If you want to approach the Absolute your posing will be such. Humbler than the blade of grass, and more forbearing than the tree. And never aspire after your own position and prestige, but give honour to all, but never seek for you any respect. That will be best posing to approach the Absolute. If you want to approach the Absolute your nature should be such, then it maybe fruitful. Don't want any position or prestige for your self, but always be ready to give it to others, and try to feel your insignificant character. Then you'll be able to draw attention of the High. Feel yourself as poor as anything, the poorest of the poor. And then you'll be able to draw attention of the Supreme towards you. "That I'm needy, I'm the most needy." Feel yourself first and then put a petition. "I'm the most needy my Lord for Your Grace." Simple thing. "I'm the most needy, most desolate. Please help me." A simple attitude. Then surrender will be real, and practical, otherwise it is only lip deep, hypocrisy.

He's all alert, omniscient, seeing everything, the subtle things also. What we can't see within us, He can see what is within us. So it is not very easily we can acquire the qualification necessary to approach the Absolute.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...janma-mūla haya sādhu-saṅga.

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhu-saṅga' / kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga]

["The root cause of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is association with advanced devotees. Even when one's dormant love for Kṛṣṇa awakens, association with devotees is still most essential."]

Such a nature is also to be acquired. So ultimately the beginning is sat-saṅga, on the surface. And underground is sukṛti, chance, bhāgyavān. Agents are wandering, by His Grace, recruitment for the public.

I asked, the next book may be published by the name, Search Of The Lord For The Lost Servants. Search of Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful, and just the opposite, Search Of The Lord For The Lost Servants. He's trying to recruit them, His servant that is lost. Search of Kṛṣṇa, search of the Lord, and search of the servants, lost servants. So, so many agents come and help this fallen area, relief work.

And as the result of that, many get some sukṛti, and that gradually takes to sat-saṅga, association with the saints. And then begins that śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, sādhana-daśā, āpana-daśā, prapanna-daśā. Five stages of life, searching for Kṛṣṇa.

Not non scientific, but it is a real and comprehensive science, harmony, adjustment. Proper adjustment means harmony. Beauty also, proper adjustment, harmony, beauty, ānandam, ecstasy, all of equal position, similar position. Adjustment, harmony, beauty, and satisfaction, love: all common, very similar. And that is person above all, we must think. For higher conception, conception of higher truth is personal, endowed with freedom, absolute freedom, not under law, law maker.

Devotees: [14:10 - 15:11 ?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Guru Mahārāja. In Golden Volcano the philosophy is super-excellently represented as the volcano. What about the earthquake? The earth is trembling, it's cracking, it's swallowing. Any representation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Plays in any way He likes, and which is always, God works wonders. And also, the pain coming from Him that is also pleasure. Our attitude should be that, to accept Him, equal basis.

Caṇḍīdāsa says, "Sukha, duḥkha, when suffering and the pleasure, two fruits of one tree, sukha, duḥkha, eka vrke phal [?]"

So, everywhere to be found. In the viraha, there is suffering and there is pleasure also, both. But of such a degree that everything is sweet, suffering is sweet. When we suffer for the country, suffer for other's health, we feel some pleasure within us. For the country one is going to be hanged. There are so many workers very happily they take the thread. So, externally it cannot be distinguished. In suffering there may be pleasure. Sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest things.

["Our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought."]
[The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822]

Viraha milan. Peculiar, by giving we get, by sacrifice we may become gainers. Outwardly it is painful, but inwardly it is gain. What we get, if we get it it's finished, but what we desire we're not getting. It is life giving us energy to move, to acquire. What we want, if we get it, that is finished. So no finishing, in the search of Kṛṣṇa consciousness of the Absolute, no end, eternal life of quest, search. No satisfaction may be reached that we have finished. As much as we make progress, so much we feel we must go further, further, further. More tasteful, more tasteful. More suffering, more tasteful. Unconscious suffering, and taste is overwhelming.

> yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ]

[Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

I'm neglected, I'm crushed, indifferent dealing, or, on my face others are being gainers, I'm being deceived. In spite of all such tendencies from the upper, we must be faithful to Him. Such quality, tolerance, and earnestness is necessary in our search about Kṛṣṇa. All sorts of inconvenience on our side. The whole risk of the journey it is us, not to put blame in any side. But, 'O, I'm the centre of all trouble.' If your attention it is like that, whole attention, then you will find automatically the atmosphere you are in, that is very pure and happy. When all poison you will be able to see within you. As much as you will say that you yourself is at the root of all displeasure, all difficulty, so much automatically you cannot but see that the environment is very good and happy. And as long as we shall try to cast difficulties on the environment, to blame the environment, and we are good, that is just the opposite, our real progress in life. The whole poison I'm to devour, and the nectar will be found all around.

Control yourself. Don't try to control the environment. The sum and substance of the advice of Bhagavad- gītā. Don't try to control the environment, that is beyond your power. Control yourself, there is your possibility, your possibility of freedom is there only. You try to utilise that, and automatically you will come to a plane. Gītā says that we should be totally indifferent to the atmosphere, to the environment. And dive deeply in connection of your own self, for the adjustment proper. And Bhāgavata says one step forward. "The environment is pure. Everything what is in the environment that is necessary for you at present. That is, not only you should be apathetic, but you must see that they're all good. And the whole evil is within you. Everything is good and you are bad." That is Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

But generally we're habituated in the opposite. All blame we put on the environment. But the real chance of progress is just in the opposite line. You are responsible for all your difficulty. Your freedom has taken away from the sweet environment. The culprit is within. Why you have fallen here? You are responsible for that. And whenever that will be detected, the real symptom of the patient, then purification, curing, will be begun. Disease is here, the poison is here. You are meant, your prospect is real good, but you have acquired this stage of your life, self-acquisition.

So śaraṇāgati means this, it presupposes that, "I'm the worst, worst fallen." Śaraṇāgati presupposes, its first condition that, "I'm the worst, I'm the most wretched, so most needy. So please forgive me and give Your Grace." It presupposes, śaraṇāgati. Śaraṇāgati is not a form, but it is the very life, living thing. Not a form, not an ornament, but it is within. From the innermost heart it must come out, "That I'm really the fallen," and the real progress will begin then. It is not a form, like a dress, śaraṇāgati. I'm taken the dress, garment, not like that. It is innate property. And he will think that, "I can't become a śaraṇāgata, a true śaraṇāgata I can't become." It will continue, not a means to end, but it is the means, it is the end. Some say, being śaraṇāgata, being surrendered, then we shall go on with our own sādhana activities. But there is another class, it is mention in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam. The śaraṇāgati is the end of life. It is so powerful, and so simple, and plain, and natural. Śaraṇāgati is itself, in itself it is fulfilment. Some are of this opinion. Others will come here automatically, in the background. Śaraṇāgati is itself the end of life. So much stress has been given in śaraṇāgati, surrender. Surrender means automatic acquisition of the highest association, cannot but be. First surrender then you'll get, no. As much as you surrender, so much you're getting, already. Cash payment, not a post dated cheque. Ha, ha.

In the last war, the second great world war, the British came and offered India that, "After this war is finished we shall give independence to you." Gandhi and other leaders they proposed like that. But Gandhi told, "No, you give us independence now, and we shall allow you during the war, to utilise this country as you feel it necessary." But one _____ [?] and some gentleman came, they did not agree to that. At that time Gandhi told, I remember, "Post dated cheque. You want to give a post dated cheque. After so many days you'll be able to cash it. No, I'm not ready. You give it now. And we're giving you full permission that during war time you'll be able to use this country in any way you like. We shall give it to you, but give independence now." But they did not give. So that "British quit India", that movement, August movement, do or die, that was begun. Forty two, August.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...but his inner tendency was towards Vaiṣṇavism. Some says that he was Brahmā who stole the cows in Vṛndāvana, and was punished to have a future birth in the Muslim section, yavana. And by that curse he had to be associated with the yavana section, who can deal cruelly with the cow section.

Now that Haridāsa when got his mature age, gradually associated with Advaita Prabhu in Śāntipura. And by his association he took the Name of the Lord, especially.

And the Muslim section was at that time they were ruling the country. So they could not tolerate so easily that a Muslim will go on with Hindu practices, taking the Name, converted into Hinduism, into Vaiṣṇavism, they could not tolerate.

So he was punished very severely by the present rulers, so much so, that he cannot, none can, getting that punishment none can live. That is whipping in twenty two markets. In the market whipping goes on until he became unconsciousness or so. And Haridāsa Thakura was ordered to be whipped in twenty two markets in the presence of the public, so that none can be bold enough to accept Hinduism. That was the punishment. Haridāsa Thakura survived all that punishment.

They thought, the whippers found that, "He has gone, dead." Left him in the Ganges water.

And Haridāsa Ṭhākura swam away from Kalna to Śāntipura. And there they thought he's dead.

But Haridāsa Ṭhākura with Advaita Prabhu, he began his life of a Vaiṣṇava. And when Mahāprabhu came out in the public life of preaching Hari Nāma, then They all joined together. And Haridāsa Ṭhākura and Nityānanda Prabhu They were ordered first by Mahāprabhu to go on preaching in the public. "Go and approach anyone and everyone, and ask them to take the Name of the Lord." The first batch of preachers was Nityānanda and Haridāsa. By order of Mahāprabhu They approached the public, whomever They found They requested them.

And Jagāi, Mādhāi were two guṇḍās at that time. They came out from the brāhmaṇa section, but very nasty in their habits, taking wine and all sorts of intoxication, and dealing cruelly with all. And perhaps something they got indulgence from the ruling society. So backed by them they used to do anything and everything, molesting.

And they meet these two devotees, Nityānanda and Haridāsa. "What are you out for?"

"We want to preach Kṛṣṇa Nāma."

And they attacked Them. "Kṛṣṇa Nāma?" And Mādhāi threw a rejected earthen pot onto the head of Nityānanda Prabhu. And there was wound and blood oozing.

Then Jagāi came to offer, "What are you doing? So much is not good."

In the meantime it was reported to Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu came furiously. "Who is so courageous and wounded Nityānanda and making bloodshed of Nityānanda? I can't tolerate. I shall do anything and everything to punish that rogue. Who is he?" Mahāprabhu almost forgot Himself that He's to play the part of a devotee. He was so much removed by seeing the bloodshed of Nityānanda.

But Nityānanda Prabhu stopped Him. "Don't forget that in this Avatāra We're not to take any aggressive measure. You forget that."

Then Nityānanda Prabhu pleaded for Jagāi. "Mādhāi did the wound and Jagāi opposed."

Then Mahāprabhu said, "You have helped Nityānanda sympathetically?" Then Mahaprabhu embraced Jagāi.

Then Nityānanda Prabhu recommended, "Jagāi and Mādhāi, they're coming from the, two fruits from the same stem. One has received Your grace and the other, it does not look well that another should be given out."

Then Mādhāi began to cry.

Mahaprabhu asked, "You have done wrong to Nityānanda. You must beg forgiveness to Nityānanda."

And he did so, then Mahāprabhu accepted him also.

And that was the first step of the preaching Hari Nāma in Navadwīpa.

There was uproar in the town. "O! Two guṇḍās, furious guṇḍās, Jagāi and Mādhāi converted by Nimāi Paṇḍit. They're now supporters of Nimāi Paṇḍit."

Jagāi and Mādhāi were completely transformed. Their mentality, wholesale changed, began to cry, incidentally weeping and crying. "What we have done in our past life, lost, now how we can get relief from so many past heinous deeds that we have done?" In this way, and taking the name and crying, wholesale conversion. And they're giving some service in the Ganges ghāṭ. They used to, those that come to take bath, they engaged themselves to cleanse the Ganges bathing ghāṭ. As people come and they pray, "We do not know, we are so much rogue, we have done mischief to the public, innumerable public injured and wounded by us. We do not know whom we have given trouble. We beg forgiveness, forgiveness to you all, we have displeased you all." Who have come in the Ganges to take bath, they are cleansing the ghāṭ and praying forgiveness from the public. "We don't know whom we have affected, but please forgive us." In this way they began their life.

Haridāsa Thakura was there. Then when Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa...

85.09.27.B_85.09.28.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and Haridāsa Ṭhākura was there. And Mahāprabhu begged a small garden from the Guru of Pratāparudra. He asked that, "A secluded place, I want for My purpose." And that was granted to Him, and He put Haridāsa Ṭhākura there, little secluded, far from the temple of Jagannātha. That the Jagannātha pūjārīs may not see any disturbance that, "A yavana has come, we shall touch the yavana, and then to enter the temple that won't be allowed." So a little far off, Haridāsa Thakura was put.

And Rūpa, Sanātana, when they came they also put up with Haridāsa Ṭhākura. Because they had also some bad name of close association with the Muslim ruler, so the orthodox section may not accept them in connection with Jagannātha worship. So they used to remain with Haridāsa Ṭhākura and did not come in the street where Jagannātha pūjārīs are roaming freely, to avoid them.

So much so, that one day when Mahāprabhu was in Toṭa Gopīnātha where Gadādhara Paṇḍita used to have his Gopīnātha worship. Sanātana went over the hot sands of the sea shore. He did not use the ordinary road. But he went over the hot sand at noon time. And there was some blisters under his foot.

Mahāprabhu told, "Why did you not come through the ordinary way? That is cooler."

"No, I can't come thereby. So many priest there wandering on those streets. They may have some touch and they will consider it in some hesitating way. So I have come on this."

So very carefully avoided, did not give any room for complaint against them. Only from far away they used to have darśana of the temple, the highest crown of the temple. And they never did enter into the temple. So they have dealt so intimately with the līlā of the Lord, but they have not entered Jagannātha temple. So what is temple entry?

One advocate, when Prabhupāda used to give his class in Purī, one advocate was absent, disciple.

Prabhupāda asked, "Where is that gentleman? I don't find him in the class."

"He has gone to Jagannātha temple to have a darśana of His ārati."

Prabhupāda told, "O, he has gone for eyes exercise."

Śruti krta patha [?] Our eyes should be guided by the ears. Ear will guide the eye, how to see, what to see. Then the eye can see properly. On the whole it is all transcendental. But still through the, we can use our worldly, this body experience, eye experience, ear experience. All experience may be gradually converted into spiritual feeling. For the beginners there's no other way but to begin with their senses. But gradually from sensual, from the experience of senses they're expected to go on in the spiritual conception. And the sound comes to guide, generally. So our ear guides the eye. Śruti krta patham. The ways where the eye is guided by the ear. Śruti means ear, śruti guides the eye, then I can feel what is what.

So in the tīrtha, in the place of pilgrimage, the pāṇḍās are there, they guide the people. "Here is this, here is that, here is that." Otherwise one, only by means of seeing cannot understand what is what.

So Haridāsa Ṭhākura took Name. He converted one prostitute, sent by one wicked leader of Bengal. He could not tolerate Haridāsa Ṭhākura's fame. "That he's a sādhu? He was a Muslim. What kind a sādhu is he? He's a hypocrite, he's showing to the public he's a great saint." So he sent one prostitute. "I shall reward you if you can spoil that hypocrite saint." So according to his direction the prostitute went to see Haridāsa Ṭhākura in the hut.

He was alone taking the Name of the Lord. And continuously three nights she hunted the place.

Haridāsa Ṭhākura said, "I'm taking the Name and there's some limit. Until I can finish the number I can't talk with you. You please wait. Then I shall fulfil your desire."

And after three nights that prostitute's mental mind was changed. And then she wanted from Haridāsa dīkṣā, initiation in Name. And Haridāsa Ṭhākura gave her. And then, the cottage he left for her. "Do some service of the Tulasī plant, and live here, and take the Name." And Haridāsa Ṭhākura left for some other place. Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura's name was spread long.

After that when he was living in Purī, with Mahāprabhu, then he thought that Mahāprabhu will disappear very soon. He wanted to go before that, and proposed to Mahāprabhu that, "It is in my mind that You won't stay for so long time. I want to go away before you."

"Then, why do you like to do this?"

Haridāsa Ṭhākura told that, "I'm too old. I can't finish my regular counting of the Name. I do not like to stay any longer here."

Then one day, Mahāprabhu with His party approached Haridāsa Ṭhākura, "How you are?" Began saṅkīrtana in the compound.

And Haridāsa Ṭhākura, "I'm ready my Lord." As if by his own will he's going away. Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura he took Mahāprabhu very close to his body and put his eyes on the face of Mahāprabhu and took His feet on his breast, and taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya. The whole life he took the Name of Hare Kṛṣṇa, but at the time of his departure he began to take "Śrī Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya, Śrī Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya," and left the world.

And Mahaprabhu told, "Haridāsa Ṭhākura, what type of saint he was. At his sweet will he left the body and went away, like Bhīṣma."

Bhīṣma got a boon off Ichamitra [?], "Whenever you desire you can leave the body."

[mahā-yogeśvara-prāya dekhi' svacchande maraṇa] 'bhīṣmera niryāṇa' sabāra ha-ila smaraṇa

["Seeing the wonderful death of Haridāsa Ṭhākura by his own will, which was just like a great mystic yogī's, everyone remembered the passing away of Bhīṣma."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 11.57]

Haridāsa Ṭhākura passed in such way that all came to remember that Bhīṣma's passing away at his sweet will, Haridāsa. And the peculiarity, he took the foot of Mahāprabhu on his chest, and fixed eyes on His face, and he began to chant.

'śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya' śabda karite uccāraṇa, nāmera sahita prāṇa kaila utkrāmaṇa

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 11.56]

And while taking the Name of "Śrī Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya, Śrī Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya," the life vanished, passed away. Then all the party began saṅkīrtana. Mahāprabhu took Haridāsa's body on His shoulders, and began to dance madly. Then after that He took him to the sea shore, and there a pit was dug, and there put. And first Mahāprabhu gave pādodaka on His body, then all. Before that the devotees took feet water, Haridāsa's feet washing water they took, and drunk. And then saṅkīrtana. The samādhi is still there. Everyone goes and sees Haridāsa Ṭhākura's samādhi. Haridāsa Ṭhākura passed in such a way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. The Name. Haridāsa, three lākhs, one crore of Name he took in a month. Three lākhs _____ [?] every day three lākhs, so in thirty days ninety, and ten more added. One crore in a month generally he used to take Name. So three lākhs means at least from twelve, fourteen hours at least, fifteen hours, he used to devote in taking the Name so much time, we're told. But who can take very swiftly, they can take with in four hours one lākh, or five hours, but a little distinctly, then utmost seven hours. Haridāsa Ṭhākura, Name, taking the Name. The example set by him, how one should take the Name of the Lord, and pass his time. And as the result of the Name, how one can develop his love. And this is the peculiarity, the whole life he took the Name of Hare Kṛṣṇa, and just when he's passing away, took the Name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Chaitanya, and left the world. Gaura Hari bol. Ke?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: O, who am I? Where am I? What is my goal? What is my enemy? These general questions in life to be solved, fundamental difficulties. We're busy in particular things, small particular petty things drawing our attention, avoiding big problems of life, real problems of life. Irrelevant, we're busy with irrelevant things.

nidrayā hriyate naktaṁ, vyavāyena ca vā vayaḥ
divā cārthehayā rājan, kuṭumba-bharaṇena vā

["At night we see two things; either sleep or playing with women (sex indulgence). And the day-time is spent either in search of money or by serving the relatives."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.3]

That should be readjusted, replaced. Once, Bon Mahārāja went out for collection during the monthly celebration Calcutta Maṭh. He was pointed by some mischievous persons, they pointed out to a prostitute's house. "Go that house and there you will get much money."

He went, and the lady came out. Then finding her Bon Mahārāja became little perplex. Anyhow he gave a letter _____ [?], and invited her to the Maṭh and came away.

And these people who suggested that house, they're smiling within them.

Then Bon Mahārāja came and told to our Guru Mahārāja, "I won't go for collection. Such is the condition."

Then Guru Mahārāja came out with his argument and his direction. "Those that have left their own property, I'm sending them again for the property; that is, collect money, beg money. They have left their own wealth at home, left everything and come here. And I'm sending them from door to door to collect that same thing what they've left already in their house. Am I doing wrong? No. Why? We must learn to use everything in the service of the Lord. If we leave anything: that will wait and capture me one day. So everything we shall learn how to utilise anything and everything for the service of the Lord."

nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, [yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate]

Find out the clue how we can utilise everything for Kṛṣṇa. That is what is necessary. Not avoid anything, but adjustment. Not avoidance but adjustment is necessary. Maladjusted are we at present. Proper adjustment is necessary in life. Nothing is our enemy, all friend when we see them in Kṛṣṇa connection. The standpoint, the outlook should be changed. Nothing should be left, but adjustment is the main thing, that is what. No one is enemy, only the anomaly within me. I'm viewing things for separate interest for me. That is māyā, suffering from māyā, that is misconception, misreading, misbehaviour. That should be purified. Separate interest should go, and the centre interest, that is Kṛṣṇa interest, will come within us. That is what is necessary really, because we belong to Kṛṣṇa. We have got a duty towards Him, and our duty is to handle everything for Him. A general reasonable thing, neither to enjoy, nor to renounce.

[tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet]

["How can the joy of holy devotion appear in the heart as long as it is haunted by the ghosts of desire for exploitation and renunciation?"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva, 2.22]

They're like ghosts. The idea of leaving anything, dissociate, or to associate with self centre, these are two ghosts. The ghosts should be leaven off. And life real must come out, that, "I'm an agent, not master. I'm an agent and to do my duty as an agent of the centre, of the Supreme, of the beautiful, of the Absolute Good." This is necessary. I'm to adjust properly. The poison's within not without, but undesirable thing, is within me, none can oppose, none can do anything. Any opposite incident, apparently, that is also necessary for my change. Whatever we think undesirable in the outside, that is necessary for me to pass the examination. That is a test to me, we're to take it like that. So no complain against anyone in the paraphernalia. That is the central teachings of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Everything is good, only my self is bad. I must turn me. Only centre minded, centre interested, then everything is all right.

mayā santuṣṭa-manasaḥ sarvāḥ sukha-mayā diśaḥ

["One who does not desire anything within this world, who has achieved peace by controlling his senses, whose consciousness is equal in all conditions and whose mind is completely satisfied in Me finds only happiness wherever he goes."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.13]

"Who is satisfied with My position, then from every direction, waves of happiness, ecstasy, will come towards him. Only be satisfy with Me. Don't hanker for anything else. Then you'll see that from all directions only happy news is coming to you, happy waves are coming towards you. Only be faithful."

You're a traitor now, living the life of a traitor. You belong to your master, your Lord, your relation absolute. And you want to become master. Or if you can't become master of the environment, then you want to retire, that is strike, you take to strike habit, no work. Either work for me or no work. Bhukti and mukti. These two are ghosts, piśācī hṛdi varttate. And as long as such aspiration, these two ghosts, of lord it over, or to shun everything. Those ghost should be got rid of.

Then you are all right, you are wholesome and healthy. You'll be able to feel your self you're quite at home. Back to God, back to home. Home comfort you will feel, you are in your own soil, you are a child of your own soil. Only this central thing, what is bhukti, mukti - neither stop work, nor work on your whim. Systematic work for the satisfaction of the centre, that is what is necessary. Don't try to find out your enemy outside, it is all within, adjustment proper, you're to adjust yourself properly. And for that you must seek some help, from similar persons that are adjusted. You're to take help from them, without any complain, useless complain.

A bad workman quarrels with his stools. Stools come from his own body according to his food or something. But no quarrels have any effect with ones stools. So you have earned such environment. It is like stool. This environment where you are staying it is like stool to you. It has come from within you, within your mental body this environment has been produced. So no complain, complain within, complain with the food, and not with the stools. Your judgement should take place before you take something, not the stools, the result, but when you begin. Where you begin, you be particular there. The environment is like, it comes from within you, as a result of your own activity. But you be careful when taking the food which you imbibe there.

Śravaṇa, kīrtana, sādhu-saṅga, there you concentrate yourself. And this is your own product, environment is our own product, comes from us. So must not be complainant to any other, but try to concentrate all your energy within you, all, how to guide you? How to guide your own self? That is the question. How can I do that? Sādhu-saṅga, śāstra-saṅga.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Neither stop, nor opposing, energising, saved from the - more details. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam / ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, [tat paratvena nirmalam / hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-pañcarātra]

Upādhi, that is not natural, which comes from outside like parasites. So many branches in the tree which is not a part of that tree, parasite.

Anyābhilāṣa, fleeting desire, endless, without any plan so many fleeting desires are coming and going. They should be avoided. Our karma, organised way, to make my self master of all the energy I can find, karma. Or to leave everything, give up the company of anything and everything. All is bad. Everything is injurious for life, don't want anything. That is also more difficult position. Mukti, that is more injurious to us, such as liberation, disconnection with everything. Proper connection is necessary, not disconnection.

So our Guru Mahārāja often he told, "Religion is proper adjustment." Not renunciation, nor exploitation. That is the nature of dedication. Dedication, all duty, and that becomes in the highest stage, love, action of love. Then duty becomes sweet. In the beginning duty may not be sweet, it is directed by saints and the scriptures, but when that duty towards Kṛṣṇa ends, the relation with Kṛṣṇa becomes very sweet. Then we're in rāga-mārga, in Vṛndāvana circle. In Vṛndāvana circle, to satisfy Kṛṣṇa all such activities are very, very sweet. So sweet they cannot leave that in any way. They can give their life, but they cannot leave that duty.

Mahāprabhu told, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, in the last stage of revealed scriptures it is told like that, a loving life for the Lord of all. So when we're very much particular for others conduct, we lose our time and every. That is rather, reactionary. If we try to find fault with anyone, that fault comes to me, especially when that is in the devotional section. That will come to me. I'm incurring the poison in his body and by connecting me with that that poison is coming to me, so avoid that. Try to find good things in others. That will help you.

There was a system in our Maṭh in the time of Guru Mahārāja. Guru Mahārāja ordered to praise one Vaiṣṇava, ordered one Vaiṣṇava to praise another Vaiṣṇava, especially who does not like him. That means he's forced to find out where is goodness in whom he can't like. He should try to find out good things in him. That will help him. Vaiṣṇave _____ [?] He will search, eliminating the bad things in his conception, he will search after if anything good there. And thereby he'll be benefited, that will come to him. No culture with any bad things anywhere, especially in the devotees. Because the devotees, the surrendered souls, Kṛṣṇa has taken their charge. What is good and bad, that is in the responsibility of Him. That badness, that evil thing in a devotee may disappear any time, or Kṛṣṇa is continuing to serve some purpose there. We're to see like that. Who are under His direct charge, in charge of Kṛṣṇa direct, ananya-bhāk, we must not go to criticise them, we'll be in great difficulty. We're to try to find what is good in them. That will help us a great deal. This is not theoretical thing, all practical things here. Gaura Hari bol.

Rādhānti Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Rādhānti Mahārāja enquires, "What is the relationship between Viśvarūpa and Nityānanda Prabhu?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viśvarūpa and Nityānanda Prabhu? O, Mahāprabhu's elder brother Viśvarūpa, and Nityānanda. Almost of same, there. Śacī Devī saw Viśvarūpa in Nityānanda, sometimes She saw.

Rādhānti Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Viśvarūpa meet Nityānanda He was was absorbed in Him.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. Rūpa and Sanātana, they received śikṣā from Mahāprabhu, and mantram?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mantram they got elsewhere. Rūpa Goswāmī got from Sanātana. And Sanātana got from one Vidyāvācaspati, elder brother of Sārvabhauma, previously. And Mahāprabhu did not interfere with that. And Jīva Goswāmī got from Rūpa. From Sārvabhauma's brother Vidyāvācaspati, from him Sanātana took. From Sanātana, Rūpa, and from Rūpa, Jīva. That is the spiritual hierarchy there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] this mental danger, that is not less important than the physical. The cause and the effect. The cause is more important than the effect. Cause may be easily handled, but effect is inevitable. We can try to change the cause, but to change the effect is not very easy. That wants some special power.

When Kṛṣṇa finished His period of staying in Gurukula, then He proposed, as usual, to give dakṣiṇā to Gurudeva. Then Gurudeva referred to his wife. "Ask Your mother what she wants as dakṣiṇā from You, if anything."

"You have some extraordinary capacity. You are not one with us. We're told like that. I lost one child, one son. If You can give him back, that is my request to You as Guru dakṣiṇā."

And Kṛṣṇa went to search, then that Sankhasura, here, there, and gave his dead son back to the parents. And we're told that is Madhu Maṅgala. Anyhow came to Vṛndāvana, and there and then got her son. His teacher's name was Sandīpanī. To get, to bring back the dead son.

Arjuna once could not keep his promise of protecting a particular child of a brāhmaṇa, and failing which he will enter into the fire. And Arjuna failed, he tried his best to protect by his net of arrows. But as soon as the child was born, and it cried, and disappeared. Arjuna could not keep, then Arjuna going to enter into the fire.

Then Kṛṣṇa came suddenly, "What are you doing My friend?"

"I have failed to keep my promise, so I'm going to enter, to finish me."

"No, no, no. I shall try to get the child back."

He took Arjuna, went to the subterranean region, and showed Arjuna that other boys are also there, and took them. So this is miracle of the all powerful, almighty.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. We also heard that Viṣṇu wanted to have the darśana of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When?

Badrinārāyaṇa: When Arjuna and Kṛṣṇa went to visit Him, They saw that He wanted to have Their darśana so He made that arrangement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Made that arrangement at Bali Mahārāja's place, Pātāla. And there, Viṣṇu told to Bali that, "I shall be with you in the Pātāla. Ananta Deva or some, He wanted to see Kṛṣṇa. It is mentioned there.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Rādhānti Mahārāja enquires that, "The mantram which was given in dream to Keśava Bhāratī Mahārāja by Mahāprabhu, is that the same sannyāsa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not in dream, but before taking sannyāsa mantra He asked Keśava Bhāratī, "I have got a mantram in dream." Mahāprabhu got in dream. "You please see whether it is the same." And Mahāprabhu gave it to the ear of Keśava Bhāratī, and from him He took it again. Mahāprabhu told that, "I have got in dream this mantra of sannyāsa. You please see whether it is there right or wrong." In this way He gave it to the ear of Keśava Bhāratī, and then again from him He took.

Keśava Bhāratī told, "Yes. it is the mantra. Tat tvam asi. You are that."

And Murārī Gupta he made the interpretation in another way. Tat tvam asi. "You are the same, but, you belong to the same. Tat tvam asi. You are not one with Him, but you belong to Him. Tasya tvam asi. You are not Him, but you belong to Him." That is given. It is Veda mantra, it is all right, but we misinterpret that we are Him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

patita-pāvana jagannātha sarvveśvara, vṛndāvana-candra sarvva-rasera ākara

["Lord Kṛṣṇa is the purifier of the fallen souls, the Lord of the universe, the Lord of all beings, the moon of Vṛndāvana and the origin of all rasas."] [The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 92]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's one hundred and twenty Names for the Lord [Śrī-Kṛṣṇa-Viṁśottara-Śata -Nāma], but a speciality in Jagannātha to grace the fallen. With a special will He has gone there, to be kind to the fallen, not to reject. And that is mainly in His prasāda, prapañca jaya. Food is the most original and imperative thing. We cannot live without food, and if food solution is there everything is solved. Sakala prapañca jaya.

[jugala-mūrti, dekhiyā mora, parama-ānanda hoya] prasāda-sevā korite hoya, sakala prapañca jaya

["Beholding the Deity forms of the Divine Couple, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, I feel the greatest joy. By honouring the Lord's prasāda, I conquer over all worldly illusions."]
[The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 37]

The first principle of life of life we can't avoid, that is to take food. And if there is medicine in the food, automatically everything will be solved. So food problem is being solved in Jagannātha. Try to honour the food, prasāda. What you are indenting within you, let that be purified, not anything loan. That is, should not be, whatever we're taking, no loan to the nature. To save us, we're taking food, that is a loan to the nature, and we shall have to pay for that. But by prasāda, if we take, then it's solved, it will solve the whole problems of life. It will gradually draw us towards Jagannātha, instead of taking away, to realise the debt. In other places food means nature's loan, but here prasāda _____ [?] And if that problem is solved, everything will be automatically solved.

na jayed rasanaṁ yāvaj, jitaṁ sarvaṁ jite rase

["Even if a person has conquered every sense other than the tongue, he cannot be said to have subdued his senses until he has conquered the tongue and the sense of taste. The sense of taste is the strongest sense and is the most difficult to control, especially when it becomes more acute as a result of hunger."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.8.21]

All other senses are controlled save and except the tongue, but that will not be reliable, they'll come again. And in the case of tongue, if we leave it, the taste and food, it will increase. So the only way to conquer the tongue is to take prasāda. And if tongue is conquered all other senses are automatically conquered. Tāvaj jitendriyo na syād, vijitānyendriyaḥ pumān, na jayed rasanaṁ yāvaj, jitaṁ sarvaṁ jite rase. In Bhāgavatam.

[varjayitvā tu rasanaṁ, tan nirannasya vardhate]

["By fasting, learned men quickly bring all of the senses except the tongue under control, because by abstaining from eating such men are afflicted with an increased desire to gratify the sense of taste."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.8.20]

The ordinary speculationists, they by fasting try to conquer all senses, by fasting. Bhāgavata says that apparently it may seem to be conquered, but, indriyāṇi jayanty āśu, nirāhārā manīṣiṇaḥ, varjayitvā tu rasanaṁ, but the tongue is not controlled by fasting. It will rather increase, and whenever it has the chance to take food, all indriyā will come back again.

varjayitvā tu rasanaṁ, tan nirannasya vardhate

Opposite, so, tāvaj jitendriyo na syād, vijitānyendriyaḥ pumān. So when the other senses are conquered, an intelligent man must not think that he has conquered his senses, as long as his tongue is not conquered. And jitaṁ sarvaṁ, and when the tongue is conquered, everything is conquered. To conquer the tongue is only prasāda.

[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

yajña-śiṣṭāśinaḥ santo, mucyante sarvva-kilbiṣaiḥ
[bhuñjate te tv aghaṁ pāpā, ye pacanty ātma-kāraṇāt]

["Saintly persons who partake of the remnants of sacrifice become liberated from all the sins arising from the five kinds of violence to living beings. But those who cook for their own consumption, those sinners eat only sin."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.13]

To take the remains of the yajña, that is which is offered to the Lord, and to take the remnants, that is the only way to conquer the tongue. So Jagannātha is there, distributing prasādam graciously, to solve the whole problem of life, that the seed is there to conquer the tongue, prasāda. Patita-pāvana jagannātha sarvveśvara, vṛndāvana-candra sarvva-rasera ākara. All sorts of engagements can be solved by Vṛndāvana Candra. We can get wholesale engagement with Him there in Vṛndāvana, He's there. He can give us full engagement - nowhere else we can have that. So your need is such. Patita-pāvana. To get His grace means to get the key of solution of life. To enter into Vaikuṇṭha, the key is there, the prasāda.

What our Auravinda Locan Prabhu says? Eh? Is it reasonable?

Auravinda Locan: I have no intelligence to say nothing, no brain to say nothing, Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is not the duty of the brain to undertake. Brain cannot catch it, touch it. What to catch, cannot touch it, it is something else. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. Brain also, it is not impossible for the brain to follow. The first principle necessity in life is food, and if that problem is solved then we're saved from reaction. It is not non brainy thing.

_____ [?] says to preserve and to propagate, two natural tendencies in ones life everywhere. First to preserve and then propagate. So first life's necessity is preserve, and that thing must be solved without producing any reaction. For every action there is reaction. I'm devouring him, he'll be entitled to devour me. Action, reaction, your Newton will say.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Patita-pāvana jagannātha sarvveśvara. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And non-civilised persons they can approach Him. In the temple also so many obscene pictures are engraved there - figures. And when Jagannātha comes to see the town in the chariot, so many filthy words are also used by the pāṇḍās we heard. The nasty words they use before Jagannātha. Jagannātha enjoys that. That ādivāsī section in Orissa, in the beginning Jagannātha was in their possession, we're told. Then the king took Him from there and constructed the big temple and installed Him there. The Lord of the ādivāsī - Jagannātha. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāmacandra took the remnants of the Sabari. Devotion is their only wealth, nothing else. No etiquette, no cleanliness, no education, nothing of the kind. Only heart transaction is possible there in the lowest position. Śraddhā. No education, no civilisation, no formality, all these things absent. There also He's taking the remnants the Sabari. Even Rāmacandra Who has come to show the moral ideal, and ideal character.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. No inclination, tendency towards - knowledge is rather egoism, a reactionary thing, it goes on searching everything for his own interest. Knowledge means to be master of many things. To search for mastership of the environment, knowledge means. But that is of no use for the soul.

Sacrifice, the most valuable thing, to learn to give away to the good, not to give away to anything and everything. As much as possible to give to the good, to the highest good. So that requires previous sukṛti we're told. It is not chance coincidence. If we like to say chance coincidence, then we have to go far more below.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

How we can acquire that fortune? Ajñāta-sukṛti. There comes the position of chance coincidence. Ajñāta -sukṛti. To us of course chance coincidence. But the Supreme, His grace, through His agents, causing sukṛti to so many, subconsciously. So much so that we're told that we shall have a birth in India, that is also fortune, to have a birth in India.

bhārata-bhūmite haila manuṣya-janma yāra, janma sārthaka kari' kara para-upakāra

["One who has taken his birth as a human being in the land of India should make his life successful and work for the benefit of all other people [by preaching Nāma-saṅkīrtana, the chanting of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 9.41]

A chosen place. Subash Bose told that, "I love India because India is the favourite place of the Supreme Lord. In other places some agents, few and far between appeared, but in India so many incarnations of the Lord have come. It is a selected place for the Lord to help by the highest thing. So Bhārata."

And _____ [?] told that, "In the whole of the world, India is the worst place. And in India the Hindus are the most nasty. Amongst Hindus the brāhmaṇas are the worst. And among brāhmaṇas the Nanda Kumar, he's the worst of the worst." So he justifies Nanda Kumar's hanging.

And Burke's side, on the other hand, in the British parliament told, "Hastings has murdered Nanda Kumar by the hands of _____ [?] his friend, judge." Nanda Kumar had so much records in his hands, he could expose the Hastings to his friends and other parties. But Hastings made an intrigue, a conspiracy with his friend _____ [?] who was a high court judge, and gave a forgery case against Narida Kumar. And before the original case came to court, Narida Kumar was hanged. So Hastings was saved. So Burke told the British parliament, "Hastings has murdered Nanda Kumar with the hands of _____ [?] his friend."

And in what connection I came to Nanda Kumar? Eh?

Devotees: Bhārata-bhūmite.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: O yes. Nikaulay [?] just came from the opposite side. "The worst people are the brāhmaṇas. Nanda Kumar is the worst, then whole brāhmaṇa section. And then the Hindus, and then India. India is the worst place in the world. And the Hindus are more worse. And then the brāhmaṇas, and then Nanda Kumar." Coming from opposite side, his view, Nikaulay [?] A good prose writer in English.

And on the other side that German scholar. What is his name? He told, "In the treasure in the Upaniṣad there is such a valuable gem, ratna, that the whole world may be fed well, and they will be saved, and no part of that wealth will be spared. It will remain as it is. But in a smallest portion may save the whole world." That was told by some German scholar. What is his name? He's also a famous man.

Devotees: Max Mueller.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Max Mueller. "A negligent part of that wealth what is in the Upaniṣad of India that may save the whole world. And it won't be diminished by any point, it is such an eternal thing." Max Mueller. Upaniṣad.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati
yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

Enquire about that thing, by knowing which you'll know everything, by getting which you'll get everything. The key of the solution of whole life of the whole animation. Know that thing everything will be known. Get that thing everything will be got. Such a thing is there. It is possible. And the analogy, example given in Bhāgavatam [4.31.14]. Just pour water into the root, whole tree is fed. And put food into the stomach, whole body is fed. Something like that. Acyuta is like that. So the justification of that great advice.

"Give up everything, all sorts of duties. Come to Me. You'll be saved."

You'll get the best benefit of your life. It is possible. So so many talks of difference not necessary. Only this advice can solve our whole life, not only all animation, the key to life is this.

And Vedānta is also saying, athāto brahma-jijñāsā. And in the hand of Mahāprabhu when that came, not only intellectual enquiry, but the earnest search of the heart for that thing, and that is Kṛṣṇa. That has captured in our heart, that has got possession in our heart. And we must run towards Him, the great beloved, lover. He's not to give the solution of our intellect, but to solve our heart. Heart's hankering may be solved. He's such. Not only giving satisfaction to the brain, or our searching mentality, but it will give, supply the food of your heart forever. The wholesale satisfaction.

[From Vaiṣṇava-padāvali - Anthology of Vaiṣṇava Songs, by Jñāna Dāsa]

"Every atom of your life will have its solution and the corresponding embrace of the other side. Every atom in your body is crying for satisfaction, and that is only possible in Kṛṣṇa consciousness." Mahāprabhu told. "Not only you, your mind, or your feeling, every atom of you, and every atom of this world is only crying earnestly to have its satisfaction that can be had with Him. It is such, such thing is there." Mahāprabhu told. "It is not Brahman, neither Paramātmā, not ordinary conception of Godhead as Nārāyaṇa, but only Kṛṣṇa consciousness can supply food to every atom of you, to the fullest satisfaction."

This proposal, this idea, this discovery, is in our front. Then the proposal of the exhaustive solution for all of us, utmost solution. Prati aṅga lāgi kānde, prati aṅga mora. The devotee felt that, "Every atom of my body is only crying to be united with the corresponding atom of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa. He's such, He's so dear and so near, and so much necessity I have got with Him. It is not luxury. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not a luxury that like a dress, like a fashion to satisfy a particular group, it is not that. The innermost need of all of the whole stuff within us."

[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

In Gītā where so many different classes of religious conceptions have been dealt - Gītā is famous for its broad view giving position to so many classes of sādhana, and there at the topmost place this śloka.

"Give up all duties I have told so far. And the sum and substance is this. Come to Me and you'll have your fullest satisfaction. The conclusion is this, winding up everything to that position. Give up everything, come to Me. All are provisional by gradual process, but the ultimate, absolute position is such on the whole. Give up everything, come to Me. I shall embrace you. You won't have any loss in life."

It is in Gītā. And Bhāgavatam in details, it is giving the description of that - how it is so, and what are the conditions of those that come in closer connection with Kṛṣṇa. How they live, how they go on in their life.

catur-vidhā bhajante māṁ, janāḥ sukṛtino 'rjuna ārto jijñāsur arthārthī, jñānī ca bharatarṣabha teṣāṁ jñānī nitya-yukta, eka-bhaktir viśiṣyate
[priyo hi jñānino 'ty-artham, ahaṁ sa ca mama priyaḥ]

["O Arjuna, best of the Bhāratas, four types of pious persons worship Me: the afflicted, the seeker of knowledge, the seeker of worldly or other-worldly enjoyment, and the pure-hearted seer of the soul. After attaining sufficient devotional merit (sukṛti), they engage in My pure devotional service."] ["Among these four types of devotees, the enlightened soul, who is My exclusive devotee and whose consciousness is fully absorbed in Me, is the best of all. Because I in My form of Śyāmasundara am very dear to this sage, he is also dear to Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.16-7]

Those that come have different ulterior object. But jñānī has got some little substantial position, but,

śraddhāvān [bhajate yo māṁ, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ]

["Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all their heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47]

"But such jñānīs are very rarely found who come to realise ultimately that I am everything. When they come in crores of a jñānī, one comes to understand I am everything, and becomes My devotee."

Anurādhā: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When I began to go to Gauḍīya Maṭh in the beginning, in an out-house room, there was the Mūrti of Mahāprabhu. I asked, This Mūrti is made of which, earth, or wood, or what?

The person I met he told me, "He's Mahāprabhu Himself. Don't try to see wood or earth or anything. Mahāprabhu Himself is there."

Mahāprabhu Himself is here?

"Yes."

I questioned then, "Why your Guru Mahārāja, who is supposed to be the greatest devotee, why he's in the upstairs in another room? If Mahāprabhu Himself would have been present here, then who is the highest devotee amongst you, he should have stayed just in His side, in the side of Mahāprabhu. He's staying upstairs in another separate room, and this is in the out-room, near the street, where everyone can see Him easily, He's placed there. Why not your Guru Mahārāja is here by his side, if He's Mahāprabhu Himself, not wooden, not earthen?

Then the answer came that, "He's also in the side of Mahāprabhu in his heart, and that is the higher conception, and more real conception of Mahāprabhu there. Mahāprabhu's presence is here also, and also in his heart. And that is the higher conception of Mahāprabhu, than this conception of Mahāprabhu." He told something like that. "He's always enjoying the presence of Mahāprabhu in his heart, as a higher type."

I tried to understand. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness, God consciousness, is like that. Nearer cinmaya, Who is conscious, spiritual. And that is also, that connection has come to this mundane plane of our sense experience. He has come down. It is not to be neglected. But this conception, this presence of Him is considered to be the low order. Arcayam eva haraye. Arcā-Mūrti. He should not be reckoned as idol, it is also His presence, but in a gross way.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

["A devotee who faithfully worships the Deity, but does not properly respect the Vaiṣṇavas or the people in general is called a materialistic devotee, and is considered to be in the lowest position of devotional service."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.47]

When we do not learn to appreciate the presence of Lord in the heart of the devotee, only confined to such symbols, connected with God, we're in the lowest class. But when we can trace the existence of God in the heart of the devotees our position becomes higher, we go to nearer realisation of Godhead.

Why the devotee as a man he's captured by particular idea? That God idea, captured by God idea, and doing according to that. Just as iron is captured by the fire, so his heart is coloured with God consciousness, and all his activities are being regulated by that conception. What is that thing? More subtle, and more nearer approach to the reality, or consciousness, spirit, that controlling agency.

Then, when you can find His presence everywhere, that is again higher conception of Him. Without the outward show of the world experienced through our senses. Our deeper part can come in connection with the inner part of the outside. What we say it is not that, but something else within. Whatever we say is that thing, and not that thing.

Einstein. Einstein says, "If we're to mention a particular thing, that thing and not that thing."

Ha, ha. It is that thing. A is A, plus not A. That which does not come to our experience, it is on the background there. So many possibilities, past, future. A thing in the present is not the full thing. It's past, it's future, and it's background is there.

yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati
[tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati]

["For one who sees Me in everything and sees the whole creation in Me alone, I am never unseen for him, and he is never unwitnessed by Me - he never fails in thinking of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

"Who can see, trace Me everywhere, and everything in Me."

Deeper vision, not only superficial vision. Not only eye or ear experience. Not only mental experience; mind is also limited to our own separate interest. Crossing that, beyond that, to see things in their own position, independent of my interest. In the interest of the whole; as much as we can conceive. So learn to see things and the deepest connection of the centre, Who is harmonizing all in, neha nānāsti kiṁcana.

[manasaivedam āptavyaṁ, neha nānāsti kiṁcana / mṛtyo sa mṛtyuṁ gacchati, ya iha nāneva paśyati]

[By means of the mind [purified by yoga] may this be understood: that there is no difference whatsoever between the Lord when He descends to this world [and the Lord in His transcendental abode, Vaikuṇṭha]. From death to death goes he who looks upon the Avatāras of the Lord as different [from the Lord in Vaikuṇṭha]. [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, part 4, mantra 11]

In the Upaniṣads it is said, "Don't see that everything, so many things are all independent. No. Interconnected, controlled, harmonised - try to see things like that, that will be proper vision. Neha nānāsti kiṁcana."

Sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ brahma. ["Everything is one, Brahman."] Whatever you see, many variegated things, that is connected with one. All those parts connected in such a very big thing, a part of the big thing. Try to see it like that. Brahman. Backed by the infinite. In the background of everything there is infinite, try to find, see like that. Try to have deeper vision, deeper estimation. Only suffering from experience of surface, and not the whole surface, a part of the surface. Measured by your eye, or your ear, or your touch, or something, you want to. That is frustration, that is misconception, that is deception. If you see only the partial, outer part of things, disconnected with the deeper position, the background; then you're deceived - it is not that. Try to see the deeper connection on which they are sitting. It is not unreasonable. See in connection of the whole, everything is interconnected, and controlled by some unseeing force.

So, as the material things, so we can consider about the consciousness, the knowledge also like that. Partial representation of knowledge of this thing, that thing, that thing, that is also connected by a common centre. And we also cannot eliminate the plane of affection, love. That also we find here, there, scattered in different way. From mother to child, father to child, brother to brother, husband-wife, different kind. And that is also is not so many scattered things like so many sands. There is unity and quality, and the background, where from they're coming away. In this way, we're to trace the causal existence of everything, the background, and the thing who really harmonising all these scattered experiences, what is that?

tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati

"One whose consciousness has raised to such a standard that he can see the background of everything as one. From one centre all these things are being handled, and controlled, managed. Wherever he goes he's always with My connection. I'm not lost in him."

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
[bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

In Bhāgavatam more clear. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ. One who can see everywhere the connection of the centre, the background. And ātmanaḥ, and what is that reflection to him also. He himself also counted in his position. The centre and the object of experience, and also his own connection in that system, that whole. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad. See anything, and see the cause, the connection, central position, background. And also his own relation in that position. Three things: any particular experience - and the deepest root - and also the seers connection, the man who is having experience, his connection in that respect. Three things, accordingly.

In accordance to his position with the centre. And how he will be adjusted with that thing in consideration of his relation to the centre. Everything will be considered in relation with the centre, not independent transaction with part and part. From part to this whole, and from whole to this part, the seer, what will be my position to this part. It must be calculated through the centre and that will be real. That sanction from the centre, what is the relation. And the independent relation - I and he - that is māyā, that won't stay, that is unreal. But if it comes to the centre it will be real, we won't be frustrated, not disappointed. That sort of measurement, estimation, will be real estimation. Otherwise from part to part relationship, that is unstable, unreliable, and can't stand. But the connection comes through the centre, it is substantial, it is real, it won't frustrated us.

Darśana, śāstra darśana, philosophy means in India, in Sanskrit, darśana. Learn to see, learn to experience things, what is what. Your superficial estimation is not the whole thing. Learn to see things, to know things, sambandha jñāna, what is your position in the environment, and what is the environment real. Only your eye experience, ear experience, etc., or something more in the background? And how that can be understood, by only your reason? No, all these are negative. Your reason is futile to understand the infinite.

Then, how it can be known? That infinite - He Himself - He's not an object of your experience. He's far, far above. So He has got His own responsibility: to make you know about His position as the controller of the whole. And His agents, and His announcement, is also sent to you, to make you understand that where from your creation, your sustenance, and your destruction, is being controlled. Try to meet with Him, and try to make some understanding with the superior power about your own living.

Athāto brahma-jijñāsā. Enquire about the place where you are living, enquire. And the enquiry must be substantial, not superficial, must be real. Where you are enquire your environment, and not superficially, but with real attention to understand where you are. Who are above you, who are lower than you - lower than, higher than you - study all these things. That will be really beneficial to your own interest. Otherwise you'll do something and you'll see that has gone away somewhere else. Your treachery to your own self. The ways you are living that is a treacherous life to ones own self. Understand things outside, what is what, and then live.

So ordinary persons they cannot give up their lively duties, necessities. So the higher agents they mix in their daily duty something about, of the above truth - varṇāśrama dharma. In daily life, so many duties we're to discharge, so many necessities we're to undergo; and that is mixed within that varṇāśrama. Then, giving up that, exclusive enquiry about the environment, and ones own self - that is jñāna. And then, in the third plane, the practical life in connection with that infinite, it is also possible. Going on duty as we do here in our superficial necessity, in obedience to our superficial necessity.

So in the connection of our infinite, there is also such a life, so many duties, and that is mixed with that central interest, and your deepest interest. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. Going on with duties, connecting with the centre, it is in the eternal position, no death can remove that thing. In the connection with the centre when we're doing some duty, no death can challenge that eternal conduct. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. In other words, the plane of service, and the plane of exploitation or enjoyment, and that is dedication. And in the middle then renunciation, abscissa, a no man's land, the border of the two planes, Brahman and Virajā. This is long and short. And then in details we're to study all these things, so many things. Ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, anartha-nivṛttiḥ.

[ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ
athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati
sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ]

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

The five stages, [śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā, sādhana-daśā, āpana-daśā, prapanna-daśā] Śravaṇa-daśā in the stage of enquiry. Then the stage of admission. And the stage of temporary duty. And then to be established in ones own post of service. And then to be harmonised totally with the centre. Five stages.

And again subdivided. Śraddhā, sādhu saṅga. First, such sort of peep of enquiry into the eternal life, śraddhā. Then our association with those experts of that plane, sādhu saṅga. Then, what is recommended by him to go on doing those things, bhajana-kriyā. Then undesirable things are eliminated fully [anartha- nivṛttiḥ]. Then we get our continued position of the divine life [niṣṭhā]. Then we experience the real attraction, worth and attraction for that sort of spiritual life [ruci]. Then so many symptoms come down of divine life in our own existence [āsakti, bhāva]. Then gradually we merge into the interest of God and find our true self there in His relationship only [prema]. So subdivisions are there also.

["Śraddhā is confident, firm faith that by rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa one automatically performs all subsidiary activities. Such faith is favourable to the discharge of devotional service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

Śraddhā, faith. Faith is so real that Christ left his, this life, finished this life playfully. Forgetfulness of the interest of this life so totally. So faith is so substantial. Socrates also gave his life for faith also. Faith is so substantial thing than our fleeting desires in lower life. So faith, ādau śraddhā.

'śraddhā'-śabde — viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

We're running towards plurality; this, that, so many thousands things, not necessary. Engage yourself with one, and that will be sufficient. Connect yourself with one, and no running hither, thither to connect with this thing, that thing, A,B,C,D, etc. One is sufficient. What is that? Connect with the centre. Tad vijijñāsa. The centre of all knowledge, try to find.

Just as so many in mathematics, so many mathematics may be finished, but the law of the mathematics, to understand the law of the mathematics, particular. Either addition, or subtraction, or division, all these things, the law to get. And so many sums are done if we get the law. The general thing, then we pull on our own hand. So try to get at the general thing.

There is one thing if you get that you have got everything. Though apparently impossible it is possible. And try to connect yourself with that sort of understanding. This is śraddhā. All controlling point, centre, connect with that. Then you'll be able to know everything. Go to the higher office and from there you can gather everything of the branch offices. So like that, enquire about that thing, if you get the information from there then you get information from all different sub-offices, branches. All the branches are controlling centre, connect yourself with that. Don't run hither, thither everywhere.

Yasmin vijñāte. By knowing Him you can know everything, by obtaining Him you can obtain everything. Go to the central knowledge. That is the direction proper. And it is possible. Who thinks it is possible, and engages Himself in that campaign, he's śraddhāvān, he has got faith.

Ādau śraddhā. And then, only to satisfy our intellect, only inquisitive satisfying, no. The practical life, the whole life, whole practical life which you find at present, and which you do not find your prospect. The prospect of your future life. The substance, not imagination, but substantial, practical life, you will find there also.

And Mahāprabhu came to give not only theoretical solution will help you, but your whole practical life is also benefited by that. Knowing, enquiring, understanding, to every point. Your practical life to every point will find fullest satisfaction if you enquire in the background of your past, present, future life, understand. You'll be benefited to every part, every detail of your life's necessity. All the particles of your necessity that you are not conscious of at present, all fullest satisfaction, engagement they will have. And you'll feel you are becoming, drawing more satisfaction than ever you can imagine. All the atoms of your body, as if they're getting their fulfilment in your duty in that plane. Fullest satisfaction beyond imagination.

Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Not only you'll feel you're in connection with an ocean of joy, but at every step you'll find the fullest enjoyment, as if. Ever new, every moment ever new. Fulfilment of life you'll have to experience, every moment, new fulfilment. Prati- padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ. Beyond your estimation. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ. And by that fulfilment, that enjoyment, you won't be loser, you won't be responsible for any reaction. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ. You will feel you are being purified every moment. By enjoyment here, we are im - purified, reaction. But in that process, in connection with the infinite whatever satisfaction, enjoyment you will experience, though ever new at every step, but won't draw any reaction. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ. A wholesale purification you will feel when you will do that, you will feel that ecstasy done by your dedication. Dedication, ecstasy, satisfaction, is of such that it will give you enjoyment but won't mix with dirt, but purify. More you will enjoy, more you will be purified. It is so peculiar, because the basis is dedication, and not exploitation. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ. Paraṁ vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam.

So our cultivation of the Kṛṣṇa consciousness in its highest stage is such. More you enjoy, more you are purified. Gaura Hari bol. Such a program Mahāprabhu has recommended to us from Bhāgavatam - the last production of revelation, revealed truth, from that great exponent Vedavyāsa.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.
So far today. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Prabhupāda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...with everything if we can understand this principle of life. Everything enjoyed by Him, and it is our duty to taste what He has already enjoyed - to taste that thing in that spirit. Only if we can practice ourselves in this sort of habit we can conquer the whole illusion. Subservient, all duty should be done subservient in the spirit after the centre has used it according to His own whim. The Autocrat He has chalked the line, and we're only following that path. If we don't do, if we stand still, that is also offence. And if we go otherwise that is also offence. We must follow the footsteps of that Autocrat. That is the principle in every way of our life, to follow the footsteps of the Autocrat, in a serving mood. That is the royal road.

All your illusions will be conquered if we only try to accept this principle of life _____ [?]
If we don't do that, that is also offence. And do otherwise, that is also offence. This law is above all law, the most universal law. Follow His footsteps, faithfully. No other law possible, because He's Autocrat, and won't be loser because He's sweet. He's Autocrat but He's sweet. So you will also get sweetness, fulfilment there, following His footsteps, footsteps of that Autocrat, beauty. Beauty is Autocrat. Sweetness is Autocrat. Love is Autocrat. Beyond all law. And we're required, in a dynamic character, to follow that footstep everywhere, that is the thing.

Ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi. This is the summary of all serving principle coming from the mouth of Uddhava, who is considered to be the greatest devotee, according to the calculation of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself.

Of course that Uddhava again admires the gopīs, their firm position. That is more risky. Their opposition to the sweetness also becomes service of such position. Servants crossing the whims of master. Service, serving principle has got merit to such stage also. The nearness, nearness, can reach such a stage that even Autocrat comes down in His part. So risky service is possible.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and no charm for the temptation what we find around us. Our far sightedness will say to us, don't follow these trifling things, phenomenal proposals. Not reliable, all treacherous. Now giving something, and then that black marketing life, they'll try to get you more than the real price, with some interest. That will be realised from you. Now giving proposal of some satisfaction. Suppose one percent they give, lending you, and with interest ten percent they'll take from you. Don't allow yourself to be captivated by those outward, treacherous shows and charms. So go take prasādam, and everything should be done with that idea, that will relieve us.

Whatever, the dress, or the food, whatever we do we're doing as if sanctioned by Him, following His footsteps. Always with that consciousness we shall do anything and everything, with God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa conception of God is Beauty and Autocrat. So whatever we shall do we shall do with the help of - in our heart, the Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is required. Beyond our expectation the help will come to us. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Not doing anything is bad, but do in the proper attitude, proper mood. That is lacking. Whatever you do, do in a proper way. In every step, in a bigger way, in the highest sense. And the bigger means the propounder of law, according to His will, that Autocrat, Kṛṣṇa. Do with Kṛṣṇa consciousness whatever you do, that is sum and substance of life, go on with Kṛṣṇa consciousness at every step. Ki bhojane ki śayane kibā jāgaraṇe, aharniśa cinta kṛṣṇa balaha badane.

Go on eating, sleeping, and doing anything else, but always at heart have the association of Kṛṣṇa. Go on, whatever you do does not matter but do it with Kṛṣṇa connection. Sum total is this, long and short is this.

...was the author of a book named Critique [?] by Nagaraj Sharma. He criticised the intellectuals, like Radhakrishna, Gurendas Gupta, who wrote books about Indian philosophy, and also a comparative study in the religious world. His objection that they could not approach the eastern philosophy, in eastern method. But those two approached, though Indian, they approached Indian philosophy by western methods. That is intellectualism. Indian philosophies nature, the method of dealing, is revolutionary. And he has quoted from Veda, Bhāgavata, Gītā, as we do, generally. The approach must be from the objective towards subjective, and in that mood. Otherwise it is all a study of the reflection, nothing of the substance, shadow, dealings of the shadow. And thinking that by getting the shadow we've got the substance, that is self deception.

The progress not upwards, but progress comes from upper to downwards. Not in the empirical method. Descending method not ascending method. They must improve their negative character so that the positive may come there easily. Pure negative character, empty, and aspiration for the fulfilment from high.

Praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā. Praṅipāta, that means taking leave from all aspirations of mundane character. I have no ambition of any mundane achievement, I have finished them. I'm disgusted with mundane achievement, so I've come to search something divine, if it is there. The first attitude. Then paripraśna, enquiry is there, but not in the line of tarka, that is to establish himself. What is past, to take the past results and to try to put them against the coming thing. Paripraśna. Very earnest type of hearing with wholesale at his command to utilise. And the main thing is sevā, service. I want to live for Him. I'm worthless. If I can be utilised by Him I'm searching for that. I have no value, so far I've had experience of me. I have finished my life here, prospect is finished here, this is all worthless living. If life is worth living I come to understand that if it can be utilised by the higher agents. Sevā.

And the acceptance will come from that side, that is progress. It does not depend on me. May or may not accept me, may or may not give me admission. It depends on Him. Only in my side, surrender, degree of surrender. And not I'm a subject and as a master I'm travelling over the soil.

This is all offence, and also stands as an obstacle on my real progress. I'm not going to be a master of any particular land or plane of life. Service, servant, slave kind of servant, not that I'm giving some service and drawing some salary, equal position, I'm selling my energy. Service means not selling my energy to get some remuneration, but the service of a slave. I want to put my ego into fire. The ego is the root cause of all disturbances in my life. So it must be reduced to ashes and a new life will begin. In the slave conference they will try to search for some right in their dealings with the master position. This is a laughing thing, ridiculous. Especially Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no law, all autocracy, no law. But that is more difficult to attain, so only the service. Service also of this kind, that the result of the service I won't get, no salary of any kind. It will go to my Master. Eternal slave, nitya-dāsa.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya — kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa', [kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' 'bhedābheda-prakāśa' sūryāṁśa-kiraṇa, yaiche agni-jvālā-caya, svābhāvika kṛṣṇera tina-prakāra 'śakti' haya]

["It is the living entity's constitutional position to be an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa because he is the marginal energy of Kṛṣṇa and a manifestation simultaneously one with and different from the Lord, like a molecular particle of sunshine or fire. Kṛṣṇa has three varieties of energy."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108-109]

The eternal slave, not that by slavery I shall get something and lead a life of independence. As much as I shall be accepted as a good slave - slave means, not owner of anything, ownership. I'm eager to find that I've got no ownership anywhere, partnership, ownership. The demand of ownership, they're resting, standing of ones ownership, that is the greatest enemy to him. So those things cannot be discussed or cannot be tried, keeping ones ownership. I shall be gainer of something, some knowledge, or some substance. The ownership should be given past. And whatever I hear from the sādhus, whatever I shall get, that goes to my Master. With that nature it becomes bhakti.

Ādau cārpita paścād kriyeta [Śrīdhara Swāmī]
Iti puṁsārpitā viṣṇau, bhaktiś cen nava-lakṣaṇā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.24]
All these nine processes may be reckoned as bhakti when they'll be of such qualification.
Ādau cārpita paścād kriyeta. The benefit I shall derive from the discussion, that won't come to me, that will go to my Master. This is something imaginary to us, but it should be the basis of our enquiry. Otherwise we shall travel in the mundane world of shadow without any touch of the reality. Our Guru Mahārāja laid stress so much that he did not like that one will take the Name only. But he wanted that they may partake in the service. Serving attitude must be cultivated within us.

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ]
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

["Because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

Without sevonmukhatā, without self dissolution - the process is to dissolve our ego, and it is there. Not that we shall acquire, but we shall dissolve our ego. And then the flow will come from that side. And we're dependent, fully dependent. It will come from there. We have nothing to do, only to demand our want. I'm needy, I'm the worst needy, extremely needy. That should be - we shall try to accept and know. That is the novelty of the special teaching of our Guru Mahārāja in this age. The service, that is the exploitation and that dedication, and it will be attracted to you, and progress by His grace, not by your energy. You negativefy yourself. You are possessed by the ghost. The ghost must be driven out, then the normal condition will come. Anyābhilāṣitā, karma, jñāna.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

Fleeting desires, and the permanent elevation nature, and then that we shall know anything and everything. To be masters of everything we shall become, no other. This line of attempt is suicidal. I shall know, I shall make progress in my knowing capacity and know things, understand things. That is all a waste of energy. Only try to drive away the ghost, the ego of different shades. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, yoga, etc. In other words, to make yourself a lord. That lording it over tendency, that must be banished. What is necessary is that, and that will come automatically.

Automatically, fully, it is dependent on Him. This sort of self abnegation, and the preparedness for the service. Whether He'll select me as servant or not that depends on Him. Whether I shall be given a visa or not that depends on their sweet will. I have nothing to do, only I can try to make myself fit. That is, I'm the worst of all. I'm the most needy and worst of all. I'm haunted by so many undesirable things, so I'm not worthy. I'm poorest of the poor, needy of all needy. The negative side, that is our normal position as we are in this organic whole. Keśāgra-śata-bhāgasya. Śatadhā kalpitasya ca.

jīvaḥ sūkṣma-svarūpo 'yaṁ, saṅkhyātīto hi cit-kaṇaḥ]

["There are innumerable particles of spiritual atoms, which are measured as one ten-thousandth of the upper portion of the hair."] [From Bhagavad-gītā As It Is, 2.17, purport]

[bālāgra-śata bhāgasya śatadhā kalpitasya ca, bhāgo jīvaḥ sa vijñeyaḥ sa cānantyāya kalpate]

["If we divide the tip of a hair into one hundred parts and then take one part and divide this into another one hundred parts, that ten-thousandth part is the dimension of the living entity."]
[Śvetaśvatara-Upaniṣad, 5.9] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 10.8]

Hair breadth, and that divided into a hundred pieces, that hair breadth that is a very imaginary thing.

Keśāgra-śata-bhāgasya. Śatadhā kalpitasya ca, bhāgo jīvaḥ. Your position is something like this. The hair and it's breadth that can be divided into hundred, and one part again divided into hundred. You may think your position like that, in this universe. So don't go to want to lord it over - for that you're suffering. Give up that current forever. Come to normal - and that normal, and again there you'll find that you're nowhere, you're helpless. Then help from other side, and not hypocritically, genuine, sincerely, you'll find you're helpless. In the name of bhakti I shall gather some intellectualism, or some mystic power, all these are misguiding us. If we can trace any progress then we're nowhere. These things not trustworthy in the ordinary sense.

Two brahmacārīs, two or three brahmacārīs wanted to say something to our Guru Mahārāja, but they're hesitating.

Guru Mahārāja he asked them, reading their attitude, "You want to say something to me, but you hesitate to do so?"

"Yes."

"Yes, you say what you have to say, say it to me."

"So long we have joined the Mission, more than twelve years, but we don't find any progress in us. That we came to report to you."

"Do you say that rightly, sincerely? Sincerely you say that you have no progress for ten years or twelve years?"

"Yes, of course we feel that we say it sincerely."

"It is all right. Go."

What should we understand from this? This is very difficult. After ten years service in the Mission they say that "I've got nothing."

"But do you say that truly?"

"It is all right. Go."

What benefit we can get, understand from this? That you are saved from that disease that "I get something. I have got something in my possession." That is mania. Nothing can be got here from our position. Everything in His control to look out that. I have got nothing. But still I'm spending so many years here. Now also without any remuneration we're giving our energy but do not get anything. How? Very peculiar. Selflessly working, without any benefit you're working. Provisional, a good position. So I assure you are well, you're healthy, no disease, you are in health. You're working but getting nothing. Still you're giving your service but you don't get anything. You are in good position, you are healthy. I have got something, that is dangerous."

Work, do, but no remuneration in return. Can you conceive that? How? The real progress in that line, to conquer the Organic Whole Autocrat. The nature of progress is of that kind. So it is not within the jurisdiction of our Satanic intellect. Our intellect means Satanic, oppositionist to God. Always we're so many Satans. We want to live in competition with God. To get something in possession either in intellect or in body, a separate god we want to be here, demigods.

Praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevayā, only service. And what we want, what we're given, more tendency to serve. 'dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana. What is prema? What is love? That sacrifice, that service is rewarded by more and intense hankering for service, self giving. That is the remuneration, it will be increased. To give us for the Whole, that will be more and more increased. As you will serve your serving tendency will be increased. The appreciation of slavery will be increased. If you work as a slave then what sort of remuneration you'll get? The appreciation of slavery, that will be more, more intense. At His disposal. Self forgetfulness to the totality, a dynamic self forgetfulness, self forgetfulness in dynamic character. Then you'll be able to feel the flow of the deepest plane of the Whole. And our ego cannot allow us to go to the deepest plane, fundamental plane of flow of energy. We'll be so subtle that we can go, we can reach, nothing can oppose us, we can reach the fundamental flow. Self forgetfulness will be such, of dynamic character. If we want to measure our progress - nothing.

vicakṣaṇa kari', dekhite cāhile haya, haya ākhi-agocara

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "Suddenly a flash came, but when I tried to see that, it disappeared. It was withdrawn."]

If particularly we want look at my progress then nothing. Nothing comes in our vision whenever we're particular to feel what is the consequence of my energising in this life. So long I'm engaged with a particular thing, what is the acquisition? If you want to look at that, that is finished. Haya ākhi-agocara. He loves to come as His own accord, not attracted by any qualification of anybody. No qualification is sufficient for Him, in His standard. So die, die a real death, not a fashion, not imitation, not a fashion, you're really to die. No charm in the environment where I live, dissatisfaction. Only dissatisfaction and searching. No friendship with any environment, but only with the sādhu, the agent of the deeper plane who will speak like this.

"We have nothing. We're property, we'll be utilised in any way we like. Come to this dignified nobleness of your existence, you do not want anything. But you want to be utilised by the high, if possible, but unfit. That will appear, the reaction of our sinful life."

Still, the process is recommended for us, the path, śraddhā. What is śraddhā? I'm incomplete. The fulfilment in the hand of the Absolute. That is śraddhā. Everything in the hand of the Absolute. I'm nowhere, helpless, then searching for real shelter, sincere searching of a shelter. All hypocritical environment. A real shelter I want, shelter-less, shelter.

'śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

["By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, all subsidiary activities are automatically performed. Śraddhā means viśvāsa, faith, sudṛḍha, very firm and strong, unflinching faith. Faith in sādhu-śāstra-guru, faith in Kṛṣṇa. This is faith. If someone develops Kṛṣṇa bhakti, all their activities are finished, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya. Nothing is left out if you have faith."]

I have nothing to attract things towards me, so I must not live a hypocritical life. No qualification to attract anyone towards us. So, sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya. Wholesale I'm to be utilised, if possible, my energy may be wholesale thrown at the disposal of someone who can utilise if possible. This negative point, if it's possible to be utilised by some wonderful person, let him try. I fully disown me. 'Sraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe. This is faith, proper faith.

To get out from the clutches of Satan. Satan, self advertising, self aggrandising energy, anti God. That self, that is ego, separatism, independent life encouraging Satan. So Satanism must be fully dissolved, disassociated, that 'I'm something.' I'm nothing. I may be utilised, by someone, some miraculous person. Some miracle force may utilise me. So not to seek something. Separate interest means to surrender to Satan, anti God.

So, 'śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya.

Everything is done if I can submit to the Central Power, or to the Absolute. Faith means this, faith, this is called faith. By faith we can make progress towards truth, and not by - that cannot be measured by any other means. Eye, or nose, or intellect, or reason, nothing can measure that, only faith.

Are we ready to depend on faith? "O, this is superstition." In the beginning we shall drive it out, as if. "This is superstition. What is faith? Not something tangible." Our civilisation will say, "We're required to reduce to the nothing, no worth. This cannot have any good in it. All superstition, a blind, worst type of superstition, dependence on others. Independent."

So faith is such, if we have nothing. We can be utilised in our proper stage, but we're far, far, from that sort of position on the negative side progress. Ādau śraddhā, this is the foundation, śraddhā, tataḥ sādhu- saṅga, then it will be possible to select the agents. In that attitude we can select the agents of the divinity of that type. There are different types of agents from different conceptions of so called religion. According to our faith we shall select our good well-wishers, agents. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]. According to the classification of your faith you'll make progress that side. So 'śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa, the deep confidence in the Central Absolute. And your association, your selection of the agent of the source that through whom it is coming to your help, it depends on that, your śraddhā. Birds of the same feather flock together. So you're to recognise the feather and then you'll associate with them, the faith. So sādhu-saṅga, tataḥ, bhajana-kriyā, and then the action will begin. By his association, something, he'll be your teacher, you'll be student and you'll learn.

And now the question is, what sort of faith? In mainly the plane of exploitation, renunciation, and dedication, service. So faith in exploitation may be easily eliminated, exploitation. Suffering from so many reaction we may be disgusted with this exploiting, elevationist life, easily.

But the temptation of complete retirement in the renunciation school, that is on our front. Many will flock there. "O, complete retirement. This world is not worth living for, we want retirement from here permanently." Then Buddha, Śaṅkara, and others will come, their agents will come and take you to that eternal plane.

Then there is plane of a dedicated life. "I want to live, but not to absorb, not to exploit. Exploit means to give pain to others. But I want to live without giving any pain to others, without reaction." Then the question will come "Then you can try to give yourself to others. Without taking you'll try to give. And that will also not be safe until it has got connection with the central organisation who has designed and destined everything. The designer and destiner of everything, the connection with Him, it will become something substantial. Otherwise all no position at all, no position."

In this way if we're carried with that designer and destiner, in the conception of autocracy as Kṛṣṇa, then we shall see gradually only love and affection and beauty, that can be autocrat, nothing else. Charmer, Who can charm, by His beauty, by His behaviour, any way, He can only be autocrat permanently. The affection, love, beauty, harmony, that can be autocrat. If we can find in that way we shall try to go that way. But process of going it depends on Him. Selection will come from that side. We're nowhere, we're helpless. We're to increase our helplessness, so much so that the agents will be attracted, and they will come to recommend us. And there will be something. Anyhow we'll be conscious that we cannot be masters of the land. We're fully dependent. If anything is given to us for food we can take, otherwise not. Such sort of life is desirable, so much giving. Then we're given hope that there is such.

Brahma-saṁhitā [verse 56] will come and say, "The land is such, the bhūmi, that is cintāmaṇi. The vṛkṣa, the trees are kalpa-taru. And their going means dancing. Their talking means singing."

Such a land is there. And according to your surrender you may be accepted, recruited for that plane of life. And that sort of sacrifice, a peculiar unconditional sacrifice, that does not come with any calculation. Your fate is not within calculation, it will be merged in the infinite unknown infinite. In the whimsical place of that beautiful land. So be prepared for extreme sacrifice and self abnegation. And that is done through service, serving attitude, increasing serving attitude. Self giving, not that getting something, some ambitious life, some ambitious ideal, intellectually. Intellectually to be introduced with some ambitious life that will attract us - no. Go and try to give yourself. Without that the Name, taking this transcendental sound which has been given to us to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Try to adjust yourself only through the sound, subtle-most thing of this plane. And through that you go on cultivating. But that also will be futile if not in serving attitude. The subtle-most thing, sound, in this gross world, and we're recommended to make all in all the sound the subtle-most thing here. And through that to approach towards divinity, towards that so-called nothing to us at present, which is everything. Accept the subtle-most thing. But that will be also nothing if not the very life is present there. What is that? Self giving.

So one learn to give yourself, that learn to die, so-called death, embrace. Every second embrace death. In this world also, in political or social, or anything, who wants to do, at the cost of life, everything, every duty, every step, he's ready to give up his life to do that. Do or die. If one accepts such principle of life he's sure to progress. And his progress will be very, very intense. Do or die. If with such energy at every point ready to do anything at the cost of his life, with this spirit, then he'll be a great success.

Here also. So do or die, so invite death at every point of your life when you are approaching that spiritual substance, high spiritual life. Most intense desire to give yourself. Do or die. At every point you give your life the guarantee, 'I shall get that or I shall die.' With this spirit you approach the sound, giving yourself. No giving, no getting. If you want to give of such intensified nature you'll be adored as a bona fide candidate of that world. So self giving, service means self giving, self dedication.

That should be our attitude to approach that plane, so that all the coatings of ego will vanish one by one, and the genuine thing from within will come and it will select it's own soil. 'This is my home.' What is necessary that foreign things, so many covers have come and are deviating us from different directions. Our own right we have far, far away from our own. That svarūpa, that noble self of a servant in the highest plane of the whole organism. The Beautiful is playing, dancing in His own sweetness, affection.

And we can reach there following that sort of course, do or die at every moment, do or die. Through self giving we can acquire our fortune. And not sitting in one place and collecting information of different places and to try what utility we can get, what benefit we can derive from that information. As a master sitting in my room in my chair I'm gathering information of different type what may be utilised in my case in this way. That is of so-called lower type.

Ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā means this, to go with every point with our life in our fist, every point we can finish it, give it away. Do or die. Anartha- nivṛttiḥ syāt. And do or die not in the physical sense. Of course what I say that is the internal sense. Bhajana-kriyā, this is bhajana-kriyā, self giving, with the spirit of do or die, inner self giving, ego giving. Tato' anartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt. Then if you can adopt this process, undesirable things from within you will disappear very easily and shortly, anartha- nivṛttiḥ. Tato niṣṭhā, then you'll find a continued connection with that sort of principle in your life. That principle will always activate you continuously, and these other fleeting mean desires won't be able to approach you, touch you. Then you'll find a thing what is ruci, a real taste for that thing. Otherwise, before that whatever taste we think we possess, that is all treachery, that is not taste. When after twenty four hours continuous connection with that charming substance, after that continuance, niṣṭhā means nairantarya, twenty four hours connection with that thought. Then the taste will come, that is, we can rely on that taste. Our taste we may find in other positions, that is not reliable. Twenty four hours connection, eliminating all other charms of the world, then the taste will come. That taste may be reliable, that it may guide me, ruci. Then āsakti, then bhāva, and there are so many signs when you get that bhāva, fortunately. In this way we're to progress.

[ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ
sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ]

And this is especially stressed by our Guru Mahārāja, and attracted us for this. No imitation outside, that has got no good effect. Imitation for some time it will be, some offences will be created, and that will be a disqualification. If we're taken to the examiner and then get a stamp of disqualification, that will be hampered in our future progress. That is offence, aparādha. So we must be very careful about aparādha. As a record of discredit, disqualification recorded in that circle, the examiner, they'll give a stamp of disqualification. "That is aparādha, criminal, he's unfit." That will go against me. So we shall be very much careful that we do not commit any offence. Rather we may be newcomer, with new introduction. But a criminal record that will go against me.

The highest object of all our eternal life, when we follow that, we must be very, very careful. And this warning has been given by our Guru Mahārāja very specially. Sevonmukhe. We were not allowed to read much, what to speak of the higher books. But even these ordinary things also were dealt, lower sādhana things mentioned, not given very much permission, but actually do that. Hear. Śravaṇa, kīrtana, hear from the real source and do accordingly, whatever is done from here. In that way.

Serving, learn to give yourself properly. And whatever you'll take, there are different methods, śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana. Then Rūpa Goswāmī has mentioned sixty four kinds of devotional practices. Then it is mentioned that thousands kinds of devotional practices. But practices are not very important. The very life of practice, that is all important, and that is self dedication. So be very particular to learn by dedication. That is work under the Vaiṣṇava. Work under practically, try to get training to work under a proper agent. That will help you most to learn to practice what is dedication. Vaiṣṇava ānugatya. The guidance must come from above. It may be very rare, but still, that is the valuable. What direction is coming from above, selflessly we must undergo that. That is the clue, that is the key. I won't work with my whims, or serve any men in my level. But what will come from above plane, very eagerly I shall obey that. That is service. Serving, sevonmukhatā, means what?

After long time of services of a sannyāsī, in the last days, one day Prabhupāda told that, "You did not see me." Twenty years of life he led in the Mission, but this was told to him that, "You did not see me. You could not see me, what I am. You have kept some, like a zamīndār, you have kept some household servitors, they're under you. And you try to give something from them to me, and have become a broker. Something you keep under you, and now and then you try to give some contribution from them to me, and you are making. Wholesale mine, my agent. Whatever you think you'll be in this world, only as my agent. And you're not doing that. Dependent on them, and keeping connection with me, that is not necessary. You are not a member of this world. You are only mine." Guru Mahārāja told. "Whatever I shall say you should do that. You don't sell yourself to anything, any proposal of this world. Wholesale my servant."

So what is necessary, it is very rarely found, that comes from higher plane, and I must surrender myself to substantiate that. Like a bird, cātaka, a kind of bird is there - here Sanskrit name is cātaka, they only drink rainwater.

viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."]
[Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 118]

That class of bird is always looking high for rain drops. So many waters are here, but they won't take a drop there. Only what will come from above they're waiting for that. The sufficient rainwater may come, or a thunder may come, but still they won't take any single drop from the earth.

So our attitude will be like that. Whatever will come from above to make us do, we shall do that. And we shall never take any plan from mundane world and go and run to work out. Direction. Director. The Master. The Lord above. I'm connected with Him. This sort of practice is helpful. Taking the Names, or hearing the music, all these they're also, through music also comes through different types come. But the very life will be that it's coming from the above plane, and I'm carrying out that order. That way I may be taken above. I may be added to the higher layer. I may go by preparing myself, only to carry out the order, unqualified, uncoloured, unqualified order. Surrendering without questioning if I'm sure it is coming from higher layer then we shall live at the disposal. We learn how selflessly service, selfless service of the higher, and not any mundane source. That is what is necessary. That is service, Vaiṣṇava sevā, Guru sevā.

["One must conquer the modes of passion and ignorance by developing the mode of goodness, and then one must become detached from the mode of goodness by promoting oneself to the platform of śuddha- sattva. All this can be automatically done if one engages in the service of the spiritual master with faith and devotion. In this way one can conquer the influence of the modes of nature."]

The Guru will also have signs, symptoms, so many things are there. But only the sum and substance is that we're to by obeying the directions from the higher we can make progress towards higher. Serving the higher we can hope to be selected from the higher and we may be taken up in that layer if we're considered qualified enough. This will be the maintainer of our life if we want to go towards high, super consciousness region, super reason, yukti.

So revealed truth and no intelligible. Tarkā-pratiṣṭhānāt. If we apply reason then we'll be nowhere. An expert man in argument he may defeat another man in this way, inconclusive, tarkā, tarkā-pratiṣṭhānāt. Intellectualism has no position here, because that is not within our jurisdiction, under our discussion. It will be no object of our intellect. It's super consciousness. And by serving, by honouring, we can invite that guest, by honour, by self giving. By heart giving we can invite that high guest, and never otherwise.

As intrigue, a conspiracy, to enforce, to capture Him, to encase Him, that is not possible. That will be something else, that will be Satan in another colour. God means self surrender to Him. We can approach, as much as self abnegation, not only, but self surrender. Deep self surrender will take us in connection of the higher, noble substance. That is to be cultivated anyhow, service. And service not to māyā. Be very careful that I'm not serving māyā in a charming form. In the form of God, a Godly form some māyā is coming, we're to be very careful there, to whom I'm serving. As much as possible in our present position. The main way will be like this. So,

sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahman by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes (kathā), which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Hatefully give away all proposals that intellect will offer to you. Prayāsam udapāsya, hatefully throw it out, what your intellect will come to propose to give you, that you are of lower type. What intellect will be able to judge and accept or non accept, that must be of lower type. So summarily you are to reject that, hatefully. Jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva. And understand to bow down your head. That way try. The beginning of the entrance is by bowing down your head, and capturing your heart automatically. Try to connect with that section where you only with folded palms - and you can never be master there. Such abnegation, such courage of self giving is necessary if you want to live in the higher plane. Otherwise you may be master, you may reign in hell. As Satan told, "It is better to reign in hell than to serve in heaven." Satan's words. Just opposite is necessary.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Here I stop today.
Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Even tears, even cry, has no value if the inner tendency of self giving is not there, sevā. Sevā means self giving. That is the main principle of life of a devotee. And that self giving is to the really higher, and not to here and there around us. That is in other way captured by these hateful things.

Even jñāna also. Na śobhate jñānam alaṁ nirañjanam. The knowledge is supposed to be very dirt-less, very pure, jñānam alaṁ nirañjanam, by the major persons. The knowledge is considered very innocent, not handling with the material things, that is very gross, śaśvad abhadram. To interfere, to handle with the material energy, that is dirty, it is admitted always. But knowledge pure that is considered by the higher personalities to be very pure, very innocent, dirt-less, jñānam alaṁ nirañjanam. But if it's not connected with Kṛṣṇa that must be hatefully rejected, that knowledge. In Bhāgavatam it is said.

[kutaḥ punaḥ śaśvad abhadram īśvare, na cārpitaṁ karma yad apy akāraṇam]

["Knowledge of self-realisation, even though free from all material affinity, does not look well if devoid of a conception of the Infallible (God). What, then, is the use of fruitive activities, which are naturally painful from the very beginning and transient by nature, if they are not utilised for the devotional service of the Lord?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.12]

Which is sufficiently considered as dirt-less, pure thing, knowledge, innocent - but no. If it's not connected with the Positive Absolute Good it's your enemy. You're to consider like that. Then you'll be qualified candidate to participate in jñāna śūnya bhakti. Surrender is so pure that connection with knowledge which is considered to be very innocent, that is also hatefully rejected. Such class of surrender is necessary for the higher association of devotion proper. Karma, jñāna, anāvṛtam. The charm of material acquisition, and the charm of mastery of knowing everything. You do not know anything in the infinite, even in magnitude or in quality, you can't know anything. A flow of autocracy, so what do you know? So all false store, knowledge means storing so many false incidents, and to sell that to the world, and to get some fame, name, or something. Hatefully give up. Service, unqualified, unconditional, giving, that is noble and it may take you to the nobler region. So jñāna, karma, both discouraged. To handle with matter and handle with knowing, knowledge, discouraged. And knowledge won't go in that market.

That is Absolute Will, Autocracy. No rule and regulation can work there. So false gathering, false store has no play there, no market there. Only surrender and you'll have that high quality. So serving attitude is our friend, a unit of serving attitude. And service means to surrender to the higher. And higher means uncontaminated with material and intellectual acquisition, that sort of higher.

Narottama Ṭhākura has advised, nitāi vine bhāi rādhā-kṛṣṇa pāite nāi.

Devotee: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

We won't forget the relationship is that as finite and Infinite. So how a finite cannot come in contact, or keep his relationship with Infinite? It is impossible, absurd. With common sense it is almost impossible. But from the side of Infinite everything is possible. That is our hope, our hope is there. Everything is possible for Him. But my position is hopeless. So what should be our duty? The experts in the line they have recommended always in that line. Earnestly pray for His connection, but there must not be self assertion, even a tinge of it, no self assertion. That we'll always be very cautious. And genuine negotiation will be there where this consciousness of great difference is recognised. That will be genuine search. Otherwise there must be something between which is non Kṛṣṇa, not conscious of His Infinite character. Some such wrong element between the two, if negotiation is direct, or with some substantial capital 'I have got, I can contact Him,' all this.

Try to stick closely to the feet of Nityānanda. By His grace you'll be able to come to Śrī Gaurāṅga. And if you can reach the feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga you've automatically got the grace of The Both of the highest quality. If we can fortunately follow that line, our prospect is of higher order. Not only quality, quantity, by everything.

To accept or not accept any advice that is all not compulsory, cannot be compulsory. Optional. The advice is given to us, we may accept or may not accept, always this position we note. But sincere consideration will help us to feel the truth. If any ulterior motive of conception about the Absolute is there, then it will ask me to avoid such method. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's interpretation, tṛṇād api sunīcena, a blade of grass has got some real position, may be of lower nature, but generally some real position. But what is my case? Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written that, "My case is more lower than the blade of grass. Why? It is a part of material existence but I'm misguided, misconceived ahaṅkāra. Vikṛta svarūpa, not in proper nature, but in a diseased condition, vikṛta, abnormal. A blade of grass has got its normal position, apparently. But what is the case in me? I'm beside myself, I'm mad, vikṛta, citta, vikṛta, not normal, abnormal. Abnormal position so I'm lower than the blade of grass." This is Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's interpretation.

And our Guru Mahārāja gives in another way. Prokta dasme sunicata nai [?] One who is an aggressor, enjoyer, there cannot be that humility of a blade of grass. Where there's aggression, aggressive tendency, there cannot be humility. So enjoyer, where there's this element of enjoyment, however little, there's no humility. That aggressive ego is present there. So we're to get the ideal of a blade of grass.

Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā. Not only passive, but also actively supporting its enemy. When one is cutting the tree, tree gives him the shade from the sun also, protection. Not only no opposition, but also giving shelter to him. Then amāninā mānadena, you know what is honour, and don't want for yourself. But at the same time you'll have to give honour to others. This is the general direction how we shall proceed towards Infinite sound. Our approach towards Infinite will be of such character. Pratiṣṭhā, the honour is more than everything to us, that is position. No position. We've not got normal health but abnormal health, diseased condition, we're patients, so many.

So how to approach, a general direction is here how to approach. That is all, and here everything is in a diseased, abnormal condition. From abnormal to march towards high normal. Or towards whom whose will can create normality. What is normal, abnormal, that can be created by him. The standard maker, not standard bearer, but standard maker, designer of standard, free. Free from all rules, regulations, and destiner and designer. How to approach?

Prabhupāda has given, our Guru Mahārāja, given via media.

Vaiṣṇave pratiṣṭhā tata gaure nistha taha nahe _____ [?] Name, fame, recognition of the Vaiṣṇava. Try to get recognition from the Vaiṣṇava, they will admire you. How to acquire admiration from my Guru and Vaiṣṇava. Not admiration from the ordinary public, they're also abnormal thinkers like me or worse. But try if you want to have anything positive, try to have recognition certificate of a Vaiṣṇava. He'll not give you a bogus certificate, you can rely on that. That means you're on the real path. A certificate of a Vaiṣṇava means vaiṣṇave pratiṣṭhā, they admire us. Our Guru, Vaiṣṇava, sincere guardians, their admiration we must seek, and how we can attract their admiration if we go in a proper way.

That will be like lighthouses in the ocean for a ship. More tangible to us, Vaiṣṇava. So when we have faith in Vaiṣṇava, real, we're more in a safe position. So many reliable guardians on all sides, our capital should be there. So Kṛṣṇa and myself, there must be line Vaiṣṇava, so many guardians, our position will be safe. Otherwise we're nowhere, we're lost in the infinite. Only these lighthouses our support, and our hope, and sustaining - there is some shelter in a high road. What is that? Inn?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that is concrete help to our life in the journey towards Infinite. If a nation thinks always of the ultimate condition of this world of creation, that one day it will be dissolved wholesale, mahāpralaya, then the nation may not make any progress in the ordinary sense. So when they make any progress of either in private family life, or national life, in every way of life, if we look at from the infinite standard then no encouragement he'll receive for any progress here in the mortal and transient world. So the idea of infinite is not encouraging to us.

We're told to keep up to some tangible connection with the Infinite in the middle. Don't go to approach direct but indirectly. As this has been recommended in śāstra and sādhu, saints, so I'm working this program. And one day of course He will be gracious on me. When I must get grace from the Lord one day, I'm following this program. They have asked to take the Name, to serve the Vaiṣṇava, this Arca, all these things, and one day we may earn His grace. So with my faith in the scripture and the advice of the sādhu we shall go on. This is the question of faith. Here we find what is faith. I'm following this program. It is mentioned in the scripture it is not possible for me to have direct connection with the Supreme. So I'm following this program recommended by the agents and the scripture only. One day when He will be satisfied with me He may give connection in me. I'm satisfied with this, I'm not so big, not so high. I'm not qualified to have direct connection. But I cannot but pray for His connection. I sincerely want Him, but I must follow the program. And when the time will come, considering they're on my head, they're always awake, viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti.

tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgṛvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat paramaṁ padam]

["As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head."] [Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20]

The watching eye of the guardian is on my head always, of so many well wishers of mine. So I should not be very eager to reach the goal.

There is a tale that one Vaiṣṇava he's busy in the service of his Guru.
Then a call came from above, "O, a call has come for you to go to Vaikuṇṭha."
He says that, "I have no time to go there. I'm busy here in the service of my Guru Mahārāja. I have no time to attend the call that's coming direct from Nārāyaṇa."

Rādhā dāsya, this is the line of Rādhā dāsya. I'm more concerned with my next master. I'm more concerned with my father, not so much with the grandfather. Something like that. These things are necessary in the real transaction, not formal. When the transaction of real nature comes to our front then these things will help us a great deal. Not infinite in the material sense but on the upper side. Super subjective. It's not possible for me to have idea of that plane. Different planes all higher planes. In the lower also what is there in the fossil we can't follow. We can't follow what is the near objective within the near lower objective things what are there. But this is super subjective, infinite, super subjective. So we're nowhere, but still we have hope. We're recommended to follow a particular path to make impossible possible.

But mostly the wise men they're in favour of salvation, the complete retirement from the mortal world, negative side, the sorrow, affliction, etc. That may be possible, something tangible in their brain. But another higher plane and to have connection and to enter and get honourable service there, that is almost impossible to the scholarly section of the world. Salvation, ultimate renunciation, that has been considered to be the goal of the empirical scholars, general scholars. Mukti, to go above creation. To come into creation that is affliction. And to go above creation, the rules, laws of creation, to be born, to stay for some time then to die. That to avoid this problem the scholars generally recommend salvation.

But the Vaiṣṇava view is something wonderful, wonder of wonders. There is a life and only through submissive spirit that can be discovered. That there is a plane of life for the dedicated soul wholesale dedicated. That is Vaiṣṇava conception of things that is wonderful. And again the progress there that is all wonderful. God works wonders. Everywhere centre, nowhere circumference. Such a thing, peculiar conception. And to have faith in that, and more wonderful how to enter that soil, and more wonderful how to make progress there. All these things. It is strange even to our imagination, kalpanā tīrtha, imagination also cannot go so high. And we're to think of that as the only reality. The reality is there. All else is uncertain and entering into the jaw of death.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

When Mahāprabhu came with that Nāma saṅkīrtana which is beyond Brahmā, Śiva. Brahmā who is the master of this created world, and Mahādeva who is searching for the higher knowledge, searching, a complete search for the higher, very type of Mahādeva. The both parties were astounded when Mahāprabhu came down with this Nāma saṅkīrtana they all wonderfully stared at. "What is this? And everyone is qualified, the brāhmaṇa section, scholar, they say that it's specially the ignorant are qualified. Jñāne prayāsa. The scholarly section they're disqualified. What is this? Nāma saṅkīrtana, not to be neglected. A transcendental joy amongst so many, and marching towards demolishing everything." They're all, with their astounding eye wanted to have a glance of that.

So only it's possible when He Himself came to bestow, to distribute His own, He came to - His own treasury, wanted to give away His treasure to one and all, distributed, wholesale invitation - He came.

So that is our hope, and our consolation. If we can have faith in that sort of pastimes, then it may be easy for us. Just as a special train is coming from the destination, and anyhow to get admission into that, automatically it will take me to the goal. No necessity or any searching where I'm to go. Automatically it will take me to the goal. I've caught that special train.

So Nityānanda Prabhu He wandered from door to door, and with prayer that, "Please accept Śrī Gaurāṅga. What valuable thing is passing by your door you don't understand My boys. Get a ticket. I'm freely distributing now - a ticket I'm distributing freely, accept it. It will help beyond your understanding."

Such opportunity also comes by the grace of that Infinite. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura.

To have faith in Śrī Gaurāṅga, that's to get much on the way to our goal. To come in His connection, a fair progress. Only mere acceptance of Him means a fair progress in the genuine way. But all these, how we can understand depends on our sukṛti, and that is sādhu saṅga. That is extended from the Infinite to recruit us, to help us in this lost region. The Lord's search for the lost servants. His campaign - search for lost servants. That is our hope. Our hope - His search for lost servants. In that campaign so many things are distributed. And we might have connected something, then that will help us to recognise our own. He's the cause. That is in the press - Lost Servant?

Badrināràyaṇa: Coming, by Gaura Pūrṇimā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lord's Search For Lost Servant. A process, search from this side, but first search comes from that side. His search for the lost servant. The basis of our search corresponding search for Him. He's the seed of all, everything is there. All the seeds is with Him, especially of the good things, in Him.

So, due to my old age I feel weakness now and then. So I feel unfit to go further today. I close here my friends. Śrīmad Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Prabhupāda kī jaya! Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja kī jaya! Bhakta-vṛnda kī jaya! Hari Nāma Saṅkīrtana kī jaya! Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...position. Again, again we have to retrace here.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ
āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

Positive connection, as long as we have any positive connection of that fulfilment of life, the charm for this lower taste does not totally vanish. So mere salvation is not safe for us, again we're to retrace back. But if we can catch the in-carrying current, the positive side towards the centre, then we're more or less safe. If not, Vaiṣṇava aparādha. Vaiṣṇava aparādha is a thing which can again push us down from the higher position.

Devotee: How to protect from Vaiṣṇava aparādha?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vaiṣṇava aparādha, generally these rulings have been given to us.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, [kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

"Give respect to all - don't want respect from any quarter." This Mahāprabhu says, "Go on only with the help of the Divine Sound. You can make progress sufficiently and easily of all methods. But Vaiṣṇava aparādha, to fail, the only hindrance is Vaiṣṇava aparādha, our offence against the higher agents. But to save you, you shall have such attitude. Tṛṇād api sunīc, humbler than a blade of grass. Taror api sahiṣṇunā, if any undesirable things come to you, you'll have to tolerate that, in the spirit of toleration. And amāni, generally give respect to everyone, and don't want any respect, any position from anyone. With this method you go on, march on."

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. It's very difficult for me to harmonise this spirit of tṛṇād api sunīcena with revolutionary against exploitation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say? How to?

Devotee: It's difficult harmonise this tṛṇād api sunīcena with revolutionary spirit. Because if Gandhi thinks always...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As much as you can do, the general instruction and caution given to you, as much you'll be able to obey this your life's path will be successful. Your prospect won't be hampered. If you don't, can't do, then possibility of your hampering in progress.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. He says, "It is difficult to harmonise this with a revolutionary spirit." He says, "Revolutionary spirit requires some sort of pride and force, and things like that." That is I think what he means.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Revolutionary means, what do you mean by revolutionary?

Devotee: It means if Gandhi thinks everything is according God's will, he will not do nothing, and no revolution could come to make India free, for example. Everything accept as Kṛṣṇa's will, and nothing would be done against exploitation.

Devotee: Mahārāja. He says that, "If we're passive, like Gandhi, passive resistance...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Passive?

Devotee: Yes. Then we cannot effect a revolution in the world, or in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow what he says.

Devotee: He feels that tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, is very passive, he feels, and he, how to effect...

Devotee: There's so much exploitation that we have to...

Devotee: How to fight exploitation with acceptance or resignation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All your energy you're to utilise for the positive. And your defensive attitude will be such so it will create the greatest revolution. The whole of your energy will be used on the positive side. Your defensive attitude will be such. You can collect and utilise your whole energy towards positive direction. But direction not in a gross, but in the subtle way, and more efficient way. You'll capture the subtle forces. You'll invite the help of the Supreme more. You'll be able to - the sympathy of the centre if you go on in such way you'll get more power. Your defensive attitude is such. The whole of your energy will be utilised in the subtle form and you will progress highly, very finely, and in the innermost heart of the world. You'll capture the best element of the world, and the gross will be nowhere. The gentle power of nature will come to help you. And ultimately the gross surface will have to retire hopelessly, helplessly.

Christ, apparently He lost His ground, His whole body gone, but He also disturbed. But then He captured the whole nation by that ideal, the subtle power. Apparently He lost His influence, even His own life, but He did not die thereby. He lived in His passive action, he lived, and more truly than His physical life. The Christ was there, could capture only by sacrifice.

So subtle forces come from that command to help you. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. What is this higher taste? You said, "Higher taste, paraṁ dṛṣṭvā nivartate [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.59]. What is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Higher taste. That your inner self will say to you. In comparison you'll know yourself, higher. Higher means with more capturing power. Higher means that is in quality, mostly higher means in quality. That with a very small quantity you can give more in quality. Qualitatively more, quantitatively less, that is higher. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: The whole cannot be less than the part. So in the higher enjoyment, everything should be there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But it depends upon the capacity of the receiver, how much is whole to him. Ha, ha. The pot, how much it can contain the water? The pot may be filled by only a part. A big jar, a part of that can fill up a small pot, more than that. Whole or part depends on the capacity of the receiver. Which is part to one is more than whole to another.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. In Śrī Guru And His Grace you say that in connection with service the devotees may come in contact with money or pratiṣṭhā and such situations. So can you just elaborate how they can be used in the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We cannot understand what is the direct, what is the - to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. So through scripture and through His devotees we can understand that, the standard _____ [?] What is His desire we're to follow, until and unless, and generally we may not come in direct touch with Him. It is also not desirable, that it's almost impossible. So we're to connect to Him through scripture, His words, and His attendants, we can understand. And we can render service through them. Direct service is not possible for us.

It is so important, this point is very important, so important that the higher authorities of this department they say, "We want connection of the servant of the servant of the servant of the servant. In this way. Not direct connection with Him, nor direct connection with His direct servant. But servant of the servant of the servant. In this way."

Our position is so different from that of Kṛṣṇa, our Lord, that direct approach, what we think in our lower condition, that we must have some direct connection with Him. "Why the trespassers will come between my Lord and myself?" But that is theoretical. Practically when we want to get His connection, then by servant of the servant of the servant, that will be more tasteful and real to us. It is so peculiar. Like fools rush in where angels fear to tread. Generally in the lower stage, "If He's almighty, He's all powerful, He's all omniscient, all pervading, why we should not get any direct connection with Him? Why so many things between me and my Lord? Why all these things?" In our lower condition.

But when we approach the reality we find, "O, real connection with Him only we may have through His agents. And agents, they're like the blade of grass, chasma [?], spectacle, they enhance our position. Agent means they plead my cause. If I approach direct I'll be dumb. But through agent negotiation that is real, concrete thing, we'll have more thereby. In bare eye we can't see, with the help of spectacle we can see, something like that. They're all well wisher, well meaning, helping their best to the new recruits.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. They're making, the Vaiṣṇava are making impossible possible. So para-duḥkha duḥkhī, their heart is crying for persons like us. Such is their position and nature, they're crying for the suffering of the worldly people, very eager to help us. That is their very nature is such, the Vaiṣṇava, para-duḥkha duḥkhī. We can get substantially only through them. Otherwise we do not know even what is what. We may be deceived very easily. But the agents, the super natured agents, they're our only hope. So Vaiṣṇavas are not enemy, not foreign thing, they're indispensable necessity in my progress towards my Lord.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Tapan, Gaura Kṛṣṇa gone? Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] No fan, no fanection, clothe shedding. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. A feeling of discouragement sometimes appears in the heart, because the position of autocracy...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Always they're saying, sādhu, śāstra. It is sure to come, action, reaction, we're prey. Only we have a resolution then everything finished? Ordinary things are not easily achieved, and the greatest achievement will be such without any hindrance, any obstacles on the way? How we can expect that? So our solace, our consolation, our help, are the agents and through the advice and the saints. In all eventuality or adverse time we're to take shelter under them, what to do. "My position is such. Please give some help. I'm helpless." Only to throw...

[tvayi jātāparādhānāṁ, tvam eva śaraṇaṁ prabho]

"We fall on the ground, again with the help of the ground we get up. When we slip and fall on the ground, and the very ground is our support to get to stand erect. Bhūmau-skhalita-pādānāṁ bhūmir evāvalambanam, tvayi jātāparādhānāṁ, tvam eva. We commit offence against You, but there are no other agents who can help, only Your help, and that comes through Your agents."

They are of great utility to the - to all, always. Always guidance is necessary. When we're in lower stage we require help, and when we're even in perfect stage we're to render our services through some leaders of that department. Direct service is impossible. The permanent group is there, of the servitors, and we're to be connected with any group of such department. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, in all aspects there are permanent servitors, and we're only to be connected with a particular group. And through them we're to render our service to the Lord. And by their grace, very rarely we can have direct connection of the Lord. It is not impossible, but it's only through the grace of the higher servitors it is possible sometimes. When they send with some - "Take this thing and carry it to the Lord. He's here." By his order we can go. In this way we can have our direct service very rarely, by the grace of the eternal group of servitors, not crossing them.

Always we've got second hand position. A jīva soul, originating from the marginal potency, they cannot have primary chance of the nearest servitors. Always relative position through someone he's to directly serve. The permanent group is already there eternally. And they're benevolent, they're giving, they're not miser, they're not unjust. And what I get that is sufficient.

He's not bankrupt, that someone taking, that will be finished, others may not get, it is not. He's Absolute so no bankruptcy there.

atyāhāraḥ prayāsaś ca, prajalpo niyamāgrahaḥ
[jana-saṅgaś ca laulyaṁ ca, ṣaḍbhir bhaktir vinaśyati]

["One's devotional service is spoiled when he becomes too entangled in the following six activities: (1) atyāhāra - eating more than necessary or collecting more funds than required; (2) prayāsa - over-endeavouring for mundane things that are very difficult to obtain; (3) prajalpa - talking unnecessarily about mundane subject matters; (4) niyamāgraha - practising the scriptural rules and regulations only for the sake of following them and not for the sake of spiritual advancement, or rejecting the rules and regulations of the scripture and working independently or whimsically; (5) jana-saṅga - associating with worldly-minded persons who are not interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness; and (6) laulyaṁ - being greedy for mundane achievements."] [Upadeśāmṛta, 2]

All these things are given there, how a devotee who has got admission into the devotional school, what should be his nature, his conduct. That advice has been given there. We're to note and try to follow that. On the whole, to keep association with the devotee, and to dissociate with the non devotee. Main thing is that. Association can change us, help us and also spoil us. Bad association can spoil, and good association can help in progress. Association can give, association, saṅga, favourable environment, that is all, on the whole, to help our progress. The selection and the real connection with them. Sādhu saṅga, sādhu saṅga. And what is saṅga? Saṅga means not only physical nearness. Saṅga means,

bhuṅkte bhojayate caiva [ṣaḍ-vidhaṁ prīti lakṣaṇam]

To give and to take. Dadāti pratigṛhṇāti guhyam ākhyāti. And to reveal everything of the whole heart to him, and also to hear what is concealed within his heart. Guhyam, very private thing in my heart, that must be disclosed. And what's his private wealth within his heart, that I must get. Guhyam ākhyāti pṛcchati. I shall enquire what is the inner wealth in his heart. Bhuṅkte bhojayate caiva. And to serve him with food, and also to get some prasādam from him. Ṣaḍ-vidhaṁ prīti lakṣaṇam. By this we can have association proper. A close mixing with the sādhu, confidential mixing, to give and take, give and take. Guhyam ākhyāti pṛcchati.

Sādhana means that, that śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana, to cultivate with higher things requires our submission. Praṅipāta, paripraśna. Sincere enquiry and service. I want to serve the cause, not to lord it over. If the spirit within is to lord it over everything will be spoiled. It is not a plane where we can make masters of our own selves, it is not a plane of that type. So that will be the main thing.

I want Him, why? Not something that we can use according to my whim. But I'm going, I'm putting myself into fire, what I am that will vanish, and from within my real higher divine self will come out. With that idea, what I am, that's a nasty thing. But what is in me that is divine, noble. With this hope we shall go. The outer cases will be eliminated and the inner element will come out gradually. And I shall feel that this is the noble part in me. So for service, this is the all important thing. If we have, I want to serve, obey, and not to order. I'm going to a land where I shall only obey, but I won't order. But if in hierarchy I get some position, I shall order only to obey my master's command. That also will be possible, but for His cause, in a system.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may indicate some position of us, where we are. What type of dream we're experiencing, it indicates sometimes on the whole what is the condition of our mental system. Where I'm moving, my subtle body moving in which plane.

Devotee: This aprākṛta region, is it similar to prākṛta in all respects?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is perverted reflection. Here the nastiness is not there, heyota barcita [?] This is contemptible, and that is good, excellent. Reflection but perverted.

Devotee: But in appearance and other respects it's equal, same?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be same. Some difference there. The opposite side there, like very static, immaterial, that is powerless. But here it is very clear and strong, powerful. The indirect aspect, vyatireka, indirect aspect here. Here it's more strong, and there it is reduced to material existence, something inert.

Devotee: Māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But representation is there. cashyaysa kant silavar [?] Dāsa Goswāmī says.
Here which is very active in this plane, the indirect side of līlā, but there that is just like the statue there giving some impression of the existence. And positive is very perfectly active. Here positive side is little weakened. Like portrait there. Here in ideal, and there in practice, and that is negative side more idealistic but not very practical. Some difference we're told.

Goloka and Gokula. And to our wonder it is also mentioned that Goloka is a part of Gokula. Wonderful thing. In prapañca līlā, just as a drama which is representing the play of a village, that becomes successful in a rural position, not in town position. The expert players in the drama may be found in town, but if their subject of play is rural thing then it will be very much successful in a rural locality, not in town. Something like that. Aprākṛta, prākṛta vat, it is more successful in prapañca than in eternal aspect of the existence.

So many peculiarities that cannot satisfy our reasoning. The ways of Infinite in connection with finite is very perplexing. Vaikuṇṭha generally is thought to be Infinite. Kuṇṭha means narrowness, limit. No limit, that is Vaikuṇṭha. That is infinite characteristic is greater there, but that forms a part of Goloka. Goloka Vṛndāvana, especially Vṛndāvana is told only sixteen [krośas], or thirty two miles area, but that can contain so many Vaikuṇṭha in it. Almost this is impossible in our thought. Kavirāja Goswāmī has mentioned, ṣola-krośa vṛndāvana, — [śāstrera prakāśe / tāra eka-deśe vaikuṇṭhājāṇḍa-gaṇa bhāse]

["According to the revelations of revealed scripture, Vṛndāvana extends only sixteen krośas [thirty-two miles]. Nonetheless, all the Vaikuṇṭha planets and innumerable universes are located in one corner of this tract."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.29]

That can contain Vaikuṇṭha in its one part. So aprākṛta, which is similar to this mundane world, it is of such nature. How to harmonise? Reason fails. Reason that continues in this world that fails there to follow. In the case of Infinite the finite thinkers cannot accommodate. They're mere instrument. Whatever little they can conjecture they say like that. Though finite but everything infinite in itself. In a particle of sand in Yamunā that is also infinite. If necessary it can display so many things, but they're posing as a particle of sand. So creepers are such that can produce Uddhava. Kalpa-taru, ordinary tree and that can give you anything you like. Bhūmi cintāmaṇi, bhūmi is also the sand, the articles of earth. Cintāmaṇi. Whatever you want that can give you that thing. So they're posing in that way but really they're part of infinite means infinite. Part of infinite means infinite. Infinite characteristic of infinite, that in all ways and means it is infinite. A part also represents infinite.

So, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3], do your duty, don't try to understand. The environment is not to come within your first. So our tendency to serve, that is only admirable we're told. That has got some recognition in such a great unknown and unknowable matter. Do your duty. What is attached to you, go on doing sincerely. Whole attention you give to the discharge of your duty. That will bring your greatest fulfilment there.

And don't waste your energy to enquire about what others are doing or not. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. Both in case of our sādhana and also siddhi, mind your own lesson. Don't go to enquire about others. Whole energy you'll devote in your own - oil your own machine. Oil your own machine, that policy is most helpful. And that also with some dis-satisfactory nature. "I can't do my duty, I'm unable, unfit. What I should have done I can't do that." That is the nature of infinite, dissatisfaction.

Dissatisfaction here, "I can't get more. I have no command over the environment." Dissatisfaction.

And there the dissatisfaction that, "My part, what is attached to me, I can't do satisfactorily."

Concentration only to ones own function...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [00:00 -09:57 ?] So it is harmonised. [10:00 - 10:37 ?]

Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ. Not only a question of ordinary persons, but the scholars become dumb, puzzled, perplexed. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, in the beginning of Bhāgavatam [1.1.1]. Whose nature is playing such that the scholars become perplexed to understand. That is the principal, the primary characteristic of Him. How it is possible? Our worldly knowledge cannot accommodate, harmonise, can't. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ.

So it is harmonised in autocracy. Ha, ha. "Let there be water." There was water. Laws fail, the conception of law, nature, regulation, all fails there, so autocratic thing. Everything coming from Him, everything is continued by Him, and everything gets end only by His desire. Such is the nature of the principal principle, main principle. He's there, but He's good. That is our solace.

We cannot see the king but the king is a good one. That is, in our heart we shall carry the impression and do our duty. He's our guardian. He's all good. And we're His slaves, no other alternative. And even to aspire after independence that is also bad, we're to understand. To search for explanation from the high, from the administration, explanation, that is also bad, revolting. So they're sent here, something like, they may not have, disloyal subjects are ousted. In that area that disparity can never grow. And from the taṭasthā, marginal position, those that cannot accommodate that thing they're sent this side.

"Work with your independent free will. You like independence, liberty, go and live there, and get the consequence."

But administration in the Absolute Good area is otherwise. None want to be elevated from there. More inclination to serve the centre, to spend on the centre, dissatisfaction there. "I can't do my duty according to my satisfaction." The positive, not dissatisfaction of the nature of revolting. That is the peculiarity. Serving in the positive means we want to serve more. Dissatisfaction is there, not complaint against the circumstances, they're all good. I'm bad. No question of injustice coming to him. Everything is good, I'm bad, I can't. This is the characteristic of the perfect dynamic character, it is dynamic, it is of that nature. Everything good, I'm bad. I like no working, no service. _____ [?]

...conclusion cannot but be there, by nature. The competition in itself is not bad. The dacoits also can compete, and donors also can compete. Looters, exploiters, also there may be competition amongst the exploiters, guṇḍās. And who are giving for the sake of the country, sacrificing their life, there also competition. So competition in itself is not bad. For which it is done, that is to be understood properly, for which this sort of competition. Who will do more service, which party doing more service to Kṛṣṇa.

So everything in aprākṛta, as the question begins. Everything is good, only the spirit is different, for Kṛṣṇa, for the centre, it is good. And for the part it is bad, at the sacrifice of the interest of the centre coming to the part. And what centre sends to the part that is all right. If we put food in the stomach, energy distributed to every part of the body that is normal, good. But if we're to inject some food in a part of the body that is abnormal.

Kṛṣ - ṇa. In-carrying, and from the centre carrying, also na. From the centre attracting and giving that in the heart, contract and, sometimes it contracts and expands. Expands then it's drawing blood, and contracting is sending blood to every part. So attracting service and giving satisfaction from the centre. Kṛṣ - ṇa. The general līlā is like that, pastimes like that.

Here also we do some service and get remuneration. But there the remuneration that is to make us more active, more healthy. What health naturally comes from the heart, centre, that engages the capacity of that locality. 'Dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana. More serving spirit is the remuneration. Not to be self centred and enjoy for our own, that is not the nature. That health, healthy and non healthy stage of our body. Connecting with the centre, controlled by the centre, that is the symptom of the healthy existence.

So centre carrying units, Vaiṣṇava, agent. We're lost. Our search for the proper agent will be of best interest to us, to whom we'll be able to have real connection of the centre. And gradually I'll be centralised, and everything will be automatic and healthy. Dislocated we are at present, and that is the trouble. That is the cause of all trouble, to be dislocated from the central current. Proper location, svarūpa siddhi, proper location, proper adjustment. So religion is adjustment proper, we heard so many times, often, from the lips of our Guru Mahārāja, proper adjustment. And dislocated means diseased, cut off from the centre.

Kṛṣ - ṇa. What is the centre? The Brahman conception, Paramātmā conception, Bhagavān conception. The scholars, enquirers, the Ācāryas who knows things about the centre, or who are representatives of the centre, they say that the nature of the cause of these three type. The inner controlling, the outer accommodating, and the dispenser of the prospect. The controller, designer and destiner, that aspect, Bhagavān. And that is one, working according to law, and another He's according without law. His grace does not have any regulation, above calculation, the grace, the affection, the love, and no bankruptcy. No explanation to any other for His action. That Absolute Good, that is Kṛṣṇa conception of the controller of anything and everything. How we're to connect with whom, that's the primary question.

Kṛṣṇa centred, Nārāyaṇa centred. Jīva Goswāmī says, "Bhagavān, the designer and destiner of everything, what is that principle? Only love can do that, and no power. Only Kṛṣṇa, not Nārāyaṇa. The law, the power, regulation, all these things, the resourcefulness, no. Only absolute control can come in the hand of the beauty. Beauties control is surviving everything, superseding everything. Beauty, affection, love, mercy, that can control the heart of the heart. And most extensive control, only that characteristic can have. And no physical power, or any law, any regulation, any justice, no. The real controller, appealer to our heart interest is that thing can control." This is Mahāprabhu's idea, Bhāgavata's idea. The real controller of everything, the inner most and most extensive control only beauty, that mercy, affection, love, of this nature that can have this. No power, no knowledge, nothing of the kind.

So Paramātmā Who controls from within, and Brahman the background which can contain everything within itself. They're but only some development from that prime cause of love. They cannot stand by itself. The Brahman, Paramātmā, Nārāyaṇa conception, only outer conception of the reality. The real reality is that love and mercy, affection, beauty. Our inner hankering of everything, harmony only can come only through that. This is the finding of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu Himself. Then so many details are there, but on the whole things are of this nature.

What is the time?

...bālāḥ, pravadanti na paṇḍitāḥ.

[sāṅkhya-yogau pṛthag bālāḥ, pravadanti na paṇḍitāḥ
ekam apy āsthitaḥ samyag, ubhayor vindate phalam]

["The learned do not support the opinion of the childishly foolish mundane rationalists (known as karma-mīmāṁsakas) who hold that the path of renunciation (sāṅkhya-yoga) and the path of action (karma-yoga) are separate. One who carefully follows either of these paths will achieve the same result."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.4]

Understanding by elimination, from the gross towards the subtle. Sāṅkhya, external elimination, and yoga internal elimination. "This is not, this is not, this is not." In this way to search what is the original thing from which everything is coming forth, the search. Sāṅkhya-yogau pṛthag bālāḥ, pravadanti na paṇḍitāḥ.
Ekaṁ sāṅkhyaṁ ca yogaṁ ca, yaḥ paśyati sa paśyati.

[yat sāṅkhyaiḥ prāpyate sthānaṁ, tad yogair api gamyate
ekaṁ sāṅkhyaṁ ca yogaṁ ca, yaḥ paśyati sa paśyati]

["The goal achieved by the renunciation of action is also reached by the performance of selfless action. One who by careful analysis knows both these paths to be one and the same, certainly knows their true meaning."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.5]

He's seeing really, who can estimate both sāṅkhya and yoga, reaching the same goal. Ending in the searcher, one who is searching, that is the be all and end all, jīvātmā. And something on the other side, Paramātmā. But all these āroha-panthā, ascending method. But proper knowledge may come in the descending method.

mayādau brahmaṇe proktā, dharmo yasyāṁ mad-ātmakaḥ

["The message of the Vedas is eternal religion, non-different from Me. When in the course of time those eternal teachings disappeared from view with the universal cataclysm, I imparted them to Lord Brahmā at the dawning of a new creation."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.3] & [Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, 9.34]

"I'm everything and I first intimated to the creator of this world, Brahmā, by inspiration, that I'm everything. And I imparted this truth to Brahmā, within. And from Brahmā that knowledge came in descent in this world through particular agents. But due to their specific character, of the receiver, that was mutilated in different ways. And some knowledge from the ascending method also came, and the descending truth that also according to the temperament of the receiver was represented in a variegated way. So now there's a jungle of different religious conceptions, so many, the ascending, descending. Mutilated descending and ascending, both mixed, there's a jungle in the religious conception world. So when that becomes too much disturbing or puzzling, then I shall have to come again, or send My own agent to preach about the truth here in this world of ignorance. In this way I present it."

What is what, what is truth proper, what is the real conception of truth, the prime cause, our relationship with Him? Who am I? Who are we? Dharma jijñāsā in Jaiminī, what should be our duty? The name of the book, What is our Duty? Dharma jijñāsā. And brahma jijñāsā in Vedānta, what is the prime cause of this world? Brahma jijñāsā. And kṛṣṇānusandhāna, where is my guardian and friend? Kṛṣṇa. Enquiry after duty, enquiry after prime cause, Absolute Truth. And then the highest stage of enquiry about the Absolute Truth, my own heart satisfying friend, guardian, without whom I can't stay, maintain my existence. Kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Mahāprabhu.

Jñāna śūnya bhakti, independent of knowledge, fortune hunting, searching for the fortune, searching our fulfilment without the help of the knowledge. It is peculiar, searching without knowledge, how it is possible? Heart's search, search of the heart for the heart. Our real existence is there in the heart, not in the brain. This sort of understanding. We're not living in the brain but we're living in the heart. So search of the heart for the heart, that is love, that is prema. A different plane. The brain exercise cannot satisfy us. Today the world is in the need of heart, disgusted with brain. Now they're searching for the heart, mutual understanding of loving one another. Eliminating the love and sympathy the brain work is going to destroy the civilisation. Mutual understanding of the heart can save them from the disaster created by the brain. But without the brain's product of so much civilisation, the simple life in the jungle can satisfy the people. Blissful, less civilised peaceful nation, they're going on with their life. But brain development is dangerous if it is not helped by the development of the heart. So heart is more necessary for us than the brain. They're subservient.

janayaty āśu vairāgyaṁ jñānañ ca yad ahaitukam

["If somehow with the help of the scriptures and His agents, the devotees or saints, we can develop our devotion, bhakti, then, the proper knowledge and proper apathy towards worldly substances will follow us."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.7]

Knowledge subservient to heart, that is healthy, wholesome. First devotion towards the centre, and then the outcome of that connection with the centre, submission with the centre, knowledge comes to help the service. That is healthy knowledge. Without that, knowledge is dangerous, suicidal.

jñāna-vairāgyādi — bhaktira kabhu nahe 'aṅga' ahiṁsā-yama-niyamādi bule kṛṣṇa-bhakta-saṅga

["The path of speculative knowledge and renunciation is not essential for devotional service. Indeed, good qualities such as non-violence and control of the mind and senses automatically accompany a devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.145]

The knowledge and the vairāgya, indifference, non-attraction, they're not the necessary part of devotion, but the followers of devotion, product. They automatically follow the devotion, but not a necessary part of devotion. Automatically they come if one is a devotee necessary indifference to the non-attraction to the environment and knowledge about them, that will come automatically to him. But they cannot produce our indifference to the enjoyment of the environment or knowledge about them cannot produce devotion. Devotion is independent. It only comes through sukṛti by the grace of God, grace of the Absolute. That is not the product of our own ascending search, or our apathy towards the environment. Our indifference or apathy for the environment may give us sufficient time, we're not captured by their charm, so we may have sufficient leisure for searching. But searching upward...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that time, "Gobha Gaṇeśa" he told me. "Ease lover" one place, that time he told me "Gobha Gaṇeśa." Gaṇeśa is a writer, but if he's made of cow dung - a cow dung made Gaṇeśa, or the writer, Gobha Gaṇeśa.

He told that, "Such new light came, it was necessary even for me to consult them in future, afterwards, such light came. I had got some satisfaction."

Thereby I got some satisfaction that I could appreciate those points which he's appreciating, that such ray does not come always, this time came, and Prabhupāda wanted to see them once more what came. I could appreciate in that level of Prabhupāda. That was to my satisfaction.

Badrinārāyaṇa: What explanation Mahārāja? You don't remember what explanation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no. Ha, ha, ha. I was always scattered, perplexed. Very scanty. Of course it's in Bhāgavatam, but specially new things came from him at that time. That was at the house of a particular man who was supposed to be initiated in a particular clan who says, Satya Ma [?] There is a section, a sub section in the religious sampradāya that call themselves the worshippers of satyama, satya, truth.

So Prabhupāda, "What is truth? You belong to a particular sampradāya who says that 'We're worshippers of truth. What is that truth?' He came and took this śloka from Bhāgavatam and began, "What is truth? Your conception of truth is not sufficient. Truth is such." In this way he wanted to explain that satya-vrataṁ. What is the relationship with the Absolute and truth of your conception? In different ways the truth has been shown here and the relation with God.

satyasya satyam ṛta-satya-netraṁ, satyātmakaṁ tvāṁ śaraṇaṁ prapannāḥ

[The demigods prayed: "O Lord, You never deviate from Your vow, which is always perfect because whatever You decide is perfectly correct and cannot be stopped by anyone. Being present in the three phases of cosmic manifestation — creation, maintenance and annihilation — You are the Supreme Truth. Indeed, unless one is completely truthful, one cannot achieve Your favour, which therefore cannot be achieved by hypocrites. You are the active principle, the real truth, in all the ingredients of creation, and therefore You are known as antaryāmī, the inner force. You are equal to everyone, and Your instructions apply for everyone, for all time. You are the beginning of all truth. Therefore, offering our obeisances, we surrender unto You. Kindly give us protection."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.26]

The Brahmā came and told this. "Who are You, and what is Your relation with what is known to us as truth? O You Absolute Truth, the so-called truths that are known to us in this world, what is Your relation with that conception of truth?" In that way it's dealt there. "You are above truth. You are within truth." In this way.

["In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity."] ["And again, that is also not situated in Me. Just behold My inconceivable simultaneous one and different (acintya-bhedābheda) nature as the perfect, omnipotent, omniscient originator and Lord of the universe! Although My very Self is the mainstay and guardian of all beings, I am not implicated by them."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4-5]

"I'm everywhere, I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me."

"In this way that was shown, Your position with the so-called truth. You asked Yudhiṣṭhira to avoid the truth. Say what is false, generally encourage you. Aśvatthāmā hata. You say, Yudhiṣṭhira. But Yudhiṣṭhira hesitated, and in some way or other he repeated it, not in a straight way.

But some say Yudhiṣṭhira had to see the hell for saying that falsehood. And Madhvācārya says, "Because Yudhiṣṭhira could not obey Kṛṣṇa so he had to see the hell." Ha, ha.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And Kṛṣṇa stealing butter, Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Always He's speaking lies, in Vṛndāvana, everywhere. What is truth, who knows what is truth? What is His whim, that is truth. Ha, ha, ha. Every part of Him is truth and something more. What conception we've got about truth? Truth means things under rules and regulations. But He can create truth - truth is such. What He wills that is truth, truth of truth, satyasya satyam, satya-netraṁ. In this way His position with the truth has been represented in this variegated way. The conception of our truth, and His position, how, adjusted.

Eh? That ghost lady not come?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes Mahārāja, she's been sitting down here for more than twenty minutes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Last night, what was the suggestion of the ghost? Anything new?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Last night, nothing new? Any incidents, he didn't speak anything, no impressions?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why she's complaining against him towards us?

Lady guest: Nothing extraordinary.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Last night was nothing extraordinary, as previously.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Does not affect him?

Lady guest: He's here, sitting...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Can you not preach Kṛṣṇa consciousness to him?

Badrinārāyaṇa: She says the ghost is sitting here, that ghost is sitting right here, he's sitting here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here, by her side?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, by her side.

Lady guest: Every time _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's hearing what I say?

[Group laughter] Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, and how he receives it? Is he angry with me?

Lady guest: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: No, he never gets angry, he only gets angry with her.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he want her to do?

Lady guest: He only thinks I'm a stupid woman.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "You obey me, what I say, obey me." That is his direction?

Badrināràyaṇa: He wants you to obey him? "Yes, yes, yes." He tells her that, "You're not an intelligent person."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who? Myself?

Badrināràyaṇa: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She?

Badrināràyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She's not intelligent?

Badrināràyaṇa: Yes. He tells her like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And she comes from where? England, America, or India? Where? Africa?

Lady guest: Norway.

Badrināràyaṇa: No, Norway.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Norway.

Badrināràyaṇa: Yes.

Lady guest: I emigrated to India.

Badrināràyaṇa: But where did the ghost come from?

Lady guest: Vṛndāvana, ghost Vṛndāvana.

Badrināràyaṇa: Oh, Mahārāja, she has come from Norway, but the ghost has come from Vṛndāvana. She met the ghost in Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ghost in Vṛndāvana?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What occasion?

Lady: It was yatra time when we start coming around...

Badrinārāyaṇa: What yatra? What time of the year?

Lady: _____ [?] Janmāṣṭamī, around that time. Then later on he entered my body. He was following me - was this new energy...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Maybe around festival time in Vṛndāvana, maybe Janmāṣṭamī, the ghost started following her, began to follow her. Then after some time entered...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From where? Vṛndāvana, from where, Keśi ghāṭa? Keśi ghāṭa abode of so many Vṛndāvana ghosts.

Lady: I heard that Raman Reti. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Raman Reti. He comes from - he's Bengali ghost, or UP, or where from? What is his side, nationality? He talks in Bengali, or Hindi?

Lady: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: He speaks English?

Lady: He speaks English and some Hindi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hindi and English.

Badrinārāyaṇa: What did the ghost doctor say?

Lady: The ghost doctor said he's a Brijavāsī.

Badrinārāyaṇa: She consulted one ghost doctor, and that doctor...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Badrinārāyaṇa: In Vṛndāvana.

Lady: In Govardhana.

Badrinārāyaṇa: In Govardhana. And that doctor said that he was a Brijavāsī, the ghost was a Brijavāsī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brijavāsī. His age?

Lady: He didn't say.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He didn't say. That is not known.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not known? So she can't see him? Only hears him? Can't see?

Lady: He comes and I can perceive him.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Some kind of perception, but not seeing perception, feeling.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What he wants her to do?

Badrinārāyaṇa: What does he want you to do?

Lady: You know, he actually wants me to be with people who are spiritual.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He wants her to be with people who are very spiritual.

Lady: But he drags me down instead of helping up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He wants to take her to the spiritual authority? Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, something like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where? Then where he wants to take her? Govardhana, or Vṛndāvana, Rādhā Kuṇḍa, where? Spiritual person, where existing?

Lady: He wants me to meet with those.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Where?

Lady: Anywhere.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He wants me to be with devotees anywhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wandering, in the tīrtha?

Lady: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And what relation he wants to have with her? As a motherly affection, or wife's affection, or what affection?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the highest of the spiritual personalities, he wants to be a creeper, a shrub in Vṛndāvana. So what is the position of the shrub and the grass of Vṛndāvana? Uddhava aspiring after that birth. We're to look at things in that way. To become a grass in Vṛndāvana requires highest capacity of devotion. Do you follow?

The sands also on the banks of the Yamunā all person from higher status. And how we can pass over that? How? Only for service. A servant can go on the bed of the king for service. A priest can go on the throne of the Lord if necessary for dressing the Lord. But all worshippable, venerable, and superior stuff to consider.

Jñāna śūnya bhakti. Child kicking the mother, when child is small, on the lap of the mother he's kicking in affection. Mother feels joy. So the atmosphere of affection, love, is very noble and high, and also harmonising. Affection, the basis is service. Service tendency develops into affection, love. No consideration of high and low. The Absolute is carrying the shoe of Nanda Mahārāja. Inconceivable. Through affection it is possible. Most astounding process of realisation, devotion is such. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā. The last result of affection that is devotion is to forcibly attract Kṛṣṇa.

sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

Bhakti, devotion, develops in this way. Kleśa-ghnī. All the troubles are finished, first stage. Śubhadā. All welfare comes. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. When devotee can conceive that mokṣa, mere liberation is nothing, positive gain is necessary, mere liberation has got no value, mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. Sudurllabhā. Still, even neglecting liberation it has to go high. A long path. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. Sudurllabhā. Sāndrānanda -viśeṣātmā. Some automatic, some spontaneous feeling of joy within, inexplicable. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā. And her last gift is to draw Kṛṣṇa towards him, the Autocrat, Absolute, to draw Him towards - this is the gift of devotion. Devotion will be such type. And its basis, unit is self surrendering. Surrendering for the cause has got so much power, however high, may be attracted by affection. Not in any other way. Heart giving, to give, to offer sincere offering of his own self of the finite can draw the Infinite towards him. Hearty attraction, hearty surrender, can attract the Infinite for the finite. Wonderful. Yogamāyā. So bhakti is wonderful, devotion, self surrender is the basis. And progress, die, from deep to deeper reality. Only dynamic death, devotion is dynamic death. Dying, dying, dying, still dying, still dying. In the process of this selfish death in a dynamic character, no end. And it comes from Rādhārāṇī. She's the centre.

[sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana] bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī-śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

The potency, the negative side. The centre, that power that controls the whole negative side, it comes from there. It is Her shadow. She's commanding the whole serving aspect of the Lord in full. Wonderful. Representing the whole negative side, attracting the positive.

Proton and neutron, what is that? Proton and neutron, two aspects of things. Puruṣa, prakṛti. Prakṛti and Puruṣa, the nature and the substance.

Heart giving, improvement, ātma-nivedana, to throw ones own self into the Infinite. And the character of Infinite, that centre carrying current, to catch the centre carrying current, Yogamāyā. And so many units are also being carried towards the centre. We're to have their company, sādhu saṅga. Sādhu means those that are being carried by the centre carrying current, marching towards centre.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Love divine, ruci, the unit is taste, not to master anything, knowledge, to master anything and everything within the fist, to get knowledge. Knowledge tendency, to get everything within his fist. Heart's duty is to know, to appreciate its home, own soil, intuitive power, to understand home, the atmosphere of affection. I understand one aspect, here another aspect. So heart's duty, heart's function is to feel and know who is my own, similar home, to understand the home. The brain cannot understand home. Sweet heart, sweet brain, no such expression. Eh?

Devotees: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Burning brain. Ha, ha, ha. But sweet heart. Like a flame, brain, like a flame, fire. Heart is soothing. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Mahāprabhu gave recognition of the heart. And Bhāgavatam also. The ontology of the heart, superior position. We live there, the comfort, the happiness in the heart, not in the knowledge.

na hi jñānena sadṛśaṁ, pavitram iha vidyate
[tat svayaṁ yoga-saṁsiddhaḥ, kālenātmani vindati]

["Among the aforementioned practices of sacrifice, austerity, and yoga, there is nothing as pure as divine knowledge. After a long time, a person who has achieved perfection in his practice on the path of selfless action realises such knowledge spontaneously within his heart."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.38]

In comparison with energy, brain is superior, selects how to guide energy, what energy is useful, what is not useful, it's the master of the matter. But heart is the master of life, superior to knowledge and energy. Karma, jñāna. And the yoga gives us mystic power, that is also a sort of lord-ship over this material nature in subtle form. But all dismissed.

sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Giving up everything exclusively devoted to the association of the sādhu, and very eager to hear about his Lord of heart. "Where is my heart? Where is my Lord, my Master? There is my heart, and where is heart, I'm there. Where is brain I may not be there. Where is energy I may not be there. But where is heart I'm there." So heart is the all important thing in us, and heart's transaction is devotion. It is noble, it can give itself, and it can have also in return such thing. Heart can conquer heart.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And Mahārāja, heart is the centre of eruption also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eruption.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. As the volcano will erupt from there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eruption. And not the head, not the head of the hill can produce eruption, but the heart.

Badrinārāyaṇa: The head will produce corruption.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here is our Bhāgavata Bhusan.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Purī Mahārāja is always silent.

Badrināràyaṇa: He says he has many questions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Many questions?

Badrināràyaṇa: Yes, too many questions.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Too many questions? And watching without making question he's only watching, trying to get solution from the atmosphere of Dhāma. Dhāma is living. Let me see how living, whether without asking she may fulfil my hunger. Expectant attitude to read and read and gather.

But we're told kīrtana is more effective, more earning. Whatever small I have got, to give it to others that is the dynamic character transaction. To get and to distribute, that is rolling business. Rolling business is kīrtana. Whatever small I have got, to give delivery to that, and imbibe more, indent more. Kīrtana is rolling business. The small capital when it is utilised in rolling it may work for many. More capital coming and going, coming and going. So Mahāprabhu recommended kīrtana. Make you empty, give up and you will have, the nature will supply, and suffers no vacuum. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. More you give, more you have. Dayādhara understands rolling business.

Badrināràyaṇa: Quite well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it? Two sides. Going here, there, takes something from this, and again when comes takes something from there.

Badrināràyaṇa: He's properly adjusted.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. And also very intensified character.

Haṁsadūta brought him to me, "That I can't control him, a man of his position. I'm giving him to you." With this attitude Haṁsadūta came and brought Dayādhara to me. "I don't think that I'm qualified to control him, so I offer him to you." These were his words.

Today Sītā Navami. Day after tomorrow is Lalitā Saptami. And the day after is Rādhāṣṭamī.

Once I heard direct from the lips of Prabhupāda, "The best day of the year, Rādhāṣṭamī. We consider Rādhāṣṭamī to be the best day of the whole year. In infinite, rolling infinite, that the day is considered to be the best for us, most auspicious, and most useful, most liberal, most benevolent, beautiful, everything. Our fortune. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, kemone dharitām de rādhāra mahimā, prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke [madhura vṛndā vipina mādhurī praveśa cāturī sāra
baraja yuvatī bhāvera bhakati śakati hoita kāra]

Who'll come here to inform us, the most noble position of Rādhārāṇī to the world? Heart giving to the Absolute heart giving is there. How can one surrender to the most highest capacity, surrender in the highest capacity, highest standard, She represents. So that's the characteristic of the negative, earnestness to surrender to the positive in the highest degree. And ecstasy, satisfaction in giving. Satisfaction in taking, and satisfaction in giving is of higher order, purer order. And that is in acme there. So what should be our attitude towards that centre of sacrifice, the greatest fortune. And Gaurāṅga came and made it known to the public.

Our Dr. Dinishen [?] told that, "So long the Sati, Savitri, Damayanti, Draupadi, all these ladies character was very much appreciated and considered to be the noblest. But when Rādhārāṇī's character entered through the Brahma-vaivarta Purāṇa, into the literature, all became pale. The character of Rādhārāṇī entered through the Purāṇa into our literature, all other ideals of the ladies so high considered here all became pale."

So Gaurāṅga pointed out the highest acme in our noble aspiration is there in Śrī Rādhikā. So much sacrifice has never been conceived in the world anywhere. Not only twenty four hours engagement, but the degree, the intensity of self giving. Not only quantity but quality, both quantity and quality in its fullest position is there. Gaurāṅga Deva told. And He Himself Kṛṣṇa in the mood of Rādhārāṇī, He knows that very well. Kṛṣṇa knows Rādhārāṇī very well. So much so that He Himself attracted to taste the mood of Rādhārāṇī and became Mahāprabhu.

"What is in Her that's charming Me? I'm told to be centre of all ecstasy, akhila-rasāmṛta-murtiḥ, I'm told. But how to taste Me? How should I know Myself? Only Rādhārāṇī knows Me best, so in Her mood I'm to taste Myself what am I. What am I, and at the same time what is Her mood, what is that thing, that element?"

śrī-rādhāyāḥ praṇaya-mahimā kīdṛśo vānayaivā-
svādyo yenādbhuta-madhurimā kīdṛśo vā madīyaḥ
saukhyaṁ cāsyā mad-anubhavataḥ kīdṛśaṁ veti lobhāt

tad-bhāvāḍhyaḥ samajani śacī-garbha-sindhau harīnduḥ

["Desiring to understand the glory of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's love, the wonderful qualities in Him that She alone relishes through Her love, and the happiness She feels when She realises the sweetness of His love, the Supreme Lord Hari, richly endowed with Her emotions, appears from the womb of Śrīmatī Śacīdevī, as the moon appears from the ocean."] [Caitanya-caritamrta, Ādi-līlā, 1.6]

That Kṛṣṇa came when in the womb of Śacīdevī, He came with these threefold ideas. To understand Him, who is He. And to Whom He's the highest, His worth, His value, Whose value becomes extreme where, in what market? "And how the pleasure, the income, and what is the profit of those that come to exploit Me? I can also be exploited. I'm at their hands." Kṛṣṇa tried to maintain His Own position, but He could do it everywhere, only He could not manage Himself before Rādhārāṇī. As Rādhārāṇī wanted He's forced to be in the same condition. Such is the power controlling the Absolute. Will. "Our free will, I can do anything and everything, but there is some such thing which can control My free will and to attract, and compel Me to follow that idea." Hy asvatantra iva dvija.

sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ]

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

"Though I'm Absolute, but to My devotees I become a play doll in their hand."

There is such power. Apparently that is very - they're all under links, they all come to serve us but become masters. The servants become masters. The service may be so high that the servant becomes master of the master. It is possible. Such is devotion, bhakti.

Sītā Devī is called as Yogamāyā. Advaita patnī. Mahā Viṣṇu. Advaita. And His potency is Yogamāyā, part of Yogamāyā. Jāhnavā Devī of Yogamāyā. Yogamāyā for the beginners. Advaita Prabhu, Sītā Devī, They're the necessity of the beginners. Then in higher plane Nityānanda Prabhu, Jāhnavā Devī, comes to our help. Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...almost non existing to us in our present condition, but it is really the substantial thing, and it has got superseding existence. Others may vanish but faith will stand forever, and through faith only. That is the particular potency of Śrī Rādhārāṇī.

sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana, [bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa]

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī- śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

The ecstasy itself or Himself is Kṛṣṇa. He feels Himself, He tastes Himself, He enjoys Himself. But bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa, but to transmit, to distribute that sort of ecstatic ecstasy, joy to others, it is only possible through faith, through śraddhā. Through faith, 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa, it is the very nature of the hlādinī śakti, that is represented by Rādhārāṇī in full. That can transmit Kṛṣṇa consciousness to outside, to the devotees. So faith, faith is the halo of Rādhikā, Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. Negative combined with positive gives Their understanding, Their utility towards outside. All parts of negatives: the mother negative, the centre negative, can expand, can transmit that sort of faith, that sort of joy. So śraddhā means faith. A peculiar substantial thing that is to be understood by us, understood. Enquire and understand what is that. It is not mere abstract, but,

yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ]

We are wakeful in this material world, but there are others who are completely awake in that plane of faith. And this world of matter is underground, is far away from their conception, the world of enjoyment. This tangible world of enjoyment and exploitation, that is far, far away. They're deeply engaged in that world of service through faith, śraddhā. Even to require to see Kṛṣṇa, that is also a kind of enjoyment to them.

"No, we won't disturb His sweet will. Whenever He likes He may call for us and then I shall get a chance to see Him, otherwise not. For my satisfaction, I shall want Kṛṣṇa. 'Oh, Kṛṣṇa come and stand before me and I shall see You.' That is a kind of imposition of our exploiting nature. The devotee does not want that. "For the satisfaction of my eye, or of my inner hankering You come and You show before me." That is, the real devotees, proper devotion does not allow these thoughts in their mind about Him. Whenever necessity He will feel, He will call for me and I shall get a chance of seeing Him. That is...

Mādhavendra Purī he was fasting, he does not beg even his livelihood from others. If it comes automatically he may take that otherwise he fasts. Kṛṣṇa came and supplied some food to him, and also made the remark, "Why Purī you do not go to beg for your food? Why do you do so?"

We think, "Oh, Mādhavendra Purī was very fortunate. Kṛṣṇa came Himself and supplied food to him."

But higher devotion we find in Sanātana. When Rādhārāṇī came and supplied foodstuff to Rūpa Goswāmī for cooking this paramānna, milk rice, Sanātana Goswāmī was very much disturbed at heart. "What is this Rūpa? Did you aspire after something for me?"

"Yes, I did my Lord, my Gurudeva. I thought that if I get some milk and rice I can prepare paramānna which is very favourite to you; and to invite you for that prasādam."

"Oh! You have done so wrong. It is so tasteful. I have never found such taste in these ordinary things here. It must have some peculiar origin. Who gave you these materials? You wanted and it was supplied to you. Who gave it?"

"A girl came and in the name of their family, guardians, presented this to me."

When Sanātana Goswāmī went to enquire who is that girl, that girl was not found in that village, nearby Yāvaṭa. Then Sanātana Goswāmī could understand that Rādhārāṇī came and supplied this. "We're hunting after Her for service, to serve Her, and She came and served us. What is this? The opposite thing. What have you done my brother, what have you done? You wanted something for me and that was supplied by Her. This is just the opposite. We want Her for Her service, and She came and served us and went away. It is a great misfortune." He was very much dissatisfied and went away with that sort of mind.

Rūpa Goswāmī could not take that prasādam. He invited his Guru and he found that it was just the opposite. "I wanted to satisfy him, to serve him, to satisfy him. But my heart, Lord, thought it otherwise. He was dissatisfied and left the place. How I can take prasādam?" He also ran after him to satisfy.

So Kṛṣṇa carried food for Mādhavendra Purī, that was in some consideration a very great fortune, but here that was done and that was considered to be a great misfortune. So higher kind of devotion never wants that Kṛṣṇa will come and serve us, supply. "Oh, give me darśana," and He will come and give you darśana. To impose our whim on Him, this is not service proper. Whatever He likes He will do. And whatever is necessary from us, if we're given chance to supply that, we shall think ourselves fortunate. Exhaustively eliminated, all our desires to the extreme, and fully to place one self in the disposal of the Supreme Lord; Who is to command, Who is to order, and never to carry out any order, any way. Yoga-kṣemaṁ vahāmy aham.

teṣāṁ nityābhiyuktānāṁ, yoga-kṣemaṁ vahāmy aham]

["I personally assume the whole responsibility of acquiring and protecting the necessities of My fully dependent devotees who are always absorbed in thought of Me alone, and who worship Me exclusively in all respects."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.22]

It is His nature that He's eager to supply everything for His devotees. But devotees do not like that He will carry these necessities to him. Higher devotees they don't like that Kṛṣṇa will supply him with anything, do some service to the devotee. Their pure devotion is like that. Śraddhā, faith, through faith. "He's my Lord, I don't want to have a darśana to satisfy my lower faculties, that 'He is, He is.' That is a very lower class of faith: that once that, 'If I can see Him, then I'm satisfy that He is.' This faith, we have got no capacity to see Him, to be a subject and to make Him object. It is lower kind. But higher kind, 'He is.' Faith, intense faith proves that 'He is, the Cause is.' Where from comes this effect, that wonderful cause of everything is there.

[yat prayanty abhiṣamviśanti, tad brahma tad vijijñāsa]

["The Supreme Brahman is the origin and shelter of all living beings. When there is creation, He brings them forth from their original state, and at the time of annihilation, He devours them. After creation, everything rests in His omnipotence, and after annihilation, everything again returns to rest in Him."]

Cārvāka, Epicurus class: "No, no. No God. No higher substance. Whatever we see on the surface that is enough."

