍit, big scholar. We have not scholarship, not so much well-read. That gentleman when he used to come to Benares, he, by beat of drum, he announced to the māyāvādīs: "Come and discuss with me if you have any right, you want to prove that devotion, jīva and Bhagavān is both real and both different. Not one and the same as you say, you fools."

In this way that man, but he was silenced by the grace of Gurudeva. I heard it once when our Guru Mahārāja explained this śloka. Kaivalyaika-prayojanam, in this word kaivalya, this misguides everyone, mostly that kaivalya, Śaṅkara, kaivalya-advaita, kaivalyaika-prayojanam.

One gentleman came and began his argument with the help of this śloka of Bhāgavatam to Prabhupāda.

I saw Prabhupāda went up to his own room and came back with the edition where Jīva Goswāmī's comment on this śloka in Bhāgavatam and began to read. And Jīva Goswāmī says that: "Brahmātmaikatva- lakṣaṇam, brahma ātmā, ātmā means jīvātmā, eka lakṣaṇam, brahmātmā."

That man wanted to prove "Brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam, that is jīvātmā and Brahma are one and the same. It is mentioned in Bhāgavatam in the conclusion śloka."

But Prabhupāda refuted and with the argument of Jīva Goswāmī. In the beginning, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān iti śabdyate.

vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam
brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān iti śabdyate

["Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this non-dual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11]

Here in the conclusion that the beginning that real vision is being satisfied. Sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, brahmātmaikatva, ātmā means Paramātmā. _____ [?] The meaning of ātmā is Paramātmā also. So here Paramātmā, in the sense of Paramātmā it is used, because there also the advaya-jñāna, vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam, brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān. Here that very beginning has been drawn here in conclusion. Brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam vastu advitīyaṁ, Brahmā, Paramātmā, lakṣaṇam advitī astu, tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyam. That advaya jñāna niṣṭha, tat sam vandiya, not tat ekata kaivalyam, tat sam vandiya kaivalyam tasmin nistha yukta, kaivalyaika- prayojanam. _____ [?] Continuous, no interruption, no falling down from that plane. Continued presence there, that is līlā yam pravesha, tato līlāyam pravesha. In that plane the līlā is going on, to have entrance, admission in that plane and not to come up vastu-siddhi, vastu-siddhi, not to come back from there. For eternity to have entrance there.

What's the time?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ten to ten Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāmacandra Vijayotsav is also today, Rāmacandra. Rāvaṇa was killed when Rāmacandra came back. Hare Kṛṣṇa. In U.P [Uttar Pradesh] amongst the kṣatriyas, this Rāmacandra Vijayotsav is celebrated with much grandeur.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Rāma. Hare Rāma. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīrodātta, the hero, of different types, dhīra-santa, dhīrodātta, dhīro-udātta, dhīra-lalita. Kṛṣṇa is reckoned among the class of dhīra-lalita, continuous pleasure pastimes. Rāmacandra dhīrodātta. Līlā means playful, lalita, playful. And dhīrodātta is a firm generosity is found in Rāmacandra _____ [?] more liberal, generosity is made in Rāmacandra _____ [?] dhīrodātta, udātta, udātta means liberal, dedicated form, life dedicated for others, dhīrodātta.

A small person in His kingdom amongst His subjects made some remark about Sītā: "She lived a full year in the, under the control of Rāvaṇa and Rāma has taken Her, accepted. But I'm not going to do so." One washer-man told to his wife. "Rāma may do but I won't do. 'You lived in another's house, I won't accept.'"

Through the spy this news reached Rāmacandra and Rāmacandra asked: "Lakṣmaṇa, take Sītā to the forest, the āśrama of Vālmīki, put Her there. I can't accept Her. The subjects, the people, they've got audacity to remark on My character in such a way. And if I am to sit on the throne then I can't accept this sort of bad name. I shall have to cope successfully in their opinion."

So Sītā was banished, odātta, odātta.

His father had promised to His stepmother that, "I shall give you three boons." But the father he could not utter it, could not command to Rāmacandra that: "She wants to banish You and make her son enthroned here." Father could not.

But Rāmacandra when He heard He took it. "It is My duty to carry out the commitment of My father. He may say or may not say, he may order or may not order. But I am his successor, not only of the throne but his commitment, debt. I must accept not just the hard cash, this property, but also debt, My father's commitment to My stepmother. I must, it is My duty to do that so My father may not pronounce such harsh words on Me." So He went to banishment, self-banishment, odātta, dhīrodātta.

And dhīro-udātta, Bhīmasena, a little cruel and rough, and that is his continued characteristic with Bhīma. Dhīra-lalita is Kṛṣṇa, dhīrodātta Rāmacandra, dhīro-udātta, Bhīmasena, and dhīra-santa is Yudhiṣṭhira, his character is always submissive, not excited, always cool-brained whatever the circumstances unfavourable comes on him he's not excited, very patiently and that patience not for the time being but continuous. Yudhi, Yudhiṣṭhira, 'who is firm in internal feud.' Yudhi means in fight, ṣṭhira means firm, undisturbed, he's undisturbed in any sort of, to meet any circumstances, never excited. That was his nature, dhīra-santa. And dhīro-udātta, Bhīmasena, dhīrodātta Rāmacandra, and dhīra-lalita Kṛṣṇa, always a playing mood.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...impression, that connection with the Absolute. So, "For Itself, By Itself," "For Itself." "Die to Live." Application is not hyperbole, it's not exaggeration. For Himself. We're For Himself, for Him, and not for any partial representation of Him. All the forms must have connection with the main spirit, otherwise they're valueless. Anything may be adored if it is in His connection and conducting us towards Him.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

The justification of that grand advice, that should be the criterion of everything. All phases of duties you can leave it up, you reject it summarily, and only thing necessary, go towards centre. The search after Kṛṣṇa, reality the beautiful, it is put in that San Jose book. What is that? Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja's publication, The Search For Krsna. Who is Kṛṣṇa? Reality the beautiful. And what is necessary? Dedication, means die to live. Love, divine love. What is the nature of divine love? Die to live. What you are at present, you will have to die wholesale. And you will find that from within your real self come out with pristine glory. Die to live means such. Die to live, not only death, death is the external aspect; but to live a proper life, to have a proper life, real life, a golden life.

In this principle we are in one place, in one company, in one association. Wherever we may be in the location of the outer cases, but our object, aims and object is common, and that has drawn together from different parts of this existence, non existence. The common cause has drawn together Kṛṣṇa conscious, search for Kṛṣṇa. By mutual help we are to go on to search for Kṛṣṇa. Unending attempt, search for Kṛṣṇa. The search is its own reward. We are to think like that. Our reward, the virtue is its own reward; there is a saying, virtue is its own reward. What more reward you doing a virtuous work? It is being purified attempt. So the search is its own reward that you are not in any mal, false, you are not wasting your energy to work in a false way, wild-goose-chasing. You are in the path, you are progressing. Whatever little you make progress, that is in the real path of your journey, your goal. So as much as you will advance so much you will feel the peaceful atmosphere around you. Be pure, you will imbibe the pure air. You will feel that I am breathing in a purer air, purer atmosphere. Search, progress, progress means that.

[prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam]

["As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

These three things simultaneously will come to help your experience of progress, bhaktiḥ, pareśānubhavo, anyatra, viraktir. By these three criterion you can measure your progress. The search, the advance in the way of search, that is your own reward. Purer, purer, purer, that will be guarantee for your future object of attention. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. And there will be so many encouraging pillars on our way. As we go so many sādhus, we will meet so many saints, so many devotees of different types on the way.

Sanātana Goswāmī in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta has given a picture how one gradually goes to the goal. Meets different planes, crosses different planes and different company, and goes on until comes to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa's service, engagement in Kṛṣṇa's service of any type. What is day to us, that will be night. And what is night to us at present, that will become day.

The guiding book and that scripture, the Nāma, the Name Divine all through that will accompany and encourage us, help, make progress in the world proper. Where is the source of the sound I am chanting, so far away from? The source, nearer the source, nearer the source of the sound, Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, etc, nearer and nearer, more and more intense, we shall feel all these things. Sweetness in the ear, then gradually that sweet sight in the eye, of the new opened soul's eye. Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, so many qualities divine, līlā and the pastimes that will call forth, "Come, come to us. We are here."

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. We will stop here today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Aghāsura, Bakāsura, so many different types of opposition came to Bala Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa going and different types of opposition, dangers coming to Him, it is natural. Anything in its younger age, it is easy to check it. So generally the opposition comes in that way, when young, too much opposition. The trees also, and only crops, so many the possibility of dangers _____ [?] But when grown up, less possibility of being attacked. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, he was the son of Tapana Miśra.

Mahāprabhu, before His sannyāsa, He was a renowned professor, keeping His own school, and He became very famous as a teacher. And He was invited by the energetic eastern section of the paṇḍitas from _____ [?] and visited that place.

There one brāhmaṇa named Tapana Miśra came with a surprise visit to Him.

"What do you want from Me?"

He was a boy and he is aged brāhmaṇa, paṇḍita.

"I got a dream last night that You are not human being but You are God Himself, Kṛṣṇa Yourself. And I have come to You for some solution. From long time I'm going through the scriptures, but I can't settle what would be the best duty of the brāhmaṇas of Kali. I could not find it from the different advices of the śāstras. I'm rather bewildered. So I meditated and after, in the sleep, I found "Oh paṇḍita, go to Nimāi Paṇḍita. He will solve your problem. And don't take Him an ordinary person. He has come here to establish yuga dharma nāma saṅkīrtana. Go to Him. And I have come to You."

Mahāprabhu told, "The real purpose, there are so many antagonistic advices but deduce them together you will find that in Kali, Nāma-saṅkīrtana is yuga-dharma. So go on Nāma-saṅkīrtana. Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, all this. _____ [?] Nāma of Kali-yuga. That is the special duty of a religious person to perform. And the second part, don't divulge it to anyone. It is said in the śāstra that naturally He may come out, but if anyone tries to make it, to give publicity before the proper time then he will be damaged. So don't disclose this thing."

"You please order me. I shall remain along with You."

"No! You go to Benares, there you live, and in proper time I shall meet you."

With this advice to Tapana Miśra He came away.

And Tapana Miśra went and settled up in Benares from Bengal.

Then when Mahāprabhu, after sannyāsa, He was going to Vṛndāvana, first in this way to Rūpa, Sanātana, taking them back, going to Purī, then again by the way of Jhārikhaṇḍa, the jungle forest path through Benares He's going to Vṛndāvana, Mahāprabhu was...

Tapana Miśra came to take bath in the Ganges and there found that Mahāprabhu crossed the Ganges there in that _____ [?] ghāṭa, bathing place. And Tapana Miśra was very much surprised and came and took him, adoring Him, that sannyāsī, in his house. At that time, not for long time, for few days Mahāprabhu stayed with him and then went to Vṛndāvana.

Then when coming back from Vṛndāvana He met Rūpa Goswāmī in Alahabad, Prayāga, and some fifteen days or so remained there and taught Rūpa Goswāmī about the rāga-bhakti-mārga and inspired him.

And then He came to Benares and put up with Tapana Miśra. He was living in Tapana Miśra's house. No. There was another, Candraśekhara. He was by caste vaidya. Perhaps there was good, comfortable accommodation in his house. Mahāprabhu used to stay there and He used to take prasādam; a brāhmaṇa Candraśekhara, Tapana Miśra's house.

And Sanātana Goswāmī met Him there. After leaving this capital, the late Prime Minister, retired Prime Minister, fled away and met Caitanyadeva in Benares. Nice meeting. Sanātana Goswāmī, a bearded, long-haired gentleman, there, comes from this Maharastra stock the previous house of their forefathers was Karnatak, some such place. And they came for their differences amongst the relatives, brāhmaṇa king, they were small king, came to Purī leaving the disturbed area of the relatives. Then from Purī to nearby Ganges side here Naiapi [?], and from there to Jessore [?] and from there they moved to Gaura Malda [?], Sasinsa [?]
_____ [?] They brought them, the family, finding that very, very intelligent and efficient for this political transaction. So Sanātana was appointed Prime Minister and Rūpa Goswāmī he was his personal assistant. And the family also lived there.

Rūpa Goswāmī, after meeting Mahāprabhu he left his service and gone home. Sanātana Prime Minister was there. Nawab did not care. Sanātana wanted to resign but he did not accept.

"That I do not know anything. The whole kingdom is under your administration. If you go, then the whole thing, the whole structure will fall. I can't take the responsibility."

But some emergent situation came when perhaps _____ [?] attack from this southern side.

Nawab asked him to go. "You know I'm not in a mood to do any material work, political work. Please forgive me."

What to do? Urgent work the Nawab, the King had to go to the battlefield and ordered, "Put Sanātana Goswāmī," that Sākara Mallika at that time, "in a concentration camp. I shall come back, and then I shall have a final understanding with him. For the time being keep him in concentration camp."

Rūpa Goswāmī sent some money and Sanātana Goswāmī managed anyhow, giving some bribe to the jailer to fly away from the concentration camp.

And anyhow he reached Benares and met Śrī Caitanyadeva there. Caitanyadeva at that time in the house, on the varanda of Tapana Miśra. Sanātana Goswāmī he found out that Caitanyadeva is here and He's in the house of Tapana Miśra, his guest. He passed by the front of the house.

Mahāprabhu had a peep and He could recognise, "This Sanātana in a poor dress."

Sanātana Goswāmī could not venture to enter into the house. He came to see Him but he was so humble that can't enter the room direct on the face of Mahāprabhu. He passing the gate on the other side, sitting.

But Mahāprabhu had a lightening inspection, He sent, "You see some daraveśa, bearded, so some Mohammedan fakir is perhaps," Mahāprabhu told, "Some sādhu, some saint is on the side of the door. Please call him."

The man went and looked out, here, there, came back. "No sādhu I find there, no saint."

"Do you find anyone?"

"Yes one fakir is there."

"Call him here."

Then he went.

'prabhu tomāya bolāya, āisa, daraveśa!' / śuni' ānande sanātana karilā praveśa

["O Muslim mendicant, please come in. The Lord is calling you." Sanātana Goswāmī was very pleased to hear this order, and he entered Candraśekhara's house."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.50]

"Oh, you fakir, our Prabhu, He wants you, come in."

Sanātana came. Then Sanātana fell flat on the compound. Mahāprabhu came down and went to embrace him and he's flying away.

"No, no. I am untouchable. I am very low, mean people, I'm untouchable. Don't touch me, my Lord."

prabhu kahe, — "tomā sparśi ātma pavitrite / bhakti-bale pāra tumi brahmāṇḍa śodhite

[The Lord replied, "I am touching you just to purify Myself, because by the force of your devotional service you can purify the whole universe."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.56]

This answer came from the lips of Mahāprabhu. "Sanatana, you want to hide yourself from Me. You can purify the whole solar system, the whole brahmāṇḍa. I'm going to touch you to purify Me. What do you say? You have got such devotion within you. The purifying generator you have got in your heart. I want to purify Me by your touch."

In this way Mahaprabhu forcibly embraced him, at the first meeting they had. And for that to teach Sanātana, Mahāprabhu had to stay there in Benares two months clear time.

At that time the son of Tapana Miśra, Raghunātha, he used to do some private service, this massage, and other cloth arrangement, all these things, purification of the place, in this way rendered much service, the boy Raghunātha.

And Mahāprabhu told him that, "Serve your parents, they are Vaiṣṇava. And don't enter into matrimonial relation when your parents will disappear, you should go to Vṛndāvana."

This sort of advice He gave to that Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa. Tapana Miśra Bhaṭṭa, Bhaṭṭācārya. Bhaṭṭa means who, generally as was the fashion previously, they kept some students and fed them from their family and educated them, they are told Bhaṭṭa. Bhaṭṭa means varan katta [?]

who feeds others, but generally students. And Ācārya means who is a tutor, both feeder and tutor, he's Bhaṭṭācārya. And Tapana Miśra came from such a family, Raghunātha also that. So that was the first meeting of Raghunātha with Mahāprabhu there in Benares. And he was allowed some private service, personal service of Mahāprabhu.

Then Mahāprabhu came to Purī. Tapana, his parents left the world. Raghunātha is mature and he came to see once more Purī, to see Mahāprabhu at Purī, and lived for some time there.

And when he's passing away, going away to Benares, Mahāprabhu told, "Don't marry. You may go to Vṛndāvana. There remain with Rūpa, Sanātana and go on with your bhajana." And Mahāprabhu gave a big tulasī-mālā to him. "Take the Name and go and stay with... And read also Bhāgavatam from a genuine Vaiṣṇava, not from ordinary teacher."

He did so and went to Vṛndāvana and lived with Rūpa Goswāmī in his old temple at that time. There his duty was to explain Bhāgavatam in a regular class which took place in that temple, nat mandir. Regularly he took the class of Bhāgavata, and he had some proficiency in the art of singing. He could read the śloka in different, _____ [?] three, four ways of sweet pronunciation he showed when reading the Bhāgavatam, the śloka. And _____ [?] his voice was very sweet, very sweet tone. And in that way he sing the śloka of Bhāgavatam and he used to give explanation.

Naturally he created a good position there, so much, as we are told, that Mansing, the King of Jaipur, the main General of Agbar, he took initiation from Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha, the hint is given in Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

nija śiṣye kahi' govindera mandira karāilā [vaṁśī, makara kuṇḍalādi 'bhūṣaṇa' kari' dilā]

["Subsequently Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa ordered his disciples to construct a temple for Govinda. He prepared various ornaments for Govinda, including a flute and shark-shaped earrings."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 13.131]

That big broken temple, on the top, have you seen, the old temple of Govindaji?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, we've seen.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That nija śiṣye kahi' govindera mandira karāilā, that was built by Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa by his own disciple. And it is written there that Mansing constructed this temple. So we can understand that Mansing took initiation from this Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha, good influence.

Another thing we see, that some suggestion came to Dāsa Raghunātha to have his name at Rasa Mañjarī.

"No, no, namo 'stu namo 'stu [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16] I am not reached so high as to take the name of Rasa Mañjarī."

Rasa Mañjarī was the name of that Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha. And Dāsa Raghunātha, he took the name of Rati Mañjarī, Rati the unit, Rasa the combination of many particles of rati. Rasa is more extensive, and rati is _____ [?] Rati Mañjarī. And Rasa Mañjarī was his name, Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha. In this way he passed his time in the assembly of Rūpa Goswami. That much we can know about Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha.

Then Dāsa Raghunātha. Dāsa Raghunātha was the only son in a very rich family of Bengal near Saptagram in the district of Hougli. Hiranya and Govardhana, two brothers, his father and elder brother of his father, and at that time they had income of twenty lākhs of rupees. In that age twenty lākhs; twelve lākhs they are to pay to the Nawab, and eight lākhs; gross income and net income, eight lākhs. And they used to help many paṇḍitas and many poor men, at that time. And the only son in the family, the two brothers had Raghunātha. He was married but he did not find any pleasure there, not happy.

When Mahāprabhu, after sannyāsa, went to Vṛndāvana and came back after five years, then again went to Purī, and after a tour in South India, he came back for two, three years was in Purī. And then came here after five years and went to Vṛndāvana by the side of the Ganges, met Rūpa, Sanātana, and by the remark of Sanātana came back, not going to Vṛndāvana. Then back to Śāntipura, and from there to Purī, and then from Purī straight to Vṛndāvana.

When that time He came to Śāntipura, in Advaita bhavan, Raghunātha came to see Him. He told his father, he heard about Mahāprabhu and His kīrtana. His heart was very much eager to meet Śrī Caitanyadeva. He appealed to his guardians, "Please allow me to have a darśana of Sri Caitanyadeva. He's now in Śāntipura in the house of Advaita Ācārya."

Advaita Ācārya was a senior Paṇḍita, toll-keeper, respectable man in the society, and this Hiranya Govardhana used to help him regular by money. And he was well connected with the family. So they gave a letter and sent some money, sent Raghunātha, "Go and see Caitanyadeva there."

Raghunātha came and paid the money to the Ācārya. Because Caitanyadeva there are many people coming, going, so arrangement for their food, lodging, much expense. So some money and letter he came. And Advaita Ācārya adored him and made arrangement for his stay there. But Raghunātha was not happy from within, always morose, serious, the young boy about twenty or so. Not cheerful but always serious mood and mourning attitude. And anyhow he was introduced to Mahāprabhu.

And Mahāprabhu understood his spirit and asked him, "Go home. Don't worry, when time will come, Kṛṣṇa will give you the chance of going out of the entanglement. Don't give attention much for the external abnegation. But rather accept the advice of Gītā, yukta vairāgya. Markaṭa vairāgya _____ [?] Don't take to this monkey indifference. Externally they have got nothing, no property, no dress, but their heart is full of enjoying tendency. Don't imitate the monkey, but accept the advice in Bhagavad-gītā, yukta-vairāgya. What is necessary at your position, accept that, and internally pray to the Lord to help you."

That advice was given in Śāntipura by Mahāprabhu to Raghunātha. And he went back home, and wanted to obey what Mahāprabhu asked him to do, ordered. The parents, the family was satisfied by his conduct at that time.

"That now my son is not very eager or very abnegating spirit. But like ordinary person moving and living and eating, sleeping, all these, in general way."

Then the guardians kept a very strong eye over him, vigilant eye, that he may fly away from the family, unknowingly. But when they found that he's little sober in his behaviour, they slackened their strict vigilance.

And Raghunātha internally always thinking how Śrī Caitanyadeva managed for me to get out of this prison house, married wife, and opulence, but he does not feel any, can't relish all these things, by nature.

Then one day, still ten percent engaged only to watch him day and night. But one day in the early morning the family Guru of them had come and asked Raghunātha that, "One brāhmaṇa who used to worship my Deities regularly, he's absent. And I have got some urgent business to go somewhere else. Please go and request him to come and worship my family Deities during my absence."

Then Raghunātha, "Yes, as you order."

He came out of the house, early morning, following the family Guru. And the watchmen they found that he's following the family Guru so they did not give any opposition to Raghunātha.

Then on the way he told the Guru, "You may go to your house, I shall go to the man, approach the man and request him, press him to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and he went and he requested the man, "You please go and do the service of the Deities there, he'll be absent for few days. Then he found that he's now unguarded. This is the proper time to leave the house. He took the chance and began, started towards Purī.

But he thought, 'If a little late I do not go back to the house, or go back home, then the watchman will follow me.'

So he began to go in the opposite direction. The whole day he went towards opposite direction.

Here when Raghunātha was not seen, some time late, then they, "Where is Raghunātha? Where is Raghunātha?" There was uproar.

Then the man who was in charge of watching him in the morning time he told that, "Yadunandana Ācārya, your Guru, he has taken him to his house. He came personally and asked him to go with him, and so we did not say anything."

Then they went to Yadunandana, he's not there. "Then, where is he, where is he?" There was uproar and men were sent. "He must have started for Purī so go." About ten persons went to follow him. But he's in the opposite direction, he's going. So they could not find. Went more and more, long distance and came back. "So far we went but we could not find. He cannot go more speedily than us. We have searched utmost but could not find him; came back."

Here Raghunātha in the evening he entered in a cow shed of a cow keeper, and fasting a whole day. The cow-keeper found that he's a son of a respectable man and he's fasting perhaps, and he gave some milk, and he took that.

Then he began his journey by the shore of the sea towards Purī. Three hundred miles perhaps, approximately. In twelve days he walked to Purī. And only three days on the way he took anya prasāda, begging somewhere, took some prasāda _____ [?]. Otherwise some fruit, or milk, or anything else, went to Purī.

And Mahāprabhu was in that Rādhā-Kanta mandira. Raghunātha fell flat on the compound just in front of Mahāprabhu.

Govinda said, the personal attendant, he said, "Raghunātha has come."

Mahāprabhu had a glance. "He has got very much trouble and pain on the way. Keep him with us and take care of him for a few days."

Govinda did so, much.

Then Raghunātha, after a few days, came and told to Mahāprabhu that, "It does not behove that I shall take prasādam here sitting idle. Please order me, I shall go out and beg and take my meal."

"Yes, you may go."

Then Raghunātha he sought his own place in some chatram, in dharmaśālā, somewhere he used to stay. And in the Jagannātha temple, here, there, begging some prasādam he used to take and live in that way for long time. Then, of course, a rich man's son, he had some education, and at that time some Sanskrit education in those respectable family.

Mahāprabhu one day handed over him to Svarūpa Dāmodara. "Svarūpa Dāmodara, this boy has come. I am giving him to your care. You please look after him, both physically and spiritually, under your care." And his hand put in Svarūpa Dāmodara's hand. "From today I give him to your care." And Svarūpa Dāmodara used to take care of him. And he was passing his days in such a way.

Then the parents could not bear his separation. They heard, they got the information that he's begging from door to door and living in that way. "We have got so much opulence. He's the only heir, and he has left us all and living on begging. It is intolerable." They sent, "He may not come here...

And that is another under the control of the Hindu empire, they're under Mohammedan empire, there is another kingdom. So much influence cannot be exercised in that place, though a big man here.

So they sent one brāhmaṇa and two servants with some money. "Hire a house, and cook as he says, and at least give him this cooked rice, prasādam, that my son may not have beg from door to door, it is intolerable. At least supply the food, where possible, food to him. And don't disturb him. Whatever he likes he may do."

Came, hired house, he reported, informed Mahāprabhu that, "I am sent by his parents, his guardians for this purpose."

Mahāprabhu requested, "To certain extent, try to oblige them."

But Raghunātha didn't do. Raghunātha asked them, "Why have you come to feed me? When you come with money, rather cook good dishes and invite Śrī Caitanyadeva." And they did at his request.

And then Raghunātha himself came and invited Śrī Caitanyadeva. "You are to take prasādam there."

For some time Mahāprabhu did this, then perhaps after a year or so Raghunātha stopped that.

Then Mahāprabhu asked Svarūpa Dāmodara, "Why Raghunātha has stopped My invitation?"

"All done through he has thought something in his mind."

"Yes, he has done right. Viṣayīra anna, they have sent, they are viṣayī, worldly men, and they have sent money. And to get that, take their money, accept their money, that is not an ideal life of a sannyāsī. So he has done right."

But Raghunātha he told that, "Mahāprabhu, to keep my request, He comes to, for my sake he comes, but He's not satisfied at heart." He could trace that so he stopped.

Then Mahāprabhu told,

"viṣayīra anna khāile malina haya mana, malina mana haile nahe kṛṣṇera smaraṇa

["When one eats food offered by a materialistic man, one's mind becomes contaminated, and when the mind is contaminated, one is unable to think of Kṛṣṇa properly."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.278]

"If we take, accept the energy of the worldly men, so then generally our minds should be polluted, impure. And if mind is impure, then the remembrance of Kṛṣṇa will not be very clear." That is the words of Mahāprabhu. Viṣayīra anna khāile malina haya mana.

When their ill-earned energy is used for me, I accept, then the poison of his mind comes with his energy, his money, or his things, and to accept that means to digest that. Only mādhukarī, when sthūla vikār [?], the collection, a big collection from a particular person, that will take his sin or virtue, anything that comes with his thing is transmitted. So we are feeding on him, that is, exploiting him, and that exploitation must have reaction.

So it is told that mādhukarī bhikṣā, mādhukar, just as a bee collects honey, very, a particle of honey from here and there. From there, they do not care so much, they do not look to get any return for that, a small particle, it does not matter. So particle from here, there, they're all neglected, in that way if we collect our food then no possibility of coming some reaction. So mādhukarī bhikṣā has been recommended for the tyāgīs.

But we, our Gauḍīya Maṭha people, we take as much as we can utilize, collect their energy to utilize. Our aim is little different. We want to help them, and we do not collect it for our personal purpose, for the general service of the Lord in company, in an organic way, to help them. They will use their energy from impure courses. Anyhow by hook or by crook they took, take, to snatch even their energy and to utilize in the fire sacrifice that is lit in a grand way for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa and His activity. What is activity? The chanting of His name in a big scale. Saṅkīrtana yajña, a great sacrificial organic attempt has been accepted and to collect things and for there. And because I am also rendering some service as remuneration I take something. For the purpose of service I am to keep my health and I shall take only that much. This is yukta-vairāgya. We are not taking anything for our personal utilization, so we do not feel any contamination...

...to suffer if he collects others energy for his own selfish purpose. But if he can utilize the energy of anyone for the service of Kṛṣṇa in the congregational chanting of His name to purify the whole world, then there is no apprehension being contaminated with that malina khāile, that viṣayīra anna khāile malina haya mana. We don't eat others food. What we get, we think we get from our Guru. I am eating, I am feeding myself from the remnants of my Gurudeva. I am doing some service, some offering, and as a servant I am entitled to take some remnants of them.

[īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat]
tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam

["Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong."] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 1]

We have no greed for others property, but they're all being utilized for their benefit in the saṅkīrtana yajña. And as a servant I have got some duty to discharge, and so I'm to keep up my body fit, and for that purpose the remains after offering them I am taking, avaśeṣa.

tvayopabhukta-srag-gandha-, vāso 'laṅkāra-carccitāḥ ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi

["Adorned with the articles that have been offered to You, such as garlands, fragrant clothing, and ornaments, we, Your personal servitors who partake of Your holy remnants alone, will certainly be able to conquer Your illusory energy (māyā)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.6.46]

Uddhava says, "There are ways of getting out of this māyāic entanglement. Only by serving, by honouring Your remains. Only by this process we can conquer the whole māyā. That I'm connected, I'm grateful to You and none else in this world. I'm Your servant. And I must live on the remains after You have taken, with that ucchiṣṭam. And thereby, by this single attempt we can conquer the whole world, no glamour for anything else in this world for us."

So that is the nature of the attempt, this organized party of preaching of the Gauḍīya Maṭha. There you can take even, accept a kingdom, but not for them, but for God. And thereby from whom they take he's benefited. With this sense, this is the angle of vision, and if we deviate from this angle of vision then we'll be responsible individually for our transaction with the parties, different outside.

So Mahāprabhu, only for the sake of Raghunātha used to accept the invitation for some time, but when Raghunātha could trace that he closed and Mahāprabhu was satisfied. And then he came out with this expression, "This is well and good." In this way Raghunātha stayed there.

Raghunātha was a Sanskrit scholar. He has written so many poems in praise of Mahāprabhu, and later on they are in Vṛndāvana for Rādhārāṇī etc., Girirāja.

Raghunātha lived sixteen years in Purī continuously with the paraphernalia, the servitors of Mahāprabhu there. And his self-abnegation was astoundingly very, very, very high and renouncing character, abnegation. In the beginning he took the Name the whole day. And only in the evening, in the first part of the night he stood on the side of Siṁha-dvāra Jagannātha.

There was a custom of the pāṇḍā when closing the temple of Jagannātha at night he passes by the gate. If he finds that vairāgī, any beggar is there, then it was the custom he took some prasādam from the nearest shop and give him. Then Raghunātha stood for some years there.

Then, many pāṇḍās are passing one by one, one by one, and he thought that, 'This man is coming, perhaps he will give some prasādam.' He went away. Another man coming, thought, 'Perhaps he may give something.' He went away. In this way many are passing by, but he was eager to find that this man.

Then he traced within his mind, "What is this? I am here only waiting for who will give this earnestness for my begging. This is very bad. Rather I shall go to some catram where generally in a particular time food is distributed to the sādhus or beggars. That is better. So from Jagannātha temple where direct prasāda comes, leaving that he went to the catram. And at particular time of day they used to distribute some prasādam and he took whatever was in his share he was satisfied with that and go on day and night with Nāma saṅkīrtana.

One day again he came to Mahāprabhu, standing. Mahāprabhu asked through Govinda, "Why he's standing, he has something to say to Me?"

He asked, "Yes."

"What is it?"

"Why You have managed to leave my home. Ki lāgi chāḍāilā ghara [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.229], and You have attracted me here. I do not know what for. Please clearly advise me what I'm to do particularly."

Mahāprabhu told, "Yes, I have handed over you to Svarūpa Dāmodara. You may ask him. He knows more than Myself. I have given to a proper place. Still if you have got greater ear for My words, I want to say to you, grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe bhāla nā khāibe āra bhāla nā paribe amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā la'be vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase karibe

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu told Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī: "Don't indulge in worldly talk, don't hear worldly talk. Try your best to avoid mundane matters. Don't eat delicious dishes, but take whatever ordinary food may come of its own accord; and don't dress luxuriously. Always try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa with the attitude of giving respect to others, without expecting respect from anyone. Be humble, but never aspire after respectful dealings from others. In this way, try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa constantly. And within, try to serve Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. Mentally, be in Vṛndāvana rendering Service to Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa līlā."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.236-7]

"The four lines, grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe. These village talks, ordinary, the talks of the human society of the exploiting section, don't enter into that, neither you will talk to them about their private life, life of enjoyment and exploitation. Don't bother to enter into that. Neither you say nor you hear, so never attend this popular topics. And bhāla nā khāibe, don't try to eat good things, tasteful things, and don't aspire after good dress. Whatever small is necessary to keep up this body, only the minimum you try to accept. And amānī mānada hañā kṛṣṇa-nāma sadā. Don't give any opposition to anyone. Don't try to disrespect anybody. But try to give respect to everyone more or less, and go on with your own duty. Take the Name of Kṛṣṇa day and night, nāma sadā la'be, either mentally or externally you can take that. But when you think, I ask you to think about the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, that is within, and not without. Not talk these things with others, but hear it from proper source and try to recapitulate them in your own mind, not externally. Vraje rādhā-kṛṣṇa-sevā mānase karibe. Try internally to be utilized in the service of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa within, and without your attempt will be to take the Name of the Lord, kīrtana. And don't mix with ordinary people of the society, general worldly people."

Saying this, again Mahāprabhu handed over to Svarūpa Dāmodara. He already put him to Svarūpa Dāmodara's charge, but he crossed that, came to Mahāprabhu direct again. Then to keep the formality, the honour of Svarūpa, again Mahāprabhu after giving Himself direct advice, put him in the hand of Svarūpa Dāmodara to keep the honour of the Vaiṣṇava Ācārya, was given, handed over to him.

_____ [?] dissuades Raghunātha dāsa, bhāla nā khāibe, bhāla nā paribe, that went to so extreme stage that in his last days he wanted to give up this, the catra, the time attending offering for food, begging. Then he tried, he found some other means.

The prasāda of Jagannātha that is not sold, it is given to the cows of Jagannātha. But what the cows also cannot eat for the bad smell, it is rotten, then that is thrown to some place. And Raghunātha used to collect something from there, that rotten, externally rotten, and took that in his quarter and with profuse water he used to wash them. And whatever little was in the middle, the external rotten portion that was washed away and what was within, a little substantial hard thing, applying some salt, he used to take that; nothing else.

So we should not feel any temptation to imitate this thing. They came to show the standard of vairāgyam, self-abnegation, very high. Because the māyāvādīs, and the other vairāgīs, cannot say that Mahāprabhu, this kīrtana, as Prakāśānanda in Benares, "You take in the name of prasādam anything and everything, how your senses you can control?" That was a question thrown to Mahāprabhu in Benares by the māyāvādī section. "You sing and dance and take prasādam, take many things as your food, rich things, rich diet in the name of prasādam. How can you control your senses?"

So then, to keep up the standard of the community, Rūpa, Sanātana, Raghunātha dāsa, they showed the standard of vairāgya, physical, what was not really necessary so high, so that the criticism against the sampradāya may not come, 'that they're all bhogīs.' But we should not go to imitate that, then we will die. It is too much for us. We are ordinary person. We would not be so much covetous to imitate, to capture their fame. From our position that yukta vairāgya of Bhagavad-gītā, what is really necessary for the upkeep of my health I shall take that; even medicine also, food, etc. To keep my body fit and so that it may be utilized in the service of the Lord, that should be our principle, generally.

Raghunātha dāsa showed such vairāgyam. And one day Mahāprabhu heard, He was internally satisfied. "Because there are so many figures that are standing erect to oppose the bad name that we, the devotees, we are singing, dancing, and we are making feast. So there some at least necessary in our section to show the dazzling abnegation externally also."

Mahāprabhu when He got this intimation He went with Svarūpa Dāmodara. "Raghunātha he has got so much deep faith in the Jagannātha prasādam, the rotten things, that anyhow from the covering, something, collecting something from the middle of rotten, externally, and that prasādam he's taking every day."

He went when Raghunātha is taking that prasāda, and forcibly took one morsel. "Oh, I have tasted different types of prasādam of Jagannātha, but so sweet prasāda I have never experienced." Mahāprabhu told; again He's snatching.

Svarūpa Dāmodara caught hold of His hand, "No, no, no, it is for him. We are to worship You. You are the object of our worship. This is not suitable for You. It is for us, Your servants, and not for You, my Lord. Don't trouble us. Don't give anxiety to us, please." In this way Svarūpa Dāmodara.

Mahāprabhu, so much intensity, so much degree of faith in prasādam, sweetness is according to that. This we can try to find out from the statement of Mahāprabhu, "That is so sweet," this is only not a formal expression coming from the lips of Mahāprabhu, "That so sweet prasādam I have never taken." Prasādam is sweet according to the degree of our earnest faith for honouring it. So honouring the same, sweetness is according to that.

One day Mahāprabhu when Sārvabhauma was converted first with Jagannātha prasādam in the morning he ran to Sārvabhauma's house, "Oh Sārvabhauma, I have taken prasādam for you."

Sārvabhauma was a smārta brāhmaṇa. He was not accustomed to take any prasādam before washing his face in the morning. He will do some function, japam, etc. then he will take prasādam. He's accustomed in that way.

But Mahāprabhu introducing rāga-mārga. The prasādam is purifying as Name, and japa is purifying the prasādam, taking service of prasādam, that is not less important than this kīrtana, or mantram or this japam, all these things. We can take in the spirit of honouring. It is a process of devotion, process of worship, part of worship, and not only for sense enjoyment.

Mahāprabhu came, Sārvabhauma had taken. "You see how sweet this prasādam. We are already known to the taste of these things, this is rice, this spice, this salt, all these things combined, we have got already substantial experience about the taste of these things. But how this wonderful taste has come? It is only from the touch of the lips of Jagannātha, and never otherwise. You take it, you see."

So the taste of prasādam, in the soul's senses according to our degree of earnest interest, intensity of our earnestness. Hunger is the best source. We taste the other things, it is tasteful according to the hunger; in the external world according to hunger things tasteful. Otherwise a very tasteful thing if attacked with bile or cough etc, we can't relish. So also the prasāda according to the hunger of our soul to take the prasādam, it will be tasteful.

So Raghunātha dāsa, that prasādam Mahāprabhu snatched, took, "And so sweet prasādam I have."

Association of his most earnest hankering for tasting the prasādam. He takes prasādam, so sweet. So bhakta-prasāda, mahā-mahā-prasāda, why? Bhakta, a devotee with his earnestness he has served the prasādam, and if I can take a particle from that some influence may come to me, because that degree of earnestness is associated with that prasāda. So it is better, it is higher to take the prasādam of a devotee than to have direct prasādam of the Lord.

So in this way Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī he passed sixteen years continuously with the association of Mahāprabhu in Purī. Then after Mahāprabhu passed away, he saw all dark there, could not stay. After the departure of Mahāprabhu and Svarūpa Dāmodara, Raghunātha started for Vṛndāvana. "There I shall have a look of Vṛndāvana and I shall give up my body there by a fall from Govardhana." That was in his mind.

Mahāprabhu gave Govardhana-śilā to Raghunātha and guñja-mālā. Guñja means a red jungle fruit of a creeper, red, small, this pea-like thing, bean, guñja, and a little black portion in a small part. And Kṛṣṇa was fond of wearing the garland of that sometimes, guñja ____ [?]. And a small garland, and Giridhari, Mahāprabhu offered, gave to Raghunātha, "Serve Him." And he did ___ [?] Tulasī, beggar, no materials, only water and Tulasī; with this he worshipped the Govardhana. And he took it that, "With Govardhana-śilā He gave me Kṛṣṇa, and this guñja-mālā, Rādhārāṇī." That was the impression of Raghunātha, and in that way he used to worship that Govardhana-śilā with guñja-mālā, it is told.

So Raghunātha went there, but there he found Rūpa, Sanātana, and the whole, his object of life was abandoned, vanished. His speculation that he will live, what he has got here in the association of Mahāprabhu and Svarūpa Dāmodara, Gadādhara Goswāmī, he cannot get any more benefit from this world, so he must go away. But there he was struck dumb to find Rūpa and Sanātana inspired by Mahāprabhu, the lamp lit by Mahāprabhu.

He found, "Oh, Mahāprabhu is here." He could find that. "Yes, Mahāprabhu is living. He has not left the world. How Rūpa Goswāmī is producing so many wonderful thoughts with wonderful language about the highest līlā of Rādhā-Govinda. Mahāprabhu is here. How Sanātana with his so much penances of life externally roaming the whole Vṛndāvana, and trying to find out the place of the pastimes of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa here. And also writing so many _____ [?] Mahāprabhu is here."

So he gave up the project that he would die from a fall from the Govardhana. He associated with them. He could see Guru in Rūpa Goswāmī and guardian in Sanātana Goswāmī. According to finding of Rūpa Goswāmī and his own taste, he took shelter near Rādhā-kuṇḍa. Rādhā-kuṇḍa is the best place in Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...paddy field. Mahāprabhu took some water. Mahāprabhu asked when travelling through Vṛndāvana, then went to particular place and found that, "Rādhā-kuṇḍa must be here." Then He went, "Where is Rādhā-kuṇḍa?" The local people could not give any suggestion. Then He meditated a little, and from some rice field, that paddy field, took some water and put on His head and began to chant in praise of Rādhā-kuṇḍa. That was located then as Rādhā-kuṇḍa.

And Raghunātha Dāsa he was sitting under a tree in that paddy field and continuing his Hari-Nāma and śravaṇa. One day, Sanātana, he's wandering through all the places of Vṛndāvana, went there and found that Raghunātha is sitting under a tree, and one tiger came and took some, drank some water from that paddy field and went away. Then Sanātana approached Raghunātha. And Raghunātha was astounded to find him there suddenly on his front, and he went up and gave his praṇāma to Sanātana Goswāmī.

Sanātana Goswāmī gave advice. "My advice to you is this, please don't stay under tree, but accept a cottage. I shall manage to build a cottage for you, and you must have to accept to remain within that. I found a tiger here just now."

Then what to do? His command, he accepted that cottage and there he lived. And he composed so many verses which give us the highest attainment of the whole Gauḍīya Sampradāya. Rādhā-dāsya, that is very plain in his statement only, āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu. When we saw our Guru Mahārāja explain this śloka he was besides himself.

āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi?
[Vilāpa-Kusumāñjali, 102]

This śloka. "Oh, my Lord, Feminine, my Master, Mistress, Swāmīni." He's addressing Rādhārāṇī. "If I don't get Your grace, everything is tasteless to me without You. Even this Vṛndāvana, what to speak of other things, even I do not want Kṛṣṇa Himself, if You are not there."

This is the most famous verse we get from Raghunātha Dāsa. And it is the acme of our realization we're told by the experts, spiritual, of our sampradāya. This comes from Raghunātha Dāsa, the highest realization, so prayojana Ācārya. Sanātana Goswāmī is called sambandha Ācārya. Rūpa Goswāmī abhidheya, means to end. And Raghunātha, the Ācārya, the giver, of the end of our life, through whom the end of our life has been ascertained, given to us. Prayojana Ācārya Raghunātha Dāsa. So in this respect we show our praṇāma to him, Dāsa Goswāmī.

And Kavirāja Goswāmī Prabhu, many things to say about Raghunātha Dāsa, infinite. In his last days Raghunātha crawling nearby Rādhā-kuṇḍa, and crying, taking Her name _____ [?] Taking in a, leaf, some leaf is there by which some pot is made, and there some buttermilk, that he used to take in a tree leaf pot. And taking that he used to blame himself.

ātmānaṁ ced vijānīyāt, paraṁ jñāna-dhutāśayaḥ kim icchan kasya vā hetor, dehaṁ puṣṇāti lampaṭaḥ

[" 'If one's heart has been cleansed by perfect knowledge and one has understood Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Brahman, he then gains everything. Why should such a person act like a debauchee by trying to maintain his material body very carefully?' "] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.314]

He's abusing himself after taking one pot of buttermilk here he says, "Oh." Addressing his mind. "Oh, if you can think yourself that you're not this body, you are really the soul, how your body is getting fatter day by day? What's the matter? Do you think that you're above this flesh and blood? Then why you are nurturing this flesh and blood body? It is getting fair day by day I see."

Ha, ha, ha. In this way he used to abuse himself, though it is not so. His temperament was to abuse the fleshy aspect to teach us. Don't indulge yourself that you have attained a fair position. Dainyam. It is purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi se laghiṣṭha [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādī-līlā, 5.205] To advance, to make advance towards infinite means to see so much meagre his own self, it is the criterion. So as much a devotee is advancing really, he cannot but think that he's going down, he's the lowest of the low. That is the truth. Thereby we're to measure by humility, sincere humility, we're to measure who is a devotee and who is not so.

Of course there is another, ācārya abhimāna, Rāmānuja has mentioned also we can understand, that is another force, sent by the Lord, to work as an Ācārya, a post. Not personal, but from a post. A man who has not harmed a fly, when he's in the position of a judge he'll have to pass the order of hanging. "Hang this man." From the position of the judge he's to do so, but personally he won't even harm a fly and mosquito, he's so ahiṁsā. But when he's in a position of a judge he's compelled to sign the verdict that, "He has committed murder, he must be hanged."

Something like that, from the position of Ācārya, he's to see in another angle of vision. So he's entitled to control. "Oh, why you are doing this thing? This is bad. Do this." As if he knows everything. This is a posing of the Ācārya.

Our Guru Mahārāja said, "This is the indirect position." Pralāpita vakra.

Mahāprabhu says, "This is My pralāp, My delirium. Sanātana, I am in delirium. So many things passing through Me to help you, Kṛṣṇa's matter. But what I say to you, I can understand that this valuable thing is going to you, but I cannot appreciate these things. What I say this is madman's expression. I'm under delirium."

Pralāpita, our Guru Mahārāja also, "This is my pralāp." When he's in a posing to give stricture to his disciple. But anyoiyanke [?], direct conception, "I am meanest of the mean. I'm the servant of all these persons. They have come to help me, they're my Guru, the disciples are my so many Gurus. They have come to help me in my service to Kṛṣṇa."

That is the real vision of the bhāgavata proper, mahā-bhāgavata. But in indirect way sometimes he had to chastise his disciple, "Why you have done so? Why you have not done so?" That is a posing. But in his real, own nature, acquaintance, he says that, "All Guru, I am the servant. They have come to excite me to keep me in the path of service of Kṛṣṇa."

So Dāsa Goswāmī used to accuse and abuse his own self. "What sort of devotee, do you think you have become a devotee? You are so mean. You can't shake off all these things." Challenged himself. But he was crying, taking the name of Rādhārāni, crawling around the banks of Rādhā-kuṇḍa. And sometimes looking at the place Nandagram, to Kṛṣṇa's seat, shouting, and with tears, nandisvare panichey hu hu hu [?] Could not express clearly any words, but vague sound, hu hu hu, and tears falling. In this way he passed his days.

And Kavirāja Goswāmī was his disciple. A proper disciple for a proper Guru. Kavirāja Goswāmī was born near Katwa, Sālāra [?] station, two miles from there there is Jhāmaṭapura. There is a place where the, some portion of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas continuing a sort of service there, Jhāmaṭapura, born there.

And some faith in the creed of Mahāprabhu. One day he had some twenty four hour kīrtana. He made arrangement, and there one devotee of Nityānanda Prabhu named Mīnaketana Rāmadāsa. He was little sentimental devotee, he's taking the name of devotees, sometimes climbing up on the shoulder of someone, sometimes doing this and that.

And Kavirāja's brother, he felt little disturbance by the movement of this sentimental devotee, Mīnaketana Rāmadāsa. And he told, "Who is he? A man who is a devotee must be of a fair character. He's something obstinate and boisterous nature. He's a devotee? Where is Nityānanda?" In this way.

Then Kavirāja Goswāmī he rebuked his brother. "You don't know he's devotee of Nityānanda Prabhu, and by his love intense for Nityānanda Prabhu he's showing some signs and sentiments? Why do you feel disturbed?"

"No, I don't like Nityānanda Prabhu. I have regard for Mahāprabhu. Who is Nityananda Prabhu? He's illiterate."

"Don't you say so in my presence. Gaura-Nitāi, They're well connected, intimately connected. If you have recognition for one and not the other, this is hypocrisy. If you don't have recognition for both, you are an atheist." In this way he chastised his brother.

At night he's getting a dream. Nityānanda Prabhu has come. Nityānanda Prabhu, but the posing is of Vṛndāvana, with His followers. He's chewing betel nut and in this cowherd attitude. "I'm very much pleased with you Kṛṣṇadāsa. A good fortune awaiting for you. Just go to Vṛndāvana and you will get everything there." With this assurance Nityānanda Prabhu vanished in the dream.

And he rose up. "What did I see in the dream? A very happy and hopeful, and full of prospect _____ [?] only a dream, but it has got some reflection in the real life of mine." He discussed within himself and took up this faith. "No, it is the real order to me. Then I began to make arrangements to go to Vṛndāvana. I came to Vṛndāvana by the grace of Nityananda Prabhu and I got everything. I got Raghunātha Dāsa as my master, my Gurudeva. Through him I have got Rūpa and Sanātana, and Jīva and other Goswāmīns, all these devotee's remnants of Śrī Caitanyadeva. I have found Śrī Caitanyadeva. My life is fulfilled and I have got the intense hope of the service of Rādhā-Govinda my whole life."

Then he was asked to write, by the Bengali devotees of that Vṛndāvana, led by one Haridāsa, a very good, higher order Vaiṣṇava. "You, learned man, you have got command over Bengali language and Sanskrit, both. You compose the life of Mahāprabhu for the posterity."

"With this suggestion I came to Madana-mohana. The Vaiṣṇava requests me to write the life history of Mahāprabhu, life and teachings. I beg Your grace. And just at that time the garland of Madana-mohana came down, and the pūjārī, the priest took that garland and put around my neck. I thought I got the order of Madana-mohana. I began to write this book. Madana-mohana is making me write this book, not myself, I know it."

[ei grantha lekhāya more 'madana-mohana'] āmāra likhana yena śukera paṭhana

["Actually Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta is not my writing but the dictation of Śrī Madana-mohana. My writing is like the repetition of a parrot."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.78]

"As a parrot, he pronounces the name of God. My writing is like that. I am only an instrument."

Such writing, the writer is someone. So he has produced that Caitanya-caritāmṛta according to the theistic conception, theistic standard. We think that the best scripture in the whole of the world is Caitanya-caritāmṛta. He has given the description of the last līlā of Kṛṣṇa, the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, even in Rādhā-kuṇḍa in the water with the gopīs. But his description is such that ordinary people also cannot think that this līlā of Kṛṣṇa with the gopīs is humanly. Such transcendental touch everywhere. Everywhere is transcendental colour, a divine colour is expressed in his book, Kavirāja Goswāmī's Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

śrūyatāṁ śrūyatāṁ nityaṁ, gīyatāṁ gīyatāṁ mudā cintyatāṁ cintyatāṁ bhaktāś, caitanya-caritāmṛtam

["O devotees, may the transcendental life and characteristics of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu always be heard, chanted and meditated upon with great happiness."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 12.1]

The highest thing ever known to the world is found there in Caitanya-caritāmṛta by Kavirāja Goswāmī.

When Jāhnavā Devī, the senior wife of Nityānanda Prabhu wanted to part to Vṛndāvana, it is written there in Bhakti-ratnākara, Dāsa Goswāmī he's about to pass away, and Kavirāja standing thereby, last view _____ [?] Kavirāja Goswāmī.

In a corner of present Rādhā-kuṇḍa, this side we find, in the north-east corner the tomb of Raghunātha, and north-south corner there is the tomb of Kavirāja Goswāmī, we're told, in Rādhā-kuṇḍa.

But what he has given, the real devotees, especially in the line of Śrī Caitanyadeva, they cannot but think and express that the highest conception of theism, well guarded, it has come to us through him, from him, Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja.

Narottama Ṭhākura also mentioned his name in his song. I forget the verse. Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja.

krsnadasa kaviraja, rasika bhakata-majha, jenho kaila caitanya-carita
-gaura-govinda-līlā, sunite galaye sila, tahate na haila mora cite

["Among the devotees Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja is extremely expert at relishing the transcendental nectar of the mellows of love of God. When the stones hear his Caitanya-caritāmṛta and Govinda-līlāmṛta, they begin to melt in ecstasy. In spite of this, I cannot appreciate him within my heart."] [Prarthana, 3.3]

Even the most fallen, it has been arranged in such a way that even the fallen, without getting any disturbance in the step, can be taken nearer to the highest zenith of our realization, it is told.

Our Guru Mahārāja has written, in reply to his letter come from London long ago, that, "Who are the bona fide evidence about the descriptions of Caitanyadeva?"

Prabhupāda wrote, "Every part of Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta can be taken as fully bona fide evidence. In the relation, in tattva and in description, in historical as well as ontological, from both sides, esoteric and _____ [?] Caitanya-caritāmṛta can be accepted cent percent bona fide. And other śāstra he has written, this portion, the tattva portion to be modified, something in Caitanya-Bhāgavata, and historical portion from Bhakti-ratnākara and not the ontological." In this way he has written, we found in his letter. The Caitanya-caritāmṛta, the gift of Kavirāja Goswāmī, that is our highest property of the sampradāya. The highest wealth, or jewel, whatever we may think, the highest capital of us is there.

To foster that confidence that He will surely protect us. Not only to accept Him as our protector, but to maintain fullest confidence in that, that He will protect us, and He shall protect us. Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso. They are practical points of devotional life. More or less any moment we are facing some sort of undesirable thing. And we'll have to attempt anything and everything with such mentality, that He's there. If it is, at present appears to me to be unhealthy, but it is my defect to see it. It is all right.

And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

The key to peaceful life, that the All-Controller He's friendly to me. The Absolute controller of anything and everything, He's friendly towards me. This sort of commitment to maintain such conviction, that can give peace really in our heart. I should not feel disturbed. I am well represented in the highest quarter. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Peace. Balance. And that unfavourable circumstances gives us opportunity to approach the truth unprejudiced. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There seems to be two opposites, vipadaḥ and śānti. First of all Kunti Devī, "We want danger." And then, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati. Opposite.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then at the time of peace, what decision she should take? Śānti, the peace, that should not be obstacles to our service. Raksa korola nito nistho jani pana korola pani [?] We shall invite danger and we shall try to find peace there. It is a relative term, peace is a relative term.

A hero, if he does not find any fight before them, no peace. Paramananda ya paya de samaj [?] This is stated about Bhīmasena. Bhīmasena would be very much happy if he gets a fight, battle, otherwise he feels uneasy.

That so-called peace that is śanta-rasa, a marginal position. Peace has its dynamic characteristic. Peace means giving pleasure, ecstasy, rasam, the dynamic character of peace is progressive. Peace is progressive. So, to take risk to serve Kṛṣṇa, that is peace, higher, higher peace. Peace when dynamic it comes from śanta- rasa to dāsya, vātsalya, in this way, progress. Peace means ānandam, in a negative sense, peace free from the disturbance of the negative side, and then marginal position. But peace real is ānanda, happiness. That really is a progressive thing, progressive, and as much as one makes advance towards Kṛṣṇa, raso vai saḥ, ānanda, he finds more and more ecstasy. Peace is ecstasy, the basis of ecstasy, śanta-rasa, śānti. But peace becomes dynamic. Peace has its degree. If we analyse peace, it has its degree. How much peaceful one's mind is, if we go to measure it, then we find that peace makes connection with ānanda itself, rasa, ecstasy.

As it is in, union in separation.

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, [kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite]

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

Internal aspect of peace. Externally it is pain, but internally full of peace. It is possible in the service, when progressing in the service of Kṛṣṇa. "Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things."

["Our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought."]

[The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822]

Shelly or someone. "Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things." Sweetness within and sadness outside. And sweetness of course is peace.

If Rādhārāṇī is asked, "Give up the thought of Kṛṣṇa now, then You will be peaceful mentally," She won't take it. "Never." Hare Kṛṣṇa. "I can't."

Mahāprabhu is asked, "Don't think of Kṛṣṇa. That is, Kṛṣṇa conception is within You so much, we can't tolerate this, Your ailments, we can't tolerate."

Mukha-saṅgharṣī [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 19.1] He's rubbing His face on the walls to find out the gate.

Then the fervent appeal from the devotee section. "We're asleep, we don't find what You do at night."

So anyhow they made some arrangement for a boy to lie down under His feet. When Mahāprabhu will sleep, take rest at night, He will spread His legs over the body of a boy, Śaṅkara, in Gambhīrā. Śaṅkara's always in sleeping mood but he's easily awakened.

End of 82.10.29.C_82.10.30.A

Start of 82.10.30.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...from His body, Śaṅkara used to wake up, and inform the devotees, "Where is Prabhu? Please enquire. Where is He?"

In this way. _____ [?] Mukha-saṅgharṣī [Caitanya- caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 19.1]

If Mahāprabhu is asked, "To maintain peace of mind, You please try to forget Kṛṣṇa."

So peace is the beginning of ecstasy, the bed, peace of all conception is the bed, the foundation of the structure, of the ecstasy, of ānandam, rasa. And it is the abhāsa, means, what is abhāsa?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Reflection? Semblance?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Reflection, abhāsa, the lustre of ānandam, the outer coating, śanta-rasa, śānti. Tyāgaḥ śāntiḥ danantara. That marginal position, by leaving the association of the undesirable, there we find peace. When the temperature is off the body, fever, uneasiness, and temperature is gone, there we find peace. Aśānti, trouble, pain, off, then there is possibility of making progress.

That is risky. So this māyāvādī school never ventured to approach further. But the desperate, they enter the domain of eternal service. By rendering service we do not lose, we gain, want to make adventure by self dedication. By giving we receive something in return, specially in the higher sphere, the noble sphere. As much as we can give, we can get back more than that. Such a soil we shall try to live in, and invest our fortune there. Apparently it is to give, serve, so much so as to sell our own self. But really, we become gainer. The remuneration we get in form of love, inner attraction, the charm. We become gainer.

To acquire a visa, in the beginning we are to sign as if we are making some sacrifice for country we are trying to enter into. But ultimately after entering there, we enjoy so much facility we don't want to come back. We get the facility of the country. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So not un -scientific.

Adhokṣaja, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has expressed this idea, repeated this favourite word about Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa, Adhokṣaja and akṣaja. The world of sense experience that is akṣaja, and adhokṣaja is transcendental. The world of experience is kept below, under, always, below, adhokṣaja. All the world of your experience has been pushed down by that world. That is another world which has pushed down the world of your experience. That is adhokṣaja, the higher, the nobler world, and your world of experience, that is below. Adhokṣaja, akṣaja means sense experience, akṣaja means indriya. Akṣaja means eye, and in general all the senses through which we find we are in the midst of a particular world with the experience of our senses. And this world of sense experience has been kept down by another world, and that is the world of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa, a finer world, nobler world.

We want, our business is now to have a peep and to have entrance, admission, into that world. It is a concrete thing. Our soul can feel it, soul's eye, soul's ear, can have full play in that area. But not this bodily eye, physical eye, physical ear etc, touch etc. Our inner and higher, and more efficient self within, that can have a full play there, and that is a land of dedication.

In the beginning we are to think it and adjust. Die to live, the land of death by which we can live. Ha, ha. Die to live. That is the motto, the slogan, of that world. Die to live. As much as we can die, in the present sense, you will find that you are given so much, happily and intensely. But that may be a hoax, but we're already experiencing that this world is a world of hoax, so we don't lose anything.

_____ krsna nama baddha jīva ar sabha viche [?]

Try to enter through the sound aspect of Kṛṣṇa into His own internal home, because, what is non-Kṛṣṇa that is all false. Ar sabha viche [?] Non Kṛṣṇa is falsehood. _____ [?] If you avoid, the jaw of death is there to devour you. No other alternative. Either you go to Kṛṣṇa to save yourself, but on the other side, the jaw of death is there for you, you can't avoid. You can see, you're faced with the concrete fact, that death is there. So march on with the ambition of living in the home of Kṛṣṇa. And we say, we have got experience that means your home. So back to God, back to home. Back to Godhead.

Back to God, back to home. That was an English expression Prabhupāda first, Prabhupāda took it, and instead of God, he preferred to use the word of Godhead, because God has got some permanent relation with the Christian conception. God means the conception of God as the Christians believe. So God-head, that was preferably used by Guru Mahārāja. Bhāgavata, the source of such conception of God.

And Swāmī Mahārāja preferred that word, and he published Back To Godhead. The conception and the foundation of the word Godhead, this sort of reasoning. Generally God means the conception of God as it is given in Bible. Generally the attention is drawn towards that. So Godhead, the abstract, the source of the conception of God, Godhead, so Back to Godhead, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān.

yāṅ 'ra bhagavattā haite anyera bhagavattā [svayaṁ bhagavān-śabdera tāhātei sattā]

["Only that Lord who is the source of all other Divinities is eligible to be designated as Svayaṁ Bhagavān, or the original primeval Supreme Personality of Godhead."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 2.88]

The God characteristic, the root of all God characteristics, Godhead, the source, of all sorts of different God conceptions, that is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Godhead. Kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam.

[ete cāṁśa-kalāḥ puṁsaḥ, kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam
indrāri-vyākulaṁ lokaṁ, mṛḍayanti yuge yuge]

["All the above-mentioned incarnations are either plenary portions or portions of the plenary portions of the Lord, but Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the original Personality of Godhead. All of them appear on planets whenever there is a disturbance created by the atheists. The Lord incarnates to protect the theists."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28]

And that is all sweet, no grandeur. Not only the function of dealing with the criminals and the pious, that is a relative position of God, in consideration with this world. But Svayaṁ-Bhagavān has got His independent position and jurisdiction and function and pastimes. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. The conception of God that has got relativity with the mundane world, that is lower function of Him. Whereas in most original function, He has got His independence, going on with His līlā, ānanda, now. But the fun is, then that is very similar to this world, prākṛta. So for the warning, the name has been given as prākṛta. There's every possibility that we'll find in Him this mundane characteristic, so the warning is always given to you, 'don't think it, don't mistake it for this mundane. It is very similar to mundane but it is not mundane.' From the not mundane, that this is the highest conception of the most desirable.

So knowledge has been classified under five heads, our knowledge [pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, adhokṣaja, aprakṛta] Pratyakṣa, sense experience. Parokṣa, the knowledge, we give recognition, which is not acquired by my own senses, but by the senses of others. Through newspaper I get so many news, this is happening there, this is happening there, and we accept that. Something like that, parokṣa, pratyakṣa, parokṣa, experience of others. Then the third is aparokṣa. Here we come to difficulty. What is that?

This is especially accepted by Śaṅkara as the highest, "That when we are in sound sleep, at that time we cannot ascertain that we have got any experience. But if we come back, come down from the sound sleep, we awake, then we can feel that 'I slept very peacefully.' Sukha mohana satsang [?] Upaniṣad says, the higher part of the Veda says so. "That we were there and we had some sort of experience of peaceful experience. Otherwise when we come down from that deep slumber, how can we say that, 'I had a very good sleep, undisturbed sleep? So some sort of conception must have been present there.' This is aparokṣa.

Śaṅkarācārya says, "When complete withdrawal from the world of experience, of either belonging to us or to others, we can resolve there, in samādhi. That is highest end of life, and undisturbed, and undistributed, uncontaminated by the environment. That peace, that is our object of our highest aspiration."

Buddha, Śaṅkara, they all recommend, the renunciationists, they cannot but recommend this stage to be the highest.

But successfully, the modern opposition came from Rāmānuja first, and skilfully he showed. He gave about the adhokṣaja, there is fourth stage, turiya. Turiya means tuya, fourth, fourth stage. This is third stage but we can pierce through, pass through that stage and find, have experience of another stage. That is adhokṣaja. And how? Now we shall have objective position there. We can enter as an object in a higher subjective area. We are to understand this. Then we can be free from this sahajiyāism. This Hiranyagarbha and others fell prey to that sahajiyāism. It is super subjective and we can have experience of that as an object. Super consciousness. The other side of Brahmaloka, that turiya, its nature is it is all subjective.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

This Vaikuṇṭha area, the adhokṣaja area, they're all consciousness, and not only consciousness of our type. We are lower type consciousness, taṭasthā-jīva. And that is svarūpa-śakti consciousness, higher quality consciousness. And we are to enter there only if we can secure a job there. Then we are given admission for the interest of that domain, so dāsya. From śanta-rasa next dāsya. If we can secure some service there, then we're allowed to enter that domain. That is all made of higher stuff. Pṛthivy, that the earth, air, water, everything is there, but they're made of conscious stuff. Consciousness, not this mundane, and higher consciousness than we ourselves are made of, soul, soul consciousness. That higher consciousness is that soil. So it is not a very easy thing to be accepted there.

Fully conscious of the fact we shall mould ourselves, then how we shall prepare ourselves that we shall - just as here when any necessity of service invites me, to put my foot on the throne of the Lord. The throne is there, Deities are there, but if any service to dress with mukuṭ, Kṛṣṇa, or anything on the ceiling of the throne to be served. Suppose any _____ [?] Some service is necessary that I must put my foot on the throne and remove that difficulty. Then what should we do? We are to pose in such a way that we'll have to go there and to do the service, and come back, and then honour the throne, and then we shall find.

So the very soil is venerable and we have to enter there. Why? Only for the cause of service to the Lord we are allowed. This should be the temperament of entering into Vaikuṇṭha. It is not a very easy thing. The super subject comes down to touch the subject.

Suppose there is an insect, an ant. I can touch it, but if I take the finger, it is not easy for the ant to touch me, to get my touch. I can easily touch a worm, an insect, but it is not very easy to have my touch, for them. So higher subject can come down to give His touch to the lower subject, subjective existence. But it is difficult for the lower subjective party to have touch of the higher.

So only sevā, service, can give us facility to enter that domain. Service. Die to live. Hegel is a very good man. He has supplied the basis, very strong basis. So your enjoying aspect must have to go. You are to bid goodbye to your exploiting temperament forever. And that serving aspect of you are within, and it will feel in that soil quite natural. That aspect is within us. Who can work in that soil, that is within us, and they're very happy when they get some service and for that as much as intense desire for service, he can move there freely only for rendering service, no exploitation. All service, and no exploitation. _____ [?]

All the materials, elements in Vaikuṇṭha, they're all made of consciousness. Soul production, Supersoul production. This mundane thing cannot have their birth in that domain. Subtle can enter into the gross, but the gross cannot enter subtle. Electricity can pass through everything, but earth cannot pass through electricity. _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Aparokṣa means something automatic, but not recognizing the source.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, because no power of assertion can be retained there. Neither exploitation, nor service _____ [?] dedication, between the two, the marginal plane, and that is again divided into two, Virajā and Brahmaloka. Lower side is Virajā, the verge of prakṛti, and the upper side is Brahmaloka. Virajā is the last point of prakṛti, and Brahmaloka is beginning of the Vaikuṇṭha.

Buddhist school, they merge in their nirvana, in Virajā, in the last verge of prakṛti. They have no faith of any conscious substance. But Śaṅkarācārya school say, they admit a background of consciousness, all around. So they're Brahma nirvana. They enter into conscious area and then they're finished, lose their individuality there, cannot keep their individual characteristic there.

But here those sādhus that have got sukṛti of higher type, they pass through Brahmaloka but don't lose their individuality there.

upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya, 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya
tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana', 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

It depends on the nature of the sukṛti. That Kṛṣṇa bhakta comes to preach here and if we can acquire some sukṛti from their connection, the progress won't stop in Virajā or Brahmaloka. It will pass through that marginal position. The visa is there already, also any visa in any form there, so the passport only takes to the buffer area. Some sort of visa, availability of acquiring visa must be there so they do not lose their progress there and go to take visa, passing the no man's land. Because what they acquired, the seed of progress, therein that Goloka or Vaikuṇṭha conception in subtle form is there, sukṛti, nature of sukṛti. The mantram, the Nāma, the quality of confidence in Nāma. The māyāvādī also takes the name but that is all material. But those that get the name through the form of that name, some sort of knowledge and service, that Vaikuṇṭha like homoeopathic medicine in the name, that helps him.

What sort of Guru he has got, the sound? The sound is the external aspect, this physical sound. But internally what is deposited there in the sound? So imitation sound won't do anything, can't produce anything. So sad-guru is necessary. We must take mantram, name, from a real party, not from a bogus party. So that will have to pass through that Virajā, Brahmaloka, and even Paravyoma, we'll be taken to different stations in Paravyoma for some sort of satisfaction for few days, even some dissatisfaction, and earnest necessity we feel to go up.

In this way Sanātana Goswāmī has shown the line of progress we're expected to do in Paravyoma, until and unless we reach the goal of Kṛṣṇaloka. A man who has got Kṛṣṇa mantra here he can't be satisfied anywhere. But when he reaches Vraja, "Oh, this is my home. This is the place for which I was earnestly searching for, this plain, this soil, is very congenial, this is my home."

...

...clever devotee will never venture to say that, "I am there. I have got that within my fist."

When the fist will be opened there's something matter. This is a far, far more independent soil. The soil is higher than I myself am made up of. I am, myself, is constructed by some sort of stuff, but where I shall have to go to serve, that is more and more valuable and higher conception. That is impossible.

So the māyāvādīs they're beating drums for emancipation, liberation only.

And Kṛṣṇa says, "One gets Me in the beginning does not disclose that there is My domain, My different layers in My domain." All considered as He Himself.

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

"You know your Ācārya, Guru, as Myself. This is approximate, that those, that domain is almost Myself, identical with Me. They're as pure, they're as fine, as designed, as Myself."

Svarūpa-śakti _____ [?] The svarūpa-śakti is included in Himself. And in this way it has been preached in the Vedas in many places. The whole svarūpa-śakti...

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"Mām means enters My domain," not enters His body. So, in a general way the whole svarūpa-śakti has been presented by Himself, in many places. Brahman, Param Brahman, Vāsudeva, then Nārāyaṇa, in this way, the clear and further, subtler conception is going.

ete cāṁśa-kalāḥ puṁsaḥ, kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam
[indrāri-vyākulaṁ lokaṁ, mṛḍayanti yuge yuge]

["All the above-mentioned incarnations are either plenary portions or portions of the plenary portions of the Lord, but Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the original Personality of Godhead. All of them appear on planets whenever there is a disturbance created by the atheists. The Lord incarnates to protect the theists."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28]

Svarūpa-śakti, so,

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

So, humility is our capital there. As much as I say, "No, I have no hold here. I'm no one here. I'm fully at their grace," you are adored.

Whenever you go to assert, "No, this is my position." You'll be thrust down and down.

That is the general mood. Then again there is some Yogamāyā abhimāna, that is another thing.

But the general tenor of life is that we are nowhere, no right, no position. It is only by their sweet will that I can move and live here. Depends on the sweet will. The position of a slave. The master can make or mar. The position of a slave. And as much as I shall realize my position to be a slave, I'll be so much adored there. And opposite is dangerous.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

No prospect promised, rather we're asked to be all negative, all abnegation, no assertion of any right. Tṛṇād api sunīc, think yourself lower than the grass, your position. Taror api sahiṣṇunā. This tṛṇād api sunīc, a blade of grass is very soft, does not give any opposition to anyone, a blade of grass. Any pressure, going down, no opposition. Still, any aggression comes to you, pose as the tree. It is cut down, still it does not take any spirit of retaliation. Rather, it is giving the shadow to the man who is cutting it. Taror api sahiṣṇunā. More than a tree, prepare yourself to be forbearing.

It is not easy thing, but how to take the Name, the process is recommended such way. Tṛṇād api sunīc, non oppositionist. Taror api sahiṣṇunā, forbearing to the highest. Amāninā mānadena, don't want any respect, any recognition, don't demand any recognition, but give recognition to all around you. With this attitude you can retire from the present circumstances very easily. If you can really have such a posing, then the present environment can't continue its possession over you any longer, and your _____ [?] will be the Name Divine. Take the Name and don't disconnect, allow yourself to be disconnected, but your attitude will be this. So in no time you'll be able to avoid the present circumstance, make yourself free from all the past dues you have incurred while travelling in this world of material energy. Amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ. This is the general recommendation.

Then there is special. Do for the service of the higher Vaiṣṇava, then you can apply yourself, use yourself in his favour, as he likes you to do. That is a special sanction. General law is this, and the special law, that if any agent comes from higher domain and he recommends any special prescription for you, you can take that, that present medicine. General prescription is this, and the present may come for you particularly from any higher agency. But the Vaiṣṇava, you have, this will add to your progress, whatever you have, use for the service of the Vaiṣṇava if you find anyone here. Krodha bhakta-dweśi jāne, mada kṛṣṇa-guṇa-gāne, kāma kṛṣṇa-karmārpaṇe.

moha iṣta-lābha-bine mada kṛṣṇa-guṇa-gāne, niyukta kariba yathā tathā]

["Lust I will engage in offering the fruits of my work to Lord Kṛṣṇa. Anger I will direct towards the enemies of the devotees. Greed I will engage by being greedy to hear the topics of Lord Hari in the association of the saintly devotees. Bewilderment will be manifested because I cannot immediately attain my worshippable Lord. Madness will be there when I madly glorify the transcendental attributes of Lord Kṛṣṇa. In this way I will engage each of these in the service of Lord Kṛṣṇa."]

[Śrīla Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura's Prema-bhakti-candrikā, 2.10]

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, [yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat
yat tapasyasi kaunteya,] tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam

["O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27]

In your lower stage you may take to this policy, in general, and in higher stage if you meet any real devotee, his instruction to be applied in particular case. Tṛṇād api sunīcena is a general case, for all. But particular case maybe, may come to us from the direction of a Vaiṣṇava, to obey him, unconditionally, surrender, that is another thing. Hanumān is killing so many demons, but he's a pure devotee.

End of 82.10.30.B

Start of 82.10.30.C_82.11.01.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...by crooked line. It is natural. It is nirguṇa, a flow coming from the origin of Kṛṣṇa's will. That is another thing, and,

yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, [yaj juhoṣi dadāsi yat
yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam]

["O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27]

...that is also lower stage, and Mahāprabhu recommends the taking of Hari-Nāma, that is higher than yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi. But the direct, do under direct order of a real Vaiṣṇava and that is another higher thing, nirguṇa. Different stages we are to understand and do accordingly. If a real Vaiṣṇava orders me to do anything and everything, that is quite, I am not there, thereby I thrive most perfectly. And then the,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, [taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One should chant the Holy Name of the Lord in a humble state of mind, thinking oneself lower than the straw in the street; one should be more tolerant than a tree, devoid of all sense of false prestige, and should be ready to offer all respects to others. In such a state of mind one can chant the Holy Name of the Lord constantly."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

And then the lower, yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, as you are, try to throw it in approximate service of God conception. Yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi: Try to connect it with the Supreme Lord.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu prays:

[na dhanaṁ na janaṁ na sundarīṁ, kavitāṁ vā jagad-īśa kāmaye]
mama janmani janmanīśvare, bhavatād bhaktir ahaitukī tvayi

["O Lord, I have no desires to accumulate wealth, followers, beautiful women, or salvation. My only prayer is for Your causeless devotional service, birth after birth."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4]

Then in another place the Lord says, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam, "I don't give it very easily." We are told...

[rājan patir gurur alaṁ bhavatāṁ yadūnāṁ, daivaṁ priyaḥ kula-patiḥ kva ca kiṅkaro vaḥ
astv evam aṅga bhagavān bhajatāṁ mukundo, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam]

["Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued: My dear King, the Supreme Person, Mukunda, is actually the maintainer of all the members of the Pāṇḍava and Yadu dynasties. He is your spiritual master, worshippable Deity, friend, and the director of your activities. To say nothing of this, He sometimes serves your family as a messenger or servant. This means He worked just as ordinary servants do. Those engaged in getting the Lord's favour attain liberation from the Lord very easily, but He does not very easily give the opportunity to render direct service unto Him."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.6.18]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There as three posing, one generally,

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham
[mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ]

"Who approaches Me with any sort of purpose I generally fulfil that, give him that. He begs something from Me, it is My general nature I offer him correspondingly." [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

"This is general, as you sow so you reap. I am some passive attitude generally and you beg it I give it, it is My general." Ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham.

Then on both sides there are, another, kṛṣṇa kahe, another, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam. "If one begs Me bhakti, generally I give them mukti. You find, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam. Bhakti yoga is so higher that if anyone's, anyone and everyone wants it, I can't give it, because to give bhakti means to give Myself. Bhakti, who comes to serve Me and instead he gets Me so much. So it is not so easy for Me to give Myself to anyone and everyone. So externally he's educated by, influenced by some, and go and want bhakti, not mukti. In that case I give mukti, go it is better, go with it and not bhakti. Bhakti means to give Myself."

This is also, and on the other opposite side, kṛṣṇa kahe, — 'āmā bhaje, māge viṣaya-sukha / amṛta chāḍi' viṣa māge, — ei baḍa mūrkha āmi — vijña, ei mūrkhe 'viṣaya' kene diba? / sva-caraṇāmṛta diyā 'viṣaya' bhulāiba

["Kṛṣṇa says, 'If one engages in My transcendental loving service but at the same time wants the opulence of material enjoyment, he is very, very foolish. Indeed, he is just like a person who gives up ambrosia to drink poison."] [" 'Since I am very intelligent, why should I give this fool material prosperity? Instead I shall induce him to take the nectar of the shelter of My lotus feet and make him forget illusory material enjoyment.'] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.38-39]

"Another sincere person he does not want, he does not know what to beg from Me. He comes and at the bottom he's very honest, but externally he's misguided to beg from Me ordinary things, then I come forward, don't beg these things, but try to get Me, bhakti."

These three phases we find in His dealings towards the beggars. That means a kind of sukṛti of the internal purity, not external posing, that is, bhāva-grāhī-janārdanaḥ. He deals according to the inner purity. As deserved, so have. So sādhu-saṅga, the type of the seed of devotion which we have acquired from sādhu, Guru, everything depends on that. The type of sukṛti in the beginning, the bhakti-latā-bīja, that is very valuable thing.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

From Nārāyaṇa bhakti, Rāma bhakti, then mādhurya Dvārakā bhakti, Braja bhakti, then again the different camp, in the Braja gopīs, the differentiation is all through. Yei rasa, sei sarvottama.

[kintu yāṅra yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama]

["It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

The salvationists, they're also happy, "Here we are, this is, this I like, I don't like that service life, I'm free here, this is all better." Yei rasa, sei sarvottama. "I'm satisfied with my position."

They're also, the servitors of Nārāyaṇa, they're happy with Nārāyaṇa bhakti.

Rāmacandra, Hanumān, Hanumān does not like Kṛṣṇa, he wants Rāma. Even Kṛṣṇa has to take the figure of Rāmacandra in Dvārakā when Hanumān went to visit Him, he answered, "All in all, no part, He'll be better, I don't want that, I'm satisfied with this, this much is enough for me."

That is the taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama. But if it possible to withdraw from the relativity, relative position, and to judge, then we can find that there is inferior in superior question. And Gauḍīya Maṭh is for that, to discuss, taṭasthā-vicāra, how the elimination and acceptance. Good in general, so many things good to so many persons, but Gauḍīya Maṭh is not satisfied. Classification, judgement, good, bad, what type what quality? Analysis to the extreme.

I wrote a poem in the name of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, only one poem in Sanskrit I wrote during Prabhupāda's presence and that was highly appreciated by him, because that judgement of that in gradation was represented in bhakti there.

lokānāṁ hita-kāmyayā [bhagavato bhakti-pracāras tvayā granthānāṁ racanaiḥ satām abhimatair nana vidhair darśitaḥ ācāryaiḥ kṛta-pūrvam eva kila tad rāmānujādyair budhaiḥ premāmbho-nidhi-vigrahasya bhavato māhātmya-sīmā na tat]

[Desiring to benefit the people in general, you preached the Bhāgavata principles of devotion. Like the great spiritual geniuses Rāmānuja, Mādhva, Nimbarka, and Viṣṇuswāmī, you composed different scriptures which reveal the divine philosophical vision of the previous Ācāryas and great devotees. But, O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, O Gurudeva, more than that, you are a vast ocean of divine love, and your magnanimity knows no bounds.] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 6]

From here, from the sixth śloka, Prabhupāda when he came to read the sixth śloka he expressed his appreciation. In Darjeeling I presented my poetry to him, for collection depending, but he did not collect anything, but from here he began, I saw he was conquered. Lokānāṁ hita-kāmyayā bhagavato bhakti- pracāras tvayā, granthānāṁ racanaiḥ satām abhimatair nana vidhair. The common devotion you have, hita-kāmyayā, for the benefit of the people, lokānāṁ hita-kāmyayā bhagavato bhakti-pracāras tvayā, you have preached about devotion of Godhead. Granthānāṁ racanaiḥ, by writing many books. Satām abhimatair nana vidhair, and who's appreciated by the sādhus, by many variegated ways you have tried to distribute devotion to the public. But, ācāryaiḥ kṛta-pūrvam eva kila tad rāmānujādyair budhaiḥ, but the Ācāryas like Rāmānuja, they also did this successfully in this world. Premāmbho-nidhi-vigrahasya bhavato māhātmya, Rāmānuja was a great scholar and Ācārya and he also did all these things, but, premāmbho- nidhi-vigrahasya bhavato māhātmya-sīmā na tat, but here is not the limit of your noble actions because you are full of divine love. The boundary is not to be located there with the Rāmānuja. So differentiation began from here.

Then next. Yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti sanjñāyāte. The foundation, the ontological foundation of the development of theistic conception is here.

yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti sanjñāyāte yasyāṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair mṛgyate vaikuṇṭhe paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo nārāyaṇo yaḥ svayam tasyāṁśī bhagavān svayaṁ rasa-vapuḥ kṛṣṇo bhavān tat-pradāḥ

[The effulgent, non-differentiated aspect of divinity known as Brahman is composed of infinite particles of individual consciousness, and has been considered by the Upaniṣads and by Vedic scholars to be the halo of the Absolute. The localised plenary portion of Godhead known as Paramātmā is sought after by the great yogīs practising extreme penances. Nārāyaṇa Himself, the predominating Lord of the Vaikuṇṭha planets, whose lotus feet are worshipped and served by His unexcelled bee-like devotees, is only a partial representation of the original Personality of Godhead. The original or full-fledged aspect of divinity is Kṛṣṇa. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you have not come to distribute Brahman or Paramātmā or even Nārāyaṇa bhakti, but Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, the original conception of the Absolute, who is all-ecstasy. It is you, O Gurudeva, who can gently place me in His hands, and you have come to give Him to the public.]

[Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 7]

Who are you? Generally, yad dhāmnah khalu dhāma caiva nigame. In the Vedas the general finding is Brahman. What is that? A vague conception of pure spiritual existence - independent of this mundane world. This is the gift of the Vedas in general, brahmeti sanjñāyāte. The general pure spiritual conception without gradation, differentiation, is given by the Vedas as Brahman. Yasyāṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair mṛgyate. This is for the jñānīs, brahmeti paramātmeti. And the great yogīs they find the dictator, the controller from within, Paramātmā, and the Paramātmā is the representation of the part of the part of the part of the whole. Āṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair. With much penance and difficulties the yogīs they try to find a particular function only, small function of that whole of the whole of the whole. Vaikuṇṭhe paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo nārāyaṇo yaḥ svayaṁ. And those that are really highly liberated souls, that are generally talking together in Vaikuṇṭha for the service of Nārāyaṇa, as so many bhṛṅga, bees, they're roaming about the lotus for honey, so, so many souls are being attracted by the honey of the lotus of the feet of Nārāyaṇa. The highly liberated souls are very busy there. Tasyāṁśī bhagavān svayaṁ. Who is even the source of all these, even of Nārāyaṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa. Akhila-rasāmṛta, rasa-vapuḥ kṛṣṇo bhavān tat-pradāḥ. You can give Kṛṣṇa Himself, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, who is all rasa-kuṇḍa-rasāmṛta- sindhu, who is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, the source of it all.

Here Prabhupāda finds such attraction, then, sarvācintya-maye parātpara-pure goloka-vṛndāvane cil-līlā-rasa-raṅginī parivṛtā sā rādhikā śrī-hareḥ nityaṁ yatra mudā tanoti hi bhavān tad dhāma-sevā-pradaḥ

[Situated in the topmost region of the absolutely inconceivable spiritual sky is the holy abode of Śrī Vṛndāvana Dhāma, in the spiritual planet known as Goloka. There, surrounded by sakhīs, Śrīmatī Rādhikā revels in the mellows of divine pastimes. With great ecstasy, She expands the joy of loving sweetness in the service of Śrī Kṛṣṇacandra, who is otherwise served in four relationships up to parenthood. You, O Ṭhākura Bhaktivinoda, can give us the service of that holy Dhāma.] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 8]

You are giver of the service of that particular higher domain of Vṛndāvana where Rādhārāṇī with all Her paraphernalia, of Her able paraphernalia is rendering sweet service to Kṛṣṇa who is served by vātsalya and sākhya, other rasas. That Vṛndāvana, that mādhurya-rasa, you can give us our engagement in that plane, you have got power, tad dhāma-sevā-pradaḥ.

Again.

śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ
rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ
śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum īśo bhavān

[What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā, that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy.] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 9]

Further, more, what you can give? Śrī-gaurānumataṁ. What has got sanction from Śrī Gaurāṅga, Rādhā-Govinda combined. Svarūpa-viditaṁ, and who has got? Svarūpa Dāmodara has got the true appreciation of that, rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ, which has been revered so much by Sanātana Goswāmī. Rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ, which Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī himself has distributed with his followers. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam, and Raghunātha with his followers has got a good taste of that amṛtam and has also developed, given some development there, raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam. Jīvādyair abhirakṣita, and Jīva with his followers has given protection to that from the quotations of the śāstras and reasons, jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ. And Śukadeva, Śiva, Brahmā, Uddhava, they have shown their highest respect for that śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam. Aho, the confidential service of Śrī Rādhikā which is so valuable. Tad dātum īśo bhavān. Aho. It is wonderful that you can give that nectar to the devotees, to the people, so much high position you hold.

Then next.

kvāhaṁ manda-matis tv atīva-patitaḥ kva tvaṁ jagat-pāvanaḥ [bho svāmin kṛpayāparādha-nicayo nūnaṁ tvayā kṣamyatām yāce 'haṁ karuṇā-nidhe! varam imaṁ pādābja-mūle bhavatsarvasvāvadhi-rādhikā-dayita-dāsānāṁ gaṇe gaṇyatām]

["Where am I, so lowly and fallen, and where are you, the great soul who delivers the universe! O Lord, by your grace, you are sure to forgive my offences. O ocean of mercy, in the dust of your lotus feet I pray for just this benediction: kindly make my life successful by recommending me for admission into the group of Śrī Vārṣabhānavī-Dayita Dāsa, who is the dear-most one in your heart."]

[Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 10]

Where I am, a fallen soul, and where you are, so high? The pāvana, you can deliver the whole world, purify, pāvana. Bho svāmin kṛpayāparādha. Here in this poem I'm going to praise of you but really I'm committing offence to you. How much I can know you, or give expression to that? So in this bold attempt I'm committing some offence, please forgive that, kṣamyatām. Yāce 'haṁ karuṇā-nidhe! varam imaṁ pādābja-mūle bhavat. O my Lord I beg something as boon from you. Please grant that to me. What is that? Sarvasvāvadhi-rādhikā-dayita-dāsānāṁ gaṇe. Who is everything in you, that Rādhārāṇī and Her favourite servant, Dayita dāsa, our Gurudeva. You please recommend me to his service. This I beg from you, that you recommend me for the service of our Gurudeva, Dayita Dāsa.

So there is this differentiative characteristic in the poem, that satisfied Prabhupāda very much. This elimination and acceptance, that is Gauḍīya Maṭh. To show the position what they're after, and what they want to give, this gradation, that is the peculiarity of Gauḍīya Maṭh's preaching.

Not in general as God. What is God, what is God, where does He live, how He lives, what He wants from us, who are we, how much prospect we can get? All these things in details to show and to prove, to establish, to preach, and how we can attain, to manage for that, to satisfy our high aspiration, all this, no engagement besides this, fully engaged in these matters.

Not any rough dealings, any dealings roughly about the theism. How audacious they are. What is unknown and unknowable, and they, as angels fear to tread, they want to enter there and use their discrimination, "This is better, this is far better, this is the best." In this way the audacious section. Who are recommended to be humbler than a blade of grass, and their audacity is such they want to analyze what is Godhead. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And that is their engagement, and engagement means twenty four hour engagement if they're there. What is unknown and unknowable they themselves admit that and still they're engaged in that analogy.

Pralāpita vakra, pralāp. To deal with all these things as if transcendentally, they themselves say, again they talk about that. But only the chart is there, the Guru on one side, the teacher, and the chart, consulting the map and the guide of the map. With the help of the proper guide of the map they look at the map and they say, "This is this place, this is that place." The map is there, with the help of the scripture, and with the help of the living agent of the Lord, two helps, sādhu, śāstra. That is their property.

sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya yadi kṛṣṇonmukha haya, [sei jīva nistare, māyā tāhāre chāḍaya]

["If the conditioned soul becomes Kṛṣṇa conscious by the mercy of saintly persons who voluntarily preach scriptural injunctions and help him to become Kṛṣṇa conscious, the conditioned soul is liberated from the clutches of māyā, who gives him up."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛa, Madhya-līlā, 20.120]

Sādhu, śāstra like map, and sādhu like dictator who makes us acquainted with the map. With the help of these two, sādhu, Guru, we venture to deal with that transcendental area, and with serving spirit as much as possible, individual case.

You note the letter to be directed. I'd like to stop here. Vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The sound must have divine characteristic. Kṛṣṇa, Hari, are nirguṇa, divine, śabda brahman. Nāma, Kṛṣṇa.

Vaikuṇṭha nāma grahaṇam aśeṣāgham haraṁ vidun. [Found in the next two verses]

[sādhu saṅga kṛṣṇa nāma ei matta jai, vaikuṇṭha nāma grahaṇam aśeṣāgham haraṁ vidun]

["The Holy Name must be taken with the attitude of service to the saints. Serving means die to live; to throw oneself wholesale for the higher existence."]

[sāṅketyaṁ pārihāsyaṁ vā, stobhaṁ helanam eva vā vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṁ viduḥ]

["One who chants the Holy Name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly - sāṅketyaṁ (to indicating something else as in the case of Ajāmila who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa), jokingly - parihāsya, for musical entertainment - stobha (to use the Name with some other intention; Jīva Goswāmī has taken advantage of this in his book of Sanskrit grammar, the Harināmāmṛta-vyākarana; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats), or even neglectfully - hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14]

The Name of infinite characteristic, that can do away all the undesirable in us. The Name must be, must have a spiritual conception, not mere physical imitation that can be produced only by the help of the lip and tongue, not that sound. Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, Hari-Nāma, Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, all these, Vaikuṇṭha-Nāma, it is necessary that they should have spiritual existence, backing, that is all in all, all in all. Spiritual depth, not imitation, physical imitation is not the Name proper, not śabda brahma. Nāmākṣara bahiraya batu.

[asādhu-saṅge bhai "kṛṣṇa-nāma" nahi haya, "nāmākṣara" bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya]

[From Jagadānanda Paṇḍita's Prema-vivarta]

Only the imitation sound may come out, but no depth. So Name means nāma brahma, nāma Kṛṣṇa, Name means it must have some spiritual background, or spiritual thing to be distributed through this physical sound.

Suppose the homoeopathic globule, medicine, that feel is not the medicine, that external feel is the same but there may be narcs, there may be arsoning, there may be anything, the globule is not the medicine.

So sound is not the, not Kṛṣṇa, but Kṛṣṇa within, it must be surcharged with the spirit, and that spirit is not of mundane character.

That is not even of Śaṅkara school, māyāvādī school, because their faith is that the name may not confine within the jurisdiction of the physical, but mental, satya-guṇa. That is also product of this māyā, misconception, that is also misconception, misunderstanding. So those that think that Hari-Nāma, Kṛṣṇa, Kālī-Nāma, Śiva-Nāma, all one and the same, like Ramakrishna mission, or Śaṅkara school, they preach like that, but that also has its origin in the misunderstood plane.

So śuddha-nāma must have its origin from nirguṇa-bhūmikā. That is from beyond the area of misconception of māyā. The extent of māyā is up to Satyaloka, Virajā, then Brahmaloka, then Paravyoma, must have its origin from Paravyoma. And Kṛṣṇa Nāma really from Vraja, Goloka, the most original plane of the whole existence. So Nāma, Name must be, to be Kṛṣṇa Nāma it must have its origin in the highest plane of Vṛndāvana, according to that. So nāmākṣara, the mere physical sound is not the Name proper which is necessary for us, not only to get out of this māyā or misunderstood world, but for the attainment of the service of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. That can lift us. The Name which has got its origin in Vṛndāvana plane, that can only take us there. Otherwise if the spirit within the name, the sound, is of any other type it may take us to that layer only. It is quite scientific, not unreasonable. So the mere word is not the Name. The meaning and the depth of the meaning, the deep conception of the meaning, that is everything, all in all, all important to serve our purpose. Do you follow? Any other side questions?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes. So tyāga, or renunciation is not recommended for the neophyte?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, renunciation, always yukta-vairāgyam, what will help me in my present condition, to invest my highest energy for the cause, that sort of requirement we should take from this world, and not to get, acquire excitement by intoxication. As much as physical material things are necessary to keep up my health normal, so much we shall accept from this material world. And with the help of exploitation, or any other medicine, we shall create some more energy, But we may think that will be useless, not only useless but harmful. No material thing can help us to reach, to make progress in the spiritual world. It can help only to keep our body fit. Material things cannot have any contribution for the improvement of the spiritual. Only to make the best of a bad bargain. We're already committed in the material, under material forces, and only the negative aspect we may expect, without which we cannot live, that much we shall have to accept, and not that this will help me. We shall keep our health normal and from that plane I shall begin my search for Kṛṣṇa, take the Name, and do the service, all from that normal, India normal, yukta-vairāgya. Not more, not little, neither less, nor more we shall take, both will be detrimental to our cause. And all sorts of excitement, temporary excitement and discord, that should be avoided. From a normal plane as it is possible we have earned our previous karma, from there we should begin.

Especially Bhāgavat has warned us against, that don't be afraid of all these five things, they're detrimental to your normal life. Though presently they may seem to be healthy, but they have no real contribution. This intoxication, not only intoxication but also this money.

dhana-śiṣyādibhir-dvārair yā bhaktir upapādyate / vidūratvād uttamatāhānya tasyāś ca nāṅgatā

["If one relies on one's disciples or wealth to attain bhakti, his devotional practice will certainly become slackened. One cannot claim that one is engaged in devotional service simply on the basis of engaging one's money or disciples in bhakti. To rely on money and disciples to perform devotional service in one's place is not considered to be a branch of pure devotion."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 12.128]

The devotion we may think may be earned by money, by spending money, by using one's son or wife for the cause of devotion, "That I'm helping my wife to go on with devotional activities so I shall get something. I'm utilizing my son for devotional purpose then by which I must have, I shall acquire. Dhana, śiṣya, my disciple, he's becoming a good devotee so as a Guru I must get something through him." These things are not śuddha-bhakti. Dhana-śiṣyādibhir-dvārair. So by money, by giving money to the devotees, helping the devotees then I shall get some bhakti, it is not śuddha-bhakti, it may be sukṛti or miśra-bhakti. Because money does not belong to you, that is misappropriation, you falsely think that you are master of this energy.

So your own self should be devoted. Ambarīṣa Mahārāja, what did he do? He was a king, he did not try to earn devotion by money. Bhārata Maharaja he was also so, young age he left everything and went to earn devotion. Not that they tried to earn devotion through money. It is difficult, but it helps those of lower class, "That we can get some money, some energy of this plane and utilize it for the service of the devotees and the Lord." Then they can get some sukṛti not śuddha-bhakti.

Śuddha-bhakti demands that you are His slave, and as He will want of you to do His service, you must do that, then you can rise up to the standard of śuddha-bhakti. Do you understand?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are His slave and your nature should be to wait for His order and to carry out that. So when under the guidance of a Guru who is in connection with Him, we just throw ourselves in his service, in order. Through him the order coming, from Guru, from sādhu, and if I throw at his disposal of that śuddha Guru, and sādhu, who is already in direct connection with Him, His agent, we put at his disposal, whatever he'll ask I'll do, that will be real service.

So, it is said in the śāstra, the service of a Vaiṣṇava is better than the direct service of the Lord. The cause is there. When I approach Him direct, then I have to imagine that this may be supposed, that this may be His direction. It may not be proper, it may be contaminated, adulterated, my conception, thinking that this must be His order. But when it's coming through the real sādhu, His agent, then if I can do that it has got direct connection with Him, real connection, so it fetches more improvement in me than my direct approach to Him.

