Karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana / mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr. "Don't bother your brain with the consequence. Mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi. That does not mean that you'll withdraw from the action, from your duty, because the result is not in your hand. That will be foolishness to the extreme. The result is in My hand. It is the wholesale thing, not the effect of your own energy, but by the spirit of the many energies such things occur, the contribution of the many."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Don't care, give more attention for this, but as much as possible you'll try to select favourable good association as you can understand. And at the same time, putting faith in the wholesale consciousness of whom you're approaching, to get whose benefit. He's everywhere. He's all good. He's absolute. None can oppose His will. So you must maintain, foster in yourself that sort of faith. I'm smallest of the smallest, but to whom I'm going, my guardian, He's greatest of the greatest. As much as I'm hopeless, so much He will be extending Himself as His grace to me.

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Your grace is given in accordance with the necessity of those who really deserve it. In that consideration, I have some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have some claim to Your grace."] [Gīta-mālā, Yāmuna-bhāvāvali, 19]

As much as one is fallen, so much the attention is drawn from the Gracious Absolute to him.

In a family, mother's affection is little partial to the weak. And those that are strong, mother may not care so much for them. But with the weak mother's attention is concentrated.

This is general, but quality, the goodness, must be presupposed.

But there is mercy above justice, we shall also note that, mercy is above justice. Love has no recognition, sometimes, of quality, ignoring good or bad quality, love comes and gives us all. That is our solace, our hope. That as much wicked I may be, still I'm not eliminated from the gracious boundary of the Supreme Graceful Lord, Gracious Lord.

82.11.27.C_82.11.28.A

Bhakta Thomas: I'm a friend of Dev Nārāyaṇa. I wanted to ask, concerning the neutral devotee, the first position, or rasa, neutral devotee, I understand that a neutral devotee is one who has some affection for Kṛṣṇa but does not necessarily want to have a relationship of serving Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you mean by neutral devotee?

Devotee: Śanta-rasa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not neutral. Neutral means both sides he has got, but śanta-rasa, that mere submission to the truth, not active tendency to satisfy Him, that is śanta-rasa. That is mere submission and slight attraction, but not so much inspiration as to serve Him, to satisfy Him. That is lowest rasa, the submissive closeness, nearness of the truth, not any active transaction. That is śanta-rasa. That is not to be called neutral. Neutral both the parties, no regard to mix with any party, but many parties of different types and he's neutral, he's numb, he's for none. But śanta-rasa means submission, submissive to the truth, but not actively engaged to follow His dictations, to satisfy Him. That is śanta-rasa. the lowest order. Niṣṭhā, the poor truth, not active, the service, serving, not practically in service, practical connection, but admits and submits to the truth, that is the lowest conception of a devotee.

Bhakta Thomas: So, my question is if someone is having that position simply submissive but still not so much actively wanting to serve...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is also, there are also so many inter stages, analytical stages, the śanta-rasa to Vaikuṇṭha, śanta-rasa in Vṛndāvana, they're different. And in that posing also, the flute also śanta-rasa. The Yamunā, the river, the hill Govardhana, the forest, the earth, the sand, all śanta. So many birds also śanta-rasa, beasts also śanta-rasa, there gradation in śanta-rasa also and different type in śanta-rasa. The seat śanta-rasa, cows are śanta-rasa, so many śanta-rasa. Passive attitude, more or less passive attitude, they're serving in a passive way, śanta-rasa.

Bhakta Thomas: I see. So how is it that they have changed their position in the spiritual world without having such a deep desire to want to serve Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is personality inside. You see the Ganges is there in the watery body, but the person Ganges is there, the Yamunā person is there, though water flow of a river, his body. So the person within and the body is in a passive way rendering service. We are to consider that, they're person, they're not property, not things only, but they're suitable to render that sort of passive service. The siṁhāsana, the cakra, the dress, the bed, all śanta-rasa, the food, śanta-rasa but passive mood, rendering service, but there is personality within. Posing is such, just as in a drama a man he's playing the part of a dead body.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, today is the disappearance day of Śrīla Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, so could you please say something about him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, he was born in Pharidapura district near Padmā River. He came in a merchant family, but, and he took initiation from Advaita Goswāmī, but afterwards when mature in life he left the world and went to Vṛndāvana. His previous name was Vaṁśī dāsa and then when he approached his Gurudeva, who was the disciple of Jagannātha dāsa Bābājī, one Bhāgavat dāsa took his, this bābājī-veśa from him and began his bhajana, mainly taking the Name, mahā-mantra. And he used, his habit was very strict vairāgya habit, his vairāgyam, his renunciation was very, very, firm and strong.

Then about thirty two years he passed in Vṛndāvana. After that he got some inspiration within and came to live in Navadvīpa. And there is the place where he used to live, sometimes in a cottage and sometimes in a public dharmaśālā to avoid the crowd, the mob.

By the direction of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he has no disciples. He did not initiate anybody we are told. He might have given one or two, but not to be traced. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura knew him because he also had connection with Jagannātha dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, and he recommended our Guru Mahārāja to take Hari-Nāma from him. And my Gurudeva Bhaktisiddhānta Ṭhākura at that time he was Bimalānanda Sarasvatī and his sannyāsa name is Bhaktisiddhānta Sarasvatī. Bimalānanda Sarasvatī previously was his title given by astronomer section, Sarasvatī. He was brahmacārī from his birth and only reading śāstra and observing the vrata, etc, and having a press and publishing books and journals in spiritual matters. Purely recommended by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura to take Hari-Nāma from Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja, he approached.

Then Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja told, "Yes. I am not independent. I shall ask my master. If he agrees to accept you through me then I shall fulfil your desire."

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "I was famous at that time as a good Vaiṣṇava theologist, well read in the Vaiṣṇava scriptures, and of pure character, conduct, and education, and knowledge of Vaiṣṇava philosophy, all these things. I was already famous in the society, still he ignored me."

"Yes I shall ask."

"Then next time I approached him, have you asked Mahāprabhu?"

"No, no, I forgot, I forgot to ask permission."

Guru Mahārāja told to us, out of his humility we take it, "That I had some pride in me that I'm a good scholar, extraordinary scholar, and a man of pure character, but when I heard that he forgot - so many so called stalwarts in the Vaiṣṇava school, they're all aspiring to get me as their disciple, but I don't approach them. They're approaching me in some way or other, but I don't approach anybody. Under the direction of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura I'm going to Gaurakiśora Bābājī, and he says that 'he has forgot.' There so many other stalwarts in the sampradāya, they're so eager to get me as their disciple and he says that so neglectfully. Oh I have got that pride in me, so I am unfit for his discipleship. Then next time I approached..."

"Yes, Mahāprabhu has accepted your prayer, you come."

And he gave Hari-Nāma. And perhaps we are told he was his only disciple.

Like Lokanātha, Narottama. Lokanātha Goswāmī did not make many disciples, not in a mood to make disciples, but his disciple Narottama, he inundated the whole of North Bengal, collected numberless number of disciples.

So our Guru Mahārāja, Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī did not extend his grace to many, but our Guru Mahārāja taking the misers property and distribute like anything, and aspire to conquer the whole world with the Name of Mahāprabhu under his banner.

So Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja was of such temperament, nirapekṣa, without caring for anything, but only for the Lord and His grace.

Once we're told that Pran Gopāla Goswāmī who was a very renowned scholar of Bhāgavatam, and could explain Bhāgavatam very beautifully, a popular explainer of Bhāgavatam.

But he approached Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī Goswāmī once, "Bābājī Mahārāja, they say that I can explain Bhāgavatam very nicely. I like that if you hear one day my explanation of Bhāgavatam, then I'll think myself very fortunate."

But he does not say anything, twice, thrice, he came with proposal, but he did not speak any word. But one day he himself made some arrangement, just before him and with his own men and own materials he came and made a sabhā and gave invitations to many devotees, and began Bhāgavatam reading just in his front.

Bābājī Mahārāja is sitting without saying, uttering anything, always sitting, he's there taking Name. Then the Goswāmī went on, all the audience went away. Then he was asking his personal attendant, "cleanse this place and smear with cow dung to purify."

"What's the matter Bābājī Mahārāja? It is already clear and pure. Goswāmī came and discussed about Bhāgavatam, explained Bhāgavatam here. It is already pure, so why am I to again brush, you say, and to smear cow dung to purify?"

"Oh, you heard the explanation of Bhāgavatam, but I heard only money, money, money. If he can spread amongst people that Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja heard his explanation of Bhāgavatam, it will fetch more money for him. That trade. He made Bhāgavatam subservient to his ordinary sensual life. We should serve Bhāgavatam. Bhāgavat is Kṛṣṇa Himself and we must serve Bhāgavatam. Leaving every comfort aside, we shall try to take the instruction of Bhāgavatam from door to door, to get relief to so many suffering souls. But he's utilizing that Bhāgavata-kathā, that purest, that world saving, that nectar, he's trying to utilize for his own sensual life. To serve his sensual life he's committing offences against Bhāgavatam, it is not service of Bhāgavatam."

In this way. Another new, young man taking initiation from somewhere, he built a cottage just on the Ganges bank, and he began to imitate Gaurakiśora Bābājī. Very, in abnegation, in renunciation, only once he takes some food and that also in earthen pot, he takes this skull of a, the human skull, used that as a pot, the water and everything in the skull. In this way he used to show just something like this (tin kari grubhasan?) The external renunciation, very stern renunciation, and he lived there and to chant the name, then some approached, "That this boy has come to imitate you and has erected a cottage, competition in your side. What is this?"

Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja remarked in a very serious way, "That if a lady enters into the labour room and imitates some sound as she's feeling the pain of giving birth to a child, then child will come? That imitation of the sound, and the imitation of the practice, the child won't come. So the mere imitation, the śuddha-sattva, we must come and perform many things before giving birth to a child, many things happen before. So omitting all those things, to approach real Guru, and then serve him, then to take the Name, and dedicating. And then coming in contact with śuddha-sattva, pure conscious area. And then by serving, attending to a particular place. And then one may show all these natural vairāgyam when taking the Name. But he enters only like a lady and imitates that he has got the highest level. It's a mere imitation, cannot do anything." This we hear he told. In this way he has got many remarks about śuddha-bhakti.

And lastly when he disappeared there was a quarrel. The sahajiyā section wanted that they will have under their control the samādhi.

And our Guru Mahārāja was informed. He was in Māyāpur, he came, "No, though he lived amongst you but he was far from you. You are all sahajiyā section. But he was a pure devotee, mahā-bhāgavat. And I'm his disciple, I want to manage, take care of his samādhi."

Then he had to approach the police station, and the sub inspector he ordered that our Guru Mahārāja, as he was disciple of him, according to his wish his samādhi will be finished. It was done so.

And at that time Prabhupāda first met Kuñja Bābu, Kuñjabihari Vidyābhūṣaṇa, who was afterwards his general secretary, and then afterwards he was sannyāsī, Bhakti Vilās Tīrtha Mahārāja. He met him at that time and gradually he approached him, and became disciple, and began to organize the preaching campaign.

And again, Guru Mahārāja, when by the current of the Ganges, that samādhi place was broken, he removed the bones of Bābājī Mahārāja to Māyāpur. And there he, in a box, we were present at that time, the remains were taken in a box, and with mantram that was put under the ground there in samādhi Māyāpur. And the temple is built just in the eastern side of Rādhā-kuṇḍa there in Caitanya Maṭh.

I have composed also a śloka in praise of Gaurakiśora Bābājī. Namo namo gaura-kiśora tubhyam. A few [10] stanzas I composed about Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī [Called Śrīmad-Gaurakiśora-nāmaskāra-daśakam]
And previously also there are other poems made by another ___ [?] vande gurum gaura-kiśora, in this way.
And mine is Namo namo gaura-kiśora tubhyam. Guror guro me paramo gurus-tvaṁ [verse 1], in this way.
Kvacid vrajāraṇya vivikta-vāsī [v 3] Kvacit punar gaura vanāntacārī, surāpagā-tīra-rajo-vihārī [v 4]
Bahir-virāgī tv-avadhūta-veṣī, namo namo gaura-kiśora [v 3]

sadā harer nāma mudā raṭantaṁ, gṛhe gṛhe mādhukarīm-aṭantam namanti devā api yam mahāntaṁ, namo namo gaura-kiśora tubhyam [verse 5]

In this way a few stanzas I have composed about him. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

[The full śloka, Śrīmad-Gaurakiśora-nāmaskāra-daśakam, is within

And Śrī Kīrtana Mañjuṣā, pages 43-47]

So I dissolve the meeting now.
Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Śrīmad Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

Parthamitra: Guru Mahārāja, I have heard...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are you? Who is he?

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā: Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Parthamitra: Parthamitra dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parthamitra, then Aranya Mahārāja, Bhakta Thomas, Arthur, and here is Parama.
Yes. Put your question.

Parthamitra: Yes. Parthamitra. I'm asking, I've heard very vaguely of a pastime of Kṛṣṇa called Paying the Toll. Kṛṣṇa, He would hide in the bushes of Vṛndāvana and Rādhārāṇī, with the other gopīs, would come to pick flowers, and Kṛṣṇa would come out of the bushes and say that She had to pay a tax, because He owned all the flowers of that forest.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We should not venture to try to conceive about those līlā, because the misrepresentation will be heard and in future we shall have to meet the great difficulty, when really we shall face that soil, position. So it is not to be tackled. Only if we come in connection, we should show our reverence and keep it for our future. Do you see?

The higher mathematical astronomics, here the brain will be puzzled and we will misconceive, and afterwards we will have to face a great difficulty. So many misunderstanding, or malunderstanding will come to take place. It is not so, as conception we can have in our best consciousness here, it is far, far, beyond, so we shall not. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

Only this much we shall try to think, that Kṛṣṇa is all in all, and all His whims, His desires, are purest and purifying the atmosphere. The standard of purity must be realised, what is the real standard of purity, to be acceptable to Kṛṣṇa. Only pleasures are condemned for our selfish end. Because we are deviated from the Absolute Good of Reality. So what is normal, or absolute good in the highest realm, if that sort of right is exercised here in this mundane plane it is a great hindrance to that, to reach there.

The prejudice, mollified prejudice, that won't be, it will be very hard to remove them. That is aparādha, Misconception, but misconception not innocent but in the form of offence, because that plane is not material. Not objective but subjective. Whatever misbehaviour towards the higher subject, that is all offence, and that is detrimental to us. We should remember, fools rush in where angels fear to tread. So we may hope the time will come once, when we shall be able to deal with those things properly.

ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

Fleeting desires in our stage, jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. Systematic activities with religious colours. Having some relation with the spiritual truth, elevation, but with connection with spiritual truth, that is karma. Jñāna, to understand that the environment where we are present, everything is undesirable and harmful. And eagerness to renounce the whole present circumstance and environment, tyāga, liberation, emancipation. Ādi means yoga and śaithilya, our negligence and also enquiry after things subtle, higher, where we can have some subjective position, in the subtle world where we can have our subjective position, we can control our subtle forces, anāvṛtam.

Ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu. And also to reject the proposal of going against the pleasing play of the Lord, that is śuddha-bhakti, bhakti proper. Then there is the Paravyoma, and then Kṛṣṇaloka. Then there is also śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, though not the same with this world, but similar, we can try to enter into.

But this mādhurya-rasa is very mystic, and of the highest type, especially parakīya, parakīya, which is not sanctioned by the society, nor by the scripture, such independent contact with the Lord. He's above all, above everything, not only above my life, my highest prospect, the society, the relatives, even my conception of religion. Everything is one side, and all rejected for the quest for our union with the truth, with the highest substance.

So step by step we must have to go forward. Otherwise if from the lowest step we try to understand the highest, that will be misconception and those errors will be very difficult to be removed. So we're told that, don't try to approach from this mundane plane. The Bhāgavatam has given the greatest warning.

naitat samācarej jātu manasāpi hy anīśvaraḥ
vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād yathā 'rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam
[īśvarāṇāṁ vachaḥ satyaṁ, tathaivacharitaṁ kvachit
teṣāṁ yat svavacho yuktaṁ buddhimāṁs tat samācharet]

["One should never imitate the behaviour of great personalities. One who foolishly does so, even mentally, is doomed, just as one who imitates Lord Śiva drinking poison."] - ["The instructions of the great personages are always true, but their conduct and their practices may not always be useful to the beginners. So the sober person will accept those practices that are backed by his words, understanding that in his higher stage he may do something which may not be useful to those of a lower stage. He has such spiritual power that what may be seen as a defect in the beginner, cannot harm him in any way. Therefore the fair minded beginners will accept those practices which are in consonance with his instructions, as being useful to their progress."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.30-1]

Yes, that is the highest achievement, no doubt, but never venture to approach that in a non scientific way. In a proper way. If you do you will be finished. Naitat samācarej jātu. Jātu means never, no, jātu, never try to approach this higher truth. Naitat samācarej jātu. Even by mind, even mentally. The sahajiyās are practically trying to imitate that, but Bhāgavatam has said clearly that not even mentally should you try to approach those līlā, that heavenly, the divine līlā of the Lord, so secret, private, purest thing, even mentally. Manasāpi. What to speak of physical imitation, but mentally also you don't indulge yourself to bring that thing in your imagination, manasāpi. Anīśvaraḥ. Who is not master of his own self, who has not controlled all his selfish propensities, tendencies, anīśvaraḥ. If he does so what will be the effect? Vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād. If due to foolishness, stupidity, he ventures to approach, even by mind, he will be destroyed, ruin is sure. Vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād. Even due to his ignorance or stupidity or foolishness, he ventures to mix, to associate with that higher truth, he will be finished. How? 'Rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam. Who is not Mahādeva, Śiva, if he goes to drink the poison he's sure to die. But it was ornamental to a man of position like Mahādeva. Mahādeva, He took the poison, but He was Nīlakaṇṭha, some ornamental spot came in His throat, He did not die. But if in inferior position than Śiva he goes to drink the poison he's sure to die.

This is also like that, so don't venture, it is not so. It is not so lower achievement, the highest achievement. And you are to follow step by step, step by step. And according to your purification you will be able to perceive, to conceive. Otherwise it will have no meaning to you. So if really we want that high thing, then we must be very much careful. Otherwise your future, your prospect, will be spoiled forever. If you love you, if you love your own self, then for the sake of the prospect of your own self you should avoid it. Otherwise that will be suicidal.

It is there, the smallest portion can satisfy. Even the conception of ones own soul can suffice to create a sensation of wonderfulness in his mental plane. It is practical. If eliminating your mind which is mixed with this mundane ideas and thoughts, with the help of your pure intelligence, reason, conscience, you can catch up, you can rise up to the level where your soul is, your own soul, ātmā, and you will be charmed to have the conception of that. That can stupify you, sufficient, the conception of your own soul is sufficient to stupify, that what am I doing here?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

[āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ]
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

Ātmā, the spirit proper, the soul, is such a thing of such wonderful type that when anyone comes to have a touch of that soul, his own soul, he'll be stupefied, finding, "What strange substance is there and I'm that strange thing, I am. And what are these material achievements for which we are running, life after life? This is all nasty thing. And how higher substance is my soul, it does not require any help from all these material world. He can stand by himself, and how peaceful, pacifying. A new world, he's giving the glimpse of a new world, whose comparison can never be drawn here in this world, however astonishing they may be. The scientific research on this, that, all trash, all will be, it has come and it is surely to be dissolved."

janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi-[duḥkha-doṣānudarśanam, Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9]
[The perception of the evil of birth, death, old age and disease]

And that is eternal, and that is self conscious. And no mortality, or no harm of anything can touch it. Then that jīva soul. Then that Paramātmā. Then the land where they live. And then the highest from whom everything as this wonderful world emanating. And the highest conception of the līlā, both positive and negative, grouped highest type, however it should be.

Ones own soul is sufficient to supply the charm for his future, real spiritual life, neglecting, spiting whatever aspiration we may conceive here in this world. Our going to the moon, and some news from the sun, and this or that, all mortal nasty things, undesirable. Not only that but all trespasser to dispossess us of our own wealth, all these enemy clan.

[Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāja told in New York, "Oh you engineers, you have built such big palaces, so high. But have you thought about your transient mortal characteristic of your own body? They will live for hundred thousand years but what about you, the builder of this big palace, you engineers, where should you go? Have you thought of that?"

Only what is required that we shall try our best anyhow to meet face to face with that soil, soil of soul. What is soul and what is matter? Then the development gradually there to the highest.

Otherwise everything will be camouflage, everything will be hoax. For some days we shall associate with all these things and a reaction will come and we shall go and preach to the public, "Oh I have tried my best to get that but that's nothing, all hoax."

Outcome from designed persons as the communists say, "They're enemies of the society, only giving hoax to the ordinary public, and causing hindrance to their peaceful life here in the material world."

Without our proper attention to learn, to take the labour of learning a, b, c, d, we cannot hope to have the pleasure of reading a novel, a good book. Before that we must have sufficient knowledge about the letters and the meanings of the word. Then we can hope that we shall read and we shall get some pleasure by reading the thoughts deeper.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ

["Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

So many experts that have at least laboured hard to understand his own position, who is he, he's the soul. Even from there it is difficult to go up. They're captured by the charm of their own soul. As we're charmed by the material things, this body and the food of this body, so the liberated souls they're also charmed by their souls, own souls strange position, and does not want anything else, ātmārāma.

But there are few ātmārāma that comes to say, "No, there is higher world made of stuff superior to that by which we've been composed of." Ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame.

Generally the spiritualists they do not have any recognition of the superior world. They say, "We're in the highest position. What we have found in our soul, there cannot be any higher thing." All imaginary and speculation.

But very few of them can have such favourable conception to the higher world. But those that are living in that world, when they come as messenger, as agent of that world here, with the help of them we can pass to that world, and we can know things of that world. When the Lord Himself comes in different forms, or sends His own agents, then it is possible for us to know about that land, that plane, and the gradation how there is.

And then it is also difficult to have faith in that. Only by the help of sukṛti that we can understand there is Nārāyaṇa, Vāsudeva, Rāmacandra, Dwārakesh, Mathurā, Vṛndāvana, and Kṛṣṇa holds the most supreme position. Apparently He's a thief, He's a debauch, He's whimsical. But still He's admitted by the highest spiritualists of a particular section, that that is the highest conception. His whimsical, His autocracy, that is the best boon for us. The highest thing is of such nature that His aggression towards us will be the highest benediction for us, blessing for us.

Through our true reason guided by spiritual faith we can understand to certain extent as it may be, it may be possible. The highest good is above law, above morality. That if with proper distribution of the wealth amongst us all, we are separate personalities with separate interests, this is lower position, we must transcend. We're all included in Him. He's our common guardian, well wisher, and everything. All our fulfilment in His holy feet. All with the highest fulfilment of every existing atom is in the attainment of the holy feet of the highest Lord. He's so pure, so affectionate, and so intimate to us. Truth is so intimate, and so much well wisher, and so much desirable for us.