But deeper faith says that the cause is there from which everything is coming, and everything is maintained, and everything at last enters into Him. The cause is there. Only the effect is not everything, but cause is there. And what is the nature of the cause? Some say like Brahman, some say like Paramātmā, some say like Bhagavān. God, destiner and designer of everything. Who has created, and Who is controlling everything are automatically existing with Him, as His potency, particular type. In this way, faith.

sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra [guṇa gāi, yanra kṛpa bhakti dite pare]
[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura]

Give up everything. Give up everything. Only try to keep the faith and everything is there. Everything is there. Don't require any proof, that is meanness. That is meanness to search after proof, whether it is or not. It is that deep faith says 'Yes, He is.'

yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati, [tasyāhaṁ na praṇaśyāmi, sa ca me na praṇaśyati]

["For one who sees Me in everything and sees the whole creation in Me alone, I am never unseen for him, and he is never unwitnessed by Me - he never fails in thinking of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

Everything in Him and He's everywhere. What is His characteristic? What I'm searching for? Oṁkāra, the seed of everything, theism. The seed of theism is Oṁkāra. Oṁ means "Yes," a big "Yes," always. Wherever I cast my glance, eye, to search something, in one word it is, "Yes." What you are searching it is. You are searching for happiness, pleasure, joy, here the joy is fulfilment. Yes, fulfilment, in one word the answer: "Yes," Whatever you're searching about, fulfilment. You're in want? You want fulfilment? Fulfilment is there, in one word. Then it becomes like Gāyatrī, then becomes Veda, then becomes Vedānta, then it comes to, has the shape of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the līlā. The Upaniṣads they say, Śrutis they say, after getting the advantage of participating in the rasa līlā of Krsna, "Oh, we could not conceived so much! We could not say to the public about rasa of such a higher type. Yes."

ko hyevānyāt kaḥ prāṇyāt yadeṣa ākāśa ānando na syāt eṣa hyevānandayati]

[Taittirīya Upaniṣad, 2.7] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 9.2] & [Collection of ślokas, 406]

"Rasaṁ, He's ānandam, ānanda, rasa, ānanda, is of this type. It has got such a play? We could not understand so much, and we could not give it to the public. So we beg forgiveness My Lord! You are so ecstatic substance, that cannot be conceived in any way. This is the full play of Your joyous pastimes. We could not catch it. So we beg forgiveness. We failed, we fail to intimate to the public, to ordinary people, that the joy, the higher joy is of such kind. The fulfilment to the extreme. What we rather hated, the last connection, kāma, the last connection with the hate, that it is nasty. But this is so beautiful, it is so higher, so beautiful. Even the union of the man and woman, something like that, which is to be hated, which is to be eliminated. And we find the ecstatic joy includes that even. That is also present, it is? We could not understand my Lord. We rather, what we supplied that is rather dry thing in comparison with this sort of joyous life."

So faith; what is faith, what is sraddha? We should go to the devotees for the faith. So many pillars standing with faith! Electricity is everywhere we're told, but there are so many dynamos that can show electric power. So, there are so many devotees, past and present, with whom we can find real Godliness. They're standing like pillars, the faith, their dealings, everything.

We shall go to the Christ, his ideal, his way of sacrifice, that will encourage faith in us. That will increase faith in us. "Yes." Christ proves.

So many jīva. Prahlāda. What sort of devotee Prahlāda is! When we come to this in history of a such life like Prahlāda, then our heart is filled up. "Oh, faith is, God is there."

In this way, the devotees, when we have attention to the devotees we rise to a particular higher standard of faith. And they help us. We're in safe position when we've got an attention towards the devotee. So many pillars standing and proving that "He is there." Substantially neglecting these things for our enjoyment, and stands with their head erect to show, to say, to declare, that there is the Supreme Entity. "We have seen, we have experienced all this."

So faith in devotees it is very substantial help to the devotees. To have faith in devotee, Vaiṣṇava. So their position is not flickering, it is firm position, who have got faith in the devotees, Vaiṣṇava. So when one has got faith in Vaiṣṇava, devotees, then his faith, his devotion is of some tangible character. Otherwise, this connection, the beginners, when no faith in devotee, but some abstract faith in the Lord, that is not reliable. The devotion comes to reliable standard when one can find devotion in the devotee and gives importance to them. Above śāstra, above scripture, the devotees are there. And our faith in the devotees in a real way is something tangible for us, madhyama adhikāra.

And uttama adhikāra in the higher stage, one can see the trace of the Supreme Entity everywhere. In every movement, that it is His will. He is there, He is there. Only the middle things that gives opposition, that is gone, and direct connection with the Supreme awakes. The barriers within, that is taken off. That is His līlā. Sometimes hide-and-seek, He sometimes likes to play hide-and-seek with the devotees. Sometimes comes clear and sometimes go vague. And then the devotee begins to cry. "Where You are my Lord? I don't feel You, I can't see You. How can I stand? How can I continue my life? How can I live? Without You I can't live. So charming, so joyous, and so fulfilment giving. I can't stay without Your connection." In this way they begin to wail and cry.

["For one who sees Me in everything and sees the whole creation in Me alone, I am never unseen for him, and he is never unwitnessed by Me - he never fails in thinking of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni [bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ]

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

He is. All other things are only dependent things. If we want to trace their cause, cause is something, and that cause of cause is another thing, in this way. But when we find that personal beauty, charm, then we think, "Oh, this is the final thing we're searching after, the whole world here is searching after."

"Oh, you mountain, you Himālaya, you Alps, you Sumeru! What are you searching for with your head erect? Have you seen the creator of this world, and have you attained fulfilment of your life? Have you seen Him?"

So in that way a devotee feels in his heart, everything is searching for Him, and He's the fulfilment of life. In the life or death, life and death, nothing tangible which should attract our attention. So in this phenomenal, in the world, in the world of death and birth our inner heart search after something eternal. Eternal, sat, and the consciousness satisfy our knowledge, and cit, and ānandam, giving our, satisfying our hankering after beauty and love. Love is the fulfilment of life we shall be able to understand. When love awakens the function of brain is gone away. What we're searching, brain is searching for something, and when that is got he retires. Retires, that is the peculiar particular phase of our life.

Wherever we are we're automatically searching, searching, searching for that Yes, big Yes. Oṁ. Oṁ means big Yes; what you're searching it is, it is. What your inner heart hankers after that exists, that is existing, and that is solved. From Oṁkāra the Gāyatrī, whatever apparently you see, go to the inner thing, the object of the Lord of your search is there. And then the Vedas - veda bharati. Then Bhāgavatam coming to give description of the ecstatic side, joyful side of the Lord. That He comes so close to the finite; Infinite comes so close to the finite, that the finite thinks He's one of us. He's one of us. He plays the part of such near friend to us, that we think that He's one of us. And that is His highest grace, kindness. And also our highest attainment is there in Vṛndāvana.

Mahāprabhu told that. "Eliminate all other things and make hit of that Vṛndāvana Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, the God of Gods, Lord of Lords, He is. Source of all, so many majestic show of the supernatural power. So search for Kṛṣṇa." Mahāprabhu told in one word. "No other alternative, no other duty in this world. What I say, search for Kṛṣṇa. Take His Name and talk about Him. Whatever you do you mingle with Kṛṣṇa consciousness and go on. You will get your fulfilment of life very shortly, very swiftly. Go on taking His Name and searching, and talking. Whether you are sleeping, eating, working, quarrelling, whatever you're doing mixed with Kṛṣṇa, and go on doing, anyhow."

But Kṛṣṇa, that may not be only a sham thing, not hypocrisy, but be sincere. Sincere search is necessary for Him. And that you will get help in that direction from the real devotees. With the help of the scriptures and the devotees, and your sincerity within you, go on searching about Kṛṣṇa. "Where are You?" Everywhere, whomever you meet talk about Krsna, don't talk about death. Death or the prey of death, the children, the wife, the money, everything is to evaporate next moment. Don't think any more about them. The eternal joy, in every step of your life, only do for that. Kṛṣṇa is not your concoction. Kṛṣṇa, He's the source. Source is sādhu and śāstra, there, not in this mundane world of your enjoyment. And neither the abhorrence, the renunciation, will you find Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is in the sādhu, the positive enquiry of the heart.

[andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

Those that are carried by the charm of the external world they can't understand what is their inner requirement. They're unfortunate. So the main thing, to keep company with the sādhu who has got real faith in Kṛṣṇa. It is very, very, very rare in this world to find such a sādhu. But if you once get that, make it the crown of your head, and any way by the help of that association.

'sādhu saṅga,' 'sādhu saṅga,' - sarva śāstre kaya / lava-mātra sādhu-saṅge sarva-siddhi haya

["The verdict of all revealed scriptures is that by even a moment's association with a pure devotee, one can attain all success."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.54]

Śukadeva Goswāmī says, "One moment is sufficient for your highest attainment, if properly used." If one moment can be properly used sufficiently, no necessity of long, long, long life, no necessity. But only a point of time is sufficient to solve the whole problem of your life if it's properly used with sādhu saṅga. Sādhu saṅga, agent of Krsna, try to associate, at all cost try to associate, to utilise that. One moment is sufficient.

kiṁ pramattasya bahubhir, parokṣair hāyanair iha
varaṁ muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate śreyase yataḥ

What is the necessity of ages, and ages, long and long, if we're unconscious of our own interest? And if properly used one moment is sufficient to solve the whole problem of our life, for which eternally we're wandering about. Hare Kṛṣṇa. We must be wakeful to our interest; we must not be negligent. Wakeful, wakeful of our own interest.

And Mahāprabhu came to tell us what is our real interest within. "You do not know your own heart, you do not know, you are a foreigner to your own heart and its demand. This is the wealth within your heart, and try to find out that." That was the direction of Mahāprabhu. "It is within you, and the foreign things you are to eliminate and your heart find you'll find a temple of Kṛṣṇa. Your heart within that is temple of Kṛṣṇa. So you search your own heart you will find Kṛṣṇa there with the help of a proper guide. Proper guide, it is not a foreign thing to you, it is there. Every heart is a temple of the Lord. It is your own thing, your home, back to God back to home."

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any experience about the Lord must have to come from upper to lower, does not depend on us. Only we can increase the intensity of hankering. That is in our sevonmukhe, serving attitude. And it is His whim whether He will come to this plane or not. That is transcendental substance, He moves according to His sweet will. He may come down or may not, His whim, He's free. Only we can increase our earnestness for His presence. Potency and the owner of the potency. Though inseparably connected, but we are a particular potency, a marginal potency we should think generally. And He's everywhere, He's nowhere, everything in Him, nothing in Him; peculiar mystic position. So our duty is to try to serve Him, and we should not make much of feeling Him, either by mind, or by body, or even by intelligence. He's such, He's everywhere, He's nowhere. In a flash He may show, "Yes, I'm here." And when we're earnestly searching Him, we find nowhere. Independent mentality, His nature is independent, He's such. We can search but we cannot say that we shall find Him.

yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ]

["Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

Our duty to devote cent percent, and most intensely for Him, only to serve Him. And service does not mean that we must come in direct contact with Him. Remote service, that is also service. Through His devotees, that is tangible something. We shall try to serve Him through His devotees, without any expectation of any reward, even that we can have His darśana once. No, no desire, only to serve, only want to be utilised by Him. That little energy that we've got, that must be utilised for His cause. We're His potency and we should prove that we belong to Him. He may embrace, or He may kick out, or even He may be indifferent. Whatever He likes He may do. But I have no other alternative but to serve Him. This sort of exclusive attitude, which has got no plea, that 'if He does not do so I won't want to go to Him. I shall join the atheist company, or the māyāvādī company. I shall go. If you don't come to satisfy me then I shall seek my own way, I don't want you." Ha, ha, ha. If there's such a tinge then we're far away. No other alternative.

Yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ. We've got no other alternative but to serve Him. Search means to serve. I want to be utilised for His cause, whatever petty service it may be. Nothing is petty when anything is in His connection, the least connection, from far away. He need not please me, even by feeling His darśana in a lightening way. The whole thing depends on Him, unconditional. If conditional then we're far away. Unconditional offering towards Him, that is the faith of the highest type. Highest type of the faith is of such characteristic. No condition, no condition, only I want to be satisfied if I get only a chance of His service from far, far away, through some medium, or many mediums. Not only one medium, but dāsa-dāsa-dāsānudāsatvam. Servant of the servant, of the servant, of the servant, far, far away but His connection. So my energy may go through the devotees towards that direction, towards the centre, towards the centre of fulfilment. Anyhow I want my connection with the greatest fulfilment of the whole world. Everyone is searching, whom, that fulfilment of all our inner necessity.

Giving up all phases of duties, who can, whose search eliminates all sorts of duties. No obligation to anyone, but only one, and He's my Lord, Kṛṣṇa. And more laudable who is the greatest servitor of Him, are to contact to the higher, greatest agent. Not direct contact, but contact with the greatest agent of His service. That will be more safe, and more higher, more high connection. I'm for Him, I'm for none but for Him. Ananya bhajan, all eliminating...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...cannot but be there, but in different forms.

bhukti-mukti-spṛhā [yāvat, piśācī hṛdi varttate
tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet]

["As long as the two ghosts of exploitation and renunciation remain haunting the heart, the ecstasy of devotion to Kṛṣṇa will never awaken there."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.22]
[Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40, commentary]

The main thing may not be traced any tinge of exploitation, that is enjoyment. We may not run after any section of enjoyment, even including that God association enjoyment. No enjoyment, fully purged out of enjoying spirit. If any section of enjoyment then we'll be within this Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, this brahmāṇḍa. And renunciation, a tinge of renunciation, retirement, enjoyment or retirement, then we'll not be allowed to enter into the world of infinity, Vaikuṇṭha. Vaikuṇṭha means unlimited, kuṇṭha means limitation, and Vaikuṇṭha means the world of unlimited. Want to be member of the infinite world. And finite means our separate interest can measure the infinite and say "this is finite." A portion of infinite when our ego wants to measure it, "This is my kingdom, mine, this is my friend's kingdom." In this way, our separate interest whatever he sees that is this māyā. Māyā, misconception, misunderstanding in the infinite. So all these should be dissolved, and also the nature of retirement, that is strike. "If I can't enjoy, then I stop work, I stop energising." That sort of reactionary mentality, that also must be left.

Then we're to face only the positive side. Positive side, the positive, what is the positive side? The wave from the centre, līlā. What is the wave? That is fulfilling the desire of the Supreme. We'll be face to face with that thing. If any nature for separate interest, or any nature of reactionary retirement, then we can't have any touch of the eternal flow, to satisfy the will of the Absolute. When two sorts of whims we're free from, then we can come in connection with the eternal flow. All points everywhere are in action to satisfy the centre. This sort of thing. But it is not dry, it is happy, it is constructive, it is nourishing. That we'll be able to feel. A very small touch of that wave will make us help to understand that we do not want anything but this thing. And this is our desire, journey, homeward journey. And you want or demand anything else for us, that is a foreign country and that is filled with death, disease, infirmity, rebirth, all these troubles. Misconception of the soul with the material things, or the mortal things, identification with mortal things.

So if we're relieved from that piśācī, bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat piśācī - piśācī, ghost. These two are foreign things capturing our soul, piśācī. The idea of renouncement, and the idea of retirement, and the idea of enjoyment, they're like ghosts, taken possession of our ego and they're playing with our ego. We're playing at their mischievous hands, and we must get out of that, that sort of conspiracy of māyā. We must be free and a free member of the infinite world, that is where there is the noble flow of dedication. No aspiration of limited type, but wholesale dedicating flow is going towards the centre and all concerned. And that is our home, that is the soil where we can live eternally. There, our individual, and no death, no birth, no infirmity, no disease. That sort of, our inner self will come out to mix with the members of that soil.

Then what was his question? Anubhāva. Anubhāva should not be relied on, that is, "This is God, this is our, my conception. The conception, that touch I have got; touch of God." Not easily.

There was one Rāmadāsa Bābājī, I saw him personally before I joined the Maṭha. Many ordinary people were thinking that he's a great devotee. Whenever he was taking the Name he's shedding tears like anything, and also some liquid substance oozing from his nose, and tears continuous. And he was seen to be in some abnormal meditating position. And two gentlemen, two sides with two napkins are always cleansing his tears and his saliva that's coming from his mouth. And he's half mad taking the Name. Some ordinary people, they're atheist they say, "Oh, that is some..." They do not believe in God, generally, they say, "Oh, he's displaying some hobby." And ordinary people that have some faith in God, they took, "Oh, he's a very high class devotee."

But our Guru Mahārāja discarded that. "That this is an external play; no connection with proper God conception."

Iswarga pichila shante tadad vyasa parepita satva varsa bina pishu compar _____ [?]

Even there may not be a tinge of pure devotion, one can have mental imitation of such type.

In drama also we find that a man being fully drunk he's playing the part of a devotee and shedding tears and dancing madly, as if he's great devotee. By practising we can acquire that mental position where we can shed tears, and we can show many feats as if we're great devotees. Imitation, that is very injurious to the real devotion. So, only show of some external, peculiar position, does not show that he's got pure devotion within him. Very, very rare thing devotion proper, sudurllabhā.

[sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

Even when we can neglect the proposal of liberation, emancipation, wholesale liberation, emancipation, that proposal also belittled; we get a little speck of devotion proper. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt, is very light, very lower position. The position of emancipation, that is also very lower thing. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā. Yet, we may not expect that we have got devotion. Devotion is so rarely to be found. In one word, when we say that we have got some devotion, we're not in devotion. Rather, when we can find that we've got nothing, nothing, no taste for any other thing but only we want something, and we can't think what is that. But we like the devotees, we like the scriptures of devotion, taste is that side, but not getting anything; that is rather a sober position. We like the devotees, we like the scriptures, divine scriptures, but we have not got anything. That is a healthy position. So vacant, because we shall keep in our mind, we have gone to get the connection of the Infinite, of the Absolute. Being a negligent part of a finite thing, I want the connection of the Absolute Whole.

So what should be my price? How should be my price for that? We should not try to purchase in a very low price. To serve the devotees, that will be something tangible. And to go on with the practices that are required of us. That is the most important thing, to go on, to continue with the program what is recommended by the scriptures and by the saints also. To go on, to go on, that itself should be our reward. We're reading about Him, we're serving the saints, we're hearing their words; that is a sort of engagement. If I'm satisfied with that, that is something. That cannot be underestimated, the company of the saints, the company of the scriptures. Without mixing with such a robbery that is going on in this world, material thing, what is present this moment, next moment nothing. This moment so many things, and the next moment nothing. This sort of treachery world, full of treachery that world, we're out of that. We're disgusted with that treacherous aspect of the world, which charm us and engages us in a treacherous soil, now something, next moment nothing. So to give up that and we're trying for something eternal, substantial. Sat cit ānandam. Eternal existence, and uncontaminated consciousness, and after all the fulfilment of all our inner necessities, the corresponding engagement of all our, the whole of our existence.

If we're captured by this call, the universal call of the Lord, and we try to do that, that is enough, enough. If, as much as possible for me I'm going to attain the absolute call.

"I shall take off all your burden, you simple come to Me, give up all your duties."

The faith and the action on the basis of such faith, that is a great thing in us, as much as our capacity, if we can follow that. And that is possible only with the company of such exclusive devotees of Him. We shall enjoy when we're in the company of His devotees. We shall feel that we're very happy. We have got the child of the same soil. Home members we're meeting. His eternal satisfaction is of that type, then we're something safe, holding safe position. We want to recognise what is our home; and where we're travelling that is a foreign land, all these things. The inner feeling of the heart. But no miracle we should try to find, that some miracle will come to show. I'm a tiny soul, and everything maybe miracle to me. So many yogīs, mystic persons, they can show so many miracles and capture me. It is easy to capture me. A soul, a tiny soul like me may be captured by many miracles. Miracle-men they're powerful, there are many in the world. Let God save us from their hands, from that miraclists. So, we must not allow ourselves to be the prey of so many miracles, that charm may leave us once for all. So, bhukti-mukti ādi-vāñchā [yadi mane haya, sādhana karile prema utpanna nā haya]

["If one is infected with the desire for material enjoyment or material liberation, he cannot rise to the platform of pure loving service unto the Lord, even though he may superficially render devotional service according to the routine regulative principles."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.175]

All these alternative prospects they may retire from once for all. And I want the Lord of my heart Who can give fullest satisfaction to the innermost. All the atoms of my constitution may have got their correspondent engagement, and of the highest quality.

That proposal is given by the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava School, under the direction of Śrī Caitanyadeva, Śrī Gaurāṅga-Nityānanda, Vṛndāvana proposal. The Infinite He's in the nearest position of the finite, aprākṛta. Where the Infinite has come nearest to the finite, as if one of them. None can recognise easily whether He's Infinite. When He's so close, so own, so near... Mahāprabhu suggested us, "Go and try to have a chance of your fortune there, in Vṛndāvana, where the Absolute,

aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma

[Raghupati Upādhyāya says: "Those who fear rebirth in this world may follow the advice of the Vedic scriptures - others may follow the Mahābhārata - but as for me, I follow Nanda Mahārāja, in whose courtyard the Supreme Absolute Truth plays as a child."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.96]

"The wonderful process, the Nanda and Yaśodā has captured the Absolute so that to crawl on their compound. Try to have a position, whatever negligent there, try your fortune."

We're out for that search of fortune. All other proposals eliminated. Aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma. Gopa-vadhūṭī-vitaṁ brahma.

[kam prati kathayitum īśe, samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu
go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī-vitaṁ brahma]

["To whom can I tell it, and whoever will believe it, that the Supreme Absolute, Param Brahman, the Paramour of the damsels of Vraja, is enjoying in the groves on the banks of the Yamunā?"]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.98]

Inconceivable that Brahman has come, the Greatest, the Absolute has come to search for the least love of the damsels of the gopī class. So near, so near; so close, so close. And in such an ordinary rural way He has approached to us. Try your fortune there. And we're out to do that.

Under the guidance of Śrī Caitanyadeva, Who is supposed to be the combination of the Two: Positive-Negative together. That the Positive distributing Himself, He's busy, His business is to distributed Himself to others, that infinitely and inconceivably generous aspect of the Supreme.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So we must not search for any sentiment within us, whether it is divine or not.

There is a tale, one disciple he's engaged in the service of his Guru. Then one person from Vaikuṇṭha sent to fetch him. "The Lord is satisfied with your service of your Gurudeva, and He's calling for you, come."

"No, no. I have no time to attend your call. I'm very busy in the service of my Gurudeva. I have no time to attend your call of Vaikuṇṭha. We're so busy, we have got engagement under the service and guidance of the Vaiṣṇava here. I don't like to be disturbed in this position, Vaiṣṇava sevā."

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswami, the greatest exponent of this faith, Rādhā dāsyam, he says that, "We won't be fascinated to be carried by the proposal of the higher level service, sākhya. I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of a servant, I shall always. I'm not so high class; I won't consider my self to be high class servant, I shall always tend to go towards lower class of service. But He will forcibly take me to higher service. "No, you no longer serve in that way, but you must serve in this higher class." But my tendency, No, no. I do not - the confidentially service I'm not fit for that my Lord. There are higher servitors, You engage them for Your confidential service in that group. I shall go to serve in the lower level." That tendency is safe for us. Always tending towards lower service. And it is His business to take me up forcibly to engage to higher service. "No, you are qualify to render such service. No longer you should remain in the lower group." It is His business. But the tendency of the servitors will be always to the lower. Dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu. "I like the service of a servant, and not the service of a friend."

That should be the normal tendency of a devotee; he's safe. So no ambition, even in that world, no ambition. So servant of the servant, of the servant, of the servant, we hear that in - but it is not exaggeration, but it is the real thing. We should - must find this sort of substance within us, then we're safe, we're in good position. So that,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

One cannot, can never be deceived if he does not deceive himself.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If we do not like to deceive ourselves then none can deceive us. So such injustice cannot stay in the government of the Lord Supreme, that anyone will deceive another. No. This is all concoction on the external world. But really from the absolute sense, none can deceive none, only he's responsible for his own.

vestita karma hetuna [?] We're acquiring our future position. That sort of freedom is given to us, so none is responsible in the absolute sense. Then if we enter in the association of the rogues, that influence will come in me. But ultimately the responsibility with us. Asat saṅga, and I must try - there is bad, I should not mix with them. If I mix with them then I contaminate that thing. There is poison, if I take the poison that effect will come in me, otherwise not. So, as in food, medicine, so many things, as we are to choice, and that sort of freedom is given to us.

One may question, "If vulnerable we are, why freedom giving to us? That is injustice."

But it is said, without freedom no līlā is possible. Free cooperation, that means līlā, that should be of the higher type of pastimes. Only to force anyone for service, that is no service at all, that is no service. But our position we should take that we are slaves. But really He has not created us as slave. Slavery is our greatest prospect. He's so high, He's so high, we should take it like that. Free service to... free slavery, free slavery. We shall adore this slavery; slave position to Him. He's so high, He's so good, and so great. As much as we can offer to Him we're benefited so much.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Slaves will also be given freedom in their service. So freedom is inherent everywhere. But slavery means wholly given, wholly given to the cause, and we get the equal response from that. As much as we can give we can get so much, confidence. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I can't say any longer. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī!
Śrīpad Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!
Sevā Vṛnda kī jaya! Hari Nāma.

85.10.16.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...two sorts of consciousness. Consciousness of the higher and the consciousness of the lower objective world. The connection with the lower objective world that binds us with misery. And a relation with the superior consciousness that lifts us up, gives us fortune. One by dedication, another by enjoyment. Enjoyment is bad and devotion is good. Towards the devotion there is the Lord, and towards the enjoyment there is the misery. There's so many things to be enjoyed and that is fascination towards hell, towards a reaction.

bhaktis tvayi sthiratarā bhagavan yadi syād, daivena nah phalati divya-kiśora-mūrttiḥ muktih svayaṁ mukulitāṇjali sevate 'smān, dharmārtha-kāma-gatayaḥ samaya-pratīkṣāḥ

["O Supreme Lord, if our devotion for You were more steadfast, Your adolescent form would naturally arise (appear) within our hearts. Then (there would not be the slightest necessity to pray for the triple pursuits of religiosity, gain, and sensual desire [dharma, artha, kāma], and their negation in the form of liberation [mukti], because) mukti will personally attend us (as a concomitant subsidiary fruit of devotion, in the form of deliverance from ignorance), her hands cupped in prayer (like a preordained maidservant); and the fruits of bhukti (transitory pleasure culminating in attainment of heaven) will eagerly await their orders (from us, should any necessity arise for them in the service of Your lotus feet)."]

[Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura's Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam, 107] & [Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, 3.19]

Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura's Karṇāmṛtam. Bhaktis tvayi sthiratarā bhagavan. You my Lord, if my dedication, veneration to You is permanent, is in settled stage, and daivena nah phalati divya-kiśora-mūrttiḥ, and if it reaches to such height that we can find divya-kiśora-mūrttiḥ, two young pair engaged in that highest pastime - if we can reach so far to find out the eternal pastimes of the Divine Couple, if we can reach so much, muktih svayaṁ mukulitāṇjali sevate. Oh, the facility of liberation, emancipation, with folded palms come to serve us in any way we like. Dharmārtha-kāma-gatayaḥ samaya-pratīkṣāḥ. And dharma - the good result of dutifulness, artha - money making, kāma - the objects of sense perception, they're all ready waiting outside whenever a call they'll come with folded palms. "What do you want my master, my lord?" That will be our position. Dharma, artha, kāma, wait outside. "What do you want?" Whenever calling them they're "What do you want me to do?" And mukti, the liberation will always move around me with folded palms while doing service of different type. If in our fortune we can raise up to such height that we can find that Divine Couple engaged in happy pastimes _____ [?]

Who showed in his life a peculiar example, from the house of the prostitute he went straight to Vṛndāvana and got the grace of the Supreme Entity Absolute, in his life. He was so much engrossed, almost swallowed by the sensualism of the lowest type. And from that position in a single life how he could raise himself to the highest stage of realisation of the Beautiful. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam.

Mahāprabhu took two books from the south, one Brahma-saṁhitā and another Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam. Kṛṣṇa-Karṇāmṛtam about the pastimes of Vṛndāvana, and Brahma-saṁhitā the ontological basis of the Absolute, that the Lord of Vṛndāvana He's the highest conception of reality.

The Kṛṣṇa līlā is not a matter of history. History occurs, events come and can't repeat any time. It's an eternal flow. What is going back never comes generally. Though there are words 'history repeats itself.' In nature but not the actual fact, may repeat its nature, but what is gone is gone.

But Kṛṣṇa līlā in the eternal world it is not so. It may present every time every second the same thing, so it's called nitya līlā, eternal pastimes, crossing the limitation, jurisdiction of the history. History past is past, dead past, past is dead. But the eternal pastimes of the Lord is eternal, nitya, always present. Every līlā is always present. He can present Himself in any form always, simultaneously. His past, present, future, simultaneously, to one something, to another, another thing.

When entering the arena of Kaṁsa different groups are seeing Him in ways. Same thing is seen by different sections of people in different ways. According to their inner nature they're seeing Him.

Even the blind can see Him if He wills. If He wills to show Himself to anyone, though blind he can see Him clearly. Because this eye of flesh is not necessary to see Him. Only by His will power He can show Himself to any position.

That was the case with Dhṛtarāṣṭra in Kuru Sabhā. Dhṛtarāṣṭra told, "For the time being, give me my Lord my eyesight so that I can see Your wonderful figure what the others are seeing and they're singing in praise of You. For the time being only remove my blindness. You can do anything."

"No blindness to be removed Dhṛtarāṣṭra. I say you see Me and you'll see Me."

And Dhṛtarāṣṭra saw by His order. Ha, ha, ha.

Order. His wish is everything, simply. His will is everything, the cause of all existence.

They wanted to make Draupadī naked, but Draupadī's appeal reached Him and He sent some cloth and the cloth became infinite. As much drawing cloth so her cloth was there, taking the infinite character, the cloth. But Draupadī's cloth is everything. Will. _____ [?] everything.

Such high potency, or such high nature, is in the prime cause. We're people accustomed to a kind of thinking - 'this is good, this is bad. And this is possible, this is impossible.' So many things we're acquainted with, the rules of thought. But does not apply in His case. All our experience will fail to fill up a very negligible part of His kingdom.

So He's of wonderful stride, adbutkrāma, in the case of Vāmana Avatāra it is told. At one stride He covered the whole world, whole earth. Another stride He captured the whole of the heaven. With the third stride wanted a place where to put. Adbutkrāma, that of wonderful stride, padaki [?] that all steps are wonderful. Wonder, source of all wonders to our tiny brain. Ha, ha. He's everywhere. He's here also with His full representation everywhere. He's everywhere, He's nowhere. Everything in Him, nothing in Him.

"Try to understand My peculiar position Arjuna."

Mystery of mystery. Mystery of all mysteries. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Even our own soul is astonishing to our worldly experience.

āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam, āścaryavad [vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

We even do not know the very nature, extraordinary nature of our own self. That is also of very high order. But with our attention focused towards some mortal things and some very mean laws. We're introduced and captured with the meanest aspect of the world. This is the consequence of the mood of enjoyment. We want to enjoy, we want to exploit. A good exploiter is a king to us. But exploitation in itself is degrading, is very mean and low. Exploitation takes us to the lowest position and makes us victim of the greatest reaction. Exploitation, enjoyment, we're in the midst of, we do not know anything but enjoyment, and we want to understand anything and everything in terms of enjoyment. So filthy, so degraded position we have got - enjoyment, enjoyment, exploitation. Exploitation is the meanest nature of things, exploit, hateful. We must get out of that ghost of exploitation. And there is another ghost, that renunciation, idleness. But the noble thing is dedication.

We got a telegram from Āśrama Mahārāja yesterday. _____ [?]
"We're saved, and we're in dedication. We're saved by the grace of the Lord from the havoc of that heavy earthquake, and we're in dedication, dedicated life."

Two ghosts, one of renunciation, another of exploitation. To get out of that nightmare, that mania, our selection, our standard of measuring things good and bad, exploitation. And then in exploitation there is some regular and irregular, adharma, dharma, duty.
And in renunciation, so many great stalwarts of this plane they recommend renunciation. The highest kind of renunciation that is to stop the dynamic life. Dead stop, that may not be the prospect of any conscious man, dead stop. Dead stop in life, is that to be any goal of life by the saner section?
Life of humility, life of dedication. Not only ordinary dedication for the environment, but dedication for the highest good, the highest form of life. There in the lowest stage it is calculative, and the highest stage it is spontaneous, automatic. And there, really, the joy is there, in quality, quantity, in every way, the real life is there. Life is there, and this is the worst shadow, the perverted reflection here. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

ātmaiva hy ātmano bandhur, ātmaiva ripur ātmanaḥ]

["The living being must be delivered from the dark well of material life by means of the mind detached from sense objects, and he must never in any way be flung down into the material world by the mind enchanted by sense objects - because the mind is sometimes his friend, and in another situation the very same mind is rather the enemy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.5]

We're told the key is in our own hand. The freedom by which we can associate with this and that and to live the result accordingly. Ultimately we're told the key is in our own hand. None to be blamed for our present condition. But there is always a possibility of noble help extended to us. We must accept that. Our past actions also come to help to guarantee in every case, good, bad, everywhere. And in the eternal aspiration also, sukṛti. But ultimately the free possibility of free action is not taken out of us in any stage, whether we're reduced to a level of a tree birth. There also the freedom is within. It is curious to think that a tree has got independence freely, but it is there in suppressed position. Freedom is within us also. We can try to understand a little that we're free, but our freedom also covered by so many circumstances that we may not think that we're free. We're forced by circumstances we may think, but still we're free for our selection of any path, good, bad. Our existence is very small, and freedom also small. According to our meagre position our freedom is also of that kind, but freedom is there, a particle, imaginary particle.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] but the Australian paper wrote he's a Calcuttan. He was born and brought up in Calcutta environment, a student of _____ [?] At that time he went to our Guru Mahārāja with one of his friends named _____ [?] he told me.

And his opinion after seeing Guru Mahārāja, "That after long time the preaching responsibility has come to a proper place. Mahāprabhu has selected such a person in his hand His glory will be spread throughout the world." That was his impression after first connection, association with our Guru Mahārāja.

After long time, next he met Guru Mahārāja in Allahabad, about after ten years.

Once one historian was his professor, afterwards he asked him, "How did you see our Guru Mahārāja?"

_____ [?] a renowned historian and also a good scholar. I forget the name of that gentleman. Kalidas _____ [?] perhaps. "How did you see our Guru Mahārāja?"

His remark was, "A living encyclopaedia." He told. That historian remarked about our Guru Mahārāja, "That we found him a living encyclopaedia." In one word he has given his opinion, "living encyclopaedia." And he was renowned scholar _____ [?] and was the professor of Scottish Church College when Swāmī Mahārāja was living there.

_____ Gas. Ha, ha, ha. Bile pitta kaphi gananam sunina mani caranam [?]
Bile, pitta, kapha, according to Indian medical name. The gas, the bile, and the _____ [?] cough?

Devotee: Mucus.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mucus. Water, fire, and air, three things in the ether, that _____ [?] earth. Earth mainly influenced by water, and also water by heart, and also heat by air. And all fighting, struggling within ether. This is material world. Then the mental, outcome of the mental energy. "I want this, I do not want. I like this, I do not like that." This is ahaṅkāra, ego. And with a speck of intelligence, "Don't like that, don't take that. Take this, take that." These sort of things guide things there in our material ego. Above that the soul, the feeler of everything, good or bad.

[kārya-kāraṇa-kartṛtve, hetuḥ prakṛtir ucyate]
puruṣaḥ sukha-duḥkhānāṁ, bhoktṛtve hetur ucyate

["Material nature has been delineated as responsible for the cause of the domineering force of the senses, and the effect as the material body; and the (conditioned) soul himself is known to be responsible for his accrued happiness and unhappiness."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.21]

How to differentiate the spirit from the matter. Matter is energy, but soul, the feeler of good or bad, the party, the person who feels good or bad, sorrow or happiness, the feeler. Feeler is another substance, and which is felt that is another substance. Prakṛti, Puruṣa. Kārya-kāraṇa-kartṛtve, hetuḥ prakṛtir ucyate. All the activity we find here, all the movement, that is due to that material energy. And the feeler of everything, the knower, the conceiver, that is soul. Like eye, seeing anything and everything, soul like the eye.

In Sāṅkhya philosophy, prakṛti, puruṣa, has been compared, just on the shoulder of a blind man, a crippled man taking position on the shoulder of a blind man. And both are passing through the street. Who is passing, who is moving, he's blind. And who is crippled on his shoulder he has got eye, he can guide. So soul is crippled like guide, can see, but he cannot move in this way. And the blind man he's commander of energy he can move here, there, he can carry, but he's blind. Such analogy is given.

So soul is the knower, feeler, the subjective existence. And the energetic aspect is done by the force, prakṛti: Force and consciousness. So we're so much engrossed with force, we only require force, energy. But we've forgotten that what type of the feeler of the force we are, that we're astonishing. If we try to understand our own self we'll be dumbfound.

"Oh! What is this, I'm such and such? I have nothing to do with this world of mortality. I can live independent of this mortal world, is it?"

Then he'll be given to understand there is Supersoul. In the material world there is heat world, air, water, heat, so many things, up to stone, hard things, stone, wood, developed condition in the material. So in the subjective world there is also development. Soul, Supersoul, Super Supersoul, in this way that is going to infinite.

We're taṭasthā, margin. Our soul is in the marginal position, upward and downward, the gross side and the subtle side. That is eternal, sat cit ānandam, and conscious and happy. And here asat acit nirānanda, flickering. Every minute it is dying, and acit, and heart unconscious, and no feeling of joy or pain, pain or pleasure. This is this world, and that is that world.

And if we want to have association of that world, we're told in the highest position there is that beauty, love, ecstasy, all these things. And that is of infinite characteristic, that can come down to us, and can take us as His own family member. We can live as a family member with the highest entity of the world.

Mahāprabhu told, "It is possible, and only through affection, not by knowledge or any mystic realisation. By affection and love we can attract Him in such a position that we can have recognition as a family member in His very near position. So much so." Mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai.

"Enters into Me, that is My family."

In Bhagavad-gītā, tato māṁ tattvato jñātvā, viśate tad-anantaram. "After that, realising My proper position they enter there, that is in My family, as My own jurisdiction specially."
And Bhāgavatam says, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai. "They get recognition as to live with Me eternally as My own. If they come forward with their self to satisfy Me, leaving aside everything, ananya bhajan, wants Me alone and nothing else, then their position, future prospect will be such, mayātma- bhūyāya.

Ātmā bhūta. Sanātana Goswāmī has analysed this expression, what is the proper meaning of ātmā bhūta.
"They become My own." What is the meaning of 'His own?' That is to enter into His family. And beginning with gradation, the servant, the friend, the filial affection group, and then the highest group, that of consorthood."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Previously in Purī temple of Jagannātha no khicharanya [?] used to be offered. But there was once one occasion, I heard it from my Godbrother Vaikanasa Mahārāja who was a brāhmaṇa scholar of that area, Orissa. Once there was a raid, in modern time, from the Mohammedans to Orissa. And one of the girls of the royal family she was taken away by some Mohammedan soldiers, or General. And then they left the kingdom, the state, but the girl from the royal family she was left on the outskirts of the village, or some town. And she gave birth to a child, and the child was a great devotee. It is very peculiar. The girl was also a devotee, anyhow she was to undergo such horrible position, and she gave birth to a child whose name, Alek [?] or something. I forget clearly, Alek as far as I remember, that was the name of the boy, and lived in the outskirts.

That boy when grown up, he used to cook this khicharanya [?] khichari [?] That is rice and pulse together, boiled _____ [?] And he used to offer that to Jagannātha from there. And by dint of his devotion Jagannath had to go there and to take that khichari offering. One day he was late perhaps in his offering, Jagannātha took the khichari offering, but His time for to attend the temple function was late and Jagannātha had to run in His former position in the temple. And a particle of that khicharanya was on the lips of Jagannātha.

The pāṇḍās, the pūjārīs, the priests class, they found, "What is this? How this thing? We reject this. It's not considered to be the proper offering to Jagannātha. How this thing is here in the lips of Jagannātham?"

It was referred to the pāṇḍā leader and he also enquired, then he could not ascertain.

Then it was referred to the king. King also investigated, "How, who has taken this thing and smeared in the face of Jagannātha, in the mouth of Jagannātha?"

Anyhow, the man who was the priest who was in charge of the previous time before opening the temple, that man was caught, "That you are responsible. Before this rest you were in charge of the temple. And how this impure thing has come in the mouth of Jagannātha? You're to give explanation or you'll be punished."

That man innocent he says, "I do not know anything."

When he's to be tortured then Jagannātha came with dream, to the king, as well as to the leading pāṇḍā, leading priest.

"That man is innocent. Don't disturb. My devotee is there in the outskirts of the town, and he offered that thing to Me. And I took, and the time came up, and I had to hurry to occupy My Own position in the temple, so it was not cleansed. And the name of the boy, this is his name, and he's living there. He's My devotee, and I have taken this from outskirts. The Mohammedan exploits - the results of the Mohammedan exploitation over the princes, he became the devotee."

So the Kṛṣṇa bhakti, the devotion to Kṛṣṇa, it does not care for the formality of purity or impurity of world consideration. It is independent.

api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāk [sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ]

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all nondevotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

So what is bhajan? Transaction of the heart, not of any formality. Kṛṣṇa devotion, Kṛṣṇa bhakti, is only the concern with dedication of the heart. He wants that, and not outside formality of civilised or non civilised world. The Sabari to Rāmacandra _____ [?] From the highest position Rāmacandra He's the directer of moral laws of the country _____ [?] But He also could not contain Himself when by devotion something was offered by an untouchable lady. And that is also, after the remains she has taken, whatever is felt sweet she kept for Rāma. And that was - so devotion is so powerful and of such independent character, this anurāga, rāga, that is controlling the whole thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So many types of purity. Without caring for any of them the flow of the heart is so powerful, does not care for anything.

So Jagannātha told, "That was offered by that boy who is considered to be of the worst fate, cursed fate. The princess robbed by Mohammedan and the issue came that boy, so cursed of the cursed."

And his offering attracted Jagannātham so much.

So love is above, wonderfully above, surpassing everything. So Mahāprabhu asked us to take the path of love, way of love, to heart giving, self giving, so powerful. That can attract Kṛṣṇa, and nothing else can attract Him. He's very greedy to eat this love, prema. He lives on prema, love. Lord of love. That has got appeal, inner existence is that, all of us. Even His love personified, and a tinge within us also. As the birds of the same feather, love likes love.

Mahāprabhu when conquering and capturing Kāzī, He's leading saṅkīrtana party, feeling too much tired He came to Śrīdhara Paṇḍita, that poor brāhmaṇa who used to sell some plantain commodities to the market and anyhow lived, earned his livelihood. And that Śrīdhara Paṇḍita had a well, and a pot by which he took water from the well that was there. With that water pot which is left outside He took some water and began to drink.

And all the devotees they're, "What are You doing? This pot is always outside and so many dirts are there. What are You doing? We're taking a pure pot for Your drinking water."

Mahāprabhu ignored everything and He took that outside pot, nasty, dirty, and He began to drink water with that. "This is Śrīdhara's thing. This is the pot of My devotee Śrīdhara, this is pure like anything." He used that pot for drinking purpose, left outside, very dirty. With that pot He began to drink water.

patraṁ puṣpaṁ phalaṁ toyaṁ, yo me bhaktyā prayacchati tad ahaṁ bhakty-upahṛtam, aśnāmi prayatātmanaḥ

["Certainly, if one offers Me with devotion a leaf, flower, fruit, and water, I partake of that whole offering from such a pure hearted and affectionate devotee of Mine. With heartfelt love, I graciously accept."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.26]

"Whatever is offered to Me...

There's another tale in Vidura's house. Vidura's wife - Vidura was outside for begging. Kṛṣṇa suddenly appeared as guest in his house. Vidura's wife came, and there was nothing, some plantain left, she took the plantain, after accommodating Him in a seat. The cover of the plantain fruit she's producing to Kṛṣṇa and the plantain fruit real that is left on the earth. And she's supplying, she's so puzzled, perplexed, at the joy that Kṛṣṇa is present in her house. She's so perplexed that she's only leaving the fruit, the cover she's giving to Kṛṣṇa and Kṛṣṇa is eating that.

At that very time Nārada and Vidura entered the house. "What are you doing?" Vidura told. "You're leaving the fruit and giving the cover to my Lord."

But Nārada came to her relief. "She's puzzled, but Who is eating, He's not perplexed why He's eating the cover. He could suggest that, 'Oh, give Me the fruit. Why the cover?' But He's eating without any concern."

Then Kṛṣṇa answered. "I neither eat the fruit nor the cover, but I eat what is devotion. I'm accepting her devotion. Neither the cover nor the fruit, it does not supply My will. I do not need either this or that, but I live on devotion, Nārada. Patraṁ puṣpaṁ phalaṁ toyaṁ. Everything I eat I take, but nothing I take, I take the idea behind that offering, the idea. The ideal, the purpose behind the material offering. Bhāva-grāhī- janārdanaḥ. The very spirit of the thing I eat and never the outward show. I'm a man living in the inner world, so My food is inner substance, not the external thing."

So devotion is such. Devotion is such, does not care for the ordinary rules, regulations of this material world. Still, in our lower condition we're advised to go on in arcana. In our stage what we think pure we offer, what is impure we reject. In the preliminary stage it is necessary for our fortune. But when grown then these external things eliminated, and the internal things are given more and more importance.

We're told the Brajen Sil [?] was a big scholar in Bengal, philosophical scholar extraordinary.

So that once he delivered lecture in Rome in World Conference of philosophical _____ [?] And the President told him, "I took you like Aristotle." Brajen Sil was given the position of an Aristotle, he was so learned man.

That Brajen Sil he was student of Scottish Church College. He was to sit in an examination hall and given questions and paper and he wrote the answer. So many questions but only one question, he was so engrossed in answering that one question he forgot everything. So deeply engaged himself in answering that a single question took the whole time. So many other questions left. So when the bell rang, the time finished, what to do? Only one question he dealt, and he left his paper and went away. The brightest scholar of the college _____ [?] Now he was thinking that among the list of the successful candidates his name cannot come. Answered only one question, perhaps there was four, five, six, or something. But still he stealthily he's coming now and then coming to see whether the list has been given of the successful candidates. Then one day he found his name is on the head of the successful candidates.

He was perplexed. "How? Only one question I dealt and I'm heading the list. How is it possible?" He saw the professor concerned. "Sir, I have answered only one question, then how it is possible that you have given my name in the first, number one?"

"Oh, Mr. Sil [?] Your answer is taken in the grade of a research scholar, not an ordinary student. So I put your name on the highest."

So this is like rāga-mārga. The formal things all ignored and the substance taken out.

Though formally he should be - he'll come amongst the list of the failed. But the man, the professor, he was a judge of a bold type, and he told, "Oh, the representation, the answer of one question is such high quality that that student can never be considered to fail." So he was given the highest position.

So love is such. Formality, it does not care for any formality in its real judgement. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

_____ [?] Generally, when all our activity is stopped by the unfavourable weather we think that this is a very bad day. We're men of action, men of exploiting the environment, nature, and gather some energy. Always trying to gather, to collect some energy at our command. That is our nature. Those that live here their very nature is such, collect more energy at his own command. And that can be utilised in need, time of necessity, general nature. What is any hindrance to that we think it's a very bad circumstance, it is opposing my object of life, that is to collect more energy, generally. This is our case.

But to remind us about the importance of the inner wealth we're advised that the outer nature cannot make us so much harm as our internal nature. Apathy to collect more wealth for the inner nature, inner existence, inner man in me, be mindful of that. Losing outwardly that is not much, it's all coming, going. The body is the centre, body will also vanish. Then what is the necessity of the collection of so much energy for this body connection? Awaken in your soul, the proper man within, try to find him out, and try to collect help for him. And that is possible only with the connection of the sādhu.

Sat saṅga prasaṅgam nirnam [?] The day in which we do not find any saint, that has no discussion, no giving, taking about the main life, the inner life, the inner substance, we're loser thereby that day. Be conscious in all respects anyhow mind your own lesson, mind your own interest, find your own self. Be unmindful towards the external world and circumstances, and dive deep into the reality, inner world. Find your inner self and inner world where you live, where your inner self living. Try to find home. Back to God, back to home. Your energy utilise for going home, and not for wandering into the land of others, land of death. Try to avoid the land of death at any cost, and always try to find out the eternal soil. You're to find out that you're a member of that soil. And try to understand what is your home, why that is your home? Home comfort, what does it mean? Which is natural, which is in our birth position where from we get our birth. _____ [?]

sataṁ prasaṅgān mama vīrya-saṁvido, bhavanti hṛt-karṇa-rasāyanāḥ kathāḥ

[Lord Kapila said His mother, Devahūti: "One will rapidly progress on the path of liberation, and naturally will develop firm faith, attraction and devotion, when he cultivates the activity of engaging in discussions about My glorious Pastimes in the association of pure devotees. Such activities are very nourishing to the ear and heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.25.25]

Kardama Ṛṣi was married to a lady whose name was Devahūti. After passing some years in the enjoyment of married life then Devahūti she got a child in her womb from the Ṛṣi.

Prajanas casme kandarpa prajayana ratye [?] So when the object of their marriage union is finished the Ṛṣi gave a proposal for retirement from that married life, and told that, "You have got a child in your womb and that child is not ordinary child. Lord Himself is coming. So I'm going to live alone for my own purpose, higher purpose of life."

Then Devahūti told, "I got such a good partner, fortunately for me, a sage like you as my husband. But I did not take the advantage of your noble personality to learn anything about the Brahman, about the Lord, about the inner life necessity and fulfilment of life. I did not enquire anything. I was only busy to serve you, to satisfy your desire. Though I got such a noble companion I did not utilise. Now I pray you may stay for some time and teach me, help me in spiritual life. Then you may go."

Then Kardama Ṛṣi told, "You will get that sort of help from your Son. He's not an ordinary man whose coming, He's Lord Himself. You mind it, and in time you'll get spiritual help from Him. So I won't stay, I shall go now." Then departed.

And in no time a child came, and He was brought up by Devahūti with much affection. As specially she heard the child is not ordinary one. But motherly affection helped Him to grow properly. Without thinking she forgot totally that He's not ordinary child, as told by her husband. But one day, the Boy grown up and He's thinking in a mood.

That reminded Devahūti, "Oh, the mood of the child does not seem to be ordinary one." Some serious thought she could trace in Him. "His father foretold that the Lord is coming in You. So that is true then. The mood of the child does not seem to be worldly, above, some transcendental thought in His mind, it is plain." Then slowly she approached the Boy. "Boy, Your father told me that You are not ordinary Boy of this world. You are divine. And I wanted some advice from him. He told that You will advise me. So long I did not mind that. Today Your mood is encouraging me, reminding me about that advice of Your father and encouraging me to approach You for that spiritual advice. Be pleased to advise me what is spiritual truth, what am I, what is this world, where to go? Who is the owner of all this world, what is our duty towards Him? All these things I want to know from You my child. You are not ordinary child."

Then came this śloka in Bhāgavatam from the lips of the Son to the mother.

sataṁ prasaṅgān mama vīrya-saṁvido, bhavanti hṛt-karṇa-rasāyanāḥ kathāḥ
taj-joṣaṇād āśv apavarga-vartmani, śraddhā ratir bhaktir anukramiṣyati

[Lord Kapila said His mother, Devahūti: "One will rapidly progress on the path of liberation, and naturally will develop firm faith, attraction and devotion, when he cultivates the activity of engaging in discussions about My glorious Pastimes in the association of pure devotees. This śloka came, "Sataṁ prasaṅgān mama vīrya-saṁvido. My talk full of potentiality you can find only from the lips of My devotees. Sataṁ prasaṅgān mama vīrya-saṁvido. Not only lip deep words, but words that have got depth, that have got spirit, that have got power, that represents reality. Such things come from the lips of My real devotees. Sataṁ prasaṅgān mama vīrya-saṁvido. Not shallow words, but surcharged with spirit, with life, and that can enliven us, vīrya-saṁvido. Bhavanti hṛt-karṇa-rasāyanāḥ kathāḥ. And our heart and our ear, they also, both ear and heart they're satisfied. They have touch of the spiritual joy, rasāyanāḥ, the ecstasy of the spiritual world is surcharged in their words, and they come to colour our mind. Our heart and our ear, both physically and mentally, and in the soul area plane. Taj-joṣaṇād. Attending that sort of talk from the real source, the source of the real sādhu. Āśv apavarga-vartmani. We're led towards the relief of this worldly life, and in the gradual process we get śraddhā ratir bhaktir. Taj-joṣaṇād āśv apavarga-vartmani, śraddhā ratir bhaktir anukramiṣyati. And by gradual process we attain these things, our ever increasing faith, rati, then slight taste, and then we get the real love, bhakti real. Śraddhā ratir bhaktir anukramiṣyati. By gradual process it takes us towards the higher domain. Taj-joṣaṇād āśv apavarga- vartmani, śraddhā ratir bhaktir anukramiṣyati." In this way He began, the Boy began to advise His mother Devahūti. Devahūti-Nandan-Kapila. Son of Kardama Ṛṣi.

There is another Kapila whose sāṅkhya does not recognise God. Only analysing the material things, eliminating gradually everything from the spiritual substance, sāṅkhya. Kardama-Kapila. _____ [?]

This Kapila also gave what is known as sāṅkhya but He has recognition of the Supreme Lord, Īśvara.

But that atheist Kapila - isvara sidday [?] "No necessity of any god to explain about the existence of this world." That is his conclusion - isvara siddhay [?]

The nyāyas, logicians, they told that, "There must be one who has created this. This world is created. There must be someone who has created this world _____ [?]" Their highest conclusion is, "There must be one who has created this. He's God, He's Īśvara."

But atheistic Kapila says, "No, no. No necessity of any god to explain the existence of this material world - isvara siddhay [?] Asiddha. In conclusion we don't find any necessity of any creator. Automatically it's being done there. Only two things necessary. One, particle of spirit - and another, matter. Matter and spirit combined created this world. Śiva and śakti, particles of spiritual dust, so many like sand, dust. So many particles of spirit there as there is matter. Matter and spiritual dust combined, this world is going on automatically."

Ha, ha. One gentleman of this school I met perhaps in Madhupur. A qualified man, he was PMG. I met him in Madras Maṭha. A Bengali gentleman, PMG, he was a follower of this school. I met him in Madhupur. I asked him, 'what have you got from your Guru, this Kapil_____ [?]'

"Oh that yata jīva, as many souls are there, everyone is a śiva, independent of this matter."

"You're satisfied?"

"Yes, satisfied. Pāśa-baddho bhavej jīvaḥ pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ."

"Where your philosophy ends, our philosophy, Bhāgavatam, there begins. How it is? Now you think of where the śiva exists. So many śiva, so many particles of spiritual dust. But should we not think they're living in some position, and what is the relation between them. There are so many, some sort of relation must be within them. And they must stay in some position in some plane. So many staying in some plane and some relation. And how to harmonise them? There, everyone independent unit fighting, or what is their nature?"

Bhāgavata has come to explain about the mukta jīva. Here always diseased soul, there out of disease. Now the healthy souls what they do? What is their position, their characteristic, their nature, their object, their pastimes? We're to know that. So Bhāgavatam has come. Devarṣi Nārada has asked Vyāsadeva, "Give something what is normal, what is the nature of the natural liberated soul who are not in the disease." And that has been given. There is a centre, and their gradation, their function, all harmonised together. How? That is to enquire. _____ [?] Gītā says,

Sāṅkhya-yogau pṛthag bālāḥ, pravadanti na paṇḍitāḥ [5.4]
Ekaṁ sāṅkhyaṁ ca yogaṁ ca, yaḥ paśyati sa paśyati [5.5]

[sāṅkhya-yogau pṛthag bālāḥ, pravadanti na paṇḍitāḥ
ekam apy āsthitaḥ samyag, ubhayor vindate phalam]

["The learned do not support the opinion of the childishly foolish mundane rationalists (known as karma-mīmāṁsakas) who hold that the path of renunciation (sāṅkhya-yoga) and the path of action (karma- yoga) are separate. One who carefully follows either of these paths will achieve the same result."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.4]

[yat sāṅkhyaiḥ prāpyate sthānaṁ, tad yogair api gamyate
ekaṁ sāṅkhyaṁ ca yogaṁ ca, yaḥ paśyati sa paśyati]

He can see really who can see that sāṅkhya and yoga system they're one and the same. One by external elimination trying to reach to the ultimate cause. And another by internal elimination, this is body, this is mind, this is soul, ātmā, Paramātmā, elimination within, and trying to reach into the cause. And elimination in the external, this earth, this water, then this fire, then air, ether, where going, external elimination, trying to understand what is the origin. Sāṅkhya. Neti, neti, neti. This is not, this is not. This is also dependent, this is dependent, not original, not original. All effect, what is the cause? To enquire in the external process, that is sāṅkhya. And internal process, prāṇāyāma, pratyāhāra, dhāraṇa, dhyāna, samādhi - going to Paramātmā direction. So by elimination of the substance we come in contact, from the gross we start towards the subtle, more subtle, more subtle, in the causal direction, that is sāṅkhya and yoga.

But ultimately in Bhāgavatam that is all said. Śukadeva where he begins, svadharmma.

etāvān sāṅkhya-yogābhyāṁ svadharmma-pariniṣṭhayā
janma-lābhaḥ paraḥ puṁsām ante nārāyaṇa-smṛtiḥ

["The highest perfection of human life, achieved either by complete knowledge of matter and spirit, by practice of mystic powers, or by perfect discharge of occupational duty, is to remember the Personality of Godhead at the end of life."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.6]

In the beginning in his lecture to Parīkṣit, Śukadeva says, he's adding another thing, not these two, another, third thing. _____ [?]

Sāṅkhya-yogābhyāṁ svadharmma-pariniṣṭhayā. Śukadeva begins, "So far, etāvān, so much, so far, by these three process. Sāṅkhya, external elimination. Yoga, internal elimination. Svadharmma-pariniṣṭhayā, another process is svadharmma-niṣṭha, discharging ones duty as it is recommended in the Veda. Respective duty recommended in the Veda if it is performed without any special aim or object, niṣkāma. Because it has been advised as my duty in my present position by the śāstra I'm doing, disinterested. I have got no special end for this. As a brāhmaṇa I'm told that 'you must do these things' I'm doing. As a kṣatriya 'to keep peace and to control the evil agents are my duty' I'm doing that. A vaiśya I'm advised to do. But because it is said in the śāstra, aimlessly without any special interest, disinterested I'm doing my duty as it is recommended in the śāstra. But all these three process lead us to mukti, liberation. But,

janma-lābhaḥ paraḥ puṁsām ante nārāyaṇa-smṛtiḥ

Then, after we get released from the external bondage, the fulfilment of life is in the recollection of our Lord Nārāyaṇa the creator - our relationship with the prime cause. We're let out of the net we're entangled in. But after getting release from this entanglement, then we're to search what is our proper relation with the prime cause. Who are we, with Him? Here Bhāgavata begins. Etāvān sāṅkhya-yogābhyāṁ svadharmma- pariniṣṭhayā, janma-lābhaḥ. Janma-lābhaḥ - fulfilment of our existence, our birth, janma-lābhaḥ. Lābhaḥ means fulfilment, the gain, the end. Paraḥ puṁsā, what is that? Ante nārāyaṇa-smṛtiḥ. Janma-lābhaḥ paraḥ puṁsām ante nārāyaṇa-smṛtiḥ. Our connection, our recollection with the centre with whom we're tied, the harmony, the centre of the harmony. That should be our lookout. Here Bhāgavata comes. And others, so many śāstras, they come for our release from this external bondage. But then the internal progress after emancipation - 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya.

tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana', 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

We get admission into the Paravyoma, the special area of the Vaikuṇṭha. That is, we get the visa, in carrying current. We catch the advantage of the in carrying, centre carrying current. We get the visa. And all these, sāṅkhya, yoga, and svadharmma-niṣṭha can give us passport, to go out of the land we're living in. But after that if we want to have something then visa is necessary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Bhagavān, controlling everything with His majesty. Some who are caught by the majesty they live there in that in carrying current. In the lower position the majesty controlling everything, charm also there is majesty, for splendour, grand, all these things. Then if we can pass away that we can find the sweet plane, the land of mercy, love, affection, spontaneous relationship. That is paravyoma pāya, tabe yāya tad upari goloka-vṛndāvana.

[upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya, 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya

tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana', 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

More deeper relationship with the prime cause. The cause is beautiful and they're controlled by the affection and love. The land of love. Vṛndāvana. Paravyoma pāya, tabe yāya tad upari goloka-vṛndāvana. There the grand, the majesty, all these things come lower. Bhagavān bhajanīya-guṇa viśiṣṭha. [From Śrīla Jīva Goswāmī's Bhakti-Sandarbha] Who is the centre? What is the real characteristic of the centre? He's charm. He can capture everything. The taste, the inner existence within us, the taste, that is captured by Him. If anyone comes in connection he wants to surrender to Him something, that beautiful. Attractor, all attractor by His beauty and charm, and the peculiar nature of love and affection. The charmer of everything. That is the real acquaintance of the centre. Bhagavān means not aiśvarya.

aiśvaryasya samagrasya, vīryasya yaśasaḥ śriyaḥ
jñāna-vairāgyayoś caiva, ṣaṇṇāṁ bhaga itīṅgana

["Bhagavān, the Supreme Lord, is thus defined as "He who is inseparably replete with the six inconceivable qualities of wealth, power, fame, beauty, knowledge and renunciation."]
[Viṣṇu-Purāṇa, 6.5.47]

Bhaga means these six things, and one who is a possessor of these six things He's Bhagavān. What is there? Aiśvarya, majesty. Aiśvaryasya samagrasya. Vīrya, power. Yaśasaḥ, fame. Śriyaḥ, beauty. Jñāna, knowledge. And vairāgya, indifference. Who can command all these things as His potency, He's Bhagavān. As Nārāyaṇa, the controller of the hemisphere. But if we like to dive deep into His nature we shall find He's the charmer. The main qualification in Him that whoever comes in His connection he surrenders to Him, and His charm. He forgets his own self in His service, self forgetfulness to totality. Becomes as one in His family, does not want to maintain his separate existence. Wants to enter into His own family matters, not any separate interest wants to keep. That is Bhagavān.

[vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam]
brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān iti śabdyate

["Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this non-dual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11]

Brahman, all accommodating, vidūra-kāṣṭhāya, the background of everything, Brahman. Paramātmā, the all controller Who's controlling from within. Whatever we can conceive He's within that and from there He's controlling, Paramātmā. And Bhagavān, Who is the object of our life, fulfilment of our life is Bhagavān. In the first stage the creator, the sustainer, and the destroyer, everything in His hand. And in His inner self we find He's eternal and He's the centre of love and affection. He's Kṛṣṇa, all attractor, and giving satisfaction to every atom in this world. We're concerned with that. Mahāprabhu specially recommended that aspect of the Supreme. To approach in a proper way. Kṛṣṇa. Vṛndāvana.

An artificial quarrel between Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita and - Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita began to talk much about the majesty of Nārāyaṇa. And Svarūpa Dāmodara came to remind him, "Śrīvāsa, you don't remember the Vṛndāvana majesty? Every particle of sand, every tree, every creeper, can produce so many majestic worlds you're talking of, Vaikuṇṭha. In a part of Vṛndāvana so many Vaikuṇṭhas are found. Kalpa-taru. The majesty they neglect. In Vṛndāvana they're fond of simplicity, simple beauty, that is far more tasteful. They're disgusted with your majestic and grand conceptions of things, this gold, the jewellery, and other grandeur, they hate it. They're hankering and living a very simple life with the trees and the creepers. But those trees and creepers if they like they can create so many gems and jewels and gold and other grand things. Their inherent power is such that they can create your Vaikuṇṭha, Paravyoma, but they do not like. The simple life is there and they relish it very much in Vṛndāvana. The land, the creeper, the river, the mountain, all these natural things they relish very much. It is not that they're in want of this grandeur and grandness, but above it."

Hidden treasure is coming from Hamburg to Calcutta. Jaladuta, the name of the ship, Jaladuta, that carried Swāmī Mahārāja to the west. It is expected to reach Calcutta very soon with twelve hundred hidden treasures. Sweet Absolute in Gītā, Sweet Absolute, background of Bhagavad-gītā. Gītā-amṛtam. Why Gītā is amṛta, Gītā-amṛtam? Nectar. All the Upaniṣads like so many cows. And the cowboys are milking milk. And Arjuna he's mere calf. And the scholars they're to drink that milk. Nectar drawn from the Upaniṣad by the cowboy gopāla-nandana. Cowboy is milking the cows and producing the milk to the devotees for their drink. That is Gītā. Hidden Treasure.

"I am everything of you. I am your home guardian. You are My family. All within My family. You are My own. I am yours. Such intimate relationship between us. Only misunderstanding has kept you far, far away. What enemy, is the misunderstanding, māyā, misunderstanding, misconception. And that is born of separate interest ego. Egos must be dissolved and you are at home. Only the ego has made you separate from Me. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthi. And that ego, that black box, that must be broken, and you are with Me. And My men will do all these things, only your consent is necessary. You want, you try to want it sincerely, then everything will be done by Me. Only you consent, inner consent, sincere consent. I don't want to make you devoid of your freedom, then you are a dead matter, no concern. But you must be a living agent. At the same time you should give Me consent that I am everything in you. The black box I shall break it, and you will find where you are. Śaraṇāgati, surrender. My Yogamāyā will perform everything on My behalf, and on your behalf also. Only your consent. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ.

tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

To get Me the only price is laulyam, your sincere willingness, desire. Laulyam, lobh. Yes, I'm very tasteful. Yes, my taste is there really, inner taste, and consent accordingly. Only want and you will have. You want sincerely you will have. Everything will be done on your behalf from Me, by My persons."

This is śaraṇāgati, and this is the way to Kṛṣṇa. Very easy, very difficult. Sahajiyā, most natural, misunderstanding something, foreign misunderstanding, that is coming, going. But proper knowledge that is self evident, not to create, it is there all along. Only a shade has covered it, and shade will be removed, yes, it is there. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ. Only single price, what is that? Your sincere desire, inner taste.

"So you want Me, I'm at your beck and call. You are so dear, all so dear to Me. Between Me and other things the relationship is very sweet. But only misunderstanding, māyā, inconceivable, that has made us far, far, away."

Very peculiar. So the ṛṣis, a group of ṛṣis, they wanted to satisfy that misunderstanding. "You please be satisfied with me by my worship and clear off. Let me have my own." They tried to worship Śakti, the potency of misunderstanding. "Please clear off, be propitiated with me, and be clear, let me have my own." So Śakti pūjā, the worship of the potency of māyā, or misunderstanding, to satisfy her so that she may withdraw, and then I can have my own."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...same with him, but it may be easily approachable. Take that course, specially in Kali-yuga, unfavourable age. The Name, sound, nearest to you. Here, sound is the most subtle, for production of ether, most subtle. And there, sound is the most gross. Through sound we enter other aspects, so that is near to this gross world, sound. The colour is, as a figure is within the sound. And paraphernalia always in the land of sound. Then līlā within - sound in the outskirts, in Vaikuṇṭha śabda.

Namatsara vanu anta karuna sudhatham apikan sudje chanta karune rupasya svuranam bhavate [?]
Svurite charupe guna nama svaranam tato parikar vaisistam tato lilaya [?]

First sound, then figure, then quality, then paraphernalia, then the pastimes. And you will find yourself within that contact, the flow of duty. Kṛṣ - ṇa, the attractor of all. Absolute attractor. Sun attracting the earth and so many planets, and the whole solar system attracted by something. In this way in the gross world. In the conscious world also so many attractions externally, in the family, in the club, clan, nationality attraction. So attraction in the pure conscious world attraction, spirit attracting spirit, soul attracting souls. So attractor of everything, gross, subtle, spirit, everything, centre of attraction. Physically it is known attraction by the sun of the planets.

And when that is spiritually thought that is the affection attraction with life becomes affection and love. Physical attraction, and the spiritual field, plane, that is love.

So all attractor giving the shape of the cosmos. Adjustment at the centre. The proportionate attraction give us the adjusted system. Attraction proportionately produce a system. Attraction, affection is itself tasteful, so attraction, the centre of our affection is automatically tasteful. Highest taste, centre of highest state, centre of all attraction means centre of the highest taste, automatically. Kṛṣ - ṇa, attracts and gives satisfaction as reaction. Attraction and affection.

Commonwealth. Ha, ha. British Commonwealth, that was the name. But the members of commonwealth strongly opposed that name, 'British.' "No. British word must be withdrawn, and only simple commonwealth." What to do? British objected that. So what was British Commonwealth previously, now that has become only commonwealth. So commonwealth, Kṛṣṇa commonwealth.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Commonwealth. All interest in one, adjustment system, friendly relationship with one another. Independence and also dependence together. Independent of service, individuality, keeping individual position to become one. To live in one system keeping individual independence. If individual independence gone then impersonalism, māyāvāda. But in Vaiṣṇava religion independence of personality is retained and still merged in common interest _____ [?] And that is not less important.

Surrender, total surrender, but still individuality is maintained. He may be a dust of a sand, or a creeper, whatever may be, an insect, worm, a tree, but individuality is there. But all towards the end, towards the centre. A system, so many parts, but joined in common interest - organic whole. Kṛṣṇa śakti, the potency and the owner of the potency, guide of the potency. Potency is enlivened when any service comes to it. Potency is utilised, gets energy to work, some service should be offered and then it will be active potency. Enjoyer, the guide, the enjoyer, that is the fulfilment of potency. Potency cannot stand itself independently, incomplete, it presupposes something else. Everything presupposes consciousness, what is potency, that is also a part of consciousness. Ānandam, ecstasy, rasa, joy, that is everything.

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī- śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

The joyful Lord is experiencing His joyful life. The organic whole represented like that. The joyful Lord, very joyous, and He's experiencing His joyful pastimes. And we're all within that, we're also. In that harmony every part has got its duty, and at the same time the remuneration, fulfilment, in terms of ecstasy. And that ecstasy that again produces dutifulness, vice versa.

'dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana.

"Accept my service and give me the remuneration that I can serve You more and more."

That sort of remuneration, neither rest nor any special independent enjoyment. That is the normal organic whole. Every part is perfectly loyal to the centre. And the centre is also very benevolent, extremely benevolent to maintain the part, the system. Not only absorbing energy for Himself, He's also distributing.

Just as the heart is drawing filthy blood from all parts of the body, and then again sending the flow of blood to every corner of the body. The flow of blood, pushing blood to every corner of the body, and again drawing and supplying, drawing and supplying.

So ānandam, the rasam, that is the remuneration, sending and drawing more energy, service _____ [?]
But this material example is rather suicidal to the spiritual conception of things, the spirit, and this is dead. Material example more or less blasphemy to the spiritual happenings. But only to make it in the way of understanding we're using, material analogy. But material example is suicidal. We want to get out of the material conception of the world. It is automatic, it is self evident, spontaneous, life giving, charming, astonishing.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is so full, absolute, and when He comes to give Himself totally to us, when He approaches us, for the lost servant - Search For The Lost Servant - becomes Mahāprabhu, Caitanyadeva. Kṛṣṇa searching Himself, and wanting to distribute Himself to the lost servant. He's searching after the lost servant. "You are My own. Where you are?" The Absolute Sweetness is searching after His servants, disinterested parts. "Where are you? I'm here. Where are you? Where are you My friends, where are you?" In searching mood He becomes Gaurāṅga, searching. He Himself searching Himself in the mood of Rādhārāṇī. And searching His lost servants at the same time. "Come to Me." He's Gaurāṅga.

Our real necessity, we fallen souls, our more necessity is with Him. "My Lord's searching for me so affectionately for lost servants." So our more concern with Him, to join His campaign to help Him to search His lost servants. By taking the Name, through the medium of the sound, searching. Answer also coming through the sound. "Kṛṣṇa, yes, I am here." The symptom when one is saying 'Kṛṣṇa' they can know such is such, "Oh, He's here. Come, come."

Śrī Gaurāṅga. The king in a position of a beggar. Who is the possessor of everything, He's in need of searching His friends. Out to beg mercy from the servant. "Oh, let Me, come, come to Me. The king out of throne on the street, searching for the servants, lost, how it is. The object of search is such, himself has come down on the street, searching for his servants that are lost. What more we want? If we come to such a Lord, what more we can want if we have Him? So interested in me, my Lord, my fortune. Such a friend, where should we get?

And Nityānanda Prabhu is another step of development in that side.

Those that revolt, "We won't go. We want to go to hit Him, to beat Him."

He will be beaten, and with the blood oozing He will come to appeal. "Oh, does not matter you have beaten Me, but you come to My Lord. Take the Name. Come. No harm that you have given Me a good thrashing, it does not matter. But you come, My Lord is searching for you, come, come."

So revolting class, that is approached by Nityānanda.

"We won't go home. If anyone comes with that proposal we shall give him a good lesson, teach a good lesson to him."

To that section Nityānanda Prabhu is going, the rowdies.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In Christ also we find a strong faith for the truth, unseen truth, though in not so developed form. The conception of what is the truth, not in a very developed form. But the faith something else, no interest in this world. Something noble, something high is there for which we can sacrifice very easily all our achievement here. Including so many affectionate relationships with this world we can all sacrifice for the attainment of the highest end of life. This is nothing. At every cost search for that. So a strong faith in his example shown.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to have that. A strong recommendation giving up his own life, at the sacrifice of his life. Peacefully he showed the way towards the unseen. And neglecting the conception of our wealth in this tangible world. But what is that world? He's not very clear, only vague. Representation of God is vague. As was necessary in that circumstances he did. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

His group they're doing well?

Devotee: Yes, very well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very well?

Devotee: Hmm.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Sagara Mahārāja is in South America?

Devotee: He's in California, Mahārāja, in Badger.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: California.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And our Āśrama Mahārāja, he's very saved, very graciously. Heavily attacked position he was. We're told that place was very heavily attacked by earthquake. But wonderfully he was saved.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Nearly eight years Swāmī Mahārāja passed away? Eh? How many years?

Seven, nearly eight years, eh, passed?

Devotee: Yes, eight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Twelve years he was on preaching tour, twelve years. Sixty five, he went in sixty five, and up to seventy seven he was in the active field. And passed away seventy seven, November. And eight years gone. So many times he came here. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Eight years. But within the twelve years what he has done, inestimable, almost impossible. So I remarked that as an agent of Kṛṣṇa he has done. Nityānanda Prabhu entered into him. What he has done it is almost impossible. To take the spiritual seed of the highest level from door to door throughout the whole of the world, it is almost impossible. Only the saying,

pṛthivīte āche yata nagarādi-grama [sarvatra pracāra haibe mora nāma]

[Chaitanya-Bhāgavata]

"Whatever the village or the town in the world, sarvatra pracāra haibe mora nāma. My Name will be preached everywhere, to every nook and corner of this whole world."

And as the agent of that divine statement he worked. And some say, pṛthivīte paryanta yata nagarādi- grama. Even everywhere in the whole universe, and even extending to the earth, material earth, everywhere. Village, town, everywhere, up to the material earth, including the whole area of the brahmāṇḍa, even if it is already transcendental.

athavā bahunaitena, kiṁ jñātena tavārjjuna viṣṭabhyāham idaṁ kṛtsnam, ekāṁśena sthito jagat

["But Arjuna, what is the need of your understanding this elaborate knowledge of My almighty grandeur? By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42]

"By a portion of My negligent self I occupy the whole universe. My transcendental aspect is vast, vast, infinite, and only by a very negligent portion of Me I'm capturing this world." Kṛṣṇa says in Gītā. "Kiṁ jñātena tavārjjuna, viṣṭabhyāham idaṁ kṛtsnam, ekāṁśena sthito jagat. The conception of your infinite is only a negligent part in Me. Your infinite is in a negligent part of Mine."

And His action, His grace flowing. So to the farthest corner, this earth, negligent part, and there also every village and town, overflowing the whole. It is not impossible, we can think about the real position of this Absolute to certain extent. Pṛthivīte paryanta. "Up to the earth, not earth is all in all, but it is the negligent extremity of My possession." Even there, every village, everything is possible for Him.

Adbutkrāma, that of wonderful stride. One stride means crores of brahmāṇḍas, solar systems, one mere stride. The standard of measuring infinite. Just as these light years of measuring the time, light years, time, the measurement unit of measuring the time, light year. Not a second, minute, hour, no. Light year is the lowest standard of the measurement of the time. So His measurement, adbutkrāma, one stride capturing everything.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Today we stop here.
Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

Śaktyāveśa Avatāra. He's a ṛṣi whom Nārāyaṇa entered and utilised that body, brain, education, for the purpose of spreading the revealed truth in different forms. This world is filled with empirical researchers, knowledge which is gained from senses, which we acquire through our sense and brain. By material means what knowledge we gather the world is filled up, pratyakṣa, parokṣa. But if there's any transcendental world, higher spiritual world, that is the abode of knowledge itself. If we enquire patiently and intelligently then we can easily find that whatever wonderful research we do, that is already existing there, which even our higher brain is astounded, feels strange. "Oh, what sort of intelligent work is in the nature?"

Only a few points they discover and they say, 'We're so big. We're so big research scholars we've found out so many wonderful things in the nature." But they do not create those things, they're already there. And only a negligent part they discover and they think that they're very big brained person. But all those wonders are already there in numberless measure, magnitude. So brain or knowledge is behind this nature.

The Berkeley says, "Not that mind is in the world, but world is in the mind."

Whole existence is floating on a conscious ocean, spiritual ocean. And beyond this material conception, sense experience world, vast portion is still transcending where no human brain, or any brain of any animal is there. From there some knowledge transmitted in this world. From the world of knowledge pure, some transmitted here in the material conception. And that is truth beyond any experiment of these kind of persons that live here.

So Vedavyāsa, Vyāsadeva, Kṛṣṇa-Dvaipāyana, He was chosen by the Supreme Authority to give some extensive knowledge about that spiritual world, which is very necessary for the persons that are living here in bondage. And for which He made an adjusted addition of the Vedas _____ [?] and Vedānta. The substance of the Upaniṣad was collected to produce, to show, to demonstrate, what is the real purpose of the whole revealed scriptures in a very short summary way. Vedānta. Then, everyone has no right and no capacity to understand the Vedic truth, so through Mahābhārata ordinary stories and historical life of many persons he represented the Vedic truth for the good of the mass, ordinary mass, people. And also he composed eighteen Purāṇa. That is also in the line of story and history, both combined. Purāṇa. Then, eighteen Purāṇa divided into three parts, sāttvic, rājasic, tāmasic. According to the capacity of the people that was divided into three parts. For the lowest kind of people the tāmasic Purāṇa, there are six in number. And for the middle class rājasic Purāṇa. And for the higher class the sāttvic Purāṇa.

So there is one Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa, rājasic, of the middle class. There is a story about this Durgā pūjā. It was generally done in the spring season, vasanti pūjā. The origin was there was one demon named Myshasu [?], he became so unruly and anti God that the Godly people they're very much disturbed by him. And the ordinary masses also received so many troubles, specially those who were in favour of Nārāyaṇa. Then the gods went to Brahmā, and with Śiva also they went to the Viṣṇu Who was on the Kṣīrodakaśāyī, the ocean which is supposed to be made of milk stuff. In the brahmāṇḍa that is a place where the Kṣīrodakaśāyī, the Paramātmā Who is ruling this material world from within. And outside also His quarter is on the Kṣīrodakaśāyī. That may be thought,

Lavan ikṣu asapti dadhi dugdha yad antaka [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.1.33 ?]

Five [seven] kinds of ocean which is surrounding this earth. The first is lavan [?] that is salt water. Then ikṣu, that juice of the sugar candy _____ [?] Then the next ocean is made of wine _____ [?] The fourth is made of this ghee, the butter boiled _____dadhi [?] Then fifth one is like curd, a sour liquid _____ dugdha [?] Then the sixth one is made of milk, and _____ [?] and pure water is the last and the seventh ocean in which this earth is standing.

So we find only this salt ocean here, and that is supposed to be in airy position. Up to fifty miles we find the atmosphere around this earth, and there are different stages of air. And it may be within that, the earth is within that ocean of different type. The atmosphere might be of such comparison which is surrounding the earth. And the earth is surrounded by the salt water, and the whole thing surrounded by some sweet air. And this sort of taste may be found in different plane of air. And the whole earth is surrounded by such sea of different types we're told. Their quality may be compared with these things as mentioned.

So there Kṣīrodakaśāyī, the milk quality layer surrounding this earth, there Kṣīrodakaśāyī, Nārāyaṇa, He exists. Who is in charge of this world as Paramātmā entering into every heart, controlling, and outside also helping the management of a particular solar system or so.

Now, Brahmā, Śiva approached Kṣīrodakaśāyī and there was some consultation amongst them how to subdue this demon of extraordinary valour and capacity. Then they came to some conclusion that all their potency may be transferred to form a female figure. And so they gave a part of their potency to deposit somewhere, and then by the combination of that a lady came out. And they put their own weapons also to that lady. And the lady was created for the purpose, and there prepared to fight out with a great enemy she began to - a sort of war-cry.

And here Myashasu [?] who was born from - father, a human demon, and the mother was a buffalo. From there this demon came out. And he was so much powerful that none can subdue him. Then Myashasu heard that a peculiar noise is coming from somewhere within this world.

He sent his men all around the world and got report that, "Just on the verge of that kṣīra-sumudra this sound's coming. There's a beautiful and grand lady equipped with different sorts of weapons. She's threatening any power, and perhaps she'll come to meet us, swiftly, immediately."

Then Myashasu ordered his army department to be ready and to attack the lady. And the fight began, and ultimately all his generals, and at last that Myashasu he was killed.

And this sort of example is shown in this pūjā. However greater this empirical power holders they gather, but there is some divine power that will appear and as reaction this material power will have to be finished. That is the idea. It is said in Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa.

Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa is giving the description of manvantara. Manvantara you know, you might have heard, our four lākhs, and thirty two - years is the durability of this Kali-yuga. And the double is Dvāpara. And the triple is Tretā. And four times the Satya-yuga. On the whole ten times, and the middle portion also there, sandhya. So on the whole, ten times of Kali-yuga is one Deva-yuga. And,

sahasra-yuga-paryantam, ahar yad brahmaṇo viduḥ
[rātriṁ yuga-sahasrāntāṁ, te 'ho-rātra-vido janāḥ]

["A day of Lord Brahmā lasts for one thousand catur-yugas and his night is of the same duration. Persons who know this have the true conception of day and night."] [One yuga (age) in the time calculation of the demigods = the four yugas or one catur-yuga in the time calculation of mankind, or 4,320,000 years.]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 8.17]

And such Satya, Tretā, Dvāpara, Kali is one in this way, one thousand yuga makes one day of Brahmā, the creator of this world. The power that has created this world, there the daytime is longer, and it is thousand times more than the year we count here, and the night is also of the same degree. And in one day of Brahmā, seventy one - fourteen Manu and Indra they reign here. The longevity of their kingdom, the period of their rule is seventy one yuga. That fourteen Indra or fourteen Manu they're in one day of Brahmā.

So Mārkaṇḍeya in his Purāṇa he's supplying the history of the day of Brahmā. And by - asta-manu - and after giving description of the seven he has come to give the description of the eighth Manu, Manu number eight. Then he says from the beginning that, "Who is called this eighth Manu, in the second manvantara, he was a king by name Suratha [?]

He was the sole controller and ruler of the whole of this world. His name was Suratha, a king in the second Manu. Saratisha [?], the name of the Manu was Saratisha and in his rule this man was a king. And that man he became the Manu of the eighth manvantara. Who was the eighth Manu, and what was he, that is he's tracing his history.

He says, "In the second Manu, during the time of the second Manu he was Suratha, a king. And what was his history? He found that his own people revolted against him. The queen made some intrigue with the minister and they wanted to overthrow him. And finding this his heart was very much disturbed. 'My own queen and my minister they're making conspiracy against me to overthrow me. This world is very undesirable position. I need not live here, I shall go to forest.'

And so he did not speak anything to anyone, and took his horse and riding that horse he went away from the capitol towards the forest. Then when he's coming he found a respectable man is sitting on the roadside under a tree. And he, after long journey he alighted from the horse and asked that man, "Who are you? It seems that you come from a very high family, but you're living alone here."

The man told that, "I'm born in a very rich family but my son, my wife, they're making some conspiracy against me. Do not like that I control them. So disgusted with their behaviour I have left and come."

"Where do you want to go?"

"I don't know where to go."

Then Suratha also when coming, riding the horse, he had a mind, "Oh, I'm going away for these two or three men, but there are so many things depending on me. They'll be in difficulty very much for my absence. What have I done?" In this way he was thinking.

Then he asked that gentleman, "One thing I want to ask you. Who made such a conspiracy against you, but can you avoid thinking about them?"

"No, no, I'm thinking only that. Who are so much cruel to me, I have given birth and brought up them, and they're making conspiracy against me, but my mind again only thinking about them. I can't avoid them from my mind."

"Yes. My case is also such. We're trying to avoid from our mind our enemy but we fail to do that. What is the cause? Let us go. Nearby there is āśrama of one ṛṣi named Medhas [?] Medhas ṛṣi, his āśrama was nearby, let us go and put this question to that ṛṣi."

So both of them went to that near āśrama of Medhas muni and put this question to him. "What is the reason that those who have - who do not want us, and they're rather of enemetic temperament. But we try our best to avoid but can't, what is this?"

Then the ṛṣi came, "That this is māyā. She's Māyā, by her power the whole world is being managed. Misunderstanding, māyā, misreading, and she has got spiritual existence. She's controlling the whole world of eighty four lākhs of species. And if we can satisfy her and she withdraws, then we can see what is what and then we can be free. Otherwise as long as we're under her influence we have no other alternative but to go on in this way, helplessly. We know that this is bad for me, still I cannot leave its company. This is misunderstanding, this is māyā, illusion. This is illusion, and this is not within you or within me, this tendency, this force is capturing the whole world, this misunderstanding. She has got such power she's controlling the whole of this material world. And if we can satisfy her and she withdraws, then we can see what is what and we can deal accordingly, otherwise not."

Suratha put that, "We're not ordinary fool, we have got some knowledge, but still we're captured by her."

bhagavan kaisya devi maha mayi iti jambhavan pravrti kathot pramna kinkara [?]

"Whom do you say mahā-māyā? How is she? Where from she's born? And how is her activity and characteristic? And where she goes? We want to know in details from you."

Then he began to say, utpanati sanita praviyate [?] "When that potency if she's all pervading, but from time to time she has to come out in a figure and do some work and again vanish." In this way he says, devanam karya siddartham avi bhavati saryada utam neti tata lokamsa nitya pravilyate [?]

"She's eternally existing. Still people say, when from time to time she appears to do some intense service to the world in favour of the Godly people against the demonic people, then they say, 'oh, she's born.' But she's eternal. Sometimes she shows herself in different ways. Only with some plea she comes out on the surface and does her service and then again vanishes." Then by the advice of the ṛṣi, jnaninam rte tamsi devi bhagavat isa bhavad krsna maha maya pradyatyate [?]

Suratha says, "We're not ordinary thinking person, we have got some śāstric knowledge, but still we're captured?"

"Yes. What of you, even Brahmā, the creator of this world, he's also in the fist of this illusory potency."

Then by the advice of that ṛṣi they began to construct a Mūrti of Devī and began to worship her, about a year.

Then the Devī she came out of the Mūrti and gave them - offered, "What do you want from me?"

For the whole year, even by the blood from their own body they're offering and by penances they're worshipping her.

Then she appeared after a year and told, "What do you want?"

Then that Suratha, the king, he told that, "I came out of my capitol and I found there very much disturbance. There are so many friendly persons that want me, but only a few made some conspiracy against me and disgusted I came."

"No, you find they're now very favourable to you. You go and take the possession of your kingdom. And they'll be very pleased to accept you, welcome you, go. Not only that, I say that you'll be the master of the eighth Manu. This is manvantara number two. And you will be the Manu, the controller of the eighth manvantara. I offer this boon to you."

And this samādhi - this merchant gentleman, he wanted that, "I don't want to go back to any family life, I want salvation."

"Yes, you'll get such knowledge that the family affection won't be able to take you back again in this mundane world."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [00:00 - 01:30 ?]

...

...fond to Rāmacandra, and Śiva was devotee of Rāma, but Durgā Devī she was out caring for the opinion of the Śiva, Mahādeva, her husband. He supported Rāvaṇa, the evil force.

Then Rāmacandra, though He's Nārāyaṇa, above all, but He came here in the form and manner of the human nature. So He did not like to express His own power. As an ordinary human being, as a king, and a moralist He was moving. So when it was difficult to kill Rāvaṇa, because He got this clue from Vibhiṣana that, "Devī Durgā has got special protection for Rāvaṇa. As long as she is supporting him, that is Rāvaṇa, he can never be conquered. So anyhow if He can satisfy Devī Durgā, and encouragement to withdraw her from the favour of Rāvaṇa, then he may be killed easily."

So in order to do that, Rāmacandra, He began worshipping Devī Durgā. Devī Durgā in this particular form as Durgā Devī was satisfied with Rāmacandra's offering, and she withdrew from the side of Rāvaṇa, and then Rāvaṇa was killed by Rāmacandra. And this was done, but this is not mentioned in Vālmīki Rāmāyaṇa. The original Rāmāyaṇa, the history about Rāmacandra and His reign is written by Mahāṛṣi Vālmīki, the great sage, there it is not mentioned.

But in Kālikā Purāṇa, some Purāṇa, upa Purāṇa, it is mentioned, that Rāmacandra took the help of Devī and worshipped her. And then she withdrew from Rāvaṇa's side, and sided with Rāmacandra, and then Rāvaṇa was killed easily. This is mentioned. But many give objections that, "It is not mention in Vālmīki Rāmāyaṇa, so we do not believe this." But the Bengalis they're very fond of worshipping the Devī here, tantric, worshipper of the Māyā Devī, tantric, the direct controller of this world. So they profess they get it from Kālikā upa Purāṇa and they're very fond of showing that even Rāmacandra worshipped Devī. So what do you say? Devī is all in all. Rāmacandra Who is conceived to be the incarnation of Nārāyaṇa Himself, He worshipped Durgā Devī. So Bengali people they're very fond of Devī worshipping, Māyā, tantra.

That drinking wine, then flesh, all these things, even sacrifice animals, they're fond of this tantric upāsanā. Tantric upāsanā is also supported from some direction, that it is a portion of rāga-mārga. That is, when I want to be out of fear, fearless, so go and practice where the dead bodies are there, generally fearful place, ghosts, haunted by the ghost. Go there, take your seat on the chest of a dead body and drink wine, and go on practising that fearfulness. So wherever the temptation coming, face that and there try to practice your own thoughts and ideas. Then it will be permanent. Then no enemy will be able to deviated from your position. In the very acute, unfavourable position, you try to practice your spiritual thought, so there will be no apprehension. This is the underlying principle of the tantric.

But this is not accepted by the Vaiṣṇavite to be the broad and wide path towards our goal. Anyhow, the tantrics they are very fond of Devī worship, and with so many fighting with so many anti forces direct connection. And they also want to establish that even Rāmacandra, Who was the incarnation of Nārāyaṇa, He also worshipped Durgā Devī, to show this. It is in Bengal, this pūjā is very current. But our opinion that Rāmacandra, He not only worshipped Durgā Devī, but He worshipped Sagara also, this ocean, for the bridge making. And when Sagara did not approach Him then He was furious, "That I shall finish you ocean. You are not obeying Me."

So in a formal way Rāmacandra did all these things. He wanted to follow the worldly practices when He was not eager to show His own higher position. And Kṛṣṇa also in Dvārakā, it is mentioned that He did so many things in a human fashion. That does not mean that Kṛṣṇa is under this ordinary potency, this māyā śakti, He's above all. Still generally His movement here like ordinary person. This is līlā. This does not show that Devī or this world is above the transcendental, this sort of argument.

Anyhow, this is here, and this is shown from different angle of vision. There are other śāstras also with the help of that. This is in the rājasik Purāṇa, Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa is a second class Purāṇa. It is meant for the middle class. And for the higher Purāṇa, sātvik Purāṇa, there the Viṣṇu conception of the Lord, ultimate Lord, that has got wider circulation, sātvik Purāṇa. So Purāṇa, six Purāṇa they're meant for all the people for the lowest, who are worshipper of the Śiva, Rudra. The knowledge and indifference, that is the most important thing, who thinks like that, here it ends, it is in the tāmasik Purāṇa. In the rājasik Purāṇa, the creator Brahmā, he's the powerful. In that way it is described. And in the sātvik Purāṇa it is described that Viṣṇu, Lord Nārāyaṇa, there He's above all. In the rājasik Purāṇa, Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa, this is mentioned and that is in vogue here in Durgā pūjā, that Rāmacandra did this in this time, in this season, Kārtika, asvina, Rāmacandra worshipped to kill Rāvaṇa.

So from spring it has come to this time, worshipped by Rāmacandra in Laṅkā. And that is continued here in Bengal, Durgā pūjā in this time. But generally it was in the time of the spring season. But Rāmacandra worshipped Durgā, invited her, and worshipped her, and took her in His favour, and killed Rāvaṇa, and then came this vijaya dasami day. That is the fourth day of the pūjā, the day of giving leave to the Devī to go away. He came to Ayodhyā and reinstated in His kingdom, vijaya dasami. In that day of course, in U.P., in Delhi, that is Dasara Rāvaṇa _____ [?], some sort of function. His name, Dasara?

Devotee: Dasara.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dasara, another word is there.

Devotees: Diwali?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Diwali _____ [?] that is all finished, but when big, big idol of Rāvaṇa is killed in the maylan [?], what is that called?

Devotee: Dusara, Mahārāja, that is on the twenty first of this month.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ke?

Devotee: Dusara.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dusara?

Devotee: Dusara they call it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Perhaps another name. In maylan a big murti of Rāvaṇa is killed, what is that function there, still with much splendour it is observed in Delhi and other places.

Devotee: Dusara, the twenty first of this month.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow that Rāmacandra after killing Rāvaṇa He came back and took possession of His own kingdom in this dasara day. This is mainly the matter of Durgā pūjā. In Mārkaṇḍeya Chandi specially it is mentioned. And that Chandi is generally read out during these days, that few chapters from Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa. That is named as Chandi, and that Chandi pāṭ is a very important thing during this pūjā time.

Once I come in Gauḍīya Maṭh, I went in Calcutta to approach for our festival help, one Kol [?] prince named W.C. Banerjee, a Kol prince in Calcutta. I went with some other brahmacārī to beg something for our festival. He used to give one bag of rice and something. Then the Chandi pāṭ is going on, and the Devī Mūrti is there being worshipped. And he's with folded palms hearing the Chandi.

Then one sannyāsī, I was in white cloth at that time, one sannyāsī was there, and one brahmacārī he asked me, "We're sitting for long time, please go and ask the man 'that for long time we're sitting here, you please order your men, whatever you give us this time order to give that to me.'"

By their request I approached the man, and he was attending that Chandi pāṭ, with folded palms. Pressed by them I put a word, "I came from Gauḍīya Maṭh and waiting long for time."

And he was very much infuriated. "Don't you see I'm attending this Chandi pāṭ, and you have come to disturb me at this time?"

I sat there silently, the Chandi pāṭ finished, very shortly. Then I remarked, "You are hearing with much veneration, devotedness this Chandi pāṭ, but do you know that the reader of this Chandi, he does not know anything. He does not know, only he's looking this side, that side, saying something. What is this? It is mention in the Chandi that if anyone he moves his head this side, there will be great offence, and the man that has made such arrangement he will be perished. It is mentioned there. Does he know? Do you know? You ask your priest why the book Chandi is so short in length? Other books they're long, but why Chandi is so short? You ask your, the gentleman who is reading this, can he say? Because when reading, only the eye may move but the head will be fixed. If you want move his head then that will bring great disaster, offence. And the man will be perished."

Then he was astounded. "O, this man knows everything, but he has left this Durgā pūjā, and come for Kṛṣṇa service, Kṛṣṇa pūjā. He knows everything about the śakta religion."

Then he was very much interested in me, and heard something, and made his contribution double.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

[daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī,] mama māyā duratyayā
mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te

["This 'trimodal,' supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14]

It was a little convenient that man he had some respect for Bhagavad-gītā. I wanted to take him, make him understand by the reference of Bhagavad-gītā.

"Mama māyā duratyayā. It is true, it's very difficult to cross this ocean of misunderstanding, misreading. But mām eva ye prapadyante, mām eva. Only Myself. Who will come to take shelter under Me, only he can cross this ocean, and not Devī."

It is mentioned here. Not that he will go to take refuge under māyā, but he must go to the owner of the māyā, king of the māyā. We must go to Him, and by His order the māyā will withdraw, it is mentioned here. And those Chandi, that is for the lower classes, it is rājasik Purāṇa Chandi. And Gītā it is the very gist of the whole Upaniṣad, the head of all the revealed scriptures, Upaniṣad. And very gist is coming as Gītā, and by passing through the thought of Lord Kṛṣṇa it is more authentic.

So Devī pūjā is coming, with so grandeur, but we're to have our proper estimation. It is also necessary for particular classes, but it does not contain the whole truth that is above. And higher scriptures of sātvik Purāṇa, Bhāgavata Purāṇa, is nirguṇa, sātvik, the king of all Purāṇa. The authenticity of that we're to follow, above all the show and grandeur. But the people of that class, they may be allowed to do according to that. The primary students they should be allowed to attend the primary class. And the school and college students they will go on in their course. In this way we're to see, according to the...

["Everyone is naturally inclined to have sex, eat meat, and drink wine. There is no need for the scripture to encourage these things. The scriptures do, however, give concessions to people who are determined to do these things. The scriptures therefore grant a license to enjoy sex by allowing sexual intercourse with one's lawfully wedded wife at the proper time of the month. They grant a license to eat meat to those who perform a certain kind of sacrifice, and a license to drink wine to those who perform the Sautramani sacrifice. The purpose of granting these licenses for sense gratification is only to restrict these activities and encourage people to give them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat-eating, and wine-drinking is to make one abstain from these activities."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11]

According to the qualification we're given education. The higher type of education may not be possible for the boys, infants. Infants class also necessary. In that way we're to see things. Those that are of very lower class they will have, let them practice some sort that we're to respect some sort of things. And then by progress, by eliminating, they will come from lower to higher, in this way progress. Kaniṣṭha adhikārī, in Nārāyaṇa upāsanā also kaniṣṭha adhikārī, madhyama adhikārī, uttama adhikārī, the gradation is there. And we should go accordingly, as our capacity, standard.

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt]
sva-dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

We must not leave our present position, rather I shall die here but won't move from my present position, wherever I come from by the results of my previous action.

And then, sarva-dharmān parityajya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] "Give up all sorts of present duties and jump, and run towards My direction."

It is also there. So religion is proper adjustment according to the capacity of us. By sukṛti if we have got the higher quality, we must not feel discouraged by the standard of the lower people. We have discussed these thing many times before.

Today I stop here. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...half anarchist, and also a patriot, he was an I.C.S. After passing I.C.S. examination he joined this movement, freedom fighter.

When he was reading in the Presidency College, B.A. class, one professor, British, his name was Otton, or something, Otton. In course of his lecture in the class he mentioned that, "The Romans civilised us, and now it is our duty to civilise India."

Then Mr. Bose and others protested and told, "Sir, you deal with your own department, but don't remark in this way. Indian civilisation is the most ancient. We do not want to be civilised by any other nation. Please don't interfere in that."

Again, the man in course of his lecture came to remark in that way. "The Romans civilised the British, and is the sacred duty of the British now to civilise India."

A vehement protest, then that very day when he's coming down by the stair case, stair, Subhasa gave a push from behind. And the Otton fell on the face downstairs, and was hurt, was very much damaged. But so many students are coming, none could detect that Subhasa Bose, he pushed him.

So, James, one Mr. James, he was principal of the Presidency College at that time. It was about nineteen fourteen or fifteen. I was a student in Baharampur College, we saw in paper all these things, that such things have happened in Presidency College.

But Subhasa had an organised party. None mentioned his name, ventured to mention his name, that he has done.

James was a very good man, friends of the students, but he could not ignore such a fact. He began to enquire, "Who has done this?" None ventured to openly say. Then he made arrangements with _____ [?]
He asked all the students to pass through his room one by one. And the arrangement was made that that man _____ [?] told, "Whenever the culprit will go, I shall show a sign rubbing a finger [toe] in the floor." That arrangement was made, and Subhasa passing, and the man he was making arrangements with some books the library almira, and Subhasa passing he touched the floor with his toe. Then in that way he could find out that Subhasa was the culprit. Then he expelled him.

_____ [?] Mukerjee Mr., he was a liberal man, and he was always on the side of the government, not joining any national movement. A genius vice chancellor. Anyhow he managed to admit Subhasa into Scottish Church College, expelled from the Presidency Collage. And he out of that Collage he went to England and there finished his I.C.S. career and came back and joined the national movement. Nineteen twenty one perhaps, twenty one.

And also he has written, though anarchist, "I love India because India is loved by the Lord, Supreme Lord. In other countries, few and far between any agent of Lord or Himself come might have appeared. But India many times He has visited, as incarnation, and also sent many of His favourite saints here. This is specially chosen place for spiritual knowledge, so I love India." Subhasa told like that. Though it is difficult to believe that.

So India is the land of the ancient, most ancient civilisation, Vedic civilisation. A selected place for to preach the revealed truth.

As Max Muller, that German scholar told, "What is in the treasure of the Upaniṣads in India, a particle of that can satisfy the whole of the world. But India's treasure won't be lessened by a bit thereby. It will be as it is, but the whole world may be fed spiritually. Such thing is there in the Upaniṣad of India."

A particle of knowledge that can satisfy the whole world, all the scholars, all the inquisitive people, a particle contained in the Upaniṣad, the key. If we know one thing we can know everything. If we get that thing we get everything. This is the salient part of the Indian civilisation. Enquiry. Don't enquire here and there for this and that, so many things. Try to go to understand the centre, try to attack, to catch the centre.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati, yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

Try to achieve that, by knowing which everything is known, by getting which everything is got. It is almost impossible thing to leave to our ordinary brain, it is almost impossible. By knowing one everything is known; a mad man's statement. By getting one thing we get everything? It is impossible. But this is the central knowledge. This is the real enquiry in the Vedic civilisation. Try to know the centre. Yasmin jñāte sarvam idam.

Now, what is the conception of the centre? Generally people think Brahman, that is all knowledge, but that conception was improved. In Vedānta, it was the śruti in the Bhāgavatam says in the rasa sthal, "That we beg to be excused my Lord. We could not express You fully as You are. As we see You, raso vai saḥ, the rasa means this, we could not follow. What we now see, Your display of rasa, in the rasa, we could not conceive so far. Raso vai saḥ, rasa, ānanda, ecstasy, ecstasy. But that can be dealt in such a way, it was beyond our dream even. So we show, we have showed to the outside that we can say everything, we can say about the centre, but really we failed to do so."

Śrutibhir vimṛgyām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61] "We're also enquiring on this side. That that Brahman in Bhāgavatam, that is described in three ways. Brahman, brihathar, bhimanathar [?] Who is the largest, all accommodating, and from which everything has come, the background of everything, vidūra-kāṣṭhāya.

Just as if we have a painting, there must be a paper, or some background, or the earth, or wall, something where the painting should be made, that background. That background of everything in which so many artful things are being seen. Where the sound, the colour, figure, and all our experiences rest, they stand, they move, live, that background. All containing seat necessarily, that is thought to be the cause of everything. Everything is moving on that plane, so everything has sprung up from there. Generally this is the idea.

yat prayanty abhiṣamviśanti, tad brahma tad vijijñāsa]

["The Supreme Brahman is the origin and shelter of all living beings. When there is creation, He brings them forth from their original state, and at the time of annihilation, He devours them. After creation, everything rests in His omnipotence, and after annihilation, everything again returns to rest in Him."]

From which everything is coming out. Yena jātāni jīvanti. By Who is the cause of the maintenance of so many things over it. And when everything is dissolved, He's withdrawing everything. So that is a class of cause. Brahman.

Then another aspect is Paramātmā, all-controlling, entering everywhere and even the atom of the atom, electron of the electron. Entering everywhere and knowing it and controlling it. Knowing the nature of everything. Entering the heart of every atom, and thereby controlling the innermost: the external most and the inner most, both sides. Brahman-Paramātmā.

And then another phase of necessity came out. What for all these things? Yes, existing on a plane, but getting birth from there, and again dissolved into that, but what for this existence, any meaning of such existence? The search took another way. What is the purpose of this existence? And who is controlling really? That seat on which that background is creating, or any power, any potency is there? That is the real cause, the potency.

Then consciousness, so came the conception Nārāyaṇa. Nārāyaṇa, the possessor of everything. Not only the inanimate object is the cause, not only the passive, cause is passive, but there is some active principle, there must be which is controlling, the possessor of all these potency. A personal conception came there. And that is Nārāyaṇa conception came, aiśvarya, full of all majesty and power and controlling everything; so master conception of Nārāyaṇa.

They aim, the more theistic thinkers, their enquiry was not satisfied there. No. Power and knowledge and all these things, they cannot satisfy the inner most necessity of our heart. So there must be some beauty and love, that captures. In that way Kṛṣṇa conception has come to us. The beauty, love, affection, that is the inner capturing thing. And that is controlling everything. Neither knowledge, nor power, there from came Kṛṣṇa conception of Svayaṁ-Bhagavān.

And it was clearly given in Bhāgavatam when Nārada Goswāmī chastised Vyāsadeva.

"All your attempt is a failure. It will be considered as a failure. You have delivered so many scriptures about revealed truth, but that will be considered as a failure if you cannot represent properly that the object of everything is rasam, enjoyment, and that is beauty, and love, and affection. That is predominating thing over everything. The most original and important aspect of the whole creation is love and affection, beauty and charm. That is over everything."

So jñāna śūnya bhakti, give away karma, your control over the energy. That is to have control over the energy that cannot be the object of our life. But our hearts satisfaction there we are really. So search for Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful. Kṛṣṇānusandhāna, not brahma-jijñāsā. Neither paraman sandana, or the worship of Nārāyaṇa as Rāmānuja and others told. The master of everything, the controller of everything, and He's also a person, the attractor. But only attractor, attraction, beauty, that is not given anywhere.

In Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva, He exclusively pointed out kṛṣṇānusandhāna, search for Kṛṣṇa, that is your inner necessity. The proper diagnosis came from Him, that neither power, nor knowledge can satisfy you. Your inner heart examine, and your thirst, all the thirst of all of our heart, the thirst is for affection, beauty, love. Search your self. And then go accordingly, march to find out that thing. Kṛṣṇa is our goal and nothing else. Kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Kṛṣṇa is such. Clearly it is mentioned here and there in an ordinary way, but in a systematic and a strong way it is mentioned in Bhāgavatam. And Mahāprabhu only took it as it is, and guided us towards that direction. So, mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4]

[iti matvā bhajante māṁ, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ]

["I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone's worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non-duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

In Gītā, ahaṁ sarvasya prabhavo, mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate. Here, about thirty years ago in that Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, I gave interpretation. Sarvaṁ, mayā sarvaṁ. Ahaṁ sarvasya prabhavo. "I'm the cause of everything. Everything coming from Me. Mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate. And everything is coming from Me, out of Me. Even, search about Me, also coming from Me. Worship of Me is coming from Me, it is coming from. I'm worshipping Myself, I'm showing it to you all."

That is Guru; that is Rādhā dāsya. When that, we cannot worship Him, we cannot serve Him...

85.10.20.B_85.10.21.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:...He can serve him properly, none else. With this idea we're to follow the footsteps of Guru and it is ever forever. Guru won't be removed from between the worshipped and worshipper. Always,

kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhu-saṅga', kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga

["The root cause of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is association with advanced devotees. Even when one's dormant love for Kṛṣṇa awakens, association with devotees is still most essential."]

The very origin of the devotion is the company of the saints, and also when we attain devotion, there also his position is just between me and the Lord. So, we never come in direct connection with Kṛṣṇa, but some mediator, some helper is to show me that. So this is Rādhā dāsyam, we should not approach direct to serve Him, behind Rādhā we shall stand. Rādhārāṇī is serving and I'm helping Rādhārāṇī to serve Him. In the fullest sense, and in the partly there are so many distributed position of service and everywhere we must have one between us and the Lord. Dāsya. And on the whole, the whole negative side represented, serving side is represented by Rādhārāṇī wholesale, including all rasa. And we're to stand behind Her, to help Her, so that She will serve Him. Rādhā dāsya. From Gītā I drew this meaning some years ago for Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, [nineteen] forty-three or forty-four, that was published. From there I drew this meaning. Mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate.

["I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone's worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non-duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

"Everything comes from Me, even My worship also comes from Me. I am the first shower of everything. Everything in the beginning, in the mula, in the most original conception of every phases I am there, in some form or other but it is I. So serving, to serve Myself, that is also I am setting the example, that I shall be served and in this way or that way, that is also I am helping My service. Mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate. Everything coming from Me. So even My service is also coming from Me, that sort of instruction coming from Me." So,

na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

"You should know your Guru as one with Me, because it is Me and without Me none can give Me. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. None can give Me, but only I Myself can give Me."

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

So from that point this will come ultimately, that without Him none can give Him. This right is reserved there, only He can give Himself. So He's showing the way how to get Him, and as a Guru He comes to show that. So it is acintya bhedābheda.

Nimāi has selected a very nice article of the speech of our Guru Mahārāja for this Vyāsa Pūjā ceremony. One article that was speech, praise of Guru Mahārāja given there.

The very address beginning, "My uddharan bandhu gana." [?] He's addressing his disciples and all. "Oh, my friends who are delivering me from the danger." He's addressing his disciples. "You my friends, you are, you have come to deliver me from great danger, come to save me." The Guru is addressing to his disciples, "Oh, disciples, you have come to save me." What is the vision underlying? "You are so many extensions of my Guru." He says. "Those that have come to hear about Kṛṣṇa, their position is not less. Already there is grace, sukṛti, grace. Kṛṣṇa love is there. And you've all come to help me in my way of realisation towards Kṛṣṇa. You're all helpers, you're all friends to me. And you've come to rescue me from the dangerous position I've fallen in."

The very address begins, and how he's beautifully, and very skilfully, and also harmoniously he's representing the philosophy there, the ontological aspect. What is what, and what is the position of Guru. Guru is a servant of the disciples. Externally disciples seem to be servant, but internally if we consider, Guru is the servant of so many disciples. He tries to make them fit for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Just as when we go to the temple worship with certain things, so many things are cleansed and arranged in such a way that it may be acceptable by Kṛṣṇa. So Guru is also serving, so many persons he's helping, so they may be fit to serve Kṛṣṇa. Rendering service to so many.

Not only that, he goes further. "I'm in danger. You've all come to give me some engagement. You're forcing me to have some engagement about Him, about His service, about His talk, such cultivation, culture. You are helping me. So you have come to save me."

Knowledge is infinite, it cannot be finished. The search for Kṛṣṇa is infinite. So we cannot rest, 'that so far we have come, and only a few miles left, then we'll get Kṛṣṇa.' Not like that. We're in the ocean in the search for Kṛṣṇa. And you, so many, have come to encourage me in my search towards Kṛṣṇa. So many friends come to rescue me in this ocean of Kṛṣṇa love, and Kṛṣṇa search, Krsna knowledge. We're combined, we're going to approach towards. Vipadha uddharan bandhu gana. Addressing the disciples, "As so many friends you have come to save me from the greatest danger of the forgetfulness of Kṛṣṇa. So you are not only my friends, and as well as rescuers of myself."

The Guru is addressing to the disciple what's the matter. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. And the lecture is substantiating this statement, how deep thinking is there, you'll see that. That will perhaps be given in the first page. amara bhidhu uddharan bandhu gana [?] "Oh, my saviours." Guru addressing to the disciples. "Oh, my saviours." And that is not irrelevant, he's putting his arguments and substantiating that. Then what level of divinity, what plane of divinity we're to meet? Where? How holy? How divine? Only in the degree of divinity. Self abnegation, self forgetfulness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Positive self forgetfulness, otherwise mere self forgetfulness is a negative thing. But Kṛṣṇa consciousness dispossessed us from our least and nasty self conception, and cultivating in the service of Kṛṣṇa, giving positive engagement.

That article should be translated into English.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha. Tamāla Kṛṣṇa is delivering lecture that "Gauḍīya Maṭh should be eliminated from our consideration." I am told he's delivering lecture. But Gauḍīya Maṭh means our Guru Mahārāja, what is the depth of his knowledge and love about Kṛṣṇa, and he wants to eliminate that.

And Bhāvānanda trampled down by his foot Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, the summary of our preaching advices. I asked him through some, to publish a golden Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra. That will be the penance of your misdeed. You're trampling down Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, so favourite book for the preachers prepared by our Guru Mahārāja. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Let Mahāprabhu-Nityānanda Prabhu be gracious with them. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I request you all to go through that article which will be placed perhaps in the first page Vyāsa Pūjā issue. And it is published in Gauḍīya Darśana Patrikā several times perhaps. bhidhu uddharan bandhu gana [?]
"Oh my saviours." What is the depth of such understanding, and what is the depth of the affection and love within? We can have a speck of that, a drop of that, from such thought, what degree of divinity is there in such address. And the heart from which the address comes, where is he?

Today I stop here, no further. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...within illusion or truth, do not know. But with the dissolution of the physical body nothing remains. So whatever you like you can do, and no karma, no future, nothing, all chance coincidence.

Then comes the Buddhistic School. Their opinion is that just like Cārvāka - little extended. There's good, bad, karma, and there's the subtle body, after the death of this physical body the mental system remains. And with the dissolution of the mental system nothing remains, nothing. To dissolve the mental system we're to follow particular program, that ahiṁsā, satya, dayā, all these good qualifications, good behaviour, conduct, necessary to dissolve that subtle body, the mental body that is within us. And with the dissolution of the same, nothing remains. That is the Buddhistic idea. Transmigration of the soul, birth, rebirth, good, bad karma, everything, but with the subtle body everything finished, that is gone. So the potency is not nitya in that way, it is not eternal.

And others are of opinion that that physical potency, that is eternal. And Śaṅkara says, "No, it is, has got no beginning, but it has got end, anadi santa." This māyāvāda Guru Śaṅkarācārya, his opinion. "It has got no beginning but it has got end, santa. It is not nitya, not eternal potency."

The Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas on the other hand say, "No, it is eternal, but it is the indirect existence, reflection, and perverted reflection. But it is there, the indirect side, the negative side, is also eternal, the shadow of the positive side. And when we get rid of that illusory, that misunderstanding potency, we can go and live in the positive world, the positive side." And others do not recognise any positive eternal side, save and except the Vaiṣṇava. Only another section, those, just as Rāmānuja says that, "Nārāyaṇa is after the emancipation of the jīva can serve Him."

So one branch of the Śivaites, worshippers of the Śiva, they also say that Śiva is there, and after getting liberation you can worship the Śiva. Śrī Kaṇṭha. He has given some interpretation of Vedānta, Brahma-sūtra, leading the conception of the ultimate reality as Rāmānuja did towards Nārāyaṇa, he directed towards Śiva, one Śrī Kaṇṭha. In the southern India they have got their sampradāya.

In Mārkaṇḍeya Chandi as I told yesterday, the three phases of the deity of misconception, the guarding deity of the misunderstanding aspect has been described. The first in the tale, story of Madhu, Kaitava. When after the creation the Brahmā found that whole water around his - the Nārāyaṇa line, and from his navel one lotus stem came. And on the lotus Brahmā has got his seat and he finds that all around, water, water, everywhere, nothing else. And suddenly he found that two demons coming to attack him. Then what to do, he's puzzled, but he was conscious that his origin, underlying the lotus, there was Nārāyaṇa, that consciousness he had. And he took refuge, surrendered to that Nārāyaṇa.

"Oh, I'm attacked by these two. I do not know yet what is my duty, what I'm to do. All water, and I'm only on the lotus sitting. I've not yet got any direction from my Lord what to do."

But he was conscious that his Lord is sleeping near, under, on the water. This consciousness the Brahmā had. But He's sleeping. Now, how He's sleeping? There it is mentioned Yogamāyā. By utilising His Yogamāyā, a sort of nature, the Nārāyaṇa, the eternal conscious substance, is as if under sleep. So Brahmā began to praise in respect of Yogamāyā. If Yogamāyā she has the principle of the worshipping of the potency, saktapad, Brahmā began to chant in praise of Yogamāyā.

"Yogamāyā, you please move from here and then the Nārāyaṇa will be awakened, and He'll see my condition and do the needful."

So here he appealed to Yogamāyā, by the influence of which the Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, was enjoying deep sleep. It is mentioned in that way. He began in praise, to chant in praise of Yogamāyā, under whose influence Viṣṇu is sleeping, with this idea. Then satisfied with the praise of Brahmā, Yogamāyā went away, and Viṣṇu came out and found those two demons and began to fight with them, and ultimately defeated them. And that is also in a particular way.

Those two demons Madhu and Kaitava they told, "We're very much satisfied with You Nārāyaṇa in Your fight. You accept some boon from us. We're pleased with Your fighting capacity."

Then Viṣṇu, He told that, "In this war field, what boon should I want from you than your death? I want that you should die, you should be killed by Me. That is My boon."

Then they put one condition. "Yes, You may kill us, but not on the water but on the earth."

But all covered with water, so Nārāyaṇa took, caught them by their hair and put their heads into His own thigh and cut off their heads. Thigh means, it has been explained in Chandi, this is considered to be earth. Thigh. The part of the body is considered to be composed of different things. The thigh is generally considered the earth's production. So there He caught. And the big body of those two demons that supplied the earth on the water. _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When one gets a big belly, what we say? He has got much fat. So the fat of those two demons was so much magnitude that that supplied the earth portion on the water, made a union from there. The production of the crops became very possible medium. This is the first trace of the Yogamāyā.

And the second is Mayishashu, that I dealt yesterday.

And there was one third advent of the śakti pūjā that is Shumbani, Shumbar [?] Shumbani, Shumbar, two brothers they were of very demonic temperament and ruled the country with much injustice. Then the gods felt much disturbance and they approached to Himālaya and there began their praise - chanting in respect of the goddess of potency. And then found very beautiful lady. And the demons also searching, hearing, searching this side that side, like spy, if anything is happening in their kingdom, any danger threatening. So one of the servants of Shumbani, Shumbar, whose name was Damralocan [?], he when visiting different places surveying if any quarter there is any sign of any ominous rising, found a beautiful lady on a peak of Himālaya.

And he reported to his master, Shumbani, Shumbar. "That a very extraordinarily beautiful lady is found on some peak of a mountain, Himālaya."

Then he was ordered to approach her. "We think you as a very precious jewel, and Shumbani, Shumbar, at the present they're the owner, two brothers are the owner of the world, and they're enjoyer of all jewels anywhere and everywhere. So we consider you to be a jewel, and you must come to serve and satisfy those two masters, anyone of them, two brothers."

Then when she refused then this Damralocan he was ordered, "If she does not come peacefully you will take her by force, catching her hair." When he went to approach to catch the hair, the lady produced a peculiar sound, and this Damralocan, this man he was reduced to ashes. This news reached Shumbani, Shumbar, and they were very much excited and they sent their general Chandramunda [?] And he also proposed like that, otherwise he will take her by force. Then that Chandramunda was also killed, in a small fight. Then there was a big fight and Shumbani, Shumbar all came and they were killed in that fight.

Then there is a stop. Mayananu namastate [?] The gods came and began to chant in respect of that lady.

"You are the potency of energy of everything. Now you're satisfied with us. You have done a great favour to us by killing these two indomitable demons." In this way began to...

These three stories are mentioned in this Mārkaṇḍeya Chandi about the Devī. But Devī, some think that she's independent, she's all in all. And mostly others, specially the Vaiṣṇava School think that she works under some other agency. And not only she's the direct potency of the Lord, but indirect. But sometimes it's mentioned the potency as a whole, in-carrying to the centre - centre-carrying and out-carrying or in-carrying, but that is potency after all.

So in Chandi also it is mentioned about Rādhārāṇī. "I am Rādhā in Vṛndāvana." Chandi says. "Here I am Durgā, managing these rebels. And when they're devotees I shall also manage there, Yogamāyā."

Māyā, Yogamāyā. Yogamāyā in the positive side, in the in-carrying current, in the devotional current that wants to satisfy the centre, that is also potency, and that is Yogamāyā. And this is Mahāmāyā, taking away and punishing, dealing punishment, Mahāmāyā. So potency as a whole is one. Yogamāyā, the internal potency helping the service of the Lord, helping the harmony. And Mahāmāyā, the out-carrying current, apparently, who gives punishment to the rebels. Two kinds of one potency we may think in two lines. Out-carrying and giving punishment, and in-carrying and giving service of the Lord in different ways.

So in Chandi also it is mentioned, "I'm in Vṛndāvana, the potency we are one and same, helping the līlā, the pastimes of the Lord. And here also indirectly helping the world of creation of the Lord by dealing punishment to the rebels in this way."

Devotee: Mahārāja. Mahā Kālī _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahā Kālī _____ Shumbani, Shumbar [?]

I can't remember exactly but as far as I remember they were under the rule of the Shumbani, Shumbar. There was one general whose name was Raktabija [?] He got some boon that if he's killed, then when the drops of his blood will be oozing and it will be thrown aside, and every drop will become his own second body. Raktabija. Whose blood is the seed of his own existence. When he was beheaded, blood oozing, and every drop of blood producing the same demon. So it was very difficult to finish them, that party, Raktabija party of the demons. Whenever cut so many drops of blood are thrown this side, that side, scattered, and so many men are coming out to fight.

Then it was arranged that the Devī in one of her aspects she became - took that Kālī Mūrti. And she spread her tongue in very extraordinarily enlarged way, and she began to catch those demons and put them on the tongue and then finish them and the blood she began to swallow. The blood she did not allow to drop on the ground. If it touches the ground then another daitya will come, as many drops so many daitya, demons. So she had to take this course, the large tongue, and catching them on the tongue and cutting and drinking the blood. In this way that party was finished. So she came, it is mentioned, that from the original heroic lady body of the Durgā, from her forehead that Kālī Mūrti she came out suddenly to deal with this Raktabija clan in the fight. And Shumbani, Shumbar was last perhaps it is mentioned.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. She was so much excited at that time, that to stop her, she was so mad when killing those demons, that she was removing with so much madness, that to stop her from her madly errand, Śiva had to lie down on the road, and when moving in her mad attempt suddenly found that, Oh, her husband, she has put feet on the husband. Then her overflowing energy was stopped and she became sober.

That is from the historical side. And from the tattvik side, ontological side it is shown that all the baddha jīva they're śiva. Pāśa-baddho bhavej jīvaḥ pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ. Individual souls that are under illusion, and individual souls when above illusion, liberated. When liberated from illusion they become śiva, the master, the husband of that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At that time she's said Bhadra Kālī.

So when she released [Jaḍa] Bharata in Kurukṣetra, Bharata was an innocent brāhmaṇa boy watching the land and a dacoit party came and took him, to sacrifice him in front of Kālī in Kurukṣetra. And thereby satisfying the goddess of Kālī they will get a very good prey of looting, with this idea they took him. And just the moment they're going to kill, just before the Kālī figure, Mūrti, then Kālī Devī she could not tolerate that such a good, innocent person will be killed there to satisfy their evil motive. She came forth and cut, beheaded those dacoits, and released Bharata, the innocent brāhmaṇa boy. That is Bhadra Kālī in Kurukṣetra.

And here also, Bhadra Kālī, when Mahiravan [?] was killed, when he planned to sacrifice Rāma - Lakṣmaṇa there, by Hanumān.

[01:45 - 04:02 ?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...dreadful punishment, so you will be very much careful, that because she is your mother, you are...

A noble ideal. The conception of the ladies, the lady conception of the ego, that is of a very noble type. Sacrifice is very much there, negative aspect. And the man's aspect that is aggressive. But they're not aggressor, they're sacrifice personified, that gradually that came to me. And I learned to appreciate that Sītā, Draupadī, all these, and ultimately the gopīs. The gopī group, the sacrifice, self-forgetfulness, self-sacrifice, self-surrendering, that is in acme, in the highest conception the lady aspect. The lady aspect, the passive aspect, that holds the highest, that came gradually in my mind. So mādhurya rasa, that consorthood, the highest position of Rādhārāṇī. So sacrifice, affection, that is there. Aggressor, the males are aggressor, they're responsible for all difficulty and trouble, not the ladies. That came gradually, developed from inside, and some respect for their clan came within me.

So in varṇāśrama generally strī-śūdra, the śūdra and the strī, they are set apart. They have no right in the high religious functions. They should participate from little far, not direct participation. Indirect participation of the śūdra and the lady. A brāhmaṇa lady also, she does not get any sacred thread. She has got - though the boy, the son brāhmaṇa, he's touching the feet of mother, but he's worshipping Nārāyaṇa, he's touching the feet, taking the feet dust of his mother, but mother can't touch Nārāyaṇa. Such is the position in varṇāśrama, śūdra-strī, generally they're considered unfit, below the standard of coming direct service to the Lord. It is general, in varṇāśrama. But in the Vaiṣṇava conception no such strictness about that.

But, so generally some sort of disregard and hate grew in my mind about these two sections. We must be far from them, they're untouchable. But when I got a push from my aunt, in that way, she marked my nature, my conduct, and made some remark about me, in an affectionate way. Then that was the cause of a turn.

"O, yes, Lakṣmī Devī, they belong to the same section." And then the attention of their nature of sacrifice and submission was very much plain and clear in their section. So they should be respected. And the aggressive nature that is to be blamed. And ultimately I found that mādhurya rasa, the vātsalya rasa, when in connection with the supreme līlā, that has got their highest position there. And our aspiration is for the service of Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā Dāsya, as been considered by Mahāprabhu. Vāsudeva Datta said:

yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, kemone dharitām de
rādhāra mahimā, prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke [madhura vṛndā vipina mādhurī praveśa cāturī sāra
baraja yuvatī bhāvera bhakati śakati hoita kāra]

["What great insurmountable, unsurpassable loss would we have faced in our life, if Śrī Gaurāṅga had not appeared before us on this earth? How could we bear our unfulfilled, empty life without Him? Who in this world would have described the super excellent transcendental glory of Śrī Rādhikā, Who is the last limit of divine love and devotion for the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa? Without His grace, who would be able to know the super excellent devotional path that gives entrance into the transcendental realm of the ambrosial ecstasy of Vṛndāvana? Who would be able to attain the mood and taste of the topmost devotional ecstasy of the young damsels of Vraja?"]

The position of Śrī Rādhā is that of the highest service. Who could disclose this holy, divine fact, if Śrī Gaurāṅga did not appear on this earth? Who could make ourselves know, could inform that the highest conception of the highest servitor is Rādhārāṇī? Gaurāṅga came and He showed it clearly the highest conception of the servitor is in the service of that highest negative potency.

We're all included in the negative side. Our aggressive nature of a male, that is the disease in us.

So we stop here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa is there nothing else. Try to push on your ways with such energy and perseverance, try to find out Kṛṣṇa everywhere.

Devotee: Mahārāja. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This should be the subject. He's all in all in my life, interest, as if, exclusive interest, no other thing _____ [?] captured. He will be allowed to capture my whole existence. He's all in all. I have got such connection with Him, and that is normal, and anything otherwise abnormal.

Svarūpa. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. This is our existence in Goloka, that in connection with Kṛṣṇa wholesale. All else is other places. There may be Vaikuṇṭha, may be Brahmaloka, Virajā, then Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka. But Goloka means a solid circle. The whole is a circle, and like a ball Goloka means a full bright football, a solid circle, not a plane circle - circle in the plane, but solid, that is Goloka. And my existence it will be in connection with the full circle, solid.

Kṛṣṇa consciousness, sweetness, the autocrat. Very sweet, sweet but autocrat. Beauty, autocrat, capturing the whole thing around Him, whole existence within His fist, the autocrat. But He's absolute good, absolute love, sweetness, charm, whatever is capturing, all capturing centre God is, the conception of God. All capturing means consorthood, not fatherhood of Christianity can capture the whole thing. Fatherhood or friendhood, only consorthood is supposed to capture the whole of us. Consorthood, and independent, absolute consorthood, not regulated by any law, then it will be lower. If any regulations comes from outside to control our relationship with Kṛṣṇa, then Kṛṣṇa will be secondary, no. He's absolute. And our binding with the scripture that is secondary. Because it comes from Him, my lover and well wisher, so it has got, I have got obligation for that, otherwise not. And the society also like that, if it is in consonance with Kṛṣṇa relationship, then the society I shall have some regard, otherwise not. So,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

All representing, satisfying religious book is Bhagavad-gītā, there also that clarion call.

"Give up everything, come to Me. My absolute connection with you, relationship with you, not any dependant, not conditional. My relationship with anyone and everyone, is that of absolute character, not any dependant thing."

To understand that and approach, go forward. Sarva-dharmān parityajya. How deep rooted, and the commanding call, the most commanding call, straight, straight approach to His own, to establish His own right.

"I have got My ownership, My right over you all, and that is absolute. Whatever duty you are engaged in, give up at once, come to Me. That is My relationship with you, and I'm neglected. This is our relationship, and I'm neglected, and you are passing your days, lives after lives, without Me. How are you My friend?"

It is mentioned in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam of Sanātana Goswāmī, when a soul is restored from this world and meets Kṛṣṇa first, Kṛṣṇa welcomes him and faints, and gets fainted.

"O, after so long, you left Me and lived alone, independently? How could you do it My friend? How you could do? Because I gave you free will? Is that My crime? Am I a criminal? Because I bestowed free will to you My friend, so I'm to suffer so much?"

... came in the field of preaching, that the glamour of the western civilisation has captured the leading section of the society. So he prepared to give fight with the western civilisation. What is their charm? The scientific civilisation, civilisation of invention, of different new elements from the nature: that is their pride.

Swāmī Mahārāja told in New York, "So many big buildings standing there, and that will stay for generations, but what about the engineer? The man who constructed such a big building, mountain like, where is he? The building will stand for generations, but where is he? What is his state? None take care of him, he's lost. The building staying but he's lost. Where is he? What is the good of this production?"

So present civilisation ignoring the interest of the proprietor, going on to develop the property. The proprietor is ignored, who is he, what is his interest? But production of the brain that is stools from the body, that is getting much recognition, the stools. And the man from whom the stool coming, he's ignored. It may be compared with stools, product of brain, brain stool, if it is not to be utilised for the benefit of the proprietor. Viṣṭhā, kāka viṣṭhā, ha, ha, it has been compared in the scripture with the stool of a crow, not even of a human body. Kāka viṣṭhā. Even the position of the creator Brahmā, who has created, supposed to create this mundane world, his prospect is like, has been compared like with the stool of a crow, kāka viṣṭhā. This whole structure, material structure, so much glamour with kāka viṣṭhā. The shower, the seer, the observer is of such plane, position. The whole creation is like the stool of a crow. Ā-virincyād amaṅgalam.

["An intelligent person should see that any material activity is subject to constant transformation and that even on the planet of Lord Brahmā there is thus simply unhappiness. Indeed, a wise man can understand that just as all that he has seen is temporary, similarly, all things within the universe have a beginning and an end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.18]

What about any member within this area, but even the creator is in the relativity of this mundane and mortal, nasty world, his fate is also like that. The creator of this he's in the relativity of this such nasty thing, created, evolved, what is the position of ordinary person? We're to realise this.

Mundane property, kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā, three division. Direct charm for the senses, and the nourishment behind for sex life, sense pleasure; and the credit in the market for such commodities, three, pratiṣṭhā, credit for these mundane commodities. One he's in possession of so much this crow stool, pratiṣṭhā, in possession of crow stool. A mountain of a crow stool in his possession, and he's feeling so. This has been seen by the proper seer, proper estimator of things. And in comparison, contrast with that, what is Kṛṣṇa conception, opposite, asat, acit, nirānanda. Sat-cit-ānandam, and crossing the conception of sat and cit, only ānandam, keeping sat-cit in the background, only ānandam.

Ānanda Vṛndāvana Campū. Written by Kavi Karṇapūra. Karṇapūra was a very good Sanskrit poet and scholar. When a boy, he was taken to Purī by his father and mother, a small boy. Mahāprabhu - he went to see Mahāprabhu with the boy.

Mahāprabhu requested the boy in a playful mind. "You take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. You speak Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa."

Boy does not speak anything. He tried His best to make him pronounce the sound Kṛṣṇa, boy did not.

Mahaprabhu told, "O you have defeated Me. I'm preaching Kṛṣṇa, and the whole world I'm almost forcing to take Name of Kṛṣṇa, and you boy only have defeated Me. Won't take the Name of Kṛṣṇa?"

The boy did not speak a word.

Then Svarūpa Dāmodara came to save Mahāprabhu. "O, You have given the Name Kṛṣṇa to him, and it is, he has taken it as his mantram. He won't speak it to anyone. He has accepted You Guru, and the Name as mantram. And he does not like to give it out to anyone." In this way a compromise was affected.

Then Mahāprabhu perhaps extended His toe to the boy, and the boy began to suck His toe, Mahaprabhu's toe. And in his afterlife he became a good poet, and he described so many things in a high style. Ānanda Vṛndāvana Campū, then so many other books.

Nitāi. Nitāi. We are in the midst of māyā. Mā - yā, what is not that, we're in the midst of that, what is not, misleading, misconception. Our main disease is this, we're suffering from misunderstanding, misconception, misguided. Only this is the disease, all comprehensive disease. Whatever we think, we do, we want to have, everything is false. So we're very highly civilised section people, everything is wrong. All of our deeds all false, busy, false. everyone of us is suffering from false conception, falsehood, mithya. This is the disease, common disease here. And what is the medicine? And who is the doctor? The wholesale cure, not curing of a particular symptom of the disease, but the wholesale cure of the disease. Suffering from error, erroneous calculation of life. The whole program is a false one of our life. False errand we're running after, māyā.

And what is not māyā that does not springs up from the region of māyā, that will have to come from outside. The relief must have to come from outside of this illusory world, through revealed scriptures and those agents that are living beyond this area, sādhu, śāstra, that is gradation also. The Kṛṣṇa conception is the exhaustive, all comprehensive conception which can deal with every problems in our life. Fully convert. Keeping all the background, it can fulfil our whole life. It is so close to this māyā, even māyā is utilised by His connection. The stealing, the lying. To tell a lie, to steal others property, that also can be harmonised by Kṛṣṇa connection. So aprākṛta, extended to the extreme infinite in the closest connection with the finite. All the characteristics of the finite are retained, but only His connection makes everything gold.

Singing, dancing, running, moving madly with the Name. And all apprehension disappears from the place by fear of His movement. The spiritual movement was inaugurated in such a style, the difficulties automatically fled away far, running from the place. The penances and other troublesome method of realisation is unnecessary, because the ultimate reality is full of ecstasy. So the method to attain Him, that will be also ecstatic, joyful. Why that should be so painful? The end is joyful, and the way to that end, that also must be joyful, not painful.

Sahajiyā section, that is our enemy in this path, imitationist, we must be careful about them. Proper realisation, and to deceive the ordinary people, the so many imitationist, sahajiyā, prākṛta sahajiyā.

So Prabhupāda has written one poem, as Madhvācārya did, he gave us caution against māyāvāda. So Prabhupāda's is Prākṛta-sahajiyā-Śata-Dūṣaṇī. Māyāvāda-Śata-Śata-Dūṣaṇī of Madhvācārya, and Prabhupada Śata-Dūṣaṇī of prākṛta-sahajiyā-vāda. Hundred points he produced before us, to make us careful and not to be misguided by the imitationist school. We must try to save us from that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...points in which?

Devotee: In that Śata-Dūṣaṇī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. You'll find that in _____ [?] the book.

Rāma. Rāma. The general basis is that we have attained that stage. The sahajiyā guru, that in the physical line, guru's son is a guru. And only the sound, mantram is the external sound. Name is also like that, nāmākṣara is Nāma. Vaikuṇṭha Nāma, the spiritual characteristic eliminated, only physical aspect is counted. Imitation means that, sahajiyā, to be guided by the physical aspect. That is to gain the glory, the name and the fame of a Vaiṣṇava, pratiṣṭhā. To think kāma as prema.

[upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya] 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

And ādau śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, anartha-nivṛttiḥ, niṣṭhā, ruci.

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

Without passing through these stages, to think one self, "I have attained that stage." That sort of imitating temperament, self-deception, self-deception, that I have got Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Ramakrishna Kaṭhamṛta _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja told that, or discarded that? In what tone he has mentioned?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why? That he has come so far as to imitate that highest thing? So some importance is given to that thing because leaving other things he has come to imitate that, with this basis? Why he has come to imitate that, leaving other things? That is also a type of connection, far fetched.

...

Devotee: ...destination of sahajiyā after death?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is, what they're culturing they will remain in that stage.

Suppose without being a king you're playing the part of a king in a drama. What is the difference?

In Ramakrishna Kaṭhamṛta, there was one dramatist named Śiśir Ghose. He made many dramas, and one about Śrī Caitanya Deva. And he asked Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura to open that drama. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura had a good name about the devotion of Caitanya Deva, so invited him to inaugurate that drama.

Bhaktivinoda Thakura avoided. "That you are going to - instead of trying to follow His footsteps you are making a show of His character. But that is imitation, I won't like to associate with that."

There one prostitute lady she played the part of Caitanya Deva, and she began to cry, shedding tears while taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Ramakrishna then he went to see that drama, and he was very much impressed with that. So much so, that the next morning he wanted to visit that lady who played the part of Śrī Caitanya Deva very emotionally, that when she took the Name of Kṛṣṇa she began to cry. So Ramakrishna went to see the prostitute lady, girl. And told her, "You are very fortunate. Your taking Name of Kṛṣṇa and shedding tears, that has given me much impression. You have created such impression in me, I feel myself very fortunate I have come to see you again."

But these things, the Gauḍīya Maṭh people, the proper devotees, they cannot take it. "This is a sham thing. Their appreciation and the representation, both imitation, sham, not real. So false, dealing with the false thing, and to think that I have got."

So mistake means this mistake, misleading, misunderstanding. Mis means that, to take one thing for another, maybe similar, not same. So it is told kāma and prema, similar but opposite, not same. One is just the opposite, but many outward symptoms very similar. So misunderstanding of a thing is not that thing.

Now you can say in the widest sense, that misunderstanding not in other plane, but in such, in the quest of Kṛṣṇa, or something. In that broader sense we may say that he has come to imitate that thing and not other thing, up to so level. But at present what he's after that is false. He has come so far to imitate a particular thing, that he has come not to imitate any other thing but that thing. So some importance he has already got about that, some attraction.

But his present campaign is misleading, that is false, useless. But not only useless but it is injurious, the present campaign. And that he has come so far, not to imitate any other thing but to imitate this thing, so that shows that he had already some progress. But present campaign is fruitless, misleading, misguiding, using his energy in a false way, the present stage is waste of energy. And giving, creating a false prejudice than the real, so waste of energy. Not only waste of energy, but anti-prejudices created, that is aparādha.

Just as you want to go to Calcutta, and you have taken the way to Bhurdwan. The background that you want to Calcutta, so you are walking. But now you have taken the wrong course, you are wasting your energy. But the background is that you want to go to Calcutta, but you are going in a false direction. You want to go to Calcutta; that is true. Then whenever you'll be detected, "O, this is not the way to Calcutta." You will change the course. Something like that.

So far you have come to imitate, so far your position is right. And you want also that, that is also something. But now what are you doing, that is all wrong, against, on the opposite side. That is waste of energy. Not only that, you'll have to retrace back that path again if you go to this side. That is... and that will be hard, difficult.

And that analogy also may not be satisfactory, because what you heard of Calcutta, it is not that, misconception of Calcutta is carrying you. To commit a particular error, that means he's not engaged in committing other phases of errors. Now he's engaged to commit a particular error. Appreciation maybe of that line, if at all we're to appreciate.

A false prejudice and entangled with false prejudice, but background is that I want something similar but not same. Aparādha. I commit offence against Vaiṣṇava, that is bad, but I have come near a Vaiṣṇava, that is good, the background, then I'm committing crime. Something like this. I have come, I have got connection with a Vaiṣṇava, then I can commit offence against him, so coming to him, that is qualification, and committing offence against him that is disqualification, misguiding. Ha, ha. So one may say, "This commit offence against a Vaiṣṇava is better than not to come in his connection at all." Ha, ha. That may be a conception. But carefully that is to be understood.

bahus karita bhavanam bhuve parabhana tam eva sharanam prabho [?]

A boy when he wants to walk, and then the question comes that he's falling down, again rising, again walking, again falling. But he has come to a stage of attempting, that is qualification. The bright side is there, but to avoid falling, that is necessity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...all mundane prayer, there's a big list of prayers of all mundane things. And this was in the season of autumn, and the regular Devī pūjā was done in the beginning, in the spring season. But for some purpose Rāmacandra He had to invoke Devī Durgā, and to satisfy her, and then to kill His enemy Rāvaṇa. And Rāmacandra started in the aeroplane of Rāvaṇa towards Ayodhyā. So U.P. gentleman who are mostly under the influence of worship of Rāmacandra, today they kill a big image of Rāvaṇa. And they express their joy very much. And Indira gave some name that "The supremacy of the good power over evil power." In that way that was encouraged. Otherwise the southern people, especially the inhabitants of Laṅkā, they raised some opposition. "Why Rāvaṇa in a show, Rāvaṇa is killed? And too much hatred about Rāvaṇa is shown, and there is singing the glory of the Indians over the aborigines, all this." But she managed anyhow saying that, "This is the victory of the good force over the evil force." This Rāmacandra vijay day.

And this is also famous for the advent of Madhvācārya. This day Madhvācārya he appeared in this earth. He was in south Karnataka, from the place know as Udipi. Madhvācārya was a very strong man, physically. So he's called the incarnation of Bhīma and Hanumān. They say, as in the time of Rāmacandra there was Hanumān, and Bhīma in the time of Kṛṣṇa to help Him, so Madhvācārya in relation to Vedavyāsa he has come to give proper interpretation of the literatures composed by Vyāsadeva. Mādhva Muni also he's told. Ānanda Tīrtha is another name after sannyāsa. Mādhva geha [?], when this name generally came he was in the inhabitants of the middle portion of the village, Mādhva geha, Madhvācārya, Ānanda Tīrtha.

Madhvācārya he was so strong. He was very fond of plantain. He could - even hundred pieces of plantain he could easily eat and digest. And very strong physically. It is shown there that one stone that was necessary to put somewhere, to cross a river, twenty persons could not carry, but Madhvācārya with one hand carried the stone from - to a certain distance, and placed it in a proper place, necessary. And it is engraved there in the stone. madhva eka haste naman saphita shila [?] "This piece of stone has been placed here by Madhvācārya carrying in his one single hand." A big stone, what maybe about fifteen maunts [?] or so, such a big stone, twenty persons could not carry such a weight, so bodily strong.

And it is told he met Vyāsadeva. Vyāsadeva was, is supposed to live now on earth. There are seven long living persons. Aśvatthāmā, Bali, Vyāsa, Hanumān, Vibhiṣana, Kṛpācārya...

Devotee: Paraśurāma.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Paraśurāma, these seven.

Devotee: Mārkaṇḍeya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mārkaṇḍeya was other. Aśvatthāmā, Bali, Vyāsa, Hanumān, Vibhiṣana, Kṛpācārya, and Paraśurāma. These seven, they're supposed to live the whole of Kali-yuga.

Vyāsadeva is still living. Madhvācārya went to Badarikāśrama and then to the cave of the Vedavyāsa, there in the banks of the Saraswati, and met him, he could meet him. And was taught the real meaning, purpose of the Veda, Vedānta, all these history, collect from him. Then he came back to his home, and converted his own Guru, Acyutapreksa into dvaita-vāda. He came back from Badarikāśrama and began to preach strongly which is known as dvaita-vāda, that "God and jīva is separate." There is a stanza.

jivam madhva mate hare padottama, satyam jagat tat tattvo [?]
veda jiva jivera veda jiva gana, harer anuyada michucha bhavam gatha [?]

In this way, there are ten śloka. "Madhva mate. This is the opinion of Madhvācārya. The jīva and Īśvara they're separate, never one as preached by Śaṅkara. Clearly separate they are. Hari padottamo. Hari is the highest God. Satyam jagat. This world is not illusion, it is true, in the sense that it's controlled by māyā, and giving punishment to those that do not have any serving attitude towards Hari. Satyam jagat tat tattvo vedo jiva gana. And amongst different souls there is difference. One soul is different from another soul, always, even after emancipation they will have differentiative character.

ritu ta bhavam gata dvaita jagat madhava mate hare padattama [?]
satyam jagat tat tattvau veda abeda vedo jivau gana harer anuyada [?]

They're eternal servants of the Hari, Lord. Nichucha bhavam gatha, and there is, they're holding high and low position, not all common position. There is hierarchy amongst them. Nichucha bhavam gatha. In this way Madhvācārya preached.

And he had three disciples who succeeded him. Acyutapreksa, his own Guru, previous Guru, was converted after he returned from Badarikāśrama, from māyāvāda to this madhva-vāda. There are four Vaiṣṇava Ācārya mentioned in the scripture. Śrī, Brahmā, Rudra, Sanaka, the original Ācārya, that is devotion of Nārāyaṇa preached through four sources.

One by Lakṣmī Devī. Lakṣmī Devī herself she's the source of one line of worshipping Nārāyaṇa. And Rāmānuja followed that line, viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda. The modern Ācārya in the line of Lakṣmī Devī is Rāmānuja.

And Brahmā, Brahmā himself he was the source of another line of worshipping Nārāyaṇa. And Madhvācārya he comes in the middle age to help that line with his writings and interpretations of the śāstras, etc, and preaching. Brahmā, Rudra.

And Mahādeva, Śrī Rudra, Śiva, he's the original Ācārya preaching the worship of Nārāyaṇa in one way, śuddhādvaita-vāda. Madhvācārya. Viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda, Ramanuja. And Madhvācārya, śuddha-dvaita-vāda, a very clear duality.

And Viṣṇusvāmī, that is śuddhādvaita, pure unionism. One, the world and other is one and same, but in its purest conception the jīva is different from māyā and Īśvara. And Viṣṇusvāmī was the modern Ācārya. And Śrīdhara Swāmī comes in that line; the great commentator of Bhāgavata, etc.

And the fourth is Nimbarka, Catuḥsana; Sanaka, Sanātana Sananda, Sanat Kumāra. these four devotees, they're considered to be the source of the fourth line of devotional school. And their philosophy is known by dvaitādvaita, both dvaita and advaita, distinct and non-distinct, simultaneously. And Nimbarka he preached about, the modern Ācārya, he preached, he has got a commentary on Vedānta.

All these modern Ācāryas they have accepted Vedānta as the substance of the whole Veda, Upaniṣad teaching, and they compiled one commentary, everyone, the Ācāryas. Dvaitādvaita was Parijatacharya... Parijata bhāṣya, that is given by Nimbarka. Some say that in the Nimbadvaita that Keśava Kāśmīrī, who was defeated by Mahāprabhu and got the principles from Him, afterwards he compiled that bhāṣya in his name. And peculiarity of this Parijata bhāṣya - in other bhāṣya they have mentioned about the commentary of other scholars, but in Parijat bhāṣya, no mention of any previous scholar. Only from the positive side they're dealing the things. And they say that this is the oldest, because there is no mention of any other commentary. At that time no commentary was made so no mention. Dvaitādvaita. Very closer to Mahāprabhu's bhedābheda. Dvaitādvaita. Bhedābheda.

But Mahāprabhu's line is, the followers of Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanya Deva, they claim that acintya is an important factor in the Name, acintya, not simple dvaitādvaita. The acintya must be there, because the differentiation may not be similar always. It depends on the independence of the Supreme. So the acintya, an inconceivable simultaneous distinction and non-distinction. Simultaneous distinction and non-distinction with God and soul, but that is inconceivable. This qualification is compulsory. This is the opinion of the followers of Śrī Caitanya. Otherwise it is not clear, because the key is in the hand of the Supreme Authority, the Autocrat, that must be mentioned.

So these are the different types of philosophy. Madhva's philosophy, śuddha-dvaita, a clear duality, never one, God and jīva soul. Then, he preached, and his three disciples were successors, one by one: Śrī Madhva, Śrī Padmanābha, Śrī Nṛhari, Mādhava, Akṣobhya, the fourth. The Acyutapreksa was converted and was given the name of Padmanābha. And the sannyāsa also they took from him, and first successor was that Acyutapreksa, his own Guru was converted into sannyāsa, his name was Padmanābha. Śrī Madhva, Śrī Padmanābha. Then, one Narahari, the third in Madhva's line. Madhva, Padmanābha, Narahari. Then Madhava, another disciple of Madhva direct. Then Akṣobhya, he was supposed to be a great scholar, and he was the contemporary. These four successors are contemporary of Madhva.