So the Name must be Vaikuṇṭha, vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam, must be of infinite characteristic. That is Vaikuṇṭha, and not this thing, a member of this mundane or measured plane which can be measured as in the māyā, mṛyate, measured by local interest or provincial interest, not Absolute interest, not rooted there. But it must have its connection with the Absolute plane. Then it will come and transform me, and prepare me, to make me fit for the service of that Absolute plane.

Kṛṣṇa is there, it is not a thing of concoction, or imagination, supposition, or anything, it is reality, it is the reality, and what we think to be real at present that is all unreal. At present we are in the midst of a particular experience of the world, that is unreal, that will change, evaporate. But what we are searching through the śāstra and sādhu, the plane where Kṛṣṇa lives, and our personality there in connection of that plane within us, that is all true.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī / yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

What is night to one that is day to another, and what is day to one that is night to another. We are now wakeful only in the calculation of the local interest and provincial interest of the world. The human conception thrown...

Start of 82.11.01.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...absolute has His own conception, come out of His own perception. And we're to be converted into that, and our soul only can have experience, and get membership there, and not this body, mind, they will fail. The present eye, mind, they cannot grasp that thing. Only through ear it must come to our souls, soul will be awakened. All these rulings of the mind and the senses, they will evaporate and we'll get a free body of our soul emerged from this our present conscious body and mind. So everything must be of spiritual order. So imitation, the sahajiyā school, they try to find in this mundane plane what they heard about Kṛṣṇa, in this plane they want to find it, but it is not possible. We are to go there through sādhana under the direction of a real sādhu, how to go. Virajā, Param, Virajā first. Brahmāṇḍa bhedi yāya.

[upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya / 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153]

Different stages of this mundane conception from gross to subtle, seven stages where we live, including this, seven other stages of mundane. Bhūr, Bhuvar, Svar, Maha, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, then Virajā, then Brahmaloka, then Paravyoma. The creeper of our devotion, that gradually grows and pierces through all the stages and then touches the land of the Vaikuṇṭha, of the first real infinite conception, and passing through that again it will go to the Vṛndāvana. From the calculative devotion to the spontaneous devotion, devotion based on love, causeless and irresistible. And there we can find Kṛṣṇa with His paraphernalia engaged in His līlā. And gradually we may be accepted there. It is the reality there. No question of any imagination or concoction. So the instruction that comes to us, that must have its real origin, not a bogus party. We must not be prey to any bogus party. There are many wandering through the world to canvass their own adulterated thing in the market, in the name of Kṛṣṇa.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has sung [Śaraṇāgati, Bhakti-pratikūla-bhāva Varjanāṅgīkāra, Renunciation of conduct averse to pure devotion.]

Keśava tuwā jagata bicitra, "O Lord Keśava, You have, Your world is of a very variegated nature, very wonderful variegated nature, jagata bicitra.

Karama-vipāke, bhava-bana bhrama-i, pekhaluṅ raṅga bahu citra, As a result of my karma I am now floating in a particular stage where from I can see the various strange shows, the exhibition of different types has been presented here. Karama-vipāke, bhava-bana bhrama-i, pekhaluṅ raṅga bahu citra. Many curious things we are to have experience of here. Bhrama-i, pekhaluṅ raṅga bahu citra.

Tuwā pada-bismṛti, ā-mara jantraṇā, kleśa-dahane dohi' jāi. Really, separation from Your holy feet, that is the real cause of all these pains, sufferings, dohi' jāi, I am suffering from this.

Kapila, patañjali, gautama, kaṇabhojī, jaimini, bauddha āowe dhāi'. So many parties are approaching me and offering that, 'O you are suffering, you take this pill and swallow it, everything will be cured,' So many parties, Kapila, Śaṅkara. Patañjali with yoga system, Patañjali. Jaiminī with karma-kanda, Jaiminī. Kaṇabhojī, the atomic energy is the cause of this world, that is his idea, the atom is at the root of everything, kaṇabhojī. Gautama the logician, he also quoted, taking quotation from Veda and is proving by his logic that this is the ultimate truth, kaṇabhojī. Gautama, kaṇabhojī, jaimini, bauddha. Buddhists, they come with their nirvāṇa proposal, ahiṁsā, satya, dayar, nirvāṇa, nothing remains with this, bauddha āowe dhāi'.

Tab koi nija-mate, bhukti, mukti jācato. All of them have got one end. They take Your name, they have got free, but at the time of delivery, what they give, delivery, there they give their own impression. But the stamp they want to have in Your name, use Your stamp, but gives the delivery of the goods what they have got as their own experience. Tab koi nija-mate, bhukti, mukti. They can be classified as either enjoyment, exploitation, higher exploitation, or salvation, liberation from the exploitation. Nothing positive they have to give us. Nija-mate, bhukti, mukti jācato. Either some form of exploitation, enjoyment, or at most liberation from all sorts of enjoyment. That means deep, sound like sleep, samādhi, renunciation, lekbar, to be dissolved to be a zero consciousness, as in sound sleep. Bhukti, mukti jācato.

Pāta-i nānā-bidha fānd. But for that purpose, to canvass for their own line, they have shown us different types of traps, a very wonderful trap they have prepared and want to catch us in that trap, pāta-i nānā-bidha fānd.

So-sabu-bañcaka, tuwā bhakti bahir-mukha. But I find, by the light divine I got fortunately from the higher, that they're all deceivers, all deceives, cheaters. So-sabu-bañcaka, tuwā bhakti bahir-mukha. They cannot enter, cannot understand, but rather opposite. To admit the highest authority, that highest authority You are. They are all results. In the substantial point, in the most important point, we shall have to detect at last that though the stamp of Your name, but they have no connection with You in proper conception.

Pāta-i nānā-bidha fānd so-sabu-bañcaka, tuwā bhakti bahir-mukha, ghaṭāowe biṣama paramād. And in the end we see that we have attained nothing, we have got nothing, but we are under, we have to face a great reactionary force, ultimately we shall have. Ghaṭāowe biṣama paramād. The result of the greatest fool or ignorant person, at last we shall have to find that, that we're deceived, they're all deceivers. In Your name they came to exploit us, and in the last moment we shall find that we're faced with a great reaction, biṣama paramād.

So-sabu-bañcaka, tuwā bhakti bahir-mukha, ghaṭāowe biṣama paramād.

Daṇḍabat dūrato, bhakativinoda bhelo, bhakata-caraṇa kori' sār.

Baimukha-bañcane, bhaṭa so-sabu, niramilo vividha pasār.

We are to judge them, if we are to judge them from the Absolute standpoint, then we are to reckon them in this way. Baimukha-bañcane, bhaṭa so-sabu. They're also agents of the Supreme Authority, and they have come, they're engaged to deceive those that are not fit for the devotional school.

Just as Śaṅkarācārya was ordered, locarn mad mukam koru [?]

On the principle of civilization in the hospital, the seriously diseased are taken away from the less diseased persons, to save the less diseased. So who are sincere but have soft reason, to save them, the strong and atheistic section is removed by some temptation. So from the ultimate standpoint if we're to judge them, then we shall have to find this, that they have come to test, used by the authority to test our chastity, our sincerity of purpose, whether I can be tempted.

'That there is one authority and He's loving, He's so and so. Taking away I shall give you this sort of reward, all these things.'

Whether our mind can be taken astray, for this they are used as, baimukha-bañcane, bhaṭa so-sabu, Your messenger. And why? Baimukha-bañcane. Those that deserve to be deceived they come to receive that. But who are really sincere at heart, to get the programme to pay for that, they are saved, and they're safe, and they get the facility for their further service.

Baimukha-bañcane, bhaṭa so-sabu, niramilo vividha pasār. Daṇḍabat dūrato, bhakativinoda bhelo, bhakata-caraṇa kori' sār. But Bhaktivinoda has understood that, and he does not care for anything, but he blindly sticks to the holy feet of the devotees. He has known that Your real servants they're all in all. And these offering agents of big things, they will shoot the ambitious section, those that do not want real service. To select what is his own, that to be the minutest, to be a slave to You.

The Absolute, the highest ideal is so high. And considering my position if I'm offered to be a slave to Him, there is reality. And when they offer so many big proposals, they will make me a king, or an emperor, if I'm tempted with that then I'm a self deceiver. And they're real agents to, real canvasser for me, because I do not, "I want this." The great truth ignored, that I am small, smallest of the small. What is my work here? I ignore that, then I want to be a big king or emperor, and that cannot but be concoction, or imagination. But reality, if we think our position minutely, that when I may be thrust to such a worse position, then my independent value cannot be very high. So if I get slavery of the Absolute truth, that will be my highest blessing. The heart will select in that way. So to go to that direction only, our solace is in the real devotee, those that accept Your slavery. That line we must blindly attach and will go to Your land. And the big thing seekers, they're deprived.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...while young [Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī], and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura grown up, both of them went to visit a holy place located in Hoogly District, Koolingram, where Haridās Ṭhākura sometimes came, and other Vaiṣṇavas. Four generations of continuous devotees. Koolingram. He went to visit that ancient holy place. Then when they're entering into the village, on the outskirts there is a temple, and they found suddenly a man came out of the temple and asked them, "Please stay for this night here, and in the morning you will enter the village and will have darśana of all the villagers there."

They did, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and our Guru Mahārāja as young boy, both of them lived in that temple house. Then after nightfall Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura experienced, we heard from our Guru Mahārāja, experienced that so many brickbats are coming from different directions there. Then, 'What for? How? Why? And who will throw these brickbats to here?' Then Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura had some apprehension that there may be ghosts living here and they're trying to create disturbance. So he began chanting the Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā-mantra loudly, and after some time the thing disappeared. Then they passed the night there peacefully, and then in the morning entered the village, and managed to have all the darśana and the visit of all the places necessary.

Then some gentleman from there, "Early morning you entered the village. Where do you come from? And at night where did you live?"

Then he told that, "I lived in that temple, just outside the village there."

"Oh! How could you live there? There are so many ghosts living there and they throw stones at anyone who passes at night by that place. How could you stay there?"

Then Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura told, "Yes, when I found such things I began to chant very loudly the Nāma, Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, mahā-mantra, Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā-mantra, and subsequently everything disappeared."

"Oh, is it, then who are you, where from you are coming?"

Then he came to know that he was Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. They had already read his books and heard his name. Then they welcomed them, welcomed Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and our Guru Mahārāja, a boy, and showed all the places.

He told, "That what is this? The gentleman who was the priest of that temple he has been transformed into ghost, after his departure such trouble we find there, what is the cause? He used to take Hari-Nāma, Kṛṣṇa-Nāma. We are witness to that fact that he took the Name, often. We have heard from him. Why he's turned into ghost? At this time we can't understand this."

Then Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura had to tell to them that, "He might have repeated nāmākṣara, as the question from the Gītā a friend asked me, that the physical sound, this māyāic sound, that may be only physical sound, lip deep sound, not the spirit of the life of the Name was present, so nāmāparādha, he was committing nāmāparādha. How was his character? You must know that."

"Yes. In his character he was not a good man. He committed many things wrong, that we know. But this is the fact we can't deny, that he used to take the Name of the Lord, often, always, often, always."

And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura told, "Nāmākṣara bahiraya. Only the physical sound of the Name is not the Name proper, so the nāmāparādha and was the result of that. Then how can he be released from that wretched condition? Of course if they come in connection with a real sādhu and hears the real Name from his lips, or the explanation of Bhāgavatam, or Gītā. Anyhow hears something from a real bona fide sādhu who has got connection with Kṛṣṇa proper, then he may be released. Because in the scriptures we find that this is the way to get out of that entanglement." Anyhow Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura came out.

Then from that day all the troubles there ceased and the villagers were astonished. "Then that gentleman must have got his release, and hearing the Name of Ṭhākura Bhaktivinoda. When that trouble began Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he loudly took the Name and gradually that suppressed. So by hearing from the lips of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura the Name of Kṛṣṇa he has been liberated, has got release."

So persons came to see Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and gave the news, "From that day no other trouble is seen in that area. So we are confident that you are a great Vaiṣṇava. And after hearing the Names from your lips he has been released."

It was written in papers also, published, Mahārāja says. I also heard vague but I could not collect so much what Mahārāja has said. He has heard direct from Prabhupāda this. When Prabhupāda went to Vṛndāvana in this month of Kārtika, he used to deliver lectures regularly in Madhumangal Kuṇja, which belongs in the service of one of our Godbrothers, Saranindha Nārāyaṇa Rāya. His predecessors established that sevā in Vṛndāvana, Madhumangal Kuṇja. There Prabhupāda narrated this story of his own experience with Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

So nāmākṣara, they simply, the outer cover of the sound, cover of the Name is not the Name proper. But within there are many things, most important things within. But in the spiritual realization, the spiritual realization backing the Name, that is Name proper. Otherwise this tape recorder also can pronounce, a parrot also can pronounce the Name. Not the physical sound, but in the background there must be spiritual truth, and that is conscious, that is spiritual, that is soul. That is super knowledge crossing the knowledge of this mundane plane of different stages, after Satyaloka, Brahmaloka.

Devotee: _____ [?] sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahārāja reminds me to explain to you that which I have already explained many a time, that Rūpa Goswāmī Prabhus, that śloka particular. Kṛṣṇa, not only the Name, His Name, His rūpa, rūpa, guṇa, parikar, all these things are purely spiritual, spiritual not mundane. So it is not cognizable by our senses. Our tongue cannot pronounce Kṛṣṇa, our nose cannot get the scent of His body, our eyes cannot have sight of His beautiful figure, indriyatitha, transcendental, supramental. Not only our physical senses, but our mind also cannot think of Him, supramental, transcendental.

The knowledge at present which we have in our possession, His existence is transcending them all. In other words, as a subject we cannot have in His connection, it is subject of the subject. Ātma, Paramātmā, and beyond that, His realm. We should not forget that, which side He's existing. Taṭasthā-jīva, a subjective, marginal plane, he can think, he can know, but he can know only which is more gross than himself. But which is subtle, here he's helpless. But connection is only possible when the higher area wants this lower area to be taken up in its own plane.

So, only sevonmukhe hi jihvādau, if we can accept that in carrying current, die to live, if we can die as it were and surrender our innate self, inner most self, at the disposal of that will, in carrying to the centre. Then that wave can carry us up, and our soul may be a blade of grass, or a particle of dust in that current, it may be carried in that way. And not that we can enter there and walk as we do in this gross material world. Rather we are to walk there on our head, here we are walking on our feet, but there we walk on our head. Only by the grace on our head that can attract there and take us here and there.

They're all higher, the substance, the atmosphere, the air, ether, everything is higher than my valuation. There everything, the whole atmosphere is highly valuable, higher than any value I have of myself. Only for the service, only with the sincere spirit of service that we may be allowed to enter there, and may be taken to the highest position because they're all benevolent, all generous, all affection, all love, all good wish there. So we have got the prospect, we have got the chance to go there, but always under grace and never on our right. This creed we must accept from the beginning.

But the atmosphere is such that none feels any distinction between the slave and the master. It is so happy place there, and so benevolent, so loving. The slave cannot know that 'I am the slave in the family and they're the family man.' Such meanness is not found there. But really considering we're slave, and this is our wealth that we should consider. But by the power of Yogamāyā they forget that 'I am a slave' and that is the greatness, magnanimity of the atmosphere and the love of them and not by our. Our fortune also to certain extent that we are being able to anyhow to have got entrance into that high land, noble land. Anyhow I have the fortune and that is our, we are to be proud of that, that my fortune has taken me to such a place where the owners, and the man, and the masters, have got no distinction. Love is so intensely flowing here and most generously.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahārāja is saying that Rāvaṇa wanted to capture Sītā, and he thought he had done that. But the fact is that what to hold of the holy body of Sītā Devī, he could not see, can't see. Sītā Devī is another thing. What he's taking is a mundane representation of Sītā Devī, a straw imitation of Sītā Devī, or a statue of Sītā Devī, Rāvaṇa took. It may not be this flesh and body, and also may be seen in that plane. But really it was a material double of Sītā Devī, an imitation of Sītā Devī, Rāvaṇa took away. For a person here, Sītā Devī and his plane is not at all approachable. We cannot see, cannot feel, cannot enter, so what's the possibility of catching Sītā Devī and taking Her away. This is the real finding. It is all show. Rāvaṇa was cheated, and to serve some purpose to give some teachings, advice to the people here in the mundane world. But in the real sense no Rāvaṇa can come in connection with any person who's living in Vaikuṇṭha.

Akśayānanda Mahārāja, have you seen this Mahārāja? Yājāvara Mahārāja?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No. I'm very unfortunate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's the last sannyāsī disciple of our Guru Mahārāja, and he's senior than me.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of the direct sannyāsī disciple, only four are living, we two, and one Śrautī Mahārāja and another Yathārtha [?] Mahārāja in Vṛndāvana, four only.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Śrautī Mahārāja and?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrautī Mahārāja and Yathārtha [?] Mahārāja in Vṛndāvana. He was in Vṛndāvana for a long time. _____ [?] Yathārtha [?] Mahārāja was in Gaya.

Prabhupāda in his last days he wanted to hear kīrtana in the morning, in his bungalow. You must have visited Prabhupāda's bungalow in Cataka-Giri? In that bungalow he lived, and he wanted to hear kīrtana songs. But the gentleman, the devotee who used to chant the kīrtana, he was not considered fit. So before that when Prabhupāda went to Mathurā, he heard kīrtana from Yājāvara Mahārāja. His voice was very sweet, now also, but his young age a very, very sweet voice, and most sincerely with all hearts he could sing.

So Prabhupāda, he was in Gaya, Maṭh command, Prabhupāda sent a telegram to him, "Come at once to Purī." And he had to come to Purī, and he was engaged in the morning to sing songs to Prabhupāda, and especially that song, śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada, sei mora sampada, sei mora bhajana-pūjana. This song was, every morning he was ordered to sing, and he sang with most sincerity, and in a very sweet voice. We all were present there, a very charming view, we enjoyed a long time there.

And from there Prabhupāda came to Calcutta, and within a month he disappeared. And of course, twenty four hours before, he wanted me, and asked me to sing that very song. And after twenty four hours, in the morning, he left the world. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ Śrautī Mahārāja _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Prabhupāda was leaving the place, at that time he was present, Śrautī Mahārāja took him along with him in a preaching party.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] I attended all the last functions.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Another one, because I'm not a good singer, so Kuñja Bābu [Śrīpād Bhakti Vilās] Tīrtha Mahārāja, asked another gentleman to sing that.

But Prabhupāda stopped him, "I don't like to hear the tune."

So they had to stop, and I had to begin singing that song. So some internal purpose he had.

And the experts there told that, "Prabhupāda gave you admission in that plane. By asking you to sing this particular song, you are given admission to that plane, rūpānuga."

The highest position of aspiration is to become rūpānuga, to be a servitor just under the guidance of Śrī Rūpa, rāga-mārga, the director of rāga-mārga. All the books of rāga-mārga mostly come through him and Mahāprabhu taught him in Prayāga, Allahabad, at the place of the confluence of the Ganges and the Yamunā. And He talked to him all about rāga-mārga, and also blessed him. "I bless you that whenever it will be necessary, the flow will come out of itself to help you when you will try to relate the science of this Kṛṣṇa love, rāga-mārga."

The divine love, love in the characteristic we find in Vṛndāvana, that kind of love, śakti sancar, inspired, in way of its inspiration, the best words applied to him, Śrī Rūpa. And what he wrote, Mahāprabhu when He was here with Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāya Rāmānanda, they were the audience, heard them and praised very highly the composition of Rūpa Goswāmī, his writings.

So Akśayānanda Mahārāja, you went to meet him, but he had already left Delhi...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] that reactionary, outwardly.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That deals more philosophically. He deals philosophically in that book, Prema-vivarta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Many things in the name of Gaurāṅga, association, many things there which helps much for the propaganda of the Gauḍīya Maṭha.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So a particular section, the opposition camp of Gauḍīya Maṭha, they say that, "In the name of Jagadānanda this is written by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura." Their opinion because that book supports Gauḍīya Maṭha's decision very well.

Just as the sahajiyā section they think that when we live in Purī, the mahā-prasādam, no observance of Ekādaśī necessary. Because in Caitanya-caritāmṛta it is found, tāhāṅ upavāsa, yāhāṅ nāhi mahā-prasāda [prabhu-ājñā-prasāda-tyāge haya aparādha]

["When mahā-prasādam is not available, there must be fasting, but when the Supreme Personality of Godhead directly orders one to take prasādam, neglecting such an opportunity is offensive."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 11.114]

So when there is mahā-prasādam, even Ekādaśī day, we should not fast, take mahā-prasāda.

But in Jagadānanda Paṇḍita's that Prema-vivarta it is clearly written that Mahāprabhu was offered mahā-prasādam, but He touched it on His head, and He kept it respectfully, and the whole day and night chanted saṅkīrtana, then after that He took that prasādam. It is mentioned there. Similarly many things are.

[asādhu-saṅge bhai "kṛṣṇa-nāma" nahi haya,] "nāmākṣara" bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya

["O brothers, the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa is never to be found in the association of those who are unsaintly. The external sound of the Holy Name is never the Name proper."] [Prema-vivarta]

All these things, many things which are very helpful for the preachers of the Gauḍīya Maṭha, it is found there, proof positive.

So Biman Majumdar, one scholar he was professor of Patna [?] University. Perhaps he came from the sahajiyā family or so. At least he accepted something of Mahāprabhu, but he could not tolerate the bitter criticism of the sahajiyā section from Gauḍīya Maṭha. So he has written a book and there he has mentioned carefully, very cleverly, "Who has written this book is not clearly known, but what the Gauḍīya Maṭha people preaches, they have got full support from this book." In this way he has written, that professor. He's a professor at Patna [?] University. And especially that "Māyāpur is nearer to Baladisi [?]" It is also mentioned there. Mahāprabhu's house.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, can you tell us how Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Prabhupāda found Śrīvāsa's place of residence in Māyāpur. He established that, yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He's asking, "Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, established the place of Śrīvāsa Aṅgan, how did he do that?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First Yoga-pīṭha, the birthplace of Mahāprabhu, that was determined first. And then it is mentioned in Bhakti-ratnākara, in three ancient books, that how far Srivasa Aṅgan from Yoga-pīṭha, and Advaita bhavan, in this way it is mentioned in the ancient books. Accordingly it was ascertained by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. Before Prabhupāda took the charge, the location of Śrīvāsa Aṅgan, Advaita bhavan, they are all finished by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

And one Bhaktivilāsa Ṭhākura, he was first a Brahmo type, then he, coming in touch with Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, he came to be follower of Mahāprabhu. And especially by his enthusiasm, and his collection, that Śrīvāsa Aṅgan was built up. And in the beginning he was there and went on with his bhajana, that Bhaktivilāsa Ṭhākura. And his vairāgya, abnegation, was also very appreciable. In old age also he used to put his head, instead of pillow, on a brick. With so much austerity he lived his past days.

Then his son, of his previous life, came to the Maṭha and ultimately took sannyāsa, and his name was Purī Mahārāja. He also in his last days lived there, and samādhi of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Purī Mahārāja is there. A very strict sannyāsī he was, Purī Mahārāja.

And they come from Amlajura, the favourite place, and visited several times by Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja. Jagannātha Dasa Bābājī Mahārāja had a very good gṛhastha disciple there in Amlajura village. And sometimes he took his Gurudeva Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī there nearby, and he lived sometime in the year. And for that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura also visited that Amlajura. And a Maṭha was established there, near Baram [?] town, Amlajura town, a Maṭha.

And Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, he lived there for some time. And some say his real samādhi was there, and here is his puṣpa-samādhi, Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī. And it was found in Gauḍīya, that old Jagannātha Dāsa Bābājī he founded, here he lived up to one hundred and twenty five years, very, very old. And he suddenly when passing by told one of his disciples namely Bihari dāsa, we saw him, he used to carry him on his shoulder. Suddenly one day he told, "Oh, just get me down. Here is the place where Kazi broke the mṛdaṅga, Śrīvāsa Aṅgan." So he came down from the head of his disciple and gave his prostration to that place. "That is the place where Kazi broke the mṛdaṅga. And this is Śrīvāsa Aṅgan." In this way it was located. And in Bhakti-ratnākara, old books, it is also found that from Mahāprabhu's house, _____ [?] four cubit means six feet. That is a dhanu. So many dhanu distance from Yoga-pīṭha. In this way it was located, Śrīvāsa Aṅgan, Advaita bhavan, etc.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What year did you write that? In which year did you write that poem, that song?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some ten of twelve years back, perhaps.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They came with a complaint to me that, "Bon Mahārāja, Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, had left Prabhupāda, his paramparā. They're finding out another paramparā that is from Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's past Guru to Jāhnavā Devī, that line. They're discovering and they say that this is our Guru paramparā. So they have left Prabhupāda."

Then I took up the cause of Bon Mahārāja and Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī, and explained the thing, that they have not left Prabhupāda. This is śikṣā-guru-paramparā, and many times they had to face a challenge from the sahajiyā section that, 'you have no guru-paramparā-mantra.'

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Then I put their points also in such a way that they're very much satisfied, Bon Mahārāja and Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī.

They told that, "Śrīdhara Mahārāja has put our position very clearly, what we ourselves could not do."

So the opposition party, what is the contention of the opposition party? To satisfy him by representing his cause, and then to refute, that is my nature. What the opposition party wants to say, to collect that to their utmost satisfaction, you want to say this, this, this, and they are very satisfied. Now, from my side I want to say this. Generally the opposition they are satisfied that I am not making injustice to them. Their point is well represented.

Bhagavad-gītā minutely. Then you will be able to know this. There are so many things in the name of religion, but what is their position, how they are harmonized to devotion. If we study Bhagavad-gītā the yoga is there, so many, the sāṅkhya-jñāna is there, the Vedānta is there, the devotion is there, this karma is there, so many things represented, and how they're linked with pure devotion, higher devotion, if we study that minutely, then we can get the knowledge, and the comparative study of the whole religious world, mostly. It depends there.

Assimilation of Bhagavad-gītā we are to follow minutely. Then a comparative study of all religious positions we shall be able to have some knowledge. How yoga is connected with bhakti, how jñāna is connected with bhakti, how karma connected with bhakti. Mainly karma and the atheism is also there, that is also dealt there. So what is the position of the atheism and theism, and then theism of how many, the degree of theism, how many phases of theism, this karma-kāṇḍa, jñāna-kāṇḍa, another yoga and what is their position? Also Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has got assimilation, and Bhagavad-gītā in a better way, in a very small place, in a nutshell, connecting link, find there, comparative study of religious thoughts. In Bhāgavatam, in Bhāgavat also it is there. So many things going on in the name of religion. All conceptions may not be of equal value as the Ramakrishna mission bogusly, and forcibly tries to impress on the public. It is all bogus.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ramakrishna mission, they say everything is good, then we say...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Good, not only good; good, better, best, not everything good. All of equal goodness.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then we say, "But you are bogus." Then they say, "Then Gauḍīya Maṭha is not good."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it good? I say sometimes that if anyone says that I hate Ramakrishna and Vivekānanda, is that also a method, a way by which one can attain salvation? Little strongly I told that to abuse them and spite on them, that is a method to go to Vaikuṇṭha. Do you admit that? Because that is an opinion given by me. This is one way I recommend.

It was said in an public meeting that Vivekānanda was a guṇḍā. And Ramakrishna he was a mukha- pūjārī, stupid priest, and he was a rogue, rowdyism, ruffian. Vivekānanda was a ruffian and Ramakrsna was a stupid priest.

And hearing this Prabhupāda told that, "Siddhānti Mahārāja, Siddha Svarūpa Brahmacārī, he has done a very valuable service to me. So long I was saying that, rajas tama tarita, rajas tama tarita [?], they're influenced by raja-guṇa and tama-guṇa. Vivekānanda and others, they say, their statement is only the result of the pressure of raja and tama-guṇa. But general public cannot understand what is raja tama tarita. But Siddhānti has made it clear to the public that a guṇḍā. Raja tama tarita means guṇḍā, in colloquial language. I wanted to give impression to the people, but the public could not understand, but Siddhānti has given in such a dress that it has created a good impression to the public that what is their real position in the religious world."

There is a tie within our heart, and the tie will be torn asunder, and the svarūpa-śakti, the flow of the innate tendency will come out and inundate the whole area. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. The tie will be torn. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. Then within the heart the sleeping soul, svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti, that Goloka conception within, that will come out and inundate the whole area. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. This is a knotty problem. How it is possible that all the doubts may be cleared? Is it possible at all? The finite will know everything? This is rather inconsistent, with the position of the finite. The finite will know everything? What is this? Absurd!

["Enquire into that upon knowing which, nothing further remains to be known. Try to achieve that upon gaining which, nothing further remains to be gained."] [Upaniṣads]

How the finite will know that he has got everything, that he has known everything? It is absurd, but it is there. And if this is solved then everything is solved, almost, automatically. The finite may come to such a position that wholesale satisfaction he has got, all his inquisitive tendency satisfied. In Upaniṣads also, not only in Bhāgavatam.

When I came to Gauḍīya Maṭha, very watchfully I mixed with them. They say that, "What they say, that is the only truth; and all else are false." It is a very bitter pill to swallow. "Everyone is suffering from ignorance. And what we say, that is the right thing." What is this? A sane man cannot very easily swallow such pill. So I also could not digest.

But because Mahāprabhu is there, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Bhagavad-gītā, then Upaniṣads, all these things came. "Yes, it is saying so, same. Yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam. If I know Him, everything is known. If I get Him, everything is got. It is there. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says also, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, all doubts are cleared. Such a knowledge we come thereby. It is there, plainly. How it is possible? Then another similar question came from Bhāgavatam.

yathā taror mula niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopaśākhāḥ prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānāṁ, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

They're similar. If we put food into the stomach, whole body is fed. So such important point is possible. If we pour water into the root of the tree, whole tree is fed. Something like that. If we do our duty towards the centre, then the whole is fed, whole is done. It is the greatness, the mysterious position of the centre. The centre is such. He has got control over the whole. It is the peculiarity in the system of the organic whole. The central office is captured, a particular position of the brain is captured, then everything will be. One needle in that particular position of the brain, the whole body will be paralysed. Something like that. The central peculiar position of the centre. So kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam. It is possible.

[ete cāṁśa-kalāḥ puṁsaḥ, kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam
indrāri-vyākulaṁ lokaṁ, mṛḍayanti yuge yuge]

["All the above-mentioned incarnations are either plenary portions or portions of the plenary portions of the Lord, but Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the original Personality of Godhead. All of them appear on planets whenever there is a disturbance created by the atheists. The Lord incarnates to protect the theists."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28]

Prabhupada once gave example in Bombay to a question, enquiry of one educated gentleman.

"Suppose I'm a poor girl, I've got nothing, and in constitutional position it is not possible that I may have anything. But if I get married with one who has got everything, who is the master of a big property, then by my friendly relationship with that master, we can have command over many things. Though poor, but the relationship with the master, that makes us master of the many things."

So the centre is there, who can control everything, and our affectionate relationship with Him may take me in a position that through Him I'm in command of many things, by affectionate position, in such a way. In such a way jīva can know, jīva can have possession, all these things, in this way. Through the subtle link it is possible. Through Him everything is possible. As much as I can go nearer to Him, I shall catch.

["A Vaiṣṇava is one who has developed all good transcendental qualities. All the good qualities of Kṛṣṇa gradually develop in Kṛṣṇa's devotee."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.75]

His influence comes to inspire, all His qualities comes down in the heart of His devotees. In that way. Though not master, but only through the link of love he can be master, he can have any right, anything else. This is the line.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati, yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

Tad viddhi vijñāsam tad eva brahma. You want to know? If you go to know a particle of sand, lives will go, crores of lives will go. You will analyse the sand and no end of understanding a particular sand. But that won't give you proper knowledge. Jijñāsa, you want to enquire, so enquire about the centre, that is the call of Upaniṣad. Don't lose your time, waste your time by, as a subject to analyse the smallest part and to be master of that, it is also not possible. Your enquiry should be guided properly.

"I say, I am He. I am the centre. I say come to Me, to know Me, and through Me you will be able to know everything, because I know everything. Because I know everything, I can control everything. So your connection with Me, that can give you that assurance and that capacity to you. Approach everything through Me. Then you will be able to know their proper position. Otherwise the partial thing, and that is also outer, external thing, incomplete. And that you will end your lives, and crores of lives, but no end."

But those who speculate in order to understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead are unable to know You, even though they continue to study the Vedas for many years."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.29] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 6.84]

"For eternity you may devote in the erroneous direction. No possibility of coming to end of understanding. But you try to come to the centre, in no time you'll be able to know what is what, through Me. That is the direction. And that is devotion. [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

"You will come to Me only through submission, and when you'll get Me, you won't care for knowing anything else, what are happening or not happening in the world outside. You will deeply engage in Me and My service, in My satisfaction. There you will find the object of your life fulfilled. You will find fulfilment in My service. And this knowing things outside, that will seem to you rubbish. What is the necessity of wasting my time with the calculation of so many things? The nectar is here, deeper than this side. That will be all you attention than that."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Bhāgavata-dharma.

The other day the lady came and asked, "Why varṇāśrama-dharma was ignored and from any place, anyone they have been accepted by the devotional school, Mahāprabhu's school. What is the reason?"

I told, you are to risk varṇāśrama-dharma, then karmārpaṇa, then that karma-miśrā-bhakti, then jñāna- miśrā-bhakti, all rejected by Mahāprabhu.

"Eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59]

Then when the question came, "What is further, higher?"

"Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. Yes, eho bāhya, here it begins."

That means this karma and jñāna unnecessary. The life of bhakti can be begun independent of karma and jñāna. And from any position only through sukṛti and through ruci. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ.

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatāṁ yadi kuto 'pi labhyate tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

Our eagerness, earnestness for the thing, that is necessary. And not our aspiration to know anything and everything, or to have enough energy under our control, as karma. That can give exploitation and renunciation. But to get the touch of the Lord, only service, the inclination wherever he may be, only from the source of a real sādhu, he will find some interest to hear about the Lord. The beginning is there, proper beginning, bhakti school. Bhakti school may begin independent of the position in varṇāśrama, or anything, jñāna. And he may not be a wise man, he may not be a very energetic man, may not be master of opulence and other powers. But only minimum is demanded from him, that he has got very earnest hunger, he must have some smallest tastefulness about the Lord. He must find some sweetness, some taste in His words, in His affairs, when it is coming from a proper source, through a genuine sādhu, proper agent. That taste will take him farther, gradually, into the highest domain. And the jñānī and the karmī, they have to cast out their, throw out their shackle, and come to this position ultimately to depend on the taste. The taste is everything, taste in His affairs, that is all-important, all-in-all.

So, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva jīvanti san-mukharitāṁ bhavadīya-vārtām. Anything about You is very tasteful to them. Wherever he be does not matter. That is the real qualification of a devotee, and through that tastefulness he will progress, from ruci he will go to the ultimate end of life.

The śaraṇāgata. To take shelter under His protection absolutely, and want. Very sweet, very, very sweet. I can't avoid, I can't do about tasting such sweet things, such exclusive feeling of the taste for Him. That is the real seed which can produce the bhakti creeper, the creeper of devotion. And that will gradually touch the feet of Krsna.

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

The creeper will grow and it won't try to find any support for anywhere in the near planes, but it will grow and grow. 'Virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya. Finally some sort of satisfaction when it will reach in the personal conception of the Absolute. Tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana'. It won't stop there. It will go up to Goloka, not calculative devotion, crossing that it will rise up to the stage of spontaneous devotion, automatic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the love is the worshipping factor, adoring factor there, everywhere. Relationship of love, divine, to anyone and everyone's speciality the centre, object. And he will find his fulfilment anywhere by getting a service in a particular position of Him. That is what is needed. Land of love and some engagement in the loving service of the central representation of absolute sweetness and beauty and love.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu came, that highest absolute centre came down to invite us to His home. "I have come to invite and to take you all to My home, come."

How good a chance, a fortunate chance we have got. And by catching, by accepting, by admitting ourselves in that line, how happily we can go there. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So, the very gist of all religions, knowingly or unknowingly, every soul is searching for such things. But different variegated obstacles are coming to dissuade us from our campaign. But heart won't be satisfied until and unless he reaches there. Journey can never be stopped anywhere. A question of delay, long, long time, ages, ages will pass by, uselessly wasted. Because from the depth of our heart we cannot relish any other things, and accept as our final destination, but beauty and love, not power.

Apparently it may seem that we want to be master of everything, that power, that controlling capacity, that everything will come under my control. 'Whatever I shall think, it will be done.' But that is not. Apparently it may seem that we want power, not power.

And sometimes we may think we want to know everything. 'I do not like to have control over all, but I want to know anything and everything. I don't like to be ignorant.' That is also, a section may think. But that is also not the ultimate end which can fulfil our inner necessity.

Really what we want, we are to be educated about the searching of our own heart. If we do that rightly then we shall find we are all beggar of love, affection. The adoration of everything, that is the innermost necessity everywhere. And that can satisfy only Vṛndāvana līlā, Braja līlā, we shall find.

Vyāsadeva has dealt, even all the scholars of the world at present they admit that Vedavyāsa he has distributed so many different thoughts. There's not anyone to compete with him in that matter. So many types of thought is represented by Vedavyāsa in Mahābhārata, then Bhāgavatam, so many Purāṇas, Veda, Vedānta. All possible representations and considerations of all possible thoughts are represented by him alone. So he was master of all sorts of understandings. And he has given in his last days, what is given in Bhāgavatam, the love, prema, Bhāgavata-prema, Kṛṣṇa-prema.

All your hankerings are apparent, not innermost. The innermost hankering for every jīva soul is for this, is for beauty and love, affection and harmony, and not for power, not for knowledge, not for anything else. This is the diagnosis of all the animate in space, their common cause is they want. But to reach to such clear stage of hankering, understanding his own real deeper necessity, not to be found anywhere and everywhere. Very few souls are found that are really conscious of their inner necessity, innermost necessity, 'that I want Kṛṣṇa. I want Vṛndāvana.' These sort of sincere souls not to be found very broadly, widely.

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.150]

And that Garuḍa Purāṇa, brāhmaṇānāṁ sahasrebhyaḥ satra-yājī viśiṣyate, satra-yāji-sahasrebhyaḥ sarvva-vedānta-pāragaḥ sarvva-vedānta-vit-koṭ yā viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate, vaiṣṇavānāṁ sahasrebhyaḥ ekāntyeko viśiṣyate

Among millions of knowers of Vedānta, one who is a devotee of Viṣṇu is best. And among thousands of devotees of Viṣṇu, one who is an unalloyed Vaiṣṇava is best."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.117] & [Bhakti-sandarbha, 117]

Ekānta. Sarva-dharmān parityajya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] Ekānta. Only one end, not many necessary, only one, the one, that very one we want, not many. Not masters of many but the one we want and as lover.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Rāma Rāma. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

_____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyone of you want to ask something?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes Mahārāja. Caitanyadeva was a great scholar. As Nimāi Paṇḍita He was celebrated as the greatest scholar India will ever know. And then He gave up this scholarship in favour of bhakti, or devotion. My question is, is there any progress one can make as scholar towards the goal. But I think you explained that one cannot arrive at the goal just by scholarship. I ask because one scholar came to Navadwīpa, Mr Tony K. Stewart, he was a research scholar, a Fullbright scholar. And he had a very analytical approach to the teachings of Mahāprabhu. So I was wondering if there is any merit at all to scholarship, can any progress be made in that direction?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why did you not invite that gentleman to come to take him here?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: We did. I practically begged him, Guru Mahārāja. Actually this video can possibly be sent to the University of Chicago.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the position of scholarship, as a subject he will digest everything and express to know anything and everything. This is foolish.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He was taking a humble approach, he was being humble, but he was very academic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very humble, and sham humility, not humility genuine. If he had real humility he should have approached those that have some knowledge about Śrī Caitanyadeva before he ventures to go on researching about Caitanyadeva. _____ [?] Birds of the same feather flock together.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He knows some members of Navadwīpa Dhāma who claim to have knowledge about Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, there are so many men of his type, such birds are many here, of his feather. When there was one king in Karol and he was a devotee of Śiva. Then some whim came to him and to all scholars he sent a circular that, "I say Śiva is the highest God, and if you have got any opposition, come to oppose in my assembly of scholars, or you sign it."

Then almost all the scholars silently signed there.

Then that circular come back and he told, "Oh," to his minister, one learned minister he had, he said, "I have gathered all the signatures of all the scholars. They acknowledge that Śiva is the highest God. See, it is done, finished."

Then the minister wanted to see who are the signators and after seeing he told, "Oh, they have taken so many signatures from different parts but no sign of Rāmānuja is here. These are all useless signatures. If you can bring a signature of Rāmānuja, then I shall admit that your preaching that Śiva is the highest that is complete. A proper man is there. He's a true Vaiṣṇavaite, Rāmānuja. And these are all false, show."

Then he wanted to have his signature. Hearing that it is not so easy, where Rāmānuja was staying in Śrī Rangan nearby, he put his own camp. No, first he invited Rāmānuja, he sent men, "Bring Rāmānuja here."

Then Rāmānuja and his followers they are keeping all these intimations, happenings. And when they find that the batch of perhaps soldiers are coming to take him prisoner. Then what to do? Within the area of his kingdom they are living.

Then one of the favourite disciples of Rāmānuja he told that, "You go away in disguise and I shall take your dress and I shall court arrest as Rāmānuja."

After much discussion with the disciples and friends this was settled. And Kuresh [?], he was also a good paṇḍita, he took the sannyāsa dress of Rāmānuja, and his white dress was given to Rāmānuja. And Rāmānuja passed through the boundary line. They saw Rāmānuja is a sannyāsī, he's within, and ordinary man passing away, they did not stop him or search him. Rāmānuja went away. And Kuresh he's in the place of Rāmānuja, he was there present. And they came, "Yes, take me there in the court." He went there to the court.

Then the king put this question, "Do you accept that Śiva is the highest God?"

He, in a ridiculous way put the answer. "We see that cark is greater than siva."

That means, that was a class of measurement, four siva, siva that is the measurement of the grains, four parts which is known as siva makes one cark. So he put the answer in such a negligent way that "Cark is greater than siva."

The man flew into fire. "Oh!"

But before this there was another incident. One time the young daughter of the king she was caught by a ghost, a brāhmaṇa ghost, brahma daitya, and that brahma daitya - he tried his best to apply any sort of mystic mantram to cure her but all failed. Then he sent for Yādavaprakāśa, the greatest Śaṅkarite paṇḍita of his kingdom. And Yādavaprakāśa came and tried by applying so many mystic mantram but the brāhmaṇa ghost laughed at him.

"Oh, you were a, _____ [?] means _____ [?] a class of small animals, like this mongoose class animal, little greater. In your last life you were such animal, and by taking the prasādam of Vaiṣṇava this life you have become brāhmaṇa and paṇḍita. I won't care you, but you have got your disciple named Rāmānuja. If he comes and puts his feet dust on my head, I shall get released and I shall leave this girl."

Then he was silenced. And the king enquired, "Who is Rāmānuja? Your disciple he said. Have you got such disciple named Rāmānuja?"

"Yes I have got one boy disciple."

"Then please send him."

What to do, Rāmānuja was sent and the feet dust of Rāmānuja was taken on his head and that ghost disappeared, saying that, "I'm satisfied, I'm released now by the feet dust of this great Vaiṣṇava."

Then this king he had some gratefulness towards Rāmānuja. So now in this position he told, "Oh, that fellow saved once my daughter's life so I won't take his life. But do one thing, both the eyes take out."

And it was done. Then he was left near the garden on the street.

...both the eyes and his parents taking him again home, Ranganatha.

But, in this story we find that the wise minister told that, "So many signatures have got no value, only one Rāmānuja I want. His signature is important."

So such is the position. Ordinary people, what value they have got in their signature. That is enough in number. Pseudo Vaiṣṇavite, not proper servant. Proper servant of a Vaiṣṇava, real servant of a Vaiṣṇava is necessary, and they're so-called self-made Vaiṣṇava, by studying.

One scholar of Mādhava school in Madras, when I was there this Nagaraja Sharma, he told. The Radhakrsnan who was the Rastrapati of India, a good scholar, and another Suren Das Gupta from _____ [?]
Bengali, gentleman, he also wrote a book of international comparative study of philosophy. But this Nagaraja Sharma he criticized drastically both.

"That they tried to approach eastern philosophy through western method so they're all bogus. They do not know anything of the eastern philosophy."

So this intellectual understanding of the Vaiṣṇavaite, or the Vedic truth, it is impossible, a farce. The sevā must be there, all-important factor, praṅipāta, paripraśna and sevā, serving attitude. Then he will be allowed to enter into the domain.

Or, as our Guru Mahārāja told that, "There is honey in a bottle and the bee is sitting on the body of the bottle and thinking that he's getting honey."

It is like that. That intellect cannot approach, cannot enter the domain of higher spirit. This subject is below that supreme subject. Only by service He will be satisfied and He will come down, and we will be able to understand "Oh, this is such and such." This Vedic knowledge is like that.

We are taṭasthā and if you want any truth about the higher then that is more subtle, that is super-subjective. That can come to touch me, but I cannot climb up to that domain of my sweet will. Only if they grace to take me in I can go.

This is the Hindenburg line there, must have to cross. Then the Russian will be able to enter into German area, crossing Hindenburg line, at that time in the first great war.

That is the test. One who has got that in his hand he'll be able to combat all the existing so many intellectuals. That intellect has no capacity to enter into higher subject. That is atīndriya. Avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ. It is not only statement in mouth, lip deep. Avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ. You want to know that. And the only condition, the real condition that you must have a submissive attitude, so much so that He will be satisfied with your attempt and will come down to be caught by you. There should be sincere heart to serve, not a matter of research of this world.

This Mādhava Purī was impressed by my once word, when he told that so many wonderful things they are discovering. It is already there, or they're creator? Those wonderful truths are already there. They are only some of them are discovering something. But that intelligent characteristic is already there. So it is not their creation, so they're not superior to that truth. It is there. And anyhow they know a part of it with some endeavour. But the conscious nature, the reasoned nature, and superior reason they are going on researching researching, still it is unfinished, already there, already there it is. And what they find that is some outer cover, not the real spirit, substance.

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja said: "Because of their uncontrolled senses, persons too addicted to materialistic life make progress toward hellish conditions and repeatedly chew that which has already been chewed. Their inclinations toward Kṛṣṇa are never aroused, either by the instructions of others, by their own efforts, or by a combination of both."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.30]

You can come back, if you try to press your intelligence to enter into that domain you will come back dissatisfied, in despair, and it will wander here only, more and more, again and again, punaḥ punaś. Indriya grāhya buddha. The sense experience world it will come and go through its different phases, but can't enter that. To enter that only the submission to the real agent, and the process will be given if you accept that you will be able to enter that world, not otherwise. You will have to roam, wander in this sense experience world, nothing else. Can't accept. Punaḥ punaś carvita-carvaṇānām.

That is his contention, or what?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: That's the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By knowledge only we can understand what is love and we can have admission into that domain? Knowledge, jñāna-śūnya bhakti, he does not approve jñāna-śūnya bhakti?

The founder of Bhārat Sevāśrama Saṅga, he wanted me to join his mission. But I told that my head is already sold in the teachings of Śrī Caitanyadeva.

"Yes, I also revere Him. But I say that first you must learn indifference to this worldly pleasure as Buddha preached. Then you will come to study the Vedānta of Śaṅkara, what is knowledge proper. All this world is nothing and Brahman is everything. Then the prema-dharma, the love of Śrī Caitanyadeva afterwards. It is the highest thing of attainment, I think like that."

Then I answered, that you say so, but Caitanyadeva did not say that go to the Buddhistic school to learn abnegation, and then go to Śaṅkara school to acquire Vedāntic knowledge, and then come to Me. He has not told. He said wherever you are you get the association of a real Vaiṣṇava, sādhu, and go on with śravaṇa, kīrtana.

But that man was dumb. He did not speak, he was silenced.

Not from any qualification from our side He can be caught. But only thing is necessary, that whomever He will choose to make Himself known, he will know. This is from Upaniṣad. Nāyam ātmā pravacanena. Not by lectures and discussions, pravacanena. Na medhayā. Not by sharp memory, never by that, medhayā, or intelligence, that one is a genius, supernatural intellect he has got - no, that is not the capacity, na medhayā. Na bahunā śrutena. Whoever He will choose, "That I shall come to make Myself known to him." All right reserved there. His sweet will.

So how to tackle with His sweet will? That is the question, how we can tackle with His sweet will? That is śaraṇāgati, to increase the negative side of us. "That I'm so poor. Without Your grace I can't live." To try to arouse pity in His heart, in His understanding, that I'm in extreme need of Him. Without that I can't live. Such sincere feeling of such necessity can only draw His attention to us, śaraṇāgati. That is the way. Otherwise no possibility of capturing Him. But the negative aspect of capturing Him has been recommended. Dainyam, ātmanivedana, goptṛtve varaṇa, viśvāsaḥ rakṣiṣyatīti. Exclusive prayer that "I'm the most needy," and sincere. That can draw His attention towards you. And that is a fact, that He Himself says. That is not any surmise, or speculation, that is a fact. That is reality.

One scholar, as a sannyāsī, he met me in Badarikāśrama, and he posed to be an atheist when in the course of discussion. "That there is God, ātmā, what is the evidence?"

Then I read one śloka from Bhāgavatam.

ātmā parijñāna-mayo [vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ
vyartho 'pi naivoparameta puṁsāṁ, mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ sva-lokāt]

The other says: "God does not exist!" Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that the ātmā is self effulgent, but still we find that one class of men say, "He exists, we see Him, He can be seen," and another says: "He has never existed." This quarrel has no end because one of the parties hasn't got the eye to see what is self-evident. This quarrel is a useless waste of time, but still it will never stop; it will continue forever."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34]

Ātmā, the spirit, is self-effulgent. Vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti. So we find that there is this quarrel between the parties. One party says "He is," one party says "He is not, He does not exist." There is a quarrel. Ātmā parijñāna-mayo. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says the ātmā is self-effulgent. But still we find there are two sections. One section says that, "He is, we see Him, He can be seen." Another one, "No, no, He has never existed." Vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti. Hy astīti. "Surely He does exist." Another party, Hy nāstīti. "Surely He's not existent." Then this sort of quarrel has got no end, because the particular section is there who has got no eye. Vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ, vyartho 'pi naivoparameta. It is useless waste of time. Still it won't be stopped. It will continue forever. Why? Because there are two sections, one who has got eye to feel Him, and another who has got not the eye to feel Him, and feel their own self. Mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ sva-lokāt. The particular section is there who is deviated from God consciousness, barrier between God consciousness and them, and self-consciousness and them. A particular section will always continue and this quarrel will also continue. It is only due to particular sections ignorance.

But those who have got eyes they will say, "Oh, there is sun." And those who have got no eyes they will say, "No, there is no sun." And this will continue forever. That does not mean that sun is not existing. It can show himself.

Our Prabhupāda gave another instance, version.

Start of 82.11.02.C_82.11.03.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our Guru Mahārāja gave another instance. That one boy is born in a dungeon, in a dark prison house, room. And he's also grown up there. He can't have any experience of sunlight.

Then one of his friends from outside who used to come and go, one day he said, "Let us go to see the sun. Come with me, I shall show you."

"Yes, I shall go." But he's taking the lantern.

"Don't, it's not necessary to take the lantern, to see the sun."

"Do you think that I am a fool? Can anything be seen without the help of the light? I'm not such a fool. What do you say?"

Then he forcibly took him by the hand.

"Oh, this is the sun. By his light everything is seen."

Ātmā is like that. Our Guru Mahārāja, God or ātmā is like that. He's seen by His own light and we also can see anything and everything only by His light. He's such, self-effulgent. Ātmā parijñāna-mayo. Self-effulgent means this, that He can show Himself and show others, others also He can show, He is the source of all knowledge. Conception of Godhead is like that. Automatically existing, His knowledge, by the help of another light the sun cannot be seen. By intellect, by knowledge, the God consciousness we shall acquire, it is not necessary. It is independent. Knowledge of God is independent. That can come and go. And if comes with Him everything comes. And nothing can force Him to take you here within yourself. Sun cannot be taken into your whole, but you are to go to the sun and to see by his grace anything and everything, the light is such.

ātmā parijñāna-mayo vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ

When I pronounced this śloka that man also knew this, that sādhu, he also followed my pronunciation, and suddenly touched my feet.

"Oh, I also know this but it does not come in time. But you have got such realization that in the time of necessity this śloka has come to you."

That was his statement. He was friend of Rajendra Prasada who was the first Rastrapati of India.

He told, "We worked together for the country but when he got that post he went to occupy and asked me, I shall grant a pension to you and you go on in any way you like. I told that I did not want any pension. I shall go walk in the country, I shall become a sādhu and go on preaching about Bhāgavatam. And so I did not take his assistance."

He expressed later on. He promised to visit my place but did not come. A stalwart man, very tall and with good health, a very fair body, a Behari, comes from Behar.

Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātatam, viṣṇor yat padam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viṣṇo paramaṁ pada. The holy feet of Nārāyaṇa has been asked to be looked at like sun. Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātatam [Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20]. Cakṣur here told as sun. As we see the sun in the sky, so Viṣṇu's holy feet we shall try to imagine like that. What is sun? Sun is the seer, pradārṣaka. We see the sun, but really sun helps us to see things. So the holy feet, feet means the distant part of Viṣṇu towards us. _____ [?] Still, what is the lower part to us, the beginning of realization for us, that is like sun, seer. So we should try to see anything and everything by the ray of the holy feet of Viṣṇu, cakṣur ātatam.

Or, in another way we shall think, that is like a big eye spread over the sky. He's seeing everything. Whatever we do or not, the guardian's vigilant eye over our head. He's param pada. His holy legs can see, like sun, like eye. The guardian's eye over our head always. Before we enter into any action we must think us with this Veda mantra, Ṛg-Veda, the first Veda, and this important first mantram is this.

So amongst the brāhmaṇas, the Vedic school, it has been told that whenever you want to do any service pertaining to this religion varṇāśrama you first think yourself, remember this Ṛg mantra. Viṣṇu's feet is over you and looking at you like a guardian's eye. Now what to do, how to do, you begin. With this idea that He's seeing everything, you can't do anything wrong. You won't be able to venture to do anything and everything. The searching eye over you, the all-knowing omniscient eye over you watching. So now do what you can. Everything is known to Him. Under His vigilant eye you are to begin anything and everything and do and finish, with this idea.

It will purify your heart, cannot but purify your heart and understanding, whole of your mental system and approach in the right way. Not that what you are doing, none is knowing, you can do anything and everything, you are master, wire puller, not only of your own but of the world. You are going to connect your mastery, your influence over the environment. Trying all these selfish attempt, consider that one big eye is spread over your head and seeing everything. And like sun, so strong x-ray light, searching light.

What you do not know in yourself He knows also that, what is underground subconscious region that also He can see. What you do not know about you, He knows about you and that degree. In the midst of that you try to remain, move and live. You cannot but be purified. The whole thing wrong, that will vanish by that light. In the treatment of light if it is possible by the ray we can cure all the disease of the body, some ray like x-ray put into the body and all the anomalies disappear.

If it is possible it is something like that. Viṣṇu param pada is like that. It will help the medical researchers that only by light you try to search, only by the application of the light you will be able to cure all sorts of diseases, you try to research that light. Have they found out such light? By giving ray the diseases are cured, anything invented?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: They have some, different rays, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only by putting ray diseases have been, that is virus, nowadays every disease has got virus, all sorts of virus will be killed by the light, by the force of the light. They may come one day to find out.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. I like to stop here.

[12:35 - 20:06, Bengali? conversation]

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, sometime ago I was told, if one is not struggling in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is not a good thing. That should be the condition of someone striving to be Kṛṣṇa conscious, that he's struggling.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [20:40 - 21:30, Bengali?] Is it?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [21:36 - 22:10 Bengali? conversation]
Mahārāja says that when a devotee is to conquer his senses, this kāma, kroda, lobha, mātsarya, at that time we cannot avoid any struggle. Progress means struggle of different type. Madhyama-adhikāra, generally that is the time of trouble. Kaniṣṭha-adhikāra, in the lower stage, one does not go to measure how much devotion he's earning, getting, or not. In peaceful mind he's engaged in arcana etc, whatever. But when the madhyama-adhikāra begins, a real struggle begins in ones life. How to adjust?

laukikī vaidikī vāpi, [yā kriyā kriyate mune, / hari-sevānukūlaiva, sa kāryā bhaktim icchatā]

["O great sage! One who aspires for devotional service should perform all activities, whether Vedic or mundane, in a way that is favourable for the service of Lord Hari."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Purva-vibhaga, 2.200, from Nārada-pañcarātra]
& [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.82] & [In Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 13.113, purport]

Not only as advised by the scriptures, but also the social position, this lauki, this ordinary, our relationship with the world, with the society, with the education. Generally the tendency to preach for propaganda comes in this stage. He wants to extend himself and remove the difficulties in their environment and he tries to convert the environment to his purpose. The madhyama-adhikāra is a life for struggle. And when he reaches uttama-adhikāra then becomes something peaceful in life, peaceful.

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, [bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ]

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

He sees that everywhere things are going well, according to the will of Kṛṣṇa. Very easily he can see the will of Kṛṣṇa backing everywhere, so he has not much to do, to struggle for. But when living this ignorant plane, misconception, the plane of misconception, he has acquired the harmony by seeing both things, māyā, and Īśvara. He wants to install Īśvara, Godliness, God consciousness, and he tries his hardest to remove this misconception. That is a period of struggle, madhyama-adhikāra.

Ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15] Śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, ____ [?] sādhana-daśā. The sādhana-daśā, this stage is full of struggle, sādhana. Then āpana-daśā, he feels peaceful in bhāva-bhakti. And then prema-bhakti.

But there is again also another struggle is there when he's already in līlā. That is in another plane, just in Vṛndāvana there is also competition, the struggle. Yaśodā will think, 'How to control this naughty child. I failed. I can't manage with Him.' In this way some sort of a struggle, but that is produced by Yogamāyā. That is,

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, [svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet / ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]
[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

Prema-bhakti, that is also dynamic in character, not static. Where there is dynamic there is something, struggle, some sort of, some way or other, must be. The competition is there.

There is a play in the sākhya-rasa, two parties, one party wants to conquer another party. One side Kṛṣṇa, another side Balarāma. That is also a struggle. But that is purely of another type, transcendental play.

And mādhurya-rasa also, several parties, Rādhārāṇī's party, Candrāvalī's party, so many parties there are. And the servitors of every party they are to manage for their own interest, interest of their mistress.

So dynamic character means some sort of struggle, sweet struggle. And here it is bitter. When we have to struggle to remove the nescience and to invite the science, pure knowledge from misunderstanding, that struggle is little bitter, tasteless and painful sometimes. But when we enter that arena, the struggle becomes more or less sweet. Līlā means a sort of struggle, difference between some, and conquer some, and sometimes with the help of deception to deceive the other party, to everything aprākṛta, prākṛta-vat.

Something like immorality is there. Niti niti rathita [?] Moral law also is being crossed for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. This is very high conception, to do anything and everything, kāma-rūpa group they are prepared to do anything and everything for Kṛṣṇa, no law. Love is the origin, the master of law. For Him, anything can be done, crossing the existing law of the society.

ājñajaiva guṇān doṣān, mayādiṣṭān api svakān dharmmān saṁtyajya yaḥ sarvvān, myāṁ bhajet sa ca sattamaḥ

["In the scriptures of religion, I, the Supreme Lord, have instructed men of all statuses of life in their duties. Duly comprehending the purificatory virtue of executing those prescribed duties as well as the vice of neglecting them, one who abandons all allegiance to such dutifulness in order to engage in My devotional service is the best of honest men (sādhu)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.11.32]

They are really the highest type of all the devotees who are ready to cross the śāstric orders even, which has been given to us for our own benefit. They are to cross, to disregard the orders of the Vedas, of the revealed scriptures, for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Law is for the ordinary people, and the special section is there who even crossing the law given already for the people by the Lord only for the special service of Him.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ [śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Dharma, varṇāśrama rules, rights, so many, that is also given for our benefit, but in our lower stage. In the higher stage crossing the law I shall serve Him. Faith.

Just as suppose it is forbidden that one should not enter the harem of the king, forbidden, general law. None should cross this law. But if one feels some urgent service is necessary, some danger is apprehended, he will cross the law at his own risk and enter for the benefit of the king, to save his life or something.

So there are devotees, a particular section, who are ready to cross the law for His satisfaction and they are the special group, they are sattama, the highest amongst the devotees that can know the interest of Kṛṣṇa, the sweet will of Kṛṣṇa is above all law. Law is meant for the general group.

So there is also a struggle, where there is life there is struggle, where there is progress there is struggle. Where there is līlā, play, there is struggle, but of different type; some sweeter type and some painful type. In the lower stage it is painful to us to cut our attraction, the tie of attraction with this world, it is little painful for us. But when some permanent relationship established there, we have regained that, then to move that ward is happy. But still progress means little struggle for leaving the whole madhyama-adhikāra. And uttama-adhikāra, externally it may be a peaceful life, but again in the higher stage, in vilāsa, śanta-rasa is more or less peaceful stage. Again from the dāsya-rasa the struggle begins, but a sweet struggle, arranged not by māyā-śakti but by Yogamāyā, carrying to the centre. The very land is that of rasa, rasamoya, the land of nectar. Amṛtaya-loka.

To work in a hot desert and to work in a good healthy atmosphere, and the work of a diseased man and the work of a healthy man, some sort of difference of this type.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ignorance is bliss. That is what Mahārāja said. Does not know anything, unconscious. There is no pain because no consciousness. When a patient is in a swoon, patient by injection, the painful patients, the doctors try to bring them subconscious because if he wakes, too much acute pain, so they make necessary unconscious. So ignorance, that is a kind of peace, tama-guṇa. But that is not real peace, but there is no feeling.

Zero is also of infinite character. Infinite and zero are similar. If we add zero to zero it is zero. If we take zero from zero that is also zero. Zero into zero is zero. And infinite plus infinite, infinite into infinite, infinite minus infinite, all infinite. Something. Ignorance is bliss, no consciousness, so no question of pain. As the stone.

['mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāṅ duṅhāra gati?'] 'sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti'

["And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?" Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked.] [Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept bodies like those of trees. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

Those extreme liberationists they reach such stage of a fossil, of a stone. Because they want peace, but they are given peace of a stone life, stony life.

[ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayy asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ]
āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

[Someone may say that aside from devotees, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not devotees but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:] "O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. They fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they have no regard for Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

Those that are determined to be one with Him, their heavy punishment is at last given to him, and they are thrown down to become stony existence, to have stony existence, and they can live in peace; lākhs, crores of years, millions of years. Become a Himālaya, become this earth or something, so many trees, or cast into stone. And Nalakuvera was cursed to be a tree. So there a sort of peace, ignorance is bliss. And those that gone up to śanta-rasa, near Brahmā and Nārāyaṇa, they also find some peace. But entering Vaikuṇṭha, again the light, their movement is there for the service. Dāsya-rasa there is movement, there is struggle. 'Bring this, give this to them, all these things,' movement. Movement means struggle but that is peace-giving struggle. Begins from dāsya.

kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim, [ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ]

["Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

And,

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati
[samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām]

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

The marginal position, that is a position of so-called peace. But dynamic peace we find in so-called struggling externally; in dāsya-rasa, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, svakīya, parakīya, struggle. Suppose the mādhurya-rasa, mādhurya-rasa servitors, at night they are to meet in the dark forest with Kṛṣṇa, so they have to struggle, ostentatiously they struggle. With whom, how, she can be led to that particular place as it is given the sign according to the flute. All these things. And in such position, in such time to go through the jungle, all like struggle. But that of sweetest movement. If struggle means movement then struggle is too high. But if we want to think that struggle is painful then it is here. Here that struggle is pain-producing. The energy, energizing, that produced pain only, that is here. There is also movement but it produces, just as this candan, the sandalwood, if we press it produces sweet scent. That is one type, a struggle but producing sweetness. In this way struggle of two kinds. They're also very busily struggling, but struggling producing nectar. And they're also feeling the taste of that nectar. Struggle means busy, they're more busy what we cannot conceive from here, they're so busy. To become busy, is not to struggle, but that is not painful, that is peace producing struggle. And here, our unholy attraction to do away with that we feel some painful struggle. But that is also - our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things, a kind of peace. When a devotee, when a beginner, he begins to leave his paraphernalia...

They leave their family, the family also crying, wailing, and he also feels some sort of pain for them because they are crying for them. But still he feels some sort of peace of high quality. So he can bear this apparent pain of family life. When a man is giving up his home, his family, family man, they are...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...some sort of reaction he feels within him, but at the bottom he feels some prospect. A man went to foreign country to earn money, leaves his family, they feel some pain, but at heart they also can realize that, 'he's going to bring money which will please, satisfy us. We'll be able to enjoy.'

So at least here the one party who is leaving this world, the association of misconception, ostentatiously, apparently he feels pain in his movement, but at heart he gets some hope, a bright future so he can live. At that time due to our attraction for the mischievous world at that stage that is peace, struggle, painful struggle. But still at the bottom some bright hope of some unparalleled nectarine taste of life. So struggle does not always mean painfulness. In certain stages painful, the really answered, really means māyā, that is due to misconception.

And we find also the symptoms of pain there in Kṛṣṇa līlā. But that is not pain really, apparent pain. Kṛṣṇa told that He will come to a particular kuñja, and Rādhārāṇī with Her party went there, but He did not come. Kalahāntaritā, this māna, all these things that is painful. But,

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, [kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite]

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things. Externally it is sad but internally it is sweet, things are such, possible. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When we take the Name in the beginning, we think it our duty to count so many rounds. Sometimes it is painful. But when we get the taste in the Name then the inner tendency excites us to take Name more and more, more and more, not as a duty, anyhow to finish sixteen rounds.

Similarly many things, when the ruci, the inner taste we can acquire for that particular service it is everything. Until and unless we acquire that position, that taste, as a duty we are to do. At that time we may feel some sort of pain.

So sādhana-daśā, that is little painful on the whole. And then bhāva-daśā, then it is sweet. Śravaṇa-daśā, sweetness of course underground everywhere, otherwise why he should be tempted to go to that path. Only for the hope of sweetness. Still, if we want to see by analysis, then śravaṇa-daśā, then varaṇa-daśā, then sādhana-daśā. The sādhana-daśā, up to that it is little painful, then āpana-daśā, āpana-daśā this is very sweet. And what pain is seen there that is all apparent, and materially that is sweet, as I gave the example that sugar made leaf of neem tree that is not bitter.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahārāja says, sometimes we may be misguided to think that we must not study the books and to analyse it, to know every part of it. Why it is necessary? This is knowledge, jñāna, and it is anti-devotional. So we may avoid, and we may go on taking Name, and wherever there is some explanation about the devotional school, we try to avoid it.

But they say that it is not happy, always, because to know from the proper source we get some sort of knowledge which gives us impetus for going on in our sādhana.

siddhānta baliyā [citte nā kara alasa, ihā haite kṛṣṇa lāge sudṛḍha mānasa]

["A sincere student should not neglect the discussion of such conclusions (regarding the Absolute Truth in the revealed scriptures), considering them controversial, for such discussions strengthen the mind. Thus one's mind becomes attached to Śrī Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 2.117]

Sanātana Goswāmī is the Ācārya of siddhānta, what is what, siddhānta.

"Then what is the necessity of knowing what is what? I shall go on chanting Name and wherever there is any class is taken to explain Bhāgavatam, Caritāmṛta, avoid. That is all knowledge, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya." [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

But it is not always so. That jñāna is mere jñāna, but which gives us a real conception of what devotee, what God is, that sort of jñāna, that sort of... which is coming from the genuine source, a warning is given because anyone may give interpretation of any type in the revealed scriptures. So avoid such only to know anything, whatever anyone will say you will run there to learn something, that should be avoided.

But when anything, any illumination, revelation coming through a real agent, we try, higher than us, we should be very earnest to hear those things that will consolidate our position and help us to go on, go ahead on our way of sādhana. That should not be eliminated as knowledge, the siddhānta. Who is Kṛṣṇa? How He's Svayaṁ-Bhagavān? Who is Nārāyaṇa? What are the twenty-four layers of misconception and the Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka? And who is Baladeva, all these different rasa?

All these things are being explained and I shall say, "No, it is all jñāna, dismiss it and take the Name."

But this will be foolishness. This should be considered as indolence or idleness. That sort of knowledge will advance our faith more profoundly. That should be invited automatically, one should invite that, that sort of discussion. Bodhayantaḥ parasparam, then another, iṣṭha-goṣṭhī, in Bhagavad-gītā [10.9].

mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."]

In the association of the sādhus to discuss about Him from different standpoints, that is not knowledge which should be abandoned. That is encouraged, that is automatic, that is natural, it will come, iṣṭha-goṣṭhī. Goṣṭhī means a combination, iṣṭha, desirable company, and we must talk about Him. This is a necessary part of devotion. Āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne prītis tad vasati-sthale.

[kṣāntir avyartha-kālatvaṁ viraktir māna-śūnyatā āśā-bandhaḥ samut-kaṇṭhā nāma-gāne sadā ruciḥ āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne prītis tad vasati-sthale ityādayo 'nubhāvāḥ syur jāta-bhāvāṅkure jane]

["For those in whose hearts the bud of true devotional feeling (bhāva-bhakti) has sprouted, these feelings follow: 1-They feel forbearance and tolerance, and with serenity of mind (kṣānti), they remain undisturbed, whatever be the circumstances; 2-They don't like to waste any time, and are eager to utilise their time in the remembrance and devotional service of the Lord (avyartha-kālatā); 3-They are detached from mundane, material things and the objects of the senses (viraktī); 4-They are humble and completely free from pride and false prestige (nirabhimānitā); 5-They live in full hope of receiving the Lord's mercy with firm faith that Bhagavān will be attained (āśābandha); 6-They are always eager and anxious to serve (samutkaṅṭhā); 7-They always taste nectar when taking the Holy Name of the Lord (nāma-gāne-ruciḥ); 8-They have a natural inclination for the recital of the attributes of the Lord and love to tell of the Divine Qualities of the Lord (tad-guṇākhyāne āsaktiḥ); and 9-They love to live in the Holy Abode of the Lord where the Lord lived, e.g. Mathurā, Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, etc. (tad-vasati-sthale prītiḥ). These nine are called anubhāva, subordinate signs of ecstatic love."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.13.11 & 1.3.25-26]

When bhāva-bhakti comes, automatically these things will come. Kṣāntir avyartha-kālatvaṁ viraktir māna-śūnyatā, āśā-bandhaḥ samut-kaṇṭhā nāma-gāne sadā ruciḥ, āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne. When sādhu, spontaneously out of his own accord he's expressing so many qualities of Kṛṣṇa, and if we go away, leaving that, that will be suicidal.

Āsaktiḥ, "Oh, the good qualities of Kṛṣṇa are being explained through this agent. I must try to give my ear. Then otherwise why the ear is created? It is created only to receive His dealings. Brain only to receive His tidings. They all must have fulfilment." Āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne prītis tad vasati-sthale, ityādayo 'nubhāvāḥ syur jāta-bhāvāṅkure jane. When the bhāva-bhakti will arise, awaken in ones heart, then all these expressions will come out in the devotee.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Krsna kathā, Hari kathā. Why the Bhāgavat is there? Why Gītā is there? The adjustment, so many gradations. What is māyā? What is svarūpa-śakti? What is real knowledge, and what is misconceived, apparent knowledge? All these things we're to know to certain extent, and to avoid the avoidable, undesirable, and to accept the desirable. Some sort of knowledge presupposes every step in our progress.

So jñāne prayāsam udapāsya, that does not mean that we must not talk about Kṛṣṇa amongst us, and when a sādhu is explaining His rūpa, guṇa, līlā, we shall run away from that place. It is not like that.

That is meant this, the Śaṅkara, Kapila, Patañjali, Jaimini, Buddhist school, that is also meant for the beginner. And the preacher they will have to come in contact with everything to smash them.

Sometimes jñāna, that knowledge necessary can come from within. There is a stage of devotion when the necessary knowledge comes from within, automatically, revealed from the heart. There is a stage of bhakti where things occur in this way, through revelation you can know what is what. Without studying, by internal supply, caitya-guru, sometimes knowledge about devotion may come to us, generally by hearing from the lips of the devotees.

The Kṛṣṇa, the Vṛndāvana, that is not in want of knowledge. That is not want of grandeur and awe, what is found in Vaikuntha. It is there, but when this ānanda takes the better part of cit, caitan, then it is said that 'don't try much through knowledge.' Sat, cit, ānanda, cit, caitan, to know. By knowing we cannot have anything and everything, by the faculty of knowing and understanding. But the real thing comes automatically to us by service. And that is also a sort of knowledge, department of knowledge, and that is automatic.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.18]

Śrīmad-Bhāgavataṁ. In the concluding stanzas of Bhāgavatam.

The goal of this literature is exclusive devotional service unto that Supreme Truth."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.12]

Nearby, this is also. Śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ purāṇam amalaṁ. "What is this Bhāgavatam? I have finished. In the beginning."

dharmaḥ projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo [nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ

["Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata-Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

And also, muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] "What I'm going to say here about the conception of the whole, including you, your interest, what type of..." And after finishing also Vedavyāsa comes to say, "What I promised in the beginning I have given that all to you. And what is that? Tattva jijñāsa, that is the enquiry after the truth, satyaṁ paraṁ. I promised that I shall deal in this book about paraṁ satya, not mere truth, but very sweet truth, the highest truth I shall try to deal with here in this book." That was in the beginning.

And here also in the conclusion he said, "Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, what is this Bhāgavatam, what I have mentioned here? Purāṇam amalaṁ. The purest of the pure Purāṇa. Purāṇa means two types of interpretation. Purāṇa means where the very knowledge which existed in the most ancient time, that has been represented here. The things which occurred in the primary stage of creation, that has been recorded here. And another, _____ [?] Purāṇa means very ancient, Purāṇa. Another, _____ [?] what has been described in the Vedas that is not sufficient as a supplementary to these books have been written. So it will be taken as supplementary to Veda and Upaniṣad, _____ [?] it will help them to get the fulfilment of their purpose of the śāstra _____ [?] Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam purāṇam amalaṁ. It is the purest type of Purāṇa where I have dealt from the ancient, and also I have supplied what is not very explicit in the revealed scriptures like Veda, Upaniṣad. Purāṇam amalaṁ. Yad vaiṣṇavānāṁ priyaṁ. And especially it is very favourite to the Vaiṣṇava, Viṣṇu bhakta. Who is Vaiṣṇava?

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, [durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

Viṣṇu. The most subtle pervading spirit everywhere. Just as like ether. Ether can be everywhere within and without, all these different conceptions of creation, the most fundamental thing. So Viṣṇu, yaḥ idaṁ vyāpnotīti viṣṇuḥ. Vāsudeva who is everywhere and everything in Him, that finest substance. So vaiṣṇavānāṁ, those that are connected with that most fundamental layer of creation of existence, they're Vaiṣṇava, not superficially. They're connected and they're engaged in the superficial thing which is coming and going, but the permanent, realistic, most fundamental existence of all things, basis, they're Vaiṣṇava. Yad vaiṣṇavānāṁ priyaṁ. This is favourite to those that are engaged in their eternal duty and whose understanding cannot have to be modified by local demand of time and space. Vaiṣṇavānāṁ priyaṁ.

Yasmin pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ jñānaṁ paraṁ gīyate. What I have dealt directly here, pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ, uncontaminated by any thought of relative existence. But absolute standpoint has been considered here, everything from the absolute standpoint, not any partial or any relative position. It has been seen from the standard of highest centre, that angle of vision. The things have been dealt here, connecting it with the highest centre of our understanding and achievement. Pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ. And the most purified position, no anomaly, no reaction can come on this. Pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ jñānaṁ paraṁ gīyate. That sort of knowledge has been dealt with here.

[śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ purāṇam amalaṁ yad vaiṣṇavānāṁ priyaṁ]
yasmin pāramahaṁsyam ekam amalaṁ jñānaṁ paraṁ gīyate
tatra jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ
tac chṛṇvan su-paṭhan vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ

That is also another very wonderful statement. Naiṣkarmya, it is a general tendency in the life that this struggle, as I was told, the labour, labour and live, as we find in Bible. When Adam and Eve was a śaraṇāgata in heaven, their sustenance was automatic. And when they fell here, fell down, then to earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, labour and live.

And it is a low form of, dishonourable form of life. If I want to live I must have to labour. Than I can earn my bread and then live. So naiṣkarmya, can not any sort of life may be discovered where without labour one can live? Naiṣkarmyam. From the beginning of the existence such a tendency is following in the life. It is dishonourable that in order to sustain us we shall have to labour. For our own maintenance we have to labour, we're forced to labour. So naiṣkarmyam paramāṁ siddhiṁ, naiṣkarmya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.49] No work, we shall live without work, without labour. How that is to be achieved? The struggle for food, now it is very patent. In the whole of the world, how the number, or population is growing, and the foodstuff, what is necessary for our civilization, to keep up our life, that is being spent up, that will be finished. And how the generation will live, the problem. Grow more food, grow more food.

Devotee: Tac chṛṇvan su-paṭhan vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no. So jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ. So the Buddhist school, the Śaṅkara school, they want to discover a place where without labour one can live.

Buddha says that, "No life is necessary, no labour, no life, no existence. We can do away with our existence. It is a mania to keep up existence in the struggling world. Do away with the mania. Why you should live at all. So nirvana, this prikṛti nirvana. Existence means troublesome, so do away with it. This is a mania, you drive this mania from your brain, that you want to live. Why? What necessity is there to live? This is a mania. Give it up." This is the Buddhist school.

And Śaṅkara says, "Of course, this life is not desirable, that we always suffer from some injury, some sort of death, always. That is mortality. Always some force is coming and taking us away, diminishing us, and ultimately we die. We're challenged by this slow death, slow poison. It is not desirable. It is true. Then, what is the solution?" Sankara says that, "The solution that this sort of individual endeavour to keep up ones own self, this is undesirable. There is no possibility of keeping individuality, and at the same time to enjoy real peace, eternal peace. So the charm of individual life you will have to give up. There is one Brahman and he's happy. That is the happy conception. And you are mere reflection to that. Everywhere that Brahman has reflected and created this mysterious individual ego, or consciousness. Don't be very much eager to keep up this false ego, dissolve it. And the Brahman is there. You are not affected. So you as you are, there cannot be any cure of your disease, that you can get out of this influence of the environment of mortality. Every moment you're losing yourself some way of other. This cannot be solved."

But Bhāgavatam says, "I have given here a proper solution. Jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ."

The Buddhist they profess about abnegation, vairāgya. "Why do you? This is a mania, you give it up totally, vairāgyam, tyāga."

And Śaṅkarācārya by his Vedānta _____ [?] The Brahman is there. You are only a reflection. Really in your right form you are Brahman. This pain cannot approach there, Brahman. So in this concocted side of your own ego, egoistic existence, you stop, then of course the pain is stopped."

But Bhāgavatam says, "I have given, I have recommended such vairāgyam, abnegation, our detachment to the environment. And I have discussed with such knowledge that you can keep up your own individuality, individual interest, and prospect, everything, with bhakti, devotion, dedication. I have inaugurated a new conception of life to you all. You can be saved only through devotion, through dedication you can save. By exploitation you are to die. And by abnegation also you're to merge in a sort of cypher, that is Virajā, Brahmaloka. You are to merge there in some unknown quarter, and not to rise again from there. But I recommend this particular vairāgya and jñāna and it is embraced by devotion, dedication, self-dedication. Then your inner true self can live forever and happy. Naiṣkarmyam, and no labour, no pain of labour. The labour of love that is innate function of your own soul.

Jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ. The conception that labour is dishonourable, it is reactionary. With labour, and ardent labour, things vanishes, diminish, attacked by death. These difficulties have been all eliminated, what recommendation I have given here in Bhāgavatam for your life. Jñāna- virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ. Tatra jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ. Vairāgya and jñāna embraced with bhakti, devotion. Devotion means dedication, life of dedication. This exploitation and renunciation you can shake off. Don't depend on them. They have been absolved. The renunciation is in devotion. And to maintain you individuality, that is also here. You can get food, everything, but the labour to maintain this reactionary existence, and wholesale dedication for the centre, and the waves that comes from there, it is a happy thing. I have harmonized this jñāna, vairāgya, etc. curbing it but by supplying the very life of them in devotion you can maintain your individuality, your activity, your prospect, and at the same time you can find immense peace in your life, ecstasy. A happy life, happy eternal life I have offered only by adding dedication to this renunciation and exploitation. Naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ. You will energize but it will not come under the section of karma, which fetches, has got reaction in its turn, not under that jurisdiction. But energizing will be there for the centre.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ
[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

Do only for the centre, otherwise you'll be tied down with the reaction. So I have made it clear that a very laudable life is possible for us if we take to dedication to the highest centre. And that is not dishonourable, and that is not tiresome, and that is not ignorance.

jñāna-virāga-bhakti-sahitaṁ naiṣkarmyam āviṣkṛtaṁ
tac chṛṇvan su-paṭhan vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ

So you take this course, this class of bhakti I have recommended for you. Then if you attend to that what I have said for you attentively, tac chṛṇvan su-paṭhan, and try to get an adjustment from the real source, from real sādhu. Then you'll get proper adjustment, su-paṭhan, well-reading. Well-reading means from a proper source, not a mall-digested way, proper adjustment way, su-paṭhan, proper understanding. Vicāraṇa paro, and then you may keep all sorts of anti-proposals and that all will be harmonized here. None can assail it. It will acquire victory for all possible suggestions of knowledge and conceptions. Vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ. That only by devotion, by dedication, anyone, any men, very easily will cross this ignorance in the world of suffering.

So vicāra, I was told that Swāmī Mahārāja has asked his disciples, "Don't mix with any other." That is in the minor stage. But when grown-up, you will meet anyone and everyone and smash them. So here also, su-paṭhan vicāraṇa paro, don't be afraid of vicāra. Are you less strong? You have got every strength to defeat every source of thoughts in the world, vicāraṇa paro, not lacking in vicāra. But vicāra has got its gradation. A boy of a few months, he may not understand what one can understand aged sixteen of twenty or so. So bhaktyā, vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ. So vicāra, when you are in a safe position then any sort of vicāra will come and you will throw them negligently, showing their futility. Vicāraṇa paro bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ. Bhaktyā means sevā, sevā is everything. Accept dedication. Dedication proper life is there in dedicating and self distributing, not self aggrandizing. We can live in sevā, bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ, all the difficulties will be removed if we take to the line of dedication. Everything, your individuality, your environment, your prospect, everything will be there.

Only angle of vision should be changed. And that angle of vision to be acquired through the centre. Through the central interest you try to understand that everything will be seen through the centre, central relationship. Who is He? I shall go to the centre, and how he's related to the centre, how I'm related to the centre, and come through that.

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
[bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ]

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

In every place you try to locate, what is his position in accordance with the centre, calculate, what is his position in the centre. And then with that angle of vision you try to establish your relationship with him. Keep the centre within the campaign. And bhagavad bhāvam first. What position he holds in the eye of the centre? Bhagavad bhāvam, then ātmanaḥ, and following that you will see what is your relation, ātmanaḥ. This is what is necessary, adjustment with anything and everything only by the interest of the centre. Bhaktyā vimucyen naraḥ. So anyone you be, you will get relief, relief from all undesirability. This is Bhāgavatam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inner realisation is there, and progress means by sacrifice, not by aggrandising.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, somewhere in that Prema-vivarta, Jagadānanda Paṇḍita has described that hearing through the karna-mula, so this karna-mula means the heart perhaps?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is it?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I don't have it here. But not simply karna, ear, but karna-mula. Hearing through karna-mula. Does it means heart, perhaps?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Karna-mula, the root of the ear. To be traced in the inner world. There is a song of Caṇḍīdāsa, karna _____ [?] Rādhārāṇī says, _____ [?] Rādhārāṇī addressing to one friend, Her friend,

"What peculiar, novel state I am under experience. I can't ascertain my friend. Who? I don't know, who has chanted the Name of Śyāma, and that entered through My ear and touched My most deeper special centre in the nervous system, selected centres of the nervous system, where it is manipulated, the whole is affected, that is madma [?]. _____ [?] Mainly, approximately in the heart. Entered through My ear and it has captured My heart, madma sthana [?]
Just as _____ [?] in a military the important centres _____ [?]
It has entered My heart and the whole vitality is shaken. The whole vitality has been shaken, has been captured, shaken. _____ [?] My very existence has been attacked, affected, captured. The whole existence, internal existence, this sound has captured. It entered into My heart and captured My whole existence. _____ [?] I can't estimate how much and what sort of honey is there _____ [?] in that sound. The sound seems to be of infinite sweetness to Me. _____ [?] I can't ascertain. _____ [?] My lips can't give it up, that Name."

In this way She's giving Her stages when She has come in touch with the tidings of Kṛṣṇa, when the first connection came to Her. The revolutionary evolution began, revolutionary evolution in Her feeling, in the whole of Her heart. Whole structure, inner, outer, that is shivering.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Here we're suffering for a drop, and there, they're inundated. Water, water everywhere, not a drop to drink. Which is everywhere, which is the only reality, and we're suffering for its want.

yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati

tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati

["For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

"If one can come up to such a stage that everything reminds him about Me, paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca, everything in Me and I am everywhere, vice versa. Vāsudeva, everything lives in Him. He's the most comprehensive. And I am everywhere, the most subtle permeating substance, everywhere, but most subtle, entering everywhere. And also embracing everything within, containing everything in Him."

In the material, perhaps ether exists everywhere, and everything covered with it. It goes to connect the Candraloka, the mangala, the sun, everywhere, by that electric wave. The air cannot reach, but aka, vyoma, ether. Ether is all-permeating, everywhere, the most subtle thing. It covers everything, and it is in the middle of everything.

yathā mahānti bhūtāni, bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu

["O Brahmā, please know that the universal elements enter into the cosmos and at the same time do not enter into the cosmos; similarly, I also exist within everything and at the same time I am outside everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.35]

Catuḥ-ślokī, Bhāgavatam.

aham evāsam evāgre, nānyad yat sad-asat param

["Brahmā, it is I, the Personality of Godhead, who was existing before the creation, when there was nothing but Myself. Nor was there the material nature, the cause of this creation. That which you see now is also I, the Personality of Godhead, and after annihilation what remains will also be I, the Personality of Godhead."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.33]

"Try to think, what am I? Aham evāsam evāgre. In the beginning you can think of creation, I was present. Nānyad yat sad-asat param. Both subtle and gross as you experience, nothing was existing. From the created world, before this I am eternally existing in My plane. Nānyad yat sad-asat param, paścād ahaṁ. When the wholesale dissolution, I am there. I shall, there, unaffected, paścād ahaṁ. Yad etac ca. And what you find in the middle, from creation to dissolution, that also I am. You can't eliminate Me. I can't be eliminated. Before creation I was, after dissolution I shall be, and in the middle also, I am. Try to conceive what is My existence. Paścād ahaṁ yad etac ca, yo 'vaśiṣyeta so 'smy aham. Whatever you can conceive, and whatever in the background, that all My presence. Yad etac ca, yo 'vaśiṣyeta so 'smy aham.

ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani
tad vidyād ātmano māyāṁ, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

["O Brahmā, whatever appears to be of any value, if it is without relation to Me, has no reality. Know it as My illusory energy, that reflection which appears to be in darkness."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.34]

"Very intricate question, what is māyā? Ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta. What is My purpose, My design? Not to follow that, but to have conception of any other thing. That is māyā. Rthaṁ, means purpose, what is My purpose, that cannot be thought, or detected, or caught. But other interest is thrown on it, and that is māyā. That is provincial conception, separate interest, selfish interest. Eliminating the universal, that can't stand. The universal move going on. That cannot be stopped, irresistible, ahaitukī, this nirguṇa flow, the flow of nirguṇa, above, which is transcendental, most fundamental movement of His wave, that is causeless and that is apratihatā, irresistible."

But without that, whatever plan is thrown on it from particular centre, that is māyā, that misconception, misunderstanding. The universal wave, movement is going on its own way. It can never be affected. But we think that it can be, its course can be changed, it can be utilized in some other purpose. That is māyā, not to be able to see the universal wave of the prime cause, His līlā. It is His līlā.

But we are thinking, 'No, it is for mine. It has been made for me. The king, this is my empire, then another chief will say, oh, this is my state. Then another owner will be, owner of a particular province, this is mine. And one who is working in the field, he will think this is in my possession at present.'

So many worms, all these things, according to their existence and necessity, they will imagine that it is meant for his purpose, relative, temporary interest and purpose. And that does not show to be true, that is not shown to be true, frustration.

'Oh, I wanted it to take in my interest in this way but it did not come.' The disappointment, frustration. And death, birth, all these anomalies are out of this misconception of māyā. Not only one time he's defeated, he's frustrated, again he's going to make attempt in such line, in that self-interested line. And there is, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] troubles based on these four principles. Undesirable birth, not eternal continuity in his life. The birth, death, infirmity and also disease. This is the reaction of the misconception of the truth outside.

So try to get harmony, harmony with the universal transaction, flow of events. Then you will be happy. It is a happy flow, happy transaction going on. And your selfish interest is disturbing you and your society. Ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, what is true and what is misconceived on the basis of truth, ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta. Our pratiti, our faith, what is not, what is not true, our faith on that basis, that is māyā.

Ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani. And if we identify ourselves with the ātmā, with the Paramātmā, the main flow, then it disappears. "This is my country. This is not my own house." Imperial demand if any war breaks out, then king may take possession of this immediately. It is his, it is for the, imperial demand is here. And not my claim that I won't give this house to you. It won't go on. So this relative for possession and mastership, that is māyā. I shall always be conscious that if king's necessity, then this house may be taken in a second. It is not mine. My possession won't go. Something like this.

Ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani, tad vidyād ātmano māyāṁ. If it is possible for us to look out the interest of the whole, it is not present there. But when we are very selfish and compartmental interest, we thrust on it, then we suffer from that plan. That plan, that design, that sort of understanding gives us trouble. It is mine, but I don't see that it is mine. I was thinking this body is mine, but it is the victim of the environment I see. I am frustrated. As much as I concentrate that this is mine, I shall have to be so much frustrated. And as much I shall invite within me that everything belongs to the ultimate power, no frustration, that will diminish. So māyā is here, the misconception, misunderstanding. The proper meaning is there, we are unable to read that, and we thrust our design, futile design on it and read. That is māyā.

ṛte 'rthaṁ yat pratīyeta, na pratīyeta cātmani
tad vidyād ātmano māyāṁ, yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ

As light and darkness. Yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ. And the conception of individual interest and this material world, "There is no-man's land, anyone can capture it." It is not so. It is already belonging to the fullest extent to a party. No man's land, there is no no-man's land. All land belonging to one. Yathābhāso yathā tamaḥ.

yathā mahānti bhūtāni, bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu

"Mahānti bhūtāni, that earth, water, air, fire, heat. Heat then air, water then heat, and then air, then ether. What is their relation? In earth, water, heat, air, and ether, all mixed in earth. But in water conception there may not be earth. Different stages. Of course if we trace the evolution question, then it will be otherwise. It is an example. Within earth there is water, ether, fire, air, everything. And in water, no earth, but heat is there, air is there and ether is there. And in fire, the air is there, the gas is there, the heat of course is there and the ether is there. And in air, not all these material things to be traced, but ether must be within air. And ether, that is the original thing. Yathā mahānti bhūtāni, bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu. There within and without, everything is existing in ether. Most graphic position. They are there, and they are not there. In this way there are division and they are relationship. Bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu, praviṣṭāny apraviṣṭāni. They're there and they're not there. Tathā teṣu na teṣv aham. My position is also similar. I'm there, I'm not there. In this way. If it can be analysed, then I may be found there. Ordinarily I'm not there."

yathā mahānti bhūtāni, bhūteṣūccāvaceṣv anu
praviṣṭāny apraviṣṭāni, tathā teṣu na teṣv aham

Both within and without, teṣv aham.

Devotee:

etāvad eva jijñāsyaṁ, tattva-jijñāsunātmanaḥ anvaya-vyatirekābhyāṁ, yat syāt sarvatra sarvadā

["A person who is searching after the Supreme Absolute Truth, the Personality of Godhead, most certainly search for it up to this, in all circumstances, in all space and time, and both directly and indirectly."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.9.36]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Bhāgavatam it is mentioned, jijñāsa, tattva-jijñāsa. _____ [?] What for we're born? What will be our ideal duty? We're all engaged to collect things for sense satisfaction, kāma. Artha, we are busy to collect money. Whenever we shall require, we can interchange that into sense perception, sense pleasure, kāma, artha. Then dharma, duty. Our duty, generally we're fixing in such a way that we can collect maximum money, and by money we shall earn sense pleasure. And we can take ourselves and distribute it so. This is the general.

But Bhāgavatam says the relationship between them should be changed, totally. Our relationship with this world will be, mundane world, material world, not sense pleasure, but as much as required to keep up this body fit. And the body, good health will earn money. And money should be utilized not for sense pleasure but to help our duty, to satisfy our duty. And duty's aim should not be again downward but it will be for the apavarga, crossing these three necessities of life to seek for higher purpose of life. Tattva jijñāsa, moksa, means tattva jijñāsa. The whole thing must be used, the matter should be used to keep up the health. Health will earn money. Money will help to discharge our duty, and duty should be arranged in such a way that we shall enquire ourself and the environment. Who am I? Where I am? What is my aim of life? What is real satisfaction? In this way. Tattva jijñāsa. Jīvasya tattva jijñāsa nartho karmabhi. That is the only requirement for us. That should be our only aim, to enquire artha jijñāsya. What am I? Where am I? Who is my Lord? All these things to be discussed and enquired. That should be the object of our life. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, what will that? Tattva jijñāsa should be the object of our life. And of what type that is, yathā mahānti bhūtāni, these things are there. In this way, along this way you are to walk. What is the environment? Where am I? Who am I, and what is my good? All these things. Ātmā jijñāsa, enquiry after self and enquiry after environment. And within that the search for Kṛṣṇa, Vedānta, brahma jijñāsa. Upaniṣads say, "What is the object of your life?"

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati, yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

Tad jijñāsa tad eva brahma. The object of the life of our all in such position will be only one. What is that? The enquiry after the central truth. Yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam. That must be of universal character. Enquire after that. When you know that everything is known. Enquire for the central truth, by knowing which, everything can be known. By getting who everything is got. Yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati. It is possible. We think generally it is impossible. I'm a particle in the infinite. How it is possible... the infinite can come to you. You cannot go to the infinite, but infinite comes to you. That noble and that heavenly wave you are to find out. That is śrauta-panthā, avaroha-panthā, the descending method in the line of revealed truth. Infinite expresses Himself to you, "I am so and so. If you do this, then I shall come to you. You'll know Me, you'll have Me, you'll get Me."

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati, yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati tad vijñāsa sa

Enquire for that, athāto brahma-jijñāsā. So by the gist of the Vedas and Upaniṣads taken, collected, systematically saved in Vedānta-sūtra. In the beginning, what is the purpose of this book? Brahma-jijñāsā. What is Brahma? If we know Him, we know everything. If we get Him, we get everything. Such a great prospect is before you, brahma-jijñāsā.

And when it came to Mahāprabhu that Brahma took the shape of Parabrahma, the personal conception came to the front rank, kṛṣṇānusandhāna. In the expression of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva, "That Brahmā, don't think it's a material substance. You are always habituated to think matter. Being subject you easily think object, objective things, material, lower. It is not of that type. So Brahma is not a substance that as a subject you will make it your object of thought. But kṛṣṇānusandhāna, in His real conception which will be in your highest utility, He's Krsna, the most loving personal existence. Enquire after Him. Where is He who can satisfy all my demands, who can satisfy all my nervous enquiry, the whole system, whole system? Every atom can be satisfied by His touch. Where is He? Where is He? Just as a man in fire wants to embrace ice. Where is He? I'm burning, my every atom is burning. I want to pacify my whole existence by His embrace, kṛṣṇānusandhāna."

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is the real giver, the benevolent person who gives this news to us. And not only news but the process he also gives, how we can get this whole, this Kṛṣṇa. So he's the real patron, the real donator. The highest gift is to give Kṛṣṇa to one and all. So we chant about Kṛṣṇa and through him want to penetrate him within us, he's the real giver. Or otherwise, so many things are being in the transaction, giving this and that, taking this and that, this transaction in the market. That is all mischievous and temporary forms. All imaginary transaction connecting with the world of imagination, that has got no value. Only those that deals with reality, with Kṛṣṇa, with Bhagavān, they're the real giver, deliverer of the soul. And take them to the ocean of nectar. They're the real giver. These are false agent. 'I am giving this, I am giving that. I am giving food, I am giving clothing, I am giving medicine.' But all for the fictitious life, undesirable life, to maintain the undesirable existence. Proper existence to give the relief and the real substance where we can relish, our soul can relish forever to the extreme. They're the real giver in the world, not false transaction.