We heard from Guru Mahārāja, "Don't delay for a minute. If you say that 'there is a fire, I must extinguish that and I'm coming' no, no, what will burn to ashes, that is your enemy. All your inner hankering can be satisfied only in the holy feet of your Lord. You cannot conceive how much demand, and how much variegated nature of demand is within you, and for what. And there they will all have their fullest satisfaction in His holy feet. He's such, He's such, so search for Him. Your life will be fulfilled. These are all undesirable trashes, ashes, rubbishes. So go forward, onward, according to the direction of the guide He sent to you. Elimination and acceptance, no other, no attraction for anything in the environment, go, go, go onward, onward, onward, until you reach such, the Vṛndāvana."

Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura says when he's having some approach towards Vṛndāvana, [māraḥ svayaṁ nu madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ nu mādhuryam eva nu mano-nayanāmṛtaṁ nu venī-mṛjo nu mama jīvita-vallabho nu kṛṣṇo 'yam abhyudayate mama locanāya]

["My dear friends, where is Kṛṣṇa, who is Cupid personified, brilliant as a kadamba flower? Where is Kṛṣṇa, sweetness Himself, the sweetest nectar for my eyes and mind? Where is Kṛṣṇa, who loosens the hair of the gopīs? He is the supreme source of divine bliss. He is my life and soul. Has He come before my eyes again?"] [Kṛṣṇa Karṇāmṛta, 68]

Māraḥ svayaṁ nu. "What do I feel in my mind, and some strange conception coming down in my mind? Māraḥ svayaṁ nu. The most charming feeling we find here in our cupid conception, the union between man and woman, that represents a wonderful pleasing sensation in our mind, is it of that type? Māraḥ svayaṁ nu.
The supplier of all such pleasures, has He come Himself to me? Who is supplying such pleasing sensation to the world, has He come Himself? Māraḥ svayaṁ nu. No, no, it is not so. Madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ. It is a light, it is knowledge, it is consciousness and so beautiful, charming and sweet, so sweet consciousness, halo, I find it. Madhura-dyuti-maṇḍalaṁ nu mādhuryam eva nu. Again I find the very gist of that very wonderful substance, that consciousness, mādhurya, the representative of all possible sweetness most intensified. Mādhuryam eva nu mano-nayanāmṛtaṁ. What is this? My eyes are being bathed in nectar. Such a colour for such a figure has come to touch my eyes, fulfilling, enchanting, capturing all the nāths of my eyes most satisfactorily, never experienced such thing in my eyes. Nayanāmṛtaṁ. The nectar is entering into my eye and capturing the whole of my eyesight. Nayanāmṛtaṁ."

Then higher conception came more. Nāma-rūpa, venī-mṛjo nu. "I'm transformed into His maidservant and He's adoring His dealing with me most affectionately, this mean maidservant, so much kindness, so benevolent, so generous. Is it possible for a fellow of my position may be embraced by such higher sweetness personified, so much adoration? Jīvita-vallabho nu. And what do I feel? I have got my shelter, permanent shelter of my life, full and complete assurance from the permanent shelter. In such a sweet domain I'm taken in, my charge is taken in by such a magnanimous sweet personality. What more I can think? Wonderful, wonderful, wonderful."

In this way Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura has described his progress towards Vṛndāvana, what is Vṛndāvana.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Mama jīvita-vallabho nu kṛṣṇo 'yam abhyudayate mama locanāya. "By such stages of wonderful stride that Kṛṣṇa is approaching towards me."

If we're deceived in such a high and sweet errand, that will be most deplorable. We must not do anything which may cause any hindrance to our progress towards that land. Very carefully we must try to go to that plane. We must not dig our own grave.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

We shall try to keep always in our front the model of Mahāprabhu and others. How highly they're praising and approaching towards that. All those big stalwarts highly qualified and they're approaching towards, and with what, how much reverence and respect and heart felt attainment. That must be brought as model on our front always. And don't go to have a very cheap bargain, never allow ourselves to the cheap bargain, purchase things of very small value, never. Those highly qualified stalwarts standing on our front they say, "How wonderful, we can't, we can't touch, how wonderful."

This ordinary infinite can, this material infinite, how he's small in the position of this material infinite. The sound infinite, the eye infinite, colour, and the touch infinite, so many forms of infinite. We're in the midst of that, and how, what negligent position we hold there. This is all finite and finite is so big infinite to us. On the other side infinite also within atom, atom then molecule, then again the electrons. In this way you go to analyse infinite, and the big thing also infinite, whatever, that is infinite, this material conception infinite.

Then to trace, to get the spiritual thing, and who represents with the source of the infinite, not only that He says, "My every part is Infinite." How should we approach Him, with how much heart?

Still He says, "It is possible, there is a way to come to Me though I am Infinite. That is My grace, My free grace, My mercy, not justice. If you come by the way of justice, no hope. If you can catch the thread of My mercy and come by that road you may have Me."

Kṛpa, His grace, free grace, kṛpa, ahaitukī, bhakti, ahaitukī.

"My department I want to extend. I want to make Me known to you, that there is a department I want to take you in on My lap. Within My heart I want to catch you. I have heart and heart is also very magnanimous and very spacious. I can accommodate you all in My heart, in the innermost part of My heart. It is possible and only by My grace, and not by your right. Take the path of śaraṇāgati, and with the help of the sādhus sent by Me, you can come to Me and have your desired result, and you do not know what to desire. Everything you'll have to learn, and that is My responsibility, and I extend that sort of responsibility to the world."

[prakṛtibhyaḥ paraṁ yacca tad-acintyasya lakṣam]

[Mahābharata, Bhiṣma Parva, 5.22]

Who is above the jurisdiction of knowledge, don't try to force it to come down within the box of your reason, don't do it, try to do that. Acintyāḥ khalu ye bhāvā na tāṁs tarkeṇa. Your reason may be applied to this line, plane, and solid something, the air, the electron, all this and that, water, fire, within that, your box of reasoning, your judgement. Acintyāḥ khalu ye bhāvā na tāṁs tarkeṇa yojayet. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, if we have a dream at night about Kṛṣṇa or the devotees, is it to be considered just a dream or is there some message there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is generally a dream in general cases, but it may have some value. When the mind can eliminate these worldly desires from it, it can go towards the truth. According to the realization of the higher strata, real things come to cast its shadow, before. But in ordinary minds many kinds of dream. That is not all true. That is true in the mundane sense. The imagination and shadow cast from the above, that is to be differentiated. Not any dream is true. That is true in its own layer. Some sort of aspiration was in me in previous life and that is recurring. So just as when we're awake so many thoughts are coming and going. Sometimes the memory of home, sometimes the memory of Swāmī Mahārāja, sometimes the memory of a wine shop, or a market, the mind coming and going. So also when we sleep the mental world remains active and so many things coming and going. But in a very particular case it is possible that higher truth is coming down and casting its shadow, but rarely, rarely it is possible. And who has purged out all this material consciousness of enjoyment, exploitation, and salvation, their mind is always a reflection of the higher world is taking place.

Ye kāle vā svapane, dekhinu vaṁśi vadane, sei kāle āilā dui vairi. Rāmānanda Rāya says, quoting about the gopīs, "When in my dream I had a look of the Lord with flute in His mouth, at that time two enemies approached me." Ānanda āra madana. Some sensation to be united with Him and the ecstasy therein, these two enemies came, and did not allow me to have a clear sight of my Lord, the clear vision of my Lord, be barred. So I'm thinking that if in any time in the future I get such chance, then I did not try to look at Him, but I shall try to satisfy those enemies, that they may not come, so the sight will be permanent, will stay for some time more."

[ye kāle vā svapane, dekhinu vaṁśi vadane, sei kāle āilā dui vairi
'ānanda' āra 'madana,' hari' nila mora mana, dekhite nā pāinu netra bhari' punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, kayāya kṛṣṇa daraśana, tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala
diyā mālya-candana, nānā ratna-ābharaṇa, alaṅkṛta karimu sakala]

["Whenever I had the chance to see Lord Kṛṣṇa's face and His flute, even in a dream, two enemies would appear before Me. They were pleasure and Cupid, and since they took away My mind, I was not able to see the face of Kṛṣṇa's to the full satisfaction of My eyes."] - ["If by chance such a moment comes when I can once again see Kṛṣṇa, then I shall worship those seconds, moments and hours with flower garlands and pulp of sandalwood and decorate them with all kinds of jewels and ornaments."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.37-8]

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. We're talking high things, where we are, and only by the grace of the Guru, mahā-jana, Vaiṣṇava. And that we can try somewhat to have a conception, slight realization of these things, by these ways, futile attempt. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. What can we do?

["For those who have stumbled and fallen upon the ground, that very ground is the only support by which they can arise once again. Likewise, for those who have offended You, O Lord, You alone are their only refuge."] [Skanda-Purāṇa] & [Śrī Śrī Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, p 86]

A child when he tries to learn walking he's slipping down, falling down, and again with the help of the ground he's standing, again falling, again standing. You can't check that attempt in him.

So also with us, without trying, possible or impossible, without caring for that, what should we do? Our charm for this world has finally been finished. If we want any engagement, engagement in this type of, whether you say imagination or reality, or whatever, we're captured by the charm of such talk. We get or do not get. The leading idea in our mind, the principal guiding idea of our life is such. Search for Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful. Die to live. All risk no gain. Hato va vapsisa sagram dipava bhoka sei mayi [?]

Either gain ground or die. Just as in ancient times we're told that the Romans, they took the soldiers in a ship, and helped them to land in a country, and then burned the ship, do or die. No way to fly away by the ship again, to go back. You have no other alternative but to fight, so fight with your utmost energy and conquer the country, or be killed to the finish. No other alternative to go back, the ship is burned to ashes. So do or die.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parthamitra: So Mahārāja, how does one subdue his false pride?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The only way it is recommended, sādhu and śāstra, association with the higher thought. The false ego can be destroyed by the help of the real ego. By the force of the association of the real ego, that can do away with the false ego, the pride. The association is the most powerful thing to convert one to another, from one plane to another, the association, and that is of two types. One living scripture, the sādhu, and another, scripture, the words of the sādhu collected in some emblem. Sādhu-śastra-kṛpāya. No other alternative.

["If the conditioned soul becomes Kṛṣṇa conscious by the mercy of saintly persons who voluntarily preach scriptural injunctions and help him to become Kṛṣṇa conscious, the conditioned soul is liberated from the clutches of māyā, who gives him up."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.120]

bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, [bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. Nothing can produce bhakti but bhakti herself. So there is light in the heart of the sādhu and that light can be extended to light the candle in your heart. Only bhakti can produce bhakti, nothing else can. No intoxication can produce bhakti, as Jayatīrtha is conceiving that intoxication helps our bhakti a great deal, wonderfully. Only bhakti can, bhakti is ahaitukī, the most fundamental plenary substance, devotion, dedication. Exploitation, enjoyment, cannot produce dedication, it is the enemy party. Dedication comes from dedication. From intense to surface, from the centre to the circumference it can come. Bhakti is the most fundamental element, nothing can produce her. That is dedication, and we live by dedication, and we die by exploitation, and we're reduced to cipher by renunciation.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Die to live. He's Reality is for Itself. The Whole is not subservient to anything else, then He's not Whole. Everything meant for Him, and we're for Him, and it is a blessing to us that we're for Him. We have got some position in His heart. We're for Him, that is our solace, our consolation, that we're for Him. With that connection we may hope to come to Him, that we're for Him. And He's for us at the same time, vice versa. We have no other goal but Him. That is our claim. "Our claim that we're not outside You my Lord, we have come to seek our comfort outside You, far from You. That is māyā. I'm done, I have committed suicide. But because I belong to Your staff, that You was not possible with me still living. I still have hope returning home, sweet, sweet, home."

[The perception of the evil of birth, death, old age and disease - Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9]

Always we must calculate about the enemy attitude of the environment where we're living at present. How hateful is this environment we're living in, and we want to extend our empire, mercy in this nasty land, we are busy to extend our empire, kingdom, foolishly.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Śrī Gurudeva. Śrī Gurudeva. Śrī Gurudeva. Gaura Hari bol.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

Devotees are awake in a particular plane, and that is night to the ordinary people. And where they're fully awake, ordinary intellect, devotees are sleeping there. No necessity, no consciousness, energy to be wasted there in that plane. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dayal Nitāi. Mahāprabhu Gaurāṅga Sundar. Any question from any quarter?

Devotee: Yes. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja. It seems you're speaking, and that all of us we're still very much within this material world. And we want to get Kṛṣṇa from you, but still we're very fallen and we keep...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu Himself says, "So much alert we should be that devotion, that is independent consciousness higher than My position. Devotion is the nature of higher consciousness, superior consciousness, than the consciousness by which I made of."

Do you follow? That is the point. Then, so, we must be very suspicious that, 'I have got devotion.' That is independent. We cannot capture and keep it within my fist. Very subtle, as I am gross, very subtle, very efficient, and in all respects that is a higher thing. Only our self abnegation and our humility can draw His grace towards us. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So we can never assert and say that, 'I have got in my possession that higher thing.' His grace extended may be withdrawn any moment, any second. We are going to cast our fate to such infinitely uncertain substance. But that is higher. I want His company for my good fate. And again to enter there, how difficult. Mahāprabhu says to warn us against our disability in this way.

na prema-gandho 'sti darāpi me harau, [krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum
vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

["My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

"Not a drop of real devotion in Me."

"Why? You are shedding so much tears and dancing and chanting and shedding so much tears always day and night. And You say You have not a speck, a drop of devotion in You."

Mahāprabhu Himself says: "Krandāmi saubhāgya-bharaṁ prakāśitum. Only to show to the public that I have got such a great fortune, extraordinarily fortunate am I. To advertise to the public all these tears coming down. That is for the pratiṣṭhā of a devotee, pratiṣṭhā, fame, name. My heart is not so much purified as only to hanker for My Lord. It is still in the relativity of this mundane world for their appreciation, for their applause, for their popularity 'I am a devotee' to advertise Me I am shedding tears, pratiṣṭhā."

Kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā - three enemies. The pratiṣṭhā, the most subtle and the greatest enemy - my position, my prestige. Very subtle, undetectable, and most ruinous, pratiṣṭhā. So we can never say. That is a voluntary extension of His wealth to you. You cannot claim that to be your own, it is such, individually.

But at the same time you can see, "No, I see the grace has been extended to him permanently, in the devotee. In my Guru it is there, all permanent, fixed there. So in so many devotees we hear it is there, the backing of the Lord is always there."

But in you case you will be very much susceptible.

Mahāprabhu is making us careful that so much crying and shedding tears and dancing, all this madness.

"Oh, it is only to advertise that I am a devotee."

Be so much susceptible in your own case. It is so fine and so independent nature of the Lord. Never go to assert yourself in that plane in any way. Always keep up your humility, "that I'm in want, I'm in want." That is the key of having a life of high elevation. Always keep up in your mind, "I'm the most needy, most pitiable person my Lord." At the bottom of your heart this wealth must be there, sincere, the sincere feeling. "I am the most needy." And the devotees will say in the background, "As much as you will feel that 'I'm the most helpless' so much attention of the high is drawn there." Others will say. But when you will say, "No, there is no need, I have got everything," that will withdraw. "Oh. No necessity of Mine here."

So that Kuntī Devī told: "Keep me always in danger so the earnestness for Your presence will be permanent in my heart, and You cannot but be there. But when I will be in opulence, have enough, I'm satisfied with my environment, You will be away. I can't tolerate that. I can't tolerate that. Always in need and You will be nearby."

That is the key to success. Try to increase the negative aspect, and the positive will automatically be drawn, in other words. And that must be sincere, not a practice, ha, ha, then that will be imitation. A sincere feeling, that is the most desirable wealth of a devotee, to think himself sincerely to feel that, "Really I'm in want. I'm in want." Increase your hunger. Health will be there. If your hunger is there, the health is there.

Devotee: So in the meantime what does one do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. The same repetition I told, association. Whatever we want I must go to like. If I want money I shall have to approach the moneyed man. It is a plain thing. What I want really I must approach to such a place where it is there. And the transaction:

dadāti pratigṛhṇāti guhyam ākhyāti pṛcchati
bhuṅkte bhojayate caiva [ṣaḍ-vidhaṁ prīti lakṣaṇam]

["Offering gifts in charity; accepting gifts in charity; revealing one's mind in confidence; enquiring confidentially; accepting prasāda; and offering prasāda are the six symptoms of love shared by one devotee and another."] [Upadeśāmṛta, 4]

In this way by service we can draw, serving attitude.

One story in Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja's life. He was living in such a state of mind of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. He was out to beg something, to collect something. So many young boys and girls were throwing some dust.

You are all afraid here, "Oh you red-monkey, red-monkey." Or what do they say?

Physically he was a person of this Bengal, and he's out for begging for his livelihood, and going, and the boys are throwing dust. And what was his outlook? He says: "Kṛṣṇa, I shall complain to Yaśodā Mayi, mother Yaśodā. You are after me. Ha, ha, ha. You are disturbing me in such a way I shall lodge my complaint to Yaśodā Mayi and she will give You a good beating."

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. That was his outlook, towards where he's living we can guess from this in what atmosphere he's living. The boys are troubling, in our eyes, and his vision is in another light.

"I shall complain to Yaśodā and I know how to teach You the lesson proper."

Devotee: Mahārāja, there's another story about one person who came to him and wanted to invite him to a program or something and he didn't want to go.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: There was one person who came to him and wanted him to come home. The story is very vague but I know...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Aranya Mahārāja: Neither do I. I don't follow either.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You also don't follow. Then who has followed him?

Parthamitra: He says that one person had come to Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaurakiśora Bābājī's āśrama?

Devotee: Yes. And he wanted something off Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī, and he said he'd do anything for Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī if he came home to a program.

Aranya Mahārāja: What the point is, some man approached Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī and he wanted some benediction from him, and he said that he would do anything that Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī asked him to do.

Then Gaurakiśora Dāsa Bābājī asked him: "You just stay here and chant Hare Kṛṣṇa with me."

That is the story. So he wants to know what goes behind that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is behind that? Then, that is a simple thing. If any of you take Hari-Nāma, take the Name, stay here.

In another time there was that Vaṁsī Dāsa Bābājī there, and two gentlemen came.

"Bābājī Mahārāja, a little grace for us, a little grace."

He took his kaupīna, "Take this." Ha, ha...

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and they fled away. Ha, ha. The one thing they know as wealth is that Kṛṣṇa, the Name Mahāprabhu has given, "Take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. I'm doing that and I ask you to do that only because there's no other thing which should be sought and which should be given, dadāti pratigṛhṇāti, no other thing to want and to be given. Nothing should be begged other than the grace of Kṛṣṇa in His Name. And nothing should be given, the only transaction should be here, that is the transaction of the Name of Lord Kṛṣṇa."

So we're all in fire. The only normal question should be how to get out of this fire. If any other question then it is irrelevant. We are in fire, the fire of pittap means ādhyātmika - the misery coming from within as disease or repentance. Ādhibhautika - and trouble coming from the fire that is sorrow coming from outside, from other elements. Or ādhidaivika - famine, flood, this natural disaster. These three kinds of sorrow, like fire, are always burning us. So the only relevant question will be, "How to get out of this fire, burning?" So, that has been given, "the Name of Kṛṣṇa, the Name of the Lord." Through the sound we should take, we should try to get shelter to another place where there's no burning of this fire. Do you follow? So when you approach the sādhu he won't say anything else. "Yes, try to get out of this fire that is burning you." This is a general question.

When the crane, Dharma, religion personified in the form of Dharma put questions to Yudhiṣṭhira: "What is the news?"

Yudhiṣṭhira answered, replied: "The news is this that all these souls are being burned in three kinds of sorrow. That is the general news."

So the general problems of this world as a whole is that so many souls are being burned through ignorance. And to relieve them from there is the only question, only answer. This general dealing the sādhus have got. Their life is for that. The only one question here. "How to get out of this burning atmosphere and get out. And that is the Divine Name extended to us with the help of this sound, through the sound, the subtle-most thing that can predominate over all this atmosphere. Only with the help of that can we work out our relief from the wholesale burning atmosphere. The sound can help us."

The most subtle sound here comes from ethereal vibration, and that is the most gross thing in the Vaikuṇṭha, in the transcendental world, though nearer. The subtle most substances here are the gross there, nearer.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Is it clear? No?
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Aranya Mahārāja: That is one of the arguments that they're posing that, "We can appreciate the subtle sound vibration by using some grosser elements. That will help us bring us closer to the subtle sound vibration. By the use of some gross elements we will gain appreciation of the subtle sound vibration."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is by tape?

Aranya Mahārāja: No, no. By maybe the use of intoxication and drugs like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh.

Aranya Mahārāja: They say "That by these elements we will gain affinity or appreciation for that subtle sound vibration."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What to speak of by using that gross thing, even by using and taking help of the very subtle power, as yoga, by prāṇāyāma, I've practised it, if we go on with prāṇāyāma we find that the mind is sober and calm. But that is also temporary. All temporary things can produce temporary results. Yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, Nārada says here...

mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati]

["The agitated mind, repeatedly taken captive by its enemy in the form of depravity rooted in lust and greed, is directly mastered by serving the Supreme Lord, Mukunda. It can never be likewise checked or pacified by practising the eight-fold yogīc discipline, which is generally based on sensual and mental repression (yama, niyama, etc)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.6.35]

Yama, niyama, āsana, prāṇāyāma, pratyāhāra, dhāraṇa, dhyāna, and samādhi [the aṣṭānga-yoga propounded by Patañjali performed in eight steps - namely self control, mental control, posture, breath control, sensual constraint, mental abstraction, meditation, and meditational trance centred on Viṣṇu].

The rāj-yogī who wants to attain the control over their whole mental system, they can pacify their whole mental system and can utilise in any way they like. Devarṣi Nārada says by these processes we can acquire supremacy over subtle forces and control our mind. But that does not mean that that will force the Supramental substance to come to us. Do you see?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can control my boat, but the storm is not responsible to the boat. Some sort of efficient comfort you may get by a good boat, but the storm may become that no efficiency in a boat will help you, no guarantee. So, yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, you can control your mind some, but that does not mean that you can control God. Control over your mind does not necessarily mean that you have controlled God. God's ways and laws are something else. We're to accept that law, to indent that in our area to make us fit to go there. Yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ, if your kāma - the lust; and lobha - the greed, anger, etc., may be controlled, but for the time being. Again it will revert.

āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

[Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:] ["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penance to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

The Brahmā's talk: ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, by taking their own resources, by the help of that they're climbing up to the highest point, according to their right. But from there if they cannot have any connection with the higher sphere they will have to revert. By getting passport you may go to the last limit of your country. But if you cannot secure a visa you'll have to revert again. So that aspect of mind, that aspect of substance within you, that guides you in this world, here and there, everywhere like the passport. But passport can never give visa of the other world. So you may have the full control over your mind, and you may get even at the outside of your mind in the highest position where from the whole mind may be at your disposal. At present you are servant of so many mental faculties, come from a low body you are servant, but you may be a master of your mind. That does not mean that you can force God to come within you. He's another thing, more subtle, more higher, than in very nature that is inconceivably higher position. Why will He come to you, by you controlling your mind? So no mental arrangement, disarrangement can help you. It must come to the plane of soul. So sukṛti and sādhu-saṅga, wherever there is represented the God atmosphere, that element will come and push your soul, and soul will awaken and the mind will evaporate.