It is told that once Madhvācārya was asked, "Who will be the successor after you, of preaching in your line?" He pointed out his bull. Madhvācārya had a big bull, and he carried his books wherever he went, the books were carried by a bull. The previous Purāṇa and other scriptures, Veda, Upaniṣad, the bull carried always all his books...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha, Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, both of them amongst the six Goswāmīs of Vṛndāvana, first batch. And next Kavirāja Goswāmī, who has given us the Caitanya- caritāmṛta. Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī he was the son of Tapana Miśra. When Mahāprabhu before His Gayā visit, requested by the students of Faridpur district He had to visit that place once more _____ [?] When He was teaching, as a professor in Navadwīpa, and His fame as a teacher was so much that students from different places invited Him to attend some lecture on the basic truth of different books, so He was invited to Faridpur.

There was one Tapana Miśra. He was a devotee and he was feeling very much disturbance going through the scriptures he could not find out what is the conclusion, a real suggestion. Different books he went through but could not collect the real purports of the books, so he was finding much difficulty in his mental feeling. Then he got a dream. "Nimāi Paṇḍita is coming shortly and you're to consult Him about the real siddhānta, the real purport of the scriptures, what you can't ascertain." And when Nimāi Paṇḍita went there he came and asked, and he told about his dream. And in dream also he saw that Nimāi Paṇḍita is not an ordinary man. He's incarnation of the Lord.

Then Tapana Miśra consulted Nimāi Paṇḍita, Nimāi Paṇḍita told, "In Kali-yuga, this iron age, the Nāma Saṅkīrtana that is the real purpose of all the scriptures. One must follow this direction."

Then satisfied, and he told that he got a dream that Nimāi Paṇḍita is not an ordinary human being.

Nimāi Paṇḍita told him, "Don't disclose this, then it will be very troublesome to you. Before time if you give vent, with circulation, that will be."

"Then, I'd like to stay with You."

"Not now, after, you now go to Benares. There in time I shall meet you. You go there, prepare field."

Then he did accordingly went to Benares and there he was living. His only son was Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa.

After sannyāsa when Mahāprabhu coming back from Ramakeli through Jhārikhaṇḍa He went to Vṛndāvana. At that time when Mahāprabhu crossed the River Ganges, Tapana Miśra was taking his bath there, he recognised Mahāprabhu though in sannyāsa veśa, and took Him to his own house. There, when going He stayed for few days, two, three days, and then went towards Vṛndāvana. When coming back at that time from Vṛndāvana, at that time more than two months He stayed there with Tapana Miśra, and taught Sanātana Goswāmī the whole siddhānta of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava. Two months, more than. Sanātana Goswāmī took his dress there also, all these things.

And Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha, a boy, he used to serve Mahāprabhu with massage and other things. Bhaṭṭa Raghunātha. And Mahāprabhu told him, "Don't accept any married life. After now serve your parents, and when they'll pass away you will go to Vṛndāvana and live with Sanātana, Rūpa there, pass your time. Vivāha nā kariha bhaṭṭe. Don't enter into married life." That was the advice of Mahāprabhu to Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa.

[aṣṭa-māsa rahi' prabhu bhaṭṭe vidāya dilā / 'vivāha nā kariha' bali' niṣedha karilā]

[After eight months, when Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu bade farewell to Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, the Lord flatly forbade him to marry. "Do not marry," the Lord said.] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 13.112]

After the demise of his parents he came once to Purī to meet Mahāprabhu, and the same advice was repeated to him. "Go to Vṛndāvana and remain with Rūpa, Sanātana there." And he did so. He lived with Rūpa Goswāmī mostly. And he had a very good voice, was expert in singing different tones, very sweet tone. He used to read Bhāgavatam in the assembly of Rūpa Goswāmī's temple. And it's also mentioned that the big temple that is broken by Aurangzeb that was built by a disciple of Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa.

nija śiṣye kahi' govindera mandira karāilā [vaṁśī, makara kuṇḍalādi 'bhūṣaṇa' kari' dilā]

["Subsequently Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa ordered his disciples to construct a temple for Govinda. He prepared various ornaments for Govinda, including a flute and shark-shaped earrings." [C-c, Antya-līlā, 13.131]

And it's also mentioned that the temple was built by Mansingh, the great general of Akbar. So the conclusion that the Mansingh, that general, the king of Jaipur, he was disciple of Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa. His very sweet cokila kantha [?] like a cuckoo style voice, very sweet. And when reading Bhāgavata śloka he used different types of tone to pronounce the śloka which charmed the audience very much. Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa, one of the six Goswāmīns of the Vṛndāvana, the first batch who began to preach about Śrī Caitanya Deva in the west. Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa.

And this Raghunātha Dāsa you know, he was born in the Hoogly district. There in that village there is a temple also. He was the only son of two brothers, Hiranya, Govardhana, and only one child in the richest family. We're told that their income was twenty lākhs of rupees that time. And twelve lākhs to pay nawarb, the bursar of the time. And eighteen lākhs remained for their own expense in those days. And they used to help many paṇḍits and many honest gentlemen at that time, paid, Advaita Ācārya Prabhu also, some monthly donation. And in many places they had such arrangement.

Raghunātha from the childhood he had some inclination towards exclusive devotion of Kṛṣṇa. He did not find any satisfaction within his mind how to engage exclusively for the service of Kṛṣṇa. That idea haunting his heart. He heard of Mahāprabhu's sannyāsa. He could not come when Mahāprabhu after sannyāsa visiting Bengal and up to Ramakeli, Rūpa, Sanātana, and went back through Śāntipura to Purī, first he met there in Śāntipura Mahāprabhu in sannyāsa dress. And did not venture to come in closer connection, but little aloof he was always crying mentally how he can get the grace of Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu addressed him, gave him some advice.

sthira hañyā ghare yāo, nā hao bātula [krame krame pāya loka bhava-sindhu-kūla]

["Compose yourself and go home - don't be a madman. One reaches the shore of the material ocean gradually."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 16.237]

"Be calm, find peace in your mind. Don't be so much madly, be calm and quiet. And Kṛṣṇa will help in proper time, then your desire will be fulfilled. You go."

markaṭa-vairāgya nā kara loka dekhāñā [yathā-yogya viṣaya bhuñja' anāsakta hañā]

["You should not make yourself a showbottle devotee and become a false renunciant. For the time being, enjoy the material world in a befitting way and do not become attached to it."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 16.238]

"Outward indifference, negligence for body interest, give up that, not outer show. Quiet, a gentle habit outwardly, and internally you pray to the Lord. Markaṭa vairāgya, a monkey type indifference, outwardly nothing necessary, not even a dress, a cloth. But inward full of lust and other faculty, bad tendency. Markaṭa vairāgya means outward apathy towards things, but inward everything is there. So give up this show of the indifference of the worldly pleasure. Don't try to become an external sādhu, but be internally praying for the grace of the Lord."

Raghunātha went home. And then Nityānanda Prabhu came and had some festival in Pāṇihāṭi, he attended and got blessings. And then he went back and wanted to go away from home to Purī to live there along with Mahāprabhu under His care. But the guardians they appointed ten watchmen by charge to keep vigilante eye that he may not leave the house.

One day in the morning their family spiritual guide, Yadunandan Ācārya, he suddenly came and asked him, "I'm going out for few days and my Deity worship should be arranged by someone else. So if you request that particular gentleman during my absence he will attend the service of my Deity, then he may attend and I shall go."

"Yes. As you like I can go and request." So with him he went out of the house. And the watchmen thought he's going with Guru, they did not care about his going out. And in the halfway he told the family Guru that, "You need not take the trouble of going so far to that man. I'm going there and I shall surely request and send him to your house. You need not take the trouble."

And so he went away to his home, and Raghunātha after requesting that he took the chance of flying away from the home, he never came back. And he knew that after few hours when he'll be seen absent in the house so many watchmen will follow him to catch. So he did not take the direct way towards Purī, he took some opposite way and began to walk that direction.

Now after one or two hours there was uproar. "Where is Raghunātha?"

"He went with Yadunandan Ācārya."

And they went to Yadunandan Ācārya. "Yes, he has gone back home."

"But he has not come." So men were sent in all directions trying to find him. "Especially go towards Purī, his inclination is to go towards Purī, to Caitanya Deva." So men ran that way.

But Raghunātha he took the opposite line, for a full day went towards opposite direction. And after that he took the shore side road towards Purī, around the shore of the sea. And in three days he reached Purī.

These people tried to catch him for some time and went so far and came back. "We could not find him."

Purī is three hundred miles perhaps, and twelve days he took to go there, Purī, by walking. And he took only rice, three days, in the twelve days he took rice three days, somewhere begging. And went to Purī in twelve days, three hundred miles. And there, when he reached that Gambhīrā where Mahāprabhu stayed he fell straight before Mahāprabhu.

Mahāprabhu looked at him, and asked Govinda, His attendant, "Oh, he has not taken any food sufficient, so Govinda take care of him and nurse him for few days. Then he'll come to Me and to have a talk."

In this way Raghunātha stayed there under care of Govinda. Then met Mahāprabhu and Mahāprabhu gave some advice. And also He gave him in charge, in care of Svarūpa Dāmodara, His dearest devotee.

"Svarūpa, I'm giving him under your care, you take care of him."

Svarupe raghu. So much so, Mahāprabhu's direction was substantially carried out that people used to say, "This Raghu is belonging to Svarūpa Dāmodara. Svarupe raghu."

There are other Raghu also, one Raghunandana of Śrīkhaṇḍa, another Raghava Paṇḍita.

Mahāprabhu told, "Three Raghu are in My care, under the svarupe raghu."

And with extraordinary vairāgyam, apathy towards external greed, tendency to enjoy this material world, Raghunātha led his life. Born and brought up in one of the richest family, within that paraphernalia of luxury, but he showed his indifference to the world so great, inconceivable. He was standing as a beggar at the Jagannātha temple door, sometimes in the chatra, the free distribution towards the beggars. And at last we find him that when the Jagannātha prasāda was excess, and it was given to the cows of Jagannātha, and some sort of rotten scent the cow also could not eat. Raghunātha took that sort of prasādam and he washed it with water, and the inside little better portion inside with some salt he used to take that.

His parents sent men there to hire a house, and one cook and one servant. "At least ask him to take some diet at time. And whatever he may do he may do. But at least once a day you try to feed him. We have got so much, and my son is fasting there, begging and fasting. How we can tolerate?" They sent, and a house was rented in Purī, and one cook and one servant appointed.

But Raghunātha did not take anything there. "My father, parents, they have sent so much money for my purpose." He used to invite Mahāprabhu to take prasādam there for some time. And then he found that Mahāprabhu is not pleased at his request He's taking there some prasādam but He's not satisfied, so left that. And himself he was living the life of a beggar and in that type.

And Mahāprabhu heard one day that Raghunātha - what prasādam is thrown away, even the cows cannot take, he's taking that and washing, and inside some hard substance he's taking with salt. Mahāprabhu Himself visited at the time of his diet and took forcibly a portion of it and took. "So sweet prasādam I have never tasted in My life Raghunātha. Jagannātha prasāda has captured you so completely, perfectly. Yes, you have really the respect for prasādam. What honour should be given to the prasādam that's available, the remains from the mouth of Jagannātha, you have really respect for that prasādam."

Prasāda sevā, honour, we honour the prasādam what is sent to us, the remains sent to us and we're to honour that prasādam, in this way. Not with the spirit of consumption, not we're consuming something in the spirit of enjoyment or exploitation we should not approach. But the remains sent by Him we must honour that. In the spirit of honouring, showing respect to His prasādam we shall take it, taste it. We shall think that is not object, that is subject. I'm subject, super subjective thing. Everything concerned, related with Jagannātha that is all caitan, cinmaya prasāda. It is not a part of a material substance. We should not deal with that understanding. But prasāda, cinmaya, it is spiritual substance and my soul is honouring that.

Just as a mālā.

ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi]

Everything, the cloth, the garland, and the candan, the paste, everything what will come from upper we shall honour that. Neither neglect like māyāvādī, nor very eager to exploit it, but we should honour. Souls tendency is like that, everything approached with the sense of honouring, not of exploitation, not of predominating, but giving honour. That is the proper relationship between things there in Vaikuṇṭha, in the spiritual world. Here material world if we don't take food this will perish. But the soul body, spiritual body does not perish without food. But there, food of that stuff is only to give respect, honour, that is the temperament of every transaction there, all with the spirit of service we're to approach.

So Raghunātha he was dealing like that. And one day also again asked Mahāprabhu. "Why You have made me leave my house? And what is the real object of my inner life? Please say by Your own mouth."

Then Mahāprabhu told, "If you have got such respect for Me, I have given you to Svarūpa Dāmodara. He knows better than Myself, he's a better professor than Myself. You will learn everything from him. Still if you like to hear something from My lips I say this. Bhāla nā khāibe āra bhāla nā paribe.

[grāmya-kathā nā śunibe, grāmya-vārtā nā kahibe / bhāla nā khāibe āra bhāla nā paribe]

["Do not talk like people in general or hear what they say. You should not eat very palatable food, nor should you dress very nicely."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 6.236]

"Don't hanker after a good garment or good food. And outwardly take the Name of the Lord continuously, and inwardly try to think of the līlā of Kṛṣṇa with the gopīs."

And He gave him Govardhana-śilā and with some guñja-mālā. Raghunātha he could understand "By giving this Govardhana-śilā He's handing over Kṛṣṇa to me, and this guñja-mālā He's offering Rādhārāṇī to me." So Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa with that garland of the guñja, the small red fruit in Vṛndāvana, and the Govardhana he used to worship all along his life. He went to Vṛndāvana, there also you can see in that temple that Girīdhārī handed over by Mahāprabhu to him with guñja-mālā.

Then after the departure of Mahāprabhu, Svarūpa Dāmodara also left, departed the very day Mahāprabhu departed. And Raghunātha he left Purī and thought, "I shall go and see, have a look of Vṛndāvana and then I shall leave my life." With this idea he went there and thought that, "From Govardhana I shall jump in the lower ground and my body will pass away, soul pass away." But when he met Rūpa, Sanātana, he found a new line of life, he had again gained the hope to live more. That inspiration came in him. He found Mahāprabhu. "Mahāprabhu has not gone, He's living in Rūpa and Sanātana." That was his vision. Rūpa, Sanātana was living agent of preaching, distributing the very thoughts and ideas of Mahāprabhu. So enlivened matter that he found that "Mahāprabhu is here within Rūpa, Sanātana, in their attempt, endeavour, Mahāprabhu is very clearly seen here." So he could not give up his life. He rather became student to Rūpa, Sanātana.

But his apathetic nature, his vairāgyam, was very extreme. According to the advice of Rūpa Goswāmī he saw that Rādhā-kuṇḍa is the best place in Vṛndāvana. So he came to have, to stay there, but under a tree.

One day Sanātana he - Mahāprabhu gave him some order that, "You please, whenever My devotees, they're very poor in all respects, when they'll come to visit Vṛndāvana please take care of them." That charge was given to Sanātana by Mahāprabhu, this direction. So Sanātana used to take care of everyone as a guardian appointed by Mahāprabhu.

When roaming through Vṛndāvana suddenly Sanātana found that Raghunātha sitting under a tree near the bank of Rādhā-kuṇḍa, and taking the Name, Kṛṣṇa Nāma. And one tiger he just came there and took some water from the tank and went away. Raghunātha did not care to understand about that, he did not, he overlooked, he's deeply engaged in taking the Name.

But Sanātana approached him and told, "This is the fact, one tiger came, took water. And you are exposed here under the tree. It is my request, my order to you, please construct a thatched cottage and live within that, and not under the tree." So Sanātana managed to construct a small hut there and Raghunātha used to stay there for his whole life.

And he was going through the writings of Rūpa Goswāmī, and he was from previous education in Sanskrit, he began to write in addition as commentary to Rūpa Goswāmī's writings. His appreciation, Raghunātha's appreciation of this divine literature of Rūpa Goswāmī. And he also composed some verses in addition, in development to that thought which gives us a clear idea about Rādhā Dāsya. Though it's in the writings of Śrī Rūpa, but still it's more clear in the writings of Raghunātha Dāsa, as if he's giving a challenge to Kṛṣṇa. "That if we do not find Rādhārāṇī with You we want to avoid You."

"We want Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa together. Where Rādhārāṇī is not with Kṛṣṇa we don't like to approach that Kṛṣṇa. Rather we shall alone worship, serve Rādhārāṇī." That is clearly stated in his writings, and that is thought to the acme, to the highest reach of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava theology.

āśābharair-amṛta-sindhu-mayaiḥ kathañcit, kālo mayātigamitaḥ kila sāmprataṁ hi tvaṁ cet kṛpaṁ mayi vidhāsyasi naiva kiṁ me, prānair vrajema ca varoru bakārināpi?
[Raghunātha Dāsa's Vilāpa-kuṣumāñjali, 102]

"O my Queen of Vṛndāvana, O Rādhārāṇī, please accept us exclusively in Thy service. If You're not satisfied with us, propitiated, then we do not like this Vṛndāvana, or any other thing. Even we do not want Kṛṣṇa if we do not get Your grace."

This exclusive dedication to the highest potency. Mattaḥ sarvaṁ pravartate. As I found in Bhagavad- gītā also the meaning there.

[iti matvā bhajante māṁ, budhā bhāva-samanvitāḥ]

["I am Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, I am the root cause of the all-comprehensive aspect of the Absolute, the all-permeating aspect of the Absolute, and also the personal aspect of the Absolute - the Master of all potencies, who commands the respect of everyone - Lord Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha. The universe of mundane and divine flow, every attempt and movement, the Vedas and allied scriptures which guide everyone's worship - all are initiated by Me alone. Realising this hidden treasure, the virtuous souls who are blessed with fine theistic intellect surpass the standards of duty and non-duty, and embrace the paramount path of love divine, rāga-mārga, and adore Me forever."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.8]

"Everything, I'm the origin of everything, so My worship, that also done by Myself. To teach others, I show what should be their duty. So I Myself worship Me and I teach others that you are to worship in this way to Me. My worship also I begin to show others their duty."

So when the Lord Himself is worshipping Him, the potency, that is His potency, but through His potency He's doing all these things. So the highest type of service which is done to Himself by His own highest potency, that is Rādhārāṇī. All-comprehensive service, śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, in mādhurya rasa service of consort-hood, the full service to be found there. So not Yaśodā in a particular rasa, Nanda. And Śrīdāmā, Sudama, they're representing particular rasa. But all-comprehensive rasa where the sākhya, vātsalya, and śanta, dāsya, all, and mādhurya rasa, that is a wholesale dedication to the extreme. And that sort of service done by the aspect of the highest potency, teachers of that, and that is Rādhārāṇī. And without Her we won't approach direct to Kṛṣṇa. We'll be loser. And the maximum, and the highest quantity and quality, both we find in the service of Rādhārāṇī.

And it's very clear in the stanza given by Dāsa Goswāmī to us. And that is the gist of the teachings of Rūpa Goswāmī as what he was taught in Allahabad by Mahāprabhu on the banks of Yamunā and Ganges, both, that inspiration. He taught him in words, and also He told that, "I'm inspiring you. I'm empowering you, what is to be produced afterwards in your scripture."

And there Raghunātha Dāsa he showed the climax of our prospect in this śloka.

"If we don't get Your shelter we do not like to compromise anywhere, even not with Kṛṣṇa Himself. We want our need first with You, and then we can through You we can understand who is Kṛṣṇa. Who is proper Kṛṣṇa, that is understandable through You. Otherwise we'll be loser if we approach independently or through any other source. Both in quality and in quantity we want to have such Kṛṣṇa how He shows to You. Kṛṣṇa is fully served by You, and we want in quantity and quality that line, that quality Kṛṣṇa service."

So today is the day of disappearance of that Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī who is the Ācārya of the prayojana tattva. Sambandha tattva, what is what, that is more given by Sanātana. And abhidheya, how to attain Kṛṣṇa, that abhidheya, means to end, that is mainly given by Rūpa Goswāmī. And what is the real status we want to approach, the highest end of our life, highest reach of our spiritual realisation, that is clearly given by Raghunātha Goswāmī, prayojana tattva Ācārya. The end of our life. So today is the day of disappearance of Raghunātha Goswāmī.

He has also described how the separation of a devotee is really so painful. It has been described by him furiously. When Rūpa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī disappeared, his attraction for Rūpa and Sanātana, the Guru, Śikṣā Guru, was so intense that he expressed that in such a language it is fearful, dreadful figure, thought. He says, vyāghra-tuṇḍāyate kuṇḍaṁ. "This Rādhā-kuṇḍa is the most favourite place of mine, leaving everything I'm living here. Now Rūpa, Sanātana, by whose grace I could understand the value of Rādhā-kuṇḍa they're away. And if like a jaw of a tiger, Rādhā-kuṇḍa seems to me as a jaw of a tiger is coming to swallow me. How? Almost impossible things come when their mad by the separation of the Guru. Girīndro 'jagarāyate. The Girīrāja Govardhana was, Mahāprabhu Himself by His own hand offered me for worship. Now because Rūpa, Sanātana is not here I see the Girīrāja as a great python."

[śūnyāyate mahā-goṣṭhaṁ, girīndro 'jagarāyate / vyāghra-tuṇḍāyate kuṇḍaṁ, jīvātu-rahitasya me]

["Now that I no longer have the sustainer of my life, the land of Vraja has become empty and desolate, Govardhana Hill has become like a great python, and Rādhā-kuṇḍa has become like the gaping mouth of a ferocious tiger."] [Śrī Stavāvali, Śrī Prārthanāśraya-caturdaśaka, Fourteen Prayers For Shelter]

85.10.25.B_85.10.26.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 'Duḥkha-madhye kona duḥkha haya gurutara?' Of all sorrows and pain, what is the most severe? Then, 'kṛṣṇa-bhakta-viraha vinā duḥkha nāhi dekhi para'. The answer is given there.

['duḥkha-madhye kona duḥkha haya gurutara?'
'kṛṣṇa-bhakta-viraha vinā duḥkha nāhi dekhi para']

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked, "Of all kinds of distress, what is the most painful?" Śrī Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Apart from separation from the devotee of Kṛṣṇa, I know of no unbearable unhappiness."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.248]

The separation of the devotees of Kṛṣṇa, that causes the highest degree of painfulness. Duḥkha, the sorrow or the pain or departure is in its highest stage we can feel when we're separated from a devotee, departure of devotee and Gurudeva. Then everything becomes dark, the connection gone off. Through a spectacle I'm seeing so many things, but if it's removed I can't see anything. Then a great disaster comes in my heart. "At once everything became dark to me. Through them we were so hopefully we were enjoying so many spiritual experiences. And that is removed like a spectacle and I'm left in darkness." At heart feels like that, so duḥkha vinā.

And that has been described by Dāsa Goswāmī. "Even Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Govardhana comes to devour me. A python and tiger coming to devour me."

So such should be our affinity towards Guru and Vaiṣṇava. They're everything. By their grace only we can have a pleasant position in the spiritual life. They're the mediator, they're giving connection, through Vaiṣṇava we can have.

So our Guru Mahārāja in his Vyāsa Pūjā address, which will be published very soon, he's addressing his disciples, vipadha uddharan bandhu gana. "O my friends that are saving me from the dangerous situation."

Without the devotee company one feels alone, feels in the ocean in a dangerous position, in chaotic condition. And when so many Vaiṣṇavas like so many lights are showing so many different shades of things and they're sustained, "Yes, all right, we're doing all right. Substantial thing we're devoted to, in this way.

So Dāsa Goswāmī Prabhu it is the day of departure of him. We should try to show our greatest reverence to him. And then his direct disciple was Kavirāja Goswāmī, the giver of Caitanya-caritāmṛta you know.

We're told, if all the theistic books lost, and only Caitanya-caritāmṛta saved, then everything is saved. The very gist of the highest theological substance is there. In Bhāgavatam it is Kṛṣṇa līlā, and here Kṛṣṇa līlā and Gaura līlā combined. Guru and Kṛṣṇa Both combined - Kṛṣṇa and the giver of Kṛṣṇa. Without giver of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa is nothing to us. But Kṛṣṇa and the giver of Kṛṣṇa, both combined in Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

And who has given that to us, what should I say about his - our gratitude, our indebtedness to him?

He was born nearby Kāṭwā, in a place Jhāmaṭapura, there some sort of Deity worshipping going on.

Swāmī Mahārāja recreated a task to recover, reconstruct so many places of pilgrimage, holy places.

I asked the ISKCON people, "Go and try to improve the Jhāmaṭapura, the birthplace of Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī, the giver of the best thing in the whole of the world in creation."

The Jhāmaṭapura is there, and there Kṛṣṇadāsa born of a badya [?] which means this Indian doctor family. Narahari Sarakāra, this Śivānanda Sena, they're of respective position, and many, Murārī Gupta, they came from the same section and they're devoted, they're famous devotees of Mahāprabhu, helped His cause greatly.

So Kavirāja Goswāmī, in his house there was Deity, and Deity are being worshipped. And one Rāmadāsa, a devotee of Nityānanda Prabhu, he went there and exhibited some feats of divine love. That could not be appreciated by the priest of the temple and he made some apathetic remark. And then Rāmadāsa depreciated there he went away dissatisfied.

And Kavirāja Goswāmī he told something to the priest. "Priest, that you could not appreciate the devotee of Nityānanda Prabhu. You are conducting formal worship, but you have eliminated, you could not understand the real divine love, all these things, something." To one Guṇārṇava Miśra.

And Nityānanda Prabhu He was so much satisfied with these dealings of Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja Goswāmī, that He, that very night He came in a dream to Kavirāja Goswāmī and told, āre āre kṛṣṇadāsa, [nā karaha bhaya / vṛndāvane yāha, — tāṅhā sarva labhya haya]

["O My dear Kṛṣṇadāsa, do not be afraid. Go to Vṛndāvana, for there you will attain all things."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.195]

"O Kṛṣṇadāsa, I'm saying to you, come to Vṛndāvana, you will have a very bright future life. I say you leave everything and come to Vṛndāvana. I'm much satisfied with your behaviour. You have given clear appreciation for My devotee Rāmadāsa, and chastised the smārta paṇḍit scholar of the ordinary varṇāśrama fashion of worship, and gave supremacy this loving service. So I'm very much satisfied and I ask you to come to Vṛndāvana, and you will have a very bright future there."

And he told that, "By that dream in the morning I woke up and thought what is this? This is not an ordinary dream, this is really the grace of Nityānanda Prabhu, and He calls me to Vṛndāvana. That very morning I made arrangements and left everything and came to Vṛndāvana. And it is shamelessly I'm describing that Nityānanda Prabhu's grace has given me so much. Though it is very haughty to show, anyhow undesirable that one should boast that I have got this thing, that thing. This is out of courtesy that a Vaiṣṇava, a servant of a Vaiṣṇava will show his pride "I have got the grace of Kṛṣṇa or Vaiṣṇava." This is boastfulness, it is very criminal, degraded mentality. But still I can't say, can't keep it in secret, the grace of Nityānanda Prabhu, whatever I've got, only by the grace of Nityānanda. I'm not fit for that. Nityānanda Prabhu's grace that is causeless, and I'm such a fallen soul, and His grace has took me up in the high standard. I've got Rūpa, I've got Sanātana, I've got Raghunātha Dāsa as my Guru. I've got Govardhana, I've got Rādhā-kuṇḍa, Vṛndāvana. I've got so many things. I can't be thankless, it will be ingratitude for me if I do not say that I have got so many things. The grace of Nityānanda has given so much. I can't be a traitor to His graciousness, so I'm to disclose that "Yes, I have got Rūpa, Sanātana, Raghunātha, so many masters, and Vṛndāvana, and such great thought, Vṛndāvana I have got."

This way Kavirāja Goswāmī - at the same time he says, purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi se laghiṣṭha. "What of Jagāi, Mādhāi, they came from brāhmaṇa school, they approached Nityānanda and Mahāprabhu face to face, but I have not got such a good chance. Only dream Nityānanda came and showed Him. And I was, purīṣera kīṭa haite muñi se laghiṣṭha, I am lower than a worm of a stool. Jagāi mādhāi haite muñi se pāpiṣṭha. I am sinner of the sinner-most than Jagāi, Mādhāi - more sinner than Jagāi, Mādhāi, muñi se pāpiṣṭha. Mora nāma śune yei tāra puṇya kṣaya, if anyone hears my name his merit decreases. And mora nāma laya yei tāra pāpa haya, and who takes my name he commits sin positively. Such a nasty position I have got, and only the causeless grace of Nityānanda Prabhu has raised me so high. So it the grace of Nityānanda. O you people, I widely circulate to you all, come to the feet of Nityānanda. He's so gracious, so noble, does not look for any qualification at all. Whoever may come, can fall on his way, He will embrace him. Causeless mercy, causeless grace we have found in Nityānanda. So come to Him, come to that department, where that divine love is being distributed so widely and without any qualification from the beggars who want this. Come to the feet of Nityānanda and His grace." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādī-līlā, 5.205-6]

Heno nitāi vine bhāi rādhā-kṛṣṇa pāite nāi [From Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura's Manaḥ-śikṣā]

By the grace of Nityānanda you will come to Śrī Gaurāṅga. And when you have Gaurāṅga, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa Both combined, you have got everything of the highest order in Vṛndāvana.

So these three Gurus, spiritual guides of our Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava theology, they departed this very day. So how should we behave, we should observe, we should look, associate with this day, how? How should be our heart? What we have lost, the greatest jewel, the mediator of the Supreme wealth they're withdrawn from us. But still they're eternal, their grace is everywhere. We shall hanker after a drop of their grace in this very day of their departure. Without that we can't lead our spiritual life. Our spiritual life is impossible without the drop they've kept for us in Caitanya-caritāmṛta, in Raghunātha's _____ [?] all these things. That is our food, our diet, to sustain. Both diet and medicine, everything we shall have from there. So invoke their grace today that we may live, we may serve them, we may serve their master, we may fulfil their end of life. And we may show that we can be of some service and utility to their cause, in this way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...mad atheism, our Guru Mahārāja came to push all these thoughts divine to fallen souls like us. And through him Swāmī Mahārāja also approached by his grace to the world abroad and drawn so many of you to this Navadwīpa Dhāma. Gaura Hari bol. Gurudeva, by whose grace we're able to have a glimpse of the light of that order, Bhaktisiddhānta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...gratitude towards the disciple group.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...from a dangerous position, how to harmonise.

In a market, not only the capitalist but the customers. Customer's position is primary, considered. So the recipients, the man in the market, customers are the helpers of the merchants that supply the commodity. The current society is like that. If no customer then the sellers they consider them that they're helpless.

So dynamic characteristic of the Absolute requires this - every part has got its important position to play. Positive, negative, to the details. Positive is not sufficient in its own position, the negative has also got its position. Both combined the līlā is possible, the pastimes possible. So everything has got its necessity.

When the gopīs met Kṛṣṇa in Kurukṣetra they hankered after the environment of Vṛndāvana. Both main parties were present, but still they felt the necessity of the paraphernalia. "Here we cannot meet, we cannot discharge our duty without the help of our friends that help us favourably."

So everything has got its own necessity in a particular līlā. In a drama also, a king is necessary, and a sweeper is also necessary. So every part has got its own importance in the dynamic characteristic of the Absolute. We're to understand in that way. The supplier, the giver is there, the mediator is there, and the customers must be there. One is feeding, another is eating. Without the help of the eater feeding is not possible. Festival means everyone's part to play is that. So unity and plurality, adjusted in this way, one is nowhere without the help of the other. So potency and the possessor of the potency, both are inseparably connected in constitution of the whole. So the relationship not of exploitation, not of predominating over others. In the plane of love that everyone expresses his gratitude to another. This is the land of love, the land of affection. Everyone has got his recognition of his position. All revered, no exploitation. Union, husband, wife, but that is everyone is respecting another, serving another. Not that one consuming another is being consumed.

Prasāda sevā. When we take prasādam - not with the spirit of consumption but to honour. Everything is sevā, service, everything is done with the temperament of the service. So no debt, no reaction, no such possibility. Honouring, the transaction is there. And apparently the transaction may be sometimes cruel, but still, keeping the independence of the other party, another party is dealing, serving, it is possible.

So Guru expressing his indebtedness to the disciple. "Without you I cannot have the position of distribution of the, about the subject, about God. So your help is also indispensable. Without you I'm nowhere. Knowing I want engagement it is a favour that I'm engaged in distributing, I'm a medium, if you're not present then how I can be a medium? My service finished."

So everyone has got his necessity, honourable position. So this revolutionary thing that Guru Mahārāja in his address to the disciples. Vipadha uddharan bandhu gana. "O my friends that are saviours to me." Apparently it seems to be how it is too much modesty, humility, not true so much as humility. That there is also an angle of vision like that, but at the same time the necessity that should also be appreciated what is the characteristic really. A relative position and absolute position.

Honouring, we should learn from this. If no prasādam, no honour to prasādam we're lost. But at the same time no spirit of consumption, but honouring the prasādam, _____ [?] So this Vaiṣṇava expression prasāda sevā, serving the prasāda. Apparently he's consuming and the fashion he says he's serving. So it's not a fashion but it's the real, very life of the thing to honour prasādam. Everything to honour, this is the position in the positive kingdom, every unit is honouring another unit. And not one exploiting another and showing some action. In action one is utilising many but not by force but the opposite we're told. The land of no reaction but opposite reaction. The land of debt and the land of - here working, movement means undertaking, undergoing loan, and there the opposite, movement means to give loan to help. That is the conception of service, no one is taking any loan, but all capitalist. Everyone is capitalist in his own position, he's giving, contributing, and they don't want to take back. So opulence is there. If in an administration all the staff they're thieves then it will be bankrupt if the staff are thieves. That administration or that victim will be bankrupt very soon. Where all members are contributing then there will be opulence. So the land of opulence, no want, all giver, no black marketing. Even there is black marketing, but in the style of black marketing one is giving, sacrificing. By stealthily one is giving but not taking, stealthily.

We're told that there was one Mohammedan gentleman in Hoogly, Harjid Mohamed Marsin, he had enough money, and there were so many approaching him and he's helping them. But those householders that had got some social position they can't come to beg to him. He kept some information and at night when he's passing by his door he threw something, some money in some bag or so, in his house, stealthily. Explicitly he's not coming to beg to him but he's in want. So the man, the donor, the giver, he stealthily threw some money within his house compound and ran. They say, "What is this?" Then sees there is some money here, and no one. At night he used to do like that.

So stealthily also one may give. Black marketing is there formally, but in the black marketing only giving not taking. And black marketing apparently in Vṛndāvana, through apparent misdeeds the blissfulness is being distributed by Kṛṣṇa and others also.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Our Guru Mahārāja, "Some people come and show us honour and say, 'why you also showing honour?" Our Guru Mahārāja he used to show the honour, the praṇāma to the disciples, and that is not hypocrisy. His vision was such, to give honour to all. Everyone connected with God, and if God should be honoured then any connection of God that should be honoured to the extreme. That should be loved from the heart of the heart. Heart will be such, and as a part of heart, within and without, part of heart. We're advised to see by his conduct this way. That is the land we're aspiring after to enter and to live there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. vipadha uddharan bandhu gana. "O you my friends who have come to deliver me from danger." Not flattery, not hyperbolic, but it is real, it is the nature of the soil. And we're to be conscious that we're going to live in such a plane. So such will be our heart, clean and giving mood.

And die to live. Hegel is there. Ha, ha, ha. Not only the disciplic order, but the very order of the existence of that plane is die to live. At every step, every second, the service means die to live. Apparently dying, giving, seen, it felt, 'O he's given, dissipation.' But no, it is just as merchant he's removing the commodities from the store but it's coming in the form of money. Apparently so many things are removed from the store to the party, but in return the money is coming again to fill up the store. And whatever quality we can give us, whatever plane, we can get back higher than the value in that plane, in terms of dollar against dollar, gold against gold, things against things. Different planes of life. Mahāprabhu. Infinite transaction with the Infinite. Take the Name with that spirit, with that sevonmukhe hi jihvādau.

sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ]

["Therefore, [because the name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and is beyond the realm of sense experience] the name, form, qualities, associates, and pastimes of Kṛṣṇa are beyond the realm of sense experience. When, however, a devotee engages the senses, beginning with the tongue, in the service of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Purva-vibhaga, 2.234]

So Rūpa Goswāmī he's taken out the very life of the thing. They must be giving this symptom of die to live must be everywhere in our transaction with the divinity, otherwise we're here in this plane. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau. We shall take Name, but taking the Name, that also this spirit must be cultivated within, the spirit of giving. Not to take the Name to show to the others 'I'm a sādhu, I'm taking the Name.' That is exploitation. Nāmākṣara, only the physical sound is being repeated, not we've got any touch with the real spirit, real Name. Vaikuṇṭha nāma grahaṇam.

Not this physical sound, but it must have got origin in the Infinite. Vaikuṇṭha, no kuṇṭha, no limit, must have connection with the unlimited - Vaikuṇṭha means, unlimited. And that unlimited connection only can be got through giving, sacrificing, by service, because that is of higher status. Only through service we can connect with Him. We can exploit things of lower nature. And if we want to have any connection with the higher than we are, then the connection of service only gives connection, otherwise not. So Vaikuṇṭha Nāma, if finite wants its connection with the Infinite, the mood must be that of service, never otherwise. We can avoid or we can exploit, that is here, we're out of the reality, we're outcasts, no connection.

So it is reality, it is not imagination. Devotion, Kṛṣṇa conception, all reality, and real reality, above all conception of reality. But the position is such, we must learn to sacrifice. Then we shall come to that group of that section, that mentality, that temperament, sādhu-saṅga, and the cultivation will go on. It will be easy if we get favourable association, then our culture will be, cultivation will be easily done. Alone it is difficult, paraphernalia is opposite. So sādhu-saṅga has been given so much importance, the association. If we get second, third, fourth, fifth, so many in a way when we're going to the unknown distant land it helps us a great deal, sādhu-saṅga. And also some map consulting, śāstra, like map. And sādhu-saṅga, the real guide with us, company. The guidebook, śāstra.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So no devotion, no God. And devotion, everywhere God, connection with that plane, conscious of that plane, resident of that plane. It is concrete reality, not abstract viewed from a distant abstract. The stars are also like abstract to us, but when we can go and see and examine it is a concrete. The moon is abstract to us, only considered to be mentioned in the poetry or in any epics, moon. Sun, moon.

Rāma. Rāma. Rāma. So acquainted, there's a symptom. When a finite comes in connection with Infinite his thirst never quenched, satisfied. Only going on increasing, increasing. As in the connection of Infinite so it's increasing, hankering will increase. More we get, more we have, more we want. That will be the temperament. More we have, more we want, necessity. This is also a peculiar symptom of our connection with Infinite. The more one gets, no limit, no satisfaction, and more he will want. "I want more." But it is Infinite, it is not finished. How many recipients there may be but no bankruptcy. So any member living in the Infinite, as much he gets he wants more and he's also accommodated there.

His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More one gets the facility of the service, more he wants to do more service. Enjoyment in the service. By stealing also we can enjoy, and by giving away also, making gifts also we enjoy. But difference in the quality of enjoyment. There we enjoy higher quality.

raso vai saḥ. [rasaṁ hyevāyaṁ labdhānandī bhavati
ko hyevānyāt kaḥ prāṇyāt yadeṣa ākāśa ānando na syāt eṣa hyevānandayati]

[Taittirīya-Upaniṣad, 2.7]

The real ecstasy is there. You search after rasa. You are doing that, everyone is searching after rasa, enjoyment, happiness. But search properly and you will have, quantity, quality, both. Search in a proper way. In a wrong way you're searching for happiness, pleasure. Everyone is searching for pleasure, but in a wrong way, and they're getting what is false, reactionary. Searching for happiness, some pleasure, but in return they're getting some suffering. Enjoying first, suffering second _____ [?] but suffer for enjoyment, in that way you will thrive. Kuntī Devī she prayed for suffering, and knew that that is the source of higher enjoyment, of higher quality. Danger, vipadaḥ. So what Guru Mahārāja was saying, vipadah uddharan bandhu gana, "O my friends that come to relieve me." So that is the party conducting a relief work here.

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa

kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

The call of urgency of Mahāprabhu, urgent call. No other work, no other duty. Whomever you meet talk of Kṛṣṇa. They're attacked with danger. Only talk of Kṛṣṇa. Whomever you find, no other business, no other engagement, talk about Kṛṣṇa, save him. Give Kṛṣṇa consciousness to anyone and everyone. All famine stricken, dying, give proper food, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Save them from mortality, and give life giving. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is life giving, saving the soul inside. The soul is in danger, in the hands of the demon of the ego. The soul proper, the person proper in the hand of the dacoit, the ego. I'm to help the soul in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, ask them to invite the help of Kṛṣṇa, then demon will disappear. The ego is the demon within us, and the soul in his fist, real man in the fist of a dacoit. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no other duty, the urgent duty to everyone, talk of Kṛṣṇa, talk of Kṛṣṇa. Vipadah bandhu, the friend in our danger. Ask them to pray for their relief to Kṛṣṇa." So how urgent He felt, He's also searching in that mood, and also asking His paraphernalia, "Whomever you find, talk of Kṛṣṇa, no other temptation."

In Madras when I was there I asked one education minister, "We're going to preach in your land, your province, please give a letter of introduction."

He told, "O Swāmīji, you do not know our language. What will you do there? First learn Tamil and then you should go there."

Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. I told him, suppose I'm going there on the street of your village, and I've found a boy is diving into the tank. Should I go to learn Tamil, and then I shall say to others that, 'O, the boy is dying. The boy is in the tank and he's dying there. Should I go to the school and then learn Tamil and then I shall go to inform the people that the boy fell in the tank and he's dying, relieve him?" I may not know Tamil but I shall try to impress the people, "O, the boy is in danger, save him." By movement of my hands, and also if I find any English mediator through him anyhow I shall try my best to give this information to the party that this is the danger.

So when we find that all are dying, going away from Kṛṣṇa consciousness and dying here in danger, should I go to learn the language from the school, and then to warn them about their danger? Anyhow through any mediator, anyhow I shall try my best to show that they're in danger. They're in danger, help them. So you're in danger, so that urgency is necessary in our relief work, in our preaching Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9] It does not mean that we shall go to learn the language of so many first and then to do that. In any way give this duty so urgent.

Our Guru Mahārāja once in Madras when he was talking of Kṛṣṇa, one gentleman he knew Bengali though Madrasi, he stayed for some time here in Navadwīpa, "You say in Bengali, I can understand."

Our Guru Mahārāja told, I remember, "Neither I'm speaking Bengali nor English. What I speak you hear."

Then what is that? He was speaking English, but not so much accustomed to speak English.

So the man he told that, "I know Bengali, you please speak in Bengali."

But his answer came, "I'm neither talking English nor Bengali. What I say, hear."

What is that? Giving vent some impression, and impression can work independent of language.

When Mahāprabhu in the way of Jhārikhaṇḍa, He went to Vṛndāvana, so many tigers, deer, they began to chant Kṛṣṇa and dance. How? In the plane of soul, the injection went in their heart, and the beast also began to dance and to chant Kṛṣṇa in their own way.

It is possible. So energising here, and that energy is passing to the soul, crossing the mind and the body. It is also possible. Yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Good will has got its power, not "Peace that has victory not less renowned than war." Milton says.

So Haniman [?] says, "The fine treatment is independent of the material, this physical thing." He has admitted that some magnetic power is necessary to cure the disease. So that magnetic power, even we're told that the yogīs in India, by their meditation could remove the disease of a man who is in another country. It is possible. Haniman's [?] theory, homoeopathic. "What cures the disease that is in the finer plane, and a magnetic force, and that will power."

Sometimes it may be transferred. A worse disease another man is taking by prayer. "Let him be cured and the disease may come to me." This is also seen, and possible, transformation. So will power, the subtle energy, that is not to be ignored. But that is more real.

So Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa cultivation, means not physical fit but the internal energising is all important here. How, what attitude, what mood we shall do it? The purity of the inner person is more helpful, not physical attempt so much. But that does not mean that the physical thing will be totally abolished, not that. But internal things should be given more importance, purity of heart. And _____ [?] means our submission to the Autocrat, Central Autocrat, Kṛṣṇa conception. And Beauty has reserved all right. All right reserved there. Only we must approach Him, not anywhere else. The Beauty is Autocrat, it can capture, the innermost transaction is only handled and guided by Beauty. Innermost plane is the play of the Beautiful. Kṛṣṇa līlā, sweetest of the sweet.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Śrī Gaurāṅga, Lord, came to deal with that. "Give up everything. Search for the sweetness of the heart. Transaction of the sweet with the sweet. The wholesale is sweet, plane is sweet, you are sweet, Lord is sweet, association is sweet. The land of sweetness, let us try to have our entrance there. Sweet Absolute. Hidden Treasure. Hidden Treasure of the world is Sweet Absolute with all His paraphernalia."

The revealed scriptures, the śruti, after getting some participation in the rasa līlā they with folded palms beg forgiveness to Kṛṣṇa. "Please forgive us. We could not - so we told from far away that You are rasa, You are sweetness, but we could not express You in such a way as we experience now. So sweet pastimes, it is very difficult to approach to sweetness. But sweetness in so as a surplus way, infinitely dancing and singing of sweetness is in so intense and such a playful manner that sweetness exists, we could not dream of it and we failed to express this kind of sweetness. That is in the cause we failed in our duty. So we beg forgiveness for that my Lord. You are so sweet, and sweetness is so playful." So vyāso vetti na vetti vā.

bhaktyā bhāgavataṁ grāhyaṁ na buddhyā na ca ṭīkayā]

[Lord Śiva says: "I know the true purpose of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam; Śukadeva, the son and disciple of Vyāsadeva, knows it thoroughly, and the author of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Śrīla Vyāsadeva may or may not know the meaning. The real purpose of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is very difficult to conceive and can only be known through bhakti."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 24.313]

Ha, ha. The teacher, he also sometimes does not know what he's saying. Mahāprabhu says, when Guru is advising the disciple - his pralāp, a delirium. Mahāprabhu says, "Sanātana, what I say it is delirium to Me. Through this delirium I feel that Kṛṣṇa is passing to you through Me, through My words. I do not understand the real meaning of these words, I'm a medium. I'm saying to you but I don't understand them fully. But I'm only feeling that something is passing through My advice to you, and Kṛṣṇa is doing that. And I do not know the meaning, I can't feel what I say, I'm talking delirium."

Vyāso vetti na vetti vā. The giver, the writer of the scripture, of the book, he does not know always what is passing through. Sanātana Goswāmī told clearly. "Who am I, a little soul, and I'm describing about the members of the harem of Kṛṣṇa Himself. His Mahāṣi, His Queen, Rukmiṇī was such and such, Satyabhāmā such and such. About the harem I'm talking of the Supreme Lord and I'm a tiny soul. What is my position? But someone as if holding my hand and forcing me to write all these things. I'm a medium, pralāp vakra."

So infinite characteristic is like this. Everyone says that "I do not know it fully, I'm only a medium in the hand of the Infinite Absolute." Specially if we're talking about Him, delirium, pralāp. And the true representation is that "I have nothing, I'm none, I have no position. I'm only an instrument to be handled."

īśvaraḥ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, hṛd-deśe 'rjjuna tiṣṭhati
bhrāmayan sarvva-bhūtāni, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā

[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61]

[svabhāva-jena kaunteya, nibaddhaḥ svena karmaṇā]
kartuṁ necchasi yan mohāt, kariṣyasy avaśo 'pi tat

["O Kaunteya, being compelled by the tendency of your nature, that very duty which out of delusion you are now avoiding will be (soon) inevitably executed by you."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.60]

"Arjuna, I ask you to do this. If you don't do this then I'm to use My special power and force you to do this. I'm everywhere, I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me. That is My position. My will must be done. I ask you to do this. If you don't do I shall force you to do it. That power I have got within Me."

Still power is distributed. Every country the military holds the position, really. But still every man enjoys his freedom, as long as no interference from the military. The Prime Minister also may be, ha, ha, here the Prime Minister Bhutto in Pakistan when military rising and then the court marshal and he was tried and given capital punishment. The previous day he was the Prime Minister and then the next day he was hanged.

Mahāprabhu also saying to Advaita Prabhu. "The higher officer by whose order one is hanged, and by the order of the King that higher officer also may be hanged, Advaita Prabhu."

When Advaita Prabhu remarked that, "Myself and Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita we're in very awkward position. We have got our higher social position. And Nityānanda is taking so many from the lower caste and mixing together. And we're dealt in this rough and nasty way. We have not got our special independence and dignity here."

Then Mahāprabhu could not tolerate this remark. He went straight to the Ganges. "You have, after so much prayer You have brought Me here, and now You're opposing My activity, show dishonour." He could not tolerate, He straight ran to the River Ganges and jumped there.

And Nityānanda Prabhu, Haridāsa, They also followed the same speed and They also jumped. And Nityānanda caught by the hair and Haridāsa the feet, They raised Mahāprabhu.

Then Mahāprabhu told, "O, You are not allowing Me. All right, I shall hide Myself in the house of Nandan Ācārya. And give this declaration that Mahāprabhu jumped into the river and we could not find Him, no trace of Him. You circulate that."

And Advaita Prabhu he heard, informed that "He jumped into the river and We could not find Him any more." Then Advaita Prabhu began to fast. After three days Mahāprabhu could not stay any longer, He came to Advaita Ācārya.

Utawa acarya ami ina visvambhara [?] "Advaita Ācārya, You get up. I am Viśvambhara. I have come to Your door again." There He mentions, "In Kṛṣṇa's kingdom His pastimes are such that the principal officer who is entrusted with the department of giving capital punishment, if he commits anything severely wrong, then by the order of the king he's also punished." That He told to Advaita Ācārya.

Then Advaita Ācārya got up and took prasādam and soon pacified Him.

Līlā is such, eh? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Action, reaction, of different type. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Yūnor māna udañcati. And Rūpa Goswāmī gave explanation of a very peculiar nature about this anti pastimes in the higher section.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet [ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]
[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

Just as the movement of the serpent is naturally crooked, serpent does not go straight but in this crooked way naturally. So the line of movement, nature of movement of love is also in that way. Ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati. So sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause the separation and the ill feeling between the higher position holder. Sometimes that difference for the sweetness of reunion some such difference automatically comes there. That is the very nature of līlā requires this. This disagreement, agreement, by Yogamāyā this is arranged to enhance the speed and the nature of the sweetness dealing, all these. It is there, automatic.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Acintya. Adhokṣaja. Still we cannot leave it, that is our interest. Unknown and unknowable, but still our best prospect is there. What to do? Everything will be known and knowable to us? No! But still our highest prospect is there, so we're to try to enter into that plane of unknown and unknowable. Whatever little is known and knowable that is sufficient for us - to feed a poor beggar like us, more than satisfactorily. Eka-bindu jagat ḍubāya.

["The consciousness of each woman within the three worlds is certainly like a high hill, but the sweetness of Kṛṣṇa's beauty is like an ocean. Even a drop of water from that ocean can flood the entire world and submerge all the high hills of consciousness."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 15.19]

One particle is sufficient to inundate the whole world. Kṛṣṇa prema. One drop of the divine love of Kṛṣṇa is sufficient to inundate the whole of the world. It is such.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. We stop here today. Vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

["The Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa cleanses the mirror of the heart and extinguishes the fire of misery in the forest of birth and death. As the evening lotus blooms in the moon's cooling rays, the heart begins to blossom in the nectar of the Name. And at last the soul awakens to its real inner treasure - a life of love with Kṛṣṇa. Again and again tasting nectar, the soul dives and surfaces in the ever-increasing ocean of ecstatic joy. All phases of the self of which we may conceive are fully satisfied and purified, and at last conquered by the all-auspicious influence of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1]

Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ. The ever increasing ocean of ecstasy. Prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtā. Every step, every particle, every drop, gives us the conception of the perfect and fullest taste of sweetness. Ever new, no sterilisation, limit, the prey of death, nothing, ever new. Death is not capturing and making it as if the prey of death, going not coming, ever new. Every second seems to be coming with new colour, so eka-bindu jagat ḍubāya. One drop is sufficient to cover the whole, to quench the thirst of the whole universe.

Nāma, the Name, the sound Kṛṣṇa is such. If we're approachable, nearest approach is the sound Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa Nāma. And there everything springs up, from the sound everything coming out, if properly served, dealt. Govinda. Govinda. Govinda. Nitāi Gaura Hari. So,

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa
kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

"Only with this urgency you approach everyone. And then, kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei. I say to carry out My order you do, as a servant, so the pride of a Guru won't touch you. You are obeying My order, become Guru. I'm sending this information to the people through you. Do this, obey My order as disciple, do this, so the pride of a Guru won't be able to touch you, 'that you are superior.' You are only informer. You are carrying out My order. With this conception you approach anybody and everybody, so no egoistic feeling that you are giving. I'm giving through you. With this consciousness go on distributing Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the people. So your egoistic feeling that you're a big man, you are oh so superior, that touch of pride won't contaminate you."

The case is urgent, it is ever urgent, always death is devouring everything. And to save, that is the only duty should be like that. As our Guru Mahārāja told what made me submit to him finally. "That there is fire, let me, allow me to quench that fire and then to come to serve you. No, no, let the fire burn the whole world, it does not affect your real interest. Come and join the service of Kṛṣṇa. Let the fire burn into ashes. It won't affect you in any way if the whole world is burned to ashes. Kṛṣṇa is such. All your inner demand, necessity, is in the feet of Kṛṣṇa. And this is mal-engagement, this world." Then I surrendered, that this sort of urgency to serve, to go to Kṛṣṇa, I won't hear in this world anywhere else. I finally fell flat in mind at that time. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra. Kṛṣṇa kathā, no other duty. All mal-engagement. Only proper engagement to distribute nectar of immortality, and then positive sweetness. Immortality from one side, and that nectar, positive, food. So relief work, engage yourself busily in the relief work.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi-Gaura-Gadādhara. Gaura Hari bol.

[The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, page 57-8]

"When that day will come when I shall engage myself cent percent in the service of Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu? Being damaged, blood oozing, unaffected, O, take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Jagāi, Mādhāi, what of that? You have wounded Me, does not matter. You say, take the Name of Kṛṣṇa."

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. What is the time? Seven?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Seven forty-five almost.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We began late. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

If we're in the line it is concrete thing to us. And if not then it's all abstract philosophy and imagination, and indulgence in abstract thinking, avoiding the practical side of the duty of these worldly affairs. We're all speculationists, no value in the practical life, we're idle time killers. So many members we are, all idle. Not only wasting time, but trying to waste the time of others.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ [jāgarti saṁyamī
yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ]

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits.

The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

What is night to one is day to another. Then so-called scientists they're only fighting soldiers are real. And the scientist's discovery that is idleness. Laboratory is idleness, the workshop of the brain. And the workshop of the soul above brain, the heart.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...as much as we shall be able to appreciate the other's side, desire for material aspiration, sense pleasure. Desire may be of sense pleasure, and desire may be of good name. Desire may be for money, that is also background of sense pleasure. And desire may be of perfect rest. Dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa, all these things. And desire for our Lord Whom we want to guide us, Whose guidance will give us fulfilment. By serving Whom, by trying to satisfy Whom our inner heart will be pleased. If we can find such ideal and we can feel deep necessity for Him, then all these will retire finally. Otherwise these things will come and go. Sometimes we may be apathetic to them, sometimes again we shall feel hankering for them. It will come and go. But if under the direction of the Supreme, sādhu, devotee, we follow the program, this proper program for our progress towards God conception, then gradually these things will have to retire. These are over-covers, and if we can dive deep into reality then we'll get rid of these floating, temporary proposals of satisfaction to us. There is a progress, life is progressive, and we can make progress from the world of that sense experience and towards that soul experience. Just as we can go from our mental taste towards the world of reason to subdue our mental sentiments. And by controlling by our reason, by our ordinary understanding, so if we can come in contact with this idea that it's all floating and after all it's disappointing, so we must go to find our fulfilment in higher and some deeper conception. And we shall do the needful...

85.10.27.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...medicine, controlling them, proper medicine and diet, then he can recover his health from the diseased condition. So we can do like that. We should consider within ourselves the dis- satisfactory characteristic of the ordinary desire, and we shall try to make progress following the recommended path of the doctor, spiritual doctor. And it's also mentioned the short-cut and the easiest way. To throw one at the disposal of his Guru, a proper bona fide Guru if we have, and blindly follow his directions.

[rajas tamaś ca sattvena, sattvaṁ copaśamena ca]
etat sarvaṁ gurau bhaktyā, puruṣo hy añjasā jayet

["One must conquer the modes of passion and ignorance by developing the mode of goodness, and then one must become detached from the mode of goodness by promoting oneself to the platform of śuddha-sattva. All this can be automatically done if one engages in the service of the spiritual master with faith and devotion. In this way one can conquer the influence of the modes of nature."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.15.25]

Only one thing, that I must obey my Guru. Then whatever circumstances approach us we shall stick to that creed. "O, I must obey my Guru." Only with this principle of life we can avoid everything, all negative engagements that come to show influence over us, and we can pass over this path and enter into higher domain. The easiest way, a short-cut. Etat sarvaṁ gurau bhaktyā. It is written.

asaṅkalpāj jayet kāmaṁ, [krodhaṁ kāma-vivarjanāt arthānarthekṣayā lobhaṁ, bhayaṁ tattvāvamarśanāt]

["By making plans with determination, one should give up lusty desires for sense gratification. Similarly, by giving up envy one should conquer anger, by discussing the disadvantages of accumulating wealth one should give up greed, and by discussing the truth one should give up fear."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.15.22]

All our ulterior desires should be conquered by asaṅkalpā. I won't enter into any program - no program of my life. I shall do according to my circumstance, what comes, what befalls me, but no previous program. Asaṅkalpāj jayet kāmaṁ, krodhaṁ kāma-vivarjanāt. We can conquer anger if we do not have any definite desire. If any hindrance comes to fulfil my desire I'm angry. No desire, no reaction, no anger. Krodhaṁ kāma-vivarjanāt. Arthānarthekṣayā lobhaṁ. We have greed for money, but if we consider what is the reaction of the wealthy persons, scrutinise that, then gradually the greed for wealth will disappear. Ultimately it cannot fulfil our purpose, arthānarthekṣayā lobhaṁ. Bhayaṁ tattvāvamarśanāt. We've got fear, apprehension, and by analysis of the circumstances we can remove that. In this way there are so many things, processes recommended, to avoid, to conquer particular desires within us.

And in the last, in one word it is said, "By only one thing you can conquer the whole. What is that? If you think that I'm at the disposal of my Gurudeva, I'm promised to that. Whatever he'll say I must do, otherwise I shall have to suffer a great disaster. Anyhow I can't avoid his direction." If we can stick only to this conduct then at once we can get out of all difficulty.

And this tendency also we can acquire by sādhu and śāstra, these two original things. By association with the saint that influence will come in me by mental association, not this physical, but mental, rather soul's association, that will enhance the resources of our soul. So association is the best thing which can help us. Association in the similar way, similar thing, and better than myself.

sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

Of similar nature, and superior than myself, such association. And there are the programs also, śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana. In any way we shall try to imbibe, to breath in spiritual atmosphere. Neglecting this physical we shall try to live and breath in spiritual atmosphere. The faith, the appreciation, that is to get, not that I shall get in my worldly experience, see with this eye, hear the voice with this ear. That is also possible by His grace, but generally that should not be the errand. Faith, our necessity must be increased. Appreciation for that faith, that should be increased. And that can be done with the association of the devotees of similar persons, those that are in search of Him. I have got some tendency to search Him, and there are others who are also searching Him with deeper endeavour. And to contact with them and to increase my intensity of searching Him, that is appreciating Him. And engage our reasons also by the help of the scriptures.

"Why should I search Him? Why should I eliminate from my heart unnecessary hankering for all other things? Why I should leave the hankering to search my own self, then the higher self, Paramātmā, regulating the whole world from within? And the Brahman, all-accommodating aspect. Then all-controller of wonder, the owner, the possessor of all majesty and power. How, crossing then my ideal will pass to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the Autocratic Lord Whose sweetness excels all, Who is beauty, charm, love?"

This should be our daily program, to hear about scripture, to hear from the lips of the saints. Gradually to increase our greed, our earnestness towards searching Him. "Ultimately I can't stand, I can't maintain my existence clearly without Your connection my Lord. I'm quite helpless and desolate. I cannot tolerate this helpless condition of mine any longer. Please show some grace to me." In this way the appreciation, the hankering, the taste, that will, the hunger should be increased and health will come by eating. Health means normal hunger. Who is hungry he has got health. Proper food, hunger, earnestness, not for wine or anything else, but the regular normal diet. Here the fulfilment of all our inner tendency. There's only one thing which can fulfil all our inner needs, and He's Kṛṣṇa, Who can give corresponding engagement of all our necessities in life. So scientifically we shall try to approach that point.

yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

If we know Him everything known, if we have Him everything is got. The central point, by getting Whom we will have no other hankering for anything else. The fulfilment of our whole existence, to every atom of our existence. Should we want, should we try to get Him, or run after partial fulfilment of our superficial elements? In all these ways we shall try to understand. And with the help of His agents and His devotees we shall try to march onward.

What is the reaction for which we're running after? Kāma, krodha, lobha, moha, mada, mātsarya, or dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa. Ordinary duty of the worldly life. Artha, this money, energy, to help in all our activity. So kāma, direct sense pleasure. Mokṣa, and reactionary stage of retirement from any of these troublesome engagements. Dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa. Why? To analyse them, what is defect there, why I'm running after them? I'm getting that thing, still unsatisfied, then why should I run after those things? I'm hungry, I get some food, satisfied temporarily, then again hungry. So in this way I'm collecting some money and it's going away, again I'm poor. Considering all these things of the world of experience and their futility, all futile.

And this yukti, this is in the one side, and the real side, the positive side is to associate with the saints and to improve by their association. To learn to have, to get higher things. And in higher things also what is the conception of this higher and lower, the basis, the principle on which high and low is judged. All these things will come. And the inner taste, inner feeling, that whether my heart is being satisfied or not. That is a great test whether in my deep feeling I'm being satisfied, or I'm being deceived. I'm following a false scent or a real path? All these things should be discussed.

And the help is association of the sādhu is really the great help for all these things. Because he's also suffering like me under the same circumstances. And what he's gained, why he's following this, he'll be able to explain to me. He's got practical experience of all the difficulties I'm undergoing, so he'll be able to help me practically. And if that is very closer the help will be more utilised. Sometimes the saint of the highest type may not be useful so much, so madhyama adhikārī who is better than me, and near about the same plane, that will be more helpful to us. But if I've got deep seated taste then higher devotees also may help and that help will be of very higher use. In short time that may lead to the higher level.

So it is said a beginner if he comes in contact with a high class devotee, very shortly he can cross the middle portion which is a little difficult, madhyama adhikāra. In the lowest stage they're more credulous, and then the stage of comparison with things and understanding why I should do this, why not that. All these things will come in the middle stage, until and unless I'm in contact with the tasteful plane. Then when the taste, the ruci has come, then the devotee's in safe position, that ruci, his taste can guide him further. But before the real taste awakens in ones heart, that portion, and only by comparing things on basis of loss and gain he's trying to make progress towards the reality, that is little difficult stage, madhyama adhikāra. And in that stage the sādhu, śāstra, come to our help.

So on the whole the scriptures and the saints, as much as we'll be able to associate with them spiritually, we'll be able to conquer all our attraction for these abnormal things. Temporary relief - guided towards permanent fulfilment, permanent solution of life. From temporary solution and reaction we shall have to take path towards permanent solution of life, and association of higher elements in life.

The comparison has been given, senses are more important than the objects of the experience of our senses. Then our mental feeling is more important than our senses. Then our reason is more important than our feeling. In this way gradual process, so many ways at every step we're to take decision whether this way or that way. Every moment we're in the crossing, whether I shall go this way or that way, this way or that way. On the whole my sincerity will guide me.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate]
na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

Deception, illusion is there, but the grace of the Lord is also there in the background. So if I do not be a party independently by free decision of mine, I cannot be deceived by any other agents. Because there the guidance, high. He won't allow anybody to rob me if I do not associate, I do not commit to associate with him freely. So evil forces are there, but higher force is also there to look on us. Temporary robbing, misguiding, may be possible, but it can't continue if I don't cooperate with that evil power. The higher power, the reaction will come soon and he'll be punished. So kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. With your cooperation only, free cooperation, you can compromise with the evil agents. And not only one sided influence over you, that cannot stay for long time, because the other power is to look after that. We're concerned with our small freedom. Our small free will that we've got we're concerned with that only.

Just as suppose one is in an accident and lost his senses, then when he gets back his sense he will immediately say, "O, my home is there, please take me to my home, that they'll take care of me." So when there's any peeping of our good sense that will suggest 'take me home.' That is, 'take me in the association who will take care of my consciousness and life, sādhu saṅga.' Senseless, and if the sense comes, then he'll say, "You take me to my home is there. They'll take care of me, I may lose my sense again." So when that spiritual sense will awaken in one he'll say, "Who knows, who has got appreciation for this fine taste, take me there, that association. They know the value of this side, this sort of awakening in ones heart, and they'll take care of me. Home. Take me home. The home is where the people of same interest live."

The same questions will come in our heart repeatedly. We shall hear for the time being, it may be thought as if solved, again it will come and appear and say. It is good symptom of life. The boy wants to walk but he fails, again he'll rise and he'll try to walk. The similar thing will be repeated and then it will be finished. The same question will come again and again. "How to get out of this undesirability and to make progress properly without any hindrance, very easy walk towards my goal?" This is the symptom of life, progress. "I'm not getting anything. I'm told I shall get so much, but still now I do not get anything positive. If I go to search what is my acquisition in the meantime, mostly I'll be disappointed. Not much acquisition I've got, so long."

It's the transaction with the unknown unknowable, Adhokṣaja. "Only the negative measurement as you say that how much I'm haunted by those undesirable desires. They're haunting me in different ways and disturbing, so I'm not out of the clutches of those undesirable forces. How can I expect to get the association of my spiritual Lord? So much impurity still haunting in my heart." This is also the symptom of progress. "I do not want them, but they sometimes stealthily enter into my heart and with some exploitation retire. Take possession for some time and then they go. Why they come and enter my heart, and take rest in my heart, undesirable?" All these things will come and continue for some time.

Nairantarya, sādhana-daśā, then niṣṭhā, continuous, and continuity of not the highest stage at once, the interval stages are also there, niṣṭhā. Then ruci, taste, pure taste of the thing is most valuable, and that can be slowly acquired with the association of the devotee of that level. Everything has got some tendency to spread itself, so the faith in the heart of the sādhu, that is also tending like that, wants to expand itself. And who are near, not only in the physical sense but in the mental sense more near, they get some contamination. Both, poison also tries to spread itself, and good thing also tries to spread itself. So by the association of the sādhu we can get, we can imbibe some sort of energy of high quality in me. And that can improve and convince me in our path and destination more and more.

It is, no doubt, that is very rare, sudurllabhā, it's very rarely found, fortunately, sudurllabhā. And it's very difficult to find out taste for that thing, for God. That is who represents the whole goodness, represented by controller of all good. I'm so bold I want His connection, His association, so much boldness. What small I am, if I look around me I can understand what tiny position I have got. And for me to get the association of the highest controller of everything, is it so easy? It's ambition of the ambitious, the greatest ambition ever found in the world to be object of love of the greatest entity. But He's all-accommodating. He's not bankrupt. That is my hope. And He's got some sympathy for the lowest thing in His kingdom, so that is our hope.

na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi [me harau, krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum
vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

In one side we say, the devotee, and Mahāprabhu Himself showing the example, or devotee is crying hard, wailing hard, and at the same time saying, "I do not get a speck, only a drop of it. Not a drop of divine love I have got yet." But His tendency to get that, how dangerous to our position. His ways and His means, His example, how intense, how hankering, of what degree. "I don't get Kṛṣṇa." His restlessness, "I can't stay, I can't stand without Kṛṣṇa's association. But I can't get that because I do not possess a real taste for Him, a little. Otherwise He's so magnanimous, He's so great, He must have accepted me. But I have not the least pure will for His association. The whole fault is in my part, I'm not getting Him, the fault is mine. And no fault with Him, He's faultless." This sort, as much as one gets, so much he desires madly. Madly desirous of having Him. It is anyhow indirect taste he has got. Everything eliminated, only one thing concentrated and He's madly demanding that. But still says, "I don't get even a speck."

One gentleman in Madras he told, "Your highest ideal is Śrī Caitanya Deva, but if we think and if we read about Him, that position is a dangerous thing. So madly searching for something and without getting. His condition of separation that is creating fear in us." But the only answer I had, we had,

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, [kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite]

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

As a wealthy man as much as he gets money he's dissatisfied - still he wants more and more. A capitalist his hankering is greater than an ordinary man for money. A poor man may not have hankering so much for money as a capitalist who has got much. As more as he has got money the more he hankers after that.

Case of Rādhārāṇī. Can't live without that and wailing always. "I could not get a drop of love for Kṛṣṇa." The wealth is that. Who has got most She will say, "I do not get."

But no possibility of any conception however slight to leave it. "You have not got it. You leave the path and take some other direction." Ha, ha, ha. That is the impossible of the impossible.

"I can't leave this. The very path, the searching is so very sweet. Searching is sweet, can't leave searching."

"You are so intensely searching, still You did not get a drop, then leave this campaign."

"No, impossible."

Then it is sweet there also. In the searching also there is sweetness, when one is there in the real sense. And the sham thing, the imitation, that is always vacant.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

"I can't control my desire. I don't have any real position in the search of Kṛṣṇa." What is in the background, eh? "That I want that but I'm not successful in my acquisition." A good sign. How to get relief of these undesirable elements that have entered into my mind? And they've taken possession of me so long, life after life. How to get rid of these undesirable friends? They come to make friends with me, but I think they're undesirable. Now how to get out of their influence? Then sometimes I'm disgusted with these.

["O my Lord, there is no limit to the unwanted orders of lusty desires. Although I have rendered them so much service, they have not shown any mercy to me. I have not been ashamed to serve them, nor have I even desired to give them up. O my Lord, O head of the Yadu dynasty, recently, however, my intelligence has been awakened, and now I am giving them up. Due to transcendental intelligence, I now refuse to follow the unwanted orders of these desires and I now come to You to surrender myself at Your fearless lotus feet. Kindly engage me in Your personal service and save me."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.16]

"I do not want them, but they do not release me. O my Lord, please come to my help, to save me from my friends of so long time in the past. I was a captive of those friends, and I'd like to come to You to make friendship with You, but these old friends are not leaving me at all. I'm disgusted with them but they won't leave me. Now please be gracious and save me from my friends."

God save me from my friends. It is easy to get released from the enemies, but it is difficult to get release from the hands of the friends. Sātya guṇa is more dangerous than tāma guṇa, rāja guṇa. Lower faculties they retire easily, but the so called higher things, association, their durability is greater, longevity is greater. They don't like to vanish easily. So you can easily get from the bad habits, but it is difficult to get out of the dutiful characteristic of the world, dharma. We can get from adharma, from sinful action, but so called virtue, virtuous tendency, so many friends, it is difficult to get out of that, for the exclusive dedication of life to the real centre. So God save me from my friends. Already saved from the enemies, but now necessary to be released from the hands of the so called friends.

I am alone in one side, and all your prospects together, another side. You're to leave all your prospects to the extreme, and come single-handed, naked to Me. I want that. You are Mine, I want you wholesale. Not with any dress from other places, not any tinge, or any colour, any influence whatsoever, any scent whatsoever from outside. Wholesale Mine. I am advaya, I have got no second. I am second-less Person, so I don't, I can't tolerate any existence of any second thing. I can't tolerate the possibility of any second existence. I am advaya, all-harmonising, all in all. All good but so necessarily I am Absolute, I am Autocrat, because I am all good, no contamination. So necessarily I am alone, I am full. One. All good cannot but be Absolute, Autocrat."

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

"In that case I'm your Guru." This broad, most wide advice. The underlying feeling, do relief work. All in danger, acute danger. So don't consider this or that. Go on with relief work. Connect with Kṛṣṇa whole life. The jaw of death is devouring, save them. Only in the human species they are, after death they may be lost in some other species. So until, the heads are on the surface, try to hold them. Otherwise they may dive deep into the inner current, you can't see them. From human species they may go down to another species, waiting, different layers. They're only floating, their heads are seen over the water, catch them and save them. Otherwise the next moment they may go down under the water, won't be traced. Whomever you find make them connect with Kṛṣṇa, try to give connection with Kṛṣṇa. So urgent.

And asked his men, "Take the Name of Kṛṣṇa, always. No plea of 'I'm taking food, I'm going to sleep."

Continuous attempt he wanted. Whether taking food, or going to bed, or going everywhere, try to keep connection with Kṛṣṇa. Esayi nekhi bati bhajane ki bhaja aham nesi cintya krsna bala _____ [?]

So much urgent our connection with Kṛṣṇa. What valuable life is that, and where we are in the jaws of mortality. Save them, relief work. In this general activity no specific order is necessary from any agent. A general common sense in the devotional school. Try to keep yourself floating above the surface. By this process you'll be help to yourself to keep yourself floating above the level. Just as when throwing hands and feet one can keep floating on the water, something like that, kīrtana will help you in that way. Try to practice about Kṛṣṇa consciousness, any time, every time, to anyone, everyone.

So there is an article in this Vyāsa Pūjā section, Nimāi making out, where the address of our Guru Mahārāja to the disciples. "O amara vipadha uddharan bandhu gana [?]" He's addressing his disciples. "You are saviour of me. You are all saviour in my danger in my life." He's addressing his disciples in such a way. "You are all my saviours. You have given me support. You have come to hear me, and so I'm getting, I've got the chance of Kṛṣṇa kīrtana, so you have come to save me. You are like supplying food to me, otherwise I would have died without engagement. In this eternal atmosphere we're helpless without Kṛṣṇa cultivation, and you have all come to give me engagement of Kṛṣṇa kīrtana. You have come to save me from my dangerous position. vipadha uddharan bandhu gana [?]" Addressing towards the disciples, so deep. "You are all my friends, you have come to release me from my danger, save me from my danger." He's looking at his disciples in such a grateful way.

And this is reality. So Kṛṣṇa kīrtana is the only life giving, life saving thing in this world, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Otherwise go down, deeper, into unknown quarter.

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja [?]: They, due to the communist government they must work there, everybody has to have a job.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that question, and what you cannot solve, what is that?

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: So they all have to have a job, and they're all working, and besides their regular work they also do pūjā and so on.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?] He's still saying, not finished.

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: Not finished. And then sometimes they say it is becoming like mechanical, the pūjā and sādhana. So their question is how to keep everything in such a way that - er?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. Due to the communist government they have to work, everyone has to work. And also they have to do pūjā and all these things, worship the Deities. So it's becoming something mechanical, having to do all that. So his question is, how to harmonise it all, how to make it - um?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is mechanical?

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: Sometimes the sādhana, the lectures, becoming like mechanical.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How can it be mechanical? Mechanical will be which is ordered by the government? Physically we're to show that? But our inner tendency will be towards the worship, then how can that be mechanical? That is real, and the mechanical will be the outer show which is forced by the government to do, that is mechanical.

Para-vyasaninī nārī. When Sanātana Goswāmī wrote - Mahāprabhu was rising with kīrtana, began to preach, at that time Sanātana and Rūpa they were engaged in the service of the Mohammedan King in Gaur. They wrote - they're very high scholars and reading the scriptures, and Sanātana could find that the Yuga Avatāra of Kali, time is up for the Incarnation of Kali-yuga to preach Nāma Saṅkīrtana is drawing near. So he was alert where that incarnation has come. Then when he heard that in Navadwīpa, Nāma Saṅkīrtana, the preaching of the Name, which is the special religion of Kali-yuga, that is already begun by Caitanyadeva, Gaurāṅga, then he could trace that the Avatāra, the Incarnation of the Lord, must have come there. And Gaurāṅga is that Avatāra. Then he wrote a letter to Gaurāṅga, that para-vyasaninī...

Devotee: Para-vyasaninī nārī, vyagrāpi gṛha-karmmasu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, that was answer. Wrote letter that, "We are fallen souls. We are engaged in the management of this atheistic Muslim government - anti Hindu. So what will be our future? We're engaged in such a position. Outwardly we're influenced by the Islamic influence."

Then Mahāprabhu wrote a letter in His reply.

para-vyasaninī nārī, vyagrāpi gṛha-karmmasu tad evāsvādayaty antar, nava-saṅga-rasāyanam

["A married lady who has love and affection for another gentleman may be seen to be always engaged in her household activities but her heart always realises, or tastes, the company of that person whom she loves. Though outwardly she is seen to be very busy with household work, at heart she's always enjoying the company of her beloved. (Similarly, outwardly you may be captured and may be seen to be busy in the association of the government's activities, but your heart is not there. It is searching something, and it is receiving the benefit of the association of that inner substance.")] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 1.211]

A married lady who has got love, affection for another gentleman, she may be seen to be engaged always in the household activities. But her heart is always realising or tasting the company of that person whom she loves. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Though outwardly she's seen to be very busy in the household work, but at heart she's always enjoying the company of her beloved person.

So outwardly you may be captured, you may be seen busy in the association of the Muslim activity, but your heart is not there. Searching for something, and it is getting the benefit of the association of that inner substance. So the government cannot capture our heart. They can control our physical activity. But whenever we shall do something in the form of worship, or in Hari Nāma, our heart shall go back there. So how that can be mechanical? The mechanical will be the outer side, and the sincere will be the inner side. The man is inside, it is not in his forced activity, there is not the man proper. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes. The government says that they don't mind us worshipping Kṛṣṇa inside our house, but they say we're not allowed...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally, ordinary men go like that, deceiving the government, outwardly showing signs that they're not interfering with politics. But internally the heart cannot be captured by anyone, that may go towards the Lord.

And of course when a man like Christ, or Mohammed, or Śrī Caitanyadeva, when They come, They for the good of the public They have to do all these things outwardly, and there is some clash, and They cross the clash.

But for ordinary people they're not going to give any challenge to the people for their private affairs. But when preaching from some centre where there is that sort of inspiration, 'that you fight with the external circumstance and establish the particular creed and save the people,' in this way, there will be some difficulty - to fight with government and to fight with anti-party is necessary there. But for private individual life, that is not necessary.

When Swāmī Mahārāja wanted to preach into the communist countries, Tamāla Kṛṣṇa he was sent to China as a shopkeeper, or hostel-keeper, or something.

Devotee: A businessman, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And thereby he began something, and now I do not know what is the effect.

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: These devotees they're not allowed to preach, they're allowed to worship in their home, but outside they're not allowed to preach. So what do you recommend for them to do to advance in spiritual life?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever possible, that is to make the best of a bad bargain. That should be the policy. Whatever possible you will take that advantage inside the house. Then if Lord wishes, favourable circumstances will come and then you will push out. Now, you alone cannot fight with them in this respect, so as much as possible you do it inside. But if Lord wishes preaching there outside then He'll give you favourable circumstance and then you can go. Otherwise you save yourself and do as much as possible within the circumstances, that to make the best of a bad bargain, that policy.

When the special will of the Lord will come to devour the whole, then the circumstances will be separate. At present you first save yourself and then as much as possible to make progress do that, be satisfied with that. Mere fighting is not necessary, but to keep up the very life, that is necessary. The fire, the spark is there, when it will get a favourable environment then it will be transformed into conflagration. The spark must be maintained.

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: Yes. So how can they maintain the fire?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In your own heart, and whomever you will find favourable you can spread it to them. But in a limited way, not very boldly asserting, or progressing, moving onward, keeping within that limited boundary. As much as possible you do without inviting the outward, clear fight. And don't enter into politics.

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: That we try to avoid.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As much as possible you may try. But that means to be prepared to risk everything and to die, to be martyr.

Nārāyaṇa Mahārāja: Yes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Die to live.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That actual fight is not necessary. As much as possible this yukta-vairāgya. Yukta-vairāgya, that means not a clear, external fight, but in consonance with the, in harmony with the external circumstance to go on, to maintain. And whenever you get any chance you capture that. In this way. Wait and see, and do your duty, not very rushed. Higher quality of energy will be wasted in lower class of fight. The higher quality substance will be wasted - though not really wasted but at the present it will have a check, so nothing is wasted.

nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt

["Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

But still, the best policy is not to invite any fight, but to approach in a mild form. That is to make the best of a bad bargain. Otherwise if you go straightly to attack, then you'll be killed or imprisoned. That is also a policy. In the prison also one may be imprisoned, but the atmosphere may change by one's incarceration. Or if one is murdered, like Christ, then also the influence may come out of that life-giving position. That is also we find, but that is extreme step. But we want the middle course. Wait and see, and take the good chance, and then to advance, not wasting the energy in the first fight.

The policy, niti rasmi gigi satam [?] One who wants victory he won't be very rushed, but very diplomatic. Sometimes coming back, sometimes making progress, sometimes taking firm stand, niti. So military force is not all, but the tactics, strategy, that has got its position.

You may attack from other side, that is also a policy. Where they're little mild, not very strict, strong law, you can preach there. And if the people accept fairly, then they'll be strong and they'll approach from that direction. Not this direction to attack the enemy from this direction, but if it is suitable to attack him from some side, or from the backside, we can prepare our army that side.

So if you do not capture Russia, you may work in West Germany. The West Germany will influence the East Germany, then East Germany to Poland. Poland is already stirring up. Disturbed in this way Russia will be attacked a little after. With this policy. Poland is in hesitating mood now, some this side, some that side.

So communist they're in organised way in some place. But there are so many to be helped. So particularly that portion may be, may draw our attention, that is not a compulsory thing.

When I was in Madras some people came, "O, you do not help the diseased person, the poor. But if they die, to whom you will preach? You do not attend any hospital, in death bed the man may die. To whom you will preach? Then, what will be your answer?"

I answered that, there was some famine, and some food is given by the government. And I'm distributing that, with so many persons all around begging food. And one man is running away. And should I stop that giving and run after him? Or there are so many I shall go on continuing distributing, should I stop distribution? So no want of persons for distribution, they're thronged.

So for preaching there are so many souls, here, there, they're needy. And leaving that I shall seek a particular position dogmatically and run after that only? What will be there? Everywhere, such men are everywhere. What little water I have got, no dearth of any...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Jagannātha prabhu.

[33:30 - 33:55 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What duty you have got to distribute things, devotion to the public, but no dearth of any recipient. Everywhere on your side there is demand, so you can go on distributing where it is necessary, favourable, there you'll go on distributing. And leaving a particular group that's demanding you'll select a particular place only and go there, that is if the energy is overflowing, then you can go. Otherwise there are so many places where you can distribute Kṛṣṇa consciousness, utilise yourself there. And if you find some evil influence, some anti-party is coming to cause disturbance to your preaching of nectar, then you will do with them as much as possible, opposition. That is to make the best of a bad bargain. Just as in the case of vairāgyam, yukta-vairāgya, not too much renunciation, that will waste our energy. And too much indulgence that is also waste of energy. The middle path, we're advised to take the middle path, yukta-vairāgya. Not sleeping and jāgrato naiva cārjuna.

[nāty aśnatas tu yogo 'sti, na caikāntam-anaśnataḥ
na cāti-svapna-śīlasya, jāgrato naiva cārjuna]

["Oh Arjuna, yoga practice is impossible for anyone who over-eats, under-eats, over-sleeps, or under-sleeps."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.16]

Too much of anything is to be left, the middle path, that has been recommended. If one attempts without sleep, without food, that is also bad. And too much food, too much sleep, that is also bad. The middle path we're advised to accept. That will be more progressive and that will be more fruitful, the middle path.

So to make the best of a bad bargain, that should be the policy. Not only inviting fighting, nor avoiding fighting, the middle course always will be helpful for us. We're not wasting to lose our energy only for fighting. The positive thing is necessary for us, to give. And there's, "Give a thing to left side. Why I should be determined to go to the right side to waste my energy?" That side I can give, this side, in this way. My business will be to give, to distribute the nectar, and no determination that I shall distribute nectar on the right side only, not left side. If any opposition on the left side you can distribute that side, in this way. Only distributing nectar and saving people, that is our object of life, and not to a particular group. Wherever I get the facility I shall go by that way. If this way is considered dangerous then the other way I shall go on, in this way. No waste of energy and chance.

Yukta-vairāgya, middle course, to make the best of a bad bargain. And not inviting fight, nor avoiding, the middle course. As much as I have got power, so much I shall face the opposition. Only love of opposing the opposition party that is not necessary. No prejudice for anything, unprejudiced, only engaged in the positive line we shall move, for the positive interest, not love for any negative things. 'I love to fight with the enemies.' To fight with the enemies that is another thing, and to distribute nectar to the public at large that is another thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But I asked him, first know yourself and know the circumstance, and then try to give to others. No false representation will be helpful. Be sure of your knowledge and then distribute it. Half knowledge is more dangerous, half truth is more dangerous than falsehood.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Māyāpur, and Candraśekhara in Benares, they're two persons. But he thought him as one. The Candraśekhara of Navadwīpa who was paternal uncle of Mahāprabhu, and the Candraśekhara in Benares. Candraśekhara - they were separate persons, but he took them as one.

He told Swāmī Mahārāja, "This mistake I detect from him." But he began his lecture,

I offer my respectful obeisances unto Śrī Advaita Ācārya Prabhu, Śrī Nityānanda Prabhu, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, and all His devotees, headed by Śrīvāsa Ṭhākura. I then offer my respectful obeisances unto the lotus feet of Lord Kṛṣṇa, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, and all the gopīs, headed by Lalitā and Viśākhā."]

A well beginning. So Swāmī Mahārāja gone eight years, eh? Eight years passed. Only within twelve years he did such a miracle, inconceivable. What he has done, more than a miracle. So I say that is not his, inspired by some higher agency he did it. That is also his credit that he could invite the higher help. He had that hankering for preaching. That I noticed from the beginning he had a great hankering for preaching. Any time, every time, the business period also, I have seen...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Let them join there, try to do that. What Mahāprabhu came here for that is the best necessity of everyone. So any engagement for any other purpose than to preach the doctrine of Mahāprabhu, that is not only waste of energy, but that is the loss of the whole population. The fittest thing that is necessary for all time to come and for everyone, that is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa connection, to try to give connection with Kṛṣṇa. Everybody, whomever you come across, try to connect him with Kṛṣṇa. This is the highest benefit of everyone. And without that whatever engagement we shall get that will be not only loss of energy but disservice to the people, to draw their attention to some bogus end of life. That is bad, that is injurious. Only give him connection with Kṛṣṇa, the Infinite Lover, the Beloved, Absolute. Connect with the Beloved, Absolute.

Bhāvānanda Mahārāja is living here in Māyāpur, or gone?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Bhāvānanda is in Māyāpur, no? Bhāvānanda Mahārāja, yeah, last we heard, yes, he's in Māyāpur.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He had his birth celebration here, and then he has left? They do not know?

Badrināràyaṇa: No, he says he's still there. He thinks so, he doesn't know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja also come? There may be a meeting?

Badrināràyaṇa: Possibly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jayapatāka Mahārāja, where is he? Do they know? Jayapatāka?

Devotee: I think he's in Peru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They do not know anything?

Badrināràyaṇa: He thinks that he's in Peru.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Who's in Māyāpur? Which sannyāsīs are in Māyāpur?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Peru, where, in South America?

Devotee: Yes, Peru is in South America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Badrināràyaṇa: Mahārāja. This Italian gentleman, his name is Bhakti Avatārī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Bhakti Avatāra.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has sung,

sakala chāḍiyā bhāi, śraddhādevīra guṇa gāi, yanra kṛpa bhakti dite pare

"Giving up everything, let us sing in praise of Śraddhā Devī, the faith, śraddhā, faith, whose grace can take us to Kṛṣṇa."

So śraddhā, faith, is the finest thing, and it is also something tangible. Not imagination, it is reality, it is concrete. We're to realise that. Faith is not only an abstract thing, unknown individual consciousness. No, it is universal, it is the most fundamental that can connect with very, very finest things, faith.

Just as electricity can give connection with things far, far away. We cannot deny, though it is very subtle and not known to anyone and everyone, but we can't deny its existence. It has got some tangible position.

So faith is more, more abstract which can give us connection. And also adhan pradhan [?], this giving and taking, it is tangible thing. But very, very subtle, not approachable by anyone and everyone. It has got its real position and anywhere it may work. But we must have its peculiar position and contact. We cannot give false statement that 'we have got.'

Other gorgeous and grand things may not be any proof to its existence. So there may be much show, but everything may be false. So we shall be very much careful to maintain our connection with faith. Sincerity is of course the main thing to have its connection, sincere, earnest desire, lobha. No price, however valuable in consideration in this world. But laulyaṁ eka, only our earnest desire for the thing. That is qualification, that we want it. None can purchase the Absolute. No price is possible to purchase Him. So the most common thing what is necessary, your sincere desire - earnest for that.

Insincerity - you can't make any trade with Him. He's clever enough not to become an object of trade for anybody. So sincere desire for Him, and that ultimately comes to this conception - to desire for Him means to serve Him, it will come to this effect. We want Him sincerely, through affection. We love Him, so we desire Him. And to love means to sacrifice for the thing of love. Love means such, we want such a thing for which we want to sacrifice.

Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu has given definition of Bhagavān. Bhagavān bhajanīya guṇa-viśiṣṭha. He has got such qualification that anybody and everybody who comes in His contact they want to serve Him, to sacrifice him for His satisfaction. That is faith. Faith in developed form means that, equates to that. "That I want to sacrifice. He's so noble that we think that if we to die to satisfy Him, our objective will be fulfilled. So much sacrificing spirit for Him. His noble quality is such, draws everything towards Him."

Die to live. So faith is such. In the ocean of faith we are. And tangible things are the devotees. One helps another. Just as in a distant way if we have some companion, then we're very much relieved. A group, if we're going to a far away place, if we get some association, group, it is very easy for us to go. So in this ocean, if we get some devotees like us, very helpful, very tangible.

So much so that our Guru Mahārāja in one Vyāsa Pūjā address he mentioned about his disciples. "Oh, you, my friends, that can give me relief from danger, vipada udaran bandu gan, the deliverer of danger you are to me. In the ocean of faith it is very difficult to make journey alone. So you have come to help me in my dangerous, ambitious journey." He's addressing his disciples in this way. "You have come to help me in my dangerous journey in the infinite. You have come and you are engaging me in talking about Him. You have given some occupation to me, some engagement you have given to me. Otherwise, alone, to move and live in the infinite it is very difficult and troublesome and dangerous. So you have all come to hear something and we're in a transaction and talking about Him. The position has been very safe and easy to make journey so far towards Vaikuṇṭha. Vipada udaran bandu gan."

So we must be conscious of our real position when we're searching for Him, searching for Kṛṣṇa. It is not easy, and also very easy. Very easy and not very easy - both simultaneous. So faith is the only capital by using which we can make our journey towards that infinite. No beginning, no end, bhakti, ahaitukī, apratihatā, devotion. No beginning, it is there already. Before me, before I came in contact with it, to know it, it was there, it is there, it will be there. So ahaitukī and apratihatā, none can resist it. Irresistible, that is that bhakti, that faith. A part of the eternal substance, it is the very nature of eternity. None can oppose it.

Only we're to make contact with that, we're to associate, and the wave will carry me towards the goal. And if we get so many devotees along with me the journey is very easy and a pleasant journey. To go alone that is very difficult. So when we get faith in the devotees, in the progress of our contact with faith, when we come to take advantage of the devotees, we've got faith in the devotees, then we're more safe and our progress is also tangible. It comes to reality, from abstract position, from vague position of faith, when faith is deeper within us then we can understand so many persons who are of equal trait, of equal object of life. And then the journey becomes easier and it is tangible, it is something, it comes into measurement also. Something tangible we come in contact with when we've got faith in the devotees, and we've got really some devotees.

So the position of the devotee is very important in our journey, especially in the middle stage. In the primary stage not so much importance given to the devotee. They only with some vague conception in the scripture, and with the help of previous sukṛti they begin the journey. But gradually when they find the journey into the infinite that is not an easy thing. "We thought that with little progress we shall get the desired end, but it is not so."

When we come to realise the real position of what is devotion proper, what is God, He's universal, He's endless, He's the ultimate goal - then if we get gradually disappointed, but if we have some help from the devotees, same feelings, of same object, persons of same object on the way, the destination may be very far away, but we get much relief by the company on the road, such affairs. That is the real journey really is in the second stage more important. Then when we, in the primary stage, we're not, it is not exclusive, we're not very exclusive in our object so not much trouble. But we enter into the exclusive journey, no other object but to engage all our whole energy towards the progress in our path so high, so elevated, the real trouble comes there. And when we get some touch of mahā-bhāgavata stage, that also becomes easier. But the middle portion of the journey that is difficult, and there the devotees are very important to save us. And that is the tangible period of acquisition and trouble also. All trouble for realisation is finished with this middle stage period - going, making, falling, living, disappearing, all these things.

When we enter into war, the first stage, with much hope we begin the thing, we're very satisfied, not much trouble. But when fighting begins, the reality comes there. And then when we conquer to the finish, then again we become very much satisfied. But the middle position, when the war is being conducted, that is the difficult period. And there the co-workers like us, not I'm alone, but there are so many who are also making progress. Circumstance, favourable, unfavourable, whatever there, making progress, that period of war fighting period is the middle stage. And there the companions they're very, very important thing. Some may disappear from the field, but there is another to encourage me. In this way. In this journey we can see that many stalwarts are falling. So that may discourage us, that such a big figure they're going away, falling in the middle path. That may be discouraging. But there are others, still in the midst of that unfavourable circumstances, making progress bravely with unflinching faith, that will help us. And to stick to the last, that is difficult, and that is important, and that is valuable. How much faith we have got, the test comes and says. So nothing comes in vain. Everything what happens we're to take in that way. So many stalwarts like Bhīṣma, Droṇa, they will fall flat in the battlefield, still we're to go on.

[mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga - the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

We're out to fight to finish. We must achieve our end of life. That sort of firmness we can imbibe from the character of the devotees. And the śāstras will also come to offer advice. But devotees are very, very important. The lasting faith, not flickering faith.

"Oh, I tried, I attempted for some time, but I did not find that any tangible result, fruit from it, so I left it." Or, "It seemed to me very, very vague. In the beginning when I began I thought it is something tangible we'll get in no time, but it is not so, it is uncertain. We're giving so much energy for the cause, but still the desirable result is not achieved. And previous tendencies they also draw from the backside."

In this way we find that many stalwarts are falling. But still we're to go on in this journey. And those that are standing and engaged deeply, we shall have to accept our courage from them and to go on.

It is sometimes in the beginning, though it is told hundreds of times it is infinite, but still we take in the conception of finite. In the terms of finite we're accustomed to think anything and everything in terms of finite, we're accustomed to think anything. So though it is told it is infinite, it is Vaikuṇṭha, no limit, all these things we hear, but still we can't grasp the proper meaning. But when making practical progress then many things come to our knowledge, new things.

Vipada udaran bandu gan. Those that have come, the students are the necessary part of the position of a professor. The professor when he gets students, he thinks his life is being successful. Otherwise that is vague, and does not come into practical utility, so relative position. Students are the necessary part, for disciples they also help the Ācārya from outside. But from the standpoint of Kṛṣṇa's will, that is another thing. He's conscious of both sides. But one who knows His inner motive, he does not feel disturbed - they're nitya siddha. But outwardly it is so. It is a long way journey, if we get some companion we get relief and the trouble of the journey is minimised in many, in much extent.

mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam
kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

["Those surrendered devotees take Me as their life and soul, and go on discussing My ambrosial narrations among one another exchanging the ecstasies of devotion unto Me. They constantly relish the nectar of their realised divine relationships with Me in their respective internal natures of servitorship, friendship, parenthood, or consorthood."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

Mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, mac-cittā. Their attention in Me. Mad-gata prāṇā. Their energy is also spent for My cause. Mad-prāṇā. Mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam.

By mutual help, like Napoleonic chair. In a marshy land they were arranged in a circle, and everyone asked to take seat, one in the lap of another, so by mutual help.

Bodhayantaḥ parasparam. He's asking questions, he's giving him engagement, and he's also getting engagement. When he's asking question that is also giving some energy. And when answering that is also energising. Bodhayantaḥ parasparam. Kind of equal standard they're changing their thought.

Bodhayantaḥ parasparam, kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ. And thereby some sort of blissfulness is generated. By kīrtana, by bodhayantaḥ parasparam, by mutual understanding, discussion, some sort of nectar arises, and that feeds the devotees. We're to take like that, bodhayantaḥ parasparam, he's also telling something about Me, he's also answering, and some nectar, as if, oozing from that transaction from the discussion and feeding both the parties. Kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca. The satisfaction is generated from that mutual transaction and it comes up to ramanti ca, to the quality of the wholesale transaction. It rises up to that standard, ramanti ca.

And again further instalment of light and advice I give to them, and they take a new course, promoted into that sort of suicidal squad. Or some squad that are eligible for every type of fighting. A group of soldiers that can fight in the land, in the water, in the sky. Or this particular group, or any form of fighting, any form of service, particular group. I direct them to that section. Yena mām upayānti te.

[teṣāṁ satata-yuktānāṁ, bhajatāṁ prīti-pūrvakam
dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te]

Upayānti te. Unconditional service, any service demanded they're ready for that, any service, to sacrifice their life for any form of service. Upayānti te. A peculiar group that is in Vṛndāvana. Upayānti te.

I asked Swāmī Mahārāja that after ramanti then this upayānti again buddhi yoga?

He says, "I took it into that. What more can be already? This is the only alternative." He told here.

Upayānti te. Upayānti means kāma rūpa, two kinds of servitors, Rūpa Goswāmī has mentioned, sambandha rūpa, kāma rūpa. Sambandha rūpa according to their fixed relative position, vātsalya, sākhya, dāsya, mādhurya, fixed position, they cooperate. And kāma rūpa for any purpose, they come to serve the necessity that comes to demand any purpose they're ready. That is upayānti kāma rūpa. Whatever desire comes to them from the Absolute they're ready to satisfy, all sorts. As I told, a group of army soldiers that have got trained to do any service in the war. Not only fixed in the navy or air or land, or any particular division of fight. All sorts, everything. That is kāma rūpa group, and that is upayānti te. They get such instruction that they enter to earn that capacity in the service of the Supreme.

And Kṛṣṇa is ready to cooperate with the servitor in any position, even showingly that is in Mathurā that woman Kubja. He's giving chance to Kubja also His higher service. He sees for anything she's prepared, and so the other side also prepared. In that way it is very, very abstruse and difficult and of higher conception. This kāma rūpa and sambandha rūpa, two divisions. Of all utility, all position of service, and then the sambandha rūpa, they have got particular way of service. They're trained for particular type of services.

teṣām evānukampārtham, aham ajñāna-jaṁ tamaḥ
nāśayāmy ātma-bhāva-stho, jñāna-dīpena bhāsvatā

["Out of compassion for them, I, situated within the hearts of all living beings, dispel the darkness of ignorance with the radiance of knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.11]

"I'm so much indebted that whenever they find any difficulty in their separation, I can't stand, I at once go to cooperate with them in accepting My service. The most intense demand we feel from them."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

In examination hall so many of us we take seat to answer the questions. But as a result many come back unsuccessful. But we're not to take care of such, we shall try to keep company with the successful candidates, and that should be the points of our mark. With the help of them we shall go further up. Elimination, selection and elimination, selection and elimination. Progress means that, and no end of any progress. We shall collect courage to that extent. So everywhere in whatever direction we shall go we shall find both. Some sections are successful candidates, some unsuccessful. But we shall avoid unsuccessful. Who was brilliant in the primary classes, but when coming in progress we find that they're proved down they're not passing the test. And there were many who were not very successful in the primary classes but when higher education they're flourishing. It is also possible.

So we must not be discouraged and disappointed hearing that so many stalwarts are falling, going away. Once respected and now they're leaving the whole section and going away to the wrong direction - may not discourage us. We must try to feel the soil proper. We must have some sincere acquaintance with the soil where we're moving. Though unintelligible to the fullest extent, but still we must have some energy to spare for that. Where we are, what we want, where we're going? More deeper, deeper feeling about the plane, about the object of our achievement. We must have deep study, not superficial, not showing being captured by the outer charm of things. But the reality we must try to feel and find and trace and find that to be our friend. Sudurllabhā. Not only we get liberation from the undesirable forces around us, mukti, mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt.

sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā]

["Uttamā-bhakti, the purest devotion, is the vanquisher of all sin and ignorance, and the bestower of all auspiciousness; liberation is belittled in the presence of such devotion, which is very rarely attained, the embodiment of the deepest ecstasy, and the attractor of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

We can undermine the position of a liberated soul who has got no reaction, who has got no future apprehension, free from that anxiety. But still the association with the positive thing is more, more difficult. Sudurllabhā, mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā. As I told that to get passport is not to get visa. After getting passport, to acquire visa, more trouble to undergo to get a visa. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. We're released by our reactionary plane, but still we may not have entrance into the higher plane. That is something else.

That is the qualification which is hardly found in anyone. He wants to give himself wholly for the other plane of life. He has no motive to bring anything from the plane where he was living so long. That is another thing. When he'll be appointed to be a preacher, as an agent to do relief work here, that is another. From there the direction from that plane, for the interest of that plane.

And not anything, any attachment that, "I shall come here and do something, some good to the people. Wholesale I shall give myself to the disposal of the higher plane, and I shall not be eager to become an Ācārya. That is a kind of a Nāma aparādha. Asraddha nama dhana [?] A motive behind that will that I shall get some position in this sphere, some sort of attachment. Yati Goswāmī and this Ācārya tradery. "If I get appointment from there, then I shall come for their interest. I am only entering there for the interest of that land." That should be pure and perfect.

Then sudurllabhā. Not only getting passport, we can hope to enter easily into that higher plane, sudurllabhā. Then if we can enter we shall feel sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā. Yes, the very plane itself is very happy, full of independent spirit. Also I desire to enter this country, getting visa. And, yes, really it is like that. I feel I am breathing in a higher atmosphere than I was in my old soil. Sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā. And śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...through which we can see them, we can hear them, we can feel them. Otherwise that is all meaningless. Inner awakening and inner connection with this, even with the physical thing we can appreciate, if that is added with that thing. Just as this eye, with the help of that machine is coming in connection with the last. Otherwise can't hear now, the sense is gone, so the capacity of the sense.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mahārāja. Giri Mahārāja _____ [?] Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After long time he has come here.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After how many months, or years, he came here?

Giri Mahārāja: A year and a half.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: One and a half years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One and a half years. I asked him to purchase a gun for self protection. And I asked him, "Give the gun to the opposite party."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, that's right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: So where is the gun now?

Giri Mahārāja: It's gone.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Now there's no gun Mahārāja.

Giri Mahārāja: That gun is sold.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Gun is sold.

Giri Mahārāja: No opposition.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No fit opposition, so gun is sold. He was preaching in New York City.

Giri Mahārāja: Across the country, I went to Oregon, and then Dallas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was not allowed to visit the airport? At that time he was not allowed by another party to visit airport?

Giri Mahārāja: That's right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For preaching purpose. Now he's free. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: He's been travelling across America, four cities, from San Hose to New York City, preaching in a large way. He has a new vehicle, big vehicle, and he's travelling, to preach.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ahaitukī, apratihatā, causeless and irresistible. It is there, only I'm to be connected, anyhow to get the connection, through something which is to be indebted from the higher source. Divya-jñāna, not ordinary knowledge that is found here in this plane. Transcendental, supra-mental feeling and sense. The process is there. Surrender, that is compulsory, and then go on hearing, chanting, and remembering, worshipping, and praising, so many things. But the first thing, the foundation, must be self surrender. Otherwise nothing to be affected, only imitation. Surrender to be utilised for that guarantee.

"I shall be faithful to do some service on that plane." That sort of understanding. "I'm for Him. Die to live. I want to live for Him, not for fulfilling any separate interest for me or any majority of the world. Nothing less than the Absolute. I want to live for Him, not for me, or for my estimated interest. Wholesale to be dissolved and fully I want to be His. This sort of - it is indispensable necessity, that I am for Him, to conceive, to perceive, to feel that I'm for Him. I'm not independent entity, but I'm dependent, and not dependent to any other thing than the highest centre Absolute. I want to live for Him. Not selfish, nor extended selfishness. Selfishness may be extended to identify with country interest, with society interest, family interest, so many interest are there. But all must be eliminated." Upādhi.

sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, [tat paratvena nirmalam
hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-pañcarātra]

All sorts of foreign contamination must be eliminated. All sorts of demands from outside felt by us must be cancelled. Then I shall feel that in innermost heart I'm connected with the whole, with the Infinite, with the Absolute. Nothing to be acquired, rather to be dismantled, discovered. Ego should be - ego, collecting some foreign elements, and that foreign collection box must be dissolved, finished. And we shall find in our innermost heart the connection with the fundamental plane of loving service for the Organic Whole. And no enjoyment and never renunciation, both are abnormal. Bhukti-mukti-piśācī.

[bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat, piśācī hṛdi varttate
tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet]

["How can the joy of holy devotion appear in the heart as long as it is haunted by the ghosts of desire for exploitation and renunciation?"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva, 2.22]

Those are two demons. In the name of enjoyment, and in the name of eternal rest, mukti, renunciation. Exploitation and renunciation, these two tendencies are our enemies. If life is possible fully independent of these two tendencies - tendency towards eternal rest, and also exploitation of the environment. Apparently it seems that without exploitation how can we live? Taking food, and to keep the health, we have to take so much help from the outside. But the real meaning - what for? We're taking help from the outside nature - what for? To suit our own selfish limited end? Or as an agent, a servant of the Infinite?

I can take any help from the environment thinking that I'm servant of the Supreme, and they're also His property. And I should utilise them for the cause of the highest end, Absolute.

Which is necessary for the service, I'm at liberty to accept them, and that is prasāda, that will enhance my position, higher. Everything will help me if I can see them in connection with the centre. They'll all help me in my duty, so arranged. So arrangement is made. So renunciation not recommended, and also like Buddhists and Śaṅkarites, but to come in some normal position with the environment in such a way that everything will remind me of my duty towards the Absolute. And they'll encourage me. Nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe.

nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate

["That renunciation in which there is no attachment for the objects of the senses, but in which everything is seen in relationship to Kṛṣṇa and all things are engaged in His service is called yukta-vairāgya, or practical renunciation."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.126]

And

prāpañcikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ mumukṣubhiḥ parityāgo, [vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate]

["That renunciation which is practised by those desirous of impersonal liberation and rejects things in connection with Śrī Hari, thinking them to be material, is called phālgu-vairāgya, external or false renunciation."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.125]

To neglect the environment, that they're undesirable material things, that won't help us rightly. Our position with them will be such that they'll remind me about the Absolute. "Oh, take, accept me, and connect me with the service of my Lord." So everything will encourage and excite me to help the service to the centre, organic whole. We're living in an organic whole, a system, the owner and the owned. Śakti-śaktimān. The possessor of the potency and the potency of different type there is, and it's of dynamic character. And the dynamicity that is the change is always producing rasa, or ecstasy. The whole līlā is producing ecstasy, ānandam, rasam.

kalita-śyāmā-lalito rādhā-preyān vidhur jayati]

[" 'Let Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, be glorified! By virtue of His expanding attractive features, He subjugated the gopīs named Tārakā and Pāli and absorbed the minds of Śyāmā and Lalitā. He is the most attractive lover of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī and is the reservoir of pleasure for devotees in all transcendental mellows.'] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.142]

Ānandamāyi vilāsa. So it is necessity, it cannot be eliminated. The movement always producing novel ecstasy which feeds every atom. Kṛṣ - ṇa, the centre that is attracting everything, and infusing the rasam, ānandam, ecstasy, joy, to everything. This is the process of the movement absolute, not static but dynamic, but the movement, prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ.

[ceto-darpaṇa-mārjanaṁ bhava-mahā-dāvāgni-nirvāpaṇaṁ śreyaḥ-kairava-candrikā-vitaraṇaṁ vidyā-vadhū-jīvanam ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ sarvātma-snapanaṁ paraṁ vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam]

At every point, every step, every process, as if, producing new type of joy. That is, joy is infinite, not a stale and sterilised thing. Such is the idea of the Absolute. The Organic Whole which is working always - it is full, and still that fullness also ever new. Pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ. Prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ. Pūrṇa, full, and that still is not full, then it is standing, static? No. It is moving in such a way that every second, every minute, always it is producing new, unknown joy, moving, infinite joy.

And we're to purchase that with the highest price of self sacrifice. To get admission into that plane of automatic moving joy, of new type every second, that ticket is very valuable. Wholesale, self sacrifice. Sacrifice is joyous, joyful.

With such wonderful joy in this world, in the world of birth and death, where every moment everything is dying. There, and so many stalwarts are trying to work out some process to get out of this ever dying stage. Different process, jñāna, yoga, tap, all these things they're trying how to get out of this mortal atmosphere.

Then Śrī Caitanya Deva, Śrī Gaurāṅga, brought down from somewhere else such a joyful stage in the singing of the Name. Singing and dancing madly, with some Divine Name.

All were astounded, all sections of scholars were astounded. "What is this? What is this? Here is full of dissatisfaction and disappointment and despair. And here so much joy they're dancing and singing, and madly they've got something unknown, wonderful thing."

All the attention of those experts was drawn towards Śrī Gaurāṅga's attempt. "What's the matter? We're extremely busy to save us from this trouble of mortality, how we can get out of it. And here they're chanting and singing madly. And so many ordinary people, ordinary mass, they're also engaged, happy mood, no anxiety, but so much bright future they're having conception of. And as if they've got their fulfilment of life they're singing and dancing - ordinary mass - and they've got no anxiety. How is this?"

They all very respectfully and inquisitively looked towards that campaign of saṅkīrtana inaugurated by Gaurāṅga here. "What is this? But we see the most stalwart persons here like Brahmā and Mahādeva, they're also in searching mood for something, some sort of fulfilment. And these ordinary people they as if they have got everything, they're so happy and in that happy and pleasant mood and dancing, madly singing, ordinary mass. This Gaurāṅga has taken what thing, this wonderful thing."

["O mind please listen. You have nothing else to be attached to except Śrī Gaurāṅga. Never in the past, nor in the future, will there be such a benevolent incarnation who has presented the matchless divine love ecstasy of God so generously. He poured into this world that ambrosial wealth which is ever cherished and hankered for even by great powerful personalities like Śiva and Viriñci (Brahmā). By His merciful grant, even the most common destitute persons were blessed with the chance to imbibe that nectar with great delight. Overwhelmed by spiritual ecstasy they began to sing the glory of the Lord and dance accompanied by the concert of rhythmic drums and sweet karatālas. Frightened by the power of such holy saṅkīrtana, the inauspicious atheists who were slaves to their mortal ego, ran away and hid in locked rooms to protect themselves from such purifying effect. All three worlds of existence (svarga, martya and patala) became blessed by receiving transcendental bliss and reverberated that auspicious sound. Premananda says: "I can never have enough devotion to my beloved Gaurāṅga."] [Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 7]

"This mass feeling, individually so many scholars and stalwarts, experts, they're having something by searching inward their heart. But ordinary mass, ordinary ignorant people, they're feeling so much joy as if they've got everything, and no anxiety for the death and disease. What is this? How it is possible."

The big scholars of their time, the Prakāśānanda, the Sārvabhauma, and others, they suspected in the movement. "It is sheer madness, or something behind?" And when they came in direct contact and any discourse then they're charmed. "Yes, these things here not only new but it is mentioned in the scriptures, in Purāṇa and Bhāgavatam and other places, Padma-Purāṇa. There is mention now and then about these things, and they have attempted on that point and so much successful we can't doubt."

Seeing the figure of Śrī Caitanyadeva, Prakāśānanda, the leader of the māyāvādī, the salvationist school, he was charmed. "Very simple figure, and non diplomatic, motiveless, clear, fair, grand and magnificent. No doubt, no suspicion we can feel about Him. He's so clear. And He has challenged all our attempts, this Vedānta, anuśilana, all these things, considered to be the highest engagement of the scholars, that is all ignored. And still the simple, fair, natural figure connected with some divine substance, and which is attracting us also. We Vedāntists we're accustomed to think that everything is false, everything is misunderstanding here. We're labouring in the soil of misunderstanding, and how to find out a plane where this misunderstanding does not continue. And we fail to do that - that is our position. And here this man is seen very plainly above that, some plane where so happy and so simple. Charmed by the very appearance, from far away I thought that He's a cheat, He's a magician. He's capturing so many fools in His party and going on dancing and chanting, all these things, madness, non-scholarly, for the uneducated masses. These are cheats, deceivers of the society. But now I feel attraction for His achievement, what I can. I'm anti party, but still I'm conquered by His very simple life and gesture, posture, attracting me that He has attained something high. What is this?"

So natural gift is such. Intellectual attempt is very futile. And when it comes from up to us - in famine it is very difficult to collect some water from the ground, from the river, all this. But when rain comes then in a minute so many things are filled up. So when grace comes from above that is not very meagre, not of famine character. So to invoke the favour of the Infinite Centre by submission, devotion, that is the higher, and that is the natural path. Give and take. We want something noble and without price, we must give also in that way. We must be generous in our dedication, and we'll get also amply from that side. So the self dedication as price wholesale, and I shall get wholesale. But my tiny self how much it can contain? But it will be fulfilled, filled up, more than.

Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ. I shall feel that I'm in the midst of an ocean of joy. I'm searching after a joyous feeling. In the midst of the desert I'm searching for a glass of water. That is generally our position. But we may find that I'm in the midst of the ocean of joy, joyful ocean. And its soothing characteristic is increasing every moment. The quality of the joy has got variety and it is coming to help us, to encourage me in my serving attitude. Every moment new encouragement I shall feel.

So this sort of advice we're to enquire and follow and how to improve our condition. At the same time we should be conscious that the chance we have got it is rarely found, not very cheap. So we might utilise every moment, every minute, every second, we shall be very much alert to this fact that a moment may not be lost. The continued attempt, it may be continued, uninterupted, niṣṭhā, then we'll get further improved taste on the way and we'll be more and more encouraged to pass on, make progress towards that.

Śukadeva Goswāmī told to Parīkṣit Mahārāja that, "Seven days longevity is enough. You think it is too short, only seven days you're to live, it is very short time. No, no, enough time. Only utilisation of a second, of a moment, that is all important factor."

So what time we've got at our hand it is uncertain, so we shall try our best to utilise every second that must not be neglected. The future is before me so any time I may like to engage me in that profitable affair. No second should be lost, because,

Trust no future howe'er pleasant! Let the dead past bury its dead!
Act, - act, in the living present! [Heart within, and God o'erhead!]
(Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-82, U.S. poet)

The present is at our hand. We don't know about our future. So the present time should be tried to be utilised to its utmost intensity. That should be, how? Sat-saṅgaḥ śevadhir nṛṇām.

[ata ātyantikaṁ kṣemaṁ pṛcchāmo bhavato 'naghāḥ
saṁsāre 'smin kṣaṇārdho 'pi sat-saṅgaḥ śevadhir nṛṇām]

In the association of the holy men and holy books, anyhow I am purer. And the purity is to be measured by the unit of sacrifice. And not sacrifice to any partial interest but the whole, the centre. And the centre has been given to us as akhila-rasāmṛta-sindhu, the Absolute Good, the Autocrat, the designer and destiner of everything we find. So the standard of the idea of our sacrifice should - so much high, as to give up the corresponding result. Self abnegation, self surrender, ātma-nivedan, ātmā-nikṣepaḥ, that is more stronger word ātmā-nikṣepaḥ. Throw ones own self towards the Infinite so desperately. So be desperate in self sacrifice, heart. We may be very careful not for any greater selfishness, not for extended selfishness, but it goes to the centre. Sacrifice and the centre, sevā and Kṛṣṇa. All attractor, Kṛṣ - ṇa, all attractor, and sacrifice for that, two things, sambandha and abhidheya. And the prayojana, the fulfilment will come automatically.

We shall be very conscious about the centre to whom we're dedicating. Our dedication, and for which the dedication is, these two things are all important within us. The purity of purpose, the object of fulfilment, we're to understand from the śāstra and sādhu, the purest end and the highest sacrifice. And the end will come of itself, the remuneration will come of itself. We're not to bother for that. Do our duty, and the remuneration will come. And to whom our dedication will be, that type of remuneration we shall receive. All these things to be discussed, to be meditated, to be solved, to be done, in every way that we can put into practice that we'll live in the infinite. We're always engaged in the cultivation of the Infinite, Infinite Love, Infinite Beauty, as given by Śrī Caitanyadeva, recommended.

He Himself came and to show Him. "What am I? I'm your friend. I'm your guardian. I'm everything in you. I'm home, home comfort, all well wisher."

In home, everything in the midst of well wisher, guardian, to go home. We may not care for our interest but our home members they will care for our interest. To go to such a place that every atom around me will take care of me, my real interest. So this Navadwīpa Dhāma is the source of that. It has got some connection with that sort of high thought. That noble destination has got some connection where we are, though we cannot feel its nobility now because we're engaged somewhere we can't appreciate. The intervening stages disappear then we shall be able to find that every dust here - how divine and how peace giving, every dust. Where Mahāprabhu came, the vaibhava, the extended self of Mahāprabhu Himself here, every dust connected with that most magnanimous gift and relief of the whole creation. The Saviour of the whole creation by giving Himself as the highest entity is connected with every dust, every drop of water, every creeper, every leaf, everywhere. In that atmosphere we're living, but it is unknown to us. And according to our inner improvement we shall feel that.

When we're suffering from a disease, doctors advise us for a change. We go there, we can't feel that the air and water unconsciously improving my health. Automatically improvement from the environment comes to make me more healthy, to remove my disease. So if we live here in a favourable mood then we shall feel that automatically our spiritual health is being recovered. Only we shall try to save us from aparādha, wilful crime, offence, wilful, to do something to molest the atmosphere. The most generous atmosphere, to heal us, and to give us the highest fulfilment of life, this Navadwīpa Dhāma. His gift is the highest, and demand is the least. Just as in the hospital we get the best treatment, but we're to spend very small amount, but get the best treatment there. So Navadwīpa, the worst sinners are also accepted in this hospital, and they're given best treatment, and the charge is the smallest. "Only you take, only you come here." Laulyam api mūlyam.

tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

You come with a clear heart, not with any suspicious motive, and then you'll get the best benefit here.

Only we should want to be cured wholesale, wholesale cure. The government hospital not under any provincial control, but central controlled hospital. Or, for all, for the worst type of patients. They more prefer to accept worst type of patients, hopeless patients to cure.

[mahā-kṛpā-pātra prabhura jagāi, mādhāi] 'patita-pāvana' nāmera sākṣī dui bhāi

Like Jagāi, Mādhāi, patients like Jagāi, Mādhāi, were immediately cured of their mental disease.

When Ajāmila, by taking the Name of Nārāyaṇa in a particular mood got relief from all his previous mental tendencies, then Mahāṛṣi Agasthya, he, witnessing this fact he was charmed.

"What is this? To get release, relief from our previous mental tendencies we're trying so much by the process of yoga, dhyāna, dhāraṇa, etc, we're trying to get out of our previous mental impulse but we fail. But only by taking the Name of Nārāyaṇa in a second that man he's independent of all his previous mental tendencies? He rose up and went straight towards Haridwar for taking the Name without any attachment and consideration of his family. There the wife, the children, the property, nothing. He woke up and he got up from the bed and went straight to Haridwar. And no impulse of previous enjoying temperament could keep him there. At once he got relief by taking the Name of Nārāyaṇa. And to get out of our past mental impulse we're trying so much by controlling the breath. And trying to engage our mind for some higher substantial enquiry. "What is the next plane, next plane...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...though the object of our highest faith is of infinite in character, still some conceptions of Him has been given by the men of experience in the ocean of faith. In the ocean of faith, many have got their special experience and they're recorded. And through that we can approach so many lighthouses, so so many sādhus their particular realisation, all these will help us. But that must be bona fide. And not mere concoction that is imitation, to take experience of these things and to thrust into the world of faith. The anomaly, that also may be possible there. So very carefully, only through the line of the reliable sādhus we're to approach sādhu. Sādhu saṅga and the sādhu, the qualification of sādhu we must be careful to know. Their symptoms also are given in the scriptures, who is a sādhu, and who is a disciple, enquirer, and what will be their attitude. All these things are given.

And faith, not only to work in the material unconscious world that is subjective. And this is the most important thing we're to remember, that the Infinite is subjective character. That can guide us, that can be kind to us, be affectionate to us, all these things to be reckoned. He can guide, so the validity of the revealed truth stands on this foundation. Not in the ascending method we shall approach them, but He can come to our level to make Himself known. This is a very fundamental and substantial question to understand, that He can come to us. And through faith only we can come to that level, that the transcendental substance, the object of our enquiry through faith, He's endowed with all power and all consciousness. And He's kind and benevolent and sweet, all these things. Infinitely higher and we're infinitesimal very lower thing in comparison to Him.

So our attitude should be of that type. So the enquirer, the śiṣya, what will be his real symptom? Who is a real devotee? Who is a real seeker after truth, or the qualification of one who is searching the truth? What is his qualification, his attitude, his nature? That is also given. And what will be the lakṣaṇa of Guru, the guide?

upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

Jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ and paripraśnena sevayā, and then the enquiry that will be bona fide. Otherwise false transaction may not have any value, waste of energy. So faith does not allow us to think that we're at liberty to think anything and everything. There is some guidance from above, and the real transaction where possible, that also being supplied to us from that quarter. So śraddhā, that is the very nature and important thing in faith, that faith is approaching towards higher subjective. In every way it wants to connect with higher substance. Sat, cit, ānanda. In consideration of existence, in consideration of knowledge, and in consideration of affection and love. Sat, cit, ānanda. These three main points of existence will be highly satisfied there. Approaching śraddhā, faith asks us to approach higher not lower.

In every way He's superior, like my guardian, well-wisher. This will be the basis of our faith, going towards high and not towards lower thing, through faith. Scientific persons, scientific brain, they're searching some object that he can utilise, he can command those new things of researches. But faith proper, śraddhā, that is connected with a substance which is higher in all respects in comparison with the searcher, the enquirer. Enquirer is enquiring about the higher substance - that is generally known as śraddhā or faith. So proper guidance in the faith is also necessary. And that is given from the higher, that such will be the attitude of our enquiry, search. Praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā. In Upaniṣad it is given.

śabde pare ca niṣṇātaṁ, brahmaṇy upaśamāśrayam

["Therefore any person who seriously desires real happiness must seek a bona fide Spiritual Master and take shelter of him by initiation. The qualification of the bona fide Guru is that he has realised the conclusions of the scriptures by deliberation and is able to convince others of those conclusions. Such great personalities, who have taken shelter of the Supreme Godhead, leaving aside all material considerations, should be understood to be bona fide Spiritual Masters."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.21]

tad vijñānārthaṁ sa gurum evābhigacchet / samit paniḥ śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭham

["One who wants scientific knowledge about the Supreme Truth must approach a bona fide Guru and offer him everything required for sacrifice. The Guru must be fixed in the truth, having heard it from a genuine source."] [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 1.2.12]

Śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭham, and he must go, samit paniḥ, this is the general direction from the Upaniṣad. From Bhāgavata also direction coming, śabde pare ca niṣṇātaṁ, brahmaṇy upaśamāśrayam. In Gītā also, praṇipātena, paripraśnena, sevayā. So we should be very attentive to these things, through self searching, whether I'm really approaching though through faith, but the faith also proper faith and the incredulity is not one and the same thing. Whether a bona fide searching the real śraddhā, real faith, or something adulterated faith? These things are to be considered. And there are signs, symptoms, of real faith. We're to consult them to guide us, because this is very, very, very important thing. We're dissatisfied with our present acquisition and we're taking risk to jump into some other higher prospective way. So I must - our guidance must be very careful, attentive as far as it is possible. Though we're told that our present reasoning is not sufficient, but more than that, śraddhā. And śraddhā has got also its symptom. We should as far as possible we shall apply our reason. When I came to the Maṭha I thought that what I hear from them, aprākṛta vastu nahe prākṛta-gocara [veda-purāṇete ei kahe nirantara]

["Spiritual substance is never within the jurisdiction of the material conception. This is always the verdict of the Vedas and Purāṇas."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 9.194]

That transcendental thing does not come within the clutch of the worldly intelligence. But still, when I want to throw myself to that association, as far as possible I shall try my reasoning and intelligence, as far as possible. Because I'm going to jump into something which will be beyond my control, calculation.

Devotee: Mahārāja _____ [?]

Sāgar Mahārāja: Jaya Śrīla Guru Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. So what is śraddhā, faith proper, we must be particular to that. Misguidance. Of course it is not sure that if we're going in a proper way, there may be some obstacle on the way. If we're advancing properly, still some unknown hindrance coming and may trouble us and may delay our advancement. But still as much as possible we shall be careful for that. Though we see that so many around us that are of the same section approaching and some falling by my side. I'm still standing, some falling, some going back, all these things. In an organised way we're approaching and it's not impossible to see that some are not going in advance, some taking rest, some going down, some left the whole campaign. So many things are occurring around us. Still we should go forward. And what will be our capital? How we can go if I find that many can't go? Still I shall have to go.

So this much faith, or this much good will, we shall have to collect, have to gather. So many more began our advancement and so many are going back, but I shall have to go, to strengthen my energy and go forward alone. Alone I shall go. The faith should be so much strong and so much solid and substantial. Whatever difficulties may be found on my way I must cross them by the grace of my Lord. In this way we must make ourselves fit. Exclusive devotion. Of course we shall always try to find out association, but sometimes it may seem that no association, I'm alone. But still I must go and the beacon light should be such to me. But always I shall try to find out that higher. Progress means eliminating some and accepting another. So I shall be able to see there are so many other members to help my association, to help my progress in life. With that eye open we shall go.

It is in the śāstra so many layers are said to us. "From Catuḥsana, the Brahmā, the Śiva, the Baladeva, Śrī, and you are superior Uddhava, you are superior to all." By elimination the progress is shown.

[tebhyas tāḥ paśu-pāla-paṅkaja-dṛśas tābhyo 'pi sā rādhikā

["There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places."]

[Upadeśāmṛta, 10]

In Rāmānanda-saṁvāda, eho bāhya āge kaha āra. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc]

"There are so many who consider this position to be the highest. Go further, go further. Go deeper, go deeper, higher."

In this way some section goes to a particular stage and there they may stop. As we find in Sanātana Goswāmī's Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam, the Gopa Kumāra beginning from the lowest stage, how gradually he's making progress through different levels, and at last coming to Kṛṣṇa conception, in the friend rasa, sākhya rasa he reached. And how through gradual process he's eliminating and making further progress, stage by stage it has been described there. So from one level he's going up to another level, first they seem to be very helpful, but gradually that company seems to him to be stale. And then some higher chance is given to him through some agent and he, leaving that plane, he's going with him to some higher plane.

In this way the progressive life in the faith is found, is shown there. They can all help us how the progress in the world of faith also there are different planes. Faith means - as in this tangible world also, Sun, Moon, then Earth, all these, so many things. So there is also gradation, and by elimination the progress, how it is described there we're to scrutinise and we're to take advantage of that. And wherever any doubt we shall consult that with some higher agent and make progress.

Sat, cit, ānanda, the general thing. Mere existence cannot fulfil us, our inner hankering. And feeling, consciousness, that is also not sufficient. But rasa, ānandam, and that also of different type. The main thing extended in this way. We're to differentiate, and our selection must improve. And we'll be always wakeful to the environment and we shall with greater sacrifice, dive deep, die to live. To die, in the death consideration that is also deep, deeper, deepest, in this way the gradation is always there, elimination and acceptance.

ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

The duties that we find in the midst of, that may be left for acceptance of higher duty. In this way we're to make progress, progress. Always consulting the sādhu and the śāstra, they will help us, to guide us in the ocean of faith, and that unknown and unknowable. And known and knowable to particular section, and they have given direction for us. And we shall take the advantage of that sādhu, śāstra, by their guidance we shall improve our fortune. That mortal, transient thing, we must eliminate, sat. Then cit, consciousness, we must satisfy our reason, cit. And then we shall satisfy our heart.

Mahāprabhu says, "The demand of our heart, that is the primary thing in us." And we shall follow the direction of that heart. And that is the highest fulfilment, and not the fulfilment of consciousness, or to have some eternal existence. Eternal existence has no meaning if it's not conscious of it. And consciousness has no meaning if it does not give any fulfilment. So these are the three principals of our understanding. And considering that we shall go further and further in our higher life. Hṛdayenābhyanujñāto.

[vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]
[Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1]

And there is possibility that we shall feel within our heart whether we're loser or we're gainer. That tasting machine is within us.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ
kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, [mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani]

The karma, our connection with this material world will evaporate in no time. And all knowledge, a spacious knowledge will come to satisfy us. And, bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, we shall feel the object of our life everywhere. His taste. Mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani. When we shall be able to see that the fulfilment of life that has embraced me, from all sides helping me sympathetically to me from all sides. Bhidyate. Home consideration we shall feel. Back to God, back to home. Everyone taking interest of me, loving me. I may be careless about my own interest, but the environment is so favourable to me, so affectionate and so useful, that I cannot estimate. The child cannot estimate, have any estimation about the motherly affection, home comfort, that motherly affection, all friends around me - and they're finding my interest. I may not find my interest, but they're alert always to find my interest. I have come to such a position.

I finish here today. Vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca. Gaura Hari bol.

Ha, ha. They do not say anything.

The Kṛṣṇadāsa, the samādhi of Kṛṣṇadāsa, the āsana is there, and this is the samādhi of Kṛṣṇadāsa, āsana of Kṛṣṇadāsa. Kṛṣṇa Name is there. That meaning going to the person, not Kṛṣṇa. But they don't think that. So one time that was ousted, was not posted, rather posted this side, that side.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is an element, serving element, śraddhā, faith, that can give us connection with the higher subjective realm. That may come down to pratyakṣa and parokṣa. But that real existence is in the adhokṣaja realm, and also in the aprakṛta. The transcendental substance is higher - that can come down, but this cannot go up. And when this goes up, only through the grace of the upper substance, not independently. Subjective, super-subjective, super-super-subjective. Independence is there, and dependence in this lower strata, all dependent.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya, [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

We're to understand that the very soil there, the earth, the air, the fire, everything is conscious, spiritual substance. And also by this aspiration of Uddhava. Uddhava aspires after the birth of a creeper, and a shrub, and grass, there in Vṛndāvana. So the soil is made of such stuff like Uddhava. How to, what is our aspiration, how to go on? Only grace, grace, grace. Sweet will. And we're to earn that passage. The passage to that land is all spiritual, spiritual passage, and,

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktiṁ kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ
tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadwīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadwīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."]

[Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

Here you purchase ticket from Nityānanda in Gaura līlā and you'll find automatically you're there in Vṛndāvana. Your attachment to Gaurāṅga automatically takes you there. The similar līlā here and there. Here little better because added with some benevolence, generous, more generosity. Kṛṣṇa consciousness when it becomes more generous, liberal, we find Gaura Dhāma, Navadwīpa.

The bank building, that may not make us know that there is so much money. But in that building there may be immense money, gold, jewels, so many things, but by the building we may not have any knowledge of that. Only we may hear through ear that 'this is bank, there is so many things.'

So outside Dhāma we may not know what is there. But when we hear about that, and if we like to come in contact with particulars, then gradually we may find that. If we're allowed in the inner room, then we can understand what valuable things are here. So Dhāma outwardly something, and inwardly its containing highly valued precious jewels. But we want eye, whether it's a jewel, or it's an ordinary stone? Who can understand? Who can be ready to give that comparative valuation? One has to know something about that. To an animal, perhaps the jewel and the stone may not have much difference. So we must have the sense of tasting the substance, that is all important.

Darapane aṇdhe kibā kāje. [Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 8-9] Who has not eye, what help the mirror will give to him? The Nayānanda, one of the disciples of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, he says, "If we do not have eye, that divine eye, then we cannot understand any divine thing." He has given a very good example. "If one has got no eye, then if you put a mirror before him he can't see anything."

So śāstra, dhāma, sādhu, is nothing to us if we do not have some eye to taste them, to appreciate them. So that sort of substance, that śraddhā, faith, devotion.

premāñjana-cchurita-bhakti-vilocanena, [santaḥ sadaiva hṛdayeṣu vilokayanti
yaṁ śyāmasundaram acintya-guṇa-svarūpaṁ, govindam ādi puruṣaṁ tam ahaṁ bhajāmi]

["I worship Govinda, the Primeval Lord, Who is Śyāmasundara, Kṛṣṇa Himself with inconceivable innumerable Attributes, whom the pure devotees see in their heart of hearts with the eye of devotion tinged with the salve of love."] [Brahma-saṁhitā, 38]

The eye of devotion, and smeared by the ointment of divine love can show us many things in the private life of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, gopīs, all, Yaśodā, Nanda. So eye is necessary.

oṁ ajñāna-timirāndhasya [jñānāñjana-śalākayā / cakṣur unmilitaṁ yena, tasmai śrī-gurave namaḥ]

["I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances."]

That divya jñāna, dīkṣā. Dīkṣā means the process through which we acquire that...

85.11.04.B_05.A_06.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...usurped by the managers, the mind, the intelligence, all these, ego. But with the help of another major proprietor, this minor proprietor with the help of some major proprietor, will subdue, will control the manager. And so he'll be really owner of his own property.

So baddha jīva means devotion is in minor position. And with the help of another sādhu, who is the proprietor, in his own management controlling the officers, managers, and others, with the help of some major proprietor, the minor proprietor will try to get back his own control over the management. The mind, the intelligence, and other tendencies, they're looting what is due to devotion. Devotion is not getting that nourishment, that food. That is the case with the baddha jīva.

So anyhow, how? Only with the help of the revealed scripture and the saints we're to emulate, improve our condition. Where there is mind there is way. We feel that tendency that we've got liking for that life, for that property within us. Ruci, taste is the first thing. Sincerely we want to have it. Laulyam, lobha, the first thing necessary that we must sincerely want that. Then there will be way out and we must get. How to? That innermost hankering.

Disease means no hunger. Hunger should be increased with the help of the healthy persons. We're to behave in such a way that the hunger may be increased and the food will be well digested. Adjustment with the nature will help the health. Proper food, proper dealing, that will help the lost health. On the whole we're to move in that way. We shall feel ourselves within whether health is being recovered or not, hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto.

[vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]
[Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1]

The nature within, that will tell us whether hunger, whether health is improving or health is decaying. We will be always awake about that internal interest, how to help. And that nature is sacrifice, dedication. Dedication is nobility, dedication is noble thing, to give, and thereby we thrive. Learn to give ourselves for the noble cause. And that outer signs also. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, may not be misguided by these things. Ādi means slothfulness, idleness. Idleness is also a great hindrance, enemy, idleness, ease loving. So try to live in energising. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Anyābhilāṣitā, karmādy-anāvṛtam, jñāna ādi. Viśvanātha Cakravartī says ādi means that śaithilya, that ease loving, idleness, slackness, not earnestness. We should be careful about these things which is anti bhakti, we may not fall prey to such things. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, and śaithilya, etc.

And also in higher stage, prātikūlya, may not be connected in the indirect line.

kamad krodhat bhaya dvesa cedya dayonipar [?] By any connection with the Absolute we may get out of this world. But ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, not prātikūlya. The Kaṁsa, the Śiśupāla, they're also connected with Kṛṣṇa līlā, but they're in the opposition party, prātikūlyam. That is not desirable by the śuddha bhakta, they don't want to be arranged amongst the enemies of Kṛṣṇa līlā. That is also indirect way connected with Kṛṣṇa. So bhaya dvesat [?], Kaṁsa connected with dreadfulness. Dvesat, jealousy, Śiśupāla. Śiśupāla wanted to marry Rukmiṇī. Cedya dayonipar [?] kama bhaya dvesad [?] This is also connected but in a prātikūlya. Aghā, Bakā, Pūtanā. We won't like to be arranged with them.

Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, in a favourable service, serving life we shall aspire after. Prātikūlya-vivarjjanam. Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ. Ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ. Kṛṣṇānuśīlana, cultivation, culture of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam
ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167]

A dynamic life, moving, dynamic. Not a static conception of the highest end of life in perfect rest, that is something like zero. Brahman conception, Virajā conception, merging into Virajā, that is the Buddhist concept of nirvana, merging into a substance like light, halo. Brahman, nirvana, that is Śaṅkarite.

And from Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, Viṣṇusvāmī, Nimbarka - they give the proper interpretation of the positive side of reality, that by serving attitude we can enter into a new world. That is ideal. And there, by giving we thrive, not by taking. In general this position is like that. So we shall love life, but what for? Not for the neighbour, neither for the country, nor for the society, but for the whole. And what is the conception of the whole?

That is not Brahman, nor Paramātmā, nor Nārāyaṇa, but Kṛṣṇa Himself. How? What is the difference between Kṛṣṇa, Brahman, Paramātmā, Nārāyaṇa and so many incarnations of Nārāyaṇa? We're to understand, feel, and we select Kṛṣṇa. And there is differentiation even in Kṛṣṇa conception: Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa, Mathurā Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa. And the Kṛṣṇa served by different camps, also there is difference. All these are details.

Devotee: Mahārāja. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gradually we shall come to understand all the differentiated characteristics of Kṛṣṇa. But in general what is necessary that anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, śaithilya.

Our energy may not be utilised in our apa, anti development, anti interest. Our energy may not be used against us, against the ideal life, the original life, the normal life that we have got. We must be careful of that, we may not be our own enemy. Generally we're our own enemy. We're living with the enemy inside, always. We're sleeping, living, moving, eating, going, but always the enemy within us. We're surrounded by the enemies, kāma, krodha, lobha, moha, mada, mātsarya. On the whole that anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, ādi. With those enemies we're living, our position is so helpless, hopeless position. So only with the friends, we shall live with friends. And who are the friends? Those who are trying for normal life they're our friends.

[teṣāṁ jātā mayi na karuṇā [na trapā nopaśāntiḥ utsṛjyaitān atha yadu-pate sāmprataṁ labdha-buddhis tvām āyātaḥ śaraṇam abhayaṁ māṁ niyuṅkṣv ātma-dāsye]

["O my Lord, there is no limit to the unwanted orders of lusty desires. Although I have rendered them so much service, they have not shown any mercy to me. I have not been ashamed to serve them, nor have I even desired to give them up. O my Lord, O head of the Yadu dynasty, recently, however, my intelligence has been awakened, and now I am giving them up. Due to transcendental intelligence, I now refuse to follow the unwanted orders of these desires and I now come to You to surrender myself at Your fearless lotus feet. Kindly engage me in Your personal service and save me."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.16]

We're prey to all these enemies that are living within us. They're sucking our blood, living within, sucking our own blood, and going against me, my own interest. Such helpless condition we're in at present. So our internal prayer to the Lord will be, such fervent, sincere interest.

"Please save me from the hands of these enemies. I'm rather, I've no independence, I'm a doll of play in their hands, a doll of play in the hands of my enemies. Hopeless position. How to get out of that my Lord? My inner Lord, You are inside, they're outside. Please help me from inside that I can get out of the hand of these outside enemies."

The wealth, our prospect is inside, we may think. And then when we're free from the hands of enemies, we shall be able to see that all are friends, we're living with the friends. The environment will be changed and we shall see we're such as in a dream we're suffering from misconception. They're all friends. There's something wrong in me that tried to see enemy everywhere, and out of misunderstanding. Their position is in an imaginary position, māyā, misunderstanding - 'they're all enemy.' Then that wrong thinking within that is supposed to be kāma, krodha, lobha, etc, that wrong conception will vanish. That māyāic understanding, personification, false personification, that will go and they'll turn to be our friends.

Then the misconceived ideas of them that will go away. Things that are tempting me for exploitation I shall see that 'no' when that cloud is away. "Oh, he's exciting me for the service of Kṛṣṇa."

A food I like very much, it is very tasteful in my tongue. But when that misunderstanding will go, "This is very good, Mahāprabhu liked this very much. So with this I shall try to serve Mahāprabhu."

A girl is very beautiful, attracting me. When that misunderstanding will go, then, "Oh, this girl is beautiful. She can be utilised for the service of Kṛṣṇa."

Self interest will be transferred into God interest, Kṛṣṇa interest, for enjoyment. Everything will be Kṛṣṇa connected, and through that real satisfaction comes to me. "I have served Kṛṣṇa with this, I'm satisfied." Different line of satisfaction, by supplying different things to Kṛṣṇa. Nothing is useless, but everything is useful when it's used for the proper purpose, for the Centre. Centre knows what is the perfect utility of anything and everything.

We're not so fitted. So put food into the stomach. Stomach knows very well, where, how to prepare the different types of food and where to send, how much. How much to the blood, how much to the brain, how much to the leg, how much here and there. Pour water into the root of the tree. That will be your best service. Try to be practised in that way. All your activity should be like that. Pour water into the root. Don't go in separate negotiation with anyone. If separate negotiation, that is also for the advice 'how to pour water into the root.' That sort of help we can seek from outside. How to pour water into the root, how to put food into the stomach, in that way we may have advice from others. But putting food into the stomach, and the stomach will make arrangement to distribute that food to all places necessary.

So that should be our attempt always, everything connect with Kṛṣṇa and through Him it will come to you automatically, and that will be your best energy-giving life. Dependent life - dependent on the Centre. Centre means Centre is not alone; Centre has got a system, government, through different positions. From different camps, different agents, it will come to you, and you will also submit through the agents. But on the whole, your consciousness will be that, that you will give everything, the whole of your energy to the Centre. And through those who are really connected with the Centre, real agents of the Centre. In that way we shall try to move as much as we can. In our present position as much as we can we shall try to utilise our energy in that way. It will go to the Centre, not only direct in my present position, to a particular system, bureaucracy. And then it will come also to you as it is necessary in your position. That also will come through some agency, but the connection is with the Centre, the real Centre.

We must aspire after such things. We're not so powerful to do it at once, at any moment, in any way. But we shall learn to aspire, what to want. Hearing, giving audience, to different types of prospects of life we have to select our own prospect. Śravaṇa then varaṇa. Śravaṇa-daśā then varaṇa-daśā. First the stage of hearing, then varaṇa-daśā, to select. These are the different alternatives of prospects extended to me, and what should I select. Even in the proper place so many rasas: śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. We're to hear, then varaṇa-daśā, we're to select our selection, our internal approval of the heart. This is, "Here I am. I was searching for my such self of mine." Then varaṇa-daśā. "I have got my guide. I can rely on him. I can place myself at the disposal of this agent. Then I feel my fortune will be increased and guaranteed." In this way varaṇa-daśā. Śravaṇa-daśā, varaṇa-daśā. Then bhajan, sādhana-daśā, the proper progress will begin in our life. Then āpana-daśā, we shall feel the home environment. "Yes, I'm coming home. I'm feeling this to be my home. Āpana-daśā means to feel that this is my home. Then prapanna-daśā, to help others, to take home. These are things - Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Sambandha-jñāna, all these things are included in sambandha-jñāna. Who am I? Where am I? What is my position? What is my destination? How to attain that, that it will come? Sambandha-jñāna. And abhidheya, means to end, how to attain? Who am I? Then how to attain that? And what will be my remuneration, my salary?

'Dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana. Salary will be loving service. More love, more attention, more affection, to attempt to march. That will be salary, more energy to help me towards destination. That will be salary. Vetana more deha prema-dhana. Vetana, my inner salary, the more increased energy to discharge our duty.

So sambandha jñāna, these are the analysis of the environment and position of the self. And in the environment also different things, the master, the friend, the servant, the foundation, so many things in the sambandha jñāna. And then to march on and to what is our payment. Sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana, by three heads we're to understand in analytical way.

Devotee: Mahārāja. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And what is his, Jaya Rāma?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Jaya Rāma's question is: "In our sampradāya we're worshipping Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. Does that mean everyone will go to Goloka Vṛndāvana and have their eternal relationship there? Or will some be dispatched with Rāmacandra, Nṛsiṁhadeva, in Vaikuṇṭha, in different places?"

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...recommendation, but objectionable thing, there may be thousands and more. Because the offence we commit towards whom He's infinite absolute and He's not under law, He's autocrat. Whatever is against His will that is objectionable. And fixing about some law, this is in the lower class, for the beginners, they should do it. But as much as one will make progress he will be nearer the subject and he will know what is His sweet will and what is not. And he will do accordingly.

So what is not approved by the Guru and Vaiṣṇava, that should be avoided. We're to think in this way that He's not under law. Still, these laws have been given only for the primary class. And as one will make advancement and he will come in touch with the reality, then he'll find what He wants. And what He does not want he must avoid. And in the middle stage what is desired by the Vaiṣṇava he will do that. And what is not desired by them he will avoid. In the beginning the śāstra, and in the middle the will of His agents. And in the highest stage is that whimsical Absolute, whatever He wants to do, and whatever He does not want, that is offered.

Do you follow? Eh? Can you understand, how the things...

Devotee: He says yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's not under law. His will is law. Even He has ordered, "Do this thing." Our Guru Mahārāja told me to show difference between karma and bhakti, devotion and this action. He told that he has ordered, "Bring me flower." I'm taking flower to him and then he says, "No, no. No flower, give me water." Then if I "Oh, you already ordered flower, take it." That will be karma, to push our will on him. He's autocrat, He can do and undo. He desired and I was supplying as a servant. Now He does not want that, I must stop there. I can't say, "Oh, You desired it first. With great energy I've collected this. You must have to take." No, that won't do. He's autocrat, He's free. And He's free will - and I'm nitya dāsa, slave. My position is always to serve Him without any consideration of law or anything else. And He's Absolute Autocrat, Absolute Good. Whatever coming, even previously He told, in the śāstra also He has told, "Do this, do this."

ājñajaiva guṇān doṣān, mayādiṣṭān api svakān
dharmmān saṁtyajya yaḥ sarvvān, myāṁ bhajet sa ca sattamaḥ

"Who is the best of the devotee, now one who can understand in the śāstra I have given so many orders. Still, to satisfy Me, who can neglect those orders already given, and can understand and come to satisfy Me, crossing the directions of the śāstra, he's the best of all devotees."

So not a sterilised thing, not anything that is under law we're going to deal with. As a law maker His will is everything. "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light. The cause of all causes, so, and He's living, and whatever He presents, whatever He desires, we want to do that. The first class servant will always look at His eye and whatever desiring the very moment he'll do that. The past, and then He can cancel - He'll order and He can cancel His order, and then new order He may issue. And whatever He'll desire from us in the present moment we shall do that, up to date. Not what was previously done that old thing we shall represent to Him. That is not devotion proper.

Do you follow?

Devotee: Well I don't follow everything because I don't know so much. Or anything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you're to make him understand. A clear thing, this is not abstruse. Whatever He wants He can cancel. He can order and He can cancel the order, and He can give new order. The most modern, new order, that should be done. He has asked, "Do this" for a particular section. Then again, "No, do that." And then the afterwards order that will be strong. Everywhere it is that. A state also makes some law and then change the law. The designer and destiner of everything. We can't take Him under any law. We'll prepare ourselves with that attitude, that whatever demand I shall supply that. No question of any law, even if it's issued by Him Himself previously. That won't apply on Him.

dharmmān saṁtyajya yaḥ sarvvān, myāṁ bhajet sa ca sattamaḥ

["In the scriptures of religion, I, the Supreme Lord, have instructed men of all statuses of life in their duties. Duly comprehending the purificatory virtue of executing those prescribed duties as well as the vice of neglecting them, one who abandons all allegiance to such dutifulness in order to engage in My devotional service is the best of honest men (sādhu)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.11.32]

And,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Dharma means that was ordained by Him in the śāstra. "Do this, do this. Then give up all and come to Me. I'm above law." That is the idea. And the next question?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Worshipping Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa Vigraha may be approached to be worshipped by many classes of thinkers. Even māyāvādī who has got no faith in the real existence of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, that is also māyā, sattya guṇa. Ultimately they're so ham - "I'm that Brahman." Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa conception of Brahman that is lower stage, they also.