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

One is awake in the transcendental world, this mundane interest is like night to him. And the so-called materialistic thinkers, scientists, research scholars, they're so proud, but their night, they don't know about the day, they're nocturnal hunters, who roams hunting in the night. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

They have forgotten Newton's third law, for every action there is equal and opposite reaction, extorting their temporary help from the whole nature. And they're making boast of that, proud of that, but forget that that loan should be cleared, in a very deplorable way, to be cleared. We can't avoid, it is loan.

We're not masters. We're exploiting only with the risk that we shall be again exploited by them. With this risk we're enjoying, as master. We think we are masters of the natural resources, but no, they're not helpless. We will be exploited by them again, the reaction. The virus is not helpless that I shall kill and cure a patient. It has got is position equal to me, in universal calculation. It is the result of his previous deed that he has become a virus, injurious to your existence. So you are killing them mercilessly, to keep this body of mud which is injurious to your soul, this body. Action, reaction.

But we will have a headache with all this thought. But nature does not allow vacuum. What is that? One expression, of Prabhupāda. Vacuum, no? There is king, there is rule of law. Law of nature is there and you can't escape. To every action there is equal and opposite reaction. This is the world, nature. Law of karma is that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...awake, arise, he'll awake and he'll arise. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. So, be aware of your environment, and your activity. Your energy, how it should be utilised, to take you to what direction. Be very careful, and listen. Especially in this human life, there is possibility of choice here. And in other births no choice, only to go on with the duty that is imposed by nature to them. But here you can have the possibility of free choice of your future life. But it is not found in other species, not even in the position of a [demi] god, it is not there, because they're only enjoying the fruit of their good karma. But free choice is only left to this human species. Jīva Goswāmī says:

labdhvā su-durlabham idaṁ bahu-sambhavānte, mānuṣyam artha-dam [anityam apīha dhīraḥ tūrṇaṁ yateta na pated anu-mṛtyu yāvan, niḥśreyasāya viṣayaḥ khalu sarvataḥ syāt]

["The human form of life is very rarely attained, and although temporary, gives us a chance to achieve the supreme goal of life. Therefore, those who are grave and intelligent should immediately strive for perfection before another death occurs. There are so many forms of life: the aquatics, the vegetable kingdom, the animals, the birds, ghosts and other living beings, but only in this human position do we hold the key to the complete solution of the problems of life."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.9.29]

This serves the real purpose, this human birth, artha-dam anityam apīha dhīraḥ, but it is subtle and it is temporary, any moment I may lose this position. Artha-dam anityam apīha dhīraḥ, tūrṇaṁ yateta. So we must not waste any moment, we shall begin. What is that, we shall take advantage of the special qualification that has been given to us now. Viṣayaḥ khalu sarvataḥ syāt. Without this enquiry, in other things that you may be engaged in that will continue always. What are they?

Āhāra, nidrā, bhaya, maithuna, etc. If you go into the species of a dog you can sleep better than a human being. In a hog's body you will devour the stools as your food and you'll relish. So wherever you go, these things where you are engaging yourself at present, that won't be snatched from you, everywhere you'll find all those things, more efficiently. This āhāra, the food; nidrā, the sleep; bhaya, the apprehension; everywhere you'll get and it will be with you, in any sex, in any species.

But the enquiry for a new path is only here in the human species. So give up those stale things and engage yourself in this rare facility that is granted in this human birth. Enquire about yourself. Start immediately the enquiry about yourself and your prospect of life, what is real. Don't pass time idly. The warning is coming in this way.

Bhoga dinde satat tat [?] Jīva Goswāmī says: "That below the human species they're unqualified because of their, vilokara hitrat [?] No faculty of judgement is sufficiently grown there, found there. And not found in the higher species, gods, etc. bhoga dinde satat tat [?] They're also unqualified, for their special possibility of being engrossed in deep pleasure. They have already acquired facility to enjoy pleasure, pūrṇam, and they're deeply engaged to enjoy in that, deeply engaged. That won't allow them to come out of that present enjoyment and be engaged again in the search of their own self, and mentally that won't allow them. They're already intoxicated with the feeling of enjoyment, that sentiment, captured, and that won't allow them free choice. Deeply absorbed in enjoyment in higher species, devata and others etc. But only in the human position, in the via media, you're left in balance and you have possibility of using free will to begin a free search. This qualification is only with the human species and not in any other position in the creation.

He replied in a very good fashion. He told: "I do not mind it. Kṛṣṇa's dancing. Kṛṣṇa is mad, engaged in His own mad dancing and the waves of His dance going on all sides. And He has no time to look after anyone, especially insignificant persons like we are. Whether we are getting food or not is of no concern with Him. He's dancing in His own way. So Kṛṣṇa dancing and we're cast by the flow, we're cast hither, thither, inside and how we fair, He has no time to care for that." That was his answer. "He's dancing. [rādhā-kṛṣṇa prāna mor jīvane maraṇe,] more rākhi' māri' sukhe thākuka du'jane

["In life or death, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are my life and soul. May They always be happy, whether They choose to protect me or kill me."] [From Gītāvalī, 8b, 6]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura writes, "Du'jane means Rādhā-Govinda. We are Their servants, slaves. They have every right over us, over me, so They can keep us or They can kill us, make or mar. That right is with Them. Anyhow, whether by killing me or saving me They may go on with Their own cheerfulness."

That should be our object of life. If it is necessary for me to sacrifice life for Their pleasure I'm ready. If it is necessary to kill me for Their service I'm ready equally. To live or to die, that should be equal to us. Only at every stage our prayer will be, "Let Them remain cheerful in Their pastimes. And for myself, whatever is necessary to maintain Their cheerful pastimes, we should accept that on our head, to die or to live." That should be our attitude, more rākhi, may keep us, or māri, may kill us, it does not matter. It matters nothing, our staying or going. But what is our inner necessity, that They may remain cheerful. That should be the object of our search.

The suicidal squad, the kāma-rūpa group, their temperament will be such. "For the cause of the country our lives dedicated." Whether to die or to live it is only for the country, it is understood by the Westerners but the object is such at present, to die for the country or to live for the country, they may understand.

But what is this? This is a negligent part of the whole infinite. And who is Kṛṣṇa? So many infinite are under His feet. Ananta-Svayaṁ, He's lying on the infinite.

So many infinite, we may say, because infinite minus infinite is infinite. One and many, zero, one and many, no difference, many zero and one zero, no difference. Zero from zero, minus zero, minus zero is zero. Zero plus zero zero, zero into zero, zero, zero divided by zero. So infinite is also of that characteristic, equal characteristic with zero.

oṁ pūrṇam adaḥ pūrṇam idaṁ, pūrṇāt pūrṇam udacyate
pūrṇasya pūrṇam ādāya, pūrṇam evāvaśiṣyate

["The Personality of Godhead is perfect and complete, and because He is completely perfect, all emanations from Him, such as this phenomenal world, are perfectly equipped as complete wholes. Whatever is produced of the complete whole is also complete in itself. Because He is the complete whole, even though so many complete units emanate from Him, He remains the complete balance."] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, Invocation]

Inconceivable, minus infinite from infinite, infinite remains, so the conception of our infinite is at the disposal of His grace.

"Arjuna, whatever you can conceive, that forms My negligent one part."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. One day, Acyutānanda had an interview with me and asked some questions about the Holy Name, Divine Name. And I replied and he took notes and Back To Godhead they sent an article...

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I remember that article Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and there was mention of Cārvāka Ṛṣi, the ancient doctor, of medicine, of Cārvāka. His example I quoted there, the Mahā Ṛṣi Cārvāka, his opinion about epidemic.

He has written in his book, that when in the name of justice, the court, pleader's, advocates, they're supposed to help the justice, but when they themselves do injustice, conceal the truth for their own selfish purpose, then there is an anomaly in the air vibration. That lying in the name of justice is a very subtle thing, most treacherous. And that creates a vibration in the atmosphere, and by that atmosphere the water, the earth, and the plants also, they're polluted, coming in contact with that atmosphere. And the crops also polluted, when that crop is taken, water taken, by the animals, then that breaks out as an epidemic. The beginning, the cause of the epidemic of the wholesale disease in a particular province, the cause is traced there. The atmosphere is polluted by the lies of those that stand to advocate for justice. So much degree of treachery in the name of justice when committed that pollutes the atmosphere, and in their contact the whole thing is polluted and when that food is taken a general epidemic breaks out.

That he mentioned there in that article. The vibration, the Name, the Holy vibration, how that can effect this gross world. Perhaps to give example to that I cited that instance from Cārvāka Ṛṣi. And many other things about the Holy Name, the sound divine. That article was given in that Back To Godhead. He gave me the information that that was very popular, that article was very...

Vidagdha-Mādhava: It was very nice. Much of Acyutānanda Swāmī's preaching in those "Indian days" was not from [Śrīla AC Bhaktivedānta] Swāmī Mahārāja's books, but no one complained, "This is not from Swāmī Mahārāja's books," because it was very high kaṭha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He lived here for nine months continuously. And then I saw that he's sitting there idle, of course hearing me, and also reading books. I wanted to engage him in some service. With a few other brahmacārīs I sent him to Calcutta to collect some funds. But the brahmacārīs after a week came back and Acyutānanda also came with them. But they told that: "After reaching the Howrah Station, Acyutānanda vanished, and again, after finishing our collection, we came back to Howrah Station he joined."

Very wonderful. I asked Acyutānanda: "What's the matter? Where you remained for a few days, five, six days?"

"In Kasimitra dharmaśālā," he told. He was there.

"Do you think that you should not do service for anyone but your Guru Mahārāja?"

"Yes. I want to serve my Guru Mahārāja."

All right. Then I recommend Mādhava Mahārāja, to keep you there, and your proper field will be at Calcutta. There you will find English knowing people, these people, and try to canvass them to secure land in that place.

And he did, Mādhava Mahārāja accommodated him there and he met many a life there and managed to secure a person to pay for the land. Then the problem came, in whose name that land will be purchased?

I told, They have no Indian nationality. I recommended Mādhava's mother's name, Pishima, Swāmī Mahārāja's youngest sister. She is our Godsister in Hari-nāma. And in dīkśa she came to take from me but I did not give any dīkśa at that time, nor Hari-nāma, nothing. I sent her to Goswāmī Mahārāja and there she took initiation. And she paid me the money for the first publication of Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, Mādhava's mother, Swāmī Mahārāja's youngest sister, she paid for that. I told that in her name you can purchase the land here. But anyhow they managed, but Swāmī Mahārāja has not got American nationality, so in her name it may be purchased, and that was done there.

And Jayapatāka Mahārāja said that: "Just at that time when that land transaction was going on, I joined here."

I don't remember so much. Anyhow, then they began their work.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja come? Gaura Hari bol. Have you got those letters?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Nitāi-Gaura-Premānande. Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And what are they? I forgot. One Badrinārāyaṇa?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In your name?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Disappearance of Ṭhākura Narottama. This Kṛṣṇa Pañcamī, month of Kārtika.

[Kārtika is the lunar month of the autumn season, Oct-Nov, in which the Dāmodara form of the Lord is worshipped; represents Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī].

Kārtika, the name of the month, Kārtika, from Kīrttikā comes Kārtika. The origin is Kīrttikā. Kīrttikā is the name of a particular nakṣatra who was supposed to be the daughters of Dakṣa Prajāpati [a son of Brahmā].

[Nakṣatra means a star, constellation or lunar mansion, the moon's location within one of the twenty-seven sections of the zodiac, personified as daughters of Dakṣa married to the Moon].

All the nakṣatras, Aśvinī, Varunī, and wife of Candra, Moon, these twenty-seven nakṣatras, their wives have been introduced as wives of Candra, the Moon, and daughter of Dakṣa Prajāpati. And Dakṣa Prajāpati was also the father of Satī, and she was married to Śiva, and that Dakṣa yajñā, all these things.

So, there was a fashion to keep the name of the daughters according to that nakṣatra, we find. Rohinī was the name of Baladeva's mother. Revatī, another name, the last nakṣatra name, given to Baladeva's wife. Then Kīrttikā, this was the name of Vṛṣabhānu's wife, Rādhārāṇī's mother, father, mother, both.

Rādhārāṇī was found to float on a lotus, and Vṛṣabhānu collected Her from there. They had no children, so they took Her, he was a chief of a particular portion, took Her from there. So one of the Names of Rādhārāṇī is Kārtikī, the daughter of Kīrttikā, so Kārtikī, "She who comes from Kīrttikā." Whose origin through motherly affection is Kīrttikā. So Kārtikī is one of the Names of Rādhārāṇī.

Sanātana Goswāmī has explained all these things. And because in Gītā we find: māsānāṁ mārga-śīrṣo 'ham, "I am here. I am there."

[bṛhat-sāma tathā sāmnāṁ, gāyatrī chandrasām aham
māsānāṁ mārga-śīrṣo 'ham, ṛtūnāṁ kusumākaraḥ]

["Of all the mantras in the Sāma-Veda I am the Bṛhat-sāma mantra which is uttered in prayer to Lord Indra, and of mantras in perfect prosody I am the holy Gāyatrī mantra. Of the months I am the foremost, Agrahāyaṇa, and of the seasons I am spring."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.35]

"Pāṇḍavānāṁ dhanañjayaḥ. Amongst the Pāṇḍavas I am Dhanañjaya."

[vṛṣṇīnāṁ vāsudevo 'smi, pāṇḍavānāṁ dhanañjayaḥ munīnām apy ahaṁ vyāsaḥ, kavīnām uśanāḥ kaviḥ]

["Of the Yādavas I am Vāsudeva, of the Pāṇḍavas I am Arjuna, of the sages I am Vyāsadeva, and of the scholarly knowers of the scriptures I am Śukrācārya (Uśanā)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.37]

"Amongst the months I am mārga-śīrṣo, Agrahāyaṇa [Nov-Dec]."

Kārtika [Oct-Nov] and then next Agrahāyaṇa. So Kārtika has some connection with Rādhārāṇī, with Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is Agrahāyaṇa, and just before that is Rādhikā, Kārtikī. So this Kārtika vrata has got some special reference within cāturmāsya-vrata. Four months durable cāturmāsya-vrata generally observed by the sannyāsīns.

Mahāprabhu as He took māyāvādī sannyāsa for pracāra purpose, He's also seen to observe this cāturmāsya. But a special stress is given to this last month of cāturmāsya, that is this Kārtika, because it is connected with Kīrttikā and Kārtikī, Rādhārāṇī. So Vaiṣṇavas are very fond of observing this month.

And also we find in Vṛndāvana the gopīs, they observe this vrata, taking vow the whole month of Kārtika. And they are seen to go on with worshipping Kātyānanī [the demigoddess to whom sixty-thousand ṛṣis prayed for birth from the womb of gopīs]. Praying before her: nandagopa-sutaṁ devī patiṁ me kurute namaḥ. Their general prayer was that, "Oh, You, Devī, Yogamāyā, Kātyānanī, make arrangement for our marriage with the Son of Nanda." That was their main prayer. "That connect us with the Son of Nanda." With that prayer they observed the whole month with austerities, penances, so many rules and regulations they observed for that.

So Kārtika, Kīrttikā, Kārtika month is representation of Rādhārāṇī. And just after that: "Māsānāṁ mārga-śīrṣo 'ham. I am especially to be traced in the month of mārga-śīrṣo, Agrahāyaṇa [Nov-Dec]." We find in this Kārtika month.

And in this new moon, new moon and full moon, the new moon section, the pañcamī, the fifth day, that is the day of disappearance of Ṭhākura Narottama. And who is this Narottama Ṭhākura? There is a book named Narottama-Vilāsa. There it is elaborately mentioned about Narottama Ṭhākura.

Narottama Ṭhākura he came in a rich family, ordinarily a rich family. His elder brother was Kṛṣṇa by name, Kṛṣṇacandra. Narottama Ṭhākura he did not marry, he remained all along the life of a brahmacārī.

Of course, before his birth perhaps, when Mahāprabhu went to Rāmakeli, after five years of His sannyāsa He came again to Navadwīpa. And from here He started for Vṛndāvana through the banks of the Ganges, along the banks of the Ganges, and went to Rāmakeli where Rūpa and Sanātana were in service life at that time. And at that time He had to pass by the sight where Narottama was born.

When this Ganges is divided into two, the padma [?] on that side, and balidaki [?] this side. Almost near the confluence, just on the other side of padma, there was a land Kheturi. We visited the place.

Narottama Ṭhākura installed there in his after life so many Vigrahas.

But when Mahāprabhu was passing by on the other side of the Ganges, and on the right side, opposite the Ganges was the birthplace of Narottama, Kheturi, Mahāprabhu, He shouted by taking the name of, "Narottama! Narottama!" At the top of His voice He shouted this name.

But His followers could not understand. "Why does He say so, Narottama! Narottama!"

We are told in that way.

Anyhow, Mahāprabhu went and saw Rūpa and Sanātana and did not go to Vṛndāvana, came back and straight went to Śantipura, and from there to Purī again. And then after a year He went to, from Purī via Benares He went straight to Vṛndāvana.

So, we are told that Mahāprabhu knew, He of course knows everything, but still showed that any of His favourites, thereby Narottama expected to come soon.

There Narottama Ṭhākura he was born in a Kāyastha family, but well to do family. So the not well to do, the local people, used to refer to them as 'king.' Rāja Kṛṣṇa, some such, well to do family.

And from the beginning his attitude was towards this Kṛṣṇa bhakti, automatically inspired by Kṛṣṇa bhakti, chanting, dancing, etc, in the boy time. When he was a little grown up, about fifteen or so, he anyhow came in connection with Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. And they came to Navadwīpa and circumambulation of all the different islands in Navadwīpa was first performed by them. Mahāprabhu's garden servant, Iśana, he showed them all the places of the pastimes of Mahāprabhu first.

So we are told, previous to that, first Nityānanda Prabhu along with Jīva Goswāmī, His circumambulation is the first, and next, this Narottama's and Śrīnivāsa Ācārya and Iśana. And the third parikramā was performed by one descendant of Advaita Prabhu later on.

After that our Guru Mahārāja began this Navadwīpa parikramā and that is still continuing without gap, Navadwīpa Dhāma parikramā. Now in different parties, but continuously it began about [nineteen] twenty or so, and that is continuously being performed without any stop every year.

Then, Narottama Ṭhākura, we are told, with Śrīnivāsa Ācārya and another, Śyāmānanda from Midnapur, they planned to go to Vṛndāvana. These three combined and went there.

At that time, the Rūpa, Sanātana already passed away when they were on the path, the way.

Jīva Goswāmī only, no, Jīva Goswāmī, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. Rūpa, Sanātana gone away.

Jīva Goswāmī and Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, there, Raghunātha dāsa also. Jīva Goswāmī, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, and Lokanātha Goswāmī, are staying.

And these three they lived there for some time. And Śrīnivāsa Ācārya took initiation from Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī. And Narottama Ṭhākura took initiation from Lokanātha Goswāmī. And the third, Śyāmānanda, took initiation from... [Śrī Hṛdaya Caitanya]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They entered Vṛndāvana, they circumambulated Vṛndāvana, stayed there some time, long time. And then they took dīkṣā, these three, from three persons, respected persons.

And Narottama Ṭhākura he anyhow he likes Lokanātha Goswāmī. Lokanātha Goswāmī was one, he came from Yasho District. And he was attracted to Mahāprabhu and went to Vṛndāvana and lived there along with the Goswāmīs, old man, respected by the Goswāmīs. And he also installed Deity in Vṛndāvana known as Rādhā Vinoda Maṭh.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Śrīla Bhakti Vicār Yājāvara Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Bhakti Vicār Yājāvara Mahārāja [?]: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Raghunātha Goswāmī Prabhu, in Vṛndāvana, he was a very strict vairāgī. It is told that he's so much so, he kept himself aloof from the public. And so eager to be away from the, any section of people that it is told that he after using the water pot he put it the opposite way so that no water he used to stock lest anyone comes and begs some water and he will have to give it. So strict he was. Won't keep company with anybody. His strict program of bhajana he wanted to follow on.

And Narottama Ṭhākura he prayed his grace, dikṣa from him. It is not an easy thing. He does not like company of anyone, good, bad, that is his temperament. And Narottama Ṭhākura he also won't give up his resolution of his heart, so he took one promise.

Lokanātha Goswāmī when he used to go out in the morning for passing stools, Narottama Ṭhākura detected that place in the jungle. And he used to cleanse that place every day.

And it attracted the notice of Lokanātha Prabhu. "Who is coming? In daytime I see that this place is being cleansed by some person, it seems to me, so carefully cleansing this place. Who is he?" Then he wanted to detect the person. And going early, perhaps he found that Narottama is doing all these things.

But he was too much excited and Narottama fell on his feet. "You will have to grace me, my master. You are my only master. I can't submit to any other place except yourself."

Then so much earnestness was there that Lokanātha could not avoid, could not dismiss his prayer. Anyhow he had to concede, and he accepted Narottama as his disciple.

That peculiarity we find that Lokanātha had only one disciple of Narottama. But Narottama Ṭhākura in his stead, he over-flooded the whole Bengal. Especially Manipura was wholesale converted almost by Narottama Ṭhākura.

This reminds us of an incident in Rāmānuja sampradāya. Rāmānuja, then an Ācārya, though he has got many disciples, still it was known in that quarter that one Kanchipurna, one secluded type sādhu, he has got a sort of mantram which is meant for the highest. And Rāmānuja thought he must have that siddha mantram from that Vaiṣṇava, the great Vaiṣṇava Kanchipurna. Then he offered, proposed, but at first he did not agree. Then seeing the earnestness in his prayer, he agreed but with one condition.

"What is that?"

"You don't give it to any other person. With this condition only I can give you only this mantra."

Rāmānuja agreed. This is more extreme case. He agreed to that. But this affair was known in the public. And when Ramanuja is going to be initiated, accepting that condition to Kanchipurna, the surrounding place was filled up with so many outsiders, especially the Vaiṣṇava section, followers of Rāmānuja. Then the ceremony was finished, mantra was given to Rāmānuja. And Rāmānuja came out with that pledge, that it should not be given to any other person. But his nature was otherwise.

So many Vaiṣṇava people are waiting outside. "What valuable thing, my Lord, you have got. We want to get. We are very eager to get it from you." That loud cry and demand, that, "We want to get that most valuable thing what you have got just now from that great person."

And Rāmānuja could not contain, could not keep himself without responding. And he loudly pronounced that mantra to the public.

Kanchipurna was informed, "You have given it just now." He fetched Rāmānuja. "What have you done? Just now you have given me pledge that you won't transfer it to anyone. But within few minutes you broke your promise and made it public, ordinary publicly, announced that mantram which is so sacred and kept in such privacy, what have you done? What is your explanation for this?"

He told, "My master, your mantram is infallible. It will produce its desired result, I'm sure of that. So, let these persons get released. Be satisfied with their fulfilment of life. And by breaking your order I shall have to go to eternal hell. I'm ready for that my master."

That Vasudeva Datta as he told in Mahāprabhu's līlā. "My prayer to You my Lord, all the jīva souls may be released and the whole burden of their sin may be put on my head and I like to go to hell for eternity. Let all of them be saved and enter the domain of Kṛṣṇa." That Vasudeva Datta.

And that Rāmānuja, similarly. Then Guru of Rāmānuja, that Kanchipurna, he was satisfied with Rāmānuja. "You are an exceptional person, you have come to deliver the whole humanity. So your case is different. I could not understand your nature. It is my fault. I withdraw my curse from you. You go on spreading the name of the Lord the length and breadth of the world. You were born only for that. I am satisfied with it."

Here also we find that though Narottama got his initiation from Lokanātha Prabhu, the only disciple, but he in his stead has thrown the seed all over the land, and successfully, Narottama Ṭhākura.

Another peculiarity we find in Narottama Ṭhākura, who is so scrupulous in his attitude, in his devotion towards his Guru Lokanātha Goswāmī whose favour he earned with a high price. But, he was not a blind follower. Though we see that eliminating even Jīva Goswāmī, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, he surrendered to Lokanātha Goswāmī, and got his grace. But still, he was not a blind follower. How? He's gone through the scriptures of Rūpa Goswāmī etc. He understood Mahāprabhu and His structure of the disciple, hierarchy of the disciple.

And he said, Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada, sung by him, Narottama Prabhu. Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, sei mora bhajana-pūjana. "My everything is Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī's holy feet, everything."

We're to discuss so many comparisons, classification, in gradation, the position of rasa, śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. And in mādhurya, Rādhārāni's camp special. And then again, there are so many sakhīs, nitya-sakhī, prana-sakhī, so many gradations. Then there is the class of the mañjarī, younger in age. And they have got more freedom to approach when Rādhā-Govinda, Both of Them in union, in private position. The mañjarī can approach there. They have got freedom to go visit Them. If any material service is necessary, the sakhīs send these mañjarīs to that place. They did not approach there. So in that way, the mañjarī enjoys the best confidence. The most sacred service of Both can be supplied through the mañjarī. Their entrance is free, free admission, in the highest position. So, and their leader is Rūpa Mañjarī. In girl position, she's supposed to be the leader of all the whole group of mañjarī. So in mādhurya-bhajana she's all in all, Rūpa Mañjarī.

And Narottama Ṭhākura he teaches us that, about her position, that she's all in all.
"We younger batch, for us, she's our highest resort."

So, Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, sei mora bhajana-pūjana, sei mora prāṇa, sei mora sampada. "My wealth is there in her feet. Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, sei mora bhajana-pūjana. My worship and service, that is also in her.

Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, sei mora bhajana-pūjana, sei mora prāṇa-dhana sei mora abharaṇa. The very wealth of my life, the gist of my life is there, abharaṇa. The ornaments of my life, what, if there is anything, that is also within her grace, abharaṇa.

Sei mora jīvanera jīvana. The very life of my life, if there is anything, that is also she, at her pleasure, jīvanera jīvana.

Sei mora rasa-nidhi. If there is anything, the source of all desirable ecstasy, it is only there located, rasa-nidhi. The mine, the source of all rasa, the fountain-head of all rasa is there in her feet, rasa-nidhi.

Sei mora vāñchā-siddhi. If any other fulfilments of life I'm to expect, that is also there. Sei mora rasa-nidhi, sei mora vāñchā-siddhi.

Sei mora vedera dharama. If any duty recommended by the Vedas for me, I like it is in her feet. Sei mora vedera dharama.

Sei vrata, sei tapaḥ. If any accumulation at all is desired from any penance, or any vows, observance of any vow, that is also there. Sei vrata, sei tapaḥ.

Sei mora mantra-japa. And the continued repetition of a mantra in japa, that is also there. All ending there. All things have got only one end in my case, and that is they meet all in different phases to the feet of Rūpa Mañjarī. If she's satisfied, my all sorts of variegated natures of devotional practices are satisfied.

Sei mor dharama-karama. And any conception of duty or activity of any phases of any form of mine, all at one end, meets in one point. That is the holy feet of Rūpa Mañjarī, in this way.

Anukūla habe vidhi se pade haibe siddhi. I only pray to the _____ [?] who is at the root of all these arrangements of affairs in the world, I pray to him, please connect me there. Anukūla habe vidhi se pade haibe siddhi. The absolute manager, may he grant my prayer, that all my tendencies may go attain her favour. Anukūla habe vidhi se pade haibe siddhi.

Nirakhiba e dui nayane. And it will be so much intense and concrete as if I can see with these eyes. Not vague, not abstract, not imagination, but the most concrete realization I want by the grace of the all- management. Nirakhiba e dui nayane.

Se-rūpa mādhurī-rāśi prāṇa-kuvalaya - śaśī. What beauty, what sort of high-class beauty is there in her holy feet? I want to be charmed. Se-rūpa mādhurī-rāśi prāṇa-kuvalaya - śaśī. If my heart be a lotus, and the lotus, kuvalaya, two classes, the red lotus and the white lotus. White lotus straight from sun and red lotus from the moon. The kuvalaya a mixture. And day and night the lustre of her body will feed me day and night, the life of my life. It is compared with a lotus, kuvalaya. And kuvalaya is fed, is nourished by the lustre of moon. And her feet is the moon, holy feet. And my very vitality is like lotus, compared. Prāṇa-kuvalaya. Se-rūpa mādhurī-rāśi. The beauty, lustre of her beauty may maintain, may nourish my heart of hearts. Prāṇa-kuvalaya - śaśī.

Praphullita habe niśi-dine. And the lotus of my heart will grow by that ray and dance.

Tuyā adarśana ahi. This is my prayer. But what is my present condition? Present condition is in the negative side, my mistress. Present position is such that without having a sight of you, your grace, my heart is burning, going to burn into ashes. That is my present position. Tuyā adarśana ahi.

Garale jarala dehi. This is just like the poison of a cobra, poison. Poison produces some sort of pain, bitter pain, into my heart. And it is bitten by a snake. And what is that snake? That I am not getting direct contact of you, your grace. _____ [?] means serpent. The serpent poison has captured my heart and I'm going to die.

Cira-dina tāpita jīvana. And this is not a sudden thing. For long, long time, from the beginning I'm suffering from this sort of pain of separation from such a beautiful and hopeful life of fulfilment. Tāpita jīvana.

Hā hā prabhu kara dayā, deha more pada-chāyā, narottama laila śaraṇa. But I'm now reached in the extreme position. For the last time I'm begging for your favour. Otherwise I'm going to be finished."

This is written by Narottama Ṭhākura in praising Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī. Rūpanuga-sampradāya. This sampradāya is named as rūpanuga-sampradāya. Our Guru paramparā, all these things, adjusted according to that.

Another instance also we find in the song of Narottama Ṭhākura, that when she's thinking of his future bright days, that he's taken, entered Vṛndāvana, and was going to get the service of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa under the direction of Rūpa Goswāmī. Such position has come, has dawned, the day has dawned.

Kavi lokanatha hatiya buliya _____ rūpa sthaniya [?]

"When the day will come when my direct master, Lokanātha, he will take by my hand and will offer me to Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī? He will catch hold of my hand and take me to Rūpa and there he will."

Not that through Lokanātha Goswāmī and his Guru, and his Guru, in this way we want to approach. But his Guru is taking to Śrī Rūpa who holds the highest position of our highest fulfilment of life. In this way he is connecting. That his direct Guru, initiating Guru, "will take by hand and place me under the care of Śrī Rūpa."

In this way he has given us light of the higher quarter of bhajana life, this Narottama Ṭhākura. Narottama parivart. A class is known by the name of Narottama parivart, that, who has got faith in him, his song. He wrote many songs, many songs. And for Nityānanda Prabhu, Mahāprabhu and they're very fervent, and very ecstatic, and deep faith. Nityānanda Prabhu, Mahāprabhu, Rūpa Goswāmī, and Sad Goswāmī, and so many others. Narottama Ṭhākura. He was born in Māgha Pūrṇimā, in Pūrṇimā day of Māgha. And he disappeared today, the Kṛṣṇa Pañcamī of Kārtika, Narottama Ṭhākura. He's within our Guru paramparā, we find.

["The great souls Jīva Goswāmī and Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī became very dear to Rūpa Goswāmī. Jīva Goswāmī was a disciple of Rūpa Goswāmī, and Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī, a disciple of Advaita Ācārya's disciple Yadunandana Ācārya, was accepted by Rūpa and Sanātana as their third brother. Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī's beloved student was Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī. Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja was an intimate friend of Lokanātha Goswāmī. They lived together in Vṛndāvana and always discussed the topics of Kṛṣṇa with one another. Lokanātha Goswāmī, a disciple of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, had only one disciple, whose name was Narottama dāsa. Narottama dāsa was always engaged in the service of his Guru, and he also engaged himself in the service of his Guru's intimate friend. Thus he became very dear to Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī. To serve the feet of Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura was the only desire of Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura, who was the fourth Ācārya in disciplic succession from Narottama dāsa."]
[Śrī Guru-paramparā, 7]

[From Songs Of The Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, p 90-93, describing the Brahma-Mādhva-Gauḍīya sampradāya as compiled by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura.]

He had much appreciation for Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

krsnadasa kaviraja, rasika bhakata-majha, jenho kaila caitanya-carita
-gaura-govinda-līlā, sunite galaye sila, tahate na haila mora cite

["Among the devotees Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja is extremely expert at relishing the transcendental nectar of the mellows of love of God. When the stones hear his Caitanya-caritāmṛta and Govinda-līlāmṛta, they begin to melt in ecstasy. In spite of this, I cannot appreciate him within my heart."] [Prarthana, 3.3]

So descent, the pure devotion, the current coming by zig zag way. Here in Guru paramparā our Guru Mahārāja has connected the link of the śikṣā Guru in this way. First Śrī Caitanyadeva who is no other than Rādhā-Govinda combined, the very source, the very fountain-head of all our highest aspirations. Then from there, Svarūpa Dāmodara who is a double of Śrī Caitanya, second representation of Śrī Caitanyadeva is Svarūpa Dāmodara. He's considered to be Lalitā Sakhī in past līlā of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrī-swarūpa dāmodara, śrī-goswāmī rūpa-sanātana. And Rūpa, Sanātana, both of them got direct advice, instruction from Mahāprabhu, Himself. In Benares Sanātana, and in Allahabad Rūpa Goswāmī. They had the fortune of hearing direct from Mahāprabhu's lips. So Svarūpa Dāmodara and his friends Rūpa and Sanātana, though they are not disciples, rank. But Svarūpa holds the primary position, and then next Rūpa, Sanātana.

Rūpa-priya mahājana, jīva, raghunātha hana. Jiva Goswāmī was direct disciple of Rūpa Goswāmī, jīva, raghunātha. And he's one of the six Goswāmīns. And Raghunātha who, from Svarūpa, Mahāprabhu he has seen, he has got direct teachings from Mahāprabhu and Svarūpa Dāmodara. And then he went to Vṛndāvana and then he saw that Rūpa, Sanātana get direct connection. Raghunātha tried his best to connect with Mahāprabhu, but Mahāprabhu always gave him connection of Svarūpa Dāmodara. But here Rūpa, Sanātana got direct connection with Mahāprabhu. So in the rank of Svarūpa Dāmodara. And Raghunātha submitted to them. And also, Jīva Goswāmī, he gave protection to all the instructions of higher order by quoting and support from the different scriptures for the facility of public to accept them, in general. So jīva, raghunātha hana, and Jīva and Raghunātha both from Rūpa, one was rāga-mārga, and another recommending vidhi- mārga, jīva raghunātha hana.

Tāra priya, and Kavirāja Goswāmī we cannot eliminate. What he has given in Caitanya-caritāmṛta and Govinda-līlāmṛta etc, and so many poems, his realization is very powerful, very sweet, and very generous. So Kavirāja Goswāmī had direct connection with Raghunātha, when Raghunātha came, jīva, raghunātha hana. Tāra priya kavi kṛṣṇadāsa. Kavi Kṛṣṇadāsa was direct disciple of Raghunātha dāsa.

Then came the place of Narottama who is appreciated. They could trace the higher representation of the service in the area of divine love. Narottama Ṭhākura has got in his description the appreciation of Kavirāja Goswāmī. So Kavirāja Goswāmī is taken before Narottama, and then comes Narottama, though they are contemporary.

Then, jīva, raghunātha hana, tāra priya kavi kṛṣṇadāsa, kṛṣṇadāsa-priya-bara, narottama sevā-para. And the faithful followers of Mahāprabhu are locating that Narottama Ṭhākura followed that Kavirāja Goswāmī, when it came next Narottama Ṭhākura.

Jāra pada viśvanātha-āśa. Then from Narottama, next generation comes with a little gap, this Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura. There was others also between Narottama and Viśvanātha. Viśvanātha Cakravartī is in the line of Narottama, but through one or two preceptors, but they are not very remarkable. But Viśvanātha Cakravartī again has done.

Sometimes the river comes from the hill, but its magnitude is not always one and the same. In some places it is passing in a very meagre way. And some places we see it is very fat. It is coming down, somewhere it is very thin and sometimes it is very fat, the river coming. Something like that.

So Narottama, after that. Then in Viśvanātha Cakravartī it has shown itself again in greater magnitude. He has written the tika of Bhāgavatam, Bhagavad-gītā, and the gist of Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam. Then Laghu- Bhāgavatāmṛtam, then Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Kirana-bindhu-kana, many things he has given.

Through him Mahāprabhu has given many. So we find in some places in the line Mahāprabhu's grace overflowing to suit the purpose of the next generation. So we are to fix our attention in those important places. The river, the Ganges coming, but not very important towns grown all along the bank. In some position the big towns grow. So something like that. We find that in an extensive way the ordinary devotee may find food stored in extensive position. So attention is drawn there. Viśvanātha Cakravartī.

Then Jagannātha, but afterwards it was added the name of Baladeva. Who is Baladeva? Baladeva's spiritual line is separate. And he had much affinity, or much attraction for the Madhva philosophy. But coming in contact with Viśvanātha Cakravartī, Baladeva was converted into Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, and more a Gauḍīya than Madhva school.

And by the grace of Govindaji, he got the fortune of preparing this Gauḍīya-Vedānta, Govinda-bhāṣya for us, how Vedānta is connected with this Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava.

There was a challenge in Jaipur that, "The Gauḍīya sampradāya has got no commentary on Vedānta which is universally accepted by the theistic school, so they cannot be given any recognition as they're follower of Veda and Vedānta."

But that challenge was taken by Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa under the direction of Viśvanātha Cakravartī who was too old then to go to the assembly where the discussion about the Vedānta was taking place. Baladeva was sent. And Baladeva faced that problem and he took some time, seven days or so, and by fervently praying to Govinda he was empowered to compose the commentary of Vedānta, within very short time. And he produced that to the assembly of the then Vaiṣṇavas, and that was accepted. So Gauḍīya sampradāya was represented in the commentary of Vedānta by Baladeva. So important service he has done for the sampradāya. So those that are thinkers of welfare of the whole of the Gauḍīya sampradāya cannot ignore Baladeva from the list of their predecessors. So Baladeva has been taken in, in the list of śikṣā Guru, along with Jagannātha dāsa. Baladeva, Jagannātha.

Jagannātha also comes in that line and he cut a good figure. And from him comes Gaura Kiśora Bābāji through one bābājī disciple of Jagannātha. Bhāgavata dāsa there was one. He was previously a muktar [?] in Mananshi [?] District. He left the world and went to Jagannātha dāsa Bābāji, took veśa from him, and he was known as Bhāgavata dāsa. And Gaura Kiśora Goswāmī, Prabhupāda's direct initiation Guru, he took veśa from that Bhāgavata dāsa. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura when he was dissatisfied with the present followers, so-called followers of Mahāprabhu as mostly sahajiyā, he connected with that Jagannātha dāsa Bābāji, śuddha-bhakta, the grand Guru of Gaura Kiśora Bābāji. And he got his veśa from there. So, and he reckoned Jagannātha dāsa Bābāji his Guru and Gaura Kiśora Bābāji his grand Guru was Jagannātha dāsa Bābāji. So Bhāgavata dāsa was eliminated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...deviation, according to our Guru Mahārāja, whom we think, not a sādhana- siddha but nitya-siddha. His acceptance of Guru is a formal one. He's already in his position all along. And he could detect what will be the suiting channel of our knowledge, our required knowledge to attain the desired end in this life.

So, baladeva jagannātha, tāra priya śrī-bhaktivinoda. From Jagannātha we shall come to Bhaktivinoda and then Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāja, he also sometimes, he comes direct from Jagannātha and Gaura Kiśora Bābājī comes through Bhāgavata and through Jagannātha.

And Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāja he went to hear the explanation of Bhāgavatam from Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in Godrumadvīpa. In Svarūpa-ganja, that Godrumadvīpa, the bhajana-sthali of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, there is a place reserved, a small construction where Gaura Kiśora Bābājī used to sit, take his seat when Bhaktivinoda used to explain Bhāgavatam. Mostly he went to hear Bhāgavatam. So Bhāgavata Guru, Gaura Kiśora's Bhāgavata Guru to a certain extent was Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. From Jagannātha, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura came. And then Gaura Kiśora Bābājī Mahārāja. Then our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda, who has harmonized all these and has given a systematic line of thought, collecting the gist from all the sources possible helpful for our future life, the most beneficial. This is the lineage.

And Narottama Ṭhākura is a bright star in the line. And the whole almost of Manipura and so many places. And his song was very much favourite to all. But Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura came with his songs. That is more scientific to help us. Narottama Ṭhākura's songs are more sentimental. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's songs are more systematic, for us to understand. And the feeling, the sentiment, we find intensely in Narottama Ṭhākura. But systematic thinking of anything we can trace in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. So generally Narottama parivar, we belong to the family of Narottama. And now we can say little by modification we belong to the family of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

I wrote a poem, I can't remember them in Sanskrit. Śuka and Vyāsa. Vyāsadeva was a gṛhastha and Śukadeva brahmacārī. And Vyāsadeva was the teacher of Śukadeva in Bhāgavatam. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura was also gṛhastha and teacher of Prabhupāda who was like Śukadeva, brahmacārī all along. So I compared Prabhupāda with Śukadeva, and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura with Vyāsadeva, the master of necessary scriptures supplied for our goodness. And Prabhupāda inaugurated them as Śukadeva Goswāmī did, to the educated public of the time. Prabhupāda, our Guru Mahārāja, he observed the function of Śukadeva, brahmacārī, and he inaugurated the thing to the public. And he came, the scriptures and Śukadeva got it from Vyāsadeva, his father, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Prabhupāda. In this way our vision about the Guru paramparā and Narottama Ṭhākura Goswāmī, Prabhupāda.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?] Any question from anybody?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, Guru Mahārāja, transcendental sound, you said the other day, cannot come from one tape recorder. You said the background must be there. So our tapes of Your Divine Grace or our own Hari-Nāma Guru, Swāmī Mahārāja, are these transcendental sound vibrations from the tape recorder? Or does it have to be heard from the person.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Bhakti Vicār Yājāvara Mahārāja [?] _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It is potent, by the desire of Mahāprabhu, just like Rūpa Goswāmī was empowered by the desire of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. So similarly when great souls...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I like to clear, clarify it. When I came, when I joined newly, I was sent with Nemi Mahārāja to Benares. I appreciated his explanation of Bhāgavata and many others there.

And Nemi Mahārāja told to me, "If now the atmosphere is created in such way, that if I'm ordered to construct a centre of our own, purchasing the land, etc, then I can do. But that won't be sanctioned by the authority, because in that case my name will be spread more, pratiṣṭhā."

I put this in a letter to Guru Mahārāja. Nemi Mahārāja has created a good atmosphere here, very favourable. If he's ordered to construct a centre of our own, perhaps he can do. So I think that this Benares is an important place, a meeting place of all different religious sections. So we must have some original position of our own here. I pray that you may encourage Nemi Mahārāja to have our own centre here.

We are at that time in hired house. The Deities were also there, established in hired house, rented house.

The answer, the reply did not come direct to me, but general secretary wrote to me. "We already know that Nemi Mahārāja's preaching is very successful. And you try to hear, listen to his analytical explanation of Bhāgavatam and you enrich yourself by that." No mention about this point.

Then after some time Prabhupāda went there, for some sort of business, installation, or anyhow some reason. Suddenly his ways were such. Suddenly Prabhupāda told me, perhaps when I was alone, that, "What will be the effect of karma-kāṇḍa? What is karma-kāṇḍa? To use our energy for the satisfaction of our own, which is not meant for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. What is the necessity of collecting something according to our whim? Only what Kṛṣṇa will desire, we shall do that. That will be service."

He gave an example. "Suppose a Vaiṣṇava has said, or Lord has said, 'take some flower.' I'm taking flower to him." This was his example, our Guru Mahārāja. "When I have taken the flower and just going to give him, 'No, no, no flower, take water.' If even at that time I press him, 'Oh, you have already ordered me to bring flower. Please accept this,' this will be karma-kāṇḍa, to thrust my will on him. So no service."

So, because he's independent, he may order something and again he may cancel that. He's in such position. He's not bound by his own previous birth. He's independent of such nature. The will is everything. And he can express his will and he can withdraw his will, his position is such, independent. The independence of such quality and characteristic.

So as highly powerful brāhmaṇas also, they can give something, again curse, forget everything.

Karṇa went to Droṇācārya in some disguise, 'that I'm a brāhmaṇa,' or something like that.

Then Droṇācārya taught him everything, and anyhow in the end he understood that he's not a brāhmaṇa.

Then he asked Karṇa, "You're not a brāhmaṇa?"

There was some incident. One day Droṇācārya wanted to sleep, putting his head, no, it is not Droṇācārya, Paraśurāma. And that worm, Paraśurāma's head was on the thigh of Karṇa. Indra in the shape of a worm, he pierced through the thigh of Karṇa and gave a biting to the head of Paraśurāma.

Paraśurāma awoke, "What is this, the blood flowing and his body also smeared with blood. What is this?" Then he asked Karṇa, "Oh, you're not a brāhmaṇa? Brāhmaṇa cannot tolerate. You must be a kṣatriya. And why you have come to me? You have taken all this education from me about the weapons. I throw a curse, that the time of your greatest need, you will forget everything." He withdrew. What he gave, he could withdraw.

So free will is of such nature. It is committed sometimes and if necessary, may withdraw from encouragement. So many politicians, heads of the nation, they sometimes give some commitment, try to oblige. But if necessary he has to abide by ordinance. It may be necessary for the good.

So, in scriptures also something like that, the books written by the mahātmās, śāstras. That is something like tape. They have given instructions through the medium of so many symbols. That has got some value. But not so much value of such degree as we find in the writer, something less. So also, the will, the centre from which the vibration is passed, if still in connection, that his consent is there, it will work.

Our Guru Mahārāja through telephone gave Hari-Nāma to one person in Dakka in his dying bed, death bed. He was recommended by his disciples...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] When phone he gave, but his consent, the connection was there, it may be done. And when instruction given just like book, it is in the tape recorder, just like book it is there. But the powerhouse is above all.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Commissioned by the powerhouse.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ, jagad avyakta-mūrtinā
[mat-sthāni sarva-bhūtāni, na cāhaṁ teṣv avasthitaḥ]

["In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4]

"I am everywhere, everything in Me. I am nowhere, nothing in Me."

Acintya bhedābheda. He can withdraw, and He can also pervade through everything, it is His will, in this way. Śāstra also, many of us may read, but if there's any curse anywhere, they won't get the benefit by reading the śāstra. From Him, the original person, or a helpful connection with Him. _____ [?]
So that will be barred.

That Durvāsā gave curse to Śakuntalā. "You are neglecting me, engaged in deep meditation of your husband. And I'm a respectable guest, you are ignoring me. Then if you're introduced to him, he won't be able to remember about you at all." In Śakuntalā case, a bar.

Then the she friends of Śakuntalā they came, "Oh, be propitiated with us, withdraw your curse."

Then he modified it. "If any token can be shown to him, he'll be able to remember that."

In this way.

The will, it is coming, what is coming, it is not cut up from the source, the powerhouse. So the powerhouse keeper, the faithful group, not only through whom it came, but also the associated clans, they can also have some such power, to stop and to open. In this way we're to take.

It is not a thing that I have got the microphone or that tape, I have got everything from him. Fully I have got possession in his property. It cannot be done like that.

But still mainly it is conducted. Just as so many śāstra written by whom we can read. But our attention must be qualified to read the śāstra. Only mere reading, intellectualism, that won't do. But reading in a proper way, praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā. And ya'o paḍa bhāgavata vaiṣṇavera sthane [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.131] If through His agent, if I properly read that, then it will be beneficial, otherwise I shall try to cast, due to my deceptive nature, my meaning into the name of the śāstra.

As Śaṅkarācārya did, he interpreted the Vedas. There he did not try to draw the real meaning of the Vedas, but he cast his own opinion in the Vedas and gave that to us. Do you follow?

Mahāprabhu charged against him. "Śaṅkarācārya has not accepted the teachings of the Vedas as it is."

Like Swāmī Mahārāja named Gītā, As It Is.

"He modified the teachings of the Gītā by his own intellectual experience. So it is not real purpose of the Vedas in his writings." These were the charges against Śaṅkarācārya by Mahāprabhu.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee:

_____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Let it work intact for eternity. This is my special hankering, prayer for the good of you all." A general recommendation.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Rūpa Goswāmī also, not only what Mahāprabhu taught direct to them, but also outside they told, "I am inspiring you, I am giving some good will to you. And when you will be under necessity, that will work, that will help you to face all possible difficulties when you attempt to refute the opposite elements. It will work, my good will with you. And that will help you. And it will come to your relief at the very time you are in need." That was told by Mahāprabhu, both Rūpa and Sanatana. Śakti sanchar means this, to give the good will.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]
Well-wishing _____ [?] Without the help of the sound. It is also possible _____ [?] The assertion in different planes, to help the surroundings. To think good of some, _____ [?] Guru thinks good about the disciple. They may thrive, they may get the real thing of search of us. Pisashish [?], the good will, and then to say something. And both parties must be willing, and that also receiving quality attitude, from both the parties. Then it will transmit from one place to another. The door is closed that side then no effect. So Guru lakṣaṇa, what is the sign of a Guru, symptom of a Guru, as well as what is the sign of a disciple. And when they both come together, then the transaction begins. Conductor, electricity cannot pass through anything and everything, non-conductor is also there. Gaura Hari bol.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So that means śāstra and Nāma, without sādhu-saṅga it may...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śraddhā, everything but, receiving properly, sincere receiving attitude from the disciple, that is also necessary, a necessary part. Otherwise, no effect can be shown. If the seed is cast on the stony ground, no crops.

[30:20 - 32:15 Bengali Conversation]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is modified because they do not pass through the medium which is cent percent can transmit. So modification comes from Guru to disciple then some colour. Again another disciple, some modification. In this way pāramparyeṇa, and prakṛti-vaicitryāt. Many disciples heard from one Guru and according to the receiving capacity, variegatedness of their capacity of reception, when they give delivery, some sort of difference. Prakṛti-vaicitryāt and pāramparyeṇa, so there is a jungle now, but first it was one. And in Gītā also:

imaṁ vivasvate yogaṁ, proktavān aham avyayam
vivasvān manave prāha, manur ikṣvākave' bravīt

[evaṁ paramparā-prāptam, imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ]
sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa

[The Supreme Lord said: "Previously I instructed the sun-god Sūrya (Vivasvān) in this imperishable scientific knowledge, which is achieved by selfless action. Sūrya, the presiding deity of the sun, delivered it to his son Vaivasvata Manu, exactly as he had heard it from Me. Thereafter, Manu instructed the same knowledge to his son Ikṣvāku. O conqueror of the enemy, in this way, the saintly kings such as Nimi, Janaka, and others, learned this path of knowledge through divine succession. From the beginning of time, I am giving My tidings to others, transmitting the truth that I am the goal through this system of disciplic succession, generation after generation. Presently, due to the influence of this material world and the passage of time, the current is damaged, and this teaching appears to be almost completely lost."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1-2]

"I first gave the instruction of this karma-yoga to Vivasvān, Sūrya. Then from him to Manu. Manu he gave to his son Ikṣvāku. In this way coming and it vanished. Now again I am saying that same old thing to you."

Contaminated and modified by this mundane thought. The spiritual truth becomes otherwise coloured. By our prejudice it is coloured. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Now the time, ten o'clock.

Prakṛti-vaicitryāt. Mahārāja said, "There is neem trees, there is tamarind trees, they are drawing water from the same Ganges perhaps, on the banks of the Ganges. But when production, this is bitter and that is acid. And some mango tree is there, that is giving some good fruit, sweet fruit. In this way from the same source, but according to the nature, the medium, the production becomes different." Prakṛti-vaicitryāt.

From Brahmā, both Indra and Virocana, they are students to Brahmā. Brahmā, so 'ham. Then Indra thought so means ātmā, and Virocana he thought like a demon, this body. 'I am that.' Who is that? Some thought, the soul is there, and some thought in the same class reading, this body is that thing. And this misconception according to the local prejudice. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, one darśana you spoke that Napoleon, when he was on the battlefield, none could defeat him when he was present on the battlefield. So my question is this. In the west, people have an interest in occult, in parapsychology, subtle material phenomena. And it is accepted by some that people can subtly attack other people, on the subtle plane. That there can be war beyond the gross material plane on the subtle plane. So my question is, when there's opposition parties and bad feelings, can one party be disturbing the other party, subtly, on the subtle plane. In other words, can they make disturbance from a distance?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He says that, "When there are opposition parties in apparent spiritual movements, then can one party have a type of subtle war on the other by some means, maybe mantra, tantra, or something. Is it possible that they can effect and have any victory that way?" That's his question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: From a distance, can one party disturb the other party from a distance, is it possible, by any means at all?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Through books, through agents, may do. Or if they develop psychic force, thereby also they can do. Even they can cure the disease also by psychic power from distant place. Hanumān [?] says so.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, this is the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, this is about external things, tarkā-pratiṣṭhānāt. [Brahma-sūtra, 2.1.11] & [Gaudiya-Kanthahara, 7.104]

_____ [?] *Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu*____ [?]

So tarkā-panthā and śrauta-panthā, we're to conceive the difference between tarkā-panthā, the ascending method, inductive method, and deductive method, or descending method, revealed truth. Tarkā-panthā, by the method of logic, a greater genius can defeat another by arguments. By arguments we cannot ascertain the truth. Truth is independent of all sorts of conjectures ever come, or may come in the world. We are to understand the difference between the two, the truth coming Himself towards those that are attacked by non-truth. Infinite comes to finite, that is one. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ. And na medhayā na bahunā śrutena. No tarkena, no debating or discussion by nothing else.

Everything is finished here. When He likes to make Himself known to anybody, only that body can know, through His grace. And here, from this plane, they may dash their head to pieces, but no trace of that higher thing. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Akṣayānanda Mahārāja?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You please explain that, little elaborately. That śrauta-panthā, avaroha-panthā, it is coming down. Truth can come down, and come at His pleasure. Whomever He will select, he will know Him. In the same place, He wants to make Himself known to one, the others cannot know. They can know differently.

mallānām aśanir nṛṇāṁ naravaraḥ strīṇāṁ smaro mūrttimān

["O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cow-herdsmen; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kaṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇis - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.43.17]

Kṛṣṇa entering the arena of Kaṁsa, and different sections of people are seeing Him in different ways. Whomever He wants to make Himself known, in that way, he can know Him only, in that way. It is His will, and not the will of the knower, who wants to know.

Anyhow, to influence Him, that He comes down, and this is the devotion of bhakti, śaraṇāgati, etc. Otherwise, we shall know, with this attitude, none can know, what to speak of establish by their discussion, or logic, he may give impression. Have you all understood this method?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Or more explanation necessary?

Then Akṣayānanda Mahārāja will speak something elaborately.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, can I rephrase some of that question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: As Napoleon, his presence, created a situation for the opposition party, which practically made him invincible...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After all, Napoleon is a man of this mundane world.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One good logician can suppress another one of lower capacity. It is here. But no Napoleon by the dint of his own genius can enter into the transcendental world. Which, the transcendental truth is so fine, and of subjective nature, and never of any objective nature. He's all subject. The whole - He can take only initiative, of all the actions, especially about Him. So subtle, that the human consciousness cannot enquire and capture Him. As a subject that cannot be dealt with. Super subjective area, transcendental, adhokṣaja, means super subjective.

My, myself is so gross, my self, my knowledge, my self and its knowledge is so gross, that cannot enter. Just as earth cannot enter electricity. Electricity can enter anywhere, but iron cannot enter into electricity. Electricity will pass through iron _____ [?] electricity non conductor it cannot pierce through. Just as some ether, that can pass through anything, the iron work, the wooden work, it will pass through anything and everything. But wood cannot enter into it, it is so fine. Something like that.

Super subjective, all subject, all subjective existence, and very, very fine. And jīva consciousness is too gross to conceive that thing. Just as an eye cannot see so many things. Microscopic worms are there, but it is beyond the reach of human eyes. Only through microscope we can trace, something. So, this gross, subjective character, which the individual souls possess, that is so gross that cannot have any, cannot trace any existence of that most subtle thing in the conscious world. So, nāyam ātmā pravacanena, only when that fine thing descends into this gross plane, then the gross plane in a passive way feels something, that something is encroaching me, and he cannot oppose. So fine, that is entering into this gross plane of human consciousness. So fine knowledge, and so peculiar type, he just wonders.

"Such a wonderful touch of a very blissful, how I find extraordinary bliss touching my mind, my consciousness?" Then if that is withdrawn, "Oh, no trace of that wonderful blissful touch in me again."

So that is of another type, so yam evaiṣa vṛnute. Whomever He will select to be caught by Him, he can get trace, otherwise none can trace Him. It is very easy thing. So many things existing beyond the jurisdiction of our sight. So many sounds are there which our ear cannot hear. All limited. So human consciousness is limited to make enquiry, or understand about that thing. But when that thing comes to us we can feel only possibly. That sort of, transcendental, supra-mental, these are the terms given by the philosophers about His attributes and existence.

Sat-cit-ānandam. The Vallabha sampradāya says, sat is what exists, what is the matter. Cit, sat cit, both in jīva soul. And sat-cit-ānanda only in the higher thing, that is Lord, God. Jīva has consciousness but not ānanda, mere consciousness. And ānanda is there, sat-cit-ānanda, in full-fledged is there in the God.

But Mahāprabhu says that jīva is an atom of consciousness, and with very negligible point of blissfulness. Sat-cit-ānanda, three things, only in a very meagre way, of a most negligent degree, in jīva.

I could not make it clear? Eh?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, very clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very clear. But our Vidagdha-Mādhava Prabhu he's not satisfied perhaps? More elaboration he wants, eh?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I think that, I'm coming from such a low position, and entering in such an exalted process...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. You have brought the example of Napoleon. And I sometimes used it for some other topics. But why you have taken Napoleon here? Napoleon is a hero in the material world, but no spiritual reference.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

A mundane example of Napoleon, he could conquer any force. So, someone is endowed with - empowered, a delegated power of the Lord, then he can conquer anyone. Something like that. A genius, and spiritual genius, one favourite of the Lord. Lord is backing whom? Such is your Ācārya. He can conquer anyone and everyone. He's backed by the Supreme Lord, Supreme Authority, such a devotee can face every, any eventuality.

Jagāi, Mādhāi, the greatest rogues of the time, attacked Nityānanda Prabhu, and were easily converted. But an ordinary devotee would not be able to do that. Nityānanda Prabhu could do so.

Something like that I might have told in the example of Napoleon, to make it clear. Napoleon could defeat any force, if he was present, independent of the magnitude or the efficiency of the opposite party.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So, Guru Mahārāja, when those that are flying, at least in name, the banner of Mahāprabhu, they have some disagreement, and even sometimes to the point of attacking the other side, how is that to be considered?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: There may be two parties, both are professing to hold the flag of Mahāprabhu, the banner of Mahāprabhu. But they may even attack each other, to the war, to the end. So what is the position here? What is the explanation given?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then? This is the leading question _____ [?] Gauḍīya Maṭha _____ [?]
sahajiyā party? Our Guru Mahārāja dismissed them all by quoting one _____ [?]

āula, bāula, karttābhajā, neḍā, daraveśa, sāñi sahajiyā, sakhībhekī, smārta, jāta-gosāñi [ativāḍī, cūḍādhārī, gaurāṅga-nāgarī tato kahe, ei terara saṅga nāhi kari]

["The names of the sahajiyā saṁpradāyas are as follows: āula (a mendicant sect following a very easy course of worship), bāula (a sect of mendicants who wander about singing sweet melodies about the pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa while engaging in abominable activities), karttābhajā (a sect of "followers" of Śrī Gaurāṅga in Bengal), neḍā (literally means: "shaven-headed." Refers to devotees whose greatest religious principle is their shaven heads. The word also means bald or barren and connotes someone who represents himself as a devotee while his so-called religious life is barren of genuine realisation), daraveśa (a Muslim mendicant. This word has also been used by Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī to mean "hippy"), sāni (literally means: "religious instructor"), sahajiyā (literally means: "easy-ist." Indicates one who takes the pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana cheaply), sakhībhekī (one who imagines himself to be a gopī, and adopts the dress of a woman), smārta (formalistic and materialistic brāhmaṇas), jāta-gosāñi (caste goswāmīs), ativāḍī (proud devotees), cūḍādhārī (those whose only religious principle consists in shaving the head and maintaining a tuft of hair, marking themselves as Vaiṣṇavas), and gaurāṅga-nāgarī (those who consider that it is the position of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu to be the enjoyer of women, when in fact as a sannyāsī in His Ācārya līlā He avoided all association with women). One should avoid associating with these different classes of imitation devotees.] [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.111]

In this way, exposed them. Gaura-nāgarī they claim that "We're followers of Mahāprabhu."
Āula, bāula, so many others they say, "We're followers of Mahāprabhu."
But our Guru Mahārāja had to expose them, and clearly he discarded them and preached his own thing. And all, still there are so many others in their camp, they do not take the sahajiyā section, do not take the opinion of Gauḍīya Maṭha. So the subtle points there are, and it depends upon the sincerity of the soul, he can know.

ācārya kahe, - vastu-viṣaye haya vastu-jñāna / vastu-tattva-jñāna haya kṛpāte pramāṇa

["It is evident that I have the grace of the Lord, because I know Him, and that you have not, because you deny Him."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 6.89]

Gopinātha Ācārya and Sārvabhauma were discussing about Mahāprabhu. Sārvabhauma was not converted, so far. When, before his conversion, the talk between Gopinātha Ācārya and Sārvabhauma, and his students.

Gopinātha Ācārya told, "That only through the grace of God, one can know God, no other alternative."

Then Sārvabhauma put this question.

[sārvabhauma kahe, — ācārya, kaha sāvadhāne] tomāte īśvara-kṛpā ithe ki pramāṇe

[Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya replied, "My dear Gopīnātha Ācārya, please speak with great care. What is the proof that you have received the mercy of the Lord?"] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 6.88]

"You have got the grace, and I have not got the grace. What is the guarantee there? How to decide, that you have got the grace of God, what you say about God that is true? But I have not got the grace, so my words are not real."

ācārya kahe, - vastu-viṣaye haya vastu-jñāna / vastu-tattva-jñāna haya kṛpāte pramāṇa

A very subtle point, to know what is what. There is a position to know the reality, and those that do not know the reality, they cannot understand, so it is, just as the other day I told.

ātmā parijñāna-mayo vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ
[vyartho 'pi naivoparameta puṁsāṁ, mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ sva-lokāt]

[One party says: "God exists!" The other says: "God does not exist!" Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that the ātmā is self effulgent, but still we find that one class of men say, "He exists, we see Him, He can be seen," and another says: "He has never existed." This quarrel has no end because one of the parties hasn't got the eye to see what is self-evident. This quarrel is a useless waste of time, but still it will never stop; it will continue forever.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34]

A party says that, "There is no God." Another party says, "There is God." All the differences, how they can be unified? The real fact is one thing, and disqualification is another thing. So there will be so many parties, who have realised no truth, who have realised one per cent, fifty per cent, fifty five per cent, in this way the difference will go on. Still, in the perfect plane of truth there is also difference. Yei rasa, sei sarvottama.

[kintu yāṅra yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha haññā vicārile, āche tara-tama]

["It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

The vātsalya-rasa says, "Mine is the highest." Sākhya-rasa says, "Mine is the highest." Taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama. But there is possibility of withdrawing from the relative position and understand and give judgement about that non party decision, and thereby we can know the gradation. And who has got that inner most understanding capacity to catch that fine thing, they come and accept that. But sometimes the relative positions have to surrender, to submit to the absolute point. The vātsalya-rasa can realise sometimes that, "No, mādhurya-rasa is more powerful." So there is a clash, a fight, and vātsalya-rasa is defeated by mādhurya-rasa, then they have got that bitter experience. But still, they do not like to admit it, whole time in the public. It goes so far. The differentiation, the hierarchy, everywhere it is. And it is not very easy to understand. The śanta-rasa devotees, it is not very easy to - very exceptional cases...

[tasyāravinda-nayanasya padāravinda-,] kiñjalka-miśra-tulasī-makaranda-vāyuḥ
antar-gataḥ sva-vivareṇa cakāra teṣāṁ, saṅkṣobham akṣara-juṣām api citta-tanvoḥ

["When the breeze carrying the aroma of tulasī leaves from the toes of the lotus feet of the Personality of Godhead entered the nostrils of those sages, they experienced a change both in body and in mind, even though they were attached to the impersonal Brahman understanding."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.15.43]

Ātmārāma, they're [the four Kumāras] self-satisfied, but suddenly on one occasion some tulasī gandha, scent, divine scent disturbed their balance of mind that they're self-sufficient. They're tasting the rasa of their own ātmā, and that is last point of realisation. Śukadeva, he was also in such a position, and fully satisfied he thought himself, but, pariniṣṭhito 'pi nairguṇye, uttamaḥ-śloka-līlayā gṛhīta-cetā rājarṣe, ākhyānaṁ yad adhītavān

["O saintly King, I was certainly situated perfectly in transcendence, yet I was still attracted by the delineation of the pastimes of the Lord, who is described by enlightened verses."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.9]

nivṛtta-tarṣair upagīyamānād, bhavauṣadhāc chrotra-mano 'bhirāmāt ka uttamaḥ-śloka-guṇānuvādāt, pumān virajyeta vinā paśughnāt

["Glorification of the Supreme Personality of Godhead is performed in the paramparā system; that is, it is conveyed from spiritual master to disciple. Such glorification is relished by those no longer interest in the false, temporary glorification of this cosmic manifestation. Descriptions of the Lord are the right medicine for the conditioned soul undergoing repeated birth and death. Therefore, who will cease hearing glorification of the Lord except a butcher or one who is killing his own self?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.1.4]

The brahma-jñāna, the bhāgavat-jñāna is above brahma-jñāna. Ordinarily brahma-jñānīs do not admit this. But there are exceptional cases, special cases who come to prove this. In this way, there are so many sections. One section, they may assert that, "Mine is the highest realisation." This yogī, this Vedāntic, this karmī, so many sections in the thoughts of the world we find. But generally they won't admit that 'mine is lower than another.' But still a comparison is possible, and it depends upon the fitness, upon the capacity, the inner taste, ruci, to have the higher thing. Ātmā parijñāna-mayo vivādo hy. Just as differentiation from theist and atheist, in a gross way, so among the theist there are also gradational differences. And one party cannot generally admit the higher position of the other. But still it is there, and the taste to accept the higher, the inner taste, that is the guarantee, to that.

One who has passed through all these stages to the highest, when he comes to give evidence he will say, "For this, this is higher. For this, again, this is higher."

Sanātana Goswāmī has proved that through that gopa boy, that first he's thinking 'this is the highest end.' Then again, dissatisfaction. Again getting the chance the next higher, next higher, next higher, in this way he's going up. How, from our present position we can rise up, and up. That has been shown in his Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, by the example of that Gopa Kumāra. It is possible. It is within our understanding. But all may not understand, of the truth of any and everything.

Just as there is gradation in truth itself, Himself, so also there is gradation among the knower, among those that have come to realise, there is also gradation. And the fit will gather to his own place. And there is a tendency always, 'that where I am, it is the best place.' And we're to get out of that.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, [kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

The śaraṇāgati and this sort of attitude will help us to receive higher vibration of the truth, finest vibration of the truth. If we disown our self, our ego, generally opposes to catch the fine vibration. But if we can disown that ego, and very, very open, amāninā mānadena, and be, self-abnegation, and self-forbearance, and no assertion of our self, and to give honour to every vibration of the environment. With this attitude we can go up. It will help us to catch the higher truth, and go up. Śaraṇāgati. He will come down to reveal Himself. First, this sort of principle we have to accept. The truth is higher. I cannot force Him to come to serve me, my sweet pleasure. He's higher. And of His own accord He may come to me. So with what attitude should we search after Him?

Mahāprabhu says, "In this way you can attract Him towards you. And as much as He will make Himself known to you, you'll be able to know that, that part of Him. So no end."

So no necessity of conquering a kingdom. The kingdom will come himself, itself.

Rāmānuja Ācārya says, once he had to enter into discussion with a māyāvādī paṇḍita, and fourteen or fifteen days continuously discussed, the hard discussion was going on. And he thought himself unfit, and came to the temple of _____ [?] and prayed.

"How is this? That to establish Your devotion, dignity of Your devotion, I feel I'm worthless. I can't defeat that māyāvādī paṇḍita to establish Your devotion as the supreme. So helpless am I."

But after that Rāmānuja approached that man again as prearranged. Whenever Rāmānuja was present that man came and submitted to him. "Now I recapitulate and assimilate what you said and I say what you told that is true. I submit to that." The ways of Vallabha Ācārya.

So it is like that. The victory is like that. It is not in the fist of any person. It is there.

Mahāprabhu - there is an art of jujitsu, an art of conquering the enemy, not by force but by negative withdraw. So in many places it has been done like that. Mahāprabhu approached Sārvabhauma, Prakāśānanda, and conquered them almost negatively, by negative attitude.

"I do not know anything much. I'm a fool, stupid, no idea in the śāstra. You are big men." In this way. "But I have heard from My Guru in this way, this way. I do that."

mūrkha tumi, tomāra nāhika vedāntādhikāra, 'kṛṣṇa-mantra' japa sadā, — ei mantra-sāra

[" 'You are a fool,' he said. 'You are not qualified to study Vedānta philosophy, and therefore You must always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa. This is the essence of all mantras, or Vedic hymns."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 7.72]

"You are a stupid person. You have got no capacity to enter into the high knowledge of Vedānta. You take the Name of the Lord and that will help You to the utmost."

"I do that anyhow." He entered into the discussion with Prakāśānanda, māyāvādī paṇḍita, in such a way, "That I'm a fool." And Guru _____ [?] But the achievement that disarmed him, that opponent. This attitude disarmed the opponent, and he came with sincere search, and then finding all these things he was converted.

It is His will. Always we should invite His attention, His grace, before we go to do anything and everything. We remember Him. We throw ourselves in His mercy, what is His decision. That will be all right. Otherwise I'll hunt after my name and fame and self glory.

All won't accept in this world of māyā. Bhagavad-gītā is there, Bhāgavata is there, so many devotees are there, but still, all are not converted. So many examples, Prahlāda's example, Dhruva's example, so many examples, but still there is atheist. The karma of jīva is there. There is sun, but no eye. Then?

Vivado yastiki nastiki catmanis [?] In gross, and so in subtle matters also like that.

So that ascertained, past has been given the name of bhāgya, fortune.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

A particular section who have come up to the point where from they can be able to understand, to see the truth, in that section. It is not for all. The real argument will be pushed forward but they won't understand that argument. They have no capacity to understand. It is useless to them. But some will see the justice in the argument. "Oh. This is true." So this is bhāgya, or inner capacity to catch the truth, the subtle things within.

Brahmā explaining Veda, Indra, Viracandra, so many students, they understood in different way according to their stage. From the same source, prakṛti-vaicitryāt and pāramparyeṇa, from the same source coming, flowing, and one can understand, and another cannot. So according to the capacity of the hearer they will be ranked in different clans and sections.

Bhagavad-gītā is there, and apparently many sections accept the Bhagavad-gītā as most authentic. But still _____ [?] their understanding, adhikāra, vicāra. So in the śāstra, parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, [bālānām anuśāsanam / karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

["Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt sv-anuṣṭhitāt]
sva-dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

Very forcefully it is placed there. Rather die, don't leave your present position. And then,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"Go ahead." The General says. First the General says, "Don't leave your position, whatever severe attack comes to your line, don't come back. Die there, don't come back." Then again he says, "No, march on."

And one may think, 'Oh, you already told don't move an inch. Now you say, give up your position. What is this?'

Parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam.

Kṛṣṇa Himself says,

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ
na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān

["Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

Brahmā's position is not less, not to be ignored, to be disregarded, Brahmā. He's giving so many boons to so many demons. Then Mahādeva he's sometimes competing with Nārāyaṇa. Then Baladeva. Then Lakṣmī Devī. Every one of them is a standard of some highest realisation. But still, gradation is there, and it is unbelievable, that gradation, still it is there.

Every chief in his state gets the absolute position, but when there is a meeting of all the chiefs of the states in one place, who will get the honoured position, how much to be ascertained there?

Sometimes here by seniority it is judged easily, but not always. The merit is there, not seniority but question of merit is there. That is more abstract and difficult. It's difficult, but still it is there, the gradation. Brahmā, Śiva, Baladeva, Lakṣmī, Uddhava, Nārada _____ [?] gopī, in this way going on.

And it is puzzling, that the gopīs say, "No, we have none." They're worshipping so many gods, and from another quarter it is said that the gopīs their worship is better than whom they worship. A most puzzling thing. And how we're to understand? The one who is worshipping a god his position is better than the god he's worshipping. Most puzzling. How we're to know this?

Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. By the volume of the body, that is one consideration, that one will be given honour. But if we take the understanding of the intellect, intelligence into account, then body consideration will go down. Then, so many intellectuals, but when honesty is taken into account, then intellectual standards, and these big bodies, they will go lower. The question of energy, the karmī, there are so many great Generals, Hannibal, Alexander, all things things. And the scholars, Newton, Einstein, that is there, in this way.

The highest criterion is devotion, submission to the Absolute One. He's one, and affinity, faith towards Him that is the highest criterion of measurement. Highest criterion of measurement is considered our sincere surrender, our sincere attachment, devotion to the highest centre. And not our knowing, inquisitiveness, and what to speak of this raw energy.

karmibhyaḥ parito hareḥ priyatayā vyaktiṁ yayur jñāninas tebhyo jñāna-vimukta-bhakti-paramāḥ premaika-niṣṭhās tataḥ [tebhyas tāḥ paśu-pāla-paṅkaja-dṛśas tābhyo 'pi sā rādhikā preṣṭhā tadvad iyaṁ tadīya-sarasī tāṁ nāśrayet kaḥ kṛtī]

["There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places."]

[Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 10]

In this way it is going, different standpoints, and the difference in the standpoints of calculation is there. From the standpoint of energy, from the standpoint of understanding, and from the standpoint of our affinity, our regard, our attraction, our taste, our service.

End of 82.11.07.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...bhakti-mārga, jñāna-mārga, sreyoh. Generally there is a fight. There are so many other big persons that plead only about karma. But there are others who plead for the renunciation, the jñāna. And there's another section that are for service, for devotion. And clash between these three, the yoga, _____ [?] and within their section there's the fight. The communist, the Russian communist, the Jew communist, here also are the three sections of communists. And the communists advocate, as in America, Republican and Democrat. But very subtle difference between the two.

Gross and subtle, pure and impure. And everyone stands as guarantee for his own taste, of his own future, after all. We are to take risk, we are to - to be sincere we are to take risk. Ultimately my fortune depends on me - free will of jīva. Without consideration, the grace, that may come or not come. And that comes also to the fittest, not to the hypocrites. So individual enterprise in the spiritual world cannot be eliminated altogether. Whether he selects surrender, or selects so

'ham, 'I am above all.' The risk must be taken by our own self. We can't eliminate us from the responsibility for our future fate, fortune.

In śaraṇāgati, in surrender also there are two things, one mārjjāra-nyāya, like the cubs of the cats. And markaṭa-nyāya, who has got some sort of free action. Embraces mother and mother takes him anywhere and everywhere. And the cat cub cannot do anything. The cat bites by the neck and removes him here and there. Both kinds of śaraṇāgati. But Mahāprabhu tends towards the markaṭa-nyāya. Jīva has got his free will, however meagre, small, negligent it is, but it is there.

na kartṛtvaṁ na karmāni, lokasya sṛjati prabhuḥ
na karma-phala-saṁyogam, svabhāvas tu pravartate

["Due to their tendency towards ignorance since immeasurable time, the living beings act, considering themselves the doers or inaugurators of action. The Supreme Lord does not generate their misconception of considering themselves doers, nor does He generate their actions or their attachment to the fruits of those actions."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.14]

"I'm not responsible." Lord says, Kṛṣṇa. "For these differences in the world I'm not responsible."

It is his nature, that is to take the responsibility of his past and future and present always, because a particle of free will also is there, because it is soul, it is consciousness. Consciousness means endowed with free will. A small part, a small freedom, but it is there.

When the British left India they gave the choice, divided into Hindustan and Pakistan, and the chiefs are given the choice ether to side Pakistan or Hindustan. And Mahārāja of Kashmir [?] he was in a difficulty. The subjects mainly Mohammedan and very near to Pakistan, but here Hindu, he was wavering, which side to join? _____ [?] But the Pakistan managed through the hill tribes to attack Kashmir. Then he joined Hindustan. And then Hindustan sent force under Mountbatten who was the last Viceroy and India kept him as long as to fulfil his term. And Mountbatten was an able captain, and through his advice when towns were taken in the front, Pakistan had to go back. And then Pakistan came, and Jawaharlal [aka Paṇḍita Nehru] and Gandhi they committed some blunder and accepted _____ [?] something. 'The people of Kashmir which side that shall go we shall accept.' But all people did not agree to that condition so it was stopped there, as much as Pakistan encroached, the line is still there and the quarrel is continuing. So the British left to the chiefs, 'go this side or that side.'

This side māyā, and this side service and enjoyment. You jīva, you choose. Your choice is with you. However small freedom you have got, you have to choose which side. Exploitation and dedication, you have to be a party. You cannot get scott free about your life. You must have to take responsibility, however small it may be, according to your position. The responsibility you must take for yourself. This is the decision. So everywhere it should be applied, in every phases of our life. This discrimitible point has been meant as bhāgya, fortune. The most subtle indiscriminitible point, almost imaginary, but it is there.

_____ [?]

Aranya Mahārāja: We had one boy in London who couldn't accept if God is all knowing, He knows the past, present and future, why has He allowed us to enter into such a predicament, a suffering situation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He does not admit what?

Aranya Mahārāja: He doesn't like the fact that God allowed the jīva to enter into this suffering situation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has allowed, God? He's to be blamed?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Or God has not allowed? They say there is no God. You are only existing. Do you deny that you are existing? But your existence means what? Some sort of magnitude, so free will to guide. Your responsibility is with you. If you are to admit that you exist, what is that you? Analyse. And there it will be found that a point of responsibility for your fate is there _____ [?]

[10:15 - 11:30 Bengali?]

Parvat Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, Viraha Prakāśa Mahārāja asking, reading Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, it seems like instruction on sākhya. Sanātana Goswāmī is in mādhurya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sanātana Goswāmī has ended in sākhya there. That Gopa Kumāra taken to sākhya and finished there. And mādhurya has been taken down there to participate only in the lower path. But Sanātana Goswāmī generally ended there in sākhya. Gopa Kumāra entered the sākhya-rasa, and there he could feel that what is the mādhurya-rasa to certain extent, as it is possible from that plane. Here ended Sanātana Goswāmī.

Aranya Mahārāja: But why did he only go that far? Why only to that point?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is specially entrusted in Rūpa Goswāmī. And that was done before Sanātana. Mahāprabhu, though Rūpa Goswāmī formally he was already disciple of Sanātana, and younger brother also. But when Mahāprabhu coming back from Vṛndāvana He met Rūpa Goswāmī first in Allahabad. And He taught him there, mostly concerning this rāga-mārga.

And also in short, and told that, "I am giving some inspiration, My good will to you."

And Rūpa Goswāmī was entrusted with that, mādhurya-rasa, parakīya, etc, that higher _____ [?]

Then He met Sanātana in Benares, and there for two months - there fifteen days, and here two months He taught Sanātana, and mostly about vidhi-mārga, touching rāga-mārga.

And so, because Rūpa Goswāmī was accepted first as a student of Mahāprabhu, his name comes first, Rūpa, Sanātana. Not Sanātana, Rūpa, generally. Rūpa gets the, though disciple of Sanātana formally, and also younger brother, still he comes first. _____ [?] according to respect the word comes first. There is a rule in the grammar. Rūpa, Sanātana. Rūpa came first in consideration, because he was the first disciple, earlier than Sanātana. Only a difference of a few days but still he's considered, and he was entrusted with the rāga-mārga and Sanātana mainly vidhi-mārga, touching that rāga-mārga.

And Jīva Goswāmī, again lower, to prove Sanātana, especially Rūpa, from the quotation of different scriptures and by arguments also. That was given to Jīva Goswāmī. Different types of service.

Parvat Mahārāja: Viraha Prakāśa Mahārāja also mentions that in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta Sanātana Goswāmī lightly mentions Gopāla mantra. What is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What Mahāprabhu got from Īśvara Purī. Dvādaśaka Gopāla mantra. But according to - Mahāprabhu got from His Guru, Gopāla mantra, Dvādaśaka, but Mahāprabhu Himself inspired Sanātana Goswāmī to discuss the śāstras and to discriminate and to fix mantra. And Sanātana Goswāmī, according to His instruction and insinuation he has given this Dvādaśaka Gopāla mantra to us, all suitable, and we follow that now.

But he does not follow my version. You explain to him.

Parvat Mahārāja: Yes, he follows. Maybe I'll translate more.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, at what point can a devotee give up having an authority to advance in Kṛṣṇa consciousness? At what point can a disciple, a devotee, give up the conception of having a authority, someone over him in Kṛṣṇa consciousness?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What's the point? To give up authority means?

Aranya Mahārāja: Working under someone's direction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He can be independent?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Do you mean that, at what stage he can be independent?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Authority means external authority, how he gets, when he gets direct connection from the Lord. Then he may not follow any medium. When coming in direct connection with the highest authority then no agent, no medium is necessary, no mediator. It is ostentatiously, but internally there is medium, and he's always fond of that line, always keeping Guru above him, the medium, the agent, internal. But externally he may not feel any necessity of consulting śāstra, apita, never hear the sādhu or śāstra.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Is this an advanced stage?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

yadā yasānugṛhnāti bhagavān-ātma-bhāvitaḥ, sa jahāti matim loke vede ca pariniṣṭhitām

["When the completely opulent Supreme Lord sees the total surrender of a devoted soul, He is pleased to award that soul His own personal service; thus He bestows His causeless mercy upon that soul, and at that time the devotee rises above the ordinary material considerations of the Vedas. Thus he shakes off all attachment to the external scriptures of the Vedas (such as those recommending karma-kaṇḍa) which are meant for the people in general."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.29.46]

When he can catch direct connection from Him, necessarily he may not have to depend on the scriptures that are given here for the less understanding people, less realised people. And he does not care for the opinion of the people, or the society, or even the scriptures.

Aranya Mahārāja: But then, in such a stage, someone might say, justify some activity that might be contrary to what the scripture is saying, saying that he's above the scripture.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But there are others, canvassers, agents, sub agents, they will connect that. That in Veda so many things, śrutibhir vimṛgyām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]. Veda, the scripture is only searching for. And the gradation in the scripture, loke vyavāyāmiṣa [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11]. The karma-kāṇḍa scripture, jñāna-kāṇḍa scripture, bhakti-kāṇḍa scripture, the gradation. And then upwards. All the scriptures are only showing the direction, 'That this side they are. We cannot go further.'

The śruti in the rasa of Kṛṣṇa the śruti has entered, and they're begging forgiveness that, "We could not represent You properly, that You are so sweet, and You are so playful. We failed to do this. So please forgive us for our offences." The śruti, they will realise, understand. The Veda is apologising. "We failed to express You are so beautiful and playful. We failed to discharge our duty. We could not understand. So high You are." Śrutibhir vimṛgyām, śruti also says, "This side, come this side, He is." Something.

[sarvasya cāhaṁ hṛdi sanniviṣṭho, mattaḥ smṛtir jñānam apohanaṁ ca]
vedaiś ca sarvair aham eva vedyo, vedānta-kṛd veda-vid eva cāham

["I am situated (as the Supersoul) within the heart of all souls, and from Me arises the soul's remembrance, knowledge, and the dissipation of both (according to his karma, or action in the mundane plane). I am the exclusive knowable (ecstatic) principle of all the Vedas. I am the author of the Vedānta - Vedavyāsa, the expounder of the knowable meaning of the Vedas. And certainly I am the knower of the purport of the Vedas."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.15]

"The knower of the Veda, and the giver of the Veda, and the purpose of the Veda, all Myself. Veda comes from Me. I do not come from Veda. I sent Veda to help you, the unqualified."

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, I have heard many sannyāsīs in Gauḍīya Maṭha they are calling you śikṣā-guru. So they are accepting you as an authority. Is that true? They come, I've seen occasionally members of Gauḍīya Maṭha come and sometimes pose questions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not all, but a part, they think that they can get some help from me, from what little realisation I have got coming in the Maṭha. So some may think like that, they've got something to learn from my experience.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We're certain it's not just a formality. That we're convinced of Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Gauḍīya Matha, do you include Swāmī Mahārāja within Gauḍīya Maṭha?

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And not necessarily the ISKCON, and he had recognition for me, so small part.

Devotees: [Group laughter]

Aranya Mahārāja: Even Śrīla Prabhupāda Swāmī Mahārāja himself considered himself part of the Gauḍīya Maṭha. He wrote in one, fourth canto, in the description of Purañjana Becomes a Woman in the Next Life, he describes in one purport [SB, 4.28.31] how the movement started by Bhaktivinoda and carried out by Bhaktisiddhānta is the Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement of which we're all part. And all my Godbrothers, we're all Godbrothers, and we might have some differences of opinion but we're all spreading Kṛṣṇa consciousness according to our own capacity. And making hundreds of thousands of disciples all over the world _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Parvat Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, our Gurudeva has said that the concept of The Temple of Understanding
[The Temple of the Vedic Planetarium] should be done under your direction and philosophical instructions. So I ask your permission to prepare questions pertaining to this subject of the different levels described in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta that you may be able to describe to us the pictures, or dioramas, to depict Janaloka, Mahāloka, Tapaloka, Satyaloka, Virajā, Śivaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, all the different planes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If anyone attends it substantially I can help him, but in my present stage I cannot do it, the whole, by myself. I had a mind to build a temple here displaying the Bhāgavatāmṛta teachings in the temple. But that was very much costly when I went to engineer. Long, long ago, about thirty years ago. Then when Swāmī Mahārāja came I asked him that this was my desire but I could not. You have got immense resources. If you like you can do it. And he accepted.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he asked his persons, 'hear from Śrīdhara Mahārāja, and try to prepare a plan, and build a temple there accordingly.' And they also tried in the beginning, but gradually now where that plan is gone I do not know.

Parvat Mahārāja: That's why I'm asking your permission to attain the information from you.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Parvat Mahārāja is very serious to fulfil this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, if he goes and then what little help is possible from this age I'm ready to help that, to that extent. But it should be taken by someone who is well versed in such theological comparative study.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja, we understand in the Garuḍa-Purāṇa perhaps that a pure bhakta is very, very rare, ekantya gopya sisyate. So if you say only a small amount are appreciating you, it must be because what you're giving is very, very rare, and very, very special. Of the highest quality.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. Yes. One who will be able to realise the subtle position of the gradation of the domain of love. At least I think that what I have heard from my Guru Mahārāja and collected from the, corroborated from the scriptures, more or less I can represent them. And my Guru Mahārāja also he felt satisfaction what I understood about the Gauḍīya siddhānta. That also I can say, and some of my friends also may corroborate. On the whole he was satisfied with my realisation about the Gauḍīya siddhānta.

To understand, to realise, and to try to express that how rūpānuga holds the highest position, how. The position of Śrī Rūpa is the highest, to understand that in a comparative style. In this way this holds the highest position, to follow that, and more or less. More intensely or little shallow, shallow or deep. But to reach that position and understand, realise, sincerely, to feel that this is the highest position given by Mahāprabhu, this rūpānuga position, what, some idea. And the question of intensity and depth of that to understand, that this is the limit, and how that can be the acme of our realisation, the goal, highest goal. To have an idea of that. The structure is there, to have a photo of that structure, to get in ones heart, and at the same time the development there, the ornamental words, and the stuff by which it is made. Some such idea like that. The temple, it is a temple. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And it is extended as grace. It may be withdrawn any time.

Parvat Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, in Nectar of Devotion our Gurudeva has said that there was a time when Kṛṣṇa wanted to enjoy, separated Himself as Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa. So was there a time They were not separated?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not there by time, but the both is eternal, both aspects. It is written in a poem of Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī.

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

There is a verse composed by Svarūpa Dāmodara. Here it is mentioned like this. Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya- vikṛtir. The presence and position of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa not separate. Praṇaya-vikṛtir. Kṛṣṇa has within Him the principle of love. And that potency when little distinctive and clearly seen, that we see as Rādhā. Rādhā is a particular higher of the highest potency of Kṛṣṇa in full. So, They're one and same. One cannot exist separately. It is automatically the substance and the potency. Kṛṣṇa is substance so Rādhā is potency. So potency cannot stand independently, neither substance without potency, so one and same. Rādhā kṛṣṇa- praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir. She's hlādinī, the highest potency of Kṛṣṇa, which embraces both sat, cit, the conscious and the existence, hlādinī. Hlādinī means ānanda. Ānanda presupposes consciousness and existence. But a stone only has got existence, neither consciousness nor bliss. And consciousness presupposes existence but it may not contain blissfulness. But blissfulness, or expressly, ānanda, it already presupposes existence and consciousness. So hlādinī-śakti, that is the ecstatic potency, that represents the whole potency in its highest sense, and that is Rādhā. So Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa They're one and the same.

Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād. For this reason, hence, ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau. So They're one and the same, one thing combined, one soul. Bhuvi purā deha- bhedaṁ gatau tau. We find in Vṛndāvana They're divided into two and They're having Their līlā, and others, paraphernalia, come from Both of Them, emanated from Them. Deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau, caitanyākhyaṁ.

Caitanyadeva. That is again when They're combined becomes Caitanya. In ancient times in Dvāpara- yuga we find in Goloka the līlā, Rādhā-Govinda separate. But if from the angle of vision of unity we can see Them properly They're one and the same. And one and the same, what will be the nature of Their substance, it is Caitanya. Again He has - Both of Them combined has become Caitanya. The outer part is like Rādhā, and internally Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa, when He embraces His potency Himself, He plays the part of the potency, the substance. Caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam. Then who is Caitanya? Rādhā-bhāva-dyuti. The lustre and the mood. The inner self and outer expression of Rādhā, and Kṛṣṇa, Both combined we find Him as Caitanya now. The outer expression, the apparent side is Rādhā, the energy, that expresses outwardly to the environment like Rādhā, searching for Kṛṣṇa, to be united. Kṛṣṇa Himself is searching for Himself. When influenced by the tendency Rādhā, then, coloured by that, then Kṛṣṇa Himself searching for Him. That is Kṛṣṇa.

[rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād

caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam]

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

This is written by Svarūpa Dāmodara what is the highest conception of Śrī Caitanya Avatāra, who is Caitanya internally. That Svayaṁ Avatāra of Caitanya, that Kṛṣṇa in the mood of Rādhā, mood and lustre, as Rādhā we find Kṛṣṇa. She is the truth is searching Himself. "What am I? Who am I?" This is the nature of infinite.

And in another place Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura also has given an example like that.
Lab bali chari rasa sindhu chadi baya [?] There is a competition between Nityānanda and Caitanyadeva. Baladeva, represented by the devotional section, and towards whom the devotion is pointed. Both are infinite. Devotee class as a whole is infinite, śakti, potency. And to whom devotion is directed He's also infinite. There is a competition. He's serving with infinite hankering, taking the Name.

"I shall try to finish Your glory." Nityānanda Prabhu, the devotee says. "I must know You wholesale."

But this side is also infinite. As much as he's opposed, can't finish, in this way both the parties are in competition, the potency and the substance. Then both combined can't finish.

I have got a śloka in Premadhāma-stotram [66]. I put there the dancing temperament of Mahāprabhu shows that dancing as if in madness that He's self realised. What He searched He has got, He has attained that. So in satisfaction He's dancing. Dancing is an emblem of satisfaction. The highest type of dancing is the satisfaction of highest realisation. So madly dancing. He has attained His object. So, that ānanda, when in dancing mood, He expressed that 'I have attained everything.' And kīrtana is distributing Himself to the environment. These two symptoms in the most intensified way is proof positive that Mahāprabhu is the ultimate reality. The dancing showing that He's self sufficient, and His kīrtana He's distributing Him to the environment. This is its nature demand. Ātmā vaṇṭanam and nathanam, this shows that Mahāprabhu is the ultimate reality, by dancing and chanting about Himself in the extreme order. Shows, proves His own reality of ultimate stage.

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād
ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau

So in Goloka the finding is this, by the Ācārya, that two compartments in the highest stage. In one compartment Kṛṣṇa is enjoying with His paraphernalia. Another compartment where they all combine, giving His own capital, own wealth to the public, giving Himself. Two types of ideals in the ultimate reality. One, He's enjoying within Him. Another, the distribution of the enjoyment of the same degree to others. These two compartments in the same level. That is to be shown in that temple, in Goloka Dhāma two compartments, audārya, mādhurya. Mādhurya where Kṛṣṇa is playing amongst, with His own, and audārya when they're distributing it for others. The same thing, same level, the thing of the highest order is being tasted and throwing to others. Of the same level, that highest love of the highest degree.

But how gradually, the Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, then Svayaṁ-Prakāśa, then Vilāsa, Vaibhava, Prabhāva, in these gradations there in Kṛṣṇa also. Kṛṣṇa when by the side of Rādhārāṇī, and then when by the side of a gopī then He's Prabhāva-Prakāśa. When He's in Mathurā He's Prabhāva-Vilāsa. When He's in Dvārakā Vaibhava-Vilāsa. In this way a gradation in Kṛṣṇa. Then from Dvārakā, next lower position, Ayodhyā, vātsalya-rasa. Then the Nārāyaṇa. Nārāyaṇa has got His fourteen delegated selves, for different, four groups, and fourteen in number. There is that Nṛsiṁhadeva, and one Kṛṣṇa Name is also there, Nārāyaṇa. In this way. Then below that is Śivaloka, Mahā-Viṣṇu, Śivaloka. Below that there is Brahmaloka. Below that there is Virajā. Below that this perverted creation begins, exploitation, this black-marketing. That is to think that 'this is mine' and to try to enjoy. I belong to the highest owner, deviate from that. 'I own all these things and I want to enjoy.' A perverted reflection. And that is from Satyaloka coming down gradually. In different stages these fourteen worlds here, fourteen planes of enjoyment, exploitation.

In this way it needs to be shown, cleverly, to penetrate into the scientific brain. "That you all are leaders, encouraging exploitation and ruling them, and biding them with reaction. Your Newton says so, everywhere action and reaction. You are the culprits, all culprits. You scientists you are looting glory but all calculus black-marketeer agents. To attack them wholesale, to make them find that, the foundation should be taken from under their feet. To attack them.

Swāmī Mahārāja had this, "Remove this fossil conception, fossil conceptions are the prime cause. You are to demolish them, pulverise them."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So exploitation, renunciation, and then dedication. And degree of dedication, degree of exploitation, and a degree of renunciation also. The Buddhist of the Virajā, renunciation of the type of Virajā that the verge of exploitation. And then the beginning of the foot of dedication, the buffer state, the margin. Margin also of two conceptions, near the prakṛti exploitation, near the dedication. This is the marginal plane and that is renunciation, then nothing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. We may finish here today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have questions go to Akṣayānanda Mahārāja.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I was wondering if you might explain to us something about transcendental sound, and how that can be recognised, and received.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How to recognise the sun?

Devotees: No, sound.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How to recognise the sun? My question, how to recognise this sun?

ātmā parijñāna-mayo vivādo, hy astīti nāstīti bhidārtha-niṣṭhaḥ
[vyartho 'pi naivoparameta puṁsāṁ, mattaḥ parāvṛtta-dhiyāṁ sva-lokāt]

[One party says: "God exists!" The other says: "God does not exist!" Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says that the ātmā is self effulgent, but still we find that one class of men say, "He exists, we see Him, He can be seen," and another says: "He has never existed." This quarrel has no end because one of the parties hasn't got the eye to see what is self-evident. This quarrel is a useless waste of time, but still it will never stop; it will continue forever."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34]

The sound will say that, "I am transcendental, and this is mundane."

Light says that, "I am light, and other than myself is darkness."

So the capacity is there to make us understand the peculiar, special, and unprecedented nature.

"I'm something else about which you have no experience of so far."

That will say. Everything transcendental is of such nature that they make them understood, at the same time they will make understood about the value of non them, that is mundane. Have initiative on that side, to differentiate. Love is there. And we're to be astonished.

"What sort is this new experience, not ever found, what is this? Very charming."

māraḥ svayaṁ nu madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ nu, mādhuryam eva nu mano-nayanāmṛtaṁ nu venī-mṛjo nu mama jīvita-vallabho nu, kṛṣṇo 'yam abhyudayate mama locanāya

["My dear friends, where is Kṛṣṇa, who is Cupid personified, brilliant as a kadamba flower? Where is Kṛṣṇa, sweetness Himself, the sweetest nectar for my eyes and mind? Where is Kṛṣṇa, who loosens the hair of the gopīs? He is the supreme source of divine bliss. He is my life and soul. Has He come before my eyes again?"] [Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam, 68]

Māraḥ svayaṁ nu. Conduct of Cupid, the most charming ever known in this mundane world. Is it that very thing which attracts us most here? Māraḥ svayaṁ. No, no, it is not like that. Madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ nu. This is not mass of matter, but this is I find light concentrated and showing a picture of matter. Concentrated light, and very sweet light. Light means knowledge, caitan, consciousness. Consciousness condensed and mixed with sweetness. It is not this worldly Cupid. Madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ nu, mādhuryam eva nu. Oh. What we have heard, sweetness personified, we find that there is that, so much condensed. And with some personal characteristic and fine, this light mass. Light, sweetness, and personal conception is here. It is not inert, but it can take initiative, existence, super than the plane in which I exist. Mādhuryam eva nu mano-nayanāmṛtaṁ nu. What is this? As if my eyes are not getting tired to see it, so that will increase more. But it is more like ointment helping my eyesight, improving my eyesight. And my eye cannot come back from its connection. It's nectar to my eye. Eye nectar, I realise this, nayanāmṛtaṁ. Venī- mṛjo nu. Oh. What is this? As if I'm a girl, and that sweetness personified is adoring me by rubbing, by placing my venī. The girl has got venī, it is adoring me by touching, by placing my venī. What is this? Venī- mṛjo nu. That I'm converted into a girl, mādhurya-rasa sakhī, and she's capturing me in this way. Jīvita- vallabho nu. Oh. He's my master and my friend of my whole life. I'm given shelter under His feet, guardianship, permanently."