Do you follow? Am I clear?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is another transaction. So, yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ, only for the time being you can be master of your own house, for the time being. You are now slave in your own house. The masters are your anger, your greed, your lust, so many things they're masters, and you're their slave in your own home. The present position. By acquiring the process of yoga you can come to such a position that you can control all your tendencies within. That does not mean that can give you the visa to enter into the Vaikuṇṭha. It is another thing, a most subtle, most fine, most pure, and they can assert here, but you cannot have any assertion there. It is gross, that is subtle. Ether can pass through everything, even stone, water, fire, everything, but stone cannot pass through ether. It's a fundamental, highly powerful, fine substance. So God can approach everywhere. God's power can control everything. But everything, these material gross things, cannot have any power to do anything with that subtle power, it is so fine. It is fundamentally different. Do you follow? No?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To certain extent, dig-darśana, leading towards.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.
Today we like to finish it here. Any other urgent question from any quarter?
Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Try to think.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
No other question, urgent, all inquiry stopped?

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inquisitiveness finished?

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari bol. Then we dissolve.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mukundamālā going to join _____ [?] Mahārāja? Leaving for Bombay?

Parthamitra: No. Japamālā.

Kṛṣṇa kiṅkarā: Mahārāja, Parama has a question for you.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, how can we reach the level of understanding that Kṛṣṇa is our only security?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That will be whether you have got real faith in God. Is there someone [_____ ?] self analysis first, that who am I? The security also for which things? Body, no security. Kṛṣṇa also not giving so much security to this body. This is like a diseased body. A body is a disease to the soul. So we're to have the realisation of our real self that is soul. And if we go to that plane, reach to that plane, then we will see just as here the earth is guarantee of this body, staying, standing on. So the soul is standing, is a child of that plane, soul will find around that soul's world. And there is one director under whose command everything goes on. And if He can give guarantee then that is sure and certain. All other guarantees have got no value. Whether there is a chaos or a cosmos, any system of government, any good rule, all these things we're to first feel the necessity. And then gradually out of, necessity is the mother of invention, we'll have to search for that plane.

Everything is surmised. Suppose before I read a drama and get some pleasure, before that I shall have to undergo, to understand the letters, the grammar, the dictionary. Then we can hope with the basis of that knowledge to read a book and get some pleasure. Whatever we do in the beginning with some inference we shall have to approach. And then when we can see the thing we feel encouraged and go on.

So, about Kṛṣṇa also, whether there is God at all? Is it a reign of a super considered person, or anarchy? Or only Satan is the master of the whole world? These things we're to consider in the beginning. And when we are convinced that, "No, it is a reign of goodness," then we shall approach to find out what is that goodness, what is that good hope. How to get it? Then we shall come to understand that there is God. God means the person who has got every right of doing good or bad. Then we are relieved, we can put faith in any conception of Godhead. We're much relieved that there is one, and He's all good, and no injustice can go on, we're under His rule. Then we must have a satisfactory life. And there is judgement, order, and mercy, all these things we're to understand if we have real conception of Godhead.

And now, what is the characteristic of that Godhead, the ultimate dispenser of the whole, the guardian of the whole universe? What is His characteristic? We're told that He's such and such, He's such and such, He's such and such. Then ultimately Mahāprabhu and Bhāgavatam, the Vedic truth, says that the highest conception of Him is Kṛṣṇa and He's beauty and love. He loves everybody and He's very beautiful, very charming. So it is very easy to obey and to live in His connection. And then we shall try to go to that direction to search for Him. That Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead is where I want to live.

So in the beginning, whether there is possibility there is any power who can control the whole, who can maintain peace and justice, and save us from anarchy, and the undesirable attack of the environment? In this way it must move on. And when we can feel from within our own heart that there is justice here with our experience. And with the experience of others, with the experience that is related in so many books, I'm to risk, to take faith, to do accordingly. And as much as we'll be able to make progress we shall feel something in the way. That yes, I'm feeling myself, and which is more real than we feel with our eyes, or ears, about this material world. This is apparent, this is treacherous. What the charm we find in the beginning we're to see that that is not the thing. What it promises to do cannot satisfy me, it is not guaranteed. All these we can see, we can feel, we can learn, in this plane, the treacherous plane, janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi.

janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi-duḥkha-doṣānudarśanam]

[…detachment from sensual delights, absence of egotism, an objective view of the miserable defects of material life, that is, birth, death, the infirmity of old age, disease, etc.] [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9]

karmanyara amanyanam sukha dukha hatyai sukhaya ca [?]
pasyai paka vit padyasam mithum carinam minar [?]

When a man in the beginning of a systematic life he takes resort to his labour, energy. By using our energy we shall get comfort. Comfort seeking, pleasure seeking, is our innate habit. We want happiness. We don't want sorrow or misery. It is natural, we can find in ourselves by self analysis. All of us we want maximum happiness, and we want to avoid all sorts of misery. And for this purpose, in the beginning, we take resort to our own labour, and seek for happiness, pleasure.

Then, anything else?

Parama: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You can't hear?

A man in his organised attempt, he comes to this conclusion that, "I shall have to marry. I want married life." So, one goes to marry _____ [?] It is all transient.

I'm collecting something and the time is always trying to remove it.

pasyai paka vit padyasam mithum carinam minar [?]

In the beginning I need not have any house, any room. But if I marry to satisfy my inner desire, then I shall have to have a house, and children will come, then some help of the animals also. Then pasu, apta, I shall have to enter a society, apta, vihapatar pasubhi, karpiti sadivesh chare [?] One by one the child is going away. Then repair is necessary for the house. And the society also giving some pressure. Undesirable things are happening around, so many floods, famine, all these things. We find that we're going to collect things for our pleasure, but the environment is disturbing me in a hopeless way. Then they become disappointed and try to find out some higher sort of happiness.

And Buddha, Śaṅkara, so many others come, and they teach us to neglect this material pleasure and to find some internal peace. And when we're too much disturbed by the adverse influence of the material environment we take to that course.

"Yes, this is all mortal, all captured by the death. Ultimately my own body is going towards infirmity and to the disease in the end of my life."

Then we can come to understand that this is not a place suitable for our living. We should seek after some higher shelter where one can live happily. In this way we want to eliminate this mortal environment and to go to the subtle and higher soil to find that there we shall erect some house and live happily. In this way, eliminating the mortal, gross things, we enter within us and try to find out this mind, this intelligence, and the soul, and the Supersoul that is God, and His area and how we can live there. All these inquisitions, enquiry, and after, when we're satisfied in our enquiry in our search, then we give up our living here and we try to go to that land for our living. In this way, with elimination and acceptance, we go towards Godhead.

And if there is none, nothing, no guarantee of our future life, future peace, then they're rejected, they're all atheistic people...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That domain is desirable for us. In this way, in search of God, and what characteristic of God? What do we want? We want the beautiful. We want the Absolute Good, Autocrat. We want harmony. We want mercy. We want love. In this way, when we select that we try to go towards the domain of Kṛṣṇa. In this way. And we can feel guarantee if we make real progress, then we shall feel what is all ready stated in the śāstra, I have experience of those things on the way. And that makes my conviction more firm and strong and I advance, go ahead, with more vigorous, double force I have. Because I find on the way that what is mentioned in the scripture I'm finding that on the way, so that must lead to the highest goal. In this way. We withdraw from the so-called pleasing sensations of this world and we risk our life to get accordingly the high ideal. I shall try my best to attain that land of my dream what is extended to me, that there is such a land to live. I select that. I want with all my risk. Do or die. Rather, I shall live there, or I do not want to continue my life. With this sort of promise we make advance towards the goal desired. Somewhat clear, no?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa sukha.

[sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana, bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite `hlādinī'-kāraṇa]

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī-śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

The happiness, we can't say, even not the worst atheist, can't say that he does not want happiness. All common, we want happiness, but how to be happy? One takes to dacoiting, a thief stealing, becomes a thief for happiness. One kills persons, that's also happiness. And one gives everything, becomes poor himself and gives everything to satisfy the want of others, and he feels satisfaction. So happiness, or pleasure, or satisfaction, that has got a qualitative difference. One can find a pleasure in robbing, another can find pleasure in giving everything to others. But there is a qualitative difference. In this way, by appreciating the higher quality of happiness, we shall have to go towards the conception of Godhead.

The justice, not anarchy, but justice, control, power, and sympathy, that. And to go to find out that sort of life, ultimately we come to see that there is one by whose will everything can be systematic and everything can be controlled. And everything may be helpful to our inner satisfaction. In that way we go to the conception of Godhead. The Mohammedan, Islam has given some conception of Godhead. Christianity has given. So many other nations, they have also given in their own way. And the Vedic śāstra, they have also given conception of that ultimate power in such way. And Mahāprabhu has given from the śāstra: "That Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead that is most desirable for all of us." And we like that. We have selected that. And we preach that. And we try to accept that for us. That is the question. Ke?

The most appealing to the inner most heart. Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead appeals to the inner most place of our heart. The finest cord is touched by that. If one can realise he will find the most desirable conception of Godhead, that is that phase of Godhead, that's most charming for us. And our innermost heart does not want that power will control everything, but sweetness should control everything. And we have faith in that. And that is given by Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu.

"Do such and such things and you will find yourselves in the domain, in the plane, where you will find that everything is controlled by sweetness."

We want to live in that kingdom. As a soul, we come to Kṛṣṇa-Nāma, Kṛṣṇa-bhakti, Vṛndāvana, gopīs, Yamunā, all these things. Gradually eliminating all others, our inner most attention as our soul will represent us there, and we shall be in the midst of such holy things.

Some days before, one lady came here, in a red robe. She was a follower of the Śakta School, Śiva, Durgā, Kālī, all these. I asked her, "That after your sādhana, you will attain the plane where your object of worship is living, and you may become one of His paraphernalia? You're worshipping Kālī. Do you want, you have seen Kālī and Kālī's paraphernalia, so many, they're eating that blood and the cut off hand, do you want that position?"

"No, no, I don't."

"Then do you want to be one of the servants of Śiva, Mahādeva? He's living in the cremation ground, and the ashes smeared on his body, and sometimes this gangika, and in this way he's going. His dress is the skin of the tiger, and his mates, friends, attendants, are also of such type. Do you want to be one of the attendants there? Bhūta, preta?"

"No, no, I don't want."

"Then do you want Nārāyaṇa of Vaikuṇṭha? Four-handed servants are busy always hither and thither serving Nārāyaṇa. And if you want Kṛṣṇa conception then there will be so many cowboys, friends, and Yaśodā, Nanda there. And so many gopīs serving in different ways that Godhead Kṛṣṇacandra. What do you like?"

"I like that. That Vṛndāvana paraphernalia I like most."

"Then why are you going in the wrong way? If, in the heart of your heart you have appreciation for this, that you want to become one of the paraphernalia there, that is the sweet prospect, or position. Then why are you wild-goose chasing, chasing wild-geese?"

"I did not understand so much. Because my family was in this way, I'm also going in that way."

What is the need? What we can feel to be the highest thing for our aspiration? Very sweet thing. Power hunter, or somehow or other there will be chaos and I shall go on looting. Someone may think that let there be anarchy in the country and we shall rob and loot. That is their temperament. There is a proper government and we shall be ruled by coercive measure. And then sweet and loving affectionate family, they're living all free, all affectionate to one another and they're moving and working in a very pleasing way.

In this way we're to select our goal. What sort of goal? This is our choice. And then from the Absolute standpoint whether that is or not, that cannot be, that is another question, the guarantee, as you say. We're to enquire, we're to understand what is true, what is non-true. What is apparent truth, and what is real truth. The apparent and the real, we're to find out the distinction between the two, and who will be the judge. The judge is within us, not this body, nor these worldly things. The judge is within and we're to appeal to that, to clear the judge from all sorts of prejudice so that he may take right choice. And we shall consult also the precedence of other judges where previously given in their degree. With all these considerations we shall march on. The śāstra, so many opinions are there of the precedence, so many precedence are there, noted. And so many mahā-janas also are still there roaming and we can get information from them. In this way we shall try to march on to our desirable zone of our highest choice. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Māyā distant?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Good.

Bhakta Thomas: Mahārāja, may I ask? Sometimes an atheist will challenge the devotee by saying, "Simply because you are chanting all the time, you are forcing yourself to think about these religious activities. It is because you are forcing yourself all the time to think about these things, and anything that you may think or feel or believe, it is only because you have forced yourself to think this way, because you are constantly conditioning your mind to think about Kṛṣṇa. And so whatever you may believe it is because you have conditioning your mind to think this way."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Parthamitra: He says that the atheists, the non-believers in God, the carvakas, they say that the devotees believe in Kṛṣṇa only because they're constantly...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be that the devotee has got faith in Kṛṣṇa, that may be a mania, an imagination. What is the guarantee that is true? Is it?

Parthamitra: Yes. They say, "Because we constantly chant, that is just conditioning our mind to think like that. Because we're constantly chanting we're just conditioning our minds."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We're entering into hallucination. What is the guarantee that that is truth? Is it?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You ask yourself why you have left the paraphernalia of the atheist and trying to search for some theistic world, you answer.

Bhakta Thomas: Because of something that I have felt.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why you're not satisfied with the atheistic proposal and you're out to search for something theistic? Why?

Bhakta Thomas: Well, because I've...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Bhakta Thomas: I've been very unhappy, before I was very unhappy and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So analyse that, that that proposal could not satisfy you and you're to search after something higher. Is it? More prospect, greater prospect you are out for. The proposal of the atheistic could not satisfy you. So such awakening in your knowing system, your heart, or your consciousness. Some subtle, fine, things have come that are not satisfied with the proposal of the atheistic, their gross prospect.

The Carvaka class they say: "Eat, drink, and be merry. What is the guarantee that if this body is dissolved again you will live? What is the guarantee that soul is immortal? So dismiss all these hypothesis and imagination, all these things. Eat, drink, and be merry." Are you satisfied with this proposal?

Bhakta Thomas: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why? Why enquire within you? This is a base life, a mean form of life. No pleasure here really. No sober, judicious man can be satisfied with this proposal, this conception of life. They hate this.

"Rather I shall die. I won't accept this proposal, this prospect of life. We hate it, we shall go enter infinite. About us, all around, there is infinite, and what do you say, this is only finite being, mean conception of the finite thing? What is this? Eat, drink, and be merry? I shall die. A man is suffering here and I shall take him wine and dancing? What is the fun there?"

So this base sort of pleasure attracts those persons. Who have got little higher awakening of life, they hate such proposal, and such sections, and such world. The beasts, the trees, in the creation we see so many things. They're also engaged after material pleasure and passing. The animal life, are we satisfied with that? Rather, I lose my time in useless search, still I won't run after the achievement of this main thing.

atho ya prapsasi sagram nitya bhavo casay mayi [?]

In the search of the high I may finish my life without getting anything. But still I feel myself dishonoured to be satisfied with this animal hankering, satisfaction. Do you follow?

Bhakta Thomas: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In this way by elimination, everywhere. Progress means elimination and acceptance. Acceptance of the new, and fine, and durable happiness, and elimination of the temporary and lower pleasure. Here, we're nuisance to the environment. Everyone is eating another, can't avoid. To maintain this body means causing death to innumerable number of animals, insects, and others, the creepers. Where there is life there is feeling of pain, and I'm disturbing to keep up this body. Is it desirable for a sensible person to cause displeasure to others and try to please one's own filthy nature? So why are you out to search for some better life? Why? Why you abhor the present life, can't tolerate the present form of life? You enquire yourself and increase that propensity, and you will find the whole thing will be clear to you. Go higher, higher, higher. Am I clear? No?

Bhakta Thomas: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you understand what I told?

Bhakta Thomas: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You must enquire yourself whatever progress you're making, why? What is the guarantee there? If anything there is guarantee and in the higher march also that same guarantee will come for you.

Parthanitra: In the Caitanya-caritāmṛtam, one verse I read explains that Kṛṣṇa-kathāmṛtam tapta jīvanam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Bhāgavatam, Gopī-gītā.

tava kathāmṛtaṁ tapta-jīvanaṁ, kavibhir īḍitaṁ kalmaṣāpaham
śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ śrīmad-ātataṁ, bhuvi gṛṇanti ye bhūridā janāḥ

["O Kṛṣṇa, the nectar of Your words and the narrations of Your pastimes give life to us, who are always suffering in this material world. This nectar is broadcast all over the world by great souls, and it removes all sinful reactions. It is all-auspicious and filled with spiritual power. Those who spread this message of Godhead are certainly doing the greatest relief work for human society and are the most magnanimous welfare workers."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.31.9]

These are the symptoms of the discussion of the Lord Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. These things gradually come to us, to the society. Tapta-jīvanaṁ. Who are suffering much from misery of this mortal world. But when Kṛṣṇa consciousness, some guarantee and assurance comes for higher and permanent life, the soul thinks it is like medicine coming to cure my repentant mentality. Tapta-jīvanaṁ.

It is enlivening me, supplying life, vitality, to me. The life is worth living. Though I'm living in the mortal fire, always burning. The association of the mortal things in the subconsciousness, that I may loose everything. I may loose my son, my wife, my body, my property, any time, and I myself may be snatched away from this happy paraphernalia. These sort of subconscious feelings are always giving some pain in my heart.

That Kṛṣṇa kathā, that news that such a world is living, for our living such a world is waiting. If we try we can go to be a resident of that world. Then it gives life to our present condition, enliven us. Kavibhir īḍitaṁ. The great scholars have given us, these great men, they have given this news to us. Kalmaṣāpaham. I have done many things wrong in this present life and the reaction has come to attack me, to devour me. That reaction also can be removed by that highest potency. Kavibhir īḍitaṁ. Kalmaṣāpaham. Śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ. And as much as I shall attend to the prospectus story of that land, it will enter into my heart, to the depth of my heart, and will make everything facilitated to take me there. Kalmaṣāpaham. Śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ. Śrīmad-ātataṁ. And I shall be able to see that so many higher personages are also flocking to go to that land. I shall meet them.

śravaṇa-maṅgalaṁ śrīmad-ātataṁ, bhuvi gṛṇanti ye bhūridā janāḥ

And then I shall be able to realise at last, that those that are giving, that are preaching, on behalf of the happy life of that plane, they're really the giver. They're really the utilitarian class, they're doing good to others. All others are false agents. This is the place where everyone can be happy. And those tidings are given by those agents and they're the real benefiters of this world.

Who can give clue to such a helpful, happy life in the ultimate, they're real friend to the world. All others are deceivers, who are giving some half-truth, more dangerous than falsehood. They're giving, "Take this, take this," and that is also finished, only question of time, so they're all deceivers ultimately. And who give the news of the happy domain of Kṛṣṇa, they're the real deliverers of the world. And they're the real friends of the world, because they're not giving hoax to the people. They're taking men in such a plane that will satisfy to the utmost nerve of the whole. In this way that śloka runs.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Parthamitra: Sometimes in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the gopīs when they speak they say that, "This Kṛṣṇa kathā, that better we should talk about something else." They say that, "We're talking about Kṛṣṇa but...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This saying is of the gopī. Gopī, themselves, they say this passage, they sing this passage about Kṛṣṇa?

Parthamitra: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Kṛṣṇa is such, so sweet, so enlivening. And those that give this news to the world, they're real friends of the world. And all our fine earnestness can be satisfied only by this proposal, this prospect, and nothing else. On the whole the gopīs are saying, they're madly, they're tasting these things and their expression coming from their mouths. "We feel that Kṛṣṇa kathā is such and such." They're feeling and they're vomiting what is Kṛṣṇa kathā, giving out, preaching for our benefit. The Kṛṣṇa is such, such and such. And if it touches anyone's heart s/he will leave everything aside and run to those that are engaged in such transaction. And by their association will try her/his best to get out of the present liabilities and as soon as possible run to that domain to be a resident of that place.

More than fulfilment you aspire, you will relish more than you can imagine and aspire. It is such.

I have got some duty today to give Hari-Nāma so early retirement is necessary from this discussion.

Bhakta Thomas: How does one deal with the negativity of the mental platform caused by the phases of the moon?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. Can you repeat what he says?

Parthamitra: He says that, "How does one deal with the negative qualities according to the phases of the moon?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to the?

Parthamitra: The lunar, the moon is affecting us, the astrological, the astronomical effects on our consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: On consciousness, the moon? The moons influence causes madness. You say lunar? What is that with this Kṛṣṇa consciousness?

Bhakta Thomas: It seems to cause myself to hover on the mental platform.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Moon representing the enjoyment, the lust. The crude idea of enjoyment has got some relationship with the conception of the moon. So, too much aspiration for enjoyment of this world unsatisfied, makes us lunatic.

Freud, you know [Sigmund] Freud? A Frenchman, the psychotherapist, his detection is this, "That all the cause of this madness is unsatisfaction of the carnal desire. He had some crude desire, intense, could not find its satisfaction, then this is the cause of his madness. Of all madness, the science is this."

So moon has got that sort of connection with that sort of pleasing aspiration. So moon has been thought to be responsible to a certain extent for this lunatic disease. The kavi, the poets who love this mādhurya-rasa, this lust, what is called lust, love and lust, the sensual pleasure, they're very fond of this moon. The moon gives excitement to all these things, this sort of pleasure, connected. So, in that connection, the moons attack sends one mad. Understand? No?

Bhakta Thomas: Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Partially. Think it, think it.

Parthamitra: How much influence does our astrology, or our previous...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, astrology to a certain extent is a science also. It is true to a particular boundary. And the higher astrologers have already admitted that our astrological calculation cannot control those that are having connection beyond this mental area - that is towards Godhead, jitendriya. Who have crossed the influence of the mental world, this astrological calculation won't be found true in their case.

It is only based on the mental activity. Just as one man can say, if one is murdered by a man, one may say, "This murderer must be hanged." By his intelligence he may say he'll be caught and he will be hanged. A thief will be put into jail. An ordinary man can say in the physical way, "He has given a good beating to his brother, and his brother will come also to beat him one day." This is ordinary calculation like prophesy in this material plane. And the mental plane, also action and reaction. And they can be found by some token of the movement of the planets, and they can read that and they can make prophesy, but to a certain extent.

Those that are passing the rules and regulations, the area of the mental world and towards the transcendental, about them, the astrologers cannot say anything. They admit this.

Now we finish here today.

Devotee: Mahārāja, yesterday we were speaking about the cycles of the moon and it's causing one to be on the mental platform. Is there a particular method, once you experience that mental platform, is there a particular method to get away from that and bring yourself back to Kṛṣṇa consciousness?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It has got some natural relation with the experience of enjoyment, the moon, the element which excites the soft enjoying aspect. So all the poets, they're very fond of getting the connection of the moon when they're going to give any description about the influence of the Cupid, and to cultivate that type of pleasing sensation in our mental system.

And also, the departed souls that have charm for the pleasure of this world, they, after death, went up to the moon, and then again returned from there to here.