And the others, the Nimbarka sampradāya and other sampradāya they're also worshipping Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, but according to their own conception they're doing. There's differentiation. Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa worshipping in the arcana class, then with the madhyama adhikārī in the higher class also, it will be different according to ones sambandha jñāna. All is not equal.

Even those that are not believers in the eternal existence of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, the Śaṅkara School, they also worship Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, and after doing that they say, "We shall gradually be one with Brahman and the Brahman is above Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa." That is their opinion.

So different sections may approach to worship Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa from different angles of vision. All is not equal. Do you follow? What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He say "Yes."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One may approach from different angles of vision.

...giving opposition, and some went crossing the compound wall and they're also beaten and driven away, so a fight. But I don't think that they should do so.

Once we're told Rāmānuja he wanted to introduce some reform into the practices of worshipping process. But Jagannātha did not accept that. Rāmānuja was forcibly taken away when at night he was sleeping. With the bedstead he was forcibly carried away and driven towards Kūrmakṣetra.

Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi, who is considered to be the Vṛṣabhānu, father of Rādhārāṇī, Guru of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, he also expressed some objection into the process of Their service - the servitors of Jagannātha. _____ [?] That the rice juice is applied in the cloth, and without washing that they used that for Jagannātha. And he put some objection, in thought, he felt some objection about that. And Balarāma and Jagannātha They could not tolerate that and They came and punished him by giving slap on his cheek. We're told.

And Sanātana Goswāmī, Rūpa Goswāmī, what to speak of Haridāsa Ṭhākura, because these two devotees they had some association with the Muslim kings when they were in the service in Bengal. They also did not enter the temple of Jagannātha. Thinking that some objection may come from the side of the pāṇḍā they avoided. Even the general way, the road, that also was not used by Sanātana. He went to meet Mahāprabhu through the hot sand, sea shore, and got blisters on his soles. But still he did not come through the ordinary way because the pāṇḍā may have touched him. He's not thinking fit for the arcana purpose.

And Sanātana Goswāmī has written in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, the Vaiṣṇava śruti, that, "Whatever direction I have given here, you may obey, observe. And what is not given here if you find in the Jagannātha temple, whatever formality, you will follow that. Because when Mahāprabhu Himself was present there, and in His presence what customs were followed and He tolerated and accepted, that should be the highest ideal for us. So whatever ruling is given here, or not given, if you find in the temple of Jagannātha that sort of practice, you will follow that. Because in the presence of Śrī Caitanyadeva what was done about the worshipping process of Jagannātha that is the highest authority, for us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So high power of medicine for the worst type of patient here. Jagāi, Mādhāi, they represented the worst type of patient here. Misunderstanding and misdeed. But at once they got relief from that tendency and became holy men immediately. What is this? This spiritual hospital is of this type, wonderful cure, treatment. Not only to get relief of the previous disease, but perfect health, healthy body comes about immediately. Such is medicine, such is trust, treatment, that not only the curing from the disease, but getting higher order of health is also coming immediately. What is this? Bad habits of Jagāi, Mādhāi disappeared, but not only that they engaged themselves fully in the religious spiritual life. Taking the Name of the Lord and all other suitable qualifications at once they acquired. This type.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Vaiṣṇava aparādha _____ [?] They were members of the ordinary section of people and they committed mischief to the persons who were not of higher level. So no offence in the higher plane, so easily they got. But a Vaiṣṇava aparādhī, those that commit offence against those that are coming to help them, their position is more severe. Those that are coming to help him, to get him relief, the one who wants to wound the doctor who will give medicine and who will remove his disease, if he goes to attack the doctor, that is more injurious to his future health. But Jagāi, Mādhāi did not attack the doctor. Immediately attacked the doctor and then immediately finished. Did aparādha, offence, but when particularly he came to offend Nityānanda, that means the highest doctor, well-wisher, that is Vaiṣṇava aparādha.

But Mahāprabhu went to punish them, but Nityānanda Prabhu came, "No, no. Here We have not come for that. Ahaitukī kṛpa. Without giving any attention to any calculation of good or bad, We have come only to relieve the people. This is Our promise. So We can't take any offence of them here. We have already promised, ahaitukī kṛpa." Otherwise the attack on Nityānanda that is a great offence, not only Vaiṣṇava aparādha but more than that. But immediately They came and, "We have come only for that purpose, not to take any offence, and to do the service."

And they're making, they're showing their humility. Rūpa, Sanātana, themselves did not show such offence, but they're thinking for us. Though we generally go to attack the doctor, the well-wisher, that is greater offence, we must be careful of that. Those that have come to help me, we want to attack them. But we must be careful.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Out of humility They say like that. But Nityānanda Prabhu Who is the abode of all generous high dealing, and He's attacked. But attacked and finished. In another sense, another way of thinking, that Jagāi, Mādhāi,

[mahā-kṛpā-pātra prabhura jagāi, mādhāi] 'patita-pāvana' nāmera sākṣī dui bhāi

They're set example for the līlā. Jagāi, Mādhāi, was exploited to enhance the beauty and generosity of the līlā of Gaura-Nityānanda. Jagāi, Mādhāi, was utilised. They were heinous, those two types of great sinners has been made, utilised, as the element of the nobleness of Gaura-Nitāi - on the whole. So Jagāi, Mādhāi was exploited to show the nobility of the pastimes of Gaura-Nityānanda - in one sense. And Haridāsa Ṭhākura, Rūpa, Sanātana, to enhance the līlā for our instruction designed. That was designed. They're all parṣada. And Mahāprabhu came with all His paraphernalia and to show the līlā, to attract us, the sinners, for the līlā, to take shelter under Them. But they're considered really as the parṣada, the eternal attendants of His līlā, the līlā is nitya. The king takes the part of a sweeper in a drama, and he can play well, something like that. This is nitya līlā, it's continuing eternally, not an accidental happening. In this higher plane there is no influence of any death or any such change, it is eternal. Just as Sun is revolving everywhere, every moment there is morning, every moment there is noon, every moment there is evening. Only in the different place. So līlā is always there, and the eternal group, and coming to give some help. Sun is moving, in this way everywhere morning, everywhere - every time there is morning, here or there, in this way moving and giving benefit to one and all.

['nitya-līlā' kṛṣṇera sarva-śāstre kaya], bujhite nā pāre līlā kemane 'nitya' haya

["Although Kṛṣṇa's eternal līlā is described in all the scriptures, still it cannot be understood how it is eternal."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.385]

Kavirāja Goswāmī - jyotiścakra-pramāṇe.

[dṛṣṭānta diyā kahi tabe loka yadi jāne, kṛṣṇa-līlā — nitya, jyotiścakra-pramāṇe]

["Let me give an example by which people may understand Lord Kṛṣṇa's eternal pastimes. An example can be found in the zodiac."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.386]

Here it is eternal, and also in Goloka it is eternal. Here also eternal, and there also eternal. That eternal by the changing, the revolving of the Earth, every place is receiving the benefit. But the Sun is there, fixed. The Goloka līlā is fixed there, and here the moving, they're deriving the benefit of that līlā everywhere, by turn.

Parṣada bhakta. If we can look in that light we'll be more benefited. And according to our stages some will see that Rūpa, Sanātana, new recruit, Jagāi, Mādhāi, new recruit. And some will say, "No. That is the attendant of the līlā, eternal līlā."

A question was raised to our Guru Mahārāja, and the answer was given in Gauḍīya. "This is, whomever we find with Mahāprabhu's līlā, if they were all parṣada, then who are the new recruits? What benefit who are there who got new benefit then and new entrance? All, if we say, all the devotees are parṣada, then who are the new recruits?" Then a list of names was also given. Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya etc that they're new recruits. All are not eternal parṣada, some new recruits are also there, otherwise it will be useless.

It depends upon the nature of vision, estimation. There is a stage when one can see everything is all right. The highest realisation shows that everything is all right. It is serving direct or indirect. This māyā also rendering service. The Durgā Devī is also giving service. The _____ [?] butcher man, he's also rendering service, he has got his utility in his position, rendering service to the state. Who is spreading revolutionary spirit to the highest authority, he's also rendering some service. That is, he's trying - the subtle into gross and to get it finished. The disease which is within, imperceptible, that is taken out in the outer position, and then the treatment comes and fully cured. So in the broadest sense the mahā-bhāgavata he's well-satisfied, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ
kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani

Anvayāt, vyatireka, direct and indirect, it is necessary in the conception of the whole, anvayāt, vyatireka. Only - darkness also has got contribution to light, a necessary part of light, darkness. And there is also comparison, dense darkness, and slight darkness. In this way that is also a part of the whole. That is also light. One who can see he sees light everywhere, in the indirect also, helping.

Just as to - one sacrificing his life for the independence of the country, they're going to darkness. Apparently they're going to darkness, in thinking that my country may be independent, it won't go in vain. So vyatireka, that is positive contribution, which does not produce any direct result for independence. The first class martyrs they cannot see any independence, but they sacrifice their life for the independence. But they cannot see independence, no direct connection with independence. But that is also foundation. In indirect way that also comes to contribute for the independence. So where it is? In the positive and the negative, everywhere, He is. In māyā also He is. Balavan [?] misconception, to enhance and to supply the novelty of the līlā.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then it says, Guardian Of Devotion. And Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guardian Of Devotion.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Subject heading? How many chapters?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: It is just - there are three sections. In the first section there's your Deities. And Guru Gaura Gāndharvā Govindam Grnga Naisaha. Obeisances to the Lord in His Deity.

Then there's these conversations between yourself and Swāmī Mahārāja. And Swāmī Mahārāja's appreciation of Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then there also it's mentioned - your poetry, of the appreciation of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, of your poem of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in Mahāprabhu's line. He says that, "Now there is someone who can represent my siddhānta, my conclusions, who remains behind."

It's also mentioned the - your talks with Swāmī Mahārāja and,

[teṣāṁ satata-yuktānāṁ, bhajatāṁ prīti-pūrvakam]
dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Dadāmi buddhi-yogaṁ taṁ, yena mām upayānti te.
Swāmī Mahārāja _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Also it's mentioned how after Gauḍīya Maṭh that Swāmī Mahārāja wanted to make an Institution with Your Divine Grace as the Head of that Institution.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He gave a proposal.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, proposal. Ha. Ha. Also, when Śrīla Swāmī Mahārāja and his disciples came to your Maṭh for your Vyāsa Pūjā celebration, and he stayed in the Blue House.

And Acyutānanda Swāmī enquired about your talks. And Swāmī Mahārāja told him that 'he would faint to hear the depths of your realisations."

And Swāmī Mahārāja's letter to Govinda Mahārāja. "That after the departure of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura I should take direction from Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja."

He wanted to know, "Should he live in America, or return to Vṛndāvana?"

And you advised him to stay, to continue his preaching in America.

And his mentioning of śikṣā guru, "That Śrīdhara Mahārāja is my śikṣā guru."

Then, and your, yes, ha, ha, this picture here, Guru Mahārāja, this picture is of Your Divine Grace and - when is that?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And also this is _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And this is Guru Mahārāja, Karachi.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So Guru Mahārāja, in Karachi, that is where you said, "If the Infinite cannot make Himself known to the finite, then He's not Infinite."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Ha, ha. Also there's the picture with Śrīla Prabhupāda in Madras, where you're in the background.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then there's a conversation with Śrīla Swāmī Mahārāja in nineteen seventy seven when he invited you to come and stay in Māyāpur, to stay there with him.

And also your singing, śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada, to Śrīla Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī before his departure.

And, so here Śrīla Swāmī Mahārāja is mentioning that you have very high and deep realisations.

So in the second part of the book is, nikhila-bhuvana-māyā-chinna-vichinna-kartrī, [vibudha-bahula-mṛgyā-mukti-mohānta-dātrī śithilita-vidhi-rāgārādhya-rādheśa-dhānī, vilasatu hṛdi nityaṁ bhaktisiddhānta-vāṇī]

Your verse and explanation, saying of Śrīla Prabhupāda although outwardly he was like a lion - inwardly he was very, very sweet. It could only be traced in his internal sweetness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: His sweetness was internal. And you say that, "With his first step he cut asunder the whole plane of exploitation. And with a second step he put a stop to all calculations of different scholars, and different conceptions of salvation. With the third step he minimised the hardness and stiffness of the rules and regulations of calculative devotional service.

Sāgar Mahārāja: Nikhila-bhuvana-māyā-chinna-vichinna-kartrī, _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So this explanation...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____[?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And then the third section, the final section of the book, is the Brahma Gāyatrī explanation.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So this is some introduction. Many people are enquiring, they want to know, "Who is Śrīdhara Mahārāja?" So that is very difficult to explain fully, so this is some attempt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the highest position of His devotion. He's everywhere. So temple entry, that is a social campaign, social fight, and we need not enter into that, by fighting we can see the Vigraha and Supreme Lord. So many are seeing Jagannātha Vigraha, and are they perfect? They have become siddha, mahātmā, have become devotee? So this is misunderstanding to go to fight. I can't approve this. This is not a matter of physical force or mental force.

Here when Swāmī Mahārāja was attacked by the local guṇḍās in ISKCON Maṭh Māyāpur Caitanya Chandrodaya, he ordered, "Take a party of saṅkīrtana outside and be beaten by them. They're entering into the compound and making, creating disturbance by throwing brickbats and this and that. You go out with a saṅkīrtana party. Don't try to apply any force over them. Go outside with a saṅkīrtana party and let them enjoy a free beating to you. Whatever they come to do against you, you all tolerate." Then the kīrtana party went outside, the outsiders came to attack them but they tolerated for some time then all retired and pacified.

And Acyutānanda once approached with a gun to a particular neighbourhood, just in front of, nearby Dāmodara Mahārāja's building. Acyutānanda with a gun approached them. So he was discarded and blamed very much by Swāmī Mahārāja. And he lost his importance in the association. I was told that was the cause. "In Māyāpur you want to apply force that is with a gun you wanted to attack the Dhāma-vāsīs?" This idea was very much repulsive to Swāmī Mahārāja and he became indifferent to that Acyutānanda who was one of the founder members here, Acyutānanda.

And then there was a fight, and when they were attacked, for their self protection they used some gun, bullets. And they themselves were beaten and wounded very gravely. And then for some self protection they used a gun. And I'm told that some persons were wounded, outsiders, the guṇḍās were wounded. And then also Bhāvānanda and others were taken to prison house. And I'm told that Bhāvānanda with _____ [?]

Devotee: Handcuffs.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Handcuffs on his hands, when he was taken to Navadwīpa _____ [?] with saṅkīrtana he came dancing and chanting, he came with that handcuffs - Bhāvānanda. By chanting he was shown in the street with handcuffs _____ [?] And they fasted until they're given prasādam from outside. They did not accept any food in the prison house. All this I heard.

But forcible entry into the temple, that is fight, the Gandhi Movement fought for that, that every caste must have entrance into the temple. That was Gandhi Movement here. But that was also not successful in Orrisa. Even Kalapaha [?] with the Mohammedan force he demolished many temples and entered, polluted, but could not enter Jagannātha temple we're told.

But this sort of attempt is not according to real devotion. He will, He can grace me anywhere, everywhere. I won't go to forcibly enter to Him and begin to worship. This is not devotion, this is self assertion, that I am a devotee fighting for the cause. That is very lower type of mentality in the devotional school. A drop, I shall try life after life, I must have a pledge that lives after lives I shall dedicate to get a drop of mercy of Him. No qualification can make him proper to approach Him. He's infinitely great, noble, pure, and I am infinitesimal, the most impure ego. By only His grace, and if He wills to take me none can oppose. None can oppose if He wills.

So we shall think we're so filthy, but that we have got some sukṛti we're trying to achieve His grace. Dainyam, ātma-nivedanam, dinata dainya, śaraṇāgata. Śaraṇāgati is first thing. Self abnegation, I'm nothing, I'm the lowest of the low. Dainyam, ātma-nivedanam, goptṛtve varaṇa. Without śaraṇāgati, surrender, no devotion. Surrender is the foundation of devotion, devotional structure. But in the surrender what is there? First thing is dainya, that I'm nothing, I'm meanest of the mean. Tṛṇād api sunīcena. I'm lower than a blade of grass. The blade of grass it is a material thing, and it has got its own position. But I am besides myself, I'm a crazy man. I am, however small, not normal, vikṛta, I'm abnormal. My ahaṅkāra, ego, is something abnormal, not a normal, an insignificant entity. A blade of grass is most insignificant thing but normal. I am abnormal, besides myself.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura remarks in the commentary of tṛṇād api sunīcena. "That blade of grass, I'm lower than that, because the blade of grass it is a material thing and it has got its own position particular. But I'm vikṛta svarūpa, I'm abnormal, I'm mad, I'm not of a standard thinking, standing existence. So I'm lower than that, a blade of grass."

So śaraṇāgata, our progress should be made on that side. And not that "I'm a big man, I can enter, I can touch the Lord, I can worship forcibly. I'm subject and that is object of my whims." What is this? This is not devotion proper.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Mahāprabhu applied force - that is of another type. Saṅkīrtana movement against the Kāzī. Prepared if any forcible attack may come, let it come, but we shall go on preaching the Lord. As Swāmī Mahārāja did, "Go out with kīrtana and tolerate the boisterousness of the local guṇḍās. Your nobility will be increased." Ke?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha. _____ [?] Power seeking is not devotion. Rather to be disarmed, whatever I have got that must love śaraṇāgati. I shall approach towards slave mentality.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'
["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa."
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

I'm nothing, I'm nowhere. I'm at His disposal. He can make or mar. He can do anything with me, has got every right to do away, and He can play with me. He's got such right. That sort of understanding and our real position we're to think out and try to realise that position as much as possible towards.

Especially in Jagannātha temple, that is the standard there. Sanātana Goswāmī, Rūpa Goswāmī, Haridāsa Ṭhākura, under the direction of Mahāprabhu, direct direction, they showed a particular behaviour, conduct there, giving respect to the method by which Jagannātha is being worshipped there.

Even Mahāprabhu Himself, because in the first visit out of extreme earnestness He approached and touched Jagannātha. So He took His stand near Garuḍa-stambha, far away from the Śrī Mūrti of Jagannātha. From there He used to have darśana. He did not go further, nearer to Jagannātha. Because suddenly, unconsciously, if He feels much inclination to welcome Jagannātha, what He did in His first attempt when entered, so He kept Himself far away near Garuḍa-stambha. Every day He used to take stand in the side of Garuḍa, and from there He used to look at Jagannātha, giving respect.

So to apply force over Him, that is no devotion proper. Swāmī Mahārāja did not attempt, or any other Ācārya.

Rāmānuja only wanted to introduce some change in the method of worshipping, but that was not accepted. Rāmānuja even protested that, "You have appointed me to make reformation into the practices that are going on at present in Your worshipping. So I must introduce these things, come from Śaṅkara School, or any other school, not in proper Vaiṣṇava method."

But he was - "You go elsewhere. But here, what I like, My servants, according to Me they're doing. Don't try to interfere in the process of service that is going on here."

And Rāmānuja with his bedstead at night he slept in Purī, when morning he woke he found he's in Kūrmakṣetra, he went away.

And Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi was punished in his dream by slap from Jagannātha and Balarāma. "You have come here to introduce some reformation, eh? What My servants do for Us you find fault with that? _____ [?] using. It is My will, I want that. What they're doing, they're doing according to My desire. Don't try to think otherwise."

And Mahāprabhu gave respect. And Sanātana Goswāmī has written in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa smṛti, that "Whatever is going on in the Jagannātha temple that must be respected. And whatever is not given here in my writing, if you can find you can copy from Jagannātha. Because what went on there got approval of Śrī Caitanyadeva Himself. He was there twenty four years almost, and when He stayed there at that time whatever went there that must be accepted as being highest ruling." This direction has been given in Hari- bhakti-vilāsa by Sanātana Goswāmī.

So by forcible entry to the temple that we have got, and so many that are seeing they're finished, they've got everything. A wrong idea. Rather they'll be more nearer devotion that, "Oh, I'm not fit to enter the temple of Jagannātha." And Mahāprabhu accepted...

Devotee: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...high operation.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Jaya Rāma prabhu has one question. "If all the Dhāma-vāsīs they will go back to Mahāprabhu's eternal saṅkīrtana party, they'll be able to enter into that?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Badrinārāyaṇa: The Dhāma-vāsīs, if they will be able to - if after death they will go back home, back to Godhead?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Badrinārāyaṇa: That's his question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then this will be vacant?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say? Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: More will come, more persons, more jīvas will come, to take their position.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha. Ha. New jīva, new candidate will come?

Devotee: Yes. Ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And old Dhāma-vāsīs, where they have gone?

Devotee: Ha. ha. That's what we want you to tell us. Ha. ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So there, difference in conception. Misconception of a player, of a thing, when the misconception vanishes then what is there? Misconception vanishes for a particular person or group, but there are others suffering from misconception. Misconception of a thing, that is there. Proper conception of a thing and misconception of a thing, what is the relation between the two? Proper conception and misconception of a particular thing, what is the relation between the two? In misconception also there are different stages of misconception. And proper conception also there are different stages. We're to think like that. Gradually misconception is being removed gradually. And proper conception is also being revealed gradually. So many differences in between.

And, "Go deeper, go deeper, go deeper. Eho bāhya, eho bāhya." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc]. Deeper, die deeper death. Die to live. Death also gradual process, and life also gradual process. Gaura-Nārāyaṇa, Gaura-Kṛṣṇa. Angle of vision, change in the angle of vision, in estimation proper. A man may be seen from the body standpoint, then mental standpoint, education standpoint, in general, and specialist in particular education. Then man as pertaining his character, good, bad, learning, in character, religious conception. And religious conception of different type, Buddhist, Śaṅkaraite, Rāmānujaite, Śrī Caitanyaite. "Go deeper, go deeper. Yes, it is, go deeper."

In the positive conception also there's differentiation. Even in the marginal conception two differences, Virajā and Brahmaloka. In no-man's land, two divisions, one this side, another that side, according to influence. Buffer state, the thought, margin. And then towards Infinite different conceptions. And towards misconception also difference. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya. And fourteen kinds of division has been dealt. Chedya bhuvan [?] The material conceptions also have been dealt at least in fourteen stages. Then the margin, two conceptions, Virajā, Brahmaloka. And then there's Śivaloka, Nārāyaṇa, Vaikuṇṭhaloka, there are many spheres. Twenty four Viṣṇu Avatāra. In general, Vaikuṇṭhaloka, Ayodhyā, then Mathurā, Dvārakā, Vṛndāvana. In Vṛndāvana also different conceptions. Madhurī, rāsotsavād, vṛndāraṇyam, udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt, govardhanaḥ, then Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. In this way.

[vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād
vṛndāraṇyam udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ
rādhā-kuṇḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt
kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevāṁ vivekī na kaḥ]

["The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?"] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Different conceptions. Angle of vision differs, infinitely.

Devotee: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...sunset some place or other, sunrise some place or other, midday some place or other, but it is eternal. Morning is eternal, now here, now a mile off. In this way everything is eternal. Midday eternal, night eternal, day eternal, somewhere or somewhere.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
[yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ]

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

What is night to one that is day to another. That is also there. There are many animals who can see at night but can't see at day. So day seeing animal and night seeing animal, in this way variety coexistent. Everything is coexistent. Only difference of section. And even there are some who can voluntarily move in different planes.

When Dideep [?] went to Vasiṣṭha, "I'm childless. What is the cause for which I'm childless? And what is its - how can I get relief of that ?"

Then Vasiṣṭha he tried - he stopped his present experience, plane of present experience he left and tried to enter into different stages. Supernatural stage he entered, and after some time came back to this plane and told, "This is the cause of childlessness, and if you do this that may be removed." So Vasiṣṭha was present in a particular stage, he withdrew from there and entered in some other stage, and then again came back there, in this way.

Even it is possible that like a lightening flash the dhāma came to reveal itself to the heart of a devotee, and then again withdrawn. Not only Vigraha but the dhāma also, sudden appearance came in ones heart and again went, disappeared. That is subjective existence of different planes that come down and again withdraw. And in different persons it is also possible. It is always in that stage. What comes like a flash to one, that is permanent in them. And there are some who are devoid of that consciousness and even the possibility of that. That is also there.

Sometimes Gaura dhāma may reveal in itself as Vṛndāvana. Sometimes Gaura dhāma, that also possible.

Gaura-Gadādhara transformed into Rādhā-Govinda sometimes. His sweet will, of the Supreme Subject.

We're like play doll. "See Me in this way."

"Yes, cannot but see that."

"No, no. See Me in that way."

"Yes. We're helpless, we must see that."

A play doll in the Super Subjective area. "See this." I'm compelled to see that.

"Don't see that, it is not so."

"Oh. It is not so."

Ha. Ha. So we're helpless, we're dependent entity, wholly depending on the grace, on the whim.

What to speak of us, so many higher positioned holders also. Brahmā, Śiva, _____ [?]

Mahāprabhu says in His super trance, "Oh. I was experiencing such happy Kṛṣṇa līlā. You all began a noise and forcibly took Me back here in this world consciousness. I was experiencing the divine Kṛṣṇa līlā of the highest type in Govardhana, such and such things I was experiencing, so happy. You have all forcibly drawn Me down in this plane again."

_____ [?] bhūmiś cintāmaṇi, mṛta kalpa-vṛkṣa, kathā gānaṁ, gamanam nāṭyaṁ, all of charming nature and expansive. [From Brahma-saṁhitā, 56] They can produce many things. Not to speak about Kṛṣṇa, even the trees also they can show themselves in any way. And Infinite is such. Infinite also different kinds, most charming Infinite.

A line also infinite, a plane also infinite. Einstein says, "One thing is not that thing. That thing plus something else, some possibility. What we get estimation of the present, the thing is not limited to that. It has got its possibilities, prospects. That also must be in the calculation, otherwise estimation will be false. So infinite possibilities."

The creator of this brahmāṇḍa, this world, Brahmā's brain puzzled. Ha. Ha. Showing infinite within the face, within the mouth, and then again out of fear embracing Yaśodā. "I'm very much afraid of the cat."

So this is līlā. But if we're taken near it we feel satisfaction. How? How much our tiny soul can contain? A small pot, how can it contain the water of the ocean? Ha. Ha. A negligent portion of water in the ocean can fill up the whole pot, however greater.

Still there is a feeling, "He's mine. I'm His. He's mine." And there is a stage also, "He's mine alone."

Yaśodā says, "He's My child, a doll in My hand. Myself alone can do or undo everything about Him."

Such mastership is shown in a devotee. "Devotee, you are My master." That play also is there. "You are My master, you are My controller. In whatever market you like to sell Me I'm sold."

Ha. Ha. Ha. Vāsudeva Datta he says _____ [?] "He can sell Me in the market. I'm mercantile to him. Such devotion, affection, he has got towards Me."

Conception, proper conception, misconception, and there are different stages in both sides. And no conception, that is also there, like deep sleep, samādhi, tyāga. Buddhist, Śaṅkaraite. No conception, enters into no consciousness, at least for some time. Misconception, no conception, proper conception, and in the proper conceptions also there are so many differences. Both as a group and as individual. Difference in conception as a group, and individual, both, more or less.

Such is Infinite. And He willingly becomes finite. "I belong to you only. I'm helpless, you are My guardian, you'll protect Me." At the same time the mountain Govardhana with only one hand He's taken up, like a play ball. Different possibilities of Infinite.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Arjuna could not tolerate that. For some time he was charmed, but little after Arjuna felt uneasiness and requested, "O please come to my own level my friend. Come to me as my friend." When he came to that view, "Yes."

Sevati parvata pada paravyoma deli pheli [?] Dāsa Goswāmī says, "If your inclination comes to have curiosity to see the grandness, the astonishing aspect, then you'll be deprived from this Vraja conception. That Kṛṣṇa is so near and dear, our son, our consort, our friend - you'll be devoid. You'll lose this happy mood of experiencing Him as one of you. You'll see Him great, grand, big, infinite, powerful, majestic, all these. You'll fall down to that conception."

Jñāna śūnya bhakti is very happy experience. "We're one, we're in the same...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He generally neglects all religious preachers. But he was much impressed with their talk. So many things are _____ [?] There are many remarks.

Badrināràyaṇa: Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī he told, "You must give attention to him, properly, he has got much qualification."

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I had some tendency come in my life that yesterday your sannyāsa took place so I should say something about you, but I controlled that. But when suggestion came from outside then I could not but do.

Badrināràyaṇa: Guru Mahārāja. I was also thinking like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That thought came in my mind also, why I have done this yesterday? What is explanation, what is the purpose? I thought I should do something, but I suppressed it. But when the same symptom came from outside then I had no other alternative but to deal with this.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Tīrtha Mahārāja and Keśava Mahārāja, they failed. Then at that time Keśava Mahārāja remarked, "The Govinda Mahārāja, whatever he desires, he has got the capacity to fulfil that."

Because Keśava Mahārāja failed, and Tīrtha Mahārāja from Calcutta with men and money, the whole resourcefulness, he also failed. Both big parties they failed to do something, and Govinda Mahārāja could successfully do. At that time that remark came. "Whatever he wants to do he has the capacity to do that. We could not do with so much resources. But he, not apparently possessing so much resources as we had, but he has done by his intelligence." That was told.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: That was all by the blessings of Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Once in Vṛndāvana, in a meeting, Goswāmī Mahārāja is delivering lecture, and he's sarcastically throwing some remark against Bon Mahārāja. And Bon Mahārāja is looking at the face of Govinda Mahārāja, what he's thinking, in this way. "Others may not understand this remark, but this boy he's surely understanding the remark that this is sarcastic." So he looked at his face only.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja, I told something that Govinda Mahārāja was requested also to speak something. And he rose and began.

kam prati kathayitum īśe, samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu
[go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī-vitaṁ brahma]

[To whom can I tell it, and whoever will believe it, that the Supreme Absolute, Param Brahman, the Paramour of the damsels of Vraja, is enjoying in the groves on the banks of the Yamunā?"]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.98]

With this śloka he began his lecture. Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī told me afterwards, "When he began with this śloka, I thought then he will conquer this assembly."

He told in that meeting that, "Prabhupāda was a super man. Mahāprabhu wanted to preach His doctrine by him specially. And he had many qualified followers. But he selected Swāmī Mahārāja to preach in the west, though he had many qualified followers, selected him. And what he's done that is of course wonderful." In this way. "And he behaves in such a way that he accepts my Guru Mahārāja as his śikṣā Guru, and he has got affection for me as one of his children." In this way he went on.

Then Swāmī Mahārāja afterwards in his remark told, "What Govinda Mahārāja has spoken here it is true to the point. I look after him with affection as my child. And also I look after his Gurudeva Śrīdhara Mahārāja as my śikṣā Guru." He gave reply clearly to this, what he told he admitted the whole thing.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he gave "Jaya" in my name, with this clarification, "Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Goswāmī."

Badrinārāyaṇa: Then Mahārāja, Govinda Mahārāja...

Then Govinda Mahārāja told, "Yes, we shall take a cartload of rice from here."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And when they're carrying out the cartload, "Oh, these people, whatever they told they've done to the point. A cartload they're taking away, and we could not oppose."

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, he's definitely a niropadi Vaiṣṇava. Govinda Mahārāja, he's definitely niropadi Vaiṣṇava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. And there was one gentleman who gave some rice, a mānā or two mānā, something. Then his villagers came to complain. "We're your villagers, and we when come to beg from you for collection then so miserly you are you gave us one rupee or so. And you have given them so much rice."

The man he marked, "He talked with me and filled my heart with joy, supernatural joy. So if he wanted more I could have given more. And you can't do that. So his very talk with me has given me the feeling of such supernatural joy, so I have given. And you can't do so."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. He's got something from his previous life. And that may be utilised in the service of Mahāprabhu. We all hope and pray to the Lord, that He may accept the wholesale service from him, for long time. And the world will be benefited thereby. We have got such conviction.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: In Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's song _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha. Ha. Once in Calcutta, he was perhaps in that Swāmī Mahārāja's same house, nearest house. He was wandering in the street and some gentleman of the locality he challenged him.

"What type of sādhu you are? You're worthless."

"Oh." He challenged. "You'll have to see that at least there's one sādhu."

And he perhaps told in answer some hard words and went away. Within six months he suffered from such a great disease, he came himself, "Oh, you're really a sādhu. I talked roughly with you, and you told that you'll at least see there is one sādhu. Yes, you're really a sādhu. From that day I'm gradually come to this position. Nearby Bamunpara there is a Śiva, Dharmarāja or Buddharāja. She got, praying to that Śiva, "I may have a child." And then he was born. Perhaps Śiva has given one of his parṣada.

Devotees: (Group laughter - Haribol!)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So some sort of siddhi, mystic power he might have possessed, I think sometimes.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! When he came here then his previous relatives they came in a body to take him back with his mother. Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There was a tiger on the road?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't remember that.

Giri Mahārāja: Mahārāja. One time you were speaking and Govinda Mahārāja you thought he was asleep. And you asked him to reply to the point, he immediately did so.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Once on the lower veranda I was explaining Bhāgavatam or something. And some fine point came in course of the lecture. And he was drowsy, he was half sleeping, that way. But I thought that so many fine points are coming from my mouth and at this time the boy is drowsy. But afterwards I put a question to him and in the midst of that drowsiness that fine point he caught properly. At that time, by chance or anyhow he was fully awake and got that thing fully. There are so many.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Let us all hope and pray to the Lord for his future successful life as an Ācārya in the world for long time. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Sometime Devī asked Mahādeva, "Of all services, or worshipping, whose worship is the best?"

ārādhanānām sarveśāṁ, viṣṇor ārādhanaṁ param
[tasmāt parataraṁ devi, tadīyānām samārcanam]

["Lord Śiva told the goddess Durgā:] 'My dear Devī, although the Vedas recommend worship of demigods, the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is topmost. However, above the worship of Lord Viṣṇu is the rendering of service to Vaiṣṇavas, who are related to Lord Viṣṇu.'"] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 11.31]

Then Mahādeva told, "Of all the services, phases, worshipping, the worship of Viṣṇu is the best."

Then Devī Durgā her face became little pale. "So I'm not doing that."

But the next line came, tasmāt parataraṁ devi, tadīyānām samārcanam. "But to serve the servants of Viṣṇu is more important and effective."

Then the mind of the Devī, "That I'm serving the servant of Viṣṇu, Mahādeva, so I'm doing something more, more profitable."

So to serve the favourite, to help the favourite of the Lord, He has told in His own words. "The service of My servant is more important, a greater service to Me. That is tangible. I'm more or less abstract. But if once one serves My servant that is tangible and practical. That is something concrete."

There is a saying, "If you love me love my dog. If you love me really you'll have to love my dog. That will be the greater proof of your love towards me."

So Lord says here also, ārādhanānām sarveśāṁ, viṣṇor ārādhanaṁ param. And,

[ye me bhakta-janāḥ partha, ne me bhaktaś ca te janāḥ]
mad bhaktānāṁ ca ye bhaktās, te me bhaktatamā mataḥ

[Kṛṣṇa says, "Those who worship Me directly are not real devotees; real devotees are those who are devoted to My devotees."] [Ādi-Purāṇa]

He Himself says, "Who loves Me, he's not My real devotee. But who loves My devotee, My servant, he's a real lover of Myself, real devotee is he."

So this is a practical point for us all if we want to have real devotion. In the beginning - I'm talking of me, I thought, "We want God, and they're giving much stress for the devotees. Why someone will come between me and my Lord? That is not desirable. I must have direct connection with my Lord." Then gradually when I came to get some real knowledge about this śāstra and the sādhu, or devotion, then I could realise that, "Yes, it is practical, tangible, and very true thing. And it is not thrusting, but it's the very necessity of our inner interest wants this. One who is a lover of a devotee he has got substantial devotion in him. Otherwise it is not possible. And that is also, his position is stable, substantial, and also safe, and also promising. Who can have faith in the devotees, it is a very practical thing for us. In this long way of our journey towards the Infinite Absolute, to have real affection with His sincere followers, that is a great hope, and reality giving, dealing things. So I give, though incomplete, the telescope system. Tvad bhṛtya-bhṛtya-bhṛtyanam- bhṛtyasya-bhṛtya.

[maj-janmanaḥ phalam idaṁ madhu-kaiṭabhāre mat prārthanīya mad anugraha eṣa eva tvad bhṛtya-bhṛtya-paricāraka-bhṛtya-bhṛtyabhṛtyasya bhṛtyam iti māṁ smara lokanātha]

They say - it is not only abstract humility, that I'm the servant of the servant of the servant, not abstract thing, not abstract humility, but most practical thing. Tvad bhṛtya-bhṛtya-bhṛtyanam. So many guardians I have got. As in this world we want so many servants, I shall order and there will be so many who will obey me, carry out my order. That is the nature of the world of exploitation, all will obey me and I shall be the master.

Just the opposite there and that is a healthy life. So many guardians that are thinking well of me, I'm safe, I'm getting so many favourable, affectionate attention. So home means that. I may not take care of myself, but there are so many that are taking care of me there. So that is home. Back to God, back to home. Home means this, that I may not take care of myself, but so many are eager on all sides to take care of me. So devotee means who will take care of me, my guardian, my friend. In a friendly way he will help me towards my march towards the Supreme Lord. It is a very far and abstract way, to go through faith only. Only the faithful that can appreciate my life and they can come to help me.

So in this wide ocean of infinite knowledge we're going to the centre, so tiny souls, a particle of consciousness, and we want to have connection with the whole representing Absolute. And there these devotees they're of very practical value in our life in this wide world. So to have affection towards devotee, it is really a capital for all of us.

Devotees: (Show appreciation)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now so many foreign friends are also here present. I want to speak something for them. That in my last stage of life, I, with folded palms appeal to you that what our Guru Mahārāja wanted to give us, and what for we came here, you please, you're doing already, scrutinise and understand how this is the thing which is the only necessity in the whole universe. Universal relief work. Only trouble in this world, that death is swallowing everything. Either in the past, it is in the present, it is in the future also. We can guess that the most dangerous thing, dangerous enemy is death, and it is sure. And so how to save all the beings from such common enemy to all, whether the scientist, or an ordinary neighbour, or even the trees and animals, all are under the same common danger. And how to relieve them? Only eternal existence, and the news that the eternal world is there, and that is made of self-dedication. I cannot but quote the great philosopher like Hegel. "Everything For Itself, For Himself."

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca [na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

The reality is this, that everything meant for the Supreme Centre, the Absolute. And we must march towards that realisation that such dedication to satisfy Him. Die to live. And apparently it may seem that we're embracing nothing. What is tangible here we're to give everything for our own use and purpose. And we're requested to use everything for the service of the Absolute.

Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. The black box within us, the ego, the centre of separate consciousness, that must be demolished, that must be destroyed. And we must find ourselves as a member in the eternity. And the master of eternity is not an objective thing, but it is subjective, it is everything, it is of every superior quality.

So only through dedication towards that centre, as an agent to work for the centre, we can approach that blissful stage. So back to God, and back to home. That is our home, that everyone takes care of me if I do not take care of myself. That is home, home consciousness. The paraphernalia, the environment is very awake, wakeful for my own interest. I may be careless but still they will look after my welfare. So back to God, back to home. They're all well-wisher and warm, sweet, all guardian. And we want to go there, by leaving all the charm, apparently, which is dissuading us from that realisation of the higher truth. Love is everything, our heart is everything. Neither the brain nor the power can save us, but only hearty dealings for the central Lord that can fulfil all our aspiration and object.

And Śrī Caitanyadeva, and afterwards our Guru Mahārāja, he came with this campaign and began relief work here. All dying, and all other attempts will be nonsense, must save them. Not only to save them but also to feed them with nectar. You give up - when there's epidemic give such injection which will save them from poison and will also sustain them, supply some food. So amṛtam, Kṛṣṇa kathāmṛtam, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is medicine and that is also food, fulfilment. So Mahāprabhu ordered, our Guru Mahārāja attempted only for that direction.

"Whomever you find you link him with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, connect with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That will not only give relief but that will feed him with nectar, and he'll feel that his life is getting fulfilment."

And Swāmī Mahārāja he also had the fortune to approach the whole world with these tidings, with this news of Mahāprabhu by the desire of our Guru Mahārāja. And successfully he has done so. And as the result of that you have come here today in Navadwīpa Dhāma, and you're engaged in that campaign. We're astonished that our local people are not so much interested, but you're showing such interest for the appreciation of the great relief work what Mahāprabhu recommended for us all in this universe. So we feel gratitude, we feel for you, that you have come to teach us which is our home property. You have come here to say, to remind us 'the wealth is in your box, in your room.' As Mahāprabhu told. "What you are searching that is within your home. Only approach properly."

So you have all come to give us this knowledge and we shall take it as gratitude that what Mahāprabhu gave here, the whole world will be benefited. And you are so near, you also mind your own home interest. So we also feel much thankfulness to you all that you have come to serve our Guru Mahārāja for whose satisfaction we think that we tried our best, and still we're trying. And so many Godbrothers, but one by one they're going. But you are also coming and filling their post. And I hope that this divine campaign of Mahāprabhu will continue forever. With my gratitude to you all I stop here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...dissatisfied, because His position is paramount, unparalleled position, above all. Lord Kṛṣṇa and His Name not only one and same, but Name is more gracious towards the fallen soul. So from some standpoint the Name of the Lord may be bigger, may be in respect of delivering the fallen souls, generosity. Just as Mahāprabhu, Kṛṣṇa, and Nityānanda Prabhu is more than Vṛndāvana līlā, Navadwīpa līlā is more generous, because we're fallen souls our necessity is there to raise us from this fallen condition. So the Name should not be thought that one of many purifying process. The highest aspect of Kṛṣṇa, and that has come to deliver us from all difficulties and also to give us the highest fulfilment our life - this Name.

Then another, if we've got any particular attachment in this material world, then we'll have to be very careful and to uproot that. Otherwise it is said that if there is anchor and there is rowing, the boat will just move around the anchor. So that must be taken off and the boat should be allowed to go wherever the Name may take me. There will be some transformation in my mental system. When I shall really go, taking the Name, it will create some transformation in me. And I must be open, not very much prejudice to any point, open. And wherever it will take me I shall be ready to go to that direction, from foreign to home. Back to God, back to home, where everyone as a guardian is awaiting to take care of my spiritual and real benefit.

And the last is that we should not think that that is a very grand, and awe, reverence is always there. No! It is very friendly, just like home, very friendly. They're always awaiting us to get, waiting with affection to receive me. So I should not be afraid that where should I be taken, that is unknown place? And whether I shall be able to live there or not, a new thing? No, not all this apprehension, that is quite home. When I shall reach there, "O, so long I was wandering in the realm where everything is bad, and everything is treacherous soil I was wandering. And this is so natural, so simple, so friendly, so affectionate. I have come here."

So we should take the Name with this spirit, avoiding the ten kinds of offences. And also there are nāmābhāsa - not real Name and neither aparādha, that can give up liberation from this bondage, but may not help entering into the domain of service. That sānketyaṁ, parihāsya, stobha, helanam, four kinds. Sānketyaṁ, when I do something another thing comes in our memory, automatically it lives there. And parihāsya, and when one is ridiculing, making merry joke, that is also, one may have nāmābhāsa but not real Name. It is not certain that the nāmābhāsa every time if we take in this way the nāmābhāsa will come, not sure, but may come, nāmābhāsa. We are, when we're in the, some may use it for some emblem. In the music also you can use the Name instead of that peculiar sound of the music. But all these things may produce sometimes nāmābhāsa and that may give liberation and not the real service of the Supreme Lord. We'll be outside, we may be out of this worldly attraction, but we may not have, we may get the passport but we may not get the visa, by nāmābhāsa. So we shall try to avoid that also.

So what should be the object when we take the Name? We want the service of Kṛṣṇa and His own persons, servants. That should be the aim of our life when we shall take Name. I want the service of the Lord and also His own paraphernalia. With this idea we shall take. Now you have got the Name, you bow down to the Vaiṣṇavas, give respect, and go to the temple and you count some two, three, four rounds, and then take prasādam.

You are constantly worshipped by the great liberated souls (headed by Nārada and Śuka, whose hearts are reposed in complete absence of worldly aspirations). Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...he will take care of you all.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Of course, of course.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Specially I request you to help him in his mission.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: But we're not prepared to let you just take your path of eternity lightly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is His divine will.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What I feel, sometimes I give vent to that, of course His will.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Ha, ha. Hmm.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Absolute.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I wanted to ask some permission to go on parikramā or pilgrimage to Hāpāniyā today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Today?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. Is it possible?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The car is there.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No, I want to go by foot.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By foot, by train?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No, by foot.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I want a pilgrimage.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Who will go with you?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I don't know. I'm going...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you go by train or by bus that is also _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No, no, you can go by train to Hāpāniyā.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: But inside I want to go by foot.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: But inside I want to go by foot.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! You want to create an example? Ha, ha.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No, no, no. Ha, ha, ha. Before, I'm in South India before, and I go to the temple of Vyeṅkaṭesa [?] you know Balaji temple.

Devotee: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who will guide you _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. He will manage. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: We were in London, I think Brajabehari, doing nicely. I see, when he's, when no interference...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His management is desirable there, effective.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. If no interference.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja though he began, the starting, he did much. But he's little theoretical, is it? Eh?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brajabehari is more practical?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sāgar Mahārāja also likes his management. Absolute, not in consultation with Aranya Mahārāja?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No, not at the moment. At the moment it's difficult.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The debt is there. Only what is paid so long that is only the interest. The amount of the interest, that is only paid, and the real value is still left, too be paid, about sixty thousand pounds.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Hmm. Yes. That's correct.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And I was thinking either Yudhamanyu prabhu or yourself. Without that, that London Maṭh cannot be placed in real possession. _____ [?] pounds being raised.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Sixty thousand pounds being borrowed, loan.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, mortgage.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any one of you if you do not take care then that is floating on the ocean.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And because the Vigraha has been installed there so it is not desirable that Vigraha will have to come on the street from His home. That will be a very ludicrous thing.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You discuss amongst you.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: What did you say?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: In London temple it is thinkable about London temple we all...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From the starting Aranya Mahārāja is there so keeping his respect intact we may manage that it may be on the basis of some permanent. You discuss and try to reach to a conclusion, and then I shall express my desire also.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: All right. I only see, when I first went to London in August, Brajabehari prabhu was doing very nicely. And the devotees in the temple, although they're young they're enthusiastic, when he's helping them, guiding them. And then Aranyadeva came, and then some difficulty came. And then many of the devotees in the temple they had some doubt about Brajabehari, they came to me expressing some doubt. I just, because you had sent one letter - "He should manage the temple" - so I supported his management. But it was difficult because, I don't say it as intentional, but with older sannyāsīs there it is not easy for Brajabehari prabhu to administrate, it's interference. I don't know if I make myself clear.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, you are to consult and come to a final decision.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: But it is necessary, Mahārāja, if...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We have not yet heard anything from Aranya Mahārāja. We're getting reports from the other party from different sources. But Aranya Mahārāja side I have not yet heard anything. I shall hear and then I shall ask him some questions and then I may try to adjust how it may be peacefully managed. What's his demand I also want to know. And Badrinārāyaṇa prabhu he's acquainted with everything, is he there?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He knows more than I can. I do not remember everything, but he remembers everything, of incidence in his knowledge.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: They're very enthusiastic to serve you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But favourable environment is necessary.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, proper environment is necessary, yes. At the moment it's a little disruptive, the different influences.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, I shall see.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: As for my sevā, you would like for me to return to London and to continue to collect for Purī? Am I right?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have already started Purī collection, you finish that. In the name of Purī you began collection so you finish that.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the meantime Purī collection of Yudhamanyu prabhu almost come to finish?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Not finished Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then when he will engage himself for London?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: If you will engage for London, now, then Dayādhara Gaurāṅga prabhu can...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Afterwards?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No, now, Dayādhara Gaurāṅga prabhu can collect for Purī. And Yudhamanyu prabhu can collect for London.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It may be done so.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: It will be good?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: As you like.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the Xmas period coming, so now the collection there will be better.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. It should be better.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?] Up to Xmas, what collection will be for Purī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For Purī. After that.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Maybe. After that both Yudhamanyu prabhu and Dayādhara Gaurāṅga prabhu can collect for London. Up to Xmas...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For London Maṭh. Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Purī collection must be finished within three, four months.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: And then both parties...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When you have already begun, then that comes to finish, and then the London project will have to be taken up.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: And all Vaiṣṇavas will see the London temple, within one year may be finished.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Already both of you have undertaken Purī collection, let it be finished, and then the London project will be taken. All right.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Up to Xmas, whatever will be collection, that for Purī.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: OK.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: And then we try for London Maṭh. And London Maṭh is Guru Mahārāja's Maṭh. Understand?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Then it's not necessary to oust the Deity in the full.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No, no, no. That cannot happen.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. You are leaving. Ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Now Guru Mahārāja said now like that.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. I understand. Sāgara Mahārāja also he's thinking to come to London, and while I'm collecting for Purī project we will begin to compile and edit the translation of Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Consider, consult with Sāgara Mahārāja and then I shall say.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. That was my proposal. His proposal was he should stay in Navadwīpa for six months - he does not want to go to the West.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Otherwise, when he'll be outside the other troubles will come and the translation work will be stopped.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, yes, that is also there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So we can finish it here.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I shall talk with him and then I shall say final.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: We have some problem with Deva-Nāgarī type setting. And so we were going to get together to try to work it out, because the difficulty was there. But we can do it later.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Another copy, when will be published?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, yes, we will make so many corrections.
Guru Mahārāja, you're very tired from festivals?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No, not now. Guru Mahārāja is OK.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: He said yes, of course he's tired. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I'm going to begin special prayers to Mahāprabhu, that your mind will become quick again. Is that good?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] What does he say?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: He told me when I came up night before last, he said, "My hearing and my sight is going."
And I said yes, but your mind is still quick.
And he said, "No, mind is also going."
So I said, OK, I'm going to begin special prayer.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ha, ha. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. And that is granted to certain extent. Your prayer is granted. This year a little better than last year.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Good news.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Very good news.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yājāvara Mahārāja's passing, departure, that caused a great trouble. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotees: [02:20 - 04:00 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you keep any information about Haṁsadūta Mahārāja? How is he?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. Little I'm hearing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He brought you to me.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "That he's an extraordinary personality. I can't keep him within my connection. I'm bringing him to you." He brought you here.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he expressed his appreciation for you.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Hmm, hmm. I haven't seen him...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And you must have such a bright figure in the serving world - world of service. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And we're also conscious of the fact that you must have a very bright opportunity to show your talent and exceptional genius. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: You would like me to contact Haṁsadūta?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Gītā, when it is reaching here?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: In one month's time.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: December. That Hidden Treasure. Ha, ha, ha.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. It is remaining hidden.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hidden Treasure in Gītā, whoever is hearing this, listening to this word. Ha, ha. Appreciating your service.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Gītā As It Is, unique.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: We've had good response in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One Hidden Treasure, and so many published by our Sudhīra Mahārāja. Eh?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, yes, many, many. You're well represented.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Gītā heading the list now. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. Your books are well represented in London book stores now. London book stores we have all your books inside the book stores. And Hidden Treasure...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gītā is generally known, appreciated in the theological scholars, amongst them. And a new light to the meaning of that Gītā. Not so far such meaning of Bhagavad-gītā has come into light. Here also in papers _____ [?] "So many publications of Bhagavad-gītā in the whole of the world, but this sort of meaning drawn from inside the Gītā is a new advent. We have never seen such things anywhere." In this way they - publication...

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Some appreciation from the Indians.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] And here Amṛta Bazaar perhaps. That such new interpretation of Bhagavad-gītā has never come before.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I also felt that when you told me catuḥ-ślokī. A year, two years ago, when I came to ask you if I could print Tīrtha Mahārāja's Gītā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the Sanskrit scholars they also cannot deny such explanation. And you're connected with that astounding service, and it is by your vigour.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: By Your Grace I'm connected.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By your vigour.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: That is also your vigour. Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And some day from a press of very high order.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Sāgara Mahārāja and myself, we feel that we have had the greatest opportunity in being able to publish and translate this Hidden Treasure. Such an opportunity cannot come to many people. And for us we do not know how Your Grace has come to us, how we've got such great fortune.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is divine arrangement. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Govinda Mahārāja he's going to take the charge from me, I'm too old.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But he's thinking himself helpless.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So he's hankering for some help from outside. And you are the highest person from all sides considered. So your sympathy for him I like to invite...

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: My service to you...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In future you will take care of him, support him from all sides. So that he has got powers, and that is not these worldly powers, but some mystic powers he possesses. As far as I have studied him for so many years he's endowed with some special qualifications.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes. No doubt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And external help if he gets from you all, then he will also do a miracle. So I entreat you all, specially you, to help him with all sincerity.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: On your order I'm pledging to you that you have no fear...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: ...and no worry that Govinda Mahārāja will be supported by Malaysia yatra to the extent of our energy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [11:41-12:15?] But maybe the foreign devotees they may be misguided in this.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: We considered that, because Guru Mahārāja sometimes calls himself 'ease lover.'

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes, yes.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And we thought like that, but since that is not published and not widely known, the meaning of that - the meaning is something different.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: You know what I mean. The connotation is outside meaning lazy man, yes? Yes. But when Guru Mahārāja use of course we know the meaning is different, yes?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: But in the common sense we thought this is right. But if you think it's not nice, it will be confused, we can take it out.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: No, no. We're taking very easy, that is no problem. It may be problem for the western devotees.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: "Because one should not disclose to the man who is...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Here the situation, [Bhagavad-gītā, 18:67] "You should never disclose this hidden treasure to the ease lover - like Śrīdhara Swāmī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Who is disclosing is disclosing it to us. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And this is suicidal.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: This is autocrat. Ha, ha, ha, ha. I like it. We think for long time, before we put it inside, we thought 'O, what will happen?'

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?] They like and relish that word. Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta said to you, and you are relishing, and your devotee also relishing. But outsiders they cannot think it...

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: No, they don't, no.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: They have record by Guru Mahārāja lecture...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja wanted me to be volcanic like you. Ha, ha.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Er? Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But I could not show such energy to go out and preach. He wanted more from me, and he's my well wisher, and he must chastise. That was our relationship.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu says that, "I have not got a drop of love for Kṛṣṇa."

And also every devotee, as much as he can have realisation he will say, 'I have nothing.'

So the guardians also are never satisfied with any amount of energy with their children. They want that they must be more and more energetic. Their look that, 'my boy is not up to mark,' that is the measurement of their affection. Not satisfied with the present qualification of their children, wants more and more good will. Good will is so much for me that he's always trying to - 'No, the next level, he must have more.' That is a sign that I have real affection, I could have fortunately real affection from him. That he did not see that I have got sufficient, below the mark. 'He must have more, more.' That is the nature of the rasa. It will be explained in that line. That is a fact.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: And finally decided by Prabhupāda Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura that śrī- rūpa-mañjarī-pada, this is our final song, and this is our final goal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was imparted only to me, excluding so many others. And Purī Mahārāja told the other day that, 'He began singing' because I was not an expert in singing. So by the request of the general manager Purī Mahārāja he began.

But Prabhupāda felt disturbed. "I do not like to hear the sweet tune, but some other purpose I've got."

So he had to stop and I had to take up that. So enmity rather even began that was dismissed and he heard from me, that is a great fortune.

And everyone at that time told, "That by - he has given you admission into the highest realisation. So you are very, very fortunate." All announced in that way at the time.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: And all the Godbrothers of Guru Mahārāja they from that day they're saying that, "Śrīla Śrīdhara Swāmī, our real representative of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Ṭhākura and Rūpānuga sampradāya also. And Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura gave the name Śrīdhara Swāmī, "Who will not respect Śrīdhara Swāmī, he's _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And before that I wrote that poem about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and that highly satisfied him. He told that, "Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has himself written through him. So accurate representation of the teachings of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is never possible by any man. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he himself has written this through him." He was so much satisfied with my accurate conception of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava theology.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And that is what we want to give.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes, but _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: We also many times in the Hidden Treasure referred to rūpānuga bhajan, even in the dedication.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: One boy from America...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: ...wrote a letter to Guru Mahārāja. "Your Gurudeva said you are ease lover, you are worthless. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja. _____ [?]

85.11.10.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja...Guru Mahārāja, Prabhupāda's address towards his disciples.
he amara, vipada udaran bandhu gan. "O, my friends! Save me from my dangerous position."
Reminds me about you.

You are expectant to hear something about the Lord, but that is not very cheap. Just as ordinary circumstances and environment attracts us towards them, invites for enjoyment here. They gives invitation, "Come and enjoy me;" so, also the opposite side, Yogamāyā, tending to keep our standard up to a particular standard of God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

I feel that you are enforcing me to come to such a level that I can connect with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, forcing me. So kīrtana has been recommended. We can't talk any nonsense in the name of God consciousness, generally. I shall have to rise high up as much as possible, to catch Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So kīrtana has been recommended. But it is very difficult to capture the mind, only responsible you can utilise it, otherwise if we're unmindful, we may engage ourselves here and there. But we must be alert if some responsibility is there. So who has responsibility, this kīrtana has this peculiarity, when we're to talk, we cannot but give all attention, as far as possible _____ [?] So kīrtana, to control the mind, to engage the mind also in the - when in japa, in smaraṇa, our mind may wander anywhere else, where by the hand may automatically go on with counting beads.

So Mahāprabhu laid stress in kīrtana, and our Guru Mahārāja also he found out that principle, very keenly. So his policy was always to keep us alert to the standard, by kīrtana, go on, preach, can't talk irrelevantly. You must be at your best attention when you are talking with others, and talk about Kṛṣṇa and nothing else. Try your best, to keep up, floating on the level of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, so far as you have experienced, understood, high, read, try to be that, kīrtana.

So, audience helping who wants to say something, represent something about Kṛṣṇa consciousness. They are trying to draw his attention, attention about Kṛṣṇa. And in that way can't talk nonsense consciously. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Adhokṣaja, superseding our world of experience, to catch something, but got from the line of revelation.

ūrdhva-mūlam adhaḥ-śākham, aśvatthaṁ prāhur avyāyam
[chandāṁsi yasya parṇāni, yas taṁ veda sa veda-vit]

[The Supreme Lord said: "The holy scriptures proclaim that this material world is like an unchangeable Banyan tree with its roots facing upwards and its branches down, known as an Aśvattha (transitory) tree. Its nutriments are the Vedic aphorisms, which are represented by its leaves. Whoever knows this tree in this way is a genuine knower of the Vedas."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.1]

In Bhagavad-gītā we find. The root is above, the śāstra, what comes in the form of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is compared with a tree whose root is above and the branches are below. Ūrdhva-mūlam adhaḥ-śākham, aśvatthaṁ prāhur avyāyam. Knowledge is such, from there it is coming, from transcendental quarter, above the knowledge. That is revealed scriptures, or any person who has got that sort of experience, consciousness. It's coming from above, not product of sense experience here. However fine it maybe, it does not come from here. It must have to come from above - connection.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

For Itself, to satisfy Him, the finest and the highest entity. It must have to come from Him, and we're to obey, we have to obey that. So not only selflessness, but only self surrendering to the highest point. And through agents also, sometimes, many times, scriptures. To find Adhokṣaja we must always be conscious of this fact. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam used this word, very favourite expression of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Adhokṣaja.

Adhaḥkṛtaṁ indriyajaṁ yena. The knowledge that has forcibly kept us below, adhaḥ. Adhaḥ means below. The transcendental superseding knowledge always keeps us below the standard, that knowledge. Adhokṣaja. He's always of such nature. What to do? Only through faith, only through faith we can contact with Him. All our experience that wants to verify, whatever comes to our knowledge our senses wants to verify it. But He's independent of all verification by our senses or mental experience. Adhokṣaja. Still we keep ourselves to that standard. I have finished my aspiration after whatever is under my senses, including my mind and intelligence, they all fail. If anything superseding I have come for that. I have come for that superior substance which hitherto I had no experience. Adhokṣaja. Yato bhaktir adhokṣaje.

ahaituky apratihatā, yayātmā suprasīdati]

["The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6]

Give up the standard of your inquisitiveness, to that standard: that whatever comes under the jurisdiction of your senses always neglect them, and try to search for something else which is not sure. Keep up with the finest knowledge, finest idea of knowledge. That when extended to your level you can feel somewhat, and withdrawn you're nowhere. Such knowledge, such plane of fine knowledge, that is super-subjective.

Subject as we are, we're well practised, we're the subject. "I'm the monarch of all I survey. I'm a man who have experienced all things." But I'm the object and the subjective substance is there, I'm told. And that is more efficient, powerful, and controlling in every way superior. "I want, I'm thirsty to have something about that thing." There is a domain, Adhokṣaja, I'm after that. And only through expectant, all expectant attitude, surrendering, and praying for the service of. Service, cannot make themselves the object, my senses and utilise according to my whim.

This standard in our search always should be kept with great attention, as much as we command. Adhokṣaja. What we have come for, that is in the plane of Adhokṣaja. Not at our own pleasure we can connect with that. And it's not that our reason will be satisfied - He's compelled to satisfy our reason, that is also not. What little portion of the world we have got, and we have generalised some truth from them, and we have, we say, it is reason, it is intelligence. That intelligence that is applied to a particular jurisdiction only. So this intelligence, buddhi, also cannot say above all forcibly. New light will be extended, and then we're to find out how it is possible. In what way it is possible? Ever new, ever new. Only the subtle most material conveyance is the sound, name, śabda, medium. That is the finest here, and that is the most gross there. Through that, through śabda, Veda, sound, through ear. Ear should control through the sound, all your attempts and endeavours.

Śruti kita pata [?] Try to find, try to engage all your senses, including your eye, under the advice of the ear. It is supplied through the ear, through the sound. And you're to find out how you can connect with that. It is possible, through the sound.

So Rūpa Goswāmī Prabhu has given us this process. Nāma, we're to go on with Nāma, the Name, practising, taking the Name. But with reverent attitude, sevonmukhe. Then suddenly some eye experience will come from that ear experience, a new type eye experience.

Rupa sastra nama bhavati [?] Not this stale and faint experience of the eye of this world, but something else that will come as if from the sound, the Name. rupa sastra.

Sphurite carupe guṇa nama saranam [?] Then again, the rūpa, the colour, the figure, that will reveal you in the next stage about the quality of that thing. First sound, then eye experience, then guṇa or mind experience, guna nama saranam.

Then paraphernalia. Out of relativity, the divine relativity it will descend to our consciousness. Then past līlā, the function between the paraphernalia and the centre.

And we're told that we may find that my representation is also there. "I'm also represented in my finest form in that place, in the Adhokṣaja realm. Inconceivable. My own identity also there is something like inconceivable." To this extent, in comparison with our position here. That is also, āścaryavat, in Gītā it is there. If we can find out our soul, our own soul, which we are, really, a drop of superior consciousness, a particle of superior consciousness.

...lower level of consciousness, that if we're to find our own self in its real position, we'll be astounded. "What! This is my self, mine? My self is such, and I was thinking I was a slave to these material forces in this world, attracted by them, slave. But it is so independent, so high, so diabolically, revolutionary another thing, a member of the other world, not the world I'm experiencing as a particle of that."

āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

This is told only about our tiny soul, which we are really. So we're dispossessed of our own position, and that is so astounding. And what to speak of the higher, higher subjective. How wonderful is that? So we should be prepared for that line. Line is going that direction. All astounding, all coming with new attributes, and new hopes, new prospects, new possibility.

So how much attention we're to give? Wholesale surrender, completely dedicated, then we can have little glimpse to have that. Then the development there, specification, differentiation. Only in general conception we're to raise ourselves to so high, otherwise all will be imagination. Imagination and imitation, that will be. But real connection if we want to have, that śaraṇāgati, surrender, dedication. Die to live. Dissolution of the black box of the ego of separated interest, that's within us.

Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. That is our worst enemy, the ego, the depot where so many thoughts and ideas are in stock about so many ambitions in this world. My own interest, so called interest, that ahaṅkāra, that has separated me from the infinite. That ahaṅkāra, that ego, and anyhow that has to be dissolved by me. If our search is real, bona fide, then ego must have to go. And we're to identify ourselves with the general wave in the world, which is going on according to the good will of the supreme centre, supreme good. General idea, approach will be that, and details there are many we're to discuss, we're to learn, know.

sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

And we're advised that we should keep association of same nature, but superior to me. Of the same line of thinking, same line of aspiration, spiritual aspiration, but superior to me. Such company, such association is desirable and effective, most effective for us. So, general qualification about the search of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Lord, will be of such nature, bhakti's nature. Devotional nature is this, and it is taking us to nirguṇa.

Guṇa - sātva, rāja, tāma. Guṇa, that enters into separate interest. There is also separate interest within the real interest of the Absolute, Yogamāyā, but that is completely, perfectly different world. Respective duties are distributed to us and we're to mind about that and go on. That is another type of ego, duty, responsible duty given for the service, but all coming from the centre, and not sprung up from the separate interest. Separate interest, ahaṅkāra, that is our greatest enemy, and we shall try to get out of that.

How can I do? We shall have to promise, "I won't obey my own direction. I shall fully throw myself to obey the direction of the higher. Vaiṣṇava dāsa. I must not be director, but I shall be under direction. So far as a director I'm wondering in the world, but now, I begin a life directed by the higher source. And I shall only obey. I shall have to practice the duty of a servant. I want to be a true servant. It is our necessity to become a true servant, and find out the master, the healthy master whom we serve. And I shall always welcome service. And not that I shall order, and others will carry out, that process is very dangerous to us. And following that process we have come down. But servant, become a good servant, sincere servant of the Supreme Authority, practice that, anyhow, and in a good cause of the world."

That is recommended by Mahāprabhu. "Engage yourself busily, under the direction general by Me, whomever you find you talk to him about Kṛṣṇa."

[mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā,] bodhayantaḥ parasparam
kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

["Those surrendered devotees take Me as their life and soul, and go on discussing My ambrosial narrations among one another exchanging the ecstasies of devotion unto Me. They constantly relish the nectar of their realised divine relationships with Me in their respective internal natures of servitorship, friendship, parenthood, or consorthood."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

You will find the desired result you're searching after. Only become a good servant, and never a master. Always, a servant, not any agent like you, a member of the world of enjoyment and renunciation. But servant of the servant, of the servant, of the servant, try to enter into that world. Where service, servantship, that is very hankering there, all thirsty for seeking service. Servant of the servant, of the servant, of the servant. The service is so admired, so appreciated in that world. That servant of the servant, of the servant, of the servant. And that is more paying, more gaining, to become servant than to be master. Here we're practised in such a life, that we're afraid to be a servant. We always want or think that by mastership we gain, we're gainers by mastership. But we're to forget that totally. And if we want superior connection, surely, then we shall have to practice to become a servant, sincere and real servant. None - the mentality of a servant that is very rare to be found, to become a good servant, sincere servant. That sort of training and that sort of aspiration we shall try to acquire, to become a servant. But we're accustomed to take the position of a director. But not that, that is our enemy, if we want higher and higher, and higher association, the plane of life, then we shall try to become a good servant, servant mentality, and that has got no end.

In the conscious calculative, and then spontaneous. Spontaneous and very sweet it will be in Vṛndāvana stage, where the serving attitude is very, very sweet, very, very sweet. Because we come in connection with the centre, so charming, and so beautiful, we cannot but feel pleasure within our heart when we get some sort of service. To be utilised by Him, to be utilised by this - we shall have always eagerness, how can I be utilised to fulfil His least satisfaction. He's so great, so high, so fine, so friendly, so good thinking for me. Our hunger for the service will increase in such a way that we shall go to be mad. That madly attitude to serve Him, serve Him. So beauty, so attraction stage we shall find there.

In this way we're to try in our present position, that to carry out the orders of the higher, higher plane through scriptures and through self realised soul. And our ambitious life in this world, we may be doctors, research scholars, with fame, name, so many, as one of the big man in this plane. That idea should be cancelled and dismissed forever. We shall try to understand, if we're thrown into relativity of this world, we shall think about the transient character. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9]. It is full of death and treacherous soil. Proposal is something, and in the fact we find other things. A treacherous soil we're living in, we'll be, whenever thrust our consciousness this world, we shall take the opposite, the negative side, the treacherous characteristic of this soil. So our tendency will be earnest for the further progress, that eternal sat, cit, ānandam. Ānandam is fulfilment, cit is consciousness, and the existence is permanent, such world. And there we shall try to find, in that standard, that plane, what is Kṛṣṇa, what is Vṛndāvana, what is Vaikuṇṭha. Through faith, not through this eye, but,

"I'm everywhere I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me."

With this expectation, expectant attitude, we're to connect with Him. In a flash He may come; even He can come within this - overflowing this material eye, the material - He may come down even. But no guarantee there. So we shall not be very expectant for that purpose, that we want to see Him through this eye, but it is also possible.

Dhruva, when he was engaged in meditation, in deep meditation, he found that in the mental plane the Lord has come. Lord has come in his mental plane meditation he found. Then he opened his eyes, he found that just in the front that Mūrti, that figure is there. It is not a product of this material world. It is just like hypnotism, like the line of hypnotism, it is coming down, capturing the soul, then the intelligence, mind. And then, overflowing it is coming from that fine ideal position it is coming, overflow. The eye seeing Him, the ear hearing His voice. That fine thing can come by capturing our super existence, conquers even this material. He can come here. But this thing it is not He. With this idea, when He comes to here in this plane of our material senses also He may come, but it is His sweet will, but it is not here.

Bhūta-bhāvanaḥ. Bhūta-bhṛn na ca bhūta-stho, mamātmā bhūta-bhāvanaḥ.

[mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ, jagad avyakta-mūrtinā
mat-sthāni sarva-bhūtāni, na cāhaṁ teṣv avasthitaḥ]
[na ca mat-sthāni bhūtāni, paśya me yogam aiśvaram
bhūta-bhṛn na ca bhūta-stho, mamātmā bhūta-bhāvanaḥ]

["In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity."] ["And again, that is also not situated in Me. Just behold My inconceivable simultaneous one and different (acintya-bhedābheda) nature as the perfect, omnipotent, omniscient originator and Lord of the universe! Although My very Self is the mainstay and guardian of all beings, I am not implicated by them."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.4-5]

What is His relation with this material world? Material world cannot exist independent of Him, has some connection, some support. He can come at His sweet will, but He's not always compelled to come here.

"I'm everywhere, I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me."

Such peculiar, inconceivable position He has got.

So generally we're asked to transcend over this world of experience and search for Him, only dissolving our present mentality, totality. And with the help of the scriptures and the advice of the self realised soul to search after, only through faith, only through faith. All other means of knowledge, instruments of knowledge, instrumentality medium, they fail. They cannot reach that position, only faith can go, and faith is a noble thing, like love, affection. Affection, love, is not a very tangible thing, but it is superseding, it throws all other gains and loss in the lower world, affection divine. Sacrifice is divine, faith is divine. Faith, in sincerity I believe someone, and that is not - though misdirected, still that is divine, faith, to trust others, a noble thing. So faith is a noble thing, essentially. There is selflessness to the extreme in faith. So through faith we can touch, we can come to touch that level, and that should guide us. And so many noble persons they will be standard like beacon light, so the importance of the Vaiṣṇava has been traced so much in the scripture.

Sādhu saṅga, sādhu saṅga, sādhu saṅga. When you begin sādhu saṅga is necessary; in the progress of life sādhu saṅga is necessary; and when you do service to the Supreme, that also the guidance of the sādhu saṅga. So sādhu, Guru, is always a happy necessity in our life. Never eliminating I shall serve alone, this is not the conception, in any place or any stage. Always with higher association we're to move there.

So, the association that comes, comes to hear as audience, also as Guru, our Guru Mahārāja said. In one sense they're also coming, the hearers are coming to us as Guru, to engage myself, to push myself to the standard, to take our consciousness to the higher standard. Gradually we shall have to feel that, arranged by Him. It is His arrangement, and through this He's extending

His gracious temperament to me, sending so many, that "You talk about Kṛṣṇa and nothing else. Talk about Kṛṣṇa, engage yourself intensely."

"They have come to engage yourself intensely in My talk."

mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam
kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

["Those surrendered devotees take Me as their life and soul, and go on discussing My ambrosial narrations among one another exchanging the ecstasies of devotion unto Me. They constantly relish the nectar of their realised divine relationships with Me in their respective internal natures of servitorship, friendship, parenthood, or consorthood."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

So different types of higher experiences you will feel.

nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikuṇṭhe, yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti, tatra tiṣṭhāmi nārada

[The Lord Himself says: "O, Nārada, wherever My devotees sing My praises I cannot but be present there."] [From the purports of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.2.41 & 4.30.35]

He says, "Where I'm to be traced? Where the devotees are singing about Me. Talking about Me, I'm there Nārada. I'm not in the abstract thinking in the heart of a yogī. Neither I'm in My nitya līlā. Those newcomers are trying, they're plodding, struggling, to come to My door, and My attention is drawn too much towards them. That newcomers, new recruits, I love them very much. After long experience in the painful world they're entering into My domain; I'm very eager to welcome them. So, nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikuṇṭhe. Where is My permanent seat? Yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā. And those that are satisfied with abstract meditation, I do not care to be present there very intensely. But, mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti. The new recruits who have come with full surrender to serve Me, to die to live here, I'm attracted by those groups very much." So, He's coming, Bhāgavata kathā, when talking.

In Rāmānuja sampradāya we find once the four Āḷvārs at one time, there was, and in some temple in the darkness of night anyhow they meet and talking together, three perhaps, talking together. Then one of them when in the course of their discourse told, "Do you find the presence of the fourth person? Do you feel the presence, we're three, but do you feel any fourth person's presence here?"

And other two: "Yes, yes, the fourth person is here, that is within our talk."

...

...that must be hearty, there must be surrender, the faith is of that type.

With this much I retire. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's not a sannyāsī, our Guru Mahārāja told that, Madan Bābū he's a niropadhi Vaiṣṇava, he does not require any mention of his name. As a sannyāsī who has got some upadi, some name and position, they should be honoured in that type, otherwise it will be some defect on our part. But niropadhi Vaiṣṇava does not want anything, anything in the form of his position. Without position serving, service without position. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. We're great by our service.

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro
nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

Service is all important and not any form. A sannyāsī, an ordinary learned man, a research scholar, a zamīndār, all these worldly positions has got not value there. But service, service, service of the higher quality, sacrifice, sacrifice, wherever it be.

A peculiar story we find in Purāṇa. After rājasūya-yajña, Kṛṣṇa told to the Pāṇḍavas, "When the yajña will be finished this bell will ring out of itself. Then when the bell will ring, automatically you will be satisfied that the yajña sacrifice whole has been perfectly finished."

But whole thing finished, the bell not ringing. Then Bhīma asked Kṛṣṇa, "You friend, You told that bell will ring when everything finished. But the bell is not ringing."

Then Kṛṣṇa told, "One thing is still incomplete."

"What is that?"

"Vaiṣṇava sevā. Vaiṣṇava sevā has not been done as yet."

"Vaiṣṇava sevā? So many ṛṣis came. You, Yourself are here, You are taking food here. And Vaiṣṇava sevā, the service of a proper Vaiṣṇava, not yet done?"

"No."

"Then where, who is he, where to get him?"

Kṛṣṇa suggested, "He's in the outskirts in a small cottage, and of the lower cast. That man is there, he's a real Vaiṣṇava. He does not want anything, akiñcana, no form, or no upadhi...

85.11.10.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...eternal rest, that will be useless, to our understanding. "No. I don't want rest, neither I want to exploit anything, to be master of this material plane. I don't want to be monarch of all I survey. Neither perfect rest, zero. But I want to live as a unit in a wholesome organic whole, organism."

Just as everywhere in this body, all the atoms in the body they're contributing, they're doing service for the wholesome of the whole body. And not for its own, or for a particular group, or paralysis is not desirable. The paralysis in the body, or any atom will act according to its whim, is unnecessary, whether maybe grouped or single. But all the atoms must work for the common welfare of the whole system in our body, then it's healthy. A body is healthy when all the parts however insignificant are working for the welfare of the whole. And neither for any group, and nor for its own self, or stopping the work, that is all abnormal.

So we shall all dedicate our whole energy with much attraction for the organic whole, that's represented by Kṛṣṇa. Advaya-jñāna. Absolute. A part of the Absolute, not a diseased part in the Absolute, but healthy part of the Absolute.

Otherwise either to be dead or to lay on in disease, suffering from disease or dead. When they stop all the activity then dead, body dead. And when revolting for common interest, to work for common interest, there is disease. So the Vaiṣṇava principle has condemned these two, this mukti, mokṣa. That is the death, dead stop of all activity with the Śaṅkara māyāvādī, and Buddha School, they admire much. Just as when one is too much disturbed, when it is too much painful for a disease he wants to commit suicide. "I can't tolerate this painful stage." So he wants to commit suicide. So the māyāvādīs are like that, they can't tolerate the painful condition of this world of enjoyment, they want to do away with their whole existence, commit suicide. "It is better not to live than to live in such suffering." That is the general idea.

But to live in a healthy condition, that is with the Vaiṣṇava religion, Vaiṣṇava conception. That positive life is possible, happy life is possible. Optimistic. The only optimistic school is...

And Jaiminī, in karma-kāṇḍa, he told, "Yes, there will be suffering, there'll be disease, but go on, no other alternative, go on enjoying in a controlled way. Then less disease. Death is unavoidable, but still life may be longer. To make the best of a bad bargain, no other alternative, we shall have to go on in this world. No other alternative but go cautiously as much as possible. Do good works, and then you'll get a happy life in heaven, but that will also come to end and again you'll have to fall and come here. But what to do? No other alternative. Do good things and try help here as much as possible, remaining in this plane of enjoyment, this mortality area." That is karma-kāṇḍa of Jaiminī.

And Śaṅkara, Buddha, they want to commit suicide. "That no, living means troublesome, so no life, that will be we'll get away from all troubles, means to efface ones existence. No other alternative."

But the Vaiṣṇava philosophers they've discovered from the revealed scriptures, "No. There is a plane where we can live happily. And that is by eliminating these two tendencies. And there is a third thing which is very life giving, and that is devotion, dedication. By mutual dedication we can be relieved from all these. And that is tasteful, and that is very sweet and happy life is there."

Die to live. In the, apparently it may seem to be a death, but no. There we can find real life is there as death. When dying, as in individual interest, but live, by common interest. And common is represented by the Supreme Regulator. There is a centre of common interest, and it is such, it is sweet, worth living. If any value of life is, it is there, a sweet life. Not only to go on with a monotonous life, no other alternative but to drag on in a life in painfulness, no, it is not that. Living is sweet. Back to home. Home comfort, in a higher sense we shall get there, mutual. Home comfort, mutual help. From the beginning we're to practice there, mutual help.

Dedication for others, for the environment, contribution for the environment, by which for mutual attempt we'll all be happy.

What's the time now?

At the time of necessity he came out with serving attitude.

Once when I was posted in Delhi Kurukṣetra Maṭh in the beginning I had to take charge of those two Maṭhs there. And by collection, newly begun, I had to maintain those Maṭhs. Anyhow I had some inclination that Gaura Pūrṇimā celebration I must send some money. When I first attended the Gaura Pūrṇimā celebration so many others came and I saw and I thought how fortunate they are. Their money is being utilised in the birth ceremony of Śrī Gaurāṅga. That created some impression in me. And when I was in Delhi collecting door to door to maintain those Maṭhs I got such recollection, and I tried my best to collect something more and to send. Only twenty five rupees I could send at that time to Gaura Pūrṇimā celebration. But that I had to do with much labour and earnestness I tried.

When that money reached Māyāpur then I got a letter from Guru Mahārāja. "Your money has been, has become a great help to serve both Nityānanda Prabhu and Mahāprabhu."

And I was told by the devotees there. "Guru Mahārāja told that with much labour and earnestness this small amount has been sent by that man. Because for small money there was some very imperative necessity it just reached at the time."

So he told that, "For small amount so much necessity generally cannot be felt. So when we're thirsty water is valuable, otherwise water has not so much value. As much thirst within us, so much valuable the water. So small amount it reached here, at that time for that money they were very much in want." And he told that, "This man sent this small amount, but he did much for it. So at the time of necessity it has value."

And this gentleman, when there was a very earnest need to clear the debt, or instalment to the bank, or something, he gave the money. I thought like that.

So necessity is valuation. So negative, positive. Food is good when we're hungry, according to our hunger. So we're to create hunger within us. Then everything may be valuable to us. If we can develop real hunger then everything, we shall draw anything and everything to fulfil our bowel, our belly.

This _____ [?] everything, bring us memory of Mahāprabhu. If we're spiritually hungry then everything, every dust in Dhāma, that will come in form of Kṛṣṇa conception _____ [?]

vana dekhi' bhrama haya – ei 'vṛndāvana', śaila dekhi' mane haya – ei 'govardhana'

["When Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu passed through the Jhārikhaṇḍa forest, He took it for granted that it was Vṛndāvana'. When He passed over the hills, He took it for granted that they were Govardhana."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.55]

Any hill, Govardhana. Any forest, Vṛndāvana. Any river, Yamunā. Hungry. He can't see without that interest to satisfy hunger, captured by the hunger. So what is necessary? Hunger, that is the sign of the healthy body. So to become healthy we're to see whether sincerely the hunger is within us.

In this way it will be developed, reality. We must be wakeful to reality, crossing this apparent vision. Here apparent stage of the deceiving world, misleading world, pierce through misleading, and try to acquire the real meaning of everything, whatever is outside, to read properly. What is necessary, that is to read properly in its own value, not any value thrust on them according to my selfish object. Here living environment, we're throwing our interest over them, and we're reckoning that. But independent of our interest we shall try to read everything properly. In other words, in the terms of the Infinite that is of Absolute calculation, their position. That is natural reading, independent of all selfish, big or small, discover all local interest, and try to see from the standpoint of Absolute interest, anything and everything.

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

It is very close to us, the environment is very close to us, but we can't read properly, can't utilise them properly. They're all representing the Absolute, they're living in that sense.

Everything in the Absolute standpoint, including myself. That reading will be proper reading, and that won't disappoint us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Proper reading is necessary. Why? Fair field, no selfishness, neither enjoyment, nor renunciation. Nirapekṣa. That is impartial, normal, natural, not any prejudice. We should try to live a life without prejudice. Then we'll be able to see everything in connection with the Absolute, with the Infinite. And that is happiness there. No entanglement, no crookedness, no selfish transaction, no diplomacy, none. Of course in Yogamāyā there is diplomacy and other things, grouping, and also competition, that is all centre pointed, but designed by Yogamāyā. That is another thing. And this is also dependent perverted reflection of that. What we're suffering from, that estimation also outcome of that but perverted, self centred. Just opposite to reality. We're in the clutch of that. No conception is better than erroneous conception. Proper conception is necessary. Two things necessary, vitality giving and also fulfilling our purpose, the destination fulfilment.

The purification is to the totality, inner and outer, everywhere. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ. Sarva ātmā, all souls, and sarva atnu, including ones own different planes of life, all purified. Enjoyment generally implore our mentality in this world a reaction, but this is opposite. Sarvātma-snapanaṁ paraṁ vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam. Let with all success go on this flow of Kṛṣṇa conscious preaching. This is Mahāprabhu's direction and His heartfelt desire when He came as relief work General. When the Absolute came as a General to find relief work here His commanding tone was such. "Go on, and this is the result you will find by this Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Rāma. Rāma.

harṣe prabhu kahena, — "śuna svarūpa-rāma-rāya

[In great jubilation, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said, "My dear Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāmānanda Rāya, know from Me that chanting the Holy Names is the most feasible means of salvation in this Age of Kali."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 20.8]

When He was in the highest stage of tasting the highest līlā of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, sometimes when He was wakeful to the interest of the public at large He used to come. "O you svarūpa-rāma-rāya, you Svarūpa, you Rāma-Rāya, this Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana is very efficient, very fruitful. Kali-kāla, in this age of Kali, this produces very wonderful help, this Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana." In this way in trance He began to describe the results of Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

God cultivation, and that abstract thing God where He lives. A remote connection with this world with Him. That is a matter of story and imagination. God, God, God. And that God conception has come into such a reality that all others vanish. Everything vanished, only God consciousness, and that is in aprākṛta-phal, the God's closest connection with the lowest. That is Vṛndāvana. It is a very wonderful thing, aprākṛta. Finite cannot approach Infinite, but the approach of Infinite with the finite to its extreme form that is Vṛndāvana. When Infinite is approaching to finite in its extreme form, that is Vṛndāvana, aprākṛta. He has come so near to the so tiny substances, just like He's being whipped, He's doing the service by carrying the shoes of the father. How closest He has come. The Absolute has come to the extreme atoms of relativity, so intensely, that is Vṛndāvana, where we get the Absolute within our fist.

What wonderful process this Nanda and Yaśodā they followed that they got Param Brahman within their fist in such a way whatever they like they're doing that by Him? How such closeness, intimacy can be acquired? Impossible? Impossible has become possible. So this is Vṛndāvana where impossible has become possible. So in the assembly of the great yogīs, ṛṣis, jñānīs, of different type of experts in the religious, or in the philosophical world, they're all stalwarts in different departments, leaders. In that assembly in such a way, assertion, all futile. But this is so successful that Param Brahman has come within the fist, whatever they like they're doing with that. How is it possible such wonderful thing? A means to end.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...so many big gentlemen, and coming to him and tried to take him in honourably he was very much afraid. Anyhow he was taken.

And then Draupadī she was very expert in cooking, and she try her best. "O, so many feast is finished, still the bell is not ringing. And this man's feeding that will make this bell ring automatically?" So tried her best to cook in a very efficient manner, and then distributed. And all around, and he mixed all together and began to take. But bell not ringing.

Then again Bhīma told Kṛṣṇa, "You told that the Vaiṣṇava sevā after then the bell will ring, but not ringing."

"There must have been some defect in your attempt. Some offence committed against this Vaiṣṇava. Anyone of the principal persons amongst you."

Then they enquired, "Anyone has undermined him, what is the matter?"

Then at last Draupadī came, "Yes, I committed something wrong against him."

"What type?"

"I thought I'm a good cook, very famous, and I prepared so many curries, so perfectly, but this man he put all together, mixed, and take. He comes from a lower family, a lower birth, he does not know how to taste the higher cooking. So all my attempts were in vain. With so much attention I cooked so many curries in a beautiful way, but this man all jumbled together and he's taking, so mean birth, I thought him."

Then Kṛṣṇa told, "That is the cause. Then, what to do? Again go and fetch him, no other alternative but to satisfy him."

Again they went and anyhow took him here, and all with folded palms. "O, he's so high!" No unfavourable mentality. All with reverential attitude waiting. He's taking food, and then by every morsel the bell began to ring automatically. So Vaiṣṇava does not identify with any charming position of this world.

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro [nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā
kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ]

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

Neither I'm a brāhmaṇa, nor a kṣatriya, nor vaiśya, merchant, nor a śūdra. Nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha- patir no vana-stho yatir vā. Neither I'm brahmacārī, nor a gṛhastha, nor vānaprastha, nor a sannyāsī. Kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher. Then what is my positive position? That I'm the _____ [?] Gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ. My highest aspiration is to become a servant of the servant, of the servant of the Gopīnātha, the Lord of the gopīs. The gopīs worship Him, serve Him in a particular standard, and that is the highest. And my aspiration is concentrated to that direction, avoiding all other side temptation of different position. No position I want, but only the position of the servant of the servant, in that particular camp where the dedication is so much. Dedication is so much degree, where self-forgetfulness and self-dedication is so high and so noble, I only want to be a particle in the feet dust.

Just as Uddhava told, "I want to be a straw, a grass, a blade of grass, or serve something, that naturally their feet dust flows on my head."

That is the aspiration, that is our beacon call. Gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ. Leaving aside all our temptations whatever are offered towards us from different directions. They will come automatically, to divert, to examine, to test our validity, our chastity. They will come in such magnitude, different magnitude, different type. But our aim should be only there.

As it is told that Arjuna, after they're finishing the training, the Droṇācārya put an artificial bird on the top of a tree and asked his disciples, "You please mark the eye of the bird."

Then all came, so beginning from Yudhiṣṭhira, "What are you seeing?"

"I'm seeing everything, the whole bird, tree, everything."

So many. Then Arjuna was called. "And what do you say?"

"You're to mark the eye of the bird."

"I'm seeing the bird."

"Whole bird?"

"No, only the head."

"Whole head?"

"No."

"Then, only the eye? Yes, throw the arrow."

So our attention towards our goal will be of that accuracy. Standard of that accuracy that only the eye is seeing the gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ. All else eliminated all sides, gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ. In that very line, the lowest position that does not matter, but must be in that line. That is our - this is Mahāprabhu's direction. This śloka comes from His own holy mouth. Nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro. Eight śloka, and this also of several ślokas, one śloka is this.

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro
nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā
kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

That is the only aim and object of our life. We shall try to reach to that goal and to get the lowest of the lowest service there, in that camp. That is our desired camp.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī Mahārāja: Mahārāja. The śuddha Nāma, that is vibrated by the higher Vaiṣṇava. The higher Vaiṣṇava can vibrate śuddha Nāma. I want to say this. A neophyte devotee and their vibration of Kṛṣṇa Nāma. You quote Jagadānanda Paṇḍita, saying, nāmākṣara bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya. So what is the value of the chanting of Kṛṣṇa Nāma of a neophyte devotee?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

We may take the Name for many ulterior purpose. Suppose that there are dacoits who may take the Name for their successful operation. Then there are many karma-kāṇḍī, for the welfare of their family, for earning money, for health, they also take the Name. So Name may be used for various purpose, but those are not Name proper. We cannot engage the Supreme to serve our lower purpose. We may think that we're using Him for our service, but He cannot be used in our service. He can't come in that level, does not care to come. So the pure Name is there when the relationship is proper. He's master, we're servant, and that also not temporary, but we're permanent servant and He's our permanent Lord. With this idea when we take the Name we come in connection with the reality, otherwise we're in the fictitious world.

So ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi, so the Name of Kṛṣṇa, not only the Name, Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, everything concerning Kṛṣṇa, na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ, that is not a display of our senses. Only our physical tongue cannot pronounce Kṛṣṇa proper. Only the word, physical word we may produce in the physical tongue, but Kṛṣṇa may not be present there. Kṛṣṇa is there where spiritual connection is there, and spiritual connection with Him that means that serving attitude. Any connection of Kṛṣṇa we're to get only with serving attitude. In the domain of renunciation and also in the domain of enjoyment, no Kṛṣṇa come. That is the idea.

Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ. When we're in serving attitude, He Himself comes to that plane. The connection with the original we can get when we're in serving mood. Then He will come and connect, otherwise it is imitation. Everything is imitation without serving attitude. We can't come in connection with the higher substance without serving attitude. The serving attitude takes us in connection with that higher substance. And He, pleased by my serving attitude, He comes down in this material, in the form of material. Then when He connects with me in soul, in soul comes down, through soul, through reason, through mind, then in this physical plane of tongue, then the tongue automatically dances actuated by His inspiration. Then it is Kṛṣṇa Nāma.

So sādhu, without sādhu, and sādhu is he who has no aspiration but the service of Kṛṣṇa. So, that this may be all imitation, but there may not be presence of Kṛṣṇa really. That is the idea, and that is the main thing of the preaching of Gauḍīya Mission. The imitation, the sahajiyā section, all, imitation is not the real thing. To be real, we must have connection with Him, and to have connection with Him we must have serving attitude. Then we can have the pleasure of the connection of the higher substance. That will come down to this lower. We cannot go up to Him, but He can come down to us. Avaroha-panthā. He can come down, He can descend. By ascending method, if we assert ourselves as a subject, we cannot catch Him. He's not within the jurisdiction of our subjective attitude. But He will take initiative, and satisfied with our serving attitude, and He will come down to our level. He's gross, jīva soul though fine in comparison with the worldly materials, but it is gross in comparison with Paramātmā, Bhagavān. They're finer and finer. They can connect with this matter, the gross, but the gross cannot, at sweet will cannot connect with the subtle. That is the idea. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

He voluntarily comes to contact then we can have Him, otherwise by our own ascending attempt we can't go to Him. Everything coming down, all His connections, and the effects, different effects of His connection, that He's coming down. He can connect with us, but we cannot connect at our sweet will, as a subject. But we can feel that He has come down to capture me, and I'm the instrument, I'm playing at His hands, I'm playing at His sweet will. He's playing with me. And I can feel that He has come down to my plane and handling, and makes me dance in any way He likes. The initiative will come from the higher.

So, ours is surrender, submissiveness, to draw His attention towards us. All that, we can do in that way, to attract Him. "Please come and touch me. Please come in my heart, in my level, and give me Your company sweet." All these things from our side, negative side. And the positive attempt should be taken by Him, that decision, and He will come down, then there will be connection, otherwise not.

[yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ]

That attitude has been described here. He may care for me or may not care, ignore me totally. It is His sweet will. Only I can try to draw His attention towards me as a poor soul. In that way we can have connection, otherwise all is imitation. If He does not come to give His connection, and I think that I have got His connection, then all is hypocrisy. All may be played as hypocritically play, show to others, to the lower section that I'm a devotee. That is all false play.

So it is difficult to ascertain whether anyone has got His real connection. Because the devotees they have got the nature, "No, I'm not getting Him. I'm trying, but my trying is not sufficient to attract Him. I'm not getting His connection." He will feel like that, but still he may have connection. That is a peculiar thing, though he's an instrument in His hand, still he'll say, "No, no, I've got nothing. No connection of Him. I'm an unfortunate man." Rather that will be the sign, when one says, "I'm not getting His connection, what I'm committing is all nāmāparādha, not even nāmābhāsa." The devotee may say, but still there may be the real presence of the Name.

vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

"Whatever I'm showing to the world that is a show, mere show, imitation. Otherwise, if I would have His connection, then by separation I could not live at all. None can live, once having connection, and then after separation one cannot maintain his life. He's so charming, so attractive, impossible to live without His direct association, if really anyone has any connection with Him."

So in fact a devotee does not say that he's a devotee. By the consultation of the scriptures, by the help of other devotees we're to ascertain whether he has got sincere attraction and devotion for the Lord. And by other activities that he's under.

kṣāntir avyartha-kālatvaṁ viraktir māna-śūnyatā āśā-bandhaḥ samut-kaṇṭhā nāma-gāne sadā ruciḥ āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne prītis tad vasati-sthale ityādayo 'nubhāvāḥ syur jāta-bhāvāṅkure jane

["For those in whose hearts the bud of true devotional feeling (bhāva-bhakti) has sprouted, these feelings follow: 1-They feel forbearance and tolerance, and with serenity of mind (kṣānti), they remain undisturbed, whatever be the circumstances; 2-They don't like to waste any time, and are eager to utilise their time in the remembrance and devotional service of the Lord (avyartha-kālatā); 3-They are detached from mundane, material things and the objects of the senses (virakti); 4-They are humble and completely free from pride and false prestige (nirabhimānitā); 5-They live in full hope of receiving the Lord's mercy with firm faith that Bhagavān will be attained (āśābandha); 6-They are always eager and anxious to serve (samutkaṇṭhā); 7-They always taste nectar when taking the Holy Name of the Lord (nāma-gāne-ruciḥ); 8-They have a natural inclination for the recital of the attributes of the Lord and love to tell of the Divine Qualities of the Lord (tad-guṇākhyāne āsaktiḥ); and 9-They love to live in the Holy Abode of the Lord where the Lord lived, e.g. Mathurā, Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, etc. (tad-vasati-sthale prītiḥ). These nine are called anubhāva, subordinate signs of ecstatic love."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.13.11 & 1.3.25-26]

When the first connection will come in the heart of a devotion for Kṛṣṇa, then these signs will appear in him, these symptoms. Kṣāntir. If any place, any loss, anything: "O! Let it go, go on." He won't pay much attention to any other incident. "O! Let it go." Avyartha-kālatvaṁ. He'll be very particular that not a minute, a second goes without recollection of the Lord. A second may not be lost without His remembrance. Then viraktir. Generally he'll have apathy to any other worldly thing than Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Māna-śūnyatā. And if he's insulted he won't care for that, for name and fame he won't care, so māna-śūnya. Āśā-bandhaḥ. He will have this expectation that, "One day surely I shall have some grace of the Lord one day." Samut- kaṇṭhā. But at the same time, "O! I'm not yet getting anything substantial. I can't trace any connection of Kṛṣṇa with me." That eagerness will be there. Nāma-gāne sadā ruciḥ. And always he will try to take connection of the Divine Name. The Name is the only means to gets His connection. So if he's engaged here and there, that also may be service, still he will have, his mind will return to this singing of the Name, whenever getting any chance. Nāma-gāne sadā ruciḥ.

Āśaktis tad-guṇākhyāne. He'll be very much, he'll feel much encouragement in describing so many good qualities of Kṛṣṇa, of the Lord. Prītis tad vasati-sthale. He'll have particular attention for the place where Kṛṣṇa showed His līlā, in Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, or similar places where He had any pastimes. He will have special attraction for those places. Prītis tad vasati-sthale, ityādayo 'nubhāvāḥ syur jāta-bhāvāṅkure jane. If only first connection, primary connection will get with Him, then these signs will come. Otherwise all will be tasteless without His connection in these several ways, all will be tasteless. And only this will be tasteful in different ways. Kṛṣṇa consciousness will be tasteful, ruciḥ, our internal attraction towards Kṛṣṇa. Other things will be tasteless. These are the signs of progress by which we can understand whether one has got the grace of the Lord or not.

And sneha, mana, praṇaya, rāga, anurāga, bhāva, mahābhāva. These are the stages, and their signs, symptoms also have been described in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu. And in highest level in mādhurya rasa in Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi, we have kept it on our head. Bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir. Progress can be measured by these three things, mainly. In Bhāgavatam it is said,

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ
[prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam]

["As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

These three things will be found simultaneously. Bhaktiḥ. This tendency of service will be increased, bhaktiḥ. Pareśānubhavo. Some sort of conception, who is He? What type of things is He? Some sort of conception will come. Not this material thing. This Arcā-Mūrti, then this Avatāra, then this Vaibhava-Vyūha, all these ideas will gradually develop in him. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, then Svayaṁ-Prakāśa, Prabhāva-Prakāśa, Vaibhava-Prakāśa, all these, this Vṛndāvana Lord, and the Vaikuṇṭha Lord. Pareśānubhavo.

And anyatra viraktir. And anti Kṛṣṇa consciousness will be very much, occurs, sympathy for this, and apathy. He'll feel disturbed if any other proposal comes to him than Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Anyatra viraktir.

Caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ, prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam. Just as a man when taking food, three things occur. What? Tuṣṭiḥ. When hungry he has some dissatisfaction in him, while hungry. But by every morsel taking, the dissatisfaction due to hunger will be removed, tuṣṭiḥ. Puṣṭiḥ. And when hungry he's weak, the weakness also will be removed, by every morsel. Tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ. And kṣudapāyo. And the tendency to eat, that will also decrease. A three things, just as when hungry man taking food by every morsel these three things will be found there.

So also, when one is approaching from world consciousness towards God consciousness, three things. That bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir. The serving tendency will increase more and more. And he'll have some conception. What is that? How? What is Śiva? What is Rāma? What is Kṛṣṇa? What is Nārāyaṇa? All these things, some idea he'll have clearly, gradually.

Pareśānubhavo anyatra viraktir. And non Kṛṣṇa thing will be very repulsive to him. Kṣudapāyo. Bhukti. Tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo.

Before that niṣṭhā will have to come. Niṣṭhā, nairantarya, that continuous consciousness, continuous God consciousness. That is eliminating the object of enjoyment and renunciation, both.

bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat, piśācī [hṛdi varttate
tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet]

["How can the joy of holy devotion appear in the heart as long as it is haunted by the ghosts of desire for exploitation and renunciation?"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva, 2.22]

These two are consider as demons, piśācī. Piśācī pāile yena mati-chhanna haya [From Prema-Vivarta] Undesirable possession. Just as ghosts take possession, so the aspiration for enjoyment and renunciation, like two ghosts have taken possession of us, our soul. And we must get out from the clutches of those two she ghosts, rākṣasīs, piśācīs, she ghosts. Giving allurement, kept us under their clutches, within their clutches. So, our aspiration for renunciation as well as for exploitation must have to go.

Then the third plane is service. Service in itself will be very much pleasant to us. One can take and one can give also. By giving something one can feel pleasure, and also taking possession also one can get pleasure. But there is difference in quality. So, here by exploitation, pleasure, then the taking eternal rest, rest pleasure, that should be ignored. And the service pleasure, though apparently exercising energy so much, and seen to labour, but that will be very sweet to him. Service will have very importance in him. Dedication, he will feel pleasure by dedication only. And dedication, calculative dedication and spontaneous infinite dedication. And infinite, unlimited dedication of the love for that will take us to Goloka Vṛndāvana, the land of love. Love is such, finding pleasure in giving, not in taking. Taking is dishonourable.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Śrīla Guru Mahārāja. In The Hidden Treasure, on the back of the book we put one picture of the Maṭh. And the śloka that you composed, "The flag flies high over Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh. And the glories of Mahāprabhu sung all over the world." And we relish that composition. But now I'm wondering what is the depth of the sacrifice, which is required for that flag to fly?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We feel disconnected. I can't gather the meaning. You say disconnected part by part.

śrīmac-caitanya-sārasvata-maṭhavara-udgīta-kīrtir jaya-śrīṁ bibhrat sambhāti gaṅgā-taṭa-nikaṭa-navadvīpa-kolādri-rāje śrīmad-rūpānuga śrī-kṛtamati-guru-gaurāṅga-rādhā-jitāśā

Now what do you want to say?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I wanted some appreciation for the depth of sacrifice.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?] Depth of sacrifice, wants appreciation for the depth of sacrifice, necessary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. _____ [?]

The flag flutters highly over Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh. Udgīta-kīrtir jaya-śrīṁ, bibhrat sambhāti. The flag of Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh is fluttering in Navadwīpa on the banks of the Bhāgīrathī, high in the over sky. Now America is trying to control the super high sky...

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and all are afraid for that. He'll be master of the over sky, then thereby he'll capture - he'll catch by the tuft of hair of everyone, he'll be in his fist. The tuft of hair...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] To flutter the high over the sky, that means to have control over the whole globe.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. America is just showing that. Ha, ha, ha. All clamouring, complaining, the high sky will be controlled by me single handed, then where we'll be.

So flutters high to control. Udgīta-kīrtir jaya-śrīṁ, bibhrat. And singing the glory of His capturing the whole, by Śrī Caitanya thought. And what is that? Śrīmad-rūpānuga śrī. Their object is to enter into that loving service which is directed by Śrī Rūpa in the camp of Śrī Rādhārāṇī. And that is the wealth of their heart, and there is their aim and they're following the method of Śrī Caitanya. And they're high over the sky their flag is flying, in the banks of the Ganges in Govardhana.

That has been showed when I was in a cottage here. Only a thatched cottage was, and I myself was cleansing the clay and dirt in my own hand. At that time this was composed, came through me. I had some inner thought that Mahāprabhu Who is accepting my service in such a lower level, that cleansing the clay and all these things, there is some future grant, foretells some future resourcefulness of this place. It will be some high order. He's accepting such service from my own hand. That was my feeling at that time. I composed that. Anyhow it came. And one big bamboo was put here and that flag was fluttering above, and that gave some inspiration to me.

Śrīmac-caitanya-sārasvata-maṭhavara-udgīta-kīrtir. It's glory is sung high in the sky. Udgīta-kīrtir jaya-śrīṁ bibhrat. And He's holding the victorious colour with it, jaya-śrīṁ bibhrat. The victorious resourcefulness is foretold by this fluttering of the flag which is so high posted on this over sky, on the banks of the Ganges in Navadwīpa. That may have such potentiality it may have.

Udgīta-kīrtir jaya-śrīṁ, bibhrat sambhāti gaṅgā-taṭa-nikaṭa-navadvīpa-kolādri-rāje. The location of the place Govardhana Kola, Koladwīpa, kolādri-rāje.

Yatra śrī-gaura-sārasvata-mata-niratā. Those that have devoted in the cultivation of the grace of Gaurāṅga, gaura-sārasvata, that interpreted by Saraswatī, Gurudeva, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, from Gaurāṅga, that came through Saraswatī, Gurudeva. Gaura-sārasvata. And who engages himself fully in that opinion, that idea and thought.

Mata-niratā-gaura-gāthā gṛṇanti. And that quality glorification of Śrī Gaurāṅga, for that quality they're singing here, which comes from Gaurāṅga up to Saraswatī, Gurudeva, that quality flow of gaura-gāthā they're singing here. And their object is to attain that highest position in the rūpānuga service in the camp of Rādhārāṇī. Their mentality is there, and their activity is here. Activity under the guidance of Śrī Gaurāṅga, and their object is in the camp of Rādhārāṇī, guided by Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī. That was the idea.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And I was wondering, is that the same banner of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

In the not too distant future when...

...

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And I was reminded of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura when he told, "I cannot see how in the not too distant future...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When, eh, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: In the not too distant future that...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: ...intellectuals and scholars all over the world will appreciate the message of Śrīman Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. What of that?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Er? Um?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He could see in his common sense of devotional feeling, that quite, this is so natural and so...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and it is so natural, and so holy, that all the sincere scholars they will feel that there cannot be more natural spiritual realisation than given by Śrī Caitanya Deva. And they'll come automatically under the flag of Mahāprabhu with saṅkīrtana. That was his prophesy.

And I feel in his prophesy that his natural realisation is so plain that the scholars cannot but appreciate that this is the highest attainment of our life. Highest fulfilment, rasa, ānanda, the real ānanda. The Absolute we get within our family concern is there. Day to day life, whole life may be utilised in His service. He can come within the jurisdiction of so sincere and affectionate area we can get Him. The sincere scholarship will not fail to realise this truth. It is so natural, not artificial, it is so natural. That every sincere soul, and so all other religions have to merge here. In no time, all conceptions of different religions will have to disappear or to merge here. This is all comprehensive and all capturing, heart capturing thing. And there I hope, there must not be such a scholar, sincere man, who won't be able to understand this natural truth. He could not believe that it's so natural in our heart that it cannot be ignored by any sincere scholarship. I think that this, his meaning of prophesy, basis is here, the ulterior. So that day is not far away when the whole world will come under the banner of Śrī Gaurāṅga. So natural and so fulfilment giving, none can ignore. That was hope, and his realisation.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: And then I was feeling the continuation of that prophesy ... was your composition, your composition of the flag flying high over Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja:_____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, it came from inner compartment of my heart it came, and I produced in that way. By my hope, some mystic hope, or ambition, whatever you may see, say. Ha, ha. That mystic something made me to write this. Self glory. Ha, ha. Is it?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Then I was pondering, what sacrifice is necessary?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Who made me write this, and who supplied this thought in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, he will guide you.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may not come by the lips to ear, but heart transaction may be. Tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] Transmission from heart to heart, to Brahmā. Kṛṣṇa He gave first knowledge to Brahmā the creator through the heart. Brahmaveda was given to Brahmā, creator of the world, through heart inspiration, not coming through the lip to the ear. Tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, the Bhāgavatam says. The transmission, the transaction, the flow of the heart, heart to heart. Otherwise ear cannot catch and lips cannot pronounce. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Today is finished. Guru Mahārāja not feeling OK.

Sāgara Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Kī jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...what is day to us, that will evaporate, that will go. Ke?

Bon Mahārāja: Bon Mahārāja only. Now you're already committed to speak more.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha.

Bon Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja said, "I am speaking _____ [?]

Bon Mahārāja: No, now you continue, please.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The order supply caller, you put order supply?

Bon Mahārāja: No, no. Just a request, just hankering for that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] naturally. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Day to night, night to day.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī

yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

So we must work with indomitable spirit. Mahāprabhu's last verse of His eight ślokas.

["Kṛṣṇa may embrace me in love or trample me under His feet. He may break my heart by hiding Himself from me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of my life."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

_____ [?] Raghunātha Dāsa.

"My Lord does not know to accept any plea. What ordered why You have not done? Until You die. You may die but You're living and You've not carried out my order. I won't hear it."

Śivaji, the Maharastra leader Śivaji administration was like that. "Whatever ordered I shall issue. At the cost of your life you may carry out that." He does not know, he's not ready to hear any plea, any excuse.

So I must, as Raghunātha Dāsa honoured the commander - he was ordered to carry some information to a particular fort before sunset. With the sunset the fort will be closed, doors will be closed.

"You must carry this information to that fort before this evening."

And he was riding on a horse, then they were very much tired and taking little rest in the rocky way, jungle. And suddenly found that clouds are coming, and one or two drops of water fell on his lips. Then again, what to do? "If the rain comes heavily it will be very difficult to go on this rocky way." So very tired also but he's reminded that, "My master's nature is not to hear any plea. If you've got life, why you've not done so? You might have died." So when he could remember this again, he had to rise up on the horse and began to start. "He won't hear any excuse, only no excuse." That everything is good. "I shall say I could not do it for this" no. Be prepared for all eventuality and make progress. So everything is good.

Prahlāda, replying to his father's questions straightly, and reaction also coming to him furiously, but Prahlāda does not withdraw, he's straight. And the answer also was given in that way at length, from the broken pillar the Lord has appeared. Prahlāda's dealings were so straight and truthful, clear, the Lord could not deal otherwise.

"Yes, here is my Lord."
"How? Where is your lord? I shall..."
And Lord came.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Not diplomatic there.

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham [mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ]

[Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: "As a person takes refuge in Me, I accordingly respond to him. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, all men follow My various paths."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

Kṛṣṇa consciousness also little diplomatic, one may not always have straight dealing. Diplomatic, diplomacy is there, accepted there. But there is also different dealings. But ultimately everything is good.
Pūtanā took the mother's dress - or?

Devotee: Came in the garb of mother.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mother's robe. So Pūtanā, rākṣasī, she demon, she approached Kṛṣṇa the boy, in the hypocritical mood of a mother, to suck her breast and thereby to kill Him. But Kṛṣṇa consciousness in Vṛndāvana approach her in twofold ways. She approached direct for killing, and she was killed. But the motherly approach, that was rewarded. After death she's promoted to the section, to the grade of motherly plane, she was sanctioned.

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī
lebhe gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ tato 'nyaṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema

Approached with mischievous fate to kill the Absolute in a hypocritical way. But by direct attempt she was killed, but indirectly she was helped inconceivably.
This is Absolute Good, this is mercy above justice. We may always talk, mercy above justice. Here we find mercy above justice, and that is above law. Law comes from Him, but there is a most spacious area where there is no law. The Absolute direct connection where He lives, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān where He lives, there no law. Law begins from a lower stage, where there are many and ones approach to another may be right or wrong, then law has to come there. But above that no law. He and His paraphernalia, no law, in the higher realm. That is Vṛndāvana, no law, sweet will. That is the plane of the sweet will to play, plane of sweet will.

Went to murder Him, and she was murdered, and she was given the promotion to the motherly affectionate class. It is also said, "The demons that are killed by Him, he gets a good future."

That is mercy above justice. We're habituated to live in the land of law, so this to us it seems that it's not proper, it is wrong. "Justice is all right, it should be...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...where a little demand, special right, some right. But where there is no right, all right to one person, how it is possible? It is very, such conception of the truth we cannot appreciate, we cannot honour, where the whimsical thing above all. But we must not forget that is perfect and good.

And also the example given to us for understanding. Put food into the stomach and the whole body will be fed. So obey the centre, the whole will be obeyed, organic whole, and there is the centre there. If we can have such consciousness then we can feel that higher harmony is there. This has saved us a great deal. Put food into the stomach, whole body is fed. Put water into the root, whole tree is fed. Put your energy in the central bank, everything will be sustained. This principle helps us a great deal. The centre is Absolute Good. And we all should recklessly try to put everything to the centre, it will be adjusted. And if we deal ourselves then someone will get, someone won't get, not proper adjustment. But proper adjustment means to put whole energy to the centre, then proper adjustment is possible, otherwise not. So,

[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

This is the demand of the Organic Whole, that every part must be faithful wholesale to the centre. And there is no law overruling that law, that is the broadest, widest law, that everything goes to the centre. No law can modify that, then that will be suicidal. That is law of all law, faithful to the centre. And then other law may stay on it relatively, they'll be able to work something. And this is above all law, the most fundamental law, the absolute law, that all the parts must be faithful to the centre in an organic whole, absolute good. This is not unreasonable.

So this is the way, why we should surrender to Him. And we shall get our best benefit, every one of us. The organic is in good health then every atom of every part may be in good health, if the whole organism is in good health. That means including the welfare of all parts. Kṛṣṇa. So, tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, [bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam

hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

That should be the principle by which we shall try to be guided under all circumstances, that whatever coming to me under His sanction, under His eye, so it must, cannot but be good, it is perfect. Only imperfection with me, and I shall spare all my energy to correct me, to do my quota, duty. And in no time, and with least energy and with least time I shall find myself relieved from all troubles. That is the key of the advice of the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. You are to be blamed, none else. All concern in His part. He'll be looking after that. You only look after yourself. He's all-conscious, all-alert to help you. The environment is not a dead one, a seer is there. Just as a sun, tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ, every action under guardian's eye.

[tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgṛvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat paramaṁ padam]

["As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head."] [Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20]

Just as sun spread on our head, so that universal eye like sun is always alert over our head, looking at whatever we're doing or not doing. Guardian's eye, like a sun, viṣṇo paraṁ pada. Thinking this you approach to do any duty. My guardian's eye is always vigilant over me, and seeing everything whatever I'm doing. And whatever coming to me that also there. His vigilant eye can see. So I need not trouble myself for the environment circumstance.

So Kṛṣṇa says, "Don't look after the environment. You do your duty, whole concentration to your own attempt. And in no time, in the shortest time, you'll be relieved of this black box and you'll join the universal flow of dancing and chanting, singing and rejoicing."

It is there. Lilayam pravesa. You'll get admission in that plane, that flow, you'll dance in that flow universal. Sa vai puṁsāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6], that is bhakti. Ahaituky apratihatā, causeless and it can never be stopped. Irresistible, cannot be resisted. Ahaituky apratihatā, which has no beginning and it can never be resisted. Such flow is going on. That is līlā of the Absolute. And you are all suffering from different separate interest plane, and clash and reaction, and good, bad, and sorrow, pain, happiness, pleasure, all these things occurring. But there, all consciousness, all happiness, līlā, Bhāgavata līlā. Self forgetfulness total, not only self forgetfulness but whole good will of the Lord invited. We shall merge in the flow of the good will of the Lord.

That is, all right, no more. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. We shall try as much as we can as much as possible. This our guardians say, "Do this." And according to our capacity we shall try to do that. And so much benefit we shall get as much as we shall be able to obey that instruction, accept for me. From Bhāgavatam, Gītā, Veda, Upaniṣad, they're helping me in that way. And so many agents also appointed from there, they also come to help us wholesale. Different stages of separate conscious living, and they're trying to take us all, and to throw us in that wholesale play, movement, līlā. Kṛṣṇa līlā, everything is there. This is all but reflection, and originally everything is there, all types. All types of services is there only in reality, and this is only perverted reflection.

We won't lose anything. Leaving this diverse variegated appearance of the world we should merge in some non consciousness. "What it is? It is something we shall lose our separate consciousness, our ego, then we won't be able to feel any pleasure and pain." No.

Our real ego is there, and this is enemy ego we're undergoing, enemy ego. Real ego is there. So all possible experiences we can find there, and that is beautiful we find there. Wholesale, full fledged theism. Kṛṣṇa consciousness means full fledged theism, up to consorthood, more than that. So all conception of necessity to help us, to please us, is really found there in its pure and desirable position. And this is only some shadow or some black imitation we're in contact with. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Full fledged theism, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, where the Infinite embraces the whole finite, comes down to welcome, to embrace the finite wholesale. That is Vṛndāvana. So full fledged theism. One negligent part of the Infinite - negligent part of finite, may find the bliss of embrace of the whole infinite. Not a corner is left out. Every sand, every creeper is well represented there, with personality, well represented. Here a particle of sand, so many things, they're nowhere, ignored. But there everything is well attended, no interest of anything ignored there. Full fledged theism. Vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ.

[barhāpīḍaṁ naṭa-vara-vapuḥ karṇayoḥ karṇikāraṁ bibhrad vāsaḥ kanaka-kapiśaṁ vaijayantīṁ ca mālām randhrān veṇor adhara-sudhayāpūrayan gopa-vṛndair vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ]

["While the gopīs were describing the sweet vibration of Kṛṣṇa's flute, they also remembered their pastimes with Him; thus their minds became enchanted, and they were unable to describe completely the beautiful vibrations. While discussing the transcendental vibration, they remembered also how Kṛṣṇa dressed, decorated with a peacock feather on His head, just like a dancing actor, and with blue flowers pushed over His ear. His garment glowed yellow-gold, and He was garlanded with a vaijayantī garland made of tulasī, kuṇḍa, mandāra, parījāta, and lotus flowers. Dressed in such an attractive way, Kṛṣṇa filled up the holes of His flute with the nectar emanating from His lips. So they remembered Him, entering the forest of Vṛndāvana, whose soil experiences the pleasure of consorthood upon being embraced by the touch of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.21.5]

When Kṛṣṇa is entering the forest, Śukadeva describes, vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ. By the touch of the sole of Kṛṣṇa, the Sweet Absolute, the earth of Vṛndāvana feeling the pleasure of the embrace of the Sweet Absolute. Sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ, as consorthood. The sand, the earth, feeling the pleasure of consorthood by the touch of the feet of Kṛṣṇa. Sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ. By the touch of His feet the earth feels the pleasure of consorthood touch. Sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ. Prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ. Glorified by the songs of the friends He's entering the forest of Vṛndāvana, and the earth and forest, everything, they're feeling the pleasure very higher and closer sense experience to the happiest degree. The earth feeling the mood of the consorthood, sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ.

So Brahmā he told, "How can we understand my Lord? I know something about my Lord Nārāyaṇa Who is near to me, Who has got my direct connection for my official duty. But You come within my circle and I can't understand You. What is this?"

He tried his best to test Him by removing the cow boys and the calves also. Then when he found, "O, I have removed, they're there, but no harm, the līlā is completely going on, so He's infinite. Even my interference could not affect anything in His will power. By such will power He's conducting this līlā that my interference could not affect in any way. I took something away, but no, everything is there."

Then Brahmā came and falling, "O, I could not understand, that humanly cow boy. You are that Supreme-most and higher than Nārāyaṇa is embodied in a cow boy. I could not understand so much my Lord. Now I have come to my senses, please forgive me."

In this way, how, what a particle of our intelligence, how much it can measure.

So Mahāprabhu cancelled. "Don't try to apply your brain. It is not a unit for measurement in that plane. It is cancelled. Only try to measure it by feeling, by taste, by heart. And brain will be your enemy, it will always direct you for measurement, and that will disturb you in your progress. Leave it."

Faith. You tiny soul, how much you can contain in your faith? What your faith is, how wide, broad? What can it catch within it, faith? You are a tiny soul, your faith is also tiny. How much it can go? And that is Infinite, and you are very much afraid. "O, I shall say something wrong. I shall believe wrongly. I'll be deceived." But your training will by your tiny heart, how much faith can contain? Only from analogy of the sky, or the ocean, you may take to understand about Infinite. "What is that?" You'll find, nothing. So faith, otherwise nothing can reach that plane, only faith.

Only electric connection can reach the moon or the sun, not the hand, and not your bamboo stick. If you want to connect with moon or sun then such medium is necessary. So to go to connect with the highest, your faith only that is the most spacious, and that is also very meagre in consideration with the high thing that you'd like to connect. The Cause of all Causes, yato vā, where from everything coming, where everything is entering. And that all comprehensive, all permeating, all controlling, all attracting, all feeling. So many things.

Gaura Hari. No more. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. I shall be troubled.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo. Everything is all right, only I'm to correct me, adjust me, conclusion. Try to adjust yourself. Everything is all right. You're not to be judged here with any outside management. He's there, leave everything to Him, and conduct you, guide yourself, that will be.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Sundara. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.
Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

...

...Hari Mohan [?], he was a big pleader there, in his house and in many other places. At that time Tapasvi Mahārāja took me to Swāmī Mahārāja, Abhay Caran De. He was under Kartik Bose _____ [?] the Bengal chemical company, as an agent of them he was selling the medicine, prepared in India, Calcutta. As an agent he was selling there.

Father, Gaur Mohan, he was also there. And Bhāgavata class was arranged there on the roof of his house. And his father Gaur Mohan, he came in the line of the sahajiyā. Yati Goswāmī śiṣya. So in the beginning he did not, could not take us in a very good gesture. But after hearing the Bhāgavata explanation he was very much impressed. And very smilingly and sometimes laughingly mixed with us and took prasādam. We cooked there and offered bhogam and then distribution of prasādam on the roof and we all took together.

I was in white dress at that time. That was the connection of Swāmī Mahārāja with Gauḍīya Maṭh here.

And he told at that time, once he saw Guru Mahārāja in Ulṭā Ḍāṅgā Junction Road, rented house Maṭh, with one of his friends, the name perhaps Maren Malick [?] or so. And hearing our Guru Mahārāja he had his remark to his friend that, "After such a long time the Mahāprabhu's preaching has come to a proper man." And he wrote that the thing will be really pushed to the educated section of the world, he told. So far, stopped there.

Then Tapasvi Mahārāja used to visit him now and then. Then after about perhaps [nineteen] thirty three when after circumambulation of Vṛndāvana Vraja Maṇḍala for a month we all came back to Allahabad. At that time there was arrangement with the Governor to lay the foundation of the lecture hall of Rūpa Gauḍīya Maṭh in the newly acquired place where it is found now. The junction of Calin [?] Street and this High Road. At that time Swāmī Mahārāja came closer and he took initiation from Guru Mahārāja. Then I was a sannyāsī, thirty three. Nineteen thirty perhaps last part of September I got sannyāsa. And thirty three I was a sannyāsī then.

Then after, I had to meet some gentleman who was very much displeased and angry with Gauḍīya Maṭh for its invitation of the Governor to lay the foundation. Because that time the National Movement headed by Gandhi was in extreme condition, and the repression was going on from the side of the Government towards the general public. So high tension. And at that time religious moral support to Governor that was looked at very angrily. Then I had to meet many stalwarts of the place and to try to make them understand that this is above politics. This is all over people, even all creation, for this Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And it should not be seen with any political angle of vision. That would be to disregard and to see it from lower level. I succeeded, I could convince the President of The Bengali Association, one Bengali Judge. He appreciated me and he gave a circular for the public, and then the condition of the Maṭh was better.

Then I was again perhaps went to Madras. From there I was taken back, called back to Bombay Maṭh, just after the departure of the first party, headed by Bon Mahārāja, to England. A Maṭh was established and myself and Hayagrīva Brahmacārī, that Mādhava Mahārāja, both were left there in charge, to maintain the Maṭh and to push the preaching of Mahāprabhu there. Then I found that Swāmī Mahārāja was also there. He had left his Calcutta, Allahabad campaign, and independently he had started his business in Bombay, with family he's living there. Then we came in connection.

After some time, Bon Mahārāja with two German gentlemen came back. And also we met them, received them. I went to the ship to receive them. And they lived there for some time and going to Calcutta Maṭh. Swāmī Mahārāja was also there. And Bon Mahārāja was seen in a disfigured way, dressed not as a sannyāsī but something else. So I gave objection, and Bon Mahārāja also tried to support him. There was a hot discussion and Bon Mahārāja could not answer all my questions, became silent. And Swāmī Mahārāja told, "Here Europe is defeated by Asia." In that meeting. Then we came to Calcutta and Bon Mahārāja was given reception here.

Then again I had to go here and there. Swāmī Mahārāja remained there. Again I was in Bombay. Swāmī Mahārāja was there at that time, we had much connection. After that Prabhupāda disappeared and there was a crisis after within the Maṭh. By that time Swāmī Mahārāja withdrew from Bombay to Calcutta, there nearby Vraja [?] Maṭh, Sitakanta Banerjee Lane, or something. And anyhow our men, that Āśrama Mahārāja and Nṛsiṁhānanda, he secured a rented quarter just by the side of Swāmī Mahārāja. Swāmī Mahārāja in a two storied building perhaps, two or three storied, and adjacent building two storied. And below Swāmī Mahārāja's medicine preparing place. What is that?

Sāgara Mahārāja: Laboratory.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Laboratory. Four rooms of second floor, first floor we occupied and lived for long time there. At that time Swāmī Mahārāja and myself had close connection. That Back To Godhead was published from there. I published Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam from there, and Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu first from there. Swāmī Mahārāja's Back To Godhead, and the Gītā translation he began there. And he used to - he had all through some preaching enthusiasm. Every now and then, he was going on in a business life, that was only a background. But his real life was how to preach the doctrine of Mahāprabhu.

In the midst of the business life sometimes he used to come to me with proposal. "We must go and catch Gandhi, catch Jawaharlal [President Nehru]. Why they're using their energy in such a way? They must come under the flag of Mahāprabhu and help us to carry the teachings of Mahāprabhu to the world. This is the only good work we can do."

All these things, and very much enthusiastic in this. And began that Back To Godhead there. Then, and going on with his business in a secondary way. At that time his eldest son he lost his temper, his brain, and went away. But he was not seen very affected by that.

At that time I was independent, I had a Maṭh here, and also one centre by his side, at Calcutta. Only two places begun at that time. I was a mediator in the causal of our Maṭh management and effected a compromise between the two parties.

After that Swāmī Mahārāja suddenly came to me one day and proposed that, "I want sannyāsa."

I thought that his failure in business, total failure perhaps has puzzled him. So I told that you stay for some time in the Maṭh, leaving association of the family life. And if they come to you, and what is the final effect, after that you'll take sannyāsa.

But he was not satisfied with that, he went away. And then I heard that he wrote a letter from Allahabad, for few days perhaps he stayed there alone. In nearby Allahabad Maṭh he stayed for some days alone there and wrote a letter _____ [?] very impressive. "I'm disgusted with human society. I'm enjoying here the talk of the birds. I appreciate very much in the early morning the birds they're talking, as if they're making praise to the Almighty. All these things. But the human society I'm very much disgusted with."

Then he went to Mathurā and took sannyāsa from Keśava Mahārāja. And he was already acquainted with the business class men, so easily he collected some funds. And he stayed in Rādhā-Dāmodara, constructing perhaps a room. I've not seen. After that time I did not visit Vṛndāvana. I'm told he constructed a room within the compound of Rādhā-Dāmodara of Jīva Goswāmī Prabhu, and there he began his Bhāgavata translation. So far I hear.

Then suddenly I heard that he has proposed to go to the foreign country to preach. When we were in Bombay Prabhupāda was talking to us, encouraging about foreign propaganda of Mahāprabhu's Name, he was there also. Prabhupāda told that, "You all be prepared, you'll have to go to the foreigners for the propaganda of Mahāprabhu's teachings." Swāmī Mahārāja was present there, and he also took it that Prabhupāda has ordered him also. "You will all have to go to the foreign countries to preach the teachings of Mahāprabhu. Be ready for that." And he took it, as in a responsible way, and he made arrangement with, I heard, from some lady Morarji.

Sāgara Mahārāja: Sumati.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sumati Morarji, and went to - and afterwards I have that book. It has touched my heart very much. The description of his journey towards America and the beginning of his propaganda there. And in a very touching way he has represented.

And then of course he came again with Acyutānanda, sent Acyutānanda and Rāmānuja _____ [?] here, and after some time he came himself and he took his... Before that he wrote several letters to Govinda Mahārāja and then came himself. I made some arrangement for civic address here, and also meetings. So such a great service he has done for the Mission, it must be appreciated.

And Acyutānanda and Rāmānuja they were here, then gradually Acyutānanda he wanted to do some service. I could trace that and requested Mādhava Mahārāja to accommodate him in his Maṭh, Calcutta. And asked Acyutānanda, "Calcutta is your proper field. English knowing gentlemen you'll find there. And you'll try to start a Maṭh with the permission of Swāmī Mahārāja on the other side where it is located, between Dāmodara Mahārāja and Goswāmī Mahārāja. That land will be very much suitable for your Maṭh. Try to acquire some. And Mādhava Mahārāja by my request he gave, accommodated him there. And he began to meet many educated persons and he was successful to secure a gentleman who came to purchase the plot for him.

By that time I'm told that Jayapatāka Mahārāja also came here and helped him in that way. In the beginning they were living with Dāmodara Mahārāja, and there are many tales. Then gradually in that place was secured and centre began. Swāmī Mahārāja also came. Construction began. He invited me several times to there. Bhāvānanda, Jayapatāka, Acyutānanda, they used to come here always and to get some instruction.

In the meantime Acyutānanda, hearing from himself question, he wrote an article in Back To Godhead, published from America. Some article, that was very much appreciated they say. Then there also the foundation was laid. Swāmī Mahārāja took me there, and when instillation of the Deity also I was taken there. In many ways many meetings. And Paramahaṁsa Mahārāja, Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī, and many others they also went with me there. And in this way the Maṭh grew. I'm coming and going. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And he advised them wherever necessary to come to consult with me and go on with work. And showed much respect to me as senior Godbrother. And also he thought that he has got to consult me about some ontological and formal affairs. He has accepted me as his real friend. And even more position he gave me in his letters, that, "Prabhupāda is not here, Guru Mahārāja. And whom should I consult in time of need but you." This way much respect he has shown to me. Now you know what is the present position.

Anyhow, what Swāmī Mahārāja did, or what Mahāprabhu did, Guru Mahārāja did through him that is a tremendous, successful and spiritual campaign in Mahāprabhu's line. We have specially eliminating all conception of the high theosophical realisation come to the conclusion of Bhāgavatam to be the highest conception of the theism and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to so many people in the whole of the world, it is the most desirable success in the life of every devotee. And with great inspiration and power of Nityānanda Prabhu and Mahāprabhu it can be done, special inspiration and special power. So I think it in that way, whatever he's done it is not possible for ordinary human. Some divine power descended in him and through him did such a great success, and most desirable in our lives together. Such a great thing. So we must be so grateful to him if we've got a drop of real devotion towards Guru-Gaurāṅga. Our Gurudeva had also that ambition. We have marked it. He specially came as if he came to preach towards the westerners. His attitude was like that from the beginning. And his mission was made successful by Swāmī Mahārāja.

So today, the day of his departure should be very much mourning to us. He was snatched from this world. But anyhow his mission is successful. He has already given it to so many numberless people. And that will continue, we hope. Sometimes falls, sometimes lies, anything where progress is not straight, progress is always seen sometimes soft, sometimes little hard progress. So he will be famous in the religious history. Specially the history of Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism as the pioneer of Mahāprabhu's Divine Love to the whole of the world from door to door, which is unimagined. So his day of departure we shall try our best to give our regardful respect towards him. By that we think our Guru Mahārāja and the Vaiṣṇava they'll be very much satisfied. And that you have all come to me, a special connection with him, and keeping my connection you're moving and living and preaching and publishing, all these things. I also think myself fortunate that I've got such connection with Swāmī Mahārāja which I heartily believe that Prabhupāda's, our Guru Mahārāja's inspired will was in this line. This line he wanted to preach.

pṛthivīte āche yata nagarādi-grama, [sarvatra pracāra haibe mora nāma]

[Chaitanya-Bhāgavata]

Wherever, whatever village, or wherever there are men in the whole of the world, they may get touch with the Divine Grace of Mahāprabhu. May get a drop of the Divine Nectar that Mahāprabhu brought here, about Bhāgavatam and Rādhā-Govinda, the acme of our realisation. The home consciousness. Back to God, and back to home, that was the name of the Swāmī Mahārāja's magazine. And indeed every fibre of his body, his energy, he spent for that. Back to God and back to home. To take all towards home, that most generous and most valuable vision he took, he accepted as his duty. And he was so much successful in such a small span of life, twelve years only. Only twelve years he was outside and inconceivable success he has shown in his life, his mission. So we bow down to him, he may be satisfied and recommend us towards our higher journey to Kṛṣṇa, Lord.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Ke?

Padmanābha Mahārāja: Padmanābha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. He was born in ninety four or ninety six. Don't remember? Mentioned anywhere?

Devotees: Ninety six.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ninety six. So I'm one year senior. Ninety five, October. And he's ninety six, August perhaps. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Tripurari Mahārāja: Mahārāja. Govinda Mahārāja has told that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] I'm told that his portrait is being decorated in place, and before bhoga ārati will talk some about him there. Class, kīrtana, then bhoga ārati, and then they'll take prasādam.

Sāgara Mahārāja: Yes Mahārāja. Tripurari Mahārāja _____ [?]

Tripurari Mahārāja: Govinda Mahārāja he told that Bhaktisiddhānta Prabhupāda, told that our life should be the service of Rūpa and Raghunātha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Tripurari Mahārāja: But our Rūpa and Raghunātha are Swāmī Mahārāja and Śrīdhara Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rūpa, Raghunātha, that is the higher aim of our life, but in one jump we cannot reach that place. By step by step we're to go. So Swāmī Mahārāja because he had to preach amongst the ordinary class, so generally he had to preach in a broad way. But he did not eliminate Rūpa, Raghunātha's teachings from his program. He said when they'll be - as far as I can guess - when they'll be fit to accept that, then he'll suggest for them that this is, you'll have to go further towards this direction.

Just as Nityānanda Prabhu, He preached generally about Gaurāṅga and general devotion, Bhāgavatam. But gave not so much stress towards Rūpa, Raghunātha. Nityānanda Prabhu preached devotion in a general way.

And Rūpa, Raghunātha of the special group whom Mahāprabhu engaged to give conception of the highest reach of the spiritual realisation. And there is also difference. Something was given to Sanātana that was rather in general and for the beginner even in that section. And what He gave to Rūpa that is the highest conception, so rūpānuga. Though Rūpa was disciple to Sanātana. Sanātana was the Guru in a formal way to Rūpa, but what Rūpa dealt that is for the highest section, highest stage.

And Raghunātha, as a student, and also as a developer in the line of Rūpa, he laid more stress to the service of Rādhā than of Kṛṣṇa. Our energy should be best utilised if we go to serve Rādhārāṇī Who can serve Kṛṣṇa in a perfect way. We'll be able to utilise our energy in the most, we'll be gainer most if we render help to the highest servitor, than the direct service to Kṛṣṇa, what may not be so much efficient. So Rādhā dāsya we find in Raghunātha Dāsa, so Rūpa-Raghunātha, in this way. That is the aim.

Mahāprabhu told, antaraṅga saṅga koraḥ rasa sadan, bahiraṅga saṅga godhi nāma-saṅkīrtana. [Chaitanya Bhāgavata] To the general public Mahāprabhu recommended this Nāma Saṅkīrtana. And very few of internal friendship He, in a limited circle, He used to taste about the loving of the Divine Pair of Kṛṣṇa in details to a limited circle. And for the general He used to give Nāma Saṅkīrtana. Antaraṅga saṅga koraḥ rasa sadan, bahiraṅga saṅga godhi nāma-saṅkīrtana. And gradually this Nāma Saṅkīrtana will lead you to that high level, and not that high level should be - we should try to capture in the beginning, in a very short cut way. Then we'll be, if in our attempt if we be so much hurried to go without following the proper steps then we'll be loser. We won't be able to appreciate them. Rather we shall become imitationist and sahajiyā. So far if we can come then we cannot go back if we've come really step by step following the right path. It is there over our head, we can't avoid it, we shall have to go there.

Our Guru Mahārāja also did not give any stress to the words of Rūpa, Raghunātha, that is mādhurya rasa, all these things. We were not given, we were not allowed to go through those books where Rūpa Goswāmī, Raghunātha Goswāmī dealt about those, the sakhīs and their līlā, all these things.

"Go on, it will come automatically, not by laboured attempt we shall be able, then we'll get some - as a fruit of imitation you'll get. You go on in serving mood and that will come automatically. You won't be able to resist that when it will come. When Kṛṣṇa is satisfied, and His paraphernalia they're satisfied by your service, and when they'll come down to your heart you can't resist it. Their grace is such comprehensive, powerful, and so automatic."

tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadwīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadwīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."]

[Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

Give, concentrate whole energy for the service of Gaurāṅga and it will find automatically the divine ecstatic rasa of Vṛndāvana is coming down to overflow your heart. It is mentioned it comes with that, it will come. Go on serving. The whole tenure of the service is of this nature. We shall go towards the low and the high will come to embrace us. "O, come to My level."

Rādhārāṇī, Her statement is such. "I'm always tending to serve the feet of Kṛṣṇa. But Kṛṣṇa for His satisfaction He embraces Me and whatever He wants He may do with Me. But My tendency is always..."

Dāsa Goswāmī says,

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."]
[Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

My tendency will always be towards the service towards the feet, but I'm to give respect to the higher services. But the Lord comes when He sees anyone fit for higher service, that mercy descends here to take up there. He'll be taken from in a descending method, and ascending method to go that is not fair and recommendable and not efficacious. So our tendency will be that we're not fit, we shall go on with general services. And the inner awakening will be irresistible to take us there. And that will be healthy and natural and real. Otherwise artificial means - the sahajiyā, they're taking the sakhī, the Name, and the service, and going on with meditation, all these things, not recommended by Prabodhānanda. And we also do not feel any sincerity there. They're all self treacherous, we feel it. It is not so easy thing. The steps are there, and we're to follow that if we really want that. We must be true to our own self. It is His lookout to come to our level and accept us. Our lookout will be always to try to render real service, and not to be very ambitious. When He will come it will come in a right way. This should be the faith. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

My lookout to serve Him, to satisfy Him, and not to be trespasser in the higher circle in a hypocritical way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. It is there always on our head. By that we can't approach there which is always on our head. This sort of conception will be a good service to there. And one day when the call will come to take us there we'll be satisfied. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. This is the primary and this is the substantial thing. Always we shall feel that will come in a descending method, and never by the acquired by the ascending way. This thing we shall keep always in our mind. This is devotion, this is to progress in the world of dedication. The acceptance, selection, engagement, will come from above.

And rather we shall be reluctant, "Shall I be able to do such higher service? I'm afraid."

"No, no, you'll do, you can, in this way."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then it will be real, otherwise a concoction, an imaginary thing. We're not after that. I'm not a master there. Only by Supreme Grace can take us there. That is really theism, otherwise it is atheism, very eager to see what for I'm spending my energy.

Duṣṭa phala karibe arjjana. [Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura] You will acquire some bad fruit.

I have come to serve a fully conscious and heart-full Lord, not any partial or a blind Lord, or partiality. Fair field we shall take. Mahāprabhu He Himself says, na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me [harau, krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum

vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

"Not a drop of Divine Love is within Me."

Go on Nāma saṅkīrtana, Nāma saṅkīrtana, Nāma saṅkīrtana. The guardian is always alert to take care of you. His eyes are not closed, He's fully seeing everything. Who is progressing in what way, and how, who will be rewarded in what way, given promotion? He's fully awake. He's not approaching a blind person. He's fully awake, and high, and also heart. Everything is there in unimaginable higher way there, so they're approaching there.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate,] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If I'm sincere then my future is guaranteed, because the guardian's look is on all sides over me, my head. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The beginning of the Ṛg-Veda saṁhitā.

oṁ tad viṣṇo paramaṁ padaṁ sadā, paśyanti suraya divīva cakṣur ātatam
[tad viprāso vipanyavo jāgṛvāṁśāḥ, samindhate viṣṇor yat paramaṁ padam]

["As the sun and sunlight is continuous over the skies as light-giver to us (for that sunlight is the universal form of the Lord) similarly, the Divine Lotus Feet of the Lord Śrī Viṣṇu is always spread widely (like a canopy) over our head."] [Ṛg-Veda, 1.22.20]

Think about the Lord Viṣṇu's Holy Feet as spread on your head like a guardian's eye. Spread over his head, a big eye of a guardian like the sun. You live under such conception everywhere, in every action, wherever you go. So in the Vedic activities we're ordered to pronounce this mantram of Ṛg-Veda, the first mantram of Ṛg-Veda. Whatever duty you approach, with this consciousness that your guardian's eye like a sun, His Holy Feet like a sun is spread over your head seeing everything. You'll approach your duty with this consciousness, that you cannot do anything wrong. The guardian's eye is spread over your head like a sun. His feet, His eye, His every limb of the higher substance has got every capacity.

Aṅgāni yasya sakalendriya-vṛtti-manti [Brahma-saṁhitā, 32] "I can see, I can hear, I can feel, touch."

Ear can see, and feet can see. His Divine feet can see and hear, can do everything. Just as our mind. Mind can see in the centre. Mind can hear, mind can touch, is in the centre through the different channels. So His feet, aṅgāni yasya sakalendriya-vṛtti-manti, every part of His body has got the capacity of all senses. So His Holy feet we shall think, and how? All conscious and all loving, all spread over my head, and having interest for me there. So we're approaching, drāṣṭāri-dṛśya-satyam, that is not object of my senses. But we're object of His senses. He's drāṣṭā. He's seer. He's feeler. Everything subjective representation with Him, and objective with us. Drāṣṭāri-dṛśya-satyam aropitam. Jñāta, drāṣṭā, śrauta, all subjective capacity in that side. And we are with limited and objective capacity. So sincere, the price, only value is sincere good will. "Yes, I want Him sincerely." That is what is wanted from us, laulyam api mūlyam.

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatāṁ yadi kuto 'pi labhyate
tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

What you want, there may not be any hypocrisy. "I want Him clearly." Try to purify your want, your duty to purify if possible your want, your demand. "I don't want to deceive myself. I want You really, sincerely." Only this qualification from our side is necessary. All else will be given, supplied from the government, from above. A bona fide student is necessary - to educate him all will be supplied by the government.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Sāgara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You go and make arrangements, gradually have a class there.

Sāgara Mahārāja: Yes. Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Peculiar. It is told in Māyā's Essay, "Everywhere centre, nowhere circumference." The peculiarity in Goloka. The Infinite is in its one part. Inconceivable. There the finite is of such nature. We're told Vṛndāvana is thirty two miles square perhaps.

ṣola-krośa vṛndāvana, — [śāstrera prakāśe / tāra eka-deśe vaikuṇṭhājāṇḍa-gaṇa bhāse]

["According to the revelations of revealed scripture, Vṛndāvana extends only sixteen krośas [thirty-two miles]. Nonetheless, all the Vaikuṇṭha planets and innumerable universes are located in one corner of this tract."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.29]

Kavirāja Goswāmī has said. And Vaikuṇṭha, in any part may be Vaikuṇṭha. So mathematics _____ [?]
Goloka finite is such that it can contain infinite, numberless. Kṛṣṇa, His figure is _____ [?] six feet or so, but contains innumerable brahmāṇḍas in every pore of His body. What type of infinite we're required to conceive? The standard is otherwise.

Yaśodā, trying to bind Him down by His belly. Dāmodara. Taking ropes and trying to bind the belly of Kṛṣṇa, but two fingers less. Again she's joining some more rope, the same two fingers less. Again joining to that, the same two fingers. Mad. So sanity of this play won't be applied.

He took the Govardhana like a play ball when request came very intensely to Him. "Severe trouble we're under. Please save us." And He put Govardhana like a ball. Seven year old boy, so miracles playing at His feet to help everyone.

Absolute is such, the conception of the Absolute doing anything and everything. That comes to the subjective causal relationship. Whatever He wants us to see, to feel, we're to do that. Paśya me yogam aiśvaram.

[mayā tatam idaṁ sarvaṁ, jagad avyakta-mūrtinā
mat-sthāni sarva-bhūtāni, na cāhaṁ teṣv avasthitaḥ]

[na ca mat-sthāni bhūtāni, paśya me yogam aiśvaram
bhūta-bhṛn na ca bhūta-stho, mamātmā bhūta-bhāvanaḥ]

["In an unmanifest manner, I pervade this entire universe, and everything conceivable is situated within Me - and yet, I am not situated within that total entity."] ["And again, that is also not situated in Me. Just behold My inconceivable simultaneous one and different (acintya-bhedābheda) nature as the perfect, omnipotent, omniscient originator and Lord of the universe! Although My very Self is the mainstay and guardian of all beings, I am not implicated by them."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9. 4-5]

Arjuna saw, astounded. "O. You are so _____ [?] I can't tolerate. Please be calm again."
"Yes, I'm your friend."

What He displayed no intellect can be any unique to measure such circumstances or environment. Then where we're to get. So all puzzled. Brahmā the creator of this universe he's puzzled. "What is this cowboy? Who is He, this mystic boy?"

So Kṛṣṇa consciousness means to accept the greatest risk in life. And hope is also given to be the highest, such Kṛṣṇa consciousness. All impossible.

After the Kurukṣetra war concluded, Sañjaya represented to Dhṛtarāṣṭra. "What did I see? Wonderful. By the grace of Vyāsadeva I could see that Viśvarūpa. So I told him that your party will win the war. And the backing is that Supreme Will."

yatra yogeśvaraḥ kṛṣṇo, yatra pārtho dhanur-dharaḥ tatra śrīr vijayo bhūtir, dhruvā nītir matir mama

["Wherever there is the Supreme Lord of all mystic power, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself, and wherever there is the conqueror of wealth who carries the bow, Arjuna himself - at that very place the goddess of good fortune, at that very place the goddess of victory, at that very place flourishing prosperity, and at that very place supreme virtue prevails. Certainly that is my firm resolution."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.78]

"I cannot come to any other conclusion than that the victory must be with the Pāṇḍavas, where there is that charioteer, that Kṛṣṇa, yogeśvaraḥ kṛṣṇa."

So what is the matter? So to control Him to our side, to be partial to us _____ [?]
Imagination cannot reach the plane. Ha, ha. What tiny brain _____ [?] Insect, a small world is given. We also, what is our position in the whole solar system? In the whole of the solar system what position we hold? So big and so proud we are in our own position. But what is our position in the whole of the solar system in respect? Our figure, or sound, or heat, or air, from any and every standpoint, what?

So Vaikuṇṭha is eliminated. The Brahmaloka. You are so puzzled and perplexed that you want to efface your own existence in mukti, liberation, sāyujya mukti. Buddhists, Śaṅkarites. In this world of hypnotism, no worth even living, so just finish with your existence. That was their conclusion. Unknown, unknowable. Leave. No good to attempt to try to know the unknown and unknowable. Rather stop, wholesale stoppage, that is liberation. The Buddhist and Śaṅkara scholars.

But Rāmānuja and others wanted to swim in the Infinite ocean. "What is the good of burying our own self? Let us swim in the ocean." Mahāprabhu took the ocean into a lake or something like, feasible, Vṛndāvana. Kṛṣṇa can come in contact with finite in a suitable way. Infinite can approach finite in a suitable way, suiting to the finite. He approaches towards the finite. But that must have its own background. But He can reach to you like your friend, as one of you. Keeping His majestic background He can mix with you as one of you.

And that will be the best chance for us, but under the guidance of a proper expert. Don't forget that you want one kind, sādhu saṅga, Guru, sādhu. Rādhā dāsya. Prepare yourself to be utilised by taking some higher help. Don't approach direct, no direct attempt, keep something in the front. You approach but first keep something in your front, and to connect that and you. So rūpānuga position has been recommended to be the best suiting for us. "From there you can have most, from that position." That was given by Mahāprabhu. "Take your position here and you'll get the most. Even when Rādhā-Govinda alone you can have chance to enter, and the sakhīs help." It is in the mādhurya rasa consorthood also.