Gaura Hari bol. Bilvamaṅgala realises. Gradual realisation of that reality, that sound, of the rūpa. And sound excited to have a conception of figure. Then gradually the development, and the eyes may put a rival into the most favourite camp. The sweet camp of His shelter, Her shelter. So, that is the subjective side, and we're objective there. The responsibility is in that side, to make Him known or unknown. Our attempt is of a negative nature. We should keep it in our mind always when we're going to deal with that thing, this point we should never forget.

So, the jñāne prayāsa, the hammer, our attempt to know Him, that has been hammered, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya. No subject we can be to make Him object. But when He comes to make Him object, make Him as subject at His sweet will, pleasure, then it is possible to have a sight, scent, everything. It is all dependent there. In every aspect He holds the superior position. We're going to negotiate with the transcendental, supernatural, the higher entity, in all respects. And we're lower in all respects. So the connection is very rare and uncertain. If you want to cast yourself to seek your fortune in the uncertain sphere, come forward. Otherwise don't, so, and if you come at all - who can come?

Who have finished all their prospects here. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] The way of exploitation and renunciation, both have been rejected by the sukṛti gathered previously. Then they will venture to offer them selves at the mercy of this knowledge.

"Let us try." Gambling. "Let us try if we can come in the favourable, in the consideration of the high realm."

And they have found out the Vaiṣṇavas, the benevolent section of the servant. They have devised some ways, means, path, that is improving the negative side. If you have to do something, like to do something, that is try improving your negative side, śaraṇāgati, this dainyam, ātma-nivedana, goptṛtve varaṇa. They have devised some method of negative nature. In this way you can only try to invite His attention towards you. But no active path, all to improve the passive side.

So draw His attention. He's all in all. He can accept, He can reject. But only to draw His attention you may try your lot in this way, representing your negative aspect. That you are the most needy. You are unsatisfied with anything, any achievement of this plane, both exploitation and renunciation. You don't find any prospect or any pleasure there. So you're running after some phantasmagoria as this endlessly you're roaming hither thither.

Only the concentrated prayer that, "I want association of any higher, and higher substance about which we have heard, but not any experience. We hear from time to time agents come from that land and say that they're happily giving their, 'this is our connection.' But I don't see any chance of entering that domain."

So disappointment duly comes out. No taste for this world, but only wants something else, in this way. And then the agent connection, then the recommended formula of program. And then if we risk ourselves to go to that uncertain position, whose dealings with us not any conditional, not under any law. But whimsical and autocratic. Any moment may reject. And they'll do also. Uncertain, all uncertain. If you go, are you ready to risk your fortune for that thing, in this way?

"Yes. Like cātaka, the bird, peculiar, particular bird, it nowhere takes any water, how much inundated the country to water, but only a drop from the sky."

viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, [gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti
nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena]

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the Cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."]
[Śrī-Rūpapādānāṁ] [Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 118]

With this sort of attitude, "He can make or mar. You can kill or save. But I have no other alternative but to pray for a drop from the sky. So many waters all around. No, it is not for me. I've no taste for it. It is like poison to me. I'm only waiting, if necessary for the whole life, for a drop. Otherwise, but instead of giving a drop a thunder may come and efface me from the whole atmosphere. The whole existence may be finished, but still I have no other alternative but asking for a drop to quench my thirst my Lord from upward."

This has been recommended to us by Rūpa Goswāmī, and Mahāprabhu asked,

āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣṭu mām, adarśanān marma-hatāṁ karotu vā
yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ

["Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

"He has got many things to attend, He's so busy. But I've got no other alternative but only single aim, to get a drop of His grace. He's busy in many crores of engagements He has got. A negligible part I am, like an imaginary point I am in His consideration. Still, I have no other alternative but His grace."

This will be the attitude, and when that will come, that will make me know.

As our Guru Mahārāja told, "That taken from the dungeon, a dark prison house, and forcibly, 'see the sun. No light necessary. Not with the help of the light you will see things. The sun will show the world, you, and everything, and sun. Sun will be seen by his own light, sun will show you, and the environment.'"

It is like that. So He will make Himself known to us. And it is not that we shall distinguish, discriminate, not a part of this knowing world, world of experience, that with the help of any other thing we shall calculate and find out the result like mathematics, not like that. By mathematical calculation we cannot reach there. The brain, the experience cannot produce Him.

A novel experience, and it is unique, and every time unique, every second nava-navaiyana, not stale, not stagnant. Every time, every second new, ever new, nava-navaiyana. Never becomes stale.

vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile [haya, haya ākhi-agocara]

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Suddenly a flash came, but when I tried to see that, it disappeared. It was withdrawn."]

Sudden flash, and whenever I'm ready to see it again - nowhere. Vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi-agocara. Whenever I'm attentive - Rāmānanda says, ye kāle vā svapane, dekhinu vaṁśi vadane, sei kāle āilā dui vairi

'ānanda' āra 'madana,' hari' nila mora mana, dekhite nā pāinu netra bhari'

"When, in the dream I get His darśana, I could see Him, two enemies approached and finished my connection, disconnected me. Who are they two? Ānanda and Madana. Mādhurya-rasa so some sort of high feeling of service to Him, and also the ecstatic mood. They attacked me suddenly in such a way that I was disconnected with that sight of sevā. And now I repent."

punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, kayāya kṛṣṇa daraśana, tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala diyā mālya-candana, nānā ratna-ābharaṇa, alaṅkṛta karimu sakala

"Now I have come to a new sense. If a second chance I get of such vision, then my duty should be to, without attending Him, to serve the time, that moment, that I can make the moment to remain here sometime more. I shall worship the time, that second, when that vision will come. Ignoring Him, keeping Him in the background, I shall direct, connect with the moment. That moment will be satisfied and it will stand, and so necessarily, He will have to stand." Rāmānanda Rāya says like that.

[These two ślokas, ye kāle vā svapane, and punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, were spoken by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu in the company of Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāmānanda Rāya, while in trance in the mood of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī.] [Jagannātha-vallabha-nāṭaka, 3.12-3] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.37-8]

The basis, the foundation, if I put my mark towards Him, He will vanish. But the foundation towards the leg, towards the Holy Feet, towards the lower position I shall try to engage myself. And thereby there may be possibility of His standing on that platform.

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

I won't try to climb up to see Him from the same platform. But I shall always try to - the foundation, to make friendship, intimacy with the very foundation on which the _____ [?] on which He appears, the foundation. The devotees, the Guru, the Dhāma, I shall put my attention, and from the background He will come to embrace me, to swallow me. And my attention will be - this is the secret of having His darśana to keep Him in my connection - that not upward but towards the lower.

Neither to be equal, no question of being superior, but always towards downwards. If any connection any time then the clue of success of maintaining our connection with Him, to attending towards His Holy Feet, downwards, and the foundation. Then He will show Him, and I shall conceive. But direct if I cast glance, face to face, finished. This is the secret given by the devotees to us for His connection. This should be the relation of the negative and positive. They come to remind us, this is the science of devotion. Always go to think yourself mean, and in the background you will find Him. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...abnegation, making empty. Filled with so much rubbish of this material world and the reactionary conception. Withdraw yourself, make you empty, and you will find that empty heart some ray is emitting, emanating.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Who are they?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yājāvara Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīpād Yājāvara Mahārāja: Jaya Guru Mahārāja.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Śrīpād Bhakti Vicār Yājāvara Mahārāja kī jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yājāvara Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. My old friend, one of my oldest friends, Yājāvara Mahārāja. Mostly we have lost, but Yājāvara Mahārāja still here and he has come here.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Vidagdha-Mādhava: If a devotee is struggling along, and he has no taste for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, what is your advice for that devotee?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, struggling for which? No taste for Kṛṣṇa consciousness but he's struggling, struggling for what? Struggling means struggling for something. What is the aim of that struggle? The nature of the struggle? Struggle presupposes something, its aim, object, purpose.

Ideal realist, ideal realism, Hegel. Ideal is not non-real, abstract, imagination. That is all-important, that is real. And this concrete body is nothing, only a servant, to live the dictation of the ideal. Ideal is real, what we think to be imagination, unreal. Ideal realism, preached by Hegel. First idea, and the body runs after that, everything.

So struggle, struggle for what? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The struggle may not have any positive aim. But the aim is to get out of the negative side, undesirable side. No taste for this enjoyment or renunciation. Wanting something unknown, at least above these two things, two stages of life, two aims of life.

"I can't tolerate. I can't tolerate the world of enjoyment, neither I like renunciation."

Then it is presupposed then he's got some sukṛti acquired previously, in the background. Then subconsciously the struggle may be thought for the enquiry of a good company, a sādhu, good news, good agent, good master, good teacher, who can help me.

"I'm in vacant position. I want some shelter. Who is there who can give me shelter, can save me?"

This sort of uneasiness one may feel, dissatisfaction of the present, and no positive engagement of the future. Unconsciously wanting something. In this way. But that presupposes some sukṛti to have any hankering for positive things.

"I have finished this renunciation, the samādhi." That will give them _____ [?] to be reduced to zero. "I do not want to maintain." Just as one commits suicide, can't tolerate present unfavourable situation, commits suicide. So this is spiritual suicide. He has no taste for this mundane world, struggling in this transient thing. So to enter into samādhi means to commit spiritual suicide. _____ [?] To put a living man into the tomb and cover it. "I want to commit - no prospect here." That is a type.

And not satisfied with here, neither wants to commit suicide, to efface his existence, but subconsciously he's hankering for some bright life. That means sukṛti is serving in the subconsciousness, in the foundation, the negative side.

And then some sādhu may come to visit him, and give him some good news, and instructions, 'do this do that.' And gradually positive life may begin, follow on from there. Properly conceive about your concern in a bright side.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Eh?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In his childhood, perhaps fifteen or so, age, he was dissatisfied with the present life in the household. He went to Purī Jagannātha for enquiry of a sādhu. From the bottom of his heart...
_____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Boy of eighteen, he left his house, went to Purī. Within his mind was to find some association of the sādhus, and join them.

But our Guru Mahārāja at that time was there, and some of his followers, one of his followers met him and asked him, "What for you are here?"

He was very simple. "I have come in quest in search of a sādhu, Guru."

"Oh. Then come with me."
_____ [?]

Śrīpād Yājāvara Mahārāja: Bodhāyana Mahārāja _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vaiṣṇava Charan _____ [?] He was a very clever man. He took him to the camp of Prabhupāda. And began, acquisition of a formal life was such, that he went to search, and easily he got, and he joined and joined forever, very easy.

Śrīpād Yājāvara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Twenty eight years. _____ [?] When twenty eight, he joined eighteen, and he took sannyāsa, got sannyāsa in twenty eight.

Śrīpād Yājāvara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But some were discouraging. "You're so young. How long you will live it is not sure. So to take risk, so much risk, it is not very deliberate."

Then, he was also hesitating, and he told, "But Prabhupāda gave proposal but I'm hesitating. And some of our friends they're dissuading me."

I put it to Prabhupāda that he's hesitating.

Then Prabhupāda told, abhay pada saran nahi baya tahe [?] "You are frightened. Fear is in this world. And you are going to take shelter in the abhay pada, fearless holy feet. Where is the fear? No apprehension. All fear confined in this plane. But you are going to take shelter above the area of fear in the fearless area you want to go. You're going to connect with fearless world, and this is fearful." This came from his mouth.

And he accepted, and last sannyāsa given by Prabhupāda, in Purī, to him.

And for near about a month, every day in the morning he used to sing that śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada that was very favourite of Prabhupāda. Practically Prabhupāda took him from Gaya to Purī, only to hear sung from his sweet voice.

The tape recording here also, is sung, rādhā-padāṅkita dhāma vṛndāvana yāra nāma, tāhā yena āśraya karila

[Śrī Rādhāṣṭaka - from Gītāvalī] [The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 118-9]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "What is Vṛndāvana? Where there is footprints of Śrī Rādhikā, there is Vṛndāvana." You see, the criterion of Vṛndāvana, because it contains on its head the footprints of Śrī Rādhārāṇī, so it is Vṛndāvana. What is Vṛndāvana? Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's findings. And who is Rādhārāṇī, who is Kṛṣṇa? Take some note, a clue, some impression what is Vṛndāvana. She's all in all. Rādhā- padāṅkita dhāma vṛndāvana yāra nāma. Whose name is Vṛndāvana - that bears the footprints of Rādhārāṇī on head, that is Vṛndāvana. Gaura Hari bol. All sweet. The paraphernalia emanated from Her.

Just as suppose, an organiser of a cinema, with his brain the whole stage evolves, and there he comes to play the part. Something like that. All from Her. When the brain of the organiser, the whole environment evolves from his brain, and then he's again coming and on the platform acting there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

We get all these things from Śrī Gaurāṅga - Both combined, combined verdict, combined gift, or grace, to us, joined.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Transcendental sweetness. It is eternal in its plane. We are rather - cātaka is the key, that bird which always heads towards the sky, prays for water. What is that bird?

Aranya Mahārāja: Swallow.

Devotee: Cātaka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swallow? That can swallow, and can't collect from the earth, only swallow?
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. We should be converted into that swallow bird in our temperament for the divine drop of sweetness, nectar. Nectar is the sweetest liquid we can ever conceive, eh? Not honey, eh? Honey is mundane and nectar is something over mundane, is it?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nectar is a thing of our imagination, not found here in the mundane world.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Sublime.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But honey is found here. Nectar has got transcendental characteristic, amṛtam, Gods food. Nectar of the devotees, for the Godly. And poison for the demons.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And who gives indulgence to the demons, Mahādeva, he had to take the poison. A peculiar thing. But because he has connection for the service of Viṣṇu, the connection there, so it was ornamental to him. But poison he took, but the connection, the engagement, the order of Viṣṇu, so he did not die. But it is ornamental, official.

So Mahādeva sometimes puts a petition to Nārāyaṇa. "You have given me this undesirable service, only to deal with the culprits. What to do? Your will is supreme, that I have been given the charge of dealing with the demons. And sometimes we have to become friendly with them."

Mahādeva, the master of the whole misconceived area, and having touch with above.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Nitāi. Gaura Nitāi.
Gaura Nityānanda Prabhu. Gaura Nityānanda. Gaura Nityānanda.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then from where will that sincerity come?

[bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate] sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ
[Bṛhan-Nāradīya Purāṇa]

Sādhu, we can understand by sukṛti. Apparently from the scriptures, śāstra. Śāstra helps us to know sādhu, and sādhu gives us the interpretation of śāstra, so inter-dependent, sādhu and śāstra. Sādhu holding the more important position, and śāstra the secondary position. Living śāstra is sādhu, but to know sādhu, who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the scripture about them, what is written in the scripture.

And Mahārāja told that in Bhāgavatam, in Gītā, in Upaniṣad, the symptoms of the sādhu have been written. Symptoms of Guru as well as of the disciples. In Upaniṣad, [tasmād guruṁ prapadyeta, jijñāsuḥ śreyaḥ uttamam]

śabde pare ca niṣṇātaṁ, brahmaṇy upaśamāśrayam

["Therefore any person who seriously desires real happiness must seek a bona fide spiritual master and take shelter of him by initiation. The qualification of the bona fide Guru is that he has realised the conclusions of the scriptures by deliberation and is able to convince others of those conclusions. Such great personalities, who have taken shelter of the Supreme Godhead, leaving aside all material considerations, should be understood to be bona fide spiritual masters."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.21]

And in Gītā,

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā
upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

In Upaniṣad, in Bhāgavatam, in Bhagavad-gītā, there is clearly mentioned what should be the symptom of a Guru, and also what will be the symptom of a disciple. And if such qualified disciple comes to a qualified Guru, then the real transaction begins. Otherwise so many bogus transactions and this black marketing is going on in the world in the name of religion.

Bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate. Devotion comes from the association of the devotee. And, sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ. And one can come to a proper guide, sādhu, by the result of his previous activity. Sukṛti of two kinds, jñāta, ajñāta. Ajñāta-sukṛti is in the beginning, unconsciously being utilised in the service of the Lord through the sādhu, unconscious.

Suppose one has built a dharmaśālā. So many persons of different types coming and taking the advantage of the energy of the builder. All results are coming to him. A dacoit also can come and stay, a pilgrim, he also come and stay, and a sādhu also come and stay. But the pāpa, puṇya, the dacoit are utilising his energy he'll have to suffer for that. And an honest man he's also staying there he'll get some puṇya. But pāpa and puṇya, that by our enjoyment and suffering finished. But a real sādhu, devotee, he has stayed there, utilised my energy, and this is a permanent thing.

nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt

["Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

A part of permanent acquisition is deposited in the man who built the dharmaśālā, it is permanent. And all else - a good man accommodated, honest man in the worldly sense, by getting happiness that is finished. And by suffering a dacoit was accommodated there, that is also finished. But this is permanent, and this sort of acquisition accumulated sufficiently, then it tends, attracts me to do some sort of vague service to those sādhus, not very consciously. And that is also accumulated to certain stage, then awakens within me for the search of the truth. What for those sādhus living? Then I go to him, and if I go in a proper mood, as described in the scripture, then the transaction will begin. But the association, this connection with a real sādhu, has occurred by some underground activity that is known as sukṛti, that is also classified into two. Sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ. And this sukṛti stage Mahāprabhu says, brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

Bhāgya. The sukṛti has been taken by the word as bhāgya, fortune, good fortune. Sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ. Brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja. There are so many different types of sādhus. The tyāgīs, there are different sources, different classes amongst the tyāgīs. This nāga, this, that. Then in the theistic also so many sections, the Rāmānuja, the Rāmānandi, the Nimbarka, the Vallabhi, the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, Mahāprabhu. And classification even in the theistic section. But the sukṛti guides from the subconscious area to our connection with sādhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151] _____ [?] the conscious attempt begun, getting connection of a real Guru, the agent. Agent also of different sections. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava also different sections, the śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. We're told Śyāmānanda Prabhu first got initiation from sākhya-rasa. Then by the special will of Rādhārāṇī he was converted to mādhurya-rasa. But this is not very cheap, very rare, from one rasa to another rasa, to be transferred.

Aranya Mahārāja: Mahārāja, was that due to his already inherent tendency?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sukṛti. Tendency. It may be possible. Just as we find in Gopa Kumāra, in Sanātana Goswāmī, passing through various stages towards Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, up to sākhya-rasa.

Parvat Mahārāja: You mentioned, Viraha Prakāśa Mahārāja was asking, you mentioned something that he was initiated into sākhya-rasa and then transferred to mādhurya. What is this initiation entail?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: What is the process of initiation in different rasa? How is that process of initiation conducted?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhurya-rasa all complete. Sākhya-rasa is also there. So sometimes we fail to detect within us that my real tendency for which? It may be uncertain in the beginning, but gradually by association, when the fine thing will awake, then we may know it is not mere sākhya but another kind of sākhya, sākhya plus something. It may come in that way. And vague, we could not detect what it is. Confidential relationship, service, but sākhya-rasa so confidential, and when that part is predominating one may think that confidential service I want, not very regardful. Then again from there the inner awakening may show that no, he's not satisfied there. It may go on in this way.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's possible as it is told in many cases, that the sarveśa was absorbed by the gopīs. Drona absorbed in Nanda. And Kṛṣṇa also, so many Avatāra absorbed. So such a thing. Just as a man is captured with a ghost, and with some godly influence, something like that. _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Rāmānanda Rāya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāmānanda, both Arjuna and Viśākhā. Some say Arjuna. Sākhya-rasa. And when he's got vision more deeper, they say within Viśākhā. Arjuna is external. External appearance is like Arjuna, but if we - as Mahāprabhu was seen, a sannyāsī, then He was seen...

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]
[Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura]

The very tenor of all the attempts of our Guru Mahārāja was revere the rāgapaṭha, and aim to the lower stage, and keep it always on your head. That is the highest goal, but it is not so easy, not for us. When that will be gracious to take us in we may go. But we cannot leave vicinity. We should never go out of the vicinity, nearby position. We shall try our best to maintain the vicinity.

oṁ tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātatam

["As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head."] [Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20]

The Ṛg-Veda is the first conception of the revealed truth, the substance, and the principal mantram there. Tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya. The higher realised they always see over their head the param pada of Viṣṇu like the sun, or like a big eye. His leg, His holy feet can see, and that is spread over our eye, the guardian's eye of Viṣṇu over our head. We shall conceive always that we are under the holy feet of Viṣṇu, of Nārāyaṇa, of Kṛṣṇa, the whole domain. That is spreading on our head and we are holding lower position.

We must have a consciousness of the transcendental world, but never think that I have already attained it. It can never be attained by anyone in a direct position. Indirect position. My master, whenever he calls me I can go in, otherwise I'm outside. Mainly the connection is like this, man and master. Master and servant. Whenever he presses the calling bell I am there, otherwise my place is outside. Something like that we shall think of us, the servant and they can call, so we wait outside. Prepared always hankering to be utilised in their service, but our place is not there. Vibhinnāṁśa jīva haya śakti cedanam [?]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge. That confidential service of different types we are to adore from far off.

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - 'No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category.'"] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

And we shall always be regardful towards that rāgapaṭha, the service of love. Any time, in any age, if I can get the chance, even for a moment, I'll be blessed forever. But it is not so cheap, then I shall become a sahajiyā, according to Prabhupāda. When I think I have got it, it shows I'm satisfied with the shadow and not reality, shadow.

And among thousands of devotees of Viṣṇu, one who is an unalloyed Vaiṣṇava is best."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.117] & [Bhakti-Sandarbha, 117]

From the section of jñānī, the salvationist, that, "So 'ham, I'm the highest entity," from there to accept the service of the higher, then it is very, very difficult, so koṭ yā. Sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ.

It is easy from the sphere of karma to connect association with the devotees. But when once we enter into the domain of renunciation, and "I am the highest Brahman," then from that position it is very, very difficult to connect with the position where I shall be taken and enlisted as servant. "I'm master of the whole existence. I'm monarch of all I see." From that egoistic position it is very difficult to have and accept service. So,

bahūnāṁ janmanām ante, jñānavān māṁ prapadyate
vāsudevaḥ sarvam iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

["After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

And here, vedānta-vit-koṭ yā viṣṇubhakto viśiṣyate, vaiṣṇavānāṁ sahasrebhyaḥ ekāntyeko viśiṣyate. Ekāntyeko means above law. "Only He's my master. I'm His servant." This consciousness, to fulfil His desire to satisfaction, to obey His orders. Only one law, no other law, ekāntyeko. Whatever He will desire I'm to fulfil that. He's autocrat, above law. Law comes from Him. No question of justice, that is above the area of justice. Justice presupposes so many parties and divisions of interest amongst them. But He's autocrat, no law. And He's master, I'm servant, I'm slave, He can make or mar. With that idea to be submissive and to be subservient to that highest entity. Ekāntyeko viśiṣyate. The highest group, kāma-rūpa group, as Kṛṣṇa desires they respond in such a way, without caring anything. The śāstra, the sādhu, the samāj, nothing else. So-called religious consideration is not present there, crossing that.

And this ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate, Sanātana Goswāmī says, viśate tad-anantaram. Apparently the bird entering the jungle, but that does not mean the bird is ended, ends there. He has got his nest, family, he's enjoying the company. So enters into this, disappearance from the outside, but that does not mean that it is finished. Enters, and there it remains, enjoys His own higher interest. So Sanātana Goswāmī has explained ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate, "That I give recognition to them as My own, enters My family life. That is ātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate."

martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me

Vaiṣṇava sevā, he's a servant, but not to supply the ordinary mortal things of pleasure for this worldly person. _____ [?]

The Lord says that, "My servant, his position is also respectable like Me. He serves Me, at the same time to acquire the position of being served. So Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, as much as I should be revered, to be worshipped, My servant he also holds such position, such claim. He's My part and parcel. He's a member of My family, and My family's purest of the pure."

They're all emanating purity, agents of distributing purity to the world. And purity is not only self abnegation but it can be acquired by self surrender, the higher purity. And service, not calculative, not actuated by any motive, but automatic, spontaneous service. Service of the beauty, beautiful, service of love divine. Not only service of power, but service of beauty, love, sundaram. Satyam, śivam, sundaram. Sundaram is the most original factor in this world ever discovered.

So Mahāprabhu and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam preached about the worship of sundaram over satyam and śivam. Not mere unassailable eternal existence to be adored. Not mere consciousness of the material substance that is to be adored in appreciation of a new wonderful thing. But the fulfilment of the consciousness and the real existence of that highest substance that was given exclusively in Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, and then by Śrī Caitanydeva and His followers. We are worshippers of the beautiful, reality the beautiful, reality the love, reality the harmony. That is the highest quarter of the existence, and we're connected internally with that. So we must aspire after that scientifically. There is a particular method, and we are to follow. Śāstra is there, and living śāstra, the sādhu, is there. Under their guidance we can hope to attain such highest fulfilment of life. _____ [?] Gāyatrī, Veda, Gītā, Upaniṣad.

But we say that good will is also impure, filthy. We do not know what to eat. So everything is impure and rubbish here. And with the help of the scripture and real agent we're to know what is good, what is bad, and to accept the good and eliminate the bad.

Gauḍīya Maṭha came, Mahāprabhu came, and after that in the modern time our Guru Mahārāja came, single handed almost. Single handed he began his fight against the so-called existing principles going on in the paraphernalia in the environment.

In the garb of religion, so many non religious things are being delivered. It is a treachery to the ordinary people. We must know what is pure religion, what is the real recommendation of the Vedas coming through Bhāgavatam.

Who can't tolerate other's position, he's a jealous person. Jealously less persons, it is only for them, that they can tolerate, they can understand that there's one principle that He's all in all. He's autocrat. He's above law. And He's our master. He can make or mar. Only they that have got no jealousy, only they can come to such level so enquire after such truth. And the matsara, they can't admit that there is God. And designed and destined, the whole creation designed and destined by Him.

[08:50 - 09:35 ?]

There is land of the Lord. If we can enter in that plane then we can be really happy by giving, not by exacting. To sacrifice for Him, that is to get enough, both in quantity and quality, especially in quality. We can swim in the pool of nectar. Something like that, if we have entrance into that plane.

Many Englishmen friends are also here. It is very much appreciable you can understand that so many from the foreign land, they have also come being attracted by the instructions, advice, of Mahāprabhu and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. So many respectable young boys they're charmed by the beauty of the teachings of Śrī Caitanyadeva, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, and Their agents. And they have come to join us. It was already foretold by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura some hundred years ago. And our Guru Mahārāja began the work in a humble way. And after that one of his disciples, A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja, he went to the west empty handed. But by the grace of Mahāprabhu and Kṛṣṇa and Nityānanda Prabhu he was very much successful to push this high level advice to the west. And attracted by his earnest desire to distribute this nectar they have come in hundreds and hundreds to join the saṅkīrtana party under the banner of Gauḍīya Maṭha, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja.

And I'm sure that you'll be pleased at heart to find them amongst you who are taking all sorts of risk in their life to preach this truth to the whole of the world with all their might and resources at command. There are bright scholars, some Doctors, then some traders, some otherwise, men of parts of different type, they have joined this movement and taking it to all, every corner of the earth, most skilfully. And we must feel our gratitude, express our gratitude towards their divine attempt and their earnestness to know and to distribute this sort of high order of knowledge of relief to the people at large. So we appreciate their presence here and their attempt. And I think all will be same with me in my opinion that they've encouraged us in a very extraordinary way to search.

Many Indians they're encouraged by their presence, they're also very inquisitive, 'that what is there that so many foreigners of high grade they're also coming to appreciate, so there must be something to be inquired.' In this way also many persons holding high positions in the society of the present education they're also coming. So we give our thanks to those noble persons for their attempt. And we pray to our Guru and Vaiṣṇava that their attempts may be fulfilled by them. With this I retire.

All Glories to Śrī Guru and Gaurāṅga! Dear Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja Rūpānuga Dara.

In this most blessed event of Your Divine Grace's eightieth anniversary I wish to come to your divine lotus feet with a humble offering.

How wonderful it is that one can have access to your lotus feet. Although everyone knows they do not stand on our side, this dimension of exploitation, being situated beyond the realm of renunciation, dancing at the transcendental sound of the land of dedication. An eternal inhabitant of the land of nectar and intimate associate of Śrī Śrī Gaura Gāndharvā-Govindasundara.

Eight years ago, first I heard your divine instructions on how spiritual sound vibrations enters into the material dimension, purifying the senses and the mind to reach the soul, awakening recollections of eternal serving mood. Hearing Your Divine Grace made such a great impression in my heart I wished there and then I could come to meet Your Divine Person, such great master of love divine. How could I know I had a meeting to attend to eight years later with Your Divine Grace. Connection had been established through the medium of transcendental sound vibration.

Akrpa sindhu rūpānuga dara. No doubt you hold the keys to the doors of the sampradāya through which one can come in contact with Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī. How can one pretend to be connected with the sampradāya who disregards your divine instructions.

Today I feel that if my Śrīla Prabhupāda and your Godbrother and intimate friend Swāmī Mahārāja would be present he would come and tell everyone out loud once again about Your Divine Grace's high realisations about Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Which to the great fortune of the entire world are being spread through its length and breadth.

He would re-emphasis that "You must come and live in the Māyāpur temple," in that house he was going to build for Your Divine Grace so that he could enjoy your divine association which he so much relished for many years of intimacy.

My Śrīla Prabhupāda, and your Swāmī Mahārāja, would surely want to tell you how thankful he is that you are helping him caring for those he has brought to this side of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

He would be here right now asking Your Divine Grace to be pleased to give instructions how to build your temple of understanding so that the entire world could come and benefit with a proper conception of reality in its multiple dimension.

He would again be willing to spend many hours a day discussing with Your Divine Grace such transcendental topics, that if we would hear them we would certainly faint.

He would certainly also tell Your Divine Grace that he wanted always to get Your Divine Grace out preaching, because of two things. First, that your Guru Mahārāja, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Mahārāja Śrīla Prabhupāda's personal request, here. And second, with his own perception of Your Divine Grace's high and deep realisation of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Now we feel he's helping us to help take Your Divine Grace out to the world at large, what we're trying to do to the best of our small ability, as we wish to help him to fulfil the request of his Guru Mahārāja.

In the middle of such relationship between Your Divine Grace and my Guru Mahārāja I feel myself to be like a little insect of insignificant value.

It is only by your mercy that I will be able to please Your Divine Grace being able to assist in the mission of establishing a centre for relief work in New York city.

Dear Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja, I come to your divine lotus feet as a beggar, implored to the benediction to always be able to give _____ [?] as your servant, your most _____ [?] servant."

So highest is for the lowest. We may come to this conclusion. But all must be lowest and highest, that must be absolute, not a sham posing. The sham is to be eliminated. If I can conceive my sincere self to be the lowest, so much I come in relativity of the highest, spacious, infinitely highest. We come in the relativity when I can consider I am the lowest of the lowest. The relativity is such. Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ. As much as I shall see myself to be substantial I lose the chance of having the conception of the real big. So śaraṇāgata, the question of relativity demands that as much as we can find ourselves to be lowest, so much I shall come in the relativity of the highest.

...I have seen Kṛṣṇa. Not only myself, I have shown Kṛṣṇa on the tamarind tree on the other side of the Ganges, and there are so many evidences there. So many men saw Kṛṣṇa. I showed Him."

And why are you cheating yourself? I'm told that you are a brāhmaṇa boy. And coming in contact with this pseudo sahajiyā Vaiṣṇava you have become deranged to such stage, you see Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa cannot be seen by these eyes. Adhokṣaja. We have learned something, consulted, and we have read some śāstra, Veda, Upaniṣad, Bhāgavatam, Gītā. All these things we have gone through. So don't deceive your own self. You know yourself how you are. You are still a slave of your senses. You have got the lust, the anger, this and that, so many things you feel. And I also know that. And you are simply, not only deceiving the foolish persons, but what is more dangerous, you are deceiving your own self. Very strongly I told.

Then he got some impression, and some day leaving that female dress, and he kept hair also like the female, was clean shaved, and came to me. "Now enlist me amongst your disciples."

At that time I began very reluctantly, to accept one or two disciples.

Then there was another Godbrother with me. "No, no. Never accept him as disciple. He will not be able to stand here, he will go back again, and he will be a blasphemy to our mission."

So I flatly refused him. I'm not going to accept you as disciple.

So, so many things. Adhokṣaja. It cannot be seen, and it is seen coming down. It is very, very rare coming down from the spiritual sphere, to the mental sphere, and becomes so much strong that when eyes open overflowed they can see Him. And when He withdraws nothing remains. So it is not very easy, there are so many stages. Ādau śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, anartha-nivṛttiḥ, bhakti, bhāva-bhakti, prema- bhakti.

[ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ
athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati
sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ]

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

The stages are there, mathematical calculation, we can trace in one man by measuring, by this philosophical computer, that how much progress is there. Has he got śraddhā proper?

He will say, "Oh. Śiva is also - Śiva, Kṛṣṇa, Kālī, Śakti, all God, all equal." And that man will say, "I have seen Kṛṣṇa."

So there is the standard measurement, criterion is there, in what stage one will see Kṛṣṇa. And once when he has seen Kṛṣṇa what will be the after effect? One who has seen Kṛṣṇa, the after behaviour, conduct after that what will be there? All these things should be considered. So the sahajiyā, we hate them, they're born offenders, who takes Kṛṣṇa in so low a level.

Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, Sanātana Goswāmī has given the gradation. Jīva Goswāmī by what stage eliminating, eliminating, elimination of so many things within our area of knowledge. We are to go to that side. It is not a very easy affair.

Bhargava: That's why I'm asking you, because I would not ask anyone if they saw Kṛṣṇa. But I'm seeing your quality of heart and so many years of sincere service to Kṛṣṇa. That is why I'm asking you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. I'll also say that I have not yet seen Kṛṣṇa, but I'm in the way in search of Kṛṣṇa. I have not got Him, not seen Him, but I'm in the search of Kṛṣṇa, and I feel that I'm in the path of real search. And whatever told, whatever seen, or said, that in the path these things will be, I have some sort of experience of that, that in the real path of Kṛṣṇa I am. So far I can say. But I have not the audacity to say that I have seen Kṛṣṇa, I'm in līlā with Him. All these things I revere. And I don't want also to have it so cheaply. Cheap Kṛṣṇa I don't want, this market Kṛṣṇa I do not want. I want, as guided by my Guru Mahārāja to have darśana of that Kṛṣṇa, in this birth or hundreds of births after, does not matter. This is my idea. I'm not going to deceive anyone by any wrong statement. But I think I'm the path, by the grace of Guru Mahārāja. I'm in the path, that I can say. I feel it.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, sometimes in the songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, or Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura, like sometimes Bhaktivinoda says, "I am a resident of Svānanda-Sukhada-Kuñja." And he's speaking as if he's in līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Yes. It may be, we may think that is the ideal he has described after. His highest ideal is that. He's doing it in his ideal life.

Bhargava: Imagination?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not imagination. It is reality, not imagination, reality, as seen from afar, a little distant. Something like that.

Bhargava: So at that point he had access?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But the feeling within his inner heart he's describing. And sometimes he says, "Suddenly I had a flash, I saw, and then when I went to mark it particularly, vanished." Something like that.

Bhargava: I have not had any flashes.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He wants to have a flash. Bhargava, he wants such a flash.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And if He's gracious you may get it. His mercy.

Bhargava: I need so desperately. I had one flash before I became devotee.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Don't try easy marketing, you will be cheated. Pray, make yourself ready to pay more and more price, more and more price. Don't finish the bargain, then you'll be loser. Why? The Absolute, we're after Absolute. Absolute can never be finished. Then we say that we are seeking the Absolute but practically we think that we want to be master of the Absolute. It is impossible.

Bhargava: Yes, I do have strong material desires.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So that sort of aspiration should be crushed, that is to be nipped in the bud. In His search, die. Die to live, not treat miserly. Try to give yourself, and how. Then as much as you will be ready to sacrifice yourself and can successfully do it, then automatically you will find yourself in some other plane.

Bhargava: I was sacrificing for many years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As a subject and making Him object, you will be able to make Him prisoner, don't think like that. Try to become His prisoner.

Bhargava: I was serving with that mood for some years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Keeping your subjectivity you can have any contact with Him. Wholesale to be dissolved and your new self will come out and you will find all around Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And then sometimes Kṛṣṇa may be pleased to give you the touch of His existence, in different ways.

But I'm an enquirer and I want to make Kṛṣṇa the object of my enquiry, to imprison Him in my prison house of imagination.

Once, when I had not come to join the Maṭha, I was a law student, the national movement came. Just in the front of the Calcutta University Hall, _____ [?] there is a tank _____ [?] park. One gentleman was delivering lecture.

"I went to Haridar, and I went up the hill, and found a sādhu is coming down from the hill. Anyhow I asked him in broken Hindi, Have you seen God? Can you show me the God?

The sādhu told, in such an inspiring voice answered me. "Don't you see Him? Look at all this atmosphere, the trees, the water, the hill, all these things, and the whole, you cast your glance according to the whole environment. Can't you see Him?" With so much impression he told this that at that moment I saw that a conscious backing. Whatever is there, just in the background some spiritual existence I found. In such a _____ [?] such impressive way he told. Don't you see Him? Look at the sky, the trees, the stone, everywhere He is. _____ [?] Only He is there."

By our continuous engagement we shall come. Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa. Talk about Kṛṣṇa. Then hear about Kṛṣṇa. Take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Take His prasādam. Collect for Him. In this way gradually we shall enter into the intense feeling of Him, halo, the lustre of Him. And gradually we shall come to have conception according to our capacity. Always remember the infinite is in His one part. He's such.

By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42]

"Arjuna, what more I say to you about who I am? The whole thing you can imagine, only in My negligent part."

You are going to enquire about that. No cheap rate. Then, after that what will you do, your searching?

Mahāprabhu says, "I'm searching Him, but I have not got a little bit of that divine love, I'm searching, searching."

When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

"Otherwise, how can I maintain My life, sustain My life without His company, without His grace?"

"The one moment seems to Me a great age, so many light years, nimeṣena. Cakṣuṣā prāvṛṣāyitam. So much tears ran down through My eyes. Yugāyitaṁ nimeṣena, cakṣuṣā prāvṛṣāyitam / śūnyāyitaṁ jagat sarvaṁ. The whole world seems to Me only a vacant vacuum. Govinda-viraheṇa me. But I still cannot get the company of My beloved Lord Kṛṣṇa."

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhargava: That loneliness for Kṛṣṇa, sometimes, I mean this is the truth how I'm feeling. Sometimes I'm thinking I've given so much. And all I want is a little drop, just a touch so I can be inspired to do more. Not that I want to enjoy Kṛṣṇa, but some reciprocation, that I'm there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is nothing. Taking food, walking, taking bath, dress, so many comforts we're seeking, and what demand we're going to fulfil. Everything, try to calculate in the term of infinite. No finite, however greater, it can come to make infinite. The very composition of infinite is of another type. All inner dissatisfaction. I have done nothing. When you be in this path, that I can't do anything to approach towards Kṛṣṇa, unit of measurement towards infinite is that.

And I'm doing this, I'm doing this, I'm doing so much, I'm paying so much value, that is opposite way. Those that are really in the path of Kṛṣṇa their feeling will be, I can't do anything for Him. The whole attitude will be changed. This idea we have been given by our Guru Mahārāja. It is the nature of the way of searching.

Once, two brahmacārīns after eight or ten years service, they once came to Prabhupāda to put some question, and they're hesitating to put the question. Then Prabhupāda himself asked them, "It seems that you want to speak something to me, but you don't speak."

"Yes. We came to say something to your holiness but we don't venture."

"No, no. Say what you have to say."

Then he says, "So, eight or ten years we have come and we're doing service as we're ordered. But so far we did not feel anything about Kṛṣṇa, any progress."

"What you say at present, is it true? Are you sincere in your statement?"
"Yes. What we say it is true as far as we know."
"Then it is all right. Go away. Don't be afraid."
That was his statement. What does it mean?

Bhargava: I don't understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That you have not acquired anything. You are searching for something but you have not got anything concrete, that feeling is a good sign.

Bhargava: A good sign?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Good sign. If you would have said that you have got so much knowledge, so many things, so many things, then that would have been egoistic. That progress in the egoistic way that you can feel, you can know, you can complete. Empty yourself. You see, all striking, a very striking thing.

Bhargava: A little bit I can understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Can you understand? Only negative hankering for Kṛṣṇa, that is the measurement of the progress in that way. I have nothing. I can't relish anything. I'm going to be mad. Not yet have I got any trace of Kṛṣṇa. The way is in that side, in vipralambha.

The other day I was saying, all risk no gain. The way is like that. No risk no gain, but all risk no gain. The way is like that. You risk everything but you won't get anything. Because, in our terms what is gain and loss, we're captured by _____ [?] You do not know _____ [?] So prepare yourself. Don't be satisfied with anything, 'that this is Kṛṣṇa.' No Kṛṣṇa. Neti, neti, neti. And in the background you'll be able to find some sort of...

It is there, it is with the scripture, it is with the Guru and Vaiṣṇava. But I have nothing. It is their property all the time, not mine. It won't be my property. It is the property of my Gurudeva. In this way the angle of vision will be set, the property of my Gurudeva, the property of Nanda-Yaśodā. They can deal with this in any way. But I'm a sight seer. I will be asked by the servitors, 'Do this, do this, for His service.' That position is better for me. Not to approach the nearest but from far off. I'm not fit. We're to take that course that I'm unfit. The unfitness should be our first thing to analyse, open to us, unfitness.

While I'll be fit to see Him then no śaraṇāgati. Self-abnegation, to undo what I am, to dissolve my ego to the finish. Then He's there. It is difficult to dissolve ones ego. When ego fully dissolved then also another ego through the service, that will shine. All eliminated present ego, the very gist, a point of soul conception, that we'll find in an atmosphere, and through service it will gradually enter into.

We shall look at the example, that Jayatīrtha Mahārāja we're told, that every night they're dancing to show that they're inspired with Kṛṣṇa rasa, all these things. Blasphemy.

I never saw our Guru Mahārāja to dance and to chant, only soberly talking about Kṛṣṇa. If any time with his controlled mind any time any drop of water oozing from the tears, very stealthily he removed them. Very eager not to express any feeling, and if any feeling, sentiments come out, very carefully he tried to conceal. That was his nature, not to show.

Otherwise that Rāmadāsa bābājī and others, what they think that what they do, like so many mad dancing, and shedding tears, and shivering. All they showed drew the common mob towards them.

And Prabhupāda had to discuss that, "These things have no sign of real devotion."

[koṭi-jñāni-madhye haya eka-jana 'mukta'] koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta

["Out of many millions of such wise men, one may actually become liberated, and out of many millions of such liberated persons, a pure devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa is very difficult to find."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.148]

Amongst crores of liberated souls, one Kṛṣṇa bhakta is hardly to be found. Nārāyaṇa bhakta, then Kṛṣṇa bhakta, are far there to be found.

Try to come in the relativity of infinite, and we're to cross the infinite, and to dissolve that ego. Hegel says, "Die, learn to die first." And dying, not for this or that, but of Kṛṣṇa conception coming from Gurudeva. Die to live.

Bhargava: The one reason I ask is, I talk to people about Kṛṣṇa. Many of the Christians can appreciate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhargava: I speak to many of my countrymen, they're Christians, and when I bring up...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You talk about the ideal, discuss the ideal. "Your conception is this, our conception is that, and what is the difference between the conceptions." In this way you can do.

Bhargava: When I explain bhakti they can appreciate bhakti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti is a general thing, but there is also the type of bhakti, and the bhakti for which the others also, the model. _____ [?]

Bhargava: When I talk to them they can appreciate bhakti, and when I explain...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakti is also no bhakti you are talking bhakti. I'm also talking bhakti. Any difference do you find there?

Bhargava: Yes. You have a lot more power.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So bhakti, the ideal, they've also got ideal.

Bhargava: But it is the focus of the bhakti. Like when I explain Mahāprabhu's philosophy, bhakti even above mukti...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Bhakti, the ideal, the fine touch, appreciation for the ideal. Mahāprabhu has given an ideal. Christ has given another ideal. Our inner, which we cannot trace, but the attraction for the ideal. We're to analyse that fine thing, our appreciation. Why we appreciate Kṛṣṇa and not God given by Jesus? That is a vague thing, and this is some clear conception, sweet conception of the thing. Why am I attracted to this side? I'm to analyse that. What is there that took me this side and not that side? I'm to see into my inner heart and try to express that. The difference is there.

Bhargava: The only thing I can tell them is I say...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When, in my previous days, generally, I used to collect money and met gentlemen, many sympathetic many apathetic.

Sympathetic said, "Oh. Why you are running from door to door for collection? When we see that you come from a very high family, and you are educated, and you are fit, but why do you waste your time by collection from door to door? And what you want me to do for God? Then go to the mountain cave. There is arrangement by the religious householders, they will give food to you regularly. And go on meditating."

In this way. Sometimes by their request I tried to look to my own heart why I'm doing.

They're saying sympathetically. "Begging from door to door, what good can you derive? You go straight to the cave and sit in meditation for Him and try to connect yourself in direct way."

Then I looked, many a time I looked to my heart for the answer, and I got, sometimes I used to get.

I told them, do you know the Upamanyu [?] Ujjvalav [?] the Upaniṣad disciple character? They're sent by Guru to the pasture ground, sometimes to the cultivation land. And what for?

Kṛṣṇa went to Gurukula and went to bring the wood _____ [?] from the jungle, with a co-Godbrother. What is the necessity?

So it is necessary that whatever action I shall begin, taking in response of our own ego, that will create a material atmosphere, spread my subjective atmosphere. But I have ceased to do according to my own inner thought. I have placed myself at the disposal of a higher devotee. The subtle system of my inner body I want to kill, finish, and I have stopped its food. If I obey its order it will thrive thereby. I have stopped the ration to the soldier, the food supplied to the army, stopped. I have totally disconnected food supply to the army. Let them die fasting. And if they die, if that ego will die, then another body which works only in obedience to the higher agents, that will come out. And this body which gets its food from the ego, that will be finished. I want to do that. The whole mental system may die without food. So no insinuation from within, my ego. I'm doing that. Our Guru asked me to do whatever thing I'm doing that. I'm engaged with Vaikuṇṭha, transcendental world, and want to dissolve my ego. And the world produced where we're living in by my ego I want to get out of that. I'm living in my own imaginary world. That world must go away, and another world will come to me. I'm counting on them, and this person, this material, this gross conscious body and the world created by it, another world I want to live in, in the world of my Guru I want, in this way.

Once, one sannyāsī, he, leaving the engagement given by Guru Mahārāja went to visit Badarikāśrama and holy places. Then he was punished. "Why have you left the responsibility of service given to you and you are going for pilgrimage?"

I was a beginner at that time. It gave a heavy pressure on me. What is this? A sannyāsī has gone to visit Badarikāśrama, the place of Vyāsadeva, Śukadeva, what is the so great fault there that he's...?

I was a new man, I was in charge of Kurukṣetra Maṭha and I was given a letter. "If that sannyāsī comes to that Maṭha don't allow him to enter." That was a senior sannyāsī and I was a newcomer, a great shock to me. And the sannyāsī came in a day or two, and the other day I showed so much respect to him, and that day how can I say that you won't enter this Maṭha. Very much difficulty. Then when he came I showed the letter to him. This is the order from the centre.

First he was excited and went to abuse the higher authorities.

Then I told him flatly that, Mahārāja, I feel much apprehension in my mind. I'm very much afraid.

"Why are you afraid?"

When after ten, fifteen years, after service, if you come to such level that you're to be ousted from the mission, then what hope have I got? I'm a beginner. So your fifteen years service has earned such punishment as to be ousted, then what hope have I got here? So it is not possible for me, it will be rather to waste my time here.

Then he came out in another colour. "No, no, no. You need not be afraid. I may do wrong. A boy may not pass B.A. degree, M.A. degree, that does not mean a primary student he will also fail that." In this way. Then he took that, "Not injustice but it is justice, and I have committed something wrong." He came to that.

But this fact had a great impression in my mind. What is there in the service? Disengagement, he was leaving the desired service of Guru, if he wants to go to holy place that is a punishable offence. What is this? So the service, that is the connection above. God's will through His agent, to be engaged in his service is very, very valuable. And to select in my level what is good and bad and to go to a holy place, that is some sort of religious luxury, freedom. But divine service is above freedom of ordinary soul.

'It is holy, I'm doing right visiting holy places.' The origin from my ego.

And far higher ego is giving instruction, 'Do this. God wants this from you.'

This is another world, it came to me gradually, that to obey the orders of a Vaiṣṇava that means to serve the higher divinity. And to roam, to wander...

82.11.12.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm more afflicted than you feel, what I have done for. Then what should I say? If it's the order from the higher plane we have to do it.

So you take prasāda, pāraṇa, the Dvādaśī pāraṇa. In time we should take something to finish the role of Ekādaśī. This pāraṇa is also a part of the fasting. In the śāstra it is recorded, within some time we must take something to observe in honour of Ekādaśī.

Bhargava: Thank you for your time. And I wish you a happy birthday and many more, for our sake.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In search after infinite. Until infinite comes to me, graciously, to reveal Himself, go on searching. It is His pleasure, not my pleasure, and not anything to force Him. It is absolute. And I have come to get a drop of grace from the absolute, not any limited thing.

"I am everywhere, nothing in Me. I am nowhere, nothing in Me. I am everywhere, everything in Me. Try to understand this peculiar mystic position of Mine."

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Mahārāja, recently I've given some talk at university and I made mention that Śaṅkarācārya did not give Vedic siddhānta. Many of the professors they're very angry with that statement. I'm asking, is that correct to say that, or not correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You can't conceive that yourself, what Śaṅkarācārya gave?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I'm repeating what is in the books.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you can't catch the meaning, proper?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No. I think from what I can understand, Śaṅkarācārya did not give Vedic siddhānta but he was...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why not Vedic siddhānta? What are the points?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Because Vedic conclusion is that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the defect in his explanation of Vedic siddhānta?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Because he's given impersonal conception, because he's not saying the absolute truth is person.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Why is he not? Because...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Vedic expression you are to analyse and show that what Śaṅkara gave that is incomplete here.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What are the points? Have you detected them, no?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Say again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śaṅkara's explanation of the Vedas are defective.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why? Can you point them out?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. I tried to point that out. But they say that Śaṅkarācārya was preaching devotion, bhakti, to the absolute.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. He did not recognise the receiver of devotion. He said, "All māyā. Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, the personal conception of Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa, all the Gods, all māyā, illusion. All imaginary. Beyond imagination nothing remains. But we say...

[05:37 - 07:42 ?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: The reason I have some doubt about...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śaṅkarācārya you see, you hear first some basic thing. The fundamental conception is this. Śaṅkara says that everything is imagination. The conception of God, so many gods, whatever differentiation means in the imaginary world, and after that the non-differentiated, non- discriminated, all else.

But Rāmānuja says, and other Vaiṣṇavas, that is super subjective world. That can come down here but we cannot go up to that transcendental play with this ego. The fundamental difference is here.

We are subject, we are monarch of all we survey. We are surveying both gross and subtle things with our ego. But when our ego finishes, in the border, that is Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, according to subtlety the gradation is running high. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, then Virajā, effacement of our ego. And then Brahmaloka, certain hazy conception of some conscious thing, non-differentiated. Here finished Śaṅkarācārya.

The Rāmānuja comes with his interpretation from the same Veda and other theistic scriptures. That as a subjective experience it is finished there. But sometimes we can feel that something descends from some higher plane to our plane. There is not limit, but that fineness is going on. And then after, our jīvātmā, the Paramātmā, the Nārāyaṇa conception, all these, that is called Vaikuṇṭha, the unlimited, the infinite. The infinite has got also life, and that can come down, but we cannot go up. That is called transcendental, supra- mental. There is some substance, when He comes down to our plane we can feel, but when withdrawn we are nowhere. There is such a plane. Adhokṣaja. Adhaḥkṛtaṁ, indriyajaṁ jñānaṁ. The whole world of our sense experience is adhaḥkṛtaṁ, that has been kept down, that is dispersed, and some higher feeling comes down. There is a systematic world, and now and then, here and there, we find that...

Have you heard of the flying saucer. Some say that we come in connection with flying saucer but can't connect with them. They can come to connect with us, but we can't connect with them, that flying saucer. A few years back there was a rumour that flying saucer, perhaps from another planet with more efficient planes they're coming to visit our place. They can connect anywhere, they can drop, but we run, chase after them, can't catch them.

So that adhokṣaja plane is a finer plane than the, so finer that jīva soul is gross to them, jīvātmā, gross. And more fine, Paramātmā, and an all conscious plane, higher consciousness plane there is where there's no limit with Brahmaloka, as Śaṅkara says.

That wherever I - no taxation without representation, we won't. Śaṅkara, this matsara, Śaṅkara does not recognise any absolute plane where he's not represented. So ham. "If I cannot remain, I cannot thrive, I won't accept that. I don't admit the existence of such things."

But the devotees are of opposite type. They say, "Where we live, our position, our vision, our scope, our prospect, all limited. But there is infinitely higher planes. They can come, so subtle they can pierce through and come here." Ether can pass everywhere, but the stone cannot pass everywhere, through ether. So like far ethereal subtleness the plane is there, and there is everything, personality, the men, the devotees, all these things. Not only this but this is the gross perverted reflection of that subtle-most world. And it is there. We cannot go so far. Our jurisdiction is limited, but there does not end the world proper. Beyond that in the transcendental realm, they can come down to contact with us, but we at our pleasure can never contact with them.

And how contact is possible with that world for us? Without passport the visa is necessary. If for the interest of that plane if they recruit us from this uncivilised world to serve the purpose of civilised world, then we can be taken in. The African, a kaffir, can be taken to America as a slave. Something like that. So we can, if we sign the bond of a slave, then we may be taken in there. And that is our proper soul, die to live. After the wholesale death of our present life here we can rise up, we can awake in our finest souls. And that is a self of eternal slavery to that land, to Kṛṣṇa. In this way there is another.

The stage of adhokṣaja, the stage, the plane of knowledge is mainly divided into five sections.

The knowledge drawn from the pratyakṣa, self sense experience, pratyakṣa.

Parokṣa, which is not experienced by me but experienced by others and I also accept it as my own knowledge, in the store of my own house. They say there was a war. I have not seen with my own eyes but I take it in the store of my own knowledge, parokṣa. Not pratyakṣa, not my direct sense experience but which is experienced by other sources. That is the second stage of knowledge.

The third stage of knowledge, and the last stage according to Śaṅkara, is in the sound sleep. When we wake up from sound sleep we say, 'I slept a very peaceful sleep.' Thereby I say that I had some experience there, but that is undetectable. At that time when we were in sound sleep we cannot feel anything, but when come down from the level we assert that I had some peaceful experience. That is parokṣa-nivṛtti. Śaṅkara says goes up to that and says this is aparokṣa-nivṛtti. Pratyakṣa, parokṣa and aparokṣa, higher. And in samādhi the yogīs they live there in that _____ [?]

And that Rāmānuja and other Vaiṣṇavas say that there is a finer level, where they can come to us, and our finest self within can be taken up into that plane. But not to satisfy any of our individual enterprise, but we have to die as we are and to be utilised as a slave of that world, that finest golden self of us. Mahāprabhu says, jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' [kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa']

["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

Within our deeper-most self, that sort of self can be traced which can enjoy the confidential service of slavery of the Supreme Lord, The Absolute Sweetness. The realm is like that.

And Śaṅkara does not admit. According to Śaṅkara so many gods are admitted but their existence all gross, all in the misconceived world, not from the absolute standpoint, a misconception. "I am monarch of all I survey." Everything I see according to my limited interest, provincial or local interest. The universal interest whatever what we see that has got some universal necessity or reality. But we throw our own local interests on them and see accordingly. Everywhere it is here, all relative interest. A cat sees a thing in his own interest, a man sees another, a dog another. In this way everyone has got its selfish centre and according to that they see the world. So many planes of seeing according to every seer.

But the universal standpoint of seeing, estimation of everything, that is in the background, and we're to accept that. From Kṛṣṇa consciousness, from the standpoint of Kṛṣṇa's interest, and we're all part and parcel, we're all slave to Him, and everything is dependent on His will. Then that is the most absolute plain of seeing everything, calculating everything, and to do things in that atmosphere. The most subtle and highest most fundamental plain of the Absolute Whole, independent of all the local, the national, the social, the so- called religious conception that is thrust into the absolute conception of the thing. That must be withdrawn wholesale, and then we're to imbibe the waves of that plain which is coming from that, and that is nirguṇa. Nirguṇa means positive and the most finest which is free from all local and provincial vision. That is nirguṇa. As He is at His most highest central ways. And to train ourselves to see things in that way, similar, harmoniously with the ways of that plain _____ [?] That is necessary.

So Śaṅkara said everything what is visible, invisible, that is all māyā, imposed on the environment, and that is withdrawn nothing remains. Only one Brahman, some sort of hazy, non-differentiated mass of knowledge is there, nothing else.

But that is Brahmanpura, that is there and that is a subtle world and that world is infinite, and that is more powerful, more independent. That can contact with us, and at their sweet will. And if they accept them to take in there to have their conception, then only we can have conception, otherwise not. Not a matter of right, but a matter of grace. But there is a world we cannot deny that if graciously they take me to the source that plane we can have a very sweet and happy experience and engagement also, and we can find that is the real life.

And what we're living here that is undesirable, that is janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9], full of these defects, and this is false. Only to be forced by our own limited vision to the environment, this is false.

But that is real, that I'll have a very meagre position, imaginary smallest position in consideration with the Absolute angle of vision it is really true. It is really true that my position is the finest of the fine, and my independence, everything, is of that character. But that is all graceful, and everyone is self-giving, not exploiting, but all devoting, dedicating nature. A happy world there is, and we can be taken in if they want me taken in. Another world is there that is transcendental. And Mahāprabhu says according to interpretation, Śaṅkara says, apāṇi-pādo javano grahitā, [paśyaty acakṣuḥ sa śṛṇoty akarṇaḥ

sa vetti vedyaṁ na ca tasyāsti vettā, tam āhur agryaṁ puruṣaṁ mahāntam]

["The Lord has no hands or legs, yet He walks and touches. The Lord has no eyes or ears, yet He sees and hears."] [Śvetāśvatara-Upaniṣad, 3.19]

"He has got no legs and no hands, but He can run and He can catch. Paśyaty acakṣuḥ sa. He has got no eyes but He can see."

Then Mahāprabhu says, "Why Śaṅkara said that He has got no eye, no leg, no hand? But He's got eyes, but not eyes like our fleshy eyes, but He has got transcendental eyes. So He has got everything. Apāṇi-pādo javano grahitā, paśyaty acakṣuḥ. Then, Neha nānāsti kiṁcana. [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, part 4, mantra 11 [?] There is no variegatedness, all is one. Śaṅkara takes the oneness and the plurality he's dismissing, but why he should dismiss the plurality, nānā? Why? Because if there's not nānā then why Śaṅkara has come to refute it? It is there, but it is mundane, it is partial." In this way Mahāprabhu catches Śaṅkara. "That he's accepting the revealed truth not wholesale but partially."

Do you follow?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ brahma. "Everything is one, Brahman." Then if there is not everything, then what is the necessity of Śaṅkara to come and to do away with him? There is that, we can't eliminate it if it's not existing, it is there. And also it is not variegated because the unity underlying, the harmonising centre is in the back. So the nānā is there, and the variety is there, and unity also in the background to harmonise them. Both must be accepted fully. Every part of the revealed truth must be accepted. Śaṅkara, according to his whim, according to his provincial necessity, he's accepting something of the Veda and rejecting something.

These are the basics you must be acquainted with and then you'll be able to brush them out.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Then they use the same quote that Prabhupāda used, to prove their point that he's teaching bhakti, they use the same śloka Prabhupāda used, bhaja govinda, *bhaja govinda*_____ [?]
So he's believing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What śloka?

Devotee: *Bhaja govinda, bhaja govinda*_____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaja govinda, his govinda he's a puppet of Śaṅkara, of illusion. That govinda we do not recognise at all. That is because beyond illusion, beyond māyā, nothing remains but that non- differentiated consciousness. That is not reality, that is under the world of misconception, that is māyā.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Śaṅkara's bhaja govinda?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That govinda, that everything, he gives recognition, he after the Buddistic school inundated the whole of India also. And Śaṅkara came to re-establish the Veda, the Hindus, and he had to make compromise with all the sections of different gods. Some were worshipping Gaṇeśa, some Kālī, Durgā, Śiva, Viṣṇu, and they, to conquer, took them all, combined them and told, "Everything is true, but you admit that Brahman is the highest reach. And in this plane you worship everything." So a compromise proposal... Anyhow a proposal was given by Śaṅkara, "That I give recognition to all sorts of worship, but you are to admit that this is all saguṇa and in the nirguṇa is only non-differentiated mass of consciousness, Brahman." In this way he effected a compromise between all the clans of different worshippers of different gods. And he pushed on with his propaganda and successfully driven away the Buddistic influence from India. That he did. And he gave recognition to all sorts of conceptions of all the demigods, and he included Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa also within that. But we say that all conceptions of gods are all from in the sakāma-bhakti, to fulfil our worldly aspirations. But, harir hi nirguṇaḥ sākṣāt, [puruṣaḥ prakṛteḥ paraḥ / sa sarva-dṛg upadraṣṭā, taṁ bhajan nirguṇo bhavet]

["Śrī Hari, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is situated beyond the range of material nature. Therefore He is the Supreme Transcendental Person. He can see everything, inside and outside. Therefore He is the Supreme overseer of all living entities. If someone takes shelter at His lotus feet and worships Him, they also attain a transcendental position."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.88.5]

But Nārāyaṇa is nirguṇa, means guṇātīta. Guṇa means satya, raja, tama, the three conceptions of māyā, that is misunderstanding, wrong estimation of the environment. That is of three kinds, tamasic, rajasic, satvic. And Viṣṇu is said to be the god in the satvic, in the highest plane of misconception. Nārāyaṇa or Viṣṇu. But it is within misconception. And beyond misconception only non-differentiated mass of consciousness, ever.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But our Vaiṣṇava's contention that other gods are within this māyāic conception to fulfil so much necessity of my demand. But harir hi nirguṇaḥ, that is absolute. The waves of that plane are absolute. It is waving the vibration, it is automatic and spontaneous and sweet will. The plane of bhakti, the plane of devotion, that is the nature of centre carrying waves. All waves, all vibrations, are carrying towards the centre. The inner-most foundation of the whole existence is like that, coming from the centre, and going to the centre. The most subtle, that cannot be detectable by the covered prejudiced persons. They're embarrassed and covered by so many local and selfish demands. They're blinded and close their eyes, feelings are enclosed by their selfish necessity.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: How can the eternal sphere be a part of our provincial desire? As you were saying Śaṅkarācārya...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We're to get, wholesale we're to give up our provincial and related necessity and waves coming out of that, to transcend.

And Śaṅkara says, "Only we can see the halo of some other world. And we have no recognition that within that halo there is everything, or the real causal world is there, and this is a perverted reflection in the selfish mirror, of different variety."

All reflection in the selfish mirror of different variety, and different wideness, breadth and thickness. Satya, raja, tama. But the real world is there, and from the absolute consideration, over the real world, the most fine, and that is ahaitukī and apratihatā, the grace automatic, and irresistible. That is nirguṇa, and we're to connect us with that wave, eliminating our over-coating, our self of experience, self of mind, self of judgement, justice, everything. If we dive deep into our soul, at the very most subtle existence of ours can trace, we can trace that is fit for the membership in the world of that fundamental wave, if submissive to them, to that wave, nirguṇa. That is nirguṇa means automatic, ahaitukī, causeless, and apratihatā, can never be resisted, the fundamental wave, that is wave of love. And that is modified with some consideration, viddhi, that is wave of Vaikuṇṭha. The infinite generally Paravyoma, and the biggest part of Paravyoma is spontaneous and it is a loving atmosphere. Everyone contributing, no one drawing from the bank, everyone is giving to the bank. Here everyone is an exploiting agent, and there just the opposite, all contributing agent, no consumer, and here everyone is consumer and no contribution. So just opposite conception there in the world of reality, in Vṛndāvana. Reality the beautiful. Beauty, harmony, that is controlling everything of power. Power is not the ultimate controller, but it is beauty, it is blissfulness, it is harmony, it is love. Love means that everyone is dying, a dying unit. Die to live. And by dying they're living. They're giving anything, everything from them and automatically they're sustained most happily. There is a plane of that type.

Do you follow? Somewhat?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: A little. You mentioned a third stage of knowledge. Is that suṣupti?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suṣupti is the margin. The negative side and positive side, the abscissa. Suṣupti is abscissa, withdrawal from this selfish world, and not entrance into the serving world. Withdrawal from the world of exploitation, but no entrance, no admission into the world of dedication, that is suṣupti.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: So Śaṅkarācārya's concept is higher than that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. He withdraws to the suṣupti, complete withdrawal from this world of exploitation where we cannot thrive. And then entrance into the world of slavery where everyone is a contributor without any selfish consideration. And that is the most happy and desirable world for living in. And there everyone lives in his most pristine and original individual consciousness, that is centre carrying waves are there. And this is all out carrying waves, so many interests of centres, so many centres of interest and all clashing with one another. And there, only one centre of interest for all, and working harmoniously for that, so honey is coming out, sweetness is coming out in the whole atmosphere, all contributing. And here, all exploiting, devouring, in this plane, most objectionable, worthless, and heinous wave, where we are at present. Without exploitation none can retain his existence for a second, just creating disturbance, creating nuisance in this plane of life. And just the opposite there. It is not unreasonable, that everything is bad, and there's no goodness in the world.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: So Śaṅkarācārya's still in the exploiting world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śaṅkarācārya only stopped the negative side, and that is temporary. And no interest, no positive program for him, only negative program, withdrawal, and enter into the positive side, the happy side of the world. And this is unhappy side, mere withdrawal. Buddha and Śaṅkara only they cared for withdrawal. But Rāmānuja, Vaiṣṇava Ācārya, enter, admission, positive something.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: How can we understand that Viṣṇu is a guṇa Avatāra, and Kṛṣṇa is nirguṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guṇa Avatāra, just as guṇa means here, birth and death, in the middle a little trace of sustenance, and that sustenance is supplied from that world, that is Viṣṇu. Viṣṇu is in the other area. But here, birth and death, within that some sort of sustenance is seen, and that sustenance cannot come from this mortality. That has to come from - the ray comes from there, and sustenance in the middle of birth and death, that is destruction, that is the contribution of Viṣṇu. But this is influenced by creation and destruction. Only little, whatever sustenance, that cannot come but from Viṣṇu. This sort of _____ [?] is borrowed from there. That is Viṣṇu satya-guṇa here.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: So even though in Padma-Purāṇa Viṣṇu is telling Śiva to advent to mislead the populace in Kali-yuga so he comes as Śaṅkarācārya, still we can...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There is also a bright side of it. When in a hospital there are many serious diseased persons, to segregate them from amongst the ordinary diseased persons, for segregation, to save the mass, the general patients. Take them away. Give them some sort of temptation, that we're the highest. Take them out, those serious diseased souls, so that ordinary, soft, the mild temperament diseased they will get benefit to culture this bhakti away from those rogues. Something like that.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: So this is the purpose of mundane education?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Lokan madvi mukam koro [?] "You can easily take them away from the soft minded people who want to culture My devotion, groupify."

Where is Purī Mahārāja?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I'm here Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are Doctor, he's also a Doctor. Doctor, Doctor, you meet and discuss. You are Doctor in what subject?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Chemistry.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And you?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Neurobiology.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anything common, Neurobiology and Chemistry?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: They're both Māyās.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Science. Civilisation. They're proud of researching, but what they're proud of coming taking to this world that is already existing there. And in very, very higher department how much their research? So many wonders, full of wonders, everywhere, and a very meagre part they have taken to this life and they're boasting that 'we're masters.' And ultimately what they're doing, according to Newton, they're giving loan to the mass, from the nature, and they'll have to pay off to the farthing this loan, exalting comfort from the nature. And that must be paid to the pi. Reaction. Sosam and sositam, exploitation and to be exploited. That is the very inevitable nature of this world, so it is undesirable to live in such world, unfit for living. We must aspire after a fair land, a fair plane, to have our home.

End of 82.11.12.B

Start of 82.11.13.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and all sections of Rāmānuja. He differed from them, that Kṛṣṇa does not come, Kṛṣṇa is the most original and all others come, emanate from Him.

Devotee: The Āḷvārs were bhaktas, not so much philosophers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, mostly they're devotees. Rāmānuja also a devotee but he's also got recognition as the Avatāra of Lakṣmaṇa, Rāmacandra's brother Lakṣmaṇa, Balarāma, representation of that, he's also said amongst the devotees. Anyhow, they're worshippers of Nārāyaṇa, two and a half rasa.

Devotee: They're nitya-siddha, the Āḷvārs, eternally?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe they're nitya-siddha. We may accept that, nitya-siddha. But their connection with Vaikuṇṭha, two and a half rasa, hemisphere, the lower hemisphere.

Devotee: The stories are so beautiful of the bhakti, the stories of the Āḷvārs are very beautiful. I enjoy hearing them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What touched you there most, what?

Devotee: Vipra Nārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is their peculiarity, what peculiarity is there that touched you so much?

Devotee: Even the bhakta has gone away from Kṛṣṇa to chase māyā, Kṛṣṇa has come and taken and paid for his prostitute, out of love, to show His love for His bhakta. But even His bhakta has turned his back on Him, still He is coming to serve him, Kṛṣṇa is serving the bhakta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow him.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying, just as you have told the story about Viṣṇu Chitha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: O, Viṣṇu Chitha, his name Vipra Nārāyaṇa, another name, maybe.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So that story where Viṣṇu is giving a gold plate from the temple for the prostitute. So he's saying that since the devotee he turned his back on the Lord, but still the Lord is helping him even when he's chasing after māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viṣṇu Chitha took it and presented to the prostitute. The prostitute could not keep it, there was a drum beat that this has been stolen and the prostitute had to give that. Viṣṇu Chitha when he came to know this, then a great reaction came in his mind, and he left everything again and went to his former temple service, joined there. But though he's a pārṣada, he displayed like this to preach the great nobility of the Lord. Grace. Viṣṇu Chitha was a pārṣada, eternal servant. He came to show a particular kind of grace of the Lord to the world.

The Lord is so generous, so magnanimous and He does, He stooped so low to satisfy the devotees lower propensities, comes and takes him up. To set such an example of the great and generous dealings of the Lord with His servants, to show, he came. But really these faults do not touch him, only a play. That we know because Āḷvār means they're pārṣada, they do not have such contamination, they come to play the role of an ordinary devotee so that to encourage them to accept Rangunathan as their Lord. In their lowest, meanest condition also He extends His hand to take up. All these examples shown there, the benevolence of the Lord, but he's really not contaminated.

Devotee: You're saying Āḷvārs are the paraphernalia of Viṣṇu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, when they're pārṣada of Viṣṇu, yes, and they come to play the part here to encourage the people at large. "My Lord is so generous and graceful, gracious, that He comes to show, to take the devotees even from the midst of such things, such mean misbehaviour. So much so that he wants to go to the prostitute, so He supplies the money." Ha ha.

Devotee: Such a friend.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. This may not misguide us, we're to understand, take it properly.

Bhakta ladikal sunya karya karan [?] "You do anything and everything for the sake of Your devotees."

Nimāi: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nimāi says, there is another incident.

A brāhmaṇa placed some, went with a prince for hunting, and though brāhmaṇa he threw an arrow in such a way, to such a place to kill a deer, in such condition that he was punished to become a hunter in his next life. A hunter class, has hunting as his livelihood, brāhmaṇa degraded into that position, but he was a devotee at heart.

Then one Nārāyaṇa-śilā was found where he's killing the animal and selling it, and some weight, a piece of stone that is Śālagrāma, he put as the weighing scale, or something. This side is one kg, or one pound, and the pound, and when dealing with the solid things, one pound of flesh, though that weighing, weight of one pound, something like, that was a Śālagrāma-śilā was used as the weighing piece stone.

One brāhmaṇa came and suddenly found, "What are you doing, you hunter? This is Śālagrāma-śilā, you are using it as a weighing stone, piece of stone, what is this? Then what he'll do, my condition, we'll be doomed, what to do now? Give it to me and I shall cleanse, abhiṣeka, and then I shall begin pūja."

"Yes my lord you do that."

"Let me take all the Śālagrāma for Him." And worshipping got dream, dreams after dreams repeatedly.

"You fool. You have taken Me here to worship. I was very much happy there, I was swinging on the weighing machine of My devotee. I was very much happy there. I was enjoying swinging there and you have taken Me to show your pride that you are a brāhmaṇa and you can worship Me. Just put Me there or you will be finished."

Then again with folded palms the brāhmaṇa came, "Oh, I could not understand who are you, you are in such a form. I am presenting your Śālagrāma, you do as you like. He wants to make līlā with you in such condition. I am not fit. I am so much low in this."

It is also possible for Him for the sake of the devotees. He can stoop so low, come so low to the devotees because He's not to be contaminated, māyā cannot touch Him. In any place He can enjoy thoroughly, wherever He comes, as I told before, the māyā withdraws and the Yogamāyā is surrounding Him everywhere. Not contaminated, as Sītā was not contaminated.

etad īśanam īśasya, prakṛti-stho 'pi tad-guṇaiḥ [na yujyate sadātma-sthair, yathā buddhis tad-āśrayā]

["This is the divinity of the Personality of Godhead: He is not affected by the qualities of material nature, even though He is in contact with them. Similarly, the devotees who have taken shelter of the Lord do not become influenced by the material qualities."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.11.38]

Sambhavāmy ātma-māyayā. In Bhagavad-gītā, [4.6]

[ajo 'pi sann avyayātmā, bhūtānām īśvaro 'pi san prakṛtiṁ svām adhiṣṭhāya, sambhavāmy ātma-māyayā]

["Although My eternal form is transcendental to birth and death, and I am the controller of all beings, I appear within the world in My original form, by My own sweet will, extending My internal potency of Yogamāyā."]

Prakṛtiṁ svām adhiṣṭhāya, sambhavāmy ātma-māyayā. "My own māyā, Yogamāyā, svarūpa-śakti, surrounding Me wherever I go it pushes back this Mahā-Maya, adhiṣṭhāya, pushes it back, it's always surrounding Me wherever I go. It can't touch Me."

Wherever the sun goes the darkness vanishes. Something like that. Whenever the light goes the darkness vanishes, misconception vanishes. He can do anything and everything. He's not under any condition, though sometimes to help us He shows that He's also practising and respecting some rules of śāstric law, but still He's above everything, everything under Him. His presence is the highest purity and He does not want to invite purity from His activity, or anything as such, purity emanates from Him.

Devotee: A book I'm trying to make, I'm trying to get the loving feelings of Kṛṣṇa across to the devotees, to Americans, who're mostly not able to follow four rules and regulations, but if they can just get a feeling of Kṛṣṇa's kindness. _____ [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying, in his book he wants to show the loving dealings of the Lord and His devotees. But the people who will read the book they do not follow the principles of devotion. So will they...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So they will wait for such exceptional provision. I shall try to take that position of that hunter, so low I shall go that He will have to come to draw His attention. I go forward in the lowest plane, it will encourage them.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying, if he can show these loving exchanges of the Lord and His devotees, will not these people who're in such a low position, who do not follow the regulative principles of devotion, be attracted?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So this is not for the general, but it is the show of His intensity of His grace towards the low. But it is not meant to encourage the rogues. The mercy, the special dealing, that is not for all. Before they have received such fortune of this great particular attention of the authority, they had to do much, then they have acquired such. The special dealings, special mercy, and it is not for ordinary people. It is for the devotee of higher type. It has been shown, it is exception, mercy is not for the general, justice is for the general public, but mercy is a special thing, but it is there. If anyone imitates this he will be under.

naitat samācarej jātu manasāpi hy anīśvaraḥ vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād yathā 'rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam

["One who is not a great controller should never imitate the behaviour of ruling personalities, even mentally. If out of foolishness an ordinary person does imitate such behaviour, he will simply destroy himself, just as a person who is not Rudra would destroy himself if he tried to drink an ocean of poison."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.30]

The imitationists will be ruined, will go to imitate and they will be doomed. Vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād yathā 'rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam. If due to misunderstanding, foolishness, anyone comes to imitate he will surely have to die. Proper approach to everything, that will help us, improper approach will ruin us, proper approach.

Devotee: That's why I've come to you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vraja līlā is there.

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ, śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād [atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ, hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa] dhīraḥ

["One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39]

Śraddhānvito, 'nuśṛṇuyād, dhīra. These three qualifications are necessary to approach higher things. Śraddhā, out of regard. Then another, 'nuśṛṇuyād, from a proper source, through proper source you must come in contact with the higher substance. And the third, you must have self control, dhīra, who is not a slave of the senses. Then such careful approach will give you nectar. Otherwise as Śiva he drank poison, but that was ornamental to his throat. But without Śiva anyone goes and drinks the poison he's sure to die.

So Kṛṣṇa līlā, all these things are similar, nectar to some, to the honest approacher, and the imitator, the rogue class, they're doomed by the same thing. The same law protects the honest and suppresses the dishonest, one thing. The proper approach of everything will be like nectar and improper will draw offences, improper approach, that will create fresh offences and to keep us down.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

The honest approacher, they're always saved, and these dishonest designers they're doomed. No diplomacy will have any effect there, rather the simple will conquer. Svaropena gada cit kabideye [?]

arjvavam brahmane saksat [sudro'narjava-laksanah, gautamastv iti vijnaya satya-kamamupanayat]

["Truthfulness is the symptom of a brāhmaṇa, whereas dishonesty is the symptom of a śūdra. Knowing this, Gautama Ṛṣi initiated Satyakama as a brāhmaṇa in recognition of his truthfulness."]
[Chandogya Upaniṣad, Madhva-bhanya, Sama-saṁhitā] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 14.46]

Who is a brāhmaṇa? Who is simple, or non artificial. Artificial-ism, that hypocrisy is suicidal. Straight, simple and heartfelt, all these and they will. Na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. Birds of the same feather flock together. The good can approach the good, and the bad if they come to catch the good they will be deceived.

Devotee: Purī Mahārāja would like to take your leave, he'd like to go now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's starting alone?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I will meet Acyuta Caitanya in Howrah Station.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. He's taking some prasādam?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I have taken, yes. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And a letter we expect after reaching there, send one letter of your sevā album.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Please take care of yourself, and all the Vaiṣṇavas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: I'm curious, what was the destination of Mīrābāī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If her attention comes to appreciate the real servitors of the Lord, sādhu-saṅga, she may be purified. When her ambition, that may be a little pure, but it is ambitious only to give recognition to Kṛṣṇa and undermining His followers, His eternal servitors. But it is unreal, it may be imaginary, crossing so many eternal servitors of different functions she will connect direct with Kṛṣṇa. That is Kṛṣṇa who is present beyond His devotees, all the sections of devotees, she's only touching that and not real Kṛṣṇa with all His paraphernalia, Kṛṣṇa in His real conception. A vague Kṛṣṇa, the lustre of Kṛṣṇa, no particular discrimination about real Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa proper. He's surrounded with different types of eternal servitors, of different intensity. And not to see them, to overlook them, is not to have a proper sight of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa means His family, eternal family, they're also within Kṛṣṇa. Crossing them one insolent person cannot jump to Kṛṣṇa Himself, only through them.

Devotee: What of Kubja, did not Kubja jump?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kubja, that is chance coincidence, not eternal position, an eternal position is also like that. Her gain is not to be compared with that of the gopīs or others, she's rather holding some indirect position.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So in the Vāsudeva conception, Vāsudeva means Kṛṣṇa alone?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mere Vāsudeva, ekala vasudeva, not the son of Vasudeva. Vāsudeva in the sense that everything in Him and He's everywhere, that Vāsudeva.

But her taste, Mīrābāī's taste is not for that Vāsudeva. Her taste is for that Vāsudeva that is that Nandanandan Kṛṣṇa, but she's not very scrutinizingly conscious of Nandana. She wants Vṛndāvana-candra but Vṛndāvana-candra is not approachable by really, vaguely, vague worshipper, but not settled. From a long distance, her connection, not entered into the paraphernalia, in līlā.

Name, then colour of figure, rūpa, then parikar, and then līlā. The gradual approach towards Him, first through sound, the sound God, and then the beautiful God, and then the so many served God, so many serving God, and then the pastimes of the God. Deeper and deeper. What is from far away from the outskirts, is in touch with Kṛṣṇa.

But not that who are in touch with the sun, partly from far off, but with the sun, not with the moon or stars, we're connected with the sun far off. But how much do we know about the sun proper from far connection. So that is also something.

Devotee: What was the position of Sūradāsa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sūradāsa, I don't study much. I was attracted by the instruction of Mahāprabhu mainly and other four Ācāryas. Madhvācārya, Viṣṇusvāmī, Nimbarka, and the recognised sections of the Vaiṣṇava devotees. And though they're outsiders they have got some law of devotion. Not very systematic. We have not studied details. But anything which is in praise of Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa, that is more or less official. But how far, we are to examine it, scrutinizingly, then we can give some opinion. I have not gone through the writings, the advices, instructions of Sūradāsa or Kabīr so much, but roughly they're raw devotionalists, not very particularised, not details.

Jīva Gosvāmī has written that there are many classes of devotees, even devotees of Kṛṣṇa, but as Rūpa and Sanātana has given to us such a devotee we have never found in the history of devotion. What Rūpa and Sanātana has given, it is unprecedented.

anarpita-carīṁ cirāt [karuṇayāvatīrṇaḥ kalau samarpayitum unnatojjvala-rasāṁ sva-bhakti-śriyam hariḥ puraṭa-sundara-dyuti-kadamba-sandīpitaḥ sadā hṛdaya-kandare sphuratu vaḥ śacī-nandanaḥ]

["May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacī Devī, be transcendentally situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4]

Was not given to the world before. Such a degree of devotion unknown to the world ever.

If you quote something from Sūradāsa, or some instruction from Kabīr I can analyse that, in the light of the gift of Rūpa and Sanātana. What will be the valuation of that I can try to make out. I have not gone through that.

Devotee: I just want to make comparison...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When you will incite something, then I may give some opinion that this position is here and not there, that I can say somewhat. I know my own boundary, the acquaintance of my own property, to certain extent, but I do not know what is possessed by so many others. Land, property, something, my own father's property, I keep some information about my father's property, something like that. I have not surveyed all the properties in the world. But at the same time I'm proud about the dignity and value of my father's property. I can compare with that this is the most efficient and most productive. I can make statement about that to certain extent.

Devotee: One thing has always disturbed me about Islam and Hinduism, or Islam and the Vaiṣṇavas, they're so bent on destroying Vaiṣṇavism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: Muslims.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Muslims. Yes, they're intolerant, though some sort of theistic conception behind them. But this attacking, that is a brutal thing, attacking others cannot be accepted as a part of religious conception.

Devotee: Are they not taking justification from their Koran?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't know whether Koran has provided for such heinous action. Because this human life is very valuable.

The defect of the Christianity and the Muslim theory is here, there's no transmigration of the soul. Different births of the soul have no recognition there, that is one defect. Another, that without human beings, the animals and the trees, they have got no soul, no personality, no individual position.

But the Hinduism and the Vedic religion has got greatest accommodative nature, trees, creatures, stones, there is also life, there is personality covered with thick ignorance. Birth and rebirth, and by the bad karma one will have to go to be a tree, to be a creature, to be a stone. But life is there within and within the life there is individual consciousness, that is buried under the stony materials. So human life has been considered to be the most valuable period of the eternal soul that are suffering from māyā, misunderstanding, because from here we can have a free choice. In other positions whether higher or lower, more or less they're enjoying and suffering the fruit of their past karma.

And so Jīva Gosvāmī says, "The lower creation, they're thickly coated with ignorance, not able to take any initiative for their own, they're forced to suffer from their previous bad karma. No possibility of taking any new choice. And in the higher creation, the gods, they're also so much absorbed in their enjoyment. These are covered by thick layer, buried under suffering, and they are also buried under enjoyment. Only the balance is in the human section. They can have free choice for their future life. So this is the most valuable life, human life. And if it is killed, finished, then of course his chance gone, in the name of religion."

There is dharma yudya [?] Also in the Gītā according to the stages. Those that won't take the council, the good instruction, and they're opposing, they're coming to kill us, and they may be killed.

_____ śāstra vani danavaha putra dari harita sati _____ ata bali balavanam [?]

"Those that are approaching Me with some most mischievous dreadful attack, he may be killed, effaced, removed totally, done away with."

But it depends on the stage of the progressing soul, in different stages one will.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has said that, "After hearing Bhagavad-gītā instructions Arjuna went to fight. But if Uddhava was there he would not have gone to fight, though a kṣatriya, he would have gone to Badarikāśrama."

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ [śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

He would have gone, the Uddhava. Arjuna went to fight again after hearing the whole of Bhagavad-gītā. But if Uddhava had been there, the Gītā gave him impetus to go away to jungle and serve Krsna. According to the different cases the application is different.

Devotee: We accept Madhvācārya, but they do not hold...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not all, whole, as it is, partial. Madhvācārya says that the gopīs were all apsarās, heavenly prostitutes. We're not one with him in that, we rather hate it. If we adore the opinion of Mahāprabhu, we can realize it, we can revere love, the representation of Vṛndāvana as given by Mahāprabhu, then we can't tolerate to hear. Though it is mentioned in the scriptures that has been explained that such fortunate section of āveśa, they were absorbed there. Just as Drona was absorbed in Nanda, and similarly, but really they are not so. Those that were prostitutes they became most favourite of Kṛṣṇa. The Kṛṣṇa's favour is so much easy to get? Ha. Then what is the position of Kṛṣṇa if, and what Uddhava says, "If I get the touch of the feet dust of the gopīs on my head, then I want to be a creeper." How, the valuation goes where, the valuation of the position of the gopīs, with the saying of Uddhava. And Uddhava's position come direct from Kṛṣṇa, "That you are the highest of all My devotees." And that Uddhava says, "That I shall consider myself fortunate if I get the feet dust of the gopīs." Are they prostitutes of the heaven?

Devotee: Why is there such reference?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Reference in so-called scriptures and that has been harmonised in this way by the higher thinkers. Anyhow they come, just as a ghost comes to a human being, samabeśa, something like tendency, particular.

Māyā Sītā, something like, you see māyā Sītā was accepted. And the service of real Sītā, and the service of māyā Sītā, how far? What is the difference between Sītā real and the Sītā māyā, what is the difference? Māyā is also doing some service in the whole. So in that sense one who giving the punishment, and when I awake from the stage of punishment, then I may show my gratitude to the punisher. "You punished me so much...

End of 82.11.13.C

Start of 82.11.13.D_82.11.14.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that was a great boon to me, and I could leave my bad habits, and I'm so great now." Gratitude to a good teacher who punished severely a student. It may be connected like that, gratitude to Māyā Sītā.

It is in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Dhāma-māhātmya. The Māyā Devī, there is Sīmantadwīpa, the Sīmantadwīpa is Durgā. Durgā is complaining to Gaurāṅga Deva. "People say that where there's Sun there's no darkness. Where there's Kṛṣṇa there's no māyā. And I'm māyā so I'm disconnected from You my Lord. Then how can I live?"

"No, no. You are also doing some service. You're connected with Me. Don't be aggrieved." Consolation came from the highest authority. "You're also connected, but little far off. But I'm everywhere. I'm with you also. Don't be afraid."

Consolation, but still the gradation is there.

Devotee: Questions arising in this connection. Should I raise those questions?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Everything is connected with the Supreme Reality, with the Godhead, the Supra-mundane, above mundane is transcendental. So when God is coming to exclude something, ultimately that is considered to be the aprākṛta līlā...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everywhere there is gradation, but there is degree, intensity.

Devotee: But it's on the plane of ultimate reality Mahārāja. Whenever everything is considered...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Perfect reality, what do you mean by perfect? Perfect, if we're to say, only who is in the side of Rādhārāṇī. And when comes in the side of gopīs, a little less. In this way the gradation comes to the extreme.

Devotee: Yes. The nirguṇa plane is not the plane of aprākṛta līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the nirguṇa plane is not one and the same everywhere. There is also intensity. Otherwise how we're to explain the gradation in Vaikuṇṭha? Vaikuṇṭha is generally nirguṇa, but in nirguṇa according to intensity there is degree of nirguṇa.

Devotee: I mean that in the perfect plane of reality, on the whole, not scrutinizingly, so when ultimately everything is considered as pastimes...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nirguṇa begins from Brahmaloka, nirguṇa begins from Virajā also we can say, nirguṇa, the verge. Then Brahmaloka, stage by stage, nirguṇa is liberating up to Vaikuṇṭha. Then up to Goloka, then Vṛndāvana. Vṛndāvana also different sections, nirguṇa, the development is all through.

Devotee: But what is considered to be the positive pastimes of Godhead? What is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The positive also there is degree.

Devotee: So that is līlā Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Līlā, that is also to be measured by intensity.

Devotee: And that is on the transcendental plane, on the nirguṇa plane...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nirguṇa plane, nirguṇa maybe. The area of Sun, the intensity of light is not always equal.

Devotee: So when God is coming down to this mundane level, that is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The density of darkness can be measured when light also can be measured. Both light and darkness, everything submits to measurement. There is degree. And the coldness and the heat, heat general and cold, but there is also degree, everywhere there is degree. Acintya bhedābheda, pure acintya bhedā, the degree, the measurement.

Devotee: I don't think I can submit to that theory Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Measurement is generally the characteristic of this māyāic world. But even measurement is possible in the infinite. Though infinite, there is also measurement there, we're told. Because the gradation in the conception of the Lord.

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja, my question is, when God is coming down to this mundane level it is no more mundane, it's transcendental then.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So which is transcendental?

Devotee: When God is, whatever is connected with the God.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no. In Śiśupāla's position...

Devotee: Māyā Devī's position...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Māyā Devī and so many things...

Devotee: It is negative connection...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very near to God but still far from God. Physically may be near to God. We can see a physical body we can see, and then physical other things very near, but they're far off in the measurement of quality.

Devotee: But where there is positive connection...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Positive connection, there is also intense and less intense connection. Why do you eliminate that? Degree of intensity, why do you eliminate?

Devotee: No. Just to make difference between this mundane...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikuṇṭhe, yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā / mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti, [tatra tiṣṭhāmi nārada]

[The Lord Himself says: "O, Nārada, wherever My devotees sing My praises I cannot but be present there."] [Within the purports of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.2.41 & 4.30.35]

What is the meaning? That He does not sit at all in the heart of the yogī? The question of intensity.

"I'm everywhere, nowhere. And I'm partly here, and I'm there in more degree. I'm in highest degree there."

Why do you ignore this?

Devotee: Is there any clear difference Mahārāja between mundane and supra-mundane?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In mundane also there is degree of mundanity, intensity of māyā and then less māyā. Māyābhāsa. Everywhere there is question of degree.

Devotee: But my point is this Mahārāja. When God is coming, with the connection of the mundane world, God is connected with the mundane world, it is no more mundane, it is transcendental, is it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say, mundane? Sun rise, but Sun's near heat in the nearness of Sun and far off, that is equal? God is coming, what do you mean, coming to whom? The flesh is coming to the flesh? Hearing is coming to the hearer? That is the conception of God? He's coming very near to you. You won't recognise Him as God. What is this? God's coming means what? He has come to you. Caitanya Deva came. Kṛṣṇa came. But how many could recognise Him as Kṛṣṇa? And if they do not recognise then their bodily conception, nearness, that will be the criterion? This is all māyā. In the real calculation there is far off calculation. And the apparent vibration they're very near. This māyāic calculation very near, and real calculation far off.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I've heard a devotee apparently seems to be fallen down, that Kṛṣṇa's coming to rescue that devotee. Actually really he's not fallen...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa also seen to come down. Rāmacandra weeping for His wife. What is this? This is māyā. What about devotee?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is show, to encourage people to some sort of duty.

Devotee: Is it māyā above adhokṣaja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is adhokṣaja. We cannot detect the whole thing. It is all play to us, a show, but according to our position we can get some instruction from those examples.

Devotee: I wanted to mean that Mahārāja, actually, that these līlās always nirguṇa or...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nirguṇa and gradation. All cannot get same and similar instruction. Different section receives different instructions from one līlā. Kṛṣṇa entering into the retina of Kaṁsa.

mallānām aśanir nṛṇāṁ naravaraḥ strīṇāṁ smaro mūrttimān

["O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cowherds men; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kaṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇis - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.43.17]

Different sections are seeing Him in different colours, different ways, but one and the same thing. He controls...

Devotee: Yes. Originally it is nirguṇa. The līlā of Rāmacandra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nirguṇa, and what guṇa is being apparently emanating from Him, that depends on the appreciating party of different sections. Some appreciating Him as this, some in another way, according to their own spectacle. And He controls how He will reveal Himself to one and another section, individual or a group, how He will reveal Himself. He's controlling the key. The key is in His hand, how He will express Himself, to whom. The key is within His hand. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

Yam evaiṣa vṛnute, and tasyaiṣa vṛnute. Whom and how, both, tena labhya. He gets conception of Him, and He and how He is, both types, and many other types. Gaura Hari.

Bhargava: There's one point about reincarnation that I have trouble understanding. How does a soul benefit by being in the ignorance of an animal body? How can it learn anything?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying, in transmigration of the soul, how is being in the body of an animal helpful to the soul to go upwards?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When they're handled by the agents of the Lord in any way, the agents, the carriers of truth, come to utilise them in any way, that ajñāta-sukṛti begins there. That accumulated then gets some initiative in higher stage. When a man is, due to accident, a man unconscious fallen in the street, he cannot help the doctor. The outsider comes and takes care, then gets some consciousness back, then he can cooperate with the doctor and nurse. "I'm feeling such pain, such pain." It will help in this way. Something like that. In unconscious stage only outside help may help me to get my consciousness to cooperate. Outside. And that help comes from the benevolent section that is from the God's side, devotee persons, they come to help an unconscious man. A stony-fied soul cannot assert himself in any way. Just as a great offender he's kept in a cell, and under ball and chain, so they're in chains, so culprit. But help can come to them from outside. Benevolent persons, they use them, the stone may be used for the purpose of service in any way. The tree may be used as to serve the mahā prasādam to boil the mahā prasādam the stone is used. The soul of the tree is benefited thereby. In this way. Purposely used for the service of the Lord, in this way the sukṛti gradually develops in him and takes up. They cannot take initiative, but others help comes to rescue at that stage.

Bhargava: But if one in mundane society commits a crime, he's put in jail, he must suffer in jail, but he can think about what he has done. And then he can see...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not always, not in all cases. Some revolts for greater revenge comes out, from the jail comes out with greater revenge. There are such sections also. But some sober, good section, they get some awakening, 'that I have done wrong.' A particular section. But some section again repeats it, and there's another section that punishment is final, not again to go to commit. Different stages will give different results.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So they call this rehabilitation. That the punishment should bring about some good. So he's saying, how does the soul going into the body of an animal...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And punishment, how?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: How the soul going into the body of an animal, how will that bring about good for that soul? If he cannot think...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is because by suffering the previous karma that diminishes by suffering, and gradually he comes to be purified.

Bhargava: It makes him more humble.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Humble, but the connection with Kṛṣṇa will be superior. That can come only by the handling of the devotees, the agents of that world. But ordinary purification from tama guṇa, raja guṇa, satya guṇa, that in course of time comes, gradually here. This, in the misunderstood world there is satya guna, raja guṇa, tama guṇa, but in cyclic order. When up, they're robbing the lower, and incurring debt, loan. And to clear the loan they have to go down. And then the, loan giver they extracts, the money lender extracts the money, and then I'm out of loan and go high. And again go up, but as much as I go up I enjoy, I exploit others. Without exploitation no existence is possible in this māyāic world. I have to exploit, and exploit means to make loan, to whom we exploit. Then we have to go down, and they get chance of exploiting me. In this exploitation I'm to clear the debt. We're rolling, going up, down, in this. But to go out of this vicious circle of exploitation, that requires that some help will come from the world of dedication to me and take my soul up there, from this mental colour prejudice. That is sukṛti. So much.