[dhūmo rātris tathā kṛṣṇaḥ, ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyanam]
tatra cāndramasaṁ jyotir, yogī prāpya nivartate

Who have got some affinity, some prospect, or crude enjoyment in this world, they after death may go to the moon. And for some time of staying there, they're to return back to the earth, to enjoy again. And those that want to get out of the charm of the world, they go towards the sun, towards the light, not sweet light of the moon but real light. And through light they want to come to understand what is the real subjective characteristic of the soul and the spirit absolute. And through that they pass into the subjective world.

Savitur varenyam, in Gāyatrī it is mentioned. Just as the sun is expressing this world to us, so really the soul expresses the world to us. The soul, that is the conscious unit within us, that is the real thing which can show, which can give conception of this world, mainly. So, which is respectful, which can attract respect and reverence of that soul, there is such a domain and that domain is Vaikuṇṭha, or svarūpa-śakti, the higher potency of the Lord which is inseparable from Him, and which is positive and direct potency of the Lord. That is all Super subjective area and that is the land only for the servitors, not for any enjoyer, or any renunciationist. Bhargo devasya dhīmahi, dhiyo yo naḥ pracodayāt, and there the remuneration of the service is given in terms of love. That is more tendency to serve.

'dāsa' kari' vetana more deha prema-dhana

"Please engage me as Your servitor and give the remuneration which is prema, love." That means which will actuate more, excite more, help more, in the further service. That tendency is the remuneration there, in the land of service. That is the capital. The income is added to the past capital. The remuneration, that is included in the bank balance. The bank balance is there and whatever serving it gets that automatically goes to increase the bank balance, not coming to the servitor. And in this way, the bank balance is serving attitude, and serving attitude increases more and more. That is the specific tendency and nature of the whole of the svarūpa-śakti realm. Dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi.

I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1]

82.11.30.B_82.12.03.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...ever flow there. Who is he?

Bhakta Thomas: Bhakta Thomas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So moon has something in it which excites our lust, our tendency for enjoying this world. Kāma, it requires to send back here, moon, for mundane pleasure. And dissatisfied pleasure makes us crazy, mad, perplexed, puzzled, when dissatisfaction of the sense pleasure here. That is the cause of anomaly the derangement of the brain. So moon has got some connection with madness. It causes excitement, but no arrangement for satisfaction, then it will be mad.

Parthamitra: So Mahārāja, how to be come free from this lust?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. That is the same question repeated. Only way, sādhu-saṅga, and śāstra- saṅga. Whatever little free will spared, you're to utilise that capital. With the help of that, you're to associate with the sādhu, with the saint, and with the scripture. The least freedom that is spared, still remember, remaining, to utilise that.

But that will help us a great deal. But still, if you ask, "How we can utilise us?" Then we shall say, we're not free wholesale. We're slave to so many mental tendencies. But still, whatever little freedom we have got, we should try our best to utilise it, in the company, in the association of the sādhu, and reading the scriptures. That is also the production of the saints, sādhus. No other way. Positive association can help us to get out of the negative tendency. This is scientific.

So only, anyhow, I'm fainted. Whenever little awakening, consciousness awakes in me, I shall try my best to put me towards those that love me, those that are interested in my present existence. Whenever I have accident and fainted, unconscious, whenever little consciousness awakens in me that may be utilised. "Oh, take me to my home. The address is there."

And they may carry me, my body to there. And they're careful about my body, my parents, my wife, children, and they'll take care on my behalf. So whatever little arrangement of freedom may be with me, I shall try to take me to the sādhu. And they know the value of the spiritual life, and they will nurture of their own friends, how to help this patient to be cured from the disease.

The sādhu will say, "He's mine, my friend, and he's under disease. And when he has come to me it is my duty to cure him from the disease, of exploiting mentality. That is the main disease. And another disease, the mentality of renunciation, total. And not to participate in the sweet substantial existence in connection with the Supreme Lord. These are the two diseases, exploiting tendency, and the renouncing tendency. And the help, and the nature proper, is in service of the Lord, of the centre, of the Absolute Good. To remain always in connection with the Absolute Good, and to do what direction we get from the centre, my Lord, my guardian. To be faithful servant of the Lord, and thereby I can thrive most. I can gain most by that sort of utilisation of my energy."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Śuddha Kṛṣṇa, who is here? Who is Śuddha Kṛṣṇa? Śuddha means nectar, sweet Kṛṣṇa, anukula Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is also enemy to certain, to the demon. The demons see Him as enemy, and the servants see Him as sweet, śuddha Kṛṣṇa. The Kṛṣṇa is nectar to whom? Śuddha Kṛṣṇa. Śuddha means nectar. Kṛṣṇa is nectar, like sweet, to His servitors, His servants, friends, consorts, parents.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, if there's no enjoyment for the servitors in the spiritual world, how does our propensity for our enjoyment fit in?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she say?

Devotee: If there's no enjoyment for the servitors in the spiritual world, how is our enjoying propensity...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The enjoyment - that is also enjoyment - but of different nature. That is enjoyment proper, not exploitation. We can rob and have enjoyment. And by giving also we can have enjoyment. Different type. The highest type of enjoyment is in giving us - and giving us, not to a dacoit, or to a thief, or to a rogue. But the highest good, the absolute good. To give ourselves to the absolute good, that is the highest enjoyment. If we want to use the word enjoyment, as satisfaction. So by giving us, finished, wholesale giving, to the absolute good, we can get greatest enjoyment, if we say so, happiness, or ecstasy. But higher enjoyment is not by enjoyment, that is rather, has some bad connection with the worldly thing. That is happiness, satisfaction, ecstasy, these are the words used for that feeling.

Anyhow, the highest form of satisfaction within us we can find only, we can give us, finish us, in the service of the Lord. Just as the sandal when it is rubbed it spreads sweet scent. When the gold is put into the fire, the impurity in the gold, that is some alloy, that is being unalloyed and becomes beautiful.

Candan _____ [?] And the sugar candy if it's pressed it gives sweetness, sweet taste.

So, by giving us the Absolute Good, Absolute Ānandam, in return we can feel ecstasy in quality.

He's so beautiful, that to give Him, our mean self, whatever we can get in return we become the most rich _____ [?] in the wealth of our own heart. Die to live. _____ [?] and you'll find that you're living in highest and most _____ [?] Everything for Himself. We're not for ourselves, we're for Him. That is the nature, that is the health, and we're to accept that. We're to enter into that harmonising system. Now we're dislocated and we suffer from separate interest. From the idea of separate interest, we're coming into clash and we suffer. But when we come in the harmony of the whole, whose centre is Absolute Good, then we'll live in our best interest. Die to live. Apparently we'll have to give everything, but really _____ [?]

you're being enriched. Apparently giving, but really, internally, you'll be enriched. Die to live. Apparently we shall have to die, but really we shall feel that from the innermost standpoint we're being much enlivened. More life, more satisfaction, we're feeling, experiencing. That is the thing.

United we stand, and divided we fall. Is it not?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the real unity when we come in consonance and harmony with that highest centre. Everything is For Himself. With this best consciousness we shall march towards Him, and we shall experience the atmosphere more and more congenial to our soul, our inner existence. At the cost of our external and gross enjoyment, which has got bad reaction also. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Am I clear to your question?

Parama: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Die to live, this Hegel theory it contributes much to our common sense to understand what is service. What is service proper, apparently we're to die. Our mental system will be dissolved totally, and the soul will awaken in its pristine glory, in that soil. Wonderful soil we shall find around us, all blissful. We're suffering in the desert heat, and we shall be taken into some cold land, from the desert. And not to the freezing point - then again we shall die. Freezing point, the ice, too much cold, not that. Just as we can bear, where we can flourish, to that degree of temperament.

Parthamitra: Mahārāja, some devotees have different tendencies. Some like to preach and propagate in a very big way. And some like to in a more smaller way. So how can we understand that both these...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to his capacity, one can take more food and digest and may be strong. It may be useful for him, a large quantity of food. But another man cannot do so. If he imitates that man he'll be lost, if he adopts his... So according to his own capacity he will engage himself in the service. One can manage a kingdom, another cannot manage his family. So who can't manage his family, if he goes to manage a kingdom he'll be lost totally. According to one's personal capacity one should engage himself in that sort of service.

Parthamitra: Sometimes we feel that Kṛṣṇa can empower anyone to do anything.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When He does it is all right.

mukam karoti vācālaṁ panghum langhāyate [girīm

["I offer my respectful obeisances unto Mādhava, Who is the Personification of transcendental bliss. By His mercy, a blind man can see the stars in the sky, a lame man can cross mountains, and a dumb man can speak eloquent words of poetry."] [Bhavārtha Dipikā, maṅgala stotram, 1]

When He comes within that is śakti, His potency, comes within to do, he can do. Otherwise he may be lost, by moha. When he's carried by illusion, he goes to imitate that man, he'll be lost. Yukta-vairāgya. We must try to adjust us with the environment according to our own capacity. Kaniṣṭha-adhikārī, madhyama-adhikārī, uttama-adhikārī. There are three classes, and they do accordingly. One should not jump, attracted by the ambition, he should not jump from one class to another class, then he'll be loser. From his own position he will try his best, according to the śāstra, according to the advice of the sādhu, he will move.

Otherwise, if he wants to amass gold, and to mix freely with the ladies, but he's got no such stamina, self control, he'll be doomed. To be purchased by the gold, and some other temptation, and name and fame, he may be lost. But who has got that sort of realisation that no temptation of this world will affect him, he can handle them and take them to engage them in the service of the Lord. But if he's going to imitate another, higher saint, he goes to mix with all these temptations, he may be lost and his whole life may be spoiled. No imitation. But according to ones own position he'll try, sincere to his own self he'll try. No imitation, no ambition. Ambition only will be that I want to be high. I want to raise myself to the higher level. That is well and good, but not by jumping, but systematic step by step we shall try.

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā: Mahārāja, I understand that because we're here in the material world, it is because at one time we were in the spiritual world, but we had chosen to come to this place, to the material world. So er, if we again attain the spiritual world, if somehow we become pure, if somehow we become devotees, then is it possible that we can fall again from grace, that we can lose our position in the spiritual world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Not clearly I understand you. Is it your question that we were in the spiritual realm, and how did we fall from there?

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And if I again attain that place, what will be the guarantee that again we shall not fall? Is it?

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā: Yes Mahārāja, that is my question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So we are supposed that we have got our birth in the marginal plane with the adopt ability with both the sides. This is taṭasthā.

kṛṣṇera taṭasthā-śakti, bhedābheda prakāśa
["The soul comes from the marginal potency."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

The jīva is born in the marginal plane. Those that are in the higher plane, they're eternally there, they may come here. As Bhagavān Himself comes, He sends His own agents here, that is separate. And ordinary jīva his birthplace is the marginal position, between that spiritual and this material, mundane, the marginal. That is also infinite. A line is infinite, a plane is infinite, so that marginal plane infinite, so many, that is ākṣara. Kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni.

[dvāv imau puruṣau loke, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca / kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭastho 'kṣara ucyate]

["In this world, there are two kinds of souls: the fallible and the infallible. All beings from Lord Brahmā down to the lowest stationary life-forms are known a fallible (as they have deviated from their intrinsic nature). But the personalities who are eternally situated in their divine nature are known as infallible (personal associates of the Lord)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16]

The mundane side that is moving, that is kṣaraḥ, which is moving. Ākṣara, that is like static, what the Śaṅkara School takes to be the highest position, no further, that is Brahmaloka. The soil from where the jīva is coming this side is Brahmaloka, brahmajyoti. Not Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka, neither this mundane, up to Satyaloka. Virajā and Brahmaloka. Brahmaloka is brahmajyoti, non differentiated, so many infinite number of atoms are there. They're all points of consciousness. They come here and with the help of that side agents they're taken. They've got two kinds of adopt ability that is their birth symptom. They can come this side, they can go that side. With the help of the sādhus they can enter that domain, and with the influence of māyā, intoxication, they come this side in the mundane world and suffer. 'Virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya.

tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana', 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

That is higher soil, and the jīva born from the marginal soil, the buffer state.

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā: So I was wondering, the way I formally understood it was that every soul, every jīva, at one time had a relationship with Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Relationship adopt ability with the relationship of Kṛṣṇa, it is within, the possibility is there, and not vacuum. The vacuum, that can never be, attract, or that may never be dissipated. That is eternal. That is not to be lost. So kṛṣṇera taṭasthā-śakti, bhedābheda prakāśa. The jīva plane, where from the jīvas are springing, coming, taṭasthā-śakti, not svarūpa-śakti, neither māyā-śakti. Neither in carrying nor out carrying, but the margin. Neither water nor earth, but the taṭ means just close to the water, the bank portion, something clay. Taṭasthā-śakti, bhedābheda prakāśa. Both common and different, something common, something different in the crudest form in him, a point, a peculiar position of jīva. So they have come to suffer in the mundane under the influence of māyā, nescience. And by the help of science he can go up and may be accommodated hopefully in his eternal service very satisfactorily to his inner nature.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Imagination is a little thing. It is more than imagination. Imagination cannot enter there. More unknowable than imagination. Imagination is in the mental plane and drawn from this mundane world. Our mind, what is mind? Some corresponding thoughts and ideas drawn from this mundane world, that is mind. And imagination also plays with these mundane things, similar, that is further, more wonderful, very, very wonderful. That cannot be conceived from here.

Only like lightening sometimes it may seem to have a touch within me and then fly away. But captured by that charm, that lightening touch, we want to make journey towards that land of lightening. Because generally by our intelligence we can think that where we're living this is undesirable. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā- vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9], the disease, the death, the infirmity, and the birth, in the mother's womb, all these things make our mundane life as hateful _____ [?] And our aspiration for higher and superior form of life can attract me to go there and live happily.

And the soul can live, the higher aspect of us, the soul, the intelligence, the soul. This body is mundane, mind is little better with more freedom. And intelligence, the judging faculty, that is of higher type. And then the light which makes all these things possible, conceivable, that if we can think out, that is the highest thing ever conceived in this mundane world. And that will be the lowest, and we shall go higher, making that plane, that soul may be taken, that self can be taken into the higher soil.

A man may enjoy the association of the drunkard _____ [?] of that mental disease, he may enjoy the association with some higher person _____ [?] That is better _____ [?] enjoying habit with the drunkards and dacoits and this if you can distinguish, differentiate, good and bad _____ [?]

Sometimes so much deeply encased in wine and this dacoiting and thieving, he thinks, 'No, this is good. I'm getting much pleasure here. Why that scientist, or that civilised man, or the patrons there, what are they enjoying? This is real enjoyment.' He may think.

So sober judgement may give the distinction of this lower drunkard life, and the higher life of a ____ [?]

Also in this way we can differentiate _____ [?] mortal elements _____ [?] and the clash between them. The competition there also _____ [?]

When we get on the train compartment there may be competition who will enter first. But the competition may be, "No, no. You go first, you, old man, you go first. You, lady, you go first. I shall go last, enter the compartment." The happy competition. And the brutal competition, everyone's pushing back, "I shall enter into the compartment." Something like that.

Few minutes more I can attend.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja. Can we all get there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. _____ [?]

Parama: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Infinite is such, but gradation, according to the capacity. Śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, in this way the hierarchy is there. Some clash _____ [?] some confidential officer, in this way the gradation is there _____ [?] The friendly circle, they'll have to work under the direction of Subal, Śrīdam, etc. They're eternal leaders in that rasa. In the filial also, Nanda, Yaśodā, permanent, and we may work under them. In this way. In mādhurya-rasa also there's the selected group, and we're to be located in some form of service. So many services are there, the bed service, the garment service, the food service, so many services. So according to my inner taste I shall be grouped there in a particular section and I'll get my duty. And anyhow I shall get my best satisfaction, as much as may be contained in my heart, fulfilled. And sometimes also, like hunger, separation, both separation and union, separation will purify, prepare us for more relishing the food, than union. In this way so many arrangements there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Please me?

Parthamitra: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. What I'm for, if you do that. Kṛṣṇa is for Himself, and we're for Him. And when one shall take the same line, for which we're trying to use our energy wholesale, you will join that, we'll be pleased. What I'm to do, I'd like that others will also follow. My life is meant to do for Him, do for Kṛṣṇa, and I should like naturally the others will follow the same route. It is natural everywhere. And what I want to do, śrī caitanya mano'bhīṣṭaṁ, [stāpithaṁ yena bhūtale svayaṁ rūpa kadā mahyaṁ, dadāti sva-pandāntikaṁ]

[Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura said: "O when will Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī, who has firmly established in this world, the pure devotional teachings and principles of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu and thus fulfilled His cherished desires, ever bless me with eternal shelter of his lotus feet?"]

What Śrī Caitanyadeva wanted to do, and in accordance to that also my Gurudeva wanted to do, I also like to want to do that. And I also like that others will follow the same path, I'm going, under the direction of Gurudeva, to Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa consciousness. To reach the domain where Rādhārāṇī is serving Her most beloved Lord Kṛṣṇa. That we consider to be our highest goal. And any day, any time, in this endless infinite time, we want to reach that goal, the highest ideal. Our only aim of life. We consider that everyone should accept it as their summum bonum, the highest goal of life. Where Rasa-rāja mahābhāva, the ecstasy personified, and the appreciator and servitor of that ecstasy in its highest conception...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and which is the most faultless, purest conception of life. Exploitation is filthy. Renunciation is zero. And loving service is the highest zenith of purity. And we want to prepare us all for the same, that goal, the most intense loving service. No tinge of exploitation. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam / hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

The purity depends on as much as we can sacrifice ourselves to the highest object. Purity depends on that, the intensity of sacrifice. And love proper is that, based on sacrifice, not on exploitation. Love proper, stands on the plane of sacrifice. As much sacrifice so much love. The basis of love must be sacrifice, pure love. Die to live. Sacrifice does not reach and end only in renunciation, that is negative, but positive sacrifice for the perfect cause, Absolute Good. And it is living. It is not reaching the zero and disappearing, not that, samādhi, no. It is the most intensified life is there, highest degree of living energy is there in the sacrifice.

Standard of living. We cannot conceive, we may not reach that. But here we have some experience of heat, but in the sun proper how much heat? Inconceivable, intolerable for us. But we cannot but admit that highest degree of heat in the sun. But there are also substance that can stand that heat.

So, only from the back side of that group we can render service. So we're told that there is special group of servitors in Kṛṣṇaloka, in every rasa, mādhurya-rasa, vātsalya-rasa, sākhya-rasa, dāsya-rasa. And we're to reach to certain distance where we will thrive most. We can't stand if we go nearer more. So Rādhā dāsya is necessary, or Yaśodā dāsya, Nanda dāsya. That degree of sacrifice we cannot tolerate. Only from behind them, that first group of servitors, we can render our service, we can do our duty. And that will be our highest aspiration there. This has been recommended for us. Am I clear? To certain extent?

Parthamitra: To certain extent, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The first group is there. We cannot take the place of them. Only from behind them, in the second line, third line, we can do our best, and our attainment also will be highest in that position. But from there we'll be able to see, to have some experience of the higher, how things are going on there in that intensity heat area. The most intense heat area, we can have some gain. Anyhow the suitable arrangement is there. We're to try to reach that position. Gaura Hari bol. It is all rasa, and that is particularly no heat.

One poet has written, "The fly if he falls into a pot of honey, the fly will die." Is it not? The fly, it's wings will be smeared in the honey, and it won't come back, and it will have to die there. "But if instead of honey it is nectar, then the fly won't die." Mukcita nabare nabe paribe amrta habe [?] If the tank is filled up with nectar, and the fly drops there, fly won't die, because it is nectar. Taking that sweetness of the nectar one will live eternally. His longevity will be eternal, won't die.

So the atmosphere - I'm giving experience of the heat, that the heat we can't tolerate. But that is sweet heat. No possibility of being burned. But we can't stand, we can't lift ourselves up to that degree. It is not within us. The suitability with that is more higher things are not within us, means that.

Most intense light we cannot see, and where there is no light that also we cannot see, very little light, we can't see. Big sound we can't hear, and a small sound also we can't hear. Hear in the limit, sound. And this eye also limited in illusory limit. More light, x-ray, with higher light we shall see that. And in very meagre light we shall see darkness. Only in the middle we can see. So hearing also, sound, high sound we can't hear, and low sound we cannot hear. Only in the middle we can feel. All our senses are like that, so our position is also like that. Within this there is the high sound, there is the low sound, amongst us.

...potency, punishing as a reaction to the people, this Kālī Devī Mūrti, killing the demons. The potency herself rises against her own followers when they're led astray, killing her own sons, punishing the supposed sons. We're under the shelter of a particular potency, but that potency is not happy potency. That gives her energy for exploitation. We borrow energy from her, and go on with exploitation, but the reaction comes. One is exploiting another, in this way here souls are living. Without exploitation no soul can live here, and the inevitable consequence of exploitation we're to suffer. The potency herself is giving punishment to the exploiter. Bhuvanesa Durgā. In Brahma-saṁhitā [44?], like the shadow of the other world, the Kalapatri, the lady superintendent of the whole prison house is Durgā, Māyā, Kālī. Lady superintendent. It is producing and again devouring. Something like that.

And someone in the midst of this course of their life if they can imbibe sukṛti, any inclination towards the service divine, they're saved. Otherwise coming up and down, up and down, in a vicious circle going up and down. But those that have got some sukṛti in the meantime, have collected from the agents of the higher sphere, they anyhow get out of this vicious cycle. Otherwise, vimukta-māninas, they think themselves they're all free, liberated. Again they will have to come back, come down.

āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

[(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:) "O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

They find, they think themselves that, "We're liberated." But because they cannot come in connection with the higher current, have to revert again, downward.

ābrahma-bhuvanāl lokāḥ, punar āvartino 'rjuna [mām upetya tu kaunteya, punar janma na vidyate]

["O Arjuna, from the planet of Lord Brahmā downwards, the residents of all planets are naturally subjected to repeated birth and death. But, O Kaunteya, upon reaching Me, there is no rebirth."]

karmaṇāṁ pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam [vipścin naśvaram paśyed, adṛṣṭam api dṛṣṭa-vat]

["An intelligent person should see that any material activity is subject to constant transformation and that even on the planet of Lord Brahmā there is thus simply unhappiness. Indeed, a wise man can understand that just as all that he has seen is temporary, similarly, all things within the universe have a beginning and an end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.18]

The creator, he's also in relativity of this mortal world, and he'll have to come down. Brahmā, the creator, because he's in the relativity as master of this mundane world, he's in the relativity of this world, he will have to come down.

But if anyone in the meantime can gather sufficient attraction for the higher world, s/he will be given chance to go out. The choice, the liking, the wholesale charm of this world of exploitation has left him, seems to him like ashes, trash, no charm. But has already acquired charm for the higher life, the world of service, the world of divinity. By serving we thrive, and by enjoying we go down. The main principle of devotion is this. Die to live. This life is not desirable, that the inevitable consequence is death. So die here, finish it, and try to live in another soil. We're child of that soil. Try to think it, try to get it, try to understand it, and try to have it.

And our inner existence, which is called soul, that can only enter and live there, and not this body, not the mind. What is mind? Mind is only subtle things drawn from this mundane world. Mind is also worldly pictures on the subtle plane. That is mind. So mind is also this world in subtle form, in this connection. Mind has nothing to do with the higher world. That is to imbibe. Only a little trace we can have that this is perverted reflection, deflection, perverted.