Promising, from all points this will be the most suitable position. And from the beginning the surrender. Die to live. That is the way, no other. So deep you are to dive that no trace will be of your former acquaintance, something similar. Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam, [āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

Wonder is wondered. Wonder is astounded, āścarya. Adbhutakrāma, that of wonderful stride, Urukrama, Adbhutakrāma, the very stride is wonderful, astounding, every stride. Then, how to connect? Where He has come? Nearest to our standard. Connect there is common sense. You want Infinite. You're not satisfied with the finite world. You want Infinite more and more. All right. Infinite can come to you and Infinite sweetness.

[śrutim apare smṛtim itare, bhāratam anye bhajantu bhava-bhītāḥ]
aham iha nandaṁ vande, yasyālinde paraṁ brahma

"Eho bāhya. Eho bāhya. Eho bāhya." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc]

"Dive deep. Dive deep. Go further. Yes, it is. Yes, it is good. Yes, it is better. It is the best. Still, anything? Sarvottama. This is the best. Still anything, can you conceive?"

"I don't think that anyone may ask further than this. Still, I have got no reference in former scriptures. But I've prepared one song myself. Whether You can like it or not You may try." Rāmānanda told.

And that came to divulge Mahāprabhu's representation. So put His hand on his face, "No further." That imaginable, or unimaginable highest conception culminated in conception of Mahāprabhu Himself. Mahāprabhu put His hand to stop. "No, no, no. Don't divulge it. I do not know whether I'm a male or female. But the inconceivable attraction, mixed with separation, that is tasting itself."

The play, with love itself. The relationship between the two, positive and negative where meets, that position, the meeting point of the positive and negative.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...position, but combination, the meeting point of the two, where They meet. Where They, in Their own līlā when They're forgetful of Their Own Selves by the intensity of Their closer connection, They're forgetful in Their Own identification, who are They.

And here, Madhusūdana Saraswatī, the latest māyāvādī, he has taken advantage of these things. O, here He's just meeting again to Brahman conception. They forget Their own special conscience when united. So much intensity of Their pleasure forgets Their own individual conception. Here coming to that Brahman conception, one. That is līlā, taṭasthā. The positive, negative meeting point, plane is taṭa, margin.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Person, tadīya madīya, tada. That gentleman, writer of Advaita Siddhi, the modern māyāvādī scholar's production, Advaita Siddhi. A Bengali man whose name is Madhusūdana Saraswatī. He has accepted Bhāgavatam in the stage of divine love, there three conditions. In the first plane I am His, I belong to God, to Kṛṣṇa. The second, He's mine. And the third, I am Himself, I am He.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tadīya, I belong to Him. Madīya, He belongs to me. And then last, I am Him, I'm with Him. This vipralambha.

Devotee: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura said that Madhusūdana Saraswatī he's like a wolf in sheep's clothing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pointed out with some trouble. Viśvanātha Cakravartī has given some indulgence to that man. But Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is very shrewd. Śaṅkarācārya did not accept Bhāgavatam. But this Madhusūdana Saraswatī accepted Bhāgavatam. In the introduction of his Bhagavad-gītā he has tried to bring this bhakti cult, this yoga, and this Vedānta all in a similar level.

When the yogīs in samādhi continue supernatural experience, that is of three kinds. First, sometimes in that trance he comes out himself. The second, in that trance, if he's forcibly roused then he'll come, otherwise he'll be there in that trance. And the third section, he's always there, and he can never be roused to bring to this plane, he's always there.

This gentleman says, v*isnu bhaktasya katyate*, in that stage nirvikalpa samādhi. Savikalpa, nirvikalpa. Savikalpa two sections, and nirvikalpa when they'll never be disturbed, always in that consciousness. That gentleman says at that time he may be told as Viṣṇu bhakta. He has dived so deep he cannot come out. V*isnu bhaktasya katyate*. They're always in consciousness of Viṣṇu.

But it is not clear, supposing the same thing, same element. But Viṣṇu bhakti is always the worshippable and worshipping, two aspects there. Superior, positive, negative, servant and the Master. The Lord and the servant. Without that no devotion can be. So he's taking the advantage of this śloka of Rāmānanda Rāya, the last śloka.

[" 'Alas, before We met there was an initial attachment between Us brought about by an exchange of glances. In this way attachment evolved. That attachment has gradually grown, and there is no limit to it. Now that attachment has become a natural sequence between Ourselves. It is not that it is due to Kṛṣṇa, the enjoyer, nor is it due to Me, for I am the enjoyed. It is not like that. This attachment was made possible by mutual meeting. This mutual exchange of attraction is known as manobhava, or Cupid. Kṛṣṇa's mind and My mind have merged together. Now, during this time of separation, it is very difficult to explain these loving affairs. My dear friend, though Kṛṣṇa might have forgotten all these things, you can understand and bring this message to Him. But during Our first meeting there was no messenger between Us, nor did I request anyone to see Him. Indeed, Cupid's five arrows were Our via media. Now, during this separation, that attraction has increased to another ecstatic state. My dear friend, please act as a messenger on My behalf, because if one is in love with a beautiful person, this is the consequence.']

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.194]

Here that man comes. "In that consciousness of continued separation, just as I'm not conscious that He's a man and I'm a lady. Forget that. Nā so, nā hāma ramaṇī. Duṅhu-mana manobhava peṣala jāni'. But something between Us that has connected and We cannot get out of that. Some pleasing sensation, unnatural and inexplicable, and un-feelable, that brings Us together." But that is for the time being, again They're separate. It comes to Mahāprabhu. Svarūpa Dāmodara says,

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau [caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam]

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

Kṛṣṇa and Rādhā cannot be separated, one presupposes another. Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir. Who is Rādhā? The love of Kṛṣṇa transformed in particular way. Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir. Kṛṣṇa cannot exist without Rādhā. Relatively He's there, if there's Kṛṣṇa there must be Rādhā. The Moieties, our Guru Mahārāja told, two Moieties, praṇaya-vikṛtir. Kṛṣṇa means, presupposes Rādhā. The whole demand of Kṛṣṇa, the enjoyer, is only to be supplied by something and that is Rādhā. And they're eternally connected with Kṛṣṇa.

So really They're One, and They're Mahāprabhu. In particular time, in particular līlā in Vṛndāvana They became separated, They became two. Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir. A particular potency, the highest potency of Kṛṣṇa, so She's One with Kṛṣṇa. They're One. The potency cannot be separated from the possessor of the potency. When seen wholesale, then Mahāprabhu. So for particular līlā we find Him separated in Vṛndāvana with Their own paraphernalia, separated. Again They're combined in Mahāprabhu here. What will be the position? Searching Himself.

Just as I gave in that poem [Prema Dhāma Deva Stotram], naumi gaura sundaram. What should be the real conception of the Absolute? Sat, cit, ānandam. The ānanda, the sundara, that is the highest symptom embracing other, that feeling and existence, they must be there.

Ānandam, that is the leading thing. And what is the ānanda? Ānanda, dancing Himself. Ānanda means full in Himself, and that is expressed in His dancing nature, nṛtyam. And also we expect that is not confined in Him. He wants to convey to others, so kīrtanam.

Apa bhajanam [?] He's distributing Himself. Ānanda means dancing, and kīrtanam means self distribution. So the Absolute must have such symptom. Ānandam and kīrtanam, dynamic character, kīrtanam, He's self distributing. The ānanda, feeling Himself in His fulfilment and distributing, so nṛtya and kīrtana both combined, the Absolute combined when one, it is ānanda. And it is dynamic self distributing nature, Mahāprabhu.

Then sometimes become separated as Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa and with Their paraphernalia They began. And here also searching Himself, Kṛṣṇa and Rādhā combined, when searching Himself. "Who am I?" Ātmānusandan. And as much as He's searching and getting and dancing in madness in ecstasy. So becomes combined, not brahman, nirviśeṣa-brahman, but Mahāprabhu Himself. The Absolute, He's fulfilment, He's dancing, and He's distributing to others all His parts, inner, outer, everywhere, it will come to the conception of Mahāprabhu.

So Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād, ekātmānāv. So They're One and Same. None can exist independently of another. But in some time previously in Vṛndāvana conception They separated Themselves and showed particular pastimes.

Ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau. They separated, expressed Themselves in separate ways. They showed how is Their relationship, purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau.

Caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam. Again Those Two separated parts has become One and the Same as Śrī Caitanya. Caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam.

Rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam. Inside Kṛṣṇa and outside Rādhā.

"Rāmānanda, what you see, My colour is not yellow. But you see the halo of Rādhārāṇī I'm surrounded by. Gaura aṅga nahe mora — rādhāṅga-sparśana, gopendra-suta vinā teṅho nā

[When Rāmānanda Rāya fell to the ground unconscious, Caitanya Mahāprabhu touched his hand, and he immediately regained consciousness. But when he saw Lord Caitanya in the dress of a sannyāsī, he was struck with wonder.] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.284]

When he was roused he found, "O, a sannyāsī is sitting here."

So līlā of different type coming closer then going far, of different type of pastimes. But we can't have faith so much, we try to understand everything in terms of our intellectualism. Without getting the experience we want to satisfy our intellect. That is our defect rather. First surveying by intellect, then we want to let loose our faith. Intellect will survey first, and then our faith will be let loose.

Don't send your servant to survey but go yourself, approach yourself to your Master, Kṛṣṇa.

Na kuti na dhuti na kuti na [?] Rādhārāṇī saying, "I did not send any representative. I did not try to approach Him by sending any representative first. We approached from other side, the innermost part of Mine, that connected Me with that innermost. This connection is not got by any representative negotiation. It's not got by any negotiation by any representative, but automatic. _____ [?] Something common interest of both the parties, that occurred. That is innate, automatic, not acquired thing, but ever existing, automatic coming. Sometimes very suppressed, sometimes expressive."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Mahārāja. But, you before, with Golden Volcano, when you were speaking about Jagannātha Purī and Golden Volcano, you mentioned also Uddhava kyari [kārair [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mentioned also?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. In Vṛndāvana...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is it mentioned? What's mentioned?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yourself, you said that you thought that 'I will stay in Purī,' when you were thinking where to retire, Purī or in Vṛndāvana - it's called Uddhava kyari - [kārair [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Mahārāja said he thought of staying there.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Uddhava kyari - [kārair [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Isn't that the place of Bhramara Gītā?
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, tenth canto, chapter forty seven]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So what we want to know...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Volcanic eruption from Rādhārāṇī. From Rādhārāṇī the eruption came there in the face of Uddhava and others in midst of Her sakhīs came that eruption from Her.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And Mahārāja once said that he would speak about this.

Devotee: But he didn't speak?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. So I'm asking him now if he can speak.

Devotee: Once, you gave us word that you would speak about Bhramara Gītā. But you have not spoken about that yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I've not spoken about that?

Devotee: But before you already promised to speak about that.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhramara Gītā. The eruption. This _____ [?] action reminding you?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Eruption. So, furious.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Furious curiosity, dreadfulness, in conception of Infinite, what is its position. So dreadful thing, what is its position in the plane of immortality? When things are immortal, or they cannot be harmed in any way, and if there's such volcanic eruption, what will be the position? Something like massage, massaging. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Challenge. When that Absolute Plane of love is challenged by the worst type of attack - reaction, then what becomes the natural effect? It is more intense and more paying. Courage, adventure, like adventure, courageous attempt pays more. Such handling of the thing pays pleasure. When pressure is put from affection then what will be the reaction?

When whipping coming from Yaśodā, motherly affection has been given pressure, and the reaction coming by whipping. How are we to look at it, the whipping?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The volcanic, rudeness, cruelty, in the loving ocean if apparently these anti things come to disturb apparently what will be the result? It is more pressure, more juice coming out, higher type, so cruelty in sweetness. Sweetness in cruelty, that is the opposite thing, that is hypocrisy. But cruelty in sweetness, really sweet but apparently cruelty. To enhance if necessary, to enhance, to extract the sweetness out. Apparently cruelty but the bed is sweet to extract more juice where?

Rādhārāṇī. Rādhārāṇī is talking exploitation, cruel exploitation about Her Lord. He's so cruelly exacting from Her. And now also His apparent apathy, indifference to Her intolerable. She was very reluctant not to come out with Her internal feeling. And it is told that another drama was played at the same time. Kṛṣṇa taking the form of a hornet. She was moving there singing...

Devotee: Bumblebee.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and trying to touch the Holy Feet of Rādhārāṇī. Bhramara Gītā. Rādhārāṇī did not want to contribute anything in that meeting, assembly, with Uddhava. The gopīs they're talking, She kept silent. But that bee moving there seeing and attempting to touch Her Feet excited Her. And She addressed the bee.

madhupa kitava-bandho [mā spṛśaṅghriṁ sapatnyāḥ kuca-vilulita-mālā-kuṅkuma-śmaśrubhir naḥ vahatu madhu-patis tan-māninīnāṁ prasādaṁ yadu-sadasi viḍambyaṁ yasya dūtas tvam īdṛk]

[The gopī said: "O honeybee, O friend of a cheater, don't touch My feet with your whiskers, which are smeared with the kuṅkuma that rubbed onto Kṛṣṇa's garland when it was crushed by the breasts of a rival lover! Let Kṛṣṇa satisfy the women of Mathurā. One who sends a messenger like you will certainly be ridiculed in the Yadus' assembly."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.12]

"You are such a hypocrite, you bee, such a hypocrite you are. You're friend of a hypocrite. Kitava- bandho. Or you are treacherous, you are a hypocrite. Mā spṛśaṅghriṁ. Don't try to touch My feet. You are mixed with the clear sympathy on your face for the anti-party. It is clear in your face, your moustache, the colour of your association with the anti-party. You have come from another party, you are purchased. You are insincere. You can be purchased in the market. In ordinary market you may be a property of sale. But We're of another type, We're not going to the market. Our heart is not a commodity in the market. But your face and moustache show that you're a property of the market. So don't try to capture Me by your false attempt, diplomacy. Mā spṛśaṅghriṁ sapatnyāḥ. Śmaśrubhir naḥ."

She began to speak in this way, and came automatically with this about - in face of Uddhava - some heart flow, spontaneous flow from Her heart. "We hate to be commodity of ordinary market. And you are purchaser of the same, you can be purchased anywhere and everywhere." With this sentiment She began. "But We can't deny that He has got that peculiar quality and capacity which can never be found anywhere and everywhere. What to speak of Us, even Lakṣmī Devī Herself She has become His maidservant, what We consider it." In this way She began.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. He has got that Absolute position. So many good men, noble persons, Lakṣmī Devī, all running towards Him. Many families have been deserted, have transformed into a desert, when their leader guardian ran for Him. Gastalay gastalay valeche _____ [?]

[yad-anucarita-līlā-karṇa-pīyūṣa-vipruṭ-, sakṛd-adana-vidhūta-dvandva-dharmā vinaṣṭāḥ
sapadi gṛha-kuṭumbaṁ dīnam utsṛjya dīnā, bahava iha vihaṅgā bhikṣu-caryāṁ caranti]

["To hear about the pastimes that Kṛṣṇa regularly performs is nectar for the ears. For those who relish just a single drop of that nectar, even once, their dedication to material duality is ruined. Many such persons have suddenly given up their wretched homes and families and, themselves becoming wretched, travelled here to Vṛndāvana to wander about like birds, begging for their living."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.18]

"We cannot deny that He has got that special charm. So many noble persons deserting their own family, running towards Him, and wailing, crying. And made their own for some sky and like birds from this tree to that tree. In this way they are. He has got such a special, peculiar charm in Him. And We're the worst sufferers coming in connection with Him. We can't conceive of leaving Him, separating Him from His connection. But what about this? He has got, He can do, He can make or mar. We're only so many negligible persons to be treated by Him in such a way. So our misfortune."

In this way She erupted from within Her heart. With all these narrations, no possibility, no symptoms show of coming out of that attraction. Only blaming of their misfortune. All those that were revolt against Kṛṣṇa, in-spite of that no possibility of leaving.

"We're undone, come to such a position we cannot get out of this snare, this charm, so our life is hopeless. What to speak of all these things, bitter-sweet coating. Let us expect for the day when He'll put His sweet palm over our head. _____ [?] forever."

Eruption. So many things are there I forget. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. And They're not separate but One and Same. And Kṛṣṇa, action, reaction, Kṛṣṇa Himself in the mood of Rādhārāṇī began to flow such eruption. Can't stay, can't stand, can't stay, can't forbear. What to do? He's irreparable. Separation from the Infinite is also of Infinite characteristic. Everything of Infinite characteristic there. Because Infinite so complete separation is not possible, we're within Infinite, so complete detachment is not possible for any part with the Infinite. All play, in dramatic play, positive or negative feelings, direct or indirect, this is the nature. Hungry and then satisfaction of filling belly, eating, inter connected, one enhances another.

Devotee: _____ [?]

85.11.17.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...we can behave, but Infinite is at the background. What we talk all becomes false. "I shall give you a turning out. I won't see your face." So many things _____ [?] But at the same time because that is Infinite we're - whatever we do that is within Infinite. All show, all drama, even death is also a part of drama there. What to speak of any other thing. Death also playing a particular part like that. No complete detachment is possible, in the case of Infinite, all play, līlā. Lilayam pravesa.

Sunrise, sunset, dark night, coming by turn everything we're to harmonise. And the real pleasure is in harmony. We're to suffer little for our hunger. Hungry means to feel some sort of pain. But hunger is utilised for the satisfaction of taking food, like a medicine. Without hunger, without that pain of hunger, we cannot relish our food, our eating. Such is the case, separation and union, one correlated with another, one helping another. If same in a narrow way it's undesirable, and more graphic way it is desirable. Without the pain of hunger no satisfaction of eating is possible. So it has its contribution to the satisfaction of taking food. So it can be applied everywhere, related in such a way, union and separation.

The whole līlā is like that. So to dive deep into the reality, to find that everything in a current for His satisfaction, to merge in that. We see a part we're disappointed, but connected with the whole we're satisfied. "Yes." Mother beating the child, "O, for this good for him, satisfied." Child also, "O, you are punishing me for my good. Yes mother, give more beating." "No, no, no beating necessary for that." So must not be cursed by our own standard. Try to find out this standard, forgetful to measure by this universal standard. Līlā, that is līlā, that is bhakti. Ahaitukī, apratihatā, no beginning and none can arrest it, resist it, that eternal flow. Then you can find your internal approval with that. Your innermost approval will come when you come to realise waves in that plane, all satisfaction for His līlā.

Rādhārāṇī's repentance, and again when the union came, They'll all be satisfied and all relish that union. They'll be busy to serve in that union. You'll get your quota there. In this way going on, up and down, up and down. But connected with One. They're not separate, though They seem to be - over crossed, but still there is unity between Them, the two opposites. Opposites are also unified, harmonised, then you can - conscious of the half and then you won't. But harmony is there also that separate interest has been arranged for Kṛṣṇa līlā, different camps, different interests created. Rādhārāṇī, Candrāvalī, Yaśodā, Pūtanā, so many anti groups in the same. But on the whole we're told that nitya līlā in the background. And that pain is not like this pain of the detached world.

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya [kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite]

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

The pain of separation in the eternal plane that is also sustainer of our heart's necessity, bhitare ānandamāya. Kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite. Though hungry, feeling the pain of hunger, but there is the underground feeling of health is there, good health. Pain of hunger, that presupposes good health, and the feeling of good health is in the background. Something like that. Bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite. This is the peculiar wonderfulness in the Divine Love, Universal Love. All covering, all permeating love has got such peculiarity. Apparently it may be troublesome, but internally it is fostering, it is encouraging, it is sustaining, internally. Apparently it may be sometimes troublesome, sometimes affectionate, lovely, all this. Otherwise it cannot be Absolute ānandam or rasam _____ [?]

In a drama the man who is playing the part of a beggar, but he's not a beggar, ultimately. He's only playing the part of a beggar, apparently. He's showing, "O, I'm very hungry, I can't eat, no food, no quarter, nothing." But already it's a drama. Something like that. Reality, līlā, means drama, play. Nothing by real poverty or real necessity, but all play of the Full Absolute, all good, all rasam, all ānandam. After all līlā means dramatic play. Something like that. So underground the players are showing so many difficulties in the drama, but at the bottom there are not so many difficulties really.

So kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite. When the rasam Himself, ānanda Himself, He's showing that sort of drama, He's self sufficient. So all these are show, the want is show only. Want of anything and everything is mere show there. Just in the wave of the ocean there the ebb and tide, something low, but so full, next moment it's going up. Up, down, up, down, wave means up, down, up, down. But ample energy of water there, so any moment what is there going down that process is coming up, going down, coming up, in this way. Infinite, sufficient, no lacking after all. So kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite. Bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya. They're related in such a way.

The labour, and then we get the remuneration. When giving some labour some little pain, but remuneration giving pleasure. Anyhow we invite labour because we can get some remuneration, so we don't want to sit idle. We invite labour because thereby we get some remuneration. So in this way, harmony. But the difference is that ordinary and extraordinary connection, that has got difference. But the reality and half reality not reality, difference is that. So kāma-preme, bheda nāi.

[kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi, tabhu kāma 'premaʹ nāhi haya]

[Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura said, "My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love."] [Kalyāṇa Kalpataru, Upadeśa, 18]

It is just like your village life here, very similar, but not the same. There's the rub, similar but not same, opposite rather. This is to be found out, that eternity, and the consciousness, and above that, ānanda, very similar. Kāma-preme, bheda nāi, tabhu kāma 'premaʹ nāhi haya. One pertaining to finite, another to the Infinite. One misconception, another proper, real conception. That māyā only, līlā in the world. In dream also, what we find when we're awake, in dream also we find similar things, but not one and the same. So misconception good, bad, and real good, bad, are different, but similar, but not the same.

Kṛṣṇa. And that may be we may come in touch by sacrifice, by serving attitude we come to that real position. And by enjoying mood we're far away from noble association. Association of the nobility, noble things, requires our sacrifice, our serving attitude. That aspect, similar but not same, different.

Gaura Sundar. Gaura Sundar.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Specially Vṛndāvana līlā, very similar world. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, Virajā, Brahmaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka. There also this Lakṣmī-Nārāyaṇa, Rāma-Sītā, Ayodhyā, Dvārakā, Vṛndāvana, gradation. So much so, there is thieving, stealing, lying, all these things. And that is also possible connected with the Absolute. Nearest approach of the highest towards the finite. Infinite means approach to finite in perfect form, when Infinite meets the finite in its own plane and may be very perfect. That is Vṛndāvana, we're told, a great gap between. Serving.

They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places."]
[Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 10]

We're to differentiate in this way, what is what. Though similar, still, the great distance. So it is very natural, that sahajiyāism, imitationist, it's very easy for them to come, enter into this, similar. They want excise this same feeling with the help of flesh and blood, what is the ideal, having that form. Varṇāśrama also, that has also been given in a normal way.

loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevā, nityā hi jantor na hi tatra codanā vyavasthitis teṣu vivāha-yajña,-surā-grahair āsu nivṛttir iṣṭā

["Everyone is naturally inclined to have sex, eat meat, and drink wine. There is no need for the scripture to encourage these things. The scriptures do, however, give concessions to people who are determined to do these things. The scriptures therefore grant a license to enjoy sex by allowing sexual intercourse with one's lawfully wedded wife at the proper time of the month. They grant a license to eat meat to those who perform a certain kind of sacrifice, and a license to drink wine to those who perform the Sautramani sacrifice. The purpose of granting these licenses for sense gratification is only to restrict these activities and encourage people to give them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat-eating, and wine-drinking is to make one abstain from these activities."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11]

Step by step. If you can't do without flesh, don't use the flesh any way or other, but follow a particular system. Take the flesh for your enjoyment and give something to the person whose flesh you are consuming. From your bank something will be added to his bank, he'll get a lift. Take his body, utilise it amongst you and make such arrangement that he'll be compensated, whose body you are taking as flesh. Then that will not be totally hiṁsā. So through this process, you can't restrain your senses, then with such rice and process take a girl, don't hunt here and there, everywhere. And also in giving and taking policy give something for her and you may use in that way. That will not be total sense pleasure but regulated, come in this line.

So loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevā. Varṇāśrama has been conceived with this principle. That to get out is not possible from our mundane tendencies all of a sudden, so accept particular process and go, gradually march on. So Rāmānanda Rāya and Mahāprabhu talking, Rāmānanda began with varṇāśrama. Have connection with Kṛṣṇa consciousness in this order. The admission sanction given, gradually begin your life towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then Kṛṣṇa karmārpaṇa. In varṇāśrama always one cannot understand that it's connected with Kṛṣṇa. Then Kṛṣṇa karmārpaṇa, be conscious that it's going to Kṛṣṇa, the centre, the Absolute is connected, it is His. Then give up and come, take risk, "eho bāhya." Then when one becomes good or bad in these things all equal and is questing for something, that is also outside. But when the inner taste got anyhow to hear about Kṛṣṇa, here it begins. The ruci, the internal taste, for Kṛṣṇa has peeped in your heart, and whatever you do you're running to an agent of Kṛṣṇa to hear about Him, it is very tasteful to you. "Here it begins," Mahāprabhu says, "Go further. You have sincere taste, love, affection, to hear about Kṛṣṇa your Lord. Inner awakening for Him. Here it begins, go, in this way."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...containing higher things, and by our serving attitude that will reveal within myself. That is the direction. We're carriers, we're instrumental, we're rather instrumental.

The Deity is there in objective position, but really that is mere instrumental. We're to take in that way.

When we cannot do our experiment in the sun we can't see, then we may try the experiment in the reflection of the sun. Try to read minutely the reflection to read the sun proper.

So sometimes this Śrī Vigraha That comes here in that position, but It is coming from above.

From the sun which I cannot look at, something like that.

So revealed scriptures dealt like that. Their consciousness embodied there. And we may be instrumental to them. They want to be preached.

A strong servant can carry a crippled master, king _____ [?] That is something else. A blind man is carrying a crippled eyed person who can see but cannot walk. But one can walk but can't see. That is Puruṣa prakṛti. But this is above. We're mere instrumental.

Father lain, or the master lain, and on his behalf the son or the servant working, moving. And the director he's lain on the bed, like a body, but the inspiration coming from him. And the subordinates are moving, carrying that.

In his Australia tour Swāmī Mahārāja told, "Some newspaper reporter asked, 'You are selling the books for the expense of your missionary activity?"

"But no, we're not selling, but we're giving the books, you're giving the money."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I saw in the paper, a copy was sent to me, a story in Australia. "We're giving the books, you're giving the money." Not exactly the same. Like commodity it can't be sold, or can't be used as articles which we can sell and purchase. Not any objective thing, but subjective characteristic inside there. We're carrying will of that - posing is such, objective posing of the subjective thing.

Śāstra. So before reading Bhāgavatam we're to worship with flower. "You please accept me as Your instrument. Through me You please reveal Yourself to others." With this humble attitude we shall take seat when we're going to read Bhāgavatam to others. "He can use me."

So Indian method of imparting scriptural education, śāstric education life, praṇipātena, paripraśnena, sevayā [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]. The student is not there, giving money and purchasing learning, education, no. By submitting to the Ācārya, representative of the Supreme, in serving attitude. "That what he wants to give me, that may pleasingly, independently may accept me as his carrier. He may accept, that higher knowledge may accept me as carrier, distributor." That will be the attitude.

The higher, supreme knowledge is such. All Supreme things should be like that. The Vigraha also should be taken in that light. "It is giving impression to me so that I may work on His behalf. Impression from inside and I'm doing. I'm going to install Deity because the inspiration I get from higher to my plane I'm moving, because of that. Not that by my sweet will I'm going to create something, no, always instrumental.

[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61]

Different layers. Wholesale control. Part control. Indirect control. Direct control. In so many ways the Lord uses us. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Drāṣṭā, jñāta, bhokta, all subjective characteristic there. Draṣṭari dṛsyatvam, āropitam.

["The unintelligent equate the sky with the clouds, the air with the dust particles floating in it, and think that the sky is cloudy or that the air is dirty."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.31]

Those that are ignorant they ascribe like that, which is subjective they've ascribed objective characteristic. Unseeable, we cannot see the sky. We say where the cloud is that is the sky, but sky cannot be felt independently. We cannot see the air, dust is in the air, we can see the dust, ascribe it to the air, can't see the air, can't see the sky. But through cloud we want, "O, there is the sky." And in the sky the cloud is floating. Dṛsyatvam. That is I'm seeing the sky, as if I'm seeing the wind.

Binura kastyaya [?] Background of all consciousness. A comprehensive of the comprehensive, and minute of the minutest.

["Smaller than the atom, greater than the greatest, the Supreme Self secretly resides even within the core of the atomic individual soul [the jīva]. When the devotee beholds Him he is freed from lamentation, and by the grace of the Lord [Dhātṛ] he realises the superiority of the Supreme Soul."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.20]

All controlling, all accommodating, all creating, all moving, utilising, handling in every way. That cannot be seen, Who is the knowledge.

"I am everywhere, I am nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me. Try to understand the mystic position of Me, what I am. Whatever you'll go to locate I'm not there. It's My sweet will. What you will do? Not within your guidance. But with the devotees My position is separate, sometimes I become their order supplier. Prahlāda told, "Here, I could not but assert." But not always, if everyone says 'by breaking the pillar should He come?' Bhakta-parārdhīno. Because so much given to Me, I try to clear their debt, by My freedom, free will."

Intangible becomes tangible, near devotees, tangible. And sometimes He loses His independence also near a devotee. Rādhārāṇī passing, Kṛṣṇa tried to keep up His four handed figure but could not. By the force of the peculiar affection of Rādhārāṇī His four handed characteristic vanished and became two handed Kṛṣṇa. Eh? What is this? He could not, He tried but could not maintain four handed characteristic before Rādhārāṇī. What force compelled Him to continue in that way as She likes? Eh? What She's liking He has no power to come out of that. His figure, the figure of Her choice.

Yaha yan nitya bare taha krsna [?] Kṛṣṇamayī is one of the Names of Rādhārāṇī. What is the meaning?
Kṛṣṇamayī paroktya radhika baladev, Kṛṣṇamayī krsna yad antare [?] Within there is Kṛṣṇa. Outside She's seeing Kṛṣṇa. Wherever She's casting Her eye there is Kṛṣṇa. In, out, and wherever She casts, there's Kṛṣṇa.
Antare bahire yahan yaha nitya bare [?] As if Her sight is creating Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] Such power. The negative has got also it's control over the positive in such a way.

So giving, surrendering, in the basis of surrendering, self giving, very, very powerful. Humility, very, very powerful. Christ sacrificed His life and created havoc in the _____ [?] Self giving, so powerful, and many were attracted by that force in great number, innumerable, attracted by negative force, sacrifice, tangible. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So by sacrificing, by embracing death, but without embracing death also one can have got that degree of higher sacrifice and attract persons towards. Only death is not criterion, in living also it is possible, to sacrifice.

That finished, and bhakti, devotion, is superior than death, embracing death. Because at every second it is ready for embracing death, so many deaths are servants there, but the cause always sacrificing wholesale, living. But the attitude of that highest sacrifice is always there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Amāninā māna, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā. "I don't want anything. Whole concentration towards Kṛṣṇa."

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, [kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

No aspiration for anything else. All energy concentrated towards achievement of Kṛṣṇa. I don't want to be a party to any force on my all sides. No negotiation in good, bad, or in any way. Avoiding association wholesale anything else from all concentration towards Kṛṣṇa. Tṛṇād api sunīcena. Complete withdrawal, whether quarrel, or affection, or anything, I won't care for that. Wholesale dedicated to Kṛṣṇa, that means the sign will be tṛṇād api sunīc, taror api, no opposition to anything. If any opposition, forbearance, no search after any good will. If offered,

'no', it is given back. None can come to disturb me. Whole concentration may be devoted towards one word. Search For Kṛṣṇa. Taking the Name, searching Him, Name directed me about Him, and with faith I'm making progress that side. Fully indifferent to the atmosphere, past, future, present, no tendency can disturb me in my errand, campaign.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Asking Him to capture me. "Please capture me. I belong to none but You my Lord. I wholesale belong to You. Please accept me. Please make me fortunate. I can't stand without Your connection, Your happy, affectionate glance."

Kṛṣṇa connection close, at the centre of all attraction. Attraction proper, attraction in the conscious world is affection. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Try to satisfy, fulfil your heart, by heart's transaction, giving, taking, transaction of heart. Give your heart, and also you may get the heart from the other corresponding side. That is all important, not diplomacy, not diplomatic dealings, but sincere heart dealings. We're tired of diplomacy and the result within, all the effect of diplomacy. So many self searching points, centres, self searching centres, so many, and in their attempt they're more or less all deceivers and diplomats. Want to establish themselves in competition. I've made too much of them.

Kāmādīnāṁ kati na katidhā pālitā. What have I not done for them, to satisfy those masters, what have I not done? I have done everything from so long time, no end. But I don't find any symptom that they're satisfied with me. The more we serve, more demand comes to me, so more serving, I'm disgusted. My Lord, engage me, otherwise they won't leave me, they're chasing me. I have run to Your jurisdiction, please take me within Your compound. They're chasing after me. Please give me admission.

kāmādīnāṁ kati na katidhā pālitā durnideśās

["O my Lord, there is no limit to the unwanted orders of lusty desires. Although I have rendered them so much service, they have not shown any mercy to me. I have not been ashamed to serve them, nor have I even desired to give them up. O my Lord, O head of the Yadu dynasty, recently, however, my intelligence has been awakened, and now I am giving them up. Due to transcendental intelligence, I now refuse to follow the unwanted orders of these desires and I now come to You to surrender myself at Your fearless lotus feet. Kindly engage me in Your personal service and save me."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.16]

Some engagement, whatever, some mean engagement, a sanction of Your service, anyhow, in any way. That is our necessity. I've got engagement, I've got the admission card. Frustrated they'll run away ____ [?] beyond our clutches. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

[daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā]
mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te

["This "trimodal," supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 7.14]

"Otherwise. Daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā. Uncrossable, but mām eva ye prapadyante, anyhow if one comes within My jurisdiction, plane, that world."

So taṭasthā, when we're in the margin, both parties come to draw. But as soon as one sided - the other has to go away. The marginal position is very awkward. And when we're within māyā's clutches then no mention. Anyhow to run to enter into the jurisdiction we'll go. So sādhu saṅga, the agents of the Lord are moving wonderfully, and anyhow through them to acquire, to get some admission card recommended.

Gaura Sundar. Nitāi. Bodily we may be far, far away, but consciousness may be near. Body may be away, consciousness may be near. Only through submission, if we're submissive to a particular person I'm near him. The nearness and the distance is calculated in this way in the plane of consciousness. Physical representation is no concern, no question, but only through submission we can be nearby them, that principle. "I want to serve him" - that is I'm nearby.

Rūpa Goswāmī told, "Please order me, I shall follow You to Purī."

Mahāprabhu, "No, no, you are always with Me. Go, what I say do that then you'll be near Me. If you be at My beck and call you are near Me, otherwise not."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. All right, I take leave now. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...family consciousness, family man God is so high He's our family man, so near. If this can be realised, sincerely, then there'll be none who cannot be carried by this. The assembly is represented by these authorities of different departments. There is, what wonderful method there may be that God can be conquered like this? How is it possible? The wonder of wonders. All other feats, intellectualism, and other mystic methods all eliminated there. Vedā yathā mūrti-dharās tri- pṛṣṭhe.

The meeting was so well represented that it's described that all the different departments suggested by the Veda they had their representative, fully represented in the whole Veda. Just as a personification of the whole Veda was there. Of all sorts of revealed knowledge and their experts as if personified, the different lines taking the form of a person and represented there. At that well represented meeting of the high scholars mentioned there, Śukadeva he represented this case.

The charm of all different methods of revelation gone forever. What Nimāi Paṇḍita has brought down from the upper most realm, upper most plane of life, here, that has finished all other attempts with their so called inventor or discoverer, all finished.

Sārvabhauma Paṇḍita he left his nyāya and Vedānta discussions and was playing in the water with Rāmānanda, water play. In the Indradrumna Sarova pushing water to Rāmānanda, Rāmānanda pushing water to Sārvabhauma. Nityānanda, Advaita, They're also pushing water and quarrelling.

And Mahāprabhu enjoying from the bank and asking Gopīnātha, "What these two sober persons are doing like child? Please try to stop them, stop their childishness. And great Rāmānanda also sober. Sārvabhauma, a professor of the Vedāntic, what they're doing, childish play?"

And Gopīnātha remarked, "So many big mountains they're going down in the ocean of love in Your Avatāra. What's the case of these two small mountain peaks? [Locana dāsa Ṭhākura said: "The compassionate Nityānanda Prabhu most humbly approached those who did not feel any loving appreciation for Śrī Gaurāṅga due to their false pride and hard heartedness. Not to hurt their pride, He took a few blades of grass between His teeth as a token of humility and appealed to them saying, "O dear friend, try to understand that your own highest good is Gaura Hari. You can attain the greatest fortune of your life if you connect to Him with love and devotion. Please take His Holy Name, even if only once, and chant it from the core of your heart. With devotional faith speak about His glories and share your relish with other devotees. Sincerely pray for His grace, for you will surely receive great spiritual benefit. I am your most well wishing friend. If you can please take My advice and act accordingly then you can own Me forever.

Imploring in such a way, Śrī Nityānanda's heart melted in spiritual compassion. Incited by that deep emotional ecstasy He became so tender before those proud people that He invalidated all their pride. As an act of noble humility He began to roll on the ground before them. As His form became decorated with the dust of the earth the devotees around Him beheld with tearful eyes the extraordinary manifestation of causeless mercy of Prabhu Nityānanda. They marvelled at how their divine Guru Tattva, could sacrifice His exalted position and honour and come down to the dust of the earth with such compassionate humility."]

[From Bhakti Nandan Svāmī's Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 4]

To die for a cause and to live for a cause. It has been considered that to apparently see to die for a cause is greater. But it has been ascertained, calculated, to live for a cause is more generous and more valuable. Jesus died for cause, and Nityānanda Prabhu He lived for the cause. Approached every door and there requesting and rolling on the ground. "Please accept Gaurāṅga. Please accept My Gaurāṅga, My Lord, you accept My Lord Gaurāṅga. You'll be benefited in such a way you can never estimate that, so much benefit you'll derive. You accept My Lord Gaurāṅga." Eta bali nityānanda bhūme gaḍi yāya, sonāra parvata yena dhūlāya loṭāya. As a golden mountain rolling on the door, gate of a person, crying. "Accept My Lord Gaurāṅga. You do not know how rich you'll become in future, in this way." Both sides of this Ganges, this side and other side of the Ganges generally He used to travel - Nityānanda.

bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna.

["Worship Gaurāṅga, speak of Gaurāṅga, chant Gaurāṅga's Name. Whoever worships Śrī Gaurāṅga is My life and soul. Come straight to the campaign of Śrī Caitanya and you will safely attain Vṛndāvana."]

"He's very life to Me."

_____ [?] That campaign, movement, was only five hundred years - within five hundred years that movement occurred here. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gupta Govardhana, and also aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ. Ha, ha. I have selected the place aparādha-bhañjan, for the worst type of sinners. This place purified worst type of sinners, offenders.

All the tension after sannyāsa - nadiya adya kori [?] The whole Nadiyā was darkened, enveloped with darkness when Śrī Gaurāṅga left for sannyāsa. After five years again when He came here the number of people knew no bounds, gathering, huge gathering. The whole Ganges water was filled with heads only, crossing Ganges. No space between men, all crossing Ganges, whole Ganges was filled with human heads crossing to meet Gaurāṅga this side, from that side. And it's told, the jungle, the shops, they're all cleared by walking of the persons here, such huge gathering.

I thought it exaggeration. But when I found these Gandhi's affairs, at dead of night he's coming and so many people are there, a sea of heads. And for that, what was the tension when Mahāprabhu came after that? That is a thousand times more intense to attract.

And what Vṛndāvana dāsa Ṭhākura has written in toto it is true. The jungle turned into path, into broad highway. And the whole river was covered with heads. If one is dying or not dying, swimming. If one is going to die, three or four hands come to help him, in such a way. If one is diving, then four hands coming to keep him up. So thickly covered by the men this Ganges was.

The Ganges was a big one, bigger, now it is smaller. In our childhood I have seen that every day swimmers used to come and go this side. And the young age also I found every day up to Kalna, every day then up to Navadwīpa, then up to Kalna. Now I do not know up to Hoogly or somewhere, it is filled up. All Ganges water taken by the channels above, no water for Ganges. The channels after channels, water taken away from Ganges, Ganges has died. Ganges was a big river here.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi-Gaura. Nitāi-Gaura. _____ [?] Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Again we hope to meet with this side with your good will. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...bhāva kanti, divided. Rādhārāṇī bhāva, Gadādhara Paṇḍita - Rādhārāṇī's kanti, the lustre, the halo. Gadādhara Dāsa. And he took the charge of the Katwa temple first, and his disciples are worshipping there still now. Gadādhara Dāsa. He approached anyone and everyone. "And you must take Kṛṣṇa Nāma." Once he approached the Kāzī, the local Mohammedan judge. "You Kāzī take the Name of Kṛṣṇa."

"Why should I take the Name? I'm a Muslim. Why should I take Kṛṣṇa Nāma?"

"Oh, you have taken already, Kṛṣṇa, then what harm? Go on taking the Nāma. You've already taken."

In that way. Gadādhara Dāsa.

[11:25 - 11:52 ?]

Devotee: In Rāmāyaṇa, Garuḍa came to help Lord Rāmacandra, because Rāmacandra was very distressed. The Lord Himself was entangled by snakes. And Nārada Muni saw it and he had Garuḍa go to help Lord Rāmacandra. But after, even though he was a great servant of the Lord, he was very confused. "Why was the Lord entangled with these snakes? Why couldn't He do it Himself?" So Garuḍa went back and he saw Nārada Muni.

And Nārada Muni said, "No, don't see me, go see Lord Brahmā."

And after seeing, Lord Brahmā said, "No, go see Lord Śiva."

And Lord Śiva said, "No, go see _____ [?] the bird, the small crow."

Nārada Muni, he knew what was happening, he had knowledge of this. Why didn't he give that knowledge to Garuḍa? Why did he send Garuḍa - everyone, back to this bird, this crow?

Badrinārāyaṇa: You expect me to tell that to...

Devotee: Yes, well, somehow, if you can simplify it, or whatever.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Not today.

Devotee: All right.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Water and ray, as spirit, the verge of the spirit, marginal portion. Water and ray, light. Light representing jīva, and water representing the physical construction. So jīva soul connected with this physical potency, both mixed, created this world. Then again so many brahmāṇḍas created. And Mahā- Viṣṇu again represented in every brahmāṇḍa, lying, and the lotus coming from His navel, and there is Brahmā, and Brahmā is creating the brahmāṇḍa. And in the second representation Mahā-Viṣṇu, Garbhodakaśāyī. Then from Garbhodakaśāyī again came Kṣīrodakaśāyī, Paramātmā, Whose location was in Kṣīrosamudra and Who is entering in every heart and controlling every jīva. Super controller, there in every heart, Paramātmā.

upadraṣṭānumantā ca, bhartā bhoktā maheśvaraḥ
paramātmeti cāpy ukto, dehe 'smin puruṣaḥ paraḥ

["Within this same body (distinct from the soul) the Supreme Person or Parama Puruṣa is present as the soul's intimate witness, sanctioner, supporter, guardian, and Lord. He is known as the Supersoul."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 13.23]

He's upa, just above the jīva soul, He's there, upadraṣṭā, overseeing everything. Anumantā. Yes, you're doing, go on though. Bhartā. Still giving protection. Bhoktā. And somewhat good, bad, for sympathy, He also feels something for the jīva. Maheśvaraḥ. He can interfere with every action but He does not do. Paramātmeti cāpy ukto. His another name is Paramātmā. Dehe 'smin puruṣaḥ paraḥ. In every body, in our body, He's like a supervisor, advising officer. He's represented from the centre. He's always at the back of our soul who is allowed to work freely, but detector of the free action, for His function, Paramātmā. In Gītā Upadeśa. In Veda, samāne vṛkṣe, [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 3.1.1-2] & [Śvetāśvatara-Upaniṣad, 4.6-7] two birds in the same branch, ātmā, Paramātmā. And Gītā,

upadraṣṭānumantā ca, bhartā bhoktā maheśvaraḥ
paramātmeti cāpy ukto, dehe 'smin puruṣaḥ paraḥ

And another,

īśvaraḥ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, hṛd-deśe 'rjjuna tiṣṭhati
bhrāmayan sarvva-bhūtāni, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā

["O Arjuna, the indwelling Supreme Lord, by the potency of His deluding energy, causes the living beings to wander hither and thither (in many postures), as though each were merely a puppet on strings, riding on a carousel. Verily, that Lord is dwelling within the heart of all living beings."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61]

_____ [?] or Prime Minister and _____ [?] something. Does not interfere generally but can interfere if necessary. Paramātmā's position is such in every heart. And for a brahmāṇḍa in general that is Garbhodakaśāyī, Hiraṇyagarbha, father of Brahmā. And then, all the brahmāṇḍas together, the brahmāṇḍas are floating in the Virajā, the prakṛti, the broadest conception of the material existence, He's connected with Mahā-Viṣṇu, jagat-katā, māyayā yaḥ sṛjaty adaḥ.

[mahā-viṣṇur jagat-kartā, māyayā yaḥ sṛjaty adaḥ / tasyāvatāra evāyam, advaitācārya īśvaraḥ]

["Lord Advaita Ācārya is the incarnation of Mahā-Viṣṇu, whose main function is to create the cosmic world through the actions of māyā."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 6.4]

Advaita Ācārya is considered to be the same with Mahā-Viṣṇu, Who is at the bottom of the whole creation, and Hiraṇyagarbha of every brahmāṇḍa, every solar system. You may think. And Kṣīrodakaśāyī Viṣṇu at the back of every soul. Three conceptions of Viṣṇu that is related to māyāic, this negative creation.

And the positive side there are so many, twenty four, on four sides of Nārāyaṇa. Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna, Aniruddha. That is four main and then five in four groups, attached is twenty four altogether, in Vaikuṇṭha. Just as mula Saṅkarṣaṇa is represented in Dvārakā - that is original than this Vaikuṇṭha. In this way it has been _____ [?]

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. Can you explain the difference between Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā and Kṛṣṇa in Dvārakā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Mathurā Kṛṣṇa sometimes two handed, sometimes four handed. Four handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā is equal to Dvārakā Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Equal?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And two handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā is equal to Baladeva in Vṛndāvana. Svayaṁ- Rūpa who is only coexistent with Rādhārāṇī. And prakāśa vilāsa two divisions, and sub division, prabhāva and vaibhava. The prabhāva means central, vaibhava means extension. So prabhāva prakāśa when Kṛṣṇa in the side of another gopī in the rasa. In the rāsa līlā the original Kṛṣṇa is always at the side of Rādhārāṇī. And His prabhāva prakāśa on the side of other gopīs, prabhāva prakāśa. And vaibhava prakāśa is Baladeva. And vilāsa, prabhāva vilāsa is in Mathurā when two handed. And four handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā that is equal to Dvārakā vilāsa, prabhāva vilāsa, er, vaibhava vilāsa, vaibhava extension, prabhāva central. Central representation and extended representation, two divisions, two kinds. Svayaṁ-Rūpa, Svayaṁ-Prakāśa, Svayaṁ-Vilāsa. Prabhāva-Prakāśa, Vaibhava-Prakāśa. Prabhāva-Vilāsa, Vaibhava-Vilāsa. Four kinds extension, representation.

vaibhava-prakāśa kṛṣṇera – śrī-balarāma, varṇa-mātra-bheda, saba – kṛṣṇera samāna [vaibhava-prakāśa yaiche devakī-tanuja, dvibhuja-svarūpa kabhu, kabhu haya caturbhuja]

["The first manifestation of the vaibhava feature of Śrī Kṛṣṇa is Śrī Balarāma. Balarāma and Kṛṣṇa have different bodily colours, but otherwise Balarāma is equal to Kṛṣṇa in all respects. Another example of vaibhava-prakāśa is the son of Devakī. He sometimes has two hands and sometimes four."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.174-5]

So Vṛndāvana Balarāma is equal to two handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā. And four handed Kṛṣṇa in Mathurā is equal to Dvārakā _____ [?]

Devotee: Rūpa Goswāmī says, vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī. Rūpa Goswāmī skips, or he passes, crosses over Dvārakā and Mathurā. He says vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow.

Devotee: Rūpa Goswāmī says, vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī, that verse in Upadeśāmṛtam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī. Yes.

Devotee: Yes. So he skips, he passes over Dvārakā. He does no mention of Dvārakā. Vaikuṇṭha, Mathurā.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Rūpa Goswāmī he's not mentioning Dvārakā. He's going right to Mathurā and then to Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Dvārakā is subsidiary to Mathurā. He's going to janma līlā. Vaikuṇṭhāj janito, for birth concern, the līlā of His being born, that is in Mathurā not in Dvārakā. So Rūpa Goswāmī up to śanta, dāsya, and half of sākhya found in Vaikuṇṭha, but not the birth ceremony. We found there the service in the birth ceremony, that is filial service, is not found in Vaikuṇṭha, it is found in Mathurā, not Dvārakā. So Mathurā is better, giving us the chance of higher services of His janma līlā birth ceremony. Father, mother, serving Him, vātsalya līlā, it is in Mathurā not in Dvārakā. So he has taken to Dvārakā. Then in details we can go to Dvārakā and then Mathurā.

And also we can go to Ayodhyā. Ayodhyā also we can find this - that he has taken to Kṛṣṇa conception Mathurā. In Ayodhyā līlā there only consort service restricted only to one wife. In Dvārakā so many wives could render service to the Lord, Dvārakā and Mathurā. Dvārakā is a production of Mathurā.

Mathurā means Mathurā maṇḍala takes us there, Mathura. Tatrāpi rāsotsavād, vṛndāraṇyam. Then from vātsalya we go to consorthood in Vṛndāvana. Then Govardhana, selected few experts in the consorthood servant, in Govardhana. Then highest position is in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa where the foremost display of the consorthood service to Kṛṣṇa.

Rūpa Goswāmī has written in one place, Kṛṣṇa, from the peak of Govardhana Giri, He's looking at different types of service. He's looking at the Gokula. Yaśodā is so much busy to make arrangement for His food etc. So many servants are also engaged busily under the direction of Nanda to make arrangement of the service of Kṛṣṇa. Then also the vātsalya, sākhya, Balarāma is seen somewhere else in the group of the friends playing in a very intense way. And also looking at that Candrāvalī, she with her own group are approaching to a particular place to have the darśana and get the chance of service of Kṛṣṇa. And also looking at Rādhārāṇī with Her own intimate friends Her going to Rādhā-Kuṇḍa for the preparation of the Kṛṣṇa's union there with Her. From one place He's supervising, He's inspecting everything. Sometimes looking at Nanda-Yaśodā, sometimes Balarāma with the sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, then Candrāvalī, then Rādhārāṇī, all these things. But His eyes are always tending towards Rādhā-Kuṇḍa where Rādhārāṇī is preparing for His service where all is automatically drawn towards that. There He's inspecting every attempt for His loving service. In that way he's proved the gradation of intensity of loving service, of attraction. He's attracted by all, simultaneously, but there's gradation.

When we think how Kṛṣṇa left Vṛndāvana, went to Dvārakā, most cruel hearted showed there, injustice to the Vṛndāvana līlā. Again when we think that there are devotees who wants from Dvārakā class and other places, they also should be given some chance. Because He's all in all, for some time, to satisfy all is expected, everyone is expecting Him, Kṛṣṇa. So not only the higher servitors but the lower class they've also got some demand over Him to certain extent, and that also must be looked for. So leaving Vṛndāvana He went to Mathurā, from there to Dvārakā. And in Vaikuṇṭha also another representation. Everywhere He'll have to help different forms.

vṛndāraṇyam udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ
rādhā-kuṇḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt
kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevāṁ vivekī na kaḥ

["The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?"] [Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

And a similar parallel,

karmibhyaḥ parito hareḥ priyatayā vyaktiṁ yayur jñāninas
tebhyo jñāna-vimukta-bhakti-paramāḥ premaika-niṣṭhās tataḥ tebhyas tāḥ paśu-pāla-paṅkaja-dṛśas tābhyo 'pi sā rādhikā preṣṭhā tadvad iyaṁ tadīya-sarasī tāṁ nāśrayet kaḥ kṛtī

["There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places."]
[Upadeśāmṛta, 10]

In location and also qualification, both sides step by step towards the higher. Rūpa Goswāmī. Karmibhyaḥ parito hareḥ priyatayā, and vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī. Then in another place, na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ

na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr [naivātmā ca yathā bhavān]

["Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

All these are proving step by step towards the higher, showing how superior they are gradually, process. This comparison we're to follow. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: You spoke of Madhusūdana Saraswatī, and he says tadīya and madīya. Can you explain the difference between tadīya and madīya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I belong to Him," this is the general conception of affection, "I belong to Him." But "He belongs to me" more forceful and higher, "He belongs to me", this conception about the Absolute. I belong to Him, everyone belongs to Him, a general conception, general connection. But "He belongs to me, and I shall take care of Him, in every respect I'm in charge", madīya.

Then, He says according to Him, the next high and He one and the same. But one and the same not in the physical sense, as they conceive. One and the same of our common interest in every point. That does not mean that I have no existence and He has got no separate existence. We're two, but we've got similar interest, common interest, and equally divided, or no division. But with two representations, the conception of one and another there is not abolished.

And they say they merge, and nothing, become one abstract whole, nirviśeṣa brahman. But we say however we're united with common interest, everything, but still the separate characteristic is maintained there. Two friends of same heart, but still they're separate, something. Everywhere interest is common, but still separate, that negative and positive character is there. Wife and husband may be of common interest in every affair, but still they've got some separate characteristic, as regards other things of common.

The līlā is possible, common, negative, positive, otherwise no possibility of being's division at all, and this creation was impossible. If that static eternal substance is the original thing then how this variegatedness and plurality will come, from where? If that is the most original and only true thing, that non differentiated one, then how creation can come? How division has come, how one conscious of another, how it can come? So however one static substance, and whether it is or it is not, none to differentiate, none to know, all knowledge is impossible. If the original conception of the Absolute is non differentiated, He's impersonal, then how personal question can come from impersonality? Or any movement, any change can come from there? If told that potentiality is there? So the potency and the owner of the potency, the negative and positive is always present, sometimes firmly united and then separated. From unity to come to separateness, so there's difference between the two within, otherwise how can they assert in a different way?

And complete non differentiated things, some sort of differentiation, and some sort of difference must be there, in subtle form. In subtle-most form, difference, cannot be easily detected, but if it's not there then the differentiation can come from where, if it was not in the original position? It must be in some conception or other. So something cannot come from nothing.

Devotee: But the Vedas say, eko bahu syam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So it was there, eko ham bahu syam, that mentality, "I was one, I became many." That there was that mentality underground - "I'm one, I shall be many." But that means in subtle form there was many, so in the gross form it was possible to be transformed. Eko ham bahu syam. To ordinary view I'm one, now I want to be many. So the possibility of many, the variety was there in cause. What is not in the cause can never come in the effect, it must be there. In a particular form, it was there, and in the seed. Just as in a seed when it develops there comes the leaf, the flower, the branches, but it was in subtle form in the seed. A big banyan tree is coming from the seed. In seed it was in undetected very subtle form and there coming. Otherwise it can't come, develop in this way, from nothing coming to something. In some way or other it was there in the cause it is coming.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the beginning of creation the sun, the so many stars, the water, the air, all gradual development and they're coming. Everywhere it is such. Evolution means that. Sometimes going in and sometimes coming out, that is the nature.

85.11.20.B_85.11.21.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...creation. But in the unified Absolute everything is constant there. Nitya līlā. All is eternal, every function, every attitude, every play, all going on eternally, but still it is ever new. Ha, ha. Coexistent. Birth līlā in one place, just like sunrise, everywhere there is morning. Now here morning, one second after there morning. One hour after morning is there, so morning is always in the eternal sense, evening is always. A change of place. From the infinite standpoint every līlā, every pastime, everything is eternal, nothing lost.

...

...he took a vow of living in Purī, because he thought Mahāprabhu will be fixed here, so he took kṣetra sannyāsa. "That as long as I shall live I must stay here, and I shall go nowhere." But when Mahāprabhu went to visit Vṛndāvana Gadādhara could not stay. "I'll follow You. Give me permission."

Mahāprabhu said, "No. You have already taken vow, as long as you'll live you'll stay here only. And if you go, leaving this place, then you'll break your vow and you'll be a sinner. I can't tolerate that, I can't give permission."

But Gadādhara Prabhu he was just like the shadow of Mahāprabhu, always after Him. He could not - "I don't want any vow or anything else. I want You. I can't stay without Your company, Your Grace."

Then Mahāprabhu did not give permission, so he felt a swoon, fell there, and swooned away. And Mahāprabhu came away.

Then, perhaps Sārvabhauma, he anyhow helped Gadādhara. "And this is the līlā of His free will. We should not disturb Him, we're to obey Him. This is a particular līlā. Let us go home."

So anyhow consoled him, and took him to his _____ [?] Toṭa Gopīnātha. Toṭa means garden, in Oriya language toṭa means garden, so Gopīnātha's garden, that was the place and name by Gadādhara Prabhu. And as long as he lived he used to serve Gopīnātha there.

[05:00 - 09:15 ?]

...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. Mahā Yogī Mahārāja he's compiling that book The Lord's Loving Search For His Lost Servitors. And he'd like to know some more of your conception to help him to compile.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Bhāgavatam we find Yuga Avatāra.

kṛte śuklaś catur-bāhur, [jaṭilo valkalāmbaraḥ

Embodying the knowledge of worship by sacrificial performance, which is contained in the Ṛg, Sāma and Yajur Vedas. His symbols are the ladle, spoon and other implements for sacrifice."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.24]

Iti dvāpara urv-īśa [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.31] Kṛṣṇa Avatāra. And for the Kali-yuga, Yuga Avatāra.

Although His complexion is not blackish, He is Kṛṣṇa Himself. He is accompanied by His associates, servants, weapons and confidential companions."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.32]

After that there are two ślokas.

dhyeyaṁ sadā paribhava-ghnam abhīṣṭa-dohaṁ, tīrthāspadaṁ śiva-viriñci-nutaṁ śaraṇyam bhṛtyārti-haṁ praṇata-pāla bhavābdhi-potaṁ, vande mahā-puruṣa te caraṇāravindam

["O guardian of the surrendered, O great personality (the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself, who enacts His divine pastimes as a pure devotee [mahā-bhāgavata]), You alone are the reality to be constantly meditated upon by the pure souls. You are the destroyer of the soul's illusion, You are the divine wish-fulfilling tree, the refuge of all devotees. Worshippable by Śiva and Viriñci (Sadāśiva in the form of Śrī Advaita Ācārya, and Brahmā in the form of Haridāsa Ṭhākura), You are the shelter of all and everything, and You are the dispeller of Your devotee's suffering which originates in offences to the Holy Name (nāma-aparādha). You are the only boat for crossing the ocean of this material world of suffering. I do worship Your holy lotus feet."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.33]

About Śrī Caitanyadeva Mahāprabhu this śloka meant. Then, tyaktvā su-dustyaja-surepsita-rājya-lakṣmīṁ, dharmiṣṭha arya-vacasā yad agād araṇyam māyā-mṛgaṁ dayitayepsitam anvadhāvad, [vande mahā-puruṣa te caraṇāravindam]

["O Supreme Lord, You gave up the goddess of fortune and Her great opulence, which is most difficult to abandon, and is sought after even by the gods. In order to perfectly establish the principles of religion, You left for the forest to honour the brāhmaṇa's curse. To deliver the sinful souls who chase illusory pleasures, You search after them and award them Your devotional service. At the same time, You are engaged in search of Yourself, in search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa: Reality the Beautiful."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.34]

Two symptoms of this Avatāra of Kali. Māyā-mṛgaṁ. He ran after the souls that are enveloped by māyā, misconception, māyā-mṛgaṁ. Mṛga means it is similar to Rāmacandra. Rāmacandra ran after Krpasura, that Marīci māyā-mṛga.

And it is applied in the case of Śrī Caitanyadeva. Māyā-mṛgaṁ, anvadhāvad. Mṛga, those souls that are under illusion, He chased after them to deliver them, to save them. Māyā-mṛgaṁ, anvadhāvad. He ran, He pursued after the fallen souls as a saviour to deliver them from māyā, anvadhāvad.

And dayitayepsitam. Another, [Viśvanātha] Cakravartī Ṭhākura has given this interpretation of this śloka. Dayitayepsitam, dayitayā ipsitam, that is desired by the beloved. That is the search for Kṛṣṇa.

Twofold quality we find in Caitanya Avatāra. One to relieve the fallen souls, another to search Kṛṣṇa in the mood of dayitayā, His favourite, the beloved. Rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ.

[rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam]

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

Inspired by the mood of dayitayā means beloved Rādhārāṇī. In that mood He ran after Kṛṣṇa, as well as He ran pursuing the souls in bondage to deliver them. So there we find the seed Avatāra, He's in search of the loving search for the lost servants. We find reference there. And in the whole life of Mahāprabhu, and in His facsimile, His second figure, Nityānanda, that is very clear that They're being the Supreme Entities Themselves, They're hunting after fallen souls to deliver them. This will be the backbone. And also,

yadā yadā hi dharmasya, glānir bhavati bhārata abhyutthānam adharmasya, tadātmānaṁ sṛjāmy aham paritrāṇāya sādhūnāṁ, vināśāya ca duṣkṛtām dharma-saṁsthāpanārthāya, sambhavāmi yuge yuge

["O Bhārata, whenever there is a decline of religion and an uprising of irreligion, I personally appear, like a being born in this world."] ["I appear in every age to deliver the saintly devotees, to vanquish sinful miscreants, and to firmly establish true religion."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.7-8]

Come now and then here to help, to re-establish the scripture, and also to do away with the demonic persons, agents. These are the reference from the scriptures. And by accepting that starting point we can show how He's always coming to this world to help the fallen souls, those that are asking, own servants.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya — kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa', / kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' 'bhedābheda-prakāśa' [sūryāṁśa-kiraṇa, yaiche agni-jvālā-caya / svābhāvika kṛṣṇera tina-prakāra 'śakti' haya]

["It is the living entity's constitutional position to be an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa because he is the marginal energy of Kṛṣṇa and a manifestation simultaneously one with and different from the Lord, like a molecular particle of sunshine or fire. Kṛṣṇa has three varieties of energy."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108-109]

kṛṣṇa bhuli sei jīva anādi-bahirmukha, [ataeva māyā tāre deya saṁsāra dukḥa]

["Forgetting Kṛṣṇa, the living entity has been attracted by the external feature from time immemorial. Therefore the illusory energy [māyā] gives him all kinds of misery in his material existence."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.117]

Though in reality they're servitors to Kṛṣṇa, but from time immemorial they're engaged by misconception for this as exploiting agents. And He comes now and then to take them up to His own home, back to home. Searching, sometimes direct Himself, and sometimes through His agents, sending some qualified devotees now and then, all through He sends them. And in a proper way they may be recruited from here towards their home.

The reference here and there to reconnect them. There may be many mentioned in many places. I don't recollect them all, to collect them, and to make proper arrangement, and then to publish.

In other religions also we find so many Messiah coming to take, to retrace back to God consciousness, from world consciousness to God consciousness. Agents we see also in other countries and other religions. But in India it is in a systematic and in a profuse way which is found.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. When Gopīnāthaji Deity was searching for Mādhavendra Purī, should that be included also? Ksīra-corā Gopīnātha. In the market place.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What He's doing?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He sent His pūjārī to search for Mādhavendra Purī to give him the ksīra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That only for prasādam, he wished to get some prasādam and then he repented that, "I've got temptation." Then he left the place.

And he searched for that, but rather Gopāla He enquired, "When the Mādhavendra Purī will come and take Me out of this forest, and he will install Me and I shall deliver many by giving darśana to them?"

That may be rather the point.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

[kālena naṣṭā pralaye, vāṇīyaṁ veda-saṁjñitā]
mayādau brahmaṇe proktā, dharmo yasyāṁ mad-ātmakaḥ

["By the influence of time, the transcendental sound of Vedic knowledge was lost at the time of annihilation. Therefore, when the subsequent creation took place, I spoke the Vedic knowledge to Brahmā because I Myself am the religious principles enunciated in the Vedas."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.3]

What is that śloka?

"I first gave inspiration to Brahmā the creator of this world through heart to heart. And from Brahmā then so many disciples they got it and from there the line of descent. Mayādau brahmaṇe proktā, dharmo yasyāṁ mad-ātmakaḥ."

...

Devotee: That includes the conception of Guru also?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rukma-varṇaṁ, purusaṁ brahma-yonim.

["The Personality of Godhead, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, is brilliantly effulgent and imperishable like molten gold. He is the Supreme Controller. He controls the mode of goodness and through saṅkīrtana bestows spiritual intelligence on the living beings, by which they can understand devotional service. In the guise of a sannyāsī, He is the source of spiritual purity and of liberation. He is therefore known as "Mahāprabhu".] [Svetāśvatāra-Upaniṣad, 3.12] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 4.1]

yadā paśya paśyate rukma-varṇaṁ, kartāraṁ īśam purusaṁ brahma-yonim

["When one realizes the golden form of Lord Gaurāṅga, Who is the ultimate actor and the source of the Supreme Brahman, he attains the highest knowledge. He transcends both pious and impious activities, becomes free from worldly bondage, and enters the divine abode of the Lord."
[Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 3.3] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 4.2] imaṁ vivasvate yogaṁ, proktavān aham avyayam

[The Supreme Lord said: "Previously I instructed the sun-god Sūrya (Vivasvān) in this imperishable scientific knowledge, which is achieved by selfless action. Sūrya, the presiding deity of the sun, delivered it to his son Vaivasvata Manu, exactly as he had heard it from Me. Thereafter, Manu instructed the same knowledge to his son Ikṣvāku.] [O conqueror of the enemy, in this way, the saintly kings such as Nimi, Janaka, and others, learned this path of knowledge through divine succession. From the beginning of time, I am giving My tidings to others, transmitting the truth that I am the goal through this system of disciplic succession, generation after generation. Presently, due to the influence of this material world and the passage of time, the current is damaged, and this teaching appears to be almost completely lost."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1-2]

"First I told to Vivasvān, Sūrya. Then from Sūrya, Manu. So I'm in the beginning giving My tidings to others, transmitting through this generation after generation, to know Me, that I'm the goal."

sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana, bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī-śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

He's tasting His own sweetness. But to distribute it to the devotees the cause is hlādinī, His potency. And He combined with His potency, hlādinī, becomes the Ācārya.

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, nāvamanyeta karhicit
[na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

This Ācārya līlā that's self distribution, and thereby taking them in. To distribute devotion, self distribution, knowledge and devotion about Him, that is recruitment. This is to be discussed. To give Him to the people that means to recruit them to proper knowledge, and take home. One group Kṛṣṇa, within His own circle He's tasting rasa. And another, Śrī Gaurāṅga's group tasting Himself and distributing to others. The distribution and recruitment one and same. Distributing Himself thereby drawing them, their heart to Him, taking home. Discuss in that way. God's self distribution that means to draw them to home.

85.11.23.A_85.11.24.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and I used to, according to their request, I tried to repeat, and they felt satisfaction by my representation. So I found I could understand, some subtle points also, deeper things.

And my poem in praise of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, the only poem that was written during the stay of Guru Mahārāja, and he appreciated it very much. So much so he told that, "Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has himself written this through him. It is not his writing, but Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura himself has written through him, through his pen." That was his announcement, of Guru Mahārāja, appreciated very much.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Anyhow it is the grace of the Lord. Nothing to be proud of. Any moment I may be blunt again. Ha, ha. What is His grace? It is their grace, Vaiṣṇava grace, may be withdrawn any time. This Gāyatrī vākya, this Gītā Hidden Treasure, all something new type, but it is there and cannot but be there. Because everything must go to Bhāgavata conception.

artho 'yaṁ brahma sūtrāṇāṁ, bhāratārtha-vinirṇayaḥ gāyatrī bhāṣya rūpo 'sau, vedārthaḥ paribṛṁhitaḥ

["Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam represents the real purport of Vedānta-sūtra. And although it is very difficult to draw out the real purpose of the one hundred thousand verse epic Mahābhārata, the great history of the world, Śrīmad Bhāgavatam has come to give its real meaning. The mother of all Vedic knowledge is the Gāyatrī mantra. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam gives the gist of Gāyatrī in a very full-fledged way. And the supplementary truths of the Vedas are also found within Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam."] [Garuḍa-Purāṇa]

All must go to the conception of Bhāgavatam. Kṛṣṇa. And what is Bhāgavatam Kṛṣṇa is given by Mahāprabhu. Caitanya-caritāmṛta. Rāmānanda Rāya conception, that talk, that divine discourse between Mahāprabhu and Rāya Rāmānanda. In a short way the whole thing has been delivered there in a very nice way. "Go deeper, go deeper," in this way we're to follow. "Eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc] "This is also superficial, go deeper. This is superficial, go deeper, go deeper." How in a progressive nice way it has been described there, delivered there. "Go deeper."

If we can follow that, properly of course, we may know many things. What way the meaning is working, what is the way, what is the criterion, how it works on, towards which. Sweet, madhuraṁ, beauty. Beauty controlling everything, love, beauty, we say, not knowledge, nor energy. This basic understanding will help us. Energy, power, neither power nor knowledge - go higher. Karma-śūnya, jñāna-śūnya, nor mysticism. Beauty is harmony, so at the centre, raso vai saḥ. Rasa, ānanda, beauty, sundaram, all, that is the centre, how that is controlling everything, controlling knowledge as well energy. Affection controlling everything, knowledge as well energy. What will be the conception of that affection, that beauty? Love.

And now that is given to us, we're to try to appreciate, approach with the prejudice left back. And clean we must try to make progress, quite naked. Neither scriptural instruction, nor any obligation to the society or guardian. Even the cloth of the ladies, of the gopīs were removed before Kṛṣṇa. Such surrender. Vastra haren [?] What does it mean? Quite naked to Him, at the full disposal, without any prejudice, full surrender. This vastra haren [?] that means full surrender. Nothing between the two, my Lord and myself, nothing, no barrier.

Ha, ha. When I was preaching in Karachi, one educated lady of Ārya Samāji type, she heard my lecture delivered in college and came with some sympathy and question also.

She asked me straight that, "How you say, you recommend Kṛṣṇa, but how can you tolerate His vastra haren [?] His taking away the cloth, dress of the gopīs? It is very awkward, unsocial."

I told, answered her, when you go to take bath in the bathroom alone, are you ashamed to find your naked body?

"No."

Now you think that when you are seeing your private part, one is also seeing through your sight. Antaryāmī. You are looking and another is looking through your look, permeating, He's there. So when you're to conceive Kṛṣṇa, you're to go to your God, you must harmonise between the two. He's all knower. He can see through your eye. A deeper vision He has got. So only you're to think that that all permeating Who can see through me, Who can feel through me, He's outside also. My closest friend, nothing new to Him, everything known to Him. And I'm surrendering to Him. So your objection will disappear. Try to think in that way, not anything awkward there.

It is full surrender. To Whom? He's already seeing everything. Only to become, to invite that consciousness within us. We already belong to Him wholesale. Nothing unknown and unseen in Him. So within and without, that same Master, my Lord, the Lord of the heart of heart, and also out and out everywhere. Lordship, ownership, loving affection, He does not want to ignore anything, and all loving, all embracing. And whatever comes in His connection it is purified, no obscene awkwardness can stand before His vision, all purifying. When we stand before the Deity we don't try to see the Deity, but we shall stand to be purified by His vision. As graceful vision of the Deity I'm becoming purified. The light coming through His eyes, affectionate light, and that is purifying me, making fit for His higher service.

...I'm losing gradually my deeper consciousness. Being old perhaps the depth of my understanding is becoming less day by day, due to the old age.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Jñāna śūnya bhakti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jñāna śūnya bhakti. So jñāna is apparently going away, leaving me.

Badrinārāyaṇa: It's going underground, and bhakti is above now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So your vision is deferred more, eh, you can see it?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Whatever you, you're seeing everything Mahārāja. Whatever you see, you're seeing. When we come before you you're seeing us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From different standpoint. The position of Gurudeva is not fixed one. According to the mood and the progress in ones own life, that is a life of a devotee, the vision about, estimation about Gurudeva also changes.

He's seen as Guṇa Mañjarī in mādhurya rasa up today. Again he's seen as Svarūpa Dāmodara. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Gadādhara. And again Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Kamala Mañjarī. Focusing to the different functions. Kṛṣṇa līlā, Gaura līlā. Svarūpa Dāmodara is Lalitā there, but Guṇa Mañjarī is becoming Lalitā. Not only Lalitā, but also he has expressed, "If I can have a look about my Gurudeva from some higher standpoint, I find him/her, one with Rādhārāṇī Herself." Full source of whole rasa, all comprehensive serving representation. Hare Kṛṣṇa. According to ones own mood he sees the superior between him and Kṛṣṇa, who is the principle mediator, to whom he's more thankful for this rein-station gain.

"Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān. Māṁ means My śakti, My potency. That transmits Me to the environment. That potency which connects Me with the environment, properly, adjusts Me with the environment, he's Gurudeva, in different functions. In different rasa, in different personal conception, all respects, in general the potency that exists between Me and My servitors, My self distributing potency, self distributing function. Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān. You try to realise that Gurudeva is My self distributing function, in different position, different status, different mood, different degree. But all common is My particular potency of self distribution to the environment. Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān. And who has got faith in him, through that faith he can know Me. No reason, no education can come, can enter into the middle position - his grace."

yasya deve parā bhaktir, yathā deve tathā gurau tasyaite kathitā hy arthāḥ, prakāśante mahātmanaḥ

["The key to success in spiritual life is unflinching devotion to both the Spiritual Master and Kṛṣṇa. To those great souls who have full faith in both Kṛṣṇa and the Spiritual Master, the inner meaning of the scriptures is fully revealed."] [Svetāśvatāra-Upaniṣad, 6.23]

"As much śraddhā he's got for Me, regard for Me, so much he must have for Gurudeva. Otherwise he won't be able to understand Me, what My representative will represent to him."

Ha, ha. Once Bon Mahārāja coming back from London he accused Guru Mahārāja of not being well versed with the ideas of foreign countries. "You do not know the fashion, the social custom of the foreign countries, so you say so. Your knowledge is limited."

Then Guru Mahārāja, hopelessly, disappointedly, he referred, "In ordinary sense my Gurudeva did not know to sign his own name. But I saw that the whole knowledge is within the nail of his finger, whole knowledge is there, master of all knowledge - I could see him." And he was saying like that.

Then there was Professor Sanyal, he chastised Bon Mahārāja. "Your foreign contaminations have destroyed your devotion. The principle, primary laws of devotion, that also you have totally forgotten."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So he may or may not express his knowledge, capacity, power, but we're to think that the centre of all good potency is there, by the will of the Lord. And with this faith if we can approach then it will be easier for us to know the unknowable. So he has come to make us know about his position, in a second figure.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. It will help us in our progress a great deal. Jñāna śūnya bhakti, knowledge-less- devotion, free of intellectualism and brain, no brain transaction. Finites law, finite living in a world, the law of all finite standard, how can that come to know the law of the alphabet of the Infinite? Infinite. His grace. Infinite can be known by His grace, as much as He extends to us. Or any aspect He wants to disclose before us. And then so many Infinite aspects are there. One aspect cannot give infinite aspect to another aspect, that may be opposite nature.

Vidya samanyam tasmin na citram [?] In Vedānta it is, the opposites are harmonised there, vidya samanyam, harmonised so many opposite things. That is Infinite. Vidya samanyam tasmin na citram. It is not wonderful for Him to harmonise between opposite thoughts. Harmony is of such character. Quarrel, difference, fighting. In rasa also there are friendly and also enemy rasa, one rasa is against another. In the same rasa also there is existence of antagonistic spirit, but the harmony is there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Only faith can accommodate all these anomalies. Anomalies in the intellectual conception can be harmonised in our feeling in faith. That also with much difficulty. Ha, ha. Intellect comes to play the part of an enemy. "Oh, this is impossible," intellect will say. "No, no, we can't believe this, this is impossible." Discourage faith.

There is a Purāṇic mythological story. Once, Nārada was passing through some village, there was one devotee, he generally meets Nārada and shows his devotion towards him. And asking him now and then, "Oh, when you go to Vaikuṇṭha you please ask on my behalf, my Lord." In this way. One day Nārada is passing through the village, the gentleman, that devotee came. "Oh, did you remind about me my Lord, when He'll call for me?" All these things. "What He's doing now? What have you seen?"

"I saw Him that He's passing an elephant through the hole of a needle?"

"Ha, ha." He laughed. "Is it possible that how through the hole of the needle an elephant can be passed? It's not possible."

Then Nārada told, "You have long time to wait to go there. You've not yet got any training what is Vaikuṇṭha. You're not fit to live in that plane. Everything is possible. The small hole, the elephant can go and come, by His will. He's such."

So Infinite is such, everything is possible. No intellect can interfere there. "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light. His will, all like hypnotism.

Here, P.C. Sakara [?] was a good renowned hypnotist. Once, we saw in the paper, he invited so many doctors, experts, in the operation work. What is that - operation?

Devotees: Surgery.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Such doctors he invited in a group, and in their front, just in their face, he cut a man in many pieces, a body of a man.

The doctors began to shudder. "What are you doing? You're killing, murdering." The doctors said.

"No, no, have patience." Then after cutting to pieces the body, he put in a box. And he carried through some two, three rooms and again there opened the box. That man came out. Whose body was seen to be cut into pieces, that man came out from the box again. The flesh pieces were put into the box, and it was handed around and showed to them, that very man came out. So this is hypnotism.

One ICS scholar came to me, he'd read Bhagavad-gītā. I told him, how do you feel about the Viśvarūpa, this darśana of Kṛṣṇa? Do you believe it?

"Yes, I believe."

How?

"Just like hypnotism, hypnotised Arjuna and showed Himself in different light, kind. And again if the science of hypnotism is there then everything is possible with a higher hypnotist." He told like that.

Subject evolution. I told Dayādhara, when he came with his knowledge of physiology. In the womb, with the growth of the flesh, consciousness growing, how we shall say that consciousness is independent? All these things only in your mind. You're seeing that. The consciousness is coming from the matter, and there's no consciousness outside, it cannot come, here, there. You're concerned with consciousness only. Your consciousness is saying that it's coming out, apparently, of flesh. The consciousness in the womb, developing with the development of the body there. What is the all conscious process in you? Eh? What to say?

What more we see in the eclipse? Between Sun and Earth when Moon comes then we see solar eclipse. When between Sun and Moon comes the Earth, then it's lunar eclipse. But in Hindu mythology it is mentioned that there Rahu, Ketu, Suni, all these things, that they're personal existence, that shadow has personal conception. How? We can think in this way that whatever I get experience I get from that phenomena that is a part of my consciousness. And that particular part of my consciousness which is experiencing the eclipse, that may be called Rahu, a personal thing. That is, consciousness means person, part of consciousness is also a part of personal existence. So everything is person. Beyond consciousness we do not know what is there. All our feelings, or whole of our experience, is only consciousness. That is the original substance. That is not produced by anything, but everything is produced on this plane.

Berkley's theory, not that mind is in the world, but world is in the mind.

yadā sa deva jāgartti, jadedaṁ ceṣṭitaṁ jagat yadā savṛti-śāntātmā, tadā sarvvaṁ nimīlate

["When the jagad-puruṣa or universal form of the Lord, falls asleep. Then everything naturally falls asleep along with Him. Then there is no more creation, no more external activity because all are dissolved. And again, with the awakening of Him, everything becomes active."] [Manu-saṁhitā]

In Manu-saṁhitā. When that universal person, Brahman, He's awake, then we find everything moving, going this way, that way. And when He enjoys the sleep, then no trace of anything, no existence, all entered into unknown. And the universal consciousness, we're also, our consciousness is part of the universal consciousness.

Hegel told that, "Everything is idea. I may think that there's a coin in my pocket, but will there be any coin in my pocket?" He has answered. "It is already in the universal pocket, otherwise it's impossible for us to think like that."

So idea goes ahead, and then our material conception follows. Everything starting with idea, and then the physical things try to follow that. First conception of every movement is idea, and then the other parts follow the program. So idea is everything. And in the universal mind there is everything. It's told that this body is a part of the material existence of the universal whole. So our thinking that we're soul, that is also a part of the universal consciousness. And this material consciousness a part consciousness, this is fossil, this is stone, and this is wood, that is all different type of concepts. Consciousness is the basis of everything. Yato vā imāni bhūtāni jāyante. From that prime cause that is Brahman, consciousness, all accommodating consciousness, everything coming out of that. As from the bubble coming from the sea, and again it's going into the sea. Something like that.

yat prayanty abhiṣamviśanti, [tad brahma tad vijijñāsa]

["The Supreme Brahman is the origin and shelter of all living beings. When there is creation, He brings them forth from their original state, and at the time of annihilation, He devours them. After creation, everything rests in His omnipotence, and after annihilation, everything again returns to rest in Him."]
[Taittirīya-Upaniṣad, 3.1]

From where everything is coming, where everything is maintained by Whose existence, and when entering into Him again and completely disappears there. That prime cause that is Brahman. That is all comprehensive consciousness. That has got fundamental existence. All other existence are different concepts within that, we're told.

Śukadeva Goswāmī said to Parīkṣit Mahārāja, "You're suffering from animal consciousness that this body is you. Give up this false idea, and stand on your own soil, that you're above this body consciousness, this matter consciousness. You take your stand completely on your mother soil, your own soil, your conscious world. This has got nothing to do with this body that dies. The body will vanish, but you will remain intact, no harm there will be in any way. From these negative, dream like things, give up, shake off that you're identified with this body and you're there. This is the disease, bhava-roga, to be bhava-samudra, the notion of the idea that to be, that identification...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...madman, his home consciousness, his previous consciousness gone, and he's thinking he's such and such and guided by that idea. But when madness is gone again he'll be reinstated in his former position. "Oh, what is this? The madness forced me to think like this, now I'm all right."

Vikṛta citta, our consciousness is thrown out in such a way and fixed there and we find, "Oh, I'm this, I'm this." All false. Stand erect in your own soil. Give up this false idea, mania. This is all mania, and you are all suffering from mania, and universal mania is there. So many points of souls they're suffering from this universal mania. From that cholera, from blindness, from this, that, so many diseases. This is a common disease, get up.

uttiṣṭhataḥ jāgrataḥ prapya varāṇ nibodhataḥ
[kṣurasya dhārā niśitā duratyayā, durgaṁ pathas tat kavayo vadanti]

["Awake, arise: Having obtained the human form of life, you must not sleep in the darkness of ignorance. Awaken knowledge of your real self by associating with great souls and obtaining their mercy. This material creation is as sharp as a razor's edge, for it is the cause of many miseries. It is impossible to cross over without transcendental knowledge. Therefore one must take shelter of the great learned transcendentalists who forever sing the praises of that Supreme Person who is the destroyer of birth and death."]

[Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.3.14]

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. "O you persons of the nectar soil, of the immortal soil, oh child of the immortal soil you hear." The address in the Veda is like that. "Oh you immortal child, amṛtasya putrāḥ, you never die, you are son of the immortality, of eternal substance. You hear, listen to me, you are not so and so, you are such and such." This is the announcement of the Vedas, the revealed truth. Upaniṣad, the first Veda encouraging. "Why you degrade yourself? You are of high order and you've degraded so much that you've forgotten your own noble lineage. And you've become such a coward of the cowards, as a worst crazy and mad, forgotten your own noble position. Now come, stand erect up, and hear you're such and such. And then you've got so many prospects also on the other side, on the higher side."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is the basis, and then we shall make progress towards Vaikuṇṭha.

Vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād vṛnda [Upadeśāmṛta, 9] We shall go to the other, higher length of life, and that comparison is on the whole, sat, cit, ānandam. Our eternal existence we must get back. And cit, and we've got that sort of feeling, permanent feeling, feeling of the permanent nature of that soil, leaving the experience of this lower soil. Then ānandam, fulfilment, heart's fulfilment. That is in the land of dedication. Die to live. That is life there and death here. You're to die from here, and you're to live, begin your life from there in that plane of dedication, and make progress further. It is reality, it is not imagination. Don't become sahajiyā, don't, being in this plane, you're thinking that you've got everything. It is reality. Step by step you're to feel, understand, realise, get, and go. More progress.

It is the reality. Kṛṣṇa is not imagination, that is the reality, if you can come to feel. And that is only possible through śraddhā and through sādhu saṅga, His grace, not a matter of right. That right is in a very lower position, dependent on His grace. If you can collect so much grace, then you can have that service as your right. Dependent on grace, your right there. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

That vision is Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja, he's out for begging, mādhukarī, and so many boys they're feeling pleasure in disturbing him, a man of that type outwardly. Throwing some dust etc on him, and making some joke, cutting jokes.

And he says, "Kṛṣṇa, I shall complain to Yaśodā. You have become so boisterous You are attacking me. What have I done, what wrong have I done to You? You have come with these boys to disturb me. I shall lodge a complaint against You to mother Yaśodā, and she'll give a good check in You."

So where he's awake? He's awake to see that everything in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The boys disturbing, he's seeing, "No, what are these boys? The direction ultimately comes from that quarter." His understanding is so deep he cannot see anything without Kṛṣṇa's interference, everything, at the back there's Kṛṣṇa. The things between all removed, only Kṛṣṇa consciousness deed on every occasion. Every event he's seeing only that Kṛṣṇa is there and He's at the root. Without His sanction nothing can happen. And that is very wakeful in him, his mind. And also he's in Vṛndāvana. "Kṛṣṇa, You're disturbing me, then I shall take it to Yaśodā Ma and she will punish You, then You'll see."

In this way, but it's not imitation, that must be deep realisation. All coming from Kṛṣṇa. These are all prejudices of different kinds that are hindering my connection with the universal substance, controlling agents. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Vision, estimation. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Our Guru Mahārāja wrote Prākṛta-Sahajiyā Śata-Dūṣaṇī. And Madhvācārya wrote, he gave a hundred points against māyāvāda conception that, "I'm Brahman, I'm He. He's one and same." Madhvācārya gave a hundred points against this. And our Guru Mahārāja he saw that sahajiyāism is the worst enemy to śuddha Vaiṣṇavism. So he also wrote a hundred points against this prākṛta-sahajiyā-vāda. "This is the worst enemy to śuddha bhakti." Prākṛta-Sahajiyā Śata-Dūṣaṇī. In different ways. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

You have taken your pāraṇa?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Broken, fast broken, breakfast. Ekādaśī fast broken by pāraṇa. Ke?

85.11.26.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Even the disciple he's also considered to be Guru. As the other day we mentioned the address of Prabhupāda in Vyāsa Pūjā, he's addressing to the disciples. "Oh you delivers from my danger. You all disciples you have come to help me in this endless, fathomless ocean. You are some concrete thing here to help me."

Today I was remembering one of our Godbrothers, the Founder of Gauḍīya Saṅga, who went in the second instalment to London. And by the order of Guru Mahārāja he made one disciple, Vinode Vāṇī. And now the London Maṭh, oldest Maṭh, under Bagh Bazaar management, that Maṭh is there. Vinode Vāṇī became disciple of that Goswāmī Mahārāja.

After the departure of Guru Mahārāja he took sannyāsa from me, coming back from London. When he went to London he was white clad, but a senior preacher he was, and strong preaching. In his white dress of gṛhastha he began preaching, and one young man leaving his family became his disciple, attracted by his lectures. Still living, Bon Bower [?] in Purī at present. He left his young wife and family, and was so much attracted by his advices had left home and joined him.

At that time due to some difference between the trustees we all left, many of us left the main mission and wandering here, there. Where to settle? And Goswāmī Mahārāja he was Aprākṛta prabhu, in his Bakula [?] home he retired there. I went there to fetch him. You are a senior preacher and you are leaving the association and settling up at your home, that is intolerable. Then I had to stay there for fifteen days continuously. I told, without taking you I won't leave the place. Then what to do? He left the place and came with me. From Bakula to Midnapur centre.

And then he took sannyāsa. And he gave a statement that, "This sannyāsa given to me by my disciple Bon Bower [?]" At that time his name was Vibhūti. When I visited his home he wanted a name for him, from me. I gave the name Viṣṇujan, from Vibhūti, Viṣṇujan name was given by me. Then Goswāmī Mahārāja uttered, "Viṣṇujan has given sannyāsa to me. A young disciple leaving his wife and family he has come to serve me, his Guru, in a gṛhastha." He was trying to build a separate house, separate temple, nearby his house. And told me that, "As long as I shall live I will go on continuing the service of this Lord in my temple here. I won't go to preach further." But anyhow I influenced him and took him. And after taking sannyāsa then he told, "The disciple has given sannyāsa to me, to Guru. In young age he has left his home and that girl wife, and he's serving me as his Guru. So it pinched me so much, that I could not, what is this? I'm a householder and disciple, he's a renounced soul."

So the disciple also may be cause of Guru's progress. Only sincere position is necessary, so no other qualification but sincere hankering, that is qualification. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]. Only one price, single price. What is that? Sincere earnestness to have the thing. That is the capital to start with, sincere hankering. "I want my Lord. I want my Lord, to serve Him, to satisfy Him. I won't live for my satisfaction. I can feel that my satisfaction is dependent on the satisfaction of the centre."

It does not exist independently, a part of the whole satisfaction. My joy is a part of the joy of the whole. And the connection with that whole, Supreme Whole, can be had only through serving attitude, sacrifice, surrender, to Him. He's full, He's perfect. I'm imperfect, for my perfection, connection is inevitable with the perfection. And to approach the perfection the way is such, sacrifice, surrender. No other capital can be utilised there, because all tiny, all remitted. Whatever I shall conceive and make any plan or program, that will be all nonsense. To Infinite consciousness, Infinite decision, our particular particle of decision has no value. Only surrender has value, to the good will of the central wave, the wave coming from the centre all round. And to try as much as possible to be one with that, that will. That flow of energy coming from the centre, to distribute happiness, pleasure, to one and all, to feed all. Our real food is satisfaction, joy, happiness, pleasure, that is our food. That is the food of everyone, in the real sense. In the real sense, in the real _____ [?] of us, we only live on pleasure, joy. That is the food of everyone, the higher type of food. And the wave coming from the centre to feed everyone.

But there are so many that refuse that food box that's coming. And they separate interest arrangement. That has done all mischief to our own life and progress and ideal, everything. So that separate interest, that box, that ego, that should be dissolved. And that also can be successfully dissolved by the help of that Absolute wave. So many agents carrying that wave coming to recruit us from our position. And as much as we'll be able to disown us, our limited interest ego, and to identify with that Infinite wave, we'll be more and more successful. We'll have a real life, we'll be able to feel that what is real, what is unreal.

Now what is day that will be night, and what is night to us that will be day. Die to live. Hegel says. Die, surrender means to accept the gradual death of the so called ego, which has taken possession of us. We think that's a part of us, but no, that is master, that ego. That guides us, that meagre, narrow, self interest consciousness, that is the enemy, ahaṅkāra. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. That tie box, tying with this thing with the environment. "I want this thing, I want that thing. I don't want that thing, I don't want this thing." This sort of nature, natural tendency within us, that ego. And that is our greatest enemy, our ahaṅkāra. And from there springing up kāma, krodha, lobha, moha, mada, mātsarya, and the source is ego. And from there all these mal - engagements are coming to guide us in the erroneous directions.

So with the help of the agents, and with the help of faith, śraddhā, that we can gather with sukṛti. Sukṛti, that is help given by the agents of the Supreme, unconsciously to us, injection unconscious.

Just as in a hospital the patient is unconscious and doctor giving injection to him. Then the consciousness coming back. So not only patient being unconscious but sometimes they move their limbs madly. What is that? When unconsciously one is throwing his hands, feet, all this, what's it called? That sort of movement of the body.

So our movement is like that, being unconscious in a proper way but being misguided by any demolished consciousness we're throwing our hands, feet, in the non discordant way. But medicine has its effect. Sukṛti. Independent of us, so many agents that are moving all through, carrying that good knowledge or that affection of the Lord, that uses our energy in some way or other. I have a garden, and they take some flower, and my energy, independent of my consciousness is used in the service of the Lord. That gives us sukṛti. So sukṛti, jñāna, sukṛti, śraddhā, faith comes. And by faith we go to the man of faith, that is sādhu. And then the independent transaction begins. And gradually we can make progress and go, we can see, can see the unseen.

And what is seen, we leave that. That is useless. I'm seeing the deceiving aspect of the world, the phenomenal aspect, as if they're tempting us. "Oh, I'm here, enjoy me." The money will say, "Oh, take me and enjoy." Woman to man, man to woman, "Oh, enjoy." Then name and fame coming, "Oh, credit, good will. I'm here. Take me and enjoy." So many offerings coming from the opposite direction, and we're servants of that, we're slave to that.

But we must come out of this slumber. And in the good association, and revealed scriptures, sādhu, śāstra, they're our real help, real friend to guide us towards proper destination, towards the centre. Die to live. Learn surrender, a noble life. Don't seek any pleasure by disturbing others and disturbing the whole. At the cost of the whole don't try immolate your own happiness. Move, have noble life, learn to give you for other's happiness. Then others is not real conception of giving, really the whole, not any less than that. What is the conception of the whole? Do for the whole and not for any part. Do not do for you, and at the same time nor any part, however bigger it may seem to your senses. Sacrifice for the country, sacrifice for the community, but all extended selfishness. So try to eliminate that.

Then you'll come to Paramātmā - Brahman conception. Eliminating so called extended selfishness you'll have to face the Brahman conception, Paramātmā conception, and Bhāgavata conception, three kinds. All accommodating aspect, Brahman, which is the largest, and which accommodates everything within Him. Paramātmā, all permeating, whatever fine, finest of the fine, entering there, regulating those opposite conceptions. The innermost controller and the outermost accommodater and controller at the same time. Then the third thing, the power, will power, by Whose will everything may come and go. The Master of power, not accommodating, not permeating, but all regulating. That should be the highest principle, Nārāyaṇa, aiśvarya. Then, generally, the ordinary spiritualist who are disgusted with this material mortal loss and gain, they try to find out all accommodating aspect, Brahman. Another section all permeating aspect. These two, and they want to be one with them, and no separate movement, to become one with that. That is their aim, mukti, salvation, liberation, renunciation complete, to be one with the cause. All accommodating or all permeating cause, to be one with them, salvation, liberation.

But the Vaiṣṇava philosophers they have got sukṛti and for that they've got proper thinking. From the scripture they say there's another world on the other side. This is not the only world, defective, but non defective, perfect world is also there. This sort of conception they get through that sukṛti. And they want to cross over that line of renunciation, that is the abscissa, the margin. And another life the opposite direction, here exploitation, there to be exploited, dedication. A life of dedication is honourable and higher and eternal life, they find, the other side, higher side, super subjective side. We're subject, we're living in the relativity of object, but where we shall be object and there should be the subject in the higher sense, super subjective. And there, every unit to carry out the order of the centre, and not themselves centre of order. But only to carry out, dāsa, dāsya. There is a world, and to practically feel that gradually, and enter. And also to get the taste of a noble life. "Yes. Only by robbing we can get pleasure, no. By giving also we can get pleasure." In this world also we find there are some groups who by robbing they get pleasure. But there are also no want of many who by giving get pleasure, and a higher type of pleasure.

In this way the wholesale adaptation of giving, and not giving to any party like myself, but to the perfect cause or centre. To give to the God, to the centre. These things should be dealt. Whatever we do, with this idea, sambandha jñāna. We take the Name, or worship, or we preach, whatever, the background of sambandha jñāna must be like this. So repetition of these things, again and again, the meaning is that. Our temperament, our nature of action, whatever we do, we think, or we work, we worship, or we read, or preach, or taking the Name, whatever, but the sambandha jñāna, how we shall do that. What should be the standpoint of those activities, that will be sevonmukhe, the beginning with surrender towards the centre. Centre may not be known to us so easily in our present stage, but as much as possible we shall have to conceive with the help of the scriptures and the sādhus.

And our śraddhā, hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto, Manu-saṁhitā [2.1] says, the approval of our innermost heart, we shall approach to that direction. Approval of our inner heart. "Yes." So by giving, and giving to the centre, and giving not to Brahman conception, or Paramātmā conception, but the all regulating, all Master, all Lord conception. Now the Lord, all regulator, but regulation by force, regulation by which power, then the finest power is discovered as affection. Law regulation is an abstract thing, that is not coming, law from where. But when we're conscious that the centre is above law, He's autocracy.

As Hegel says, "He's by Himself and for Himself." That is the conception of the prime cause. He's by Himself and He's for Himself. By Himself, already it is there. But for Himself, our future. By Himself, it is past. But for Himself, that is the future. And the future is our real concern, how we shall do, utilise ourselves, our energy, for our future good. And for the future good of others also like us. Future for Himself, so for Himself. We shall try to catch that wave - for Himself. Everything for Himself. We're a part to fulfil His desire. Whatever we do, with this conception, and we're to think that affection, mercy, love, that is above all. That is the highest symptom of the highest entity.

Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the head of, the crown of all revealed scriptures, and Śrī Caitanyadeva He Himself, the most generous, that prime cause Himself came to distribute Him. They're recommending to this end. He's all affection, He's home. We shall go home. With this energy and encouragement we shall do anything and everything to help us. Everyone wants to satisfy, help himself, but helping is of different kinds. This sort of self help, and also help to the public, that will be the foremost, most noble and sure. Not only to save us but also to fulfil our whole existence. Every part of my body is crying for the other corresponding part of the body of that Supreme. What is this? All our inner demands, whatever, can be satisfied only by our connection with that centre.

Sarva-dharmān parityajya. Justification of this announcement in Bhagavad-gītā [18.66], the crown of the whole revealed truth. "Give up all conceptions of duties, however pure it may be seen, it may seem to you. Give up them, all the duties, all kinds of duties, however purity you feel in them, give up. And only one way to be, won't have to repent. I'm such, you won't have to repent."

With this faith, this underground foundation, we're to walk on. Whatever we do, we take the Name, we do any service, gardening, or walking, or cleansing, or worshipping, or distributing

Name, distributing books, but this sort of sambandha jñāna, how to do. Who am I, where am I, what is my goal, and how to move? This sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana, three things are necessary for our progress. Sambandha, who am I, where am I, what am I? All these things, analysis of the environment. And what is my goal? Another. What is my destination? Prayojana. And abhidheya, what is the means to the end. Three things necessary, sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana. In the revealed scriptures we get direction to understand things from three standpoints, sambandha, abhidheya, prayojana. And the place, purpose, position, of myself and the environment, and what is the end goal destination, and how to approach the goal. These three things we must be clear always, whatever we do. If these three things are satisfied then every action will be devotion, that will be progress. Otherwise plodding in darkness, hither, thither, wherever.

So by sādhu saṅga, with the revealed scripture, and exponents of those scriptures, the agents, they can help us in this way, in this direction. So, sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya, only in association of the sādhus and śāstra can help us in our progress. Even it may be necessary to correct our program, sometimes many times. We make a program and accordantly we want to go, make progress. But sometimes may be necessary to correct the program also, because we're plodding in the world of imperfection, and trying to go towards perfection. So as long as we're in _____ [?] But our sincerity of heart will help us a great deal, great deal, great deal.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate]
na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

Hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto, [Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1] Ultimately our own heart is our guide, not brain. Brain more or less contaminated with the puzzling inventions of this world, how we can exploit more. Specially at present who can exploit more his position is the highest, exploit more.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Kṛṣṇa conception. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare, Hare Rāma. Rāma Rāma. With this short address to you I want to leave you. Vāñchā-kalpa...

...

[Ten Kinds of Nāma aparādha: The Ten Offences to the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.]
[See Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.69-75]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The first offence is satam ninda. We must not abuse the Vaiṣṇava, those that are the agents of Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa, to deliver the fallen souls. If you abuse them then Name becomes dissatisfied.

...those revealed scriptures that are taking us the Name of the Lord, advising us, if we abuse them then Name is dissatisfied.

The third, we must have a proper conception of Gurudeva. If we're sincerely searching after the Lord, then Lord is also approaching us, and the meeting point in Guru, His representative. So Gurudeva should always be seen as the representative of God, not ordinary human being. Though we find that he's sleeping, eating, he's suffering from disease - just as Ganges water if physically filthy but still it can purify everything. The dirty Ganges water can purify. Purificatory capacity is not lost by physical dirtiness. So Guru, Vaiṣṇava, they should not be seen through the material eye, but there's another vision through which they should be estimated.

Then fourth, we should not unnecessarily go on abusing other demigods. When comparison is necessary to establish the supremacy of the Lord Viṣṇu, then we can show indifferently, but not in the spirit of abusing other persons, demigods.

Then fifth is, we should not consult dictionary to find out the meaning of the words that are given to us by Name. Because it's to the fullest sense we're to take every word, every meaning, if it's pushed to the highest sense it goes to the centre. So the dictionary meaning should not be attached to the Name and go on.

[prabhu kahe,] – "kṛṣṇa-nāmera bahu artha nā māni
"śyāma-sundara' 'yaśodā-nandana,' – ei-mātra jāni

[Lord Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu replied, "I do not accept many different meanings for the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa. I know only that Lord Kṛṣṇa is Śyāmasundara and Yaśodānandana. That's all I know."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 7.85]

The Name is representing the Absolute. With this idea we shall take the Name.

Then, asraddha-dhano, nama-dhamah. One who is not, who does not deserve, sufficient faith he's got, if for some trading purpose we bestow Name to him we commit offence against Nāma. Name is dissatisfied.

Then, if we think that the Name is one of many purificatory good things, we can serve the country, we can read the holy scriptures, and we can wander through holy places, that's good to take the Name also, a good thing, one of them, then there is disregard about the Name. Name is above all. No purificatory function as taking the Name to be found any other good activities.

Then, namno balad, papa-buddhir. If we think that if we take one Name then all the sins purified. So let me go on sinning and taking the Name and Name will purify. If with this spirit we try to utilise Name to remove dirt from me, that is offence, that is to abuse the Name. Because we should worship Him, serve Him, and not try to use Him in my service, to cleanse, to remove my dirt. Not with that sense we shall take Name.

Then, if we've got any particular attraction for any mundane thing, that must be uprooted. And unprejudiced, free, we shall go to Kṛṣṇa. Back to God, back to home. When taking Name transformation will begin within mental system. And unbiased, unprejudiced, we shall try to go where the Name will take from this world consciousness to God consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. We'll be open.

And the last, that we must take the Name that I'm not pressed to go to some undesirable position. I'm going home. It's very sweet. That is my home. And now I'm wandering in the foreign land, non sympathetic. But I'm really going to my home. There under the Holy Feet of the Divine Lord my everything is there. All well wishers are there. So back to God, back to home. With this spirit we shall take the Name.

And there are nāmābhāsa. By taking the Name, if we've not these offences, with open mind, but no special positive attraction, then liberation we can get. But we must have in our view the attainment of the positive service of Kṛṣṇa and His servitors. With this positive idea we must go on taking Name, not only to avoid the negative side. Sānketyaṁ, parihāsya, stobha, helanam, four kinds of nāmābhāsa which may grant liberation, but not positive engagement in the holy service of Kṛṣṇa. You should avoid them. Always our aim, object will be how to get the dedicated life for the service of that noble Lord. With this spirit you're to go on.

Now you're to go and prostrate before the Vaiṣṇavas, and go to the temple, and then taking this Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā mantra counting the beads, then you'll take prasādam etc. So you keep it...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja. I would like to know if you have any particular service for me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Jaya Rāma _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Particular service, where, here?

Devotee: Anywhere.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Jaya Rāma. Where does he come from?

Jaya Rāma: New York.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And what sort of capacity has he got?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: What do you like to do, and what can you do?

Jaya Rāma: I'm a householder and businessman and musician _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Typing, press _____ [?]

Bhāratī Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, I shall consider and tell you what sort of service you may engage yourself in.

Jaya Rāma: Thank you Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Service is the all in all. We're to note it with very special care and regard, service. And the form, it is culture and not idleness, not merely renunciation but positive engagement. The form is not very important thing, but the life is important which is devoted in the form. It is not retirement from the worldly world. And engagement to the fullest engagement...

...wherever I get I must collect that, service.

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro
nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā
kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded

(eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

My real necessity is to get the privilege of serving the Lord of gopīs. And this brāhmaṇism or gṛhastha or sannyāsa, brahmacārī, all these forms are not necessary for me. I disown from that position, that I'm a sannyāsī, I'm a brahmacārī, I'm a gṛhastha, I disown totally. Only my positive place is this that I'm a servant of the servant of the servant of the Lord of gopīs. That Mahāprabhu has told.

And He's satisfied, jñāna śūnya bhakti, not that the service in generally as respected by the ordinary public, that education, that will fetch more, no. The tendency, the attitude, by which I'm serving, that is valuable. Sometimes the meanest, the service of the lowest attracted most. Mahāprabhu Himself in Guṇḍicā mārjana, He Himself swept the dirt and with His own uttariya He left it outside, and washed by His own hand.

And when Pratāparudra wanted to see Mahāprabhu He did not allow. But when He found that Pratāparudra, though he's sitting on the throne, but before Jagannātha he's serving as a sweeper, that attracted Mahāprabhu and His heart. "Oh. To Jagannātha he's a lowest servant." Then He was very much impressed with his devotional attitude and accepted that very day Pratāparudra.

So service is all important, and these are forms to be used in the service. Prabhupāda created this sacred thread, conferred this sacred thread to show, and the sannyāsa to show that with all these we're to serve the Lord. It does not mean that I've got a position of a brāhmaṇa, I've got a position because sacred thread I've got a respectable position in the society. I shall do like that. Or I'm a sannyāsī, I must not allow myself to do ordinary activities, services. Not for that, but to show instead of all these honourable positions of a brāhmaṇa with sacred thread, and the sannyāsī with a daṇḍa, I'm a mere servant of the Lord, a servant's servant. All these are subservient to the satisfaction of the Vaiṣṇava and others.

Rāmānuja once, he was a brāhmaṇa, Rāmānuja, and also a good scholar. And there was one Vaiṣṇava of lower caste, and also not educated, but he was a true Vaiṣṇava. Rāmānuja wanted to get his remnants, ucchiṣṭham. "The Vaiṣṇava, if I can take the ucchiṣṭham, the remnants after taking prasādam then my devotion will be increased, enhanced. Vaiṣṇava prasāda."

But that gentleman Vaiṣṇava he avoids that anyone will come and take his ucchiṣṭham, he cannot allow. Generally Vaiṣṇava they never give their ucchiṣṭham to anyone. Rather they're very careful that anyone and everyone may take ucchiṣṭham, then his devotion will be decreased. So he avoided.

But one day Rāmānuja invited him with much respect and request that, "Please take prasādam one day in my house. I'm very eager for Vaiṣṇava sevā. I think you to be a proper Vaiṣṇava. And please take prasādam one day - I invite."

And to encourage Rāmānuja, because he was a brāhmaṇa and paṇḍit and young man, and will do much service in the sampradāya, he accepted the invitation.

And Rāmānuja's mind was that, "If he takes prasādam in my house then I can get his ucchiṣṭham." With that idea he invited. But Rāmānuja inviting him he had some business engagement, maybe by the arrangement of that Vaiṣṇava, suddenly he had to leave his house for some purpose. And in the meantime that gentleman came and took prasādam and went away.

Then Rāmānuja came home after finishing his job. "The Vaiṣṇava, did he come?" He enquired from his wife, he was householder at that time. "That Vaiṣṇava came to take prasādam?"

"Yes. He came and took prasādam and went away."

"Where are the remnants?"

Rāmānuja's wife she was an orthodox brāhmaṇa lady, she told, "Oh, he took prasādam, he's a śūdra, so he took prasādam and I cleansed all those things left in the tank. And I have also taken bath, because a śūdra I gave him prasādam somewhere there and after he finished his prasādam I cast them all in the tank and I took bath, and purified I've come home."

"Oh, you're so, you had those valuable things for which I invited him, ucchiṣṭham, and you have cast them, thrown off in the tank and took bath because you had to touch the ucchiṣṭham. All right."

Then Rāmānuja went somewhere and came back and told, "Some information come from your father's house that someone, perhaps your father or mother is seriously ill. So what do you do? I can't go, will you go there."

"Yes, yes, I must go. My father or someone is very seriously ill, I must go."

"Then I'll make arrangement to send you with some persons."

"Yes, you may send me with him."

So Rāmānuja sent her to her father's house, and went to the temple and took sannyāsa. Separated himself forever because she disregarded Vaiṣṇava and prasāda. He took sannyāsa and left home altogether.

So the brāhmaṇa caste, or the sacred thread, or sannyāsa, everything meant for the service. Not as a position in the society, but that position is to be utilised in the service of the Lord. Pratāparudra swept, he worked as a sweeper, and then Mahāprabhu was inclined to him. And He Himself, Mahāprabhu, in the Guṇḍicā Mandir, He Himself worked as a sweeper, cleansed the things, and with His own uttariya all the dirts were taken and thrown. And then with water He Himself with His own hands cleansed that.

So that is to attract the attention of the higher it is necessary to accept the so called lower services. Service is all in all. That is Vaiṣṇavism. Tridaṇḍa, kāya-vāk. Vākya-daṇḍam, mano-daṇḍam, kāya-daṇḍam. These three, kāya-mano-vākya. Tridaṇḍī, what is the meaning? That these three things should be punished. Vākya, words, I was utilising for my own satisfaction, for my own enjoyment, words, vākya. Kāya, this bodily labour. And manaḥ, mind also thinking about my own enjoyment. They should be punished, these three, main thing, punished and engaged in the service of the Lord, the positive engagement. I shall talk, talk for Kṛṣṇa, for His interest. I shall use my body for His interest. And I shall think for Him.

It is very difficult to control the mind. Mind may be absent. We may engage our body, then I may think something bad. But to control the mind the responsibility is necessary. To accept responsible actions, service, then we can control the mind. Otherwise mind is independent, may run hither, thither. So we must take some responsibility to control the mind to engage us in the service of Kṛṣṇa and His servants.

And body also, and words also, specially the Kṛṣṇa kathā, spread sound. It is easy thing and easily available, no money necessary to purchase words, sound. Go on talk about Kṛṣṇa. Just as in an epidemic the doctors visit everyone and gives injection. So also the epidemic is going on. Death is devouring everything here outside. Whatever we see, all being devoured by death every second. And what is the relief? To save, not only from the death, but to take everyone into the ocean of nectar. Kṛṣṇa kathā.

kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad- gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

Whomever you come across say about Kṛṣṇa, no other business. This is, our Guru Mahārāja told that, "There is fire, I'm quenching the fire, then I'll come to serve Kṛṣṇa." No, no, no. No necessity of quenching the fire. Let everything be burned down. Your wholesale engagement is in Kṛṣṇa."

sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Our necessity with Kṛṣṇa is such grave and such indispensable, and not only for me, it's applicable for the whole of the world. So be mad to spread the news of Kṛṣṇa from door to door.

And Nityānanda Prabhu did about Mahāprabhu. Yāre dekha. Nityānanda went, "Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. I appeal to you." Nityānanda began to cry, "Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. What's come to your door My friend you don't realise. All the troubles will be ended and the highest attainment you'll have. It's going from door to door. Please accept Gaurāṅga." ata bhuli nityananda bhumi gauri jai [?] Began to cry and roll on the gate of a person. "Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. What is going through your door you don't understand My friend."

So go to visit from door to door. Once one of our sannyāsīs told that, "If you get a good singing party with me then I shall go to preach. Otherwise the people don't care to hear, whatever. 'Kṛṣṇa dāsa, all the souls are the servants of Kṛṣṇa in reality.' There's none to give attention to these words. Give a good singing party, then people will come and sit and they'll care to hear."

Then Guru Mahārāja told, "Go talk to the wall and you yourself hear it." His preaching tendency was such, so natural and intense, our Guru Mahārāja answered in that way. "Go speak to the wall and you yourself hear."

That should be the spirit of speaking Kṛṣṇa kathā. Take it from door to door to every soul, with this urgency that the fire may not be extinguished and burn the whole world, your saviour is Kṛṣṇa. You're to be saved if you can get connection with that plane of Kṛṣṇa. Not only saved from the death, but you'll swim in the ocean of nectar. So this Kṛṣṇa consciousness spread everywhere. I'm a sannyāsī, I'm a gṛhastha, I'm a brāhmaṇa, I'm a brahmacārī, but all these shows they'll fetch nothing, but rather they'll bring something anti, anti connection, that particular ahaṅkāra. But in spite of all these _____ [?] what commands respect in the society. With all these respectable signs you go and serve Kṛṣṇa to show that service of Kṛṣṇa is so dignified.

The Ramakrishna Mission people they preached against Gauḍīya Maṭh that, "They're speaking slavery, slave mentality. Gauḍīya Maṭh. Kṛṣṇa dāsa, Kṛṣṇa dāsa. We're servant's servant. Servant of the servant of the servant of the Lord. That means they're preaching slave mentality. And we're preaching so 'ham, we're the big Brahman. So Gauḍīya Maṭh is creating a bad impression in the society, discouraging people."

And Prabhupāda told, "Gauḍīya Maṭh stands for the dignity of the human race. The whole human race that are prey of mortality, Gauḍīya Maṭh stands for the dignified position. To become slave of Kṛṣṇa that is not a matter of joke. To get any imperial service we're so eager to get a higher service in the administration. But to get a service in the highest management of the Supreme Lord that is a most dignified thing. So Gauḍīya Maṭh stands for the dignity of the human race. Human race, what are they? They're after all a prey like beasts, and like trees, creepers, worms, and a prey of the death. The king will also have to go away helplessly. The big general and politician, all will have to go to effacement for eternity. But Gauḍīya Maṭh stands for the eternal dignified position, a friendly service of the Supreme Entity."

So service is all in all, and we may not lose these positions that I'm a sannyāsī, I'm a brahmacārī, I'm a gṛhastha, I'm a sacred thread holder, I'm a learned man, I've got much learning, this capacity, that capacity. If they're used for the service of Kṛṣṇa and His dāsa, His servant of the servant, then they're got value.

Otherwise they've got negative value, rather that will be bribe. I'm taking the position in the name of a Maṭh, getting dīkṣā and taking sacred thread, and red clad. I've got some learning, and I'm always seeking a higher position in the society. Pratiṣṭhā. And I shudder when I'm requested to do some service of the so called lower type, to cleanse the utensil of the Lord.

Then Ambarīṣa Mahārāja he was the emperor of the whole world at that time and he gave his charge of administration to his ministers. And he himself he was rubbing the temple, he was cleansing the utensil. Mahārāja Ambarīṣa, with his own hands he used to do all these so called lower services of the Lord. And the big services like administration he used to give it to the ministers. But about the cleansing of the temple, the Sanskrit śloka I forget. _____ [?] with his own hands he used to.

And what he could subdue, to control the boisterous ṛṣi Durvāsā who was very dreadful and notable for his curse to anyone and everyone, and they'll have to suffer for his tapova. But that ṛṣi Durvāsā was defeated by Ambarīṣa Mahārāja. And who was he? He himself used to do the so called lower services of the Lord, such as cleansing the temple, cleansing the utensils, and sweeping, all these things.

So we must not think that the service of the Lord and His devotees they're of lower type and lower life. But with all the dignity ever found in the world, all must go to the lowest service of the Supreme. That should be our consideration. That is the proper ontological conception of Vaiṣṇava religion. Service, service, service. And what is the service? Kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā. No greed for money, neither for the sensual enjoyment, and neither - the greatest enemy, is name and fame. That is the greatest enemy of all of us, the position, the fame, the name. That is the worst enemy.

The ordinary sannyāsī they can give up this sensual pleasure, as well as the greed for money. They're ready even to have a naked life, this Jain sampradāya, Digambara, they don't use even the cloth, such renunciation is found in their way. Some kaupīna, the wooden kaupīna with iron...

Devotee: Chain.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...rope, they use. So much renunciation. But their ultimate goal is not the service of the Lord. To be nowhere, to efface their existence, that is the end. So tyāga, they do not care for money, neither they care for any sensual enjoyment. But nothing positive, they want to retire into nothing, complete identification with deep sleep, something, samādhi.

Subject, object, and the position between them in one point. The eye, seer, and the seen, sight, and the seeing capacity, all coming to one point. I'm seeing this finger, if finger touches the eye then I cannot see, finger also cannot be seen, and the relation between is also not there. So drāṣṭā-dṛśya-darśana. Bhokta-bhagya-bhoga. All comes in one point, tripuṭi-vināśan, subject, object, and the relation between them they come in one point, tripuṭi-vināśan.

That is samādhi, that is a dreamless sleep like position, that is their goal. But not positive life, and enjoying life in the service, in the dedication, in the love they can appreciate. So tyāga, for pratiṣṭhā, they can't accept slavery to the Supreme Absolute. They can give up money and sensual pleasure totally and efface their very existence. But for the pratiṣṭhā, that hankering after position, cannot allow them for life of dedication. "Oh, we won't like to be slave." That is pratiṣṭhā.

But Kṛṣṇa dāsa, "I'm servant of the servant of the Absolute Good." Only thereby we can get out of pratiṣṭhā, the hankering of higher position, the respect. This is Vaiṣṇavism. Kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā. The pratiṣṭhā is very difficult to conquer. So that can be conquered by the - to become a servant of the servant of the servant of the Supreme Lord. So the Vaiṣṇava's aspiration always we find, not only direct servant of Kṛṣṇa, but servant of the servant of the servant.

Mahāprabhu Himself: gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ [C-c, Madhya-līlā, 13.80].
Dāsa, dāsa, ānudāsaḥ, dāsa, dāsa, fourth or fifth stage.

In Rāmānuja sampradāya also, paricāraka-bhṛtya-bhṛtya-bhṛtyasya bhṛtyam iti māṁ smara lokanātha.

[maj-janmanaḥ phalam idaṁ madhu-kaiṭabhāre, mat prārthanīya mad anugraha eṣa eva tvad bhṛtya-bhṛtya-paricāraka-bhṛtya-bhṛtya-, bhṛtyasya bhṛtyam iti māṁ smara lokanātha]

["O Supreme Lord of all beings, O slayer of the demons Madhu and Kaiṭabha, this is the purpose of my life, this is my prayer, and this is Your grace - that You will remember me as Your servant, a servant of a servant of a Vaiṣṇava, a servant of a servant of such a servant of a servant of a Vaiṣṇava, and a servant of a servant of the servant of a servant of a Vaiṣṇava's servant's servant."] [Mukunda-Mālā-stotra, 25]

"Oh my Lord. Please remember me as one of the smallest servants of the servant of the servant of the servant of Yours."

Pratiṣṭhā, self glorification, self respect, that is the greatest enemy ever found. Separate position, separate interest, that has taken away from Kṛṣṇa connection. That is the worst enemy of us. So we must be very careful. In the consideration of the service of the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, and the Lord Himself in different attitude, we shall always try.

Dāsa Goswāmī says, "I don't want Your friendly service. I'm not fit for that, but I want Your lower service. I'm hankering for the lower type of service, not confidential service, I'm not fit for Your confidential."

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu [nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam]

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

I have respect for the confidential service. I want my inclination to sincerely go towards the lower service of You my Lord. We thrive there. But pratiṣṭhā, I want to occupy the higher position, the leader, then that will be detrimental to and our vitality will be finished. So the very life is service, and service of the Vaiṣṇavas.

The Lord says, "Those that come to serve Me they're not real servants."

[ye me bhakta-janāḥ partha, ne me bhaktaś ca te janāḥ]
mad bhaktānāṁ ca ye bhaktās, te me bhaktatamā mataḥ

["Those who worship Me directly are not real devotees; real devotees are those who are devoted to My devotees."] [Adi-Purāṇa]

"But who want to serve My devotees, they're My real servants. My highest devotees are those that aspire after the service My devotees of the devotees. But who come direct to Me to serve, they're not My real bhakta."

If you love me love my dog. The genuine love it will be proved there. So if you love me really you'll have to love my dog, who is generally estimated of a lower position. That sort of non glorification to pratiṣṭhā. We must be very careful about that, be vigilant.

Our Guru Mahārāja has written, duṣṭa mana! tumi kisera vaiṣṇava? A poem.
[Vaiṣṇava ke? - Who is a Vaiṣṇava?] [Gauḍīya-Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.24] [Within 236 of the collection of ślokas] Tuma pratiṣṭhā śūkarera viṣṭhā. The dung of a hog. In this way he has, in many ways.

Dāsa Goswāmī, pratistha sa vistha sarva ca ramani medhi vinacet [?] Dāsa Goswāmī says, pratistha sa, the self seeking, self respect, is compared, sa ca ramani, a sweeper girl. If the sweeper girl dancing in my heart then I'm far away from the service of my Lord. He has compared the pratistha sa, that self respect, as a girl of the sweeper class, of caṇḍāla, lowest type.

So pratiṣṭhā, self glorification, the self estimation, that I'm of higher position, that must have no place, that is opposite place for the service of Kṛṣṇa. We shall go to be the lowest, and it will be automatically we shall find that they come to embrace us, to take up. They'll come to take us up, and we shall go to the lowest position. That will be the temperament of a proper servant of Vaiṣṇava.

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "It is my responsibility and my duty to do all the work even including the sweeper and the _____ [?]

Devotee: Cleaning the toilet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who cleans the latrine, what is that?

"All, the whole, to do all the services in the Maṭh it is my duty, but I can't do. So they've come to help us in this matter. But it's my duty to do all the services necessary for the family of Kṛṣṇa. The whole responsibility of maintaining the family of Kṛṣṇa is on my shoulders. But I can't, they all come, my friends come to help me. But responsibility is mine. It is Kṛṣṇa, my Lord, it is His family, and I shall take every responsibility for that. But my friends, they come to help me because I cannot do them all. But it's mine, to do everything."

Ha, ha. Once by the by Gandhi visited _____ Rabindranatha [?] and he found that they're almost self help in their principle of life. But cleansing the latrine, that is done by the professional _____ [?]

And Gandhi told, he gave a proposal that, "This I cannot like. They're adopting self help in all positions, but cleansing the latrine, that is done by the professional men from outside. I like that that should also be done by the Maṭh members _____ [?] And as long as I shall stay here please give it to me." Gandhi told. "As long as I shall be here that will be my duty. I shall cleanse the latrine as long as I stay here. But after that also, the students they will cleanse that latrine and not the other hired paid men will come and cleanse the latrine." He told to Rabindranatha. Rabindranatha was there and Gandhi told like that.

So that sort of responsibility of the service of lowest conception in our consideration, we shall take that for the devotees. That should be our attitude, that I shall cleanse the latrine of the devotees.

Devotee: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Lokanātha Goswāmī he was determined that he won't accept any disciple. But how Narottama Ṭhākura he broke his promise, stealthily he went to the place where Lokanātha Goswāmī used to pass his stool in the jungle. Every day he went there and cleansed the place.

Suddenly that attracted Lokanātha Goswāmī, "What is this? I come and pass stools here but I find it clean, clear, not dirty. Where do those stools go?" Then he thought that, "I must have to inspect who comes and cleans my dirt." Then one day he found Narottama is cleansing, and he was very much excited. "Why do you come and do all these things?"

Narottama fell at his feet. "Be satisfied with me. I want your grace. I don't want anyone to be my Gurudeva, but from the core of my heart I want your grace. You are my only Gurudeva."

But what to do? Lokanātha Goswāmī was defeated by Narottama there and he told, "Yes, I shall accept you."

He was so renounced temperament, Lokanātha Goswāmī, that he did not keep even a pot full with water that, "If anyone comes to drink water I must have to supply. How can I say no, no drinking water I'll say?" So empty pot he kept. Because he was very much afraid of association with others. So strict he was that he kept his water pot empty, because if anyone comes and says 'drinking water' he can't deny. So no water in stock. Association with the external world he hated so much. "That they'll come and give worldly contamination in me, worldly infection will come to me." So no association, cut off all association with the outside world. So much strict.

And he won't accept any disciple. But Narottama defeated him. How? Doing the service of the lowest type whatever in our conception. And Lokanātha Goswāmī was defeated and accepted him. And when Narottama got that thing from him, he over-flooded the whole of Bengal, specially Maṇipur, from low and high with Mahāprabhu's teachings. That is Narottama.

Our Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja also like Lokanātha type, he had no, many, did not accept many disciples. But he accepted Guru Mahārāja anyhow, and Guru Mahārāja inundated.

He also made some objection. "Why do you mix with Calcutta and the present civilised world? You go on with your bhajan of Kṛṣṇa. And the Kalisthan, that worldly transaction is intensely going on there. You come in Dhāma."

"But by the grace of you, your feet dust is so valuable. I shall give it to all, and none will be able to attract me from your feet dust. Your feet dust is so valuable, I shall distribute that to the whole world. I've got no charm for anything else but your feet dust. Your feet dust I shall distribute to one and all." Guru Mahārāja.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. Do we have time for one more question? Sometimes we have difficulty distinguishing when a devotee is getting natural ruci, or when he's becoming subtly sahajiyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The possibility of misguidance is there, but,

bhūmau-skhalita-pādānāṁ bhūmir evāvalambanam
[tvayi jātāparādhānāṁ, tvam eva śaraṇaṁ prabho]

["For those who have stumbled and fallen upon the ground, that very ground is the only support by which they can arise once again. Likewise, for those who have offended You, O Lord, You alone are their only refuge."] [Skanda-Purāṇa]

If we've got sincerity then we shall be able to understand the proper association, by sukṛti and sādhu. So sādhu saṅga is necessary, to hear, to go to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Adulterated things are being sold all around. And how we shall try to get a real thing? In that way we're to search for...

vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata

The definition of dharma given in Manu-saṁhitā [2.1] Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ, veda-vidbhiḥ. Those that have faith in the revealed scriptures, not empirical understanding, they will recommend. Sevitaḥ sadbhir. And also that will be accepted by the sādhu. And what is the lakṣaṇa of the sādhu, symptom? Adveṣa- rāgibhiḥ. They've got no aspiration for these worldly things, and also not apathy, not sympathy for worldly things. And hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto. Inner approval of one's inner heart. These three things can justify what is true and what is not true, false. Inner approval, and the acceptance by the sādhus that have got no greed for the good or bad in this world, and also that source must be from the revelation, not inductively produced by this mundane world, brain, not brain production. These are to be clearly understood.

The process we shall apply to other cases also. How do we know that I've purchased a false thing? It will prove. And if I've got such tendency I shall understand that this is adulterated, this is such and such. I won't go that side. And those that are taking adulterated things they're suffering from disease, or this and that, all these things. If we have a mind then we shall understand. Where there's a will there's a way.

And blame ultimately to us. We're responsible for our disadvantage. None to be blamed. Manu when describing the creation, then coming to the trees, tamosa bahu rupena vesitar karma hetuna dasanga [?] Those trees, their status is also like that of us _____ [?] But karma hetuna, by its own karma they're now in that position. So we're responsible for our life, good, bad, not any other. We can't blame others for our position. Our free will. This is the ultimate finding of all the scriptures and scholars.

Devotee: Mahārāja. I've got one more question. Mahārāja tell me. I've got some deities printed in the body. If this is very bad, it's then the best to offer your body to the Gaṅgā?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. You try to efface, or cover it. And being repentant for foolishness, that will be witness to your folly, and that will help you indirectly.

Devotee: That's what I also thought.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So many results of misdeed on all sides, 'I have done this thing.' Suppose I went to a prostitutes house, the house is there, if I pass by the road, "Oh, that is a witness to my misdeed." That will help me in indirect way, and creating repentance in me. In this way the negative things will also, may be utilised if we're properly led. In indirect way, in negative way they'll help. "What foolishness, this is the evidence of that in my body." In this way.

Devotee: But it's personally no problem to me, but that it's very bad I hear.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You may try to cure it, avoid, but past is past...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Let the past bury it's dead.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: But it's no problem to me.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: For me personally it's no problem at all.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That will be, how one can be misguided, it is a living history like that.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You concentrate whole of your energy for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Otherwise you'll commit offence. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, taking the Holy Name, in a proper way, can release us from all sorts of misdeeds, past, present, future. There are so many dirty things within us, within our mind. This is nothing in comparison to that. In the mental system so many dirty things are still...

Devotee: Yes, I'm filled completely, full with these things, completely filled up by dirt, in my mind.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have completely finished?

Devotees: No. No.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But Kṛṣṇa consciousness is crores more times powerful.

Suppose one has got leprosy, which is supposed to be the result of his past misbehaviour, karma. Previously one has done such a bad deed that as a result he's suffering from this leprosy. Then what he'll do? He'll give up? "This is the evidence of my bad karma, I must leave this body." No.

His attitude, as we're told, when Mahāprabhu visited the southern India He found one leper of a very serious type, but his mentality had become such. He's suffering from the past karma, mentally if any worm from the wound is coming out, he's taking to worm and putting on the wound. That sort of mentality he had got. But he's not leaving his body. But it was helping him that, "I'm, I was such a worst man, this is passing away by these things."

So Kṛṣṇa consciousness is so great that no disease is too much. It's such a medicine that no disease is too much for him. You can neglect everything, but you must not lose the life which is so valuable as to take you nearer the Absolute, Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: But Mahārāja, this māyā is keeping attacking me very strong.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You see, a brāhmaṇa with his outward pure life may not be eligible for Kṛṣṇa service. But a caṇḍāla, a śūdra, the worst type of sweeper, he may be eligible for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So outward impurity is no hindrance to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, only internal impurity. And that is not to understand what is Kṛṣṇa, and these other aspirations, anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, and so on. These are the worst enemies to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and not these physical defects of any type, hindrance to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The low birth, the diseased body, and because he was Ratnaka dasu, his previous life was of a dacoit. But Rāma Nāma purified him so much he became the greatest ṛṣi and he was the author of Rāmāyaṇa himself. But his previous life that was very worst type. But the physical things, our previous things, that cannot hinder us. Only we shall live in the present. Work, dead past bury its dead. Trust no future however pleasant, work, work in the living present.

[Trust no future howe'er pleasant! Let the dead past bury its dead!
Act, - act, in the living present! Heart within, and God o'erhead!]
(Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-82, U.S. poet)

So we must devote ourselves wholesale in the service of Kṛṣṇa and His devotees, and neglecting all past and otherwise future things. Whole concentration in the positive side, and no concentration towards negative. What is done is finished. So don't think of committing suicide, this is a greater offence, that will be, it does not belong to you, this body. But if you're properly initiated, took the initiation, it belongs to Kṛṣṇa, it belongs to the service of Guru, as the servant of Kṛṣṇa it belongs to. You're no longer master of your own. That consciousness you'll cultivate, always try. Amar nahitan [?] I do not belong to my own self. The Guru has dedicated me to Kṛṣṇa. So I cannot do anything and everything with me at my pleasure. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Always remind yourself of that. That I do not belong to me, it is dedicated already and accepted. And I've no right to do anything and everything with this body. It's not mine, it's a property of Kṛṣṇa through my Gurudeva, of Vaiṣṇava. That consciousness will help a great deal in the positive life. What is gone is gone, bygone. Let bygones be bygones. ____ [?] vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca...

...

Devotees: Many devotees have come here. There's Padmanābha Mahārāja, Bon Mahārāja, Sāgar Mahārāja, and one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight devotees. I have one question Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Devotee: How to eradicate the false ego for good?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This will be the only question. By association with living scriptures and living creatures, that is the saints. We can bring change by association with desirable things. And there of course free will comes in question. Willingly we shall have to accept the association. We can take nectar and we can take poison, selection on us. They'll produce their desired result. Poison will produce its own effect, and also nectar also another. But the selection depends on us, if we decide, if we like to bring change. Suppose a disease, if we want to bring change in the body we must take the help of the medicine. So as in other departments, here also like that. We want to become sādhu, we must have deeper connection with them, and the opposite thing will be removed. One thing should be allowed to enter, and another thing will be driven out from within us.

What is anomaly with the ego that will go away, vanish, and the real ego will come forth, the internal ego. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. The ego then can cooperate with the finest plane of Vṛndāvana that will come out. The dirt on the ego that should be removed, by application of some medicine, and that is bhakti, devotion. And that main thing is the association with the sādhu. Association means to be directed by their order. They'll have to work within us. We're to live ourselves at the disposal of the sādhu and they'll utilise us. Thereby their influence will come in, and other things will have to go out.

Kṛṣṇa conception will be allowed to enter into the box of the ego, and He will conquer the whole. None can stand fighting against Him. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the Absolute Power. Such prospect we cannot have from anywhere. So other ambitious ambitions will have to go back, they cannot fulfil our whole desire to its highest satisfaction. Only Kṛṣṇa can do that. So they cannot stand in the market in competition, or we shall allow them.

praviṣṭaḥ karṇa-randhreṇa, svānāṁ bhāva-saroruham
dhunoti śamalaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ, salilasya yathā śarat

["The sound incarnation of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul (i.e. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam), enters into the heart of a self-realised devotee, sits on the lotus flower of his loving relationship, and thus cleanses the dust of material association, such as lust, anger and hankering. Thus it acts like autumnal rains upon pools of muddy water."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.5]

A prospect of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, our highest prospect of life there. So none, no offer can stand in competition fighting against Him. They must have to retire, today of tomorrow. But our duty will be to have more and more connection with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And the agents that holds that Kṛṣṇa consciousness we must connect with him in all possible ways. And to have connection means to serve, to surrender. If we want to have connection with the higher entity, that we can do only submitting to them. Not that we can control them, force them, but we must put ourselves at their disposal, surrender to them. And whatever they'll ask us to do we must engage ourselves in that. Gradually that influence will come down and these other ulterior motives will evaporate.

That is the only conscious urge how to get out of this anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Fleeting desires, and organised way of searching power, and knowledge, and master of mystic power. All these undesirable things we must get relief of them. And that is possible only by surrendering, at the hands of the agents of the Supreme, to cast ourselves at their disposal. "Do whatever you like with me." Only with the hope that I may have some admission in that zone. "Do whatever you like you may do with me." That is surrender, to be handled. We must have sufficient faith in the agent. He must be a proper agent and we must have faith that if we surrender to him it's surrendering to the Lord. He cannot have any ulterior motive to satisfy through me. He will take me to Kṛṣṇa, preparing me as a servitor in His land. And that is through surrender and dedication and service. That is die to live, to be dissolved wholesale as we are at present. Another self, divine self will come out from within which is a wonder to us. In Gītā [2.29],

āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit]

["Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all."]

Even our own soul is a wonderful thing. And what about the Supersoul and Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa. Wonder of wonder, of wonder of wonder. Even our own soul is a wonderful thing, a strange thing to us, to our experience. We're always having experience of the mortal environment, a nasty thing. But soul is immortal and it has got some nobility in nature, that is wonderful thing in this world. So our own soul, that is eligible to enter into the Supersoul and Divine Love domain.

And not this physical body, not the mental system, nor the present ego. There we're to commit suicide in that sense. Suicide in the sense of physical suicide or mental suicide. Then the soul will come out to play its own part, in relation with the higher plane. But these enemies, the Satanic nature within us are drawing us near the prostitute's house, the wine shop, so many nasty things we're in the midst of. Our attraction is keeping us to a thing which is similar to a prostitute's house, or a wine shop, or some more nasty things, the abode of the guṇḍās. And the kāma, krodha, lobha, moha, mada, mātsarya, these are all guṇḍās. The lust, the anger, the greed, all these things are guṇḍās, and we're always in company with them.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. What is the nature then, the real ego when it comes out, when the real ego, after the false ego is removed and the devotional ego will come out - you said, the devotional ego.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't hear clearly, it's difficult for me.

Devotee: The devotional ego Mahārāja, the characteristic of the devotional ego.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Asked to enter into that domain, and there are different camps of different egos. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, there's so many divisions. And it will be detected examining the ego in very subtle ways, that what camp he'll be allowed, will be able to serve in, how he's prepared to serve. So in that camp he'll be allowed entrance, and there, there are so many. There are also different groups amongst the different camps. So gradually he'll awake there.

Just as from a dream a man awakes. Man sleeping and within a dream, and when he's awake then that dream is gone and he's become a factor of another world. Something like that. In dream also he's finding his function somehow or other, and when awake he's also finding that he's a part of a place and he has some duty, responsibility, all these things. Dream and wakeful stage, that may be comparison.

Is Badrinārāyaṇa prabhu here?

Devotee: No, he's not.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. Would you like to rest now? How's your health Mahārāja? Would you like to rest?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At leisure, taking rest.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. Jayānanda dāsa put one question, and that is, how to deal with Kṛṣṇa's lakṣmī properly?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lakṣmī, money?

Devotee: Yes.

Devotee: How to use lakṣmī properly in the service of Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As a trustee, not for my own purpose, but I hold it only for the service of the Supreme. Tomāra kanaka, bhogera janaka, kanakera dvāre sevaha "mādhava." [From Vaiṣṇava ke? Who is a Vaiṣṇava?] So long we're practised, we're habituated to use money for our satisfaction. But from now the money does not belong to me, everything belongs to Him, and I'm to serve with all these things to my Lord, serve Him. These are all articles for Him, not for me. I can take only, because as a servant I must live, so I must take as much as will be necessary. The minimum that will be necessary to keep up my life so that I can also render service to Him, that much I can take, that I must live and I must serve. Otherwise, everything belongs to Him and His servitors. Those that can know to utilise everything better for His purpose, His satisfaction. How they'll be used for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, should be deposited to them. That will be our duty, for better utility to serve better purpose, it must be given to them. And I can take to live as a servant whatever the least necessity of mine as a servant. I must not die. So everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa, so I also belong to Kṛṣṇa, so I can take that much. Offering, only the remains we are, all offered to Him and His devotees, and the remaining thing I shall try to live on.

tvayopabhukta-srag-gandha-, vāso 'laṅkāra-carccitāḥ
ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi

[Uddhava says: "Adorned with the articles that have been offered to You, such as garlands, fragrant clothing, and ornaments, we, Your personal servitors who partake of Your holy remnants alone, will certainly be able to conquer Your illusory energy (māyā)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.6.46]

Ajatya yena buscit yena eva sa [?] Everything must be offered wholesale, His. And I also belong to Him. So to keep me living as a servitor I can take something, offering, the remaining. In this way. So our demand should be as least as possible.

Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī, the prasādam that was rotten, given to the cows of Jagannātha, for bad scent, odour, that cow also cannot eat it. He took it to his house and washing the rotten portion by water, and the inner portion little better he's adding some salt he used to take.

Of course that is impossible for us. Still, we won't enjoy anything. Only with the spirit of service we shall take something to keep my live and utilise myself for the service of the Lord. That will be the principle. And as much as one can carry it out he'll be benefited. Everything, the cloth, whatever, cloth, the food, and other things, medicine, everything I may take from the generous store of my Lord. I'm storekeeper. Whatever with me as a trustee, as a storekeeper for Him, I shall take the least necessity. And everything for Him and His bona fide servants that represent Him. I cannot have direct connection with Him, so the bona fide servants we shall try to give everything, by their order to utilise. No independent connection with any energy in this world. All my connection will be through him. Even husband and wife they also have connection through him, not direct connection. This is the highest idea.

[bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ]

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

Everywhere we shall try to trace, to find out His connection, and then accordingly my connection with that. First, everything should be seen through His connection. Go, anything, go to the centre, find the connection, and then my connection with the centre, then adjust with this. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam. Everywhere, he'll first trace the connection of the centre. Bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ. And accordingly his own connection with that. Not any direct connection, but all connection through him. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ. And bhūtāni bhagavaty. And any other thing, how it is in God, animositic connection, opposite connection, or favourable connection. Then what will be his connection in me, visa versa. Sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ, and bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany. My position is secondary. First position, relation, with him and centre, and between centre and myself, and what will be accordingly to him and to me. It will be calculated through the centre, all relationships, not independent relations. As much favoured there I shall give so much respect there.

...

Badrinārāyaṇa: ...Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His wife also disciple of Swāmī Mahārāja?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Full disciple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Now what is his question? Where is he?

Devotee: The question is, the physical moon that we see with our physical eye, is that a representation of a more subtle world? And...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, the moon that we see with our physical eyes, is that the representation of a more subtle world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More subtle world?

Badrināràyaṇa: Yes.

Devotee: And if so, if the lunar world is more subtle...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Whatever experience we've got from outside that is also a part of our consciousness. Everything is a part of consciousness of experience about that, so that is all animated. So moon is also animated, endowed with life, spiritual.

And specially it's mentioned that those generally departed from here, after death, they for the time being stay in the moon, Pitṛloka. Those that are facing death they're of two kinds, or three kinds, according to their mentality they're classified. Tāmasic, rājasic, sātvic. Some are going up. Mainly two kinds. Who has got tendency to leave this material world, and another who has still got attraction for enjoying this world.

So those that want to go out of the charm of this material world they go towards the sun, uttarāyaṇa, go towards the north direction, that means towards the origin, towards the sun.

And the others having affinity for enjoying this world, they for the time being go to live in the moon, and again they come here for so called enjoyment purpose. Ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyana [Gītā, 8.25]. They go and they come back. Moon is moving about the earth, it is satellite of the earth. Earth is the centre of the movement of the moon. So they go to take rest, or temporary enjoyment in the moon and then again come back to this world. Ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyana. Goes and come here.

And another section goes direct towards the sun, they've no charm for this earth, they may go to enjoy in some other planet also. And when they come in connection with the complete renunciation tendency, they go, crossing this material connection.

Then Virajā, the supposed watery substance on which the whole creation is floating. And then crossing that go to enter into the spiritual substance like halo, Brahmaloka. And then if they have any attraction for the service of the Absolute, crossing Brahmaloka they may go towards Vaikuṇṭha. And if they've got inner tendency towards the loving Absolute, Reality the Beautiful, they go, crossing the calculative service, enter in the spontaneous serving area of the Beautiful...

85.11.30.B

Devotee: ...is it somehow more subtle than the physical plane that we're on now? Or is it also a grossly physical world like this, or is it somehow more subtle than this world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrināràyaṇa: He says that, "Is the world of the moon, is it a subtle world, or is it physical like this world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Moon is physical, but everything has got its subtle conception. Physical existence also it has got, but as we're concerned that is spiritual. This world, our conception of anything, that is a part of our experience, our feeling, that is spiritual. So everything is spiritual. And in the conception of spiritual there is gradation. Our idea about the stone, idea about the fire, is not one and the same. But our feeling about the stone, about the fire, about the air, they're the part of our consciousness. We know that, beyond that we have no capacity to understand. All spiritual.

Devotee: Now, for example, on the earth planet there are beings that are ghosts that we cannot see, although they're physical.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: So I'm just wondering if on the moon they're sort of like a ghost, where we would not be able to see them although physical.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, on the earth the persons, the beings, the entities can be seen.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow. On the earth?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. We can see each other.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: But on the moon, are the bodies made of subtle substances that we can't see? Are there persons living there, residing there, but we can't see them?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Generally the mental system, Pitṛloka, they're devoid of body, but they've got subtle body for enjoying. The body that we have experience in our dream, in the mental world, but that is also a part of our consciousness, of different type, this material and the subtle. The Pitṛloka that means subtle, that is the mental system. The body that we meet within our dream, that body lives in Candraloka, moon. And that classes of mental body which have affinity for the earthly enjoyment, they're again to come back here.

Devotee: Thank you very much.

Badrinārāyaṇa: One other question he has. The question is, "Jñāna, bala, krīya, does that correspond to sat, cit, ānanda?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: How?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Thinking, feeling, and willing. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca. Thinking, feeling, willing. Sat, cit, ānanda, this triple, jñāna, bala, krīya, ca. Thinking, that is jñāna. Willing is bala. And feeling, that is krīya, hlādinī. Saṁvīt, sandhīnī, and hlādinī. Jñāna is thinking, feeling, willing, in English philosophy. Thinking is jñāna. Bala means willing. And feeling is krīya, hlādinī.

Devotee: Sometimes its given as jñāna, krīya, and istcha [?] And also sometimes its given as jñāna, krīya, and dravya [?] So istcha [?] I can understand as corresponding to will, or bala. I don't understand how dravya [?] corresponding to bala.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Sometimes they say itcha [?] jñāna, krīya. And sometimes the word dravya [?] is used for bala.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ask him to say clearly.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Dravya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Spelling?

Badrinārāyaṇa: D,r,a,v,y,a.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dravya is extension of willing, sandhīnī, material. Dravya means material, generally that comes from sandhīnī. Sat, cit, jñāna, ānanda, hlādinī, krīya. Vilāsa, pastimes.

What books has he read? What are the books? Swāmī Mahārāja or outside?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Caitanya-caritāmṛta?

Devotee: I haven't read that yet, I'm just starting that.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Guru Mahārāja is asking what books you've read.

Devotee: Bhagavad-gītā and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Swāmī Mahārāja's Gītā and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Both, translated by Swāmī Mahārāja?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not outside?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Not outside, no.

Devotee: Do the three guṇas correspond in a lower sense to those jñāna, bala, krīya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Partially.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As a perverted reflection.

Devotee: But does jñāna correspond with one mode, bala, to another mode? Or its not like that?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?] Three perversion may come. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mere vilāsa, pastimes, the function of the potency. By which the Absolute distributes Himself to the environment. Hlādinī-kāraṇa.

sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana, bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī-śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

Krīya means the reaction of the service towards Kṛṣṇa, coming towards the devotees to satisfy them in return. His self distribution.

Devotee: I have another question. Is it appropriate for me to ask?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Devotee: One point of confusion for me has been that the śāstra describes the brahmāṇḍa as four billion miles in diameter. Now that corresponds perfectly with the modern idea of the solar system. So I'm just wondering, is the modern idea of the solar system the brahmāṇḍa? Or is that modern idea completely wrong?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Which śāstra?

Devotee: The Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Four billion miles across. Now that corresponds perfectly with the dimensions given of the solar system. So is it correct to understand the solar system as a brahmāṇḍa?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says that, "In Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam the brahmāṇḍa is described as four billion miles in diameter. And the scientists they have measured the solar system as four billion miles in diameter. Are we to understand that the solar system is a brahmāṇḍa?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The whole experience is like hypnotism, whole, hypnotism. One may see something, another may see that very thing in another way. So as the centre likes us to see anything we're forced to do that. It is controlled from the centre. When Śukadeva he's giving description of the world, he got his experience from up, and he's describing in that way. And that is helping the distribution of His knowledge towards the world. So everything is controlled by the centre, from above. One particular thing I may see some way, you may see some other way. If He wills.

When Kṛṣṇa He expressed His Viśvarūpa all could not see. They're seeing Arjuna and Kṛṣṇa They're talking on the chariot. But Arjuna saw, and Sañjaya saw, vyāsa-prasādāt. "I could see by the grace of Vedavyāsa." [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.75] For giving proper information to Dhṛtarāṣṭra he was empowered. So vision differs according to the desire of the controller of sight.

If we're really to understand what is vision, or sound, every experience, it is controlled by the centre.

When Kṛṣṇa went to the assembly of Duryodhana, Dhṛtarāṣṭra, to try for a compromise between Pāṇḍava and the other party, Duryodhana's party, then Duryodhana came to imprison Kṛṣṇa, and Duḥśāsana came to tie Him with a rope. And Kṛṣṇa showed Himself in such a way that they could not trace Him, who He is. He took such a shape, a form there, that all began to praise about him.

At that time Dhṛtarāṣṭra, the blind man was there, hearing those praise of Kṛṣṇa he appealed to Kṛṣṇa. "I hear that You have taken such a beautiful form, all around are chanting in Your praise. Please grant me for the time being my eyesight, remove my blindness so that I can see You. For the time being remove my blindness."