Any other short question from you? No. Then we are to close this class now. Two and a half hours I have given.

Bhargava: I can ask maybe tomorrow, if you...

Devotees: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is also, maybe desirable from the higher sections. Do you understand my point?

Devotee: No. I'm sorry. I did not understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like Darwin theory, suppose if to compare the history in general, we begin from monkey, gorilla. What do you think?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Alexanda, Hannibal, Napoleon, Julius Caesar, you're writing history about them. And you're placing some gorilla, some monkey in the list, and begin comparison from there. Then how it will show to the normal thinking man, that he's mixing with whom? The connection from whom? The Darwin theory, it will be always from fossil everything is coming, evolution, in that Darwin theory.

Devotee: So you think I might be saying...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In darkness and light will depend, and the criticism will be realistic meeting, basis. And it is desirable that comparison among the nearer purity. What is the standard of purity, the standard of theistic conception must be there.

Even we do not find theism in atheist Buddha, just as Epicurus, Mill, Hume, they're atheist. But if you draw, if you come to Christ and begin from Hume and Mill, Epicurus, it will be something like that.

Some say that we have recognition only for Holy Name. But what is the standard of holiness? Without thinking of God can anyone be holy? No recognition of God, but only of liberation, and only of worshipping so many saints based on morality. No existence of God accepted. What is there? All rubbish. Or there is no conception, no acceptance that God is there, all rubbish. And to take them in the same, in the mere comparison with the theistic, that will be offensive.

Bhargava: No. I did not plan that. It was just the Vaiṣṇavas, only Vaiṣṇavas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vaiṣṇava also, saguṇa and nirguṇa, two sections. The Śaṅkara and others they also worship Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa. There are so many. But one of Kālī, one of Śiva, like that. They're not proper Vaiṣṇavas. All coming and going. And Viṣṇu is nirguṇa. Nirguṇa means - like Hegel said, "He's by Itself and for Itself." These two criterion must be there. He's by Itself. None has produced Him. And He's for Himself. He does not exist to fulfil, to satisfy another entity. That is Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa. And who was born, who was created, and who has got death, finished, they should not come in this jurisdiction, that concocted Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, so many concocted Vaiṣṇava there. Everything imagination. Imagination means misconception finishes, nothing remains. What is the value of that Vaiṣṇavism?

Bhargava: Yes. There is one man in America, he's worshipping Rāma, but he says...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāma is also like that. Rāma saguṇa, that Rāma is created, Rāma is finished.

Bhargava: He's saying like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eternal. None created. Ever existing. And the most important figure is He's for Himself. He's not to satisfy any other entity. Everything for Him. He's the only enjoyer. That is līlā. Ahaitukī, apratihatā. Bhakti, bhakta. Bhagavān. Ahaitukī, causeless, and apratihatā, irresistible. Causeless existence and irresistible vibration, movement. That is nirguṇa. And temporary production, that cannot be nirguṇa. This is concoction, this is misconception, partial conception, shallow conception, superficial conception of the truth. Rather, misconception, misunderstanding.

So you are to understand first the difference between what is theism, what is atheism, and the development of different forms of atheism and different instalments of theism. Otherwise you will handle, the people will say, "Oh, it's a very good book." But the ultimate result, the reaction in you, all the applause of the ordinary foolish people, they'll have reaction in you, your soul. To every action there's equal and opposite reaction. With a false philosophy you will help their misguidance, you'll be responsible for that. With this risk go on with your campaign.

Bhargava: I'm afraid. That's why I come here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you are to know it yourself, what is what. To know what is what, it is not a very cheap thing.

Bhargava: I want them to feel affection for Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Sanatana krsna prema nilokena haya [?] Mahāprabhu says, "In this human race it never comes generally." Nilokena haya. And one drop can inundate the whole universe, it is such. Eka-bindu jagat ḍubāya [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 15.19] The conception of such thing. One drop is sufficient to inundate, over-flood the whole creation. Kṛṣṇa prema, the divine love of Kṛṣṇa is such, and never to be found in this human section in the universe. It is so valuable and so precious and not to be found anywhere and everywhere. How to get that? And then when He has given the inspiration, "Go and speak about Me," then we can do it, because He will give supply from background. When such inspiration we shall get, "That speak about Me. Give Me to the world," then He'll be at that background, caitya Guru, and he'll push things to me.

ei grantha lekhāya more 'madana-mohana' [āmāra likhana yena śukera paṭhana]

["Actually Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta is not my writing but the dictation of Śrī Madana-mohana. My writing is like the repetition of a parrot."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.78]

Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī was urging, "I'm not writing, but someone is making me an instrument to write."

Sanātana Goswāmī said, "Who am I? I'm describing about the harem of Kṛṣṇa, Dvārakā Mahishi. This Mahhishi is such, that Mahishi is such. This Queen is of this temperament, that Queen of that temperament, these comparisons. Who am I? A trespasser, into the harem of Kṛṣṇa I want to describe about the different mentality of the Queens of Kṛṣṇa? But someone is forcibly holding the pen and forcing me to write. I'm a mere instrument."

Such writing, they're healthy, they will help the people, and they will deliver the sinners, otherwise, tad-vāg-visargo janatāgha-viplavo [yasmin prati-ślokam abaddhavaty api nāmāny anantasya yaśo 'ṅkitāni yat, śṛṇvanti gāyanti gṛṇanti sādhavaḥ]

["On the other hand, that literature which is full of descriptions of the transcendental glories of the name, fame, forms, pastimes, etc., of the unlimited Supreme Lord is a different creation, full of transcendental words directed toward bringing about a revolution in the impious lives of this world's misdirected civilization. Such transcendental literatures, even though imperfectly composed, are heard, sung and accepted by purified men who are thoroughly honest."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.11]

When Devarṣi Nārada came to Badarikāśrama to give the impression for the writing of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam then ten ślokas given by Nārada, there he mentions, na yad vacaś citra-padaṁ harer yaśo, jagat-pavitraṁ [pragṛṇīta karhicit tad vāyasaṁ tīrtham uśanti mānasā, na yatra haṁsā niramanty uśik-kṣayāḥ]

["Those words which do not describe the glories of the Lord, who alone can sanctify the atmosphere of the whole universe, are considered by saintly persons to be like unto a place of pilgrimage for crows. Since the all-perfect persons are inhabitants of the transcendental abode, they do not derive any pleasure there."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.10]

However ornamental the writing may be, but if Kṛṣṇa is not present there, all rubbish. And if Kṛṣṇa is there, and the ornamental language may not be there, still it can give us vitality for the higher improvement of life. Eliminate what is bad. What is God, what is non God, what is theism proper, what is atheism. Even in the garb of theism, atheism has been supplied by many of the so-called stalwart Ācārya, leaders of the religious world. We are to know, to discriminate, what is what, and then when you get some inspiration you go on.

A particle of that infinite nectar that will suffice, as I told from Mahāprabhu. Only one drop can inundate the whole, how Swāmī Mahārāja did. No backing, no money, nothing of the kind. He went only, heart within, God overhead, he landed on American soil, and everything came to help him. Hare Kṛṣṇa. With a pure heart which is exclusively devoted for Kṛṣṇa, to spread Kṛṣṇa's mercy to the world. Only ten years. Wonder of wonder what has been done through him. Not a human beings work.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Exclusive devotion, eliminative. Here the world is full of rubbish knowledge, to eliminate that thing.

bahūnāṁ janmanām ante, jñānavān māṁ prapadyate
vāsudevaḥ sarvam iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

["After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

"So many genius, after _____ [?] birth and death, those religious genius, that is they come to realise My position, who I am really." Kṛṣṇa says. "And when they can find Me - before, we're a part of that ultimate reality. We're not small thing. That was their pride. We're also a part, a spark, of the Sun. They're not to be rejected. This sort of egoistic pride captured them."

But when, bahūnāṁ janmanām, but when they can have a touch of reality then their head is bound. Oh, infinite, an infinitesimal small drop, how that great infinite. Surrender, no other alternative but surrendering the whole to Him. By His grace when He reveals Himself, that Puruṣottama, Vāsudeva, then all the proud calculationists, the philosophers, or so many scholars, they bow down their head. Unknown and un- knowable. Only to be known by His grace, His mercy, His good will. No other capital left this side to know Him by which we can describe Him and give it to the world. Not a thing of that type - I shall take and distribute. Only be instrumental to Him. You can be only, you can be used by Him. You can't go to use Him to suit your purpose. Not a commodity of the market. Surrender, and then you will have according to degree of your surrendering. And then no independent work. Then He will appoint you, attach you duty, 'do this.' And that sort of work we'll begin. That is service. Inspiration will come from that centre. You are His. You are not an independent entity. His slave. And detached from that dignified slavery, there's the rub. He's for Himself and everything is instrumental for His action, His līlā. That is normal position, otherwise all diseased position. That is healthy position, to become instrument cent per cent at His hand. That is what Bhāgavata says. Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ.

[dharmaḥ projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ
vedyaṁ vāstavam atra vastu śivadaṁ tāpa-trayonmūlanam śrīmad-bhāgavate mahā-muni-kṛte kiṁ vā parair īśvaraḥ sadyo hṛdy avarudhyate 'tra kṛtibhiḥ śuśrūṣubhis tat-kṣaṇāt]

["Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata-Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

A little jealousy, if you do not accept such creed you have certainly some sort of jealousy in you. You cannot tolerate the autocracy of the Absolute Good. So something wrong in you, something wrong in me, so long as I cannot tolerate the autocracy of the Absolute Good. According to His sweet will He spread Himself and then goodness will be distributed to every corner of the world. And whenever one goes to limit it he's of demonic state. Cent percent submission, surrender, then He will come.

Yam evaiṣa vṛnute - na medhayā na bahunā śrutena. Neither by scholarship or by extraordinary memory we can capture Him and give it to others. Nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo. Not by oratory or by poetry, a big poet, epic maker. All these are no qualifications to give it to the world. Nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena. Extensive study, all combined not up to mark, to know Him. Only - all rights reserved - only to whom He wants to make Himself known, and to particular extent, and he will know Him to that extent. He's free in all respects, _____ [?] with Him. All other, misconception, plodding in the misconceived world in different stages.

This is nirguṇa. After proper liberation we can come in touch with that world, can catch the waves, can read the waves of that fundamental substance. Otherwise unknown and unknowable. Finite cannot know infinite. Infinite can make Himself known to finite. That is our solace. So we're to follow a particular path to make us qualified according to His agents. Then to come in touch, then patiently under the direction of those agents we're to advance, go home, go forward. Praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā.

Intellectual approach is no real approach in that transcendental area. Intellect has nothing to do. His sweet will. If He comes down I can, "Oh, this is such." Wonderfully I shall have to have a conception. "Oh, it is such." When He comes to reveal to me, wonder, wonder.

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

It is told about the jīva soul, the jīvātmā, he's so wonderful. What about Paramātmā and Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa. They're all mystic of the mystic of the mystic of the mystic. Most mystic. Gaura Hari bol.

Kleśa-ghnī. Rūpa Goswāmī says, as inspired by Śrī Caitanyadeva. Kleśa-ghnī. The first result, one who gives himself rightly towards Kṛṣṇa, kleśa-ghnī, the bhakti, the devotion proper. The first thing, kleśa-ghnī, all sorts of affliction will go away. Śubhadā, then the auspicious, the goodness will come into vision. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. The third stage, leaving the salvation, the emancipation, will be seen to be of very small value, mere emancipation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...then some of the slaves say, "No we don't want liberation, we feel well as we are." Just the opposite thing, the slavery, they don't want to get out of the slavery. So human slavery, it is bad, but slavery to that Beauty, Reality the Beautiful. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā.

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

After mukti also it is not easily attainable, after liberation from the misconception, then also it is hard to have Him, or Her, or anything. Bhakti, sudurllabhā sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā. A furthest touch will make you fulfilled with high pleasure, ecstatic ecstasy. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā. The devotion proper is this, last effect you will draw Kṛṣṇa to your heart, that bhakti, bhakti is of such quality, bhakti, Kṛṣṇa śakti, sevā, sevā, mudar [?] Earnest hankering, exclusive hankering for Him, exclusive hankering, infinite hankering for Him, that can draw Him to you, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, this is bhakti, devotion proper.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, how does one become exclusively desiring Kṛṣṇa when other desires are bombarding the living entity, material desires are coming, what to do? One knows the highest...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is to go in the positive then the negative will be far away. The positive, as much as we can make progress towards the positive, automatically the negative will have to withdraw, to go away. Sādhu-saṅga, sādhu-śāstra, no other thing, only the simple thing, our association with the sādhu. Association means with the sādhu that is with sevonmukhe, surrendering to the positive then the negative automatically withdraws. As much as degree of surrender, confidence what the sādhu and śāstra says. The comparison, the Vaikuṇṭha, bhakti, Nārāyaṇa, Rāmacandra, Dvārakesh, Vṛndāvana. Earnest prayer.

viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti
[nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena]

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."]
[Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 118]

"Oh the Lord of the poor, poorest of the poor. Dīnabandho dayāṁ vā. You are friend of the fallen, O friend of the fallen, You may do anything, may make or mar. I have got no other alternative but to want Your grace. Everything is tasteless my Lord. Please accept me, give me some sort of menial service to Your holy feet," The earnest deep prayer towards Him. No other alternative like cātaka bird, they never take any water, however pure, which has fallen on the earth, but only the drop from the sky..... "a drop of water, a drop of water." But the water may also come profusely from the sky, and thunder also may come to finish him, but no other alternative, either thunder or profuse water. "No other alternative but to pray for a drop of Your grace."

He's infinite, a drop nothing and it may save the whole world, and no other. That śaraṇāgati, that hankering, surrendering and hankering, and in that we can get grace, help from the associates of Him. They're our friends. In their association the hankering may be increased.

[śrīmad-bhāgavatārthānām āsvādo rasikaiḥ saha]
sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya, 22.131] & [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91]

Always of the same line, sādhu in the same line, and superior to myself. In sādhu-saṅga it has been recommended that in the same line, of the same type, of hankering, aspiration. At least holding some superior position, there I shall try to throw myself at his disposal. That will help me to the greatest extent.

The life is rare and it is transient. Any moment I may go, any moment I may be finished, and this chance may not recur again, this human, this atmosphere may not. So try to perceive, conceive the position, that valuable position of the present time, this may not come again.

So this point, and Śukadeva Goswāmī says to Parīkṣit, "One week, that is enough, wonderful thing."

"I have only one weeks life, then I will be finished. In this short time please give me some instruction that I may be saved. Oh, one weeks time is enough. Wonderful thing."

"We have passed so many, so much time from time immemorial we are having our life but not utilized. But if properly utilized one second is sufficient Mahārāja, such is the thing, so try to utilize the point at your disposal in the moment." Varaṁ muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ.

[kiṁ pramattasya bahubhir, parokṣair hāyanair iha varaṁ muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate śreyase yataḥ]

["Imperceptibly, many, many years pass uselessly in the life of a person intoxicated by mundane pleasures. Better if only for a moment he realises that he is losing valuable time, for he may thus become serious to attain his eternal benefit."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.12]

There are so many mountains, so many trees, long life, long, long life, what of that? Unmindful, inattentive to ones own interest, long, long life no value. But only properly understood one moment properly utilized it will produce immense crops, good result. Muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate śreyase.

The example of Khaṭvāṅga Mahārāja, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.9.42] only one that had asked the gods, "Will you tell me how long I'm to live?"

"Only one moment."

"Then you all go. You cannot give me my desired result. Who can do? Nārāyaṇa can only, fulfil, then you all go." He engaged himself wholly in Nārāyaṇa and surrendered to His holy feet and he achieved his desired result.

Śukadeva is giving this example. "We must be particular of our valuable present moment."

Act, act in the living but trust no future, however pleasant. Let the dead past bury its dead. Act, act in the living present with heart within and God overhead. [Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-82, U.S. poet]

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana
[mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāgava: I am very much afraid to write, because I see...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Afraid, pray to the higher entity.

Bhāgava: I'm having so many material desires. But at the same time I see when I go out and I speak to people about Kṛṣṇa, and sweetness of Kṛṣṇa, how much they're enjoying, so I'm thinking even though I have no qualification...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

bhārata-bhūmite haila manuṣya-janma yāra, janma sārthaka kari' kara para-upakāra

["One who has taken his birth as a human being in the land of India should make his life successful and work for the benefit of all other people."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 9.41]

Yes it is laudable that you want to do good to others, but before that you properly try to understand what is good, then you distribute. It is very good to treat a patient but you must know at least what is treatment, then go, it is beneficial. Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] One who is not properly adjusted, how will he venture to adjust others? Know what is adjustment proper, where is my place in the adjustment, in the absolute adjustment, and then it will say what is your duty.

In the time of the second great-war, the riders [?] building, a soldiers dress was posted, engraved, and just below it is written "Just put on this dress of the soldier and the dress will say to you what to do, what will be your duty."

So first adjustment, we must have our proper position and then the insinuation will come what is my duty. What is known as sambandha-jñāna. To know who are you and then abhidheya, and what is my end, and how to attain that end. This will be proper energising otherwise anyone can do anything and he'll be reaping the results of his deeds. So first sambandha-jñāna, who am I? Where am I? And what I should be? What I am? What I should be? What should be my position? And from there, then that environment will say, "This is your duty", and I shall have to do that. Not that I shall be an Alexander, I shall be a Hanumān, like that.

If you want cowboy, with the company of Kṛṣṇa, it will think that it is so happy to become a cowboy, duty of a cowboy. Rabindranath Tagore has got one song, I heard from someone, "That I don't want to be a famous leader of the country, but rather I want to be a cowboy in Vṛndāvana in the jungle. That is very happy to me than to be a famous leader of the world. I don't want the glory of being a great leader of the world, but a simple thing, a cowboy under the guidance of Kṛṣṇa, very friendly."

Something, the ghost of ambition may leave you. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. But as long, and it is also possible one where his real place, he will dedicate his activities and approach, according to his stage, it is also, maybe, but as a lower stage.

yataḥ pravṛttir bhūtānāṁ, yena sarvam idaṁ tatam svakarmaṇā tam abhyarcya, siddhiṁ vindati mānavaḥ

["A man achieves perfection by the performance of the appropriate duties prescribed for him according to his qualification. By the execution of his duties, he worships the Supreme Lord from whom the generation and impetus of all beings arises, and who permeates and pervades this entire universe (exercising His Supreme qualification of Lordship over one and all)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.46]

By the result of my past karma, I'm floated somewhere, and something I'm finding around me and to try to give that towards the Infinite I may make progress to Him, from my lower position. So, yat karoṣi yad aśnāsi, yaj [juhoṣi dadāsi yat / yat tapasyasi kaunteya, tat kuruṣva mad arpaṇam]

["O son of Kuntī, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you offer in sacrifice, whatever you offer in charity, and whatever austere vows you may keep - do everything as an offering unto Me."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 9.27]

"Whatever you do, whatever you eat, everything connect with Me and go on."

That is also a position according to ones present position, he may begin who cannot understand the high things, but,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Last śloka, and one Bāl Gaṅgādhar Tilak he has written in his note [in his commentary of Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] that in the last śloka, Bhagavān Kṛṣṇacandra, in a golden pot He has served nectar.

"Where ever you are, leave your duty, your position, place of duty, immediately come to Me. Everything will be fulfilled, the whole fulfilment will come to you. If you come to Me the whole fulfilment of your life will come to you. But it does not matter at present where you are posted, it matters little. You may be a soldier, you may be a priest, you may be a dacoit, anyone, but if you leave your position and come to My feet, your aspiration will be perfectly fulfilled." The clarion call in the last of Bhagavad-gītā.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

The call of Gaurāṅga, call of Gaurāṅga. With flood of tears appealing to the people, Mahāprabhu dancing appealing to the people. Apan gada mala [?] When He will take sannyāsa, the previous evening, devotees do not know He's going, He's leaving Navadwīpa for all. But naturally He attracted many of the devotees to come for the last time. And unconsciously they flocked, many devotees crowded there, and everyone taking a garland, and the garland He's putting to His devotees, what is offered to Him, taking off and putting on the devotees. Apan gada mala _____[?]

"You My friends, this garland friends, take the name of Kṛṣṇa in eating, in sleeping, in doing, where ever you are take the name of Kṛṣṇa. This is My last, My earnest entreat to you all. Take the name of Kṛṣṇa. Whatever you are engaged in it does not matter. Take the name of Kṛṣṇa, My last appeal to you all.

Apan gada mala _____[?] Eating, sleeping, or waking, every time try to utilize taking the name of Kṛṣṇa, anyhow try, utmost, to come to Kṛṣṇa, this is My heartfelt appeal to you My friends, no other."

Our Guru Mahārāja also told, "Don't delay, a little delay I am making, why? There's a fire, I extinguish the fire and come. No, no, no, no necessity of extinguishing the fire, the fire may burn the whole world, it does not make any harm to you, the smallest harm to you. Rather you will be saved if the burned world gets out of your mind. All your inner necessities in the holy feet of Kṛṣṇa, none can satisfy your inner hankering but Kṛṣṇa. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. All the rasa you are aspiring after, whole is His holy feet. And all this world let them be dissolved to zero, can't, you are not affected at all. You will be saved from this misconceived world. If it is gold, vanishes, burn to ashes you will be saved, but it is not so easy to burn the world of your present enjoying concept to ashes. It is very hard to burn this world to the finish, it is catching you like witch."

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

As much as we can give ourselves to the holy feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, automatically we shall find we are in the service of Rādhārāṇī. The highest negative potency that can draw the maximum rasa from the positive Kṛṣṇa. Beautiful, Reality the Beautiful. Mahābhāva, rasa-rāja mahābhāva. Full of ecstasy, ecstasy infinite and to draw that ecstasy for Herself for the world.

sukadu krsna koresh ukas taran bhakta gane sukaday te hladhini karan [?]

The main exacting machine of that rasa from Kṛṣṇa and to distribute to the world outside. Rādhārāṇī. The highest quality of rasa, drawn by Her, from that dynamo of all rasa, ecstasy, and it is for Her that rasa is drawn, and it is thrown outside..... hlādinī is Rādhārāṇī, particular potency, hlādinī, and it is due to Her that others may hope to have the taste of that very transcendental juice.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

And as much as we surrender to Śrī Gaurāṅga, automatically we shall find that we are placed there in that highest position, percolated by His energy, His instruction. Otherwise it is very difficult by direct approach, very, very, difficult. Many sort of misgivings will come and pollute us. But if we go under the guidance, go through, we can pass through, the instructions of Śrī Gaurāṅga then it will be very purest gain, and easiest, and maximum.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

And this is the place where Gaurāṅga gave general absolve, to all the sinners, aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ, this Kuliyā.

kuliyā-grāmete āsi' śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya, hena nāhi, yā 're prabhu nā karilā dhanya

["At Koladvīpa - the Govardhana Hill of Vṛndāvana, concealed in Śrī Navadvīpa Dhāma - the Most Generous Absolute expressed Himself in His maximum generosity. Without considering any crime, He absolved whoever He found. He accepted them all."] [Caitanya-Bhāgavat, Antya-līlā, 3.541]

Anyone who came for His mercy, granted. When He first came after five years from a sannyāsa, He came once again to visit this place, at that time and then He left and never came. That moment He came to His birth place once more, and at that time He was the most liberal, to give, to distribute this highest thing to all.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāgava: You have given such a high standard.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha ha, If you feel it then I think you are fortunate if I can, I am sincere you know that to get these from our Guru Mahārāja I consider myself fortunate, fortunate. I feel that I am fortunate when I get such standard from my Guru Mahārāja. Hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto, hearts approval, this is also evidence. What is dharma, in Manu-saṁhita it is written, what is dharma.

[vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]

["We can feel within our heart whether we are gainers or losers. That tasting machine is within us. As we progress in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, our karma, our connection with this material world, will evaporate in no time, and spacious knowledge will come to satisfy us. At that time, we shall feel the object of our life everywhere (mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani." Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30)] [Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1]

Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ, those that are well versed in revealed scripture, they admit and they serve, the first symptom of religion. Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. And what should be the symptoms of those sādhus? Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ, who are established in revealed truth. Sadbhir, and approved by the sādhus. Who is sādhu? Adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Who has got no sympathy and apathy for the achievement we are in the midst of, that must be a sign of the sādhu. Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. And hṛdayenābhyanujñāto. Your heart will approve inner most quarter. "Yes it is, yes I am getting satisfaction." That is also evidence, proof, response. "Yes I'm searching, such things I'm searching." The heart will say from within. So that when we get these things from our Gurudeva, Mahāprabhu, who else will think? "O yes heart's satisfactory thing, it is all eliminating, eliminating, elimination and acceptance, elimination and acceptance, progress means that, progressive, dynamic, yes, yes."

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, Jagāi and Mādhāi were delivered in this area?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, that is on the other side. Some say that Jagāi and Mādhāi was absolved in this Harichala [?] but we're to understand from Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura that was on the other side in Māyāpura.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So how is this part of Navadvīpa the very special place?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kuliyā. Aparādha-bhañjan, there is speciality here.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: There was some pastime, Mahāprabhu had one pastime here?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. When He came back from Purī after five years of sannyāsa, then He first came here, and He put up there in Vidyānagara with the brother of Sārvabhauma Paṇḍit. Vidyāvācaspati was the elder brother of Sārvabhauma Paṇḍit, and formal Guru of Sanātana Gosvāmī. He lived there in Vidyānagara, and Mahāprabhu came here, and He put up first there with Vidyāvācaspati. And so much rush of people to see Him that the whole place was full of human heads. Even those that are coming from other side of the Ganges, the whole Ganges filled up with human heads.

It is described in, I thought it is a little hyperbole. But when I found Gandhi then it came to my mind, if Gandhi can draw so many men to see him, then what of Mahāprabhu? They hold so much intense of love, the people fell madly, madly to see that great Nimāi Paṇḍit who was, extraordinary scholarship, extraordinary beautiful figure. But still so many tantric paṇḍits were against Him, and He left this place to preach. "Now we lost that Nimāi Paṇḍit, the whole Navadvīpa was dark without His presence. That Nimāi Paṇḍit has come again to us in our midst." So people were mad to see Him. The whole area is drawn towards Him and all human heads _____ [?] And He came here and approached all the previous sinners who criticised Him, who did any mischief, they all came to be absolved. "Nimāi Pandit is not a man, human being." So they came for confession and to get absolved from their sins here.

And then afterwards He went to His mothers house and for a second just stood at the gate of His own house. And Viṣṇu Prīya fell on His feet, at once He withdrew giving the wooden sandals to her, to worship, and He left.

And then He went to Rūpa and Sanātana and then again returned to Purī via Śantipura, and then gone to Vṛndāvana, and then again came back to Purī. And eighteen years continuously He lived in, first six years, there is so many coming and going.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

So we like to stop here today. Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda... Any questions? Where is that Bhāgava Prabhu?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's here, he always has many questions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Many questions ready. Vidagdha Mādhava repeats the same question.

Bhāgava: I wanted to know the differences between the four sampradāyas, the Nimbarka teachings, Viṣṇusvāmī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Details you want to know, then you are to consult Gauḍīya, previous Gauḍīya, there you'll find in details. Its previous Gauḍīya-patrikā in our Guru Mahārāja's time, there these have been out in details, that point there. In what part I can't remember, but it was out in the Gauḍīya-patrikā, weekly paper during our Guru Mahārāja's time.

Very summary gist I can give to you. Nimbarka dvaitādvaita. Madhvācārya śuddha-dvaita. Viṣṇusvāmī śuddhādvaita. Viśiṣṭādvaita Rāmānujācārya. The original Ācārya of these four sampradāyas, Śrī, Śrī, Rāmānuja sampradāya coming from Śrī Lakṣmī Devī. Śrī Brahmā Madhvācārya sampradāya coming from Brahmā. Rudra from Rudra, the Viṣṇusvāmī sampradāya. Nimbarka coming from Catuḥsana sampradāya. The four sampradāyas spreading in this way and their philosophy is known, Rāmānuja viśiṣṭādvaita - Śrī sampradāya. Śuddhādvaita sampradāya, Viṣṇusvāmī and Śrīdhar Svāmī the renowned commentator of Gītā and Bhāgavatam, he belongs to śuddha-dvaita, and this Valabhi sampradāya also springs up from that, a branch from that sampradāya. And the Nimbarka sampradāya Catuḥsana dvaitādvaita, dwait and adwaita, both, but not acintya.

Mahāprabhu's bhed abhed, and the necessary qualification is acintya. That demarcation is not in the hand of anybody, it is reserved with Him, the line of demarcation, acintya. What happens one time, we may not think that will happen every time, it depends on the sweet will of the ultimate reality. So whatever we find in general both common and different, and it is not a rigid thing, it depends on Him, He can change the line of demarcation, any time, anywhere, acintya-bhedābheda.

Dvaitādvaita, both dwaitas, very akin to Mahāprabhu, and their object of worship is also Rādhā Kṛṣṇa but that is svakīya-vāda not parakīya. Nimbarka and Gauḍīya sampradāya different here, parakīya. So they have got that nocturnal līlā and not this madhyāhna-līlā, noon pastimes. Difference between Nimbarka they're more fond of arcana. Arcana means pūja, worshipping according to the scriptures, the vidhi, the law, rules, regulations is the principal thing. But in Gauḍīya sampradāya that is with little slackness, with affection, love having the better part. The Vallabha sampradāya also śuddha-dvaita, they also do not like even to use the word arcana, they say sevā. Just as we do amongst us, sevā, rāga-mārga, with affection we shall serve and not according to the strict scriptural rules, in Vallabha sampradāya. Viṣṇusvāmī also and Rāmānandi sampradāya though spreading from Rāmānuja sampradāya but still deviation, we find in Tulasī dāsa, in Rāmānanda, more rigid in asceticism and tending towards salvation, liberation.

In Parijar bhāṣya of Vedānta we find from the Nimbarka. Madhvācārya has got bhāṣya. Rāmānuja has got his own bhāṣya, Śrī-bhāṣya by name. Then Viṣṇusvāmī also has got his bhāṣya. Śrīdhara Swāmī also there. Gauḍīya sampradāya also Govinda-bhāṣya. These are different types of interpretations from Vedānta, Brahmā-sūtra, but all are theistic, these four and their branches they're all theistic.

Śaṅkara bhāṣya, we call it atheistic, because jīva soul in it's highest position has not been accepted. Like Buddha, Buddha says with the dissolution of the mental body everything ends. Śaṅkara also says like that ultimately. The individual's conception of soul is imaginary, only it is remaining so long as he's in misunderstanding. Misunderstanding clears, gets liberation, no soul, individual. But there is one mass of light as Brahman, non differentiated, non specified substance, but it is, it is consciousness...

End of 82.11.14.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So the conception of God and man when they may be dissolve and only Brahman, that has got existence. No specific character of existence is possible. Something like chaotic, no cosmos. Chaos also has got some movement, but this is not that. A static conscious substance, that is at the root of everything. But anyhow, a misconception over it began and this world we have out of that, māyāvādī. This misconception has no beginning but śanta, it may be ended, anādi-śanta not anādi-ananta, Brahman is anādi-ananta, māyā is anādi-śanta. It may be stopped but it has got no beginning. This māyā, anyhow, but we can get out of māyā, that may be fully squeezed, the śanta.

So the Vaiṣṇavas say that Śaṅkara is Buddhist in disguise because Buddhists do not have any recognition of the eternity of jīva soul, and Śaṅkara is also like that. No eternal conception of jīva soul, individual. Only difference that Buddha has no recognition of the revealed scriptures, but Śaṅkara has accepted the revealed scriptures, but gave his concocted interpretation while explaining the revealed scriptures. The Buddhistic opinion has been thrust on it, so,

[veda nā māniyā bauddha haya' ta nāstika] vedāśraya nāstikya-vāda bauddhake adhika

["The Buddhists do not recognise the authority of the Vedas; therefore they are considered agnostics. However, those who have taken shelter of the Vedic scriptures yet preach agnosticism in accordance with the Māyāvāda philosophy are certainly more dangerous than the Buddhists."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 6.168]

So Śaṅkara is more dangerous than the Buddhists. They're clear. "We don't have any recognition for the revealed scriptures. Our attempt is based on reason." But Śaṅkara accepts revealed scriptures but he gives his own interpretation into it, because both of them do not recognise the eternity of the jīva soul. Ajo nityaḥ śāśvato 'yaṁ purāṇo.

[na jāyate mriyate vā kadācin, nāyaṁ bhūtvā bhavitā vā na bhūyaḥ ajo nityaḥ śāśvato 'yaṁ purāṇo, na hanyate hanyamāne śarīre]

["The soul is never born and never dies, nor does he repeatedly come into being and undergo expansion, because he is unborn and eternal. He is inexhaustible, ever-youthful yet ancient. Although the body is subject to birth and death, the soul is never destroyed."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.20]

Jīva-bhūtāṁ sanātana.

[apareyam itas tv anyāṁ, prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parām / jīva-bhūtāṁ mahā-bāho, yayedaṁ dhāryate jagat]

["O mighty hero, Arjuna, this worldly nature known as external, is inferior. But distinct from this nature, you should know My marginal potency, comprised of the individual souls, to be superior. This world is accepted by this superior conscious potency as an object of exploitation for sense enjoyment, by the agency of each individual's fruit-hunting actions and reactions. The divine world emanates from My internal potency and the mundane world from My external potency. The potency of the living beings is known as marginal, on account of their medial adaptability - they may choose to reside either in the mundane plane or the divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5]

In Bhagavad-gītā, and in Upaniṣad.

nityo nityānāṁ cetanaś-cetanānām, eko bahūnāṁ [yo vidadhāti kāmān tam ātmasthaṁ ye 'nupaśyanti dhīrās teṣāṁ śāntiḥ śāśvatī netareṣām]

["Of the innumerable, eternal, conscious beings, there is one eternal Supreme Being. That Supreme Lord is the maintainer of the innumerable living beings in terms of their different situations, according to individual work and reaction of work. That Supreme Lord is also, by His expansion as Paramātmā, present within the heart of every living being. Only those saintly persons who can see, within and without, that same Supreme Lord, can actually attain to perfect and eternal peace."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 2.2.13]

Nityo nityānāṁ. With the eternal amongst many eternal substances, there are bahū, there are many eternal things and He's the principal of that. In Upaniṣads, in Bhagavad-gītā, everywhere, jīva is nitya, soul is immortal.

But according to Śaṅkara, "Soul is ultimately mortal though this transmigration, different bodies according to karma he will have to accept. But ultimately after liberation jīva does not, individual soul does not exist, neither God exists. Only that non differentiated mass of spiritual substance is there, that is Brahman."

Buddha had no recognition of that mass of light as Brahman, but they say prakṛti. The force is there and these different type of forces acting together and that will be finished, and there may be a force like darkness, may or may not be. Virajā.

Bhāgava: Why does this Śaṅkara philosophy have such appeal to people in general?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because it gives harmony to all the sections of worshippers of all different types of gods, a compromise. There are so many worshippers of so many gods and he harmonizes them.

"What you are doing it is all right. You are worshipping Kālī, you are worshipping Gaṇeśa, you are worshipping Sūrya, you are worshipping Agni, you are worshipping Viṣṇu. I accept all, but for the time being, to certain extent, and then it will end in the attainment of Brahman. You accept this on the end and I will accept you all."

And there was colour of accepting the Veda and Upaniṣad, and he gave such sort of meaning and embraced them all. And another thing for his popularity he was a very intellectual giant. He fought against the Buddhists who are out and out atheists. And he with the colour of theism, he fought with the atheist of number one, the Buddhists, and his success in that gave him popularity.

Bhāgava: When the Vaiṣṇava is asked why there are so many religions, theistic religions, one is worshipping Allah, one is worshipping Christ, so many differences. They ask a Vaiṣṇava why are there so many different religions under the banner of theism, why so many different theistic conceptions?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to the different stages of theistic receiving capacity, different groups, suiting to the mass of different sections, by instalments in different ways they have been distributed.

Upāsanā mostly, mostly they're worshipping so many demigods who are in possession of some power in the nature, to get, by their grace, their desired thing, they're worshipping that. Those that seek for good health goes to some general ways for satisfaction of any last desire goes to Kālī. Then for property and resources, goes to fire, Agni. And who wants knowledge goes to Śiva, his Śiva has got versatile knowledge of this medicine. Then this yoga, then music, then his indifference, all these many qualifications are concentrated in Śiva, and also the penance all combined, so many go to worship Śiva for knowledge. And those that want mukti, they go to Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa. But this Nārāyaṇa of Śaṅkara, that is a part of māyā. Śiva is also so but He's trying to get out of māyā, master of māyā. In this way He has been represented.

So according to ones choice, inner necessity, while wandering in these different stages of misunderstanding, they select their leader, "That he will be able, my aim is this side." A good player will go to the famous leader in the play field, who wants to be a good player. One who wants to be a good merchant must go to such expert. One who wants to be a research scholar must go that side. So according to the inner desire they go.

kāmais tais tair hṛta-jñānāḥ, prapadyante 'nya-devatāḥ
[taṁ taṁ niyamam āsthāya, prakṛtyā niyatāḥ svayā]

["Persons whose good intelligence has been spoiled by illicit desires for exploitation and renunciation or other duplicitous pursuits, worship other godly personalities such as the Sun-god and the many demigods. Being enslaved by their instinct, they adopt the corresponding rules and regulations of fasting and other tenets accordingly."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.20]

And those that want real theistic life, there is also instalments. In Mohammedanism, in Christianity, there is theism, they accept eternity, eternal God, eternal master, but according to their nature. Just as kṣatriya, brāhmaṇa nature, kṣatriya nature, vaiśya nature, so different natures in the different nations, they have been given such instalments.

parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam [karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

["Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

In Bhāgavatam we find the instalment according to their capacity as a group the conception of theism has been distributed to them. Otherwise the whole thing, if we want to give to them it will be a very complex one, for them, so only approximate something has been given, not details. Then after birth and rebirth they will come to higher position, then higher education will be imparted to them about theism. With this policy it has been arranged. Everywhere this policy has been accepted that according to the capacity, the degree of education should be imparted, extended to them, otherwise they won't be able to understand anything. Gradual process in the training everywhere. The progress does not come abruptly. A continuous development is to be admitted.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Chidānanda Prabhu has a question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Chidānanda. What is that?

Chidānanda: From beginning from the lowest stage of theism up to the highest, what are the different conceptions? From Christianity at the beginning...

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He wants to know in the conception of different stages of theism, theistic conception and development, what is the gradation, where does it begin and...?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally you may take it, the whole creation has been divided into this way. Āvṛta-cetana, fully covered consciousness. Then, mukulita-cetana, just opening consciousness, awakening. Then saṅkucita-cetana, a narrowed down consciousness. An instance, āvṛta-cetana, the stones, trees, etc, āvṛta, thickly covered. The consciousness is there but it is thickly covered. Then, saṅkucita-cetana, we find in the animal kingdom, very narrowed consciousness. Then comes mukulita-cetana, which is amongst the aborigines class, mukulita-cetana, not developed to a standard, half animal, half man, under such sort of civilization, this is mukulita, only awakening stage. Saṅkucita. Then, vikacita-cetana, where we have got some conception of God that is this varṇāśrama-dharma, etc, who worship God any way.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So Christianity and Islam are there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vikacita-cetana is Vaiṣṇavism. Now again sub division in human section, saṅkucita-cetana, vikacita. In human section, first morality and theism, first in the last stage there is morality but no theism, no theism but morality. That is _____ [?] they, utilitarian class, altruistic class, they have got recognition of morality but they don't find necessity of the existence of any God. Then, morality plus theism, and morality plus imaginary theism, _____ [?] imaginary theism with morality.

Just like Comte in France, he says that, "A conception of God, it is useful to us, it can help us to do the work of the police, God fearing may help us like police. General man if you spread God fearing, then this moral benefit we shall get automatically very easily."

And up to Śaṅkara also we say this is imaginary theism with morality. Real varṇāśrama as given by Rāmānuja and other conceptions, that is both morality and theism, real theism, viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda, morality and theism. And there may be theism without much moral conception also, there may be. The so-called theism is there but no moral conception that this hiṁsā, that is butchering, murdering indiscriminately so many jīva, and others, and also go on with theism.

Then real varṇāśrama is theistic and with moralises. And then _____ [?] Vaiṣṇavism comes which is full of theism and morality according to the theistic conception, it has got less importance.

Whatever, even they may steal, suppose flower to offer to the Lord, so that the man who has created that flower tree, he may be elevated. But theism in the fullest way, that everything if it may be utilized for the satisfaction of the Lord, then that will be helpful to anybody and everybody. In this way it is going, developing.

It is for Itself, it is everything for Him, not individual ownership, owner is one, and they are not conscious that they are, they belong to Him, but I know, I know. The boy may not know that his guardian, his father is there, but I know the boy's father. Boy may be reluctant that I may carry him in spite of reluctance to his guardian. This way, everything for Himself, and they utilize in that way, they do good to all. Their campaign, any and every campaign, whether it may not be tasteful to the so-called religious persons or moral persons, but they're right, independent of their, of the consideration whom they behave in this way, everything.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca [na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

So the jīva, ordinary souls, moral scientific knowledge, all these things, all considered minor. Baddha-jīva is considered, the man in bondage, any jīva in bondage is considered minor. And the major are those Vaiṣṇavas who know that everything is for Himself. Die to live. They're the guardians of the whole creation and they go to utilize everything for Him for their benefit, for the benefit of the whole world.

Do you conceive, understand? Can't understand, can't follow?

Devotee: Yes. I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then you will find some harmonious existence in this world, what is what in this world. The ignorance, the lowest ignorant section, the thickness of ignorance, according to the thickness of the ignorance, sub division. Then in the middle, then satvic, then nirguṇa, satya, raja, tama. And then again sub division, mahā-tama. In this way sub division may be many, but there is nirguṇa above all. Where, that oneness, one guardian, one master, is guiding every limb, every idea of a person, he's in touch with the full fledged theism, full fledged theism.

Bhāgava: The Christians say the one master is Christ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They say three, God the ghost, God the Guru, the Christ, the deliverer, and God the father. God the father, God the ghost, and God the Guru or Christ. Three phases of conception in theism according to Christianity.

And in Islam also there are so many messengers. Mohammed was also messenger. They accept the messengers of the Christianity. There are many common, the Moses, Abraham, all common. But the last messenger of God was Mohammed and he's considered to be the foremost amongst them. And God is there, but God is not so much differentiated or developed as we find in Hindu mythology, or ontology, or Veda, Upaniṣad, revealed truth, revealed scriptures.

That Max Muller told that, "What is in the store of the Upaniṣad in India, if the whole world gets it they will be fully fed, and not anything will be lost. Not a point, not a drop will be lost and the whole world will be whole fed what is in the store of the Upaniṣad in India." Max Muller. So the full fed knowledge is to be found in Upaniṣad.

Anything has got its central position, so as gold, or diamond, or industry, or religion. Everything may not be found in every place. So about theism, India was selected to be the highest position in the world by God. It is not unreasonable. Because schools and colleges cannot be established in every village, some place must be selected for particular hospital, or education institution, or police station. So in this whole world some place was selected to be the highest seat of religion, theism, and that came in the Lord of India. We are to look like that. If we have eye we won't be envious.

"That why in our village there is primary school and in that city there is the biggest college, why is my school not the highest?"

It is ridiculous, so the highest school for theistic education should be located somewhere in this globe, and the place was selected India. You are to come and compare the theistic education like that.

And Max Muller he saw like that. "The Upaniṣad, what is contained there, that can fully feed all the religious persons, and still it won't be finished a little. It is eternal, the fountain of water is coming eternally, the fountain won't go to be dry, to be dried, such, something like that."

Then why the Americans, the others will say, "O Christ was born in Arabia, why should we take his instructions, it is not spun within our country, why should we take?"

This geographical difference that is all māyā. Wherever the real thing is to be found we must be open to accept that, in its own intrinsic value and not by physical, this mundane affinity, where I have got this body, or my country. We must rise above all these material consciousness and be a clear student with complete openness we shall be enquirer after the truth from wherever it comes.

The atom bomb came somewhere, sprang up, and others are not trying to get that atom bomb? "Because it was created somewhere we won't take it. The tank first created by us in the first great-war in France," the tank, and now it is everywhere. So rocket first created something like a V2 of Hitler, but that is in developed form now everywhere.

In this way, what is good, that is universal character, they have got in this mundane. And about spiritual it will be all narrow national conception about religion? About the highest truth, which can give relief to all the troubles that will be in, not only located, position will be more universal, very unique.

Bhāgava: The problem I find with Christians is many times I will speak to a Christian and he will appreciate the high conception of bhakti, of surrender, even above mukti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. But surrender for what? Mere surrender for the country, love of the country we see so many surrendering. But the valuation will be the surrender for which?

Bhāgava: The surrender to God.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: God means here, what is the conception of God?

Bhāgava: This is the problem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So hazy conception and clear conception, we are to come to that. When we come to the laboratory, the very minute study of the differences to be calculated there, the germs, the virus, all these things will come in closer inspection. So closer inspection will give us God, God means what? Hazy thing, unknown and unknowable God, God means unknown and unknowable? Not any concrete?

Bhāgava: But they say Christ said...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, Christ said a hazy conception, of a sun, of a moon, but they have got their specific position, and from closer inspection they will be found much more astonishing things will come out.

Bhāgava: But they're afraid to go beyond what Christ says.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And that is everywhere, at every step that tendency to be found, at every step. Wherever one is he's attached to that. Not only about religion, everywhere, this is a common thing.

Bhāgava: But they take excuse from Bible, where in the Bible Christ says that none can come to the father except through him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is a general thing. Some accepts Bible, some accepts Koran, some accepts, the Hebrew class they will accept something African, they have got some sort of, the _____ [?] also have got. But when a comparison is to be drawn, they must have to come out of their local bigotry, they have to come out. And in the broad light under the sky they will have to come and consult and compare and reject and accept. This we may see everywhere.

When the militia boasts that, "We are the first class power," but when there is heat, war, then it is decided who is who. Russia says, "I have got the power to control the whole world." In the beginning of the second great war the tojo [?] Japan said, "We are prepared for a hundred years of war. The Europeans will fight together and will be finished and I shall be the king or emperor of the whole world."

But to think something is one and reality is another. So with open mind we are to...your God-brother, one, this Arabic gentleman, what was his name? He told that,

"From the beginning I had a tendency to go through all the religious books of all the nations. Then in course of that I found that the Indian religious writers, as regards space and time, they have covered a great thing, most ancient. In Bible perhaps it was told that the world has been created four thousand years ago. But Indian theology says that so many dissolutions and evolutions history. This solar system dissolved, and again it came, again dissolved, and what is the history it is to be found there. The time so spacious according to the time what has been dealt by other theologists of the world, their time, and space also. These tales of Druva, tell tales of sun, planets, all these things. Brahmāṇḍa, how the brahmāṇḍa came, was begun, how it is ended? Brahmāṇḍa, it is limitless. Both geographically, historically, what has been given in the Indian theological books, these other things cannot come in comparison with that. But this struck me, that beyond this body they can also gather knowledge. So graphic, so spacious, tidings have been delivered and distributed by the propounders of the Indian scriptures. So that attracted me, there must be, that will be the most spacious amongst all religious conceptions."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jaya Śrīpād Bhakti Vicār Yājāvara Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol.

Yājāvara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Put some questions, Mahārāja will answer.

Bhāgava: What is the difference between the followers of Rādhā-vallabha and Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas?

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Harivaṁśa, by one disciple of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī, named Harivaṁśa, he thought that he had got access into the inner service of Śrī Rādhikā, higher service, Rādhikā, anurāga-mārga. So in Ekādaśī day he did not care to observe the rulings what has been given for the devotees to observe. So he took this betel after eating, took betel nut and with his face red went to see his Guru, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa.

Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Gosvāmī he showed then too much negligence to him, "What is this you have got? You have climbed so high. We observe the rulings of the Vaiṣṇava section, that in Ekādaśī we should not eat this or that. As that anukalpa which has been given to us we shall be satisfied with that. But you are observing all scriptural rules and you are feeding yourself in Ekādaśī day, you won't honour the Ekādaśī, which has been given in the śāstra so much importance?"

He neglected. And amongst the disciples, different types of persons, some could not tolerate.

And there was another thing we are told. Gopāla Bhaṭṭa's previous Guru, Prabhodānanda, he was in Śrī Kuṇḍa, that Rādhā-rasa-sudhānidhi, this Caitanya-candrāmṛta, many fervent writings we have got from him, that Prabhodānanda. And as like grandson he showed some favour to this gentleman, this Harivaṁśa.

Anyhow, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa's direct disciples they were very much enraged and disgusted with that Harivaṁśa, and someone beheaded him. And we're told that it was stolen. When Gopāla Bhaṭṭa he was engaged in his meditation in the Yamunā, the head came floating to him, and he cast it off.

Anyhow, we found in Vṛndāvana it is told, that head was buried in some place, and the body was buried in some other place, of Harivaṁśa.

That Harivaṁśa lady gathered some popularity and many appreciators, and they did not leave Harivaṁśa spirit. That vidhi-mārga, that to follow these rules and regulations of the scriptures strictly is not necessary at all in Kṛṣṇa bhajan. At once without vidhi.

Jīva Goswāmī says, rādhā vaidhi bhakta adikarastu radha bhava navanil [?] The vidhi bhakti we must observe as long as we cannot get admission into the level of rāga-bhakti, we must.

[Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī also says that we shall show reverence to rāga-bhakti, but we shall try to be within vidhi-bhakti, the rules and regulations, regulated devotion, śāstra regulated devotion.

But those persons they did not care for this...

Their position we find in Sevā-Kuñja in Vṛndāvana, there their headquarters. And it is found in the _____ [?] side, Rādhā-vallabhi sampradāya, found near Gujarat, Bombay, that side.

And Rādhā Swāmī [?] that is another thing, no connection with these Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava.

But this party they say that, "We have got connection with Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, as given by Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, Mahāprabhu, Rūpa, Sanātana." But with little deviation they do not care much for the vidhi-bhakti, the śāstric rules. But they want to begin from the beginning this rāga-bhakti, anurāga.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sahajiyā, worse than sahajiyā. Sahajiyā formally accepts everything, but easy entrance they want. And they do not admit the necessity of that formal devotion. Sahajiyā section, nearby. Guru paramparā.

Bhāgava: I've seen in American people, western people in general, they seem to have less capacity for austerity, regulation. And I see in myself also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So more trading necessary in the regulation department. To get rāga, it is not so cheap, it's all false. Love for God, it is not so cheap. Why is God, and why are we? It is all non-realistic, concoction. We don't believe it. We disregard it.

Bhāgava: For some time I was able to have good sense control.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There are so many yogīs that life after life have sense control. Again he will come back.

Have you learned the question of Saubhari Ṛṣi? He was living within the Yamunā. When Garuḍa went to take fish, the fish went to him and told that, "Garuḍa comes and takes fish, catches us and devours."

Then he gave a curse to Garuḍa. "If he comes here he will at once die."

Garuḍa, giving respect to his words, vow, he did not go to that place. Then, Garuḍa was a devotee so he's above any form of selfishness, nirguṇa. His activities are also nirguṇa, no hiṁsā.

[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate]
hatvāpi sa imāḻ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

Such stage above. Then, Saubhari Ṛṣi, he gave curse to Garuḍa, and found that connection after long, long period he's there, managing the water in such a way that they may not make any harm to his body, he's there under water. But the fish came to touch his soft part and created some sensation. He came out of the watery grave and went straight to the King. "Oh. I want to marry. Give so many princesses to me."

So many things we find after long, long time it comes. So we do not believe in all these stages like Saubhari, that I have controlled my senses. In what stage that control can come, we've got some idea. Only one when he's in such stage he can control fully. Otherwise it can't be controlled.

tāvaj jitendriyo na syād, vijitānyendriyaḥ pumān
na jayed rasanaṁ yāvaj, jitaṁ sarvaṁ jite rase

["Although one may conquer all of the other senses, as long as the tongue is not conquered it cannot be said that one has controlled his senses. However, if one is able to control the tongue, then one is understood to be in full control of all the senses."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.8.21]

indriyāṇi jayanty āśu, nirāhārā manīṣiṇaḥ
[varjayitvā tu rasanaṁ, tan nirannasya vardhate]

["By fasting, learned men quickly bring all of the senses except the tongue under control, because by abstaining from eating such men are afflicted with an increased desire to gratify the sense of taste."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.8.20]

Bhāgavat says, those that can control their food, nirāhārā manīṣiṇaḥ, speculationists, by controlling food they think that they have controlled their senses. Indriyāṇi jayanty āśu. They can easily control the senses by controlling their food, diet, nirāhārā manīṣiṇaḥ. Varjayitvā tu rasanaṁ. But this tongue cannot be, the taste cannot be controlled by them. Tan nirannasya vardhate. It will grow. So,

tāvaj jitendriyo na syād, vijitānyendriyaḥ pumān
na jayed rasanaṁ yāvaj, jitaṁ sarvaṁ jite rase

So the experts do not give any recognition that one has controlled their senses as long as the tongue is not controlled. And the tongue can only be controlled by the prasādam of Kṛṣṇa. No other way to control it. The most primary necessity, the opposition side says, to preserve and to propagate. First principle of life everywhere is to preserve, that is to take food. To take help from the environment and to continue his existence. The first principle of life, wherever there's life, at the cost of his environment he's going, here in this mundane world. And the next, to propagate, that is to practice his sense progress. The two principles are used in life, the most crude form. So the second cannot be controlled without the first coming into control, preservation. And that can happen when "Everything For Himself." He finds the cent per cent of his existence is used for the pleasure of the Supreme Lord. Then only he can get from the individual necessities of life. That is ideal life, when Kṛṣṇa captures wholesale. Otherwise, ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ

āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:)

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

By much great practices of misery, with much affliction, they rise up to the mark of liberation. Almost liberated, they think that "I'm completely liberated, fully liberated from māyā." But from there also he will have to come down, if not accepted by the Lord as materials of His enjoyment. Then they'll have to come again.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, [punar āvartino 'rjuna / mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate]

["O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.16]

karmaṇāṁ pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam [vipścin naśvaram paśyed, adṛṣṭam api dṛṣṭa-vat]

["An intelligent person should see that any material activity is subject to constant transformation and that even on the planet of Lord Brahmā there is thus simply unhappiness. Indeed, a wise man can understand that just as all that he has seen is temporary, similarly, all things within the universe have a beginning and an end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.18]

Even up to creator this reaction is going on, coming and going. And Śiva, who is conceived to be above this māyic zone of concoction, misconception, but connected with this māyā, he's also to be found. How? When Nārāyaṇa had been requested to have a figure of Mohinī Mūrti, in Bhāgavatam.

Have you gone through that story in Bhāgavatam? Mohinī Mūrti, from that nectar serving affair?

Śiva heard that Nārāyaṇa took the shape of a very beautiful lady, that can never be seen anywhere else in history, so he came straight to Nārāyaṇa. "I'd like to see that most beautiful, handsome, charming, lady figure of You. You just take up, prepare it."

Then Nārāyaṇa He was pleased to fulfil his desire. Śiva suddenly saw that gradually He's transformed into a very, very, beautiful lady. And his wife Durgā was at his side, forgot himself totally, and ran after to catch that lady. And She's moving Herself playfully, and he's madly following.

This shows that how difficult it is to check our carnal desire. One who says, who does not know his own self, he can say.

There is an example. There was one barber, he used to operate so many abscess, and very boldly.

But seeing that a doctor he told that, "You do not know that you have got some capacity to operate the abscess, I shall teach you something." Then he gave some instruction. "There is so many, within the veins, etc."

Then that barber, "I cannot go to operate." When instructed carefully he's afraid.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Brahmā and Śiva they cannot boast of such position, what to speak of human beings. Don't think that you are master of your senses, never. It depends on His will, and when He comes to give it then only it is possible.

Devotee: Mahārāja, was there any offspring from this union of Śiva and Mohinī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Offspring?

Devotee: Yes. Because the followers of Hayapa [?] they say that he's a child of Hari and Hara, or child of Śiva and Mohinī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who says?

Devotee: Some of the followers...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No connection. When Śiva was exposed in such a way Mohinī vanished.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: That's not true. They say it but it's not true.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. It is said that Śiva was so mad that semen fell from him on the ground, and gold mines were created.

[Skanda-Purāṇa] & [Mahābharata, Bhiṣma Parva, 5.22]

Which is above our jurisdiction, we should not bring it down for our logical argument. These things are very, very high. We cannot try to take them into this mundane level. Śiva, we revere him so much. Vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ.

[nimna-gānāṁ yathā gaṅgā, devānām acyuto yathā vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ, purāṇānām idam tathā]

["Just as the Gaṅgā is the greatest of all rivers, Lord Acyuta the supreme among deities, and Lord Śambhu [Śiva] the greatest of Vaiṣṇavas, so Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the greatest of all Purāṇas."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam,12.13.16] & [Śrī Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh's Śrī Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, p 144]

Still, for our understanding sometimes we may take our instruction, so that what Mahāprabhu took down here. Śiva viriñcira vāñchita ye dhana, jagate phelila ḍhāli.

emana gaurāṅga vinu nāhi āra, hena avatāra habe ki hayeche kabāṭa hānila dvāre, e tina bhuvana ānande bharila uṭhila maṅgala śora, kahe premānande ehenā gaurāṅge rati nā janmila mora

["O mind please listen. You have nothing else to be attached to except Śrī Gaurāṅga. Never in the past, nor in the future, will there be such a benevolent incarnation who has presented the matchless divine love ecstasy of God so generously. He poured into this world that ambrosial wealth which is ever cherished and hankered for even by great powerful personalities like Śiva and Viriñci (Brahmā). By His merciful grant, even the most common destitute persons were blessed with the chance to imbibe that nectar with great delight. Overwhelmed by spiritual ecstasy they began to sing the glory of the Lord and dance accompanied by the concert of rhythmic drums and sweet karatālas. Frightened by the power of such holy saṅkīrtana, the inauspicious atheists who were slaves to their mortal ego, ran away and hid in locked rooms to protect themselves from such purifying effect. All three worlds of existence (svarga, martya and patala) became blessed by receiving transcendental bliss and reverberated that auspicious sound. Premananda says: "I can never have enough devotion to my beloved Gaurāṅga."]
[Bhakti Nandan Svāmī's, Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 7]

What is aspired by Brahmā and Śiva, but not got by them, such thing Mahāprabhu brought down here for the fallen. With such view we shall try to look at the thing what is given here by Bhāgavatam. Step by step we're to go, not by jump, then we'll miss everything. To be, to enter into the confidential family group of God, do you think it is very easy? That conception of God you have got? Eh? All foolish.

Devotee: Mahārāja, how should a Vaiṣṇava view the sahajiyā section?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You see, you are to have some estimation in detail.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya, māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

Do you know your own soul? We're in the midst of the world of our sense experience.

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ paraṁ manaḥ
[manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ]

["The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42]

Then the mental system is there. If we're unmindful, our eyes, ears, do not work. Then, manasas tu parā buddhir, reason, there is a layer of reason, buddhi, which can give a definite decision. Mind wants this, that, everything palatable. "I want this." Reason says, "No. Do not want this. Don't take this. There is a higher aspect in us." Buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ. Our ātmā is above that subtle thing which can give decision in a very general way, what is good, what is bad.

Then there is Paramātmā. Ātmā cannot go there as subject. Ātmā is object. Paramātmā is subject to that object. Ātmā is object there. Then there is Vāsudeva, Nārāyaṇa, etc. So if we're to enter into Vaikuṇṭha, that means we're to wander, walk there with our head, not by foot. They can take us in. We can't enter there as a subject. No possibility. This is of lower stuff. Ātmā, jīvātmā is a lower consciousness, a drop, point of consciousness of the lower quality, and he's to enter into the higher quality of subjective world. And that is subjective, higher, higher, higher, in this way it is developing that side. And how a dust can enter the mind, a material dust can enter your mind, and then your intelligence, and then your soul, this matter, material substance can enter into the consciousness? So your type of consciousness cannot enter into higher subtle type of consciousness area.

Only, so I told that passport won't do anything. The visa will come for the interest for there, and they will take them. All around, what he will pass, they're more rich and more intelligent, more superior in all sorts of aspects, quality. It is not easy thing. It is not an objective world that I shall walk over it with my sweet will. It is super-subjective. Try to understand what your subjective position, and then super-subjective position, and that world is made of that super-subjective element. All Guru, all God area.

And you jīvātmā you are a lower positioned soul, like a dust of sand. How a material sun can enter? This analogy you should try. It is not, vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya. They're all made of conscious stuff, and how much higher degree of conscious stuff than this jīva soul which has to come down to the material world. That is lower stuff. That is the margin, the outskirts. Jīva soul made of the lowest quality of consciousness. The stone is also matter, and the ether is also matter, but how much difference? Ether also material and stone also material. How much difference?

So though spiritual, differentiation is great, towards the centre. And the Nārāyaṇa consciousness, so many consciousness, gradually developing, going to the inner most part there is Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. It is not a very easy thing, that we shall swallow like sweetmeat. There is mathematics, there is science, within.

So we hate to hear all these very light and ludicrous proposals. Must be serious. The questions, answers, the attainment, all must be of serious type. We've no time to lose in this rubbish, this adulterated consideration.

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara] kāma — andha-tamaḥ, prema — nirmala bhāskara

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

The Sun and darkness.

Bhāgava: It seems so many Westerners are attracted to Kṛṣṇa consciousness...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We're not particularly attentive towards nationality, but human section as a whole.

Bhāgava: When I say Westerners...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Westerners are less qualified, generally. They have not come in contact with the Vedic culture.

Bhāgava: But the bodily make up, the body of the Westerner seems more rajasic, more tamasic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More?

Devotee: More tamasic, rajasic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Tamasic for their food, for their manners, and behaviour. Non regulated type. Just as for non regulated type ordinary government cannot do. A commissioner is appointed for them, to regulate. Non regulated persons, a special officer is necessary to regulate the non regulated provinces, districts.

Bhāgava: It seems so difficult for such people to practice...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, but,

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

That ajñāta-sukṛti. In all births they may not be Westerners. They might have many births here also, in the East. And now for some bad work they have been put there. All may be. When a man by his misdeed can go to the animal and tree section, then they will go to West or Africa, the man eater, the animal eater. There are so many sections of human beings. In Africa we're told there are man eaters. Here also there is a particular section who gives sacrifice of human beings and suppose to take _____ [?] In India also there are such sections we're told _____ [?]

The different stages so the atmosphere is dangerous. And any theistic awakening we shall nurture that with all attention and care so that it may not go down again and take me to the depth of the nescience. Very carefully we shall try to collect. And no boast that 'I have got so much, I have attained so much.' Real progress towards infinite will give this idea that, 'I'm nothing. I'm in the grave danger.' The progress towards infinite is like that. 'I have got, I'm above.' This is all foolish statement, foolish feeling, and foolish statement. The experts can at once catch it. The very nature will be, 'Oh. I'm undone. I'm the most helpless.' As much as he'll come in the relativity of the infinite he cannot but think himself to be the lowest of the lowest. That is the criterion.

Like Newton, he was told that, "You have finished the knowledge."

"No. I'm only in touch of the ocean of knowledge. I know better than you I say, I admit, because I know that it cannot be finished. Knowledge is infinite. So I know better than you. And you say, foolishly, that I have finished the knowledge."

So the very sign of real progress will show that 'I'm nothing, I'm the most needy, I'm the most wretched, most helpless.' The negative aspect must be improved to attract the positive. And one says, 'I'm positive,' a point of negative will say, 'I'm positive,' then at once he'll be rejected. You are under false control of māyā. Dainyam, ātmā, surrender, and to think oneself that I'm the meanest of the mean, that will attract the attention of the high. This is the science.

So anyone who will say 'I have seen God. I have got in my fist,' so I've no time to attend all these things. When I came here, one brāhmaṇa boy in the dress of a woman, he used to tell that, "I have seen Kṛṣṇa, and I have shown so many."

When he came to me I said, no, no, no. You know a little what is Kṛṣṇa, and how to see Him, and who can see Him. Some knowledge you have gathered from different scriptures, so rejected summarily.

Then, "No, no. I have shown Kṛṣṇa on the branch of this tamarind tree. So many are evidence."

In spite of such statements of yours that you have seen, you have shown to many, I discard summarily. This is all bogus. And why do you cheat you? You are cheating the public and cheating your own self. Be careful of that story.

Then after a few months that man came to me. "Yes, yes, what you said."

Then once this Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī and myself, when in _____ [?] Maṭha went to visit _____ [?] an U.P. District town, to preach. There one of Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī's relative was in the railway service. Then the station master he came to know that we have come from a religious mission to that place, and he suddenly came and told that, "One _____ [?] Cakravartī has come in the station, he just came down from the station and he's waiting in the second class rest house. And I told that two sādhus have come from Gauḍīya Maṭha here, he wants to see you."

And he says, "I am Rāma, I am Jesus, I am Kṛṣṇa, I am everything."

I thought that he's a madman, so I told him that he's a sādhu, there's a mango tope nearby, run, and just take him here. It will be beautiful at the mango tope, the sādhus will talk. And the station is not the proper place for the sādhus to talk.

He agreed. "Yes." Then he _____ [?]

It may be about nineteen twenty eight or so. Then I asked him, what is your position _____ [?]

"I am Rāma, I am Kṛṣṇa, I am Christ, I am all these things."

You are talking to a gentleman, talk in such a way.

"No, no. You see this." Some typed copies, a file with him. "The President of America, the Wilson, is a dog to me."

_____ [?] I took it. _____ [?] I told him, I shall go to police station.

It was out in Nadiyā Prakāśa at that time.

"Why you'll go to police station?"

Because the British Government and Wilson are intimate friends to our Government, and you have dishonoured him, abused him in such a filthy way. I won't tolerate it. I shall take you to the police station.

And there was station master, another Pleader, and so many other gentlemen at that place. They're showing some uneasiness that I'm attacking that gentleman in such a way.

Then when he was a little perplexed, then I thought that he's finding some way to come out of his former position. Then I supplied it. I think you have got a great bereavement for which you have come to such condition. I gave suggestion.

Then he found relief. "Yes, what you have said. I did so much for the country, and my only wife had to die in hospital without any help from the public. So I thought that I was deceived, and I must deceive the public, people." Came out with this.

I thought that my mission's finished. Now those Pleaders, station master, they told, "What is this matter?"

So because I have got some faith in the line of Gauḍīya Maṭha, that any man saying that I'm God, I'm Jesus, I'm Rāma, this is impossible, absurd. So one who has got some knowledge of the science of devotion, what devotion means,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

And the acceptance will come from avaroha-panthā, from up to down. And he will go on thinking 'I'm helpless,' and that is qualification. And, 'I know. I have got so much power,' this is disqualification positive. So at once we can dismiss them, they've no place in the religious world.

There are so many yogīs, this _____ [?] Goswāmī in Benares, he told that he was an incarnation of Śiva. And he was a most expert yogī, many mystic powers, master of many mysterious powers.

One Governor at that time in Benares he invited him to a food table and told, "Whatever I shall take, you'll be able to take?"

"Yes."

Then the gifts and other things going, all taken. He took, he took. And before that he told, "What I shall take you will take?"

"Yes I shall."

He thought, 'he's a sādhu, he will take only vegetables.' But after his _____ [?] finished he passed stools on a plate. "Yes, I'm eating, you eat."

Then he was perplexed. "What is this?" And lastly when he died, "I'm Śiva. Pour water." He sat unaffected. Water, daily, everyone coming and giving Śiva, pouring water. And the flesh was rotten and was oozing, going out, he stood, and in this way he died.

Another thing also told in his name as a yogī, he jumped from the, that was also with one European officer. If you see some mysterious powers there's one living in a boat on the Ganges. Then he gave something valuable to him as presentation. He took it, and at once threw it in the water.

"Oh. I have done wrong. You do not know the value of this thing. Its price is so much. It is lost."

At once he jumped and with two similar things he came out. So many mysterious powers he used to show, that _____ [?] Goswāmī.

But we consider him also to be a demon, like followers of Śaṅkara, not a devotee. Devotion is far, far above. So, so many feats of supernatural display of anything, that won't touch us. No qualification. Above Śiva and Brahmā, and high, higher up. We're to understand path, what are the signs. Vīrya-rasa, mādhurya- rasa, the comparison, power and beauty, justice and mercy. All these things to be understood properly.

There was one Yogada, one yogī from India, he went to America, and he used to show many mudrā, tantric and hot [?] yogī, and he was very much favourite there. So much so that Rabindranatha Tagore he also was very much disgusted that bad name came for India.

When our Guru Mahārāja consulted Rabindranatha - his eldest brother was a friend of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, so Guru Mahārāja had some familiarity with the Rabindra family. "We have made up our mind to send a batch of preachers of Mahāprabhu's prema-dharma to the foreign countries. We have made arrangement to send to England first."

Rabindranatha told, "I have got some experience of the foreign Western countries. But I think that if you go to the British Isles, they have got some vanity that they're ruler and we're ruled. So it will be difficult for them to accept anything from you, for us, from India. Their position is like that. If you go to America, they're open to anything, and the Indians, yogīs, and so many others, they've spoiled the field altogether. So not such a high valuable thing maybe acceptable there, I think. France also many times deceived by the leading Indian philosophers and others. You can go, send men to Germany. They're sober and judicious persons and they have got deep respect for Indian culture. According to me, that will be the best field. And when they take, in a serious way, not wanting to be deceived by any futile thing." That was his advice.

But Guru Mahārāja sent to England first, and from there Ban Mahārāja visited Germany. Two German scholars came, one Baron's son, and one scholar. His father was a monarchy _____ [?] Two came from Germany. No British came, in the beginning.

And now Swāmī Mahārāja has flooded India with foreigners in the name of Mahāprabhu. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So there is much importance of Mahāprabhu, Śrī Gaurāṅga, before we venture to approach to Vṛndāvana. We must try to get ticket from Navadwīpa, Mahāprabhu's class. We cannot be admitted into the school of devotion proper, in the theistic school. If we want any admission then we must have these qualifications. We must go to a proper professor. ["May that Lord of the cows be satisfied by us. Who is Indra when compared to Kṛṣṇa? Kṛṣṇa is the master of Indra. And yet He has appeared as the master of cows; the Supreme Absolute Truth has accepted a simple position as the keeper of cows. Superficially, He is a mere cowherd boy. But let that cowherd boy, who holds within Him the power of controlling the whole universe, be satisfied with us. We want to worship that Lord who has taken the humble position of the king of the cows."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.26.25]

The very gist of the story, the līlā, has been expressed in this śloka.

Śukadeva Goswāmī inaugurating Govardhana _____ [?] Gopāla, in this way. The story behind that those cow kings they used to perform some sacrifice for the satisfaction of the god of clouds. As the god of subtle powers, that is the controller of the subtle powers of nature, who was supposed to manage the necessary rain. And by the help of that rain the jungle, the grass generally grows and the cow can eat greens in that grazing field. So there was such usage that the god there might - they used to worship the god Indra, Mahendra, who is supposed to make arrangement for the clouds, and timely, and this necessary rain by which the grass will grow very happily. And the food supply of their cows and buffaloes etc that will be safe. And their property is cow, anyhow by milk, by cows, and selling them, they're to live generally in the jungle. Their main property for income was the cows. And so many chiefs there were, they used to have many cows for their livelihood and everything.

So Nanda Mahārāja also of that type _____ [?] They're not always having their permanent seat in one place. But according to the necessity of the grazing grass they used to move from place to place in that vicinity. First Nanda was in Gokul when Kṛṣṇa was born. Again he moved to Nandagrāma. And in the middle also he lived in some other places also it is told.

Now, Kṛṣṇa, Gopāla, when He was of the age of seven only, He told the chiefs of the cow keepers, so many cow keepers all under one chief, one king, Nanda Mahārāja. He gave a proposal. "Here you are near Nandagrāma, and the main fodder you get from this Girirāja Govardhana. The grass, and the jungle, the creepers, the food of the cows mainly you get from Govardhana." In a plea He put this diplomatic way. "So no necessity of worshipping, of flattering that demigod Indra. Who is he? You rather make arrangement to worship Girirāja Govardhana. And stop that annual celebration, worshipping of Indra for the proper rain purpose and then the supply of the grass to your cows."

Anyhow, some reluctantly and some fearfully, they accepted the proposal of that boy. Because they heard that, "This boy was not any ordinary boy. He has got some mystic background." Mahārṣi Garga he came when the boy was of six months to give His name, he told this to Nanda Mahārāja, "That your boy is not an ordinary boy. He has His previous records."

[āsan varṇās trayo hy asya, gṛhṇato 'nuyugaṁ tanūḥ] śuklo raktas tathā pīta, idānīṁ kṛṣṇatāṁ gataḥ

["In past incarnations, this boy has appeared with different complexions: white, red, and gold, according to the particular age in which He appeared. Now He has assumed this blackish colour."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.13]

The great sage Garga he remarked at the time of the name giving ceremony of Kṛṣṇa. "Nanda, your boy is not an ordinary one. He was of white colour in Satya-yuga, in Tretā He was of red colour, and also He takes yellow colour. Now He has come with blue colour. Śuklo raktas tathā pīta, idānīṁ kṛṣṇatāṁ gataḥ. Then pīta means it is reserved for Kali-yuga, and it helps to understand that Avatāra in disguise Mahāprabhu that He's pīta varṇā, Yuga Avatāra. Four specific Avatāras for four specific yugas. It is found, kṛte śuklaś catur-bāhur, [jaṭilo valkalāmbaraḥ / kṛṣṇājinopavītākṣān, bibhrad daṇḍa-kamaṇḍalū]

["In Satya-yuga the Lord is white and four-armed, has matted locks and wears a garment of tree bark. He carries a black deerskin, a sacred thread, prayer beads and the rod and water pot of a brahmacārī."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.21]

Four handed, white, incarnation we have in Satya-yuga, the golden, first age.

tretāyāṁ rakta-varṇo 'sau, [catur-bāhus tri-mekhalaḥ hiraṇya-keśas trayy-ātmā, sruk-sruvādy-upalakṣaṇaḥ]

["In Treta-yuga, the Lord appears with a red complexion. He has four arms, golden hair, and wears a triple belt representing initiation into each of the three Vedas. Embodying the knowledge of worship by sacrificial performance, which is contained in the Ṛg, Sāma and Yajur Vedas. His symbols are the ladle, spoon and other implements for sacrifice."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.24]

"It is also mentioned in Bhāgavatam and in many other places, Mahābhārata etc and Viṣṇu-sahasranāma that in Tretā He comes with a red colour. And this is to inaugurate yuga-dharma, what will be the special religious duty of the general public, to instruct that. And in Kali-yuga He also comes to push the yuga-dharma in yellow colour. And now that supernatural figure has come as in blue colour, black colour."

This was told by Garga Muni to Nanda when he came to perform the naming ceremony of Kṛṣṇa. That was ventilated in the society. And by some other incidents also they came to this judgement that, "This boy is a mystic one, mysterious figure. He's not an ordinary boy like us."

So, in His arguments of the boy, and His influence anyhow made them to accept His proposal. That stop what was done from very, very early stage by their predecessors, the yajña, for the satisfaction of Indra, that was stopped. And the pūjā for Govardhana was arranged. They took all their prepared things to offer towards Govardhana. And Kṛṣṇa at that time showed some miracle, that one hand from the top of Govardhana is coming and taking their offerings, some sort. So they're satisfied.

But when Indra came to know that, "This boy, born a brāhmaṇa, with His, some say He has got some supernatural power, He has stopped my regular respectful worship what the milkmen were doing from so long a time. So it cannot be tolerated silently. I must try to teach them a lesson so that they'll not venture to stop. All right, all the subtle natural powers they're residing there, personal aspect. Go and devastate the whole of Vraja-maṇḍala. With, deve varṣati yajña-viplavaruṣā. The gods enraged by the stopping of the sacrifice directed for the satisfaction of the gods, vipla, they're very much angry, very much exited. Viplavaruṣā. Yajña-viplava. That revolutionary step has been taken. So long a time from before they're performing and now suddenly stopped. So much courage. They must have to reap the result."

Deve varṣati yajña-viplavaruṣā. They began to rain profusely, ordered to give rain profusely to that land to be inundated, the whole thing. Varṣati yajña-viplavaruṣā. Vajrāśma-varṣānilaiḥ. And simultaneously, vajra means thunder, aśma means hailstones. Deve varṣati yajña-viplavaruṣā vajrāśma-varṣānilaiḥ. And storm, hailstone, rain and thunder, that was ordered to demolish the whole of Vṛndāvana. Deve varṣati yajña-viplavaruṣā vajrāśma- varṣānilaiḥ.

Sīdat-pāla-paśu-striyātma-śaraṇaṁ dṛṣṭvānukampy-utsmayam. Then they're very much troubled, suffering, exhausted, they came to Kṛṣṇa. "Now save us. What You have ordered we have done. But now, save us from this dangerous position. We're going to be finished. The whole Vraja is going to be finished." Sīdat, they're suffering too much, very much distressed they were. Pāla-paśu. The keepers of the cows, the cow itself, pāla-paśu, striya, and the women also, were very much afflicted, suffering. They came to Kṛṣṇa. "You please protect us, give protection. We're going to be finished." Pāla-paśu-striyātma-śaraṇaṁ. They took refuge under His feet. "Now save us from this danger."

Dṛṣṭvānukampy-utsmayam. Seeing this Kṛṣṇa felt a little pity, anukampī utsmayan, and smiled a little. Utpātyaika-karena śailamavalo līlocchilīndhraṁ yathā. Immediately He took up that Govardhana Giri, just as a boy handles his play ball, līlocchilīndhraṁ, utpāṭya, eka-kareṇa, only by one hand, utpāṭya, to uplift, uproot that hill, Govardhana, by only one hand, utpātyaika-karena śailam, that hill. Abalaḥ means just as a young boy. Līlā means colour, his play ball, līlocchilīndhraṁ. A young child handles his play ball without any exertion, He takes it just like that, by one hand took that hill.

Bibrad goṣṭham apāt. And carrying that ball weight big hill, goṣṭham apāt, the whole goṣṭha means where the people with their cows live, that is called go ṣṭha, sthiti, the place of the cows to live. And accordingly the cow keepers live there. That is known as go ṣṭha. Generally that place should be suitable for the cows, and the cow keepers will also remain there according to their comfortable position. Goṣṭham apāt. He saved them. Mahendram adabhit. By the madness, or the excitement, or intoxicating Indra, the King of the gods of supernatural power, by mahendram adabhit. This way He cowed down that great King of the heaven, Indra. Prīyān na indro gavām. Such, our King of the cows, indro gavām, Indra, raka raja, who is King of the cow keepers, King of the cowboys, He brought to me the big King of the heaven, that Indra, who is known as mahā-indra. _____ aiśvarya [?] Who has got, who is commander and controller of various resources, that is he's Indra. The subtle powers, he's got extensive powers over the subtle potencies, endeavours. Yet the King of the cowboys He brought him to do this. Prīyān, let him be propitiated, pleased with us fallen souls."

In this way the story began. This is very wonderful thing for a boy of seven. This cannot be reliable, can't have any trust, mainly. But who is the controller of everything. As in other cases also He showed it to Brahmā to any other opposition He showed like miracle. The Master of miracles.

It came to my mind that if it is possible, the weight, to stop the gravitation of the Earth, no weight. If any Earth, scientifically, can be known or shown that by particular touch, the weight, the gravitation will be stopped, no weight. Then it is possible like a play ball it can be taken up and keep it there.

The will power, that is, "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light. The will power at the root of everything what we show. What we see, we feel, what is at the back, at the root? Will. Universal Will, and modified by our crude, small will, individual. And that is withdrawn everything is dark. All comes from the subjective world. The magician controls the subject and can show us anything and everything. And then when we come back into the world of science then we feel we have been deceived by the magician. But at the time we're helpless. The seer is controlling not the seen. Drāṣṭā, the subject, by controlling the subject we can show anything and everything. You see this, see that.

Kṛṣṇa enters the playground of Kaṁsa and different sections of people are seeing Him differently, because He's showing Himself to different sections in a different way, controlling. The Super Controller of our submissive subject as we are of lower order. Higher order of subject can make influence over the lower order of subjective particles. And the world is such. From the subtle, from fine it is coming to the conception of the gross. So everything is possible if we have conception of the all controller God and His - and full independence of Him. Everything is being designed and destined by Him, past and future, in His consciousness.

Everywhere we're to see. We think it's impossible, a miracle, not deliberate, not trustworthy. But all this presupposes that we won't - that the cause of the world is a perfect one, omniscient, omnipotent, all loving, absolute. We can't. Every day if we inspect carefully we shall come to such a thing that this is, everything is wonderful. Any research by the scientific makes us astonished. But it is already there. And the creator and the protector of those wonderful things in the whole of the world background, that He is endowed with omniscience and omnipotence, we can't go so far to admit. That already the nature of the outside that is perfect.

We're not masters. We're finding only a point of astonishment. Every point we find any new thing we're astonished, we're astounded. So many astounded researches have been made, still we can't think that the source of, and the keepers, protectors of all these astounding incidents, He's perfect. We can't go to advance so far. We're so vipralipsā, we're always suffering from vipra asta mancana [?] Vipralipsā means self deception. We're always suffering from this disease of self deception. Everything is producing some astonishment, wonder. Still I won't admit that the cause outside He's some perfect principle. The God can do anything and everything. Our science knowledge won't allow. Then our credit will be buried underground. No credit, it is there, and as His instrument we're doing anything and everything. No individual credit as a scientific research scholar. So self deception.

This Govardhana, Girirāja, at that time Kṛṣṇa showed, what was offered to Him as if a hand is coming and He's taking everything. Thereby it is shown that He's another aspect of Kṛṣṇa Himself. So like Śālagrāma, the Vaiṣṇava, this Braja rasa Vaiṣṇava, who are attracted, attached to this Braja rasa Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Vṛndāvana līlā, they take that, a seeming particle of that infinite. Any number of infinite together, one infinite. A part of infinite is also infinite. What is seen to us a particle of Govardhana Śilā that is also Govardhana fully represented there.

And it is seen by the practices of the great, including Mahāprabhu Himself. He gave that Govardhana Śilā to [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī. And he got it that Govardhana Śilā means Kṛṣṇa Himself. And guñja- mālā also was ornamenting the Śilā. And he was impressed to think, inspired to think, this ornament around Kṛṣṇa that is Rādhārāṇī. To beautify, to serve, to please Him, it is, that aspect comes from Rādhārāṇī. In this way Dāsa Goswāmī began the worship of Govardhana Śilā. And thus the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava they generally use this Govardhana Śilā as representation of Kṛṣṇa as related in Bhāgavatam. And what was given to us to know, known by Mahāprabhu by giving Himself a piece of Govardhana Śilā to Dāsa Goswāmī.

"You do it in any way."

Though he was a son of a very rich man of the time, but at that time he was a beggar in the street. And he used to, only by Tulasī and water, Dāsa Goswāmī offered that Govardhana Śilā and guñja-mālā, Kṛṣṇa and Rādhā, and the upākaraṇa, the materials to worship, that was only water and Tulasī.

Bhāva-grāhī-janārdanaḥ. This is the means, this is the medium through which the bhāva, the internal feeling of worship goes to the eternal cause of beauty and love, through that medium. Which He has Himself established here. "That I am this Govardhana." In this way.

So, when I came here first, leaving the Maṭha of our Guru Mahārāja, went to Vṛndāvana, and for a whole month circumambulating. And when I left that observing the vrata, vow of one month remaining during this Kārtika. Kārtika means Kīrttikā. The name of Rādhārāṇī's mother was Kīrttikā, the foster mother. And from that, Kārttikī, is the name of Rādhārāṇī. And the month of Kārtika is considered to be especially auspicious connected with the name of Rādhārāṇī. As Kṛṣṇa Himself says in Bhagavad-gītā, māsānāṁ mārga- śīrṣo 'ham.

[bṛhat-sāma tathā sāmnāṁ, gāyatrī chandasām aham
māsānāṁ mārga-śīrṣo 'ham, ṛtūnāṁ kusumākaraḥ]

["Of all the mantras in the Sāma-Veda I am the Bṛhat-sāma mantra which is uttered in prayer to Lord Indra, and of mantras in perfect prosody I am the holy Gāyatrī mantra. Of the months I am the foremost, Agrahāyaṇa, and of the seasons I am spring."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.35]

Mārga-śīrṣaḥ, the month [mid-November to mid-December], that is a representation of Kṛṣṇa. And just before that Kārtika that is the representation of Rādhārāṇī. So this month is accepted by the devotees to be very, very purest of the pure, and they observe vrata. And gopīs also observed this Kātyānanī vrata during this month with the object of getting the son of Nanda as their Lord.

So this month was observed, and after that I took Śilā and came here, and in a cottage I lived, during the end of nineteen forty. And from that time I'm here. And this is also Govardhana in Navadwīpa. Gupta Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, has got everything parallel, corresponding to Vṛndāvana. In the Vṛndāvana somewhere this is located as Govardhana, Koledhana. This was very high place at one time, an elevated land. Now by the floods it is reduced, but previously it was a high elevated land here. This was called Koledhana, Govardhana. And Rādhā-kuṇḍa on the other side of the station. In this way it has been located by the mahā- janas that this corresponding field of Vṛndāvana is benevolent, and that is within their own company. And this is to give the distribution of Braja rasa, and that is tasting amongst themselves Braja rasa.

The Govardhana and here is Girirāja and we observe some sort of ceremony in order that we may be purified from the service of Vṛndāvana, Mahāprabhu, in a proper plane.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Govardhana. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Nijana katana vasana dehi govardhana sthan [?]

This is written by Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī. You might have heard so many songs in praise of Govardhana Girirāja who is both Kṛṣṇa and devotee combined. A wonderful thing. Girirāja is a bhakta śreṣṭha and also representation of Kṛṣṇa Himself, two combined. As we find in Mahāprabhu, the outer posing is of devotee, and inner existence is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and outer practices of that of a devotee. So Girirāja is also considered in twofold ways, Kṛṣṇa Himself and also haridāsa gujya [?] It has been told that they're one of the principal devotees of Kṛṣṇa, this Girirāja. It has been described like that also. Girirāja.

To the theistic, to the mystic, everything is infinite. Whatever we come in connection we can try to see infinite in the finite. And the atheist they're to see infinite as finite, just opposite. In a point, in a part, one can see the whole in the background. A part may be seen with infinite angle of vision, in consideration of his position with the whole how He's represented. On the whole He can represent Himself in any part any time.

He went to his higher leader, and then from higher, and then ultimately to Garuḍa. Garuḍa was also bird section and that bird went to Garuḍa and Garuḍa gave a threat to the sea. "If you don't give back and repent for your misdeed then I shall finish you, take you as a drop of mine willingly."

_____ [?] If we want to study an atom we must not eliminate the background. What is the connection with this atom with the infinite world, infinite power? An intelligent man sees a part in reference with the whole. And an ignorant man sees only part, part. So if we get that angle of vision, how to look at, how to study the environment, and also me, ones own self, how, what is the angle of vision by which I must survey myself and the outside world? From this friendly standpoint of infinite angle of vision we shall come to see.

Now, finite means māyā. Māyā means finite, measured, which comes within measurement, that is māyā. Immeasurable. We must look at everything in the line of the immeasurable, because it is not a detached part. It holds a position in the whole, and in some connection, not detached altogether. So in this way we shall remove our screen of ignorance of different thickness, and then gradually we'll come to realise that all beautiful, all good. No misgivings, all over justice as love. Only love, only well meaning, welfare. And what we find to be undesirable that is mere miscalculation, nothing else. Māyā means miscalculation, what we see, feel, take, by miscalculation that is māyā.

And wholesale calculation that will divulge where we're living, that is beautiful, that is divine love. We shall find we shall enter the reign of Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana, Vraja-rāja, Nanda-nandana. That is given by Bhāgavatam and Śrī Caitanyadeva.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīla Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... and with more repentance. In this way after some time everything will be pacified. We're to wait for some time, and continue with more repentance and more energy. Because that is eternal company. These are all trifle and temporary. After all they will have to meet defeat. That is eternal and permanent thing.

"They cannot stand against Me for some long time. They'll certainly have to come back."

Cannot continue their fight with Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa conception, once enters, when such a great hope enters one's heart He's sure to conquer. Others cannot stand there in competition. They have no prospect. But real Kṛṣṇa conception with all His prospect who enters in any market, all other mercantile things to be withdrawn. They cannot compete with Him. It is sure.

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.27]

Understand that this is all reactionary, will reproduce misery in its turn, but still he can't help, sometimes succumb. But again he will rise up and begin to work. In this way after some time he'll think that everything is pacified. That is the way. Not that by the touch of a magic wand it will be cured in a moment. He'll have to struggle for some time, and then he'll find that they're all gone. And Kṛṣṇa consciousness is standing. All other futile consciousness are forced to retire. But it will take some time, according to the particular condition.

Bhāgava: Should I see it as a test from Kṛṣṇa, examination?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Standing, and earnestly pleading. "Please protect me from this brutal tendency. Please purify me. I can't tolerate this brutal attack. I'm Yours. Accept me, and they must have to retire. Please accept me." In this way fervent and more fervent the fire will be burned within and they'll be burned into ashes.

They'll all be pacified, the kāma, when he'll find Kṛṣṇa within and without. They'll have to retire finally.

Bhāgava: You give me some hope.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The hope is given by Kṛṣṇa Himself. It is His own version in the eleventh canto of Bhāgavat.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: This jāta-śraddho mat kathāsu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mat kathāsu, nirviṇṇaḥ.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Eleventh canto of Bhāgavatam?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. I can't remember - forgot. The eleventh canto of Bhāgavat. Jāta-śraddho mat kathāsu, nirviṇṇaḥ sarva-karmasu. You can ask Nimāi. That reference he will tell there. The śloka which is there from the index the śloka will be found. And also Bhāgavatārka-marīci-mālā, and many places it is mentioned. Caitanya-caritāmṛta perhaps also it is mentioned, and there the reference you have got.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhāgava: The second question I have is very serious. When my Guru Mahārāja, when he left, and then I saw the way the new gurus were acting, had become very hard hearted.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The second guru, you got both _____ [?]

Bhāgava: From Prabhupāda. No. I'm saying when Guru died, went into samādhi, Prabhupāda, then I had crisis of faith. I asked myself why did Prabhupāda choose such hard hearted materialistic men to take such high position, such responsible position for other souls?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are sure that they're nominated by Prabhupāda? Yaśodā-nandana has got that objection only that, "Prabhupāda did not appoint anyone to do the function of Ācārya. They're all self made. And why Śrīdhara Mahārāja has accepted them as so?" So, he does not like me. I'm told that is his grievance against me, that Yaśodā-nandana.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And many others also say that, "They're all self made Ācāryas, and Prabhupāda did not give any clear direction that these will be Ācārya." I'm told by so many. I did not hear from Swāmī Mahārāja that 'I have appointed them as Ācārya.' I did not hear that, direct. No direct information I have got. Generally, there must, to continue this, some Ācārya must be appointed. I had that inclination and so I took it he must have appointed Ācārya, but whom, I do not know anything of that. But naturally some successor should be left.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Their objection, they say, "You cannot appoint an Ācārya. He must be self effulgent and self manifesting."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is all right, it is there, but still some sort of suggestion, recommendation, 'that they may work after me.' It may not be clear, but Kṛṣṇa is there, it is His business, He's all in all. Still, some sort of recommendation, then he'll come in his own pristine glory. That is also inspired by Kṛṣṇa he had to come. But they do not want to take the whole responsibility.

As regards your own Guru, Swāmī Mahārāja, our Guru Mahārāja did not give any direct appointment to him for the preaching in the west. But felt that within him. A general direction he had, Guru Mahārāja had desire to preach in the west, and he attempted also in that line, but not satisfactorily in his time. Anyhow that was caught after long time after the departure of Guru Mahārāja. He felt within him the urge of preaching to the west. A slight spark perhaps might have got in any time during Guru Mahārāja's early stage.

That in Bombay Maṭha, I was present, Guru Mahārāja told that, "All of us we shall have to try to preach in the west." And Swāmī Mahārāja was also, that Abhay Charaṇ Bhaktivedānta. "We shall all - you will also have to go to the west. Prepare yourself." Swāmī Mahārāja said. But I - it might have taken place, but I did not give particular attention to that word, because his general talk was like that.

So much so that a man who's engaged in the cultivation, he also thought that, 'I shall have to go to the west to cultivate there the coffee [?] and all these things.' So he began to study English.

One sannyāsī told, "Why are you wasting your time in studying English? You mind your own duties. Go on cultivating them."

"No. I shall have to go to the west."

Such impression was at that time within the Mission. "Yes, we shall all go there. And there we shall begin cultivation of farming also. And we'll have to go to take different duties." In general.

But Swāmī Mahārāja took it in particular that he will have to go. Prabhupāda is saying to him. And he said that, "Just before you Prabhupāda told me in Bombay Maṭha." But I do not remember particularly.

And at the same time I think that it is possible that Prabhupāda he was at that time giving lectures for his preaching towards the western lands. From the beginning he was meant like that. After taking sannyāsa he took two of his disciples to Vṛndāvana clad in European dress.

And the sahajiyā section began to pass bad remarks against him, that, "He has taken red cloth, which is forbidden. And he then took two brahmacārī disciples and clad in European dress. What is the fun of going to Vṛndāvana in this way?"

Then Prabhupāda, his preparation was to capture the cultured people of the west whom the easterners are trying to imitate. The attention of the easterners captured by the glamour of the present civilisation of the westerners. So if westerners can be taken into the fold then the easterners will automatically come to appreciate. They have to study with attention what is Mahāprabhu's divine love. Now they're mad to imitate the western people, dazzled by their present civilisation. So the materially civilised section they should be captured. That was his idea.

And Swāmī Mahārāja did it at last, and most successfully. We appreciate.

Bhāgava: We could trust Prabhupāda because he was a bhakta, pure in heart. I was photographer for Back to Godhead magazine, so I'm propaganda, advertising man, so I could propagate for Prabhupāda as Guru. But when he died I could not...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Don't use the word die.

Bhāgava: Samādhi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Disappeared.

Bhāgava: When he disappeared I could not...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Death and disappearance are not one and the same. He's there, he's living, but he's not here, he has gone to some other place, performing some other duty. And by death we may be sent anywhere and everywhere without our consent, without dignity. We may be with the lower creation also. A man in next birth may be a dog, may be a worm, anywhere he may go, dead man. But man who disappears his position is considerable, high, and he retains his former temperament also. He can detect, present environment can keep. And by death, dissolution, transformation. And disappearance does not mean transformation in the next life, from one thing to another thing.

Bhāgava: I'm having difficulty understanding...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Transferred, he's being transferred. Transfer of a service and dismiss, not one and the same.

Bhāgava: I'm having difficulty in my mind reconciling what is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Every sincere man, not only you. You are openly saying, there are some that do not talk much about that. But mostly when they come to accept mainly they will have to suffer this, some such troubles. But those that have come sincerely really they won't leave this search of Kṛṣṇa, but on the way for some time they will feel some trouble. And then if they continue with earnest prayer to Him, and to the Vaiṣṇava, Guru, Bhagavān, then gradually it will all subside.

Bhāgava: That is why I came to you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. And I have also told what is recommended in the śāstra. When one is troubled, in this way it is written in the Bhāgavatam.

And Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī he has also written a śloka. Pasa pati braji kahi [?] When one is searching, progressing, walking on the way to Kṛṣṇa, there are so many pasa pati, that falls, the dacoits that fall, attacked on the way, what is the technical word? Plunderers. That attack on the way?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Highway robbery.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Highway robbers. So pasa pati braji kahi [?] The kāma, krodha, the anger, the lust, they're _____ [?] and who falls to attack the travellers on the way.

And we shall cry aloud for the help from the Vaiṣṇava. "Oh road keeper, please come and rescue me. I'm attacked by the dacoits on the way." The Vaiṣṇava. _____ [?] With all his might he will cry aloud. "Oh my protectors of the way who are entrusted with the guard the travellers. I'm attacked by the dacoits on the road of travelling." In this way, this is the natural way, and not to take the help of any drug or any artificial means.

The naga sannyāsīns are there, a particular section, they in the beginning handle with the penis in such a way that it loses its capacity, can't be excited, can't do. But in the mind that must be there. So that artificial means won't help us. The natural, the help must come from above.

[viṣayā vinivartante, nirāhārasya dehinaḥ / rasa-varjaṁ] raso 'py asya, paraṁ dṛṣṭvā nivartate

["Although the person of gross corporeal consciousness may avoid sense objects by external renunciation, his eagerness for sense enjoyment remains within. However, inner attachment to sense objects is spontaneously denounced by the person of properly adjusted intelligence, due to his having had a glimpse of the all-attractive beauty of the Supreme Truth."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.59]

The higher superior taste of the higher juice, that will exhaustively eliminate our hankering for the lower material juice which is produced from the material contact with the senses. This is a class of enjoyment, sense pleasure. But the higher pleasure of the soul and Supersoul, especially Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that will drive away forever that lower taste. No taste for the lower pleasure. Perfectly and eternally conquered the senses.