So similar things, the principle is similar, they're also like that. The master, the servant, friend, friend, then son, parents. This type is found there. But materially just the opposite. That is eternal, this is mortal. That is blissful, that is knowledge. Here is ignorance. That is blissful, here is misery. The difference is there, but similar. If we have liking for that, we have to purchase a ticket to go there. Everything in the beginning it is idea. "I shall go to America. I shall go to moon." The first, idea, and then it realises gradually in action. Everything in the beginning is idea. And in course of realising that idea, so many things happen. The ideal is the most primitive stage of achievement of anything.

These are the teachings of Śrī Caitanya in a nutshell."]

[Viśvanātha Carkravartī Ṭhākura's Caitanya-matta-mañjuṣa]

Viśvanātha Carkravartī Ṭhākura in a nutshell is putting what we want, what is our duty. Ārādhyo bhagavān vrajeśa-tanayas. The object of our devotion is the Lord, Nanda-nandana, the son of the king of Vṛndāvana, vrajeśa. Tad-dhāma vṛndāvanaṁ. And His capitol is Vṛndāvana, a sweet forest town. _____ [?] is there, Rādhā-Kuṇḍa there, the small Govardhana Hill is there. And so many, kadamba, kamala, all the trees - a garden town, Vṛndāvana, that is His capitol. Tad-dhāma vṛndāvanaṁ.

Ramyā kācid-upāsanā vraja-vadhū-vargeṇa yā kalpitā. A peculiar type of worship there, that has been designed by the damsels of Vṛndāvana, gopīs. They have discovered a very peculiar, sweet type of service, upāsanā, worshipping, towards their Lord of love. We have got much charm for that. Ramyā kācid-upāsanā vraja-vadhū-vargeṇa yā kalpitā. The type of worship, the relation, designed by the gopīs, that is most attractive.

Śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ pramāṇam. What do you say? What is the underlying truth? This may be all imagination. Where is your evidence, witness, guarantee, that you may get that thing? It may be pure imagination. Śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ pramāṇam-amalaṁ. The great scripture Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam which has been supposed to be the very gist of all the revealed scriptures, that holy book stands guarantee for us, pramāṇam-amalaṁ. Śrīmad-bhāgavataṁ pramāṇam-amalaṁ premā pumartho mahān. And what does it offer, that Bhāgavatam, really? To aspire to do, to try hard for such a thing, what is your remuneration? What do you get after all? What is the benefit? The benefit is pumartho mahān, prema, the fifth end of life, what is love divine. You'll get that. You'll be able to taste that nectar what is love divine. That is for you, premā pumartho.

Śrī caitanya mahāprabhur-matam idaṁ. Where do you get it? Who has preached it, given this information to you? Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, that great Lord Caitanyadeva, He has come with all these findings of that. And our great respect is for this advice, this direction of our life.

Viśvanātha Carkravartī Ṭhākura in a nutshell he represents the whole thing in this way.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Devotee: Mahārāja, how can we understand the difference between what our mind is telling us, and what our heart, Supersoul, is telling us?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, it has been preferred, because what steps you'll take yourself, that may have mental touch and prejudice. So it is preferable to obey the Vaiṣṇava. The selfish prejudice may be less absent there. If I myself want to take the step, my own prejudice may modify this. So we're encouraged to serve in, under the direction of a Vaiṣṇava, who is on the whole considered to be holding superior position to me. That will be vaiṣṇavānāṁ, under the direction of Guru and Vaiṣṇava. That will be the guarantee and very intelligent way, without depending on one's own decision. Own decision may be prejudiced by his previously acquired impulse of mind. So be safe...

...we're told that great number of China [?] living there. Christ. That Christism was one old religion. Just like _____ [?] Jewish. Christism.

The Dhaumya, the disciple of Vedavyāsa, who was given to the Pāṇḍavas as priest, he was a China man. From Chin he came to Vyāsadeva and learned Sanskrit and all the scriptures. And he remained a disciple of Vyāsadeva all along. And he was recommended to work as the priest of the Pāṇḍavas. Dhaumya, a China man, it is supposed.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And the Pāṇḍavas, after finishing their forest life of banishment for twelve years, going to some unknown quarter, then Kuntī Devī was sent with Dhaumya. "Take our mother to the capital." She was given to Dhaumya to take to the society. "We six are going to banishment - unknown quarter, unknown banishment. If it is known, then again to twelve years forest banishment."

That was the contract. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Parthamitra: Mahārāja, was the Vedic culture one time all over the world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the most primitive, most ancient culture. India was selected as the first basis of revealed truth, of the proper type. In other places also, to certain extent. Some place must be selected for some plan, so India was selected. India means, India was perhaps, the Himālayas was lower, Himālaya is going up and up. The first civilisation of the Indians was on the, that Badarikāśrama, that Sarasvati, _____ [?] all these things, that Kaspian sea, near about there. The Himālaya is rising up, and the plane is also coming up from the sea, and the India is claiming this side, and that side is uninhabitable, mountain peak.

It is mentioned that Ambarīṣa Mahārāja, he made a hundred special sacrifices along the banks of the Sarasvati. But Sarasvati is found now to fall on the Ganges near Badarikāśrama, the Vyāsadeva's āśrama. Now that is so high, but that was low at that time. And on the banks of the Sarasvati, hundreds of sacrifices were arranged by Ambarīṣa Mahārāja, it is mentioned. Now that is all mountain peaks - that was something like plane at that time.

World changing. Now they say, the present experts, they say that India was floating in the sea. And by floating it has come and washed here, and the Himālaya _____ [?] They say like that.

One German scholar he invented this theory, that these lands are all floating on the sea. And also they're of the opinion that America and Africa were joined. Now, after some great earthquake they're separate. Because the construction of the African west side, and the American east side are similar. If they come they can be joined together. The cycle has broken. And also the mountain peaks also, divided, half American side, half African. And also they say the trees and the peacocks, in Africa and America similar. So America was joined with Africa, and some great earthquake has severed them far and _____ [?] has come down in the middle. So many things.

Everything is possible by the will of God. "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be fire." There was fire. His will. Designed and destined by the divine will. The whole thing is designed as well as destined, from the beginning to the end, within His fist. Universal power and universal owner is such.

Now we're here to deliberately dismiss against Him, such is our position. You give decree, there is God, there is no God. This is fun, for us. The designer and destine giver _____ [?] If I say 'He is,' He will be. If I say 'No, there is no God,' there will be no place for the God to live. We're dispenser of everything. A farce. Generally it is not possible for us to know _____ [?]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Oh. Another camp coming.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is also stopping, or it will pass away?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: High scholars become dumb to understand and to give any opinion about that, because it is all free.

"I'm everywhere, I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me."

So Mahāprabhu put the word, acintya. "I'm inconceivable."

His ways are inconceivable. All Rights Reserved. Giving, not giving, the extension and withdrawal, any moment, any place, extension and withdrawal.

"I'm everywhere, if I like. I'm nowhere if I like. I can withdraw, leaving the shadow."

So Mahāprabhu told that His relationship with any other thing is uncertain, inconceivable, because it depends on His sweet will. Such is the thing. What should I say?

When we say, 'I know. I am safe,' perhaps we may be in the greatest danger. That statement has got no value. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ.

[janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itarataś cārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ tene brahma hṛdā ya ādi-kavaye muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi]

["O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1]

Now here, now nowhere. Those that are conscious of the fact, their position is something safe. "I'm depending always on the sweet will of my Lord." This is nearer the truth. "Always I'm dependent on His sweet will." That is nearer the truth.

And, "I have got something," to say so, is to become a fool. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ. Big scholars become, are be-fooled by His ways. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ.

His ways are not understandable, not acquirable, not possess-able, that is, He's such. To have such consciousness is to have something, 'That I'm no one. I'm none. I have nothing. I'm only a play doll in His hands. I have nothing. A play doll in His hands.' That is something.

'I have got something,' that means he's deceived. He's such.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. So die to live. There we should be awake in that plane, that everything belongs to Him, we also belong to Him. That is the truth, the nature of truth is such. All is dependant. Potency means dependant. Potency is commanded by the owner of the potency. Jīva is potency, taṭasthā, not the highest potency. And that is a class of existence. Abnegation, 'that I have nothing,' that is some way or other, something. So much sincere dependence on Him creates a position of the person, though not legally, formally, but materially. As much as one is dependant on Him, His inclination, His favour, is towards him so much. That is the natural relationship. So die to live. Formally you're to sacrifice everything, you're nothing, but that is living proper. Ha, ha. Through living proper, thereby you can create a credit, not capital, but credit. To create credit merchants spend money like water, to create credit in the market. Something like that. The potency class, they live on credit, no capital. Hare Kṛṣṇa. If we can conceive that - credit to Kṛṣṇa, so much.

"They left everything for Me, on My account. They're fully satisfied, they're doing everything, they're knowing fully well that they're a doll of My play, that is property."

In India, varṇāśrama system, that is followed. The potency, that is the lady, women class, generally they do not have anything. But still they hold supreme position in the society. Not only to the husband, but the children, worship mother like god...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...formally nothing, no property, no right. But commands reverence, high respect, even superior position than the father. The mother has no right, formal right, social right, no formal social right, she may have, highest, than the father. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The father holds the property, but mother does not hold any property, but the greatest respect of the children. The social sanction is like that.

There is a śloka, bhume guareshi mata sargadi uchata pita [?]

The father is considered higher than the heaven, and the mother's considered higher than the land where we stand. And there's another śloka. Both mother and father they help the child to grow, but mother's quota is far more greater than that of the father's help to the children. So her dignity, her superiority, is much more than that of the father. This is the custom in varṇāśrama dharma. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Not legal possession but social or moral possession. The potency class. So jīva after all is potency, dependent, no legal right, but some sort of social credit. So much so that God Himself says,

sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ]

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

_____ [?] Durvāsā issue in the case of Ambarīṣa Mahārāja.

"Ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno. I am dependent on My devotees. Hy asvatantra iva dvija. Oh you brāhmaṇa, as if I'm not independent, I'm dependent on them as if I have no freedom of My own. Freedom I have got, but through affection I'm reduced to such a position that I have no freedom. In the case of the devotees I cannot but be partial, and independent thinking has no place there. So much indebted I feel to them. Hy asvatantra iva dvija. Sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo. My whole heart is swallowed by them. Bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ. Sādhu means the saints, the devotees, they have swallowed Me, as if. I do not have any independent thinking, but their interest. By their serving tendency they have acquired such a position in Me - wonderful."

Durvāsā, he wanted impartial judgement. "I'm a brāhmaṇa, Ambarīṣa is a kṣatriya. I'm a sannyāsī, he's a gṛhastha, householder. So my prestige is above his. And You are brahmaṇya-deva, You are supposed to be the supporter of the brāhmaṇas. So I have claim to You, that You must have a fair judgement in this case."

Brahmā and Mahādeva, Śiva, they frustrated him. They told, "Go to Nārāyaṇa. We can't do anything in this matter, can't interfere."

Then he had to approach Nārāyaṇa and Nārāyaṇa told like that. Nārāyaṇa also made a good argument _____ [?] "Yes, you are brāhmaṇa. But Ambarīṣa was observing Ekādaśī vrata connected with Me. You also observed that same vow, and you know that the pāraṇa is a part of that vrata, that vow. And Ambarīṣa, he only, to observe, to show the respect of the vow, he did pāraṇa. You also did in time. But you are his guest. He only took a drop of water to observe the indispensable part of the vow, a drop of water. He did not feed himself, without feeding you. And you also did that pāraṇa. And that is connecting Me, that Ekādaśī vrata. And you were annoyed. What he did, that pāraṇa Ekādaśī, that is for Me. And that disturbed you. And you say you are more akin to Me than Ambarīṣa. What are the differences there? In observance of My vow, you did, and he did, and he was faulty? What is the reason there? Who is nearer to Me, you or him?

Then you say you're a sannyāsī, of higher position, and he's a gṛhastha, of lower position. But when you went to burn him with your jaṭā, that collected hair, by the fire, he did not go back to save his life. But you, brāhmaṇa, sannyāsī, when Sudarśana came to attack you, you were running throughout the whole world to save your life. You are sannyāsī, or he's sannyāsī? He did not budge an inch to save his life.

He stood with the attitude, "If I have done anything wrong, let my life be finished."

But you ran to Brahmā, to Śiva, and then you have come here, for fear of your life. Then whose renunciation is of greater type?"

In this way Durvāsā was chastised, was given stricture.

"Anyhow, you'll have to go back to that Ambarīṣa. I cannot give any judgement against My devotee. He will give judgement in this case."

Durvāsā had to come to his opponent for his judgement of the case.

"You go and see how generous he is."

What to do? Durvāsā had to come, and Durvāsā saw Ambarīṣa is standing in the same mortified posture there.

"The brāhmaṇa is troubled on my account. He's my guest. Some accident happened in such a way that Sudarśana chased him, and he's running hither, thither. He's my guest. Without feeding him, how can I take food?" Ambarīṣa is standing there in mournful condition. "This is bad luck for me that I could not, as it should be, could not feed my guest. When he's waiting, how can I take food when my honoured guest he's running hither, thither. How can I take food?"

Then Durvāsā went, and Sudarśana chasing, then Durvāsā went there. "Save me, there's no other saviour I've found in this world except you. You are my saviour."

Then Ambarīṣa began to pacify Sudarśana. "If for a single day I have done any devoted activity to Nārāyaṇa, oh Sudarśana, you please pacify yourself. He's my honourable guest, and you will disturb him in my presence, I can't tolerate. Please do this."

Sudarśana had to stop. Durvāsā was saved. Then Durvāsā announced, aho ananta-dāsānāṁ, [mahattvaṁ dṛṣṭam adya me / kṛtāgaso 'pi yad rājan, mangalāni samīhase]

["I have seen the greatness of the servitors of the Anantadeva, Śrī Nārāyaṇa. You are so magnanimous that although I am an offender you have prayed for me. You hold an unparalleled position in the whole universe."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.5.14]

"I'm astounded to find the generosity in the servitors of Ananta, Nārāyaṇa, how generous they are. I did so much wrong towards him, and he saved my life from the danger that came as reaction. I insulted him and he's honouring so much."

So that great ṛṣi began to speak aloud, announcing from all sides the magnanimity, the nobility, of the servitors of Nārāyaṇa. So one who has got nothing, one who thinks that he's not an independent entity, but he's slave, dependent to the Absolute, Absolute has also got the corresponding proper recognition for him, we see in this instance. Nārāyaṇa sent Durvāsā to him for judgement.

And here Ambarīṣa standing. "That I have nothing. I'm so low, I'm so unfortunate that my honourable guest is under trouble. This is my ill luck." He's repenting like that.

And Nārāyaṇa sent to him. "You are the choice. I also failed. Brahmā failed. Mahādeva failed." Nārāyaṇa also failed. "I also failed."

Next, the highest judge, His devotee, servant. So much so we find. Die to live. What sort of life we get when we can die for His account. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. It is a fortune to die a death for Him. Ha, ha. Dying we are always, every second we're dying, attacked by mortality. But to die for Him, that is the most important and honourable, and that gives the highest goal, highest fortune. Hare Kṛṣṇa. To die for Him. Dying, we're already within death, every second dying. The whole, not only us, the environment, everything we can experience, all dying, dying, dying. But die for a proper cause, then you'll see that your bright self come out which never dies.

_____ [?] And also, holy presence, Godly spirit, both class will go on, eternally. Any question, to our _____ Kṛṣṇa Prabhu? He will answer.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I have one question Guru Mahārāja. Some devotees in Swāmī Mahārāja's movement feel that Swāmī Mahārāja intended to establish varṇāśrama-dharma. But then there are other devotees that say this is impossible, that it's not actually his real intention, that this is not practical or possible in this age.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Finished?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Well, is it the Gauḍīya mission, is it the mission of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta to try to establish varṇāśrama system at some level, or simply to distribute Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and to try to make devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This question always during Prabhupāda's time. Some say, 'he has come to establish this daiva-varṇāśrama,' and some other parties told that, 'no, he has come to preach Vaiṣṇavism.' And other, higher parties also, 'what for he has come?' The three divisions. Then it was discussed and decided. The highest aim to preach the Rādhā dāsya. _____ [?]
Not only Vaiṣṇavism, but service to Kṛṣṇa Caran, but his special aim was to preach the service of Rādhārāṇī, Rādhā dāsya. _____ [?] means the tendency of exploitation, as compared to a servant. _____ [?] Exhaustively, and throw yourself in the service of Śrī Rādhikā. That is his highest aim. And in general to spread Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and to create a favourable circumstance for that, to spread Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he went to spread this daiva-varṇāśrama, to help that.

In Rāmānanda-saṁvāda where Mahāprabhu had a spiritual talk with Rāmānanda Rāya, it is mentioned there, it began from varṇāśrama, and went straight to the service of Kṛṣṇa, and ended in the service of Śrī Rādhikā. And that whole campaign engaged our Guru Mahārāja, for the best benefit of the world. The conception of full fledged theism is such. Not only surrender to Kṛṣṇa, but in particular, surrender to the highest servitor of Kṛṣṇa. That is the secret of the highest success and fortune. To begin Kṛṣṇa consciousness, there is a system of hierarchy of servitors. And from the standpoint of intensity of both quantity and quality, service, what is done to Kṛṣṇa. To take us to that standard. Surrender to Kṛṣṇa is general, but particularly to the highest servitor, the leading servitor of Him. To give us, to offer us, and at the disposal of the highest servitor. That is the key to our highest fortune. Ordinary whole thing within Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness means Kṛṣṇa's service, but there are also particular quality and quantity in this permutation combination. We reach to the zenith in mādhurya rasa, and who is the highest qualified of that service, there to end, Rādhā dāsya, Rādhā kaiṅkarya. In Rāmānanda-saṁvāda, in that discourse, we find it. And in Prabhupāda's, pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

Externally to the ordinary public, to preach to them what is the necessity and purpose of the favourable environment. And that is found in the beginning from varṇāśrama proper, not the static varṇāśrama but the dynamic varṇāśrama. The valuation only from the standpoint of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The estimation of the successful varṇāśrama is only from the standpoint of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Not otherwise, that is asura varṇāśrama, this flesh varṇāśrama is asura varṇāśrama, that is demonic. It makes much of this material thing. And daiva varṇāśrama, who can understand quality. That quality for the preparedness of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, that sort of society, social management.

Just as the army division, some are infantry, some on the horses, cavalry. Infantry, cavalry, and some in other ways. And now, air, navy, and ordinary land soldiers. To fight a war, a battle, these classifications necessary.

So also for Kṛṣṇa consciousness we shall be arranged in such a way as the nation can march from nescience to science. From this materialism to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, in general. Then in particular when we enter into Kṛṣṇa consciousness, there is also difference in the achievement. Lower, higher, both in quality and quantity, we're to calculate that. And with the response of our inner heart we're to approach them. And what Prabhupāda came for, that was Rādhā kaiṅkarya. We have found in his writing, and in his speech also, that he was meant for that. And for that purpose, ordinary recruitment for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and to help the Kṛṣṇa consciousness that daiva varṇāśrama was given recognition as the foundation of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In this way it came out. Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The background is varṇāśrama.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So make the best of a bad bargain. So it is not possible for all to engage themselves in the exclusive service of Kṛṣṇa. So the householders are admitted, household life also admitted. But the all time servant, they should have higher recognition. And then they will fight for preaching and also internal realisation. And the highest will be adherence to the follower of the Gurudeva, the highest representative, kāma rūpa group, suicidal squadron. Wherever dictation will come they'll do or die. And we should not think that all householders are to be of lower degree. Because we find in Mahāprabhu's time so many gṛhastha paramahaṁsa. Though in household life but still they're considered to be devotees of eternal type. Perfect life may be lived in household system also, it is possible, but it is difficult. Householder paramahaṁsa.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Mahāprabhu began to play drama, in Caitanya Maṭha, Candraśekhara bhavan, his his time, then He asked His devotees to take some part. Some Kṛṣṇa, some Rādhārāṇī, some _____ [?], some Nārada, all these things. And He told, "Only those that have got control over their senses, they'll be allowed to take part, not others."

Then Advaita Prabhu, Śrīvāsa, they told, "Then we're not going to be allowed. We're gṛhastha, householder, we have our children, so we cannot get the passport.

Then Mahāprabhu told, "I shall pray to Kṛṣṇa to make you proper for the time being. And you will have to take part drama."

So jñāna śūnya bhakti, the devotion in the form of ignorance. They sometimes may think that they're like ordinary householders, but they're not so. We have to take them as such. Though they're saying, their statement, "That we're not free from the attraction of the senses," but still, they are. It is possible in jñāna śūnya bhakti class. But really they're not so. It is very difficult to understand that plane where one can be such. This is all serving attitude. Not only indifference - generally if we do anything with indifference then we're not caught by the consequence, ana śakta. If we do anything cent percent indifferently we cannot know reaction, we can't be caught by the reaction, or the consequence, indifferent. The negative side is this.

Then the positive side. If anything is done to please Kṛṣṇa, that is going higher, in the positive side, that can never touch any mundane reaction, or consequence, above that. All these things we're to understand very carefully.

So in Vṛndāvana, in the friend circle, in the parent circle, those formally married cowherd, and the children also coming. But the attitude of the union is quite different, far from this mundane union. But only required to help the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. They're not the party to any sort of enjoyment. Indifference is there, renunciation total, again on the positive side the progress, that die to live. It is to maintain Kṛṣṇa līlā, not otherwise. Very difficult to understand, to follow. Only to maintain, to help the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, His pastimes, these are designed by Yogamāyā, not by Mahāmāyā. Not any individual interest there. And not even indifference, but die to live. Following that current we shall go up. For the necessity of helping Kṛṣṇa līlā they're meant to do so. That is the solution.

So we must not drag them down as gṛhastha in the varṇāśrama who tries by following such system to go up, towards renunciation, then towards devotion. So in sādhana varṇāśrama that is something, to help us to go up. And the highest group, that are already established only to maintain the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, meant, so that is life after death. And here, to save us from death. That will be the difference.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in the varṇāśrama system there must be cooperation amongst the four classes. So how does a gṛhastha remain Kṛṣṇa conscious if one of the other classes considers him to be lower, and presents that to him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Positive side to be detected, how much intense tendency to satisfy Kṛṣṇa, that is the criterion. Even externally take the garb of a wholesale, rather exclusive devotee, that should not be the criterion. The inner measurement, earnestness, śraddhā, bhakti, ruci, in this way. The attraction inside, that will be the measurement. Criterion will be there, within.

One gṛhastha, householder, he may abuse himself. "Oh, I can't leave the temptations of the senses. I'm unfit for the service of the Lord. When shall I be able to devote myself exclusively for His service?" Internally he's maintaining so.

Another, a man who is externally holding, given to the service of Kṛṣṇa, he, at the bottom of his heart, feeling for the company of sense satisfaction. Outwardly he's a wholesale servitor of Kṛṣṇa, but internally he's fostering some sort of enjoying temperament. Then that will be considered lower.