Kṛṣṇa told that, "To remove blindness is not necessary to see Me. I say 'you see Me' and you'll be able to see." Without removing the blindness, by order of Kṛṣṇa, Dhṛtarāṣṭra could see Him. He told particularly that, "To remove blindness is not necessary to see Me."

The blind can see if He wills. So everything is controlled from the centre. "You see this in this way." "Yes, I see this way." Just as a hypnotist. When Śukadeva is giving description he's seeing the world in that way. And that was helpful to give delivery about the spiritual advices what he gave to the public.

Outside is not the cause, but cause is inside, of everything, is controlled from inside.

Devotee: So I want to thank you very, very much for...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Devotee: ...giving me some time.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. He says, "I want thank you very, very much for giving your time."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And thereby, what you achieve, by giving thanks?

Devotees: (Group laughter) One moment's association.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is not mine, this is coming from up.
Eko me pakaram justo guru sisye nivedite prasid bang mas tadvam yadya taso ariyanyaved [?]
A single word what the Spiritual Master gives to the disciple, there is no other possible wealth in the whole of the world's creation. By giving which he can be out of debt. That debt, a single word that comes from Guru to śiṣya, no wealth ever conceived that can be compensation or price to that one single word.
So what thanking will do there? A drop in the ocean. Everything is His. I cannot thank Him. By giving thanks I may not be cleared of the debt. "I'm also there." If I give me wholesale to him that also cannot clear his debt. "So I'm there." Our key is there, every key, key is there. So Guru, or the Spiritual Guide, is He.

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit
na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

He can give Himself. None can give Him to others. He's Absolute. Only He can give Himself. There's no other agent that can give Him. But whom He empowers, delegates that capacity, he can do on His behalf as His agent. So the scriptures have advised us to see the Ācārya as His representation. Who is Ācārya? Who can say properly about Him. Śikṣā Guru and dīkṣā Guru, all of same status. Guru is there where the dealing of the spiritual substance, there is Guru.

śikṣā-guruke ta' jāni, kṛṣṇera svarūpa / antaryāmī, bhakta-śreṣṭha, - ei dui rūpa [yadyapi āmāra guru - caitanyera dāsa, tathāpi jāniye āmi tāṅhāra prakāśa.

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, nāvamanyeta karhicit, na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ.
śikṣā-guruke ta' jāni, kṛṣṇera svarūpa, antaryāmī, bhakta-śreṣṭha, - ei dui rūpa]

["Although I know my Guru is a servitor of Śrī Caitanya, I know him also as a full manifestation (prakāśa) of the Lord."] - ["According to the deliberate opinion and evidence of śāstra, the Guru is non different from Kṛṣṇa, because it is through the Guru that Kṛṣṇa bestows His mercy upon His devotee and delivers them."] - ["One should understand the spiritual master to be as good as I am," said the Blessed Lord. "Nobody should be jealous of the spiritual master or think of him as an ordinary man, because the spiritual master is the sum total of all the demigods."] - ["One should know the instructing spiritual master (śikṣā guru) to be Kṛṣṇa Himself. As Guru, Kṛṣṇa manifests as the Supersoul and as the best of devotees."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.44-7]

So from wherever that sort of knowledge is being imparted, it cannot but be His existence. The Absolute as distributing Himself. That is Guru. Guru means Absolute in the capacity of self distribution. That is Guru.

And a paramahaṁsa, the wholesale realised soul, he sees everywhere his Guru. All is inspiring him for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Everywhere, everything is only advising him, helping him, reminding him about his Master and service. Surrounded by Guru.

But in our ordinary case we're surrounded by māyā. Māyā means mā - yā, what is not, misunderstanding. And Guru means proper understanding potency, helps us for proper adjustment. Everything in the whole environment is helping me for proper adjustment, more and more intensified adjustment. That is Guru. I'm in the midst of Guru. All helping me for adjustment and to do my highest function. As in svarūpa śakti, they're all my guardians, when I enter.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya, [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

The whole plane is made of spirituality, consciousness, and they're superior consciousness than myself. I'm taṭasthā consciousness, marginal. And they're internal consciousness. All Guru. I'm to live in the midst of Gurus. By their guidance they utilise me for the service of Kṛṣṇa. It is their credit, that with a straw even they can serve Kṛṣṇa. I'm like a straw, a blade of grass, but it is their credit they can utilise the straw for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Such is my dependent position. Svarūpa śakti. The internal position of Kṛṣṇa is such, utilise everything, even a sand.

Even Uddhava, the greatest devotee, he aspires after a life of a grass or a shrub in Vṛndāvana, so that he can get the feet dust of the gopīs. So even a straw, a drop of water, or a particle of sand in Vṛndāvana, all conscious, and all fortunate jīva, and they're rendering service in śanta rasa there. And dāsya, vātsalya, mādhurya, so many types of services there. But all serving, searching for the satisfaction of the centre. Properly harmonised there, even a particle of sand in the spiritual world is doing some service for the satisfaction of the centre. Nothing is useless, everything has got its utility, however of lower conception that may be.

That is Goloka, Vṛndāvana, sweet. The Absolute Sweetness, His every particle is sweet, and desirable. Bhūmiś cintāmaṇi. Brahma-saṁhitā [56] Toyam amṛtam. The water is nectar. And the creepers and trees they're kalpa-vṛkṣa. They represent to satisfy the necessities of the devotees in any way they want. A novel conception beyond our expectation and our intelligence.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Vaikuṇṭha. Vaikuṇṭha means beyond limitation.

No measure, beyond measurement. Vaikuṇṭha. It cannot be measured. Everything of infinite possibilities. Vaikunthanātha, the Lord of the infinite. And His servant you are, so your prospect is limitless, everything limitless. You're connected with that, to live in the infinite.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Devotee: The inhabitants of Goloka Vṛndāvana are unaware that they're situated in the highest perfection. This is a very interesting concept. They're unaware due to Yogamāyā that they're situated in the highest perfection. And this creates an atmosphere of sweetness for Śrī Kṛṣṇa. I thought maybe you could explain that a little more.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Asking any question?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Making some comment.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is he?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Dhanvantari. He has told that, "Previously you said, the inhabitants of Goloka Vṛndāvana are unaware of their perfected stage, of their perfection. They're unaware, they're covered by Yogamāyā and unaware of their perfection. And in this was they're receiving the highest ānandam, the highest bliss." He just wants to say that and hear your, some comment about that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He says that they're ignorant. Jñāna śūnya bhakti means ignorant. And how they can feel the highest ecstasy? This is the question? Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, yes, yes. That is it, yes. They're unaware of their perfected stage. They're unaware that Kṛṣṇa is God. And in this way they're experiencing the highest bliss.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. That is, what is his real point?

Badrinārāyaṇa: The real point is, he's heard you saying this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That there, jñāna śūnya means they have no knowledge, no feeling? He wants to say that? Jñāna śūnya bhakti means no feeling? Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He wants you to speak more on that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha.

Dhanvantari: This is creating an atmosphere of charm which is greater than the Vaikuṇṭha vāsīs who know...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Because of jñāna śūnya bhakti an atmosphere of beauty and charm and love is created, which is higher than Vaikuṇṭha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then? The jñāna, the knowledge, has self interest. Knowledge means the feeling of self interest. That is - that vanished. And everything coming from the side of the Absolute. When our individual calculation of interest vanishes, and the whole thing comes from the Absolute side, we're best benefited. Jñāna śūnya. They completely surrender, and careless about his own selfish enjoyment, and wholly given to the disposal of the Absolute. There, in that stage only, when self calculation of self satisfaction vanishes, and the Absolute flow is allowed wholly to embrace me, or to inundate me, I'm best benefited there. Selfish ego gives opposition to the dealing coming from the Absolute. Totally careless of their own selfish enjoyment in the service of the Lord.

From the other side, something comes from subconsciousness. That is intellectual zone, by calculation you're only getting, but something supplied from outside, some out knowledge, and gives me answer. Something like that. The egoistic attempt for self calculation, or interest of self acquisition and self gain, that is totally gone. And wholesale surrender, and all that is coming to him from the Absolute. There we gain the best, best gainer in that position. Unconditional surrender without searching, rather always very eager to sacrifice the ego for the satisfaction of the Absolute. Does not care for any loss and gain, no calculation arising from the tiny ego of ones own. But the Absolute ego is interfering wholly and dealing everything on His behalf. There we're the highest gainer. Do you understand? No, follow?

Devotee: Yes, I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No selfish calculation for his own satisfaction. No personal knowledge to utilise for his own gain. All given for the service with the greatest risk. Self effacement to totality, then whatever comes, all comes from the Absolute side, and there we gain the highest. Personal interest wholly merged into the Absolute interest, recklessly. When it's recklessly thrown into the Absolute, all personal interest, then it's parakīya in the gopīs, the highest reach of our gain. Recklessly thrown into the ocean of Absolute pastimes, particular ego, individual ego, then his highest gain he gets.

That comes from outside, as if from underground, or from the unknown quarter, it's coming and making him cheerful. Not from his own ego. Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Carelessly thrown into the ocean of ecstasy, and only floating, carried by the current of the Absolute joy. No self consciousness. Self consciousness in the sense of acquiring his own blissfulness. Passive. Degree of negativity attracts the positive to that intensity. As much negative, attracting positive so much. No such assertion, that is in the positive, self assertion. Negative to give at the disposal of the positive.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Devotee: For whole lifetime.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? I can't hear.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, "That is sufficient to think about for a whole lifetime."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To think about whole lifetime, yes, lives together, no end, no end. That is my master's property not mine. We're to think in that way. That is the property of my Gurudeva, of my Lord. Superior knowledge, that is part of my Guru, my Master, my Guardian.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. Bhakti-ranjan, Bhakti-sāra Mahārāja, can you explain something about his name meaning. Bhakti-ranjan, Bhakti-sāra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Satyasya satyam ṛta-satya-netraṁ.

[satya-vrataṁ satya-paraṁ tri-satyaṁ, satyasya yoniṁ nihitaṁ ca satye]
satyasya satyam ṛta-satya-netraṁ, [satyātmakaṁ tvāṁ śaraṇaṁ prapannāḥ]

[The demigods prayed: "O Lord, You never deviate from Your vow, which is always perfect because whatever You decide is perfectly correct and cannot be stopped by anyone. Being present in the three phases of cosmic manifestation — creation, maintenance and annihilation — You are the Supreme Truth. Indeed, unless one is completely truthful, one cannot achieve Your favour, which therefore cannot be achieved by hypocrites. You are the active principle, the real truth, in all the ingredients of creation, and therefore You are known as antaryāmī, the inner force. You are equal to everyone, and Your instructions apply for everyone, for all time. You are the beginning of all truth. Therefore, offering our obeisances, we surrender unto You. Kindly give us protection."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.26]

In Bhāgavatam. The substance of the substance. The life of the life. Bhakti-sāra. The very inner substance of the devotion. And that can satisfy ranjan which can satisfy all different types of devotion. Or can satisfy all through devotion, by distributing devotion, ranjan. Ranjan means to satisfy others, by a particular colour, by showing a particular colour to attract the outsiders, ranjan, by devotion. And who is he who can do so? The very life of life, the devotion of devotion, that very central thing of devotion. Sāra means the inner substance, sāra. Just as in a wooden trunk we find in the middle portion a very stiff, than the outer portion of the wood. The inner portion that is sāra we're told. So internal substance of everything is called sāra. The inner substance of the devotion in general which can colour all by the dint of devotion. That is Bhaktiranjan, Bhakti-sāra. That kind of potency of the Lord. Not independent existence but a particular potency of the Lord which has got such qualification. That will be the meaning.

And that will be his ideal, to aspire after that ideal, to acquire that position in life, that will be...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the conception of God in Jainism? Have you studied that?

Devotee: The conception of God in Jainism is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: God.

Devotee: Basically in Jainism people say that _____ [?] To become one...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Paramātmā?

Devotee: _____ [?] In Jainism the basic philosophy is that to nivrti - you free your mind...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Through various austerities...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Badrinārāyaṇa _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. He says that Jainism is basically to become one with God through various austerities.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't think that there is any conception of God at all there. The saints, in Jainism life, so many saints who are free from the illusion, so many saints based on Śaṅkara philosophy. Mahāpuruṣa, who are free from illusion, those saints, freely they're moving and they've got certain noble qualifications.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] You see, three planes of life. Plane of enjoyment, plane of renunciation, and plane of dedication. In a scientific way I'm trying to represent to you, in general, independent of all religious conceptions. Three planes of life. The plane of enjoyment in which we are at present, more or less. Without enjoying, without exploitation - enjoyment means exploitation - without exploitation none can exist in this plane.

ahastāni sahastānāṁ, apadāni catuṣpadām / laghuni tatra mahatāṁ, jīvo jīvasya jīvanam

["Those who are devoid of hands are prey for those who have hands; those devoid of legs are prey for the four-legged. The weak are the subsistence of the strong, and the general rule holds that one living being is food for another."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.47]

Those that have got hands they eat those that have no hands. Those that are four-footed animals they live on creepers, grass, etc. But grass, creepers, they've also got life, everything full of life. Apadāni catuṣpadām, laghuni tatra. And the big they live on the small. Without exploitation our body cannot be maintained. The creepers and the grass, trees, they've also got life.

In Manu-saṁhitā, in B.A. class we read when Manu is giving description of the creation he has come to the tree section. I thought that Manu, eyes full of tears. He says that, "They're also souls like us, but for their special karma now reduced to this tree generation, tree birth. But none to be blamed but their own karma. The trees are trees, they're like us, but now they're in such a status due to their own bad karma."

So exploitation, Newton's third law you've read. "For every action there's equal and opposite reaction."

So by exploitation one taking loan and he'll have to go down to clear that loan. So in this way so many jīvas coming up and down, up and down. Action, reaction, in this plane of exploitation.

Sosam and sosita [?] The communists they're crying aloud, sosam sosam, but how much they know about sosam? They have invented that sosam, that exploitation to the utmost. Everywhere there is sosam, at others cost trying to live, without, life is impossible this area. This is the plane of exploitation.

Buddhists, Jainism, and so many others, they're trying to get Śaṅkara, to get out of this entanglement of exploitation. How to find a life where no exploitation, action, reaction? To avoid action, reaction, they're trying to find a position on mere renunciation, and they come to such a conception as dreamless sleep, samādhi. To withdraw completely from the objective world and to remain in the subjective plane. Without allowing the feeling to move in the lower plane, always keeping subjective position and that is something like dreamless sleep.

But the Vaiṣṇava section they're of the opinion that there is another world, and that world is that of dedication, just the opposite of exploitation. Here every unit wants to exploit the environment, but there every unit wants to serve the environment. And not only the environment, the real key of the life of that plane is to serve the centre. We're living in an organic whole, so every point must be true to the organic centre. The explanation given by some analogy from Bhāgavatam.

yathā taror mula [niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopaśākhāḥ
prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānāṁ, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā]

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

In Vedic literature also we find, "Try to understand One, by knowing which everything is known."

Tad vijijna visyasya [?]. From the Veda.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati

[yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati]

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

There is a central point by knowing which everything is known, by getting which everything is got. Try to find out that centre. The whole, the long and short of the Vedic advice is like that.

But some may think in the beginning that is a ludicrous thing. "By knowing one everything is known. A madman can say so. By getting one thing everything is got. What is this?"

But some sort of analogy is given in Bhāgavatam. As if when you pour water into the root of the tree the whole tree is fed. If you put food into the stomach the whole body is fed. So if you do service to that centre everything is served. It is possible. And to do that you enter into the plane of dedication. Avoid the plane of exploitation and also that of renunciation, and try to enter into the plane of dedication. And your ātmā, your soul proper, is a member of that plane. That is the real world, and this is the perverted reflection. The real world is there where every unit is dedicating to the whole, represented by the centre.

Just as in a healthy body, every atom in the body will work for the welfare of the whole body. If it works for itself it's exploiting to the extreme, and this local interest that is also bad. But every part of the body, every atom, will work for the welfare of the whole system. And there is a centre, by the guidance of that you'll do.

So sarva-dharmān parityajya, if you've gone through Bhagavad-gītā [18.66] it is mentioned that what is my position. From another standpoint I want to represent. Hegel, a German philosopher was a very good philosopher. German is very akin to Indian, Āryans, their culture. And it is told that Roman culture was crushed by the barbarians, that is the Germans, the Prussians. And their civilisation is not to be neglected, very nearby Āryans, Huns. "Furious Frank and fiery Huns." We're told in English poetry. [From the poem Hohenlinden (1803) by Scottish poet Thomas Campbell, 1777–1844] The Huns, their original acquaintance is they're Huns, the Germans. Haṁsa and paramahaṁsa, two sections in ancient India. So a section perhaps from central Asia went towards Germany.

The Hegel is a good philosopher, his philosophy is known as perfectionism. He has given an idea. The Absolute Truth, the prime cause of everything must have two qualifications. What is that? It must be by itself and for itself. Please try to attend, attention. By Itself, that He's His own cause, nothing else created Him. If anything has created Him then the creator he'll have the first importance. So to be the Absolute it must have created Himself, He's anādi; He's eternally existing, not created by anything. This qualification the Absolute must have.

And the next qualification He's for Itself, He's existing for His own satisfaction, not to satisfy another body. If His existence is to satisfy another entity then it will be secondary, for whose satisfaction He's living he'll have the prime position.

So Absolute must have two qualifications, He's His own cause, and He exists only to satisfy Himself, to fulfil His own purpose. So everything, the Absolute For Itself, by Itself and For Itself. Everything, if any straw moves it moves to fulfil the purpose of the Absolute. Whatever incident happens that must have to be for His satisfaction. So the real current is His līlā.

And we're guided by separate interest, family interest, or country interest, or social interest, or humanitarianism. In the infinite it is a part and we're all engaged in acting for separate interest. And there's clash between so many, any number of separate interests and they're coming into clash and there's the trouble. But we must leave all our special interest, so called, come out from the misunderstanding, and as a unit in the whole we shall try to get out, get that sort of function.

So in Bhagavad-gītā [18.66] in the conclusion it is given, sarva-dharmān parityajya. "Give up all your duties that you think at present you'll have to discharge. Mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. Surrender to My feet. Ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ. I shall release you from all troubles you can ever conceive."

That is, in one word, be faithful towards the centre. All your respective duties they're for local interest. Give up your local identification of your own interest, and merge totally in the interest of the organic whole.

You see a police officer he takes a few rupees for his own purpose he's punished. But if he kills so many for the interest of the country he's rewarded. So whatever is done for the satisfaction of the whole that is all right. And if you do for yourself or any local friends you'll have to be punished. In a industry we have no right to take bribe for our personal purpose, at the same time we have no right to call strike, to close the labour. Then the industry will be destroyed.

So neither exploitation nor renunciation. Renunciation is also bad, as exploitation is bad, and renunciation we've got no right, nothing. An organic whole, their common interest is this that everyone must be dedicating to the centre, and by centre means to the whole. Put food into the stomach and the stomach will distribute properly to every corner according to its necessity. So that sort of life is Vaiṣṇavism. The Organic Whole is there, and we're a part of that, and we've got our special duties in connection with the whole. And that is dedication proper for the whole. Don't put food in the eye, or in the nose, or in the ear, or any place, but put food into the stomach. And that will be distributed properly and the whole organism will be healthy. So as parts of this whole universe our duty will be to do for the whole, and that is devotion. Dedication, devotion, surrender. And how we're to know? The revealed scriptures are there, and so many saints and agents are also coming from that realm, they come to harmonise us. And the religion of highest harmony.

And Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva He told from Bhāgavatam, which is supposed to be the real conclusion of all the revealed scriptures, "The energy, the power, is not the highest thing, knowledge is above that. That can control power and give beneficent work." But Śrī Caitanyadeva says, Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam says, "The knowledge is also lower. There is the love, affection, that is the highest thing. That can give us fulfilment, neither knowledge nor power. Knowledge and power cannot give us fulfilment of life, but only affection."

Mercy is higher than justice. Justice is only where so many things of laws, rules. In the realm of Absolute Autocrat Who is Absolute Good, no question of anything of any apprehension from Him. He's Absolute Good, and Absolute Good is Absolute Love and Affection. Home, back to God, back to home. What is home? Where we find that we're in the midst of our well wishers. If I do not care for my own benefit, there are so many, the whole environment they will take care of us. This is home. So the domain of the Absolute is in the service. In the highest position we can go and we can see the affection, and the love, and harmony, and the beauty, all these are similar. And that is the prime cause and good. And we're wanted to go. We're led astray anyhow, misusing our free will, but now we're called, 'come home, back to God, back to home. The land of love, the highest position.'

Generally, in sum total, in short, I have presented to you. This is Kṛṣṇa conception in Bhagavad-gītā, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, and Śrī Caitanyadeva. And at present Gauḍīya Maṭh is preaching only for that. Go to the centre and use the life of total dedication to the centre. And centre is all above justice, and all mercy and affection and love and beauty, in general.

Now if you have any questions you may put. A general background of Vaiṣṇava religion of Gītā and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. And somewhat history of the all conceptions of religion, that is exploitation, and renunciation, and dedication. Three planes of life. And a proper soul is a member in the land of dedication, all dedicating unit. Anyhow by misusing their partial free will, they have come, entered into the world of exploitation. And they want to withdraw from, Buddha, Jainya, and that Parisnatha [?] and others, they have helped us to get out of this entanglement of exploitation, action, reaction, and complete retirement. And after retirement also soul can live happily, that they've also told. But there may be the possibility, being free, again may be entangled with this trap. But where the real free souls live they're all dedicating units. And when we want to harmonise them, and to keep them in play, and if we're to trace their harmony then we shall see all are working for the whole. And whole represented by One Absolute Good. All these things.

And this human birth is very valuable, and in the connection of the sādhus, saints, the agents, we shall try our best to get out of this entanglement and to enter into the land of love and dedication and affection.

We have got a few books also, published now, and old books there a many, to help us to understand properly and more closely and in detailed way about this ontological aspect. Gaura Hari.

They're all praising of you, as very simple, and want to get something higher. And chanting the glory, singing the glory of the Lord. In young age you have got such affinity from the result of your previous births. And this affection, affinity, attraction towards the higher truth. It is very rarely found, specially in this age of communistic thinking.

All exploitation, and exploitation of knowledge. The knowledge also subservient to exploitation is creating havoc. This atomic energy and so many scientific research, they have been the cause of great apprehension. The world is threatened to destruction any moment. This scientific knowledge has taken us to such a position. In any moment the whole thing may be finished, suicide. This knowledge is suicidal. Knowledge in this world increasing means going to commit suicide. And that is the result. The exploitation means reaction. The general exploitation if we're to do away with him, then pralaya, mahāpralaya, destruction, wholesale destruction, in any way. By atom bomb or any other natural incident the pralaya will come, and again creation, birth and death, of individual or the whole solar system. Will be born and will be dead, again and again, no end.

If we get out of this entanglement we're to leave this atmosphere which is experienced by our senses.

In Bhagavad-gītā [3.42] and in Upaniṣad also mentioned that here, indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, the indriya, our senses are the principle thing, because if eye, ear, nose, touch, gone, then the whole world gone for me. Because the senses are there so we've got our world. The indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, the rest of the world experience, our senses are all important.

Indriyebhyaḥ paraṁ manaḥ. Then mind is within, and that what is mind, which is the principle within which selects that 'I want this, I don't want that.' That faculty within us that is called mind. Rāga-dveṣa. Our indifference or our - we have choice for something and disregard for some other thing. This is mind within us, principle, that is more important. Because if I'm unmindful then one may walk before me I'll say, 'O, I did not mind him, I did not see him. I could not hear, I was unmindful.' So mind is in the centre and that is more important than our senses. Senses more important than the external world. And mind again more important because if mind does not receive, then senses, so many doors, they're useless.

Manasas tu parā buddhir. Then there's another principle to be traced within us, a fine thing called reason, buddhiḥ. Niscay ātmikā. What is the characteristic of that buddhiḥ? Mind will say, 'I shall take that. No, no, no, don't take that. You take rather this. That will cause some damage, and this will give you benefit.' So the selection, that reason, that is higher principle in us.

And buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ. In this way we're to trace, the external world and our senses more important, then more important than our senses is our mind. Then over mind there's the reason which is more important and fine and reliable. And buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ. There's another thing above the buddhiḥ which is our soul. And what is it's nature, characteristic? Like light.

Just as the example given in Bhāgavatam [10.20.19] by Vyāsadeva. In a moonlit night there are clouds, and clouds have covered the moon, but cloud is seen by the light of the moon. Vyāsadeva says the ātmā is like that. Or sun, a cloud has covered the sun, but cloud is seen by the light of the sun. So ātmā is a point of light within us, and because it's in the background so mental system we can feel. Light withdrawn, everything dead. The intelligence, the mental system, the faculty of choice, and the so many channels through which we get knowledge from outside, will have no value if that light is withdrawn. So that light is ātmā, a point of ray. And that is quite categorically different from all other things here. So it's a particle of light and there's a land of light, made of soul, Supersoul. Again, subjective to super subjective, ātmā, Paramātmā. Just as in this world we find ether, air, then heat, then water, then earth, then stone. In this way development in the material existence. So in the finer world that is also, the intelligence, the soul, the Supersoul, the Super Supersoul. The subjective side is also going towards infinite, super subjective.

And that Darwin says that everything comes of this matter. Even in the womb, first something material, and the material thing is growing in the womb. And knowledge gradually also growing with the growth of the matter. Generally he thinks that the consciousness is coming out of matter.

But the revealed party they do not believe in that. They say that consciousness is all in all, and everything is floating on the ocean of consciousness. Subjective evolution. And Darwin says objective evolution. But the Vedic scriptures say subjective evolution. As Berkeley, one European philosopher told that, "Not the mind is in the world, but world is in the mind." Everything floating on the consciousness. Consciousness presupposes everything. You say that in the beginning there was fossil, but what is the fossil? Fossil means a particular conception, and that is a part of consciousness. So consciousness is the most prime subject. Whatever you'll say that it was in the beginning, but before that consciousness is. Otherwise you cannot give any statement of anything.

So the Vedic truth is that soul, Supersoul, ātmā, Paramātmā, Brahman, that is the original, and this is all development in the black side in this world. And there is also bright side also. There the eternal world is living with so many vilāsa, movements there of ānanda, that they're waves in the ocean of blissfulness, of joy.

In this way we're to understand what should be our duty in this life. What is the special importance of the human life, and how to utilise that. There are so many religious opinions, but we seekers after truth we shall have to have a harmonised thing, a solution amongst that. Then we're to enter into some comparative study. It's mentioned in the scriptures that we should not change our position very easily.

Just as a commander will say to his army, "Don't change your position. Rather die to keep up your position." But when the chance will come he'll say, "Go forward."

So also the śāstra has told, "Wherever you're born according to your previous karma, don't leave it. Wherever you are by your previous karma where you've got your stand, don't try to leave it. Then it's possible that you'll go down." But at the same time when proper chance comes they say, "March on towards Absolute, further progress." So in Bhagavad-gītā it's given, "Don't lose your present position acquired by your previous action, easily, rather die there." Then again says,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"When you'll get the chance of marching towards the centre, you must do at all cost."

The constitutional method and revolutionary method. The revolutionary method is take risk for anything and everything, and march on, forwards, towards the Central Truth. And whatever is necessary do for that. Because this human life is the most important, here you can have decision and practical life. If you lose this position and go to animal life, or to vegetable life, then when you'll come back to take independent decision, voluntary decision, that no man knows. So most important, and you do not use it, misuse it only in the practices of animals. Āhāra, nidrā, bhaya, maithuna. To eat, and to sleep. And to be in the apprehension in every case, every minute. And this sense pleasure. This you'll get everywhere. If you become an animal, or anywhere you go, bird, worm, insect, you'll get all these enjoyments. But to culture about your soul, about your religion, about your function, that chance you won't get anywhere else, only in the human form. And in the company of the saints the positions may be discussed and you can make your progress in your life, you can save yourself. If you do not get a human birth, if you lose this chance then you're almost committing suicide, or more than that, suicide. Ātmāha. Who has got the chance of a human birth, and did not try for his wholesale relief, helping properly, he's committing suicide.

Devotees: [40:30 - 41:07 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This internal self satisfaction is a valuable asset. That is to disregard the present environmental troublesome world. It is nearing the soul area. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...is its own cause, ahaitukī bhakti, ahaitukī, it's causeless. "By Itself." Hegel. "By Itself. Reality is by Itself." Reality is not an abstract thing, but it is a system, reality means, a system, and that exists by itself. Ahaitukī, anādi, eternal, nothing can produce that. Bhaktyā sañjātayā. Bhakti is its own cause, anādi, ahaitukī, causeless. These are the definitions to help us, to make us understand bhakti. It is not created by some other thing, it is there eternally. Only it is covered, it should be uncovered, discovered. It is there in potential form. By outside help that development of its out coming. It's something like sleeping, to rouse, that is necessary. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Fleeting desires, and organised attempt to exploitation, and that of retirement, indifference. These are the covers. We're to remove these covers and the bhakti will come in its own pristine glory. How to do that, that is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...then we're lost. We become loser. Don't try to aspire after, to see the grandeur, aiśvarya, power, master, lord-ship, all these.

'He's one of us.' Jñāna śūnya bhakti. Mahāprabhu told. "This is your best position. You try to have the Lord in your own home. It may be a cottage. You try to have your Lord in your cottage, than to enter into that grand palace like atmosphere. This is homely. This is the best choice."

I delivered once a lecture with Raghupal Ācārya _____ [?] Requested by _____ [?] follower of Gandhiji. Maturan [?] or some hill station. I visited Bhagavān dāsa there, he was Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava. In Bombay I lived for long time as Maṭh command, Gauḍīya Maṭh in charge.

Devotees: What year was this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It was thirty three, four, etc, long ago.

Devotee: Before I was born. But it was because of my wife that I started going to the temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Because of his wife he began going to the temple, because of his wife.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Vallabha Sampradāya they're followers of Kṛṣṇa. Gokul Swāmī. He's Nathadar. They also spring up from Gauḍīya Sampradāya. Vallabhācāri at last took initiation into mādhurya rasa from Purī, Gadādhara Goswāmī. It is mentioned in the book. Vitthalacari, son of Vallabhācāri, he was under the care of Rūpa Goswāmī and Sanātana, it is mentioned. Vallabha was a brāhmaṇa, _____ [?] brāhmaṇa, from Andra Province. Very akin to Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava.

What captured you, or attracted you to Vaiṣṇavism? Personality of Godhead?

Devotee: Yes, it must be Personality of Godhead.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Personality, and Reality the Beautiful. Absolute is Reality the Beautiful.

Devotee: That is right.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ānanda, beauty, harmony, love, are similar, above knowledge. Power is above knowledge, and love, affection is above. Knowledge is above power, and love is above knowledge. General conception of this, the power is controlled, guided by the knowledge, then it is useful. And knowledge must be subservient to ānandam, to affection, beauty, love. Mercy is above justice. The plane of mercy is the highest. And the Absolute is Autocrat, Absolute Good is Autocrat. And when finite comes to meet - when Infinite comes down meet finite that is His greatest grace. Infinite is embracing finite in the highest degree, then it's Vṛndāvana. In Vṛndāvana, Infinite coming nearest to the finite. And He's above mercy, above rules, regulations, knowledge, calculation. Affection, mercy, love, harmony, beauty, all similar.

So jñāna śūnya bhakti, devotion devoid of knowledge. Finite cannot reach Absolute by the method of calculation. We cannot be subject, and we cannot make Him to be object of our thought. He's subject, super subject. We're object, we're to approach that through surrender, devotion, dedication, is the only means to get, to obtain Him. Surrender, dedication, to improve our negative side. He's positive, positive and negative potency, and the owner of the potency. So negative side, so negative in the highest power attracts the positive closer to Him, to Her. Negative potency is generally represented by feminine gender, and positive, masculine. Aggressor and aggressed. And that is the relationship.

So we shall try our best to improve our negative aspect to attract Him towards us. That is devotion, and by dedication, not by exercising any energy, or karma, or through intellect, we can't reach Him. He cannot be object of ours. 'We're subject and He'll be object of our knowledge - impossible.' Adhokṣaja. We shall approach as object to His subjective existence.

So complete sarva-dharmān parityajya, [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] Give up all your vanity of dutifulness, ha, ha, you are dutiful. What duty? All carried by the separate interest conception, ego, but that ego must be dissolved. And you must be one with the whole. In an organic whole, just as in an industry you have no right to take any bribe for personal interest, nor you have right to stop your service. That will be injurious to the whole, for the country. So in an organic whole every atom must not work for its own purpose, neither it should stop the work. In a healthy body when every atom in the body is working for the whole of the body, organic whole. So all our energy should go to the centre, Kṛṣṇa. He'll distribute. In our Vedic scriptures, the main thing, try to understand Him by knowing Whom you know everything.

yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

Try to have Him by having Whom you have everything. But is it a mad topic? By knowing one, one can know everything. By getting one, one can get everything. It is impossible, apparently. But an example given from Bhāgavatam [4.31.14]. Just as if you pour water into the root of the tree the whole tree is fed. You put food into the stomach the whole body is fed. Not that the food will be given to the eye, to the nose, to the leg, to the head, but food must be put into the stomach. And the stomach knows how to distribute in what form where. So all your energy must go to the centre. Whatever duty you're engaged in, give up everything, and this should be the object of your whole energy, whole attention, concentrate towards Kṛṣṇa.

Kṛṣ - Who is attracting everyone, the most fundamental thing is this. Who attracts everything. In the physical sense also, sun, moon, attracts one another. In the conscious world also attraction, one spirit attracting another spirit, that is affection and love. Kṛṣ - the main centre that is attracting everything and giving a cosmos, appearance. And na - means also as a reaction giving satisfaction to them. All atoms attracted by Him and also He's rendering satisfaction to every part, whatever small or big. That centre, Kṛṣṇa, the centre of love. He's Absolute.

In Hegel's philosophy, "Reality is by Itself and for Itself." He's created by Himself, none has created Him, then the creator will be bigger. So Absolute must have His own creation. He's anādi, eternally existing. We're to follow, we're to admit that, not otherwise. At the same time, future also in His hands. He exists for His own purpose, to satisfy Himself, not to satisfy any other thing, then that thing would be greater. So Reality, Kṛṣṇa for His own purpose He's there. And everything meant for His satisfaction.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

In Bhagavad-gītā. "Everything meant to satisfy Me. I'm the centre."

And we should accept that līlā, that wave, the flow, this most fundamental flow in the world that is devotion. That every movement only to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful. Reality the Love. Absolute. Separate interest must be dissolved, that ahaṅkāra, ego. "I'm a patron. I'm a religious man, so called. Nationalist. I'm a family man." Family interest, self interest, family interest, greater interest, country interest, social interest, all sorts of local interest, all should be dissolved. And only one interest - faithful to the centre. And what is the conception of the centre? The love, autocrat, ānandam, autocrat, ecstasy, joy, autocrat, above law. Law comes from Him. He's above law.

So it's mentioned in Bhāgavatam [11.14.15], Kṛṣṇa Himself says that, "Who is My most favourite, Uddhava? Not Brahmā, nor Śiva, nor Baladeva, neither Lakṣmī Devī. What to speak, you are My devotee. You are dearer than My own self."

And that Uddhava when sent by Kṛṣṇa to Vṛndāvana, and after meeting Nanda-Yaśodā and the gopīs, coming back, at that time in Uddhava kyari [?]...

Have you seen Vṛndāvana? No?

Nandagram Uddhava kyari [?] where Uddhava met with the gopīs. And Uddhava got so much impression with the sacrifice, full self forgetfulness for the service of Kṛṣṇa in the gopīs, Uddhava uttered there this śloka in Bhāgavatam.

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām
yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām

["The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

"O! What wonderful attraction and love I saw here in the gopīs for Kṛṣṇa. I feel that if I get a birth of a grass or a shrub here then I'll be most fortunate. Because the feet dust of the gopīs, these damsels, will fall on me naturally if I get a birth of grass here. How noble, how great sacrifice is in their heart for Kṛṣṇa, so much attraction for love for Kṛṣṇa. So much sacrifice, wonderful."

That Uddhava, whom Kṛṣṇa says, "You are more favourite than My own life." That Uddhava says that, "Gopīs are such, because they did not care for society, nor for religion, anyone, guardian, anything. Between Kṛṣṇa and myself there should be nothing between the two. My Lord, Kṛṣṇa is my wholesale Lord and there must not be anything to intervene between the two parties. He's wholesale owner of myself. I shall do everything. What is religion? He's above religion. He's above everything. I'm wholly meant to satisfy Him and nothing else. Such great, noble sacrifice, dedication found in the gopīs." Uddhava was astonished, and that Uddhava whom Kṛṣṇa Himself says, "You are the greatest devotee ever found in the world."

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ
na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān

["Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you."]
[Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

"Such a great devotee" He says, "appreciating the gopīs. So gopīs are such in Vṛndāvana."

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"Not to speak of any non religion, give up so called religion. What religion, all religion one side, I am alone another side. Give up everything, come to Me, you'll be benefited highly."

His position is such, Kṛṣṇa, our Absolute Lord. We're a slave to Him, by creation, by birth we're slave to Him. And slavery to Him that means the highest position, that means to be the most favourite of Him, of the Absolute Lord.

You say you'll have many things to see in Vṛndāvana, then to go to America. But, ha, ha, what is the real duty, fulfilment of our life, where? Not by discharging any other duty, but only duty, the service towards Kṛṣṇa in submission through the guidance of His devotee. Mahāprabhu came here, and just as in a famine area, epidemic area, for relief work,

kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

Mahāprabhu ordered, "Whomever you meet you tell about Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

Inject Kṛṣṇa consciousness in everything, everybody. Giving injection, both medicine and food. This is a famine area, all dying. Every moment we're undergoing, we're entering the jaw of death. None can save us. Here is the only one problem, what is the problem? That everyone is entering always in the jaw of death. How to get out of that? Only one problem, no other problem. Only one common problem to all here, that mṛtyu. He's neither a father, nor a mother, nor a wife, nor a husband, nor any god, none. My friend, if he cannot deliver from my instant entering into the jaw of death he's no friend. He may be a father, he may be a mother, he may be a husband, he may be a god, demigod, or anyone. But if he cannot help him from the jaw of death he's no friend to me. Common enemy to one and all, the jaw of death, every second we're entering.

Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja told when going to banishment to the Bakarupi Dharma [?] "What is the news in the world?"

"Only one news is here." _____ [?] "The only information in this world is this event or incident, that every second everyone is entering into the jaw of death. That is the only one common problem to be found in the whole of the world. From the tree, stone, or sun, moon, god, man, or beast, everyone, all, how to save him. That Kṛṣṇa consciousness, not only to save, but giving a life of nectar, amṛtam. Not only medicine but food also. Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Mahāprabhu told, Śrī Caitanyadeva, "In this epidemic area, whomever you find, try to inject medicine, the Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Remember about Kṛṣṇa, the Absolute Benevolent Centre. You'll be relieved from all trouble, not only from death, but positive attainment you'll have to be the highest positive attainment. Not only you'll be saved from the negative side, but your positive attainment will be the highest. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Remind everyone about Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa. Save animation. The body consciousness is different, human body consciousness, then bird consciousness, then beast consciousness, so many body consciousness. But really the soul consciousness, soul is the proper party within. The body means cage, encasement, different, but soul is the proper party, and soul must be reminded of the Supersoul higher connection about Kṛṣṇa. The party is only the soul inside, and the party should be addressed and should be reminded about Kṛṣṇa. You belong to Kṛṣṇa. You conceive that, cultivate about that, you'll be relieved from all negative troubles."

Śukadeva Goswāmī told Parīkṣit Mahārāja, "You won't die. That you'll die it is animal consciousness, you'll identify yourself with this body. And the body will die you'll think 'I shall die.' You won't die, you're a member of the eternal world, and try to get back that consciousness."

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. You are a child of immortal world. So try to understand fully and to realise that you're above this material consciousness. Don't identify yourself with this body, you're above this, you're a member of the higher plane. And Kṛṣṇa is the attractor and through love. He's your guardian. He loves you most. None can love so much to anyone as Kṛṣṇa can do. He's the source of love, centre of all love, of higher type. So try to connect with Him. Give up all engagement, all duties, they're nothing, all leading to death _____ [?] Whatever path you're following that will lead to death. But if you want to be saved then towards Kṛṣṇa, and all your energy should be utilised only in working out to make progress towards Kṛṣṇa. Sarva-dharmān parityajya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

[26:50 - 27:08 ?] "I'm above all dharma. Come to Me. Between Me and you the relationship is such, absolute, it does not depend on any condition. It is automatic and it is eternal. Only because you're endowed with free will, and by misusing your free will, you have done this disaster. You are Mine wholesale. Wholesale you are Mine, and you've taken out your mind from Me and running hither, thither. Come to Me. I'm your guardian, I'm everything to you. All your inner necessities can be satisfied only with Me and with none else. Kṛṣṇa. Every, whatever demand is inside your heart, I alone can satisfy that, and none can do that. My relationship with you is like that. You are wholesale Mine."

prati aṅga lāgi kānde, prati aṅga mora

[From Jñāna Dāsa's Vaiṣṇava-padāvali - Anthology of Vaiṣṇava Songs]

"Every atom of your constitution is crying for the corresponding atom in Me. Not only you, the whole of existence can only find satisfaction in Me, and nowhere else. I'm such, nearer to you."

"Kṛṣṇa is such." Mahāprabhu told like that. "So give up everything and be desperate and march towards Kṛṣṇa. Take this risk, all risk, be reckless to go to make progress towards Kṛṣṇa."

That we should do. None can save me, only He can, only the centre can help me rightly. All others they're dependent on the centre, everyone is dependent on the centre. So how they'll help us? Only those that are agents of the centre, they can come and rescue us from the present position. Vaiṣṇavas, His agents, are recruiting in this world. "Come to your Lord, Kṛṣṇa. You'll be happy." In this way the Vaiṣṇavas are wandering and they're recruiting officers. "Come to Kṛṣṇa."

They also understand something of English, no?

Devotees: Oh, yes, yes. They have some English.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How far has she read?

Devotee: Well, she reads Bhagavad-gītā...

Devotee: He means education.

Devotee: She has B.A. Bachelor of Arts.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What was the subject?

Devotee: Gujarati and psychology.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mythology?

Devotee: Psychology.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Philosophy?

Devotees: No, not philosophy. Psychology, the science of the mind.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And your son?

Devotee: He's going to high school, he's in the tenth standard.

Badrināràyaṇa: He was born in America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So he knows English well.

...

...went to Katwa to see Mahāprabhu. Then he met on the returning way our Guru Mahārāja.
"Where did you go?"
"I went to Katwa to see Mahāprabhu."
"Could you see Him? Could you see Mahāprabhu there?"
Then the Godbrother told me, "There was some doubt. What he's - he's putting such question, why I went and I saw with my eye? So something else he's saying. "Have you seen Mahāprabhu there in Katwa?" Oh, you want eye to see, first you want to have your eye to see Mahāprabhu, Who He is, from Gurudeva, from sādhu. Then you can see Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, Vigraha. Otherwise without eye what will you see there?"

So Narottama Ṭhākura says it is only to undergo some labour to visit the holy places if you do not have proper eye, or standpoint, what is that. In Bhāgavatam [3.9.11] it's mentioned, śrutekṣita-pathaḥ. The ear will help the eye to see. Really the ear will help to see 'this is that.' Then you'll see properly. So ear, the advice will come from up. What you're seeing 'this is that thing.' So that guidance you must have, to have the proper angle of vision, what is what. Only the physical exercise of the eye cannot show us anything. Seer is inside, so he must be made ready how to see what is what.

oṁ ajñāna-timirāndhasya [jñānāñjana-śalākayā cakṣur unmilitaṁ yena, tasmai śrī-gurave namaḥ]

["I was blind in the darkness of ignorance but my Spiritual Master applied the ointment of proper spiritual knowledge and thus opened my eyes. Unto him I offer my respectful obeisances."]

So in the praṇāma mantra of Gurudeva. Gurudeva gives the eye proper, how to see things. He asks us to go to the Deity, not that you see, not that He's the object of your eye, but He's seeing you. Stand there like a criminal. "My Lord, I've come before You, please cast Your eye with grace so that I may be purified." With this spirit approach. He's the seer and you are to be seen by Him, and to be purified by His sight, the ray of His eyes. In this way we approach to the Deity. And not that you can see Him. He's subject, you are object. He's drāṣṭā, śrauta, jñāta, everything, subjectivity in Him, and I'm objective existence. Approach everywhere in that way. They're superior, so you can't see them, you can't feel them.

Devotee: So if you love him, He's an object, right?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Standard Bearer. Aurobindo published a magazine by name Standard Bearer, long ago, nineteen twenty or so. Standard Bearer. "What should be the standard of our living." He's publishing that. "By this magazine I want to give the standard of your look, of your judging, of your thinking, everything, standard. Proper standard is necessary, proper angle of vision, proper knowledge of estimation. That is very dear."

Devotee: Could you ask him...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. He asks, "If you allow him, he can also become the object of love. Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Badrinārāyaṇa: If Kṛṣṇa is also allowed to become the object of love?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whom? Him?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, he's asking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. We want that everyone may approach this thing. Everyone should be duty to do so, to move in such a way, that I may be within the graceful sight of my Lord. I may be purified, I may be within the jurisdiction of His graceful vision. And not only myself, and all my friends, enemies, everyone, let him get this benefit of highest welfare in life. I shall be sādhu and my wife, child, and father, mother, they may remain as they are, no. All must get. If we get a beautiful thing we like that it should be given to all. A tasteful food we like that it may be tasted by all our friends. So let everyone have.

When Mahāprabhu left home, took sannyāsa, His old mother asked, "I am old mother, sixty eight years, and young wife fourteen years old. And whom You are giving charge, none to take charge of us. You boy you're leaving us and becoming sannyāsī, then who will look after us, take care of us?"

Mahāprabhu answered, replied, Aney taney aney rajata kanchan aney ami jiva manu krsna prema dhana [?]
"Other sons also go away to foreign parts to earn money. There are many sons that went away from the home to earn money. But I'm going to earn the divine love of Kṛṣṇa. And you will get, My mother. And who feeds us, only Kṛṣṇa is feeding through someone. You won't fast. He'll look after you. Who is feeding the whole creation, and you'll be deprived of food? No. He will feed you." In this way He went away. Girl wife and old mother they began to weep. And that helped others to take the advice of Mahāprabhu.

Sannyāsī. That ideal, model life, attracted so many towards His personality. They came to Him and got much from Him. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that is the beauty consciousness, the ānandam, sat cit ānandam. Satyam, śivam, sundaram. Sundaram, ānandam, one and the same thing. Beauty is blissfulness, and that is harmony, and that is the centre, that is absolute good. And the nearest approach of the Absolute towards finite most needy is in Vṛndāvana. In Vṛndāvana the Absolute's most noble approach towards the finite, that is Vṛndāvana. As if He's one of us. So, so beautiful association and attainment of the Supreme Lord is never found anywhere else as in Vṛndāvana. It comes nearest to the most sinners.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Rāma. You took Hari-Nāma through Giri Mahārāja?

Devotee: Yes. Giri Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're counting the beads?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Are you chanting?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, he's chanting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Counting. But, you don't care for your wife and your son, that they also must be connected with Kṛṣṇa consciousness?

Devotee: Yes. My wife chants sixteen rounds a day.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And what is the opinion of your wife? She does not want Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that Hari-Nāma herself direct? She does not find it necessary that she should take regularly the Name of the Lord? As directed by Mahāprabhu. Eh? Śrī Caitanyadeva.

Yāre dekha, tāre kaha [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]
Ki bhojane ki śayane kibā jāgaraṇe [Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Madhya, 28, 25-28] [part of verses 40]

In whatever mood and in whatever position you are, while going to sleep, eating, wandering, in every time try to connect it with Kṛṣṇa. Culture the memory of Kṛṣṇa always. Don't waste any time, any minute, any second. Try to cultivate Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Whatever you do physically, outwardly, but internally always try your best to connect yourself with Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the heart. The Lord of the innermost heart, as well as outside. And the all loving Lord. Try to have Him. You have come in the human section, human species. If in other species after death anyone may go to any place, not known previous karma. May be a bird, may be an insect, worm, a beast, even a tree, after death one may go to such position. So as long as you're living as a human being, having connection with sādhu and the śāstra, try your utmost to connect you with Kṛṣṇa. And try to exercise, to cultivate that thought always.

Ki bhojane ki śayane kibā jāgaraṇe, aharniśa cinta kṛṣṇa balaha badane. Take the Name in your mouth, in your tongue, and also think and do for Him, and serve the Vaiṣṇava. In every way possible try to connect you with Kṛṣṇa. That after death the body vanishes, you live there in His connection, Holy Feet. So that is our most imperative duty at present, that continued connection of Kṛṣṇa. Try to have real connection with Him as much as possible in this body. Your after death it is uncertain where my previous karma will throw me, it's uncertain, this is reality. After death where I shall...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sarva-dharmān parityajya. In Bhagavad-gītā [18.66] many types of religion have been dealt, the yoga, the jñāna, the karma, this, that, so many things.

But in the conclusion, "Give up everything. Come direct to Me. Take the risk. I shall save you."

Bāl Gaṅgādhar Tilak he's also got an interpretation of Bhagavad-gītā. Under this śloka his comment is very beautiful. He says, "At last, in the conclusion, the Lord has served amṛta, nectar, on a golden plate."

_____ [?] Bāl Gaṅgādhar Tilak interpretation, in this śloka.

"Wherever you are does not matter, in whatever caste, whether you're learned, or educated, non educated, whatever. Whatever position you're in does not matter. But give up your respective present duty and try run towards Me and I shall embrace you. You'll get everything. If you get My embracing you'll get everything."

Devotee: If you give up everything, then you get everything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Everything, at least mentally. 'Give up everything', that is mentally as if the object of your life, the ideal. Give up everything. It does not say that 'you won't eat, you won't use any medicine, and you won't use any garments', not that. 'Don't take any bath.' No. Physically you may adopt as is suitable to you, but mentally give up all objects from your vision.

Only one aim, I want Kṛṣṇa. "Lord accept me. I want Your grace." Only try to have this relationship. "I want You my Lord. Please accept me and give me shelter under Your Holy Feet." This should be the only one prayer in you. "Accept me, take me as Your own. I don't want anything else but Your grace my Lord." Try to be of this mentality, this attitude. "Exclusively I'm Yours. I belong to none, but wholly I belong to You. You can do anything and everything with me. You've got whole right over me."

Ananya bhakti, surrender, to Him, śaraṇāgati. This will fetch us the best benefit in the whole of life, future, past, and in all respects, from all standpoints. As much as possible to collect my attention and devote to Him. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Who are you? Who is He? He's your Lord of different type. A filial connection, father and son, mother son, friend friend, then consorthood.

He's Lord. I belong to Him wholly. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. In five moods we can serve Him.

So now, what to do? You'll have to go back to ISKCON? Your baggages are there?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You've left your...

Devotee: Yes. We came last night. It was dark when we came. We stayed there and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now what to do? You'll have to go back, or you'll get your things back here?

Devotee: O.K.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Badrinārāyaṇa prabhu _____ [?] Yes, as you think, you do.

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Devotee: Yes. Tomorrow morning I'll leave from here.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Tomorrow he'll leave from here and go there, and then...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He says he has no time to spare here? Eh?

Devotee: I'll spent today and tonight.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is Guru? He's the representative of the Supreme. And I'm his. He's my owner. Ha, ha, ha, ha. And no longer I belong to myself. I belong to my Guru. The process of dīkṣā is meaning this. I surrender to God, through His representative. Gurudeva is a representative of the God, and what I want to do with God I should do with him. That is the śāstra. If one seriously surrenders to his Guru, that means like this.

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit
na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

"You know the Ācārya, know Me as Ācārya, in Ācārya. I behave with you through Ācārya, through Gurudeva. If you're sincere, to accept Gurudeva, then Gurudeva means this position.

He's the representative of Myself. What you should do to Me, do with him, in that way. He's your owner."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Now, what is practically possible...

...

...I take such regulated life to approach towards my Lord Kṛṣṇa. You don't find such response from your heart? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. She's silent, mother is silent. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. As soon as possible you also will do like that...

...

...she was going to be naked, forcibly clothes, garments were taken off. Draupadī looked to her husbands, no response. Looked to the assembly men, Bhīṣma, Droṇa, so many great personages.

Bhīṣma told _____ [?] "The real purpose of religion is very fine. And Yudhiṣṭhira is the most expert, we think. He knows the real purport of the Vedas more than anyone of us. And when he's silent I can't say anything." That was Bhīṣma's statement.

Then Draupadī when she found this way, that way, no help expected from any side, then her mind ran to Kṛṣṇa.

he kṛṣṇa dvārakānātha he gopījana - ballabha, dāsyāste kṛpanāyāyā sakhe darśaya sannidhiṁ

["O all attractive Lord Kṛṣṇa, O king of Dvārakā, O beloved Lord of the gopīs, please kindly appear before me, Your maidservant. O beloved friend, I am in great need of Your mercy at this time."]

[Mahābhārata]

When she found that "none coming to my relief" her heart ran towards Kṛṣṇa.

"He kṛṣṇa he dvārakānātha. You are Lord of Dvārakā. You have got so many queens. You know how to keep their honour. He gopījana - ballabha. You're not fixed within the boundary of Dvārakā. But we hear that You are even the Lord of the gopīs that are not married to You. So in that sense You are Lord of everyone. Gopījana - ballabha."

Only in Mahābhārata, only once this reference about Vṛndāvana līlā of Kṛṣṇa here. In the whole Mahābhārata Vṛndāvana līlā omitted, but only here gopījana - ballabha is mentioned, in the heartfelt prayer of Draupadī. "He gopījana - ballabha. You are Lord of all. You are Lord of the gopīs, in spite of their husbands. Pati patina [?], husband of the husband You are within. Dāsyāste kṛpanāyāyā. So I'm Your maidservant. I'm also a maidservant to You. Please show that You are standing by my side. Sakhe darśaya sannidhiṁ. You show please that You are at my side."

Then at once the aid granted, and as much as they're drawing, the cloth is increasing, increasing. Draupadī was left as she was, and drawing the cloth, the cloth is there so much. But Draupadī as she was, she was there.

Interference of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa ordered, "All the good merits acquired in past lives of Draupadī may turn into cloth at this moment." That was His order. "All the merits done in her past lives may be converted to cloth, her immediate need just now." And the cloth became infinite, as much as time, no limit, unlimited cloth.

At this moment Vidura went to Dhṛtarāṣṭra. "What he's doing, your foolish son? So much cruelty, so much immorality, so much rudeness, that the nature won't suffer? At this moment the fire may break out to burn your whole capitol. Be careful. What are you doing? You are dishonouring your own honour."

Then Dhṛtarāṣṭra ordered, "Oh. Dismiss everything. Bring Draupadī to me."

So, none belongs to none. In the greatest need Draupadī was disappointed by her husbands, by the well meaning gentlemen of the assembly, like Bhīṣma and others. None came to her help in the time of the most acute necessity. But Lord Kṛṣṇa came and relieved her.

So Kṛṣṇa is such. Our relationship with Him crossing all connections everywhere.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and also something more, the meaning, the writings, I should not speak them all.

Devotee: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And then when their spiritual conscience will be awakened they'll come and accept the Name. Not forcibly, not to thrust on them. A voluntary action is necessary. Before that they may not take the fish, eat meat, the wine, etc, and a good conduct. That you may make arrangement that they may not go astray, but in good habit, pure life they should have. And also hear, and read also scriptures, and when they'll be sufficiently grown up then they'll take the Name, or mantram, or anything. In the meantime they may be requested to go through the scriptures, and also to associate with the saints, to help them.

Who are they? In this life they have come to you, and you are their father. But in this way, in other lives one may go to another family, even to other sects also. So sure, they've come to you, they may feel afterwards that I was born in the family of that particular father, and there we got some Kṛṣṇa consciousness and that has grown and helped us to reach to such a holy standard of life.

Going here, there, changing. Son is not eternal son. Father or wife not eternal connection. According to our karma. Just as it is given, the example, dust carried by the wind. So many dusts together, another wind comes and dust then distributed here and there, like that. For some time come together, so many souls, and then we're to go away from one another, it is inevitable. So this connection may be happy if they contact some good thing from particular birth, particular father. None is eternal father, none is eternal son, only temporary. And this temporary connection may help those that have come in connection with a good man, religious man. We shall do our duty in that way. Whoever comes to me I shall try my best to help the soul, though temporarily come to me. As a wife, or as a son, or in any way. Even son may help the father for religious life. Father was not religious, but by the connection of the son, the father may have religious life. That is also, mother also like that. It's possible.

Prahlāda's father opposed his devotional life. Bharata is the example who neglected his mother because she banished Rāmacandra. So Vibhiṣana left his elder brother.

Balirāja left his Guru, Śukrācārya. "If the Lord Himself has come to beg something I must give Him. I won't listen to your words my Gurudeva. If the Lord Himself has come to beg something I must give." So Balirāja gave everything to Vāmanadeva, without neglecting the order of Śukrācārya.

[Ṛṣabhadeva says: "Even a spiritual master, relative, parent, husband, or demigod who cannot save us from repeated birth and death should be abandoned at once."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.5.18]

Bali in the case of Guru. Sva jan in Vibhiṣana. Pitā na sa syāj, Prahlāda. Na sa syāj jananī na sā syāt, Bharata. Daivaṁ na tat syān, Khatvangarāja gave up the connection of the demigods and surrendered to Viṣṇu. And patiś ca sa syān, the yajña patnis gave up the order, the honour for pati, husbands, and went to have a darśana of Kṛṣṇa-Balarāma in the forest nearby.

Then when they came back, then the husbands they adored them like anything. "Oh. After so much scriptural knowledge, so much penances, birth in a great lineage, we could not have the fulfilment of our lives in seeing Kṛṣṇa-Balarāma. And you are not educated, and not so much well read, and so much well practised like us in the yajña and others. You had the fortune of having the fulfilment of life. We adore you, we worship you." In this way the husbands afterwards told.

To hell with it all, for as result of these things we have become opposed towards loving the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who is beyond the speculation of our body, mind, and senses."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.23.40]

"All our education, all our religious practices have no value, because when the time came we were not favourable for the fortunate visit of the Supreme Lord." They repented like this, in Bhāgavatam we find.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Badrināràyaṇa: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So gopīs are the highest standard. And Uddhava says, "I want to be a grass in Vṛndāvana so that the feet dust of the gopīs they fall on my head. And why? They have neglected the scriptural injunctions, ārya-patham, the way that is recommended by the scriptures. And svajanam, their own guardian, left. They did not care for their own guardian, and also the directions of the scriptures about their relationship with Kṛṣṇa. Their opinion, the relation between the Lord God Himself and any servant of His that must be unconditional. No conditions come to interfere that relationship. Unconditional surrender to the Lord. He's got wholesale right over me. And the śāstra will come and say, 'Oh, so much connection, and no more connection. Or our guardian will say, Oh, so much connection, and no more connection.' That won't be taken up. The Absolute connection over us, of everything, He's Absolute Lord. His connection is unchallengeable to anything and everything." That type of devotion, dedication, is the highest. Self forgetfulness in its totality. How far? There is another tale.

Once Kṛṣṇa, to prove, to show the position of His devotion in Dvārakā He made a līlā that, "I have got a strong headache." When Nārada went to see. "Nārada, I'm suffering too much from headache."

"What is the medicine, what is the cure?"

"Only the feet dust of the devotee, that can cure My headache, nothing else."

Then Nārada at once ran to the harem, the Rukmiṇī, Satyabhāmā. "Oh, Kṛṣṇa is suffering and only the feet dust of the devotee is His medicine, He says."

Then they denied totally. "No, no no. This is impossible. He's the husband, and we think He's the Lord of Lords. And how can we give feet dust? Do you think that we shall go to hell? Never, we can't. You are His devotee, you go and you give your feet dust to Him."

In this way he was repulsed, driven away. Then he approached Kṛṣṇa, went to Him.

"Have you got feet dust?"

"No, no. None, no devotee is agreeing to give feet dust. They're all afraid. You are Lord of Lords."

"Then Nārada, try once go in Vṛndāvana you see there."

Then Nārada at once went to Vṛndāvana.

And they all came. "Oh, Nārada, coming from Dvārakā. How is our Lord, Kṛṣṇa?"

"He's well, everything is good. But for the moment a little trouble He has got some headache and the feet dust of the devotee can remove that pain in Him and nothing else. So I have come here to take - who is devotee, to take feet dust."

"Oh, there are so many queens and so many devotees there, they didn't...

"No, no, they did not venture to give feet dust. 'Should I go to hell?' That is their statement."

"So you have come here for feet dust, so far? But we do not know who are devotees. You give your feet dust, I'm giving, you also give." In this way they came with feet dust.

Nārada was struck dumb. "What do you do? None approached to give feet dust to the Lord of Lords. And you don't think what will be the consequence?"

"Yes, we know. Eternal hell. But we do not care for that. For the temporary satisfaction of the Lord we can sacrifice our whole existence Nārada. We do not care for us."

So intense forgetfulness of one's own interest in the dedication of life towards. "He's all in all."

mārobi rākhobi [yo icchā tohārā, nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā]

["Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant."]
[The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13]

"He may make or mar. He has absolute ownership with me." The gopīs of that type, that type of dedication, that type of love for the Lord found only in Vṛndāvana, nowhere else. Surrender has got its quality. What type of surrender? Surrender to the extreme. Suicidal squad, in the army. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktiṁ kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ
tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadwīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadwīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."]
[Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

As much as one can understand Śrī Gaurāṅga, one gets entrance into the Gaura consciousness, automatically he's led to both Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa. Yathā yathā gaura padāravinde. If you have attraction for the Holy Feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, padāravinde, vindeta bhaktiṁ kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ, and this is by merit of many, many previous lives, such fortune comes to one. Tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt. Suddenly he feels within himself, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ. He has got his sincere connection and attraction for the Holy Feet of Śrī Rādhārāṇī.

And about Rādhārāṇī he himself has written, that Prabodhānanda Saraswatī, who was living in Śrī Kuṇḍa Kamavana. And there he composed all these books. Very charming style, and thought also of very high level.

About Rādhārāṇī, the Grouse [?] he has told, has written history of Raja Putana, and one Grouse [?], a European gentleman, he wrote a book in details about the līlā of Vṛndāvana. Grouse [?] he mentioned this śloka in his book from Prabodhānanda Saraswatī.

yasyā kadāpi vasanāñcala khelanottha, dhanyāti dhanya pavanena kṛtārtha mānī yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdano'pi, tasyā namo'stu vṛṣabhānu bhuvo diśe'pi

["From a reverential distance, with all adoration, I offer my obeisances, unto the daughter of King Vṛṣabhānu, Śrī Rādhikā, who captivated the heart of Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Lord, Who is rarely attained even by the foremost of yogīs. Once a gentle gust of wind wafted the sweet scent of Her clothing towards Kṛṣṇa and He felt so blessedly fulfilled that He embraced that fragrance to His heart."] [Rādhā-rasa-sudhā-nidhi]

Rādhārāṇī's cloth, or garment, a part of that was moved by the wind. And the wind that's coming out of that fluttering of the cloth on the body of Rādhārāṇī, touching the body of Kṛṣṇa. And Kṛṣṇa thinks Himself most fortunate by the touch of that air. And who is Kṛṣṇa? Yogīndra durgama gatiḥ madhusūdano'pi. The Madhusūdana, whom so many yogīs, jñānīs, are searching but can't have any trace. That Madhusūdana Himself feels Himself fortunate when He gets the touch of the breeze coming out of the fluttering cloth skirt by the wind. So we should bow down to that very direction where from that Rādhārāṇī came to our world. Vṛṣabhānu bhu. That part of land where She has come to this phenomenal world, we should bow down from far away to the direction of that land, which helps us to see Her. We'll see that the Lord Himself thinks Himself fortunate that a touch of the wind of the skirts of His shadow.

So these things are dealt in Vṛndāvana as well as in Navadwīpa. Navadwīpa for the public, fallen souls, to take Hari-Nāma. And then you'll be fit to enter into the domain of love, the harem of the Supreme Absolute Lord.

So such things for us, here this mortal world, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] Full of pain of birth and death, and infirmity and disease. Full of these things here. We're in body consciousness, that means we must suffer from the pain of birth, death, disease, and infirmity, old age, everyone to suffer.

But there, just the opposite. Try. Human birth is only the door to enter. In other births, human birth is also uncertain, but when you've got it, for a few days at least it will stay, and utilise it for the highest purpose of your life, highest fulfilment of your life. Don't waste your energy, or your time, in any other attempt. Utilise your time to the best of your ability. That is to march towards your highest fulfilment of life. Don't waste your energy in other things. Try for the highest fortune. _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Bhakti-sāra Mahārāja, Bhāgavata Mahārāja _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Here the name and the thing different. But in Vaikuṇṭha, in the plane of the soul, the name is inseparably connected with the thing, substance.

Nāma-nāmira-ābheda [Caitanya-caritamrta, Madhya-līlā, 17.130-132,134]

The sound aspect, and the central aspect, and all others all connected in such a way that one cannot exist independent of another. The sound Kṛṣṇa, is the sight Kṛṣṇa, and the touch Kṛṣṇa, all one and the same.

Nāma-'bhinnatvān nāminoḥ [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.233]

So we're to take Name in that particular way. So we're to get the Name from the Gurudeva. This material sound and the sound of that plane is not one and the same.

[sādhu saṅga kṛṣṇa nāma ei matta jai,] vaikuṇṭha nāma grahaṇam aśeṣāgham haraṁ vidun

["The Holy Name must be taken with the attitude of service to the saints. Serving means die to live; to throw oneself wholesale for the higher existence."]

To have effect in our sādhana, in our realisation, we must have connection with the real Name.

Once one Ārya Samāj man asked a Rāmānuji Vaiṣṇava in Ayodhyā. "Oh, you're giving mantram. I know your mantram. I got your mantram from the book. You are giving that and very strict in delivering mantram. I know your mantram. This is the..."

"No, no. That is not my mantram. What you say that is not my mantram. You say only in words. But it's something else."

The homoeopathic globule, all medicines are similar, only the globule conception. But globule is not the medicine. Globule may be _____ [?] may be this and that, so many medicines where globule is similar.

So the coating is not the substance within. So Nāma-nāmira-ābheda. So it's necessary that we shall take the Name of Kṛṣṇa from Guru. Otherwise we can hear it anywhere and everywhere in the street. That won't do. Vaikuṇṭha nāma grahaṇam. And the process is there. Both Guru and the disciple must be bona fide, transaction must be bona fide, not only a show, not imitation. The śiṣya has got his qualification, and Guru also has his qualification. It is mentioned in the scripture, in Gītā, in Upaniṣad, in Bhāgavatam.

tad vijñānārthaṁ sa gurum evābhigacchet, samit paniḥ śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭham

["One who wants scientific knowledge about the Supreme Truth must approach a bona fide Guru and offer him everything required for sacrifice. The Guru must be fixed in the truth, having heard it from a genuine source."] [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 1.2.12]

In Upaniṣad. In Bhāgavatam.

[tasmād guruṁ prapadyeta, jijñāsuḥ śreyaḥ uttamam]
śabde pare ca niṣṇātaṁ, brahmaṇy upaśamāśrayam

["Therefore any person who seriously desires real happiness must seek a bona fide Spiritual Master and take shelter of him by initiation. The qualification of the bona fide Guru is that he has realised the conclusions of the scriptures by deliberation and is able to convince others of those conclusions. Such great personalities, who have taken shelter of the Supreme Godhead, leaving aside all material considerations, should be understood to be bona fide Spiritual Masters."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.21]

In Bhagavad-gītā.

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā / upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened Spiritual Master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

Both parties must be qualified and sincere, then the transaction is possible. Guru imparts power with the word. That of the spiritual power with the word, transferred to the disciple. And the qualified disciple also by his repetition in japa in a particular way he gets. From the sound he can gradually see the rūpa. The eye experience comes from the ear experience. Suddenly eye experience comes down. Then, sphurite _____ [?] Then the quality experience comes from the transcendental world _____ [?] Then the paraphernalia comes, out of relativity it comes. Tato lilayam. Then the pastimes. First sound, then figure, then quality, and then paraphernalia, and then the pastimes of the Lord. And then he finds that he's one of the members there, he can find his own self there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is not imagination but this is reality. And where we're living, this atmosphere is imagination.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

Day to one, night to another. And night to one is day to another. The yogīs they're awake in a world, ordinary people sleeping there. And we're sleeping there, and the devotees they're awake fully in that world. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. The highest thing with lowest price, if we're to get this Navadwīpa will come to help. Śrī Gaura līlā will come to help, take us to the highest with the least price. Śraddhā, sincere earnest desire. You desire sincerely and you'll have. No price is possible for that highest thing. That cannot be had by any price in this world. This is valueless, all sham things. So only value that you want sincerely. 'I want, I want.' To want that is to serve Him. We cannot enjoy or exploit that thing. Exploitation is very nasty thing, to exploit, to enjoy, there's reaction. And to renounce, as the Buddhists, Śaṅkarite, that is also hopeless.

If we want to get reality, with the higher things, then we must come in connection with service. We can serve the high, we can enjoy the low, and we can retire with nothing. Exploitation, renunciation, and life of dedication. Dedication is a noble life, and by dedicating ourselves for the satisfaction of the Supreme Lord we can have Him, His treasure. Treasure of our service, by serving Him every part of ones body feels satisfaction. The whole existence feels satisfaction, sarvātma-snapanaṁ. The satisfaction here, the enjoyment implores us. But there the enjoyment of service purifies us, purifies our whole existence. The loving service of the Lord purifies whole existence, sarvātma-snapanaṁ, and all. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So we shall try to utilise our human birth. This is the special birth where it's possible. There are eighty four lākhs of species.

jalajā nava lakṣāni, sthāvarā lakṣa viṁśati kṛmayo rudra-saṅkhyakāḥ, pakṣiṇām daśa lakṣaṇam triṁsal lakṣāni paśavaḥ, catur lakṣāṇi mānuṣaḥ

[In the laws of Manu, it is written: "There are 900,000 kinds of aquatics, 2,000,000 kinds of trees and plants, 1,100,000 kinds of insects and reptiles, 1,000,000 kinds of birds, 3,000,000 kinds of four-legged beasts, and 400,000 kinds of human species."]

Jalajā nava lakṣāni. Nine lākhs of water animals. Sthāvarā lakṣa viṁśati...

85.12.08.B_85.12.09.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...human beings, gandharva, kinara, devata, etc, only four lākhs. Those that have free will, who can leave one path and accept another path, such sort of consideration is only with the four lākhs of persons. Human beings are - even the [demi] god life is not very eligible for new selection. In human position they're in the most favourable position to accept a new life. Because when they're in the life of gods and other lives they're busy to enjoy their fruits of past actions.

Bhoga ninge satasyat [?] In the lower section, avidyā, ajñāna-timirāndhasya, they're covered by ignorance. And in devata they're also unfit. Why? By their past action they've acquired some merit and they're very busy to enjoy their happiness earned by the past actions. Bhoga ninge satasyat [?] A man who has got money it is very easy for him to go to the wine shop and here and there, made very easy. So devata, the gods, they've acquired in their past lives many things which can excite enjoyment, they're busy with that. Bhoga ninge satasyat [?]

So human life is in the balance, and from here we can very easily accept a new line of life. So the ṛṣis, the noble persons, they advise us. "Human birth is very, very valuable. When you've come here, give up all attempts, only accept your line for the highest realisation. A very valuable life, higher than the gods.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Today is Ekādaśī. Kṛṣṇa demands service a little more this day.

Generally it was told by Guru Mahārāja. "The jala, water, ebb and tide we find, so from Ekādaśī it begins the juice, the watery portion in our body increases. So also the spiritual enjoyment increases. So Kṛṣṇa also - everything, the cause is there in Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa wants to enjoy little more, so our opportunity to supply service to Him this day is a very good opportunity that we've got to serve Him. When there's demand of water, the value of water is there. Kṛṣṇa wants service, so if we can serve Him in the time of need then we'll earn more. So the devotees they leave their personal necessities and they try to engage themselves always in the service of Kṛṣṇa. They'll earn more attraction for Him by that. Ekādaśī. A special day to engage oneself for better earning in the service. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

In Jainism they appreciate the saints, that is liberated souls. There are so many liberated souls. But the liberated souls, where they live? And what is the relation between them? And whether there is something who can harmonise them? Then the question of Vaikuṇṭha and Goloka comes in there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Generally today, after twelve we do not take anything. But after that Ekādaśī day we take some anukalpa. But as you're to go elsewhere I've asked them to give some anukalpa to you before you start from here. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

In Vallabha Sampradāya, vātsalya rasa is more predominating, vātsalya. Golula is the highest place. And in mādhurya rasa the Yamunā. When in Bombay I met Gokula Dāsa, the mahant or someone. And also I've read from the books that filial, they come from the same school as Śrīdhara Swāmī comes, the great commentator of Bhāgavatam and Bhagavad-gītā, Śrīdhara Swāmī. He came from Viṣṇusvāmī Sampradāya. And Vallabhācārya also came from the same Sampradāya. In Gujerat and that locality, Vallabha Vaiṣṇavas are in large numbers existing. They're more towards sevā. Neither arcana like Nimbarka Sampradāya, and neither kīrtana as Gauḍīya Sampradāya. Kīrtana is the common thing in Gauḍīya. And sevā in Vallabha Sampradāya. Arcana in the Nimbarka Sampradāya. In this way principal things in a particular Sampradāya. So Vallabhācārya, sevā, and mostly vātsalya rasa. And of course they admit mādhurya rasa service, but there they're more towards Yamunā. And Gauḍīya Sampradāya and Nimbarka towards Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-Govinda. Rādhārāṇī's service is the highest for Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Differentiation. Hare Rāma. Hare Rāma. Rāma Rāma. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ.

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatāṁ yadi kuto 'pi labhyate
tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

The only price is our sincere earnest demand. "I want Him, sincerely." That is the price. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate. Crores of births and their acquisition fails to give us that thing. Only have your innermost necessity for the Supreme. That must be roused, discovered. It's there, but it's covered thickly by different mental tendencies. That must be discovered by the help of the association of the saints and the scriptures. Then the inner demand, so much so, every atom of my body is crying for the corresponding atom of my Lord.

One gentleman came from Germany, our Godbrother, he told, "Nowhere in religious conception there is twenty four hours engagement with God. Only Gauḍīya aṣṭa-kālīya-sevā. Twenty four hours engagement of service with God is nowhere found but only in the Gauḍīya sampradāya, in the consorthood of service, mādhurya rasa sevā. Mādhurya rasa sevā, there we can have twenty four hours engagement in the service of God, nowhere else. That has been given by Śrī Caitanyadeva. Both Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa combined. This is the peculiarity."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Hare Rāma. Hare Rāma. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In Rāmānanda-saṁvāda. "Go deeper. Superficial. This is also." Stage by stage one is entering into the highest stage. "Eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc]

Rāmānanda answering, Mahāprabhu questioning, and Rāmānanda answering.

"Here it begins from varṇāśrama dharma."

"Go further, go deeper." He's saying, "Eho bāhya āge kaha āra. This is also superficial, go deeper."

In this way, going to the highest stage. "Here it is. Anything further?"

In this way, step by step, beginning from varṇāśrama dharma, in the śāstra pramāṇa.

[prabhu kahe, — "paḍa śloka sādhyera nirṇaya"]
rāya kahe, — "sva-dharmācaraṇe viṣṇu-bhakti haya"

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu ordered Rāmānanda Rāya, "Recite a verse from the revealed scriptures concerning the ultimate goal of life."] [Rāmānanda replied, "If one executes the prescribed duties of his social position, he awakens his original Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.57]

[prabhu kahe,] — "eho bāhya, āge kaha āra"
[rāya kahe,] "kṛṣṇe karmārpaṇa — sarva-sādhya-sāra"

[The Lord replied, "This is external. You had better tell Me of some other means."] [Rāmānanda replied, "To offer the results of one's activities to Kṛṣṇa is the essence of all perfection."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59]

[prabhu kahe,] "eho bāhya, āge kaha āra"
[rāya kahe,] — "jñāna-śūnyā bhakti — sādhya-sāra"

["After hearing this, the Lord, as usual, rejected it, considering it to be external devotional service. He again asked Rāmānanda Rāya to speak further, and Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Pure devotional service without any touch of speculative knowledge is the essence of perfection."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.66]

[prabhu kahe,] — "eho bāhya, āge kaha āra"
[rāya kahe,] "jñāna-miśrā bhakti — sādhya-sāra"

[After hearing Rāmānanda Rāya speak in this way, Lord Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu again rejected his statement and said, "Go ahead and say something more."] [Rāmānanda Rāya then replied, "Devotional service mixed with empiric knowledge is the essence of perfection."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.64]

"Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra, — "jñāna-śūnyā bhakti — sādhya-sāra." Jñāna-śūnyā bhakti, where the trace of calculation, reasoning stops, and only taste, ruci, begins. The ruci, our taste, no reasoning, only taste. Mahāprabhu accepted, "Here it is." Intellect is deceptive, treacherous. Reason cannot give Him. We cannot measure Him by reason. He's above reasoning. Then the only reliable thing within us, our taste for Him. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. Free from power seeking element and knowledge seeking element.

'We can know Him and we can utilise Him. We can utilise Him as energy, and we can know Him thoroughly.' But these are opposite, these must be dismissed.

Only, 'I like it very much when I hear about Him from the mouth, from the lips of a sādhu.' Here we can do like. Our inner taste to have Him, in connection with the sādhu, the unit is here, beginning here.

Āge kaha āra. Then dāsya prema. Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra. Sākhya prema. Eho bāhya, āge kaha āra. Uttama āge kaha āra. Vātsalya prema. Eho uttama āge kaha āra. Mādhurya sevā. Sei sarvottama kintu āge kaha āra. Then the particular mādhurya sevā, devised by Rādhārāṇī. Sei sarvottama.

In this way progressing. Mahāprabhu. Very beautiful and very appealing to the sincere person. Very satisfying to the innermost nerve is satisfied. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So time is most valuable to us. With the help of the saints and the revealed scriptures we're to make progress further, to improve our fortune. The fortune, not only of this life, but past lives and future. Past, present, future, the fulfilment of the whole, and to the highest degree, we can get by the grace of Nityānanda and Śrī Gaurāṅga.

Sādhu sādhana. "Oh you honest people be very careful to utilise your time. You are honest and sincere, still, I'm giving warning to you. You venture forth, the time is very important. You have got the present time, very, very important, try to utilise. It will help you for eternity."

...after His sannyāsa He came back once to see His birthplace here in Govardhana Kuliyā. He showed His mercy to the extreme. All that previously committed offence against Him, serious offences were all pardoned here, forgiven here.

kuliyā-grāmete āsi' śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya, hena nāhi, yā 're prabhu nā karilā dhanya

["At Koladvīpa - the Govarddhana Hill of Vṛndāvana, concealed in Śrī Navadvīpa Dhāma - the Most Generous Absolute expressed Himself in His maximum generosity. Without considering any crime, He absolved whoever He found. He accepted them all."] [Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Antya, 3.541]

He left His motherland and again after five years when He came back to have a darśana of His motherland as a sannyāsī, then many fell to His Holy Feet.

"We could not understand You my Lord. We committed many offences against You. Please forgive."

And He forgave, who even committed serious offences against Him when He was a householder. He forgave everyone. "Yes. All offences forgiven." Here in Kuliyā, in Gupta Govardhana, here in Navadwīpa. On the other side, His house, and He was here.

Viṣṇupriyā Devī came to take bath in the Ganges, with mother. And suddenly found a large crowd all chanting "Haribol. Haribol." "Why so much Haribol on the other side of the Ganges?" She cast her glance and saw, "Oh mother, your Son has come there." Mahāprabhu was a little higher than ordinary people, so she could see His head from the other part of the Ganges. "Oh mother, your Son. So much Haribol on the other side, and crowd." Then after casting her glance she told, "Mother, your Son has come on the other side of the Ganges." Next moment she told,

"Please cover me and take me home. If He sees me His sannyāsa dharma will be lost. So cover me and take me home my mother."

Then once Mahāprabhu crossed the Ganges and went to the door of His own house, at that time Viṣṇupriyā fell flat on His feet. And Mahāprabhu could understand, wholly covered, and He gave His wooden paduka. "You pacify yourself with these." And He went away from the door of His house.

Gaura Hari bol.

And what did Viṣṇupriyā do? We're told that she used to take the Name, and counting the Name with some rice. And that rice she cooked and offered to the Deity, and she took that only, that rice she took, and emaciated day by day. Viṣṇupriyā. When Mahāprabhu left her she was the age of fourteen. Fourteen years of age, perhaps married life one year or so. Viṣṇupriyā.

Their life was sacrifice to excite the feeling in the heart of others, to take refuge, to take shelter under the Holy Feet of great Gaurāṅga. Śacī Devī, old mother, and girl wife, their great sacrifice all helped the people to accept the Holy Feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga. They will be saved. Their whole life was a sacrifice to excite others. "Take shelter under the Holy Feet of Gaurāṅga. He's so noble. You get the benefit. I give up Him, but you people get the benefit of His company, His grace. Let us suffer for the interest of you all, public."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. And it's described, when Mahāprabhu was here, people were coming, crossing Ganges by swimming. All covered by human heads, the whole Ganges locality was covered by human heads. All swimming, coming towards this side. It's described in such a way, the whole Ganges water was covered with human heads, all coming to see Mahāprabhu in this side.

And He took His quarter with Sārvabhauma's brother, Vidyāvācaspati, in Vidyānagara. He stayed there for a few days. And then went to Rūpa, Sanātana _____ [?] And when He was approaching towards Vṛndāvana by the banks of the Ganges, lākha lākha, lākhs of people following Him.

Yaha yara tare carana carite sei misti kailu gata haya pate [?] Wherever He's touching with His - He's progressing by steps touching the earth and people are taking the earth from there, and there a hole is created. Lākhs of people following Him to Vṛndāvana side, through the banks of the Ganges. And yaha jara [?] wherever His feet is touching the earth and people passing they're taking earth from there, and a hole created in the path, in this way. sei misti kailu gata haya pate [?]

Then He came back. Sanātana Goswāmī told, "Prabhu. You're going to Vṛndāvana with lākhs of followers. You won't find peace there. These men will create disturbance." Then He came back to Purī and with only one follower, one assistant, He went to Vṛndāvana from Purī, with one Balabhadra Bhaṭṭācārya.

And when He was passing through the jungle of Jhārikhaṇḍa it's written that so many tigers, deers, and elephants in the jungle, they were also dancing and chanting with Kṛṣṇa Nāma. From soul to soul, the impression, the transmission of the love from soul to soul, independent of the mental system of animals. And the elephants, tigers, they also feel within their soul so much ecstasy. "Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa." And dancing with Mahāprabhu. It is mentioned there, the deeper plane of soul, the inspiration is passing to another soul. Beast, the mental system is beast, body is beast, but internally the soul that is separate from body and mind. The love divine is transmitted in that plane of soul, so the elephant dancing with Kṛṣṇa prema. It is possible.

Gaura Hari.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaudadesa. You try there. And Nityānanda came, instead of preaching the Name of Kṛṣṇa, Nityānanda began to preach the Name of Gaurāṅga.

bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna

["Worship Gaurāṅga, speak of Gaurāṅga, chant Gaurāṅga's Name. Whoever worships Śrī Gaurāṅga is My life and soul. Come straight to the campaign of Śrī Caitanya and you will safely attain Vṛndāvana."]

"Accept Gaurāṅga, fall at His feet. And whomever takes the Name of Gaurāṅga he's My very life." In this way appealing from door to door. And the request was so much intense, sometimes He appealed, and with the tears in His eyes, and then began to roll on the door of the man. "Accept Gaurāṅga, take Gaurāṅga. You do not know how valuable things are passing through your door. It is the success of lives and lives, the fulfilment of the whole existence. Gaurāṅga is passing through your door. Please accept. Don't lose this chance." Nityānanda falling at the door and crying and rolling.

[yena bhaje tāre bale danta tṛṇa dhari, āmāre kiniyā laha bala gaura-hari] eta bali nityānanda bhūme gaḍi yāya, sonāra parvata yena dhūlāya loṭāya

["The compassionate Nityānanda Prabhu most humbly approached those who did not feel any loving appreciation for Śrī Gaurāṅga due to their false pride and hard heartedness. Not to hurt their pride, He took a few blades of grass between His teeth as a token of humility and appealed to them saying, "O dear friend, try to understand that your own highest good is Gaura Hari. You can attain the greatest fortune of your life if you connect to Him with love and devotion. Please take His Holy Name, even if only once, and chant it from the core of your heart. With devotional faith speak about His glories and share your relish with other devotees. Sincerely pray for His grace, for you will surely receive great spiritual benefit. I am your most well wishing friend. If you can please take My advice and act accordingly then you can own Me forever."

Imploring in such a way, Śrī Nityānanda's heart melted in spiritual compassion. Incited by that deep emotional ecstasy He became so tender before those proud people that He invalidated all their pride. As an act of noble humility He began to roll on the ground before them. As His form became decorated with the dust of the earth the devotees around Him beheld with tearful eyes the extraordinary manifestation of causeless mercy of Prabhu Nityānanda. They marvelled at how their divine Guru Tattva, could sacrifice His exalted position and honour and come down to the dust of the earth with such compassionate humility."]

[Locana dāsa Ṭhākura] [Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 4]

As a mountain peak He's rolling there, crying and rolling on the door. "Accept Gaurāṅga. You don't know what valuable things are passing through your door. Accept Gaurāṅga and you'll get the highest realisation, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, Both combined. Take, accept." In this way fervently appealed from door to door requesting the acceptance of Gaurāṅga as their Lord of heart. Nityānanda Prabhu.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Love Divine is the highest thing, neither knowledge nor power. We're to understand these things in a nutshell. We're power seekers. 'Everyone will obey me. I'll be the master.' This is the nature of this world, but there's reaction. And disgusted with action and reaction, the Buddha, Śaṅkara, They want the effacement of their existence. That is tyāga, samādhi, sāyujya mukti. But both cancelled by the Vaiṣṇava. Service is a noble life, dedication, only earning and no expenditure, only earning. By dedication you earn, always earning, and earning what? Noble things, noblest things. You earn, only earning, and no expenditure. You're getting highest position. Such a life is there. And that is also in the beginning calculative in Vaikuṇṭha, and over calculation in Vṛndāvana. Labour of love. And they forget themselves in loving service. Forgetfulness totally in the service of the Lord of love, and they enjoy some extraordinary ecstatic feeling there. Vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ.

["While the gopīs were describing the sweet vibration of Kṛṣṇa's flute, they also remembered their pastimes with Him; thus their minds became enchanted, and they were unable to describe completely the beautiful vibrations. While discussing the transcendental vibration, they remembered also how Kṛṣṇa dressed, decorated with a peacock feather on His head, just like a dancing actor, and with blue flowers pushed over His ear. His garment glowed yellow-gold, and He was garlanded with a vaijayantī garland made of tulasī, kuṇḍa, mandāra, parījāta, and lotus flowers. Dressed in such an attractive way, Kṛṣṇa filled up the holes of His flute with the nectar emanating from His lips. So they remembered Him, entering the forest of Vṛndāvana, whose soil experiences the pleasure of consorthood upon being embraced by the touch of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.21.5]

Kṛṣṇa is such when He's entering the forest with the cows - Śukadeva Goswāmī he's describing, "The earth when gets the touch of the foot of Kṛṣṇa, earth feels some satisfaction of sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ, as the earth feeling the happy experience of the conjugal love, sva-pada-ramaṇaṁ. By the touch of the feet of Kṛṣṇa, Gopāla, earth feels the satisfaction of the conjugal love. He's such. Every connection, every touch, is producing the highest form of love experience. It is Vṛndāvana."

...family. And that is mentioned there perhaps in reference to the Tipani of Sanātana, of Sanātana, Dashami-Tipani, and Jīva Goswāmī they gave the interpretation that is unique. And unique interpretor of Bhāgavatam, his life and connection given there. A new light has been given by Sanātana Goswāmī on Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in Dashami-Tipani. And a strong protection for the Bhāgavata truth is given by Jīva Goswāmī. And Rūpa Goswāmī has distributed the very gist, the substance of Bhāgavatam, to the whole world. So their indispensable connection with Bhāgavatam is proper light, proper interpretation. Sanātana Goswāmī has shown from Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, not come from Mathurā. Devakī-nandana is another, Yaśodā-nandana is another, separate. When Devakī-nandana was taken to Vṛndāvana there was another, Yaśodā-nandana. And Yaśodā-nandana absorbed Devakī-nandana in Him. But that is ontologically and not explicitly. And when Devakī-nandana went away to Mathurā, Yaśodā-nandana remained there unseen, Nanda-nandana. Because he had reference also from different scriptures.

Yadu-kumāra Kṛṣṇa manifests His pastimes in the cities of Dvārakā and Mathurā, but Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Nanda Mahārāja never at any time leaves Vṛndāvana, even for a moment. That original Personality of Godhead Kṛṣṇa who is Svayaṁ Bhagavān always manifests two arms. He never manifests four arms. He is always by the right hand side of the foremost of gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, and He never leaves Vṛndāvana."] [Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Pūrva-khaṇḍa, 165] [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.42-43]

Drāṣṭā. Gopāla-nandana. Vṛndāvanaṁ parityajya sa kvacit naiva gacchati. That Svayaṁ Bhagavān never leaves Vṛndāvana, only His Vilāsa Mūrti. Vaibhava Vilāsa of Svayaṁ Bhagavān leaves Vṛndāvana. Nanda-tanuja, in many places it's mentioned in Bhāgavatam, nanda-tanuja. So nanda-tanuja can never be meant as Vasudeva-tanuja, so separate. In this way, new interpretation given by Sanātana, in many places.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Rūpa, Sanātana, they come for a brāhmaṇa royal family in Maharastra. For their quarrel in the same family, they, someone named Kumara deva, came to Jagannātha Purī from Maharastra to live there, for family quarrel. Then from there, from Purī they came to Naihati [?] near the banks of the Ganges, Naihati. Then anyhow for some occupation purpose or so they moved to Yasogula there, and from there they were drawn to Gaur Malda, by the king of that time. And from there they connected with Śrī Gaurāṅga, Nimāi Paṇḍit, here in Navadwīpa. And after sannyāsa Mahāprabhu went there and collected them, and sent them to Vṛndāvana to do for preaching purpose on His behalf. And educated Rūpa and Sanātana, in Allahabad and in Benares, and sent them there, to preach Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism. The conception of the revealed truth, the highest conception of the revealed scriptures, as found in Vṛndāvana. The Vṛndāvana conception of Godhead is the highest conception of the Absolute. Love is above all.

[vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam]
brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān iti śabdyate

["Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this non-dual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11]

All permeating, all comprehensive, accommodating, and all controlling, three phases of the Absolute. Then the fourth phase Mahāprabhu gave out, that is Kṛṣṇa conception. That sundaram, that loveliness of the Absolute to attract everyone for His service, towards Him. Neither the controller, nor the accommodater, nor the innermost substance is the highest conception of the Absolute. But the capacity of attracting everyone for to concentrate the centre of interest of everyone by beauty and love. Natural, not forceful control, neither all accommodation, or all permeating, but to attract every atom towards Him for fulfilment of their existence. That is the highest aspect of the Absolute, as given by Mahāprabhu. Naturally attractor of all, giving them fulfilment, possible fulfilment. Who can give fulfilment of the inner aspiration of everyone, that aspect is the highest aspect of the Absolute, fulfilment. And that is possible by ānandam, rasam, beauty, love, affection. That aspect is the highest aspect of the Absolute. Neither controlling, nor accommodating, nor permeating aspect, Paramātmā, Brahman, and Bhagavān, but Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, the God of Gods. The God of all Gods, the fulfilment, ānandam, sundaram, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. And His abode is in Vṛndāvana, and He never leaves Vṛndāvana. Then it was found out that He's another, similar...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...all drawn in by His beauty, and then distributing the beauty to every - just as in the heart we find the blood is circulated to every corner, and from there to purify every blood, again drawn towards heart for purification, something. Giving and taking, all attracting, and distributing to all. That is Śrī Caitanyadeva. And there, the combined effort of the positive-negative together. In Vṛndāvana, positive- negative separate with their own paraphernalia and They're continuing the pastimes. In Svarūpa Dāmodara's śloka we find, rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam.

[rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5] tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ. purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau.

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau

'First Kṛṣṇa and then Mahāprabhu,' Svarūpa Dāmodara refutes it, for Both are eternal. When They're combined, rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir. Who is Rādhā is not separate from Kṛṣṇa. The love, the affection between Them, kṛṣṇa-praṇaya, the beauty, or the love, affection, that is in Kṛṣṇa, that is Rādhā, and so that cannot exist separately. One, Both One, and when They separated Themselves for particular practice in Vṛndāvana, Dvāpara-yuga, then we found that They were divided. They divided. One divided into two halves: positive-negative. With Their Own paraphernalia, They showed very beautiful pastimes there. And again, They become One and Śrī Caitanya. Rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ. The colour and the mood of Rādhārāṇī in Kṛṣṇa.

And there, as I have mentioned in my Prema Dhāma Deva Stotra [66], the self-evident, this ānandam, rasam, in His own way He sees the highest fulfilment of existence, and the sign is that He's dancing. mattasya-nṛtya _____ [?]

Just as a madman without any object, he dances. This example given by the philosophers, mattasya- nṛtya, a madman is dancing. What is the cause? He's got no idea, but dancing in himself.

So, the Absolute, He's in ecstasy of His joyfulness, He's dancing. And when chanting He's distributing Himself to the public.

I pointed out that dancing is the symptom of fullness of ecstatic joy. And of kīrtana, to distribute Himself to outside, to the environment. So these two signs found in whom fully, He cannot but be the Absolute, advaya. The Absolute Truth has got His own fulfilment and also in dynamic character distributing that fulfilment to others. And that is found in Śrī Caitanyadeva. So, Śrī Caitanyadeva is of the highest type of Absolute. We find there, these two signs.

The fulfilment Himself shows us in His dance and His kīrtana, Nāma kīrtana, distribution of Himself to others. So dynamic, ecstatic substance, Śrī Caitanyadeva. And sometimes He's one in that way, audārya, and mādhurya in Vṛndāvana, and audārya in Navadwīpa. Two compartments in the same level. In the highest level of ontological conception there are two compartments, one confined within Himself, and another distributing that to other quarters. Attracting everyone towards Them and distributing everything towards all. Two phases, generally two phases of līlā, pastimes, are found there.

So to us the Gaura līlā is more useful because our prospect is there. And through Him only we can have entrance into another aspect of His līlā - when it is given by Him, by His given method. If we approach, we're sure to have entrance into that līlā.

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktiṁ kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ
tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadwīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadwīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."]

[Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

As much as we're able to connect ourselves with Gaura līlā, automatically we find that without any trouble we're already presented there in Kṛṣṇa līlā in the camp of Rādhārāṇī we're blessed. We're carried to the camp of Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. Ontological aspect we're to follow.

These goswāmīs, so many goswāmīs had flesh connection. They were cornered by the śāstra and the smārta section here in Bengal. But Gauḍīya Maṭh by its preaching has razed their standard. There, some section oppressed by the society general. But now by the preaching of the Gauḍīya Maṭh that dignity has increased, that who preached about Śrī Caitanyadeva, their position is unique. This is preached by Gauḍīya. Otherwise they were living in the cave.

When I came first to Navadwīpa, then some explanation was called from me.

"Why you have joined that nasty sampradāya - Caitanyadeva? All the out-castes, rubbish of the society, and they have accommodated, and their position is very lower, and their status is very low in the society. And you have entered that camp?"

I told, "Reading Bhagavad-gītā and Bhāgavatam, I've clearly understood that the varṇāśrama dharma is culminating in Vaiṣṇava dharma. And this conception of Śrī Caitanyadeva's Vaiṣṇavism is of the highest. In Gītā and Bhāgavatam we can find it clearly, what Caitanyadeva gave, that is the highest thing."

"No, no." They came to...

"I shall show the śāstra says that." So the first part I published here. Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, and I sent to that gentleman, that _____ [?] professor here.

And this place, this Navadwīpa, were very anti-Vaiṣṇavite. The mṛdaṅga was several times broken here when saṅkīrtana party was led through this place. This _____ [?] contemporary of Mahāprabhu, he was a great tantric. And the rasa, in the name of rasa, here in Navadwīpa, this Śiva, Kālī, Durgā, all these, no Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa. But generally rasa in Vṛndāvana, that is famous. But here the śakta section, they introduced Śiva śakti rasa here, invulnerable place.

But Śakhī Bābu who gave us this land and constructed in _____ [?] and constructed the biggest temple in Mahāprabhu's and Prabhupāda's building, he remarked, he had a house in Navadwīpa town. He knew the history of this town from long ago. And when Prabhupāda was attacked here in Paramatala delivering lecture, one gentleman who threw a book towards Prabhupāda.

When I came here, I had a festival, that very gentleman he wanted, he said to me, "I'm dying. I want some prasādam from Śrīdhara Mahārāja, because I committed some offence to his Gurudeva by throwing a book towards him." He was the chairman of the Navadwīpa town at that time, and orthodox smārta.

Then one who knew him, "Oh, that man, he wants prasādam? Oh, give him, give him, give him."

Śakhī Bābu told, "Oh, that _____ [?] he wants prasādam of Prabhupāda? Give him. With much earnestness he took prasādam. Who committed offence against Prabhupāda, now repentant, in death bed, he's desirous of having ucchiṣṭham of Prabhupāda."

Then Śakhī Bābu remarked that, "Prabhupāda preached the doctrine of Mahāprabhu throughout India and abroad, but this Navadwīpa town, that was kept for you. You have preached in this area." He told about me.

I continued one month of Bhāgavatam in this area. They came with so many questions and I tried to answer them, and they could not defeat me. So this Teghariparа is the most opposing, the oppositionist, the greatest oppositionist of Vaiṣṇavism, Mahāprabhu. From the time of Mahāprabhu, _____ [?] and his party, they were preaching against Mahāprabhu. Now that is dissolved. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And Kṛṣṇamayī comes from the most respectable family of this Tegharipara.

The Satish prabhu is there. He told, "When I went through Tegharipara - Chapahati to Māyāpur through Tegharipara, my heart was shivering that some brickbats are coming on my head, apprehending every moment that some attack is coming. But now I go through the neighbourhood with my breast full of pride. With a proud gesture I move through the - Tegharipara is not an enemy now, but subdued and having a friendly attitude towards us, of this Navadwīpa. And the goswāmīs they were suppressed by the smārta society. Now by the preaching of the Gauḍīya Maṭh, that this is the highest thing given by Mahāprabhu. All others are false, or they're of lower rank. Then the goswāmīs they can stand erect with their heads now. Otherwise they're suppressed, lowered down by the society."

One of the anti-party, leader of the anti-party, he openly confessed in a meeting there in _____ [?]
Advocate's house, I went to deliver lecture there. He told, "First we could not understand Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhu. We commented against him in endless ways, tried to subdue him. But now it is clear that we did wrong and what he did, that was right. He took sannyāsa, we commented that, rakta-vastra 'vaiṣṇavera' parite nā yuyāya, [kona pravāsīre dimu, ki kāya uhāya]

["This saffron cloth is unfit for a Vaiṣṇava to wear; therefore I have no use for it. I shall give it to a stranger."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 13.61]

Why he has taken that red cloth? It is already discarded by the goswāmīns, written, the red cloth. And his attitude, his preaching of European style. Why he's so, not of the style of the old Indian ṛṣis? But he proved that European style he indulged in, and he did so, took the flag of Mahāprabhu to the whole of Europe and America, that side. And also the sannyāsa. And he gave sacred thread to those that are real devotees of Kṛṣṇa. That also he has proved, that by qualification the brāhmaṇas are guṇa-karma-vibhāgaśaḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.13]. Not by birth but by occupation and by mental nature one should become a brāhmaṇa, or kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra. That is by nature, one's nature, and not by birth. So we did wrong when we criticised him severely, but now we understand that he was right and we were wrong." That man told.

He has sent the flag of Mahāprabhu fluttering in the civilised, or so-called civilised world - that has captured everyone. This civilised, civilisation of Europe has a charm to the Indians also, so if he can't conquer that European people, then the Indian conversion won't stand. That civilisation should be attacked which is coming here and is capturing everything. That European style of life, that must be attacked. And if we can break their pride, then we'll be able to preach the doctrine of Mahāprabhu all through the world. So he prepared himself to attack the European civilisation.

Rabindranatha and others they tried to mix together - Indian and European mixed together. "There is also good, here is also good, and leave out, give up the non-important portion and combine the important ones."

But our Guru Mahārāja - the wholesale Mahāprabhu, what He has given, that should be taken wholesale and all others must be attacked and finished. What Mahāprabhu has given, that is the perfect thing and no addition is necessary to that. It is eternally, and that is coming from the eternal, absolute quarter, and no addition, no reformation is necessary there. That was his point. So we must accept that in toto. That is coming from Goloka, the highest quarter in existence. And that does not need any addition or dilution. That is full in itself, perfect. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Bhāgavata Mahārāja: Mahārāja. Yesterday I told...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are you?

Bhāgavata Mahārāja: Bhāgavata Mahārāja. Yesterday I told Nimāi Goswāmī that your conception, your full conception of theism, was beyond Christianity, and he was very happy with it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: He said that your philosophy is beyond Christianity. It's a complete theism. It is complete theism beyond Christianity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Christianity.

Devotee: Beyond Christianity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: He invited us. He wanted one, requested one foreign disciple of yourself to accompany them to Gohati, Assam, for preaching. So he..

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To help him?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To help his disciple making?

Devotee: Yes.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And why I shall go to do that?

Bhāgavata Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're appreciators of physical connection. But we do not.

Devotee: But he mentioned that your philosophy is complete theism that is beyond Christianity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not only Christianity, but all existing things that ever come here, or anywhere. The zenith, the highest conception of theism. Christianity is a good thing but not complete. No transmigration there. Animals and creatures have no soul. This is Christianity. But all covering, all comprehensive Vaiṣṇavism preaches. Every tree, creeper, stone, they have got their soul and transmigration is there, birth, rebirth. But that is not in Christianity. So full-fledged theism, what Mahāprabhu preached, full-fledged theism, not partial. Christianity, the Father, none can see Him, a hidden personality. No clear conception about the place where He lives, His paraphernalia, all this, everything vague, vague, not clear. But submission, sincerity, and affection - all these good things, reverence, is there, sacrifice is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And today Padmanābha Mahārāja going?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, at eleven twenty he's leaving.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In this iron age of Kali, environment is unfavourable. So kīrtana has been recommended to be the most effective method by which we can improve ourselves. The spirit is 'offensive for offensive.' Environment is very eager to attack me. I shall have to create energy within me with so much eagerness and sincerity that not only to protect me, that will be automatically done, we shall attack the environment. And what is the method? What will be our aim to attack? The meaning is something not only negative but something positive. What is that? To try to engage the environment into the service of Kṛṣṇa. So not only negative sense to destroy, but to acquire something for Kṛṣṇa from them, to utilise their energy for the service of Kṛṣṇa. That will be the purpose.

And they're engaged, their favourite things generally, baddha jīva, kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā. Their credit, their money, energy, and their objects of enjoyment, sensual enjoyment. Kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā. And they're engaged in, and to try to get them for the service of Kṛṣṇa. So giving something positive to them, sukṛti. How we can? Generally it is easy to get some money from them. Money is energy. Kāma, artha, and dharma. Their duty, sense of duty may be changed, that is their credit, their pratiṣṭhā, their goodwill to be attracted in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Artha, the money, their energy, should be used, we shall try to use the energy which may be used in otherwise, for Kṛṣṇa. And the kāminī, their attraction for sense pleasure. To take that means we shall take the opposite thing. We shall try to take him altogether from the association of kāminī, that is to make them Maṭh members. That is the best. To take out wholesale from kāminī means come and come to serve the master of all kāminī.

kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."
[Part of the poem Vaiṣṇava ke? - Who is a Vaiṣṇava?]
[Composed by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura]
[Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.24] & [Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's collection of ślokas, 236]

There is a stanza in a poem composed by our Guru Mahārāja, Duṣṭa mana! tumi kisera vaiṣṇava?

There is a line, tomāra kanaka, bhogera janaka, kanakera dvāre sevaha "mādhava." Your money means helping you to enjoy, by exploitation. So that money may be snatched away anyhow from you and to engage in the service of Kṛṣṇa. In your hand it will help you to take to reaction to the hell. So money should be utilised, that is the standard dealing, behaviour, conduct, should be, that all money we possess as a trustee and we should utilise it for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Tomāra kanaka, bhogera janaka. That is helping you, it's seducing, persuading you for exploitation. But that should be converted into the service of Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa. Nārāyaṇa is the master of all kanak, Lakṣmī Devī. And kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."

One gentleman came to our Guru Mahārāja, "What is the meaning of this line? kāminīra kāma, nahe tava - as it is written there? Then we should not marry, we won't enjoy any kāminī?"

"Yes. Kṛṣṇa is the only enjoyer of all kāminī. That is reserved for Him, Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. It is only for Him to enjoy the sensual, nahe tava dhāma. So what should be our attitude towards the world?

Bhoganas ca kandarpa [?] So how the creation here will go if we think it is not necessary here, but in the Vaikuṇṭha also we find that there, in Goloka, Bhoganas ca kandarpa _____ [?] The sensual experience, pleasing experience, only reserved for Krsna, even no other gods, no other Avatāra also. Only reserved for Kṛṣṇa. And, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."

In this connection I may say that it's found in Bhāgavatam that Balarāma also had rasa līlā. The explanation has been given by Sanātana Goswāmī. Balarāma - externally He played the rasa līlā, but internally He made arrangement for Kṛṣṇa to enjoy the kāminī, the gopīs, in His heart.

The function of Guru is such. For Guru, apparently from the śiṣya he takes so much service, but really he transmits them all towards his Guru or his Master, ultimately the Lord Himself. Only Guru means a transmission machine, he receives.

Just as so many money collectors. They collect money from the different business, also they send it towards the cashier of the highest government. So mediator, collects money and sends it to the higher place.

So Guru, Vaiṣṇava, they're so. They're by construction, they don't keep anything for them. Whatever they're outwardly seen to draw from outside, they transmit towards the real enjoyer. They're transparent, not opaque, but transparent. Light passes through, like glass, light passes through. So everything passes through them towards higher agency, higher place. That is what Vaiṣṇava, Guru means, all transmitters to the higher.

So kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma. So how to, when we're going to preach and then to take them totally from the kāminī enjoyment life to save them? Don't go to that sort of sensual exploitation. Come and engage yourself fully in the service of Kṛṣṇa and the Vaiṣṇava, kāṛṣṇa, the servant of the servant of Kṛṣṇa, his God, in any way.

So our preaching, the object of our preaching will be like this. To get money, that is easy. To put a portion of his energy to the service of Kṛṣṇa. And to try to save from kāminī enjoyment, that is to take him towards the Maṭh side, the whole time service, surrender, come in the Maṭh. And the pratiṣṭhā, that is his credit. In that case there is the educated men, to try to convince them and to attract them for the call, that their support, the educational support, the mission, the institution, may have - pratiṣṭhā. Their goodwill, their prestige may be utilised for the service of the Lord. So that should be the object of our preaching. We shall try to extract everything from everywhere to help the cause of the Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana of the Guru and the mission, the centre, where from this Kṛṣṇa consciousness is being spread to the world. To draw, always to draw the juice from the māyāik world towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that all should be transmitted to Kṛṣṇa. Everything will yajña, sacrifice.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ
[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

What is the symptom, the sign of a yajña? Were there is sacrifice. As much as sacrifice, so much it is yajña. Not outward grandeur, but internal sacrifice. Inner sacrifice is more valuable than outer sacrifice. Inner sacrifice, the earnestness, the fire will be within the consumer. The fire will burn into ashes all the achievement in the māyāik world, and the internal current should be discovered.

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ
[andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or Guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

Because they're doing much with the apparent side, the material side, they do not understand the undercurrent in their heart is towards Kṛṣṇa, towards their Lord and Master. We shall help them to understand that undercurrent. Internally we want rasa, ānanda, and that is the Kṛṣṇa conception which is fully there. What you want internally, I have come to help.

Once one attorney in Calcutta, of good fame, he came to protest for something in our exhibition, religious, theistic exhibition. Then when Prabhupāda was trying to make him understand the real purpose of the exhibition, not to insult the people but to educate them.

There the attorney told, "Do you want to convert me?"

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "Yes. It won't require more than five minutes to convert you. Only it is necessary that you give proper attention. More than five minutes will not be necessary to convert you. I began single, but now five hundred men at least are talking on my behalf. And because when you'll understand that why I'm talking it's your own interest, your deeper interest, or the deepest interest in your heart, what I'm talking. Then you'll be automatically converted. Only give proper attention and you will convert, because it is your own thing, it is your own inner thing.

Na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ. Unfortunately they're...

85.12.10.B_85.12.11.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the spirit within, substance within.

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, [durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ
andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or Guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

The aim of our inner interest is towards Viṣṇu. Towards that rasam, that eternal ānandam. Our internal tendency, everyone of us has got that within us. But we're carried by the outer current, that is kāma, krodha, lobha, that mental system, which is a cover of the soul system.

Our preaching, our kīrtana outside will be of this nature - that we must try to make him understand his own thing within him. And try to exact that, that are capturing him outwardly to take him out here, to disassociate him with those things, and those must be utilised for the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Money is very favourite thing to us. Because we're generally engaged in these four things: dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa. Dharma means duty; artha, money; kāma, sense pleasure. And mokṣa, at times we're disgusted with these things and want to be indifferent, that is renunciation, mokṣa, liberation. Disgusted with these three things.

dharmasya hy āpavargyasya, nārtho 'rthāyopakalpate
[nārthasya dharmaikāntasya, kāmo lābhāya hi smṛtaḥ]

Dharmasya. Duty should help us toward liberation. Duty should be set in such a way that it may liberate me properly from all proposals of māyā - that is, take to my natural position in the service of Krsna. Dharmasya hy āpavargya. All the vargya, all the ends are comparatively shown down, that is āpavargya. Vargya means a class of end, object of life. So generally four classes are the object, aim of our life can be divided into four classes. Retirement, and then duty, and then kāma, and then money-making, collect energy. Four phases. So duty, generally in the worldly life we set our duty in such a way that we can earn maximum money and the money may be used to satisfy sense pleasure, satisfy the senses. And when that sense pleasure is distributed to others, that is our duty, dharma. To collect energy and by that energy to purchase some sense pleasure, and when the sense pleasure is distributed to others, we finish our duty. Generally this sort of current we find under the māyāik influence. In the worldly influence we find this.

But it should be organised in another way. How? That sense pleasure, that is our connection with matter, we shall do so much as is necessary to keep our soul and the body together. _____ [?] Not for any pleasing sensation we shall meet matter. But our transaction with matter will be so much as can keep my health all right. And with that health I shall earn money. And the money will help me to discharge my duty. And the duty will be set in such a way that we can acquire liberation. In Bhāgavatam it is said, dharmasya hy āpavargyasya. "Duty should be set only to acquire āpavargya, liberation, the highest end of life. _____ [?] Duty should not be set in such a way as to acquire maximum money. Generally that is done here. Nārtho ʻrthāyopakalpate. And nārthasya dharmaikāntasya, and the artha, that is money, that has got only one aim: to help to discharge our duty. Duty should be connected with liberation and to help that duty, the money will be utilised. And,

[jīvasya tattva-jijñāsā nārtho yaś ceha karmabhiḥ]

["Life's desires should never be directed toward sense gratification. One should desire only a healthy life, or self-preservation, since a human being is meant for enquiry about the Absolute Truth. Nothing else should be the goal of one's works."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.10]

And our connection with the material world will be only to that extent, that it can help to keep our health properly to discharge duty, and not for any sense pleasure. Material connection must not be of the nature of sense pleasure. _____ [?] So our sense connection, that is only to produce the child and not to enjoy the sensation there, pleasing sensation. Nārtho yaś. In Gītā, also in Bhāgavatam, and Gītā also, prajanaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ.

[āyudhānām ahaṁ vajraṁ, dhenūnām asmi kāma-dhuk
prajanaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ, sarpāṇām asmi vāsukiḥ]

["Of weapons I am the thunderbolt, and of cows I am the heavenly desire-fulfilling cow. Of cupids I am he who ensures progeny, and among the single-headed venomous snakes I am Vāsuki, the king of all snakes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.28]

The conduct what is kāma, it's utilisation only prajana, that is, only to give birth to a child and not to enjoy any sense pleasure. This should be our attitude towards the world, to everything, will be following this standard. How we shall adjust us with the environment. So in preaching also we shall see whether, how we can save whom we approach from this sort of maladjustment and we shall help him have proper adjustment - how they can utilise their own energy to make the best of a bad bargain. They're here, and how they can utilise their energy so that they can come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That is home. Back to God. Back to home. They're wandering aimlessly in the foreign land. And we shall help them with all earnestness 'come home.'

Just as a madman, we shall try to take his consciousness towards his home, normal life. "A madman, you're engaged in duty, and aimlessly you're wandering here, there." To reinstate in his former memory that, "You've got your father, mother, wife, children, home, all these things. You're wandering in the street, your attention focused toward some wrong direction."

Vikṛta citta. Whose consciousness thrown into the disorder. From order to disorder a madman comes. Order to disorder. From harmony to discord. So our duty in preaching, in that sort of preaching, will help our own sādhana, realisation. Proper realisation will be to very earnestly and sincerely, to try in this way whether within or outside. We are by kīrtana, we're to practice in outside, and that reflection will come within me and help me to the highest extent. That is, kīrtana has been recommended. Assert yourself, create your environment, also to help you in your own way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Purpose, own purpose, and at the same time it will help others also. The Lord will be satisfied if I can preach Him outside, and to convert so many to become His servants, He'll be satisfied with me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?]
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?]

Devotee: So it does not matter where the money comes from?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Ha, ha. I can't follow.

Devotee: He said, "It does not matter, it does not make any difference where the money comes from?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Devotee: He says, his question is that, "If we're collecting money...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends upon the collector.

Devotee: He wants to know if it's important whether the method by which money is collected should be fair or not fair. What kind of source?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally fair. And it depends upon the collector, upon the capacity of the collector. One can take risk of using unfair means, so-called, but nothing is unfair if it is in Kṛṣṇa's connection. If one is convinced in that way, living in that plane, he can do anything and everything for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. How much degree Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the agent? It will depend on that. How much real Kṛṣṇa consciousness is there, sincere hankering for Kṛṣṇa to utilise him - it will depend on that.

Because real Kṛṣṇa connection is the only purest thing. Unfair can become fair by proper Kṛṣṇa connection. Kṛṣṇa connection is independent thing, and any way Kṛṣṇa connection make everything fair. Other day I told that a touchstone - whatever touches it becomes gold. So, the collector, how far he's Kṛṣṇa conscious. If he can bring Kṛṣṇa in the connection, the unfair will be fair, fairest, above all fairness in the consideration of this world. So it depends upon the collector. Generally, one should try in a fair way, but, according to his own position, he may apply diplomacy and ultimately everything, if he's fully Kṛṣṇa conscious. He may try in any way. Even his killing will be highest good to the man who is killed. Kṛṣṇa connection is such. Ha, ha, ha. To such a degree, if he finishes him, totally, then he'll be saved. He'll be saved. The guarantee is there, if the Kṛṣṇa connection is there. So the touchstone - whatever will come in connection, that will be gold. But that must be the touchstone, not other stone - any mixture. So it depends upon the collector, whatever, how far he's connected to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. If Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the absolute agent of the absolute master. Absolute Autocrat but Absolute Good. Not only autocrat, but at the same time absolute good. So if it is absolute good, his dealings with anything cannot but be good. Do you follow?

Devotees: Yes Mahārāja, very clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Difficult to follow?

Devotees: Very nice and clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Clear. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness is such because everything for Him - whatever used for Him, that is normal and must be used for Him, that is the all important.

Whatever we'll do, that is justified if it's for Him - then the man will be saved. Everything, every point will be saved if a disconnected thing comes in that connection - gets that connection, he will be saved. Not killing, that is of outward cruelty - but really if he gets the life back there, normal life back, his utility in the service of Kṛṣṇa. That is For Himself.

Devotee: Mahārāja. But we don't have the courage to do Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, your self-hesitating, how far? You're not fully convinced that Kṛṣṇa - what is utilised for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest realisation, highest good of everything else.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here I stop today. You think what is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. So think what is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Cruelty, the utmost cruelty to this world that may be life giving to one. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Die to live. Here the Hegel comes to save you. Die to live deals death to make arrangement for his real life. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The mother came to take the child back. The parent came to take the child back and give it to his parents. "You are a sannyāsī, you are supposed to be a religious man. My son you will give back to me and you're not able to do that? But that is your religious conception?"

"Yes, I'm seeing that one boy is in the ocean, in the sea, he's diving and plodding in trouble in the sea. Now he has come to the seashore and going home, I shall drive him back, push him back into the sea, the boy. That is my understanding. How can I say, You say he's my son, and I say that yes, a jīva has come to you for some time. But he's suffering from death and birth, death and birth. And the only way to help him is with the association of the sādhus, he will go back to home, and back to God. My transaction is that. Snatching from the affection of the parents, the child, and to utilise him in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Apparently it is cruel, but justification is from other side, so everything is like that. This is the weapon. A minor boy having a weapon, snatch away the weapon. He will cut your own head, or somewhere - you boy, you do not know. To take away the money from him, a soul in bondage, the money will be utilised for your own injury. So take the money and utilise for Kṛṣṇa, he'll be saved. Die to live. To help a man to die his present life and to get the death and to come to Kṛṣṇa. Through death come to Kṛṣṇa. Question of life and death. So many lives and deaths for eternal time, suffering from birth and death. Suffering from birth he has got such conviction, such a plane and serious conception to save one from birth and death. What to speak of his collected energy, money, and this or that. This is in the possession of the enemy. The soul is in possession of the enemy, this matter. Anyhow to snatch him from that position towards his own soil - that is necessary."

So according to the degree of realisation of the preacher, he will preach that way.

There was one fable in Bible or somewhere. The man, Christ, or someone, he became a guest at a particular house, and where he was received well, welcomed, and he was dealt with in a good way, he stole some utensils from there. And he went to a miser, and there he left all those utensils. Then, another man received him, welcomed him to his utmost degree, and only son, he killed him and went away.

Have you heard this tale, fable, perhaps in Bible or somewhere?

The man who served him utmost, his only son was killed. The justification has been given that the miser who did not, who generally does not give shelter to any guest, utensils are given to them. And for the temptation of that he will further give shelter to other guests also. And the highest thing, that one who had the only son, and he was welcomed very cordially, his only son was killed and he fled. Because that son was the centre of his all affection, that is gone, whole affection will come to God. That is the justification used there. So the stranger, if he's of that type, he can kill the man of the host to give him, to help him towards God. Only son was killed by the guest. The only son of the host was killed by the guest because his attention, affection, that was spent for the only son, that will go wholesale towards Kṛṣṇa, towards God. So an ordinary guest cannot do that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Today I dissolve here.

vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca
patitānāṁ pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ

...member of the conscious world. Material conception of the environment is only a part of our consciousness, floating on the ocean of consciousness. Originally we're child of the soil of consciousness. That is the basis of all theistic life. We're nearer to consciousness. And this matter consciousness is our enemy. We're absorbed in matter consciousness of different stages. The earth, the water, the fire, air, ether, this consciousness, this is rather artificial. Really we're child of the conscious plane, conscious world. That is the basis, foundation of religious life, after liberation. That is called liberation. After liberation proper positive life begins, real life begins there. This is our negative aspect, vague, misunderstanding aspect of us. Misleading, misunderstanding, mis - interest, false errands, running after false errands. We're to realise this. Then our religious life will be proper, will come to a standard of reality.

Śukadeva's impression to Parīkṣit Mahārāja. "Animal consciousness, don't give indulgence to this. You have direct connection with consciousness and you are identifying with this flesh and blood. What is this? Animal consciousness? You, that come to talk with me, that is a unit of consciousness, understanding. You yourself are understanding, a part, a particle of understanding, but for misunderstanding you are conceiving yourself to be a material thing. And you are a member of the material world, material things are attracting you. You have become slave to material sense pleasure, all these things, achievement, material achievement."

We're told that Rothschild, one gentleman in England was the richest man of his time. And he had his money storey, a room built very strongly, perhaps metallic wall. There he kept his money, ornaments, jewels, all these things. And there was a door which was very complicated - once it is shut none can open it. He knew only. Anyhow, he entered that cash room and began counting, adjusting, all these things. But anyway, the door was closed from outside or something. So after finishing his work, he came to open the door but he could not. And so strong built house, room, that it was impossible for anyone to break in, or something, he had to die. The richest man had to die without food and attendants. We're so much absorbed in money, and there are many instances that for money we're living life after life. So many material aspirations are controlling us. There's the rub.

So we're members, brahmāsmi. Brahman means the origin of this material conception. Let us go there.

brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, [amṛtasyāvyayasya ca / śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca]

["I alone am the original mainstay of the undivided divine vitality, the inexhaustible nectar, the timeless pastimes, and the sweetness of the ambrosia of profound love divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 14.27]

Then to enquire where from this Brahman is coming. Brahman, the ray, the lustre of Vaikuṇṭha, of the world of dedication, the real life. Brahman. In Gītā [8.3] the Brahman, aksaraṁ paramaṁ brahma, undetectable portion, non-ascertainable portion, as crude. Aksaraṁ brahma paramaṁ.

[yasmāt] kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ
[ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ]

["Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18]

Kṣara, the changing aspect of this world, material. Aksara, the unchangeable portion. And then again there is the upper world, that is also changing, that is vilāsa, dynamic. And in between, a static portion, the margin. Margin portion, apparently static, Virajā, Brahmaloka, where the Buddhist and the Śaṅkarites they have their tomb there.

So crossing that Vaikuṇṭha is another dynamic world of dedication, and this side exploitation. So we must come to the standard that we're conscious units. And what to do, what will be our function, our real life, that we can manage to live in the conscious world purely, with individual interest and common interest both harmonised there? That is one important thing, that we're a member of the conscious world. And the second, that service is life, dedication is life. Here life means exploitation, enjoyment is life, as much as enjoyment is anywhere we think life is very intense there. And there, the life is dedication. We're conscious and we have got a life to live, and that must be of dedication. In the beginning it is calculative dedication, and in the end, automatic dedication, spontaneous.

There begins Goloka, Goloka Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇaloka, the jurisdiction of Kṛṣṇa. We should not think that is a part, but gradually we're approaching from part to whole. Goloka, apparently it may be limited, but it is more spacious, it can contain many Vaikuṇṭhas. It is such. It is beyond our understanding how Infinite is adjusted, so many Infinite's adjusted in a finite conception. In finite conception, how the body of Kṛṣṇa, what we can imagine, human size, human size of body of Kṛṣṇa can accommodate so many Vaikuṇṭhas, so many Infinites there. This is not, the law of this world can't allow that, can't allow us to think that Infinite is accommodated in so-called finite.

ṣola-krośa vṛndāvana, — [śāstrera prakāśe / tāra eka-deśe vaikuṇṭhājāṇḍa-gaṇa bhāse]

["According to the revelations of revealed scripture, Vṛndāvana extends only sixteen krośas [thirty-two miles]. Nonetheless, all the Vaikuṇṭha planets and innumerable universes are located in one corner of this tract."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.29]

It is mentioned that Vṛndāvana has been told that is only sixteen square miles, or something, around. But so many Infinite, Vaikuṇṭha, Infinite, accommodated within that.

Within that, how, within two fingers measure, Yaśodā taking so many ropes and adding together, the same two finger difference - how is it possible? Two fingers she tried to bind the waist of Kṛṣṇa with rope. The rope was short only two fingers, Again, adding ropes to that, same two fingers. Again, adding, adding, adding, the same two fingers less.

Then when He found that, "Mother is too much tired, I can't... then _____ [?] accepted tie.

Then Yaśodā could easily bind Him. But how it is possible?

So such, the property of electricity cannot be found in the function of an earth, or the dust. We cannot conceive how the electricity, is transmitted, the television, the radio, it's not possible for us to conceive in an ordinary brain. But it is there. Talking so far, we're hearing from here. What we can't hear from a mile, that can be heard from crores of miles. If it was not discovered, invented, then it was ludicrous thing.

So what is there? His will. His will is everything. His will is everything, and how much Infinite we can think of. Ha, ha, ha. What characteristic of Infinite we're accustomed to think out? So, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3] Give up your hope, your hope in your knowledge, give up. Don't waste your energy giving chance for your tiny brain to understand everything. That false, that treacherous proposal of your scanty knowledge that you will know everything, give up that false errand. Don't run after the intellect. Give up. The energy, you're not the master. The knowledge - very scanty. So give up your hope, your prospect that may come from this energy and also your tiny knowledge. Try elsewhere.

Mahāprabhu told, "Try your taste, you are there properly. Everyone is properly, he's present in his taste, rasa, ānandam. Go there, try to find out a way there. And that is that by sukṛti, our connection, unconscious connection from the centre it comes within us and may guide us. Jñāna śūnya bhakti, ruci, lobha. Beyond this, if you get some hankering, eliminating both energy and the knowledge will come to your help. Eliminating them, the third thing you try to find out and that is within that you want, only want. Crossing these two, you want something. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]"

This is, you want a third thing, that means you've got a clue of that. Increase that. And how to increase? With the association of the similar persons, those are already initiated in that creed, their company. There you may begin to try to research in a similar company, by mutual help, try. And it is better that you find association, your helping hand a little higher in progress.

[śrīmad-bhāgavatārthānām āsvādo rasikaiḥ saha]
sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

By association. That fine thing, śraddhā, sincere hankering, eliminating these two, both knowledge and kāma, energy. Exploitation, enjoyment and renunciation, action and reaction here, eliminating those two and for a third thing you hanker. Hankering for a third thing, eliminating bhukti, mukti, enjoyment and renunciation. A third thing aspire after, śraddhā, and you will have that. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ. Only price is your greed for the thing, your sincere prayer for, to have that thing. That thing, that masterly existence, if He's gracious He can give Himself to you, seeing your earnest hankering. You want Him sincerely. Then He will come to you.

"Here I am. You are searching Me. I'm here. You have eliminated those two...

85.12.13.A

Bhāratī Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What I say they cannot follow, so they cannot reproduce. This is the question?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yea, in a different way, everyone reproduces in a different way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But that will be your own responsibility. I don't. What I understand, I try to make you understand, as far as possible, I'm responsible for that. But how you hear, and how you reproduce, there must be some difference, cannot but be. It's mentioned in Bhāgavatam, pāramparyeṇa keṣāñcit, prakṛti-vaicitryād, pāramparyeṇa.

[evaṁ prakṛti-vaicitryād bhidyante matayo nṛṇām / pāramparyeṇa keṣāñcit pāṣaṇḍa-matayo 'pare]

["Thus, due to the great variety of desires and natures among human beings, there are many different theistic philosophies of life, which are handed down through tradition, custom and disciplic succession. There are other teachers who directly support atheistic viewpoints."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.8]

Because those that hear they'll be of different mentality. When they receive from the same source one same thing, but they adjust within them in a different way. Prakṛti-vaicitryād, and then pāramparyeṇa, from one, to second, to third, in this way, there cannot but be modification. It is impossible to reproduce intact.

So Uddhava had the question to Kṛṣṇa, "Why we find a jungle in the religious field, then to so many different opinions?"

Kṛṣṇa told, "In the beginning it was one, and from Me to Brahmā the creator. But from Brahmā different mentality disciples they heard, and when they went to reproduce there was some difference, modification. And then from one to his disciple, his disciple, in this way also modification. And now we find that so many branches of different type. But in the beginning it was one."

It cannot but be, difference in understanding _____ [?] modification is inevitable so difference between the two. As he'll understand so he'll reproduce.

It's also mentioned in the Upaniṣad that Brahmā says, "You are the person."

Then one understands 'you' means the soul. Another understands 'you' means mind. Another understands 'you' means this body. In this way modification from the same source. That 'you' means conceived differently. One conceives the body, tāma guṇa. Another mind, rāja guṇa.

Another soul, sātva guṇa. In the same class, three understood in three ways. One Virochan [?], another Indra, another _____ [?] Three students in one class they understood things in different ways and when they reproduced the line was quite different. Body, mind, and soul. One was Virochan [?] student, another was Indra, another _____ [?]

It cannot but be, according to ones own mentality he'll understand the thing, can't be avoided. A real hearer is very rarely found. In Prabhupāda's class, many of us we attended. That Tīrtha Mahārāja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's disciple, old Tīrtha Mahārāja, and sannyāsa from Prabhupāda, he requested me, "begin to reproduce" what I heard. And I had to do that, and they all appreciated. So my hearing was, is...

Different motive, all come with different objects of life, some fame, some wanting scholarship, some wants disciples, some wants money, so many things. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. And that modification...

Very few want to know the real truth, but without surrender that is impossible. "I want to receive the real purpose and utilise it. Whatever cost is necessary I'm ready to pay, whatever price. I want to live for Him, not that _____ [?] and I shall utilise that knowledge for my purpose, no." According to the intensity of surrender that will be revealed in us.

So praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā. [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34] The disciple must have these three qualifications. Praṅipāta, that is no ambition in this world. This world of experience is finished, no taste, no charm here. Praṅipāta means that. No charm, I've finished - I want to give myself to some other. I've come to a proposal to give myself for someone. This already finished, no hope here, no ambition here may be satisfying. Praṅipāta means that, surrender, honest enquiry, and how enquiry for the interest of the other world, not connected to this world. Paripraśna and sevā. The all important thing, I want that thing to serve Him, and not to exploit that for my lower ego. That is the most important thing. I don't want anything to satisfy this mean ego of mine for which I'm suffering. Sevā. I've come to give myself away, and not to collect anything from here, and then I shall utilise that for my own ego, purpose. Then that higher thing won't be intelligible, we won't come to understand that thing. We shall have no entrance there. That does not come to serve anyone. Only if we offer ourselves to be slave there, with that consideration they'll take, whether they'll take us or not, sufficiently reliable or not. So that is the qualification and that will be very difficult to have in this world. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. To self eliminate elevation...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is difficult to be a proper hearer. A bona fide disciple he wants to hear the spiritual thing, it's difficult to have such disciple. Ha, ha. There was one Ramakrishna _____ [?] he had one word, śiṣya _____ [?] "Lākhs of Gurus may be available, but a proper bona fide disciple is very hard to find." This was his word. "It's very hard to find one bona fide disciple. But there are lākhs of Gurus." So many Gurus are wandering to preach about the glory of God. They're always preaching, to come to that level. Really as aspirant to come to that level and hear, such persons are very rare.

manuṣyāṇāṁ sahasreṣu, kaścid yatati siddhaye yatatām api siddhānāṁ, kaścin māṁ vetti tattvataḥ

["Out of countless souls, some may have reached the human form of life, and among many thousands of human beings, some endeavour to attain direct perception of the individual soul and the Supersoul; and among many thousands of such aspirants who have attained to seeing the soul and the Supersoul, only a few receive actual perception of Me, Śyāmasundara."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.3]

In Bhāgavatam, koṭiṣv api mahā-mune, what is that śloka?

muktānām api siddhānāṁ nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa
sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā koṭiṣv api mahā-mune

["O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.150]

A crore of so many so-called religionist, spiritualist, hardly one can we find a bona fide man who wants to offer the service of Rādhārāṇī. So to become a disciple proper is very hard. He does not want anything, but wants to give himself fully to the higher cause, sacrifice, yajña. That is die to live. One who'll offer his life, life also this physical life that is cheap, dirty. The essence of soul's existence, to offer that, that is very clear. To offer physical death, to accept physical death, there may be many. Then mental death, more hard. And spiritual death that is almost impossible. Creed, one's own religious creed, to give away. Of course a man who does not have, has no necessity of religious life that is separate, that is animal life. But one can give his body, his education, mental system also, but to give the spiritual soul it's more and more difficult. Creed, the innermost creed, to give away. But that is also, may be given away, the spiritual creed principle.

So Śakta, Śaiva, this Vaikuṇṭha sevā, Lakṣmī Devī is a failure to enter into rasa. Why? Because She could not leave Her spiritual creed, that Vaikuṇṭha nature. Devī, She should remain Devī, and She wants a passport which is only reserved for the gopīs. Lakṣmī Devī does not want gopī mentality. She wants that She'll remain Devī, and then She may have a taste of the rasa behaviour, but that cannot be possible.
That was the talk with Vyeṅkaṭa Bhaṭṭa and Mahāprabhu. _____ [?] Lakṣmī Devī could not give up Her religious creed, but wanted the participation in the rasa, but that was not possible.
So it's very hard to give up one's religious creed. Do you follow?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Hmm. Yes. I can feel it's very difficult, I can also feel. Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. To give up one's religious consciousness, but to give up that it is very, very impossible. But who will go to accept Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all so-called conceptions of religious faith...
Sarva-dharmān parityajya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66], not adharma, but dharma of different stages. Not only adharma, that which is anti religion, but dharma, religion of different conceptions must be given up. Then only you can have a chance to get entrance into Kṛṣṇa consciousness proper. _____ [?] it is full of lie, then characterless, then deception of the so-called swami, the husband, and all these things, or relatives, deceive them. And stealthily to go to the forest to join Kṛṣṇa. All these things of religion? Absolute is so high that even religious conceptions - the Vedic religious conception or so many religious conceptions, everything to be given up.

Uddhava appreciated, only Uddhava, the highest class of devotee. Preme kanistha uddhava [?] He appreciated this sort of surrender. Ārya patha, svajanam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61] In the home, all are their guardian, well-wisher, even to cheat them. And whatever so long given by the religious scriptures to be our duty, that also - how self forgetfulness and what degree of self sacrifice for Kṛṣṇa conception. But it's impossible. The highest class of devotee, Uddhava, he appreciated this and wanted.
"I want so much sacrifice, so much self forgetfulness for the service of the Lord, to satisfy the whim of the Absolute Autocrat. Is it possible? I want to be a creeper to have their feet dust." Uddhava says.

So impossible of impossible, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. How deep our faith will be about the Absolute? He has every right. All conceptions of religious duty, so called good things, coming from Him only. He's the source, He's above all. And our relation, He's controller over us, everything. He's Absolute controller. No law there. Law comes to decide things in a quarrel between many. Where there's many there's law, necessity of law. But oneness, no law. His sweet will is law, above law. A ludicrous thing of the Absolute. Lip deep acceptance won't do, heart dealing acceptance is with Him. Heart of heart.

So I appreciate these Hegel's word, "Die to live." Die, and there is degree of death also. The body death, physical death, mental death, then so-called spiritual death. All sorts of death. When we shall have nothing, we shall have everything. If we have nothing, all given to the centre, then we shall get the centre and we shall have everything through that. This mortal food of intellect, or intellect mixed with some so-called spiritual feeding, not food of that.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja. It seems like the ego...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What I say is relevant or irrelevant?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes. Very relevant, especially, ha, ha...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Irrelevant talks, my remarks?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Very cutting, like you have a sword, you're cutting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

The sādhu's by their sword of words they cut asunder _____ [?] Our attraction for different things in the world, all cut asunder. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja. It seems like the false ego is the hardest.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ego. It's very difficult to differentiate that ego and the real ego within, the external ego and the internal ego. Ego is, generally our own existence is our ego. How to differentiate one's own existence and the ego? That ego which is identified with our existence, that must be _____ [?], what it is. Then I'll be nowhere, so-called 'myself' will have no place. Go inside, and to give up the ego, then where should I stand, where should I live? I shall shudder to give up my ego. Ha, ha. I'll be nowhere. So die, then the real ego, die to live. [24:02 - 24:52 ?]

Bhāratī Mahārāja: But we have no experience of our real ego.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So different, when I was a tiger, tiger's ego.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] a serpent's ego, crooked. So many different egos, a lion's ego, jackal's ego, serpent's ego _____ [?] Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā
upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

Earthen ego, then iron ego, golden ego, diamond ego.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Also living, they're all living.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All living _____ [?]

Devotee: But he's a real ego. Guru Mahārāja is a real _____ [?]

Bhāratī Mahārāja: We find your personality to be a trace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kīrtanānanda here told when I told "I'm form breaker...

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Ah, yes, he ran.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I was very much excited. Form breaker. I told, "You are a Christian. Christianity has some form. You have broken that. When you accepted Kṛṣṇa consciousness you had to break that formality of a Christian. You are form breaker yourself."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. "I'm not your student. I'm student of Swāmī Mahārāja."

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I also think I'm a student. I'm not a professor. To think that I'm a professor, there the objection comes.

Our Guru Mahārāja mentioned, "I'm the leader of the class, we're all students, but I'm the monitor." He told in his Madras speech, the relative speech. "I'm also a student, but I think that I can help you because you are also students. You are students, I'm a student. I may have some little better education, I can help you there. We're all students."

Devotee: But you are more our teacher.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A relative position. Then, lākhs of Gurus but not a single disciple _____ [?] Everywhere he finds a Guru _____ [?] always recipient of education from all sides. All Guru. He finds Guru everywhere. Everything gives some suggestion to help us towards the Lord. That is the highest principle. Now, everything will invite me to enjoy, exploitation. 'Exploit me, enjoy me, all in this worldly consciousness everything is inviting me, enjoy me, enjoy me.' But there, 'utilise me for Kṛṣṇa.'
_____ [?] In carrying current, they're in the midst of in carrying current. And now, out carrying current.

85.12.13.B

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Bhakti-sāra Mahārāja.

Devotee: We cannot miss a drop of your nectar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Bhāratī Mahārāja: We cannot miss one day.

Devotee: A drop.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: One drop, even one bindu we do not want to miss _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lakṣmī Devī She Herself disqualified, could not give up spiritual ego, that sort of ego. To enter Kṛṣṇa consciousness so much self abnegation is necessary, wholesale. Wholesale self abnegation, then you can come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness - the Absolute Autocrat... [01:05 - 01:53 ?]

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Mahārāja. One time you said that, "Although you are sitting with me, don't think you are actually with me."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhāratī Mahārāja: No. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A bug _____ ?

Devotees: Lice.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lice. Very near physically, but consciously very far away.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu told to Rūpa Goswāmī, when Rūpa Goswāmī told, "I can't leave Your association. Please order me to follow You." After Rūpa Goswāmī is taught by Mahāprabhu in Allahabad when Mahāprabhu was passing towards Purī, then Rūpa Goswāmī, "I can't stand Your separation. Please order me to follow You."

Then Mahāprabhu told, "You are always with Me if you obey Me. Physically wherever you are, but you are nearest if you just - what I say if you do that, that is the criterion of the nearness. Whatever I say do that, I'm with you."

Higher things to be utilised by Him, to be near Him. Physically may be far but very near. We may say that Russia is nearer to India than Pakistan. Pakistan just close by, but we may say that Russia is nearer to India than Pakistan. Russia is far, or England is nearer India than Pakistan. Nearness in another plane. Physically Pakistan is nearest, but we may say that London is nearer to India than Pakistan. _____ [?]

So the question of the Sun, Moon. "Sun is the nearest." I told Swāmī Mahārāja. There was a question about the Sun, whether the Sun is told to be nearest, and they're far away.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: The Moon is further away than the Sun?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. By it's influence. Judged by the influence, Sun is the nearest to Earth. Why Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, this sort of arrangement? That question came. But it's found almost in every nation. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday. I gave some explanation that not by the physical distance of miles, but it should be calculated by the influence. What is the nearest influence on the Earth, that is there. So Sun has got the greatest influence over Earth, so it is nearer. And then next, Moon, next Mars. We must move in this light. The way should be measured not by miles but by influence. Different standpoint of measurement.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: That's very wonderful realisation Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told it to Swāmī Mahārāja, so as not to give this realised line - different line.
And I also gave the example that London or Russia is nearer to India than Pakistan.

Bhāratī Mahārāja: Yes. Influence.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By influence, by my affection, in some way something came in this way __ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Self analysis, ātmāsamiksa. Who am I? Where am I? What am I? What is my prospect? What is the means to attain my prospect? Substantially it is different. Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana, _____ [?] Vaikuṇṭha. Twenty four forms of the Deity of Nārāyaṇa. They have got Their separate Vaikuṇṭha. All the twenty four representations of Nārāyaṇa They have got Their separate Vaikuṇṭha, stage. Then _____ [?] the devotee Śiva. Then Śiva in connection with the, this false notion, māyā, misconception - Śiva in connection with that. Then Brahmā, regularly participating with the administration of this material, misconceived world. So Brahmā is also under illusion.

karmaṇāṁ pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam
[vipścin naśvaram paśyed, adṛṣṭam api dṛṣṭa-vat]

["An intelligent person should see that any material activity is subject to constant transformation and that even on the planet of Lord Brahmā there is thus simply unhappiness. Indeed, a wise man can understand that just as all that he has seen is temporary, similarly, all things within the universe have a beginning and an end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.18]

Because the energising here is reactionary, so Brahmā the creator is also in the relativity of death and birth. Śiva playing the double sword, playing, one nitya, liberated soul - another, souls that are entangled here. The master of this world, taṭasthā-śakti, above material potency. And subservient to this physical potency. Two kinds of Lord Śiva - devotee Śiva and the master of the misconceived world Śiva, two kinds of Śiva, on the whole. That phase of Nārāyaṇa which is in direct connection, in other words the taṭasthā śakti jīva as a whole, jīva jagat, the soul unit as a whole representing Śiva, we're talking _____ [?] As so many souls are there, they're all śiva more or less. Pāśa-baddho bhavej jīvaḥ, when they're entangled in this misconception they're jīva. Pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ, when they're liberated they become śiva ___ [?] Śivo 'ham - "I'm śiva." As long as he's in the clutch of misconception, all śiva, amaṅgala, inauspicious, ominous. Liberated from māyā he's śiva maṅgalam, involved in the extended duty, serving area, service. Calculated service, and spontaneous service and that is sweet. First conceived without trouble, no pain, in śiva. And that pleasure in the service of Nārāyaṇa. ___ [?] And that is acme in Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa conception, the land of love where all sacrifice, no exploitation. In the name of exploitation that is really sacrifice, a form of exploitation. There the opposite. In the name of exploitation, rather we're being exploited. Reaction is more dangerous than the enjoyment, with the interest. Enjoyment with interest to be given ___ [?]

I'm talking in abstract form, not in impersonal way. _____ [?] All person. So, a particle of Brahman is a person. But they say the Brahman as a whole is impersonal. Such misconception is there. So _____ [?] He's more atheistic. Śaṅkara's ___ [?] is more atheistic than - more injurious to the world than the Buddhists. Half truth is more dangerous than falsehood. Because apparent truthfulness can easily cheat others - cheating. Also Gandhi had to tell, "Half khadi is more dangerous than foreign cloth." So in the garb of a saint, the poison coming in the garb of saints, saintly, that is more dangerous than poison itself.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Sound is the easiest way, means, to take the line of sound. Sound God, śabda-brahman. That is nearer to us, and then through śabda, sound, we can go to the land of vision, eye. First ear, and then with the help of that we can go to the eye experience of the spiritual world. Then we can go further, we feel the quality of different type there, mainly. Then parikara, then the representation of different personalities, with different name, colour, or story. Then the līlā, the pastimes, the relationship between them, the function, līlā. Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, that is all spiritual. That is possible - we can count things that how an attribute can be spiritual or material here. But everything, the root also spiritual, the sight, spiritual eye, then spiritual quality. Then spiritual group as well as individual characteristic, individual. Then the function between all of them.

At last we shall find that, 'I'm also there. What is this wonderful thing? I'm also represented there, there is myself. Then what am I here? Just as when we're seeing a dream, then suddenly we awake, we find another self within the wakeful body. Then who am I that was a member of a particular dream and experience?' Similar but not same. That individual mind, the name of the dream, _____ [?]

So then we find, 'I'm here, in this world. Then I was there, how? _____ [?]

Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. The Name, the continuance of that connection in that way.

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "Once you allow Kṛṣṇa consciousness to enter your heart, in no time you'll find that Kṛṣṇa consciousness has taken possession of your whole heart. Nothing can stand against Him. _____ [?] He's so charming, He's so perfect, that all other merchants have to withdraw with all their commodities. They can't keep their prestige here. None can remain and stand in struggle with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Such prospect. Kṛṣṇa consciousness proposes so much facility to us, capturing prospect, all other merchants with their commodities go back from their _____ [?]

praviṣṭaḥ karṇa-randhreṇa, svānāṁ bhāva-saroruham
dhunoti śamalaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ, salilasya yathā śarat

["The sound incarnation of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul (i.e. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam), enters into the heart of a self-realised devotee, sits on the lotus flower of his loving relationship, and thus cleanses the dust of material association, such as lust, anger and hankering. Thus it acts like autumnal rains upon pools of muddy water."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.5]

When the autumn comes, all the dirt of the water removed, the water is refreshed, cleared. In the rainy season generally the water is dirty. Because the washing the dirt off the land and coming in the rivers, ponds, all water more or less dirty. But when the autumn comes, rainy season ends and autumn comes, all water everywhere we'll find very clear, clean.

So when Kṛṣṇa consciousness enters one's heart, gradually all the dirt, so many desires, so many prospects, so many proposals, all are withdrawn. And Kṛṣṇa consciousness conquers, captures the whole reason, mind.

"I am yours, you are Mine." The sweet proposal, prospect, comes. "I am yours and you are Mine." _____ [?] All other undesirables entering in your heart has dispossessed you of your normal position. Normally you are fair, very beautiful, and you're a member in My family."

Mahāprabhu. Gaurāṅga Sundara. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

What wrong I have committed that is self treacherous _____ [?] the repentance will come like that. 'I'm treacherous, I'm a cheat. I'm cheating my own self with worst type of treachery." One who can cheat himself he can cheat all, he's living in the world of cheating. We're all cheaters, self cheaters, all cheaters, life of cheating. Abhorrence ____ [?] So śaraṇāgati, self blaming.

Kārpaṇya, dainyam, to look at the nasty characteristic of his own self. "So mean I am, so nasty, so mean." Fie, fie, his own self. "Such a mean fellow am I. Such a fool am I. I feel that I'll colonise here for all's benefit." Dainya, kāṛṣṇa, he admonishes the whole self, extremely. As much as he's conscious of his internal resources, he cannot but admit that, "To the full aspect I did so much mistake in me, I have got."

Mahāprabhu Himself says,

na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, [krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum
vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "O My companion, I do not have the slightest scent of love for Kṛṣṇa - and yet, I cry. This is only for the purpose of exhibiting My great fortune. Without seeing the lovely face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I worthlessly pass My days, like an insignificant insect."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

"Still I cannot believe me. I should not believe me at any stage. Invulnerable, mean type of individual. Na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum. Though I'm repenting and crying, weeping so much, still I'm not reliable. My own ego, not reliable."

"So You're weeping so much, repenting so much."

"No, no. Don't believe Me. It's not sincere, it's a sham. Vaṁśī vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā. The whole thing it is guaranteed that you are a cheater still. Because, how you can do it? The life of life is there, and leaving Him, while abandoning Him I still can live? Vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā. By standing, by eating, you are living, as a traitor. Still you have life. You have lost, you have neglected, you're giving out your own vitality, and you're living. _____ [?] Treasure you have lost you don't know. I don't believe you. Generous self says within. I don't believe you. This is also ego, false ego."