Bhāgava: I do not know how to see my Prabhupāda, Bhaktivedānta Swāmī. Sometimes I'm thinking he was ordinary man who took to this path and tried to please Kṛṣṇa and his Guru. And that was his glory, that he came from ordinary position to do great work.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Externally it may be seen he was a business man, married, children, all these things. But when you'll be awakened you'll be able to see another side. That the eternal aspect of him is as pure as anything. And these external activities have got nothing to do it, they can't pollute his eternal aspect, soul aspect.

Just as if we find any filthy thing in your dress. You are wearing a dress what was filthy in part, but when you have left it, to come to it again that coat was filthy that is redundant, unnecessary. That man used a coat and the coat has got some dirt. It is useless, unnecessary, and it will waste ones time being whimsical. No material gain in remembering that. That is our fault that we fall over and see a man we think that he was wearing a coat where there was some dirt. Why that concern will come to me?

Bhāgava: Difficulty understanding how to see him in terms of - some say he was śaktyāveśa avatāra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I say. I told, that some divine power, when he was in earnest need of spreading Mahāprabhu's teachings to that world, his earnest prayer.

"I have no ability. It is Your work. By the order of my Guru as I received it in time I come with empty hands my Lord. I pray fervently for Your help to obey the order of my Gurudeva."

He has written. "Rādhikā. My Guru is Rādhārāṇī, and I have come to obey Her order. And if You help me Kṛṣṇa my intimate friend, then Rādhārāṇī will be satisfied with You."

He's praying to Kṛṣṇa in such a way. So I detected that he had that sākhya-rasa.

"Then again, after finishing this duty I shall join Your līlā and play with You and jumping and the cow driving, all these things. But now, for the time being, I have been entrusted by my Gurudeva Rādhārāṇī to do this. And if You help me, my master and friend, in this You can do anything and everything. I'm helpless. And You must come, otherwise I cannot satisfy my Gurudeva. And if You help me this way, Rādhārāṇī will want this I know. Her pleasure is something to me, and I'm going to carry out that. I pray, You must come to me. I have no ability, no capacity, no education, nothing what is necessary for this. You know all these things. You are my only capital. Please come."

And He had to come. His extreme prayer, earnestness, was so sincere that Kṛṣṇa had to come. Otherwise, Kṛṣṇa, or Nityānanda, any phase, the divine power, had to come to relieve him. Otherwise, such a magnitude of such quality instruction is not possible. This is my faith. And that is not a less credit to empty oneself to surrender, śaraṇāgati, so as to draw the attention of Kṛṣṇa, or divine power. It is not a less credit, the highest credit.

Bhāgava: It is glorious.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He emptied himself so much, the negative in him was so much in degree that the positive had to come to help him. So I do not know whether anyone begrudged him, but I declared that he was śaktyāveśa avatāra. Otherwise, what he has done it is impossible for human capacity.

Vyāsadeva has given so many writings about the religion and so he's considered śaktyāveśa. Paraśurāma śaktyāveśa. Nārada, he's also accepted as śaktyāveśa avatāra. Where there's concentrated presence of any good thing that is śaktyāveśa avatāra.

Bhāgava: Some things still confuse me with my Guru. In his choosing certain men to be administrators, sometimes I'm thinking maybe it is mistake he has made...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You see, just after our Guru Mahārāja's departure we went to preach in Chitagram [?] There was one astrologer, he declared that, "Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura was a great Vaiṣṇava preacher, but amongst his followers there is no real qualified preacher." That man told.

Then one of our Godbrothers _____ [?] he was there, he put this question to him, and invited - "I've got some influence there." He invited that gentleman to his house, and also us. And Mādhava Mahārāja, Hayagrīva Brahmacārī was with me.

I put him this question. Was Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura a great personage, supernatural?

"Yes, sure."

And what sort of supernatural personality he was, that he came with some mission to give something to this world?

"Yes, he came."

Had he the power in his hand, what he wanted to give to the world he could give it, such power within him?

"Yes."

Then, what he came to give he could not give to a single man? Such supernatural personality he was?

Then he can't say anything, silent.

He was a man of supernatural power and he had the capacity to perform for what he came here. And he came here to give some real devotion to the disciples. And he could not do that, he failed? Even one man he could not believe? In this logical argument he could not comment. And how do you know? Do you know? That:

aprākṛta vastu nahe prākṛta-gocara [veda-purāṇete ei kahe nirantara]

["Spiritual substance is never within the jurisdiction of the material conception. This is always the verdict of the Vedas and Purāṇas."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 9.194]

You are in the worldly astronomical world, and there are so many who have come to his feet and dedicated their whole life to live with him, to serve him. And you can say about him? Māyā prakṛti sītā, prakṛti rāvaṇa kahi _____ [?] What is that passage? So you can understand him and his disciples could not understand him? You say you are mahā-puruṣa and none else is proper successor? How can you say? That is aprākṛta and you are prākṛta. These arguments he had stopped totally and fled away. Something like that.

And he came with some mission, and that mission may not stop with him. Anyhow, good or bad, in degree, that depends upon the will of Kṛṣṇa. It has come, may not be so much intense but anyhow the thread may be continued, somehow or other.

"Just as I told it." Kṛṣṇa told it Himself to Brahmā, then by the succession it came.

imaṁ vivasvate yogaṁ, proktavān aham avyayam
vivasvān manave prāha, manur [ikṣvākave' bravīt]

[evaṁ paramparā-prāptam, imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ]
sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ [parantapa]

[The Supreme Lord said: "Previously I instructed the sun-god Sūrya (Vivasvān) in this imperishable scientific knowledge, which is achieved by selfless action. Sūrya, the presiding deity of the sun, delivered it to his son Vaivasvata Manu, exactly as he had heard it from Me. Thereafter, Manu instructed the same knowledge to his son Ikṣvāku.]

[O conqueror of the enemy, in this way, the saintly kings such as Nimi, Janaka, and others, learned this path of knowledge through divine succession. From the beginning of time, I am giving My tidings to others, transmitting the truth that I am the goal through this system of disciplic succession, generation after generation. Presently, due to the influence of this material world and the passage of time, the current is damaged, and this teaching appears to be almost completely lost."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1-2]

Some modified way it continues and during the - by the course of time, and when again necessary again He comes and gives a fresh push in new colour, and again it continues for some time. In this way it goes on.

Bhāgava: I think you are that push.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where? In which? First in which?

Bhāgava: You are pushing again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm doing in my meagre way. I'm very reluctant to take the charge. And whatever little I have got, comes to me, not much pushing nature I have got.

Prabhupāda accused me, "You are an ease lover. What you know it is all right, but you have no attempt to give it to others. Ease lover." He called me ease lover.

He selected me to go to the west for preaching, and recommended by many gentlemen of his followers of high level. But I was a little reluctant, because I told that I can't follow the intonation of the westerners. This is one defect. Another defect, I have no nature to mix with them very freely and earnestly. So you will spend money and I won't be able to show any worth there. Now if you order me I must go. I'm your servant. Whatever you will order I must try to do. But I see these two disqualifications in me which will oppose my work in process there. Then he left me and sent another gentleman, [Śrīla Bhakti Saranga] Goswāmī Mahārāja was sent. And he told me, "You are ease lover." A few days after, "You are ease lover."

But in the meantime he disappeared. I was here, and that was not less useful for me. When he was going away I was allowed to, as his personal service, in so-called sick bed. And just before his departure he called for me and gave me the fortune of singing the highest song in the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, to sing before him. That sort of fortune I had. If I would have gone to Europe then I could not have these chances, that to attend in his sick bed, during duty at night also...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the highest spiritual song from my lips before his departure. Hare Kṛṣṇa. With my understanding about the principle of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava he was highly satisfied, in my articles, in Sanskrit poetry, and also in Bengali articles, English articles. That I have understood the adjustment of the whole thing, he was satisfied with that. That I have really understood what is his mission, the gradation in the theological conception. He as well as other Godbrothers also.

Prabhupāda delivered lectures, so many we're hearing, then after that lecture finished, the high senior devotees they called for me. "What Prabhupāda told, reproduce it." And what I could gather I reproduced it and they're all satisfied, to the point I could reproduce what I had heard from him.

That sort of special gift was in me, and it was my nature from the childhood. Even in the infant class, in the college life, I could listen very particularly, catch things properly. And here in the Maṭha also I could grasp the thing properly. That was my special qualification told by all the Godbrothers, and Prabhupāda also appreciated.

He has written about me, "Śāstra-nipuṇa Śrīdhara Mahārāja. He's well versed in all the scriptures." That remark he has given against my name. "Śāstra-nipuṇa. Very skilfully he has acquired the understanding of the meaning of the scriptures."

And also he expressed his satisfaction in my poem about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. "The real conception of the whole theological conception of Mahāprabhu is represented here, by gradual development."

So they say I have got some real conception about the theological instruction of Mahāprabhu. Something like that, in general. And Swāmī Mahārāja also discussed with me when he published Bhagavad-gītā. I was living next door. And when that Back to Godhead was published first in consultation with me, and there is my article also there, from the beginning. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: In that article it says, "By Tridaṇḍī Sannyāsī of Navadwīpa." But I noticed that your name was not there. It says, "A Tridaṇḍī Sannyāsī of Navadwīpa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it? Where, in Back to Godhead?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Back to Godhead. But your article is unmistakably written by Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that article? Śrī Guru And His Grace, perhaps one article. Another, Vyāsa The Dictator Of The Spiritual World. Some articles like this. Tridaṇḍī Sannyāsī - not my name?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't recollect. Govinda Mahārāja can say. After Govinda Mahārāja joined me that paper was published perhaps. I don't remember. I don't think whether that name was written or not, I don't remember.

And later on Acyutānanda gave one article in Back to Godhead, mentioning that he met me, and put some questions, I'm giving answers. In that way one article was written by Acyutānanda.

Bhāgava: It was a very sweet article.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Acyutānanda Swāmī _____ [?] Gauḍīya last edition _____ [?] It is his article, but he in discourse, he questioned from him, and answers from me, and he couched in his own language the whole thing. The spirit of the answers were of me, and other things by Acyutānanda.

Bhāgava: Our Guru Mahārāja disappeared. Some of the disciples they have taken - they have gone in different directions. Some have become very bitter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. He's living, while he was - appeared, so many went away. And after his departure many went away. Now also there may be so many could not go and come. All are not of equal earnestness that come. Some come to see the outer grandeur and so many things, of curiosity. Many come out of curiosity, then they go back to their own field.

Bhāgava: What can they do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] reaction after some time some reaction will come.

Bhāgava: I could not understand so clearly. What will happen to them? What will happen to those who have left, to go to ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some reaction will come in time. They have got such ill fate, and that will take some time to be finished. And that bad karma of some offensive tendency with them that they ignored the Guru. Their Guru, Swāmī Mahārāja, who's, the extension of his activity is so high, so deep, so extensive, still they dismissed him and went to some unknown people who were hated by the society of the civilised persons, went there. Then bad karma, and that will be finished by suffering, and then they may again return.

Bhāgava: It seemed to me they were reacting against...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some may come back in this life, some may not come back in this life. Lives together, they'll have to suffer, misguided. Everything is possible.

Bhāgava: It seemed to me many rejected...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So we shall be careful at every step in our progress, that we may deviate, we may be very careful about Vaiṣṇava aparādha, _____ [?] Always careful to save us from the apathetic attack, and invoke the mercy, the grace of the higher. And that is our prayer to the - in the way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāgava: It seems many of these people rejected Prabhupāda because they saw the men Prabhupāda appointed as very hard, callous, materialistic men.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So then they have lost faith in Prabhupāda?

Bhāgava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then they have not studied Prabhupāda deeply. He has got his teachings in black and white. What he wanted to say that has not vanished, it is already in black and white. And no saint to be relied, the scripture is there. And with the help of the scripture we shall try to understand who is the real saint or not. Hari Charan?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Take some prasādam.

Bhāgava: This is the best prasādam, your speaking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But the body may not be neglected. Have you attained such a stage that no bodily physical food is necessary for you?

Bhāgava: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, in Jagannātha Purī I spoke to that Hiranya-garbha. I knew him from many years before. And he approached me. When I saw him coming I tried to run away.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To convert you?

Devotee: Yes. So then I put this question to him. I said if Guru Mahārāja says that a rope is a snake then you have to accept it. If that's a statement of Guru Mahārāja will you accept that? If Prabhupāda says that the rope is a snake will you believe him?

Then he told me, "No."

I said, then that is your problem, that you have no faith in our Guru. That is the difference, that is why you are in this situation, because you have lost faith in Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: So it's very simple. That was the first thing I spoke to him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You've lost your faith in Guru, and then you are going, running hither and thither. For that aparādha, that offence you commit against your Gurudeva, and that takes you to run to this wrong direction.

Devotee: Then he said to me that he felt that he was 'very isolated, very lonely, without the association of Vaiṣṇavas.' I said, that is your choice. You have taken to this path, therefore Kṛṣṇa has disassociated you from the association of your Godbrothers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Sometimes devotees they read the books of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura like Jaiva Dharma and they think that the book is advising them to do this kind of meditation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These men they want to have very cheap food. We have also gone through Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's writings but we did not miss his warnings. They must be practical in their attempt, not imaginary thing. The westerners they think that eastern philosophy is something like mere imagination, so they pass very quickly without giving admission to so many steps. That means self-deceivers. One who is particular for his own real sincere improvement he cannot omit these steps, śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana- kriyā, anartha-nivṛtti, then ruci, āśakti, and then bhāva. They must be true to their own self whether they have crossed these steps. Then bhāva-bhakti, then rāga-mārga begins there. From there rāga-mārga begins.

Rāga _____ bhavanandhi vaidhi bhakti vicar [?]

Up to the arrangement of real bhāva one must follow the vidhi-bhakti. And anartha-nivṛtti, one must be sure that their anartha, that their attraction for any charm of this material world has altogether gone, those self deceivers. They have come to deceive themselves, vipralipsā. Bhrama, pramāda, vipralipsā, karaṇāpāṭava. These are the four defects with the man in bondage. Ei saba bhrama, the commitment, commission. And the pramāda, the omission, ignore, can't detect due to underlying inattentiveness, pramāda. Karaṇāpāṭava, defect of the instrument through which they inspect things, karaṇāpāṭava. And vipralipsā, a strong prejudice that cannot allow us to take impartial judgement of the things outside, vipralipsā, _____ [?] deceive ones own self. What is that? A kind of prejudice. They can't leave us, they almost cover our mind. Impartial judgement cannot come out, piercing this cloud of prejudice, self deceit, self deception. They do not want their own real interest, not attentive to that. So otherwise we must follow the step by step so that an artificial fruit we may not get in the name of fruit proper, natural fruit. He must be careful in his own bargain, very careful, very sincere in his own bargain, that easy bargain.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I've heard that you have said that even the devotee who has passed the stage of anartha-nivṛtti never feels that he is free of anarthas. Even if a devotee has passed the stage of anartha-nivṛtti and has come to the stage of ruci, so he has surpassed anartha-nivṛtti, but he always feels he has anarthas in his heart.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ruci, āśakti, then bhāva. And Rūpa Goswāmī says, ragavi bhavanadhi, rāga _____ [?] ruci, then very inconceivable seed _____ [?] And ruci after niṣṭhā. What is niṣṭhā? Continued connection with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, not intercepted by any proposal of physical or mental achievement. No interception, no interruption. Continued conception, engagement in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Niṣṭhā means nairantarya. Then the ruci will come. That will be real ruci, otherwise the ruci before this anartha-nivṛtti, this is a vague thing, not reliable. The ruci, that may be in the jurisdiction of śraddhā. But after śraddhā we may come to sādhu-saṅga, then bhajan begins. Then after - as the result of the bhajan the niṣṭhā will come, that is continuous engagement. And then the taste will awaken and that is reliable, something, and then āśakti, then bhāva. And from there the anurāga-mārga, proper. As to ruci the definition of ruci, the continuous. And interrupted by the sudden propensities of this mundane world whether gross or subtle, that is not ruci. Ruci after niṣṭhā then it is safe, somewhat.

We're to understand what is Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, the subtle conceptions of material existence, and then Virajā, then Brahmaloka. The liberation, the stage of final renunciation of this material world. And then one can enter into Vaikuṇṭha, the land of positive existence that is service. And this is all negative side - we cannot find any positive engagement wholly in the negative. Only through Guru and Vaiṣṇava we can contact with positive world, though in the negative. That is through śraddhā it may be done. Otherwise with those representation about the service of Kṛṣṇa in higher line this lust will be ____ [?]

This kāma, the lust for the sense pleasure, that will get its food from that imaginary attempt, and that will be dangerous, a great offence to take kāma as prema.

kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi, tabhu kāma 'prema' nāhi haya

["My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love."]
[Kalyāṇa Kalpataru, Upadeśa, 18]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is giving warning. There's not much difference in the idea of kāma and prema, but yet, kāma is never the prema. Similar but not the same, the opposite. Rakta māṁsamaya kāma. Kāma is concerned with this flesh and blood and mind. And prema, cid-ānanda-dhāma, and that is the acme of the highest conscious world.

ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara [kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara]

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

A great distance between this lust and the love divine. Kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara. Kāma is the dense darkness, and prema is the highest position, acme of the light. One central connected, Kṛṣṇa connected, another sense connected. Kāma is this material sense connected, both body and mind. And that is Kṛṣṇa connected, and Kṛṣṇa's lust there is Kṛṣṇa.

And then he has got that sort of life to come to that through such agents how purity is necessary to enter that highest layer of spiritual world, which Lakṣmī Devī aspires after but does not get. What is that? Lakṣmī Devī She's aspiring but she's considered unfit, for her divine pride, and majestic pride. Connection with the majestic therefore she's rejected. And these fellows are very easily given entrance there.

We don't want so cheap thing. Our conception is with the highest. Rather we shall die many deaths before reaching that place. But won't like to be disconnected or commit any offences against that, undermining its position. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Has he come to understand his own soul, in what layer it is, it exists?

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ paraṁ manaḥ
manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

["The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42]

Before joining this mission I wanted to practice the teachings of Bhagavad-gītā in my own life. I tried my best to withdraw completely from this mundane world of material aspect, to concentrate myself in the mental world. Then what is mind? Not only by the description in the scripture, but I wanted to feel it myself. What is my mind here? To find it within myself. And then after finding this portion is my own mind, and then to find out what is that principle of intelligence which guides me, helps me, for proper guidance, where is it? How it is, where it is living - abode? In this way.

I experienced a time when I found the material world, this sense experienced world, is just like a coating. Suppose the milk is there, and the cream over, the cream is the material life and the whole milk from which this cream has come, that is the mental world. That in Bhuvaḥloka is more extensive than this Bhūrloka. Bhūrloka, the world experienced by our physical senses, and that is only a cover. And the real internal thing is the mind, the world of impulse, and that is creating this, like a cream. This body is like a cream. Our mental body is huge - great magnitude. So many ideas, thoughts, of eternal life is there in subtle form collected there in the mental world. And only a few have been attached to get its realisation in this physical body. And the great infinite mental world is underground, and so many bubbles are coming from it on the surface and becoming this world and our mind and also this physical body.

Then the faculty area of judgement that is buddhi, decision, Svaḥloka, that is again greater in magnitude than the mental world. In this way the deeper and greater, deeper and greater, more and more spacious. This covered world not fine but it is more spacious, and the physical only a very negligent part. In this way it is going deeper to deeper. And very slight connection with ātmā, the soul of my own, like lightning to get its touch and fall back. Then there is Paramātmā conception on the other side, who is the yogī. Then the Brahman, Vāsudeva, and then Nārāyaṇa, all these things, not a cheap thing. One who tries practically in that way they're to appreciate what is that, not a palatable story. It is reality, it is very stern. But with the help of the sādhu, if Kṛṣṇa conception developed in a good way, all these stages may be neglectfully crossed. Because our natural home is there.

A sober man has become mad. To come to that stage of mind he had to pass many incidents. Not one incident made him mad, but one incident some way, another incident another way, in this way so many ways have taken him towards the plane of madness. And to take him back, also so many layers to pierce through.

They're found, they're very irresistible, not easily soluble, and still there is also such solution that can dissolve them very quickly - Kṛṣṇa kathā. So Bhāgavata-mārga is such, from any position, when a little of that solution is applied they may be dissolved. It is there. That is our hope. Otherwise it is unknown and unknowable. So we must not think it to be so easy, it is hard.

It depends only on His Grace, His whim, and mostly nothing in me. Mostly it depends on Him, His sweet will. So the earnestness by which His attention can be drawn, the highest centre, and His attention to be drawn to this miserable position of mine, it is not a very easy thing. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Bhāgava: ...for the book that I want to do. I want to understand how Rāmānujācārya made Śrī Vaiṣṇavism so popular. What was the quality?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have to read the history in the books concerning that for details. I do not remember, and it will be difficult for me to recollect. Only I can give you the direction, and you are to read the history of that viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda. Before Rāmānujācārya also there was Yāmunācārya. And Rāmānuja has also given quotation, "That before Śaṅkara there were more interpretors of Vedānta, (Rabhida, Śaṅkara, Bodhayana?) they're real interpretors of the Upaniṣads and Vedas, before Śaṅkara." Śaṅkara _____[?]
The Buddhists done away with those valuable scriptures in their time, and Śaṅkara also, whatever little remained, he also left them. Rāmānuja went to Kashmir and from there he collected those previous interpretations of the Upaniṣads and Vedānta, and in that tone Rāmānuja himself prepared that viśiṣṭādvaita- vāda. Śrī bhāṣya.

Bhāgava: I had a question with Rāmacandra. Lord Rāmacandra was example of perfect king, yet there is some record that He would eat meat. Lord Rāmacandra was example of perfect king, yet He ate meat.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He ate meat? Where do you get it?

Bhāgava: I heard from one Godbrother.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But what is the reliability?

Bhāgava: As I heard it was supposed to be in Rāmāyaṇa, that He ate the flesh of a deer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not mentioned. But previously, even brāhmaṇas, kṣatriyas, they ate meat. It is found in the history, they ate meat. But that may be adjusted in this way.

[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate] hatvāpi sa imāḻ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

There is a position from which hiṁsā is not hiṁsā. If you can understand this passage of Bhagavad-gītā, there is a position from where if you kill a person, not only one, the whole of the brahmāṇḍa you efface, you do not do anything, and you are not to suffer any reaction out of that. Hatvāpi sa imāḻ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate.

When one comes to such a level of knowledge that this is only a dress, so by destroying the dress the man is not affected. The person's not affected when his coat is torn. And sometimes by setting aside the coat he may help the inner man. Suppose some poison, some connection of fire, he may put out that and save the inner man. The attitude he approaches to whom.

A sannyāsī comes and takes a boy from the affectionate area of his father, mother, home, everything, and in the apparently cruel way he snatches the boy from the lap of the mother, father, and sweet home. It is cruel, but it may have justification from far reaching results of his good.

So, many apparently heinous actions if they have got some real connection with the higher good, then this apparent cruelty is justified. But if not from that higher level, higher angle of vision, then he's responsible for the disturbance of the present peaceful situation. Do you follow? Can't follow?

Bhāgava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Apparently cruel activity may be justified for ones real higher good, otherwise not. With this angle of vision if we come to judge then we may find that there is some truth behind the hiṁsā. And also it is mentioned _____ [?]

According to ones own stage - just as a tiger he eats so many beasts, animals; not much sin to that tiger. But a human if he does so he gets more sin. And if a saint, he kills, he gets no sin. In this way there is the gradation, every usage is going on, he's only practising that, not particular to that external deed proper. So many things to be said there.

Garuḍa and Pāṇḍava, they were also using this meat, we're told. But the sādhu should not do so, it is mentioned, from their position. Garuḍa is Vaiṣṇava, but as he's a bird he eats so many fish and other things as his food. When anything is done God centred it is all right, not only not sinful but it creates good for the person who becomes the prey of such apparent mistreatment. God centred, that is nirguṇa, God centred means nirguṇa, the wave which is causeless and which is irresistible, and that is all good.

And whatever comes in clash with that, that is destroyed, finished, and that is laudable to crush all other waves than that absolute wave. We're to understand in this way. What is causeless and irresistible, that is absolute good. Any local interest coming in clash with that it will be crushed, and that will be no sin. Apparently who are sitting in the angle of local, provincial interest, they're in the wrong. The killing may be saving. We're to understand in this way. The apparent killing may be proper saving.

Suppose, there are so many laws in this world that a murderer is killed, legally they're being killed. That killing is saving, otherwise he'll kill more and...

82.11.17.C_82.11.18.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... In this way, killing may be saving. There is such a plane to see things. So from that absolute plane if any connection is anywhere that is beyond our conception. We cannot conceive that killing is saving, but there is an angle of vision, a plane from where it may be clearly understood that killing is saving.

Bhāgava: What of the Christians who read in the Bible that it is all right...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I have given in general, now you compare these relative things. The Bible they have provided for killing the animals, and the creepers, they have ignored that it is impossible for the human beings with whom they're connecting the theistic relationship. This is taking it approximately, that would be impossible for them to keep up from killing the animals etc. But here in India, they're conscious, even the creeper, the mollusc, worm, and also a tree, that is sinful, a creeper to kill, it is also unnecessary, it is sinful, the reaction must come from there. But still they have found the key, by which we can tackle all these behaviours, and still we can be sinless. Not only sinless but we can help those that we kill, it is also possible. Such plane is there. This is all local interest, and there universal interest, the most universal, absolute interest, for which everything may be utilized in any way, and that will be for the benefit of that thing. This plenary truth we are to understand, and according to that we are to explain anything and everything. According to that possibility you may judge and go to details, examine details and give your judgement. I supply you with a plenary principle of what is hiṁsā, what is disservice to others, what is harming to others, the standard of that.

Bhāgava: In the Bhāgavat there's one section where a human sacrifice is made for Varuṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So human sacrifice is more important in the evolution. To get a life in the vegetable, in the animal, it is easy, but human sacrifice, human life is more valuable, because there is chance to go to the truth, possibility. So higher chance, or prospect in human life, to do away with that is more harmful. Just as when playing football, the ball has gone to the goal and if that is lost it is much deplorable. So jīva when coming to human species he has come in connection with his highest prospect, he can get out of the gate of this māyā. And if that chance is finished, then again after this he may have a birth of a beast, or a tree. He came just to the goal and again he will have to return far away from the goal. So to kill a human is a greater loss than to kill the animals and the creepers. Do you follow? The importance of human kind, the greater prospect is being done away with, so it is more sinful because his higher important chance by utilizing this human birth, he may have gone through the goal, but the important position has been set back, that is more heinous.

Bhāgava: But in Bhāgavat they're actually performing human sacrifice to Varuṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mainly, in different sections that devotee [Jaḍa] Bharata, he was taken to Bhadra Kālī to be sacrificed by the dacoits. There were sections that were doing, but all not justifiable. But what are justifiable, that is connected with the central good, their activities justifiable, the Garuḍa and other devotees that were eating meats, and killing so many. Kṛṣṇa killed, Pāṇḍavas killed so many men in the battle for material achievement, apparently. Apparently for kingdom, Kṛṣṇa was called, and Bhīma, Yudhiṣṭhira, and all of them engaged in the fighting, human killing. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhāgava: Is it offensive for me to think that my Guru Mahārāja has made some miscalculation by putting such unqualified people in positions of authority, is it offensive thinking?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course.

Bhāgava: Then how should I see it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally at first you will try to cooperate, and when you find clearly their treatment clash with the direct teachings of Swāmī Mahārāja, then to save yourself you will disconnect with him, and abide by your own sincere spiritual conscience.

That is my conception and my experience in my long life after the departure of our Guru Mahārāja.

So I am told that I am breaker of the form. _____ [?] I follow, I cannot deceive myself.

"What conscience brought me to Swāmī Mahārāja?" If that is sincere, I cannot neglect that. If I find that the advice given in the writing, in the books of Swāmī Mahārāja, and those that have been given, though they're not sure, that representative, they're differing, and I shall side his direct teachings than what is coming through the persons appointed by him. Otherwise I must be sincere, not a hypocrite, and if I find that I did any wrong, my interpretation of Swāmī Mahārāja's writings are wrong, and their interpretation is right, the same moment I shall leave this and join them.

No question of prestige. I am a slave to Kṛṣṇa. Wherever there is truth, sincerely I must go there. I cannot deceive my own conscience, or any aspiration, kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā, the sensual enjoyment, and the power, and the fame, the prestige. These three things, they always try to take us far from the truth, from Kṛṣṇa. We should not allow ourselves to play to these things, general sense pleasure, and the love of power, and the love of prestige, pratiṣṭhā, glory, these are the main enemies. Try to keep them aloof, and keep me aloof from these, and try to follow the path what I understand sincerely, what attracted me to them, leaving so much formality amongst which I was born and maintained. Either Christian, or Mohammedan, or Jew, some formality was there and I crossed them, neglected them and come for truth to Swāmī Mahārāja. Truth as explained by him, I had attraction for that, and I came to connect myself with that conception of truth. And I must keep it intact, my campaign sincere, sincere attraction for the truth, as expressed by him. That will be my beacon light of my life. Wherever it will take I shall go. I am a truth seeker, kṛṣṇānusandhāna. And in consonance, the Gaurāṅga, the Nityānanda, who has exactly in the same line, whose position is unquestionable, in that line I shall try my best to keep me within.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. My progress must be sincere, and not any conditioned prejudice.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So śikṣā Guru. Generally the bābājī's, they got their Guru from the Goswāmī section, that gṛhastha. When they go to Vṛndāvana they take again that sannyāsa dīkṣā from the tyāgī Guru and they're at their disposal, mainly.

Our Guru Mahārāja has given us the Guru paramparā, śikṣā Guru. Wherever we can trace the degree of truth, according to the degree of the conception of the truth, the lineage has been given to us. Your beacon light posted in this way, this way, this way, to your goal, destination.

Swāmī Mahārāja means not his external figure but his advice, his instruction, he means his instruction. There he is, he's in his instruction, in his knowledge, what he wanted to give to us. That will be his special attention to him, devotion to him. Only not to have this stony figure, and to dress it like Kīrtanānanda, or Brahmānanda, with golden crown, and putting him in a golden house. That is something, but the real thing is that all these are to be subservient to the truth he came to preach. It is all secondary. Primary thing is vāṇī, and the vāṇī also not the style of writing, not the English language, or the Sanskrit, but the purport of his vāṇī, otherwise the vāṇī, the words, that is also vapu. Not the physical thing but the substance within. He's there, not the body, not the body, not the mind, but the principle he came to preach and represent. That is the highest conception of him, and we are following, we are also living this body, we want to go near him only as the principal holder of him, the body of that substance which is superseding the area of mere knowledge. But that ruci, the drop of love divine, crossing the world of power, exploitation and knowledge conception, knowing everything. To control everything is not necessary, to know everything is also not necessary. Only our respective duty in the domain of love divine, that will be our mark of the highest attainment. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Swāmī Mahārāja is there. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Our Guru Mahārāja was, externally we found him, not so much knowledge in English. But still he tried to give his speech sometimes in English. And when written in Harmonist our Professor Sanyal, he did not want to correct his language, whether grammatically, or any other way, if there is any defect in his language. He was of the opinion that the dictionary, the grammar, they may correct, dictionary may be corrected, and the grammar union must correct there, but what Prabhupāda is saying, coming, that is all right. He was of that temperament.

But there was another who used to write the letters of Prabhupāda, and who was in more intimate confidence, he told him, "That what you say, this is kaniṣṭha adhikārī, this is lower form of service. You should think what Prabhupāda wants you to do for service. Does he want that if there is any defect in his language to retain it, or to correct it in the present form, so that ordinary people may not come to detect any defect in the present language? What does he want from you? You must try to find out that, and then that will be your service. Otherwise the dictionary he may correct, the grammar may be corrected. What he says it is all right, this is not higher service."

So then what should we think that there is defect in Prabhupāda, in Gurudeva? Should we think like that, that there is limit? So, so many formal defects may be seen, that does not affect the main conception of the truth. Sometimes that adds to the beauty.

When Jarāsandha attacked Kṛṣṇa, Mathurā, eighteen times, Kṛṣṇa anyhow avoided and fled. And there is a word, expression in Bombay side, that Ranchor Ji, the one who flies from the battle. An affectionate name for Kṛṣṇa, He fled from the battle, Ranchor. "Who leaves the battle", Ranchor, ran means battle, and chor means who leaves it, so Ranchor. One who leaves the battle, that is cowardice, but this is a word of very affectionate name of Kṛṣṇa. Ranchor love, "O like a coward You have fled from the battle." This is a beauty. He can crush in a second everything, but playfully He's avoiding the war with some higher purpose. So they're adoring the object of their master, "O You flyer from the battle, like a coward."

Just as Navanita Chora, "You are a thief, O You thief." Ichor means thief, "O You thief." Everything belongs to Him and He plays the part of a thief, adorable expression.

So where the main thing is truth, any trifle defect in it has no consideration. That has not much importance. Perhaps for some purpose it is there, may be neglected. And sometimes beautiful, that that was the way of approaching this mundane world. Otherwise perfectly transcendental cannot connect him with this mundane. To connect with mundane some mundane mask is necessary for the liberated souls to come down here, to contact with us. Just as a professor of higher knowledge come to teach a student as if taking the dress of a child, of that mental dress of a child he approaches the child. Coming so low, comes to his level, and then begins to teach him, not with the professorial position he can approach the child and teach him. Something like that we are to see, look at.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So I am engaged with him long before eight, from seven, you came here for three hours continually.

Bhāgava: You've given me so much mercy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Mercy is at whose disposal? It is not a thing to come to my disposal. It is connected with Him, the source of mercy. Everything connected with Him. We are to see that.

akchuridai akchurimai [?] Vaṁśī Dāsa Bābājī used to say, "That one thief is giving, the donor is also a thief, and the stealer the thief, that thing again stolen by one, he's also a thief."

So if I say the mercy belongs to me I am a thief. It has got its source. All relative, this is relative estimation, where things belong to this or that. He may locate to his Gurudeva, it is not mine, it is extended from there, not my wealth. In a moment it may be withdrawn. I may be reduced to a madman. It is such.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Vyāso vetti na vetti vā.

[aham vedmi śuko vetti, vyāso vetti na vetti vā

[Lord Śiva says: "I know the true purpose of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam; Śukadeva, the son and disciple of Vyāsadeva, knows it thoroughly, and the author of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Śrīla Vyāsadeva may or may not know the meaning. The real purpose of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is very difficult to conceive and can only be known through bhakti."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 24.313]

The giver of the whole scripture, Vyāsadeva, he knows or may not know, he may know or may not know things of such nature. Transcendental means such, it descends and goes up.

Many things descended through Swāmī Mahārāja to you, so many, and when withdrawn, flying away so many. Withdrawn because they think this is nasty environment, I can't remain here, withdrawn.

And they say, "Oh I don't feel anything, see anything, no taste here." Flies away. And who with high regard and affection nurtures them, it grows and grows in extent there. By devotion it grows and by indifference and negligence vanishes. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So we close here today.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: So there is one verse in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, in the eleventh canto, it says something like...

["Although the Absolute Truth is one without a second, the sages have described Him in many different ways. Therefore one may not be able to acquire very firm or complete knowledge from one spiritual master."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.9.31]

[this verse is also quoted at the end of the transcript dated 81.10.06.B]

If only one letter Guru gives to the disciple that is infinite. But to know it fully, different sources are necessary to understand. Knowledge is infinite, and the highest position required is this, that I shall try to read the devotion towards Kṛṣṇa from everywhere. Everything will supply me some sort of inspiration towards the performance of my duty.

vana dekhi' bhrama haya – ei 'vṛndāvana', śaila dekhi' mane haya – ei 'govardhana'

["When Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu passed through the Jhārikhaṇḍa forest, He took it for granted that it was Vṛndāvana. When He passed over the hills, He took it for granted that they were Govardhana."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.55]

yāhāṅ nadī dekhe tāhāṅ mānaye — 'kālindī' [mahā-premāveśe nāce prabhu paḍe kāndi']

["Similarly, whenever Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu saw a river, He immediately accepted it as the river Yamunā. Thus while in the forest He was filled with great ecstatic love, and He danced and fell down crying."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.56]

Wherever I shall cast my glance, it will remind me about my Lord. They will teach me. They will press me to engage myself in my duty, in my service. That is the duty of Guru. Wherever I shall cast my glance, wherever I am come in contact with, that will only give me excitement, "do your duty." That is Guru. Guru who gives us impetus for the service of Kṛṣṇa, who helps me to look towards the centre, that is Guru, the work of Guru is this. Every atom in Vaikuṇṭha and Goloka, they will all help encourage me towards my duty, they're all Guru. Guru will be very amply available when we can raise ourselves to a particular level.

As if when we are in the lower stage everything is taking me out from the centre, out-carrying current. Whatever I shall see it will say, "Oh come and enjoy me." An invitation of enjoyment here in the lower level.

And inspiration of renunciation in a particular stage, the salvationists, everything what they find, "Oh this is nasty, this is not to keep company with so rejection, rejection, rejection."

And devotion, the positive side, everything will push me towards the centre, towards Kṛṣṇa. And those that will help me in that way they're my Guru. Gu ru means which dispenses the darkness of enjoyment, as well as renunciation. The darkness, this is all dark, this is all cover, and who will help me from that, from various, so...

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit / na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27]

Not to particularize in one point, so many śikṣā Guru, Guru paramparā, in the line of that descent of Guru, so they're all our Guru.

This Charu Swāmī, he told me one day he was challenged by someone in ISKCON, "That you are ignoring our Gurudeva. You are mixing with Śrīdhara Mahārāja and others."

And he told me he replied, "Devaṛṣi Nārada, do you think that he's out of our Guru paramparā?"

"No, no." Bhāvānanda or someone questioned him.

"Do you think that Devaṛṣi Nārada is out of paramparā, he's not mentioned here?"

"No, no, no. He must be in our Guru paramparā."

Then many coming in the Guru paramparā. Wherever we get something to help our spiritual life, he may be Guru.

So this is a deplorable article, to eliminate Guru...

82.11.18.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and others are all ignored. And Swāmī Mahārāja will be dissatisfied with such articles. He does not want that his Guru and Param Guru they'll be ignored, wilfully. That they cannot tolerate this. Swāmī Mahārāja won't be able to tolerate this. This is not a natural, but some designing article. But let the thing take its own course. What we can do?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: In that song, Guru Paramparā, by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, he traces this current from Kavirāja Goswāmī to Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura and he does not mention Lokanātha Goswāmī. So how to understand that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And many omitted. From Narottama he came to Viśvanātha Cakravartī. The middle Gurus were also there. But wherever it is vacant, clear, he has showed us that line. We're indebted especially in these points. Wherever we get some benefit, we must have our recognition and gratitude for them, at least. We can't tolerate this fact, the name of our Gurudeva is omitted. That may not, can't please me, and it won't please Swāmī Mahārāja also. This wilful suppression, this is not accidental, this is wilful suppression. Deplorable. He's depriving himself, they will not be affected, but he himself is deceiving him. The cataract growing.

Just as the Lord is not one, when we say about the king, that does not mean that the king is the only one, but with his paraphernalia. So God means with His paraphernalia, so Guru means also with paraphernalia, group, so many. Guru and Guru's Guru, and Guru's brothers, Guru's sons, so many, I am indebted to so many, more or less, main and auxiliary, principal and auxiliary. That maybe Guru and Grace, our fortune to get, to see more Guru, everywhere there is Guru. Everywhere we shall try to understand something. We shall try to draw the hints of the auspicious presence of Godhead.

yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati [tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati]

["For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

"Who can see Me everywhere and everything in Me."

Yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra. In the medium of everything we shall try to see Him, and who will show me my Lord, he's my Guru. Sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati. Tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa. His position is safe. To not to see Guru, that is a dangerous position. And to see everywhere Guru, all advising me to concentrate my energy towards the service of God, then we'll be safe. Guru. Then of course the specific vision. Guru. Gradation is there, gradation. From where I can get the maximum help. Maximum help and from which medium?

Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān. [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]
"I am Ācārya. You see Me in him. From whatever point I shall draw you towards Me."
That is Guru, more or less, attracting.

...

...Mahārāja at his time, he has omitted even the predecessors. From whose book Swāmī Mahārāja learned, and gave his interpretation, that is based on Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, mainly. Mainly from Bhaktivinoda's translation, he got the understanding about Bhagavad-gītā, and that is ignored. That is very deplorable. For his eagerness to omit the contemporaries, he had to omit the previous Ācāryas also, to whom Swāmī Mahārāja is indebted in direct connection. That is too much for us to tolerate.

When Bon Mahārāja went to preach in the west, and he wrote two books, "My first year in England. My second year in England." No trace of any name of his Guru, or Guru paramparā, Mahāprabhu, nothing of the kind.

So our Guru Mahārāja told us, "This is untouchable, because where there is no mention of our Guru, I won't touch it." That was his point.

So Swāmī Mahārāja won't feel any encouragement to touch that.

In this way. _____ [?] That high, high, highest, principle has been dealt by those Gurus, śikṣā, Rūpa and Sanātana, in such a way.

So our knowledge everywhere, not only in Paramātma, everything if we are to learn mainly we may learn from one place, but this is corroborated and verified from many sources, then it comes to be a proper knowledge of ones soul.

Viṣaya, saṁśaya, purva-pakṣa, mimaṁsā, siddhānta and saṁgatiḥ. [the thesis, the antithesis, cross-examination, synthesis, conclusion and verification from different sources]. By these six processes anything can be inquired and known. First viṣaya, what is the object of understanding? Then saṁśaya, if anything anti, any doubt about that, that must come forward and that must be cleared. To know anything this process is necessary. First the proposition, what is the thing to be known, then what is its anti group, any doubt, any suspicion about that, that must be taken in. Then purva-pakṣa, then it must be arranged in such a position, this I want, and this is the opposition, how to have a clear conception of the thing, in such stage. Then mimaṁsā, they come real understanding how it can be approached, in what subject, in all these details, is necessary stage. Then siddhānta, mimaṁsā, siddhānta, the fifth stage will be a conclusion. Then considering all these pros and cons we see that this is this, and not that. Then saṁgatiḥ, then verification, to verify from various sources, what conclusion I have come to, whether that is real, or not real. That is to be verified by precedence. Then it may come as the name of truth, in this world.

So many sources are necessary to verify to, for reference, all these things. Any knowledge presupposes consultation with different sources. Though mainly we can get from one source, at the beginning not one, beginning many, then we concentrate to inquire it from a particular higher source.

First it comes from hither thither, small quantity, sukṛti, ajñāta-sukṛti, then śraddhā, then sādhu-saṅga, we keep company. We seek, search for Kṛṣṇa, inquiry here, there, many places and they also help to certain extent. Then ultimately we go and where we find more possibility of learning we surrender there. And he has got his disciples also so many from previous time. Get some sort of help, he will recommend some books. "If you go through Bhagavad-gītā, go through Bhāgavatam, go through, by consultation according to his advice, then I am to read this book." That is also to get so many Gurus through the books. Then again also in the books we may find reference, if I go to, recommended by my Guru, to read one book then in book also I shall find many references, many quotations from many places.

So all of them have some contribution for me. And ultimately we are to understand that we are to enter into the land of Gurus. Everyone should be respected as Guru, that giving impetus to me to search Kṛṣṇa, to serve Kṛṣṇa. They're all help to centre me, centre carry, they're Guru. And this is most fortunate position that we may see everyone as Guru. No one servant and no one indifferent. That is our highest fortune to attain such environment. All Guru, here all servant, even father, mother, all servant. We want to draw from everyone in the world of exploitation. And renunciation everything eliminated, a deserted position, and then we enter into the land of eternal prospect. That is to learn to see that all Guru, all Guru. I am the servant, I am the servant. All Guru means all well wisher, all guardian. I shall invite help from everywhere. Their benediction, their grace will come from everywhere. All well wisher, all guardian, all guide me towards the highest attainment. So it is fortune, and there cannot be any objection to that.

But still there is gradation, as if in the very existence of God, gradation, Vāsudeva, Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, Dvārakesh, Mathuresh, Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa. The gradation is always there according to our position, in our position.

So we must not be afraid. Of course there is a time, when in the stage we are surrounded by the unfavourable environment and to get sādhu very rare. In that case to warn us that we may not mix with anyone and everyone. And also there are so many groups of sādhus, the māyāvādīs, the Buddha, the Śaṅkara, the nāga, all these things. So we may not run hither and thither only to find Guru, to get his advice. So to warn us from such unfavourable circumstances, to protect us, "don't try to see everywhere Guru," in a particular stage.

When we have attained the, we have already got taste, what is real good, then of course we are taken to such a plane and everyone will be Guru and helping me to my destination. And this caution has got some value when there is possibility that I have come to a Vaiṣṇava Guru. But there are so many want to devour me, and I do not know how to examine who is who, should be Guru. This Buddha, māyāvādī, nastika, so many red rags means sādhu, Guru. At that stage, to help us to concentrate, we must give our respect to Guru. And at every sampradāya that strict, has been used in every sampradāya.

"Only hear the word of your Guru, the advice of your Guru. Don't try to mix hither and thither, and to run and to have advice, then so many are enemy of your Guru." Who are not preaching the real truth, then warning is necessary in some stage, some stage. "Don't go to see Guru everywhere, because in that plane so many men in the dress of sādhu are going on with their lower campaign." This warning should come in that stage.

And in that stage also, to keep up and to develop our attention and devotion towards our Guru, so many helps should come from my senior Godbrothers. They will make me understand the greatness of my Guru in different ways, so they're also giving some help of Guru. In this way, many, one, many. In different departments this system is going on, and here also, but when we enter into the kingdom of service then of course everyone will help. Bhedābheda. sei ruti pravala habe parabhaum edeli feli [?]

Those that have got inner attraction towards Vṛndāvana, "If we mix with so many sādhus in Vaikuṇṭha, and if my inner awakening in the service of Goloka dwindles, then I shall be hurled down to Vaikuṇṭha." It is also there, the possibility. And of course in some soft-hearted stage, there is protection. Protection is necessary, but...

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If at heart we are sincere then the environment cannot deceive us, because God's inner help is there, cooperating with my sincerity. What I want from my inner most heart that cannot but come, because He knows everything. There may come some obstacles but by His help they should be eliminated in any way or other, and my inner most aspiration will be crowned with success.

Na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. "Rest assured that if you want real truth you will have that. I am there."

This assurance. One need not be afraid, but still in some position we shall be afraid of bad association, so in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu [1.2.91] it is mentioned...

[śrīmad-bhāgavatārthānām āsvādo rasikaiḥ saha] sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord, those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

Association of the sādhus in general is recommended, but especially what sort of sādhu we shall try to mix with earnestly. Who is in the same line of aspiration with me, and holding superior position to me. To associate with such sādhu, the common end and holding superior position to me, but in the common line of our camp. The association with that sort of sādhu will help us most in general. Sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare. Who is superior to me but must be in the same line with me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is coloured with a little colour otherwise, magnanimity. Even Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu may be said to possess more, because Rādhārāṇī is combined there. If we see Kṛṣṇa in Śrī Caitanya then those sixty four with some other complexion, colour, but if we consider Both one, then something added, twenty five. Śrī rādhikā ananta bhum potish padan [?]

Everywhere many qualities, and twenty five principal qualifications with Rādhārāṇī, and that is combined with Mahāprabhu, with Kṛṣṇa. Then it will go more, a peculiar combination of Positive and Negative. Deho vedamba toto [?]

They're separate in Vṛndāvana līlā, the Positive, Negative, rasa-rāja mahābhāva. The greatest hunger to suck the rasa, the greatest entity to squeeze the rasa, to attract the rasa from the fountain of all high rasa. And when Kṛṣṇa influenced by that, He Himself drawing rasa from His own and distributing to others, if we can conceive that. Kṛṣṇa has taken the position of Rādhārāṇī, mood of Rādhārāṇī, and extracting rasa from Himself and it is showing outside, madly. He's mad to give His own jewels inside to the people at large. And what sort of jewels inside? Which has got appreciation of Rādhārāṇī, that sort of high things, high juice is Himself emanating from Him and distributing here.

"What I am, what is My inside, which highest, tasteful thing in Me you all see, what am I?"

Unknown and unknowable, which cannot be known, He's making Himself known with all His attempts.

"You know who am I, what is in Me for you, what is in Me for you."

This highest truth, we cannot know Him without His sanction, without His consent, but now He Himself is taking the initiative.

"Know Me, take Me, what I am, for which so many yogīs, ṛṣis, devotees, they're trying their utmost with so much self imposed misery and privation. I am such and such. Of My own accord I want to make Myself known, to partake in the feast in Me. This is the most appreciable characteristic in Me. You take it."

It is almost impossible, almost impossible that the Infinite is vacating His house, vacating everything and throwing it out side making empty. Infinite, by some mad attempt He wants to distribute everything and to become _____ [?]

Just as we are told some kings Hasavadan Raghu [?] one day in a year, they used to give everything, distributed everything to the subjects and began his life in poverty. Hasavadan [?] Every five years he used to come to Allahabad, Prayāga, confluence of Gaṅgā, Yamunā, and all the wealth, whatever, everything given to the poor and needy. And with only a cloth around him he entered again his throne, and then daily coming, coming, coming, and every five years he used to take _____ [?]

And Raghu, the grandfather of Rāmacandra, he also used to do so. Once in a year, everything, nothing should remain in the royal treasury, all this, again he will begin.

In such a day, one brāhmaṇa boy came to him for Guru dakṣiṇā. In previous days brahmacārīs used to study in the house of his Guru, and after finishing, generally he was supposed to give some dakṣiṇā, and for dakṣiṇā where will they go? They will approach the king generally. "I have finished my study with my Gurudeva. My teacher's name is such and such, and I asked him for Guru dakṣiṇā and he wanted this from me."

First, generally the Gurus say, "Whatever you can manage you can give. Know whatever you like to have from me I shall give."

In this way that gentleman, _____ [?] "Some hundreds of golden flowers, this champaka flower I want from you. You are disturbing me. What do you want? What do you want? I want this, can you give?"

"Yes, let me try." He went to Raghu, then, "I have to give Guru dakṣiṇā. I have come to beg from you, brāhmaṇa is a beggar, I have come to you to beg this. I am pledged to my Guru to give so many things. So many golden champaka flowers he demanded from me, and I already committed so I have come to you."

"Man, brahmacārī, you have come today, tomorrow I shall have to give it to him, so you have come today then I have nothing. I have given everything from my treasury. All right, let me try."

Though this kṣatriya, they can if they're entitled to get money, or anything, any wealth from anyone by force, then Raghu ordered his charioteer, "I have nothing but tomorrow morning I shall have to go loot the treasury of Kuvera and to satisfy the brāhmaṇa's dakṣiṇā." So Raghu ordered, "Keep my chariot ready with all the weapons, keep it ready. Early morning I shall start to Kuvera, and to take by force so many things from his treasury and to pay off the brāhmaṇa boy."

Then Kuvera could...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...so many things to Raghu. "You need not go to him to take by force. I'm giving presentation to you all these things in this way."

Empty. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]

Speaking something about Lalitā Prasāda's good preacher. He has published that. How far it is true we don't know. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The eye, upanāyana, ontological eye, not this eye of flesh and blood, but the ontological eye should be opened, beyond the plane of exploitation and renunciation and calculative devotion and spontaneous devotion, towards one representing the whole.

Search after beauty, sweetness. Sweetness is more comprehensive than beauty. Beauty is relating to the eye, and sweetness both eye and ear and taste. More comprehensive its meaning, sweet. Eye beauty, ear beauty, touch beauty, that also may be said.

Wordsworth has written about a girl, Lucy Gray, or something. She lived in a village just situated on the banks of a river. And Wordsworth has written that, "The noise, the sound of the current of the river contributed in her growth of beautiful body."

And many gentlemen have tried to interpret how it is possible. "The sweet sound contributed for her beautiful figure." But one Bengali scholar he was master of about twenty to thirty languages, Harinatha De, big scholar in Bengal. He gave the interpretation and that very much impressed me. He wrote that, "Ear beauty was transformed into eye beauty. Ear beauty was converted into eye beauty. That the sweet jingling sound of the current of the river flow, that helped her to have a beautiful figure. Ear beauty was transformed into eye beauty."

And there is some usage in ancient Italy, he told, if any lady or girl commits any offence for which capitol punishment is to be given, they will be ordered to die in the water. So kill them by dying in the water. This tale reminded that. Those that die, suffocated within the water, in the next birth they have a very good, beautiful figure.

I heard from one of my professors, a professor and philosopher, Sanskrit professor, but he was very much into philosophy. He told me that, "Once I was in very much strong health, with my followers, friends, I was swimming in the Ganges. And anyhow I was tired and going to die in the water, can't get back, the current was strong. Other friends tried to save me, but I told them, 'you don't try. If you could, with some hint, then I could rescue you, but you have no power to do so, so let me off, die peacefully here.'"

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____[?] Then he told about his experience.

[06:50 - 07:50 - Bengali [?] conversation]

Then that gentleman told, "I was drowning." The Dying Swan, there is a poetry of Tennyson - that to die by drowning is a very happy death. And that professor told of his own experience. "I'm drowned, suffocated, a beautiful vision came in my front. I could see. And I could trace, as if, what is contained in my brain, that is being exhibited there in my front. And such sweet sound in the ear, and beautiful scenery, and I thought it just as my brain reflected, what is in my brain. And with that vision, and that sweet sound in the ear, I was enchanted and went there. Suddenly I found that friends were entering my body, by the force of the current they have cast in some high sandy place, and they could see and they're taking me. But it was a happy experience." That gentleman told. No pain of death.

And at the same time, whether he or from some other source, I can't remember, that the Italians promised the girl with a drowning death, so that the next life, out of that experience they may have a beautiful figure.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So today also you want to be in some place?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: No. Not today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tomorrow you are to visit your Gurudeva's place, Māyāpur. Eh?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Well, after Kṛṣṇa Sharan's dream, I'm just satisfied to be here. I don't feel a necessity to go anywhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But some of you go to show some honour?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your Gurudeva also visited here, and before, after, first when he came from his preaching tour he put up three weeks in that blue house. At that time that place was not purchased, no place, no plan. I gave the plan to Acyutānanda that, that is the place where you should construct your Maṭha, between Dāmodara Mahārāja and Goswāmī Mahārāja. A vast land is there, little higher, and you should purchase land there, it will have sufficient time to for extension. And it was done. But _____ [?] first came from me here. First in that blue house, and last time he came for two hours he took rest in that room where Nimāi - and told that, "A beautiful room."

I thought, that after visiting _____ [?] and all these things of high lineage he says that, "This room is beautiful." That came in my mind at that time. And this roof was half done, he saw. Those buildings and a portion of the roof was finished, and the other part, this side, the two thirds was unfinished. Then perhaps in his last time, I advised, that is not finished, you please finish that Nat Mandira Mahārāja. We requested, the last request.

Many times he came and lived here. And the first time he came and lived here, Madhan's mother also was there. And I appointed a cook for them, Acyutānanda and Rāmānuja, your Guru Mahārāja, Madhan's mother, and one or two brahmacārīs from this Maṭha lived there, and a separate cook engaged to prepare, and bhoga _____ [?] all was there. So I close.

Devotees: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and he wanted to take me there. I told that it may not be possible to live there all the time, but sometimes I must go and live with you. That was my expression. So it is not surprising that he has told that I shall stay with Śrīdhara Mahārāja.

Our duty here only. None of us not necessarily we went there in the samādhi of Prabhupāda. We did not go. In our own place. That he's not located, though some utility still, the more presence is in the sincere attempt of service.

Just as Mahāprabhu's Viṣṇu Prīya installed Mūrti is there, but we do not go there. Those Govinda, Gopīnātha, Madana Mohana, in Vṛndāvana, Rūpa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī, Jīva Goswāmī, established, but we do not necessarily go there. Because the service mixed with some offence is being done. That is our vision, so we don't partake. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And our Guru Mahārāja when his Gaurakiśora Bābājī's samādhi mandira was in Kuliyā, in town, but there arose a difference within the servitors. Those that had got command over the land, they did not accept Prabhupāda's preaching principle. So Prabhupāda left the place, with this remark that, "Bābājī Mahārāja has gone away from this place." That was his remark, that, "Bābājī Mahārāja is no longer staying in this temple of his samādhi. He has already gone away."

But these feelings must be sincere, otherwise have got difficulty. Everywhere sincerity, purity of the purpose is concerned. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Today is the day of disappearance of Swāmī Mahārāja. We may try to talk about him, according to our capacity. I saw him first in nineteen thirty in Allahabad. At that time he was an agent of Kārtti Bose Medical Company, _____ [?] Road, Allahabad. And that arrangement for Bhāgavata reading at night, I was white clad at that time, and one Bhāratī Mahārāja was very popular in explanation of Bhāgavatam. I took him there with a few other brahmacārīs for saṅkīrtana, and then Bhāgavata explanation, then again saṅkīrtana. And the arrangement was made for us to take prasādam there at night.

Swāmī Mahārāja's father, his previous life as Hari Charan De, his father Gaura Mohan, old man, he was also there. In the beginning, as he was in the line of the Goswāmīns dīkṣā, _____ [?] he did not relish in the beginning, but after hearing the Bhāgavata-pāṭ and kīrtana he was very much satisfied, we saw. And approached to mix with us affectionately, old man, affectionately and sincerely, with a smile, laughing. We took prasādam and went away. That was practical first connection with Gauḍīya Maṭha, of Swāmī Mahārāja.

I heard, later on, that he with one of his friends, Naren Boli [?], went to see our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, while he was in _____ [?] hired house. And after a talk with him, after attending the discourse of our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, he told that, "This thought came in my mind, that after so long a time, the teachings of Mahāprabhu have come to a proper place. The Goswāmīns they failed to represent Him. And now it has come in the hand of a proper person who will represent the teachings of Mahāprabhu in a fine and perfect way to the world. It was with this conception I came." Just after the second connection in Allahabad.

Then perhaps nineteen thirty three when the foundation stone of the present _____ [?] Gauḍīya Maṭha was laid, at that time he took Hari-Nāma dīkṣā. I do not remember exactly. Then I met him in Bombay. I was in the Maṭha there. And he, leaving his service as an agent, he started independently his own business, and Bombay he selected as his field, and his family was living there. At that time also, now and then, he used to come to the Maṭha. And when Prabhupāda went there, very often he used to visit the Maṭha.

And at that time Bon Mahārāja returned with two western followers. He was present, and his remark that, "Here the Europe defeated by Asia."

And also he said that, "There, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura in his discourse told that all of you must be prepared for western propaganda." Prabhupāda did for the preaching campaign in the western countries. And asked him also particularly, "You also be ready. You will have to go for propaganda in the west."

Then, after that, maybe thirty four, five, something like that, then long time I had no connection with him. I was in the Madras side perhaps, or _____ [?] preaching in Bengal in general way. Then after Guru Mahārāja departed and we were engaged in our internal position of - engaged in important position of how we can go together. And there was mainly two parties.

Prabhupāda, just before his departure he told, "Form a Governing Body of ten or twelve, but Kuñja Bābu will manage as long as he lives."

Because Kuñja Bābu he's generally considered to be the co-founder of the Mission. The ontological side represented by Prabhupāda, and this esoteric side, to get Maṭha and men, the monetary side and the external side, he was managing. In this way. So Prabhupāda had some grateful attitude towards Kuñja Bābu.

In spite of his affinity towards his family, which we could not - we who had left everything of our previous life's connection, it would be difficult for us to tolerate that a man who has kept his family connection doing the service, educating his brother and son in a family way, how he will be respected as the head of the management department? Little difficulty we felt for that.

But Prabhupāda, Guru Mahārāja, all along he was supporting Kuñja Bābu. "The Mission belongs to him." That was, when any complaint against Kuñja Bābu used to come, a little intense way, Prabhupāda said, "All may go. Only Kuñja Bābu should remain. Then everything will be all right."

We heard these remarks, though we were not very satisfied to hear that. Some far reached me we could understand but it was not very pleasant that a gṛhastha he will manage the sannyāsīns. That seemed to be redundant. The last words also, "Form a Governing Body, but Kuñja Bābu will manage as long as he lives." That was his last words.

And before that he registered a document. Three. At that time the Mission did not develop so much. So Kuñja Bābu, Paramānanda Prabhu, and Vāsudeva Prabhu, these three trustees. And Prabhupāda taking sannyāsa he registered everything to this Trust Board. That was there. And the Governing Body, the management above the principle and purity of purpose, some division began to grow. One, ontological side, another the management side. In this way. And the senior sannyāsīns they also wanted independence. And we wanted that there must - division means there must be an Ācārya. In this way it began to grow. Anyhow, the necessity of an Ācārya that was accepted, and all, the whole Governing Body, including Kuñja Bābu accepted that principle, an Ācārya was required. But a few of the senior sannyāsīns, including Bon Mahārāja, Bhāratī Mahārāja, Nemi Mahārāja, them three, Kuñja Bābu and Paramānanda, five members of Governing Body. And the other side, eight members of Governing Body. There the difference grew.

Then Kuñja Bābu he hired a house in south Calcutta and with his party he moved there. And we were told that many ornaments of the Deities, documents, all that were in his custody he removed them there. Perhaps some apprehension he may have had that they may be forcibly taken by the majority party. Anyhow he privately removed all the properties, ornaments, and important documents, and this was the mood we were told. We were not much concerned with the management. And he, to get the profit of that rule, that registered deed by Prabhupāda previously, he took it to get the profits. He took the line of the will, because minority. And the majority opposed was this side, here, there. And minority five members with that will, previously, another party. And few joined then, mainly about, more than three fourths with us and less than one fourth was with Kuñja Bābu when litigation began, in different ways. That was the first division.

Swāmī Mahārāja perhaps at that time he was in Bombay, and from there in the meantime he went to Calcutta. Then after two years perhaps. Prabhupāda, first of January, thirty seven. And about thirty nine, then again division began in our camp. Some private letters of Vāsudeva Prabhu carrying suspicion to his character very clearly, anyhow that came to light. And some of us could not tolerate that the Ācārya will have such a black spot. We were taking money and especially men to one who will have such suspicious character, black spot, we could not tolerate that. So, many took active part to correct that, to oust him, and to place another Ācārya.

But my position was quite different. I had got much friendship with Vāsudeva Prabhu. He also liked me much. I could not do anything against him. Simply, I was disappointed, dejected, and thought that according to my conscience I wanted to do something, purging some esoteric side with the ontological side, that principle. Making it principle we wanted to start. But God's will is otherwise, Kṛṣṇa's will is otherwise. When there is also such disappointment, so I should not live in the Mission, I'll go out and go on with my own life. It is not Kṛṣṇa's will. So I was passive but others were active to oust him. So again the quarrel began in this camp.

And so far that the party headed by Keśava Mahārāja was in the management of Māyāpur Maṭha, mainly. He was the manager there. Kuñja Bābu, general management of all the Maṭhas and the Māyāpur Maṭha with property, small zamīndāri etc, that was managed by Keśava Mahārāja, successfully. And they began to oust.

But among the supporters of Vāsudeva Prabhu was one scholar, that Nisikanta Sanyal. He was a man of unquestionable character and scholarship. In all respects he had got prestige. He stood for Vāsudeva Prabhu. So long tension, but they all had to come out, one by one.

I patiently tolerated everything, whatever it was that came on me, I could not leave the Maṭha, but did not take any opposition side, all passive. Only in a repenting mood. What is this? What for we came? And what is the present position? Suffering from disappointment. But as long as I could live there I was able to tolerate their cruelty I remained there.

Professor Sanyal had some special respect for me, "That he's sincere, intelligent, and not a seeker of any power or position. But he's really disappointed by something." Then Sanyal died.

I left the Maṭha and went for preaching purpose. And Śrīpāda [Bhakti Vicār] Yājāvara Mahārāja, and Mādhava Mahārāja - Hayagrīva Brahmacārī at that time, they followed me. I first went to _____ [?] and then _____ [?] Maṭha was established, independently. But I was not to remain in the Maṭha. I went first for a few months straight to Vṛndāvana. And from there, after observance of this Kārtika, I, without any information to any of the friends, secretly I managed to come and hire a house. I met my brother who was in _____ [?] in the service. I was penniless. What to do? In Vṛndāvana the mādhukarī system is there, but in Navadwīpa no mādhukarī system. And all gṛhastha they eat meat and flesh, so mādhukarī is not possible. I saw him and requested him, at the present, some money you may give to me. And with this arrangement I came and rented a house for two rupees per month. I came here privately. Then anyhow my friends they tried their utmost and found out me, and they began to come and go, in this way. Then Śakhī Bābu, one of my gṛhastha Godbrothers, he was very much affectionate to me. He purchased this land and I came and set up.

When I settled here and I went to Calcutta I found Swāmī Mahārāja again there. That was in Sitakanta Banerjee Lane, there two rooms, and four rooms were hired. And generally I used to live here, and now and then I visited Calcutta. And there was one office, and a few that came to live with me in the meantime, not very important brahmacārīns, they used to live there and to collect some funds, in this way. And when I went there I lived. More intimacy grew between Swāmī Mahārāja and myself, at that time that Abhay Charaṇ.

In the meantime Madan's mother came to me for initiation. I sent her back to Goswāmī Mahārāja. He had a centre there, nearby the house of Madan's mother _____ [?] Anyhow, the Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam was published at that time. I was living next door. I did our office work there. And intimate connection I had with him at that time. The Bhagavad-gītā translation began. The Back to Godhead first published there. And many discussions as well. I found that business is not very favourite to him. Anyhow but his heart is in the preaching line, Mahāprabhus, and very enthusiastic for preaching the doctrine of Mahāprabhu. Anywhere he finds any opportunity, publish one copy of that journal. In this way. And inevitably of course he had to do something for the business. In this way for a long time I lived with him. Then we had to leave that house and the connection was cut off. And I was getting some sort of information. He used to come here also at times.

Then also I heard that his youngest sister, that Mādhana's mother, she told me that, "I advised my elder brother that you tried your best but you are wholly unsuccessful in your business life. Your children are grown up. You leave them to their fate and take sannyāsa, and go to your proper field." And ultimately he did.

Before that he wrote a postcard to me. Perhaps that postcard may be with me, but I asked them to find out but failed, from Allahabad...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...I have got my - I'm very happy to hear the song of the birds, and beasts. I feel peace much more and pure in the company of the birds and beasts than the human society." That was his purport of his writing.

Then I heard that he went to Vṛndāvana, then came to me for asking for sannyāsa. But I told, considering his family condition, that try for some time for the life of renunciation; then you should take sannyāsa. But that did not satisfy him. Then he went to Vṛndāvana and tried to find a place for him for special study. And in Jīva Goswāmī's place, that Rādhā-Dāmodara, a big compound, there he, with the permission, constructed a room and began his study of Bhāgavatam, the translation, all these things, and took sannyāsa from Keśava Mahārāja. In this way. And already he was familiar with so many business men, of Delhi, etc, anyhow he managed to live there alone, and also could collect funds for the publication of Gītā and Bhāgavatam, all these things, alone, single handed he did that.

Then we suddenly heard that he had made arrangement with some capitalist and going to the west for preaching. And perhaps came here and saw me once. "That I'm going. I have already asked for the books to be sent to some port on the western India." And he will leave also via Calcutta, Madras, perhaps from Calcutta, he took the ship going to America. And then you know from him that he halted for a day or two in Śrī Laṅkā, and then going on the western coast took delivery of the books and started.

And it is written in his letters that he took great risk and inspiration. And dainyam, ātma-nivedan, to draw the higher authority to our level, the property is only to improve this dainyam, ātma-nivedan, goptṛtve, śaraṇāgati. Wonderfully I found that in his letters, how he emptied himself, and fervently praying to Kṛṣṇa to help him for this wonderful campaign. And how empty handed he landed there, and gradually he preached glorious successful life in the propagation of the love divine of Mahāprabhu, Kṛṣṇa prema, throughout the world. That is a wonderful tale, more supernatural than humanly.

Then also several times he visited me. I was told that he left in [nineteen] sixty five. And I don't remember what year he first came with Acyutānanda, and perhaps seventy eight or so.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Sixty eight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sixty eight, perhaps, or so, first. And then many a time he visited this Maṭha. And Acyutānanda lived with me nine months. I sent him to Calcutta, requesting Mādhava Mahārāja to give accommodation. And then there he met many gentlemen and started this present Caitanya-candrodaya Matha.

I went there several times, from the beginning of the Maṭha. And after his departure also I visited once or twice. My lecture was, "I used to come here with happy heart. Today I have come with a heavy heart." Then, I was always considered to be a friend of that institution. Gradually difference came, because I could not give up my independent consideration about Mahāprabhu's instructions, preachings. I have got my own mind. Gradually this difference grew.

At present they also tried to get help from me. And I also did not like that I should interfere with them. But dissatisfied members who came to me, according to my own religious conscience I used to advise them. First in the line of wait and see. Then the next stage I advised them, all the aggrieved parties meet together and ask them about your grievance, to modify, to be liberal. They also came several times. I recommended don't do so harshly, but mildly compromisingly, affectionately. Otherwise the people at large will lose faith in you. You say the appointed Ācārya and member so easily punished, then that will give a loss of faith in you in general. They accepted, partially. But then they thought that what Swāmī Mahārāja advised them, to come to decision and the committee is absolute. I could not accept that. When they came and told that I should support the decision of the committee, I told plainly that I'm not under your committee.

"No, no, no. We don't think like that."

Then I told that really, I'm not one with your committee, and not even am I wholly one with Swāmī Mahārāja. I have got my special consideration and conception about that. They wanted to know how. I told that my object is to go, though it is very difficult and vague, still I have got my aim towards mādhurya-rasa. As our Guru Mahārāja also gave me that hint, and in my writings also during his presence, or in Rāya Rāmānanda, and the Guru paramparā, and the mantra which he gets from the Guru, they're leading towards mādhurya-rasa, it is clear. But at the same time it is not very cheap. It is very, very high. But still that is the aim. I have written it clearly in my own Sanskrit poetry devoted to Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. And that was very much appreciated by Guru Mahārāja. All my articles led to that - that the very acme of our attainment is Rādhā-dāsya, the differentiation of the rasas of the service of Kṛṣṇa. That is leading to that.

And Swāmī Mahārāja what he gave you all, that is general devotion, not so much about the above realisation. In this way everything, difference grew. And I asked those who came to me, then you consult together and form a party and go on in your own way. Charu Swāmī and others used to come. They tolerated that so much, in theory. But when practically it was done they formed another party who were not satisfied with the present ISKCON government. Independently to reach your goal, and I may help you with my understanding, my experience, I may help. I can't tolerate much very big concern. I'm constitutionally unfit to mix myself with big affairs. So I may stand aloof, but you may combine and go on with your work as you can conceive, and with my experience I shall try to help you. In this way it has come to this present position.

Our friend, this Goswāmī Mahārāja, who had some appreciation of my talk about Mahāprabhu and these spiritual things. Charu Mahārāja went with some news to the west concerning me, but when he returned he told that Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja he has already begun. He has collected some tapes of the ISKCON during Swāmī Mahārāja's appearance, collected and brought here. And so many gentlemen used to come to me and they asked so many questions and I used to answer them as I know. And they were taped and these things were pushed there somewhat independently by our Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Prabhu. I heard, I got the information from Charu Swāmī. And perhaps he, and Bhāvānanda Mahārāja, and another gentleman, went to deal with Haṁsadūta Mahārāja, to bring him in the peaceful connection with ISKCON. At that time _____ [?] told this.

And a little before, that Pradyumna Prabhu, he came to me with eighteen points of difference with the ISKCON. And I sent it to Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja. But he told that he's very busy in his present propaganda. When he will come to Navadwīpa, during Gaura Pūrṇimā Utsav, the birthday of Mahāprabhu, he will meet me. But he came and went away, did not care to meet me.

Then those who were dejected, they were indifferent to ISKCON and went away. At that time also many came, and I asked them, wait and see, and you combine yourself and put a petition to the body. And if they do not care in any way then you can form a committee of your own. And according to your conscience you go on with the instructions you could understand from your Guru Mahārāja. You should not leave the mission altogether and go back to your private life, but remain in your spiritual life and try to continue with this propaganda, and of same conception. You persons of same, similar conception, you meet together and form a party and go on with it. That was my _____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Once, while in America, Swāmī Mahārāja was very much ill, sick, and apprehending that he'll have to go away. He wrote a letter to me, "That I feel that I won't live long. What do you want? Should I go back to India and die there? Or here I shall live and go on with my work up till my death?"

I of course, he told me, though unpleasant, I consider by the success of your activity there, that that land has been attached to you by Guru Mahārāja for your field of action. And Mahāprabhu told that prabhu-datta-deśa rūpa sanātana. To Rūpa, Sanātana, He has particularly given the field of Vṛndāvana. So I think you are given that land for your propaganda, and you go on living there up to your last breath. At the same time, my request, after your departure your samādhi will be in India. This arrangement should be like that, you'll be brought here and some samādhi.

Anyhow, that unpleasant circumstance passed away, by the divine will of God hopefully. And he got sufficient time to preach there more. And at last he came here. He left this globe in Vṛndāvana, little higher place. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And this _____ [?] departure circumstance also was very happy. I heard from Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī and Charu Swāmī who told that he attended his last bed, he was taking the Name.

He absolved himself from any offence what he thought he might have committed against the Godbrothers, for his remarks against many. "For the necessity of the preaching activity I might have abused my Godbrothers. I beg forgiveness for that."

This dainyam, humility. And while taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, I heard from Charu Swāmī, that he was taking silently the Name of Kṛṣṇa, lying on his back. Then the very last moment, "Hare Hare Kṛṣṇa." In this way two hands went up, then the hands fell, finished, departed, happy departure.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca patitānāṁ pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ

[I offer my respectful obeisances unto all the Vaiṣṇava devotees of the Lord. They are just like desire trees who can fulfil the desires of everyone, and they are full of compassion for the fallen conditioned souls.]

And he requested, the last time when he came here in this Maṭha, two hours at noon he took rest in that room, on the roof. After coming he told me, "A very good room." But I thought at that time, one who has got the experience of so many big high buildings of New York, London, etc, and this small room he's relishing so much. It is wonderful. That came to my mind. What is this? That is from another standard, standpoint.

And at that time the two thirds of the roof of this Nat Mandir was not finished. He saw it, so he asked, the last time, "That if that is not finished - Nat Mandir of Śrīdhara Mahārāja, you try to finish it. And also, try to have constructed Nat Mandir in Yoga-pīṭha, Mahāprabhu's temple _____ [?] lecture hall there.

And a Trust - old, holy places, for restoration he created a Trust Fund, I was told.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

He had extraordinary appreciation for Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, for his tendency and endeavour to preach the teachings of Mahāprabhu to the present civilised section. First, when they met, he noted that and he expressed, "That after so long a time the responsibility of the preaching of the doctrine of Mahāprabhu has come to a proper place."

And at the last position, in the last life also, he showed the same thing, he carried out that at the latter part of his work, he began. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura conceived, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura began, and he has done with a great success - Swāmī Mahārāja. The propaganda, the preaching of the doctrine of Mahāprabhu in the civilised western world.

And as a result of that you have come. So much so that I was conceived to be sent to the west, but I could not. But overflowing flow of the propaganda of Swāmī Mahārāja has brought you all here to me. He was so intensely and sincerely he took up to finish the latter part, after part of the preaching community of his Guru Mahārāja. Overflowed, and he came. And I'm also given a chance. He was lent first, and in the last stage also he's being utilised in an inundation, charming.

And Guru Mahārāja once told, when this Bhakti Vijaya Bhavan was built by the management of Kuñja Bābu, [Bhakti Vilās] Tīrtha Mahārāja later on, and near the gate of the Maṭha.

In some Vyāsa-pūjā address Prabhupāda remarked, "That my Śrī Vigraha, my favourite incarnate, he has given me a position on the gate of the Maṭha. What is this?"

He began his life inside. Maybe this old building was near Rādhā-kuṇḍa. This Govardhana considered - the elevated land of Caitanya Maṭha as Govardhana. And with little tank named Rādhā-kuṇḍa. And building his own simple two storied building he used to stay there in his bhajan life.

"That I'm sitting near Rādhā-kuṇḍa, Govardhana. _____ [?]

But his new building was constructed just near the gate of Caitanya Maṭha.

With a little touch of deploration he told, "What is this? Why am I placed near the gate? It is the custom of the Rāmānuja sampradāya. That Garuḍa stambha, just far away, and outside the gate the Garuḍa stambha is built and there from far off they see, have a look at their master. But Mahāprabhu has demolished all these things. He has given the servitors their place, shown from Bhāgavatam, that that is on the lap, on the shoulder, on the breast, on the head. Kṛṣṇa as being the supreme entity is so gracious that He has accepted His servitors on His lap, on His breast, on His head, on His shoulder. So thick is the affectionate connection. And then how I am posted near the gate like Rāmānuja sampradāya?" He deplored.

In this sort of theism as given by Mahāprabhu that gives the place of the servitors very near, very closer, the closest to the entity of love. The servant may be so much affectionate, so much old, so much favourite, sometimes, He Himself wants to serve His servants so, and in permanent thing.

Jesus showed, before his crucifixion, he washed the feet of his followers. "That the emblem, that I take out all the filth, dirt, that may be supposed to exist in your lowest part. I cleanse you wholesale, of all the nasty dirts included in you."

And Guru, "I'm preparing you to be accepted by my Lord. I'm cleansing you to the utmost. I think it is my duty to clean up the disciple from all his conceptions of meanest dirts, meanest things of him. To purify, to be acceptable by my Lord." The duty of Guru is the duty of a servant. Our Guru Mahārāja, whenever he was shown any honour - dāso smi - that was his reply every time, dāso smi. "I am your servant." That was his, voice came always, that was the fashion. Whenever anyone is lying prostrated before him, dāso smi. "I want to purify you to be acceptable to my Lord. That is my duty." He says.

And the purification is extreme, not only ending there, but purification of such a degree that it can climb up to the realm of affection, so intense, that one can climb the - in sākhya-rasa, on the shoulder, and the lap. Sukadeva Goswāmī, nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanaṁ hariḥ

["Having heard of the great fortune of mother Yaśodā, Parīkṣit Mahārāja inquired from Śukadeva Gosvāmī: O learned brāhmaṇa, mother Yaśodā's breast milk was sucked by the Supreme Personality of Godhead. What past auspicious activities did she and Nanda Mahārāja perform to achieve such perfection in ecstatic love?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.46]

"What sort of peculiar wonderful sādhana is there, by which that Parabrahman, the highest entity, can be attained in such a most intimate position, intimately we can have? We can play with Him. We can climb on His shoulder. Many things. And Yaśodā can whip, Nanda's shoes also He can bear on His head. So close connection theism."

martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me

tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai

["One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.29.34]

"He enters into Me. And what does it mean properly? Me means that I am Brahman and he enters and disappears? It is not that. Me means My family. I have got My eternal family. And he's accepted to give service there, and so impossibly intimate service."

So connect with that sort of highest prospect of our life through so many, that is not a very easy thing. And to accept that sort of expedition, to begin and to continue and to attain success of that, it is not a very easy thing. It is the highest fortune one can expect to have, hope to have.

So today is the day of departure of Swāmī Mahārāja. We show our highest honour to him, who has fulfilled the high, internal desire of our Guru Mahārāja, common good, Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Mahāprabhu. And given both Mahāprabhu līlā, Guru līlā, and Kṛṣṇa līlā in Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa līlā. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Ke? Who is there?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: That's Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then has that Cidānanda Prabhu come?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Cidānanda, he's physically weak. But Parthamitra Prabhu, he will go.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Soon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Has he taken something, here, prasādam?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: We're going to fast, until noontime.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. _____ [?]

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, once you gave this example, that the śiṣya is like a lotus, and the Guru is like water, and Kṛṣṇa is like the sun. Where is that example from?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I do not know the origin. I heard it from one of my Godbrothers, [Bhakti Gaurava] Vaikanash Mahārāja. He was a scholar _____ [?] I heard from him, it's so beautiful, but I forgot. _____ [?]

Perhaps not in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava literature, it may come from Rāmānuja section, or any other section _____ [?] I've not seen in any book, but I heard from Vaikanash Mahārāja's lips.

82.11.19.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Also, once you quoted Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, about his feelings of separation, and how he was seeing Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Govardhana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Very painful, most severe. It is almost a parallel thought. The sun is burning. So the Govardhana, Rādhā-kuṇḍa, the mediators, one who taught me the transcendental greatness of these signs that have got very intimate connection with my Lord, they're withdrawn. The medium is withdrawn, next, nearest medium, will know that great reaction. He's there, and who connected that high thing with me, he's gone away. It is there. I can't get it. So Guru is such.

So many mediators there may be, but with the nearest mediator withdrawn. That vehement experience came to him. This dreadful expression did not appear from his mouth when he had experience of departure of Mahāprabhu and Svarūpa Dāmodara. There also some experience he had, tearing his hairs like a mad man. But still had some affinity for some future prospect in Vṛndāvana. He went to see Vṛndāvana. But when in mature condition the medium taken off, then that fierce condition he felt.

This is Rādhā-dāsya, so he could give vent to Rādhā-dāsya, is the highest. The higher form of negative, that draws substance from the positive, and distributes to us. That is the mood. It is there, but we can't have it. So the disappointment to the highest degree is Rādhā-dāsya.

And our Guru Mahārāja told, "Our highest concern is with Rādhārāṇī, and because Rādhārāṇī feels intimacy with Kṛṣṇa, so we have concern with Kṛṣṇa."

So pure, that he was so faithful to the highest conception of negative substance, to clear out the dust of the negative substance. Our real connection with the high negative propensity. Without that, to have any direct with Kṛṣṇa, what we get in quality and quantity that is nothing. Ordinary people may think that they're getting much. But the real experts they consider that that is nothing. The quality and quantity we get through the medium of Rādhārāṇī, that is telescopic system, what we can see by microscope, by telescope. But what the ordinary eye sees is nothing. Some thing like that. Who has seen with a microscope or a telescope, he will curse his eye. "That I can't see. What is the necessity of this eye?" Something like that.

Devotee: Mahārāja. [0604 - 0648 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. So Rādhā-dāsya comes out of that feeling.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hari Charan says, "You say something about the greatness of your Gurudeva."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: We're going to speak in the temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. _____ [?]

...

Bhāgava: ... I wrote something on Rāmānuja sampradāya and it came very easily.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāmānuja?

Bhāgava: Yea. I wrote something very short on Rāmānuja sampradāya, Śrī sampradāya. But with Kṛṣṇa līlā there are things I do not understand. From the time of Kṛṣṇa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You go through - have you gone through Caitanya-śikṣāmṛta of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

Bhāgava: No.

Aranya Mahārāja: That is not translated into English, Guru Mahārāja. Caitanya-śikṣāmṛta is not yet in English.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know Hindi?

Aranya Mahārāja: _____ [?] I don't think so. I think he just speaks English.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It has been translated into Hindi long, long ago, I know that. And also Teligu, by Raghunatham _____ [?] Jagannātham. And Tikam [?] Singh in Hindi. But whether it is translated into English I don't know. It should have been done, because there we find comparison with this Vedic religion with the western different conceptions of philosophy. The Kant, the Hegel, the Spencer, Schopenhauer, all these, comparative study in Caitanya-śikṣāmṛta. In Jaiva Dharma the comparative study is confined to Indian conceptions of religions in different forms. But the western philosophy has been compared with these eastern theological ideas in Caitanya-śikṣāmṛtam.

Bhāgava: I wanted to know what the condition of Vaiṣṇavism was, or of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa worship was like from the time of Kṛṣṇa's disappearance...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa worship, Rāmānuja, Lakṣmī-Nārāyaṇa.

Śaṅkara, non-differentiated mass of consciousness.

Rāmānuja says, "No, it is differentiated, the mass of consciousness with differentiation and specification. Everything is true, this physical, or mental, or spiritual. The material, adhokṣaja, that is transcendental world, all true. But this is flickering, and that is permanent, eternal." And he says that, "If we deal with closer inspection we shall find that the mass of consciousness is personal, a big person. A small drop, point of consciousness is a small soul, insignificant jīva soul. And the huge consciousness is a huge person."

And He's Vāsudeva, or Puruṣottama. He's the support of Brahman. Brahman is the halo of His body as a whole, Vāsudeva. The person who is inside everything, and who includes everything in Him, both. Kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ.

[yasmāt kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ
ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ]

["Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18]

"I'm above these two fold creations. One part of creation is changing, another unchanged. But akṣarā means which is unchangeable, and kṣarā means which is always changing. And I'm above these two substances. I'm Puruṣottama, I'm Vāsudeva. Not that stagnant Brahman, above that stagnant Brahman, and what is the misconception of the Brahman here, always changing, above that also, I'm personal."

Because consciousness means person. There cannot be any consciousness which is not person. A small point of consciousness, small personality, individuality. Without individuality no consciousness possible. Just as without the power of resistance no matter can exist, either positive or negative existence. Matter means occupying some space, or some energy, which can offer resistance to another. Some conceptions of matter. So the conception of consciousness unit means personal, cannot be impersonal. What is conceived to be impersonal, that will be hazy conception of the halo of that person. So Gītā says Puruṣottama vada imam.

brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, [amṛtasyāvyayasya ca / śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca]

Kṛṣṇa says: "I am the basis and original mainstay of the undivided divine vitality of the impersonal Brahman, which is immortal, imperishable and eternal, and is the constitutional position of inexhaustible nectar and the sweetness of the ambrosia of profound love divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 14.27]

"I am the supporter of that Brahman conception." And in another place, [yasmāt] kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ / ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ. "The best of all persons." In Bhagavad-gītā, Vāsudeva conception.

Above that Rāmānuja says, "If we look very distinctly, very carefully, then we shall find that that person has got a potency. And if we can analyse His potency then we shall find so many servants, and Lakṣmī Devī also, potency. The person has got his śakti, his potency. The consumer and something to be consumed.

When Vāsudeva, more closer inspection unfolds, He, aspects as serving and service taking, two aspects. Puruṣa who accepts the service, and prakṛti who is engaged in the service of Puruṣa. Lakṣmī-Nārāyaṇa. Closer inspection of Vāsudeva reveals that Nārāyaṇa is surrounded by His potential subordinates, and that is found in Vaikuṇṭha, and they're all engaged in service of Nārāyaṇa. It is Vaikuṇṭha.

And there we're told, two and a half rasa. The submission of the servitors to their Master, Nārāyaṇa, and before that submission first they have got their independent individuality, but with submission to Nārāyaṇa, that is śanta-rasa. And the further development, dāsya-rasa, when the active service is added to the submission then it becomes dāsya-rasa, the ecstasy of service in the transcendental realm. When confidence is added to that service it becomes sākhya, but full sākhya, friendly service, is not seen in Vaikuṇṭha. Because of the awe and reverence in the object of their service, so not very confidential, or simple.

"But as friends we hold equal position. If we play, sometimes we shall climb the shoulder of our Master, and sometimes we shall accept Him on our shoulder. We're equal."

That full confidential service is not possible in Vaikuṇṭha because of the awe and reverential atmosphere of the place, grandeur, resourcefulness, infinite, all this, some sort of reverence and regard predominates there.

Rāmānuja says here, "It is finished, no further."

Śaṅkara ends in non differentiated mass of consciousness.

Rāmānuja says, "No, within that the potency and the owner of the potency. A person is there, the service also there. It is Vaikuṇṭha." So far Rāmānuja's philosophy. "And by śaraṇāgati we can attain Him." All these things are there, śuddha-bhakti, it is accepted as pure devotion. The service is the real nature of every person. They can thrive there, they can be quite natural there in that soil. And here abnormal life they're leading. This is according to Rāmānuja.

And Lakṣmī Devī, Śrī Lakṣmī, She's serving Nārāyaṇa with Her she-friends also there. And there are many males servants also there. In this way, the land of service. And that dignity, awe, reverence, respect, grandeur, that is the nature of that domain, that realm, transcendental, divine.

Bhāgava: Why is there differences between Madhvācārya and Rāmānuja? They fight sometimes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāmānuja says viśiṣṭādvaita. There, jīva and God's world, Rāmānuja's philosophy may be analysed in this way. Para, means that original conception of Godhead, Nārāyaṇa.

Vyūha, in Vaikuṇṭha many delegating aspects of Nārāyaṇa on all His sides, about twenty four. First delegation, Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna and Aniruddha. And everyone of these four has got some, five, so altogether twenty four delegated aspects of Nārāyaṇa is found with all Their resources, Lakṣmī sevā, etc., vyūha.

And then vaibhava, the Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha. One aspect of Nārāyaṇa descends here in the mundane world for the protection of the good and the destruction of the bad. And to preach the truth, devotion, and save the truthful devotees. Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha, Nṛsiṁha. Vaibhava Avatāra.

Then he says another Avatāra, para, vyūha, vaibhava, antaryāmī, the Paramātmā, all permeating principle everywhere, within every atom. That is called as Paramātmā extension of Nārāyaṇa, as one aspect.

And arcā, the Śrī Mūrtis here and there we find that it is Nārāyaṇa also. To the most blunt headed He comes as if in material shape though He's not material. But to draw service from the most gross minded He appears in this Arcā-Mūrti, Śrī-Mūrti, Śrī-Vigraha, and accepts service in the physical plane. Then He will gradually draw them towards inner conscious service, inner conscious realm.

And this world is the outer cover of the Vaikuṇṭha, the spiritual world. And by śaraṇāgati, this surrendering, and by listening, and the service of the devotees have been given very much importance in Rāmānuja sampradāya. The service of the devotees can take us in high speed to that Vaikuṇṭha. And śaraṇāgati is generally necessary to go up to Adhokṣaja realm.

And Madhva - there are short ślokas, one made by Madhva, another by Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa.

Sri madhva traha tatvam harena paramam [?] I can't recollect those ślokas. In one śloka on the principle of Madhvācārya has been put _____ [?] sriman madhva matay hari para tamo satyam jagat tat jato [?]

According to Madhvācārya, hari para tamo, Hari is the highest God of all conceptions of gods. Different gods but Hari is the highest God. Sriman madhva matay hari para tamo satyam jagat tat jato [?]

And Śaṅkarācārya says, "This material world does not exist."

Madhva says, "No, this world does exist." satyam jagat tat jato [?] vedo jīva gana [?] There are differences in all the individual souls. All are not equal or identical or same. Every point is differentiated from another point of all the conscious atoms. They're all of different type, specific type, vedo jīva gana [?]

Hari _____ [?] But all of them are servants of Hari. Nityocho harang gata [?] And there is hierarchy, some in lower section, some higher." In this way. madhva matay hari para tamo satyam jagat tat jato vedo jīva gana hari _____ nityocho harang gata [?] That sādhana to get back Hari, only śuddha-bhakti is necessary. This is the conception. All other points I forget. It is there in the books. This is Madhvācārya. He puts great stress in the difference of jīva and Bhagavān, God and jīva. They're very, very different.

Śaṅkarācārya says, so ham, "That is one and the same."

Rāmānuja says, "No, they're part of the body, but service taking and service giving, but in one system."

Madhvācārya laid much stress on the difference, that they're of another kind, that is śakti, vibhinnāṁśa.

And Hari as svarūpa-śakti. Svarūpa-śakti and this is taṭasthā-śakti, in this way, different.

In this way there are so many other points of differences, but I forget them.

Bhāgava: Sometimes I hear the Madhvas and the Rāmānujas they fight, they're fighting with each other.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, sometimes, not so many, the fighting between the Madhva and Śaṅkara, that was very extreme. And sometimes Rāmānuja sampradāya was selected as umpire between them. Once, there was a very big battle between Madhvācārya's last disciple successor Akṣobhya, and Vidyaranya who was a stalwart in the Śaṅkara School. A great fight for long time. And Deśikācārya who was a scholar of the Rāmānuja section, he came to make compromise, we're told.

But Rāmānuja is also a Vaiṣṇava of pure type, because Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, and devotion, bhakta, Bhagavān, bhakti. The Master, the servant, and the service in the middle. This is recognised by all the Vaiṣṇava satvata sampradāyas, with some different conceptions about the position of the Master and the servant, and how to serve. Rāmānuja laid stress in service of the devotee, tadīya-sevā. The service of the Vaiṣṇava is greater than the direct service of Nārāyaṇa Himself. It gives concrete result, and that is a little vague, far off. And also śaraṇāgati, he laid stress in surrender.

And Madhvācārya, the difference between jīva and Īśvara, a great uncompromising difference between the two. The servitor class, the slave class, and the Master, has laid very much stress.

And also, mukti, _____ [?] According to the conception of Madhvācārya what is mokṣa, what is liberation, that is to get the service of the Divine Feet Viṣṇu. _____ [?]

And Viṣṇuswāmī, Śrīdhara Swāmī, they are also of the same faith, more stress towards the whole thing is one. Though the Master and the servant, and the relationship between them, but he laid stress on the oneness of the whole. And also the service must be of free loving nature, and not very rigid, strictly following the imposed control of the śāstra. More loving than śāstra control, or whatever you like, viddhi, the rules. Service should be more loving than following the rules and regulations. That is their idea, Viṣṇuswāmī. And Vallabha Swāmī in Gujarat they are found in great number.

And the Nimbarka sampradāya, another of the four, dvaitādvaita. They give both, something common and something different. And Rādhā-Govinda is the highest conception, and through love we must try to get His service. But they have given stress that not Rādhā-Govinda, they're married couple, not this parakīya. Not married ladies following their husbands and they deceive them and they go to serve Kṛṣṇa, this has not been accepted by the Nimbarka School. They're all married to Kṛṣṇa, and they have some līlā, in this way. That was svakīya-vada.

And Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, parakīya. And their nocturnal līlā has been described by Nimbarka. And Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava's most important union is in daytime Rādhā-kuṇḍa, and some differences there. And they say dvaitādvaita, both oneness and difference. And Mahāprabhu gives a strict qualification, that that must be acintya, one qualification must be there. Only something common, something different, that is not the whole truth. Because the difference and the common depends on His sweet will.

"I am everywhere, nothing in Me. I am nowhere, everything in Me. I am everywhere, everything in Me. I am nowhere, nothing in Me."

Can you conceive? So that means it depends on His sweet will. Where and how much He's different from others, and how much He's one and the same with others. It depends on Him, so acintya. It is inconceivable distinction and simultaneously existing between the jīva and the jagat, and the dhāma, Vaikuṇṭha. Everywhere this acintya bhedābheda, something common, something different. And that cannot be within the estimation of the jīva or anyone. It fully depends on Him. This is Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism, Mahāprabhu, bhedābheda, acintya.

Bhāgava: So He can empower a jīva - so He can take ordinary jīva and empower him tremendously.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, śaktyāveśa He can do. He can design and destine. He's independent in His design, and also He can destine, everything subordinate to Him.

Bhāgava: The parakīya-rasa was not known before Mahāprabhu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It was there in Bhāgavatam, in many Purāṇas also. And Mahāprabhu when He came He gave a clear mood to that, practically, that is supporting. Not that He took for Himself such practice. He was of an Ācārya nature. He did not accept any others married girl. But Kṛṣṇa did it and He supported that fully. That is the highest position of our service. When we are ready to risk - the highest risk we take for the service, crossing the rules and regulations in the society, and so-called religion. We admit His autocracy over everything, above law. No partition or demand on His right. His right is exceptional and supreme - to have recognition of that, even crossing the rules of the scriptures and also the laws of the society, one takes so much risk, and that is the highest dedication for the Absolute Good.

This is the conception underlying the Bhāgavata School, the Vṛndāvana School. And that was supported by Mahāprabhu perfectly, scientifically. That His right can never be challenged by anyone's right. His right over everything is absolute, in the highest sense. No law can enter and can plead any deviation from that point. He's above all. Laws come from Him. Law is there where it is to decide things between two or many, then law, justice, comes into existence.

And where is oneness, all belonging to Him, everything for Him, this Hegelian philosophy. "He's for Himself. Everything is for Himself, and He's also for Himself, not sub servant to anything else." So fully to realise this and to obey that, that He's the authority above law. His ownership over us, His claim over us is absolute, not to be considered from any point outside. This recognition is the highest recognition of the fact that He's for Himself, and everything for Himself.

Do you follow?

Bhāgava: Yes. He's above the law.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Above all. So His claim over everything above all. No consideration, no argument, no complaint can come in that realm. No law can come to decide the right of His claim to anything and everything in this world. To have full faith and full regard and full preparedness for His service crossing everything else, that is parakīya.

In another sense parakīya means the circumstance has got some demand on me. Keeping it outside to my free choice to be taken up and to be given to my Lord of heart. The circumstance has come clean over me, so outwardly I'm admitting so-called claim, but internally my free choice I take out and I offer to my Lord of heart. That is also another aspect.

Do you follow?

Bhāgava: Yes. After the time of Kṛṣṇa there was a gradual increase in - there was decrease, and then Buddhism came. Was there a Vaiṣṇava conception around the time of the Buddhists, or was it finished at that time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The growth of the development of theism in this plane came to its highest point when Kṛṣṇa descended here. You will find in Śrī-Kṛṣṇa-saṁhitā by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. You should read, go through that book. And then it reached the acme, the highest point, during Vṛndāvana līlā. And then it began to degrade, and there was some chaos, Buddhists came.