And this man who is still in household life aspiring after, has a higher burning in his heart. "I can't regulate myself wholesale." So the inner hankering, earnestness, that should be the criterion, and not external, the dress, or this physical adjustment.

You see the case of Ambarīṣa, he was a gṛhastha, he was an emperor, but his devotion was appreciated. And Durvāsā Ṛṣi who has otherwise attained such high power in yoga, mysterious mastery over subtle powers, that he's here and there, throwing his curse, and his boon, and this is being fulfilled. But from the standpoint of devotion he's considered lower than Ambarīṣa Mahārāja.

So inner hankering for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, to negativate ones own self, "That I'm nothing. I have no status. I've not a drop of devotion for Kṛṣṇa." This is a very peculiar measurement in the negative side.

"I have something, some devotion about Kṛṣṇa." That is dangerous, because, that is infinite in characteristic.

...aspiration, hankering, our _____ [?] of separation with Kṛṣṇa, that is the qualification. Anywhere, externally we're adjusted, that is secondary thing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. So I want to close the class today here.

Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Śrī Śrīmad Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

82.12.06.A

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, I have a question. What is the balance between being dependent on Kṛṣṇa, and being independently thoughtful?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. You can question yourself. Are you searching something? Are you satisfied with you? Or you feel that you're in want, and you search something to satisfy you? Eh? What is your position? Are you searching something, always, to satisfy your own self? Or you feel that you're all right, nothing is necessary for you? What is your innate nature? Analyse yourself. Everyone is searching for something, and that is some sort of happiness, pleasure. That is our real nature, always we're searching to fulfil us, our fulfilment. And the highest conception of fulfilment in our life is Kṛṣṇa. But we find there are many recommendations to fulfil our present inner demand, so many recommendations, so many schools. But we're of this opinion that Kṛṣṇa conception of the truth, of the absolute, can satisfy us fully, our innermost hankering, inner things. Do you follow?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Or can't? Any question in the midst of this?

Parama: No. I'm just having a little bit of trouble hearing you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ
[andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

["Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."]

Prahlāda Mahārāja says in Bhāgavatam, "Those that are hunting after the cover of the things, the phenomenal side, they can't trace that their real search within is for the substance, not for the coating, what we find outside, cover. But our heart's satisfaction only possible with the real substance within. Svārtha- gatiṁ. Ārtha means prayojana, necessity. The cause of necessity is generally thought that what we find outside, that can satisfy our hankering. But we can't understand that our heart won't be satisfied with anything what we find outside, the covering, surface, superficial. It hankers for something which is within this cover, within this external show _____ [?] some substance, some spirit. That can satisfy, quench our inner thirst. And that is Viṣṇu Who is pervading everywhere. Viṣṇu, the all pervasive substance, that can only quench our inner thirst, and not what we see outside, by our eye, by our ear, our tongue. With our physical senses we come in connection with so many things, and we think that sweetmeat is quenching my tongue, and the music is satisfying my ear, beauty is satisfying my eye. Apparently we may think, but that cannot satisfy the real hankering of heart within. That can only be done by that all permeating substance, that can satisfy." Prahlāda Mahārāja says, Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa.

So this hunting for external things, that has no end, and that has got reaction, and we're troubled in the long run thereby. But inner search for the fulfilment of life is something that is transcendental, and that is Viṣṇu. That is person, that personal quality, and not this ordinary superficial personality who are also hankering in their own turn. Not mixing with them, but the self satisfied persons.

The happiness, the ecstasy personified, the all attractor Who can attract everything, and that not by power, but by heart, by beauty, by love. Only He can satisfy our heart's eternal demand, that Kṛṣṇa conception of the truth. Bhāgavatam comes to say that. On the surface we may think that power can satisfy us. If we can get absolute power in my hand I'm satisfied. So many scholars they're of that opinion, so many prophets also. But Mahāprabhu and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says, "No. Your innermost hankering is not for power, but for beauty, but for love. And it is, the highest conception of the Absolute Truth is there."

That is more or less our view. Swāmī Mahārāja also preached that, that Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of love and beauty, He can satisfy the innermost hankering of all of us, can charm us. Not majesty or power or anything else, that is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Consciousness of Kṛṣṇa type, of the truth. And how we can achieve the wholesale transformation within us, in a serving attitude towards Kṛṣṇa. That hankering is the wholesale hankering, no interruption, like so many masses in the ocean, so many things. But those must be cleared off, and constant and pure hankering for Kṛṣṇa. Search for Kṛṣṇa, thorough search. Hesitation should be eliminated, so many hesitating, anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna.

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167]

They're like so many things floating on the ocean. They should be removed, and pure, clear, concentrated and faithful searching of the Lord. Our heart should be converted into that sort of thing, continuous and intense search for Him. Sincere search for Him. That is what is required on our side. The others, on the side of Kṛṣṇa, and we can take it generally, by the words of the śāstra and the sādhus, that if we're pure in our attempt, the response is also pure from the other side. That is our consolation.

But we must keep in mind that this is not a very easy thing, because we're going to deal with the infinite. So the real sādhus, they're our friends on the way. They help us greatly, by consolation, by assurance, fulfilment, the talk and conversation with them. Bodhayantaḥ parasparam, kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ.

[mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam
kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

We can discuss with them. In Rāmānuja sampradāya there is an incident. There were three advanced devotees in one shrine. And somehow or other in a temple in a dark night they met together, those three stalwarts, contemporary _____ [?] Then, they did not know one another, but heard their name. Then in deep darkness they're talking. Then they came gradually to know, through their own conversation, that those three had met anyhow in a particular temple, they had met by chance. In their own conversation they could find this out.

Then one of them said, "We are three here. Do you find a fourth person here, fourth man? We think we have heard one another's name, but do you feel any fourth man?"

Both said, "Yes." Kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, bodhayantaḥ parasparam.

[nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikuṇṭhe, yogināṁ hṛdayeṣu vā] mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti, tatra tiṣṭhāmi nārada

[The Lord Himself says: "O, Nārada, wherever My devotees sing My praises I cannot but be present there."] [This verse is within the purports of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.2.41 & 4.30.35]

The fourth person was the Lord, Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa. In their talk, He's also present there, via mutual conference about Him, He cannot but come here in their talk. The very theme of their talk, the very subject, was He, they could feel. "He's present in our talk, we can feel, we can satisfy our heart, feeling in the words of the sādhu, He's there."

As the subject matter He's there, talking, they can feel. Some can see anywhere and everywhere, some can see in specialised discussion, and still searching and searching. Hunger is not quenched, fully, because He's infinite. But can't submit, surrender it, can't abandon. When the question of surrendering, quitting, then they shudder.

"Oh? No. I'm in the midst of a very sweet thing. I can't leave it. I can't have it, but what I have got I can't leave it." Shudder.

"You give up Kṛṣṇa kathā." It will be impossible.

So some fitness we find there in his talk. But none is satisfied. Even Mahāprabhu, none. Rādhārāṇī, none satisfied. What to do? Question of satisfied. They'll say, "I've not got anything." They say like that. Very peculiar, wholesale merged, still, the hunger is as young as anything. Full fed, still the hunger remains. "I'm hungry." Everything is infinite. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Everything is infinite, the search after infinite, the object of search is infinite. The searcher also may be converted into infinite, purified. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari. Mayātma-bhūyāya, kalpate.

[martyo yadā tyakta-samasta-karmā, niveditātmā vicikīrṣito me
tadāmṛtatvaṁ pratipadyamāno, mayātma-bhūyāya ca kalpate vai]

["One who is subjected to birth and death attains immortality when he gives up all material activities, dedicates his life to the execution of My order, and acts according to My directions. In this way, he becomes fit to enjoy the spiritual bliss derived from exchanging loving mellows with Me."]

"By My connection he gets transformation towards Me."

[na me 'bhaktaś catur-vedī, mad-bhaktaḥ śva-pacaḥ priyaḥ]
tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ, sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham

["A brāhmaṇa who is expert in studying all four Vedas is not dear to Me. But a devotee who comes from a family of out-castes (caṇḍālas) is dear to Me. Whatever he touches becomes pure. That devotee, although born in a family of out-castes, is as worshippable as I am."] [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.59]

Or:

["Even though a person is a very learned scholar of the Sanskrit Vedic literatures, he is not accepted as My devotee unless he is pure in devotional service. However, even though a person is born in a family of dog-eaters, he is very dear to Me if he is a pure devotee who has no motive to enjoy fruitive activity or mental speculation. Indeed, all respect should be given to him, and whatever he offers should be accepted. Such devotees are as worshipable as I am."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 10.127]

Also Kṛṣṇa says, "As I'm honoured, My devotees will also be treated like that, because they're all getting My _____ [?] They present Me."

The iron, when put into fire, the iron catches the quality of the fire. It can burn then. So, a devotee, he imbibes that Godliness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness full, as much as he can imbibe. Then he gets so many qualities of Kṛṣṇa, of the Lord. So he acquires the position of being served, master, he's to be served. So what is to be given to Kṛṣṇa we may give to the devotee.

Tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ. "And he'll take from you, as on My behalf. One who has surrendered to Me, he has right to do anything and everything on My behalf. And the surrender must be genuine. Tasmai deyaṁ tato grāhyaṁ, sa ca pūjyo yathā hy aham. And the respect also you will show to him, there you should show to Me. Because that iron has got the quality of the fire, so that should not be dealt with as iron but fire, when the iron is red hot."

Parama: Guru Mahārāja. I have not understood completely, because of my impurities. How much do we take shelter of the sādhus, take guidance from the sādhus, and how much do we guide our selves?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What does she say? How much ____ ?

Devotee: How much guidance do we take from the sādhus...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And how much from inner sources? There should be harmony. Sādhu.

[śrīmad-bhāgavatārthānām āsvādo rasikaiḥ saha] sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

The inner selection, that is the ultimate. What sort of sādhu we shall like, we shall associate, and from whom I shall try to get help? The free choice is within me and that is finite. But my choice comes from sukṛti, and from unconscious sukṛti, and then conscious sukṛti, and then on the surface it is known as śraddhā. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ.

śraddhāmayo 'yaṁ puruṣo,] yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ

["O Bhārata, all men have a particular type of faith according to their individual mentalities. The very nature of the living being is based on faith - their internal and external nature is modelled according to their faith. Therefore, their nature may be discerned according to the manner of worship or reverence in which they have faith."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]

The quality of the śraddhā, our regard, our faith, the nature of faith takes us to different groups. And when it takes to Kṛṣṇa consciousness group, and again there are divisions of division. Heart's response, which will be very suitable and appealing to my inner necessity. In this way we shall select the sādhu.

And the ultimate decision of course is always with me. It will say that, "Mix here, you're getting more and more things in your line."

Always decision, a free choice with one who is searching after. The selection of sādhu, and how much he will - when he thinks 'I'm getting more and more,' and he will advance more and more. According to his own capacity and receiving, 'how much I can digest, so much I shall eat.' In this way he will go forward.

As much as we can, if we find a good master, as much as we can, so much that we're to surrender and we're to be utilised. Die to live. That Guru - first we're to serve for sādhu, and then we're to select as Guru, and then we're to live on his disposal, to be utilised. And if we find we're progressing we shall go forward more and more. In this way _____[?] sādhu. And also there is śāstra. With the help of the sādhu we understand the meaning of the śāstra. And with the help of the śāstra we can judge what is, who is real sādhu. So these two have been recommended for us always for our advancement.

Sādhu is always necessary when I'm fallen, to help me, sādhu is necessary, saint. And then when I'm making progress, his guidance is necessary. Then when we've attained our highest position, there also under the guidance of sādhu and Guru I serve Kṛṣṇa, always. Sādhu is always necessary for my life - the Guru, guide, necessary. Guru who has got superior realisation than me, sincerely if you take their help, their assistance, to help me in all phases.

(There is a saying in English?) "Real realisation, the guidance is necessary. And when we have attained the goal, there also, only under their direction we can serve Kṛṣṇa. The live Guru, sādhu, is always necessary for us."

And our responsibility is to utilise their advice. But if in the beginning there is some doubt, suspicion, about the sādhu, the scripture is there, and another sādhu, other sādhus are there to consult with them. And the scripture means the opinions of the bona fide sādhus, that are continued so long in the society proper, have got a good credit, scripture. And also with the help of the scripture I shall try to understand what sādhu is. At the same time, that is inter dependent. The sādhu, they can give proper interpretation of the scripture, and visa versa. Anyhow, by the help of these two, and I'm responsible for me, I'm the greatest party. The most important party is ones own self, and she, or he, with the help of the scripture and the sādhu will make progress towards the truth. And he'll be able to understand on the way that whether he's making progress in a real way, or guided to any false way.

[prapadyamānasya yathāśnataḥ syus, tuṣṭiḥ puṣṭiḥ kṣudapāyo 'nughāsam]

["As with every mouthful an eater feels the threefold effects of his satisfaction, his stomach being filled, and his hunger being dispelled, in the same way when a surrendered soul serves the Lord he realises devotion of three natures simultaneously: devotion in love, the personal appearance of the Lord who is the abode of love, and detachment from all other things."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.42]

Just as when taking food we can understand that my hunger is being appeased. I was weak when hungry. I'm feeling strength. And also the appetite is also satisfied. Bhaktiḥ, our attachment will be increased. Pareśānubhavo, I shall have a clear conception for what I'm going to, and more and more clear conception of the truth, pareśānubhavo. Anyatra, viraktir, and my indifference to what is wrong, by which I was captured before - anti feeling towards that, towards non Kṛṣṇa. Preference for Kṛṣṇa, and sympathy for Kṛṣṇa. Apathy for non Kṛṣṇa, and some sort of conviction about Kṛṣṇa. These things will show us what we're doing or not doing. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, sometimes, some say that because Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the highest, therefore it is the most difficult to attain. Especially, possibly, for western devotees it might even be more difficult rather than - and sometimes it is suggested that it would be easier to approach God through their religion that they were born into, such as Christianity...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There are so many conceptions of Godhead. But there are different stages, beginning from the atheist. In the beginning in the most covered and dense ignorance, no conception of even oneself. And when comes up to calculation, calculative consciousness, they can give recognition to morality, but not to theism. They can see the interest of others, like their own self, so morality comes. Then again, by higher awakening, they come to find that between others, the environment and between him there is a connecting link, on which he and the environment is staying for a common platform. And what is that common platform? When he comes to investigate, then gradually he comes to feel more importance of that common union platform, plane. That connecting, my sympathy with my neighbour, why, what for, what is the common link? Then gradually that common thing gets more importance in his discretion. And he goes to search, and he's charmed by the character of that common plane which is within me, and within my neighbour, and within the environment. And caught by the beauty and charm of that thing. In this way God conception comes.

And then he sees he's more interested with that plane where he's standing, which is within him, without him. That thing, that plane is very charming and interesting. Then in his relationship with that thing which is permeating everywhere, how? What? How is He? Only air, ether, or something? Even through my mind, through my heart, what is that common thing? He gets more and more interest and curiosity to know. And in this way the God conception comes within. And different conceptions come to different parties, and by eliminating the conception of God.

Knowledge means progress, always, man is progressing, everything is progressing, cannot stand in a static position. So search and search, in this way. In this way Newton gave some conception, and then so many others came and gave higher conception, more graphic, more extensive. In this way it is going on.

But for the beginners, in this world, as so many primary schools are also filled up, then the colleges are also filled up, and post graduates are also filled up, so many students everywhere.

So God conception also in the primary stage, in the middle stage, in the highest stage, they're making experiments. What sort of God conception will suit whom? Our inner life, inner choice, differences, different group, and they try sometimes to show that my conception is superior to that of you.

"What you have, I also had once that sort of conception. But I'm drawn towards this sort of conception of the Absolute. This is the reason. You also take it, you also try it, and if you find satisfactory take it."

In this way the transaction is going on.

One rising and also falling, both is possible. By offences one can fall from one consciousness to another consciousness, may go to lower consciousness. And also one may rise from one lower conception to higher conception. The world is of variegated nature. So many things available. Every type is available here.

What to speak of in the ordinary case of God conception. Even in Kṛṣṇa conception there is also gradation, śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya. And in mādhurya camp also there are different camps, different sorts of realisation. In this way the hierarchy is going on, to the last limit.

Elimination, acceptance, and elimination, dynamic character. As we may apply in other cases also. Education department, in different, in previous time, and now, both science, mathematics, all these things. Everywhere. In the military, adjustment, readjustment, going on. Sometimes in the progress and sometimes going downwards.

Suppose, God forbids, if the electron, the atomic war begins, the whole world will be reduced to be _____ [?] Again it will have to grow in the line of civilisation, certain. But we do not admire this present form of civilisation. What is conducive, what is helping towards Kṛṣṇa conception, that society is well and good. This scientific civilisation means to snatch, to try to utilise everything for human society, for its comfort. Which will have to be paid to the paisa, and the humans that are drawing the comfort they'll be bankrupt at that time. This is no progress in a proper line.

The progress of the soul, that is what is desirable for us. For the soul's progress, this sort of scientific researches are not necessary at all. Not necessary at all. Only simple life is rather considered better for such realisation. Plain living, high thinking, and thinking in the proper line. Not thinking how to exploit others, as an individual or as a nation. Not to exploit, but not to be exploited also, by the ordinary. But to be exploited by the highest good. We must try to put ourselves at the disposal of the highest discretion and highest good, highest heart. That is what is necessary.

We can feel that we're imperfect, we're helpless, we're limited in so many ways. That we shall have to understand, it is true, that we're not perfect, we have got limitation. We're searching for some help, better than us. And the search must be in the right way. In the name of search we may not be having to give a bond of going down. That is reaction.

This is reactionary, this civilisation, exhorting energy for the comfort of the present humanity. And the humanity will have to pay it back to the farthing. This is loan from the nature. This is not progress, this body comfort, or mind comfort, this is all reactionary.

And who is the seeker? That is the man, man within, whom we think the man, he's the mental system, he's the usurper. Whom we think is the proper party, the seeker of comfort, he's a sham. Representation of the proper party, who is within, is the soul. Soul is the proper party. And the mind, the mental system, has taken possession of its interest.

According to our Guru Mahārāja, the soul in bondage, soul is minor. And the manager, mind, he's exploiting the proprietor's property, the mind, the mental system. And the real proprietor, he's minor, in minor's position. So parties interest is not being solved. These are for mind, he's the sham, representation, he's looting, plundering things according to _____ [?] So we're living in a fictitious world, not of our own. And the whole civilisation is prey to that. All the usurpers, managers, on behalf of their minor proprietor, are active, and doing things on their behalf, and wholesale is camouflage, wrong, and injurious.

Perhaps I'm not very clear, eh? The whole transaction that's going on is wrong. It is not for the real interest of the party, that is soul. Deceivers are reigning, the cheaters are reigning. _____ [?]

They're conducting the kingdom - cheaters, the mind is a cheater to the soul proper, the proprietor. So what is going on that is all _____ [?] all bogus. The world transaction is all bogus, not concerned with reality. This is māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...not having any connection with the absolute interest. All imaginary interest, something like dream. We're living more or less in the world of dream. That is māyā, illusion, imagination, concoction. What is reality we do not know. But according to our own interest we have thrust something on the environment, and our transaction is of that thrust interest in the environment. With that we're going on with our activity, life. All imagination, the environment, what is this tree, what is the tree in itself? We calculate it from our own interest, own interest. But independent of our interest what is that tree? We're not concerned with that real self of it.

So everything is like that. In the interest of our present position of faulty calculation, we're living in our own world, concocted world we're living, in fool's paradise. We do not know our own self, what is real. There's so many tendencies to run after beauty, to run after softness, to run after sweetness, to run after music. That all combined has made a superficial thing within us. But if we dive deep our faculty of judgement will say, "Don't indulge in all these hobbies. Try to find out what is your real interest." The higher intelligence, the reason, the conscience will say, "Don't create yourself to be a beast and run after beastly tendencies. You're a man, you will be such and such." In this way eliminating the covers we dive deep into our own self. Then we shall say,"What are we doing? Our intrinsic life is so valuable thing and we are making transaction with the sham thing here, forgetting my own self, in this way." In this way.

From imagination to reality, we can dive deep within our own heart and find our soul, and from soul's interest if we again try to look around, our vision will be changed. Christ's vision and estimation about the environment, what was that? Not like ordinary man, so deep. So in this way, deeper, deeper conception of ones self, that has taken, that my deepest conception, we find take me with some beautiful plane of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Vṛndāvana. Everything is beautiful, everything is beautiful, everything is loving.

The deepest conception of our own soul we shall find, it is there, it is there. Different layers, from surface to deepest position, different layers. And comparison is always allowed, different plane. From the dacoits, whatever gets, robs it, and swallows, enjoys, self enjoyment and distributed enjoyment, in this way.

What is enjoyment proper and to dive deep. The deepest soul ever found in the world in Bhāgavatam says there is Vṛndāvana. Vṛndāvana is the place where your soul can experience the happiest environment, and your own highest utility there you will find. The most valuable position of your soul in the environment you will find in the conception of Vṛndāvana, Kṛṣṇa. The God is Kṛṣṇa, and so far it has been given out that that is the deepest and highest plane of our soul to live in. Vṛndāvana, land of beauty, and love and not of power and grandeur. And not live in the world of dream, what will be falsified only after death, you'll be taken by your ear forcibly from here.

Reactionary, everything, and here you cannot thrive you can see. So many came, Alexanders, Napoleons. Where are they? Whether big or small, everything will vanish. It is a jugglers play here we find, so at least save yourself from this jugglery, and dive deep to find out the plane of reality. And then again by comparison, try to find out what is the most fundamental reality in you, and then to get friends in that plane. Dive deep in the land of beauty and love, eliminating all other proposals that will come to take you away from that highest campaign, highest realisation.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

All puzzling, more puzzling, more searching and more puzzling. Bewildered, we're being bewildered. What to do? Infinite, no limit, we can't catch within our fist anything, hopeless.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

Ultimately there is not injustice in the land. Sincere people won't be troubled, Kṛṣṇa says, "The sincere are never troubled."

We must be faithful to our own self. We shall try to learn to be faithful, sincere, sincerity. Sincerity is everything. Shamness, complexity, māyā interest. Find the interest, self interest. Self interest in the proper sense, and in the surface, superficial sense. Self interest of course everyone is after, but in the superficial sense, don't know what is his own interest. To learn what is our own interest, with the help of the sādhu and śāstra. What am I? And where am I? This is sambandha jñāna.

'ke āmi,' 'kene āmāya jāre tāpa-traya' [ihā nāhi jāni -- 'kemane hita haya']

["Who am I? Why do the threefold miseries always give me trouble? If I do not know this, how can I be benefited?"] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.102]

To come to a Guru, to learn who am I, and where am I, and who is my guardian, what is my best necessity? All these fundamental questions to be discussed and solved, and then we shall try to attain what is necessary. The fundamental self analysis. Who am I properly? Where am I?

Who is my own? What I want? All these fundamental questions to be solved sincerely and with earnestness, self help, self help in the proper way. Then we shall have to come to God as the shelter, that ultimate real shelter, real guardian.