That rather, Both is, Mahāprabhu and Rādhārāṇī. Rādhārāṇī in Kurukṣetra also saying to Krsna, "You have gone elsewhere, does not matter. You are My husband. You have got license from the śāstra to go to many places for enjoying. But I, My religion, My function is only to attain mercy of Yours. That is, without You I'm still living. A discredit - but no discredit there should be. I should have died. Losing You I should have died. Losing You My Lord I should have not lived, I must have died only. But I have no sense of honour. I have _____ [?] I'm still living, going on with My life, no shame. So I'm living is positive proof that I'm not fit for You My Lord."

Argus kari naham iham mayagi mitam tam yoge [?] _____ [?] "That I'm living, it's a proof positive that I'm criminal of the worst type, unfaithful. Unfit for You, My noble Lord. I should have died long ago by the separation of You. But I did not die, so I'm a nasty fellow, the worst type _____ [?]

And Mahāprabhu says, "I've got no real attraction for You My Lord. Though I'm weeping so much, I'm wailing, but this is all to show to the public that, "Oh, see how a great devotee I am. This false trade. Otherwise if I'd had any genuine attraction for You I should have died long ago, I should have not lived."

There the criterion. So I cannot believe me, such a worst type am I. Without his own heart's jewel he can live, can go on, can smile, can play, can eat. All these good things can continue.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So kīrtana has been recommended to be the most effective method by which we can improve ourselves. The spirit is offensive for offensive. The environment is very eager to attack me. I shall have to create energy within me with so much eagerness and sincerity, that not only to protect me - that will be automatically done, we shall attack the environment. And what is the method? What will be our aim to attack? The meaning is something not only negative but something positive. What is that? To try to engage the environment into the service of Kṛṣṇa. So not only negative sense to destroy, but to acquire something for Kṛṣṇa from them, to utilise their energy for the service of Kṛṣṇa. That will be the purpose. They're engaged, their favourite things generally, baddha jīva, kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā. Their credit, their money, energy, and their objects of enjoyment, sensual enjoyment. Kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā, and they're engaged in. And to try to get them for the service of Kṛṣṇa, so giving something positive to them, sukṛti. How we can? Generally it is easy to get some money from them. Money is energy. Kāma, artha, and dharma. Their duty, sense of duty may be changed, that is their credit, their pratiṣṭhā, their goodwill to be attracted in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Artha, the money, their energy, should be used, we shall try to use the energy which may be used in otherwise, for Kṛṣṇa. And the kāminī is their attraction for sense pleasure. To take that means we shall take the opposite thing. We shall try to take him altogether from the association of kāminī, that is to make them Maṭh members. That is the best. To take out wholesale from kāminī means come and come to serve the master of all kāminī.

kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."
[Part of the poem Vaiṣṇava ke? - Who is a Vaiṣṇava?]
[Composed by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura]
[Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.24] & [Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's collection of ślokas, 236]

There is a stanza in a poem composed by our Guru Mahārāja, Duṣṭa mana! tumi kisera vaiṣṇava?

There is a line, tomāra kanaka, bhogera janaka, kanakera dvāre sevaha "mādhava." Your money means helping you to enjoy, by exploitation. So that money may be snatched away anyhow from you and to engage in the service of Kṛṣṇa. In your hand it will help you to take to reaction to the hell. So money should be utilised, that is the standard dealing, behaviour, conduct, should be, that all money we possess as a trustee and we should utilise it for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Tomāra kanaka, bhogera janaka. That is helping you, it's seducing, persuading you for exploitation. But that should be converted into the service of Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa. Nārāyaṇa is the master of all kanak, Lakṣmī Devī. And kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."

One gentleman came to our Guru Mahārāja, "What is the meaning of this line? kāminīra kāma, nahe tava - as it is written there? Then we should not marry, we won't enjoy any kāminī?"

"Yes. Kṛṣṇa is the only enjoyer of all kāminī. That is reserved for Him, Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. It is only for Him to enjoy the sensual, nahe tava dhāma. So what should be our attitude towards the world?

Bhoganas ca kandarpa [?] So how the creation here will go if we think it is not necessary here, but in the Vaikuṇṭha also we find that there, in Goloka, Bhoganas ca kandarpa _____ [?] The sensual experience, pleasing experience, only reserved for Krsna, even no other gods, no other Avatāra also. Only reserved for Kṛṣṇa. And, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."

In this connection I may say that it's found in Bhāgavatam that Balarāma also had rasa līlā. The explanation has been given by Sanātana Goswāmī. Balarāma - externally He played the rasa līlā, but internally He made arrangement for Kṛṣṇa to enjoy the kāminī, the gopīs, in His heart.

The function of Guru is such. For Guru, apparently from the śiṣya he takes so much service, but really he transmits them all towards his Guru or his Master, ultimately the Lord Himself. Only Guru means a transmission machine, he receives.

Just as so many money collectors. They collect money from the different business, also they send it towards the cashier of the highest government. So mediator, collects money and sends it to the higher place.

So Guru, Vaiṣṇava, they're so. They're by construction, they don't keep anything for them. Whatever they're outwardly seen to draw from outside, they transmit towards the real enjoyer. They're transparent, not opaque, but transparent. Light passes through, like glass, light passes through. So everything passes through them towards higher agency, higher place. That is what Vaiṣṇava, Guru means, all transmitters to the higher.

So kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma. So how to, when we're going to preach and then to take them totally from the kāminī enjoyment life to save them? Don't go to that sort of sensual exploitation. Come and engage yourself fully in the service of Kṛṣṇa and the Vaiṣṇava, kāṛṣṇa, the servant of the servant of Kṛṣṇa, his God, in any way.

So our preaching, the object of our preaching will be like this. To get money, that is easy. To put a portion of his energy to the service of Kṛṣṇa. And to try to save from kāminī enjoyment, that is to take him towards the Maṭh side, the whole time service render, come in the Maṭh. And the pratiṣṭhā, that is his credit. In that case there is the educated men, to try to convince them and to attract them for the call, that their support, the educational support, the mission, the institution, may have - pratiṣṭhā. Their goodwill, their prestige may be utilised for the service of the Lord. So that should be the object of our preaching. We shall try to extract everything from everywhere to help the cause of the Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana of the Guru and the mission, the centre, where from this Kṛṣṇa consciousness is being spread to the world. To draw, always to draw the juice from the māyāik world towards Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that all should be transmitted to Kṛṣṇa. Everything will yajña, sacrifice.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ
[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti).] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

What is the symptom, the sign of a yajña? Were there is sacrifice. As much as sacrifice, so much it is yajña. Not outward grandeur, but internal sacrifice. Inner sacrifice is more valuable than outer sacrifice. Inner sacrifice, the earnestness, the fire will be within the consumer. The fire will burn into ashes all the achievement in the māyāik world, and the internal current should be discovered.

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ
[andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or Guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

Because they're doing much with the apparent side, the material side, they do not understand the undercurrent in their heart is towards Kṛṣṇa, towards their Lord and Master. We shall help them to understand that undercurrent. Internally we want rasa, ānanda, and that is the Kṛṣṇa conception which is fully there. What you want internally, I have come to help.

Once one attorney in Calcutta, of good fame, he came to protest for something in our exhibition, religious, theistic exhibition. Then when Prabhupāda was trying to make him understand the real purpose of the exhibition, not to insult the people but to educate them.

There the attorney told, "Do you want to convert me?"

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "Yes. It won't require more than five minutes to convert you. Only it is necessary that you give proper attention. More than five minutes will not be necessary to convert you. I began single, but now five hundred men at least are talking on my behalf. And because when you'll understand that why I'm talking it's your own interest, your deeper interest, or the deepest interest in your heart, what I'm talking. Then you'll be automatically converted. Only give proper attention and you will convert, because it is your own thing, it is your own inner thing."

Na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ. Unfortunately they're engaged to appreciate the outside, the cover, neglecting the spirit within, substance within. Na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ. The aim of our inner interest is towards Viṣṇu. Towards that rasam, that eternal ānandam. Our internal tendency, everyone of us has got that within us. But we're carried by the outer current, that is kāma, krodha, lobha, that mental system, which is a cover of the soul system.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our preaching, our kīrtana outside will be of this nature - that we must try to make him understand his own thing within him. And try to exact that, that are capturing him outwardly to take him out here, to disassociate him with those things, and those must be utilised for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Money is a very favourite thing to us. Because we're generally engaged in these four things: dharma, artha, kāma, mokṣa. Dharma means duty; artha, money; kāma, sense pleasure. And mokṣa, at times we're disgusted with these things and want to be indifferent, that is renunciation, mokṣa, liberation. Disgusted with these three things.

dharmasya hy āpavargyasya, nārtho 'rthāyopakalpate
[nārthasya dharmaikāntasya, kāmo lābhāya hi smṛtaḥ]

Dharmasya. Duty should help us toward liberation. Duty should be set in such a way that it may liberate me properly from all proposals of māyā - that is, take to my natural position in the service of Krsna. Dharmasya hy āpavargya. All the vargya, all the ends are comparatively shown down, that is āpavargya. Vargya means a class of end, object of life. So generally four classes are the object, aim of our life can be divided into four classes. Retirement, and then duty, and then kāma, and then money making, collect energy. Four phases. So duty, generally in the worldly life we set our duty in such a way that we can earn maximum money and the money may be used to satisfy sense pleasure, satisfy the senses. And when that sense pleasure is distributed to others, that is our duty, dharma. To collect energy and by that energy to purchase some sense pleasure, and when the sense pleasure is distributed to others, we finish our duty. Generally this sort of current we find under the māyāik influence. In the worldly influence we find this.

But it should be organised in another way. How? That sense pleasure, that is our connection with matter, we shall do so much as is necessary to keep our soul and body together. _____ [?] Not for any pleasing sensation we shall meet matter. But our transaction with matter will be so much as can keep my health all right. And with that health I shall earn money. And the money will help me to discharge my duty. And the duty will be set in such a way that we can acquire liberation. In Bhāgavatam it is said, dharmasya hy āpavargyasya. "Duty should be set only to acquire āpavargya, liberation, the highest end of life. _____ [?] Duty should not be set in such a way as to acquire maximum money. Generally that is done here. Nārtho ʻrthāyopakalpate. And nārthasya dharmaikāntasya, and the artha, that is money, that has got only one aim: to help to discharge our duty. Duty should be connected with liberation and to help that duty, the money will be utilised. And,

[jīvasya tattva-jijñāsā nārtho yaś ceha karmabhiḥ]

["Life's desires should never be directed toward sense gratification. One should desire only a healthy life, or self-preservation, since a human being is meant for enquiry about the Absolute Truth. Nothing else should be the goal of one's works."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.10]

And our connection with the material world will be only to that extent, that it can help to keep our health properly to discharge duty, and not for any sense pleasure. Material connection must not be of the nature of sense pleasure. _____ [?] So our sense connection, that is only to produce the child and not to enjoy the sensation there, pleasing sensation. Nārtho yaś. In Gītā, also in Bhāgavatam, and Gītā also, prajanaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ.

[āyudhānām ahaṁ vajraṁ, dhenūnām asmi kāma-dhuk
prajanaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ, sarpāṇām asmi vāsukiḥ]

["Of weapons I am the thunderbolt, and of cows I am the heavenly desire-fulfilling cow. Of cupids I am he who ensures progeny, and among the single-headed venomous snakes I am Vāsuki, the king of all snakes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.28]

The conduct what is kāma, it's utilisation only prajana, that is, only to give birth to a child and not to enjoy any sense pleasure. This should be our attitude towards the world, to everything, will be following this standard. How we shall adjust us with the environment. So in preaching also we shall see whether, how we can save whom we approach from this sort of maladjustment and we shall help him have proper adjustment - how they can utilise their own energy to make the best of a bad bargain. They're here, and how they can utilise their energy so that they can come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That is home. Back to God. Back to home. They're wandering aimlessly in the foreign land. And we shall help them with all earnestness 'come home.'

Just as a madman, we shall try to take his consciousness towards his home, normal life. "A madman, you're engaged in duty, and aimlessly you're wandering here, there." To reinstate in his former memory that, "You've got your father, mother, wife, children, home, all these things. You're wandering in the street, your attention focused toward some wrong direction."

Vikṛta citta. Whose consciousness thrown into the disorder. From order to disorder a madman comes. Order to disorder. From harmony to discord. So our duty in preaching, in that sort of preaching, will help our own sādhana, realisation. Proper realisation will be to very earnestly and sincerely, to try in this way whether within or outside. We are by kīrtana, we're to practice in outside, and that reflection will come within me and help me to the highest extent. That is, kīrtana has been recommended. Assert yourself, create your environment, also to help you in your own way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So to fulfil our own purpose, and at the same time it will help others also. The Lord will be satisfied if I can preach Him outside, and to convert so many to become His servants, He'll be satisfied with me.

Devotee: So it does not matter where the money comes from?

85.12.17.B

[This transcript is also within 85.12.10.B_85.12.11.A]

Devotee: So Guru Mahārāja. It does not matter where the money comes from? If it gets used in a proper way for Kṛṣṇa consciousness?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Ha, ha. I can't follow.

Devotee: He said, "It does not matter, it does not make any difference where the money comes from?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Devotee: He says, his question is that, "If we're collecting money for the service of Kṛṣṇa, is it important what is the source or method by which that money is collected?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How that should be collected? That depends upon the collector.

Devotee: No. He wants to know if it's important whether the method by which money is collected should be fair or not fair. What kind of source?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally fair. And it depends upon the collector, upon the capacity of the collector. One can take risk of using unfair means, so-called, but nothing is unfair if it is in Kṛṣṇa's connection. If one is convinced in that way, living in that plane, he can do anything and everything for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. How much degree Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the agent? It will depend on that. How much real Kṛṣṇa consciousness is there, sincere hankering for Kṛṣṇa to utilise him - it will depend on that.

Because real Kṛṣṇa connection is the only purest thing. Unfair can become fair by proper Kṛṣṇa connection. Kṛṣṇa connection is independent thing, and any way Kṛṣṇa connection make everything fair. Other day I told that a touchstone - whatever touches it becomes gold. So, the collector, how far he's Kṛṣṇa conscious. If he can bring Kṛṣṇa in the connection, the unfair will be fair, fairest, above all fairness in the consideration of this world. So it depends upon the collector. Generally, one should try in a fair way, but, according to his own position, he may apply diplomacy and ultimately everything, if he's fully Kṛṣṇa conscious. He may try in any way. Even his killing will be highest good to the man who is killed. Kṛṣṇa connection is such. Ha, ha, ha. To such a degree, if he finishes him, totally, then he'll be saved. He'll be saved. The guarantee is there, if the Kṛṣṇa connection is there. So the touchstone - whatever will come in connection, that will be gold. But that must be the touchstone, not other stone - any mixture. So it depends upon the collector, whatever, how far he's connected to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. If Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the absolute agent of the absolute master. Absolute Autocrat but Absolute Good. Not only autocrat, but at the same time absolute good. So if it is absolute good, his dealings with anything cannot but be good. Do you follow?

Devotees: Yes Mahārāja, very clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Difficult to follow?

Devotees: Very nice and clear.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Clear. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness is such because everything for Him - whatever used for Him, that is normal and must be used for Him, that is the all important thing. Whatever we'll do, that is justified if it's for Him - then the man will be saved. Everything, every point will be saved if a disconnected thing comes in that connection - gets that connection, he will be saved. Not killing, that is of outward cruelty - but really if he gets the life back there, normal life back, his utility in the service of Kṛṣṇa. That is For Himself.

Devotee: Mahārāja. But we don't have the courage to do Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, your self-hesitating, how far? You're not fully convinced that Kṛṣṇa - what is utilised for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest realisation, highest good of everything else.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here I stop today. You think what is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. So think what is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Cruelty, the utmost cruelty to this world that may be life giving to one. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Die to live. Here the Hegel comes to save you. Die to live deals death to make arrangement for his real life. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The mother came to take the child back. The parent came to take the child back and give it to his parents. "You are a sannyāsī, you are supposed to be a religious man. My son you will give back to me and you're not able to do that? But that is your religious conception?"

"Yes, I'm seeing that one boy is in the ocean, in the sea, he's diving and plodding in trouble in the sea. Now he has come to the seashore and going home, I shall drive him back, push him back into the sea, the boy. That is my understanding. How can I say, You say he's my son, and I say that yes, a jīva has come to you for some time. But he's suffering from death and birth, death and birth. And the only way to help him is with the association of the sādhus, he will go back to home, and back to God. My transaction is that. Snatching from the affection of the parents, the child, and to utilise him in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Apparently it is cruel, but justification is from other side, so everything is like that. This is a weapon - a minor boy having a weapon, snatch away the weapon. He will cut your own head, or somewhere - you boy, you do not know. To take away the money from him, a soul in bondage, the money will be utilised for your own injury. So take the money and utilise for Kṛṣṇa, he'll be saved. Die to live means to help a man to die his present life and to get the death and to come to Kṛṣṇa. Through death come to Kṛṣṇa. Question of life and death. So many lives and deaths from eternal time, suffering from birth and death. Suffering from birth he has got such conviction, such a plane and serious conception to save one from birth and death. What to speak of his collected energy, money, and this or that. This is in the possession of the enemy. The soul is in possession of the enemy, this matter. Anyhow to snatch him from that position towards his own soil - that is necessary."

So according to the degree of realisation of the preacher, he will preach that way.

There was one fable in Bible or somewhere. The man, Christ, or someone, he became a guest at a particular house, and where he was received well, welcomed, and he was dealt with in a good way, he stole some utensils from there. And he went to a miserly man, and there he left all those utensils. Then, another man received him, welcomed him to his utmost degree, and only son, he killed him and went away.

Have you heard this tale, fable, perhaps in Bible or somewhere?

Devotees: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The man who served him utmost, his only son was killed. The justification has been given that the miser who did not, who generally does not give shelter to any guest, utensils are given to them. And for the temptation of that he will further give shelter to other guests also. And the highest thing, that one who had the only son, and he was welcomed very cordially, his only son was killed and he fled. Because that son was the centre of his all affection, that is gone, whole affection will come to God. That is the justification given there. So the stranger, if he's of that type, he can kill the man of the host to give him, to help him towards God. Only son was killed by the guest. The only son of the host was killed by the guest because his attention, affection, that was spent for the only son, that will go wholesale towards Kṛṣṇa, towards God. So an ordinary guest cannot do that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Today I dissolve here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

[00: - 05:00 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are on the surface. Deeper in your heart there are many things. You do not know your own self, we also. Many things within, gradually that comes on the surface.

It may be a good sign also, in order to settle you more strongly in the faith, such superficial questions are coming. And you associate, make enquiry and consolidate your faith. There are so many books that by reading you may get the grace of the author there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...so form breaker, I'm form breaker. Sarva-dharmān parityajya [Gītā, 18.66]
Kīrtanānanda objected. I told, "You have also broken formality in Christian religion. When you have come to accept Swāmī Mahārāja's creed to Kṛṣṇa consciousness you had to give up the formality of Christianity. You were a Christian in the beginning, there also form." He was excited, and Sāgara Mahārāja and Sudhīra Mahārāja they also were very much excited. I stopped them. "No place of guṇḍāism, no place of rowdyism here. Whatever you say, say in a modest way."

So always elimination, progress means elimination of old things and acceptance of the new. "eho bāhya āge kaha āra. eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc]
["This is superficial, go deeper."] Progress means, living things, means that, new experience.

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ
prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam

["As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

When we're hungry, by every morsel we feel three things. The desire for eating diminishes. When we're hungry we're weak. Weakness also removed and the dissatisfaction of hunger - that is also removed, three things - by every morsel.

So by every step we shall have to feel whether we're making any progress. Do we feel such things? Bhaktiḥ pare. We must have a conception what is reality, in the progress. The reality of this type, the reality of that type, what is reality proper? What is sham, what is imagination, hallucination? And what is reality - that will be different. Some idea we shall have to get. And our intensity, attraction for the thing will increase step by step, it won't diminish. It will have to increase if we're in proper life. We must have some conception of that new thing, whatever small, and our energy towards the thing will increase.

Bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo, and anyatra viraktir, at the same time we must be apathetic to anti devotional things. If I make progress towards East, West will be left back and we shall see new things on our view. And if it's good, directed well, our encouragement will increase more and more progress.

bhaktiḥ pareśānubhavo viraktir, anyatra caiṣa trika eka-kālaḥ
prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam

By every morsel, puṣṭiḥ, we shall feel stronger, puṣṭiḥ, tuṣṭiḥ, and satisfaction, hunger is being removed. Tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo. And our desire to eat more, that will go, vanish, to desire to consume will go. Three things must be there, then we're in a real progressive life.

Always be alert to search our own self, whether I'm enticed by enemies, by the agents of māyā, misconception. The agents of māyā they don't leave us so easily. "Oh, you have got so many commitments here. Where do you go? You must clear these commitments, then we shall allow you to go." Ha, ha. So in different ways they will come and try to take us back. "There are so many commitments here you have got, incurred debt, and now you're trying to fly away? Absconder! We won't allow you to abscond." In various ways they will come to approach.

So one should not believe him, only believe the sādhu, only hear the śāstra and the sādhu. They will plead for us, none else. In the midst of the agents of māyā everywhere, only reliable, the office, go to the agent of that ambassador's quarter, take shelter. When the Americans find any danger in their life, they will go to their own ambassador's quarter. They will take shelter in that quarter of that embassy. If American, or any British, finds that in India, my body's in danger, then they will take shelter to their own. What is that? Their own agents are living here? Embassy or something, he'll take shelter there. So in the world of māyā, misconception, proper conceived persons are Vaikuṇṭha-dūta, sādhu, and we shall try to take shelter there. There, of course, the agents of māyā will hesitate to enter there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. One in a crore, generally survives. Beginning numbers are many, but when finishing, amongst crores one found to be successful really. Koṭiṣv api mahā-mune.

[muktānām api siddhānāṁ nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa]

sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā koṭiṣv api mahā-mune

["O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.150]

Śukadeva says, "Even it is rarely found in a crore of beginners one becomes successful. So rare thing."

But in this Kali-yuga, a special grant is there. And Mahāprabhu Himself comes to distribute, so little better position.

It is also told in śāstra, āryā guṇa jñāḥ sāra-bhāginaḥ. Those persons that are guṇa jñāḥ, who can judge things according to quality, very cleverly, they do not want a birth in Satya-yuga, in the golden age. They will say, "I want a chance in the Kali-yuga where there's a special grant from the highest." Kaliṁ sabhājayanty. Welcome, Kali-yuga, iron age. Those that have got a deeper understanding, such sādhus, they rather aspire after a chance in Kali-yuga. "I don't want a birth in golden age, but iron age."

kaliṁ sabhājayanty āryā, guṇa jñāḥ sāra-bhāginaḥ yatra saṅkīrtanenaiva, sarva-svārtho 'bhilabhyate

["Those who are actually advanced in knowledge are able to appreciate the essential value of this age of Kali. Such enlightened persons worship Kali-yuga because in this fallen age all perfection of life can easily be achieved by the performance of saṅkīrtana."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.36]

Only by the method of chanting the Name of Hari, with sādhu saṅga, everything is attained. The whole thing is got, this special grant. "So a special Kali that is, and I want a birth in that Kali."

Śukadeva also declares in the assembly of those authentic scholars.

kaler doṣa-nidhe rājann asti hy eko mahān guṇaḥ [kīrttanād eva kṛṣṇasya mukta-saṅgaḥ paraṁ vrajet]

[Śukadeva Goswāmī tells Parīkṣit Mahārāja: "O King, the age of Kali, the repository of all evils, has but one glorious characteristic: in this age, those who simply chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa are liberated and reach the Supreme Lord."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.3.51]

"It is full of defects, iron age, but one great advantage it has got. Kīrttanād eva kṛṣṇasya mukta-saṅgaḥ. Only by taking to the preaching about Kṛṣṇa, one can get out of all undesirable things and attain the highest goal." Śukadeva says in Bhāgavatam.

What is that Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana, that preaching of Kṛṣṇa, what is that? We must be very particular which can give us so much benefit, peculiar. What is that thing? We must be very - attentively enquire, what is that thing? This is not a mere tale, story telling. If it's a fact, ontological fact, then what is that thing? Without the help of anything else, only by the chanting of Kṛṣṇa, that is preaching - preaching about Kṛṣṇa, we shall be able to avoid all undesirables and attain the highest end of life? What is that thing? How to attain that? With such deep attention we're to enquire and to have that, not to trifle it. It's not a trifling thing, it has got so much prospect, clearly described. What things - dive deep to understand. It must be done with that sort of deep interest. That is again in other words, do or die. Die to live with such seriousness. Die to live, with such seriousness we must attain that thing.

Kīrtana, what is kīrtana? To distribute to the environment. To imbibe and to distribute. To try to get from the higher capitalist and to distribute to the ordinary. And in a serious mood that should be done, that Kṛṣṇa kathā, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness from the proper source, to draw it from the proper source and to distribute to the environment. Thereby we can be most gainer in this Kali-yuga, because the environment is very anti, so to preach there, it is not an easy thing. Kali means kalah, quarrel. So many opinions there are, and they're all quarrelling to establish their own superiority. Different types of thought, and they're trying hard to establish them. And in the midst of them we shall have to get some position, place, to do it in fact, not fashion, but in fact we must do something. With such energy, some attention must come from our heart with all sincerity and intensity that we shall get that highest achievement. It is not ordinary thing, not luxury, not a fashion, but a reality.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...it is not possible. Any newcomer among them? Any newcomer here now?

Badrināràyaṇa: Yes Mahārāja. Damabhir, coming from Belgium. Holland.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Holland that...

...

Badrināràyaṇa: He says, "How can we know our real Guru? Does it mean just by taking formal initiation from someone means he's our real Guru?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guru, in different planes, different Gurus. According to the faith we acquire, we shall have to go to a Guru, teacher, in that plane. Karmī Guru, jñānī Guru, yogī Guru, different types of Guru, a specialist in a particular section of education. And about our spiritual conviction there are also many planes. And by previous acquisition we can come to a particular plane, and in that plane in our sincere search, whomever we can find that he'll be able to quench my thirst what is going in advance. My ideal is high, my realisation is not so high. So ideal is high. Who can help me to realise that idea with the inner response, approval from our own heart that with the direction of inner Guru, caitya Guru, we can select mahanta Guru, external Guru. Who will be able to quench my thirst. My thirst is high, of higher level, but I'm not there, my ego. So who will be able to help, to take me to my ideal that we have already gathered by my previous experience. In this way we come to select our Guru.

And sometimes it happens that we shall have to change our Guru, but that is very deplorable. At the first selection if we can come to proper understanding that is fortunate. Otherwise, if there's any change in the present life about Guru, it's a difficult, unfortunate life.

And our knowledge of scripture, revealed scripture, that comes to help us a great deal in the selection of our mahanta Guru, mutual help. Revealed scriptures helps us to select Guru, Ācārya. And Ācārya also that vice versa helps us to know the real purport of the revealed scriptures, sādhu-śāstra. By the grace of the śāstra we can know a real Vaiṣṇava, Ācārya, Guru. And Guru again he gives us the real meaning of the revealed scriptures, interdependent, sādhu-śāstra.

And our inner sincere hankering that is the most important, which in its turn can be had from our previous sukṛti, unknown and then known. Our energy if utilised by the agents of the divine world, that comes to help us, indirectly. Through śraddhā, our faith, that is the beginning of our spiritual life. And that śraddhā is accumulated from our previous different activities, that is knowingly or unknowingly. If our energy is utilised for the service of the Lord, as a reaction we get that, His grace, within us. Though we may not know that in the beginning, gradually we can know.

kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhu-saṅga' [kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga]

["The root cause of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is association with advanced devotees. Even when one's dormant love for Kṛṣṇa awakens, association with devotees is still most essential."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.83]

The very beginning comes from the association of the holy persons, and,

[bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate]
sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the Guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads."]

[Bṛhan-Nāradīya Purāṇa]

And that chance of connection with the sādhu, divine agent, is the effect of our previous sukṛti.

kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhu-saṅga' / kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga

Our śraddhā, faith, and śraddhā is the outcome of sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ. It has been attributed to fortune, and fortune means sukṛti, acquired by our previous actions by the connection of the divine agent.

Search for Kṛṣṇa, so search of the Lord for the lost servants. In that campaign, so many agents engaged by Him to take back His servants. And by their connection ordinary soul acquires some sukṛti. And that sukṛti produces faith in us, and according to the quality of the faith we come to select our future association and thereby we can thrive and attain our goal. _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Guru Mahārāja says he's not well for the last few weeks, he told.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm not keeping proper health.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Feeling some difficulty in speaking.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

85.12.27.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...who desires dedication of everything, allegiance of every atom. Full allegiance of every atom towards Him. He's the Highest Entity and He's rasam, ānandam, beauty. Try to appreciate the position of the beauty as super-most thing. How? Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. Bhagavān. Not the master of all powers, all grandeur, but bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha, Jīva Goswāmī [in Bhakti-Sandarbha] has given this meaning to the word Bhagavān. Brahman, Paramātmā, and Bhagavān, three causal conceptions of the whole. So Bhagavān means bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. First meaning, who controls everything, who possesses all power. The master of all power is Bhagavān.

But that does not satisfy the devotional aspect, the dedication aspect. Another meaning necessary, and that is bhajanīya. He has got such qualification as naturally attracts you to serve Him. Bhajanīya. At the cost of your life, at the cost of your every prospect, you want to jump, being charmed. Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. He has got a charming personality which draws us automatically towards Him. Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. A charming personality, naturally attracting everything towards Him. That is Bhagavān. His highest, His innermost qualification, or acquaintance is like that. Whoever comes in His connection, he's charmed to serve Him, to satisfy Him at any cost. To satisfy Him, to obey Him, at any cost. He's such, charming. Bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha. That is Bhagavān. That is the real nature of the Central Truth, of the Absolute Truth, that He's charming, from all respects. One cannot contain his separate individuality, separate interest, he runs madly to jump and to serve Him, to supply, to obey His order in any way, any way he tries to merge into Him. Such a charming - bhajanīya-guṇa-viśiṣṭha.

But that does not mean that Brahman and he become one, but he's keeping his individual character. The whole system is like that. The whole system, they're working as in a charm, in a charm. Vṛndāvana, a place of charm. All madly, they're experiencing some supernatural joy and madly engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Can't keep away from that. So nearer place to Kṛṣṇa is such. Nearer place, all madly engaged in the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, and they're also imbibing a peculiar type of ānandam in themselves by doing that sort of service.

Charming, charming, and that is not this charming, as our Jayatīrtha Mahārāja says, "If we use sacrament then in a charming way we can dance and sing." Not this material thing. But really it is there in the innermost existence in Vṛndāvana. Always charming, a charming atmosphere all day.

Though they're meeting many impossible things, still they're charmed. They found with their own eyes that Kṛṣṇa, a boy of seven years, He lifted the Govardhana Giri. And practically they took their shelter there for about a week.

But still they're thinking, "No, He's Yaśodā's, He's my boy."

A group from the society came to Nanda. "You keep this boy as a boy, as one of us, but it's dangerous. What He did the other day, He lifted that Govardhan Hill. You say, 'He's my boy and you will keep him, you'll be very alert about this boy." A group from the gopa came and they filed a complaint near Nanda. "We must be careful about the boy. He's not an ordinary boy."

So many feats, Yaśodā Herself She saw, that She tried to tie Him, but all addition in the same rope is short of two fingers. Still She's charmed in such a way and is going on with Her service by the special will of Kṛṣṇa. The group around Him, they're all doing their service, as if by sacrament, such a charming way. Charming way, above consciousness, jñāna śūnya bhakti, calculation, reasoning, all vanished in a distant way back.

On the other side, Virajā, Brahmaloka, the renunciation in the middle and dedication. And dedication, two classes, one retaining personal consciousness; and then another intensely merging into the God consciousness, losing almost their own individual interest, so much so merged in the interest of Kṛṣṇa.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So our devotion to be genuine, practised in the plane of Mahāprabhu, we're to think all these things. Śuddha bhakti. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.167] Karma, the master of energy, and jñāna, that I can know what is good, bad, I can know. I cannot give that standard to any other's hand. To know what is good, what is bad, I must keep that in my own hand. Good or bad, that responsibility I must not give to anyone. And such things also to be given up and depend fully on the higher guardian's decision. This is important. We must consciously do this. We're to transfer the standard of judging right and wrong, the standard of judgement; to give it to others. I won't be able to judge my own interest. My interest will be judged by my guardians. To transfer the standard of judgement to any other hand is a dangerous thing. We must do it consciously. We must be insured that we're in a safe position, we're in home.

In home, I do not know how to look after my own interest, but my guardians, they're looking after my own interest. It is in that sort of atmosphere I have come within, home interest. Back to God, back to home. So much dependence, reliance. I cannot - I'm such a tiny thing I cannot know my interest. I cannot, I do not know my own interest. My guardians know better than me. They're more interested in me than I myself is. Such a soil I'm going to, we're going to live for. So, how and in what way shall we make our progress? What will be our progress? Standard of utility, standard of interest, has diabolically changed. Die to live. What is your property at present, you will have to be separated once for all from them. The environment you're living in with your ego, forever that is to be abolished, die. And then you'll have a life worth living.

So, so much risk. And it's recommended to us by the grace of the centre. Centre, He can make Himself known, none else. All rights reserved! Only He can make Himself known. And all others, only by His inspiration. Then should we jump for such an adventurous life? But the standard of good or bad will also be snatched from me. You do not know what is your benefit, your welfare. You do not know in your present stage, but you will feel. You will live, die, and then when you will live, you will understand this is the best. We won't leave this home. It will be there. Such a stage, such a happy-most stage is never possible. You'll be able to understand. You won't want to leave that position. _____ [?] Rather I shall die in this position. I won't leave this.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. If we understand these basic principles of life, otherwise anyone will say something and I'll be converted into his mentality. No stability.

Rsi siddhante rahinau giya hari bhakti laula dulay asat siddhanta [?] A misconception, I'm caught within the misconception of things, of the environment, and Hari bhakti is far, far away. Asat siddhante rahinau giya.

So sambandha jñāna, place, position, purpose, in an organic whole, of the individual in an organic whole. Sambandha jñāna. We shall take the Name, or we shall do the work of a sweeper. Or we shall go on explaining Bhāgavatam. To be devotion proper, that sambandha jñāna is necessary. Who am I? Where am I? Why I'm doing this thing? Who is the recipient? All these things are concerned, come to valuation, to attach value to my activity. This spirit, why I'm doing, for what necessity, to fulfil what purpose I'm doing? I'm doing the work of a sweeper, or I'm working as a Guru explaining Bhāgavatam, or talking about God to the public. Whatever I'm doing, why? Why I'm doing so? To what purpose? Sambandha jñāna. That will fetch the proper price. Sambandha jñāna. Who am I? What is my position? Why I'm doing this? All these considerations, is it to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, or some whim in me? Or some chance rumour?

"Eho bāhya āge kaha āra. Eho bāhya āge kaha āra." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59, 61, 64, etc]

We're working, making progress towards, but where is my position? Eho bāhya. Go deeper, go deeper, go inner, go higher. It is very difficult. We're going to nowhere. To leave the standard of knowledge from our own hand, only inner feeling, only inner satisfaction, that is the standard.

Home experience. Home experience is the guarantee. Go deeper, leaving away all other proofs. Home experience. This is my home. Innermost satisfaction, this is my home. To understand by the inner adjustment, our adjustment, inner sense of adjustment. Home adjustment is proper adjustment. Other adjustments are artificial, temporary. So,

[vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ]
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata

In Manu-saṁhitā [2.1] Manu says, "You must have approval of the innermost heart of yours. You within, your innermost self must have, must give approval that it is your home. Coming from revealed truth, accepted by so many reliable saints, and approved by your innermost heart - that is the sign of dharma proper."

vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata

"Oh, you understand, I'm talking of real religion. What is that? First, vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ, not these empirical scholars, but by the scholars who are well versed in the revealed truth. They have accepted, experts in understanding revealed scriptures. First sign it must be so. It is coming from Him. He can make Himself known. Those that believe in that, it must be given by them.

Then, second: it is accepted by so many stalwarts of this world. Who are those stalwarts, sadbhir? Who, of this value, who has got no aspiration in any achievement of this world. Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir. What is the symptom of the sadbhir? Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Who has got no attraction or apathy, sympathy or apathy for anything in this mortal world. Accepted by those stalwarts.

And the third thing: it must have inner approval of your own. These three things necessary. First thing, it must come from outside, accepted by the stalwart who is independent of any loss and gain of this world, and the third - your inner approval. Yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata. Which is such character you try to understand and you give your attention to that. Otherwise, waste of time. At least these three things you must find then you'll give your attention to that. And the highest thing is inner approval. In Bhāgavatam also we find amongst the audience so many stalwarts. Vedā yathā mūrti-dharās tri-pṛṣṭhe.

[samāgatāḥ sarvata eva sarve, vedā yathā mūrti-dharās tri-pṛṣṭhe

[The King said: "O great sages, you have all very kindly assembled here, having come from all parts of the universe. You are all as good as supreme knowledge personified, who resides in the planet above the three worlds [Satyaloka]. Consequently you are naturally inclined to do good to others, and but for this you have no interest, either in this life or in the next."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.19.23]

That when this Bhāgavatam truth was delivered by Śukadeva Goswāmī the assembly was full of so many authorities of different departments of the Vedic knowledge. Veda has got different departments and they were representative of all classes of Vedic thought. Vedā yathā mūrti. As if those parts of the Veda teachings have been personified there, and so many. One representing one department, another, another department of the Vedic knowledge. In this way, the whole Vedic knowledge as personified is representing them in the sabhā, where the truth of Bhāgavatam is being delivered by Śukadeva Goswāmī. All harmonizing and capturing the crown of all kinds of Vedic thought.

nigama-kalpa-taror galitaṁ phalaṁ, [śuka-mukhād amṛta-drava-saṁyutam

["O expert and thoughtful men, relish Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the mature fruit of the desire tree of Vedic literatures. It emanated from the lips of Śrī Śukadeva Gosvāmī. Therefore this fruit has become even more tasteful, although its nectarean juice was already relishable for all, including liberated souls."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.3]

That is Bhāgavatam, the acme of all revealed truth, so far come in this world.

Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura. Mahāprabhu. Gaurāṅga Sundara.

And that Bhāgavatam was given by Śrī Caitanyadeva. "Don't waste your time in any false errand, false end. Come, come immediately to accept Bhāgavatam, which is the crown of all Vedic revelation given ever to the world. Yes. Bhāgavata prema, the Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. The beauty, the charm, the affection, the love - that is what is the best thing for all. Come blindly to accept that."

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. And through sound only. Not any intricate method. Directly take the Name. Earnestly call Him to your help. A broad road. He's not a material thing, as a subject you'll enquire, you'll try your best to find out where it is. He's everywhere. He's all embracing. All love. All qualities within Him. Only you are culprit - think that. Only call aloud for Him. "Give me shelter my Lord." In a broad way, want only, earnest want. "My Lord, accept me in Your service. I'm puzzled, perplexed. I don't know what is my goal. You are guardian, You are all in all. My Lord, take me."

He has got ears everywhere. He has got eyes everywhere. He has got attention everywhere. You only try to approach Him in a broad way. Call Him aloud. "Take me, lift me to Your holy feet my Lord." That will be the way, in any form or other.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...do not know what is going from your door. Accept Him. He Himself has come to be allowed to be caught by you. Take Him, take Him, take Him. But the barrier is a subtle but a difficult barrier between Him and us. So appealing, appealing, appealing. Whether we shall search, He's searching to accept.

So I asked them to write a book, The Lord's Loving Search for the Lost Servant. Came and went from door to door, "Accept Me. Accept Me, I'm everything, of you, accept Me." His search, Gaura līlā is Lord's search for the lost servant, loving search. Loving search of the Lord for lost servants. That is Gaura līlā.

Mahāprabhu Gaurāṅga Sundara. Heno avatara habe ki hiarche heno prema parachar [?]

Whether such an attempt has ever been, ever taken place in the past, or will it come in the future? It is doubtful whether such graceful attempt from the Centre will come for ever in the future? Or occurred in the past. _____ [?] But that is here at present. What to do?

He came with such an emotional feeling in a broad, wide way, that all were struck dumb, all scholars. "What is this? The ecstatic joy which is not found here, only they're singing and they're dancing and in a mad way, with so many persons, transparent, song and..."

Once I mentioned in this occasion, one old man came to visit Bagh Bazaar Gauḍīya Maṭh. He's standing, old man, a fair looking old man, educated. And we few were in a room and in some topic we were laughing, and someone has suddenly found him - that a gentleman from outside has come and he will see that these - in the name of sādhana, the boys here are laughing with anything. What is this laughter? Meaningless laughter? Is this bhajan? In this Maṭh, only this sort of laughing will go as bhajan? What is this?

So we gave some caution, "Oh, that man standing there, you stop. You are laughing so."

Then that man approached, "I was simply dumb to find this sort of laughing. I never experienced in this life such pure, loving laughter. Laughter there are so many, but some sort of polluted characteristic there. Open laughter, so much intense, simple, I'm finding here a first. So I'm charmed, I'm standing and enjoying this laughter, the heart felt, open hearted laughter."

So Mahāprabhu came with singing and dancing and chanting in a mass movement, and all were struck dumb.

"What sort of charm is there? A mass movement of laughing and chanting, and they're dancing and no trace of any anxiety of this world. The death, the other difficulties, famine, flood, disease, all these things are from the subconscious region, always creating some disturbance to the mental system. But there's no trace of anything. What is this?" The scholars and the authorities of all departments, they're simply charmed to look at. "In what ecstatic dance and chanting in mass movement taking the Name of the Lord. What is this? And only by this method, this ordinary method, dancing and chanting, taking the Name of the Lord, He will deliver all difficulties, all mental crookedness, and this adjustment will be all harmonised, only by this method? It is wonderful! A simple thing, the most simple. The Vedāntic culture there are so many, this tapasya, penances, serious penances under the sun in the summer. And then so many practices of austerity. And there's the study of so many things, as is the practices of the control of the air within, the_____ [?] of the breath. So many processes are there. But this is only a mass movement taking the Name highly and dancing and chanting in a particular method. And they're showing as if they're very happy, no anxiety, all gone. What is this? Ordinary, which can be done by anyone and everyone? No scholarship, no other special art or science necessary, just mass characteristic. _____ [?] All the difficulties have shut their door forever. And they're mad in ecstasy and dancing. Thereby every evil agents are all conquered."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Here I stop today.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... the form of sound may come out through the lips, but there is some real Name present. That is something else. Super consciousness.

Devotee: But I thought I had always faith in God anyway.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Faith in God?

Devotee: Anyway, I have faith - in my lifetime, I have faith.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, you have faith in what sort of God if He has got no name?

Devotee: Well, I don't know God, but I have some faith in a certain higher...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Faith, but your God has any name? Through sound, anyone can approach Him, is it? No. Has He got any sound aspect? Or soundless thing, your God? No name? Sound is the external aspect, through sound, we can approach Him easily. Sound can give, sound God, sound also must be God, not this illusory sound produced in this empirical world. But sound God, if we approach the God, then the sound aspect will come nearer.

Devotee: But Guru Mahārāja, even I was not initiated in Hari Nāma, I was chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa Mahā-mantra for many years.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That you have got not faith proper, regular faith, but haphazard faith. But that is also something because you imitate so many devotees is something, some shadow like thing. But when you yourself give yourself, sacrifice to accept that aspect of God and connect yourself with Gurudeva, then it takes a realistic position. Otherwise it is vague and imaginary. But still it has got some value, like a shadow.

He has come from?

Devotee: Holland.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Holland. Through whom? Who has taken you here?

Devotee: One of the first people that have told about you was Jagadeva dāsa from Holland. He's brother of Surabhi Mahārāja and Hare Kṛṣṇa dāsa in Holland. And, later on I meet devotees...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you're _____ [?] you trust everything very easily, and leave also that thing very easily, is it?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That nature you have got? Easily you accept anything and easily...

Devotee: I accept very many things very easily, yes. Because I have certain faith.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Certain faith. Faith of different kind. According to the faith, it has got quality. Sātvasic, rājasic, tāmosic - different type of faith there is. But the faith also changes by the association. By the association of a person of higher faith, purer faith, our faith may take change. Śraddhā. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ.

[sattvānurūpā sarvasya, śraddhā bhavati bhārata śraddhāmayo 'yaṁ puruṣo, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ]

["O Bhārata, all men have a particular type of faith according to their individual mentalities. The very nature of the living being is based on faith - their internal and external nature is modelled according to their faith. Therefore, their nature may be discerned according to the manner of worship or reverence in which they have faith."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]

In Bhagavad-gītā, have you gone through any scripture?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhagavad-gītā?

Devotee: My mother gave me the Bhagavad-gītā about...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your mother might given, but have you gone through it?

Devotee: Yes. I read Bhagavad-gītā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Seriously?

Devotee: I was even, I thought I was reading so seriously...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But in Gītā it is mentioned that śraddhā, faith, is of three kinds: sātvic, rājasic, tāmasic. Sātvic faith, nearer approach to the truth. Rājasic is doubtful, there's suspicion. And tāmasic, just to accept the opposite thing in place of the right thing, to accept the opposite thing, that is tāmasic śraddhā, faith. So faith is not one thing. Classification of faith, and according to the faith, our valuation is also measured, what sort of faith he has got.

A scientist, a research scholar, he's also approaching through some faith. He's got some apprehension, and in that way he conducts his research. Then if nearer the proper faith, he'll be successful easily. But if with wild goose chasing, then he'll lose his time and energy and won't produce any effect, desired result.

So faith is a suggestion. Suggestion of future existence, of subtle things. By faith we work out on many, but faith in the real cause of the whole, that is faith proper. It's not irrelevant, but relevant faith. That is faith which enquires into the very root, and existence, and future of the whole environment. Yasmin tad vijnana sa, which makes us to enquire about the Cause Absolute by which everything is produced, which is maintaining everything, and in the last, everything is entering into Him. To enquire in that way, that is faith proper. To enquire - the environment wholesale - that is faith proper.

Devotee: I had your darśana in [nineteen] eighty two, and you also were speaking about faith at that time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Faith, śraddhā, that is the beginning of the devotional world. Faith is the very basis of devotion, faith. God, we cannot bring the God into our laboratory and go on making experiment over Him, not in the objective world. But through faith, anyhow, we can have some sort of vague connection. And gradually through faith, if we approach, then one day we may hope to come in His real contact.

So in a submissive way you are to - not in a military spirit, above all power. All powers come from Him. He's above all, controller of everything, absolute. We cannot control Him. None can control Him. He's controlling everything. We're to approach the cause in that attitude. We cannot engage our military force to enquire whether there's any God or not, and report to me, as general. However he be, a Napoleon, or Julius Caesar, or Alexander, or Hannibal...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So one Sudhīra Goswāmī Mahārāja has come from America, and he has come with a book named Loving Search Of The Lord For Lost Servants. That is to be considered by us. It is Lord's nature that He comes to save us, take us in His domain, in His loving lodge. Anyhow we're led astray but He does not leave us. His benevolent heart, mahā-vadanyāya, moves Him to search for His servants that are detached for the time being from Him. So He comes to distribute Himself here and to take those that are suffering from non God conception to God consciousness. And in God consciousness also there's gradation.

And the highest conception, we're told, when He takes the form and mood of the phenomenal world, and comes here to live as one of them. His generosity is most extended at that time. When that Infinite Lord, He comes to embrace the lowest extremity of the existence, His magnanimity, greatness, nobleness, is at the extreme point. And that is considered the highest position. When non God area is also being captured by God's presence, so aprākṛta. Pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, adhokṣaja, and aprakṛta. Prākṛta-vat, which is like ordinary phenomenal world but it is not so. That conception we find in Vṛndāvana, as one of us. He comes to us as one of us mortal beings. His magnanimity extended to the extreme at that time. And we're told that there His presence is most generous as well as the highest substantial.

So Himself in the garb of Mahāprabhu He came and He declared like that. And in Mahāprabhu we find Him more benevolent when He's distributing Himself. Without caring for His greatness, and without any reservation, He has come here Himself and falling at the feet of the ordinary fallen soul and trying to uplift them. Even sometimes suffering for them, from their adverse attitude. Nityānanda Prabhu was beaten, blood shed, but that could not remove Him from His benevolent attitude. With so intense magnanimity He comes. And this is only substantial thing and the eternal and the most valuable. And also very home like things, easy at the same time, very plain and adopting, adoptable. Not an artificial but most natural. That home position, all round satisfaction.

And in this jungle of different types of thoughts leading towards the mortal world, that is the scientific research. The research is going to kill the world by atom bomb. This is knowledge and this is science, suicidal, and we're very proud of that scientific knowledge. The heart is there, that is everything. The change of heart can make the whole thing very palatable and very beneficial. Otherwise this knowledge and the power not reliable. If heart eliminated, nothing is really reliable in this world. The knowledge may be the greatest enemy as threatening the world by the atom bomb. And the power also like that. So only the heart consideration, that should be cultivated.

And Mahāprabhu came with that. "This is in the heart. The ego of yours that is you, that is the most dangerous thing you're harbouring in your heart. Every one of you harbouring a sham ego. But that must be dissolved and become natural, one with the whole, most generous. Extend yourself to the centre and through the centre to the whole infinite. You can embrace the infinite through the centre. Otherwise it's not possible, you are finite. If you connect with Infinite, through Him you can come to the whole, and your energy may be utilised everywhere."

So such thing in this age, this hard misusing of knowledge and power, our Guru Mahārāja came. Single handed almost he began his fighting, and now it's almost spread, known to the whole world. To the whole world by our great preacher, Swāmī Mahārāja, it's taken to the door of the whole of the world. And you have come as the consequence. And this benevolent attempt was done by Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Mahārāja. His heart was burning for the poisons that are to be traced everywhere in the world, poison. So how to get out of this poison, coming from the ego of so many in the form of power and knowledge? Give up everything and come to the feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga. That is the all-love, divine love, all-embracing. They may not know what higher prospect they have got, to inform them about their prospect. Vāsudeva Datta told,

yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, kemone dharitām de
rādhāra mahimā, prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke [madhura vṛndā vipina mādhurī praveśa cāturī sāra
baraja yuvatī bhāvera bhakati śakati hoita kāra]

["What great insurmountable, unsurpassable loss would we have faced in our life, if Śrī Gaurāṅga had not appeared before us on this earth? How could we bear our unfulfilled, empty life without Him? Who in this world would have described the super excellent transcendental glory of Śrī Rādhikā, Who is the last limit of divine love and devotion for the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa? Without His grace, who would be able to know the super excellent devotional path that gives entrance into the transcendental realm of the ambrosial ecstasy of Vṛndāvana? Who would be able to attain the mood and taste of the topmost devotional ecstasy of the young damsels of Vraja?"] [Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 32]

"I have got so high prospect in my life, and I was deceived of that high position, that possibility. If Gaurāṅga did not come and tell me that 'You're so great, You are so high,' how could I live without such prospect? Without Gaurāṅga? Kemone dharitām de. It is impossible to continue ones existence without knowing, being deceived from his higher status, position and prospect. So deceived life we were living. He's given us everything, giving me my highest self back to me. I was enemy to my own self. And His advice is giving me peace and friendship, everywhere, affection, love. So it's almost impossible has become possible by Śrī Gaurāṅga Deva."

And His messiah, our Guru Mahārāja came. So to understand the nobility, the greatness of him we should appreciate what he has given to us. I'm old, I'm unfit, so I cannot say much today. But our Sudhīra Goswāmī Mahārāja he has published many books, collecting some thought of our Guru Mahārāja from me, and that can help you all understand. Let, and Aranya Mahārāja is there, then our Giri Mahārāja, Panca Dravidha Mahārāja, and so many others they're taking from door to door this message of our Guru Mahārāja. Kṛṣṇa. They're present here. I show my thankfulness to them and other devotees, and here, there, everyone.

And especially, I'm in my old age, to continue the distribution of the highest welfare of our Guru Mahārāja I have appointed Govinda Mahārāja to do on my behalf. And if you connect with him you'll be able to know what is his inner capacity to deal with all these things perhaps. I hope you'll appreciate and you'll find higher things in him. With this I retire.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's mentioned that our eye should be guided by the ear. Eye cannot see properly and make proper estimation of the environment. So ear should guide the eye how to see. If we go to the Śrī Mandeer Vigraha, what the eye will say? But ear will say much.

"That don't try to make the Śrī Mūrti object of your senses, the eye. But He's seer, and you are to be seen. Stand before the Śrī Mūrti 'that He's seeing you, and you can't see Him.' If you try to see Him you'll see the colour, the figure. But the spiritual scriptures will guide you to say, "Stand before as a criminal and pray before Him. He's seeing. You'll be purified by His sight. He's seer, He's knower. Drāṣṭā, jñāta, bhokta. He's enjoyer. You are not enjoyer. All the subjective characteristic in Him. And you are a mere object of His pleasure. That is your proper position."

If you can enter into such faith, such conception, such conviction, then you won't be lost. Otherwise, you as a seer, or knower, or enjoyer, you'll be lost. From human, to animal, to tree, bird, water animals, in so many positions you'll have to go. But if you can connect with the centre as seer, and you're the object and He's the Supreme Subject, and He's your guardian.

Don't allow yourself to go away from the guidance of the guardian. That will be our main duty, or main endeavour, in the whole of our life. To have Him as our guardian, and we're submissive servants to Him. That is our proper position, all else are illusory and have no value but anti value.

So religion is proper adjustment. We're all maladjusted, wrongly adjusted. What is necessary is that we should give up that wrong adjustment and come to proper adjustment with the centre which is Absolute Good and beauty and affectionate and everything of us. Master, our Lord. And His near about place is our home. We're only wandering in the foreign country being the victim of giving explanation to every and any inspector. "Where have you come? What do you want? Are you not a thief?" All these questions in the foreign place. But if we can go home, everyone will take my interest on my behalf. I may not care for my own interest, but the guardians, the affectionate friends, they'll take care of my interest. That is home. Back to God, back to home.

Mahāprabhu advised that. "Don't go to the area of law and justice, but go above, go home, the land of affection and friendship. And that is the goal and fulfilment of our life." Śrī Caitanyadeva, Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam and Their followers have come with such advice to us.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Nityānanda. If we can anyhow connect ourselves with Nityānanda and Śrī Gaurāṅga and Their genuine followers, then automatically we shall find that one day I'm in my home. They're home taker - in one word - come from home to recruit us.

Sudhīra Goswāmī is asked to publish another book very soon, Lord's Search For His Lost Servants. Loving Search For The Lost Servant.

Caitanyadeva, Nityānanda Prabhu, They came in loving search for the lost servant, that is Their campaign. And anyhow we're to connect with Them, and we shall find in no time we'll reach our home.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Swāmī Mahārāja, our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura foretold, Guru Mahārāja began the attempt to preach this loving gospel to the whole world. And Swāmī Mahārāja has done it successfully. And as the result you have come to me also, though sitting idly passing my time here. But this is my Gurudeva's, and Mahāprabhu's advice. And you try to connect with this. No other best utility of time can be than to connect with such advice of Mahāprabhu. And that is with the spirit of service.

Die to live. Hegelian philosophy. We shall have to give up wholesale our present position so that we can go there and live in another life. This is the life of enjoyment, in the middle the life of renunciation, and then dedication, service. And then the self forgetful loving service is the highest position where we find the Lord as Kṛṣṇa. And His group also in different ways. Motherly, parental group, the friendly group, and then the consort group. Different groups they're rendering service in.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. I'm sick, can't say more. So many books are there. And also so many devotees are there. In their connection you'll try to have this sort of realisation in your life. I wish you all good. I can't say any longer.

Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

Badrinārāyaṇa: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...proposal, in my order, in my desire.

So soul's nearness is not like physical body. From far away we may be near if we're of same plan and same aim of life, object of life - we're nearby. Physically may be far away. But physically may be very near but if mentally or spiritually we're away, we're far, far off, away.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.
So Cidānanda prabhu may come?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Cidānanda told he may not be able to come.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yudhāmanyu?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yudhāmanyu, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vikrama?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Seva Vikrama prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He'll come?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, he told he will come.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. No trace of that Balarāma?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Balarāma, no. I was just thinking about him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.
And Nitya-sevā dāsī, and her brother?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Her brother, that Sajjana Mahārāja. Bhakti Mohan Sajjana Mahārāja. He's in Mexico.
There's one disciple in New York named Madhura Dhuti, he's coming. He's connected with Nitya-sevā, they're together coming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. That Subavilasa?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Subavilasa told he's going to bring his family and come, to reserve one room. So we're waiting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. And Gāyatrī?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Gāyatrī is in Śrī Laṅkā. She went to London and was sick for some time and then went back to Śrī Laṅkā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To make a business?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Some hotel, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In her mother's connection?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. But we heard that she's now exhausted of that hotel business. She's exhausted with that, wants to give it up.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Tapana Nandinī's husband?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Gaura Caraṇa prabhu. They're both coming. Tapana Nandinī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Caraṇa - husband?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who paid, in some extraordinary position, some money?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Oh. Yadu Nandinī. Braja Bihārī prabhu. They'll have to stay in London and take care of the temple while other devotees come for Gaura Pūrṇimā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When necessity to pay the instalment for the house, that gentleman paid some handsome...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Oh. Trīlokanatha, that is the husband of Kundalatā. Yes, he's well, Trīlokanatha prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi. Nitāi. Kṛṣṇa. And what about that Ireland farm?

Badrinārāyaṇa: I haven't heard anything about that. Gopeśvara prabhu he came to London and was helping Dayādhara Gaurāṅga prabhu for some time. But no fresh news about that farm.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That gentleman who is trying to take Acyuta-gotra [?] for his treatment?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Now maybe Bhāratī Mahārāja wants to take him to America, no more to Ireland.

86.07.17.A_20.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: How can we get into harmony, because there are so many desires we have in our hearts and our soul _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: In harmony with what? With the environment?

Devotee: Yes. For the devotees. Although we have so many desires.

Badrinārāyaṇa: She says Mahārāja, "We have so many desires, and also the environment is giving some trouble. How can we live in harmony? Practically, how can we..." - like that?

Devotee: Yes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: ...live in harmony with the devotees, the environment?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is included what I have said. We may have desire - if our desire is strong then it will stand so many oppositions from different directions of different conceptions. And so many things that are desirable, undesirable. Sometimes we may be praised by a particular party for our activity. Sometimes there are some sections that will discourage us and that will abuse us. Everywhere such things are there. Wherever, in whatever way we shall work such remarks of different type is sure to come. Here also like that. Those that can appreciate they'll encourage us. And those that have no faith they'll discourage. It is quite natural.

So we're to rely on the appreciation of the Vaiṣṇavas. Vaiṣṇave pratiṣṭhā tate kora nista [?] The opinions of the devotees that will have value to us.

And worldly people they do not understand the value of high spiritual life, they will naturally discourage. "But what, they're wasting their life, they're running after phantasmagoria, will-of-the-wisp." That will be their remark. "Their only imagination, God means a kind of imagination, leaving this world of reality you are running after."

But the higher standard people thinking that die to live, like Hegel. Dissolve your whole ego here, that you are a master, you can do this, that. Wholesale death and you'll peep in the other world - your soul. The Vaiṣṇava will appreciate, and the avaiṣṇava, or non devotee, they will depreciate, they will discourage, and they will cast so many bad names also to us. But one who understands his heart is satisfied, he won't care for those remarks, good or bad. He'll go, "I feel this, I can see with my inner eye that this is true, this is good. And I must march on, onward." Won't care for other's remark, but they'll have all regard for the remark of the Vaiṣṇava, of the devotees. "Whether in their consideration whether I'm good or bad. We shall give value to the appreciation or depreciation of the devotees, those that are taking stand in this spiritual truth, what they remark. If they say this is wrong I shall be very careful to correct me in that way, the experts opinions. Ordinary peoples opinion has got no value. But the experts and their department, their opinion has got value. If they put some remark I must analyse that way that I'm doing good or bad. I shall ask his help and I shall correct myself, and from purer to purer I shall move. That should be the policy. Vaiṣṇave pratiṣṭhā. Remark of the Vaiṣṇava, that will be valuable to me. And not of the ordinary people, their opinion has no value because they're in darkness.

yasyāṁ [jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ]

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

They're awake in another field, and the devotees are awake in some other field. Spiritual field and material field. So the plane of exploitation, plane of renunciation, and the plane of dedication. Three planes of life. And dedication also of two kinds, one calculative, and higher by love, affection, blind love. That is considered to be the highest. So the spiritual guardians, their opinion must have some value and we shall try to follow that. If anything wrong in their view in me I shall try to leave that, purge out. In this way, the Vaiṣṇave pratiṣṭhā. What they want to become of me I shall try to become like that _____ [?]
It is quite natural, not difficult to understand.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

gurur na sa syāt sva jano na sa syāt, pitā na sa syāj jananī na sā syāt daivaṁ na tat syān na patiś ca sa syān, na mocayed yaḥ samupeta mṛtyum

[Ṛṣabhadeva says: "Even a spiritual master, relative, parent, husband, or demigod who cannot save us from repeated birth and death should be abandoned at once."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.5.18]

That father is not father, that guru is not guru, that relative is not relative, that husband is not husband, that god is not god, who cannot save me from continuous current of death. I'm always undergoing the mortal energy, I'm a prey to that always. Who cannot relieve me from that general danger of life, he's not my own. Who can do so he's my own. So if necessary I can leave everyone of such high order related to me. My father, my mother, my spiritual guide - so-called, my husband, my worship-able god - demigod, all...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the full meaning of every incident not possible for us to know. It's only known to Him. And whatever known to others, that is by His grace. That basic principle we try to understand. Then come with questions.

And Dayādhara had many questions. From the embryo, the child in the womb.
"How knowledge grows from there?" He had this question. "The child from the womb, with the growth of the flesh the knowledge is growing, so how can you say like that?"

We're discovering many things, inventing many things. And what you invent, you discover, do you create or it's already there? So many scientists they're discovering, inventing many things, but it's already there. So full consciousness outside. A little bit you've got in your brain. What petty things you've got in your brain, you human, you Einstein, you Newton? How much you've got? What you're discovering it's already in full there. And many wonderful things that you cannot reach even today. So many wonderful things already - the nature is full of wonders. And the whole brain of the scientist world is benumbed, puzzled. So that is not a lack of consciousness there outside. Only we're poor.

Subjective evolution, try to understand this, not Darwin's objective evolution. As the subject coming gradually being developed by the stone developing knowledge. No. Stone is floating in the ocean of consciousness, everything, floating in the ocean of consciousness. The consciousness is the basic thing, presupposes everything. Whatever you'll say presupposes consciousness. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A stone, stone means what? A particular stage of consciousness. You feel this as hard, and this that, or this, this. All a stage of consciousness. So whatever you'll assert presupposes consciousness. Just as the reflection in the mirror, all the reflections presupposes the mirror. Mirror is there, so the reflection. So consciousness is there, so concepts of various kinds is there, floating.

As Berkeley's theory, that is nearer. Hegel, Berkeley. That Berkeley's philosophy. "Not that mind is in the world, but world is in the mind."

Everything floating in the ocean of consciousness. Consciousness is the basic background. Brahman, caitan. It is not created by stone.

Even in the Hindu mythology says that, that eclipse, solar eclipse, lunar eclipse, in the mythology it's mentioned that Rahu is enveloping. Rahu, that is caitan, a person. Though the shadow, a shadow of the earth is on the moon, so moon eclipsed. But the shadow in the material sense, and our feeling of the shadow that is a part of our consciousness. We cannot go beyond that. All experience, all feeling is part of our consciousness. Consciousness means person, part of consciousness is a person, part of consciousness means soul, part of consciousness. So everything is caitan.

We're to forget the world of flesh and blood, what of stone and earth, even flesh and blood we must rise above, the standard of thinking flesh and blood. Always try to stay in the conscious world. In Bhāgavatam it says, tvaṁ tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imāṁ jahi

[na jātaḥ prāg abhūto 'dya, deha-vat tvaṁ na naṅkṣyasi]

["O King, give up the animalistic mentality of thinking: "I am going to die." Unlike the body, you have not taken birth. There was not a time in the past when you did not exist, and you are not about to be destroyed."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.5.2]

After, in the conclusion, Śukadeva says to Parīkṣit Mahārāja, "Give up that mania that you are this body. This is animal consciousness. 'I'm body. I shall die.' The body will die, and you won't die with the body. You try to maintain your own self consciousness. The body may vanish, may go away, but you are there constant. Try to understand your position. Independent of this flesh and blood you stay, you soul. Why do you allow yourself to identify with this flesh and blood? That is māyā, misconception, and give up that misconception, that is disease of the soul."

Do you follow, can't?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Paśu-buddhim imāṁ jahi. This animal consciousness that you will die. The body dies. Just like a coat or jersey. The serpents they - the whole cover of their body sometimes they leave and come out of that. Serpent you know, have you heard?

Devotee: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The serpent, the whole cover of the body of the serpent is there, and the serpent has come out of that, that old cover. So like the body will go, but inner man is there, in this way. The mental body is there, and the mental body also cover, relative to this physical body. So both can go and you'll come out in pristine glory of your own spiritual position. And all your paraphernalia is also like so. You're a member of the spiritual world, soul world, conscious world. The whole disease is there, jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] To be, I'm eternal, to think I shall be born, I shall die, this is like disease, mental disease. Cure yourself from this mental disease. Try to keep up your consciousness, you won't die. You identify with your consciousness, you are there, diametrically opposite.

You see the cloud is covering the moon. Cloud is seen with the light of the moon. But that cloud which is seen by the light of the moon, covers the moon. So material consciousness has covered our soul. But though everything only in our knowledge by the help of the soul, that spirit. That light is there.

We're there, so ham, not we're identified with this present body or mind. So much learning, and so much feeling, that mental body and the spiritual body. Independent of that we've got our existence and that is our normal position. Anyhow we're focused to this sort of misunderstanding. This is māyā. Māyā, mā yā, what is not that _____ [?] We're seeing everything, measuring by our lower interest, not from universal standpoint. But everything we see measured by our own mean interest.

So real purpose of every movement is known to the Absolute Centre. Ha, ha, ha. And we're to know nature of things from there, śrauta-panthā, revealed process, revealed scriptures. What our eyes say, our knowledge says, sense, it's not truth. Whatever comes, direction from there, we're to believe that. And what is our direct experience we're to deny that. We're to learn to deny that if it's not like this, is wholesale wrong. So revealed truth, what is revealed to us, that this is the purpose of things.

Now, with this light you try to readjust your questions. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

One gentleman he came here to learn, put some questions and know the meaning. He will write books, comparative study of religion. The man came.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Long time ago.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who? Then after hearing some lectures he gave up the idea. First know yourself. Physician cure thyself. First know the real standpoint then write.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Bhargava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhargava. Where is he now?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He's in America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is he doing? Writing books?

Badrinārāyaṇa: I think last I heard he was trying to make some movie about that Eidlitz. Sadānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Know before you give. Have before you give. So,

[bhārata-bhūmite haila manuṣya-janma yāra], janma sārthaka kari' kara para-upakāra

["One who has taken his birth as a human being in the land of India should make his life successful and work for the benefit of all other people [by preaching Nāma-saṅkīrtana, the chanting of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 9.41]

Mahāprabhu says, first know thyself and then give it to others, that knowledge.
Do you follow what I say?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Try to understand that. Come to adjustment with this conception of the world, whole. That Berkeley's theory, everything in the whole world floating in the mind, a part of mind. Mind is the original. But we shall say mind also worldly thing, soul is original. That is of another type, not like mind. Pure consciousness, no contamination of this world. Then that can take us towards higher subjective area. Super subjective area, super, super, super, in this way. Subjective, the word subjective you try to understand. Not objective evolution, we're compelled to feel something, no.

Just like hypnotising process. "Oh, are you seeing this?"
"Yes, I'm seeing."
"No, no, you're not seeing this, you're seeing that."
"Yes, I see that."
The control, the seer is controlled.

Devotee: I studied hypnotism myself in the west.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He studied hypnotism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, apply that. So as in Bhagavad-gītā, Arjuna was forced to see as directed by Kṛṣṇa. "See Me. See Me. See Me."
"Yes. I see You. I see You that side."

In the assembly of Kuru, just before the war of the Pāṇḍavas and Duryodhana, Kṛṣṇa wanted as a peacemaker He tried. When He was there the party they wanted that, "Kṛṣṇa is all in all in the Pāṇḍavas, so we've got the chance, we shall imprison Him now." So wanted to catch Him.

And He showed Himself in such a way that they're all perplexed. And what to speak of binding Him they're all embarrassed. At that time they began, many ṛṣis, munis, they began to talk of His supernatural appearance.

At that time the blind man Dhṛtarāṣṭra was there, he told, "Oh, Kṛṣṇa, I'm hearing that You are showing such a figure that they're all charmed to find Your particular position, Your figure. But please, for the time being, remove my blindness. I want to see You. Then You will again make me blind."

Then Kṛṣṇa told, "No removal of your blindness is necessary. I say 'you see Me' you'll be able to see."

Then Dhṛtarāṣṭra, keeping his blindness he could see Him. He could see Him when Kṛṣṇa granted that sight. "No necessity of removing your blindness. Only I order to the nature you'll be able to see Me."

Such is the thing, by His will. Without removing blindness He showed Dhṛtarāṣṭra His own figure. No blindness was required to be removed. Then what sort of eye experience? That was eye experience. Without eye, the eye experience was given to Dhṛtarāṣṭra by His will power. What is this?

He clearly stated, "No necessity of removing your blindness. Your blindness will be kept up as it is. I say you will see Me." And he saw.

The whole battle was seen by Arjuna and Sañjaya. All this Divyarūpa was seen by Sañjaya, and he's giving description to Dhṛtarāṣṭra. Arjuna and Sañjaya saw that Viśvarūpa, none else.

So what sort of transaction? We're to be acquainted with such laws of things. That this is a meagre position, most crooked and mean conception of the world. Higher and nobler conceptions are there in the world.

Devotee: Some western psychologists they speak about super consciousness and subconsciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, "Some western psychologists they speak of super consciousness, and sub- consciousness, also collective consciousness."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Collective consciousness in the middle, and subconsciousness in the child, and in the fools, ignorant. So many wonders our scientists they invent, but the outside world is full of more, more, wonderful things, which is not yet discovered or invented. So surcharged with wonders.

Our puppy brain - our Guru Mahārāja used to say 'puppy brain.' Our puppy brain, the breadth of a small dog. Puppy brain, how much it can conceive? Nothing. Opposite.

So that must be neglected, eliminated, and we must wait for the revelation coming down. Knowledge, super knowledge coming down to us and illuminate us. We shall wait in that way. Sevonmukhe hi, if we're with serving attitude towards the Centre - Centre will send that sort of illumination to us. New type of standpoint to see everything, to have new experience, new light, new conception, new ideas. Give up your misconception, proper things are like this. It will come down. We cannot control Him, but if we submit and want to serve Him, then only He'll utilise us by giving that knowledge. Knowledge is always subjective.

And also He can make or mar. What is now continuing He may change. Then what we'll do? What is knowledge? He can change the necessary truth also may be changed by His sweet will. What to speak of us, even the creator Brahmā, and persons of that status, they're also puzzled, perplexed to know His ways and means. Whatever He likes He can do. Then how to know Him? His sweet will. And we're to reduce us to that position, quite empty. Whatever He wishes that is true, and what He discards that is false. So nothing in our hand. No law is there, law is a void, law is abolished. We're to be acquainted with such centre of truth. The highest truth is such, free.

Everything for Himself. Die to live. Hegel. Reality is by itself and for itself, and die to live. The wholesale death of our life of experience is necessary. Our life of experience will have to die wholesale, and to peep into a new world of that Autocrat. Whatever He wishes that is true. Truth means His wish, His sweet will, based on His sweet will. So knowing, knowing, no particular nature, everything may be changed by His whim. You're to know that like a gem, touchstone, whatever touches turns into gold. That sort of thing, whatever He likes that comes to happen, that is true. And He discards, no more true. Truth is such. Truth is free, independent, not a matter to be monopolised where we can make trade. Ha, ha. No. No possibility of making any trade with the truth. It is monopoly only of One.

And there is another kingdom of love, affection. If we enter that we can also handle Him, the truth Himself can be managed in another way. Bhakta-parārdhīno. But that is very higher stage. The love can control.

The great general conquered the world war, came home and there is his child. Child is taking by the finger and drawing he's going. The finger of the general caught by his child, his son, and the son is drawing towards some direction and he's going, who has conquered the world war.

Affection, so affection is the highest force to be acquired, Mahāprabhu told. Neither knowledge nor power, so-called, and that is from heart. So jñāna śūnya bhakti, knowledge-less devotion. Reason-less dedication. Try to enter that domain which can control the Absolute.

All these things are fiction, what do you say? More than fiction, more fictitious than fiction?

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. _____ [?] Spoken much. Reaction. Ha, ha.

So revise on this background your questions and come.

This is very important. By Itself and For Itself, and die to live. These Hegel's expressions are very useful, to make us understand the position of the Absolute world. Completely we're to die, then we're to awake in another world, of the Autocrat.

Ha, ha. I was told that one Persian king went to London. And he was shown many important historic places. He was taken to the guillotine where the person is killed. Previously in a prison they used to put his head and some...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Some sharp blade.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, come and beheaded. The Persian king was shown that place, then the Persian king asked the persons, "Show one man, how you kill, you just please show."

They were surprised. "What does the man say? For his pleasure one man should be put there and beheaded?"

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They were astonished. When they told that, "No, this is not the law. We can't do for your satisfaction we can't give a life here."

"Oh. You do not know the position of a king here? Then you take one of my persons, I'm giving. I've got so many slaves, to satisfy my whim, so many are there, take one of them."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, "It's also not possible, not allowed by the law of the country that your person may be, through such whims of the autocrat."

Our lives cannot have such value also, no position. And more than that, die to live. No individual interest has got any value, rather, minus value. Our individual interest has got minus value. Then to go, die, then to live. This is an example of autocracy I told you, intolerable autocracy. The autocracy in the highest degree, but that gives our real interest is there, by accepting that death we can live there.

So wonderful. God works wonders. Every movement of His is wonderful. We're to approach towards Him with this idea. Everything, urukrama, adbutkrāma. Whose every step is wonderful, adbutkrāma. One of His Names is adbutkrāma in Vāmana Avatāra. By one step He occupied the world. Another step the whole heaven. So urukrama, adbutkrāma, that of wonderful stride. Every step is wonderful to us. We're to live there, in the midst of all wonders.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nava-yauvana, every moment new experience coming. Life is such, progressing, that every second new experience coming. Prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Every moment brings you new type of satisfaction, of ocean by name, every second, new type of satisfaction or joy coming full. This is full, again, new full is coming, again, new full coming. All full, perfect. Infinite minus infinite that is infinite. Plus infinite is infinite. Infinite into infinite is infinite. The land of infinite.

86.07.20.B_21_24_28

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Every moment we shall feel that we're in the perfect position. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Experience connection with the Infinite means so. So you'll be nowhere, ha, ha, a particle in the ocean. Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Ocean of joy, and you are a particle of atom in the water. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ prati-padaṁ pūrṇāmṛtāsvādanaṁ, sarvātma-snapanaṁ. At the same time you'll feel you're being purified. Your purification is going on still, more and more progress. Sarvātma snapanaṁ. Not only you, but everyone coming in your connection. Paraṁ vijayate śrī-kṛṣṇa-saṅkīrtanam. Our culture of the infinite joy, that nature is such. Our joy of the infinite, happiness of the infinite.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. So die to live. Ha, ha. Hegel. A very good expression. Take the risk of dying. Ha, ha, ha. Giving up all prejudice. What we've acquired in experience of this world, all false prejudice. False prejudice, that is always hindering my progress, proper understanding, and proper progress of life. All these prejudices to give up. And by the company of the sādhu, association of the saint, and the scriptures, we're to enter into new domain of life, giving up all these, like disease. Avidyā, vyādhi, we're diseased persons, all patients.

So Mahāprabhu says, "Whomever you meet, inject Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Do this. As long as you live, whomever you meet you inject Kṛṣṇa consciousness, talk of Kṛṣṇa, nothing else. Talk of Kṛṣṇa, as the sweet centre, talk of the sweet centre. Whomever you meet, don't waste your time...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...again He has to come and clear the atmosphere and put in new form again.

...making it filthy. I shall stop now. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...we must get quotation from the previous scriptures and prepare. One Vaiṣṇava _____ [?] all the devotees of this line, rāgānūga bhakti. And also try to give proper interpretation, the deeper interpretation of all the scriptures, to show that Kṛṣṇa līlā in Vṛndāvana that is not temporary, accidental, but that is eternal, in a particular, highest plane. And the highest plane, that display of loving service is reigning. And that was shown in particular time, Dvāpara-yuga, here in Vṛndāvana. Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa nitya līlā koiliya prakāśa.

But it's not for the time being, it's eternally going on. And that was shown here in a particular time in this material world. All these things were being instructed to keep for the mission, for the section, for the particular group of rāgānūga sampradāya who do not care for any other means, but wants to attain the highest end through love. Through love, reaching the loving domain, and that is the fulfilment of life. Neither knowledge nor power, nor exploitation nor renunciation, can give proper fulfilment of life, all these. Only loving service that can fulfil, must have some duty, some engagement. And what is that? In the normal stage beyond misconception, that is mutual loving cooperation with the head. The central head - under His direction, with His connection, the loving mutual service. Neither stop, or renunciation. Neither elevation attempt, by power to subjugate others and to get enjoyment from them, neither that. Nor stop of living current, entering into samādhi, like dreamless sleep, something like samādhi, the stop of living process, no. Bhukti, mukti. But a dynamic life, not of exploitation but of loving service, under the regulation of the Centre. Home, home. Back to God, back to home. In home, all are interested with the interest of all. So that is in the purest sense there. That was His mission, Mahāprabhu's mission. And the Goswāmīs were entrusted to form a particular sampradāya section to facilitate their realisation in that direction. Ke?

Of course energy is at the back of everything, but, ha, ha, consciousness, Vāsudeva. Vāsudeva represents consciousness. And the Saṅkarṣaṇa representing willpower. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca. Three phases, thinking, bala means willing, and krīya - līlā means hlādinī. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca. Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma, and Rādhārāṇī. Jñāna, bala, krīya. And sandhīnī representing Balarāma. Sandhīnī, saṁvīt, hlādinī. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca. Feeling, thinking, willing. Generally three phases of the substance. Energy represented by Baladeva. And enjoyer represented by Kṛṣṇa, Vāsudeva. And līlā, enjoyment, is Rādhārāṇī Herself. That is love. Baladeva, a phase of Kṛṣṇa. So Predominating and Predominated. Proton and neutron.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Electron.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Baladeva included as the foundation basis on which the pastimes of the Both are going on. Sandhīnī, saṁvīt, pradhāna. All is in all, but main thing, main characteristic, is like this, all is inseparably connected with all.

...

It has been said in the scriptures repeatedly that whatever little freedom we have got, we're to utilise it in association of us with the Vaiṣṇava and the revealed scripture. Sādhu śāstra. Little liberty we've got, and that should be utilised for the, whatever we can do, the service, our serving attitude, association in a serving spirit with revealed scripture, śāstra, and living scripture, sādhu, saint, devotee. Anyhow to associate with devotee and śāstra. That is extended here on behalf of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, in this mortal world, in these both ways. In the form of the revealed scriptures, and in the form of the living devotee. In these two ways the connection has been extended of Kṛṣṇa to us. Anyhow we're to take advantage of these two.

The scripture, that is something positive, we're to read and we're to extract meaning from there. But the saint, living scripture, that is more important. They can say, "No, what you say - going this way, no, no, come this way." So generally saints, that is spiritual persons, devotees of Kṛṣṇa, they're our hope. And that must be, association must be that of serving attitude. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

Anything about the higher sphere, any connection about the super consciousness - we're conscious unit. Kṛṣṇa and His domain on the super conscious area. So only with serving spirit, to be utilised for His interest, we can get association. If we want to enjoy, to exploit, necessarily we have lower connection whom we can control and we can enjoy. Necessarily that must be of lower status. And if we want higher status we shall be - approach as a servant to satisfy Him.

Die to live. If we want to live that sort of life we're to die as we are, that is, our ego should be dissolved. We must retire from here and try to join the superior agency, supernatural, super conscious area. He's knower, I'm known, I'm object, and He's subject. In this way we're to approach. He's subject, He's owner, He's proprietor. I'm slave, I'm servant, I'm object of His enjoyment. Subjective side we shall have. If we think ourselves to be subject we'll come in the relativity of the object, material. But if we want higher association that is super subject and I shall be object there, to satisfy, object of His satisfaction. He'll utilise me. I'll be satisfied there. He will handle, and I shall allow to be handled by Him in any way He likes. To be a play doll in His hand, in their hand, the Vaiṣṇava. Those that are in the superior area they will use us as their play doll. And by accepting that sort of life we can only go up, to be handled by their interest, and to give up our own present lower conception of interest. We do not know what prospect we've got within, svarūpa. All our inner demands may be satisfied only by His connection, inner demands. We're now overpowered by our outer demands and we're guided by that force. That is mind, mental force, like that. Mental means that is connection with this material world, the world of enjoyment. Above this the plane of renunciation, that is marginal position, neither this nor that, margin.

But crossing that margin we're to be a doll to be played in their hands for their interest, for their satisfaction. There lies our inner satisfaction. If we're handled by the Vaiṣṇava, Kṛṣṇa devotees, and Kṛṣṇa śaktis, our life will be on the whole like that, at their disposal, a play doll at their disposal. To be play at the whim of Kṛṣṇa, the Autocrat, the Absolute Good. Absolute is no lower in power to anyone. He's all powerful. In every way He's very, very high. And we're small, if we want His connection fully we're to surrender to His sweet will, to be played by the current of His good will. And His devotees also who know how to serve Him, the experts in that world, to be played by them, allow ourselves to be slave.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'
[kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa']

["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him. The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

Nitya-dāsa means slave. By constitution, by creation, we're His slave. And if we go back to home, from this artificial world, artificial life, then we shall find we're His slave. And that feeling is the highest ecstasy for us. We can get our highest satisfaction there. "Oh, we're so high. We're accepted by the Absolute in His service, a dignified position." To become slave to the Absolute Good is a dignified position. Here we hate the name slave. Slavery here, that is to be contemptible, hateful. But slave of that noble, highest nobility, that is very high dignified position. Even the higher agency here, Brahmā, Mahādeva, others, they all aspire after that position. They all, the highest personality we can conceive from here, they all aspire after that position of a slave, that is so high. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So that is the main question, how we can utilise us, our energy, that we may - that unknown and unknowable region, how can we, may be led there? So it's said that sādhu saṅga, sādhu śāstra kṛpa.

sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya yadi kṛṣṇonmukha haya, sei jīva nistare, māyā tāhāre chāḍaya

["If the conditioned soul becomes Kṛṣṇa conscious by the mercy of saintly persons who voluntarily preach scriptural injunctions and help him to become Kṛṣṇa conscious, the conditioned soul is liberated from the clutches of māyā, who gives him up."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.120]

Then the illusory misconception will gradually withdraw from us. That association, that is the door to enter, the sādhu saṅga, the spiritual saints, devotees. Their association is the door to enter that world of infinite love and devotion. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Anything? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Any other question? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What does she say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: How can we prevent separation from the devotees by pride? Pride sometimes separates us from the association of the devotees. How can we prevent this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In every case of our progress there are so many hinderances. Whatever line we want to make any progress there must be some sort of hinderance. And to have the patience to remove that hinderance, that obstacle on the way, that patience is necessary. And that comes from sukṛti underlying. We also come to proper saint, that also comes from underground development. And here also that we shall be able to stand the opposition of any type, that requires the fundamental strength, and that comes from sukṛti. Sukṛti is of two kinds, jñāta and ajñāta, from known and unknown, two kinds. Then ādau śraddhā, it has been located from this stage, as the lowest stage, most fundamental stage of devotion, has been given the name of śraddhā. Śraddhā means faith, sudṛḍha niścaya...

[śraddhāḥ – sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya]

["By performing transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, one automatically performs all secondary activities. This confident, firm faith, that is favourable to the execution of devotional service is known as śraddhā."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

...that firm faith that if we do my duty towards Kṛṣṇa, towards the centre, then everything will be done, all the duties will be satisfied. But whether this conception what I'm hearing from particular saint, it is real or unreal, śraddhā, my regard to a saint or to a particular group of scriptures, the cause is underground. And that underground conception is of two kinds, jñāta sukṛti, ajñāta sukṛti. The most fundamental is ajñāta sukṛti, unconsciously we're utilised for the service of the saint or scripture, unconsciously.

I've prepared a garden, and a real sādhu comes and takes flowers and offers to Kṛṣṇa. My energy is utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa through him unconsciously, I did not know. Or there's a tank, I've dug a tank, and that water is used by a saint. And as so many ways that is being utilised, but if it's utilised by a proper devotee then that comes to me. Because my energy invested there and that energy is being utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa through that devotion, devotee. So something as reaction coming to me.

And when that is accumulated then creates a mental stage, that when I find that class of sādhu, saint, devotee, then purposely, consciously, I go to offer some help to him. "Oh, you, sādhu, come to my house, take prasādam here." All these things, or I offer some dress or something to him, then this is jñāta sukṛti.

First ajñāta sukṛti, unconsciously my energy utilised by the saint for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Then above that consciously I do something through the sādhu towards Kṛṣṇa. And when that reaction is accumulated in a proper magnitude it produces a faith that if I do service to Kṛṣṇa all duties are satisfied.

If we put food into the stomach then whole body will be fed. Put food into the root of the tree the whole tree will be fed. This sort of awakening will come in my mind and I shall be encouraged to do that. Sarva-dharmān parityajya [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] Ananya bhakti, in this way. If that sukṛti is of stronger character then I shall be able to stand any opposition, either from inside or from outside, and go on in my way. That will help me, my previous activity. Or if it is flickering, of very lower standard thing, then whatever little association I get that is accumulated but does not help me immediately to start on that way, not so much sufficient.

Something I got, then in the next birth or next birth, again I shall get connection and allowed to go. That may be our stage. So previous sukṛti, that can help us to stand any obstacles that come on the way towards our journey towards Kṛṣṇa. Or towards our journey to have association of the devotees. And to stand also to hear the explanation of the revealed scriptures and that talk about Kṛṣṇa, or such higher things. That background is created unknowingly and somewhat half knowingly. Then consciously it comes to that stage and we'll be able to stand any obstacle, any hinderance, any opposition, if I've got such strength in my - that depends on that firmness and tenacity comes from that.

sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the Guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads."]
[Bṛhan-Nāradīya Purāṇa]

Sat-saṅgaḥ, the association of the devotees we get from our previous karma, previous utilisation of our energy. Sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ. So sukṛti of two kinds, known and unknown. Unconsciously also we may be cause to the service of Kṛṣṇa. And then after half knowingly we can utilise our energy for their service, not direct, indirect way. Then direct connection comes, we've got śraddhā, regard for Kṛṣṇa, and we take the risk of journey towards Him. And as much as real association we get, we get the connection. Whatever little knowledge we've got about them we're encouraged and go further with more rapidity. In this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...eternal dissipation, he's my friend. Amṛtam, that is this spiritual good, and free from all mortal connection. Those suffering from this mortal aspiration acquisition, we're to eliminate those so called well wishers. Themselves are under the influence of mortal prosperity, we're to reject them.

And only the value of the remark of the higher that are in the real spiritual path, we shall take their, hear, listen to their advice, and try to correct me accordingly. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Bali Rāja gave up Guru Śukrācārya's advice. Prahlāda he had no recognition about his father's advice. Bharata he left his mother because she went against Rāmacandra. Khatvanga Rāja left the grace of the demigods. Vibhiṣana he left his elder brother Rāvaṇa because he went against Rāmacandra. The yajña patnis in Mathurā they left the advice of their husbands and went to have a darśana of Kṛṣṇa nearby in the jungle. Afterwards they were appreciated by their husbands.

Whenever any collision in our way we shall avoid them and go boldly towards our goal, guided by the real Spiritual Master. And we must feel also, hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto.

[vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ
hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]
[Manu-saṁhitā, 2.1]

Manu says what is religion. "Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ. The experts in revealed scriptures, not any books in the mortal world, empirical world, revealed scripture experts. Vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ. Sadbhir. Nityam adveṣa -rāgibhiḥ. And the saints that have no aspiration after any good or bad, always in balance, they can appreciate the value of the revealed scripture. Sadbhir. Nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ. Hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto. And the internal heart's approval that has also a place, higher place, the approval of the inner heart. Hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto. Yo dharmas taṁ. I'm going to talk about that sort of duty. Please hear attentively." The great Manu says this. The inner approval of the heart, that we shall also get.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] I have perfect faith in Avadhūta Mahārāja's endeavour. His movement, his thinking, I appreciate very much. So whatever he'll advise you, you may take it my advice. I've got so much confidence in him, his sincerity, and his adherence to me as well as to Mahāprabhu. I've got full faith in him. So you can accept his guidance heartily. That is my advice to you.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Whatever is done with the sincere will of spreading the teachings of Mahāprabhu that is well and good.

yāre dekha, tāre kaha ['kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa
kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

"Wherever, whomever we shall find we shall talk about Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is such universal lover, and owner, the Absolute Lord of everyone. So wherever, whenever, every time, whether I'm lying, whether I'm taking food, or talking in this way, every time try to connect with Kṛṣṇa."

This is Mahāprabhu's direction. This mortal world, the highest, not only mortal but immortal, nectar, try to connect every mortal being with Kṛṣṇa. The highest centre of love. Connect every atom, every point, whatever you come across in your movement. So that should be done by a sincere devotee. He will try his best to connect Kṛṣṇa with everything. Whole time may be utilised in connection of Kṛṣṇa, that Universal Lord of love. In other words, we should try to distribute Kṛṣṇa to every heart that are suffering from mortality here, save them. Save them, spreading the talk of that loving Lord. The common Lord of highest love, connect with Him. That will be the highest solution of every life, to come in His connection.

So as much as done for Him to spread His connection, His association, that is to be appreciated. Every atom should be appreciated. So we must be sincere. We must not be in a diplomatic way, we must not seek our own material aspiration, material gain, that should be eliminated. The pure, for Kṛṣṇa, for Guru, for sādhu, with that spirit whatever will be done that is useful. Not only to me, not only to the association, but to the whole world, to give infinite good in the finite world, or connect, as much as we can do.

If in a famine, any pain, as much food as we can distribute to the needy it is so much better. The dearth of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, real love of the Lord, so here is famine. And we shall try to give that nectar connection, to distribute the nectar to one and all we meet. Not only the human beings, but by doing this so many trees, animals, insects, they also may be utilised, benefited, they can also get. The milk we get we offer to the Lord, the cow is benefited. The flowers we take go to the Lord, the tree is benefited. In any way we use this or that, whatever we do, water, anything, there that sukṛti comes and gives some sort of connection towards Kṛṣṇa, and one day they'll be there.

As agent, try to work as the agent of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, or Kṛṣṇa affection, or Kṛṣṇa love, of the higher order as gopī. That degree, that quality of love what the gopīs have, very rare valuation. That connection should be given to one and all. We shall be agents for that, wholesale agents. And we'll get remuneration for that agent's work in terms of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, love of Kṛṣṇa, we shall be paid for our labour to distribute it to the others. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. You're doing for me, and I also want all good will of you all that I can utilise your energy for that great Lord. Mahāprabhu, and Kṛṣṇa, and the gopīs, Rādhārāṇī, through my Gurudeva, that your energy may not go in vain, but through me may go to that higher plane, highest plane rather. Your good will of you all.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

You have come to the Dhāma now. Here if we've got that sort of divine eye, divine feeling of the soul, then we shall feel how this Navadwīpa Dhāma where most generously the divine love was distributed to the world by Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu and Their friends. And this is Gupta Govardhana, and where Mahāprabhu came after sannyāsa, and the most sinful person he was also pardoned, got forgiveness from Him.

kuliyā-grāmete āsi' śrī-kṛṣṇa-caitanya / hena nāhi, yā 're prabhu nā karilā dhanya

["At Koladvīpa - the Govarddhana Hill of Vṛndāvana, concealed in Śrī Navadvīpa Dhāma - the Most Generous Absolute expressed Himself in His maximum generosity. Without considering any crime, He absolved whoever He found. He accepted them all."] [Caitanya-Bhāgavat: Antya, 3.541]

The most heinous sinners and criminals they all got release by the grace of Mahāprabhu from their offences, and they were all taken up. Kuliyā, this aparādha-bhañjan-pāṭ, is especially famous for forgiveness for the great criminals, this place, here we are.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?]
With my good wishes to you all, I want to retire. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...towards our march. Absolute Centre. Die to live. Complete surrender, according to the degree of surrendering that depends our progress. Die to live. Reality for Itself. Everything for Him. We're for Him. We have got no individual enterprise, but everything will be merged in Him.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

All duties must be given up. Not only these legal duties, lawful duties in the worldly sense, all must be given up. He has got an absolute claim over me. With this spirit we're to approach Him.

yathā taror mula niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopaśākhāḥ
prānopahārāc ca [yathendriyānāṁ, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā]

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

Just as if you pour water into the root, whole tree is fed. Put food into the stomach, whole body is fed. Not put food into the eye, to the head, to the leg, only stomach. Stomach will distribute properly according to the necessity. Our duty will be to put food into - tathaiva acyutejyā.

...

...service of Acyuta is of this type.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ [karma-bandhanaḥ
tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

Otherwise we shall be prey to reaction. If we do otherwise we'll be prey to reaction. But not only to be free but to get health. Only this is the path, put food into the stomach. Just as suppose in this body as an organic whole, if every atom should work for the welfare of the whole system, not for its own or its neighbour.

Or it cannot declare strike also, renunciation. That is also piśāci, like ghost, tyāga - bhoga, tyāga. In industry to take bribe also bad, and to declare strike also bad, bribe and strike. That will lose the interest of the whole country. So as part of organic whole we neither can assert ourselves for our welfare, nor we can declare strike, that renunciation, samādhi, mukti. Bauddha, Śaṅkara, they declare mukti, that is cessation of all activity.

The Vaiṣṇava philosophy says, "No. Neither renunciation, nor enjoyment. Exploitation and renunciation both equally bad. Only smooth working for the centre, that is the normal position, otherwise we're abnormal."

So "Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. Give up all conceptions of duties however holy it may seem to you. Come to Me."

Every atom must work for the interest of the whole centre, otherwise paralysis or some disease, every atom. So we're a part of the organic whole, and the Absolute Centre that is loving, that is home, sweet. So no apprehension of any loss of interest for us. The highest interest we can attain only by that method depending on Him. And He's attraction, Kṛṣṇa, He's attracting, and na, He's sending as reaction blissfulness to us, happiness. Loving centre.

Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva told, "Don't lose any time, no time in any other campaign, only that sweet Absolute Centre. Connect yourself, and whomever you meet talk of that connection. Inject that connection, Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa
kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad- gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

Anyhow connection with Kṛṣṇa, the Loving Centre. Another book is being published soon, The Lord's Loving Search For Lost Servant. We have published several books. Have you got that Search For Kṛṣṇa, Reality The Beautiful?

Devotee: I've not been sent any books.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guru And His Grace.

Devotee: I'll get every one today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then The Golden Volcano And Divine Love. Then Gītā is Hidden Treasure, The Sweet Absolute. Swāmī Mahārāja has written Gītā As It Is. And I have published Gītā is Hidden Treasure, The Sweet Absolute. On the background of Gītā the Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa is there. I tried to show this. The sarva dharmān parityajya, etc, so many stanzas in the Gītā shows to take us towards that loving Lord, Kṛṣṇa.

And in the comparison of the devotees, ha, ha, once when I was in Madras, there was one big paṇḍit, Śaṅkara sampradāya, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam he's getting by heart and explaining.

Our friends told, "Will you go to see him? So many big persons, barristers, judges, and other educated persons are going there. Let us go."

One afternoon went there. After this ordinary exchange of respect took my seat there.

Then I asked him, "Who is the greatest devotee, according to you?"

That gentleman told, "Catuḥsana."

Then I kept silent.

Then he asked, "According to your creed?"

"Catuḥsana is the lowest." I told. Naturally there was upheaval.

"Then who is the highest?"

I told from quotation from Bhāgavatam, na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir. Kṛṣṇa Himself saying.

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ
na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān

["Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

Kṛṣṇa saying to Uddhava. "You are My most favourite. Even Brahmā, Śiva, Lakṣmī, Baladeva, even you are more dearer to Me than My Own body." He says that Uddhava was considered to be the highest devotee.

Then Uddhava was sent to Vṛndāvana. And after having a discourse there with Nanda-Yaśodā, and the gopīs especially, when he's coming back, there is a famous stanza in Bhāgavatam.

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām
yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām

["The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

"Oh, what I saw, the love for Kṛṣṇa, of what quality and of what degree, so much intense. I think..." Uddhava says, "I aspire after the grass or a shrub so that the feet dust of these damsels may touch my head. I desire such a birth here in Vṛndāvana."

So that Uddhava whom Kṛṣṇa told Himself, "You're dearer than all, even you're dearer than My Own person," that Uddhava when visiting Vṛndāvana, coming back his declaration, his announcement like that. "I want to be a creeper here so that I may have the feet dust of these great divine damsels."

So the gopīs are the highest, and why? Āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām, yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca. They have given up svajanam, the society, their own in this, and ārya-pathaṁ ca, and the holy path dictated by the scriptures. That also they have left in their way to achieve Kṛṣṇa.

"Kṛṣṇa and myself," - between them neither the śāstra nor the society will come to intervene - "He has got Absolute Right over me. Whatever He likes He can do with me as a doll, a play doll we are. And the śāstra and the samāj, society and the scripture, that is there only to help us to go towards Him, and not come between us."

And that was their principle and with that they approached to serve Kṛṣṇa. This is unique, absolute surrender. So the gopīs are the highest.

In another place of Bhāgavatam it's mentioned, once Kṛṣṇa He, for the test of the devotees, He showed that He's got a headache, severe headache.

Nārada came, "How's my Lord?"

"I'm suffering from severe_____ [?]

"What are we to do, please say?"

"I want the feet dust of My devotees, then I'll be cured."

Then Nārada ran to the queens _____ [?]

"What do you say Nārada? _____ [?] not ordinary person but God Himself. How can we give our feet dust to Him? We'll go to hell eternally. You are also devotee, go, you give feet dust to Him."

Then Nārada came back disappointed.

"What Nārada have you secured?"

"No, no, none coming."

"Nārada, can you go to Vṛndāvana at once."

Nārada of course by his mystic powers went at once to Vṛndāvana.

All came, gathered there. "Nārada, you're coming from Dvārakā?"

"Yes, I'm coming from there."

"How is our Lord?"

"All right, everything. But only at present He's suffering from a headache."

"Then, no treatment?"

"Only feet dust of a devotee, that can cure Him. He Himself said."

"Then, there are no devotees, they did not give feet dust?"

"No, none ventures to give feet dust. So he has sent at last to you."

"Oh, is it so? Give your feet dust, take mine. We do not know who are devotee, who are non devotee. Take at once."

Then Nārada was struck dumb. "What do you say? None approached and you are giving so easily and so eagerly?"

"Yes Nārada. Let there be slight relief for the time being."

"You don't think of it?"

"Yes, anything may come. Eternal hell, we don't care for that. With our whole attention only to keep Him happy, we do not know anything else."

So Nārada took.

In this way the comparison, the degree of sacrifice, self abnegation. And not mere self abnegation but dedication to the loving Lord. And at the beginning is only low inner desire. That is heart transaction. Neither brain, nor hand, power, and nor non stop of these negative activities. That will only have negative result. But positive thing is surrender to Him. _____ [?] Reality is for Itself and by Itself. He's His own cause. If any other thing be the cause then he'll be _____ [?] But for Itself means He's only living for His own satisfaction. If for the satisfaction of a third thing then he'll be greater. So everything for Him. We are for Him. Everywhere, everything, only meant to exist for Him, for His satisfaction. And this is the normal, and what is normal, that can make us happy. All other things are reactionary. The Lord is not only powerful Lord, He's loving with heart, affection. Reality the Beautiful. Sundaram, ānandam, rasam. In this way we can approach Him.

We are from time immemorial we're in the world, sometimes man, sometimes bird, beast, tree. So many stages we have past and become human. And above us there are so many gods and ṛṣis also. But only from the human birth, with the help of the sādhus, we can have direct ticket towards Vṛndāvana, Goloka.

Mahāprabhu told, "Purchase a ticket on the special train that won't stop anywhere but take you there to Vṛndāvana - special train, purchase ticket.

Devotee: Mahārāja. Is it possible to finish all the _____ [?] in this lifetime. To complete the _____ [?] of life and death in this lifetime? Can this be done in this lifetime?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is possible but very rarely possible, though it is possible that in this very life at least we can reach a safe position where we can pass easily towards that. And no end of march.

As much as we'll go, it's infinite, even the gopīs they say, "I've got nothing, we've got nothing. We want more, more." As much the finite is conscious of the Infinite, so he'll say that, "I've got nothing. I've got nothing." As much idea you'll have about the Infinite you cannot but say that, "I've got nothing."

Like Newton, he also told that, "I'm only collecting pebbles on the shore of the ocean of knowledge, the infinite knowledge spread before me."

So as much as you'll go towards Infinite - Mahāprabhu says, na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ [prakāśitum vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

"I've not got a speck of devotion towards My Lord."

"Then why You're weeping so much?"

"Oh, you do not know? Weeping to show to the public I've got love for Kṛṣṇa. I'm so hypocrite."

"Why do You say so?"

"Vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān. Why? I'm sustaining My life in separation, that is positive proof. If I had got real affection for Him I could not stand without Him. But I'm living, I'm eating, I'm taking care of this body, this is proof positive that I have no real affection for Him." Mahāprabhu told.

Rādhārāṇī also said when at Kurukṣetra, in the occasion of solar eclipse. From Dvārakā the party had come here from Vṛndāvana the party had gone. Kṛṣṇa came suddenly to Nanda-Yaśodā and showed His honour to them. Then He managed to meet the gopīs privately. And there He met, and He thought Himself ungrateful towards the gopīs who surrendered themselves to such degree, and He left them and went away. So ungrateful, as if He's coming to touch their feet. "Please forgive Me for My cruelty."

Then Rādhārāṇī says, "What do You do?"

kiṁ pādānte luṭhasi vimanāḥ svāmino hi svatantrāḥ kiñcit kālaṁ kvacid abhiratas tatra kas te 'parādhaḥ [āgas-kāriṇy aham iha yayā jīvitaṁ tvad-viyoge bhartṛ-prāṇāḥ striya iti nanu tvaṁ mamaivānuneyaḥ]

["Why have You fallen disconsolate at My feet? The husband is always independent. He may stay for some time, and then He may also go away. What fault is there on Your part? It is I who am the sinner, for I remained alive even when separated from You. The wife should always consider her husband to be her very life and soul. It is I who should apologise to You."] [Śrī Padyāvalī, part one, text 385]

"Why do You bend so low and come towards us? What do You do? Svāmino hi. You are My Master. You have got every right to go to some other place for some time. The śāstra and the samāj does not abuse You. But āgas-kāriṇy aham iha yayā jīvitaṁ tvad-viyoge. But really I'm sinner, because I'm living, I'm showing My face to the public in separation with You. Your separation, can anyone live by Your separation? But I'm living, so I have no shame. I'm showing My face to the public. I could not die from Your separation. So I'm criminal, I'm sinner." In this way She's representing Herself to Kṛṣṇa.

That this is the sign of love, the ocean, no limit. As much as he'll progress, "No, no, no, I have no love, no love." In this way the finites approach towards Infinite, the nature will be of this type. As much as he'll be able to realise, so much he'll feel, "Oh, Infinite. Infinite."

But in Karachi when I was in preaching tour, one Ārya Samāji leader came to see me. Ha, ha.

"If finite can know Infinite He's no Infinite." He told.

I also told, "If Infinite cannot make Himself known to finite He's no Infinite." With thanks I fled away.

So Infinite can give us ourselves, give Him to us. Both the negative side and the positive side, proton and neutron, two parts of one atom? Negative and positive. The aspiration, hankering, hunger. And another the positive attracting.

Our Guru Mahārāja used to say, "Predominating aspect and predominated aspect." Two aspects of one and the same thing, predominated and predominating. Kṛṣṇa is predominating, and the gopīs on the other side are predominated aspect, two sides.

Mahāprabhu told that, and requested us, "Wherever you go give injection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that loving Lord. All, they're lost in this infinite wandering. Sometimes a man, sometimes this species, that species, even tree."

When we read Manu-saṁhitā we read there this about the trees, as if Manu is weeping.

tamusar bahu rupena vesitar karma hetuna anta sanga bhavanti te sukha duhkha ananyata [?]

"Oh, these trees they're also soul like us. They're also like us, but today just see the result of their own karma. None to be blamed. Karma hetuna. Their own action is the cause of their degraded position as tree. But equal position they've got with us."

So what dangerous thing the karma is guiding us. But only with the help of the agents of my Lord we can go back home. Back to God, back to home. What is home? If I do not take my interest, I do not care to take interest for me, there are so many, they'll all come and take my interest. That is home. The soil is such, if I can reach there then everyone will take care of me, with great affection.

Śrī Caitanyadeva recommended, "Don't stop there, journey only towards Vṛndāvana, the land of divine love. Book yourself for that, and try to purchase any ticket at any price. And with so many agents are moving, and you connect with sad-guru. That if I'm lost, he will try to find out me."

"Where is my boy? Where has he gone? Take him from there and let us go towards Kṛṣṇa. The most serious thing in our life. And as sure as death, because death is there." Death is paśyann api na paśyati.

[dehāpatya-kalatrādiṣv, ātma-sainyeṣv asatsv api teṣāṁ pramatto nidhanaṁ, paśyann api na paśyati]

["Persons devoid of ātma-tattva do not enquire into the problems of life, being too attached to the fallible soldiers like the body, children and wife. Although sufficiently experienced, they still do not see their inevitable destruction."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.4]

Śukadeva says to Parīkṣit Mahārāja. Parīkṣit Mahārāja told, "My longevity is only seven days so I'm in a serious position. Please advise me in that level."

Śukadeva, to our wonder told, "Seven days time is enough." We were astonished to hear. "Seven days time is enough."

Tattva ham jive tavadhi [?] Varaṁ muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate śreyase.

[kiṁ pramattasya bahubhir, parokṣair hāyanair iha
varaṁ muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate śreyase yataḥ]

["Imperceptibly, many, many years pass uselessly in the life of a person intoxicated by mundane pleasures. Better if only for a moment he realises that he is losing valuable time, for he may thus become serious to attain his eternal benefit."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.12]

"Even one moment if we properly live, consciously, that will be - sow the seed of our - not only of immortality, but of the highest attainment. Otherwise, without caring for our own interest, we may live thousands, thousands, crores of years as Himālaya, so many trees, crores of years we're passing, but not fruitful. But only one moment if properly utilised it can help me to satisfy the whole course of my life coming. So such serious position we're all in. So this varaṁ muhūrttaṁ viditaṁ, ghaṭate śreyase yataḥ, if properly utilised, one moment, that will ensure your life my audience."

So, sat-saṅgaḥ śevadhir nṛṇām.

[ata ātyantikaṁ kṣemaṁ pṛcchāmo bhavato 'naghāḥ
saṁsāre 'smin kṣaṇārdho 'pi sat-saṅgaḥ śevadhir nṛṇām]

[King Nimi asked the nine Yogendras: "O sinless ones! We therefore enquire from you about that which is supremely auspicious for all living beings, for in this world of birth and death, association with saints - even for half a moment - is the most valuable treasure in human society."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.30]

Moving in this world the only valuable thing is the association with those holy persons that have got that Kṛṣṇa prema, that divine love in him, and trying to distribute by the Lord's order. To meet such persons and to prepare to go back to home.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Saṁsāre 'smin kṣaṇārdho 'pi sat-saṅgaḥ śevadhir nṛṇām.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Saṁsāre 'smin kṣaṇārdho 'pi. Even the half of a moment can give us immense benefit, the highest benefit, can connect. Otherwise ignorant of our own interest, and our time, and we're passing crores of years, from infinite, anādika. So śāstra is saying like that.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I cannot talk much. The doctor also prohibits. The reaction will come.

Devotee: Thank you very much. We came just to have your darśana so we got that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. You have come, you have not forgotten us. You have come of your own regards. We are very happy to meet you.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your mother when you have taken her so you stay here for a few days, then you'll be satisfied.

Devotee: So next time, we'll come now regularly, we'll come with the children next time in summer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: It's possible to stay one or two days?

Devotee: Not today, no. Tomorrow we have to go. I've got a car there now, a taxi with us, so _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?]
Take some prasāda. Prasāda means the key to our - to open the fortune box.

[jugala-mūrti, dekhiyā mora, parama-ānanda hoya]
prasāda-sevā korite hoya, sakala prapañca jaya

["Beholding the Deity forms of the Divine Couple, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, I feel the greatest joy. By honouring the Lord's Prasāda, I conquer over all worldly illusions."]
[The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 37]

In this sense I've told only that to preserve and propagate, two principles of life which we can't avoid. First principle to preserve, that is to take food. And the next, to propagate, that is to continue the generation. The two principles unavoidable. The first principle of life is to take food, and the solution must be there. If we take anything, that thing, maṁsaḥ, in Manu-saṁhitā we find why the name is maṁsaḥ. Maṁ means myself, saḥ means he. Me, he, what's the meaning? Maṁsaḥ _____ [?] he will eat me, whose flesh I'm eating, the name is maṁsaḥ. Maṁ means me, and saḥ means he. He will eat me. I am eating him. So action, reaction.

We cannot go without food, then what will be the solution? The solution will be to take prasāda. Everything you devote to the centre, and then by His sanction you take. Then not only you'll be entangled with the reaction but you'll be absolved, saved from the past entanglement.

Prasāda-sevā korite hoya, sakala prapañca. The whole created world, this changing world, mortal world, can be conquered only by our proper dealing with the problem of prasāda, which is unavoidable. We must take something, but dedicate it and then take the remaining, thereby you can save yourself from the reaction of those. Because if dedicated to the Lord, they'll also be saved, so I'm helping them. Not only not doing any harm, but by dedicating him to the Lord, he's also benefited. So they cannot have any reaction, but I'll also be saved by that means. Connect with the centre. Centre is such perfect thing.

So Mahāprabhu told, "In this human birth, don't go to benefit yourself in another way. Only try to have connection with the loving centre, Absolute, no other search. Whomever you find, only talk of Kṛṣṇa. Give some connection with Kṛṣṇa, that loving centre."

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Bāl Gaṅgādhar Tilak he has got also a commentary of Bhagavad-gītā. He has written under this śloka ṭīkā that, "In the golden plate, in the last, on the golden plate, the Lord has served nectar." So much hope.

"Wherever you are, whatever position you hold, from there you come to connect Me, I shall embrace you. It does not matter where you are. Sarva-dharmān. There you give up the whole environment absolute, and you offer yourself to Me and I shall take you."

"The greatest hope that's like nectar on the golden dish is served." That Bāl Gaṅgādhar Tilak.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not yet, so go take prasādam.

...proper place, where from that thing of our aspiration is distributed. Anyhow we have come there _ [?]
Two fold, one takes to higher, the Lord of delivery - His own place, Dhāma. And over again where His office of that sort of dispensation, this Koladwīpa, aparādha-bhañjan. Particularly He gave relief from the highest difficulties. The worst sinners, they were also granted forgiveness in this place, aparādha-bhañjan.

Anyhow, from any plea, we have reached that spot, and that is causelessly distributed. So we've got some hope that our bright future is more or less guaranteed. We have come to the right place where from that general forgiveness and recruitment takes place. We're to be recruited for the loving domain of the Lord.

It has been ascertained that generally we're power seekers in this world. All try to get more power, more lord-ship over the environment. But that is reactionary, that is that no power can help us ultimately. Power two fold, material and subtle, mystic power, by yoga siddhi. But that also cannot help us in the long run.

And then the second is our knowledge, to know what things are proper. But the higher existence does not come within the jurisdiction of our subjective position. We cannot make them object of our understanding. Higher existence, super consciousness area, super, super. Super, super, super consciousness. Which is not possible when we understand that jñāna, our knowledge is also considered futile, useless.

Only, we're told, our heart, independent of power and knowledge. Knowledge is also a kind of power, wants to know everything, tries to bring everything within the fist within his own area, under ones own lord-ship. But higher substance, what we are, it is already proved that we're sufferers, so we do not hold the highest position. We're all culprits, we're to suffer for our activities, so we're not the ultimate reality.

So what is ultimate reality, higher reality? If we come to have any connection with Him then something is necessary. And ultimately it's found in our heart, and heart's function is affection and love, heart's function. If we try to understand we shall find that heart's function is affection and love. And by that we can. Affection and love, also that is not of predominating nature. True love, true affection, is in sacrifice, in service, we're to understand. And loving heart, serving heart, we can come in connection with higher substance. And the proper satisfaction of our own self depends on our heart, not other senses or understanding. Heart's satisfaction is real satisfaction for us. And that we can have from the heart transaction of the higher side. So heart seeks for heart. Especially, mainly, the heart transaction we find in Vṛndāvana conception of the Lord, His līlā there. And Mahāprabhu gave that sort of understanding and assurance and the means to that higher end, all these things...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in connection with the higher status, or substance, then we're to dedicate, we're to serve Him, we're to work for Him. He's for everything. We're for Him. We're to understand clearly that we're not independent absolute. We're all dependent, so small, so as a part of the organic whole. So we must connect with the higher centre without any prejudice, bhukti-mukti-spṛhā, [Bhakti-rasāmṛta- sindhu, Pūrva, 2.22] prejudice. All prejudice should be ignored, and we shall cast, throw ourselves for the pleasure of the high substance. We're to understand this. Die to live, to sacrifice, yajña, sacrifice, that is the main thing. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234 & 2.109]. We're to understand we're of lower character, if we're to mix with the higher substance, for that we're to sacrifice for the interest of them. We shall be trained to work for the satisfaction of the Higher Master, our Lord. Sevonmukhe hi. This is all important thing. If we want higher association then we must do for them, not that he will do for me as a servant.

Though we find in the higher area the Absolute posses Himself as if He's a servant, of His father, of His mother, in this way, of His consort. All these things we find. But mainly that is in a plane of higher service and higher sacrifice. So we shall prepare ourselves for the highest serving tendency, by the help of the proper agent. Otherwise it cannot be had anywhere and everywhere. It is very rarely found in this plane of exploitation and renunciation. Even not very easy to find in the plane of calculative service, that affection, throwing oneself into the ocean of sacrifice for the Supreme Centre. We're part, we must work in consonance in harmony with the Centre. The Centre is there, and according to the dictation of the Centre, we shall try to put ourselves active. This is the long and short, sacrifice, service, we're to be trained in. And more sacrifice, more deeper will be our sacrifice, and in deeper way we'll be connected with that Highest Absolute. And the proper scripture and a proper guide...

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Finished? I accept your contribution on my head. And I'm satisfied that this money means energy. Your money means energy. Energy may be utilised for many purposes. But this time it will be utilised to create an atmosphere where from we can have some understanding of our highest prospect. We were wandering aimlessly, hither, thither, attracted by fleeting things. We were following from time immemorial we were following behind the charm which can give some immediate satisfaction with some reaction. Either enjoyment or renunciation, both harmful, engagement which will fetch reaction. Happiness, that will bring in its return, in its retinue, affliction, that is undesirable. And to be disappointed and to give up all engagement, that is also nihilism.

So to avoid this, to have a healthy, positive life, is possible. This is given by the Vaiṣṇava Ācārya. We have engagement in an organic whole and that is eternal. And that not as duty but the labour of love. Labour of love, that is proposed to us. If we can understand and accept them, then we can have a very high solution of our life in all details, points. The wholesale satisfaction we can get coming to that particular centre as Mahāprabhu directed as Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful. The Lord of love.

Heart is the main thing within us, neither our power, nor our knowledge or intellect. Heart is the main thing, which satisfied, everything may be satisfied. Knowledge and energy cannot do that. So Mahāprabhu told that transaction recommended, the transaction of the heart, heart's satisfaction. Heart's satisfaction is real substantial satisfaction, so transaction of the heart with the Supreme Entity, the Absolute Centre. So much so that we belong to Him fully. Tumi bina karuna he radha ramana [?] We're wholesale, we're like property, we're not person. As we're thinking we're masters, we're enjoyers, but really that is not the truth. The Supreme Person is there and we're rather property, a play doll in His hand. And thereby with the help of that conception we can get out of all sorts of entanglements, temptations that you are lord, you are master. You enjoy us, the proposal of the world, this is a falsehood, a hoax. From this hoax we want to be released forever.

Then Mahāprabhu says, "You consider yourself to be a property playing in the hand of the Absolute Player, the līlā-moy."

"For Itself." Hegel says, "Reality is for Itself. He's for Himself. Otherwise He's not Reality, not Absolute."

So we're for Him, and He's at the same time corresponding before us, wholesale. With that sort of transaction recommended by Mahāprabhu, that He Himself came, Kṛṣṇa Himself came to take us in His domain in this way. Jñāna śūnya bhakti, knowledge-less devotion. Take risk, take risk, the wholesale risk to go home. Back to God, back to home. Home comfort, that we may not care to take our own interest, but the paraphernalia that will do welfare for us automatically. Home, all besides they'll come to help me. If I neglect my own interest, they'll come and they'll enhance my interest. That is home, so back to God, back to home. And home comfort, that reliance, that confidence we can get. That is the satisfaction of the heart. So heart transaction, giving wholesale, and you also get wholesale in the corresponding way.

So in your transaction you're finite, you're small, but that does not matter. If you can come in affectionate relation with the Absolute then you can get the help of the Absolute.

Once in Bombay lecture our Guru Mahārāja told, "Suppose a girl she has nothing, but if she's married with a prince who has got everything, through the relationship, with the love with the owner, she can also demand 'the whole thing is mine.'"

Do you follow? That through love's transaction we can have such a position in the centre that the whole thing that the centre has got we can claim that 'they're all mine.' So being finite we can get the chance of, advantage of an infinite life. Through love it is possible, not otherwise. So such hopeful and divine and helpful tidings given by Śrī Caitanyadeva Mahāprabhu, and in the highest development theistic scriptures, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

So I'm happy that so many of you have come to such a point where from you can begin pilgrimage to that great divine holy place. Back to God, back to home. So the loving Lord, and very soon one book is being published by Goswāmī Mahārāja, and will come here. The Lord's Loving Search For Lost Servants. So Lord Himself He came to search for loving servants, as Śrī Caitanyadeva Himself He came with His party and did such relief work here. And we're also anyhow, through His agents, got some connection with that, and trying to carry out to every door.

kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad- gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

And I feel that in my old age such sort of duty has come to me, and anyhow with the help of so many friends I'm trying to give that connection, by which I also may be benefited. By helping you I also may be helped by the Lord. By mutual connection we can go towards that happy home. So energy with which you have come here, that I hope will be utilised for the good of us all, and the absolute good. Here I retire today.

Vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca. By the grace of our Guru Mahārāja, and also somewhat by Swāmī Mahārāja, he also spread in the western countries in a very wide way. And as the result of that you have come to this poor person. So I have some gratitude for Gurudeva as well as Swāmī Mahārāja also. His photo you may find here along with me. He loved me very much, very much intimate friends.

I'm not feeling well, still you all have come from so far country with so much energy. I came before you and what I had to say I have said something I placed before you. Now I want to retire.

["That very Personality Who stole My heart during My youth is now again My Master. These are the same moonlit nights of the month of Caitra. The same fragrance of mālatī flowers is there, and the same sweet breezes are blowing from the kadamba forest. In Our intimate relationship, I am also the same lover, yet My mind is not happy here. I am eager to go back to that place on the bank of the Revā under the vetasī tree. That is My desire."] [Kāvya-prakāśa] & [Padyāvalī] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 1.78]

Outwardly this is a nasty union of the girl and boy. But Mahāprabhu's purpose, His mark, is towards Vṛndāvana. And Rūpa Goswāmī came that year and he heard the śloka. Only ekā ślokera artha jāne svarūpa.

[sabe ekā svarūpa gosāñi ślokera artha jāne ślokānurūpa pada prabhuke karāna āsvādane]

["Only Svarūpa Dāmodara Gosvāmī knew the purpose for which the Lord recited that verse. According to the Lord's attitude, he used to quote other verses to enable the Lord to relish mellows."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 1.76]

Only Svarūpa Dāmodara, who was the incarnation of Lalitā Devī, he understood the purport of this śloka. But anyhow, that year, Rūpa Goswāmī has come. And Rūpa Goswāmī heard that śloka and a parallel śloka he composed himself. And he had written on a plantain leaf and put it in the thatch of the hut.

Mahāprabhu, when going to take bath He met Rūpa or Sanātana or anyone in Haridāsa Ṭhākura's place. And suddenly He put His eye upwards and found something written on a plantain leaf. He took it and found,

"Oh! I chanted that śloka of an ordinary epic, and this parallel śloka has been composed by Rūpa."

Rūpa by that time he'd gone to take bath in the sea. Then Mahāprabhu, reading the śloka, priyaḥ so 'yaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ sahacari kuru-kṣetra-militas tathāhaṁ sā rādhā tad idam ubhayoḥ saṅgama-sukham tathāpy antaḥ-khelan-madhura-muralī-pañcama-juṣe

mano me kālindī-pulina-vipināya spṛhayati

[Upon arriving in Kurukṣetra, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī said: "O My dear friend, now I am at last reunited with My most beloved Kṛṣṇa in Kurukṣetra. I am the same Rādhārāṇī, and He is the same Kṛṣṇa. We are enjoying Our meeting, but still I wish to return to the banks of the Kālindī, where I could hear the sweet melody of His flute sounding the fifth note beneath the trees of the Vṛndāvana forest."]

[Padyāvalī, 383] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 1.79]

Priyaḥ so 'yaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ sahacari kuru-kṣetra-militas. In Kurukṣetra after the occasion of the solar eclipse so many persons from different countries come to take bath in that particular holy lake. And there Kṛṣṇa came and He met with Rādhārāṇī.

Afterwards Rādhārāṇī says, "That Kṛṣṇa, and I am also that Rādhā, and We were united there. But My heart was always drawn by the paraphernalia of Vṛndāvana."

priyaḥ so 'yaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ sahacari kuru-kṣetra-militas
tathāhaṁ sā rādhā tad idam ubhayoḥ saṅgama-sukham
tathāpy antaḥ-khelan-madhura-muralī-pañcama-juṣe
mano me kālindī-pulina-vipināya spṛhayati

The circumstance, the environment, has got its own special charm. So that was in the mind of Mahāprabhu, and outwardly He was chanting that particular poem.

Then Rūpa Goswāmī came from sea bath. And Mahāprabhu told, "How could you know My heart's feeling, sentiment? How could you feel My inner sentiment?" He put a slap on the back of Rūpa.

Rūpa Goswāmī found himself, thought that he's very fortunate to get a slap from Mahāprabhu.

Then Svarūpa Dāmodara told, "Yes, he knew, he could read Your heart by Your own grace. You have given him so much blessing, extended grace to him. And by Your grace he has known all these things, it is clear, otherwise none can get it." In this way.

With the Hungarian garb, Russian garb, you are putting Vṛndāvana līlā. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sudhīra Goswāmī and Avadhūta Mahārāja.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Avadhūta will come tomorrow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sudhīra Goswāmī. Aranya Mahārāja has done marvellously. I'm very, very satisfied to hear that the London Maṭh is released from bank mortgage, and it's glittering in its own glory.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Not only that, you have sent a handsome quantity money for the expense here. You say that there's another building, that big building holds so many, in Hāpāniyā also. Govinda Mahārāja he's...

Devotees: Purchased there one building. Extending. Extension of the Nat Mandira.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...much extension of the accommodation here, there.

Aranya Mahārāja already saw Hāpāniyā, eh?

Aranya Mahārāja: Hāpāniyā I saw many times. Not recently though. I haven't been here for one year. Many things changed in that year.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But not like Dayādhara, he came by swimming, in the winter season swimming through the Ganges. Dayādhara. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Aranya Mahārāja: You said he has volcanic energy. He never stops, Dayādhara.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dayādhara. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] By walking he went to Hāpāniyā, and when coming...

Aranya Mahārāja: Swimming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in the winter season he fell in the Ganges and by swimming he came. Only two miles back he came up on the bank and then came here, and also at night. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Peculiar.

[29:03 - 30:24 ?]

Aranya Mahārāja: Since I was here last there are two new buildings here.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] And this big hall, dining hall, prasāda distribution hall.
Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Two storied. The foreigners may be served on the first floor, and the ground floor for the local public. Govinda Mahārāja's plan is like that.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't understand all these things. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Aranya Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja. How's your health?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Health is not well, gradually decaying. Sometimes as this morning I was very bad I felt. It is due to gas perhaps. Very weak, blood pressure also went on, weak. Then taking medicine, this or that, I was workable again. And in this way I'm going on.

Aranya Mahārāja: You look very good, and you sound good also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Got a good figure. Outwardly, none will believe that I'm suffering. A good figure.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Not only good figure, now you're also well Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ah! Last year you cannot _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. More wakeful, awake.

Devotee: You're giving life to the Vaiṣṇavas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Aranya Mahārāja: When the devotees heard that you were in good health everyone was very happy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. It is natural. You have got affection towards me so you are all happy hearing that I'm improved a little.

Aranya Mahārāja: But that is your affection towards us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're coming direct from London?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes, from London. Sāgara Mahārāja is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sāgara Mahārāja in the Maṭh, and Dayādhara outside?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes. Dayādhara is outside, he has his business he's running.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Running business, making a press?

Aranya Mahārāja: Typesetting business. They work every evening on the book Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam. And then Sāgara Mahārāja he stays in the Maṭh. And some other devotees also stay there who are helping him collect for the book. So he's there now so things are stable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hereafter I shall hear from you in details.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Aranya Mahārāja: Are you tired Guru Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have managed to collect funds in America, discovering a new method of preparing jersey?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes, jerseys.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: I have new jersey.

Aranya Mahārāja: You have new jersey. That is a state in America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That jersey business, new type of jersey marked with the name San Francisco.

Aranya Mahārāja: That is named after Saint Francis, Christian saint. And sometimes we put some slogan from Bhāgavatam on the shirt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And that was sold like a hot cake?

Aranya Mahārāja: Hot cakes, yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After forty three years I went to Hāpāniyā, after forty three years. Acyutānanda, at that time he accompanied me.

And some gentleman from there asked him, "What is this? We're so near but we can't appreciate Mahāprabhu's teachings. And you are far, far away, you have come to appreciate the teachings of Śrī Caitanyadeva. But we're so near Navadwīpa Dhāma, we can't approach, understand."

Acyutānanda answered.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

It's mentioned in the scripture that any fortunate soul in the whole of the world may come. Fortune is not very cheap in this world. The spiritual fortune of the highest type is not so very cheap.

pṛthivīte āche yata nagarādi-[grama, sarvatra pracāra haibe mora nāma]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu is the pioneer of Śrī Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana. He said: "I have come to inaugurate the chanting of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa, and that Name will reach every nook and corner of the universe."]

[Caitanya-Bhāgavata]

From any corner one soul may come. By the births together, birth after birth, one moving, wandering in the world, and in course of that they may gather some sukṛti of that type. Coming in contact with the agent one may come to appreciate and to get that sort of higher sukṛti, particle of developed tendency towards this. That is to be uncovered, one totally uncovered from worldly impression for which we're wandering here and suffering from reaction.

So any place, even an animal may come in connection. A man may be a demon. An animal, this cow coming in connection with the temple and giving milk for the Deities, giving service, and in course of time that cow will attain some higher position.

So, so many of you in your previous lives, anyhow you have gathered some tendency acquired towards Mahāprabhu's service, towards Vṛndāvana, pure devotion land of yours. And so we find you together candidates for that higher school study. It is not always very comfortable to make journey in this life. Sometimes we're put in the test.

Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja told to Devarṣi Nārada, "Mahārṣi, Devarṣi, I have some apprehension that looking to our life, no one will come to serve Kṛṣṇa. Because Kṛṣṇa is friend to us, sakhā, but we're suffering the whole life. In the worldly sense we're suffering in the whole life. So people will be afraid of coming to Kṛṣṇa worship."

Devarṣi replied, "No, no, no. We know what is the value of worldly comfort and happiness. Whenever any adverse position comes to the Pāṇḍavas, we think, 'Oh, Kṛṣṇa will come to the Pāṇḍavas. Let us go there. Any adverse stage with the Pāṇḍavas, we come to Pāṇḍavas, we shall go there and we shall have the chance of having the darśana of Kṛṣṇa, Bhagavān."

And Queen Kuntī Devī also wanted. So Avadhūta Mahārāja he lost his right hand, and his health is also not very favourable I hear. In Delhi he was suffering. But his stand is firm in the plane of divine service to the Lord.

alabdhe vā vinaṣṭe vā bhakṣyāchchhādana-sādhane, aviklava-matir bhūtvā harim eva dhiyā smaret

["If persons engaged in the devotional service of Lord Hari are unable to obtain food and shelter despite their attempts, or if their acquisitions are lost or destroyed, they should, without anxiety, absorb their hearts deeply in the thought of Lord Hari."] [Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu: Purva-vibhaga, 2.114]

[jayasri.org] & [premadharma.org] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.102]

In Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu Rūpa Goswāmī he has given us this śloka. Alabdhe, we may not have. Vā vinaṣṭe, what we had that is lost. What? Bhakṣyāchchhādana-sādhane, bhakṣya means ordinary food, not kingdom. Ordinary food we may get, or what we got may be lost. Alabdhe, not got - vā vinaṣṭe, what we got that gone away. What? Bhakṣya means food, āchchhādana means clothing, simple. And sādhana, the occupation by which we can earn food and dress we can acquire. Aviklava-matir bhūtvā, a devotee must remain undisturbed. Harim eva dhiyā smaret, he'll go on rendering his service to the Lord. With the minimum demand also if we do not get from the environment, we won't hesitate in any way to come away from the service of the Lord. This is of such type, the most primary necessity.

In this sense I previously told to preserve and to propagate, the two principles in life unavoidable. First to maintain ones own self by food, and the second to propagate, producing children. These two principles of life is unavoidable. But here we're told, even the first principle to preserve ones own body...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Everything is going nicely in Calcutta Maṭh.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Calcutta Maṭh he reached yesterday evening? And then?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: He came here this morning.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, night passed in Calcutta Maṭh. All right. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. You are about twelve, in number?

Devotee: Ten.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But no inconvenience there?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Purnānanda is there. Govinda. Kṛṣṇa.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Now, we're to wait for Goswāmī Mahārāja, eh? He's also expected?

Devotee: After he publishes the book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, so not sure that he may come to join this function, is it?

Devotee: It's doubtful that he will come, by the twenty seventh.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. In his last letter he told he would try to bring the book and come maybe Vyāsa-pūjā. In his last letter.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So conditionally, the book is finished, he may come with the book.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. He may just print one or two show copies and bring that. That's what he usually does.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So now I may not detain them long. They're tired also from the journey, should take some rest.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Golden Volcano. In Madras, many gentlemen used to come and say, "Your highest ideal is Śrī Caitanyadeva? But His last life that is very furious to us, how He passed His last days. Sometimes running to the sea, sometimes through the thorny jungle. Sometimes rubbing His face on the wall, to get out of the house to go to Jagannātha. All these furious things. We're afraid to think of such high ideal. What do you say?" I told, there is one thing you do not note.

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

This wonderful characteristic in love, outwardly suffering, but inwardly enjoying, inward enjoyment.

Here also such example is not very rare. Those who can sacrifice their life for the country, many of them we see, they're with smiling face they're going to offer themselves to be hanged for the country. For the freedom of the country so many souls with smiling face are going to be hanged. So outwardly some pain but they do not care for that. The inner joy and hope encourages them to accept such painful external life. In many cases we find ambitious persons are not in want.

But what about the highest end of our life? Bhitare ānandamāya, full of joy within. Externally, apparently, we may see He's passing through a jungle, He's jumping into the water, going to Jagannātha, finding no path. He's hitting against the wall. So many things. When we shed tears, tears not always out of pain, but even when we're cheerful sometimes we shed tears also. It many cases we must have experienced that though we're crying we feel relief within. We can cry in a position where we should cry, we can't cry then we'll be unhappy. If we can shed tears profusely we feel relief within us. So external painful characteristic does not show the internal spiritual happiness is absent there. So that is another thing.

Service means withdrawal from this worldly happiness. Worldly pain and pleasure all equal. Bhagavad- gītā has taught us to deal both pain and joy in this world as nothing, to be quite indifferent over the joy and the suffering of this world, equal. In expectation with a third plane of life, we must be prepared for that.

So you have come here for the highest goal, highest type of fulfilment of life. So we must be prepared for that. The highest goal of life as shown by Mahāprabhu, in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, and in so many other devotees. Especially the gopīs, Nanda-Yaśodā, _____ [?] that plane. We must be prepared for any sacrifice. No sacrifice is sufficient for that, to purchase that. But no worldly value is necessary, nothing in the world can give us that thing, only our inner hankering. 'We want that, at all cost we want that thing.' That is the only qualification, no other price from the worldly stock. Laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ.

[kṛṣṇa-bhakti-rasa-bhāvitā matiḥ, kriyatāṁ yadi kuto 'pi labhyate
tatra laulyam api mūlyam ekalaṁ, janma-koṭi-sukṛtair na labhyate]

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

'From the core of our heart we want You my Lord, Your service.' That is the qualification. The first step is śraddhā. Sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile.

['śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya]

["Śraddhā is confident, firm faith that by rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa one automatically performs all subsidiary activities. Such faith is favourable to the discharge of devotional service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

"If I serve You my Lord, everything is done. Just as to put food into the stomach the whole body fed. Put water into the root, the whole tree is fed, acyutejyā [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]. Your service means proper service to the whole, and especially You. We want You for our service purpose, automatically the whole will be served. You are such."

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

We're - attracted by that noble ideal we're here. And we shall try our best to go to our destination. And go by the grace of Nityānanda Prabhu, Mahāprabhu, Guru, Vaiṣṇava, our campaign will be successful.

vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca
patitānāṁ pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ

[I offer my respectful obeisances unto all the Vaiṣṇava devotees of the Lord. They are just like desire trees who can fulfil the desires of everyone, and they are full of compassion for the fallen conditioned souls.]

I retire today here. You go and take rest.
Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that is our normal position. Back to God, back to home. Home consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Fully home consciousness. Happy home, sweet home consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness means sweet home consciousness, normal. And this is all abnormal, we're to take it, and be very much cautious, very much alert that want of Kṛṣṇa consciousness may not contaminate us. And where the sādhus, or sources from which Kṛṣṇa consciousness is emitting outside being spread and helping the infectious area. A normal atmosphere created. You're all agents of such plane.

'sādhu saṅga,' 'sādhu saṅga,' - sarva śāstre kaya, [lava-mātra sādhu-saṅge sarva-siddhi haya]

["The verdict of all revealed scriptures is that by even a moment's association with a pure devotee, one can attain all success."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.54]

The saviours, the agents of the land of saviours, so they're only auspicious centre. All others are coming to devour me, death means coming, the power of devouring, all coming to devour me, swallow me. The sādhus have come to help me that I may live from that demonic attack.

Yes, what is that? 'I'm monarch of all I survey.' Or 'I don't want anything.' Two kinds of demons. 'I'm monarch of all I survey. I want to exercise power over everything, exploit everything. Or, if not so, I can't do so, then I'm nowhere, I shall retire. But I won't go to serve others, to be small. I want to be big.' The māyāvādīs, the renunciationists, they, 'So ham, I'm the biggest.' That is their conception.

And ours, "I'm the smallest of the small."

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā, [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

Kudrad api kantha [?] "Smallest of the small. But my Master, my Lord is the biggest. And more, I'm the meanest servant, anyhow, the meanest of the mean am I."

...

...I'm a serving agent, I'm a servitor in the infinite. That is my identification and that is my position. The smallest of the small. Servant of the servant, of the servant of the servant. There we have, we get the real conception of the environment. I'm small, and if I think myself small, then I can have real conception of the bigger outside. Otherwise I'm diseased, in diseased condition, that I'm monarch, or I won't cooperate with anything if I'm not the monarch.

So Mahāprabhu told, "The key to real happiness, to real life, happy life, is to be meanest of the mean, finite of the finite. Then I can come to the true conception of Infinite."

Mahāprabhu says, "What is the identification I want?"

Nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir. "I'm neither a brāhmaṇa, that is holding honourable position in the religious society, a brāhmaṇa. Nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir. Neither I'm organiser of the material world of the environment.

Who am I then? I'm the servant of the servant, of the servant of the servant, of the gopī-bharttuḥ, the Lord of the gopīs. Only the connection I can't give up, that is the connection of the gopīs. The gopī connection Kṛṣṇa, any meagre place, smallest position, but that must be in Vṛndāvana. That is My prayer, My ambition, that a little, smallest of the smallest connection, but that should be in Vṛndāvana, the loving area. The loving transaction in Vṛndāvana. A drop of love divine I want. I can't give up that claim. Any position, the smallest, a grass."

Uddhava wanted to be a blade of grass, so that he may get the feet dust of the gopīs. A grass, a creeper, but in Vṛndāvana, where the divine love transaction is there, any position.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. Once, when the camp was in Mathurā, Prabhupāda with his car he used to visit our camp while moving in the Vṛndāvana, and coming back at night to Mathurā in his quarter. But in Bahulāvana his car was taken in the early morning was necessary to carry perhaps Professor Sanyal or Kuñja Bābu, the Secretary, to _____ [?] Station. They will have to join their duty in the office, so they could not stay any longer, they're to come back to Calcutta, to catch the train in the early morning.

So Prabhupāda, that night, he was compelled to stay at Bahulāvana, but he had no bedding. Bedding is left in Mathurā camp. Then Paramānanda prabhu, who was from thirteen years, he was brahmacārī, thirteen years, lived with Prabhupāda, Paramānanda Brahmacārī. From the age of thirteen he used to live with Guru Mahārāja, so very intimate.

He came to me. "Your bedding is necessary for Prabhupāda."

There were so many sannyāsīns and others, but anyhow the favour came to me.

"Your bedding is necessary for Prabhupāda tonight. He can't go back, such is the condition."

Then, of course internally I was very happy, but externally I was much afraid. "Oh, used by me, and how that can be supplied to Guru Mahārāja? But what to do? Order is order."

Then Bon Mahārāja came to my relief, he came with a new bed sheet. Then I got some relief. Onto the pillow and bedding, everything, that new bed sheet will be spread and he may use. Bon Mahārāja, when he heard he came with a new bed sheet. "I have one new bed sheet with me I'm giving."

Then I was satisfied, I gave my bedding, and that new bed sheet was spread over that, and Prabhupāda used that bedding. Perhaps that is the first and last in the history of Gauḍīya Mission.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Bahulāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We're to understand that, how it's possible. One may stand in relation with the paraphernalia, as enjoyer, or with the spirit of renunciation, and the third plane, the highest plane, real positive plane, having eagerness to serve another. That is possible, eager to serve. Just as eager to exploit, so eager to serve, the environment. And if calculated, in Vaikuṇṭha, and out of affection in Goloka.

Not only imitation but real realisation of the facts. And that is real life there. Every unit stands in serving attitude to another, and there he gets the satisfaction. By serving gets satisfaction, not by exploiting. And that extreme was found in Vṛndāvana.

The highest devotee, Uddhava, whose devotion is recommended by Kṛṣṇa Himself, he, when visiting Vṛndāvana and seeing the creepers, "I want to be one of them, the grass, creeper, so that I can have the feet dust of the divine damsels, the gopīs."

So much intense self abnegation, self dedication was there for Kṛṣṇa, and accordingly to others. Adjustment. And we're told that is proper adjustment.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. We're invited to join that campaign, the competition of dedication, self sacrifice. And the pratiṣṭhā, the prestige consciousness, that is the highest enemy, greatest enemy. Prestige consciousness, honour, everyone wants. At the sacrifice of everything one wants prestige, position, honour. And honour also to be sacrificed. Honour means popularity in the consideration of the people whether I'm good or bad. In the gopīs in Vṛndāvana we see that risk. They, at the cost of their good name in the society, and even according to the śāstra, they do not care for that in their self offering to Kṛṣṇa. Dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā.

[āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām
yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām]

["The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

Svajanam, the social opinion, and the opinion of the so called nears and dears, relatives. And the scriptural dictation, 'You should do this, you should not do that,' that scripture also was ignored in their consideration of service towards Kṛṣṇa. Inconceivable.

And die to live, and the death of what degree. Death also has some degree of dying. For money one can give the body, for money. And for body also one can leave money. For name and fame, can leave name and fame, everything. And the name and fame, body, everything sacrifice for the satisfaction of the centre of love. Love is such, pure love, real love is such. Love means sacrifice. Without sacrifice no love is possible. If we analyse the real meaning of the love word, here or there, that means sacrifice. Affection means sacrifice for the object of love, and that is to the extreme.

Śrī Caitanya Deva recommended Kṛṣṇa Himself when He came as Guru, Ācārya. "Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān. You should know your Guru as My representative."

[ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, nāvamanyeta karhicit
na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

When He Himself came in the garb of Guru, Śrī Caitanya, He revealed all these highest stages of realisation. And to take His Name with the association of the sādhu, mentioned, men of same habit and object, aim. On the whole what is the advice given to us? In Upadeśāmṛta, tan-nāma-rūpa-caritādi-sukīrtanānu, smṛtyoḥ krameṇa rasanā-manasī niyojya tiṣṭhan vraje tad-anurāgi-janānugāmī, kālaṁ nayed akhilam ity upadeśa-sāram

["The essence of all advice is that one should utilise one's full time, twenty-four hours a day, in nicely chanting and remembering the Lord's Divine Name, Transcendental Form, Qualities and Eternal Pastimes, thereby gradually engaging one's tongue and mind. In this way one should reside in Vraja (Goloka Vṛndāvana-Dhāma) and serve Kṛṣṇa under the guidance of devotees. One should follow in the footsteps of the Lord's beloved devotees, who are deeply attached to His devotional service."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 8]

In substance this is the advice to the devotees, that in Vṛndāvana or Navadwīpa in some Dhāma, as a subordinate of a real devotee, staying in his connection, one should go on to take the Name and try to understand the līlā, the pastimes, Name, rūpa. And how we can see Him, how we're to hear, engage our senses in understanding, in experiencing Him. So pass all the time with such spirit in the company of the sādhus. This is in substance the advice to one and all, who wants to be a student in this line. This Upadeśāmṛta, eleven advices, given by Mahāprabhu, and it was put in form by Rūpa Goswāmī. Eka-dasha, eleven, there it is. Very important for practical, personal realisation, these eleven ślokas, poems, very, very useful. Upadeśāmṛta. Generally others in Vṛndāvana they try to discuss and to understand about Kṛṣṇa līlā. But our Guru Mahārāja's tendency was always towards the foundation. The results, consequences, will automatically come. You need not be very careful about that. That will come automatically. You go always to the foundation.

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā-dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

Your whole attention will be given towards the foundation, lower service. And the result, consequence, will come automatically, in a natural way. And if you're very eager to go higher it will be artificial, sometimes almost suicidal. Don't try to go upwards, don't try to rush. But always try to seek service in the lower rank. So Guru Mahārāja used to read and explain this Upadeśāmṛta in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. Both Rādhā-kuṇḍa and Śyāma-kuṇḍa, a boundary line between them, and there he used to explain this Upadeśāmṛta, those eleven poems. What Mahāprabhu in His last days, suddenly one day He's chanting something, another day He's chanting something. And those poems were collected and put into Sanskrit verse by Rūpa Goswāmī. That is Upadeśāmṛta. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The last is this.

kṛṣṇasyochchaiḥ praṇaya-vasatiḥ preyasībhyo 'pi rādhā-kuṇḍaṁ cāsyā munibhir abhitas tādṛg eva vyadhāyi yat preṣṭhair apy alam asulabhaṁ kiṁ punar bhakti-bhājāṁ tat premedaṁ sakṛd api saraḥ snātur āviṣkaroti

["Of the many objects of favoured delight and of all the loveable damsels of Vrajabhūmi, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is certainly the most treasured object of Kṛṣṇa's love. And, in every respect, Her divine kuṇḍa is described by great sages as similarly dear to Him. Undoubtedly Rādhā-kuṇḍa is very rarely attained even by the great devotees; therefore it is even more difficult for ordinary devotees to attain. If one simply bathes once within those holy waters, one's pure love of Kṛṣṇa is fully aroused."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 11]

Kṛṣṇasyochchaiḥ praṇaya-vasatiḥ preyasībhyo. Kṛṣṇa has so many favourites, but the best among them is Śrī Rādhikā. Praṇaya-vasatiḥ preyasībhyo 'pi rādhā-.

Kuṇḍaṁ cāsyā munibhir abhitas tādṛg eva. And His kuṇḍa is representing Her, properly. Munibhir abhitas tādṛg eva vyadhāyi.

Yat preṣṭhair apy alam asulabhaṁ kiṁ punar bhakti-bhājāṁ. Which is very rarely found within the most favourite rank, what to speak of the ordinary devotees. Preṣṭhair apy alam asulabhaṁ. Which is very rarely found in the highest rank of devotion, devotees, what to speak of the ordinary devotees.

Yat preṣṭhair apy alam asulabhaṁ kiṁ punar bhakti-bhājāṁ, tat premedaṁ sakṛd api saraḥ snātur āviṣkaroti. And such type of devotion may be had by taking bath in Rādhā-kuṇḍa.

But Rādhā-kuṇḍa bath, that is not marked as in the physical sense. It's mentioned kuṇḍa līlā, the most private type of sweet relationship and the transaction was in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. In general play field Vṛndāvana, and with a selected the play of Kṛṣṇa in Govardhana. And with the highest group Kṛṣṇa's līlā, play, pastimes, the most supreme level, Kṛṣṇa's partaking into pastimes with the highest paraphernalia is in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, on the bank. And more highest when They're playing in the water of Rādhā-kuṇḍa. _____ [?]

When They're taking bath, Kṛṣṇa taking bath with His highest paraphernalia in the mādhurya rasa in the water of Rādhā-kuṇḍa, and there the highest degree of confidential pastimes take place.

So that is the highest point we shall try to understand how. In Caitanya-caritāmṛta very beautifully that has been described, when Kṛṣṇa is playing with Rādhārāṇī and Her group in the water of Rādhā-kuṇḍa. This is inconceivable, but it is there. Acme, the highest point, but all on the basis of dedication. No minutest point of the land of exploitation can enter there. Far, far above, the acme. Sumeru, Kumeru, north pole and south pole, extreme. Kāma - andhatamaḥ, prema - nirmmala.

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara, kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara]

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

Similar, the lust and love, similar in form almost, but they're opposite. In one place there is enjoying spirit, exploiting spirit. In another the highest dedication. Kāma-preme bahuta antara, kāma--andhatamaḥ. One is the most dense darkness, another nirmmala bhāskara, the shining sun, just opposite. We're to think that, how? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?]

[Vāsudeva Ghoṣa has said: "If Mahāprabhu had not appeared then how could we sustain our lives? How could we live? What type of ecstatic rasa has He imbibed that we have been able to have a little taste? Without this our lives would be impossible. Who else could take us to the acme of realisation of the position of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She holds the highest position. She is the greatest victim to the consuming capacity of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. She stands as the greatest sacrifice before Kṛṣṇa's infinite consuming power. Rasarāj-Mahābhav - the rasa is there, and She is the drawer of that rasa from the storehouse. She has such negative capacity that She can draw out the rasa to the highest degree both in quality and quantity."]