And you don't think only about the social necessary development from outside, that everything coming out of necessity from the fossil. The sweet will of the Lord is playing, is the cause of every play, and is under and over all sorts play the supreme sweet will.

So after that Buddhists came and preached about ahiṁsā, śanta-rasa, because we may think that this parakīya question may degrade the whole thing. And that may be just as like sahajiyā that may be imitated by many and lose their fortune. So anyhow, the change in the age began after it reached the zenith, and then decline in the necessary revolving of this worldly law. Going up and going down, in this way, cyclic order, the Satya, Tretā, Dvāpara, Kali. So Buddhist came, and then came Kali to finish all, their boisterous, atheistic movement from this extreme position...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the golden age comes to peep, awaken. Again the new awakening of the worldly movement begins. So now I finish here. Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Śrīmad Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jaya Śrī A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Devotees: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Mahārāja, you were explaining about the subjective evolution _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Eternal good _____ [?]
Eternal play of the absolute good extended, how it extends itself in the mundane plane. Eternal play of the absolute good, how it comes to extend itself to this mundane plane. The eternal līlā coming here, prapañca _____ [?] comes down. It is eternally going on, everything there, and sometimes it gets the chance that it comes down to this mundane. That will be the purport. Eternal play of the absolute good, how He extends in the mundane plane. Evolution means from unknown coming to the known zone _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: What is he saying?

Devotee: Evolution means, he says, there is a certain change also found in evolution...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A process of change.

Devotees: A line of evolution, process of evolution. Change. Power is changing into matter. At every step evolution changes _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Evolution means the gradual expression. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, whenever we're saying subjective evolution _____ [?] it's not limited. That is why it is quite natural that everything change, as we can find change in Kṛṣṇa līlā...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everything is eternal, every part also is eternal.

Devotee: Yes. That is why the evolution is quite natural there...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No progress.

Devotee: Because monotony is not there, actually. Nothing can be static...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not progressive. Progression may be tested here, but everything is already existing.

Devotee: Existing, but we cannot realise the whole thing...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You may not. It may come down here in a progressive way.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And that may be seen by us as evolution, but that is coming by instalments.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. It is there.

Devotee: Everything is eternal, and that is perfect.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The sun is rising, the sun is already there in full phase, but partially it is coming to our vision, and we say sun rising.

Devotee: Yes, it is like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But it is there. To our sense experience it is coming gradually, expression.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja says that, "Any business talk, otherwise he'll go away, he's got his call for others."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. I'm finished for now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. A call from some other part _____ [?] So almost finished here, eh?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well, what I want to do is, I have this one transcript with me, when you spoke on the subjective evolution of consciousness to Svarūpa Dāmodara at Gaura Pūrṇimā time. So I want to publish this, but there's some questions that I have to ask you, that it's not clear to me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well, I'll have to get the transcription and ask you. I don't have it with me right now. I can go get it if you want.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I don't have the transcription with me, it's in my room.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Transcription _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Transcript means you speak on a tape and we type it out.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have got with you?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: In my room.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You may bring that?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I'll bring that to you now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: O.K. And before I go I just wanted - on one other thing in regards to these publications, so we want to make the Śikṣāṣṭakam, The Subjective Evolution of Consciousness, and then...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Subjective?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Subjective Evolution of Consciousness. That will be one...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Subjective Evolution of Consciousness...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That's the title.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Evolution in the mundane plane...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that presupposes. It is already there, just as the sun is there, coming to us part by part. It is already there. Evolution means coming in a particular process by instalments to us, but it is already there, whole thing. That must be cleared.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. This is against mundane evolution.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, mundane, evolution extension in the mundane.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Right. So then another book I was thinking of was on the subject of Guru, because you have spoken so much about Guru. So I was thinking to make one book about Guru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You may consult Guru And His Grace, one article already written by me long ago.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] That is published in Harmonist as well as in Back to Godhead. _____ [?] You may consult that as a basic principle.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. We can include that also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. And you may use it as introduction to that book.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So what do you think should be the title of the book? Guru And His Grace?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, maybe.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That maybe, yes. O.K.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I like when you said, "Guru, heavier than the Himālayas." You once said, "Guru is heavier than the Himālayas." I wanted to use that title. But if you think Guru And His Grace is a better title then I'll use that. You would prefer...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Yes. Heavier than Himālaya, that is a partial representation.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rather, Śrī Guru And His Grace. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ To Err Is Human _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrī Guru And His Grace.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Śrī Guru And His Grace. And then we wanted one other book I was just thinking of was a general questions and answers book. People have asked you so many questions...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. General questions, some qualification, that is on the spiritual plane. General questions, of spiritual mind, of spiritual enquiry.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Right. Yes. Like once, our Guru Mahārāja had one book called Perfect Questions, Perfect Answers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. What title do you like?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I don't have a title for this book yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ideal questions and ideal answers. Perfect questions, perfect answers. Perfect questions, then who will - where there is enquiry there is want. How can that be perfect?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, right. It's only the answer that made the question good.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Question put _____ Govinda Mahārāja. The perfect question, perfect answer. _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You can give it some other name.

Devotees: _____ [?] Devotee is asking some questions to his master, and master is giving the reply.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] relevant questions _____ [?]

'ke āmi,' 'kene āmāya jāre tāpa-traya' [ihā nāhi jāni -- 'kemane hita haya']

["Who am I? Why do the threefold miseries always give me trouble? If I do not know this, how can I be benefited?"] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.102]
_____ [?]

varīyān eṣa te praśnaḥ, kṛto loka-hitaṁ nṛpa ātmavit-sammataḥ puṁsāṁ, śrotavyādiṣu yaḥ paraḥ

[Śukadeva Goswāmī says: "Yes it is a real question because two inherent signs of enquiry are here. Firstly, it is a general question: to find the solution is necessary for every one of us, and the answer to it will help us all. Secondly, one who already has proper knowledge of his own self will also accept this question to be most relevant. So, one sanction comes from the subjective realm, and another sanction is that it is good for the whole public."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.1]

A question from the real plane. The enquiry in the realistic way. The question that ought to be. Something like that. _____ [?] Proper question, and question in realistic plane, or natural questions, and the ultimate question. Swāmī Mahārāja has said, "Perfect Question." _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I don't know if he actually said that, but...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The question that ought to be, that should be. _____ [?] Ideal question. _____ [?] And fundamental questions and answers. Most plenary, such a general, universal, _____ [?] 'ke āmi,' 'kene āmāya jāre tāpa-traya' / ihā nāhi jāni -- 'kemane hita haya'. From the deepest plane, all comprehensive. _____ [?] The questions that should be. The questions of the absolute characteristic, absolute questions. Enquiry. Enquiry of the absolute. What does it mean? Absolute qualification of the enquiry. Enquiry the absolute. God the infinite. Enquiry the absolute. _____ [?] What is the absolute position of the enquiry should be. Enquiry the absolute. _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]
The recognition of the enquiry, that question, it is given in the beginning of Bhāgavatam in the speech of Śukadeva. Śukadeva begins with this line. "Yes, Parīkṣit Mahārāja, your question is a relevant one. Questions are numberless in the world, infinite, but that the ātmavit, one who has got knowledge of his self analysis, they won't accept other questions. But this is to be accepted by them who know of their own real necessity."

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: One other thing I needed to know was in these books sometimes I want to use some pictures or paintings.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. You may do accordingly. But that may not make the subject light. The pictures should be selected of such nature that they may not undermine what you are going to say there.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Right. Yes. So, I don't want to use many pictures, maybe only a few.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of serious nature, yes. Mahāprabhu. Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And there's one picture I'm not sure whether it's an authorised picture or not. Sometimes they show Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa together.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I don't know if we can use that picture or not.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You will always remember this main principle of the whole tenor of Prabhupāda's life.

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

The rāgapaṭha, the love divine, is always over our head. And we shall try to serve that with respect. We're not able to walk in that plane. It is on our head. In this way we shall try to describe anything and everything. This tenor of mind must always be kept up with much care. That has not come under our feet that we shall walk there. Never. It is always on our head. Our Guru Mahārāja they will be walking there, but as for ourselves we'll always keep at respectable height - higher distance.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Normally, I would not use any such picture of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa embracing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But there's one particular picture I wanted to know about its authenticity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is blasphemy.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: In the Ādi-līlā, volume one, they're showing Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa combined and then Lord Caitanya. So they showed Kṛṣṇa, then Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa combined, then Caitanya Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So with all seriousness, Rāmānanda Rāya saw with his own eyes, the Kṛṣṇa is there and Rādhārāṇī there. And the halo of Rādhārāṇī has covered Kṛṣṇa, as emanating from, Mahāprabhu was covering. But that is very, with all respect if it is possible to express we may do that, transcendental evolution, keeping the dignity intact.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I know. Generally it's not given. It was only in that chapter. We have one chapter on Rāmānanda Rāya. But I wanted to make sure that's an authorised picture.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It should not be enjoyed.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I'll show it to you later.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That people may not enjoy that, then there will be chance of offences.

Devotee: It's all right. _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: _____ [?] But the same person he may make another picture which is not all right. _____ [?]

And also, Mukundamālā Vilāsa and myself, we have to edit these lectures a little bit. So sometimes we have to make a decision to clarify what it is that you mean, your intended meaning. So we have to make that decision on the basis of what we understand from you from...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you find some necessity you may refer to me, if possible.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. But sometimes we just have to make a decision...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very urgent decision you are to take.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then what's with you if it is possible you may consult now. Any points there? Have you noted those unintelligible points? You may send a list.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Right, I'll send you a list of certain points. But sometimes you will say something in three different ways, at one time. So sometimes it appears...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So what will be the _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. But you want to use one of these three things, but sometimes you will say three of them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So we have to select one.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For example?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I wish I had an example. But if you say, er...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I'm going to go... I can't find an immediate example of what I was talking about. But in this talk on the Subjective Evolution of Consciousness, one thing that I needed to know was, you referred to, you said chayaya gharbha sambhutam [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Chayaya gharbha sambhu.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: What is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Chayaya gharbha sambhutam, vande bhaktya samescaram.
Oh, that has come. There I wanted to say... Anything more connecting this, no?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well, you said it's chayaya gharbha sambhutam, vande bhaktya samescaram. Where is that verse from?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is in the stotra of Navagroha [?], by the nine planets by Vedavyāsa.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] philosophical, ontological reference _____ [?]
I wanted to say thereby, perhaps cited that example.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You said, "The sun, moon, all the planets. First there is hazy consciousness and then material consciousness, when consciousness is coming into the stage of matter, material conception. Before that, we experience a sort of vague consciousness, and crossing that we come to material consciousness."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. And also the deep reference is this, thereby, I want to say that the representation of chaya and the matter, shade, shadow, and then material conception. Just behind that, what is the feeling in me, in my subjective relativity, that is only conscious unit and not matter. I'm directly in connection with the idea, the Berkeley's theory, everything is an idea. So the idea of a particular thing is nearer to me, and that is a part of consciousness, so everything is conscious, and no matter. The Berkeley's theory, that I'm a conscious unit, and I'm concerned with the conscious thing in me, and that is with all reflection. All things of material conceptions are floating on the conscious ocean. Every idea of the material existence to me, it is only part of my consciousness, nothing more.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you follow?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So the whole world is chaya, then it is becoming a shadow of a material, then material full conception springing up. But originally, that which is backing that chaya conception, shadow, before that it is pure consciousness.

So, Śukadeva Goswāmī, he gave the description of the world, in the assembly of Parīkṣit Mahārāja. He gave his own conception about the external world, as he was shown by the Absolute. No rigid conception of the material world. The subjective controller, as He likes to show one, he's bound to see that, like that hypnotism. So we're in hallucination, we're living in the material world, that is, we're living in the hallucination, that is māyā. The controller is the absolute subject, and just as Viśvarūpa in Bhagavad-gītā [9.5], paśya me yogam aiśvaram:

[mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ, jagad avyakta-mūrtinā
mat-sthāni sarva-bhūtāni, na cāhaṁ teṣv avasthitaḥ.]

[na ca mat-sthāni bhūtāni, paśya me yogam aiśvaram bhūta-bhṛn na ca bhūta-stho, mamātmā bhūta-bhāvanaḥ]

["In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity."] ["And again, that is also not situated in Me. Just behold My inconceivable simultaneous one and different (acintya-bhedābheda) nature as the perfect, omnipotent, omniscient originator and Lord of the universe! Although My very Self is the mainstay and guardian of all beings, I am not implicated by them."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9. 4-5]

"Oh. You want to see this, you see." And Arjuna saw. And whomever He wanted to see, he saw, as Sañjaya saw, none else. So all the world of our experience is controlled from the high centre, and that is individual question. One can perceive one way, another can perceive another way, in the same position.

Devotee: So Mahārāja, you were saying that the world is nothing but illusion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Illusion, yes illusion. What you see, it is illusion.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Devotee: How can we differentiate between Śaṅkara's philosophy and Gauḍīya's philosophy then?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śaṅkara's philosophy is nirviśeṣa, and what I say this is saviśeṣa. And this depends according to the Absolute Will.

Devotee: Śaṅkara is also saying this world is a perverted reflection of that original world. It's nothing but an illusion; illusory vision, about the original...

Devotee: We say it's illusory, we say it's real but it's temporary, it has reality but its temporary effect isn't.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Reality in this sense that there is possibility of such vision. And this is variegated nature as willed by Him, designed and destined by Him, and always dependent on His will. Ultimately it is such, depends on Him.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So cit ābhasa; that is the shadow of consciousness?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then there is both individual and general. Suppose, if God's will, absolute - that is at the basis of everything, he may continue some sort of experience for some time, and he may not. It is His sweet will.

koṭi-kāmadhenu-patira chāgi yaiche mare, ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pati kṛṣṇera māyā kibā kare?

["If a person possessing millions of wish-fulfilling cows loses one she-goat, he does not consider the loss. Kṛṣṇa owns all six opulences in full. If the entire material energy is destroyed, what does He lose?"]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 15.179]

Mahāprabhu says, "If the whole mundane world is abolished, no harm in the eternal pastimes of Kṛṣṇa."

One who is the possessor millions of kāmadhenu, that is the milking cow, at their sweet will, he may not care if one she-goat dies. Koṭi-kāmadhenu-patira chāgi yaiche mare, ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pati kṛṣṇera māyā kibā kare? He's not dependent on this. Suppose all the prison houses are abolished at one time. Simultaneously in a kingdom all the prisons are closed, let loose. Then if the government is firm then no harm. Again it may gather and be – come into existence. The potency, the possibility is there. But the independence of Kṛṣṇa cannot be limited by any condition.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So you also mentioned Madhvācārya and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, satyam jagat tat tato.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: These five classifications, by Madhvācārya, but you said that, "There is a thing and then the presiding deity of that thing."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then you said, "Within him there is Guru tattva."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is extended, they're going, just as – already what has been extended here by the Sweet Will, suppose an office has been organised by an expert officer, and there are many things there. And then a particular part may be examined, it is possible, this is this. But the whole official system may be done away with. During the time of war, so many organisations are necessary to be created for the war department. And war finished and the whole thing, the order department, the other, labour department, all goes, vanishes. Something like that, the temporary reality.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Temporary reality.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Say like the thing is water, then if the presiding deity would be Varuna.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: On the basis of general plan the particulars are going. And when the foundation is removed – no necessity, then nothing is there, everything finished. It may be like that; temporary reality, not permanent reality.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Reality relative; that may be in this mundane plane, temporary reality, not so real reality. Again after, again if the war breaks out, then again from the previous position they may go on organising their officers, their soldiers, different departments; all these things.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But that may be temporary on the whole.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So what I'm saying is then, what would an example be of a thing and a presiding deity of that thing – within this temporary reality?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, the Madhvācārya, yes, that jayatam jagate jagat [?] The soul, but the unit of consciousness within the material case, that is the second, devata. And the dictation of the Paramātmā is there, the general reference to this mundane world, the Paramātmā. And then within that, Baladeva, who represents the nearness, the vicinity of Kṛṣṇa līlā, feeling Him.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Taking us near to Kṛṣṇa līlā, eternal līlā. And within that the final is Rādhā-Govinda.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. You said cit vilāmṛtam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Caitya Guru, and then first the body, and within that jīvātmā, and within that the Guru, and within that Baladeva Who's specially meant for Kṛṣṇa līlā, and within the heart of Baladeva we find Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, the ultimate principle. That is the five stages of explanation of Madhvācārya.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So devata...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Devata means jīva.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Jīva – not the demigods?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Demigods also as they're considered jīva in higher form, in a little higher layer, but they're jīva. And then Guru, mediator, the connecting link between the transcendental and this mundane.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: There's also something that you called chitta suddhi [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Chitta suddhi.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: We didn't understand what that was.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Chitta suddhi, that is also a relative thing.

svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti.
muktir hitvān-yathā-rūpaṁ svarūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ

[Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti: "This is Vṛndāvana, Vṛndāvana is so friendly, so sweet, so near to us, and such a well-wisher of ours. We are quite at home there, sweet, sweet home. In our innate and innermost existence, we are members of that plane."] [Sermons of the Guardian of Devotion, v 1, p 182]

[Muktir hitvān-yathā-rūpaṁ svarūpeṇa vyavasthitiḥ. "Liberation is the permanent situation of the form of the living entity after he gives up the changeable gross and subtle material bodies."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.10.6]

Suddhi, according to our theological rules, that suddhi means that mukti proper takes us to Goloka. Otherwise some sort of contamination is there.

But ordinary people when they're free from this mundane world, mundane references, they will say, "We're liberated, we're pure." The purity of the heart, the purity of one's conception, as a relativity, that is a relative.

The Rāmānuja, they want when they reach the Vaikuṇṭha they'll say that, "We're wholly, exhaustively purified."

And the Gauḍīya they'll say that, "As long as they don't get the soil of Vṛndāvana they're not exhaustively purified."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...by the environment. Nimāi _____ [?] _____ [?] Parvat Mahārāja _____ [?]

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: ...had written a letter with some enquiries about varṇāśrama. They wanted to establish some varṇāśrama type farm community in America. So they have some questions I wanted to ask you. Can I read them to you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: One thing they wanted to know is, in a varṇāśrama community...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be daiva-varṇāśrama, the quality, the name should be daiva-varṇāśrama.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And that means?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That means, not flesh lineage. There are two lines, arsha [?] and this seminal. Rsi kula semina saṅga [?] Our Guru Mahārāja used to write in his letters, "Rsi kula, there is also provision in the śāstra that this flesh descent has got some recognition if they come in the proper way."

Devarṣi Nārada also described in Bhāgavatam to Yudhiṣṭhira what is varṇāśrama. It will come down in the flesh line, but if exceptional case that must be eliminated.

yasya lal lakṣaṇaṁ proktaṁ, puṁso varṇābhivyañjakam yad anyatrāpi-dṛśyeta tat tenaiva vinirdiśet

["If one shows the symptoms of being a brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya or śūdra, as described above, even if he has appeared in a different class, he should be accepted according to those symptoms of classification."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.11.35]

The conclusion śloka there Nārada gives. That if we can see that in a brāhmaṇa line some śūdra lakṣaṇa has take his birth he must be eliminated from. And if in a vaiśya, kṣatriya, there we find a brāhmaṇa lakṣaṇa he must be enlisted in the brāhmaṇa. Then it will be a living one. So one in the flesh line, as much as it is tenable.

And the next is according to the qualification, how much the taste and culture about Brahman to be located in a person and his nature. He's a theist but of kṣatriya habit, the fighting spirit, he will be kṣatriya, organising, ruling, and getting money and giving it to the Vaiṣṇava for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Organiser and fighter class in nature, but theism within the heart and connection with a Vaiṣṇava, kṣatriya.

And those that do not care for any money, but like poverty, reckless, and want to go on cultivating about Brahman, Paramātmā, Kṛṣṇa, they will be given recognition as brāhmaṇa section.

And those that will earn money by nature, but theistic devotion towards Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, they will have recognition of a vaiśya.

And the general helper, the labourer class, in any department may be engaged. But accordingly, the sweeping section, or any other menial service engaged, and nature that, but theism within. That is śūdra.

In this way it may be classified according to their occupation and also theistic heart. This varṇāśrama, daiva, this is daiva, but free. And this is giving some importance to the fleshy descent. _____ [?]

That from a particle, from a cell of Napoleon's body I can create another Napoleon - and minus his headache. Napoleon was supposed to have a bad type of headache and he remained at that time devoid of consciousness, unconscious fit. And at that time Wellington defeated him and captured. The modern history has made out this truth, that Napoleon was invincible while he was present in the battlefield. Because he did not fight with weapons, but he fought with his intellect with the intellect of the general of the other party. The war of diplomacy, he was unique.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So once, our Guru Mahārāja, when he was last speaking to you, in nineteen seventy seven, I have a recording of that conversation. And in the end of the conversation he said to you something about Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura's desire for some type of varṇāśrama to be instituted. What was his idea?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is daiva-varṇāśrama, and practically Prabhupāda did so. From different clans, the śūdra he was given sacred thread, and he was given adhikāra, that is the right to worship the Deity, Śālagrāma, all these things. When he found he was satisfied with his nature, that is purely theistic, pure devotee of Kṛṣṇa, he used to give sacred thread to anybody, he made brāhmaṇa.

And also there was some article in Gauḍīya, that those that are organisers, like Kuñja Bābu, etc, they're kṣatriya. And there are some who are engaged only with the scriptural and writing, all these things, preaching, they're brāhmaṇas. And those that are earning money, gṛhastha who are giving, though selective, they're giving for the service of the mission, they're vaiśya. And general staff is śūdra. In this way one article came, Daiva-Varṇāśrama, in Gauḍīya.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Who wrote that article?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Perhaps - during the lifetime of our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He wrote the article?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not him, written under his direction. The writing was of Sundarānanda Vidyāvinoda, the editor of Gauḍīya at that time. And Daiva-Varṇāśrama, that was nineteen thirty six or so, the Gauḍīya, the last year of his presence.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But like once you said that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta said, "We shall be prepared to meat, or non vegetarian food. Meat, in a hostel, that there could be a non vegetarian section..."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They may be accommodated in the hostel, in the Maṭha, and may be supplied with non vegetarian dishes, making arrangements from a new hostel.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So what these people want to know, who are writing...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because, he told, that for the preaching purpose of Kṛṣṇa kathā, Mahāprabhu, vaikuṇṭha-vṛtti. That is the highest good. That is paramahaṁsa. Do not care for any classification, any varṇāśrama. They're up to do anything and everything for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, without much indication to any particular system, varṇāśrama, etc.

eta saba chāḍi' āra varṇāśrama-dharma / akiñcana hañā laya kṛṣṇaika-śaraṇa

["Without hesitation, one should take exclusive shelter of Lord Kṛṣṇa with full confidence, giving up bad association and even neglecting the regulative principles of the four varṇas and four āśramas. That is to say, one should abandon all material attachment."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.93]

Varṇāśrama may be lower class, we cannot exclusively give himself for the service, the gṛhastha, some material connection they're maintaining. Amongst such persons there is that classification. But those that have given wholesale they're above varṇāśrama.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So their question is for those who are not given over wholesale.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There, whatever is favourable to preaching Kṛṣṇa kathā they'll accept that, only one creed.

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam / [rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā. ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ / evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ]

["The six limbs of surrender are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa's guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100 - quoted from Vaiṣṇava Tantra]

[& Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 9-10]

That is one point for them, from any position. And varṇāśrama is a question for those who are still under some influence of mundane affinity.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. That's what they want to know. They want to organise their community like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They cannot give up wholesale, they may be combined in some such system. And those that are out to do anything and everything for Kṛṣṇa, eta saba chāḍi' āra varṇāśrama-dharma / akiñcana hañā laya kṛṣṇaika-śaraṇa, they're after anything for the service of Kṛṣṇa. A suicidal squad.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So what is your advice for these people who are not ready to sacrifice everything. They may have some attachment to intoxication, to Christianity, or...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The intoxication etc, ...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yeah. They're not ready to give that up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In special case, the Ācārya taking the risk in his own hand may give Hari-Nāma, but not dīkṣā. Hoping, and when that expectation that in a very short time he will give up. Only in important cases, in exceptional cases, he may give Hari-Nāma, otherwise not. Generally, it cannot be a rule that when they go on with intoxication, and prostitution, and any other, the profession of a robber, these things should be avoided.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The higher varṇas are called dvija. So that meant there were some initiations for brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, and vaiśya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brāhmaṇa and vaiśya.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And kṣatriya, all three of them are dvija.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dvija, yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So, what I don't understand is if a kṣatriya was twice born, he's dvija, and he gets some kind of a sacred thread. So what is the difference between the initiation of a brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, and a vaiśya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One may be considered as this Pañcarātrika vidhi. Dīkṣā is of three kinds, vaidiki, purāṇaki, and tantriki. In vaidik dīkṣā, when he's fit, cent per cent, on the flow in the plane, to give him recognition, license. And the purāṇaki, by the company of the sādhus to correct him to take to the proper mark and then give dīkṣā. To make him fit, and then impart that dīkṣā mantra. And the tantriki, the lowest, who has accepted the principle, but not realised the position of that. In expectation that in future he will come. So, asudya suddya kalpa brahmana kali sambhava klesam agamana nagena suday na strota vartena [?]

So vaidiki śikṣā generally never used for the Kali-yuga brāhmaṇas. They're generally accepted as non - unfit, they're generally taken as unfit. So this tantrika śikṣā, he has accepted the ideal, but he's in lower position. But he has sincere earnestness to reach to the goal of a brāhmaṇa. He's given trial, to make progress. And there some sub-division, it is in the discretion of the Ācārya who gives, the spiritual leader, they will come to consider in this lowest level, tantrika śikṣā, how to deal in different positions. It is their discretion, their risk, to allow license to anyone and everyone, whom he will issue license and give recognition. _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So if these people...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, you are to avail yourself of the ten o'clock train?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are to start by half nine? You'll take prasādam, all these things [?] _____ [?] So shortly.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So I'll just tell you - what they want to know, in their community they want to arrange a varṇāśrama community.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But the principle underlying is this I can explain, and how to translate it into practice you are to use your discretion according to the local situation.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. They're thinking that children should be taught in a particular way. And like there are many people in America, in the west, they're attracted to martial arts, this military science of fighting. They like to fight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're kṣatriyas.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So should there be a guru for that, fighting guru? And basically what they like in the west, they like martial arts, astrology, they're very fond of this, and intoxication.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then they're some brāhmaṇas. Affinity for education that is brāhmaṇic qualification, affinity for culture. And organising and fighting that is kṣatriya. And money making tendency is vaiśya. And the ordinary general labour that is śūdra.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So, they want to know, can there be a community where these people are all mixed, living together. Those of the kṣatriya tendency, vaiśya tendency, brāhmaṇic...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They may be organised by Vaiṣṇava Guru, giving their respective duties.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And what about their physical location? Should there be a brāhmaṇa section, vaiśya section, kṣatriya...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If exceptional case, that a brahmacārya though brāhmaṇa he took the fighting occupation. And there is Viśvāmitra, though kṣatriya, he took this penance and other things. Exceptional cases may be there.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. But about their living arrangement?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Small difference there may be. Brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, they may do. But śūdra, who are very, whose saṁskāra that is mean, ways of living is nasty, there you should have some consideration how they should be dealt with in a temple. Those whose habits are of nasty type, do not want to distinguish between ucchiṣṭham and non ucchiṣṭha. Do not want to bring this flower service, and the sweeping service. Some distinction in the vidhi is necessary. Sweeping service is lower service, and brāhmaṇic service, worshipping, very higher quality service. There must be some distinction between them, according to gradation of service.

But when there are no men, one man can worship, one man can sweep, one man can cook, one man can cleanse. But when in a group there may be different sections, he will be in charge of the sweeping, another he'll be in charge of worshipping, and the gradation must be observed.

And what is generally not found in your communities, they put this Hari-Nāma, this mālā, on the shoe. But a man of this varṇāśrama type he will shudder to think it.

Taking God's prasādam and don't wash their hands, they're habituated to do so. But a man of varṇāśrama system cannot tolerate, he must give some distinction between food. If any importance is attached to prasādam, that prasādam may not go to be returned to the Deity. And if we take the prasādam of Guru we must observe such signs that the śiṣya's prasādam may not have any connection with that Guru.

So with prasādam and many other things, the head we consider to be purified, and the leg is considered in coming in the dust and the dirt. So head and foot may not be considered as same level. In this way there is some consideration of sadācāra, and according to that there will be some classification.

Taking food himself, without washing the hand he wants to offer something to the God. Touching the flower, touching another food to be offered to the God, these are objectionable. The heart of one's devotional conduct, there is gradation, and we're to know and to introduce it into the system, varṇāśrama specially.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So, again you are coming back?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then I shall hear more questions. Here we stop today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...it may be easy for the centre to go on this work of synthesis.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. They have one ticket, it is called the 'Around the World Ticket.' So sometimes you can get that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For only one individual, or anyone can use?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: One individual. But that ticket, sometimes it is available for eleven hundred dollars.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eleven hundred dollars. And anyone may use?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The man who purchases the ticket, he must use it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But not such a system that anyone may use?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All over India, everywhere, any man may use?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Such ticket has...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: They don't have that kind of a ticket yet. But we may be able to get the special around the world ticket, and when everyone wants to come at the time of Māyāpur they could start early and visit these other centres.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Visit other centres, and two or three days staying, and giving lectures, and encouraging the local people, and then come to another centre, in this way.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. We can try to do that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dayādhara [Gaurāṅga] told, he came here, back, this Malaysia temple members disregarded him. But when he came here the same temple members came and got him to Vṛndāvana. But he told that I shall come back and see me, and then he will fix his programme. But no letter after he has left Navadwīpa. If you meet him you may try to see him also. Or you may ask give a letter for, if you don't meet Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, then you will give a letter for me_____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Do you have a message for him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhava Purī Mahārāja had a very interest for his presence there in his zone.
Anyhow, what should I say? I'm an old man. You try to manage the whole thing.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. We will try to do that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Gaura Hari bol. And they're also preaching, "Śrīdhara Mahārāja will very soon leave this planet." _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I don't think that you are on this planet, to begin with.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Sometimes our Guru Mahārāja would say, "You think we're in Los Angeles, but we're in Vaikuṇṭha."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There from we can guide, anyone, wireless, we can send our direction. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Your Guru Mahārāja came here in dream and he told that, "I won't leave the place."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Jaya! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes he would say that he would continue to live by his words, in his books.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. And sometimes he encouraged, "That if I disappear, your grandfather is there at your backing." That also he told.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But when he said that, what I don't understand is the grandfather, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, he has left, so how can he say, if I leave then the grandfather will take care of you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. The backing from invisible help, this impression, inspiration. That means 'if the departed grandfather can help you, then you'll expect my help also, from the background.'
The purport. Gaura Hari bol. Tomorrow morning, what o'clock? Six thirty?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. We will be here tomorrow morning for your darśana, because the train does not leave until around seven in the evening, seven at night.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seven at night. So you may...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: We may take a late morning train, ten o'clock, ten fifteen, twelve thirty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Twelve thirty?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, we may take...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But before noon?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, something approximately.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because trains are not reliable, so sometime earlier you must avail yourself.

But after taking morning prasādam between noon taking prasādam then you will start?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

_____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Brahmānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [31:20 - 31:46 ?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Because Brahmānanda, he wanted to be the Ācārya. So they thought they will get rid of our Guru Mahārāja and then Brahmānanda will be Ācārya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [31:59 - 32:10 ?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. He's from a Jewish background.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kīrtanānanda?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: His father was a Christian preacher.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [32:25 - 33:41 ?] ...tarkā-pratiṣṭhānāt [The Absolute Truth can never be established through argument.] [Brahma-sūtra, 2.1.11] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.104]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You'll have to read that _____ [?]

Devotee [Nimāi?] : Dive deep into reality. _____ [?] Then subjective evolution.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. The reality within you.

Devotee: Yes. Dive deep into reality.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The depth of reality, deep conception of reality, dive deep into reality. Then you will find it is beauty. The highest conception of truth is beauty.

Devotee: _____ [?] Dive deep into reality _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. All of these are very original.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?] You have established a new standard.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ideal realism.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. When we have the full book, then it will be very substantial, as a gradual progression.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is Midas finger? Whatever he touches turns into gold.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. King Midas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Midas finger. Your finger is made of Midas finger. [37:20 - 38:15 ?]

There is another tale, that one Nashan [?] he fell down from the top of the building and he wanted the boon that the gravitation may go away. So in case, then that was granted, then he cannot put his leg forward, all these things, as if in the sky, just over the gravitation. They found difficulty to move. The sea, they cannot walk there. So that was the case with that gentleman.

So what is, we're born in a particular atmosphere, and that is really wholesome for us. If we want anything that will be - that is beyond harmony. But still we're in the discord. The real harmony is in home, sweet, sweet home, the realm of harmony.

Devotee: You have translated last line of your Premadhāma-deva-stotram, prema-dhāma-devam eva...

"I sing the glories of my Golden Lord Gaura Sundara, the Golden Lord here."

The Golden Lord means He's not made of gold, but actually He's above gold, the beauty of gold, we mean the beauty of gold realised.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Golden means valuable.

Devotee: Golden is valuable. Yes, in this sense it means golden. But not the Midas. So our Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja's finger is like that, whatever he'll touch. [40:26 - 41:12 ?] Mahāprabhu in His dancing mood.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. And also we're going to put one caption that that is Kṛṣṇa Himself. He's tasting His own sweetness.

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja. _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So the last chapter is going to be, Kṛṣṇa searching for Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The Rāmānanda Rāya talk, that Mahārāja gave one _____ [?]

Devotee: Oh, Kṛṣṇa searching for Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That will be the last chapter where Kṛṣṇa is searching for Kṛṣṇa, engaged in the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Searching for Kṛṣṇa in the mood of Rādha. Searching must be in the mood of devotee, the searcher. In different mood of searching.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Search of Kṛṣṇa may be in the mood of Yaśodā, in the mood of Rādhā, mood of Subal, Śrīdam, so different moods.

Devotees: _____ [?]

82.11.21.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So Mahārāja, I was thinking that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, he wanted that you would preach in the west. So when we're making these books of Your Divine Grace then your conception of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is being preached in the western countries.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, carried out.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So that order of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta is being fulfilled.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, satya-saṅkalpa anyhow it is being done. Before my departure he's extracting such duty from me as he wanted to do, forcibly. But I told that if Mohamed does not go to the mountain the mountain is coming to Mohamed. Divine will is such. Before my departure, the last moment he's extracting that from me.

"What I have stored in you, that is stored for the purpose of the people. And you must give delivery of that before your departure. It is people's wealth, devotee's wealth."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Public domain.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "It was meant for that. Not that you will store, you will steal that property and fly from the place."

...

Devotee: Yes. It's our only hope. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Somewhere in Caitanya-caritāmṛta, there's a statement that in Kali-yuga there are no religious principles, but Vaiṣṇava scriptures and Vaiṣṇavas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

[asat saṅga tyāga - ei vaiṣṇava ācāra] strī saṅgī - eka asādhu, 'kṛṣṇābhakta' āra

["A Vaiṣṇava should always avoid the association of ordinary people. Common people are very much materially attached, especially to women (and women to men). Vaiṣṇavas should also avoid the company of those who are not devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.87]

Strī saṅgī, in Bhāgavatam it is mentioned that a man deeply associated with women is more dangerous than the woman herself. A woman is not so much powerful to draw us down, whereas a he friend of a woman can do.

[na tathāsya bhaven moho, bandhaś cānya-prasaṅgataḥ]
yoṣit-saṅgād yathā puṁso, yathā tat-saṅgi-saṅgataḥ

["The infatuation and bondage which accrue to a man from attachment to any other object is not as complete as that resulting from attachment to a woman or to the fellowship of men who are fond of women."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.31.35]

So a man who's addicted to women he's more dangerous than the woman herself. The appreciator of woman-ship he's more dangerous, he'll canvas for her. Yathā tat-saṅgi-saṅgataḥ.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The so-called women's liberation movement is very prominent in the west now. And they think that the Vaiṣṇavas have a bigoted or prejudiced viewpoint against women.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the Vaiṣṇava has got the highest honour for women. But their posing is the more suitable serviceable model. But when misdirected the most dangerous, and properly directed the most desirable. Women are more fit for nursing than a man, is it not, naturally?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So for service women's disposition gets the foremost chance. That sort of disposition is necessary, helplessness. Man is assertive, but women are at the disposal of the aggressor, will be helplessly śaraṇāgata, surrendered. What is highest in the positive, in the perverted reflection that holds the lowest position. Is it not?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the reflection the high top of a tree if reflected in a tank we shall see the high will be the lowest. The highest is in the lowest position in the perverted reflection. So reflection, and that is perverted.

So what is the train you fix for starting? Ten or twelve?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Eleven twenty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're sure? That may not make you late?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: That's the safe train. We can also take twelve thirty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One train earlier you must take?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: ..."stayed with Sudhīra Goswāmī in San Jose, or with my Godbrothers elsewhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? Repeat it.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So he's saying that he has much facility to work hard in New York. But then he ends up neglecting some of his practices, such as reading and chanting. Then he says, "I can do a lot of work but my Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not as good as it would be if I stayed with Sudhīra Goswāmī in San Jose, or with my Godbrothers elsewhere." He's saying his level of Kṛṣṇa consciousness would be higher.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So what does he mean? That staying with you is not profitable?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. Staying with me, he's saying, would be more profitable for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, than staying in New York.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More profitable than Parvat Mahārāja?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. He doesn't mean staying with Parvat Mahārāja. He means that when he stays in New York that he's involved in working, always working day and night working. And his Kṛṣṇa consciousness is to some degree neglected. Whereas if he stayed with me...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why neglected, because he has to work hard under the direction of Parvat Mahārāja? No chance of...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. Because of his work, his business, not Parvat Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Then?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then he says, "On the other hand it would be difficult for me to stay in San Jose as it was hard to stay in India, because I like to be very active and have a lot of service. When I asked my question I did not ask it in a personal way. But the way Your Divine Grace answered me, saying that the most important thing is that which a disciple is doing as devotional service has the sanction of the Spiritual Master, or senior, elder Vaiṣṇavas. So my goal is just to try to do enough business to finance a nice relief centre in your name in New York. There are many here in New York who would very much appreciate such a facility, as a relief centre in your name there." He's saying many people there would appreciate that. So he would like to work in New York and give his money to support a centre in New York.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And then, led by, under whose guidance?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Um! He's asking you for that direction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He wants to work there independently?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He may help Parvat Mahārāja there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is well and good.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So I think he would be willing to work in cooperation with Parvat Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Good. Then?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then he says, "So do you approve of this? Can I feel in my heart that this activity that sometimes seems so mundane is actually devotional service to you, if I do it with a sincere heart, as far as possible?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Does he want to work independently there, under direct direction of myself? What is his...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He wants to know that what he is doing there, that that is approved of by you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The general instruction is that in cooperation with Parvat Mahārāja he will engage himself in the service of that centre.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So what he's saying, when he does this business work, sometimes it seems to him so mundane. But if he can think within himself that my Guru...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever will be favourable for the promotion of the centre there, he will do that selflessly.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. I think that's what he wants to know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Earning money, or any other service, whatever will be considered to be the real necessity, according to that.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So what Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Prabhu is saying is that Dev Nārāyaṇa he works sometimes eighteen hours a day, he's of strong business nature. So this does not give him the time to associate with Parvat Mahārāja or the devotees there. So Dev Nārāyaṇa he likes to work and then give some money. And not so much association does he have.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It will be better, eighteen hours work to earn money, and six hours only for rest. So the association with the Vaiṣṇava, no time for that. So from my part I like to request to make some more time to pass with the association in service of the Vaiṣṇava. Twelve hours work is sufficient, and six hours for rest, and another six hours for other services. For reading scriptures, for serving in the centre, in different ways. But anyhow, association, and hearing when anyone is chanting the scriptures, in various ways.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Then he finishes by saying that, "The gentleman who is delivering this letter to you, this bhakta Tom, has a donation from me."

So here's his donation, from Dev Nārāyaṇa and Tom, seventy five dollars and twenty five dollars.

"He's a good friend of mine, and Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā, and he chants Hare Kṛṣṇa on beads and has much appreciation for you."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "He will be going to Vṛndāvana and I asked him to please bring me a stone, Śilā, from Govardhana Hill that I could worship. Guru Mahārāja, would that be all right for me to do?"

He wants your approval if he could get one Govardhana Śilā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "I plan on spending some time, perhaps a month if possible, in the San Jose temple of Sudhīra Goswāmī, if Sudhīra Goswāmī will have me. I'm very fond of him and I'm looking forward to being able to clear up some of my misconceptions of spiritual life with him. Thank you very much for all your compassion towards me."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That's good.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "I hope one day I can begin to repay you. Wanting to serve your lotus feet. Dev Nārāyaṇa dāsa."

There's some questions regarding Christianity. And Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Prabhu he's asking a question that, "What shall be the Vaiṣṇava viewpoint of Lord Jesus Christ, personally?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Incomplete Vaiṣṇavism, not fully fledged, but the basis of Vaiṣṇavism. Die to live, we find there to certain extent, at least physically. Immortality of the soul, in Socrates, is told, self sacrifice. And Christians say in the ideal of Jesus, self forgetfulness. But in our consideration not fully fledged, but the basis is there, but not clear, a vague conception of Godhead. We're for Him, but how much, and in what shape, in what attitude? All these things are unexplained, and not clear conception, everything hazy, from far off. They've not taken any proper shape. The cover is not off fully, that we can come face to face with the object of our service. Service for the Lord is there, and a strong impetus to attain that is also there. The foundation is good, but the structure over the foundation is not clear, not specific, not perfect.

On the basis of this statement of mine, is any other question? If any doubt or any part need clarified?

Devotee: There is one point in dialogue that a Christian where they like the ideas of surrender, service, giving everything...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, common, but for whom?

Devotee: But then they say, "Jesus says He's the only way."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Die to live, so far, but what for?

Devotee: "But we cannot follow any other teachings."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. What is the positive attainment and engagement? Not only our submission or gratefulness to the highest authority, but direct connection and cent per cent engagement. Only I'm going on in my own way. "Oh Lord, You give my bread." Going once to the church in a week, that is not sufficient. Twenty four hours engagement is possible in the full fledged theism. God can engage us twenty four hours. We must attain that position. All engagement with Him, and always subordinate.

Devotee: There's one Christian tradition that's very similar to Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only in the foundation, regards the foundation, very akin, that we must sacrifice everything for Him. But who's He, and who am I? The awakening of both the parties, the inner acquaintance of both the parties is not complete, hazy connection.

Devotee: They're afraid to go beyond Jesus because Jesus has warned them...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm talking about Jesus, not them. The one who has given the ideal, I'm talking on his principle. He has given by instalments, not full. We agree about the strong foundation.

Jesus was crucified because he told that, "Everything belongs to my father. Who is the Caesar, he's got his own share, this material. And God my father has got another aspect of the possession of everything."

"Oh, you don't recognise the ownership of Caesar in everything, so you are stood against that."

The foundation is very good, laudable, but that's first instalment...

...

... my Lord. And who is my Lord, what nature? Who is my inner self? And what is my connection with Him, that I may live continuously in His memory and His service? I'm meant for Him. I'm designed and destined for Him. But it must be clarified and I must attain the highest position. All these things are not present there. Only sacrifice for Him, that is all right. It is the basic necessity. But after that what is the achievement, there they're silent.

Devotee: They're afraid to go beyond Jesus...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. But there's so much grace, so much love in the divinity that He can embrace him. On His lap He can make us sit. He can do anything and everything, in very closer connection with Him. It is unfolded in Vaiṣṇavism. But if we're afraid, we fear to cross the fundamental advice of Jesus then we become sahajiyā. We must risk everything for Him, my Lord. We must make our position firm in the service. Die to live. And what is living, we're to analyse. And if without dying we want to drag Kṛṣṇa into our fleshy play then we become sahajiyā. We must cross this threshold given by Jesus. Die to live. We must risk everything. His company is so valuable to us. This material achievement is nothing, this is all poison. So no attraction for anything we shall engage with our body. We shall be ready to leave everything. All our present prospects and aspirations, for Him, He's so great.

Then, what is His greatness? What is my position? How I can engage myself full time in His service? Here he's silent. Not any specific program from them. Here Vaiṣṇavism comes to our heart's relief to satisfy the inner necessity of all different types, whatever it may be. Everything will be quenched there. You may be conscious or may be unconscious, so many demands within you, and that will be fully satisfied in its most beautiful form there, and there alone. That has been given by Vaiṣṇavism, specially by Mahāprabhu, in Vṛndāvana, Bhāgavatam, that so much close and loving connection we can get in God. God is such. Not only from far off we shall show some reverential salute, but we can have Him in a very closest way. Because, the feeling of having anything here, that cannot be real, that is a perverted reflection. And that must be in the original world, otherwise where from they come? The different feelings of necessity within us, where from, what is the cause? It must be present in the causal world. So all our hankerings in details must be satisfied there, representing the whole. Everything emanating from Him. So our wholesale satisfaction of every atom of our body, mind, etc, will get its fulfilment fullest there. That is given by Vaiṣṇavism, Mahāprabhu, Bhāgavatam. That is the speciality here.

Aranya Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, if we say that in Bhagavad-gītā it says that:

evaṁ paramparā-prāptam, [imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ
sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa]

["O conqueror of the enemy, in this way, the saintly kings such as Nimi, Janaka, and others, learned this path of knowledge through the divine succession. Presently, after the passage of a long period of time, this teaching has been almost completely lost."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.2]

So what is the disciplic succession that Jesus Christ has appeared in? For a person to be a bona fide agent of Kṛṣṇa he has to appear in a disciplic succession.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I want it to be more clarified. Do you like that in this saying of Kṛṣṇa, Jesus is also, Islam, all religions are included? Do you want to say like that?

Aranya Mahārāja: No. I'm saying, where, just like in Bhagavad-gītā, Kṛṣṇa says...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There Kṛṣṇa is saying about karma-yoga, evaṁ paramparā-prāptam...

Aranya Mahārāja: Imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh!

imaṁ vivasvate yogaṁ, proktavān aham avyayam
vivasvān manave prāha, manur ikṣvākave' bravīt

[The Supreme Lord said: "Previously I instructed the sun-god Sūrya (Vivasvān) in this imperishable scientific knowledge, which is achieved by selfless action. Sūrya, the presiding deity of the sun, delivered it to his son Vaivasvata Manu, exactly as he had heard it from Me. Thereafter, Manu instructed the same knowledge to his son Ikṣvāku."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1]

That is about karma-yoga, of Bhagavad-gītā. Not pure devotion or anything else, karma-yoga.

"What I'm saying to you now, this is not a new thing. Already I told this to Sūrya, and from Sūrya, Vivasvān, then Manu, in this way that is coming down. And by the influence of the time that is finished. Again I'm saying the old thing to you. That is above karma-yoga. You don't care about the result, good or bad, go on with your duty."

rāga-dveṣa-vimuktais tu, viṣayān indriyaiś caran ātma-vaśyair vidheyātmā, prasādam adhigacchati

["However, a true devotee on the path of renunciation in devotion (yukta-vairāgya) acts exclusively for My transcendental satisfaction. Abandoning attachment and envy, although accepting sense objects with his controlled senses, he attains full contentment of heart."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.64]

Then you can get a general peaceful mind there, so far.

Aranya Mahārāja: But it's just that we preach that we're bona fide agents of Kṛṣṇa because we come in a particular disciplic succession.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There are different stages of education that is imparted in Bhagavad-gītā, this bhakti-yoga, karma-yoga, jñāna-yoga, then aṣṭānga-yoga, so many things. Different layers, and after all,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ [śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"Śuddha-bhakti is above all and within all. Give up all your affinity to all other activities, whether religious or non religious, and come to take refuge at My feet. And the whole thing depends on My decision. So don't try to push your demand to Me, but wholly surrender to Me and ask Me to give what will be the most beneficial to you. And what I shall give that will be the highest. Don't try to put your demand to Me. That will be of less quality and quantity. Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ. And what I shall do on your behalf, fully surrendered to Me, and what I shall give you, rather, I shall give Myself to you. That will be the highest. All these methods and their prospects are more or less of so much effective and valuable, but the highest thing, don't aspire after anything but Myself. And everything with Me, that will be your highest prospect, to want Me. To have Me, to live with Me, to do what I say, enter into My Own personal family, in My private life. That will be your best attainment. Don't want this thing, that thing, from Me. The comparative study of all religious aspirations, so-called, and the highest shelter. All your inner necessities may be served only by My private, personal duty."

Devotee: Some of the Christians they're thinking, "If I'm to be sincere then I should follow the Christian śāstra, the Bible." And they take very literally the word of Christ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. According to the capacity one may be enlisted in a particular class for reading. So some will go to Christianity and after finishing his hankering still unsatisfied he will seek some other help. "What is God? I want to know it more perfectly."

In this I can say one example. There was one Professor [Ronald] Nixon in England, he came to fight in the first great war against Germany in the French line. Then, he was in the plane. The planes were at that time not so much improved. But anyhow, when the plane was hit, he was sure coming and he saw the plane will fall on the German area.

He told, I met him in Vṛndāvana, he told, "Then, at that time I prayed, if there is any God let Him save me. And I promise that if I be spared this time, may not die in plane crash, or anything else, then I shall go to search after Him. The whole life I shall devote only in search after Him."

But the plane fell down and when he arose from his unconscious position he found he's in the French line in a hospital within France. Then he thought, "There is God, and He has heard my last prayer." Then when bodily cured he went straight to England to the bishops. "Such is my position. I want to search after God, wholesale. For twenty four hours I want to engage myself in God's service. I want to see Him face to face, I want in such a way."

So many churchmen, clergymen, bishops, he saw. And ultimately many of them advised, "If you want Him face to face we cannot recommend you such a process. Then you go to India, and there may be yogīs who internally connect with Paramātmā, all these things, you my try there for your fortune."

So he came to India. And anyhow he met one lady in Lucknow University, the wife of [Dr. Jñānendra Nātha Cakravartī] the vice-chancellor of Lucknow University. Anyhow, how, I do not know. Perhaps when he came to Lucknow he wanted to go up in the hill, someone might have told him, "You see the vice-chancellor and get his advice." But vice-chancellor's wife [Monikā Devī] she was a Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, devotee of Mahāprabhu anyhow. And talking with the vice-chancellor he got the company of his wife. And he was so much charmed by her advice that he accepted her as his Guru. And his name was Professor Nixon, afterwards he took sannyāsa and his name was Swāmī Kṛṣṇa Prema. In the interim period what was his name I don't remember. ["She called him Gopāla." The Saints of Vraja, p 294. By Dr. O.B.L. Kapoor]

Swāmī Kṛṣṇa Prema. And he had a comparative study about all the religions here, and he was attracted by Mahāprabhu's gift. And he established one centre in Almorā, in U.P. and preached about Bhāgavata dharma of Mahāprabhu. That was his life. I met that gentleman, educated, fair, tall figure. But he had got such appreciation. And beginning from Christianity to Vaiṣṇavism his life came gradually, direct.

And one Schulze [Sadānanda dāsa], that German scholar, he also told, "In no religious conception of the whole world, the whole time engagement with God, aṣṭa-kālīya-līlā sādhana, it has never been given in any conception of religion in the whole of the world. I have studied almost all the religious theology, but even none could conceive twenty four hours serving engagement with the Supreme Lord. It is only given in Bhāgavatam and the Goswāmīns developed from there."

It is possible, that all possible propensities, tendencies, we find in ourself, they have got their ideal, purest satisfaction possible, with Him. He's so accommodating, He's so comprehensive, and He's so deep, and akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, the stock of supplying all possible rasa. All possible propensities, tendencies for satisfaction we may feel, or at present we may not feel, only their corresponding phase is present in His fullest figure, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa. Akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. All different types of gratification what we feel within, that can only have its demand satisfied in Him and Him alone and nowhere else, to the fullest extent, most satisfactorily. Kṛṣṇa means this. The scientific representation of Kṛṣṇa is this, akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ. Whatever satisfaction our inner heart demands that can fulfil its satisfaction only there. He represents everything, then He's the Absolute Centre. It is not a very cheap thing, a cheap position, the highest position. Who can hold everything, the centre contains the whole, in some form or other. Ke?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.
Not non-scientific, not non-intellectual, _____ [?] satisfying all demands of intellect, then also He's transcendental.

Devotee: Some are so much afraid to go beyond Bible though, they will not do comparison study.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe because they're of that status.

sve svehadhikāre yā niṣṭhā, sa gunāḥ parikīrtitāḥ [viparyayas tu doṣaḥ syād, ubhayor eṣa niścayaḥ]

["Remaining fixed in the position for which one is qualified is considered virtuous. The opposite - accepting a position for which one is unqualified, while giving up a position for which one is qualified - is irresponsible and is considered impious. This is the conclusion of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.2]

According to one's own present capacity he will purchase in the market. In the market there may be valuable things, but the purchasers they must have some capacity to purchase them. So sve svehadhikāre yā niṣṭhā, and so much so that the tradesmen, the Ṛṣis, the tradesmen of the knowledge, they have also gone so far that they say, "This is the highest, and no further." Giving stress to that, sve svehadhikāre. Just as,

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt]
sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

"Don't go ahead, you'll be doomed. Take your stand here, no further." So much impression is given. Why...

82.11.21.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...because with your full attention here, then you'll be able to know to the finish and your march from this point will be sincere and satisfactory. Otherwise the sahajiyāism will enter your heart. Within one leap you will go to get the summit of the hill? That is impossible. So you have to march, but march must be sincere, real, satisfactory, real progress, not imitative progress. So that warning is given at every stage of life. "This is the highest for you, give your whole attention to that. Don't be absent-minded and haphazard in your acquisition. Engage yourself fully with this class and the next will come out of its own accord. The next higher will come to you. You attend here, all your energy you invest here and the next will come automatically to you, the higher stage." For that policy it has been told like that.

parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam [karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

["Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

Just as when a professor comes to teach a child he will have to take the mentality of a child to teach the child. "Go so far and not much more." But still he will say: "No, know this. This is the final. Give your whole attention to know this, get by heart this. And when that is finished then come forward." In this way by gradual [progress].

Devotee: I'm very much attracted to those people who are Christians in America, to help them make some progress ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given his decision that Bhagavad-gītā was told to Arjuna and Arjuna engaged himself in fighting again. But had it been Uddhava in the position, in the place of Arjuna after hearing the whole of Bhagavad-gītā, sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja,

ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

...he accepted and went away from the war field. Ha, ha. The same Gītā Upadeśa, the same advice for Arjuna it acted in one way, and for Uddhava it would have acted in another way. After hearing the whole of Bhagavad-gītā, sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ, Arjuna also told: tat kiṁ karmaṇi ghore māṁ, niyojayasi keśava. vyāmiśreṇeva vākyena, buddhiṁ mohayasīva me.

[jyāyasī cet karmaṇas te, matā buddhir janārdana, tat kiṁ karmaṇi ghore māṁ, niyojayasi keśava.
vyāmiśreṇeva vākyena, buddhiṁ mohayasīva me tad ekaṁ vada niścitya, yena śreyo 'ham āpnuyām]

["O Janārdana, O Keśava, if You consider that resolute and determined spiritual intelligence (vyavasāy- ātmikā-buddhi) is better than action in goodness and passion, then why do You engage me in the violent activity of warfare?"] ["My intelligence is confused by Your words. They appear to be ambiguous, sometimes supporting action and sometimes supporting knowledge. So please instruct me which of these two paths is most beneficial for me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.1-2]

"You say that jñāna is better than karma. Then why do you want to engage me in this dreadful karma in fighting?"

Then Kṛṣṇa told:

na karmaṇām anārambhān, naiṣkarmyaṁ puruṣo 'śnute
[na ca sannyasanād eva, siddhiṁ samadhigacchati]

["Without performing scripturally enjoined duties, one cannot attain knowledge leading to freedom from action and reaction. How can a person of impure heart obtain perfection by abandoning his prescribed duties?"] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.4]

"Here you have got your capacity in the karma. You finish this career and then you can aspire to come in the level of jñāna, enquiry into the knowledge. Na karmaṇām anārambhān, naiṣkarmyaṁ, that naiṣkarmyaṁ to do above all activity is not a very cheap thing. You finish your course of karma, then you'll be lifted to the place of naiṣkarma, jñāna, and then bhakti, in this way. So I say that you engage yourself in this present fight. The fight is not recommended for everyone but for you and men of your section."

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: There's one book in the Christian tradition about an unknown Christian bhakta who is chanting...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ke?

...

Parthamitra: Guru Mahārāja, when one is preaching to the society at large, how does he know how far to recommend the stage of God realisation that a person should follow?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are you?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Parthamitra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parthamitra. What does he say?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He's saying: "So, you're saying that something is meant for one person, something is meant for another person, so when we preach to people in general how shall we know how to preach?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That should be preached in a general way and they will come according to their inner response. Some will come to attack, to close the meeting. The communist minded, they will say: "No religious preaching is allowed here. It is all theoretical. You will neglect the concrete world and you make an abstract thing to be everything and the people will suffer. We won't allow it." There is that such also. Beginning from there, there are so many stages. And in a mob you will preach and one who will find response in his inner heart, he will come to you to see. That is, according to the degree of realisation one will come. Birds of the same feather flock together. Inner demand, inner necessity will bring them.

[Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāja went there and so many came. How? They are not this Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava. But from inner tendency while wandering in this world everyone is gathering some new experience, new taste. Rather, the taste for this outside world is vanishing and inner taste is awakened, and awakened to the degree of, according to the degree of awakening one will come to respond to a preacher. In his own layer he will find, "Oh, after so long, what little urge I found in my heart, I see there is possibility of outlet. There is a plane of that sort to satisfy that ambition and aspiration of mine. There is a chance in the outside so I must connect with him and I shall enquire of that land of my dreams." In this way they will come. _____ [?] Birds of the same feather flock together. According to the inner taste they will come together and they will go on with their duty in that plane, that place, 'how from there they can go further, higher position?' In this way. Sometimes after rebirth it takes place, and sometimes in the same life one may change his creed and go higher somewhere else.

Parthamitra: So when one preaches, if the quality that he's preaching is too high he may discourage...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: May be too high for one, and may be too near for another, but not too high for all. Then why this conversion is possible? How? So many going to be Mohammedan, Islam. So many going to be Christian. So many going to be Hindu. You, at present not born, all not born Christian. When Christianity first came no one was a Christian before. How the people were attracted to become Christian? There was in their heart the hankering for Christianity.

So, it is there, brahmāṇḍa brhamite. When Acyutānanda went to my birth place, one headmaster he asked him: "From so near we cannot appreciate the teachings of Śrī Caitanya. How from so far have you come to realise it? You have come from a country so far off to sacrifice your life for the service of Śrī Caitanyadeva, but we are so near but we can't appreciate that."

Acyutānanda answered,

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

We are to acquire this capacity during the course of our wandering through different positions in the whole of this creation. We are wandering from this land, that land, this species, that species, and in course of that we gather some sukṛti. Unknown sukṛti - ajñāta-sukṛti, then jñāta-sukṛti. Unknowingly, unconsciously also our energy is spent, utilised for a particular cause, and the reaction comes in me. In this way that sukṛti. And sukṛti developed - jñāta-sukṛti, and then śraddhā. On the surface the attraction comes to me for a particular truth, of the universal truth. In this way it comes, anywhere. A beast may feel the tendency to serve Kṛṣṇa. In Vṛndāvana it is so. So many trees, beasts, water, everything in the material posing but they have while they're there, they are, they have consciously acquired that position. Or they are eternally holding that position in different poses for the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: There's one book about a Christian bhakta. He chants mālā, he chants the name of Jesus.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Catholics also use the beads, we know.

Devotee: Yes, rosary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They may take the name of Christ. Yes, they may do.

Devotee: Yes, in Russian Orthodox Church this man was chanting the name of Jesus.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He will attain the position of Jesus, at most.

Devotee: But his heart was growing very soft and he was feeling some ecstasy, and he was feeling great love for Jesus.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jesus. That may be. It also may be so that in his perfect growth he may be finished there. Eternal paraphernalia of Jesus, he may remain there, with fullest satisfaction, he's fated to be there.

Devotee: So not every Christian we can come to and attract...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Again by his, when from Brahmaloka it is also possible. It will be difficult because his highest attention, purest attention, he thinks he has attained it. So to remove him a forceful sādhu is necessary. It is also possible, not impossible. Even from Brahmaloka where everything is non-differentiated, by the will of God and the powerful will of the devotee, high devotee, they may be raised from the slumber and taken into action. It is possible. Nothing is impossible. But generally he may pass long, long ages there, satisfied. So far, no further. In the space of infinite time, nothing is so much great, so much spacious. Long, long, he may remain holding that position. So many dissolutions and creations will come and go. Any time his slumber may be broken, possibility. From time immemorial this created world is and so many going up, down, up, down. It is infinite, and even from the midst of that some are coming out, a question of infinite.

Suppose the question of Jesus. His position may be considered as eternal. And some time may come when Jesus himself may be converted into Vaiṣṇavaism. It is not impossible.

Devotee: Do you not think that Jesus had awareness of Kṛṣṇa, as a person, as the Personality of Godhead?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. If most closely detected then we're bound to say that there is some possibility of getting Kṛṣṇa in the life of his infinite way. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: I didn't understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jesus is stagnant or progressive? Is he stagnant?

Devotees: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where he has reached, is that finished forever, or he's dynamic?

Devotee: The Christians say he has full knowledge.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So he's stagnant there, finally fixed? Jesus' position. The bishops, who says his position is final, or progressive life? Dynamic or static? Final? That position he holds or he can make further progress. And Jesus only barred from making any progress? What do you say? Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. Is he a member in the dynamic world or stagnant? So infinite is such. The infinite, we're going to deal with infinite, it is ludicrous for us that we want to deal with infinite. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: What form of Kṛṣṇa was Christ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why Kṛṣṇa is considered to be absolute? You are to enquire about that in a scientific way, step by step, step by step. You go on reading, what I told, Śrī Kṛṣṇa-saṁhita and Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, it is already translated. Very minutely you try to follow the advice that is given, instructions, given in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta. The development in theism, the theism as in dynamic character.

Devotee: One question he's asking: "Is there a method to preach the presence of the soul in the lower species?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The Christians, they do not accept, generally, they do not accept that there is soul in animals and lower species, so how to preach about that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He did not care to bring them within that program to embarrass those persons. They cannot do but eating on vegetables and the animal species. So, at this point, they're not to be embarrassed by all these questions. Let them begin the theistic life eliminating those possibilities of reaction. Then again when they will feel about them they will be given that sort of instalment. But there is also life and not less qualified than the human position, but in course of this evolutionary movement they're thrown into such condition as a result of their own karma. Tamasar bahu rupena vestitar karma hetuna [?]

Wherever there is life, the soul is there within. It is a common thing. But Jesus thought it would be, the ideal of Jesus thought it would be impossible for them to adjust to such a degree with the environment. "Let them begin the culture of theism." Then gradually it will be, if such instruction will be given that, "You must adjust with your neighbour with generosity, liberally."

There is also not only ātmā, soul, but God is also there, everywhere. They are feeling pain and pleasure, happiness. In an animal it is of course quite clear that when they're killed they feel pain. So there is life, that vibration of pain there. Consciousness is there and soul is a unit of consciousness, pure.

To whom they preached, they're not so much qualified as to extend their knowledge so far. They're not prepared for so much sacrifice in their practices. So those who are not prepared to such extent, Christianity given by him. Everything ordained from the same common centre. So Christianity has got also its necessity. Islam has got also its necessity, because it has got some room in this universe. Not unnecessary, but relative position, not absolute.

And what is the question, the position of the Absolute Truth when we are to enquire, then we come to India where they have dealt very extensively with all possible conceptions of religion. And then ultimately come to the conclusion by which Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has been given. So many variegated natures of theological conceptions found in India. A part of that is not present anywhere in the world, as much as theological culture was in India of different shades of life. But ultimately Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has been given to be the highest. How? That we are to understand, to follow. Very minutely you are to follow that Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, and more in a present modern form in Śrī Kṛṣṇa-saṁhita by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Caitanya Śikṣāmṛtam. Bhāgavatāmṛta is already translated into English I know, from Māyāpur perhaps, Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta.

Devotee: I read that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You read that, but you read more closely, more scrutinisingly you read that until and unless you find satisfaction to answer all your enquiries. So repeat, repeat, repeat. Read, read and read it. The gradation is there of sambhanda-jñāna, how one is from a particular position, how he's forced to make his progress in a particular direction. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: I asked one question the other day but I did not fully understand the answer. It was about the soul going into animal species. And if there is no recollection of why he is suffering then how can he benefit? Say he has robbed someone, hurt someone, then he is punished but he does not remember why he is being punished, all he knows is he is suffering.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In what stage to make him unconscious necessary for the doctors? When a doctor deals with the patient, when does he feel that the patient should be made unconscious?

Devotee: When it is too painful for the patient.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So there is a necessity of unconsciousness in one's benefit of life, a necessity of being unconsciousness. So a man, a dacoit is imprisoned and put under chain when his movements will be detrimental to him. Then his position is confined in the cell and chained. So to take out the independence of voluntary action, sometimes it is necessary. The voluntary action should be taken away from him and by suffering his previous reactions may be relieved, then again given the voluntary action. Voluntary will has occurred so much misdeed and reaction for him that for the time being it is necessary that voluntary will, will be stopped. And he will be allowed to suffer his previous actions of his previous sins. Then again some freedom will be given to him so that he may take the real course, the course which is peaceful for him. As long as a drunkard when he's expected to do some mischief to the environment he should be confined, and when that madness of drinking gone then he will be left again for free action. Do you follow?

Devotee: I think the expression is 'sleeping it off.'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That 'Why confined?' The possibility of free action is taken away forcibly. Ignorance given, ignorance given, and he's to suffer the consequence of his previous action, and when that's finished, then again work. A man is making business in a black way, then he's put under lock and key, and some punishment. And then after he suffers the punishment he's again allowed to begin his business. For his previous disservice in the society he's punished and his business stopped. Then again after some suffering then he may be expected to learn that he was doing wrong, then he's allowed again to start his business. He's punished and business stopped for his previous mal business. I'm not clear? Do you understand what I want to say? Why the knowledge taken away and ignorance given to the party? The offending party, his last punishment is to take away his freedom, because thereby his freedom he will go in the wrong way, wrong way, to take out the freedom from him because he's moving towards the wrong direction.

Devotee: But he cannot remember.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is one side. Another side is that he will have to suffer the consequence of his past action so his progress should be stopped and he must suffer the consequence of his past action and then he will be again let free. A man, a dacoit is doing wrong so he must be kept in custody and all his movement stopped. Then when by punishment he's supposed to have some knowledge, then he will again be let free. This is quite reasonable.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: _____ [?]

Devotee: Also, the point is that Kṛṣṇa doesn't forget.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His zone of action is snatched away. Freedom is being misused so that is taken away.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Sometimes in the Bhāgavatam of Kapila, and I think you quoted Jīva Goswāmī, he says sometimes, rarely, in the womb of the mother the soul may have the recollection of his past one hundred births.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jīva Goswāmī has cleared that, that not all the time in the womb, but the particular child who is conscious of God in the womb, when he comes out, with this link he may go on further.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But there is some recollection there of his one hundred births.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not universal, but particular case. That is particular case.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I'm just giving the example where in a case one may remember his past births.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. One hundred births, and he prays to the Lord: "I have done many things wrong. If I come in connection with the world this time I shall try my best to make progress towards You." These things. In a diseased man, a man living, sometimes he finds God consciousness very pure in him, and sometimes filthy conceptions comes in him. Not continuous pure mentality we can find in ourselves that is found in the higher level. In the general human being, average human being, sometimes they think themselves pure in the mind, and sometimes think of the filthy things in the mind, coming, satya, raja, tama. In Bhagavad-gītā also when satya-guṇa is increasing he finds himself in some way. Then tamo-guṇa feels this to be lazy, and nidra, a sleep. And raja-guṇa, he feels that much energy in him, then raja-guṇa is predominating in him. And satya-guṇa, a peaceful nature for enquiry of the truth. In our present life there are so many moments which may connect with satya-guṇa, sometimes raja-guṇa, and sometimes tamo-guṇa. Nidra-vasya, this is tamo-guṇa. And to find too much energy for a particular programme, that is raja-guṇa. And sometimes a peaceful mind wants to enquire about the creation, and sober things, that is satya-guṇa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Do you know the story of the yogī Visvaksena? And they say that that yogī took his birth as Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. This statement, from where have they got? Where they have got this news, from where? What is the evidence?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Sometimes they say that in Bhaktivinoda's diary, this is a quote from Lalitā Prasād, in the diary of Bhaktivinoda he says that, this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Never. Their diary and the book is published by Lalitā Prasād, it is with Dāmodara Mahārāja. I have gone through that. No trace of that, that he will take birth in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's house. Not like that, nothing of the kind.

Devotee: No proof?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nothing mentioned about that.

Devotee: In letters?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. We don't find any letters that he will take birth in the house of, in the family of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, never mentioned there. Nowhere any mention of such. This is the first time I'm hearing. It was not discussed any time anywhere, only first time I hear from you.

Devotee: This story, he's never heard it before?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My connection is fifty-five years with this Gauḍīya Maṭh, and I've never heard such a story, I'm certain.

Devotee: They say that he took his birth as Bhaktisiddhānta to destroy the teachings of...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is impossible. That yogī's temperament and our Guru Mahārāja's temperament are quite opposite.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying, "And even if you think that, that yogī's temperament and Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta's temperament are completely different."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Completely different.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: At least there should be some similarity between their personalities. He's saying that look at the temperament of Bhaktisiddhānta and then this yogī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lalitā Prasād was working under our Guru Mahārāja in the beginning, in Yoga-pīṭha and in Godruma. But when Kuñja Bābu came, the Tīrtha Mahārāj, Bhakti Vilās, his management was more acceptable to our Guru Mahārāja than Lalitā Prasād's assistance. Lalitā Prasād could not tolerate the presence of Kuñja Bihārī in the management, so he left gradually. And also of Vinod Bābu, Keśava Mahārāja. Keśava Mahārāja and Kuñja Bābu, when they began to manage in the beginning of the mission, Lalitā Prasād he could not tolerate, he left the Yoga-pīṭha, and Svānanda-sukhada-kuñja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's samādhi, and he went away. And Prabhupāda, our Guru Mahārāja's preaching campaign, that was gradually gaining ground, and forcibly it is going on. And he could not tolerate, he retired, left. In the beginning he was under Prabhupāda.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying he had a position in the management in the beginning. He was working under Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta. Then Kuñja Bihārī came, Tīrtha Mahārāj, and he was an expert manager. So Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta favoured his management, so then he [Lalitā Prasād] kind of lost position and gradually withdrew.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He could not tolerate the management of Kuñja Bābu and Vinod Bihārī and had to retire.

Devotee: But such a great amount of envy to make up such stories. I don't understand such envy.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He's saying, "Why would he say such stories about Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, when he went away he did not like Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura because he preached in a different way, not in the garb of these bābājīs. His way of preaching was of a different type, which other disciples of Śrī Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, and the section we call sahajiyā, and they were the masters of the Vaiṣṇava society at that time, they could not give any recognition to Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī because his fashion was of another nature.

Just as I heard from Bhakti Vijaya Prabhu. He was first in the opposite camp, then came to Guru Mahārāja and took initiation there. I heard from him that Prabhupāda after taking sannyāsa, he went to Vṛndāvana, to visit. And Paramānanda and Kuñja Bābu, they were clad in European dress, and Prabhupāda took red cloth of a sannyāsī, went to visit Vṛndāvana. The sahajiyā section, they say, rakta-vastra 'vaiṣṇavera' parite nā yuyāya, [kona pravāsīre dimu, ki kāya uhāya?]

["This saffron cloth is unfit for a Vaiṣṇava to wear; therefore I have no use for it. I shall give it to a stranger."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 13.61]

Sanātana Goswāmī's statement in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. The Vaiṣṇava should not take this, rakta vastra, means red cloth, there is a saying. And Prabhupāda took sannyāsa, and not red but saffron cloth, sannyāsa as Mahāprabhu told. And two of his disciples they were clad with European dress. When he went to Vṛndāvana they began to criticise.

"What is this? One should enter Vṛndāvana in a very poor dress and mostly humble style they go to Vṛndāvana. And that gentleman puffed up with the pride that he's a scholar, he's a preacher, he's taking the role of Mahāprabhu and not of Rūpa and Sanātana. He's going to Vṛndāvana. And what is this? That the brahmacārīs along with him, those two disciples, they must have some red cloth or white cloth, but they took European dress and visited."

One Paṇḍita, Govinda Paṇḍita, Śaṅkar Tīrtha, who gave as a chairman, the first reception to Swāmī Mahārāja here in Navadwīpa Municipality, I arranged that, he flatly admitted one day in a meeting that, "We first criticised Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, that he's ignoring the past, and ignoring the present Vaiṣṇava section. He's taking a new course of his preaching. But it was our fault now I realise."

Weekly he had a paper, Adivasi [?] And in many places, they have all criticised our Guru Mahārāja.

"He's a man of modern type. He's leaves the old things, fashion, leaving respect for that."

In this way. And that gentleman, that Paṇḍita, Govinda Śaṅkar Tīrtha, in a meeting he clearly told that.

"We could not understand him. That he's meant, he has come for world propaganda, and to take such policy as he's to conquer the whole world, and not only confined to our own cell and going on with the japam etc. The other type, he's sent from the higher order, higher sphere, to propagate this Vaiṣṇava dharma of Mahāprabhu in a novel way so that it may be acceptable by the public at large. Especially his aim was to convert the Westerners. So he took such and he presented European dress."

In the beginning I had some little doubt that why Guru Mahārāja he's in some European style? The old sādhus of India did not have so much arrangement for the bathroom, for the lavatory, all these things, anyhow they managed. But he's accustomed to go to bathroom and sanitary latrine.

Guru Mahārāja himself one day told when he was a guardian tutor in Tripura, Tripura Mahārāja boy, he was the guardian tutor. Guru Mahārāja's second elder brother was the Dewain of Tripura State. And Guru Mahārāja was a guardian tutor of the prince, he passed some days. And to teach the boy English one lady tutor was engaged.

That lady tutor she wrote a letter to England to some of her friends. "That here I have found a Bengali gentleman who, though he has not visited Europe, but he has got peculiar taste for, very common, very appealing to the European, I find."

I heard it with my own ear from Guru Mahārāja. "That lady wrote to her friend, who was the guardian tutor to teach English to the prince of Tripura, she wrote a letter there. That here I have found a Bengali gentleman who has got European taste."

Ha, ha, ha, ha. So that sort of taste created slight disturbance in me, in the beginning, because I'm accustomed with the orthodox fashion of the brāhmaṇas and the paṇḍits and the sannyāsīns. I come from such family.

So only the ontology of him attracted me and not any grandeur. In spite of his European fashion I had to submit to him for the great ontology what he could represent. And of an original way, not anything like taken in memory, only swallowing and reproducing, vomiting. His philosophy was not of a vomiting character, he read somewhere and vomiting it, not like that, but in an original, natural type. The philosophy came from his mouth of the highest type and in the line of Mahāprabhu.

And giving very extraordinary reverence to the creed. The Gītā, Bhāgavatam, with very particular attention and reverence and respect he used to give. And he did not care for anyone, however stalwart he may be of the present type. All the scholars, all the sādhus, he did not care for anyone. Only one, Vaṁsī Dāsa Bābājī, he was an aloof man who did not enter society. He had recognition only for one, Vaṁsī Dāsa Bābājī.

When he went to Vṛndāvana he told that, "Going to Vṛndāvana, visiting so many sādhus," with his hand he stroked his forehead, "I came to Vṛndāvana, such the holiest place, but my luck is so bad that I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava here." That was his standard. "Not a single Vaiṣṇava I found in the whole of Vṛndāvana area. My loss is very high." That was his standard of what Vaiṣṇavism is.

And also, analysing and met so many pseudo Vaiṣṇavas and so many things. That attracted us, that cancelled this present Vaiṣṇava. Because the society, especially the brāhmaṇas, they had abhorrence for the so called Vaiṣṇava society, and the Goswāmīs also, for their practice. Both, Goswāmīs and we abhorred them.

But I had some special regard for Mahāprabhu, going through His advices and His character, practices, teachings and practices. I had to make much struggle to come from the position which we hold in the society, to Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura. Only the highest ontological aspect, and his thought, not an artificial but natural. That attracted me instantly. We did not care for the pseudo Vaiṣṇavas or so-called Goswāmīs, we hated them, that was our experience.

And we are attracted by the exclusive devotion towards Bhāgavatam, Gītā, what is Vaiṣṇavism preached by Mahāprabhu. Wholesale, wholesale, people could not estimate how, length and breadth. So extraordinary and such earnestness to preach that, that is incalculable. The earnestness to preach the doctrine of Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu in the purest form. Too much earnestness, most intense earnestness, unique. He was up to anything for this. So much intense earnestness to preach the doctrine, and doctrine also of the purest type eliminating everything.

prithi vite yata katha dharma nam chole, bhagavat kori _____ [?]
[Collection verses quoted by Śrīla Guru Mahārāja, 380]

What of this Lalitā Prasād and others? Single-handed he challenged the whole world, all the doctrines in the religious path, defeating them successfully, and with reason. That attracted us to his feet. And at least fifty five years I am holding that. And not only that I am, it is daily corroborated by the śāstras, and by the thoughts, relative thoughts, it is daily being corroborated, extended, what he did it is all right.

...did not care a fig for other's opinions.

Devotee: I guess there are two schools of how to spread Mahāprabhu's movement, and Guru Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This was his special nature. What Mahāprabhu came to give us that is very, very, very high. And we shall pose ourselves to serve it from a little lower level, and never to try to come in the same plane, then it will vanish.

Devotee: I can appreciate the quality of compassion to want to go out and preach.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh.

Devotee: And I saw that in my Guru Mahārāja and I had respect for that. But in my own feelings, I was with ISKCON for so many years and then I left, partially because I wanted to understand if there was any truth in the stories, partially because I had lost faith. I was thinking, why has my Guru Mahārāja appointed such materialistic men, like demons, stone hearted demons, to such prominent positions? So I had a crisis within my own heart and I had to go away. And then I questioned so much that I asked myself whether I even believe there is a God. Such depth of questioning I went within my own heart. And gradually I came to accept there is God and that bhakti is the most powerful force in this world, and in the spiritual world. So I can appreciate. But to be perfectly honest after so many years, I can understand that love, or bhakti, is such a powerful force, but I have not had any great realisation that Kṛṣṇa is God. I've not had any mystical revelation. And I think I need that very much in order to be a good teacher of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And one thing I want to ask of you is I wanted to know of your own spiritual revelation, your own vision of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He says that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He wants to know my realisations about Kṛṣṇa?

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is another side. I learned it from Guru Mahārāja.

Once, a zamīndār of _____ [?] came to see Prabhupāda. Our Goswāmī Mahārāja took him, and he told - we were in a meeting in Calcutta utsava time. The zamīndār told, "I have got some private talk with you." He pressed, and it was arranged. He was a respectable man.

"Come." It was arranged, and at night when it was dark and the candle was on the street. It was arranged, two chairs were given far away and Guru Mahārāja and that zamīndār took their seat side by side.

In the darkness I hid myself there at their back. "What the talk will be there?"

Then that zamīndār, taking his head nearer to Guru Mahārāja said, "Have you seen Kṛṣṇa?" He's putting this question. "Have you seen Kṛṣṇa?"

The answer I very eagerly, anxiously I'm awaiting the answer. I was also a newcomer at that time.

Then Guru Mahārāja said, "That will be of what good to you? If I say I have seen Kṛṣṇa, and if you can't feel that, then what will be, what good you will derive from that? And if I say I did not see, I can't see, then what will be the effect on you for that? You rather try to know what is Kṛṣṇa and how to see Him. That is necessary for you. Otherwise a bogus man he will cheat you 'that I have seen Kṛṣṇa.' You do not know what is Kṛṣṇa, so anyone will cheat you saying that 'I have seen Kṛṣṇa.' It is such and such and you will be deceived. So try to know how we can know Kṛṣṇa and what is His conception as given in the authentic scriptures. That is necessary for you. And not by giving some answer I or anyone may cheat you 'that I have seen Kṛṣṇa.'...

Devotee: But in your stage of life...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and that is being done in many places.

When I came here in a cottage first, then I found one brāhmaṇa boy he took the dress of a sakhī and lived in that locality.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Ha, ha. When he first came here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And as a sakhī he's dealing with the others. And ordinary people they revered him much. "He has seen, sakhī, he's seen Kṛṣṇa, he's talking with Him." So I saw much reverence for that gentleman in sakhī dress.

Then one day, I'm a sādhu, they do not come here to live in the cottage, anyhow, one day he came to me. So many people they're talking of him, but I don't give any importance to that. One day he himself came with the female dress of a sakhī, and came to talk 'that I have seen Kṛṣṇa, in this way, that way.'

Devotee: He said to you he has seen?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I replied, we are not persons to believe you. We are persons of Gauḍīya Maṭh, members of Gauḍīya Maṭh, we know what is Kṛṣṇa and who can see Him and how to do it. We have got some idea. So you are a bogus man. You are preaching and you are cheating the public saying that you have seen Kṛṣṇa.

"No, no. I have seen Kṛṣṇa. Not only myself, I have shown Kṛṣṇa on the tamarind tree on the other side of the Ganges and there are so many evidences there, so many men saw Kṛṣṇa. I showed Him."

Why are you cheating yourself. I'm told that you are a brāhmaṇa boy and coming in contact with these pseudo sahajiyā Vaiṣṇavas you have again come to such a stage you see Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa cannot be seen by these eyes. Adhokṣaja. We have learned something, consulted, and we have read some śāstra, Veda, Upaniṣad, Bhāgavatam, Gītā, all these things we have gone through. So don't deceive your own self. You know your self how you are. You are still a slave of your senses. You have got your lust, the anger, the this and that, so many things you feel, and I also know that. And you are simply not only deceiving the foolish persons, but what is more dangerous, you are deceiving your own self. Very strongly I put it.

And he got some impression, and some day leaving that female dress, and kept hair also like the female, was shaved, clear shaved, came to me. "Now, please enlist me amongst your disciples."

At that time I began a little reluctantly, one or two actions, one or two disciples.

Then there was another Godbrother with me, "No, no. Do not accepted him as disciple. He will not be able to stand here, he'll go back again and he will be a blaspheme to our mission."

So I flatly refused him, that I'm not going to accept you as disciple. So, so many things. Adhokṣaja, He cannot be seen and if it is seen coming down it is very, very rare. Coming down from the spiritual sphere to the mental sphere and becomes so much strong that when eyes open overflowed they can see Him. And when He withdraws nothing remains. So it is not so easy.

There are so many stages - ādau śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, anartha-nivṛttiḥ, bhakti, bhāva- bhakti, prema-bhakti. The stages are there. Mathematical calculation we can trace in one man by measuring by computer, this philosophical computer, that how much progress is there. Has he got śraddhā proper?

He will say, "Oh, Śiva is also, Śiva, Kṛṣṇa, Kālī, Śakti - all God, all equal."

And that man will say "I have seen Kṛṣṇa."

So there is the standard, measurement, criterion is there in what stage one will see Kṛṣṇa. And when one has seen Kṛṣṇa what will be the after effect? One who has seen Kṛṣṇa, the after behaviour, conduct, after that what will be there? All these things to be considered.

But the sahajiyā, we hate them, they're born offenders who take Kṛṣṇa to the lower level. Svayaṁ Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, Sanātana Goswāmī has given the gradation. Jīva Goswāmī by what stage eliminating, eliminating, elimination, elimination of so many things within our area of knowledge. We are to go to that side. It is not very easy, easy affair.

Devotee: That's why I'm asking you, because I would not ask anyone if they saw Kṛṣṇa. But I'm seeing your quality of heart and so many years of sincere service to Kṛṣṇa. That is why I'm asking you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. I will also say that I have not yet seen Kṛṣṇa. But I am in the way in search of Kṛṣṇa. I have not got Him, not seen Him. But I am in the search of Kṛṣṇa, and I feel that I am on the path of real search. And whatever told, or whatever seen, or said, that in the path these things will be. I have some sort of experience of that, that in the real path of Kṛṣṇa I am, so far I can guess. But I have not the audacity to say that I have seen Kṛṣṇa, I am in līlā with Him, all these things. I revere, and I don't want also to have it so cheaply. Cheap Kṛṣṇa I don't want, this market Kṛṣṇa I do not want. I want as guided by my Guru Mahārāja to have darśana of that Kṛṣṇa. In this birth, or in hundreds of births after, does not matter. This is my ideal. I'm not going to deceive anyone by any statement but I think I am in the path. By the grace of guru-varga I am in the path. That I can say.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: Mahārāja, sometimes in the songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, or Narottama Dāsa Ṭhākura, like sometimes Bhaktivinoda says: "I am a resident of Svānanda-sukhada-kuñja." And he's speaking as if he is in līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That may be, we may think that is the ideal he has described after. His highest idea is that. He's doing it in his ideal life.

Devotee: Imagination?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not imagination. It is reality, not imagination, reality.

Devotee: But at that point he had already...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seeing from afar, a little distant, something like that.

Devotee: So at that point he had access?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But feeling within his inner heart he's describing. And sometimes he says: "Suddenly I had a flash, I saw, and then when I went to mark it particularly, it vanished." Something like that.

Devotee: I have not had any flashes.

Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja: He wants to have a flash. Bhargava, he wants such a flash.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If He is gracious you may get it. His mercy.

Devotee: I need so desperately. I had one flash before I became devotee...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Don't try easy marketing, you will be cheated. Pray, make yourself ready to pay more and more price, more and more price. Don't finish the market, or then you'll be losers. Why? The Absolute, we're after the Absolute, and the Absolute can never be finished. Then we say that we are seeking the Absolute, but practically we think that we want to be masters of the Absolute. It is impossible.

Devotee: Yes, there are strong material desires.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That sort of activation should be crushed, that is to be nipped in the bud. In His search, die. Die to live, not treat miserly. Try to give yourself, and how. Then as much as you will be ready to sacrifice yourself and can successfully do it, then automatically you will find yourself in some other plane.

Devotee: I was sacrificing for many years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As a subject and making Him object, you will be able to make Him prisoner, don't think like that. Try to become His prisoner.

Devotee: I was serving with that mood for some years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Keeping your subjectivity you can't have any contact with Him. Wholesale to be dissolved, and your new self will come out and he will find all round Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And then sometimes Kṛṣṇa may be pleased to...

82.11.23.A

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, what are the characteristics of the individual soul? You have spoken of devotional ego. What do you mean by that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say?

Aranya Mahārāja: She's asking: "What are the characteristics of the individual soul?" And she said: "You have made a, called a term 'devotional ego.' What is devotional ego?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She may come nearer. You may go this side. Is she Parama?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inner ego is a serving unit. We are living in the plane of exploitation. Here we are awake. Then, withdrawing completely from this plane, of different sub-planes also, Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, all exploitation more or less, satya, raja, tama, three divisions. Then the plane of renunciation, just crossing that plane of renunciation, that marginal plane, we are to enter into the plane of devotion. And our soul awakens there. Soul is now covered by the mental and physical body. Physical body we can understand and the mental body we can find in our dream. That no activity of this physical world, but mental, in dream what we feel, see, do, all in the mental. And also sometimes in our imagination we can find that there is a mental world. But mental world is also produced by our exploiting energy, tendency.

When all these exploitation endeavours are dissolved, this is cover, both subtle and gross cover of ātmā, soul, and soul is a unit rendering all service to the environment. And there is a plane where every soul is rendering service. Just as here the opposite, everyone wants to exploit another. There, just the opposite, everyone dedicates himself for the environment as directed from the centre. We want to be centralised. Now we are decentralised. Everyone wants the satisfaction of his own senses, running towards outside, sense satisfaction, sense pleasure. And there, everyone tries to satisfy the senses of Kṛṣṇa, the all-attractive, by His beauty and love, all running towards that, to satisfy the centre.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'
["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

The real existence of acquaintance of jīva is the eternal slave to Kṛṣṇa. Slavery to the Supreme Good, that is not bad. Slavery in itself is not bad. We are slave to our senses, material senses, sense pleasure. But we must withdraw from there and we shall try to reinstate ourselves in a position from where we can sit and we can satisfy the sense pleasure of Kṛṣṇa, who is our Lord. We are slave to Him. And He is Absolute Good and Beauty, all good, all good, no reaction. Here we are under reaction, whatever we do we are punished by that because of exploiting others. At the cost of others we try to enjoy ourselves, but that is bad, that is reactionary. And there, we are giving everything for the centre of Absolute Lord, and everyone is thriving. That is in the general. Any other question on this lecture? You may ask. Is it clear? Am I clear? Or further questions here?

Aranya Mahārāja: It's not clear to her. She has another question.

Parama: What are the characteristics in the pure state? What makes one individual soul different from another?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is that five kinds of posing in the service of Kṛṣṇa. First, the lower, is śanta-rasa, our niṣṭhā, we can keep our own individuality to a certain extent, but subservient of Him, śanta-rasa, passive service, not active. Then the next stage, higher, is active service as a servant always waiting for His dictation and whatever He wants me to do I shall do that. That is dāsya-rasa. Śanta, dāsya. Next, sākhya, service, but confidential service as a friend to friend. You and myself as if in the same plane, and You want service from me, by playing with me, and by cutting jokes with me. In many ways that is also a service, friendly service, confidential service, that is sākhya-rasa. And then, the fourth stage is vātsalya-rasa. The parents are also servants, though ostentatiously they seem to be guardian. The father, mother, as a guardian looks after the welfare of the child, but that is also a form of service, through affection.

The centre is the son, and father, mother, they're looking after the satisfaction of the son, always. So that is, that filial affection, that is also service, which is the fourth highest stage. And the fifth stage is called this mādhurya-rasa, the sweetest of all, and that is consort-hood. There is the Lord that is of two kinds, svakīya, parakīya, married or unmarried. "Anyhow, He's my Lord and I am at His disposal. I want to serve Him. Any sort of service He may exact from me, I am ready for that." This is mādhurya-rasa service, the whole thing found in Vṛndāvana in its full-fledged form.

The Yamunā, the jungle, the tree, the hill, they're of śanta-rasa. Dāsya-rasa, so many servants working in the family of Nanda. They're drawing water, collecting wood, they are also, many other things what is necessary for the family matters they're doing, they're servant. And the friends also, the cowboys, went into the pasture ground, and they're also playing with Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes they're carrying Kṛṣṇa on their shoulders, and sometimes He Himself is sitting on his shoulder. In this way the basis of equality, but they're trying to satisfy Kṛṣṇa wholesale. They do not want their own satisfaction. Then vātsalya-rasa, Nanda, Yaśodā, they're so very anxious and earnest for His feeding, for His up-keep, and many other things as their son, their every natha they're moving only to satisfy Him. And the gopīs also there in their way they're also trying to satisfy His desire. In this way, full five rasa is found in Vṛndāvana in its highest form.

We're told and we have got our inclination and natural inner tendency to go to that place. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. Reality the Beautiful, the Absolute Good. Anyhow to be utilised by Him, that centre, as our guardian. However He wants to accept me in His service we must try to be at His disposal, as He likes, for anything. But in the inner existence we have got our specific characteristic and when we enter that domain of service in general, gradually doing the service our inner awakening comes up and takes me to that section of servitors. Attraction for a particular group of servitors, and then gradually I try to mix with them. And we get also some sort of external training, and inner heart approves it, and gradually I have, I am engaged in the service of My Lord direct. Back to God, back to home.

We're now wandering in the foreign land. With the help of the mental and physical body we're floating in an undesirable plane, and thinking there is also many desirability, and running after phantasmagoria. But ultimately it cannot give us satisfaction. There is great reaction here. So, wandering through all these undesirable elements, and if by chance our energies are utilised by the agents of the Lord, that accumulated gradually takes us nearer and we feel some form of inquisitiveness comes within our mind - "That this is all mortal" - janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi.

[indriyārtheṣu vairāgyam, anahaṅkāra eva ca
janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi-duḥkha-doṣānudarśanam]

[...An objective view of the miserable defects of material life, that is, birth, death, the infirmity of old age, disease, etc.,] [Bhagavad-gītā, 13. 9]

Birth, death, and infirmity and disease, everywhere here we find. So I want to get out of this uncertain position. And my inner hankering, due to sukṛti, for that unknown and unknowable, the reality of my highest imagination attracts me. And I am out of my house to search for Him. Wherever I can get the clue I try to enter there. But according to the inner intensity of our awakening we are mad to find out Him, the Lord of my heart, in this way. We have got something within that is covered, and the covers are by our devotional activities becoming thinner and thinner and ultimately it disappears and our inner awakening takes us to a particular. Suppose when the body of clay keeps me on the material plane, but if this body drops down, my mind does not find any necessity of the hard plane to stand. It can roam in the mental world. So, when mind also drops down, the mental system, the soul, the most fine thing within us, that automatically goes to that plane of soul which is made of soul, of that stuff, the Supersoul, Paramātmā. In this way, the higher and finer position we may attain, and here:

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, [tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ]

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

That is night to us, darkness to us now, and we are wakeful in this gross world. This is day and that is night to us. And when we shall be able to reach that plane, this will be night and that will be day. There we shall live, and move, and do everything to our heart's satisfaction. Our life will be fulfilled. We shall be, the gradation is, the comparison is possible whether this, this. Just as a man he earns money by thieving and committing dacoiting, he feels satisfaction there. And there is also another man who gives everything to the people, to the poor and others, he also feels some satisfaction in the heart. But there is difference between these two such actions. Two kinds of satisfaction, the satisfaction of a robber, and the satisfaction of a patriot, satisfaction of a man who gives everything to others. The qualitative difference there of satisfaction, good or bad. So also, this is all erroneous, all suicidal, all drawing mischievous reaction. And that is just the opposite. We can feel it by comparative study, that is so high and this is so low.

Anything more, am I clear?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our inner awakening, the awakening of our soul, transcending this body consciousness and both the mind consciousness. Mind is also a member, a subtle member, a higher member, of this material engagement. Both body and mind must be dissolved, and also the outer cover of the soul that is connected with renunciation. The inner awakening of the soul takes us to the higher stage. We are to enter into the higher plane as a servant and not as a master. The very plane is made of superior stuff than my own self is. There, only as a servitor we can enter for the interest of that land. Visa is issued to those that are not detrimental to the country. No visa is granted for any enemy of the country. So we shall get visa of that land when we will be considered that we are going there, entering there to contribute something to the country. And the master of that land is Kṛṣṇa. As much as I can find out within me attraction for Him, pure and intense, I will be adored there. They will come and adore me. "Oh, s/he has got so much affection for our Lord. So she or he must be taken nearby and to render her heartfelt service to our Lord." In this way.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu have given this news to us, this loving and most highest prospect of our life. The highest prospect of our life is there. And who helps us to attain that life of prospect, they're our friends, otherwise others are our enemies.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Gauḍīya Maṭh, our Guru Mahārāja did not come to give supply to the clothing and food, but the standard of living, the prospect. Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. The Upaniṣad in clarion call announces: "You are sons of immortality, amṛtasya putrāḥ, immortal and sweet, sweetness and immortality is within you. You are of that stuff. Where you were wandering in this land of filthy clay, rotten clay? You are wandering here but you are not made so low. Your place is high, and pure, and sweet. Come, come home, your home is there. Your inner claim is within you to live there. You are created with right to live there. Why do you misuse your energy and suffer so much?" Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. "Oh, all you sons of nectar, why are you plodding in this clay, in the mud? Come up." That's the clarion call of Upaniṣad to all of us.

Max Muller told: "What wealth the Indian Upaniṣads they contain within it, if the whole world is fed, they will be all rich. But not a speck, not a drop, will be finished. It will be as it is."

It is also said about this vidya, learning.

jnatavid vanta nenaiva chodi napi na nehati no daniha coyni jnati vidya ratna maha ranam [?]

A praise of learning, jnatavid vanta nenaiva, when the relatives, different parties, they come to divide the common properties, but this learning, this scholarship cannot come in the division amongst the parties, can't be divided. Jnatavid vanta nenaiva chodi napi na. A thief can steal anything and everything, but can't steal our learning, our education, knowledge, no thief can steal. Chodi napi na nehati no daniha coyni jnati. And so much so that other things if you give it then it diminishes, but this vidya, learning, if you distribute to others it won't diminish, it rather increases. By transferring to others your learning will be enhanced, not diminished.

So, devotion is higher than that, then how the qualification should be there. Devotion, the love of the Lord, as much as you can throw out you will get more His grace. "Oh, he's My agent."

[Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta] Swāmī Mahārāja engaged you to sell the books, distribute the books and collect, book distribution. "Give it to all. They will be benefited." Mahāprabhu told:

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land."] ["If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

Whomever you find, you advise him, remind him, try to remind him about his loving Lord Kṛṣṇa. Why do you suffer? You have got such a benevolent and great Lord of infinite resources, and why do you suffer here? It's most wonderful that you all suffer and your master is so rich. So something is wrong within you. You don't want Him. You don't want Him, you want this clay. Give up this clay. Try to collect your attention towards Him. He's very, very benevolent. He will surely take you up and all your troubles will disappear.

Just as a madman when his attention is drawn towards his home, recollection comes, he's relieved. "Oh." Otherwise no friend, wandering on the street, a madman. But when madness is cleared he says: "Oh, I am so and so, I have got my home, I have got my children, my parents, a well maintained bank balance." But as long as he's mad, nothing. Moving, running, laughing, all these things, but meaningless. But the moment he gets back his previous consciousness he says: "Oh, I have got everything. Why am I wandering in the street?"

Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! So the process they have recommended, what is necessary to go back to our home, take His Name, try to mix with the sādhus, and your confidence may be more and more intensified. Try to engage yourself as much as you command your energy for the service of the Vaiṣṇava, those that are represented here through whom things can reach there. To come in his connection and to feel some energy through him to the Lord, to my Lord. To increase more his attention towards Me, increase. In this way we are to try. Then a day will come when we shall find that the Lord's mercy has come down in me. "I feel with the tears of my eyes, Oh Lord, how could I stay so long without You? What misfortune to be away from You, my master, my beloved Lord." And so many friends will come: "Where were you for so long? Come, come, engage yourself in the service. Do this and I shall help you to take it to Them. Come. Where were you?"

Absconded, the madman absconded, and when he will come home with previous memory, the home members will come: "Oh, my son has come back. How he could come here? Where were you? We were worried so much for you, we searched for you in so many ways, through the newspapers, all these things, but we all failed. Now you have come our home is full with enjoyment."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

It is mentioned when a person of servant class comes, Kṛṣṇa first touches, gives him the touch of His feet. And the friendly class, He gives His hand to him, touched by hand to hand. And the vātsalya section, the filial, then they kiss, Kṛṣṇa gives a kiss to the parent, mother or father, a kiss. And in mādhurya-rasa, a devotee comes back, He embraces her first. This is the sign of first acceptance.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Aranya Mahārāja: Bhaktisiddhānta called this book distribution, book publishing, the bṛhat-mṛdaṅga.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The press, bṛhat-mṛdaṅga, its result goes far and far away. The sound coming from the mouth can go to a few ears, kīrtana, or the sound of the mṛdaṅga, that also a few ears. But the book can go far and far away. The sound in the press produces the books and the books can go to any distance. Bṛhat-mṛdaṅga. Sound visualised, visualised sound. And that can be transformed into sound, through the eye and brain, the book is read and it can produce the sound again, anywhere and everywhere.

Aranya Mahārāja: The telephone from Goloka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Aranya Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Prabhu is asking how he's to preach to others who are not aware of the presence of the soul in the lower species of life? How to prove to them the existence of the soul in the lower species of life? How to present it to them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lower species means, the creepers?

Aranya Mahārāja: Animals, the trees, the cows...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Preaching is not possible for us direct to them. The higher type of Vaiṣṇava can do that, as we find in the case of Mahāprabhu. When He, from Purī, He went to Vṛndāvana, in the jungle He jumped, He danced with taking Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, and the tigers, the deer, and elephants, they also began "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa" in their own sound. Because Mahāprabhu's vibration was so deep and intense that can reach, piercing the animal coating also into the soul. Soul's function is to chant "Kṛṣṇa" and dance, but that is thickly covered. So very deep and fine vibration, that can reach there, like x-ray piercing the cover the ray can enter. So the finest vibration can enter through the wall of the thick mind and body. So that kīrtana is possible from that position. Otherwise we can deal with them as much as possible using them in the service. What is acceptable by Kṛṣṇa, the vegetable we can collect and offer to Kṛṣṇa. The cow's milk we can devote. The bull we can utilise in the cultivation, the dog in the watch affairs. In this way as much as possible to connect them with Kṛṣṇa we can do. But there are so many human beings of different language, whatever being is near me I shall try to...

Once when I was in Madras in charge of that Maṭh, Rāmakṛṣṇa Mission centre was already there. One pleader he came to me: "You say that you want to distribute only Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, Kṛṣṇa-kathā, but people are dying, they're suffering from disease. You don't go to help them from that, like Rāmakṛṣṇa Mission. If they die, then to whom you will speak about Kṛṣṇa?" That was his question.

I told: "Suppose there is a famine and the government has sent some food for all, and I am engaged in distributing the food. And the mob is all around, and some runs away for something. Then, what should I do? Those that are present I shall distribute the food to them, or stopping that food distribution I shall run to catch him? I shall waste my time and energy by running to take him here? Or as much the stock is here I shall continue distributing the food? What should I do?

Then he told: "At present you must distribute to them."

"So many are here around me, thick crowd. I'm speaking Hari-kathā to them. One man is dying. That means he's leaving the present position. Should I run after him, wasting my time. I'm distributing always, whoever is in my front he will catch it, he will receive it. So by leaving the distribution I must not run after a doctor to cure one or two with medicine, because the amṛta is here and I'm always distributing and so many men around me. Why should I leave the duty of distribution and run after some other duty? It is immense, my stock is also enough, and then to receive this ration is also not in want. Then why should I lose my time for another, wild-goose chasing?"

He was stopped.

Whomever I'm finding I shall not have to run hither and thither. There are so many men and so many I won't go to learn English and go to the airports to the English people. So many Bengalis knowing, I shall try. Then if any Englishmen come and if I've already acquired English language then of course I may use that.

There was an instance in Gauḍīya that the tiger is there, and instead of running away, if you go to collect a stick, you go to cut a bamboo stick to deal with the tiger, in the meantime the tiger will finish you.

So, in whatever, stanisthita, in whatever position I find myself, from there, I shall try my best to utilise me for His service. I don't waste my energy that I shall learn this language, I shall collect some money, then I shall utilise it, that is waste of time. There's no end of any position. In acquiring language, or acquiring wealth, or acquiring physical strength, no end. So don't waste your energy. Wherever you are, from there, as much as you can you engage yourself fully.

The Hanumān, they went to build up the bridge with big pebbles, stone chips, and the squirrel only wet his tail and coming and whatever sand is in the wet tail he's carrying that. That has got its value. The quality is necessary, the earnestness is necessary. No amount, no quantity is big in the calculation of infinite. Quality, quality, quality takes us higher, not quantity. Whatever I am I shall do in my own way but I must not be a miser, miserly in that. That is what is wanted.

Aranya Mahārāja: So how to convince the human beings of the presence of the soul in the animals? That is what he wants to know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why should I, I am so eager for the animals?

Aranya Mahārāja: No, no. Because in the west they're killing so much the animals, specially the cow, so much of our...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So cow killing, I'm not a member of the association to save cows committee. I'm a member of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. I'm to deal with that. Not only be a member, there are so many association, the Jains, and the so-called Hindus, they may be very much eager for cow killing association, 'don't kill cow.' But we belong to the other plane. What's the question of cow killing?

Kṛṣṇa says in Gītā [18.17]: "If one can efface the whole brahmāṇḍa, can destroy the whole brahmāṇḍa, including cow, including brāhmaṇa, including sādhu, still he does not do anything, and no reaction comes, can come in him."

There is such a position. Try to attain that position, and that is also not the highest, but you are to pass through that. Self-abnegation. Don't allow yourself to be a member of this physical world, physical good and bad. But try to make yourself aloof from the physical relativity and be a member of that nirguṇa. Good or bad in calculation here, both is false, both false. So only engage yourself in distributing Kṛṣṇa. You try, and don't lose your energy, invest your energy, in any business of lower profit. Always try to distribute Kṛṣṇa-kathā, that you are connected with Kṛṣṇa, your connection is with Kṛṣṇa. If thousand times of death and birth we are to undergo to reconnect us with...

82.11.23.B_82.11.24.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...reconnection with Kṛṣṇa. I shall embrace that. Mahāprabhu says, sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye, koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāriye, [deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa nā paī, pāiye bhajane / kṛṣṇa-prāptyera upāya kona nāhi 'bhakti' vine]

["My dear Sanātana," He said: "If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation."] ["You should know that one cannot attain Kṛṣṇa simply by giving up the body. Kṛṣṇa is attainable by devotional service. There is no other means to attain Him."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55-56]

"Sanātana, if by giving up this body one can get Kṛṣṇa, then in a second I'm ready to die crores of times in a second. But not through that foolish sacrifice. It has got its own way, śravaṇa, kīrtana, sādhu-saṅga, Vaiṣṇava sevā."

Not by sacrificing, that is a kṣatriya or a bhuta tendency that, "I give, I kill my own body. I am a very big man, a big person." No. It is all foolish attempt. It may puzzle the worldly man, but in Kṛṣṇa consciousness they have not got such a hero, a world hero has got no value.

So to stop cow killing, that may be the duty of a particular plane, life of a particular plane. But if anyone comes, I come in connection with some, "Oh don't kill" so much I may say. But I shall not go to fight and die to kill my person whose time is so valuable as to attain Kṛṣṇa consciousness. I can't waste my time in this material struggle.

His interest is so great that some, Abraham or who? He was going to kill his son Ishmael.

Devotee: Sacrifice his son.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His son Ishmael. And he heard that Allah wanted that "You must sacrifice your son for Me." And he was ready for that. To satisfy the sweet will of Kṛṣṇa, not Kṛṣṇa but some conception of theistic Lord, he was required to kill his son and he was up to that test. "Yes, I'm ready."

So Kṛṣṇa-kathā is so high, in its competition to save the body of a cow or this thing, that cannot come in our concern. It is a very lower propensity. It is of so high. Everything can be sacrificed for it is so valuable. Nothing can be compared to it. It is so valuable, so urgent, so necessary, so pure. So this should not be cheating, we should not cheat ourselves. If we have, we feel, that we are engaged in Kṛṣṇa-kathā, we can do service to Kṛṣṇa, then it is so high, so valuable.

A man of ordinary level in the māyic good or bad, satya, raja, tama, he will try for cow keeping and all these things, brāhmaṇas, cows, they should be, because their life is more valuable here to promote the Kṛṣṇa-kathā. The brāhmaṇas, they are generally performing some yajña, sacrifice to the Lord from far away. Some sort of lower Kṛṣṇa consciousness, very lower consciousness. And the cow is considered to supply the materials, this ghee, this dhud, this cow dung is also considered pure for the sacrifice. We're told that the birth of cow is the last birth of all the beasts and animals, the last birth is the cow. And after the cow birth is finished then the soul gets another chance what to do. He may come to human birth. The vegetable birth, then the animal birth, and there are subconscious births, that is finished in the cow birth. They give to the society more and they take very much less. And even in connection with the holy sacrifice they can contribute many things connected with yajña. So the highest birth amongst the beasts is the cow, cow species, and they're helpful for the material sacrifice. So some more attention should be given to them.

Just as human birth, human birth also valuable animal birth. Humans are also something like animals when engaged in animal transactions. From human birth he can get the free choice not to do this thing, not to do that thing, come in contact with sādhu, and then work for your eternal emancipation, a very valuable position.

Just as in the playground if the football goes near the goal and that chance is missed then many come to repent, "Oh, we got the chance mature and that is finished." So, that is valuable chance. Ordinary football is moving here and there no repentance, but going near the goal if it is missed then they...

So this human birth, this cow birth, they have got some such value. They're revolving, suffering or enjoying their previous karma and comes to human birth, if they get, utilising which, that human birth he can effect his salvation from this vicious circle. And the cow, that is the last birth of the animal. All the debts of reaction finished and he's getting a chance of another position in balance where from he can get a free choice. In this way they're considered important. And their killing, that is to do away with that higher chance possibility, that will be more criminal. The valuable chance has been set aside and been crushed, destroyed, so greater sin.

Aranya Mahārāja: When [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāja was in the west he preached very vigorously, especially in regards to the, because it is Christian country, the law "Thou shalt not kill" in order to protect the cows.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And also, cow has some reverence, that Kṛṣṇa loved the cows there, and some perverted reflection here. So cow killing, that is hateful to us. To the sādhu it will cause some bad sentiment, undesirable sentiment. Cow is favourite of Kṛṣṇa. Though that cow is not this cow, still some perverted reflection, cow killing. That is something minimum.

Just as one told, one beggar went to beg something from a householder and the housewife was told: "Give some alms,"

"I shall give you ass."

"Yes give me that."

Then, "Are you ridiculing, casting jokes with me? Will you accept this ass."

"Yes. I shall accept ass."

"Why?"

"The first thing is that you begin this habit that a beggar should be given something. Practice it. By giving, extending your hand to the beggar with the ass, you may think you may have the chance of practising to give something. That effect. Another is that the ass can also be utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa by cleansing His utensils, I shall utilise that and you will get some benefit out of that. So give me ass. I'm standing for that, not to cut a joke with you."

So, come with your cautious and benevolent spirit, and not to kill the cow. Then, don't kill the elephant, the dog, all these things. Killing means that 'he will kill you.' If you kill the cow, the most valuable chance in the animal world, then you will meet with the same disaster. To every action there is the equal and opposite reaction. He has come just to the verge of the animal kingdom, and next birth he will attain that of a human being. And by killing that, he could clear off his debt if he could live more time. But you have given opposition to that, for his clearance of his past debt, you are being responsible for disturbing her to clear off her debt and coming away. So as valuable a life you are destroying, you will have to suffer the reaction of that type. So don't do that. There is gradation in our disturbance in the animal and vegetable kingdom. Always there is gradation in our activity. In the service of Vaiṣṇava also. If we get the chance of serving a Vaiṣṇava of higher type then we get some higher benefit. Everywhere, the gradation is there.

Aranya Mahārāja: It's said in the Bhāgavatam that by killing the cows the quality of mercy is destroyed.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mercy. Amongst the cow also there are also different types. There may be one cow who has acquired that sukṛti of devotion.

Aranya Mahārāja: Like the ones here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. In the cow, in the vegetable kingdom, everywhere, ajñāta-sukṛti, and disturbance to him, that will affect some disturbance in my plane of that line.

Aranya Mahārāja: We understand that the cows here, they are the topmost of the cows, because they are serving the topmost of the Vaiṣṇavas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There may be a devotee cow. Suppose a cow who has got chance in this life to supply her milk to the Deity, to kill that cow is to cause more disturbance, and he will have to reap the result accordingly. The interest of the devotee and the Lord is also disturbed thereby. So that cow killing and ordinary cow killing will be different, and so also everywhere. The dog who is watching the temple compound, to kill that, that goes to the higher plane, and the damage will be accordingly charged. This subtle calculation will always be there. The flowers that are in the compound, they're destined to be offered to the Deity, some thief came and stole them, so he will be more punished, heinously. And even the man who is here who does not care for that, they will curse them: "We are meant, we are living here, we have got the chance of coming here, my production will go to the Lord of my heart and you are neglecting me. And the others have taken me and took me to the prostitute, and you can't oppose that." So many subtle things to be calculated.

When we had a lecture hall in Madras, constructed by their money, a Madras gentleman, then, some people came, it was a good, big hall, built in a new style. Then some marriage party came, "Please allow us to use this hall for our marriage ceremony. It will be very suitable to us."

"No, no. It is not meant for that."

"You have constructed this hall from the money of this country and it is our necessity, a social activity. We also have devotion towards God, and this marriage function will have some God consciousness. Why do you not allow?"

Then one: "No. It is not meant, it is only for Kṛṣṇa's pleasure, not anyone else."

Another party came who had much recognition for Subrahmanya, Kārttikeya. They believed that Kārttikeya is also very high order of God. "We want to have a function here for the Subrahmanya."

"No. We can't allow that."

"Why not? Our country, our contribution, everything ours. You all want to worship God with Kṛṣṇa, we are also worship Subrahmanya. That is also God. We have high respect for him. Why his function can never be allowed here?"

Then I had to give another example. Suppose you have your wife. The whole of her service is meant for you, and will you allow her to serve confidentially another gentleman?"

"No, no. That is not possible. And it is so."

"This hall is given for the service of Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu. And we find it is not a material thing, it is all conscious, cinmaya, and it won't like to serve any other god, whoever he may be. He's meant for this, for Kṛṣṇa, cetan. So for her chastity we can't allow you, then she will curse us. She's meant only for Kṛṣṇa consciousness and not any other thing. There many be so many different consciousness of God."

Then, what he will say? He went away.

In what connection this example came?

Aranya Mahārāja: The connection of the cows and everything belonging to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, the flowers born here meant for Kṛṣṇa and if anyone takes that is most deplorable for her, for the plant. In plant life also so much consideration that the connection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness has universal measurement, standard. Gaura Hari bol!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that means Kṛṣṇa He got promotion. Ha, ha, ha. He was a calf keeper, from today He became a cow keeper, got promotion. And we find near Nandagram the local pāṇḍās they collect many cows nearby Kadumkandi in a meadow, and there they feed them well, the cows, in commemoration of that service of Kṛṣṇa towards the cows. Cows are represented as innocent of all the animals, satya-guṇa pradhāna, peaceful nature, of all the animals they're considered to be peaceful nature. They're all devotees of śanta-rasa. Many souls aspire after the cow birth in Vṛndāvana, that is, śanta-rasa bhakta.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: carāobi mādhava jāmuna-tīre vaṁśī bājāoto ḍākobi dhīre.

["O Mādhava, I see You leading Your herds to pasture on the banks of the Yamunā. You call to them by gently playing on Your flute."] [Avaśya Rakṣibe Kṛṣṇa — Viśvāsa, Pālana. Faith in Kṛṣṇa as Protector]

"We will engage ourselves in grazing on the banks of the Yamunā, and sometimes by playing on Your flute You will guide me, call me, guide us, call us."

So, go-dhana, śanta-rasa devotees of Vṛndāvana, go-dhana, the cow. Cow-natured devotees like to be handled by Kṛṣṇa. Everything is conscious there. We should not forget that as the fundamental. Consciousness, plus, the important serving attitude, that is all important. Without that, no entrance into that plane. Exploitation and renunciation left outside. And the calculative service is also in the lower position. Spontaneous serving attitude in any form or other, that can reach the plane of Vṛndāvana, Vraja-dhāma.

Then, our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, to save the people from committing offences against... [25:15 - 25:40, ?] Generally we commit offence by imitation. Our nature is to show progress to the people at large. That means... [26:00 - 26:21, ?] Imitation, to imitate Rūpa and Sanātana, to imitate the other pure devotees of higher level _____ [?] that means pratiṣṭhā, imitation means, presupposes, our name and fame. So we must learn, we must be sincere to our own self. We must not indulge in imitation, only to get the name and fame of a devotee, overnight. That will be self-deception.

To save us from that, our Guru Mahārāja, he came with a plan of service of the Vaiṣṇavas. Generally, Vaiṣṇavas that live single life, they do not allow anybody to serve them. So Vaiṣṇava sevā is very rarely found. But Guru Mahārāja has arranged in such a way that one is serving another and engaged in and helping in that. In this way, everyone gets advantage of serving a Vaiṣṇava, as well as Viṣṇu, Guru. So the missionary life, organised life of an exclusive service holder in the Maṭh, one gets that advantage of serving under the direction of the higher Vaiṣṇava, the Vaiṣṇava service, everything they have.

And they ask us, "Don't try to go hurriedly to the higher level. Try to remain in the lower. The circumstance, the environment, will help you to go up. Don't be eager to hold the upper position, the environment will do that, and that will be natural progress. Always try rather to keep downwards." That is his instruction. "Purify your inner heart. Don't be eager to purify the outer aspect. Innermost aspect, that is all-important. Try to convert that into Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Do not make yourself busy to keep up a show as a devotee of Kṛṣṇa. But with the heart within, there, give all attention. External show, that is not very injurious, but if the disease is within, when that will come up, come over, that can create havoc. Try to purify the inner most part of your heart of your existence. So, do some service under the guidance of the Vaiṣṇava. You may not understand what is service, what is not service, where is that pratiṣṭhā, that fate of renunciation, or crude, subtle exploitation. Cast yourself wholly at the disposal of the Vaiṣṇava proper, and try to be utilised by him. Make your own ego aloof, take it off, and allow a Vaiṣṇava to work in the workshop of your own heart, allow him to handle. So, come to understand what is service proper, sacrifice."

Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2], a matsara, who cannot tolerate the high position of another. "Why should I not get the better position?" That is the most dangerous enemy in this campaign. So don't believe your own self, don't trust your own self. Rather, trust the Vaiṣṇava, the Guru, and allow them to handle your own self. You will be benefited thereby, more and more. So, Guru is your proprietor.

Jīva Goswāmī says, giving reference, quotation, vikrtesu yatha pasu [?] Just as a purchased animal is used by the proprietor, you take that model, that humble standard. "We're purchased animals to my Lord, my Gurudeva. In anyway he likes he may utilise me, anyway. Die to live. We can live thereby in the finest plane, unassailable plane where from we can never be disturbed, or never be removed."

Guru Mahārāja laid stress very much on this point. You know what is service proper. What is that plane? Enquire after that highest plane. The spontaneous flow of service towards the Absolute, there is that current, the most underground, most fundamental current of the whole existence is that. Irresistible and causeless. And you are wanted to connect with that plane. Your innermost part of soul only can be a member in that plane. Back to home, back to God. Back to home, back to God, back to home. The Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead is there in the most fundamental, most subtle, the flow of love, beauty, harmony. There, if you can find yourself, all this gross dress, this coat and cloth may be eliminated. There you are to wake. Back to God, back to home. And that is all-important. Other forms, they take the Name, worshipping the Deity, to hear the class, regular śravaṇa, to chant and dance. Everything may be service, every form, but to be service, the connection with that plane is indispensable. Otherwise all these will be like - no bullet but just the sound - a blank form, a blank shot. Otherwise all will be blank shot. Form, but not the life, not the spirit. The spirit is the serving element, the sacrifice, that die to live. As much as you can die, apparently, you'll be able to live so much.

So, today is also the day when in this day in the year Śrīnivāsa Ācārya Prabhu and Dhanañjaya Paṇḍita and Gadādhara Dāsa Prabhu, these three pārṣada Vaiṣṇavas of Mahāprabhu disappeared, the day of disappearance.

First, Gadādhara Dāsa, rather, Gadādhara Paṇḍita is considered to be the bhāva, the internal mood of Rādhārāṇī, internal attitude, serving attitude, serving mood. And the kānti, the lustre, the outer part, is said to be represented by Gadādhara Dāsa. He was born in twenty four Padmanābha [Sept-Oct], Endiyadaha, but in his last days he passed time in Katwa, where Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa. And he accepted disciple there, and the descent of that disciple, they are now in the management of that Maṭh. Their origin is from Dāsa Gadādhara. Dāsa Gadādhara's tomb is also found there in that compound.

And there is also the tomb of the hairs of Mahāprabhu there. Mahāprabhu had very good curling hair, beautiful. And during the time of sannyāsa the barber, he, trying, numbered, closed to shame, and come back. "I won't be able to take off such fine, beautiful figure, beautiful curling hair, I can't shave." He goes to shave by His order, but comes back. "No. I can't." Anyhow he had to obey the order. Those hairs are put there in samādhi.

And there, took Gadādhara Dāsa amongst the contemporary devotees of Mahāprabhu, took the charge of that tīrtha place and installed Mahāprabhu's Mūrti temple, and continued the service of the temple there, Gadādhara Dāsa. Today is the day of his disappearance. We shall pray for his grace, that his grace will help us in our attainment of highest love.

Then another, Dhanañjaya Paṇḍita, he was one of the twelve assistance of Nityānanda Prabhu, Dvādaśa Gopāla. Balarāma had His twelve subordinate gopa boys in Vṛndāvana. And here also, Nityānanda Prabhu, He represents Balarāma, and He has got His twelve followers. And Dhanañjaya Paṇḍita was one of them. And his birthplace was also very nearby, Sitala-Grama. The Katwa - Burdwan railway line, there is Kaicara station nearby Sitala-Grama. There the memory of Dhanañjaya Paṇḍita is also preserved. When Nityānanda Prabhu, at the request and order of Mahāprabhu, who was in Purī, in Bengal, Nityānanda Prabhu came and began to preach about Kṛṣṇa līlā and Gaura līlā, the Dhanañjaya Paṇḍita and others helped Him for that purpose.

Then comes Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. Śrīnivāsa Ācārya's father, Padmana Bhaṭṭācārya [a.k.a Gangadhara - and later as Chaitanya Dāsa], he was class friend of Mahāprabhu, of Nimāi Paṇḍita. When his home was on the Nadia district, just on the other side of Agrodi [?] station there. The name of the village is Chakundhi. A brāhmaṇa family, paṇḍita, and he married in Yajigrama, near Katwa. Mahāprabhu took His sannyāsa, and this Padmana Bhaṭṭācārya, from his father-in-laws house, he was just going to his own house, and heard that Nimāi Paṇḍita has come to take sannyāsa. He knew Him, a great scholar and charming figure in all respects. He went to see, and the people were mad in that āśrama of Keśava Bhāratī, a good Śaṅkara school sannyāsī.

And Padmana Bhaṭṭācārya went to see that, "Nimāi Paṇḍita is taking sannyāsa? What is this? An unthinkable scholar, and exclusively beautiful figure, all capturing, commanding persons, and He has come to take sannyāsa? How? We cannot conceive life without Him. And how His mother and newly married young wife will even be able to live?" With this feeling he went, and he was struck dumb to find what was flowing there.

Two parties, one party under the direction of Mahāprabhu is going to request Bhāratī: "Do the function as early as possible."

Another party there stood, "No. This young boy can never be given such a sannyāsa life. You Bhāratī, we won't allow you to give sannyāsa to this boy. You have come to spoil our society. It can never occur."

In this way. And Padmana, he's watching what's going on there.

Then after all, Mahāprabhu's will, that got the predominance, and generally, everything subsided and near the afternoon time the sannyāsa began and it was done.

Mahāprabhu told Bhāratī that, "I have got this mantram of sannyāsa in a dream. Please see whether it is the real mantram or not." He gave it in the ear of Bhāratī.

Bhāratī said: "Yes. It is all right. This is it. Take it."

In this way. And the name, what name should be given. He was thinking and there was some sound from above — the Kṛṣṇa Caitanya — Bhāratī took that and put. The name was given. Padmana waited, so much, so far. And Mahāprabhu started towards Vṛndāvana, chanting the name of Bhāgavatam tridaṇḍī-bhikṣu, etāṁ sa āsthāya parātma-niṣṭhām, adhyāsitāṁ pūrvatamair maharṣibhiḥ ahaṁ tariṣyāmi duranta-[pāraṁ, tamo mukundāṇghri-niṣevayaiva]

[As a brāhmaṇa from Avantī-deśa said: "I shall cross over the insurmountable ocean of nescience by being firmly fixed in the service of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa. This was approved by the previous Ācāryas, who were fixed in firm devotion to the Lord, Paramātmā, the Supreme Personality of Godhead."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.23.57] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.6]

82.11.24.B_82.11.25.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

prabhu kahe – sādhu ei bhikṣura vacana, mukunda sevana-vrata kaila nirdhāraṇa

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu approved the purport of this verse on account of the determination of the mendicant devotee to engage in the service of Lord Mukunda. He gave His approval of this verse, indicating that it was very good.] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.7]

...

parātma-niṣṭhā-mātra veṣa-dhāraṇa, mukunda-sevāya haya saṁsāra-tāraṇa

[The real purpose of accepting sannyāsa is to dedicate oneself to the service of Mukunda. By serving Mukunda, one can actually be liberated from the bondage of material existence.]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.8]

se veṣa kaila, ebe vṛndāvana giyā, kṛṣṇa-niṣevaṇa kari nibhṛte vasiyā

[After accepting the sannyāsa order, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu decided to go to Vṛndāvana and engage Himself wholly and solely in the service of Mukunda in a solitary place.]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.9]

Mahāprabhu ran towards Vṛndāvana. Padmanābha came back, half-mad, always talking, "Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya." Whatever anyone says to him, he says, "Sri Kṛṣṇa Caitanya." No other word coming out of his lips, "Sri Kṛṣṇa Caitanya, Caitanya, Caitanya." Then his name was given by the public as Caitanya Dāsa. Afterwards he was known as Caitanya Das in the society. Of course he recovered somewhat.

Then, when Mahāprabhu was in Purī, Padmanābha went to see him with his wife.

Mahāprabhu told that, "You have got a very good son as a devotee, and his name will be Śrīnivāsa."

And he came back, and Śrīnivāsa came in his house, very beautiful, and a born scholar.

Śrīnivāsa, when very young, Padmanābha left. He came, automatically in his mind Śrī Caitanyadeva and Nityānanda and Their līlā surcharged within him, no other tendency.

When he was about fifteen years, he came out to see the birthplace of Śrī Gaurāṅga in Navadwīpa. And he sat near the house of Mahāprabhu, the Ganges bathing ghāṭa, he sat there. A boy of fifteen, absent-minded, what he's thinking he does not know, he's sitting.

And Viṣṇupriyā Devī came to take bath. She found a beautiful boy. Some sort of likeness of Mahāprabhu. He's sitting there, did not know anything, or even himself, he does not know himself. In this way, Viṣṇupriyā Devī had pity and took the boy in her home. Then she fed the boy.

Then, Śrīnivāsa went to - Mahāprabhu at that time He was in Purī - he started for Purī. But after going about perhaps three fourths, heard that Caitanyadeva has left the world. What to do? He went again. And Gadādhara Paṇḍita was there, he met him in the Tota Gopīnātha temple.

Gadādhara Paṇḍita embraced him and told, "I am waiting for you Śrīnivāsa. My Lord has ordered me to teach you Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. You will explain Bhāgavatam in the whole of Bengal, an unprecedented lecturer on Bhāgavatam you will be. So my book you won't be able to read, the letters are half-washed away by the tears. So get a fresh book. Go to Śrī Khanda, and take my name, and try to secure a copy of Bhāgavatam, and I shall teach you."

Gadādhara Paṇḍita came back. Śrīnivāsa took a copy of Bhāgavatam from Śrī Khanda and again started for Purī. He reached there and heard Gadādhara Paṇḍita had already left. Disappointed, he thought, "I am such a distressed soul. Wherever I'm going, the object is just removed a little before. Mahāprabhu, and this Gadādhara Paṇḍita, who gave me some hope he would teach me Bhāgavatam. What ill favour I have got."

Then what to do, he came, but Gadādhara Paṇḍita's will was there. Automatically when he went to read Bhāgavatam found everything is rushing to him, in this way.

Then Śrīnivāsa, and Narottama, and Śyāmānanda started for Vṛndāvana to have darśana of Rūpa, Sanātana, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, and others, Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, there. The three started and went there. And when Śrīnivāsa, few miles far off from Mathurā, heard that Sanātana Goswāmī passed away.

The people they're talking that, "That great Sanātana Goswāmī, who was the prime minister, and who captured the whole of Vṛndāvana people within his heart, that Sanātana has passed away. This is a great disaster for the country."

Then what to do? Still, Rūpa, and Raghunātha, and Jīva, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, they're living, anyhow they dragged on. And when they reached Mathurā, they heard that, "Last night, Rūpa Goswāmī left."

They have seen, Sanātana in that Asarhi Pūrṇimā, and then after next Dvādaśī, Rūpa Goswāmī left.

"How hopeless and cursed souls we are; coming nearby and could not see those two generals of Mahāprabhu, dui senapati."

Mahāprabhu sent two of His generals to Vṛndāvana to carry out His orders and to established the kingdom of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava there. Then, anyhow they dragged their bodies to Vṛndāvana, and they found in the Govinda Mandir - perhaps many of you have seen that old Govinda Mandira, broken - when they reached there, they found that sandhyā āratī is going on in very great splendour, great crowd. And Rūpa Goswāmī had just passed away, so with that feeling of high bereavement, madly they're chanting his name and the āratī is going on in this way.

Śrīnivāsa, the three were there, but Śrīnivāsa he could not stand that sort of sentimental wave. He fainted on one side. When he woke out of - when he first got his, recovered, got his lost consciousness, he found that Jīva Goswāmī is, with some followers, he's engaged in _____ [?] Anyway, he woke up and did what was necessary, proper in the time. Then about a year, those three lived in Vṛndāvana.

Śrīnivāsa Ācārya took initiation from Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, and Narottama Ṭhākura from Lokanātha Goswāmī, and Śyāmānanda from Jīva Goswāmī. There were many incidents in the meantime. But Jīva Goswāmī who was in charge of all the books written by Rūpa Goswāmī and Sanātana Goswāmī, himself, and others, after a year, when they were coming back, then two cart loads in a wooden casket the books were placed, and they were given in the charge of Śrīnivāsa. He was fond of more education and śāstric knowledge, so in his charge the books were given.

[Jīva Goswāmī told,] "Take them and copy, and preach in Bengal, specially. We shall see to preach in this side, but the land of Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu, there it will have good circulation, you take it."

Śrīnivāsa took, and the three came, two bullock carts, and that big wooden casket was brought there. And they came by that Grand Trunk road near Viṣṇupura, in the district of Bakura, near Midnapura. The carts were on the road, and they were sleeping somewhere nearby, but those book boxes they were removed. In the morning when they woke up, they found the cart was empty. The big wooden box with the books all gone. Then they're horrified and those three tried their best to search nearby but could not find any clue. Then what to do? Śyāmānanda and Narottama, disappointed they left the place for their own home.

But Śrīnivāsa Ācārya he could not do so. "I was specially selected and given the charge of these higher śāstras, and I cannot go back home without doing anything to get the śāstras back, I can't."

He was wandering like a madman here, there, this beautiful young boy. People thought that this young boy, his head is cracked, here and there he's wandering.

Then one day, there was a zamīndār, a chief, of the shantas [?], the ādivāsīs, the aborigines, his name was Birhambir. He was a chief of that locality. And he had some attraction for devotion and Bhāgavatam. Every day he held a class on Bhāgavatam regularly in his house in the afternoon. And his guru was one by the name of Vyāsa, he used to explain Bhāgavatam, and so many devotees they used to hear like that this Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

But Śrīnivāsa, he was passing his days like a madman, here and there, anyhow he heard and went there to hear Bhāgavatam. Eagerly not to express him, but he knows he's an educated man, a good scholar, specially of Bhāgavatam. None knows, and he also did not give any vent to that.

But one day that Vyāsa he was explaining something wrong, and unconsciously Śrīnivāsa could not check himself, he pointed out the mistake. "You are explaining in this way, but the proper meaning will be that."

Then the attention of the whole devotees including the king, the chief, fell on that boy. "Who is he?"

His guru Vyāsa, who was explaining, he was also charmed. "We all took him to be a madcap. But he's pointing out such fine points. Who are you?"

The quest became very intense, and he had to admit that, "I am a wretched soul. This Bhāgavatam and so many other very high level Vaiṣṇava scriptures, I was taking from Vṛndāvana. And in those big boxes, filled up with those Vaiṣṇava scriptures was stolen from here about a year or so ago. And I'm wandering in search of those. I was in custody."

"Oh!" Then they knew. That Birhambir he had one astrologer, and he used to say that, what is what, where. When these two big boxes filled up with scriptures was there, nearby his capitol, he called the astrologer, "What is there?"

They looted, from those places those chiefs were all looting princes, half robbers.

The astrologer told, "Very highly valued jewels are there in those boxes."

Then he managed by his own men to steal those boxes and kept in his house. He opened then found many holy books, and closed it, kept it. After hearing from Śrīnivāsa, he said, "Oh, you have lost those books, you are owner of that? That is here, we have taken it. My astrologer told that many valuable jewels were contained there. So misguided, we took them."

Then Śrīnivāsa came back in his right again, he went there, fell prostrated there, and asked them to get some articles of āratī and began to offer āratī to the books, the śāstra, representation of Kṛṣṇa, devotees. He began worshipping, and after āratī opened the books.

Then he sent information to Narottama and Śyāmānanda. They all came.

And this chief was his disciple, and many of the place became his disciple.

Then Birhambir after all he did much service for the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas here, Birhambir. And Viṣṇupura was his capital, and gradually Viṣṇupura - so many temples, huge number of temples are seen in that town still standing.

And they were very strong rulers, and they forced the people, all the subjects, "You must take Hari-Nāma, Hare Kṛṣṇa. Otherwise we will banish you from here."

So much so, there was one Gopāla Singh, an ordinary cultivator, after finishing his duties, before going to bed, "Oh, you take that mālikā. I must obey the Gopāla Singh's order." So "Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa."

Otherwise if the information that he did not take Name, he would be banished from his temple. The whole line was Vaiṣṇava, and many things are told from their line.

Then Śrīnivāsa Ācārya came to Yajigram near Katva, and with the help of Narottama and Śyāmānanda, and Virbadhra, the son of Nityānanda Prabhu. Jāhnavā Devī, the first wife of Nityānanda Prabhu, Advaita Prabhu's sons, they all combined. Began an extensive preaching of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, of the Bhāgavata Dharma, especially in Bengal, and parts of Bihar and Orissa. The flow, the inundation came, by this trinity, the combination of these three devotees, after Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu, they kept up that torch of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava here mostly in Bengal. Narottama Ṭhākura went to Manipur side, Assam, and the whole of Manipur almost was captured by him, including the king. So in Manipur, we generally see, the temple is also here in Manipur, two temples. They're mainly disciples, all the Manipuri's of Narottama Thakura. Extensive preaching he has done that side. And in Bengal, Advaita Prabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu, Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. And in Orissa specially, Śyāmānanda Prabhu.

So today is that auspicious day, that Śrīnivāsa Ācārya he disappeared. So then in his connection this has been very much purified. And we pray for his grace, for his mercy, that our attempt may be successful to get what they came to give us. We may accept their advice, and blessings.

Gaura Hari. Any question you can put to [Śrīpād Bhakti Vicār] Yājāvara Mahārāja, hmm? _____ [?]
Something from him. But can anyone of you translate Bengali to English? None?

Devotee: You can.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At last I'm here, try.

Devotee: Yājāvara Mahārāja, I've heard that he had taken sannyāsa aged twenty eight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotees: Yājāvara Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Yājāvara Mahārāja took sannyāsa when he was twenty eight. But he joined the Maṭha long before, even before me, perhaps [nineteen] twenty five or so. [25:44 - twenty six - 26:36 ?]

...

Swāmī Mahārāja sang a Sanskrit song.

vande rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau
[Last line of each of the eight verses in Ṣaḍ-gosvāmy-aṣṭaka]

That was composed by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. You have heard that?

Devotees: Yes. Prayers by Six Goswāmīs. Kṛṣṇotkīrtana...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! That song Swāmī Mahārāja sang, and I was told that was very, very much appreciated from the standpoint of musical sounds _____ [?] he's playing on mṛdaṅga himself and chanting. Vande rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau. That song, that poem was composed by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya Prabhu. Ṣaḍ-gosvāmy stotra. And that is played in the whole of America. Vande rūpa- sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau.

Devotee:

[I offer my respectful obeisances unto the six Goswāmīs, namely Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī, Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī, Śrī Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, Śrī Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī, Śrī Jīva Goswāmī, and Śrī Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, who are very expert in scrutinizingly studying all the revealed scriptures with the aim of establishing eternal religious principles for the benefit of all human beings. Thus they are honoured all over the three worlds, and they are worth taking shelter of because they are absorbed in the mood of the gopīs and are engaged in the transcendental loving service of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.] [Ṣaḍ-gosvāmy-aṣṭaka, 2]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
So today we keep it here.

Devotee: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in the land of exploitation. Improve yourself and leave here.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Brahma-saṁhitā, that is not included then? That is Vaiṣṇava śāstra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] And that gives specially the conception of Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is above all, even Nārāyaṇa. That we get from Brahma-saṁhitā.

There are many saṁhitās. This is Brahma-saṁhitā. Jīva Goswāmī gives the reference that is very rarely found, that hundred chapters, only one chapter is given here. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Then after instruction from Purāṇas, we can, the next higher śāstra?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Purāṇa is also higher. The classification, Upaniṣads, generally we should approach the Veda, the revealed truth, and that is also classification according to the, considering the stages of the recipient they have given their instalments. And that is collected in _____ [?] śāstra in Vedānta, just Brahma-sūtra by Vyāsadeva. He collected the very important passages from the Upaniṣads and has proved that the Brahman, that should be the only object of our search really.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Athāto brahma-jijñāsā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahma-jijñāsā, and now what this true conception of Brahman is.

Śaṅkarācārya came to explain that, "This is non-differentiated mass of consciousness. And we must enter there and we lose our individuality."

But Rāmānuja and others, they came to say, "No. Brahman, on closer inspection we shall find that that is a domain, a zone, where we can detect that He's personal, Vāsudeva, person. A point of Brahman, we ourselves as person, so the huge source of that consciousness that is not an objective thing, but it's subjective, and that is person, a big person, infinite personality. Then when we can see that we see Brahman is Parabrahman, that is Vāsudeva who is accommodating everything in Him, and who is living everywhere. Vāsudeva."

Then in more close inspection we find there is some potency just by the side of that person. Then that becomes Nārāyaṇa. Then Nārāyaṇa we find there not only Nārāyaṇa alone but His group also there. In this way the Vaikuṇṭha, the servitors, all these things, we can see that Brahmapura.

Rāmānuja has given the example that a bird is entering the jungle and disappears from here. But it does not mean that he's dead, it's living there, with his chicks and hen, and nest, He's living there, taking food.

So when one enters that zone of conscious area, that does not mean that he's lost, he ends there, no. He enters there and he lives there. So if we can secure our entrance into that zone of pure conscious area, we can retain our individuality. And so many there are retaining their individual existence and they're all engaged in service. In this way he explains.

And Mahāprabhu says from Bhāgavatam that, "There is another sphere higher than that Vaikuṇṭha. Here it is calculative service, and there that is automatic. And here we think that power is the source, is the prime cause of everything. But there we find that love and beauty, that is the guiding principle of the whole existence, not power, but beauty or love. That is the most fundamental plane. And we can connect ourselves with that. We can wake there and live there permanently and very happily. That is the happiest form of life when we can reach that area of spontaneous loving service. Everyone is of that temperament. And the central Lord is there _____ [?] encouraging everyone to do so." That is the nutshell.

So Jīva Goswāmī has taken Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam as the highest authority, and he has shown, "Why I'm accepting Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam." He says that, "Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has got the characteristic of one of the Purāṇa, it has got the characteristic of the Veda, it has got characteristic of the Tantra, it has got characteristic of smṛti."

The Vedic truth, the revealed truth, comes in a general way and takes three courses. One, tarka-panthā, means to satisfy the learned, who have got understanding, satisfy the intellect. Another, smṛti, to apply itself in daily life, in food, in any other activity, within all these things mixing with our daily habitual practices, that is smṛti. How should we regulate ourselves in our twenty four hour's living practices, that is smṛti. But to satisfy our intellectual guidance, that is tarka, Brahma-sūtra. And another, Purāṇa, the points of departure, to advise us like a friend. "Someone did so and he got this bad result. Someone did so and he got this result. If you do this you'll be beneficial in this way." So he advised. And in searching many previous historical reference they're trying to convince you. That is Purāṇa.

Jīva Goswāmī says, "In Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam we find all these characteristics in one place. _____ [?]
smṛti, it is considered as smṛti. Then it is tantra, clear. All our activity also harmonised there. And Purāṇa also, so many stories to encourage you, to attract your attention towards so many previous incidents, so Purāṇa. So all the signs, symptoms, of all different types of śāstra is found in one place, and that is Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam. So we can take it blindly to be the highest śāstra for our cause, because from all points it can satisfy all sorts of enquiries, in one place."

In Tattva-Sandarbha you'll find it in detail. Jīva Goswāmī has written Sat-Sandarbha, six sandarbha. First is concerned with epistemology, Tattva-Sandarbha, what is the evidence. He's analysing and divides it into ten. Then eliminating one by one, showing defects in them, the evidence. Then lastly he has come to śrauta, or āpta, and shows that in transcendental affairs this is only the source of our knowledge. Should be, in this way.

And then he has told that we can rely on Bhāgavatam as revealed truth, the scriptures, the containers of the revealed truth, in a most developed and regulated way suiting to us he has proved that. And then what is in Bhāgavatam he gave the conception of Brahman, Paramātmā. The Brahman, all comprehensive aspect of the Supreme. And the all permeating aspect. And then the all capturing - capturing attention of all in the service, representing His dutiful aspect, bhajanīya. Bhagavān means bhajanīya guṇa-viśiṣṭha.

Brahman, Paramātmā, Bhagavān. What is Bhagavān? Whose very existence is so much attractive that He commands your attention for His service. He's Bhagavān, who can attract your heart for His worship, for His reverence, for His love. He can attract your heart, your love, your very existence. That is Bhagavān. That aspect, the fulfilment side, represented by Bhagavān.

And what is Brahman? What is - from the scriptures - what is Paramātmā? What is jīva? What is the conception of Bhagavān, both Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa, and the difference between Them? And Kṛṣṇa is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, the most original. Reality the Beautiful. And that is the prime cause of the whole existence, the beauty and love.

So you are to go through that Sandarbha by Jīva Goswāmī. And on the basis of that, you are to read what Rūpa Goswāmī has spoken about rasa, and different stages of rasa. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, and all these things. And to have a strong critical ground, and foundation, you are to study this Sat-Sandarbha. And through which who has got taste they will go, pierce through these stages and go to the beautiful. And there they will cultivate about Him in a particular style.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, may I ask? What is the position of a person who has heard from a pure devotee, such as Śrīla Prabhupāda, or yourself, and is chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa, but has not taken the Hari-Nāma initiation? Can he still make some spiritual advancement?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are you?

Bhakta Tom: My name is - I'm a friend of Dev Nārāyaṇa. My name is Thomas Savage [?] from New York. And I've brought the letter from Dev Nārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your name?

Bhakta Tom: Thomas.

Aranya Mahārāja: Bhakta Tom.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhakta Tom? Now, what does he say? One who has got that first Hari-Nāma mālā?

Aranya Mahārāja: No, no. He asks, "If someone is - a person has heard from Swāmī Mahārāja and yourself, two pure devotees, but they have not as yet received Hari-Nāma initiation, what is their position?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They will try to be in a position of search, what Swāmī Mahārāja has given to the world. Some sort of hopeful news for the soul, and he has left the surface...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and visit, and try to have sādhu-saṅga, the source, to have connection with the agents of divinity. And by wondering, and by hearing about the divine things, where I'll be more attracted I shall keep up that connection. And I shall, if possible, surrender myself to that source, and try to be benefited from that fountain-head. In this way. Search. So many lives we're coming and going, coming and going, here in this plane. Now we have come across the chance of our high future, bright future, and we shall try to take up that advantage. Run hither, thither, try to find where is the source. Where from this ray is coming here? And where I shall be attracted most I shall keep connection, try to have permanent connection, and emulate our position, make progress towards that domain. In a nutshell, continue the search, ānusandhān, where I shall get the fulfilment of my inner hankering. Eliminating our desires for the present superficial world of enjoyment, engage ourselves for search of inner fulfilment of life. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Search, search, search, jijñāsā, sandhān. Where is He? Who can satisfy me? My inner question, answer, what do I want? I'm wandering in these different stages of life, but what is my real innermost need that can satisfy me, fulfilment of life?

Some say, "You are seeking for power. Power can satisfy you."

But the devotees of Kṛṣṇa say, "No. You are searching for love, beauty, not power. Power cannot satisfy you, but beauty, harmony, love, that can satisfy your inner self. Beauty is controlling the whole, not power."

Who are attracted by this sort of thought, understanding, they run to Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Kṛṣṇa controls everything by the sweet sound from His flute. So sweet, they can't avoid, anyone, none can avoid the call of that sweet flute. It unconsciously attracts the very gist of every heart. "I am here. I am there. I am here." This is, "I have found my own plane. I want this. I'm searching from infinite time for this sweet plane, sweet life." The inner approval will come.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Mahārāja, if the Purāṇas are giving us history, and therefore...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: History of different type. The tamasic Purāṇa supplying history of a particular type to attract you to the end of that Purāṇa. Rajasic also says, sattvic also says. And Bhāgavata Purāṇa is nirguṇa Purāṇa. It is attracting towards the higher realm, above this, transcending this tamasic, rajasic, and sattvic, the nirguṇa is there.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Hmm. Then, how do the Upaniṣads fit in, aid us?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One, from the dedicative meaning of Purāṇa has been given in two ways.

One, vedartha-purāṇath. The Purāṇa is supplementary to the Upaniṣad and Veda. Vedartha-purāṇath. The Purāṇa means to fulfil. It is giving fulfilment to the meanings and purpose of the Veda, Purāṇa.

In another sense Purāṇa means old, ancient. That also is the meaning of the word Purāṇa. Previously things are collected here. What we find in the Veda which came along with the creation of this world, this brahmāṇḍa, but before this brahmāṇḍa there were so many other brahmāṇḍas. They're created and then dissolved in time. But the Purāṇa Ṛṣi that gives so many incidents which are pre Vedic, they come along with the creation of this brahmāṇḍa. And in Purāṇa we find so many incidents that are not mentioned in the Vedas, but it was mentioned explicit in the previous brahmāṇḍa, former brahmāṇḍa, former creation. That is also collected by some Ṛṣis here, who lived in different brahmāṇḍas. Do you follow?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. How is it coming to us?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is coming by so many sources. The Ṛṣi that lived in that brahmāṇḍa and this brahmāṇḍa, he can get the experience. Who was a member of the previous brahmāṇḍa and also he's known here, he can give that, mention that incident in a previous brahmāṇḍa. In Veda we find, treda vidade padam [?] "He put His stride in thrice way." Only this mention in Veda. And Purāṇa gives the story of Vāmana Avatāra. How to Bali He came, and by three steps He conquered the whole. The story is not given in the Veda, but only very minute mention, slight mention, in Veda. Treda vidade padam [?] Nothing else. But the story is supplied in the Purāṇa, is taken from other brahmāṇḍa's experience by some Ṛṣi who can withdraw from the brahmāṇḍa and come here again. In so many previous brahmāṇḍas they were living, and in this brahmāṇḍa he has given this. Direct revelation got from his previous life.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: So same stories in Bhāgavatam as in Purāṇa, same stories?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is accepted and quoted by Jīva Goswāmī. So we're to write the reasonable aspect. So we're to go through this Sat-Sandarbha, Tattva-Sandarbha of Jīva Goswāmī. That is meant for the scholars. But those that do not care for any scholarship, but have got their taste, and following their taste they like to develop, they may not...

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Go through Tattva-Sandarbha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...go through these books, which by reason explains the things. And Jīva Goswāmī has done that.

I wrote one poem about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. There is a stanza that was appreciated by my Guru Mahārāja very much. There I have written:

śrī-gaurānumataṁ [svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ
rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam
jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ
śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum īśo bhavān]

["What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."]

The highest attainment of our life, rādhā-kaiṅkaryyaṁ, how it develops, I'm putting that. Śrī-gaurānumataṁ, which is sanctioned by Śrī Gaurāṅga. Svarūpa-viditaṁ, and appreciated by Svarūpa Dāmodara. Rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ, the very gist of which was known to Svarūpa Dāmodara, and rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ, Sanātana appreciated. And Rūpa Goswāmī he distributed directly, and rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ, distributed by Rūpa with his followers. And raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam, and Raghunātha with his followers tasted it very satisfactorily, with great satisfaction, and also added something to it. Rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam, jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ. Jīva, Baladeva, and others, abhirakṣitaṁ, gave protection to these things, from the quotation of śāstra and reason, they have protected these nectarine advices, abhirakṣitaṁ, from the trespassers.

That ordinary āula, bāula, karttābhajā, they will say that, "This is given by Mahāprabhu and Rūpa Goswāmī."

They say, "No. We're door keepers, gate keepers. We don't allow your stale and mean thoughts to mix with all these things." They have given protection. "This must be of such quality. And yours is nasty quality, imitation. And this is real."

In this way protection is given by Jīva Goswāmī and Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa's commentary on Vedānta, and from so many references from the śāstra, giving protection to what was given by Rūpa Goswāmī under the direction of Mahāprabhu. Abhirakṣitaṁ, samyak rakṣitaṁ, and complete protection is given to that high rasa, that mean thought may not enter and mix and pollute that, abhirakṣitaṁ. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ. And Śuka, Śiva, Brahmā, Uddhava, they showed great respect for that truth from a distance. What is that? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho. That is the service of Śrī Rādhikā, the highest servitor of Kṛṣṇa. Tad dātum īśo bhavān. You can lead us to that high, valuable substance, you Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

So this is the position of the high, beautiful service. Sanctioned by Mahāprabhu, the value really known to Svarūpa Dāmodara, and Sanātana appreciated. And Rūpa was appointed to distribute that valued thing with his followers. And Raghunātha he could taste the very sweetness of it with his followers and something added. And Jīva and Baladeva Goswāmī they came to give a barrier, that this is transcendental. Mundane things won't be allowed. The imitation must not be allowed to enter into the genuine world.

So that is Jīva Goswāmī. So that Sat-Sandarbha you are to read, then your intellectual appetite will be appeased. You go through that book.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And Professor [Nishi Kanta] Sanyal...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Professor Sanyal, it may be a good book...

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: In his pamphlet that Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura appreciated so much, the, what was it? The Erotic [Principle and Un-Alloyed Devotion] He wrote small book, and criticising those scholarly interpretations of tenth canto of Kṛṣṇa līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By, those who are not wholly of faith?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. By sahajiyās, and many, many scholars...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He refuted them. But that will be good. Professor Sanyal's book is a standard one.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. But my question is, this small pamphlet he wrote, that is comparable to the idea of Jīva Goswāmī's barrier? It is contributing to the barrier?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In general I can recommend to you Professor Sanyal's book up to Jīva Goswāmī's standard. But in particular cases I'm to consider. But in general I can give approval to the writings of Sanyal. But any doubt arising, suspicion, you may bring that particular instance to me.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: What was it that Raghunātha and his followers, what did they add, to the distribution?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Cleared that Rādhā dāsya. The service of Śrī Rādhikā, Who is the best servitor of Kṛṣṇa, to concentrate our attention to that.

Sanyal, in his praise to Gurudeva, he mentions, "I do not know Kṛṣṇa. Because you say that I should worship Kṛṣṇa so I do, I go." He's addressing his Gurudeva. "Because you say that I should search for Kṛṣṇa, so I go to search. Otherwise you are all in all in me." He's seeing Rādhārāṇī in Gurudeva.

Once, in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, we heard, one influential gentleman of the locality, he's circumambulating Rādhā-kuṇḍa. Then one of the intimate disciples of Prabhupāda, our Guru Mahārāja, came to him and told:

"Prabhu, they also believe in Rādhārāṇī. They're circumambulating Rādhā-kuṇḍa."

Then Prabhupāda remarked, "They believe, they have faith in Kṛṣṇa, and because Rādhārāṇī is intimately friendly to Kṛṣṇa, so they're giving respect to Rādhārāṇī. But our question is opposite. We're connected mainly with Rādhārāṇī, and because Rādhārāṇī wants the service of Kṛṣṇa, so we go to serve Kṛṣṇa."

Do you follow?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Hmm.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We have got direct - we're serving unit. We have got direct connection with the wholesale serving unit, we're a spark of it, direct connection with the whole serving unit. And whole serving unit is wholly engaged in the service of the positive, Kṛṣṇa. And so under the direction of the direct serving unit, as a part, if we are demanded, we go to Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is indirect approach. And direct, we're connected with our own officer, own leader, own general. We're in direct connection with him. Do you follow?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Hmm.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Rādhā dāsya is that. We come forward in the name of Kṛṣṇa, but when we come nearer, then we find that my next officer is all in all in me, who can give the highest satisfaction to Kṛṣṇa. To do in submission of his direction, that will give the maximum service of Kṛṣṇa. And if I cross him, who knows the real service, and go direct to serve Kṛṣṇa, we'll be losers. Do you follow?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is clearly given by Raghunātha dāsa. "Oh Kṛṣṇa." No, he's addressing to Rādhārāṇī. "You are my Mistress. You are my Lord, everything. I want Kṛṣṇa if You are there. But if we find Kṛṣṇa and You are absent then I don't want Kṛṣṇa. I don't want Vṛndāvana, Yamunā, all these things, anything, even I do not want Kṛṣṇa where You are not present."

This is appreciation - the negative unit appreciates the negative whole. And the negative as a whole, his direct connection with the positive. We're negative unit, we're śakti, potency, so we're this particle of potency. We have got direct connection with the potency as a whole. And the potency as a whole, that will have direct connection with the positive as a whole. So our attempt must be subservient to the negative whole, the serving whole, and the served whole. Predominating Moiety and Predominated Moiety. The passive and the active. _____ [?] So today I finish here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...gave some example in the lecture. The logic, tarka, argument, what does it mean? That in this plane everything should be examined. Suspiciousness, doubtful characteristic, it presupposes the atmosphere is doubtful, suspicious character. So logic must be used. But that is a very lower, uncivilised plane, when everyone is suspicious that he'll cheat me. I must examine. Lower people only can live in that plane. And in the higher plane none can cheat another. So tarka, this argument, this examination, all these are properties of lower plane of life.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Athāto brahma-jijñāsā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If your affectionate mother is taking a sweetmeat, "My boy, take this sweetmeat." "Oh, if I have to check that whether there is poison." Then he'll be in a sad life, most undesirable life. "I shall go to use my logic when my mother is giving a sweetmeat." A most deplorable life, an intolerable life, a most savage life. He told that, "A mother is giving a sweetmeat to the child. Oh, there may be poison." Intolerable life. Then one gentleman from the audience he appreciated, he cried out at this, "Here, here, here." The plane of suspicion, that in itself is most undesirable and intolerable in the land of love and mercy. The tarka, the judgement, this is good, bad, examine, all these are unnecessary mean things. They're not present there, redundant in that plane. The plane is such that to try to examine anything and everything that is of mean temperament. Those fellows cannot have any entrance into that high life.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Parthamitra: Mahārāja, can you explain,

tarko 'pratiṣṭhaḥ śrutayo vibihinnnā nāsāv ṛṣir yasya mataṁ na bhinnam

["Dry arguments are inconclusive. A great personality whose opinion does not differ from others is not considered a great sage. Simply by studying the Vedas, which are variegated, one cannot come to the right path by which religious principles are understood."] [Mahābhārata, Vana-parva, 313.117]

[In the BBT's Nārada-Bhakti-Sūtra, Sūtra 75, purport, p 170]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is his question?

Parthamitra: The verse from the Mahābhārata, tarko 'pratiṣṭhaḥ śrutayo vibihinnnā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. Anyone? Aranya Mahārāja is here? What is the verse?

Devotees: [26:42 - 28:08 ?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāsāv ṛṣir yasya mataṁ na bhinnam.

dharmasya tattvaṁ nihitaṁ guhāyāṁ, mahā-jano yena gataḥ sa panthāḥ

[Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja said: "The real secret, the solid truth of religious principles is hidden and concealed in the hearts of unadulterated self-realised persons, saints, just as treasure is hidden in a mysterious cave. Consequently, as the śāstras confirm, one should accept whatever progressive path the mahā-janas advocate."] [Mahābhārata, Vana-parva]

It is mentioned when Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja with all his brothers and wife Draupadī, going away from finishing twelve years living in the jungle, then according to condition, one year of _____ [?] that unknown living. And if they can be detected then again they will have to live in the forest for twelve years. Then one year again in unknown quarter. Again if they're detected, again they will have this condition.

_____ [?] He's going from jungle living towards _____ [?] At that time, too much tired, they're taking shelter under the tree. Then Yudhiṣṭhira felt too much thirst, all of them, more or less, and he told that, "Search for some water. I feel too much thirsty."

Then first Draupadī, wife, went in search for some drinking water, but she's late. Then the youngest brother, Sahadeva, then Nakula, then Arjuna, then Bhīma, all went for searching drinking water but none returned. Then Yudhiṣṭhira himself started, and found that there is a path in the jungle that led to a good tank, and he reached there and found to his wonder that his wife and four brothers already floating on the tank.

"What's the matter?"

When he was just approaching them, one bird, a crane in a big form he chanted a śloka.

_____ [?]

[Mahābhārata, Vana-parva, 313.114 ?]

"What is the news? And what is the wonder in the world? And what is the road, the way out? And who is really happy? Please reply to these four questions, and all your friends will get their life again."

Then Yudhiṣṭhira came and tried to reply to his questions.

First, _____ [?] "What is the news of the world?"

That is in general he took it _____ [?]

"This is the news of the world, that this infinite time has held all these souls as captives. And in a great cauldron of ignorance they're posted, and they're being fried. All the jīvas they're being fried, caught in ignorance _____ [?] The month and the season, they're compared with the stand by which we make the, we fry, the frying stand _____ [?]

And the sun is represented as fire, and ignorance is as a cauldron, and the jīva the contents. And the eternal time that is handling the whole thing.

In this way _____ [?] What is the general news of the world he told, "That all the beings are being fried in fire. What is the meaning? Ādhiyātmika, ādhibhautika, ādhidaivika, these three paths. Some coming from within as repentance of disease. Some coming from other environments. And some from the famine, flood, etc., from nature's accidental disaster. By all these afflictions the jīva soul is being afflicted too much within fire. This is the general news of the world."

_____ [?] What is really the wonder in the world? "According to me the wonder I find that every moment we see that they're dying, but we do not prepare ourselves for that inevitable consequence. We try just in the opposite direction to maintain, to keep up our present position. That is most wonderful to me. As sure as death. Death is sure we see, but we don't prepare ourselves for death. But we're just in the opposite side trying to stand in our present abnormal mortal position. That is most wonderful to me."

_____ [?] What is the way out? Then _____ [?] vibihinnnā nāsāv ṛṣir yasya mataṁ na bhinnam.

dharmasya tattvaṁ nihitaṁ guhāyāṁ, mahā-jano yena gataḥ sa panthāḥ

"According to my consideration, the way out is this. If we go the scriptures we find different interpretations, veda vibihinnnā. In the name of revealed truth, so many things are extended to us, veda vibihinnnā. Śrutayo vibihinnnā, even following those directions where so many experts, scholars, they, to catch the meaning of that high revealed truth, and try to apply in our daily life, they're also of different opinions, śrutayo vibihinnnā. Nāsāv ṛṣir yasya mataṁ na bhinnam. All the research scholars they're of variegated opinion, of different opinion, meaning. Every meaning has got its own opinion, all differing from one another. So we're puzzled, perplexed, to select what is the way out. Nāsāv ṛṣir yasya mataṁ. Dharmasya tattvaṁ nihitaṁ guhāyāṁ. So what is the conception of our real duty, that is covered in the depth of the unknown cave. So I think, mahā-jano yena gataḥ sa panthāḥ. That extraordinary man - here it is meant mahā-jana means, when the Lord comes down here as incarnation, if we can catch the path recommended by him, that will be our way out." This is the śloka.

tarko 'pratiṣṭhaḥ śrutayo vibihinnnā nāsāv ṛṣir yasya mataṁ na bhinnam
dharmasya tattvaṁ nihitaṁ guhāyāṁ, mahā-jano yena gataḥ sa panthāḥ

That is the śloka there. And he [the crane, who was Yamarāja in disguise] was satisfied, and all his four brothers and wife, Draupadī, they got their life back, and took water, drank water.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parthamitra: So Lord Brahmā he says, jānanta eva jānantu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

jānanta eva jānantu, kiṁ bahūktyā na me prabho manaso vapuṣo vāco, vaibhavaṁ tava go-caraḥ

[There are people who say, "I know everything about Kṛṣṇa." Let them think that way. As far as I am concerned, I do not wish to speak very much about this matter. O my Lord, let me say this much: As far as Your opulences are concerned, they are all beyond the reach of my mind, body and words."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.38] [From Śrīla Prabhupāda's Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līla, 21.27]

"Let those that say we know everything, let them talk such a delirious thing. But jānanta eva jānantu, those that think that they know much, let them say so, "that I know." Jānanta eva jānantu. Kiṁ bahūktyā. What more I shall say to You my Lord? Kiṁ bahūktyā na me prabho, manaso vapuṣo vāco, vaibhavaṁ. Neither our body, by our mind, and by our words, I confess that I could not measure Your infinite character, and reach, I could not understand. You are unknown and unknowable. Your ways are all mysterious, unaccountable. So I fail to know You my Lord. And those foolish persons, though announcing they have known everything, let them talk in delirious ways. That is the meaning. But my finding is this, that I'm not able to know even a drop of the whole. All unintelligible. The part of infinite is also infinite. Everything is unknown. Every point is unknowable, every atom unknowable. I find this, that You are of infinite character. Every part of You is infinite. This is my finding. And let the foolish people may by beat of drum declare that they have known everything. They're all foolish." That is the meaning. Gaura Hari.

Parthamitra: Prabodhānanda Sarasvatī, he's expressing this idea, and he says, yastu sastrani tat tikaha [?]
Jivanamrta caitanya _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow.

Parthamitra: He says in one verse, he's trying to understand that the logicians they comment on the Vedic literature. The learned logicians - he says, yastu sastrani [?] - the logicians, those that are logic, their comment on the scriptures, in many different ways.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: The logicians, they comment on scripture in many different ways.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. But having the verse I can say.

Parthamitra: Yastu sastrani tat tikaha jivanamrta caitanya _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow the spirit, but it must be something like that, in the same line.

"Let them say what they like." That Sārvabhauma saying _____ [?]

"Let them say according to their level of knowledge. But what I have got I tasted this is my absolute consideration that I have...

82.11.26.B_82.11.27.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...something like that. I don't follow your pronunciation, so can't understand the śloka, what it is. But it must be something like this. My heart's approval, my own heart is the highest evidence for me what I have attained. Let the others talk high in their own way. I don't care for that. My heart's inner satisfaction is the proof positive. That must be there, I think, but I have not followed it, the śloka. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Parthamitra: Yesterday Mahārāja you were speaking on the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, how it was, Śukadeva, and more or less it was slightly covered, but revealed by Rūpa and Sanātana. So my question is, the Bṛhat- Bhāgavatāmṛta what was spoken by Mahārāja Parīkṣit to mother Uttara, that is not mentioned in the Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam. Where did he get that from, that story that he told of Gopa Kumāra?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. You see, where from this Bhāgavata came?

Parthamitra: The Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhāgavatāmṛta, Mahābhārata, Veda, where do they come from?

Parthamitra: From Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is already there, floating, it is all nitya, eternal. Forms of knowledge are all floating in the eternal world. Only so many Ṛṣis they catch, through their medium they come to this plane. But it is already there. All nitya means eternal, eternally existing, all those ideas in different shapes and ways. So what is not floating this time, a particular cloud is not floating this time, that does not mean that it won't float in another time, or float in future sky. So eternal sky they're holding all these things, and sometimes something is coming through someone.

So that story has got eternal characteristic, and through Sanātana that has been explained. Sanātana Goswāmī says, "I'm not writing myself, but someone is forcing my pen to write in this way." Have you marked this? He says that, "This writing is not mine. Someone is forcing me to go on writing. Otherwise, what audacity I have got that I'm describing the character of the Queens of Kṛṣṇa Himself? Who am I, or where are They? And I'm describing Their character. It is not mine. Someone is forcibly writing through me." So revealed truth comes down, eternal truth comes down through someone here.

Kavirāja Goswāmī says,

ei grantha lekhāya more 'madana-mohana', āmāra likhana yena śukera paṭhana

["Actually Śrī Caitanya-caritāmṛta is not my writing but the dictation of Śrī Madana-mohana. My writing is like the repetition of a parrot."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.78]

"Just as a parrot speaks something when inspired by another, by another agent, it is like that. My production is parrot's production. Someone is in the back."

The eternal knowledge comes down in this atmosphere in such a way, through some channel or other. Revealed truth means that. Revealed truth means which is eternal in the world of ideas and thought. And that is coming here through something, some medium. So we're to consider saying the nature of the truth that this is of revealed characteristic, and not of empirical research. When you can detect this, this should be grant as revealed truth, and this is productive of this intellect here. The revealed truth generally comes through some medium, Ṛṣi, not creator, but they're seer, and they're medium, they're giver here. That passive passage, through them it is coming, inspiring him and coming out. In this way, that is the nature of revealed truth. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written Jaiva Dharma. That is also that in some kalpa or other it was actual thought here, it may be, it is coming through him. Do you follow?

Parthamitra: Yes. So it seems that that explanation that one Spiritual Master, Guru, he may explain...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Guru is of two kinds, transparent and opaque. The opaque Guru they're not good medium. And the transparent Guru, there are symptoms of Guru written in Veda, Bhāgavatam, Gītā, what will be the symptoms of a proper Guru. That is real, transparent Guru, through whom the revealed truth can come. And opaque Guru also, ha, ha, according to our Guru Mahārāja, opaque, the light cannot come through it. They cannot be mediator of higher truth, a copyist, and non realistic they are, not proper transmitter. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Parthamitra: So the revealed truth between two different Gurus may seem different, but it is revealed...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They may know a little, there may be a little variegated nature, vilāsa is there, fleeting modification, maybe. As sākhya rasa, so many, Subal, Śrīdam, all with a little speciality in them. Just as I told to ISKCON that, "I'm not one with you. Even I'm not one with Swāmī Mahārāja." And they were disappointed. Everyone has got his special characteristic. Swāmī Mahārāja and me, many things common and some difference, as everywhere in the parṣada also, Subal one type, Śrīdam another type, Madhumaṅgala another type. Some sort of distinction they must have, at least one.

But little Distinctive Absolute, according to Rāmānuja, distinctive, not all same, but distinction there will be, little common and difference, common and difference, something, something. As here also in the material existence so many differentiations. In the spiritual world also differentiation, but many things similar. So you are to understand. And this difference, that is not in quarrel, that is necessary for the existence of the pastimes of the truth which is necessary. Just as opposition party in the parliament has got its place. So also Rādhārāṇī's camp, Candrāvalī's camp, and even the difference between the anomic position between the rasa is there. The vātsalya rasa and the mādhurya rasa there is some anti feeling, it cannot be avoided. The mother will think, generally, that the son is captured by his wife, so she's always alert _____ [?] It is nature.

[Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]

[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

Rūpa Goswāmī explains, just the serpent goes by crooked way, not straight, so the prema, the waves of love are moving in a crooked way. Its nature is such. Ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor. So, sometimes with cause or without cause, both the parties are possessed with some abhimāna, the difference, the love quarrels come now and then. The nature of their love is such. The love moves in such a crooked way. It is its nature, Rūpa Goswāmī says. Sometimes with cause, sometimes without cause, they begin to quarrel, husband and wife. But this can't be avoided. It is the nature of love. So difference does not mean lower and higher. It has got its own position in perfection, out of necessity. In a distinctive absolute the difference must be, otherwise it cannot be līlā. It will be stagnant, it will be static. So the dynamic waves must flow in this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Aranya Mahārāja: One time you said that there are differences of opinion between spiritual personalities. You said on the lower platform it is due to anarthas - and on the higher platform it is due to rasa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The very nature of rasa requires this difference. That is distinction. Everyone has an eternal value. That distinction has got its eternal value, this rasa vaicitya, vaiśiṣṭya, that means many in one, plurality and unity, they're harmonised, then there must be some distinction. Otherwise we're to sacrifice one side, the plurality sacrificed altogether, then it will be oneness, non-differentiated.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Mahārāja, what's the basic difference between Rāmānuja and Madhvācārya's teachings?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In a nutshell, Rāmānuja says that one with differentiated character. And Madhvācārya gives stress to the difference of jīva and Bhagavān, much stress given there, in the fight with Śaṅkara who says that jīva and Bhagavān are one and the same. So direct opposition to the māyāvādī Śaṅkara - Madhvācārya laid much stress on the difference.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And Rāmānuja accepted both?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāmānuja one, and oneness in many, that in a general way he has depicted. But all of them have got some difference in the conception of the Gauḍīya philosophy as Mahāprabhu has given. They're not clear, and sometimes in opposition, that Kṛṣṇa conception is the highest conception of the Absolute. More or less they go so far as the Nārāyaṇa conception in Vaikuṇṭha, as a constitutional king. And a king as absolute autocrat, that is only clear in Bhāgavatam and in Mahāprabhu's conception. The truth is autocrat, truth is love. But Rāmānuja's truth has got law also, and He's a constitutional king. Something like that. He has got also respect for law, and the aspect above law, that side is not clear there. Law and the conception of truth and law of same plane.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: But Madhvācārya is giving a little glimpse...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Though some instances are illustrated there, that anything that's done for the interest of the satisfaction of the Lord, that is justified. So many instances.

For Vaiṣṇava sevā, a chaste wife of a Vaiṣṇava she's going to offer her chastity to a merchant and to get something in return for the service of the Vaiṣṇava. She's risking, but the event did not occur, but she's taking the risk.

Committing dacoiting to construct the compound wall of Ranganatham, it is justified, by Rāmānuja. In some of its literature we find that. But still they're of opinion that Nārāyaṇa is the lawful constitutional king. He's the Supreme.

And these are all below. Those stealing mentalities will vanish and he'll be pure servitor of Nārāyaṇa. But according to us, the stealing for Kṛṣṇa, that holds higher position than the law abiding temperament. All risk no gain. And when we realise our position, we go to home, then we find that no risk all gain.

"That I'm quite at home. What was with me, that was abnormal. And so easily I've come here. To begin, all risk no gain, but end, no risk all gain. That is my very nature. How, everything as in a dream I experienced so much trouble in life? What was that? This is reality and that was non-real. How I was enticed and captured in that imagination, it is wonderful." Then all gain and no risk.

And generally, Kṛṣṇa says, "I risk, so them."

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham
[mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ]

[Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: "As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, everyone follows My various paths in all respects."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

"As you will come and approach Me with your prayer, then I shall grant that. That is the general. Ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Risk and gain. All risk. I'm after such a great prospect that almost it is impossible for me that I shall be able to reach there. It is so high. I'm with small resources and my aspiration is the highest. It is almost impossible for me to go, so all risk no gain. With this faith we must approach. But if we can reach the goal then we shall find without little risk we have attained so much gain. Inconceivable home sweetness I'm experiencing here. Am I wandering in a dreamland, concoction, or imagination? What is it?

Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

In the case of Jagāi, Mādhāi, no discouragement, they went to attack the giver, but through that they got. What inconceivable thing.

"If some ignorant person approaches Me, and does not know what to pray from Me, but I'm not ignorant, I shall teach him, 'Don't ask this thing, this is futile. You ask this thing, sva-caraṇāmṛta diyā.'"

This is also, and there is another, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam.

[rājan patir gurur alaṁ bhavatāṁ yadūnāṁ, daivaṁ priyaḥ kula-patiḥ kva ca kiṅkaro vaḥ

This means He worked just as ordinary servants do. Those engaged in getting the Lord's favour attain liberation from the Lord very easily, but He does not very easily give the opportunity to render direct service unto Him."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.6.18]

"There's a section wanting devotion. 'No, no, no, don't take - pray for devotion, but get liberation.' I deceive them, to another class. According to sukṛti, inner purity, not only the good language or the petition is enough. But who is giving the petition, His position should be considered. Only the formal thing cannot achieve the desired result. But the man, he may not know how to put a petition, but his real initiative, real good man, I help him. But a man who is formally all right but at heart he's deceiving, I deceive him. And generally, according to petition, I cooperate, publicly, he who has dealings from above, to see different parties."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Parthamitra: ...Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta, there are chapters, one mentioning Strong Conviction in The Lord's Protection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lord's protection, yes, rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāsaḥ. That He will look after me. He will protect me. To foster such faith in Him, that He will surely protect me. To acquire and to maintain such faith that He will protect me surely. Intense conviction that He will protect me without fail. To maintain such faith in Him. Try to acquire. He's the real protector and He'll surely protect me. That is the life.

Parthamitra: So the other chapter, Accepting the Lord as Guardian.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Goptṛtve varaṇaṁ. To accept Him as the guardian, protector, and to continue that faith that He must protect me, He will protect me. Because it is His indispensable, intrinsic nature whoever comes to take shelter under Him, then He protects him. He has promised like that.

_____ [?]

When Vibhisana, the younger brother of Rāvaṇa, came to take shelter under the holy feet of Rāmacandra, then Rāmacandra gave him shelter, granted.

And Lakṣmaṇa came with a proposal. "My brother, he comes from the rākṣasa, the demonic section, so should We rely on them? They're enemies camp. He's younger brother to Our greatest enemy, Rāvaṇa. Should we put confidence in him?"

Then in reply to that Rāmacandra told, this śloka is there. "My brother Lakṣmaṇa, You know for certain that this is My vow, and My nature, that if anyone once prays for his shelter under Me, I grant that forever. I grant him safety. If anyone comes with a single sign, he comes to take shelter under Me, I grant him safety, protection, for all the time, for eternity. This is My nature. It is mentioned in that śloka. _____ [?]

Only once if anyone says _____ [?] 'I'm under Your discretion. Please grant me shelter under Your Holy Feet.' Then I grant him shelter forever. My very nature is such."

So goptṛtve varaṇa, we shall ask Him for our, pray for our shelter under His Holy Feet, and we can go on maintaining this faith that He will surely protect us. Because His nature is such, so gracious His nature. He can't throw me off from His shelter, there.

Parthamitra: So the difference between those two chapters - they seem that they're the same.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now one, Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu has discussed and found out that goptṛtve varaṇa, he's praying for his acceptance for his shelter. That is the main thing in the whole of śaraṇāgati. That is the very gist, substance, to pray for his shelter. To pray to Him for his shelter. Goptṛtve varaṇa. 'You are my protector.' That is the main thing in the whole of śaraṇāgati, and others are subsidiary. Goptṛtve. To pray to Him as a protector of ones own self.

Śaraṇāgati mainly centred in this thought. Others are parts thereby, and to maintain at the same time, 'He will give, He cannot but give.'

But the question will remain here, whether I have surrendered totally or not? My ego, has it allowed me to surrender to His Holy Feet fully, or self-deception? The question is there. If there is no question, if that anyone surrenders totally, He will protect him, that is unquestionable. But the question remains here whether I have successfully surrendered myself really to Him or not. Self analysis. But that is the truth, that if He - it is His intrinsic nature that all time, eternal habit, that He protects His refugees. Whoever comes under the shelter of His protection, He protects him. That is one of His intrinsic characteristics. It cannot be otherwise. But the only question is whether I could surrender to Him or not. There are a few other different ideas, but they're of similar nature. To offer ones own self, to cast, to throw ones own self to His custody, that is one, and at the same time to go on with the idea that He will surely protect me.

There the example is given by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. The cow boys, they're welcoming so many risks in their life, backed by the confidence that, 'My friend is there and He will surely protect."

[5] rakhā korobi tuhuṅ niścoy jāni, pāna korobuṅ hāma jāmuna-pāni
[Fearless and confident of Your protection, I will drink the water of the Yamunā.]

[6] kāliya-dokha korobi vināśā, śodhobi nadī-jala, bāḍāobi āśā

[The Kāliya serpent's venom poisoned the Yamunā's waters, yet that poison will be vanquished. You will purify the Yamunā, and by such heroic deeds enhance our faith.]

[Fourth Principle of Surrender: 'Avaśya Rakṣibe Kṛṣṇa'—Viśvāsa, Pālana.
Faith in Kṛṣṇa as Protector. From song 3]

In a part of Yamunā one big serpent was living, and by his poison the whole area was contaminated. But the cow boy friends of Kṛṣṇa they did not care for that. They used to drink that poisonous water, fully surveying that, "My friend is there. We don't care about any poison or anything. He will save us. He'll protect us." So they go ahead to invite danger with the confidence that 'On our backing our friend is always backing us.' With that confidence they invite danger. "We don't care about any danger, because at our support, our friend is there, who has got such supernatural power, or charm, or anything else."

Generally they're already in a position, they do not want "You protect me." Only very rarely as in the Govardhana case, then all of the whole of the locality they came and prayed for protection. When Indra, the king of the heaven, when his annual worship was closed he was enraged very much. And he ordered for the general destruction of that goṣṭha by heavy rain, and that hail storm and thunder, all these things. And then all the goṣṭha they came to take refuge. "Oh Kṛṣṇa. You protect me from these disasters, the great certain destruction." And Kṛṣṇa managed. Otherwise they're always fostering this idea that 'He's there among our protectors. We do not care about anything else. No danger we're afraid of. He's there. He cannot but protect us." That is the idea they maintain.

Parthamitra: So what is the difference between goptṛtve varaṇaṁ and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāsaḥ.

Parthamitra: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The first part, that to invite Him as a protector, that is goptṛtve varaṇa. And the later part that, "He will surely protect me."

Parthamitra: Oh, I see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two parts. The first part is to accept, to invite Him, to pray to Him, "Please protect me. I'm under Your protection. Accept me." And then to maintain the idea, "He will surely protect me, when all possible dangers will come." In two parts _____ [?] one and the same, but if analysed then these parts are found out there.

Parthamitra: I see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Parthamitra: We hear that there is no birth or death in Goloka. But in the Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam we see that Kṛṣṇa He went to Mathurā and He has killed Kaṁsa many times.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That birth and death, and appearance and disappearance. Sun setting, the death of the sun. Sun rising, the birth of the sun. Something like that. Imitation of birth and death, but jīva is transferred to somewhere else. Death means complete separation from this zone, but that is extended to another zone. All the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, like sun, everywhere it is rising, and everywhere it is setting, everywhere it is noon, somewhere. It is continuing in a cyclic order. So Kṛṣṇa līlā also, what occurred here went to next brahmāṇḍa, next plane, eternally wandering. Do you follow?

Parthamitra: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sun invisible, but it is visible in the next country, in this way, next brahmāṇḍa, it is being extended. Again, in a cyclic order it is coming again, in Dvāpara-yuga here. Winter or summer, that also revolving, all in cyclic order, moving. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Parthamitra: Mahārāja, how does one become empowered to preach Kṛṣṇa consciousness - to spread the Holy Name - to propagate the Holy Name?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The general order of Mahāprabhu is there, to propagate in a general way. But in a particular way to give the Name mantra, and to take the responsibility fully, that is a little difficult. There are ten offences against Hari-Nāma. One is that, asraddha-dhano nāma-dhana. [Padma-Purāṇa, Brahma-Khanda, 25.15-18, 22-23] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.69-75] Who gives the Name to another, and makes him disciple, that he takes all his charge. In general way we can inform the holiness and purifying characteristic of the Name to one and all. But particularly to take charge of a particular person, 'that I shall give you wholesale relief from this mundane of māyā,' that sort of responsibility only can be taken when he gets internal inspiration to do that. That is a risky thing. So when one feels urge within him that, "Yes, you may take charge...

82.11.27.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "...your purity shall be intact. I shall be responsible for that. I shall take the responsibility."

If some inner urge one feels in him, then he can begin. Otherwise it will be nāmāparādha. Asraddha- dhano nāma-dhana. [Padma-Purāṇa, Brahma-Khanda, 25.15-18, 22-23] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.69-75] There is want to give Hari-Nāma who has not properly come to the standard. That is our eagerness to become a Guru. For our name and fame we want to capture the position of a Guru for some other aspiration than the real obligatory duty without the sanction, without the license. But the general news of the greatness and glory of the Name, to spread all around to every corner of the world, that is allowed to everyone. He has got little entrance into this zone. But to take the responsibility of a Guru who will take the whole burden of the disciple on him, until he's purified, that is risky. And that should be accepted only when one feels a particular inspiration and urge within, that is.

Otherwise this Yati Goswāmī, they say a son of a Guru is Guru. They're in the physical lineage, they're going on with their trade. The family also, the son of a disciple he's taking mantram from the son of a Guru. This physical lineage is going on.

But we do not accept that. Their internal realisation must be there. It is all internal, spiritual. Spiritual means internal. We have faith in that internal wealth. Spirituality is not mere imagination. It is reality. It is more real than the world in which we're living. It is more real.

Faith. We must see the truth. We must feel the truth. And we shall try then to distribute that truth to others. We must settle there in that plane. As long as my position is flickering there, how can I help others? When I'm settled in that plane and I get some instruction from caitya-guru, inspiration, accept the risk and responsibility to deliver others, in this way extending me to anyone and everywhere. Then he may begin.

And he's only a transparent medium. The medium must be transparent. Transparent Guru and opaque Guru. Through Guru we can see the paramparā and Vaiṣṇava. Not that 'Don't go there.' The Guru paramparā, Guru, Param Guru, all these things, the Lord, everything may be viewed through him.

Just as like a spectacle, in the ordinary way we may think that some barrier between the eye and the sight, so it is causing some hindrance. But it is not, it is rather enhancing my view. And with the telescopic system far becomes near. Guru paramparā, from Guru to Guru, to Guru to Guru, in this way. Generally we think that coming through so many, hindrance, so it may not be very clear. But just the opposite. By many glasses set together the telescopic system, far becomes near. So Guru paramparā is like that.

So many guardians, so many helpers. Here in the land of exploitation we want many servants _____ [?]
'I shall be master, and I shall dictate, and men and money will be at my disposal.' Generally we want that. But opposite in the upper plane, we want many guardians, many who will think good of me. I shall be servant to all. They'll all be very much gracious to me. That will be my wealth, so many well-wishers, all well-wishers.

bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram
suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

"When one can come to realise that I'm the highest dispenser, dealer, controller, but I'm friendly to all, they can find peace then."

Yes. The Ultimate Authority He's my guardian, He's my sympathetic friend. So I can live in peace. No apprehension of any future injustice for me. So many guardians, many well-wishers, many Gurus. All Vaiṣṇavas are our Guru, all well-wishers, so I cannot but be safe. So many well-wishers, so many sympathetic eyes over me, so I'm quite safe in that plane. We must not be afraid of Gurus.

So it is here we may be afraid, because we think we're to obey him. Whatever he'll say I'm to carry out. It is a very risky life. If I can't do that then I shall commit offence. All this apprehension may come here.

But if we can get out of this plane of exploitation, because everyone is eager to exploit us, so that apprehension. But there just the opposite, everyone wants to help one another. So no such apprehension of being attacked from the enemy camp. All friendly, and specially so many interested Guru, they take special care of us.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

No self interested persons, they're all God interested, one interest, common interest. That is the plane of harmony, common interest, harmonise. And discord, I'm separate, many separate interests, there discord. And only one common interest, harmoniously they're moving there, trying to utilise every atom there for that common interest, marvellously.

Still, in the higher stage of service we find a form of particular diversing but that is all created as we find in drama, that is all a show. That is a necessary part to enhance our service, a special design, in the promotion of the service. Competition is also there, but competition for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction. Here, competition amongst many interests. And there, competition for one interest, so harmony.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parthamitra: So one may have a desire to preach and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And to preach under the direction of Gurudeva, that is safe. His order, where he's guided he's going on. Responsibility with the highest General - and his connection with the highest authority, and they're working under the direction of that General who is connected with the highest authority. Something like that. But to take the whole responsibility in ones own self that is risky, and in that we must be sure of some higher connection of the highest authority. When we find an urge within, go on, risk yourself. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, Parama Devī dāsī has a question for you.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, there are some people who are in the guise of Vaiṣṇavas, who are not. Who are acting as masters and want others as servants. How can we know who is pure, who we can trust?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not clear. What does she say?

Parthamitra: There are many people in the guise of Vaiṣṇavas, who are wanting to be accepted as master and people to follow them. But how do we know who is actually pure?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How we know about other things, that one is educated, another is non educated? How do you know? One is intelligent, another is stupid, how do you know? As much as you can come in a plane of intelligence you can feel intelligence in others also. If you can feel within you that 'this is education' you can feel then whether others are educated or not.

So also, when you come to real, pure devotion, what is devotion, when you can feel within you, then you'll be able to judge whether his words, his deeds, are in accordance with devotional practices. You'll understand when you get.

As you can judge other things, if that element is one, a lawyer can understand a lawyer, a doctor can understand a doctor. In this way, direct experience. And indirect experience through faith. If there is a good doctor, all may not know, no knowledge in the medicine. But so many others whom I can believe, they appreciate them, so I go to that doctor. "He's a good doctor because he's recommended by so many gentlemen whom I can put faith in." The first in this way. Then when you've had experience with the doctor, that "His medicine cured me several times, I got, I felt it myself," you will go to recommend to other patients. "Go to that doctor. His diagnosis, his medicine, is very helpful."

In this way you'll be able to know who is a real sādhu, what is the criterion of a sādhu, what is the criterion of a Vaiṣṇava. You're to be acquainted with that quality, that thing, then maybe. To know, symptoms have been given in this way.

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ
prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam

["As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

A Vaiṣṇava must have these symptoms in him. What are they? There are many symptoms, but in a nutshell, bhakti. He must have ever increasing earnestness towards the Lord, pareśānubhavo. He must have some clear conception, clear and more clear conception, a progressive clear conception of what he is. And anyatra, viraktir, and he will withdraw from other things, his taste and his likeness and attraction. He'll be apathetic to the worldly things. That means kanak, no greed for money. Kāminī, for the male, no attraction for the female. And for the female, no attraction for the male. And pratiṣṭhā, and name and fame, that popularity in this world. And he's engaged for something else. That is the general external qualification.

Then again, mere withdrawal from this world is not the highest qualification. The renunciationists, they also withdraw from this world, but their instruction is more or less destructive, not constructive. The Vaiṣṇavas they give some constructive idea of the spiritual world. And amongst Vaiṣṇavas also there are many sections of sections. And Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam has dealt with them all clearly, the gradation amongst the Vaiṣṇava faith. And Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanya how, eliminating other spiritual conceptions, and He's giving the development of the whole theistic idea.

Generally, first we're actuated by ajñāta-sukṛti, unknown. Sukṛti means my energy utilised by some real sādhu for the service of God. Then from that I feel something within me as śraddhā, faith, far fetching thing. A far fetched conception about the truth. That appeals to the heart and creates the taste.

"Oh. And this sort of goal I like very much from the core of my heart."

In this way he's drawn towards the truth, śraddhā. And then he mixes, he keeps company with so many that talk about that sort of truth, goal of life, aspiration of life. And the śravaṇa-daśā, he goes to many and hears about that. Then when he finds that his instructions, his feelings, his grace, it seems to be very effective, and very attractive, and very promising. So he comes to surrender to him.

"Please take me to the goal, as you say. I want that. The conception of your home, back to God, back to home. The conceptions you're giving about the home are very attractive to me, and I want to go to such home. Please take me there."

And this way of surrendering will come, and according to him, to his direction, he'll go on with the practices, śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, bhajan, etc. And he'll find, if he's sincere, he'll find in himself gradual improvement, or nearness to the plane. The conception of the home, there he'll find gradually nearer and nearer. And he will attain such a position when he's fully confident that it is there, it is real. And these are all indirect. More earnestly he'll make his progress. And after that, some position may come when he'll be asked, "Please recruit others also. What good benefit you're tasting yourself, not alone, you distribute to others also. Take, give this nectar to all."

In this way the life improves from the nescience to science, from non direct to direct, from the caution to the meaning of love, the progress is there. The final taste, the responsibility within us, hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto.

[vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]

In Manu-saṁhitā [2.1] there is a śloka saying, "What should be our duty, the definition of duty, that pious duty, holy duty? Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ. Those that have got sufficient knowledge in revealed truth. Sevitaḥ sadbhir. And other symptoms, the honest persons, I'll gather around that. And what sort of honest persons? Adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Who are indifferent to the loss and gain of this world, what we consider to be very real, illusory world, adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Hṛdayenābhyanujñāto. And you must have your inner heart's approval to accept that.

Your heart will say that, "This thing is living, is spreading within me. It's noble and unprecedented sort of satisfaction, pleasure in me, gives me a very auspicious, and promising, and very hopeful news to me, to save me. It will save me. I'm surrounded by the threatening of the mortality, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9], all the bad elements of this life. But this will deliver me from this. Not only that, but some positive attainment of very hopeful and sweet life they're giving in relation with the highest truth."

This sort of thing. As you can understand things here, so we'll be able to understand things there, but with separate senses, super intelligence. And the beginning, the help from the other sources, that is to be depended on. Just as a man who by accident has lost his senses, he cannot help himself. But the others will come and help him. He's unconscious, but when that consciousness will come back, he'll cooperate with the nurse and the doctor. "That this is so, here pain, here is this disturbance." And with the cooperation of the doctor he will be healed of his disability and adversity.

So in the beginning, when we do not know anything, the others help is indispensable for us. That is sukṛti. Then when we get a sort of consciousness, then with the help of others, with the cooperation of them we can improve our condition. And our inner heart is an important factor to accept what is good and bad, heart's approval is a part. And also the previous sukṛti can carry him to a particular group and then go on. The chance of independent selection comes to me as much as I'm awake. And then it may take me in such a position, "I'm quite confident that this is reality, this is good. Then I feel that I must go and help others. It is so sweet, I must distribute to others also." The fitness of intensity comes to such an extent, not only he's satisfied, "I want to satisfy others with the very same medicine." Broadest, it's nature, on the whole, it is said in Bhagavad-gītā also,

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

One who sincerely wants his own good, he cannot be deceived by others, because there is God. The omniscient God is there overhead. So only you, yourself, can cheat you. The others cannot cheat the omniscient guidance of the Lord - vigilant eye overhead, the head of everyone. If we do not like to cheat ourselves, no outside enemy can do much wrong. He'll come to relieve me. We're going, not to be a stone, but all consciousness and all love, we're going to get His service. So He's the protector there, He'll protect. Only I must be careful of my internal enemies. My responsibility is there, that I must not deceive my own self. If I'm sincere in my hankering, in my will, aspiration, then everything will be all right, because He's there. But He may not approach me. I want to invite. He's perfect. I'm imperfect. But He's perfect. With this idea all through we shall approach. Gaura Hari bol. Am I clear?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, amongst the Godbrothers, how does a devotee, unsure of an older devotee's qualities, how does he avoid him or his association without creating offence?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First, he needs to understand whose company will improve him. Whose practices, behaviour, conduct, is in accordance to śāstra, and according to the advices of the Vaiṣṇava. Then, he will, when he's free he may have free choice of the company. But sometimes when working under a superior, and in the combination he finds that there is more desirable sādhu with whom to work, then he will pray to the inner authority.

"That I think that this company with whom I've been asked by my superiors to work on, not compatible. My Lord, please give me relief of this unhappy environment."

And He will manage it otherwise, inaugurate. We have got that sort of experience when under the direction of our Gurudeva. We had to travel in preaching camps in different parties, but when we came first we were under the direction of a particular leader. But at times we found that the leader is not very desirable. Then we had to pray, not complaining against the authority. "That I won't be able to work under him." Not disobedience in the system, but internal prayer. "O Lord, You know everything. I find this is not very suitable and this is causing harm to my spiritual realisation. Please give me relief."

But don't go so far, even that we may not file a petition to the Lord. We should take it that this sort of circumstance, environment, has some necessity for me, to teach something, direct or indirect. Our attitude should be this. Whatever comes, this is earned by my previous karma. My previous karma has earned such environment, and it is necessary to teach me. And whenever my teaching will be finished the environment will change. And we have got experience of that in the practical field.

Whatever the circumstance, the environment may be undesirable, but if we're sincere we must take in a good motive. That has been sent by the Lord, sanctioned, without His notice nothing can happen, not even a straw can move. So I'm put in such deplorable environment. He's seeing this thing. And as soon as this necessity will end it will be removed, and I shall be placed in another environment. There's no fault, no error in His divine decision, there cannot be any error. We're to face all circumstances in such attitude.

[hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

It is earned by my own past deed, so I must not quarrel with that which my own deed has produced, but I must finish its effect. It is necessary for me, and as soon as the necessity will be finished it will be withdrawn, and I will be put in another separate environment. We're to wait for the divine dispensation. That will be the highest policy, the most sober and sacred and desirable and helpful policy is that, in every life. It will increase our faith in the Supreme Personality, the supreme command of all the environments ever may come, or now is, or in future. This policy of a devotee will be most suitable and helpful. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo. The undesirable things have not come suddenly to punish me, but it is necessary, it is self acquired. And it will get its fulfilment and then vanish, and then next chance higher I shall get. But if I avoid this, it may be taken out, again it will come to get its realisation from me, to clear off my debt. In this attitude we shall face all the circumstances, and that will be the best attitude of any progressive devotee. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, the most important instruction for the devotees. Whatever circumstances we're to face we must face it faithfully, because it is not without any cause. It is earned by me, and we shall lose no faith in the divine absolute dispenser. Without His notice nothing can exist, nothing can come. He's at the back. He's my well-wishing guardian. He's seeing all these things. As soon as its necessity will be finished it will be withdrawn. I shall conquer that. I must not fly away defeated by the circumstances, then again it will come to have its debt realised from me.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

That will extend my faith also, make it firm, faith will be more firm if we face in this way and find that the mist is clearing, the cloudy atmosphere clearing, sun's rays have come.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana
[mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Your responsibility is only with the work, only with the duty. All you can concentrate, you can collect, engage yourself only to discharge your duty well. Don't care for the result, consequence. Consequence is with Him, in His hand. The resultant - I may do my part, but the resultant depends, the consequence depends on the resultant of many forces. So it is in His hands, the effect always in His hands, because that will have to come as the resultant of many activities. So I should not bother about the resultant. That does not depend on my activity. That is the consequence of the combination of the resultant of the many activities, many duties. I'm a part, so I must concentrate what is given to me as my duty.