Vāsu Ghoṣa, one of the eight sakhīs of Vṛndāvana. In Gaura līlā Vāsu Ghoṣa. "If Gaurāṅga did not come, kemone hoita dharitām, then how could we live at all, how could we live?" This sort of statement can come. "If Gaurāṅga did not come, then how could we live? Prema rasa sīmā, rādhāra mahimā, jagate jānāta ke? Otherwise who will inform us about the divine love, and how elevated position Śrī Rādhikā is holding?" So this is the very life of life, who is speaking this. "How could we live? This was our own innermost feeling, sentiment of the heart. Without knowing my own inner self, how could we live? We could not get any satisfaction of the innermost tendency, could not get any fulfilment, any satisfaction. We're to pass a whole time barren, a life of self deception. The innermost wealth in my heart that was ignored by my own self. And Mahāprabhu came and pointed out, Oh, you have got such wealth in your heart, such possibility. Such type of fulfilment is within your heart, that possibility, and ignoring that you're living, a useless life. He came to show what is our highest prospect and enlivened us. If He did not come then we would have to live a life of self deception. He has come and made our lives successful. My own wealth, I was dispossessed of my own wealth. So how much benefit we've derived from Him, eh?"

Our Guru Mahārāja told one barrister, who came to talk and after some discussion told, "Oh, you want to convert me?"

"Yes. Not more than five minutes will be required to convert you. Only if you give real, proper attention, when you'll find what I'm talking that is your own inner interest. Your own inner interest is this. If you can understand this, in a second you'll accept that. No question of conversion. It will be, your own glory will come out to you. You're unknown of your own wealth. Such is the case."

So gaura nā hoita, kemone hoita, kemone dharitām de. How could we live, bear this physical body? So much _____ [?] Prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke. _____ [?] What is his realisation that his heart could not be melted? By taking the Name of Gaurāṅga he's still standing, is it? In this way."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

And Nityānanda Prabhu He wanted to distribute Śrī Gaurāṅga to one and all. Approaching every door, approaching the person. "Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. I shall be your slave. I shall be your eternal slave. Take the Name of Gaurāṅga once." Appealing in such way He began to cry and roll on the door of the person whom He approached to preach about Gaurāṅga.

Mahāprabhu took His permanent seat in Purī, and sent Nityānanda - "I give You the Gauḍa-deśa. Without You none will be able to help them. Nityānanda, I offer, I leave before You that zone. Go to Bengal and deliver them, to help them, to give fulfilment of life to them."

And Nityānanda took the charge. And here we're under His guidance. He's the leader, Nityānanda Prabhu, to preach about Gaurāṅga. And one who gets the grace of Gaurāṅga this Rādhā-Govinda līlā, Vṛndāvana līlā, in his pocket, automatically.

yathā yathā gaura padāravinde, vindeta bhaktiṁ kṛta puṇya rāśiḥ
tathā tathot sarpati hṛdy akasmāt, rādhā padāmbhoja sudhāmbhu-rāśiḥ

[Prabodhānanda Saraswatī Ṭhākura says: "As much as we devote ourselves to the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, we will automatically achieve the nectarine service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī in Vṛndāvana. An investment in Navadwīpa Dhāma will automatically take one to Vṛndāvana. How one will be carried there will be unknown to him. But those who have good fortune invest everything in the service of Gaurāṅga. If they do that, they will find that everything has automatically been offered to the divine feet of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She will accept them in Her confidential service and give them engagement, saying: "Oh, you have a good recommendation from Navadwīpa; I immediately appoint you to this service."]

[Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 88]

Unknowingly it will come within your heart. Your attitude cent percent will be to understand Gaurāṅga. And you'll find automatically you're in Vṛndāvana. Rādhā padāmbhoja, you've become a member in the camp of Rādhārāṇī.

Gaura Hari. And audārya līlā, mādhurya and audārya. When that mādhurya is being distributed to the ordinary public that campaign is the highest. Amṛtam, and when nectar is being distributed that nectar is more sweet. Nectar is sweet and giving highest fulfilment, but when it's being distributed then that stage is more dear, more rare, and more bigger, generous.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Here I stop. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

[29:15 - 31:47 ?]

Devotee: Kṛṣṇa is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān when beside Rādhārāṇī, otherwise not.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And Who is victorious Mahārāja, in competition?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhārāṇī will be victorious, according to us.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] When Rādhārāṇī approaching Kṛṣṇa forgets any other play, but to please Her.

[32:30 - 33:45 ?]

When Kṛṣṇa found that, "When I engage Myself in Rādhārāṇī, to try to understand Her, Her nobility, Her greatness, then My feeling, reaction, is such and such. But when Rādhā appreciates Me, Her appreciation and symptoms of appreciation that is highly great, higher. More She can give Myself than I can give Her. So what is in Me, and what is in Her love, if I want to know I shall have to take the mood and become Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. That way I shall go, I shall take the mood of Rādhārāṇī and try to understand what am I, and what is the greatness in Her appreciation."

So Kṛṣṇa came to be Mahāprabhu. It's mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta in the explanation of the śloka,

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

_____ [?] śrī-rādhāyāḥ praṇaya-mahimā, ah, this is the śloka.

śrī-rādhāyāḥ praṇaya-mahimā kīdṛśo vānayaivā-svādyo yenādbhuta-madhurimā kīdṛśo vā madīyaḥ
saukhyaṁ cāsyā mad-anubhavataḥ kīdṛśaṁ veti lobhāt
tad-bhāvāḍhyaḥ samajani śacī-garbha-sindhau harīnduḥ

["Desiring to understand the glory of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī's love, the wonderful qualities in Him that She alone relishes through Her love, and the happiness She feels when She realises the sweetness of His love, the Supreme Lord Hari, richly endowed with Her emotions, appears from the womb of Śrīmatī Śacīdevī, as the moon appears from the ocean."] [Caitanya-caritamrta, Ādi-līlā, 1.6]

That is the cause of Gaura līlā. Both eternal, but still, this is traced in this way, why Kṛṣṇa becomes Gaurāṅga. To taste Himself, and to taste what Rādhārāṇī is, properly She is. Svarūpa Dāmodara's śloka.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [36:15 - 37:40 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I have got by my two eyes. I was blind, but Svarūpa Dāmodara when came, joined me, I now feel that I've got those two eyes, not one. Full sight I've got from him.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [38:00 - 38:33 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: [38:34 - 38:58 ?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. When Rūpa Goswāmī wrote that śloka, yaḥ kaumāra-haraḥ, that śloka, and he kept it in the hut and went to take bath...

[yaḥ kaumāra-haraḥ sa eva hi varas tā eva caitra-kṣapās te conmīlita-mālatī-surabhayaḥ prauḍhāḥ kadambānilāḥ sā caivāsmi tathāpi tatra surata-vyāpāra-līlā-vidhau revā-rodhasi vetasī-taru-tale cetaḥ samutkaṇṭhate]

["That very personality who stole my heart during my youth is now again my master. These are the same moonlit nights of the month of Caitra. The same fragrance of mālatī flowers is there, and the same sweet breezes are blowing from the kadamba forest. In our intimate relationship, I am also the same lover, yet my mind is not happy here. I am eager to go back to that place on the bank of the Revā under the vetasī tree. That is my desire."] [Kāvya-prakāśa] & [Padyāvalī] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 1.78]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yaḥ kaumāra-haraḥ, this is not Rūpa Goswāmī's śloka. This is a śloka of ordinary poem, epic, composed in Maharastra. In Maharastra, one poet he wrote a book and there this śloka is found. And that has been quoted as an instance that without any illustration how a poem can be sweet. In that case no illustration, alaṅkāra. Without alaṅkāra, without ornament, how the beauty can be there. To give example to that this śloka has been quoted in a book, Kāvya-prakāśa, rhetoric book.

And Mahāprabhu took that śloka and chanted before Jagannātha. The underlying meaning - "Though Jagannātha is here in Kurukṣetra, that same Kṛṣṇa, but still My heart is not fully satisfied. I want to have Him in Vṛndāvana."

Just as the gopīs in Kurukṣetra told that, Rādhārāṇī told, "He's that Kṛṣṇa. I'm that Rādhā, but still My heart is not satisfied, heart is always drawing towards Vṛndāvana, that paraphernalia. Without proper environment and paraphernalia Our real union is not practical."

The paraphernalia has got its contribution to the union of the parties. Without that it is not giving full satisfaction. So Mahāprabhu in Purī, though He was dancing, chanting the Name of Jagannātha, but His heart was running towards Vṛndāvana, dissatisfied. "This sort of getting Kṛṣṇa is not satisfying My inner heart. That Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa is necessary."

With that, Rūpa Goswāmī,

priyaḥ so 'yaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ sahacari kuru-kṣetra-militas
tathāhaṁ [sā rādhā tad idam ubhayoḥ saṅgama-sukham
tathāpy antaḥ-khelan-madhura-muralī-pañcama-juṣe
mano me kālindī-pulina-vipināya spṛhayati]

[Upon arriving in Kurukṣetra, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī said: "O My dear friend, now I am at last reunited with My most beloved Kṛṣṇa in Kurukṣetra. I am the same Rādhārāṇī, and He is the same Kṛṣṇa. We are enjoying Our meeting, but still I wish to return to the banks of the Kālindī, where I could hear the sweet melody of His flute sounding the fifth note beneath the trees of the Vṛndāvana forest."] [Padyāvalī, 383]

Rūpa Goswāmī in interpretation of that yaḥ kaumāra-haraḥ, he composed one śloka. "That this is the purpose of Mahāprabhu chanting that ordinary śloka, of ordinary book. But Mahāprabhu's purpose is this."

I shall have to go to bathroom, take off.

...

...because it is infinite. Infinite cannot be controlled. Only as much we're hungry, there the real conception of that infinite. When 'we have got it,' that is limited. We're limited, and we think we've got it, that is very limited. But 'we've not got, we're in infinite, and I'm not able to touch, to see, to get. It's so big, so...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?] Trīlokanatha prabhu and Aditi-nandana _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Greece. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Where do you stay in Greece?

Trīlokanatha: We stay at the north west part of Greece.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Athens?

Trīlokanatha: No, in a small town called Janinar [?] _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Which side? Seaside?

Trīlokanatha: In the north west part of Greece _____ [?] On the Italian side.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Hitler conquered Greece he gave special honour to the General that, "They'll be allowed to keep their sword."

Trīlokanatha: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because, he told that, "They're very brave soldiers, and Generals all very brave. But it was impossible to stand against my mechanised army, but still I shall have to admit that their valour is admirable. So the Generals, though captive, are allowed to keep their sword with them."

I read in the paper at that time.

Trīlokanatha: Yes Mahārāja. My father was fighting at that time against the Italian army.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He did not fight with Greece but he wanted to capture Crete, that island.

Trīlokanatha: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because the allied party may not connect with Russia. First he captured Crete, they wanted to block the door, then he attacked Russia.

There was another minister who had some knowledge of astrology, he told, "If we approach towards west we shall be victorious. But if we go to the east we have no hope."

But Hitler differed, he told that, "Keeping such a big enemy at the back, I shall go to the west, and jump with all my power, it cannot be judicious." So he rejected that advice of that minister. I forget his name.

Because Russia after capturing Poland - Poland was divided into two, half portion Germany, half Russia, and Russia was constructing on the border aerodromes. So Hitler was afraid that Russia, because they were communist and he was fascist, Hitler, dictator, dictatorial rule.

But he accepted many customs from our Vedic culture. He asked the ladies, "Leave the office, go to the family, and give me good child, I shall reward you. You need not come in the office. You go to your family, manage well. And I want the whole Germany will be filled up with qualified sons. And it is your duty mother, you do so." In this way. And many things he took from the Indian culture, Hitler.

Gandhi also appreciated Hitler, the four judges, the bravest soldier, and the unique organiser, and so many things are his qualification, Gandhi told in young India at that time in favour of Hitler.

But only we cannot accommodate his general massacre of the Jews. Cold blooded murder. Jews were taken, and all their properties were taken, and they were sent in a room, and with help of the gas they were finished. Because, only thing he told that, "In the last great war, previous to that, in Kaiser's time, by the treachery of the Jews only they were defeated." That was his ground. "The Jew, they have no country of their own, they don't love any country, they only love themselves. And try to do anything and everything, even treachery, for their money. So in this last war they made our defeat, they're the cause of our defeat."

And Einstein also he was in Germany, he fled from there, went to America. And he had proper American money, he ultimately invented atom bomb. He was in Germany first, in his body, in his culture, all he got from this country, Germany, and now as a traitor he's helping America. He's a Jew. Einstein was a Jew. All these things.

And I got this quotation from him. "Stupid and clever. Stupid and industrious, stupid and lazy. Clever and lazy, clever and industrious." He told that, "I generally recruit from clever and industrious, a general habit. And clever and lazy, I appreciate them very much, I shall make them leaders of departments. Because they're clever they'll be able to manage. But lazy, they won't be finished by spending their energy, at the time of need they may come with fresh energy, so they'll be leaders.

And stupid and lazy I shall try to provide them some post. But stupid and industrious I shall keep myself far, far away from. Because always they do wrong, they're stupid, and industrious, must do something, but everything wrong. Fresh energy necessary to undo that. So stupid and industrious I keep far away from."

Badrinārāyaṇa: The karmīs.

Devotee: Śūdras.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Karmīs, stupid and industrious. Jñānī, the salvationist, they're stupid and lazy. And clever and industrious are the devotees. And clever and lazy is Kṛṣṇa Himself.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Clever and lazy. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. In the time of need He can come to help the devotees. Otherwise He's always ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here?

Badrinārāyaṇa: And then, a young lady, also from ISKCON _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First General in the world was Hannibal, second Alexander, and third Napoleon. Is it not? No, third Julius Caesar, and fourth was Napoleon. Greece.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Through Arabia Indian culture went to Greece. From Greece to Europe. Greek and Latin, the primary language. And French, lingua franca, the general language in the whole of Europe was French language. Now perhaps English, is it not? Main language, international language, is perhaps English now. But before that in Europe it was French language. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Ha, ha. In Calcutta University when Subhash [Chandra Bose] Netaji, whether you know or not, he was a student in Presidency College. One Mr... English, British Professor, I forget the name, he was taking the class and making remark, "We were, it was the Romans that civilised us, and now it's our turn to civilise India."

Then the students protested. "Sir, you're taking class as is necessary you do your duty. But don't say so. We're not to tolerate that. India was long, long before civilised than Europe."

Again he, another day, he's again repeating that. "That it's the Romans that civilised us, and now it's our duty to civilise India."

And that day, Subhash and his party in Presidency College, when he was coming down through the stairs, from backside pushed and he fell and was wounded.

James was President at that time in the Presidency College. It was about nineteen sixteen, or fifteen or so, sixteen perhaps seventeen. Then he enquired and managed to take the name that Subhash was the leader of that party _____ [?] And then _____ [?] was Vice Principal, anyhow made provision for Subhash to read in the Scottish Church College, where from Swāmī Mahārāja also passed. Scottish Church College. Otton [?] his name was Otton, that Professor _____ [?]

But Roman civilisation was threatened and had to tolerate attack from the Barbarians, it is mentioned. And the Barbarians are none other than the Germans. And the Germans they were surcharged with more or less some Indian culture, and they were fighting against Romans. And Roman civilisation was crushed by the Barbarians, we're told at last, by Germans.

And Swāmī Mahārāja said, "When Paraśurāma came and He took a vow to finish the kṣatriyas from India, at that time many kṣatriyas they went, migrated towards Europe and mainly their place was Germany, that side."

Caspian. Kaśyapa _____ [?] Caspian Sea is Kaśyapa _____ [?] mentions the lake of Kaśyapa Ṛṣi, a renowned scholar in India in the Vedic school, Kaśyapa. Kaśyapa _____ [?] Caspian. Kaśyapa _____ [?] that side was Indian civilisation in the beginning.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Culture. If we really we want to conceive them, our object of life comes in three planes. Exploitation, renunciation, and dedication. Only in three planes we can live.

In the plane of exploitation, they may have subdivision, but general division is exploitation, enjoyment. Elevationists, wants to elevate himself from the environment, that is the tendency everywhere. That is a plane of life.

And then there's reaction. More sober class they find that the reaction is severe, so to acquire property here from the power, that is false economy, because equal and opposite reaction we're to suffer from. So they give up and recommend renunciation, like Buddhists, Śaṅkarites, they renounce, and go to a place, to a plane of life where, as we find our existence in deep slumber, dreamless slumber. That is samādhi. "We won't awake to the world, so no reaction possible and no suffering." So mukti, salvationist.

Elevationist and salvationist, and the third plane in the revealed scriptures by the interpretation of the great paṇḍitas like Rāmānuja, devotees. "No. These two are not only useless but harmful. The real plane of life, normal, happy plane of life, is the life of dedication. Don't exploit, don't make any loan from the environment, but try to give whatever small, you try to give yourself, dedicate yourself. And thereby as a reaction you'll get something. And that sort of giving must not be in this mortal plane. But if you're really sincere to dedicate you then naturally you'll come in connection with the higher and more subtle plane of life. The higher society you will get if you prepare yourself to give, to serve, naturally you'll have a proper master and whose position is superior to you. When you want to enjoy then you're forced to be associated with the lower section whom you can control and enjoy. But if you're prepared to, for dedication, then naturally the higher existence will invite you to help them. You are selfless, you have nothing to get back, purely want to dedicate, and that sort of nature will naturally draw your self to the relativity of the higher existence."

So sevā, dedication, that is the sum and substance of the sayings of the Vaiṣṇava School. The third plane of life where in an organic whole every unit is a dedicating member, and that is normal. Everyone is trying to help others, and by mutual, and there is the centre, the higher, the recipient. The highest entity, everything is for Himself. I generally quote Hegel, German philosopher. "Reality is By Itself and For Itself."

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

It is reflected, the Vedic truth is reflected in Hegel's statement. "For Itself."

"Ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā. I'm the only enjoyer, none else in the world, Whose enjoyment is helpful to the whole."

Reality must be By Itself and For Itself. By Itself, He's His Own cause, none has created. If anyone created Him He'll be of secondary existence. And For Itself, everything existing to satisfy Him. If His existence is to satisfy another, then that another will be the first thing, he'll be higher. So to be the Absolute this qualification must be, should have that everything for Him, to satisfy Him. Whatever movement is going on, only to satisfy Him. Such is the greatest qualification of the Absolute, and the cause of all causes, the cause of all existence. Everything for Him, to satisfy Him.

Who is He? What is His acquaintance? What is His nature? How is He?

Generally the philosophers say, the theistic philosophers divided into three classes.

Brahman, all accommodating, the highest entity who can accommodate everything within Him. That is the greatest aspect of the existence.

Another section say Paramātmā, the all permeating, entering everywhere and regulating. Paramātmā. All permeating, all pervading. That is the highest, not all accommodating.

And the third section, the all controlling, all enjoying, everything for Whom, that is Nārāyaṇa, Bhagavān.

Jīva Goswāmī gives the meaning of the Bhagavān, not only full of power of all phases, but bhajanīya guṇa viśiṣṭha. Who has got such nature that He naturally attracts everyone to serve Him. Bhajanīya guṇa viśiṣṭha. His very existence, appearance, attracts everything to serve Him, to love Him, to die for Him. He's got such beautiful qualification. That is Bhagavān. And the highest conception of Bhagavān is in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa conception. That is given in the highest, greatest interpretation of the Vedic scriptures, that Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam.

And Mahāprabhu also, Who is supposed to be the incarnation, or another representation of Kṛṣṇa Himself, mixed along with His highest potency, Śrī Rādhā. Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanya Deva, He gave us clearly that this is the real interpretation or purpose of all the revealed scriptures. Ungrudgingly to guide you to the highest goal which is the domain of love. Unconditional surrender towards the central power, or truth, which is beauty and affection. Not power, but affection is the highest and attracting thing for us all. We may understand or we may not understand, but the absolute position is that love, affection, that is higher than any sort of power, any power, any knowledge, anything, is love and affection. That is the real fulfilment we can have when our inner heart will approve that. Our inner existence only wants love and beauty and affection, and neither knowledge nor power.

So try, direct yourself to that direction. Kṛṣṇa conception of the Lord. The Infinite, He's greatest about His approach towards finite, perfect approach towards finite, that is the highest gain of the finite. Finite cannot approach, capture Infinite. But Infinite can come to finite. And when Infinite comes to the finite level, as if one of them, that is the highest gain of the finite.

That we find in Kṛṣṇa. He's carrying the shoes of His father. Then His mother's whip He's receiving and crying and praying to the mother. "Don't whip Me. I won't do all these things." In such way that Absolute has come to the finite, through love.

nandaḥ kim akarod brahman, [śreya evaṁ mahodayam yaśodā ca mahā-bhāgā, papau yasyāḥ stanaṁ hariḥ]

["Having heard of the great fortune of mother Yaśodā, Parīkṣit Mahārāja inquired from Śukadeva Gosvāmī: O learned brāhmaṇa, mother Yaśodā's breast milk was sucked by the Supreme Personality of Godhead. What past auspicious activities did she and Nanda Mahārāja perform to achieve such perfection in ecstatic love?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.8.46]

In Bhāgavatam it's mentioned. "What wonderful things we're seeing. Who is Absolute, Brahmā, Śiva, and anyone, any conception of power and knowledge, when approaching Him they're all defeated. And such thing has come here as a child, as a common consort, towards the person, towards the gopīs? Eh? What sort of astonishing, wonderful method there is which can have a position of such intimacy with the Absolute? Such intimate relationship with the Absolute is impossible to think. But it's possible if we approach Him through a particular way. And what is that?"

And Mahāprabhu came with the instruction. "Take the Name in such and such way, and you'll find yourself one day there." Just get a ticket in the special train and you'll find you've reached the goal, Vṛndāvana. Take the Name of the Lord in the proper process, constitutional method. And then automatically you'll be led there.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam / ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

The highest form of devotion is like this. Anyābhilāṣa, the fleeting desires. Karma, that elevationist tendency. Jñāna, the salvationist tendency. And such other things like yoga siddhi etc, all will be eliminated. And accept the method of devotion, and mainly through internal sincerity, anurāga. Not calculation, uncalculated, sincere, blind devotion towards the Lord, your object will be fulfilled. Such sādhus, such group of association is the most needy thing for us, so the sādhu saṅga.

'sādhu saṅga,' 'sādhu saṅga,' - sarva śāstre kaya, [lava-mātra sādhu-saṅge sarva-siddhi haya]

["The verdict of all revealed scriptures is that by even a moment's association with a pure devotee, one can attain all success."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.54]

The good association who can help us to go to that mystic place, of that home, of our dream. We can take the scriptures, and mainly the sādhus, the agents of that realm, of that plane, with their help. That is the long and short what they have to say.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Then Subal went there, and anyhow Subal managed with the help of the she friends of Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā's dress was given to Subal. Subal was in age and appearance somewhat like Rādhā, and he was very near relative. So Subal was decked in the dress of Rādhā, and Rādhārāṇī was given the dress of Subal.

And in a novel [?] he told _____ [?] "One calf has come away and the cow is crying, so I've come in search of that calf."

So anyhow he entered into the _____ [?] and it was managed, the dress was changed, and Rādhārāṇī according to direction She's going in the dress of Subal towards the forest.

Then Kṛṣṇa found 'Subal is coming back.' And He was so mad, that Rādhārāṇī went nearby, anyhow.

"Subal, you've come back. What happened?"

Rādhārāṇī told Him, in the dress of Subal, "I could not manage to take Her. If You say I may go to Candrāvalī."

"No Subal. Candrāvalī won't do." In this way Kṛṣṇa was going, fainting.

And then Rādhārāṇī embraced Him. "You can't recognise Your Own servant, Your maidservant You can't understand? I'm so far from You that You can't recognise Me? I'm Your maidservant."

[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

Just as a serpent, the movement of the love is crooked. So with cause or without cause the difference comes _____ [?] [37:00 - 38:50 ?]

Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. The seal of our inner heart will be broken, the seal within. The heart is sealed and that seal will be broken by such attempt.

And chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. All doubts, suspicions, will be cleared, finally. When the seal will be broken, the flow that will come out, that will recognise its own thing naturally in that plane. So all doubts and suspicions will be cleared forever. 'This is my own, my heart's satisfaction to the highest intensity.' The heart will say when the seal will be broken, then it will know its own soil. 'This is my home.' Sarva saṁśayāḥ. All doubts will be gone.

And kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi. Then only our spirit of attempt will go forever, no necessity. All doubts and suspicions cleared, and the seal opened, broken. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. That devotional transaction will begin, that eternal flow, that eternal activity, nirguṇa. Without any doubt and without any trouble, the automatic flow, the automatic life will be discovered, nirguṇa, automatic. Life will be discovered, and the question of labour, or the feeling of labour, will vanish, in the third.

First, seal will be broken, and everything will be fine and new and finished and līlā. Nothing to be added, nothing to be earned, all complete perfect flow, dynamic movement. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. That is the automatic dedication function will come. No question of earning labour, or doing anything, this, that, all vanished. And the jñāna, suspicion, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam, the karma, 'I shall do something,' that spirit will go. And, 'I shall know many things, discover, inventing new things I shall give to the world,' that will also go. So knowledge, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam, the automatic līlā, the pastimes of the Lord is there, and I'm a member, and forever I'm here. In the middle I was here, something. I was detached from that eternal flow of sweet life. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti.

["The process of devotional service, beginning with chanting and hearing, is called sādhana-bhakti. This includes the regulative principles that are intended to awaken one to devotional service. Devotional service is always dormant in everyone's heart, and by the offence-less chanting of the holy names of the Lord, one's original dormant Kṛṣṇa consciousness is awakened."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.2]

[Part of Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.177, purport]

What is sādhana? What is already within me, only to discover that, to remove the outcome trouble that came and deceived me, only to be relieved of that. It is already within. Nitya-siddhasya bhāvasya prākaṭyaṁ hṛdi sādhyatā. What is sādhana, that means to end? To have my eternal own things within me.

Search for lost servant. Lord's loving search for lost servant. Lost servants, they're already there we're told. That is within them, already there. Anyhow by the peculiar līlā, aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva- kuṭilā bhavet / ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati. Līlā is such, sometimes separation, sometimes union. If there's no separation then union has no meaning, so aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, not straight going, but like the serpent in the zigzag way.

Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. This śloka, when in my home...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...knowledge, all covering. The knowledge covering everything, all, universal line. Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś. Will be untied, will be uncovered, then only, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ, all doubts will be cleared. And kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, in eka-dasha kanda Kṛṣṇa says, "mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani, when I'll be seen everywhere." And in the beginning introductory chapter Bhāgavatam says, dṛṣṭa evātmanīśvare. That Infinite has no limit, dṛṣṭa evātmanīśvare. When that endless thing will come to our consciousness, then only, all saṁśayāḥ, doubts gone, no necessity of any knowledge, calculation. And no necessity of energising, karma, jñāna. We'll be relieved from these two tendencies, trying to know anything and everything, and to do something. These things will disappear automatically, eternal automation. We shall see that we're a member of eternal automation, the flow of love. Nothing necessary, all fulfilment.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. In the past you've given so many explanations of this śloka one book can be compiled. Yes. So many explanations. When that aeroplane crashed, and the black box, you remember that, the black box explanation you gave? And also, when all prejudices have been removed from the heart then the flow is possible. So many explanations you've given.

["The unintelligent equate the sky with the clouds, the air with the dust particles floating in it, and think that the sky is cloudy or that the air is dirty."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.31]

_____ [?] educative śloka. Just as we see the cloud in the sky, and the dust in the air. So everything, draṣṭari dṛsyatvam, we cannot see the sky, neither we can see the air, but with the help of the dust, and with the help of the cloud, we feel as if we're seeing the sky. But really we can't see. Draṣṭari dṛsyatvam āropitam.

We're subjective, we think Him to be objective. All subjective, that is subjective evolution, everything subjective, all subjective, all superior to us. Whatever we see, all superior to us, we're to see, because they're helping the service of Kṛṣṇa. So Uddhava wants to be a creeper. All worshippable, all revered, in Kṛṣṇa connection.

Yat kinca tina guṇa mukhi katha _____ [?] The worm, the straw, everything of Kṛṣṇa's connection, all subjective, nothing object. 'I'm servant of everyone.' Subjective means claiming superiority and service claiming. 'I should serve them. I'm alone the serving unit.' At present we think that 'everything for me, I shall try to utilise for my purpose, I'm the centre.' No.

So vipada dharan bandhu van [?] Gurudeva says, "The disciples also, they have come to help me for service of Kṛṣṇa. I alone, I don't think myself eligible to serve Kṛṣṇa. He's so big, so high, so they've come to help me in my attempt to serve Kṛṣṇa."

Nitāi. Nitāi. Draṣṭari dṛsyatvam, āropitam abuddhibhiḥ. _____ [?] We're seer, looker, we're thinking Him to be object of looking, seeing. And Who is ānandamāya, we think Him to be the object of our ānanda. He's full in His own rasa. By serving, we cannot make Him more satisfied. But trying to serve, we can get a part of His sweetness. He's sweetness Himself. By serving we cannot add anything to Him. Ha, ha. Eh? By rendering service to our superiors, really we cannot make any addition there. But on the other hand, we get.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Benefit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's the source of all sweetness. In that process, if we approach, we connect ourselves with Him, we get sweetness. Purī Mahārāja?

Purī Mahārāja: Here.

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?] In front, right there in front.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Gauranga bole nagara _____ [?] What is His trial, or what trial, His sādhana? What is His acquisition, who does not melt, taking the Name of Gaurāṅga?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Ha, ha, melt, loses form.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaurāṅga bole. Taking the Name of Gaurāṅga, if one does not melt, then what sort of acquisition he has acquired so far? Gauranga bole nagara _____ [?] He'll lose his personality and will be like liquid thing.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He'll melt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaurāṅga is so powerful. He's of such type. Everything coming in connection with Him that will lose its own existence, and will melt, and will be one with.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Last night you were talking about that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gauranga bole nagara _____ [?]
"What type of creator has made me so more than stone? I cannot - that I'm going to be melted."

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Who will take the Name of the Lord, as a subject, and pronouncing it as object, but really we're to address the Lord, and Lord on the super subjective area. And I'm addressing Him, "Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa." That means to lose my - by chanting His Name we shall lose our present status, from proprietor to the property. Proprietorship will be lost. When we shall address Him with this consciousness, no longer a recipient, a proprietor, but I'm a property. Ādau kṛtā paścād kriyeta. I'm His. I have no personality, ownership of my own. I'm addressing Him as He ordered, so on His behalf, as His servant I'm addressing Him. No individual loss and gain I have, I'm already a slave. I'm property, I'm not proprietor. In this way I'm addressing Him, my Master. Then, what will be the effect? I'm His slave, not proprietor, not owner of anything. I'm a property of Him and I'm addressing Him. What will be the purpose of addressing? To become more and more slave. Ha, ha. I'm His. I have no individual transaction. I'm advised to, that more and more slave mentality will come in me.

The Ramakrishna Mission say, "Gauḍīya Maṭha preaches for slave mentality. And we're preaching so ham, we're that biggest thing."

The aspiration from this side, but one who jumps into that ocean, then the aspiration just changes our opposite direction. Smallest, smallest, smallest of the smallest. Smallest of the smallest.

"I could not. They say that I have devotion but when I try to find, no, nothing, all empty. I'm the worst beggar, I do not know how to beg, so I'm not getting anything. So all, the whole environment, please be pleased with me. Vaiṣṇava _____ [?] All be gracious to me, I'm the worst point, I don't have anything."

To think such prospect is also dangerous. "I have nothing. I'm the worst beggar." The kingdom is such, everyone thinks "I'm the worst beggar. I'm not getting anything. Such infinite nectar on my front, but not a drop to drink.

"Water, water, everywhere, but not a drop to drink." That [Samuel Taylor] Coleridge's Ancient Mariner we read. "Water, water, everywhere, but not a drop to drink." He was in the mid ocean, that ship breaking, something like. But salty water but not to drink, so without drinking water we'll be mad. So "Water, water, everywhere, not a drop to drink."

So one Madrasi gentleman told, "What you say that Śrī Caitanya Deva is the highest ideal. But reading His life we're rather afraid that if this is the highest position, He's rubbing His face, doing this, that, running over the thorny ground, as a madman. And you say that is the highest ideal. It is dangerous to think." So,

bahye viṣajvāla haya, bhitare ānandamāya, kṛṣṇa premara adbhuta carite

["The wonderful characteristic of divine love of Kṛṣṇa is that although externally, it works like fiery lava, internally it is like sweet nectar that fills the heart with the greatest joy."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.50]

Mahāprabhu in that stage when Svarūpa Dāmodara and others are taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa and anyhow drawing His attention to this world, "Oh. I was experiencing such a high order of sweet experience, and you dragged Me here with this noise of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The sound of Svarūpa Dāmodara is Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa in the ear, and is now drawing His senses to this world. And Mahāprabhu disgusted, "What a wonderful enjoyment, I had some experience, and you've drawn Me here with the noise of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa. Eh?" Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Heno kale tumi sab kola hal kori _____ [?] "The jingling sound of the ornament when the gopīs are going to cave of Govardhana, and Kṛṣṇa approaching. And that atmosphere, transcendental experience, how sweet it is. And you dragged Me here in this plane saying Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa. What is this?"

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: [29:50] Daśakam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [and other Vaiṣṇava's sing] Ācārya-vandanā, from Śrī Chaitanya Sāraswat Maṭh's, Kīrtana Guide, 4th Edition, page 11-13, which has no verse translation. An English verse translation was found @ scsmathinternational.com

[30:10 - 44:44]

Ācārya-vandanā

1 jayare jayare jaya, paramahaṁsa mahāśaya, śrī-bhaktisiddhānta saraswatī goswāmī ṭhākura jaya, parama karuṇāmaya, dīnahīna agatira gaṭi

[Glory, glory, glory to Śrī Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Ṭhākura, this great swan-like perfect personality, abode of highest mercy, who is the path and refuge for the low and miserable who have no refuge!]

nīlācale haiyā udaya, śrī-gauḍa-maṇḍala āsi', prema-bhakti parakāśi, jivera naśilā bhava-bhaya

[Emerging in Nīlācala, he came to the land of Śrī Gauḍa Maṇḍala and revealed loving devotion, destroying the souls' fear of material existence.]

3 tomāra mahimā gāi, hena sādhya mora nāi, tabe pāri yadi deha śakti viśvahite avirata, ācāra-pracāre rata, viśuddha śrī rūpānugā bhakti

[I have no capacity to sing your glories, but I can sing them if you give me the power. To bring pure unadulterated devotion in the line of Rūpa Goswāmī for the continuous welfare of the entire universe you deeply engage in preaching and practising.]

4 śrī pāṭ khetari-dhāma, ṭhākura śrī-narottama, tomāte tāṅhāra guṇa dekhi śāstrera siddhānta-sāra, śuni lāge camatkāra, kutā kika dite nāre phānki

[I see in you the qualities that Śrī Narottama Ṭhākura, who appeared in Śrīpat Khetari Dhāma, had. Hearing the essence of the scriptural conclusions, all false arguments based on logic lose their power to deceive.]

5 śuddha-bhakti-mata yata, upadharma-kavalita, heriyā lokera mane trāsa hāni' susiddhānta-vāna, upadharma khāna khāna, saj janera vāḍāle ullāsa

[Your teachings of pure devotion devour all non scriptural religious practices—seeing this, people become terrified. Striking with the supreme conclusions you break all non scriptural practices into pieces which increases the joy of all pious men.]

6 smārta-māta jaladhara, śuddha-bhakti ravi-kara, āchchhādila bhāviyā antare śāstra-sindhu manthanete, susiddhānta jhañjnāvāte, uḍāilā dig-digantare

[The rain clouds of smārta brāhmaṇas (skilled in law and logic) cover the sunshine of pure devotion, although it still remains there at the core. Churning the ocean of the scriptures and creating a storm of the highest teachings, you cleared and delivered all directions.]

7 sthāne sthāne kata maṭha, sthāpiyācha niṣkapaṭa, prema-ṣevā śikhāite jīve maṭhera vaiṣṇava gaṇa, kore sadā vitaraṇa, hari guṇa-kathāmṛta bhave

[Sincerely, you established so many temples to teach the souls loving service to the Lord. The Vaiṣṇava residents of these temples incessantly spread the nectar of the glories of the Lord.]

8 śuddha-bhakti-mandākinī, bimala pravāha āni, śītala karilā tapta-prāna deśe deśe niskiñcana, prerilā vaiṣṇava gana, vistārite hariguṇa gāna

[The pure current of the Mandākinī river of pure devotion cools and soothes the burning souls. You sent devotees, free from material desires, from place to place to spread the glories of the Lord.]

9 purve yathā gaura-hari, māyāvāda chheda kari, vaiṣṇava karilā kāśīvāśī vaiṣṇava darśana-sukṣma, vicāre tumi he dakṣa, temati toṣilā vārāṇasī

[Before, Gaura Hari converted the māyāvādī section of the Kāsī residents into Vaiṣṇavas. In the same way you graced the residents of Vārāṇasī by expertly showing the distinction of subtleties of Vaiṣṇava vision.]

10

daiva-varṇāśrama-dharma, hari-bhakti yāra marma, śāstra-yukta karilā niścaya jnāna-yoga-karma caya, mulya tāra kichhu naya, bhaktira virodhi yadi haya

[You ascertained devotion to the Lord as the core principle of daiva-varṇāśrama-dharma in accordance with the purport of scriptures and made it clear that all attempts of karma, jnāna, yoga, etc. have no value if they are averse to devotion.]

11

śrī-gauḍa-maṇḍala bhūmi, bhakti-sange parikrami, sūkīrti sthāpilā mahāśaya abhinna vraja-maṇḍala, gaūḍa-bhūmi premojvala, pracāra haila viśvamaya

[You became renowned as a great soul who started parikramā of Śrī Gauḍa Maṇḍala in the company of devotees. You preached all over the world about the land of Gauḍa that is non-different from Vraja Maṇḍala and filled with the radiance of devotional love.]

12 kuliyāte pāyaṇḍīrā, atyācāra kaila yā'rā, tā savāra dosa ksamā kari' jagate kaile ghoṣaṇā, 'taroriva sahiṣṇuna', hana 'kīrtanīyah sadā harih'

[You forgave all sins and atrocities of offenders residing in Kuliyā (Navadwīpa). You have declared that to always chant the Holy Name one must be more tolerant than a tree.]

13 śrī-viśva-vaiṣṇava-rāja, sabhāmadhye "pātrarāja", upādhi-bhūṣaṇe vibhūyita viśvera maṅgala lāgi', haiyācha sarva tyāgī, viśvavāśī jana-hite rata

[Adorned with ornamental titles, you are the leader in the assembly of the Vaiṣṇava kings of the universe. You gave up everything for the benefit of the entire world and dedicated yourself intensely to the benefit of the souls of the universe.]

14 karitecha upakāra, yāte para upakāra, labhe jīva śrī kṛṣṇa-sevāya dūre yāya bhava-roga, khaṇḍe yāhe karma bhoga, hari pāda padma yā'te pāya

[You spread the benefit by getting which the souls get service to Śrī Kṛṣṇa—their heart disease goes far away, all enjoyment and selfish pursuits break apart, and the soul attains the lotus feet of the Lord.]

15 jīva moha-nidrā gata, jāgā'te vaikuṇṭha duta, 'gauḍīya' pāṭhāo ghare ghare uṭhare uṭhare bhāi, āra ta samaya nāi, 'kṛṣṇa bhaja' bole uccaisvare

[As a messenger of the spiritual world, you send Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas house to house to awaken the souls sleeping in illusion, "Wake up! Wake up, brother! You have no time left! Loudly chant 'Serve Kṛṣṇa!'"

16 tomāra mukhāra vinda, vigalita makaranda, siñcita acyuta-guṇagāthā śunile juḍāya prāṇa, tamo moha antarddhāna, dūre yāya hṛdayera vyathā [Hearing verses, drops of molten nectar coming from your mouth, glorifying the Infallible Lord soothes our being and dissipates darkness and illusion, and all heart pain goes far away.]

17 jāni āmi mahāśaya, yaśovāñchā nāhi haya, vindu mātra tomāra antare tava guṇa vīṇādhāri, mora kaṇṭha-vīṇā dhari', avaśete valāya āmāre

[I know that there is not a slightest drop of deceit known within you. Your glory is like a player of a vīṇā —they have seized the vīṇā of my throat and, paralysing me, they force me to sing.]

18 vaiṣṇavera guṇa-gāna, karile jīvera trāṇa, suniyāchi sādhu guru mukhe kṛṣṇa bhakti samudaya, janama saphala haya, e bhava-sāgara tare sukhe

[Singing the glories of the Vaiṣṇavas rescues and protects the jīva soul. I heard this from the mouth of sādhus and my Guru. When there arise devotion to Lord Kṛṣṇa, the life becomes successful, and the soul can happily cross this ocean of material existence.]

19 te-kāraṇe prayāsa, yathā rāmanera āśa, gaganera cāṅda dhari vāre adoṣa-daraśī tumi, adhama patita āmi, nija guṇe kṣamivā āmāre

[My attempt is like that of a dwarf who wants to catch the moon in the sky. You never see anyone's faults, and I am extremely fallen. Please forgive me for being what I am.]

20 śrī gaurāṅga-pāriṣada, ṭhākura bhaktivinoda, dīnahīna patitera bandhu kalitamah vināśite, ānilena [avanīte, toma' akalanka pūrṇa indu]

Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is an associate of Śrī Gaurāṅga Mahāprabhu and a friend of all low and fallen souls—to dispel all darkness of this dark age, he brought to this earth you, a spotless full moon.]

21

kora kṛpā vitaraṇa, premasudhā anukṣaṇa, mātiyā uṭhuka jīva gaṇa harināma-saṅkīrtana, nācuka jagata-jane, vaiṣṇava-dāsera nivedana

[Please bestow your mercy so that, incessantly intoxicated by the nectar of love of God, the souls arise. May the whole world dance in the saṅkīrtana (congregational chanting) of the Lord's Holy Names. This is the humble petition of this servant of Vaiṣṇavas.]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...not a hill, or mountain, but here the comparison that Caitanya Deva is a lake.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrī Caitanya Deva amṛta-sara. The very fountain-head of all nectarine Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Amṛta-sara, the substance, the gist of the nectar. Kṛṣṇa līlā. And tāra śata śata dhara. Hundreds of streams are coming out from there, that is Caitanya līlā. Daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite. And it's running towards ten directions. Hundreds of streams originating from the lake of Caitanya Deva, so many streams of its very substantial nectar are running towards ten directions. Hundreds of streams collect.

kṛṣṇa-līlā amṛta-sara, tāra śata śata dhara, daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite, se caitanya-līlā haya, [sarovara akṣaya, mano-haṁsa carāha' tahate]

["There is no doubt that we find the highest nectarine taste of rasa in Kṛṣṇa līlā. But what is Gaura līlā? In Gaura līlā, the nectar of Kṛṣṇa līlā is not confined to a limited circle, but is being distributed on all sides. It is just as if from all ten sides of the nectarine lake of Kṛṣṇa līlā hundreds of streams are flowing."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 25.271]

And that is known the very source from which, kṛṣṇa-līlā amṛta-sara, tāra śata śata dhara, daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite, se caitanya-līlā haya, sarovara akṣaya. Non-diminishing lake of nectar from where hundreds of Kṛṣṇa consciousness streams are running towards ten directions.

kṛṣṇa-līlā amṛta-sara, tāra śata śata dhara, daśa-dike vahe yāhā haite, se caitanya-līlā haya, sarovara akṣaya, mano-haṁsa carāha' tahate

"O devotees, haṁsa, that is swan, you come and engage your mind, have your attention in that sarovara, that lake."

And the allegorical representation has been continued longer. But here as if it may be thought that Kṛṣṇa līlā is the outcome of Caitanya līlā. Caitanya līlā is the original, and from there, like fountains, the Rādhā- Kṛṣṇa līlā is coming out. Both combined in Caitanya līlā, and when They're separating and They're differentiating Themselves from oneness it becomes...

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

Generally it is thought because it is in Kali, and that is in Dvāpara, so Caitanya līlā is the after effect, supplementary of Kṛṣṇa līlā. But here it is said that Caitanya līlā is the original thing. Both combined and there from coming Kṛṣṇa līlā. And there is a lake of infinite nectar and Kṛṣṇa līlā is coming out of it anything Kṛṣṇa līlā. But not mountain but it is a lake. And so many devotees are also swans, and so many other birds, and so many bees, they're also sucking the sweet honey from so many padma, lotus. And also kumud means - what is the English of kumuda, that red padma? What grows in the water, that red thing, kumud, and the white, kala, and the red is kumud. And the lotus is some other thing. Kumud generally grows in moonlight, and red padma, the lotus, wants for nourishment the sunlight, padma connected with sunlight. And kumud that is connected with the red flowers in the water it grows by the contact of moonlight. Śreyaḥ kairava candrikā vitaraṇaṁ [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Kairava means kumuda, that red flower in the lake, or tank.

So volcano, this Tavin Kṛṣṇa he expressed to me much appreciation about volcano. "A very nice book." Your comparing the touch of your hand and brain gives a very wonderful effect to the writing.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No Mahārāja, it's what you've given is so sweet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be my thought but it's scattered, dislocated, but to organise that so...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Mahāyogī Mahārāja is working very hard also to do that. Mahāyogī Mahārāja he deserves some...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He helps you in this way?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: O yes, he...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the analysis, and then the adjustment, harmonise them.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You gave these talks at different times about Mahāprabhu. So we gave them some systematic presentation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That systematic presentation that is a very rare quality, to systematise.

Jīva Goswāmī says, "What Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī left, Grantha bhut grantha mas grantha mastitam _____ jivaka [?] Here and there so many śāstric things were kept by Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī. Jīva Goswāmī says so.

"What I'm leaving, the substance I collected from the writings of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, who comes from the southern country, whose family were disciples of Rāmānuja Sampradāya. So they come from Vaiṣṇava and brāhmaṇa families. And what he has given to us I'm only systematising and giving in the form of a book to you."

Bhaktāvatāram, _____ [?]

...

...the sādhus can create tīrtha. Just as in market the dealers also come to sell their property and the purchasers also come. So wherever, this is heard from Guru Mahārāja, wherever this transaction, some giver, the sādhus are giving, and there are some receiving this paramārtha, the spiritual wealth. Spiritual articles are the spiritual transaction market of spiritual articles, that is tīrtha, that becomes tīrtha. Just as like the market of dealing the spiritual articles, that becomes tīrtha, like market. Tīrtha means spiritual market.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Hmm. Like Nāma Hatta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāma Hatta. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So what should I tell him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, initiation he may get within few days.

Devotee: No, not about him. Who wants to take kṣetra sannyāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṣetra sannyāsa. That is your consideration whether he'll be able to keep it.

Devotee: Maintain it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With steadiness, and the deep faith and the steadiness. You consider, otherwise you have allowed that and after few days he'll fly away.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No, he's very steady. For the last eight, ten years he's doing pūjā day and night.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very steady, steadiness, and also the depth of it.

Devotee: He's been doing this pūjā for the last eight or ten years. He's qualified for that, and his tendency is towards worshipping, not for preaching so much, but he loves to worship. So if he's able to maintain kṣetra sannyāsa he can give him that, he can be given kṣetra sannyāsa. What do you think?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There's one danger, if one person is engaged in arcana, particular duty, may be familiar with the lady group.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He has no connection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And that may not disturb his spiritual life.

Devotee: He has not any connection like that, there's no connection.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He's very much disassociated from ladies.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] consider. The intimate, who are the worshipper, the intimate connection with the ladies generally takes place there. They're giving pūjā also etc and he should be saved from that possible disadvantage. Considering that you will give.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Devotee: Generally his mind is aloof, he's generally disassociated with the ladies. But still, it may be considered further.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Also, he brought with him one Śālagrāma-śilā, that pūjārī. So he worships strictly. But we know generally Mahārāja does not approve...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There's Śālagrāma-śilā of different type. The symptoms should be consulted, and there are different, very strict Śālagrāma, then there are worshipping, then the special rules, regulations are necessary otherwise that will be offensive. That gentleman, that Pradyumna perhaps, worshipped the Śālagrāma. Girīdhārī, to worship Girīdhārī that is safe, but to approach to worship Śālagrāma that is vidhi-mārga. We must be very careful about that.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. But it is already there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And they're of different nature, it is mentioned in the Hari-bhakti-vilāsa and ____ Purāṇa worshipping may be dangerous.

Devotee: How long has it been worshipped?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: For more than a year, maybe year and a half.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So I don't recommend Śālagrāma worshipping.

Devotee: But He's been worshipped for more than a year. Śālagrāma-śilā he's already worshipping...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] one year nothing.

Devotee: And so far we can see the prosperity of the temple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very carefully you'll have.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So we should continue for now?

Devotee: So far we're seeing advancement, prosperity of the temple, so it is auspicious sign.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be continued...

Devotee: With much caution.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...but for further extension we should be very careful.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. We don't want to continue in that line any further.

Devotee: Now He's already become the Lord of that place, so He likes to be worshipped there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He's seen under Mahāprabhu. So sometimes I think it's shown that worship is that Mahāprabhu is superior conception.

Devotee: Actually _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have you heard about the Parama, who took sannyāsa, that gentleman from Columbia?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Oh, Paramadvaiti Mahārāja. He spoke to me from Miami. When he reached America he called me on the telephone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you say Hridayānanda wants to beat me for my temperament...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, but he won't...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...but does he know that you have given him sannyāsa?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: By now he may know. But he'll not consider what he does that that is connected with you. He won't look at it that way. Hridayānanda Mahārāja will consider Guru Mahārāja independently of Paramadvaiti Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: Hridayānanda Mahārāja he thinks about you always independently of Paramadvaiti Mahārāja. He doesn't want know you, understand you, through him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: When I gave him Guru Mahārāja's explanations, his ontology on different things, he said, "I'm very satisfied to hear this." He said, "This is very satisfying and very reasonable." And he said, "I can understand on lower levels some distortion may be, some misrepresentation. Because some things that Guru Mahārāja says they get distorted or misrepresented to ISKCON. But anyone that we can meet with personally we can convince them otherwise."

Devotee: This is the opinion of Hridayānanda Mahārāja, "That sometimes Śrīdhara Mahārāja's explanations are miss-presented and it is presented in distorted way. But that is seen on the lower level, but on the higher level it is not seen, we understand...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He said he likes to hear from me or Akṣayānanda Mahārāja to represent Guru Mahārāja.

Devotee: And he recognises Bhakti Sudhīra Mahārāja and Akṣayānanda Mahārāja as the best representatives...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of my thought?

Devotee: Yes, of you. Real representatives, so he wants to hear through them.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But also, amongst our sannyāsīs there's sometimes some differences already coming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Especially Parivrājaka?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That is not important, that isn't, no.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aranya Mahārāja?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, Aranya Mahārāja, that is significant. Because everyone will think, 'I know what is Guru Mahārāja's desire.'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who says?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Everyone.

Devotee: Though harmony is very natural but still sometimes becomes rare. Again, that kind of problem coming, difference of views.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Will always be there. So then I wonder, in Mahārāja's absence, if he has any special directions?

Devotee: For putting the situation right?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: _____ [?] Bhakti Sudhīra Mahārāja's he's anxious about that, "After your disappearance, in your absence, how these things can be harmonised, special directions."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He's given many instructions we already know, but if there's some special instructions?

Devotee: That's why there's some special instructions for that, how to harmonise all these things?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Or what is Mahārāja's desire?

Devotee: Some common instruction should be there, basic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. We see our Guru Mahārāja departed, still litigation is there.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Devotee: What to do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: An example, so you know from the beginning I wanted an independent institution for you.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By cooperation you will go on with activity as you understand you can follow. Many things are different, like the social consideration, especially of the west. And that should also be considered to some extent, to form a working cooperating basis. The ISKCON is there and you may learn something from that experience also, and how to form, how to make _____ [?] of you. Different temperament, we can't enforce anyone against his independent will. Only on the basis of cooperation, how we'll be able to go on in any united way you are to look out.

Devotee: He's just speaking on principle.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Devotee: And real harmony always depends on the sacrifice with each other.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not absolute authority of anyone but in cooperative mood you are to connect yourselves. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. You have some independent position. But Akṣayānanda Mahārāja he's here, he wants to have his own separate position there on the other side, Madhyadvīpa. And this land that will be a seat of the common cause. And he wants to have his own special seat there in Madhyadvīpa. As far as I understand. But you are mainly to evolve the organising, and I may give some suggestion.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I have one other question, it's a small question. That in the temple for giving class, there's vyāsāsana should be given to the speaker.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is temple or this nat mandeer, something?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well ours is combination, combined temple, nat mandeer.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] class gone?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, in that section.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vyāsāsana will be there. All right. Then, what's the difficulty?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well, whether or not, should there be...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If superior persons come, then whether the junior will take the vyāsāsana when speaking, explaining Bhāgavatam? That is your question?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That's one question. Also, for Ācārya, if there's Ācārya, should there be a separate one, only for that Ācārya? Or should others also sit on that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ____ [?]

Devotee: When other Ācāryas will go there...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No, in a temple there may be an Ācārya, and there may be vyāsāsana for that Ācārya who regularly speaks. Should there only be one? And whose ever speaking they may sit there? Or should there be two?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ācārya should be given separate honourable seat.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Like in the San Jose temple there's one vyāsāsana where I speak, and I have another one for guest sannyāsīs and other speakers. Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the presence of so many Ācāryas if anyone is appointed to speak from the vyāsāsana he will take permission, he will bow down to the Ācāryas, take permission and take their seat, and then he can go on explaining.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Devotee: And he's saying, "In San Jose temple when Ācārya will speak, will deliver lecture, will deliver Hari kathā, then on which āsana he generally sits. And when others will go to deliver Hari kathā should they use that same āsana or separate āsana, different āsana from the Ācārya's āsana? Their seats will be different?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends upon the position of those mutual friends. You have seen when Swāmī Mahārāja was in a seat...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He took you on the same vyāsāsana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...he voluntarily took me to take seat.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: That's clear, with his sanction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Ācārya will respectfully request to take seat, honourable friend.

Devotee: That is in a special case. But generally other seats will be a little lower than the seat of Ācārya, because Ācārya's seat has got some special respect. And when others...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. That is clear Mahārāja.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I was challenged by a paṇḍit. When I reached here they knew that I had gone to Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava School behind, sannyāsī, reached here to find a suitable place to live. He challenged me, a permanent paṇḍit here. I told him that reading Bhagavad-gītā and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, this conclusion I have reached that the varṇāśrama dharma you profess that has culminated in Vaiṣṇavism. Vaiṣṇavism, the after, the highest thing where these all culminate.

Then they challenged, "Only it is in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, Bhagavad-gītā?"

Then Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu I printed and sent a copy to that paṇḍit. How the Vaiṣṇava dharma is the only dharma and higher than the position of all other creeds. You consider from this.

In the last days that paṇḍit wanted a shelter in our āśrama. "I shall pay something." He was the Principal here of the local Sanskrit College.

I told him I won't want any money from you. You'll stay in the āśrama and you'll do some service for the Mission. But he died soon.

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: ...today is a good day?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only one gentleman?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, one.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who is he?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Premānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then ask Kṛṣṇa Sharan prabhu to make arrangement, today is a good day.

This Thursday he's going away?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, next week.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Premānanda, on twenty ninth.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who will go?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Premānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Premānanda will go?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: On Thursday?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, on Thursday he will go.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Thursday? Then today is the day.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Today is the day.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So make arrangement with Kṛṣṇa Sharan prabhu. Today is a good day.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Thursday was good, but when he has to go then that day, today is suitable?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...flattery of a devotee. To maintain ones own position, not to flatter the Vaiṣṇava or Guru or śiṣya. The distinction between flattery and devotion. Do you follow?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Flattery is not devotion. To extend ones own self, to preach ones own glory, hypocritically he's showing too much devotion towards Vaiṣṇava, insincere flattery. Do you understand the distinction? Flattery.

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Flattery is to use the Vaiṣṇava for ones own service. Nāma baddhi, papa buddhi. I shall commit sin and by taking the Name I shall wash them off. With this idea if we go on taking Name, that is offence to Name, not Name pure. So also Guru, Vaiṣṇava, they also can be used in that sinful idea, object. I want to mean this, that there are many ISKCON - ites, they're only making flattery to Swāmī Mahārāja, eliminating his real purpose, ignoring that. That is not Guru bhakti. What is the real purpose of Guru, to understand that and to take risk, to preach that, that is devotion. And not to take the advantage of them and try to establish himself in that plea, that is not that. Nāma baddhi, papa buddhi. So Vaiṣṇava sevā, Acilay nijate ke pratistha para chesla [?] that is not devotion proper. To praise the Vaiṣṇava, though we cannot finish the real praise of Vaiṣṇava, they're infinite, their qualities are infinite and we cannot finish singing their quality. That is one thing. And to use that flattery to establish ones own self that is not devotion, that is Nāma baddhi, papa buddhi. Vaiṣṇava _____ [?] to search after ones own mundane interest by taking the name of the Vaiṣṇava and praising them outwardly. Devotion proper.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam
ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ [bhaktir uttamā]

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167]

To support exploitation by sham devotion. A very subtle thing. We should sing the glory of the Vaiṣṇava and that is real life. But to misuse that for ones own mundane purpose, that is not devotion, that is a plea to establish ones own self. That should be avoided. Guru bhogi, they're known as Guru bhogi, generally, here in India. Guru bhogi, who wants to enjoy, exploit his Guru. Guru and Vaiṣṇava to exploit the name of them to establish ones own self. That is Guru exploitationist, Vaiṣṇava exploitationist. The exploitation in the form of praise of the Vaiṣṇava and Guru, that is not devotion, that is aparādha. There's Vaiṣṇava sevā and Vaiṣṇava aparādha. Guru sevā and Guru aparādha.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Anyhow we can still hear what you say.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nāma baddhi, papa buddhi. And Vaiṣṇava sevā, Guru sevā _____ [?]
Internal searching, what is devotion? What is Guru bhakti? To show - apparently it is very encouraging and to establish they have so much devotion to Guru. But who is Guru? What is his service? Who wants to exploit him? There are ten kinds of Nāma aparādha. Externally, superficially taking the Name, but internal object is something else. Who are Nāma aparādha are Vaiṣṇava aparādha, and that Vaiṣṇava aparādha is such a _____ [?] To kill him in the name of his service. To destroy his internal _____ [?] his internal desire, good will, to kill his good will in his name. Outwardly taking his name, with that plea I'm killing his real good will. Guru bhogi and Guru sevi. Guru bhogi, Guru tyāgī, and Guru sevi, three classes. One to serve Guru, one to renounce Guru, and to exploit Guru. Guru and Vaiṣṇava, everything, to exploit, to renounce, and to serve. There the _____ [?] is out, what is devotion, what is propaganda, what is preaching? And if we're preaching him, Guru, or preaching you? Preaching himself or preaching Gurudeva, Vaiṣṇava, research. To exploit Guru, to serve Guru, or to renounce Guru, three phases of life. And fourth, not to _____ [?] Guru, not to feel the want of a Guru, that is the last. _____ [?] and exploiting Guru, and renouncing Guru, abandoning, or serving Guru.

87.00.00.B_802

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... to ignore, to exploit, to renounce, and to serve, four stages. So the Ācārya should be careful about these difficulties on the way. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

...

...dakṣiṇā bhāva, bama bhāva, to serve in a simple way, and to be in a service also that is service in opposition. Ha, ha. Union in separation, and service in opposition, bama bhāva, with the special guidance of Rādhārāṇī. Bama bhāva niranta bama. Always in opposing spirit, and that is the highest type of service. Ha, ha. Union in separation, a peculiar thing, so service in opposition, that highest type of service. To enhance the attraction, sham opposition is given, that is bama bhāva, service in opposition, apparent opposition. All these are subtle points. To make it intelligible to take it in the plane of reason is a difficult thing, union in separation, a difficult thing to follow. So service by opposition, that is also very peculiar, difficult thing, but that is true. That excites the attraction of the other party.

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Mahārāja. Generally we're told to think that Rādhārāṇī is trying to see to all the service of Kṛṣṇa, is trying to serve Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wholesale.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And then you tell us that She wants to oppose Kṛṣṇa in bama.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oppose means mock fight, in the spirit of mock fight there is bama bhāva. I told to excite the attraction more intense a slight opposition tendency. Not opposition in the stubborn sense. It's written in Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi perhaps, Rūpa Goswāmī, what is bama bhāva.

So that sort of opposition in the service of a Vaiṣṇava, that may be real service. And flattery we're to distinguish with the flattery, that is exploitation to exploit the name of Guru and Vaiṣṇava for his own purpose, own name and fame.

That is what is necessary for the Ācārya, a book for Ācārya, advice for the direction of the Ācārya of the sampradāya, a general handbook. They should always keep themselves very strictly cautious that they may not commit in the name of service there own offence. A guide of those that are engaged in the function, or the duty of Ācārya. Like Gītā, that will be in their pocket always. If you can prepare such a notebook for the guide that will be very useful. Because many Ācārya now, there's going to be infinite number of Ācārya. So a guidebook for the Ācārya.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Actually Śrī Guru And His Grace is like that, it includes this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, there of course, mainly it is there, and to extract from them that special things for Ācārya. By very careful about these things. There's possibility that they'll lose everything in this direction. Very, very cautious they should be. So a sincere Ācārya guidebook of the sincere servitors of the sampradāya, who wants to extend this Vaiṣṇavism.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: A Guidebook For Ācāryas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Try to conceive. Ha, ha.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. By Your Grace it may be possible. You're the Ācārya's Ācārya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Acarye sarve justo, so acarya udadita [?] sasone sthione vitya sisya sadva vilay [?]

What is the definition of the Guru and śiṣya here? Acarye sarve justo [?] One who puts others into real conduct. According to the scriptures what should be the real conduct, one who places others into that position, he's Ācārya. And who is Ācārya, and śiṣya, who accepts the direction of the Guru, Ācārya, he's śiṣya. Acarye sarve justo acarya udadita [?] Advaita Ācārya, there the analysis is given. Acarye sarve justo, acarya udadita [?] Sasone sthilone vischitya [?] Who voluntary accepts the regulations of the Ācārya, he's a śiṣya. Not only by name, formally, but who accepts really the direction of the Ācārya, he's a śiṣya, disciple proper. Who is disciple and who is Guru? Guru according to scripture he will regulate his disciple. And disciple is who voluntary accepts and practices those directions, he's śiṣya, Guru śiṣya.

_____ Paramadvaiti, is there a letter, got it?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say? Paramadvaiti you know, that gentleman Alanarth?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes Mahārāja. I know him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Alanarth, he's gone to, where, Columbia?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Columbia.

"Dear Badrinārāyaṇa prabhu. Please accept my humble obeisances. All Glories to Śrīla Guru Mahārāja and to Śrīla Prabhupāda. There are no words to fully express my appreciation for the association with all the devotees in the Dhāma. What to speak of the mercy of Śrīla Guru Mahārāja. I wish I could spend much more time there. I'm just dropping you this small note to tell you of our safe arrival. Everything is very auspicious here. The devotees are very happy to get the blessings of Śrīla Guru Mahārāja. And I will try my best to guide them to his lotus feet. The wonderful message of the prayojana Ācārya."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prayojana Ācārya, what is the meaning? The wonderful?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He says, "The wonderful message of the prayojana Ācārya."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Any name, prayojana Ācārya, no?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He means Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, prayojana Ācārya.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "Gives me new life. Soon I will write more details. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Please give my obeisances to all the wonderful Vaiṣṇavas in the Navadwīpa Maṭh. Please ask them to forgive my offences. Your fallen servant, B.A. Paramadvaiti Swāmī."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is he writing sincerely, or a show? Ha, ha.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Sincerely he's writing Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sincerely, he feels so much free here?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Gradually.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's a critical minded man. From the beginning, and he's criticised, also not very - he showed something, a big letter criticising ISKCON. And that criticism is not very, is of intellectual level, reasonable level, not a cluster of complaints.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Many come to you with some criticism of ISKCON. But after they hear from you...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I think that what Swāmī Mahārāja wanted to give, I'm also in that line, so I'm their friend. Ha, ha, ha. I'm always of this opinion, because Swāmī Mahārāja and myself cannot be separated. He wanted their - with such a great gift. And if we're sincere to Mahāprabhu and our Gurudeva we cannot but appreciate that, and we're one with that, with him, the common interest. And he saw that common interest with such a wonderful way, so we can't banish him from our heart. What we're doing, we're doing the same thing, same line, sincerely as I understand. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What you say that Hridayānanda wants to come into a proper understanding that is well and good. Should not have any misunderstanding about me. If it's clear, so far it's very good, desirable. Rāma. Rāma.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Mahārāja. If they misunderstand you, that is to misunderstand the goal of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. I think like that. No possibility - I'm trying to enhance, pushing what Swāmī Mahārāja was pushing towards them, I'm also trying to push from the internal side what I've got from Guru Mahārāja. And to back them, to help them, to push with _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Gradually they begin to realise this.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told, 'I consider you to be students.'
Kīrtanānanda, "Not your students, we're Swāmī Mahārāja's students." Ha, ha.
Declaring that Swāmī Mahārāja and myself are separate.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. Some misunderstanding.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Students. To be a bona fide student is enough. Ha, ha. We should try to follow this. Only it's necessary that we should be a bona fide student to the school. We should not try to place us, establish us in the seat of a professor. Where it is unavoidably necessary we're to take pose of that. Otherwise we shall always try to be students, that is the healthy thing.

And Mahāprabhu says pralāp, delirium. When we put ourselves in the position of an Ācārya and we go to advise, that is something like delirium. And when we think we're student, that is natural position, healthy, wholesome position is that. I'm a student. This should be the posing of the finite towards Infinite, this normal posing, always student and not professor. And to take seat of the professor means to go on with delirium. Pralāp vakra, Mahāprabhu says, our Guru Mahārāja also saying that. 'I know. I assert myself. I say that I'm Vaiṣṇava dāsa. As a servant of them I assert.' In this way, otherwise that is delirious position. Rather impressed, inspired, the Lord is inspiring, taking the position and pushing him to say that. And the position of a student, that is the normal position, is progressing. Searching is infinite. Satisfaction that 'I've got something', that means in māyā, measured, he comes in the world of measurement. 'I've got something.'

He's adhokṣaja. Śrīmad-Bhāgavat is very fond of using this word for the Supreme, adhokṣaja. He's always in a position transcending you. He's not your servant, that at your sweet will you will use Him, He's never in that position. Non-understandable, unintelligible, His super reason position is always with Him. You can't put Him in the cage of your reason. Svarāṭ. Artheṣu abhijñaḥ svarāṭ. [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] He knows the purpose of everything, and He's Autocrat Absolute. Not even under His own law. He's law maker and not under law. Law comes from Him. He's above law. He's adhokṣaja.

You're going to meet Him. So only in the posing of a slave, only in the form of a slave you can approach. Slave has no control over the master. Slave cannot conceive even that he can have control of any type over the master. Adhokṣaja. Adhaḥkṛtaṁ, indriyaṁ jñānaṁ. All your acquired knowledge is below, below the standard. Whatever knowledge you can gather that is below the standard, you'll think always, adhokṣaja.

Ha, ha. Once I asked Guru Mahārāja that Rūpa Goswāmī he took Dvārakā līlā, he approached Dvārakā līlā in some way that from Vṛndāvana as if the paraphernalia is going to Dvārakā. Jāmbavatī, that Lalitā, then Rādhārāṇī going as Satyabhāmā, something, this Chandra going to be Rukmiṇī. But this is going to be transferred there.

But Sanātana Goswāmī he's closing the līlā from Mathurā. After separation, when Kṛṣṇa went to Mathurā, Mathurā maṇḍala He kept within. And then again after some time the whole atmosphere changed and they began to think that Nanda Mahārāja has no child, he's aspiring after a child, and then Kṛṣṇa again came, and then the līlā went up to that Mathurā, up to the Kaṁsa vad. Stopped some time in some hazy position, and then again touching this. Cyclic order from Mathurā. He's not connecting with Dvārakā. Up to Mathurā He's going, and from Mathurā again coming back to the previous phase of birth of Kṛṣṇa. In this cyclic order.

And Rūpa Goswāmī takes them to Dvārakā. And Mahāprabhu advised Rūpa Goswāmī, "Don't take Dvārakā direct. Write two books. Only in one book you do not take the gopīs to Dvārakā." _____ [?] Mahāprabhu advised Rūpa Goswāmī. And then Lalitā-Mādhava and Vidagdha-Mādhava, two books were compiled by Rūpa Goswāmī. Mahāprabhu gave His proper instruction, "Don't Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa direct to Dvārakā. Write separate books." Rūpa Goswāmī did that.

And Sanātana Goswāmī is closing the thing from Mathurā in a cyclic order. They're both disciples of Mahāprabhu and they're dealing the līlā differently. How to understand?

Prabhupāda answered, "Then why He's been said as adhokṣaja? If you want to understand everything then what's the meaning of adhokṣaja?" He answered that way.

Non intelligiblity there must be, otherwise He can't maintain His characteristic of Infinite, Absolute, if everything is giving to the cage of your own reason. Don't think that. Adhokṣaja. You keep over your head that unintelligible side, His svarāṭ, His transcendental side. Ucha tistha dasanganam [?]

Why? Yasoda is trying to tie Him on the waist, and as many ropes She's taking and tying, but only two fingers different. Again She's adding another rope to the same, and again that two fingers difference. How to understand? Your reason? Again that two fingers, again She's adding some rope, but again that two fingers. What is the reason you'll find?

Subjective evolution. His will guiding you, not any objective thing in this world. Hypnotism.

Viśvarūpa. "I say you will see Me like this." He's seeing, Arjuna is seeing. "I say you can see this." Arjuna sees that.

Subjective control. Subjective evolution, not any objective thing has to do anything with this. We're to try to follow that, how it is subjective evolution. The cause is overhead, not that cause is underfoot, in the fossil area, in the objective area. Not in the objective, underfoot, but it's always overhead, the cause.

That is the only way to have solution for everything. In other words you must keep you on the level of slave, to keep yourself on the level of slave. If you like you can come to contact with Kṛṣṇa if you like slavery.

Gauḍīya Maṭh, they say the Gauḍīya Maṭh is preaching slave mentality. The Ramakrishna Mission, "We're so ham, we're Brahman, we're the biggest." Ramakrishna Mission says. "We're the biggest."

And Gauḍīya Maṭh says, "You are the minutest." Slavery, Kṛṣṇa dāsa, slave mentality is necessary. Not that an ant will think he's an elephant, that treachery.

Devotee: Mahārāja. _____ [?]

...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Still, the stress has been given, rūpānuga, rūpānuga sampradāya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Facility is here. When Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa They're alone, most secret position, the grown up sakhīs, she friends, they feel hesitation to enter the room at that time. Do you follow?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're grown up, so they feel...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Shyness, shy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...feel shy to enter at that time. If any necessity at that time, the half grown girls are sent there if anything necessary for Their secret service of Rādhārāṇī, of Kṛṣṇa. The half grown girls are sent, not matured sakhīs. Lalitā, Viśākhā, other grown up sakhīs of Rādhārāṇī, if they enter then Rādhārāṇī feels shy. And the half grown girls if they enter They do not feel so much shyness.

So Rūpa Goswāmī is the leader of those half grown batch. So they get the maximum benefit in some way or other. In some way we may think that when the most secret union, at that time Śrī Rūpa with his group, they can approach there for service. And the taste of the highest quality of service is practically coming, is being available to this group. Do you follow?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I've conceived in this way, why rūpānuga should be the best attainment. Then I found that this restriction is there. The grown up sakhīs also cannot enter into the private life of Rādhārāṇī and Kṛṣṇa in its highest privacy. But these have got access there, and they can get, come in touch of the highest quality of most private service. So to become rūpānuga that is the highest fortune, it's thought. This is my finding, or supposition. As much as I've gathered from the paraphernalia I rate rūpānuga is - why is that to be follower, to be in the camp of Śrī Rūpa Mañjarī, why should that be considered as the highest attainment?

Even Narottama Ṭhākura says, "When my good days will come and then my Gurudeva Lokanātha Goswāmī will take me by hand and will offer to Rūpa Goswāmī? _____ [?]

"My Gurudeva Lokanātha, when the good day will awaken, will take my hand and will make me surrender to Rūpa Goswāmī?"

Rūpa Goswāmī is in charge of that group, the most faithful and fortunate group of the girls in mādhurya rasa. So to become, to get admission in her camp, that is considered to be the highest attainment for us. Of course she's under direct control of Lalitā Devī - Rūpa Goswāmī under Lalitā. But that particular new batch, half grown girls batch. Hare Kṛṣṇa. These are, ha, ha, inconceivable, to bring one to the conception, that is to commit sin. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But that Rūpa was preaching yukta-vairāgya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rūpa Goswāmī when she has come in the position of an Ācārya he has adjusted everything meeting towards mādhurya rasa. His adjustment, Rūpa's adjustment, everything leading towards mādhurya rasa, when he's in the position of the Ācārya. Internally, in the mādhurya rasa as Rūpa Mañjarī, and externally in the position of an Ācārya when deputed then he has given, everything culminating how towards mādhurya rasa. Adjustment is given towards that. And that is perfectly because he's dealing there perfect the whole thing she's dealing there so she knows practically what are the affairs there. So the adjustment is fully perfect. Rūpa Goswāmī. No trouble on the way. What we see given here, if we can follow that, then no trouble, no difficulty in the way. But if we come through another camp we may feel some difficulty, and again to _____ [?] or something else, then we can reach, we can change the line, in this way we can have to go there. And in Rūpa Goswāmī's teachings we can direct go there, we cannot have any anomaly in the way. How he has given his siddhānta, it is complete and faultless. Ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ.

[anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam
ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167]

He has given example, just as sun ray and sun. So Brahman, the prātikūlya, kāma, krodha, bhayaṁ dveśataḥ, they will go to Brahmaloka. Though it is generally said that those that are anti Kṛṣṇa, ānu-śīlan, in connection with Kṛṣṇa līlā in anti group, they get the same thing, but not same. Same means sun ray and sun, this difference. So Brahman and Kṛṣṇa. Those that are favourable they'll go to līlā, and those that are unfavourable they'll have to remain in Brahmaloka. _____ [?] and sun, the difference, so they'll have to live in the kiran area, Brahmaloka, the asura, fighting with Kṛṣṇa. And the devotee they'll go to Goloka. The difference is here.

bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat, piśācī hṛdi varttate
[tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet]

["How can the joy of holy devotion appear in the heart as long as it is haunted by the ghosts of desire for exploitation and renunciation?"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva, 2.22]

The aspiration after exploitation and renunciation, both are like ghosts. The renunciation also which has been so much admired, that is like a ghost. Bhakti sadam bhuli kori buddaya habe [?] And anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ is definition of devotion very, very perfect. This definition of devotion we have in many places, but Rūpa Goswāmī's definition is the most perfect.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam
ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā

Such perfect definition we don't find anywhere. Although he has quoted from śāstra, sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam

hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-pañcarātra]

That idea he has taken and he has clarified it very well. What is sarvopādhi? What is upādhi? Vimukti is also upādhi. Anyābhilāṣ is upādhi. In this way. And ānukūlyena, not prātikūlyena kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā. Where kāma, dveśataḥ, bhayaṁ, krodha, in Bhāgavatam in general sense, any way if you're connected with Kṛṣṇa you'll get salvation. The connection with Kṛṣṇa if it's in the opposite side we shall have to be detained in the Brahmaloka. And if in the favourable way we'll be taken to the highest level of service. In this way. _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja. Is Pūtanā the exceptional case?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Yes. Pūtanā accepted. So that is svarāṭ, that is, He's above law. This is the example that is above law, and we're talking of the law of devotion. But there are peculiar cases, particular cases, which are dealt otherwise.

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī
lebhe gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ tato 'nyaṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema

["How astonishing! When Pūtanā, the wicked sister of Bakāsura, tried to kill child Kṛṣṇa by offering Him deadly poison on her breasts, she reached a position befitting the Lord's nursemaid. Could I ever have as merciful a shelter as that of Lord Kṛṣṇa?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.2.23]

Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi, when Mukunda sang this poem, Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi went beyond his position. The meaning of the śloka carried him to some such quarter, complete forgetfulness and surrender to the grace of Kṛṣṇa. And such a wonderful flow came from that medium that he began to play wonderfully in the hand of that transcendental sentiment.

And Gadādhara Paṇḍita saw, "Oh! I took him to be a man of luxury, now what I see within, I have committed offence against him. How to get out of that? I misconceived him. He's such a great Vaiṣṇava and I took him to be a man of luxury. To get out of this offence I shall have to surrender to him, as Guru, then he'll forgive everything. But I can't do anything independently, my natural guardian is there, Nimāi Paṇḍita. I shall have to consult, take permission." So went to take permission.

Then Mahāprabhu approved. "Oh, yes, with all influence, by all means, with whole heart you accept him as Guru."

And it was told that Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi was Vṛṣabhānu-rāja, Rādhārāṇī's foster father. And Gadādhara Paṇḍita surrendered to him, Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi. He was captured by the grace, by the benevolence, special grace of that Kṛṣṇa who crosses His own laws to favour His disciples.

Whom His favour is such, limitless favour, breaks His own law. And this is the example, aho bakī yaṁ stana. "So leaving Him, whom should we go to take shelter under?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not in the Maṭh?

Devotee: Yes, he's also in the Maṭh.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The murder case against him?

Devotee: The murder case is not against him but against one of his men, and that man has been convicted. A case went to trial and - there are two murder cases, one in New Vṛndāvana, one in California. The one in New Vṛndāvana has been tried and a man has been convicted, although no body was found. Then it was the second case in the history where a man was convicted of murder although no body was found. But then later they discovered the body. So it does not look well for Kīrtanānanda Swāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Body buried underground?

Devotee: Yes. The man who buried the body he later came forward and he told the prosecutor and he admitted everything. Now that man will go to California to face charges on another murder, the murder of the critic, Sulochan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That murderer is a guṇḍā?

Devotee: Yeah, the guṇḍā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Appointed by whom?

Devotee: The murderer was appointed by whom? This is not known. The case is difficult. It will be hard to prove Kīrtanānanda is involved. But there's also an investigation - murder case is one thing, and the investigation something else. Investigation means there are three judges and they're hearing evidence and testimony for one year, about black money, drugs, murder, and so on. After one year then the judges will decide _____ [?] someone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is he a disciple of Swāmī Mahārāja? Whose disciple is he?

Devotee: Sulocan, the critic? He's a Swāmī Mahārāja disciple.

Badrinārāyaṇa: The one whose being tried?

Devotee: No, no, he's the one who was killed. The one whose being tried is also a Swāmī Mahārāja disciple.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja disciple, not Kīrtanānanda?

Devotee: But he's a Kīrtanānanda man, he's of the Kīrtanānanda party. It's very clear they're connected.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What about Haṁsadūta now? He used to live in New Vṛndāvana we heard.

Devotee: Yes. He's not living in New Vṛndāvana now. I saw him in San Francisco with his wife and child. He's just moving here and there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We heard he was in New York, and Kīrtanānanda purchased many houses there for him.

Devotee: Yes, he does do something in New York now. But we saw him in San Francisco, and he's not living in New Vṛndāvana now. Perhaps he's helping some devotees in New York.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's left the position of the Ācārya? Haṁsadūta?

Devotee: Haṁsadūta, yes, completely.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Completely. And you do not know anything about Jayatīrtha?

Devotee: Jayatīrtha is staying in the shadows. He lives about one hundred miles north of San Jose, and he still has followers. And they're also taking LSD, and preaching their strange brew of sahajiyāism. Every now and then we hear something from them but they're still going on in the same way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know anything about Balarāma?

Devotee: Balarāma? He may come for Gaura Pūrṇimā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Doing any service there, to San Jose?

Devotee: Not really.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What about Āśrama Mahārāja, is he there?

Devotee: Āśrama Mahārāja, he's doing very well in Mexico. Now and then he's sending some men to visit San Jose, and we're very happy to see the quality of the men he's sending. He's doing very nicely in Mexico. The economy there is very bad, and yet still he manages to send some donations through Goswāmī Mahārāja to yourself. I have a letter from Sudhīra Mahārāja...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Goswāmī Mahārāja's health is well?

Devotee: Yes. He's very strong.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very good.

Devotee: He'll be here soon. I have one letter from Goswāmī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know anything about Bhāratī Mahārāja?

Devotee: Yes, we know some things about Bhāratī Mahārāja, but I'd rather not discuss them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He had a farm there to start a Maṭh, then again we're told that he's left that and coming to India.

Devotee: Bhāratī Mahārāja, in our opinion, in the opinion of Sudhīra Mahārāja, Bhāratī Mahārāja cannot do anything steady. I don't know if this should be on tape.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Translating books.

"Furious Frank and fiery Huns." Germans are the Huns. Haṁsa. The Romans have called them barbarians. Roman civilisation was now and then disturbed by the barbarians, and crushed.

Devotee: That's right. Attila the Hun.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Huns. Two world wars began by them, nineteen fourteen, and another thirty nine or so, thirty eight. Kaiser and Hitler. Hitler by birth was an Austrian, but German, an ordinary man, from porter or something.

Devotee: Yes. He wanted to be a painter but the art school would not accept him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Devotee: Hitler, he aspired to be a painter, an artist, but the art school would not have him. So he decided to make war. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kaiser fought for free nation, free ocean, we were told at that time.

Devotee: Free nation, free ocean.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His mother from England, in his boyhood, Kaiser and his maternal brother perhaps, had a fight and some blood came out from Kaiser's nose or something. Then Kaiser, "May the British blood flow away from my body." Though matrimonial connection but still their British and Germans were of anti spirit.

And Hindenburg defeated the Russians. Hindenburg, General, in charge of the eastern front. In a marshy land he came back and when the Russian's came he surrounded them. Twenty thousand. And that Russia was crushed by that. And then there was some rebellion in Russia at that time _____ [?]

But America joined in two of the wars, both of them. America joined after some time, and with fresh energy they helped the anti party and the course of the war changed.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Subjective Evolution Of Consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Subjective evolution appears objective...

Badrinārāyaṇa: To the ignorant.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to the ignorant, that is who conceive themselves as subject.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes. Heavy misconception.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Absolute embracing the finite in its highest position, in the supreme most position. When Infinite embracing finite that is His supreme position of generosity, magnanimity, and in all forms. 'Greatness gifts knows no bounds.' Generosity knows no bounds when embracing finite. That is the nature. Aprākṛta, as if one of finite, and being controlled by finite. Absolute appears to be controlled by the finite. Yaśodā, Nanda, gopīs, as if they're subservient. That is the highest position of Him. This is our solace, our consolation also, to the extreme, that the Infinite can be controlled by finite. So benevolent, so kind, so great. Infinite under finites control. Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: Inconceivable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inconceivable. But we'll be careful to say that Nanda, Rādhārāṇī, They're all finite people like us. But apparently appears to be under control of finite. That is the highest position. Appears to be embraced and controlled by finite. And everyone wants that position, that plane, where Absolute is controlled, apparently, by His own paraphernalia, apparently finite. Very sweet, very, very sweet, the most sweet position.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

The Rūpa, Sanātana showed the Great Absolute Govinda as a jewel in the palm. This, that, they dealt in such a way. And Sanātana Goswāmī he told Kavirāja Goswāmī, everyone that, "What is our meanest position, and we're dealing the family matters of the Absolute in Vṛndāvana. Such queen, this queen is of that temperament, that queen this rather. But what is this? Being a negligible, mean finite substance we're going to remark in the family matters of the Highest Supreme?" He says that, "Someone is interfering with my hand and forcibly writing, it is not I that am writing." Sanātana Goswāmī has said. Kavirāja Goswāmī, ei grantha lekhāya more 'madana-mohana' [āmāra likhana yena śukera paṭhana]

["Actually Śrī-Caitanya-caritāmṛta is not my writing but the dictation of Śrī Madana-mohana. My writing is like the repetition of a parrot."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 8.78]

"I'm only instrumental. They're controlling us to write in such way. Otherwise it is impossible for a finite being like us. We're going to say, dealing about the harem, and which queen is of which type, and how they're dealing with Govinda. All these things is impossible. But we're only instrumental, someone forcibly making me write." Sanātana Goswāmī says.

And Baladeva [Vidyābhūṣaṇa] says, "They both, the Absolute as if a jewel in their own hand, palm, and dealing like see this side, that side, this side, in this way they're playing with the Absolute. What this? Is it possible?" Their devotion is such.

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "Where is bhakti to be traced, devotion to be traced? Where Absolute is controlled by the paraphernalia. There is devotion. Devotion is doing this, nothing, none can do this, only devotion can do it. The dedicating spirit can control Him, dedication to Him.

Dedication and devotion is of such type wonderful thing which can control the Absolute by the finite. There is devotion."

Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā. The highest gift of the devotion is this, that he can, with the power of playing with the Absolute, with Kṛṣṇa. Who is attracting all, He's controlled. The attractor of everything, and He's controlled by some wonderful thing, and that is devotion or dedication, or submission of service. That is die to live, a separate form of life is that. A dedicated life is a separate form of life. So to be servant means to be master. Ha, ha, ha. Die to live means so living that to become master of the Absolute. Die as a servant. In form it is service, but reality it's mastership, it gets control over the Absolute, it's such.
_____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! The maidservants of Rādhikā, Kṛṣṇa is in their control. Ha, ha, ha.
"Oh. I want to see Rādhikā."
Lalitā says, "No, no time to see Her now. You come another time." Ha, ha, ha.
_____ [?] "That Absolute Kṛṣṇa is so boisterous, despot, He's also controlled by the maidservants of Rādhārāṇī." Kī jaya! Ha, ha, ha.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Jaya! Ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Prabhupāda kathā _____ [?] Nowhere it can be found. The heart swells of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta.
_____ Kavirāja Goswāmī. _____ [?] What to speak about Rādhārāṇī. Ha, ha, ha. Is it possible? And Mahāprabhu has come to give that to the lost servant. Searching for lost servant. He has come to reinstate him just as all in that group. So devotion is a wonderful thing, which can control the Absolute. That is devotion.

The real purport of all the Vedic truth is such, is this. Veda gives you the revealed scriptures. And the śruti when allowed entrance into rāsa maṇḍala they wanted forgiveness. "That we could not express You in this way in the Veda." Śruti. "You are so high, so generous, and so ecstatic joy, we could not give vent to this idea to the public of so high position of You as we find You in rāsa. So we beg forgiveness my Lord. We could not give proper expression of You, though we've said that 'He's raso vai saḥ, He's all ecstatic.' But ecstasies of this kind, this way, nature, we could not understand and give vent to."

Beyond the achievement of Lakṣmī Devī also.
Mahāprabhu told to the Rāmānuja sampradāya, "My Lord is a cow boy, and your Lord is Nārāyaṇa, the king of the Vaikuṇṭha, as Infinite. But My Lord is only a cow boy."
"What of that? This cow boy, He's also an expression of Nārāyaṇa."

"No, but I've got some doubt. That Lakṣmī Devī who has the highest company of Nārāyaṇa, who enjoys the most natural company of Nārāyaṇa, She was unsatisfied and went to search for satisfaction in the rāsa banks."

"That does not matter. Nārāyaṇa and Kṛṣṇa one and the same."

"But She was not allowed. Who was the innermost parṣada of Nārāyaṇa She was not allowed any entrance into the rāsa to see. And She had got, She made penances for that, but still She's not allowed. What is the reason?"

"Yes, that is something. I did not enter too deep into the matter. What is that?"

Then when he was puzzled, Mahāprabhu came out. "Kṛṣṇa is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān." And at the same time He told, "Śruti and Daṇḍakaranya Ṛṣis they were allowed, and Lakṣmī avoided. Because Lakṣmī wanted that in that form of Lakṣmī She'll partake in that, but that is not possible. They must have the attitude of the gopīs, then they may be allowed, only gopīs are allowed. Śruti and Ṛṣis, they accepted that gopī ego and then they were allowed. But Lakṣmī Devī did not do that, so maintaining Herself as Lakṣmī could not be allowed there. Kṛṣṇa Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, above Nārāyaṇa. The attendants of Nārāyaṇa they're hankering after the service of Kṛṣṇa but they're not considered fit for that."

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some book, there it was, but he himself in the copy he could not supply the real reading. Then I had to evolve from my mind that what this portion can be suitable. Then anyhow I managed...

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?] He wrote in Hindustani nyāya [?], but that is not correct I am thinking. And he also thinking. But what will be here, he cannot gage and sent to me. Then I come to Guru Mahārāja and Guru Mahārāja said _____ [?] Then after, I look in book, there is _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That insertion, fill up the gap, in that way I filled up that gap. And in the book it was shown.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. And there's the very clever thought, that, "Kṛṣṇa, what shall I give to You? You have everything, but one thing perhaps You are in want. What is that? Your mind has been stolen by the gopīs, so You have no mind. I'm giving, please take my mind."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Very beautiful, eh? "Please take my mind, because You have everything but Your mind is already stolen by the gopīs. So You take my mind." Very skilfully, ha, ha, it is put to Kṛṣṇa.

Badrinārāyaṇa: And what was Kṛṣṇa's reply?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is his prayer.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Prayers are happy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then Kṛṣṇa will reply that, "They have given their wholesale to Me, even their mental existence to Me, and thereby stolen. And you also another man come to steal away My mind, whatever little is there. By giving your mind, as a small thing, and you want to capture My mind in return?"

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...

Devotee: Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in that sense easily this is resolved. "Aho! Accept me, otherwise no relief. Even the so called salvationists they fail to hold the positive side. So after long time they'll have to come back."

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, [tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ
āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

[Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:]

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

For the time being they think themselves they're emancipated, they're released. But in fact it is not so. Just as in sleep, after long time they'll again awake. Vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha. Because no connection with You that side blocked. So they're still under misconception, their whole thing is wrong, wrong estimation.

Badrinārāyaṇa: They're still thinking they're the subject.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ. From much trouble they come to the paraṁ pada, just near the Holy Feet. Tataḥ patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad. From there they fall back, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad, because they cannot adore Your feet, that is they cannot adopt the life of service.

...

Pure consciousness is called Vasudeva. Yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ. And in that plane pure consciousness is that plane like prema what appears, comes out. Sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo. And He's Vasudeva. On a plane like prema and the pure consciousness what is going, that is Vasudeva.

sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ, [yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ
sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo, hy adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate]

[Lord Śiva says: "I am always engaged in offering obeisances to Lord Vāsudeva in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is always pure consciousness, in which the Supreme Personality of Godhead, known as Vāsudeva, is revealed without any covering."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.3.23]

Mahādeva says, when He was present in the assembly of Mahārāja Dakṣa, the father of Satī, His father-in-law. All the [demi] gods were also invited, and Dakṣa Mahārāja came. Without Brahmā, the father of Dakṣa, all showed respect, but Śiva did not.

And Dakṣa was very much infuriated. "You are my son-in-law. You do not show me any respect. Brahmā is my father. And all other gods all showed me honour. And you?" He called some bad name. Then next, he called for another assembly and he didn't send any invitation to Mahādeva, though he's son-in law.

But His wife Pārvatī, Satī, She told that, "My father has arranged a great sacrifice and invited all the gods and men, but only You are exception. Then how can I stay. All My sisters and brothers, kinsmen, all are coming in this great ceremony, and I can't stay here."

Śiva told that, "If You go you'll be insulted. He has excluded Me from invitation so he's angry with Me because I did not bend My head to him in the last occasion. So You need not, should not go. I can't allow You. You'll be insulted and I also will be insulted in Your face. So no good consequence I hold there."

But Pārvatī, Satī, She showed many such hard also constitutional position to dread Śiva.

Then Śiva also so much She's trying by appealing and then by showing some frivolous thing to Him. She tried to frighten Śiva. "Then You may go. But I have no sanction from inner heart. But if You like You may go."

Then Pārvatī came and told at that time. "He's formally your father-in-law, my father, so You should have shown some respect to him. Why you did not?" Pārvatī asked that, Satī asked Śiva, "Why did You not show any honour to My father? Formally he holds respectable position, My father, Your father."

Then at that time Mahādeva He uttered this śloka. "You do not know My head is always bowing down to Vāsudeva. To take out the head from that position and again to bow down to another is not possible for Me."

So there this śloka in Bhāgavatam. Sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ. Pure conscious is known as Vasudeva, father of Kṛṣṇa. Yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ. And who will send, sitting on that plane, pumān, sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ, yad īyate tatra, which is conceived a Puruṣa, the controller of everything, and enjoyer of everything, on that plane...

sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ, yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ
sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo, [hy adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate]

...and He's known as Vāsudeva. And behind that conscious plane He's controlling everything. He's Adhokṣaja. He's beyond the perception of all senses. Transcendental position He holds, so subtle. Adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate. I'm always bowing down My head to that entity. So it was not possible for me to take away My head from that position and give it to another person, that honour."

So Vāsudeva is such, viśuddha-sāttva, pure consciousness, that is no more. Consciousness is subject, pure subjective conception we must have first. We're also subject in relation to the objective world. We're to feel that we're subject. And Vāsudeva is subject of subject. How to trace? And then if we get some serving attitude that will seem to us more concrete than this world of misconception. Now this is concrete thing, and that is abstract. But that will be such concrete to us if we get the serving attitude, practically come in touch with that substance. Then this will all feel to be nothing, misconception, error. So that is the way to Him.

yoginām api sarveṣāṁ, mad-gatenāntarātmanā
[śraddhāvān bhajate yo māṁ, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ]

["Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all their heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47]

Whoever does, every higher spiritual parties, they'll have to depend on some other thing. And what is that thing, there is Kṛṣṇa. We can't eliminate Him. All others may be eliminated but we can't eliminate Him.

tapasvino dāna-parā yaśasvino, manasvino mantra-vidaḥ sumaṅgalāḥ kṣemaṁ na vindanti vinā yad-arpaṇaṁ, [tasmai subhadra-śravase namo namaḥ]

["I offer my repeated obeisances unto the Supreme Lord, who is all-famous as the Supreme Good. Without offering their actions unto Him, neither the liberationists (jñānīs) who are dedicated to austerities, not the charitable worldly workers (karmīs), nor the world famous, nor the performers of aśvamedha sacrifices, nor the sages or yogīs, nor persons dedicated to chanting mantras, nor persons of virtuous behaviour - none of them can attain any auspiciousness in life."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.4.17]

May be different types of experts, some yogī, some jñānī, some tapasvi, whoever, but they ultimately have connection with some other thing, higher thing. They're to take help from some other quarter. What is that? The yogīs, the jñānīs, whoever you say, they've got some sort of support they want. Vidūra-kāṣṭhāya [from Bhāgavatam, 2.4.14] The remotest background of everything. The background, so many industries, arts are shown, artistic but the ground is there necessary. So the remotest background of everything, what is He? It is not it but He, because of subjective existence. Everything on the plane of subject. Subject can live independently, not human brain is necessary for the thinker. Even beyond this body he lives, ātmā. That light is there, light is caught and focused to some other part. The consciousness in general.

evaṁ buddheḥ paraṁ buddhvā, saṁstabhyātmānam ātmanā jahi śatruṁ mahā-bāho, kāma-rūpaṁ durāsadam

["O mighty Arjuna! Knowing the soul to be thus perfectly distinct from the intelligence, steady the mind with resolute intelligence and destroy the indomitable enemy, lust."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.43]

Try to withdraw from the sense perception world, the world of sense perception, any memory. Withdraw from that and come to resolve the thinker in you. Withdraw completely from the world of experience of material senses and resolve, concentrate in the subject, in the thinker himself. Saṁstabhyātmānam ātmanā. And thereby you'll have such a taste, slight taste that will help you to conquer the whole temptation of this world. This will seem to be all trash. If you once get the touch of your own existence by your own thinking, introspection, then the world of experience will seem to be tasteless trash. What is this? This is nothing, all like trash, like ash, no taste. The taste is there.

Bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ. Only the seal of the heart is broken. That is limited _____ [?] like a slave _____ [?] Broken, come out, they understand their own soil and find fulfilment. And all suspicion will automatically vanish. And no aspiration of anything to produce by labour, karma, 'I want to do something.' No, everything is there. And you are an automatic part of that automatic flow. The automatic flow is there and you are a part of that. No energising labour is necessary for that. It is very happy, natural flow, you'll have a part and parcel in the whole flow.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

...

...after delivering Bhāgavatam, then again mixed with the beggars that came in thousands in that occasion of the departure of the emperor. So many things had been distributed, and he entered in the mob of the beggars, and lost himself there with them. The people could no longer trace him. He came from unknown quarter and entered unknown quarter, went away. For seven days what he delivered that is unique thing, recorded in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam by Vyāsadeva, He Himself was present.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. Aranya Mahārāja has a question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it? I'm rather too tired to go on. A small question.

Aranya Mahārāja: Later date.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To kill a dead body?

Badrinārāyaṇa: To bring it to life.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that question? Eh?

Aranya Mahārāja: The position of vidhi-mārga, śāstra outlines vidhi-mārga...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāga-mārga is so high so we shall try to follow as much as possible vidhi-mārga. We don't think that we're in the position of continuing in rāga-mārga. That will be proper rāga-mārga for us. We'll all think that we're not fit to enter rāga-mārga, that is too high. As much as possible, vidhi-mārga. Dāsa Goswāmī says.

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam, dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, the greatest exponent of the faith of servitude to Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā dāsyam, wrote: "I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."] [Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

Generally they think that 'I'm of sākhya, friendly class of servants.' But my attempt always will be for dāsya, for service.

Rādhārāṇī Herself says that, "My aim is always to serve Him. But He wants to play with My body. I have no other alternative. Let Him be satisfied. But My aim is always to serve Kṛṣṇa, the whole thing."

So devotees object. 'I'm not fit for rāga-mārga. I shall always try to become a servant.' And unknowingly the rāga will come to him, and sometimes forcibly use him also in the rāga service. But again when consciousness comes back he'll go, 'What am I doing? I'll go to vidhi-mārga." That will be the tendency of a real devotee, sincere devotee.

Aranya Mahārāja: So whatever is the order of his guide, of Gurudeva, that is to be considered vidhi-mārga? Whatever the order of Gurudeva is to the disciple, that is considered to be vidhi-mārga?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, I must obey the order of my Guru Mahārāja, Gurudeva. I must obey him. So it is my duty. That will be the natural tendency of a real devotee. 'I'm not fit for rāga-mārga...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...if ordered, you take food and do that _____ [?] As it is my duty to obey Guru Mahārāja so I'm taking food in Ekādaśī, because ordered, it's vidhi to me. What Gurudeva says, all standpoint of rāga-mārga. The service is all in all. Vidhi is of less, not important, it is non important factor. Service, that is everything, to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, whatever it may be. I shall have to obey that, to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. That is the only vidhi. The only vidhi that is ordered is to satisfy Him. Even at the cost of our life. That is rāga, that is vidhi, there vidhi merging in rāga. Whatever, to satisfy Him I shall do that. I do not know this or that, the rules, regulations of the scriptures. In the beginning, with reference I do that, but when I'm ordered to do something _____ [?] I shall be prepared for that. Anything may come. I must obey Gurudeva, in this way. But Guru must be real, in the beginning that must be selected. Otherwise the sahajiyā, the imitationist.

Aranya Mahārāja: Very clear answer Guru Mahārāja.

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Is it rāga-mārga?

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] considering your health, or you don't say? _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: If you say rāga then it's rāga.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So in this way rāga is higher than vidhi.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Badrinārāyaṇa: And you are higher than both.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Nine forty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That news finished?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Ha, ha. We got the news.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Rescued.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...is the highest, is the greatest, noblest phase. Shadow.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Form.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Noblest. But form depends also on existence, presence. Patita-pāvana. One of the fallen, the three, liar, debauch, despot, three, dacoit, in that plane He's found, Absolute is found. He's mixing with them there, taking them up. So in that form fulfilled.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...mixed with magnanimity, most desirable thing, universal necessity. Most fundamental, independent of all bad or crooked conceptions of life. Sweetness, which is attracting all of us from the bottom of our heart. And where that is being distributed very generously, this is Navadwīpa Dhāma, where the highest desirable things of the heart were distributed to one and all in most generous way. Navadwīpa means that. And to be connected - you know or may not know, but anyhow to come in connection with such thing is a great success in our life.

Life we see in different ranks, of insects, trees, birds, fishes, human beings. Then up [demi]gods in different positions life is said, it is only wandering, and wandering, searching for something. And search is not finished until we come home. We're home seeker, where everyone will take care of me if I do not. That is home. Every atom will come to see, to look at my interest. I'm quite safe there, just as a child in the mother's lap. Child can't know, or can't see his own interest, but motherly affection protects him in all respects. So we've got such a position. That is home, back to God, back to home. We have got our home, sweet, sweet home, and we must try to reach that...

...so if we're trying to go home we're normal. To be away that is abnormal. If we go for the interest of the home, that is to work for the home, for being in the home, one and the same thing. So from home, apparently that comes to preach abroad to look for recruitment. You're in home interest_____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Connected with Tripurari Mahārāja?

Devotee: Yes, for long time, many years. Now we stay in his āśrama. Also Giri Swāmī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We're very, specially I feel too much dejected when I hear about the present stage of ISKCON. Because such a great extraordinary successful work he did for Swāmī Mahārāja. That is going to be disturbed so much it will hamper the cause of the whole Caitanya School, Gauḍīya School. So we like that ISKCON _____ [?] they may believe or not. It's for the dignity of the whole Gauḍīya Mission that ISKCON will thrive. _____ [?] Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. _____ [?]
Such uncommon things generally cannot stand _____ [?] It's very sad that Jayatīrtha, Haṁsadūta, they left. Then after that this sad news that Bhagavān dāsa and Bhagavān Mahārāja and Rāmeśvara, they're also stalwarts in the ISKCON. They have also left ISKCON. Very sad to me. A great drawback in the world, very suddenly it captured _____ [?] qualified men. ISKCON's stand is very deplorable. Anyhow, those who that are satisfied with the same quality of things they can't. The home taste, one who has got that home taste there in the teachings of Swāmī Mahārāja, Mahāprabhu, they can't _____ [?] So home, sweet, sweet home.

We're to understand that neither power nor knowledge can satisfy us, but our heart. The solution of the heart question, that is the central question in every jīva, the solution of the heart. That is affection and love. That is the most important factor in us. Jñāna śūnya bhakti, independent of fleeting desires, or organised exploitation, or salvation, etc.

anyābhilāṣitā-śūnyaṁ, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam
ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ [bhaktir uttamā]

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.167]

Kṛṣṇānuśīlana, that service to Kṛṣṇa. Service means He's for Himself, we're for Himself. We're not for us, we're property, He's the proprietor. We're to think in this way. He's the proprietor and we're mere property. No independence we have got. Our independence included in His independence, harmonised with His independence, never in discord. So organic whole. Just as food put into the stomach the whole body is fed. If we put food into the eye, into the nose, into the ear, into the waist, no. Put food into the stomach and the whole body will be properly nourished. So divest all of your energy to the centre, to Kṛṣṇa.

yathā taror mula niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopaśākhāḥ
prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānāṁ, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

Your energy should be at the disposal of the centre, then it will be properly utilised. And not in any other group or individual interest. Reality is For Itself and By Itself. Absolute is independent. Everything for Him, we're for Him. That is Absolute. That will be normal position.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ
kṣīyante cāsya karmāṇi, mayi dṛṣṭe 'khilātmani

["The knot in the heart is pierced, all misgivings are cut to pieces and the chain of fruitive actions is terminated when I am seen as the Supreme Personality of Godhead."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.20.30]

One of the general instructions in Bhāgavatam. That egoistic world should be dissolved. That seal, it is sealed, ego is sealed and the seal must be broken, and internal flow will come and that will understand its own soil. Then, no knowledge will be necessary, everything will be automatic. And no karma. Individual enterprise will vanish if the ball that the ego which is sealed by special interest, that must be broken. And the flow inside will come and know its own soil. Home, everything got. No calculation, no knowledge is necessary, neither any power utilising necessary. All, everything will be automatic, always everything fully prepared for me. I'm one of that eternal factor in the world, ānandam. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. And that was distributed by Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva very clearly. The solution of the Bhāgavata only given by Mahāprabhu.

yadi gaura nā hoita, tabe ki hoita, kemone dharitām de
rādhāra mahimā, prema-rasa-sīmā jagate jānāta ke [madhura vṛndā vipina mādhurī praveśa cāturī sāra
baraja yuvatī bhāvera bhakati śakati hoita kāra]

[Vāsudeva Datta has said: "If Mahāprabhu had not appeared then how could we sustain our lives? How could we live? What type of ecstatic rasa has He imbibed that we have been able to have a little taste? Without this our lives would be impossible. Who else could take us to the acme of realisation of the position of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. She holds the highest position. She is the greatest victim to the consuming capacity of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. She stands as the greatest sacrifice before Kṛṣṇa's infinite consuming power. Rasarāj-Mahābhav - the rasa is there, and She is the drawer of that rasa from the storehouse. She has such negative capacity that She can draw out the rasa to the highest degree both in quality and quantity."]

This is to follow. The Predominating part and the Predominated, or positive and negative. We're in the negative side, predominated, and our chief representative is there eternally, Rādhārāṇī. That we're in consonance, in harmony with Her service. Mahāprabhu _____ [?] most generosity is there, most magnanimous gift with which He came to distribute. The highest attainment of our life, sweetest fulfilment of life. We're attracted by that, and try your best to attain that end of life, hopeful. By the Grace of Mahāprabhu _____ [?] Hare Kṛṣṇa. I can't talk much.

Devotee: Thank you very much Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja & Badrinārāyaṇa: [32:50 - 37:00 ?]

87.03.00.A _801

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to the ignorant.

Badrinārāyaṇa: To the ignorant, who consider the subject...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who consider the subject themselves.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Right. O.K.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Subjective evolution appears to be objective evolution. Objective not reliant that you who considers themselves subjective.

Badrinārāyaṇa: To be the subject, consider themselves to be the subject.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Himself to be the subject. 'We're subject.' That is ignorance.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And to them the subjective evolution replaced the object. The fact is this, fundamental fact is such.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. Have you heard the Preface of The Lord's Loving Search? Goswāmī Mahārāja has written one Preface summarising all the books previously printed. Have you heard that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Very nice. Govinda Mahārāja likes it very much.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: There are many things that you say, many statements that you make, they're like sutras, aphorisms. You say, "Reality is For Itself and By Itself." That is a sutra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is Hegel, quotation from Hegel.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. But we've looked at Hegel. That is, you have extracted that from Hegel. Because we've seen Hegel.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "Die To Live." I've taken these two things from Hegel. "Die to Live."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I think you've forcibly taken.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] In the colleges in the _____ [?] library when I delivered lectures I quoted all these things and explained, and they were impressed much. What is the meaning of 'die to live?' And what is the meaning 'Reality For Itself?' We're for Him, everything for Him. Universal flow is going on and that is perfect. And our partial interest view sees all defect here. But from universal standpoint the flow that is all right, that is līlā, that is perfect thing. No room of any complaint anywhere.

I also give example nowadays that if every atom of our body / organism then it is healthy. Otherwise if it works for itself or a particular group, or stops work, then paralysis or a disease. And if every atom works for the whole then it is healthy, wholesome. So every atom must work for the centre, and the centre will distribute in a proper way. Just as if you pour water into the root the whole tree will be properly fed. Put food into the stomach whole body will be properly fed. Otherwise you'll put food into the eye, to the nose, that is disturbance. To the centre, and the centre will distribute, then it will be perfect. And the stop of work and work in its own whim for any part causing disturbance. So enjoyment or exploitation, and renunciation, both disturbing. Renunciation also has no justification, that is like a strike in the industry. No right, if there's any strike or any bribery then both of them is diseased in the country. So sāyujya mukti, samādhi, the Buddha, Śaṅkara, they want to retire wholly, stop their activity and in sound sleep mood they retire, samādhi. That is also bad.

bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat, piśācī hṛdi varttate
[tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet]

["How can the joy of holy devotion appear in the heart as long as it is haunted by the ghosts of desire for exploitation and renunciation?"] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva, 2.22]

Both of these, the work for part and stop work, both is piśācī means ghost haunting us. And Godly, work for the centre, and centre will distribute in proper way. The whole tree will be fed, whole body will be fed if food in the stomach. So do for Kṛṣṇa and He'll distribute. Tato acyutejyā. The worship of Acyuta is like that, if we send there it will be well distributed. You cannot give this or that. Everyone must be faithful to the centre and the centre knows how to distribute where. And that is the harmony, that is līlā. That is Reality For Itself.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

"I'm the bhoktā, enjoyer of all the sacrifices wherever it is. So everything must be meant for Me and I shall adjust."

Then only can there be harmony. And you go to this side, that side, anything, all extended selfishness and causing disturbance in the harmony of the whole. Do you follow?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is Vaiṣṇavism, and when that is affectionate, the cooperation is affectionate with love, that is Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa. Heart's transaction, neither brain nor this force. Love transaction, heart's transaction, real inner transaction. Whole satisfying transaction is heart's transaction. Heart holds the supreme position, neither brain nor force, power. So power seeking or complete retirement, both are anti harmony. Stopping work or to work for partial interest both bad.

bhukti-mukti-spṛhā yāvat, piśācī hṛdi varttate
tāvad bhakti-sukhasyātra, katham abhyudayo bhavet

So the renunciation and the enjoyment both are anti harmony. Harmony means ānandam, rasam, beauty. Beauty, harmony, ānandam, that is one and same thing. Samañjasā pravidha hadyatha [?] Samañjasā is the Name of the Supreme Lord. All harmonising principle. And that is possible only through affection and love or beauty, and that is Vṛndāvana. So Vṛndāvana rasa, the ecstasy found in Vṛndāvana, that is controlling, that can control the whole and no other conception of the Supreme Entity of Godhead. Only Vṛndāvana conception, and when that takes the shape of self distribution as Mahāprabhu that seems to be more high. Seems to be higher when the Absolute is searching for His lost servant, the highest. Perhaps read in Prema Dhāma Stotram?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the conception of the Absolute?

ātma-siddha-sāva līla-pūrṇa-saukhya-lakṣaṇaṁ

[svānubhāva-matta-nṛtya-kīrtanātma-vanṭanam advayaika-lakṣya-purṇa-tattva-tat-parātparaṁ prema-dhāma-devam-eva naumi gaura-sundaram]

["The highest conception of the Absolute Truth must also be the highest form of ānanda, ecstasy. Mahāprabhu's dancing indicates that He is full of ecstasy, and His kīrtana is distribution of that rasa. So, if we scientifically search out who Mahāprabhu is, we cannot but find that He is the Ultimate Reality. He is mad in tasting His Own internal nectar, and His dancing is the outcome of His transcendental ecstasy. And He is chanting, distributing that to others. So, studying quite closely the character of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, we cannot but think that He is the Supreme Absolute Truth, in Its fullest, and most dynamic expression."] [Prema Dhāma Deva Stotram, 66]

Saukhya means ecstasy, or harmony, or ānandam, rasam, saukhya, sukha. Full harmony of Him. Happiness. What will be its symptom? Ātma-siddha, satta-siddha, self evident, self existent, two ecstasies. What will be? Nṛtya. Ātma-siddha-sāva līla. Sāva līla means dynamic character. Sāva līla-pūrṇa-saukhya -lakṣaṇaṁ, svānubhāva-matta-nṛtya. Two things of full joy and He's dancing. Matta, svānubhāva, nṛtya. As a madman dancing, no object of dancing, madman. He Himself is dancing. What is this? His dancing is the symptom of His own full ecstatic character, nṛtya. And kīrtana is distributing Himself. And that is found in Mahāprabhu. So that is the fullest conception of the Absolute.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. That's written here in Goswāmī Mahārāja's Preface.

"His Divine Grace has informed us that the heart's inner hankering for ecstasy, charm, and sweetness, leads it in the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa - Reality the Beautiful. The Kṛṣṇa conception of divinity is so irresistible that even Kṛṣṇa Himself becomes overwhelmed by His own potency and is madly engaged in tasting His own sweetness, ecstatically dancing, and thereby distributing that sweetness to others."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Dancing and chanting.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, and distributing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nṛtya-kīrtanātma-vanṭanam. Dancing in Himself and kīrtana giving to others through sound.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: We could not know this if you did not explain these things to the world it would not be known in that way. You show systematically the conception of Mahāprabhu as the highest reality. Otherwise there's some general idea, but you're showing systematically.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ontologically.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Ontologically.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ontological aspect.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Irrefutably.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the characteristic of our Guru Mahārāja. When I wrote about Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, in ontological basis he has showed so. So when he was reading that and when he found the ontological basis, _____ [?]

yad dhāmnaḥ khalu dhāma caiva nigame brahmeti saṇjñāyāte yasyāṁśāsya kalaiva duḥkha nikarair yogeśvarair mṛgyate vaikuṇṭhe paramukta-bhṛṅga-caraṇo nārāyaṇo yaḥ svayam tasyāṁśī bhagavān svayaṁ rasa-vapuḥ kṛṣṇo bhavān tat-pradāḥ

["The effulgent, non-differentiated aspect of divinity known as Brahman is composed of infinite particles of individual consciousness, and has been considered by the Upaniṣads and by Vedic scholars to be the halo of the Absolute. The localised plenary portion of Godhead known as Paramātmā is sought after by the great yogīs practising extreme penances. Nārāyaṇa Himself, the predominating Lord of the Vaikuṇṭha planets, whose lotus feet are worshipped and served by His unexcelled bee-like devotees, is only a partial representation of the original Personality of Godhead. The original or full-fledged aspect of divinity is Kṛṣṇa. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you have not come to distribute Brahman or Paramātmā or even Nārāyaṇa bhakti, but Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa, the original conception of the Absolute, who is all-ecstasy. It is you, O Gurudeva, who can gently place me in His hands, and you have come to give Him to the public."]
[Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 7]

O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura why you are so great, you have given out such thing. What is that thing? The jñānīs they appreciate only the halo of the thing, of the Vaikuṇṭha. And the yogīs a part of the part of the parts they're searching the permeating aspect only. But Nārāyaṇa, the controller of everything, that is worshipped by the great salvationist. And even above that Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa the Lord of love, and you are giver of that, so you are so great.

When Prabhupāda came to read this passage, "O, very happy style," he told, and just in front of me he told. "Happy style. That is ontological basis, to explain the love, the affection, in ontological basis it is stated here." So when he came to read this passage, on my face, "A very happy style."

And Jīva Goswāmī also given like that. So I gave, śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ

[rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammāṇitaṁ śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum īśo bhavān]

["What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 9]

That is sanctioned by Gaurāṅga. Svarūpa-viditaṁ. Really the very purport understood only by Svarūpa Goswāmī. Rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ. Sanātana Goswāmī could appreciate that thing. And Śrī Rūpa he distributed the whole thing. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ. Raghunātha and his party he appreciated fully and also added something. And jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ, and Śrī Jīva, Baladeva [Vidyābhūṣaṇa] etc they have given full protection that is ontological explanation. Justification of the highest position by ontological process. Justification that affection is the highest. So when justification in ontological aspect is there that is very appreciated and useful for the public, for preaching.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Bhakti Rakṣaka.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. And for this poetry Prabhupāda only he saw and he told to Śrauti Mahārāja, "This is not his writing, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written it himself through him."

And to [Śrīyukta Aprākṛta Prabhu] Goswāmī Mahārāja, Prabhupāda told that, "Yes, I'm satisfied that what I came to give, he has that with him, that is left here now."

So what you say, what you're going to appreciate in me, that really comes from my Gurudeva. That is his. I'm not the owner. This is his property. So śrī jīvatejasthatiḥ. I have compared my Gurudeva with Śrī Jīva.

[gaurāṅgaika-gatir vrajāśritamatiḥ śrī gauradhāma sthitiḥ sachāstraikavṛtiḥ kusaṅga viratirduḥsthabyathā-niṣkṛtiḥ śrī rūpaik-ratiḥ sanātana-natiḥ śrī jīvatejasthatiḥ śrī siddhānta sarasvatī guruvaru gaudīya-goṣṭhīpatiḥ]

[Another stanza in his praise, gaurāṅgaika-gatir, where the only end of his life was Śrī Gaurāṅga, aika-gatir, only! The only object of his life was Śrī Gaurāṅga. Vrajāśrītamatih. The mental God took cover from the Vraja rasa - your most beloved Dayita dāsa, at present, who is our Gurudeva! Please recommend my admission in the list of his servitors permanently, be gracious enough to do that. In this way, the poem was appreciated by Prabhupāda and four others also. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Gaura-Haribol!"]

[Śrī Gauḍīya Gitāñjali, 1983] [Sādhu Saṅga magazine, volume. 3, number 1, 1985, page 12]

[Śloka 155 in a collection of verses quoted by Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja]

That is his attitude, giving explanation to the high words of the Gurudeva, Rūpa and Sanātana. Jīva Goswāmī established here in the educated, illuminated section, enlightened section. Jīva Goswāmī explained that the Guru, Sanātana and Rūpa, what they gave to the world that is of so high position.

Digvijayī came and Sanātana and Rūpa they gave their signature. "We're defeated here."

But Jīva Goswāmī he tore it up. "Come to me, I shall discuss with you." Discussing, and that Digvijayī was defeated. "Now you try to understand why my Guru Rūpa and Sanātana gave you their signature. They did not want to waste their time by talking foolish things with you."

Badrinārāyaṇa: Then Rūpa Goswāmī asked him to leave the āśrama, no?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. "You have got so egoistic so you must leave my āśrama."

He had to leave. Then Sanātana when wandering through the Vraja maṇḍala heard about Jīva Goswāmī _____ [?] "One beautiful boy is here and he's fasting and passing his time in a very sad way, his attitude, his mentality."

Sanātana saw him _____ [?] "What have you heard from Śrī Caitanyadeva? What is the real advice you understand from Him?"

He said, "Jīva daye, Nāme ruci, Vaiṣṇava sevā. That to be kind towards the ordinary people. And to serve the Vaiṣṇava. And to take the Name."

"But the jīva is suffering there. You have no pity for him?"

He understood the purpose of Sanātana and they sent person to me a jīva.

And also once that Vallabhācāryi, he saw, went to ask Rūpa Goswāmī, "I hear that you have written many things about devotion. I want to see."

He gave _____ [?]

"O, but grammatically this word is wrong."

"All right _____ [?] You correct it then."

Then Jīva Goswāmī knew everything. And when Vallabha Bhaṭṭa was going to take bath in Yamunā then Jīva Goswāmī with a pot in his hand he was going as if to fetch some water he followed. And on the way he told that, "What you think? You have corrected something, some mistake?"

"Yes. There was a grammatical mistake and I asked him to correct."

Then he, "How it was faulty?"

"It is this and that way faulty."

"No. It is correct, it is not faulty. You must be wrong."

"O, is it? It's written in this way. O, yes, I forgot. Then I committed mistake."

Then when he came back, "O Rūpa, I have asked you to correct some passage, but it was all right. I did wrong. And who's that boy, very bright, beautiful, that boy, who's he?"

"He's my disciple _____ [?]

"He detected me, my mistake, that it was all right."

So that was also a course. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. As if they depend on Kṛṣṇa's will and it came through Jīva Goswāmī they knew this that it will come from somewhere. 'That we're so and so that Kṛṣṇa will prove we did not do it.' When Baladeva [Vidyābhūṣaṇa] told it was erroneous he corrected. But Kṛṣṇa when somewhere else came and put the thing properly. They had faith in such things. So Vaiṣṇava, so jñāna, heart is above knowledge, faith is above knowledge. Their faith was served by knowledge.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

They follow that process, amāninā mānadena, but the mistake was not allowed by Kṛṣṇa. Somehow or other knowledge came to serve the faith, affectionately. So who has kept the heart connection he has kept the central thing. Heart transaction is the central thing in us. That is love, home, and Vṛndāvana thought is that. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. 'Yes, it is here. Jñāna miśrā, karma miśrā, eho bāhya, superficial.' And when eliminates jñāna 'that we can know' and 'we can do', both eliminated. It is automatic.

When one brāhmaṇa brahmacārī he met Kṛṣṇa and told, "You Kṛṣṇa I shall curse You."

"Why brāhmaṇa boy?"

"Because You are at the root of all these disasters in Kurukṣetra war. So many widows and orphans they're crying and You are at the root of all these miseries."

"Kṛṣṇa told, "You brāhmaṇa boy, you with much difficulty and labour have collected some power. You will apply that to Me your energy will be spent up, but it won't affect Me. I'm nirguṇa. Because I'm in nirguṇa I'm in the necessary flow I've no other alternative. The absolute flow I'm working in harmony with the absolute flow of the world there. I'm there. Nothing can touch Me."

So the general flow, harmonious flow, that is līlā. That is For Himself. That cannot be checked or opposed by any other flow springing from so many small origins, centres. For Itself. Who can understand that flow they're only faithful to that, have been saved from any other flow around them.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. His will is going on. It is His līlā. It cannot be opposed or hampered in any way. Rather we must give up. Sarva-dharmān parityajya. We shall try to place ourselves in that flow of life, that universal flow, līlā. So jñāna śūnya bhakti. The yogī, the jñānī, they've got their special object of life. That bhakti proper is not only special thing, but what is already there in the original, irresistible. Ahaitukī apratihatā. Causeless and which can never be opposed. This is bhakti.

sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, [yato bhaktir adhokṣaje / ahaituky apratihatā, yayātmā suprasīdati]

["The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6]

Everyone's highest duty is this. Yato bhaktir adhokṣaje. To be grateful to the transcendental flow. Ahaitukī and apratihatā, causeless and that cannot be hampered or opposed in any way. Irresistible, and apratihatā, and ahaitukī, no cause, automatic. Automatic and irresistible flow at the centre. We must try to harmonise ourselves with that. That is bhakti. _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He's such a great scholar and he says jñāna śūnya bhakti. He knows so many things, so many scriptures, but he says, he's preaching jñāna śūnya bhakti. Ha, ha, ha.

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Nimāi Paṇḍita Mahāprabhu also was...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Nimāi Paṇḍita.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Nimāi Paṇḍita was a great Paṇḍita.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Jñāna is subservient. When, people in general they're appreciators of power. When a powerful man he bends his head to a jñānī, to a ṛṣi, when a king is bowing down his head to an ordinary ṛṣi in the jungle, then ṛṣi's greatness is established. And when that jñāna and power, both karma, jñāna, they'll submit at the feet of the love, then, love is already a great thing, but for the people it helps them to know. So jñāna means subservient, power is subservient to devotion. Then that is doing some service to the ajñāna, to do His will.

[34:50 - 41:32 ?]

...so do everything for Me."

...

...and death and its finished.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: What is that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That proposed alternative of devotion that must be dealt fully given justice and then the defects will be taken out and then cancelled. Otherwise whimsical dismissal has got no value.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Hmm, yes, that we're seeing in time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Karma is nothing, jñāna is nothing, yoga is nothing, only such statement has got no value. They must have proper dealings, justification, justice. This is their real position, and better than this, that and that, and then this defect, so it must be real. In this way every aspect must be properly dealt. Just as in the court the opposition party, he's also hearing, and discussion that is allowed. And then by supreme decision - 'O, there's this defect so he's culpable.' This way stands.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: ...yes, all of these other things, but didn't really dismiss them. And now after so many years again they're going back to that.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. The devotees in the beginning they dismissed all these things, karma, jñāna, but now they're realising and going back.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: They did not dismiss them fully...

Badrinārāyaṇa: Properly.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: ...in a real way, but in a superficial way they so easily rejected everything. And now many years later they're going back.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Back to?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī & Badrinārāyaṇa: Jñāna, karma.

Badrinārāyaṇa: It means some have left the sevā, the service. And some are searching other paths.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That karma that you're talking about _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. You've hit the nail on the head.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They've whimsically accepted, eh? Not proper hearing.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Not deep, not diving deep into reality, the surface.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do they admit that we're unfit, but devotion is higher? Do they admit knowing this is all nonsense?

87.03.00.B _801

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do they admit that 'we're unfit but devotion is higher?' Do they admit knowing this is all nonsense? 'We're fallen.' What do they say? 'This is higher but we can't stand.' This is their function, or this is all bogus? 'We wasted our time, but we're going to reality now.' What do they say now? How, what is their attitude?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: They think it's higher.

Devotee: They think it's higher but they've lost the way.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: They think that devotion is higher. 'But we have lost our enlivenment.'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is good.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: That is some life.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. You gave the example of the bicycle. When you're riding the bicycle balance is maintained. But once the bicycle stops then you fall. As long as they're going...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Forward momentum.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes, that forward going power.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But that power is something else, that comes to help bicycle. When that is withdrawn then bicycle gone, goes away.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Off balance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Germany I'm told that there - only one whole train, in the train only one wheel is passing _____ [?]

Devotees: Monorail.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Monorail, one line?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. It goes two hundred and forty miles an hour.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But when no force, when force all right, that one line train. And when stopping in the station some support on both sides?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, it works by magnetic field, force field.

Devotee: Also a fly wheel inside, Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Otherwise it is running on one line perhaps?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Devotee: It's got a spinning wheel inside it, Mahārāja. Just like a bicycle.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This wheel above, it's also moving in this way and keeping the balance?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But only one line. _____ you've got your...

Devotee: Yes. I've got Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Devotee: It's a greeting card from my sister for my birthday.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. They're celebrating your birthday there?

Devotee: Yes. It's very nice card. It says outside, "The world is full of beauty when the heart is full of love."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah!

premāñjana-cchurita-bhakti-vilocanena, santaḥ sadaiva hṛdayeṣu vilokayanti

Premāñjana-cchurita. When the ointment of love is put on the eye then we can see Kṛṣṇa, Lord of Love.

So, they're blaming me, but they should blame the scripture also. Scripture also trying to explain the position of devotion in such way. "This is karma, this is jñāna, this is bhoga, this is this, this is that. And devotion is such." In other words it's appreciation?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Indirectly.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Authentically.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Devotee: Authenticity is not imitation.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Unique.

Devotee: Imitation is opposite of authenticity.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Genuineness.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Guru Mahārāja's writings are authentic.

To establish the position of Nityānanda Prabhu Who is not considered as a scholar like Mahāprabhu, what's His position, why He's so great? Nityānanda Prabhu. He's not very scholarly. So Śrī Kṛṣṇa prema Nāma, there's something, wonderful thing in the name of Kṛṣṇa prema, love of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. It is such a happy thing that even the great personages they cast aside all the proposals of the scriptures including salvation. It is such a wonderful thing. And Nityānanda Prabhu can give that thing, so His position is higher than the giver of the salvation and other things in the world.

That can be given by Nityānanda Prabhu, so Nityānanda Prabhu's position is automatically higher than the givers of the mukti, that is Nārāyaṇa and other gods that give the worldly things. And apparently not scholarly but still He can give Kṛṣṇa prema.

The gopīs were not very high scholars but they hold the supreme position. Why? How? They're possessor of that supreme divine love. And Kṛṣṇa Himself He also hankers after such love, such dedication, such sacrifice, He Himself.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I try to recall that, from time to time to think like that. That I'm far away, but by remembering you on the plane of consciousness there's some connection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That thinker of the same thought, that is very close.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You said once when Mahāprabhu toured South India, and when He returned to Purī He said to Sārvabhauma Bhaṭṭācārya, He said, "I met many people, and of course Rāmānanda he's special, but I didn't meet anyone who was like you Sārvabhauma." But then you told me...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I told that I'm sympathetic, I'm not - what I did _____ [?] from the beginning it is something like relief work.

Tripurari Swāmī: But many are coming to know that you are a great friend of Swāmī Mahārāja and friend of everyone, friend of the world. Like Janārdana Mahārāja he has come...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Cannot but be. One who has got faith and love for Mahāprabhu and our Guru Mahārāja they cannot but feel proud for Swāmī Mahārāja's preaching throughout the world. They must be pained by this inopportune thing. We feel so much proud. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Though misunderstand me but I cannot misunderstand them so easily. Anyway they're helping the flow of Mahāprabhu, of our Guru Mahārāja. Swāmī Mahārāja means that. Swāmī Mahārāja means our Guru Mahārāja, and Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda. One who can read deeply they'll see like that. Otherwise they'll go down in such a way. All sincere Vaiṣṇavaite, even Indian, they felt proud, especially those that have got faith in Vṛndāvana līlā, in Kṛṣṇa līlā. In Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the very gist of the whole Vedic truth.

Even I gave the veda matta, the mother of Veda is Gāyatrī _____ [?] contains the whole. And gāyatrī bhāṣya rūpo 'sau, I have given out that. And Navadwīpa greater when it's distributing itself to the fallen souls _____ [?] that principle of life. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.

Tripurari Swāmī: Guru Mahārāja. This morning we were discussing about sannyāsa mantram. And I read in one book by O.B.L. Kapoor, your Godbrother...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Tripurari Swāmī: ...disciple of Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Prabhupāda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oudh Bihārī Lal Kapoor. Dr.

Tripurari Swāmī: Dr. He wrote one book, in that book he explained that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That book was his thesis and that was examined by Professor Sanyal. Three examiners, when he gave that, appeared for the Doctorship examination, one of them was Professor Sanyal, the editor of the Harmonist. And the writer of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya book. There he wrote, sannyāsa is also everything. "I surrender to the aspiration of the service of gopīs." That is the meaning of the sannyāsa.

Tripurari Swāmī: He said that Mahāprabhu received from Keśava Bhāratī tat tvam asi mantram. General meaning tat tvam asi, 'thou art that.'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I am the same." But the real meaning that tat tvam asi, "I am Yours. I belong to You." Tasya tvam asi. "You are not independent, you belong to Him, you're dependent on Him", is another meaning. But generally in the Śaṅkara School they superficially they may take that mantram. It's in Veda, but in Veda the meaning they take that "I'm You, I'm so ham," but the real meaning "I belong to You. You are all, Master."

...

...you may know. "I got some mantram in a dream, whether it's real or not please hear."
Then He gave it to His Guru Keśava Bhāratī, and then He took from him.
"Yes, this is the mantram."

...

"I belong to You. I'm Yours." Tat tvam asi. Not "I'm You."

Tripurari Swāmī: Then, now in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava sampradāya the sannyāsa mantra we're receiving that is different. So when that change came? From Bhaktisiddhānta Prabhupāda?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Mahāprabhu asked, gave direct teaching and inspiration to Rūpa, Sanātana, and through them Jīva Goswāmī and they have produced that scripture for the Vaiṣṇavas. And from there it is coming. And also Mahāprabhu gave some direction to - there also is some case. It's coming from Mahāprabhu and specially Sanātana Goswāmī, Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, then Sat-kriya-sāra-dīpikā, anyhow in consonance is the same. Śrīnivāsa Ācārya inspired by Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. Narottama Ṭhākura.

Mahāprabhu only formally He took mantram from Keśava Bhāratī. First from Īśvara Purī, but that was dvādaśaka. But He asked Sanātana Goswāmī to settle what will be the mantram, and then Sanātana Goswāmī gave it aṣṭādvādaśaka which is in vogue now, accepted by all Gauḍīya, from Sanātana Goswāmī. It is aṣṭādvādaśaka. And before that Mahāprabhu got dvādaśaka, the last portion. Then Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa for the preaching purpose from Keśava Bhāratī. And the third we're told He made Rāmānanda His Guru in the rāga-mārga...

Devotee: Mahāprabhu?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in a way. Sakhī. From Vṛndāvana līlā, sakhī vilāsa, sakhī līlāra vistāra.

[sabe eka sakhī-gaṇera ihāṅ adhikāra, sakhī haite haya ei līlāra vistāra sakhī vinā ei līlā puṣṭa nāhi haya, sakhī līlā vistāriyā, sakhī āsvādaya]

["Actually, only the gopīs have the right to appreciate these transcendental pastimes, and only from them can these pastimes be expanded."] ["Without the gopīs, these pastimes between Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa cannot be nourished. Only by their cooperation are such pastimes broadcast. It is their business to taste the mellows."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.202-203]

It is only the sakhīs, the she friends of Rādhārāṇī, they can give out the real līlā of Rādhārāṇī. They know and they can distribute it, no other, but only the intimate friends of Rādhārāṇī. They can deal with Rādhā dāsya...

...

...and so Mahāprabhu showed when He went to Rāmānanda and He asked him and Rāmānanda he's saying to Him. And at the same to Rāmānanda says, "I feel inspiration from You. You are talking through my mouth, as if I'm giving answers. What You ask I make the reply but I feel it is coming through You. And just as the ocean gives birth to the cloud, the water goes from ocean to cloud, and when it rains from cloud to ocean again. It is like that."

Rāma Rāma.

Tripurari Swāmī: But Rāmānanda and Svarūpa Dāmodara different disposition.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lalitā and Viśākhā. We're told they're of that type. Lalitā as Svarūpa Dāmodara and Viśākhā as Rāmānanda Rāya. Gaura-gaṇoddeśa-dīpikā, in that book it is shown that who was who in Vṛndāvana. The personages that are in Gaura līlā, who are they in Vṛndāvana, in Gaura-gaṇoddeśa-dīpikā _____ [?]

Sādhu Mahārāja: Mahārāja. I'm Sādhu Mahārāja. I have a question. Because you're the senior Vaiṣṇava on the planet, could you give the conclusion of seniority. Because we find in the scriptures sometimes apparently discrepancies. For instance Śukadeva Goswāmī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Sādhu Mahārāja: What is the siddhānta of seniority? Because we see Śukadeva Goswāmī being the head of the Vaiṣṇava in that assembly and giving speeches. And also we find Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa speaking to Uddhava while Maitreya Ṛṣi was present. And afterwards when Vidura wanted to get instructions from Uddhava, Uddhava sent him to Maitreya. And things like that also we find in Gaura līlā. When Caitanya Mahāprabhu was giving respect to Rāmacandra Purī due to his seniority, although he wasn't qualified for that respect, but Gaurāṅga Mahāprabhu was giving it. So it seems that sometimes seniority works in a zigzag way. How we'll understand that? You're the most qualified to teach us.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One is form, another is material. The material is more substantial than form. I had a talk here with Kīrtanānanda and the whole place. I told 'I'm form breaker.'

Devotees: (Group laughter) Jaya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

The dharma, we should regard the form, but what form? You had the form of the Christian missionary, they have got some form. You have left that and come to Swāmī Mahārāja. Why? The material is, substance is of real importance. All importance is to the substance and the form is secondary. Without all this formality we shall try, but if substance is absent we must leave that. Substance is all in all.

Rāmacandra Purī, Mahāprabhu gave formally but He did not take Rāmacandra Purī. Rāmacandra Purī he was a revolt to Mādhavendra Purī, his own Guru.

Rāmacandra Purī, he advised when Mādhavendra Purī was passing away, "O, why you're repenting for Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa? You conceive that you are Brahman himself."

Then Mādhavendra Purī, "Be off from here, you māyāvādī, you be off. I'm not getting as one with Kṛṣṇa and he has come to me to say that I'm Brahman."

And Īśvara Purī he gave service to him, and Īśvara Purī became full of love by his grace. And Rāmacandra Purī was rejected. But still formal respect Mahāprabhu tried to give but not to take him from the heart.

So form may be important but the substance it's carrying, according to that. Every sampradāya, religious sampradāya, has got some formal position. _____ [?] Sikhs in the Punjab. They have form but as much as matter is there, substance is there, that will be more, more important. Otherwise it will be considered as form from the position. All important is substance. Sarva-dharmān. First attention to the form.

yataḥ pravṛttir bhūtānāṁ, yena sarvvam idaṁ tatam svakarmmaṇā tam abhyarccya, siddhiṁ vindati mānavaḥ

["A man achieves perfection by the performance of the appropriate duties prescribed for him according to his qualification. By the execution of his duties, he worships the Supreme Lord from whom the generation and impetus of all beings arises, and who permeates and pervades this entire universe (exercising His Supreme qualification of Lordship over one and all."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.46]

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt]
sva-dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

Where you are at present you try to maintain that. Just as a general will say, 'maintain your position' to the soldier. 'At the cost of your life you must maintain your position.' Then when time will come, 'go forward.' Do you follow?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like that. Sva-dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ. Don't aspire after the position of others. Maintain your present position whereby past action you've come. You maintain your position, it's better to die there, and don't come back." Then again He says, "Sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. Give up all sorts of positions and come to Me."

Otherwise, what is progress? All this life not to maintain ones own position eternally. Progress means go forward, leave the form and go, above you you'll find the highest position. And the highest position that is infinite. One can't find that 'I've got the whole thing within my fist.' No position is possible for the finite, because that is infinite. As much as he'll progress he'll see, 'O, great, great infinite. I'm nothing, I'm only a speck, a negligent position.' Hmm?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?] 'I'm form breaker.' _____ [?]

Badrinārāyaṇa: Unfortunately he couldn't digest that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Absolute is Ācārya. We must try to see Him in Ācārya. And it will be progressive according to my progress.

Devotee: Mahārāja. The spirit soul that is going back to Goloka Vṛndāvana, how does he see seniority there?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Everyone is Guru. The ātmā when going back to Goloka Vṛndāvana, how does he see seniority there? In the land of Gurus, how does he see seniority?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is _____ [?] there already. Already there is _____ [?] be acquainted with them _____ [?] and he'll be adjusted in a position. There is a systematic stuff eternally, and he'll be reinstated rather in his position in a particular group. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, classification, and sub division also. And according to his inner position he'll be adjusted there. Something like that.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. I've talked much. I shall have to suffer the reaction _____ [?]

Tripurari Swāmī: You will get the reaction that what you are saying we will take that and distribute that to many people. And that will be a great blessing for them. And that reaction will come to you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: A blissful reaction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So this old age perhaps Guru Mahārāja has spared me. He wanted me to go to the west, but I anyhow was reluctant. And he remarked perhaps I think once he remarked, "Ease lover."

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. Although you say 'in your old age' but we see you as the youngest.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When as much as we have any connection with that eternal substance, that aspect of course ever new, youthful. That aspect. _____ [?]

...

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Tripurari Swāmī: So Mahārāja. I spoke with Janārdana Mahārāja on the telephone in Mexico before coming. He told me he was at the āśrama of Kusum Āśrama Mahārāja. And the GBC they sent two sannyāsīs to speak with him. Those two sannyāsīs were not GBC men, but representing the body of GBC. So Janārdana Mahārāja told me they were dealing with him very gentlemanly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After he returned from here?

Tripurari Swāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I asked him that GBC committee is coming there on your meeting, and after that you will come. After that or they'll feel disturbed. I'm not going to give any shock to them before this meeting. But he told, "I have already _____ [?] I won't go there." All these things. And recommended by Sudhīra Mahārāja and they all told that I've accepted the connection. But it will be a shock to the GBC if I did not like that just before their sitting here this will happen. But I could not avoid the request _____ [?] and I did not vow to keep him here now, so he left now. Afterwards he may come again.

Tripurari Swāmī: So anyway they're dealing a little differently than in the past. They're forced to deal more courteously, gentlemanly.

Devotee: It was a good shock. This time it's a good shock.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But in this condition that is still a shock to me and I did not like it, what I had to do for circumstance. _____ [?] could not avoid. But my common sense was that after this meeting he may come, but they're impatient.

Tripurari Swāmī: _____ [?] and there's one sannyāsī there in charge of the ISKCON temple. He was our friend previously. So he found that we were in Hawaii so he asked, "Please come to the temple and stay with me in my room." So we went there, we spoke with him. He's taken sannyāsa from Jayapatāka Swāmī, but he does not, he's feeling sorry, unhappy, in that relationship. So he has sent one letter to you, to Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You are to consider all these things. _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. You consider. You are all sincere people and you love at your heart Mahāprabhu and your Swāmī Mahārāja. And what Swāmī Mahārāja really went to preach there, you have got touch with that. So we can rely on you to some extent.

Tripurari Swāmī: Generally we all consider that your connection is most valuable thing for everyone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I thought like that, that I'm always friendly to them. But I'm aggrieved that they misunderstand me. Even my enemies they remarked to me that my speciality is 'strong common sense and disinterested nature. And has given me a unique position in the Maṭh. Strong common sense and disinterested nature. No selfish end of life, open to truth, always open to truth.'

...

...generosity, broadness. Mahā-vadanyāya. I like Mahāprabhu.

yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, [āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa
kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga, punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad- gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

The common interest. Whomever you find inject this medicine in the epidemic, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Whomever you come across inject Kṛṣṇa consciousness. This is the general tenure of the life of Mahāprabhu attracting persons. Do everything attracted by this common generosity, and the help will come from above. If we do the service the help automatically will come to us to help us spread this Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa, āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa. Don't be dejected, don't go. That should be our duty, the aim of our life, eternal life, either single or combined. Always spreading Kṛṣṇa consciousness, distributing Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the world, the only business, only engagement, and others are subsidiary.

Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Rāma. Rāma. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Tripurari Swāmī: Tomorrow we're expecting Kanan Giri Mahārāja. And Bhāratī Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Any news of that Balarāma? They do not know?

Tripurari Swāmī: No good news of sevā.

Badrinārāyaṇa: He told that he felt most inspired by _____ [?] And he wanted to build a Sanskrit college there.

Tripurari Swāmī: We'll follow up on that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.
Bhāvānanda Mahārāja is also retiring? Eh?

Tripurari Swāmī: Retiring. Retired. Finished. In New York, with Rāmeśvara, living together.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Badrinārāyaṇa: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They've lost their faith altogether in Mahāprabhu? What is this? Or Prabhupāda, Swāmī Mahārāja?

Tripurari Swāmī: I don't think so.

Badrināràyaṇa: They've lost their faith in the organisation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But the practical life of an Ācārya they're unable to...

Tripurari Swāmī: Unable, cannot continue.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. They're direct representation of Swāmī Mahārāja...

Tripurari Swāmī: Misrepresentation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? Swāmī Mahārāja Found a committee, is it not?

Tripurari Swāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Committee of Ācārya? Some say, deny, he did not form any committee of Ācārya.

Tripurari Swāmī: He gave some suggestions, some names.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some managing committee, eh?

Tripurari Swāmī: Ācāryas also, he named some Ācāryas. But he also named you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the beginning they came to me when there was some question against Haṁsadūta, Tamāla Kṛṣṇa, and Jayatīrtha, is it not? These three. But I appealed to them to forgive and forget for the first time. Because Swāmī Mahārāja gave recognition, you give more value to that. And because it will be a great setback to the whole mission that Swāmī Mahārāja's direct representatives are treated in this way. So forgive and forget, first time. But Tamāla Kṛṣṇa was retained, and Jayatīrtha and Haṁsadūta they left.

Tripurari Swāmī: Tamāla Kṛṣṇa has written one letter in response to a letter from Jagad Guru Swāmī. Jagad Guru Swāmī wrote him a strong but loving letter. Strong points but sincere heart. And Tamāla Kṛṣṇa has written a response that he has moved by the points raised by Jagad Guru Swāmī regarding all of us and yourself. And he's carrying those points to this GBC committee for consideration. He would like to see some resolve in all these affairs.

Badrināràyaṇa: _____ [?]

Tripurari Swāmī: Hmm.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. And Yudhāmanyu Sevā Vikrama is he coming?

Tripurari Swāmī: We don't know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's got some wound somewhere in the leg, eh?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Just a sprained ankle.

Tripurari Swāmī: Not serious.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not cured?

Devotees: Not too serious.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

The call of local duty and the call for absolute duty, that is indistinguishable. Call for absolute duty or call for local duty, local interest. That also in the divine realm, and local and absolute, and there's gradation. Where's the gradation? The progressive, infinite is progressive, as a subjective, super subjective, and progressive. Finite cannot finish infinite, infinite is always infinite. No number of finite can make any infinite. Just as from zero, minus zero is zero. Zero plus zero, zero. Zero into zero, zero. So infinite plus infinite is infinite. Infinite minus infinite is infinite. Infinite into infinite is infinite. It's of such character.

[oṁ pūrṇam adaḥ pūrṇam idaṁ, pūrṇāt pūrṇam udacyate]
pūrṇasya pūrṇam ādāya, pūrṇam evāvaśiṣyate

["The Personality of Godhead is perfect and complete, and because He is completely perfect, all emanations from Him, such as this phenomenal world, are perfectly equipped as complete wholes. Whatever is produced of the complete whole is also complete in itself. Because He is the complete whole, even though so many complete units emanate from Him, He remains the complete balance."]

[Śrī Īśopaniṣad - Invocation]

The full taken from the full again the remainder is full. This is infinite, just like zero. Ha, ha. Zero in one side, infinite in another side. So infinite minus infinite is infinite. What is more striking than this? Eh? Pūrṇasya pūrṇam ādāya. We take full from the full, the remainder is full, it won't be lessened, can't be lessened. So we're going to approach towards that. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: In San Francisco Tripurari Mahārāja and myself we were talking with an impersonalist, and he was saying that the Absolute becomes conditioned. And we told him that if the Absolute is prone to become conditioned then its not ultimately Absolute because the Absolute can become many conditions in the material world.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Absolute's approach towards non absolute in its own form, that is its highest magnanimity. Aprākṛta. Knowledge classified pratyakṣa, [parokṣa, aparokṣa, adhokṣaja, aprākṛta]. Pratyakṣa, that is sense perception. Parokṣa, not experienced by me but experienced by others. Then aparokṣa, just as in sleep, dreamless sleep, we come in touch with something, and when we arise we say, 'very happily I slept.' At that time when sleeping we had no movement, but when coming down we say, assert that 'very happy sleep I got, sound sleep.' So that is aparokṣa. Then adhokṣaja, another realm beyond that which when He cares to come down to our level we can feel Him. When withdrawn we have no help. That is adhokṣaja. And that adhokṣaja more higher becomes aprākṛta, comes to our level in such a way that we think He's one of us. But He's not. His approach, the remotest approach of the Absolute to the finite. Infinite's approach to the finite when it's in it's highest position is aprākṛta. Aprākṛta-vat, just like ordinary but not so.

That is Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana līlā. One Who is carrying the Govardhana like a play ball, and He when there's a cat coming by a mean approach He's embracing Mother Yaśodā.

Yaśodā seeing the whole universe, then She's disturbed. "Then who is He? The boy opened His mouth and I found the whole universe there...

87.10.03.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the whole universe. Then she's disturbed. "Then who is He? The boy opened His mouth and I found the whole universe there. He's not my son?"

And after she was puzzled, at that time some cat cried, and being afraid He embraced Yaśodā.

"O, no, no. He's my son, my child."

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So Absolute, most intimate and embracing the finite, that is aprākṛta līlā in Vṛndāvana. "I'm one of you." Even Yaśodā hoping He's carrying the shoes of Nanda, in this position. And quarrelling and stealing the butter, all these things. Lying _____ [?] Almost like one of us. His highest approach, and most magnanimous approach towards finite. It is aprākṛta, that is Kṛṣṇa līlā. And when that He's distributing Himself to the most fallen _____ [?] that is Gaura līlā. Both combined, Rādhā-Govinda. Rādhārāṇī's representing - that is the positive and negative. Negative side wholesale represented by Rādhārāṇī in different stages. Mādhurya rasa is the full, and vātsalya, consorthood is full. And the filial love, the friendly affection, and the service of the servant, and in submission they're all parts of Rādhārāṇī. Full in Rādhārāṇī, negative points. And the positive side Kṛṣṇa with all His paraphernalia.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...service of Mahāprabhu. From far away you're distributing that sukṛti to so many people. You're doing a great service and for that you'll be rewarded from higher agency for your hard labour in the service of Mahāprabhu. Gaura Sundara.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have distributed the mercy of Kṛṣṇa consciousness to so many. It is all recorded in the register book of Nityānanda Prabhu, Mahāprabhu, Kṛṣṇa, and the gopīs.