I am small, I am insignificant, otherwise why have I come to such a blind lane, I have reached in the blind lane, I can't find any way. All sides the death, mortality, so many undesirable things have captured me, surrounded me. Now self searching is necessary. Where am I? Who am I? What is my prospect? Who can save me? Who is my own? Who can help me? What I want from my inner heart? Why I am imperfect? I am uneasy. I don't feel comfort, why? Cry for that and you'll find the help is coming to you. Search yourself, you will get everything in relativity of that. What are you, yourself, search that, dive deep into your own heart, own self. What am I? Who am I? All these things, with all sincerity, because we should not deceive our own self, but we are deceivers of our own self. Such is our real position by māyā. So the agents come from the plane of truth to help us, to recruit us, to save us they come. We're digging our own grave. They come to interfere. "Don't dig your own grave and enter into that. You're my brother, come home." In this way they come, so many come to take us back, this arrangement is also there.

Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu. Gaurāṅga Sundara. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I've been told that by following this process of purification we can experience the spiritual world in this lifetime. Does everybody that follows the scriptures or the Guru's instructions, will they also have that taste? Does that taste come to everybody?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. There is gradation, variety is there, and sometimes going and coming there, going and coming back. Variety in every sort of cases, going up, going down, going this side, going that side. So many variegations everywhere. All is not equal. All won't advance smoothly. Some zigzag way, some after some stop, some in one length will go far higher. In this way there may be different cases. All not one and the same, different. So many schools are open, but every student is not going to the highest position, institution. According to the variety of the nature of the different students the result will be different, not avoidable.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Some coming back, going ahead, some began before but progress slow. Some going few steps, sleeping. There may be so many different stages may have, may occur.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is one's progress along the path, the speed voluntarily adjusted, or does that come from the higher plane?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mainly the traveller is responsible for his travel, generally, and sometimes the environment is also contributing something. From higher we expect fair decision, but still partiality to the fittest, that also may be traced thereby, and that is not partiality. One who can receive more, more will be given to him, so that is not partiality, fair justice.

Kṛṣṇa says: "Generally I am equal to all. Whoever comes to Me in his way I give him general help, but through special thing."

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham
[mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ]

[Śrī Kṛṣṇa says: "As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, everyone follows My various paths in all respects."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

This is general, but we find that some come and wants devotion. "No take salvation." Muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam.

astv evam aṅga bhagavān bhajatāṁ mukundo, muktiṁ dadāti karhicit sma na bhakti-yogam]

["Śukadeva Gosvāmī continued: My dear King, the Supreme Person, Mukunda, is actually the maintainer of all the members of the Pāṇḍava and Yadu dynasties. He is your spiritual master, worshippable Deity, friend, and the director of your activities. To say nothing of this, He sometimes serves your family as a messenger or servant. This means He worked just as ordinary servants do. Those engaged in getting the Lord's favour attain liberation from the Lord very easily, but He does not very easily give the opportunity to render direct service unto Him."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.6.18]

Looking at the bottom of the heart, avoids, by giving salvation. Bhakti means He will Himself be caught, He does not like to be caught by a fellow of that type, he likes salvation and not bhakti. And another section also they're ignorant, but at heart pure, wants ordinary worldly things.

"No, no, don't take this, but take this thing, take bhakti."

That sort of dealing from Kṛṣṇa we find. So three things, in general, as one wants He gives, so He gives according to the demand. But some case He avoids, and some case invites. The deeper nature you can study and difference in dealings according to that. _____ visaya sukha [?]

Dhruva went for kingdom, apparently, but when he found Kṛṣṇa, "No, no, I don't want kingdom, I want You my Lord. I came in search for glass, I have found jewel. No longer shall I ask for that glass."

Kartum vitamyam nava dwipa paratnam svami pratas varam vraca [?]

So many demons we're told, they say, "I want Your favour, Your devotion."

"No, no, You take liberation. Go away."

Response according to the variety, or the demand, or care, the quality. Apparently, superficially he sees, the justice and the mercy. Justice is there, but mercy is above. To err is human, but to forgive is divine.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] is also there. Affection, love, and we're after that divine thing, that love, for that mercy. That mercy for us, it is better to live as an insignificant soul. To live in a land of mercy, that will be most judicious for us. We're helpless in every way _____ [?] atomic existence. If we can have a land of mercy to live, then mercy, love, then our life is ensured. But if we're to live in the plane of justice, then many errors we may commit and we'll be tried and we'll have the possibility of going down. But if any way we can have - we can secure a position in the land of love and mercy, then we finite souls with so many defects in many ways, our life is ensured forever.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, so the quality of prayer determines the quantity of mercy, coming to one?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Quantity, quality, both. Quality of prayer will invite quality of mercy and quantity. Deserve and have. First deserve, then have, otherwise you will misuse. And to make us deserve, the agents are also on foot, to help us in way of our deserving. So sometimes His servants, His agents, are more benevolent than He Himself. They're always on foot, travelling, to give their Lord to all.

Crying, Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu. Nityānanda Prabhu, from both sides of this Ganges ran madly. "Take Mahāprabhu. Take Gaurāṅga. Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. You'll have everything. My boys, take the Name of Gaurāṅga. Come."

"Give your attention to Gaurāṅga. You'll get everything My boys, come."

Eta bali nityānanda bhūme gaḍi yāya.

[yena bhaje tāre bale danta tṛṇa dhari, āmāre kiniyā laha bala gaura-hari eta bali nityānanda bhūme gaḍi yāya, sonāra parvata yena dhūlāya loṭāya]

[Locana dāsa Ṭhākur said, "The compassionate Nityānanda Prabhu most humbly approached those who did not feel any loving appreciation for Śrī Gaurāṅga due to their false pride and hard heartedness. Not to hurt their pride, He took a few blades of grass between His teeth as a token of humility and appealed to them saying, "O dear friend, try to understand that your own highest good is Gaura Hari. You can attain the greatest fortune of your life if you connect to Him with love and devotion. Please take His Holy Name, even if only once, and chant it from the core of your heart. With devotional faith speak about His glories and share your relish with other devotees. Sincerely pray for His grace, for you will surely receive great spiritual benefit. I am your most well wishing friend. If you can please take My advice and act accordingly then you can own Me forever."

Imploring in such a way, Śrī Nityānanda's heart melted in spiritual compassion. Incited by that deep emotional ecstasy He became so tender before those proud people that He invalidated all their pride. As an act of noble humility He began to roll on the ground before them. As His form became decorated with the dust of the earth the devotees around Him beheld with tearful eyes the extraordinary manifestation of causeless mercy of Prabhu Nityānanda. They marvelled at how their divine Guru Tattva, could sacrifice His exalted position and honour and come down to the dust of the earth with such compassionate humility."

[Bhakti Nandan Svāmī's Śrī Bhakti Rakṣaka Bhajana Madhuri, p 4]

His appeal was so intense He could not contain Himself, He fell onto the ground, and began to roll and cry. "You do not know what you are, in what dangerous position you are in. Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. You'll be saved. You'll be taken to the highest position. Take the Name of Gaurāṅga once. Accept Gaurāṅga." Nityānanda tried His best. Bhūme gaḍi yāya. Began to roll at the gate. "I appeal to you. What are you doing in the midst of death and danger? Take the Name of Gaurāṅga. Sonāra parvata yena dhūlāya loṭāya. The Golden Mountain Peak is rolling on the earth." _____ [?] On both sides of this Ganges Nityānanda used to wander with this saying, bhaja gaurāṅga, kaha gaurāṅga laha gauranger nāma, yei jana gaurāṅga bhaje sei amāra prāna.

"You'll be My heart of heart."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.
Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So take the Name of Nityānanda. He does not accept any offence. The most generous. He does not know to take any offence. Nityānanda is so much generous, never conceived. All the fallen, with any amount sin or misdeed can approach Nityānanda with most confidence, fearlessly. He's to enlist all sorts of dangerous sinners within His camp. With so much capital He has come here. Nityānanda Prabhu. And He takes them to Gaurāṅga. And Śrī Gaurāṅga means Rādhā-Govinda combined, the highest thing. Acceptance of Both the Parties. Nityānanda Prabhu. Heno nitāi vine bhāi rādhā kṛṣṇa pāite nāi. He makes firm foundation, Nityānanda, and on that you can build any structure, whatever weight it may have.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I've heard that ones spiritual life does not actually begin until initiation. And I've also heard that the Lord is difficult to approach through the English language, and this seems to pose a great barrier for westerners.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That may be somewhat, but the real thing is not the language, not the saṁskāra, they also have something, wall. But the real thing is the heart, and that sukṛti that can be collected by not only one life, but so many lives wandering here, there, in different sorts that is gathered. That is the real wealth, real capital is sukṛti. Affinity, under the cover the heart is there. The heart is everything. The cover of education, and different habits of the different nations or society, they're there, but still the all important is the heart within. And there that sukṛti which is acquired by various previous births. And the affinity, tendency, towards the truth of particular type within, sleeping within the cover. The covers have something, iron cover, this wood cover, this cloth cover, may be, but the very substance within, that is all important. That sukṛti in the soul, the awakening of the soul. Birds of the same feather flock together. The sameness within, but outwardly it is covered by something else. But the cover may be removed, and the soul to soul relationship will come.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. But that saṁskāra, that cover, cannot be ignored. It is also something, specially for the weak. But all important is the heart within, the irresistible tendency within. The like in us, the earnest hankering for the truth. That is all important. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. That is generally Bhāgavata dharma. Wherever one may be, whatever his position may be, but with the help of the devotee he can pass away to that land _____ [?] One may be educated, or one may be ignorant. One may be healthy, strong, another may be very tiny and no, he's sickly, may be. In this way so many differences outwardly. But devotion, inner hankering for the truth, that is all important.

["Pure devotional service to Kṛṣṇa cannot be obtained by performing pious activities even for millions of births. It can be purchased only by paying one price: intense eagerness. Wherever it is available, one must purchase it immediately."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.70]

Greed, earnest hankering, lobha, that is the real qualification, which is inevitable to march in the line of love towards Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, it seems in my personal experience that slow progress along the spiritual path causes frustration. And quick purification along the path causes confusion. And both seem to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. What are the two? One slow?

Devotee: Slow progress causes frustration.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Frustration? Why progress creates frustration?

Devotee: Slow progress.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Quick is doubtful. It is not a very easy thing. Slow but sure. Sure is necessary. Slow but sure, that has got some value. But quick, if in the right way of course it is higher, but quick is dangerous also. It is not a very easy thing. So how should we know that the progress is quick? If progress is properly quick, that is of course most fortunate thing.

Devotee: Sometimes this quick progress though will cause confusion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Confusion, reactionary, then that is not progress. That which takes us to confusion, that is not progress. It should not lead into confusion. Progress means that should not lead into confusion, progress means towards reality, not vague thing, not māyā, not illusion. Towards truth, light. So real progress does not presuppose confusion. That is not progress. Movement is not progress. All movement do not show that it is progress. Movement and progress are not one and the same thing, in the same line. Progress may be misdirected. Mere movement is not progress. Changing position does not mean that it is progress.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, Vidagdha-Mādhava dāsa. So as Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Prabhu just said, in slow progress, or perhaps...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Progress is necessary, and quick is desirable, but slow, but it must be progress, slow is also desirable, but must be sure. Progress must be sure. That is all important. Progress is desirable, and that is sure progress is desirable. Progress means surety is there, otherwise only as I told, movement from hither to thither, in different planes, jumping, having reaction, that is not progress proper.

Sanatana nowi vikra pari sanatana phala bari dista phala karivi arcana [?]

Without climbing up into the tree, and if we imagine that we're getting the fruit in my hand, that is not real fruit. Real progress is desirable, and something in the name of progress, that will not deceive us. We must be careful for that - this cheap marketing. The possibility of cheap marketing is the adulterated thing, then sahajiyā. Imitation and real, we must be very cautious of that. We should not be deceived. We'll always be on the alert, always on the alert, we may not be deceived. What is what, so step by step, by mathematics, step by step, by mathematics. So ādau śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, anartha-nivṛtti, śraddhā, ruci, in this way the steps are there, given to us.

Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

Come, step by step. Don't imagine from the lower stage that you have attained to the higher stage. Test your self. So sādhu-saṅga, the guardian he will point out, "Don't go that side. Come this side. There is danger." All these things. Sincere, real, higher guardian. That will be Guru, śikṣā Guru, dīkṣā Guru. To have their company, more or less safe, for the children of the infinite. It is safe. Well begun, half done. With our sincere helper, that means much progress, helps me from different dangers, bhaya. And they're enemies of the child. _____ [?] There are many enemies of the child. So guardian, mother, protects the child from so many discrepancies. And the child when infant, there are many possibilities of being done wrong. So strong guardian _____ [?] is very helpful, especially in the first case, position.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...sincere connection with the highest ideal. And whatever will come, that will enhance our case, that means surrender. Surrendered soul, has to face whatever circumstances, that cannot but be helpful. All, that is every circumstance of any type, cannot but help their case, when aim is towards the highest, connected with the highest case, Kṛṣṇa. Any wave that comes to strike us, that has to contribute something to us. Just like paying rent to the king. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Love law. His will is absolute. In whatever way the wave goes, comes, moves, that cannot cross the will of the absolute, must be subservient to the absolute will. So anyhow to surrender to the absolute, that is the highest gain in every life, to connect with the highest goal. Anyhow, through the agents proper. So many questions. How to connect? Who is the agent? How to know him? All these questions entangled.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

Sincerity, that is the product of sukṛti, ajñāta-sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti, that is bhāgya, generally known as fortune. And fortune analysed, then we find sukṛti, based on that absolute will. That is ultimately going to say that it is His līlā. Līlā means pastimes, līlā means unaccountable by any law. Action does not come under any law, that is līlā. Natural flow. The causeless and irresistible flow of the movement of the whole absolute. The conception of absolute is dynamic, so the movement, the flow is there, natural. And that is all good, unquestionable. Good is unquestionable, because we're all hankering only for the good.

None can say that 'I don't want any good.' Conception may be different according to his own platform of thinking, interest relative. But goodness is the common thing, on the whole, roughly. Their conception of what is good, what is bad, that may vary according to the different platforms, different planes of thought. But good we want, happiness we want, and that goodness and happiness, the natural divine flow.

And we're out of that. Why can there be a position independent of that natural flow? That is a problem, why māyā exists at all, misconception exists at all? That fundamental question, direct, indirect, it is there. To know what is good, the relativity of bad is necessary. To know what is light, darkness is necessary. In this way the scholars explain to us. It is all service, indirect service, finite, infinite. Then truth and misconception together, it is necessary for the līlā.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, is that duality only necessary for the conditioned souls?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Duality is a relative term. Any līlā, pastimes, movement, presupposes duality. In the positive world there is also duality in different ways. Where there is gradation there cannot but be duality, comparison, gradation, hierarchy. What is differentiated in character there cannot be duality or plurality in some sense or other. This līlā, the pastimes, the movement, presupposes duality. Sometimes in the positive world also the degree of goodness, that bears some sort of duality or plurality. The competition among the positive positions of different type, there is also duality. And this duality is māyā and truth, this is of very complete nature to us. But duality suppose the density of darkness and the density of light. In the light, according to the density, so many dualities, relative positions will be clear. Do you follow?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is duality in light according to the degree of intensity. Then duality and dusk, not light, not this evening - the meeting point of darkness and light, a sort of duality. Then in darkness also there is duality according to the intensity, density. So in this way duality is there.

For the conditioned souls their duality is of one type, and for the liberated souls theirs is of another type. And duality and diversity is there, where there is vilāsa, that is play, there is duality, in different forms.

Do you understand?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vilāsa, movement, not static, there is duality, cannot but be. So, the very nature of the absolute is that of a system, that of an organic whole. Not a static, non differentiated whole, but an organic whole. The body is one, but here is also different sections of duality. The finger, the nail, the skin, the bone, the duality, on the whole it is a body. So duality according to the intensity, density, this vaicitra, variegation, is already there.

Māyāvādīns, they say they conceive of a oneness without duality. Just as in deep slumber, in dreamless sleep, something like one without duality, differentiated character.

But the Vaiṣṇava School do not recognise that. And also they're of this opinion, if it is possible to inspect it more closely then we shall find there is duality. A slumber, dreamless sleep, there also more intense sleep and less intense sleep. If we go to examine then this difference will also come out from there. So without variegation nothing can remain. The constituent parts, the atoms, or electrons, whether in the material, or in the mental, or spiritual, they're all of different characteristic. They have got their variation, everywhere.

Even in Kṛṣṇa's personality, Svayaṁ-Rūpa, Svayaṁ-Prakāśa. Then the Prabhāva-Vilāsa, Vaibhava- Vilāsa, even in Kṛṣṇa conception also there we find variety. According to His temperament, according to His satisfaction. His satisfaction is also of different type. Along with His, simultaneously - His different parties are getting view of Him in different ways. Kṛṣṇa is entering into the playground of Kaṁsa. Different parties are looking at Him in different ways.

["O King, Śrī Kṛṣṇa then appeared as a thunderbolt to the wrestlers, as the supreme male to the men, as Cupid incarnate to the ladies, as a friend to the cowherdsmen; as an emperor to the wicked kings, as a child to His father and mother, as death to Kaṁsa, as the universal form of the world to the ignorant; as the Supreme Truth to the yogīs, as the Supreme Worshipful Lord to the Vṛṣṇis - and along with Baladeva He entered the arena."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.43.17]

Different parties are seeing Him in different ways. The Kaṁsa sees justice, the death is approaching to him. The other wrestlers they, "Like a thunder He's approaching towards us." Then the parent section, "Oh, a very affectionate child is coming to us." The yogīs they were, "Oh, unintelligible, unknowable substance is approaching. Tattvaṁ paraṁ yoginām." Mallānām aśanir nṛṇāṁ. Ordinary chiefs they're seeing, "Oh, long after, our real king is approaching today." And different sections are seeing Him in different ways though He's coming. The single personification is approaching, and among the different sections of the visitors are taking Him in different ways.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. So,

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Give up forever your culture of calculation. Namanta eva. Learn to submit, and through submission you can have Him. Through submission, as He will come to you, you'll be able to feel Him as He is. As He likes you to feel, you're to feel in that way. And that is your real gain in life. This has been repeatedly told to us in Bhāgavatam, in śuddha bhakti school. Don't try to understand Him, but approach through faith. Christ has also given too much trace in faith, what is faith, and this is śraddhā, in Sanskrit. That if I can get Him I get everything.

["By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, all subsidiary activities are automatically performed. Śraddhā means viśvāsa, faith, sudṛḍha, very firm and strong, unflinching faith. Faith in sādhu-śāstra-guru, faith in Kṛṣṇa. This is faith. If someone develops Kṛṣṇa bhakti, all their activities are finished, kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya. Nothing is left out if you have faith."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

All phases of my duties will be finished if I can attain Him. The whole concentrated in a point, as if. To me, like a point, a figure, but a figure representing the whole. As sun represents the whole light world. The light is more, bigger than the sun, the very gist, the cause of the light. So anyhow try to have Him and everything you'll get. Put faith in this and go, in His touch, approach, dṛḍha.

Paripraśna, honest enquiry is not wrong, but not to try to get Him under your fist. That is not possible. Only for the finite it is applicable, that you can know to the finish - never.

In an ocean, how much you can taste, you can get, you can swallow the water? So the smallest drop can quench all of your thirst. Approach through the spirit of service. No other possible contact is possible with Him. Only through service. The other phases, indifference and exploitation, not possible. Exploitation is a fictitious thing, renunciation also something like that. Service is the positive thing. You can find it in the plane of reality, service. It is gentle, it is fair, service. To exploit, that is filthy. Why should we want to exploit another, the environment, at all? That is a filthy thing. And the punishment is there, reactionary. And indifference, that is also sinful. Not only exploitation is sinful, indifference also, because you have got your inner duty towards the environment. You can't ignore that. That you were born, your very existence is for something, and what should that thing be? To do good to the environment. That is fair. And to exploit means to deal death to the environment. That is awkward, that is nasty, that must be avoided. And renunciation, indifference to the neighbour, that is also not desirable, that is also destructive.

Only positive good, that you should do, yourself will be good and you should do good to the others, to the environment. So service, only through service we can come to the plane of the fair field, fair substance. So, to accept the path of devotion, that is most laudable. I'm a unit. What sort of unit? I emit goodness, fairness, to the environment. My inner soul is of that type. A gentleman's country, land, everyone does good to others.

And that is the land of Kṛṣṇa. Loving. Not only to do justice to the environment, but at the same time, love your environment. And you will find that you're in the plane of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. In that plane it is possible, that sincerely loving one another. And they're really under the influence and guidance of Kṛṣṇa. We're taking, we get acquaintance with that sort of centre. The flow is coming from there, everywhere, and making everything decent. This is the land, that is Vṛndāvana, sweet.

Yourself, find within you your sweet self, and then with the help of your sweet self the plane also, the environment you will also find sweet plane. And the king of that land is also very sweet. So this much is demanded of us, that you find out your sweet self from within. And you'll find your environment, and the controller of the environment, the king of the environment, the Lord of the environment is Kṛṣṇa, with His paraphernalia. They're all sweet, so sweet. You'll live on sweetness. Your every movement will be sweet.

In Brahma-saṁhitā [56] it is written, "Their movement is dancing. Their words like singing. The water is nectar. The trees are all kalpa-taru - whatever you like they're giving to you."

That is the land. Only your innermost self is entitled to live in that land. It is there, but it is sleeping, it is detached. Now anyhow to awaken him, and to discover him from this skin, from this body and this mind. Mainly twofold, this flesh body, and then inner, this mind, and another very subtle that indifference mood. Then you're to enter into Paravyoma, that calculative service, that also to be eliminated. Then you'll find you're in the midst of Vṛndāvana, and their ways are like that, sweet, sweet, sweet, everything sweet, everything loving.

Here, just as all our attempts are more or less sham. We're giving something to another, but whose things we're giving? Ha, ha, ha. _____ [?] The wholesale transaction cannot but be wrong, and reactionary, here in this plane.

We're nursing a patient, we're using medicine which is coming out of so many lives, so many deaths. Many deaths have occurred, then the medicine is prepared, and we're giving that to the patient. So no deed can be perfect here in this plane. Just the opposite to there. Here, good things are also bad. And there, bad things are also good. Such a peculiar thing there. This is the līlā.

Just as in a drama if anyone is killing another, but the killing is not real killing, only a show, so many may enjoy that killing. A man who's being killed, even if he plays the part of a killed man, then he's praised. One insulting, the insulted man, he may be proud of his own part, may be successful in accepting the insult. Something like that, in that play not real harm to anybody, it is only a līlā, so none is really harmed. So all like play. Everyone is blissful, both the parties, the defeated and the defeater, the victorious and the conquered, both parties they enjoy. Just as here, both the parties are losers, the victor and the victim, both losers. But there, just the opposite. Surabhī means no loss is possible, no death is possible, but all play, show, līlā. Līlā means that, the harmless movement, necessary for pleasing.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, [svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet / ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

[From Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī's Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

Just as the serpents natural movement is in a crooked way, so līlā is like that. Just as the waves in the ocean, it is only in that fashion, that everything is sweet, everything is sweet. We have got attraction for that plane. "When shall we be able to go and live in that plane in Vṛndāvana, the land of our dream?" Dream of the soul, not of this mind. The mind is born from this mortal world picture, but beyond that.

śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ

"Oh my child, children, here, you are really the child of that nectar soil. Don't be dejected, disappointed. Really, the stuff within you, you are really the child of that soil, you remember. So don't be discouraged, disappointed. Seek for your home, homeland."

So what Mahāprabhu wanted to say, "The sweet, sweet home, your home is sweet." You're all feeling disturbance to the extreme here, but unnecessarily. Back to Godhead, back to home, sweet, sweet home. This is what is our preaching to the people. Let us go home, and home is sweet. And everything is there, father, mother, all the rasas are in purest form we find there. Even we may not know of so many things, so many sweet things are still unknown to us, but many things grand we shall get there in that land of sweetness.

Only what is necessary for us to know really, that where we're living, this is awkward, this is bad, this is undesirable. And we must seek our family home somewhere else. Generally it is told, janma-mṛtyu-jarā- vyādhi, in Bhagavad-gītā [13.9]. You're trying your best, with labour, by using your energy you're doing something but it is evaporating, taken away by someone, some force. Then we're to be dragged to some unknown quarter. Again when coming on the surface, again we have to go down somewhere to the unknown quarter to the womb of the mother, unknown quarter. And again only floating on the surface, and only to take you down, in a moment. And if you live some more you will feel such circumstances, your body and other disturbance, you'll desire to go down. You'll live to aspire after annihilation - such a plane is here. "I don't like to live any longer. I can't drag my body, it is too infirm, paining me." So many diseases, we go to commit suicide, so unpleasant this atmosphere sometimes becomes in us that we want to commit suicide, so undesirable.

Now, whether we should risk our energy to enquire for our home, or that will be madness, to the saner section? So called saner section of the society they'll say, "Oh, they're mad. Leaving the present thing they're running after phantasmagoria." This is to be decided for us, within us, whether we shall try to utilise whatever little we get here, or risking this, or discarding this, we shall try to have an ideal land to live? We're to decide that. We're to face this question in our life. Whether to relish this sort of thing, whether it is better, it is more profitable, or to ignore that and to try to find out some better position to live in? What sort of life should we expect? That is the question before us.

And that has inner response, and firm response, determination, "That no, I don't want to live here in the surface. This is undesirable, and so and so things undesirable. I don't like to live here, whatever clarification. If I do not get anything, still I shall try to get something, a better place to live in. It does not matter if I lose everything. I don't care for this. This is the thing, this will go, vanish, today or tomorrow this will vanish. So at the cost of this if I go on searching for a better place it is no risk, it is rather judiciousness."

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, there are certain types of people who are after, their goal in life, they're after some type of magic, and mystical things and contacting with spirits, and producing magical tricks. So what platform is this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What does he say?

Aranya Mahārāja: His question is, there is a class...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is magic and this is not magic? Is it?

Aranya Mahārāja: No. He says there's a class of people who are searching after mystic powers, like yogīs. So he's asking, 'What is their position?'

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is their position, the siddha, bhokta siddha? They're power mongers. Here are a little in the background, in a broader circle, in a subtle world for power mongers.

Devotee: Some people they use things like the tarot...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They display some subtle power and attracts you to that, but that is also not a permanent thing and not of the purest nature. Take any concrete example what they do, you analyse it, that is also mundane, temporary, and not of so much purity as service. Service is the purest thing, sacrifice, service. Die to live. I already told, all risk no gain. In this plane, nothing to aspire for, all filthy, of gross or subtle, that is also exploitation. In another way, in a finer way, the siddhas, the magicians, the miraclists, they're also by the show of their subtle power, they want to control some, and what do they give, only these things.

What we get, suppose in a dream, any sort of pleasure in dream we may get, something like that they may give, but all transient, of this idea, drawn from this world. That is both in quality and also in quantity. In quantity that may be a little broader from this physical plane, that may have some broader scale, but in quality that is similar, that is similar. What we may not enjoy in this body we may enjoy in the mind in a dream. The latitude and longitude of the mental sphere is greater than this physical. What is not possible here in the physical body, that can be satisfied in the dream, it's scope is greater. And in that sort of subtle life the siddha is more spacious and more subtle, but that is also a sort of enjoyment.

The criterion of service you put there, no serving tendency, only in fine way to give you some sort of enjoyment of exploitation. That is also exploitation, exploiting the environment, and to offer some facility to you in a very subtle and cheap form. What is that, what they deal with? This worldly thing, more subtle, what is their proposal, their gift, the object of giving, only of mundane character, siddha.

Then mukta, that is in the relativity of mortality. What the siddha gives you, very cheaply, but in the relativity of mortality. Little durable that may be, little longer life, little durable, little spacious, but related to mortality. And to become immortal that means to become a cipher, that is sāyujya-mukti. But crossing that cipher, that complete withdrawal from the negative side, we come to the abscissa. And then if we want to contact with the positive side, only through the serving tendency, we can come in contact with the higher plane, if we can utilise, if we are ready to utilise, to be utilised by them, not otherwise.

Visa is only issued to those who may enter into the country with some contribution for the country, not with any detrimental object for exploitation. So only with the serving attitude, and that is within our real inner most self. We may find that it is a unit with a serving attitude and eligible to enter into that highest, finest plane of service, Vaikuṇṭha.

To come in connection with this, if we are prejudiced for local interest we cannot have a free play in the absolute wave, the local interest will hinder me. To mix with the absolute wave, the absolute wave, absolute current is there, but if we have got local interest we cannot freely mix with that absolute wave.

Do you follow, understand?

Līlā, that means absolute movement in a particular type is going on. And the conception of local interest, provincial interest, self interest, within that case, I cannot mix freely with the absolute current. And the absolute current is of that type, of service, self giving, self sacrifice. That plane, the highest plane, is love. Love means sacrifice...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...To give, to contribute to the environment. It is the very nature of the eternal service, eternal substance, to contribute to the environment, and not to draw from the environment. The very nature of all the units there. And if you can acquire that sort of inner flow of you, you can easily mix with the līlā, with the pastimes of that plane.

Devotee: Some devotees they're using tarot cards, I Ching, to get advice, to understand their every day problems, how to deal with them. Can such a devotee see Kṛṣṇa working through the tarot or the I Ching?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I Ching?

Devotee: I Ching, or the tarot cards, some devotees are using...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Using. One can use motorcar for his own pleasure. Another, suppose the doctors, they can use the car to help the patients. To do good to the others also a car, a speedy conveyance may be utilised more than walking. Do you follow?

Devotee: I did not, no.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. You don't follow. Suppose a doctor if he does not use the motorcar, he goes to attend the patients, three or four patients he may attend. But if he's using a car then ten patients he may attend. For the goodness of the society he's using the car, for the good of others. So when you're using all these things, the two aspects to be found here. Everything should be used for Him, for His work, for His service, that is one thing. And you're using that to serve His cause, if you do not use that, then you'll not be able to do good to so many, like doctor. Doctor using the cycle or the motorcar, that means he can attend many patients. But if he does not use the speedy conveyance then he won't be able to serve many patients.

Is it not clear to you, all?

So, when a devotee he uses motorcar, if for his own luxury it is bad. If to serve the cause of the Lord it is all right. Everything meant for Him, for His cause, to preach His devotion, it is all right. You're not a party to exploit. Then not exploiting, you're rendering service, and the car also comes to help you in your service. No question of exploitation. You're not enjoying the car, but you're disgusted to ride, to sit in the car the whole day and going to this patient, that patient, so many patients. It is very disgusting for you to get in the car, still you're doing for the good of the society. I'm not clear?

Devotee: What I was asking, basically, there are some devotees...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If the money is used really for the service of the Lord, they're being utilised, he will be blessed by them. But if for your own self gratification it is condemned. Because you're here you're in the mud, and if you come to get out of the mud, you're to handle in some way the mud, and then you can come to the dry soil. So you're in the midst of this physical civilisation, and everything you should try to utilise to go towards your goal.

Devotee: Some devotees in Los Angeles they were seeing...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some devotees, it is not a question of some devotees, it depends on the quality of the attitude of the devotee, who uses the money, the car, the plane, everything. Everything should be utilised in the service of the Lord. It depends - someone may _____ [?] Only a show of devotion, but at heart he's exploiting, he's enjoying, but he's showing that, 'No, for the service,' he'll be doomed. But one if he utilises anything and everything for real service of the Lord, he'll be blessed, he'll be improved. It is the inner attitude that will give you the proper result, good or bad, how you tackle the thing. A man, a doctor is also entering the knife into the body, and a guṇḍā he's also entering the knife into the body. These two things are not one and the same. So everything may be utilised for the good and also for the bad. It is a simple thing. Why is it not clear to you I can't understand?

Aranya Mahārāja: The difficulty is, just like we want to use a car in Kṛṣṇa's service, but to find someone who knows how to drive the car properly...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You must be sincere.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

You must sincerely do that, to use the car for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Not for your show, or your prestige, or for your enjoyment, pleasure, all these things. It depends on you, your attitude, your heart, how you take that.

Aranya Mahārāja: The practical thing is to find someone who knows how to drive the car. We want to use it. Our intention is right. But to find someone who knows the science of driving the car. So with these things like astrology, or tarot, or I Ching, they don't know, they cannot find someone who knows the science properly. Their intention might be right, but to find someone who actually knows the science, that is the difficulty. But sometimes they get misinformation and then they...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow fully, what you say.

Aranya Mahārāja: Oh. Sometimes they approach people...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Someone he knows that he's driving the car for the good of the people for preaching Hari kathā. But others who do not know, they're also sitting in the sky, do you say?

Aranya Mahārāja: No. I'm saying that our intention is to use the car in the service of Kṛṣṇa. But then there's the practical side to find someone who knows how to drive the car properly, who knows the science of actually driving the car.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then he may not use the car. If he does not know, why should he then go to learn how to drive the car and then he'll come to serve the Lord? That is not necessary.

Aranya Mahārāja: So the point is this astrology, or this I Ching, or these tarot cards, they're all like fortune telling, and they can't find the right people who know...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śuddha bhakti, the pure devotion, does not say that. Sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3] Always where you are, you join direct to the campaign. You're not to eliminate your position. One who has got money, he's giving the money. And one who's poor he will go to earn money and then he'll give the money to the men, it is not necessary. Who has got body, he'll give the body. Who has got money, he'll give money. He won't waste his energy for that in earning what is not with him. One who has got good brain he'll give the brain. Whatever he's got in his present position he can begin his serving with that capital. Because, not that the physical amount is everything, but the heart with which he goes, that is everything.

And Christ told that, when he called money for church building, so many contributions.

Then one asked, "Who has given the greatest amount?"

He told that, "That blind beggar, he has given one rupee, or something, his contribution is the highest."

"No, no. One lākh contribution is there."

"Crores of money he's got, one lākh given as part. But this man, the whole thing he earned, he's given the whole."

So bhāva-grāhī-janārdanaḥ, not the physical amount but the quality of the heart, that is to be reckoned.

In the rājasūya-yajña case, one mongoose he rolled on the pot where a brāhmaṇa was fed in the time of a famine. The whole week's ration of a family, the man, his wife, his son, his daughter. The king sent the ration for a week.

And when they've got the ration one guest has come. "I'm very hungry."

There was a mutual quarrel. "The guest, he must be fed."

Then the brāhmaṇa told, "I shall give my quota."

Wife, "No, you give mine. You're my lord. If you die then who will look after them? I shall die. Give mine."

The son, "No, you parents, it is my duty to serve you. I should offer my quota."

The daughter told, "No, no, no. I shall have to go to some other family a few days after. If I die it won't affect your family life, so my quota should be given."

But the brāhmaṇa _____ [?] "I'm responsible for the family, and the guest has come to me. I'm the guardian of the family. What I shall say you're to obey. I shall give my quota."

First his, then his wife, then son, then daughter, all finished.

Then that brāhmaṇa came out, "I am Dharma, I have come to test you."

And in that pot a mongoose he rolled, his body was turned into golden colour. Only in the tail a little remaining. Then that mongoose when the rājasūya-yajña of the Pāṇḍavas under the guidance of Kṛṣṇa was finished, this mongoose came and it was seen he rolled on that place of yajña, that sacrifice.

Then the people there enquired, "What's the matter? Why that mongoose is rolling on the sacrificing place?"

Kṛṣṇa asked him, then he came out with his answer.

"That in some famine time such things occurred and I rolled on that pot, and my whole body turned into golden colour. Then wherever I hear some name of sacrifice I go and I try to rub my tail, which is remaining, but I don't find. But here, rājasūya-yajña under the guidance of Kṛṣṇa, Arjuna, Yudhiṣṭhira, Bhīma, many things have come and been sacrificed here. With this I came, at this place if I can rub my tail it will surely be turned into golden colour. But I'm rubbing and rubbing, very slight portion."

But here it is a question of quality. The brāhmaṇas of the state, of their whole life of the family they sacrifice. A small thing. But here, amount is very big, but the quality is not so much. The quality is necessary, not quantity, quality. Bhāva-grāhī-janārdanaḥ. The contribution of one rupee may surpass the contribution of a lākh or crore. It is such. Bhāva-grāhī, the sincere feeling, that is most valuable. And what, the mass, this is all black money. "I have got so many things but I'm a black marketeer. I'm usurper of all these things. I control. This is mine." This body is not mine, and I think this kingdom is mine. Then I'm the worst sufferer under illusion, under māyā. Surrender, not surrender of the kingdom but surrender of your soul.

[vidūratvād uttamatāhānya tasyāś ca nāṅgatā]

["If one relies on one's disciples or wealth to attain bhakti, his devotional practice will certainly become slackened. One cannot claim that one is engaged in devotional service simply on the basis of engaging one's money or disciples in bhakti. To rely on money and disciples to perform devotional service in one's place is not considered to be a branch of pure devotion.] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 12.128]

Not by any deputation, delegation of money, dhana. Śiṣya, or I'm engaging my disciple for the service of the Lord, not by that, śiṣyādibhir. Dvārair, but my wife I have asked her to do the service of the Lord, and I must enjoy the benefit. No. Not by some representative, you yourself begin, the meanest service.

When Mahārāja Pratāparudra wanted to mix with Mahāprabhu, Mahāprabhu ignored. But when Mahāprabhu saw the Pratāparudra, when that chariot will start he has come and that menial service he's doing, that sweeping with a broom. That menial service as a sweeper he's doing, and Mahāprabhu's heart melted there. "Oh, though outwardly he's king, but his heart within he's very humble towards Jagannātha." Then He embraced him, Pratāparudra.

By the inner quality of the heart, and not by expensive property. So heart is the party, the man is the party, not his blackmailed property. So wherever you are, engage yourself from there. Begin there empty handed with whatever you have. Empty handed, you join the group of the servitors, you come.

Devotee: Mahārāja, once I was reading _____ [?] and it mentions some Bengali devotee by the name of Haranath [?].

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Balan [?] Haranatha, in Bakura [?] Yes. He was a thought ready.

Aranya Mahārāja: He could read someone else's mind.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A devotee externally, but he had some sort of siddhi, that Haranath. Outwardly he was devotee, accepted Mahāprabhu, but modified with his siddhi.

Devotee: So he was not a pure Vaiṣṇava?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What did you find there?

Devotee: It mentions that he preached chanting of the Names of God. It mentions that he had some mystic power, and that he would come back to life after being dead for some time, stuff like this. He also said that is writings were an incarnation in this age.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Yes, mystic power. Some of his devotees praised much about him.

Devotee: Can a devotee use astrology for assistance in his service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow what he says.

Aranya Mahārāja: He's asking if a devotee can use astrology to assist him in sevā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, if it is favourable he may do. But it's not necessary that he'll go and learn astrology to utilise it for the purpose. He'll begin, he'll join the serving campaign with whatever capital he's got with him at present. Not to acquire any material qualification and then to join. No material qualification is necessary. Whatever is necessary is you yourself are necessary, and no necessity of any wealth pertaining to you, whatever it may be. Even learning is not necessary. Even the scriptural knowledge is not necessary. What to speak of the money, or the siddhi, etc. Even the knowledge of the scripture is not necessary.

Devotee: Mahārāja, my question is, is fasting ever recommended as a way to progress spiritually?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm?

Aranya Mahārāja: He's asking about fasting, abstaining from food. Is it a recommended way for advancing spiritually?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For the beginners, according to the śāstra, how to approach Him, there are some things necessary. That to go to that plane from here, these sort of things will help you in your journey. The recommendation is there. Start from your home to the goal, but you may be hungry in the path, or may face some difficulty. This sort of direction given to you, that will help you to go to your destination. In this way, ānukūlyasya, some rulings have been given. From a foreign land when you want to go back to your home there are some, this water, this shelter, in the path you may use in this way, that will help you. In this way some sort of recommendation. The gradual process, main thing is this, what I told, but the gradual process so many things are necessary. Sādhu-saṅga, in the journey if you get a good companion that will help you more. And sometimes taking food of such way, not one, but only to keep up your body so that you can go, travel on. In this way something like that may be helpful.

What is favourable you're to accept, and what is unfavourable you're to reject. In this way mainly you're to go. Sādhu-saṅga, and one good companion on the way of your journey. And also guide book, that may also help you, śāstra. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: I have some questions. In our own ISKCON society their very high philosophy, very high understanding of what is God. But when it came to our social structure, we had if not as many problems as the karmis, more problems. So in a sense it seems we've failed, as far as being a society.

Aranya Mahārāja: It's a question of jñāna and vijñāna, knowledge and then the practical application. So the practical application of the knowledge has not as yet been perfected, or is not successful. As far as socially, like varṇāśrama, has not been very successful.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Varṇāśrama in this Kali-yuga is not very suitable, so bhāgavata-dharma has come to our relief. What is that? In varṇāśrama, the antyaja, the śūdra, the vaiśya, the kṣatriya, the brāhmaṇa, the seeker after spiritual truth, then Vaiṣṇava, in this way going.

asuddhah sudra-kalpa hi brahmanah kali-sambhavah
[tesam agama-margena suddhir na srota-vartmana]

["The brāhmaṇas born in the age of Kali – the age of quarrel and dissension – are merely śūdras. Their so-called Vedic path of karma is polluted and cannot purify them. They can only be purified by following the path of pañcarātrika-viddhi."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 5.5] [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 14.63]

In this iron age, in the black age, it is very difficult to find a brāhmaṇa of the real type. So generally it may be considered, all are śūdra. And bhāgavata-dharma has been extended to this. Wherever you are, get the mantram from the bona fide Guru and begin your journey from there. Sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ.

sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

May be a śūdra, does not matter. May be a brāhmaṇa, does not matter. Though brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra, not much difference. This is all under māyā, with little gradation in māyā. But avoiding that problem, try to take the decision of straight journey from wherever you are. Get a bona fide Guru and under his direction at his disposal you move, you live your life and try to make progress towards spiritual world. Sthāne sthitāḥ.

And only to help that bhāgavata-dharma this daiva-varṇāśrama was organised by our Guru Mahārāja, that if it runs in such a way it will be a little, for mass march, a system of classification amongst those that are marching, that will help. The mass marching, not individual case, but when mass marching, then a systematic classification, who will go ahead, and who will be making arrangements to look after the organisation, and who will finance, and who with general help. In this way in a body if we march it will be convenient for us.

So this daiva-varṇāśrama. Those that are endowed with śāstric knowledge, they may be considered as brāhmaṇa. Those who are good organisers, they may be reckoned as kṣatriya. Those who may be able to finance the march, they may be considered as vaiśya. And the general labour class, they may be considered as śūdra. In this way a society can march from nescience to science, from the matter towards spirit. That is the aim for this daiva-varṇāśrama, to form a system in the mass movement. It will be convenient for the individuals to march.

In this way it was conceived by our Guru Mahārāja first. And he started with this daiva-varṇāśrama. The sacred thread, the vaiśya who can collect money, and organiser, controller. And also the scholarly class who can give presentation of the real meanings of the scriptures to the society, supply the advice of the śāstra and the sādhu. And the next, the organiser. The third the financier, and the fourth, general labour. In this way mass movement from nescience to science. That was conceived by our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī and he inaugurated that, first here, in Vaiṣṇava cult of Mahāprabhu.

Aranya Mahārāja: Then there's the āśrama part, the brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha and sannyāsa. Especially in the west we seem to be having great difficulty in incorporating these āśramas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It cannot but be, because here they're more or less acquainted with the varṇāśrama system. But in that part of the world they're not at all accustomed or acquainted with this system. Then, in every department some form of some system is necessary. Those that have knack to earn money, then those of military spirit, the leadership, and ordinary soldiers. So everywhere, system can help to certain extent. Systematic arrangement helps to certain extent. But mainly the inner heart, that is all important. When a mission is dying then system won't help it from its designed death. And when a mission is rising up it will evolve so many systems and they will help them. So system on the whole it can help to certain extent, but real thing is the man. When the manpower is not courageous then the system will gradually dwindle. When manpower is courageous then system will contribute something. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Organised or scattered, disorganised attempt, but some sort of organised attempt in a system, organised help.

Once when I was in charge of Madras Maṭha I met one Rāmānuja advocate, Ballabhācāri [?] Afterwards he was the President of the Supreme Court in India. He was a Rāmānuja brāhmaṇa. I met him on behalf of our Gauḍīya Maṭha.

He told one thing, "Swāmīji, I do not believe in organisation, because whatever little knowledge I've got in the India scriptures, I don't find that any attempt was made by the Āryans, the Vedic scholars, in any organised form. Individual enterprise. This is the land of specially the spiritual persons. They're allowed for individual enterprise. Guru, sādhu, they all tried their best to emulate the condition of the country, but by their individual capacity, not in an organised way. So I have no faith in organisation." He told, clearly to me.

I told, sango śakti kalau yuge, [Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu came and introduced saṅkīrtana - "In this age of Kali, if the Holy Name is chanted congregationally, the combined efforts will be fruitful."] We find from the scriptures. But in this Kali-yuga there is some special strength in organisation. So we have accepted that method. And whatever should we attempt for Hari, for Nārāyaṇa, that is laudable. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam / hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-Purāṇa]

I argued in this way with him. Whatever it may be, if it is conceived for the attainment of Nārāyaṇa, His devotion, His service...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He could not deny that. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam
hṛṣīkena hṛṣīkeśa-sevanaṁ bhaktir ucyate]

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-Purāṇa]

The purity depends on our attitude of sacrifice for Him. Tat paratvena. How much I'm doing for Him, the purity is there. And also, sango śakti kalau yuge, [Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu came and introduced saṅkīrtana - "In this age of Kali, if the Holy Name is chanted congregationally, the combined efforts will be fruitful."] And especially in this iron age the organised attempt is more forceful. So our Guru Mahārāja has attempted this organised attempt most, etc. And I told him we're Gauḍīya Maṭha, but Śaṅkara, Ramakrishna, and Buddha Maṭha, in India, so many Maṭhas are already made there, and we have also done.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. So today we retire here.

As long as one never sees one of the bee-like devotees addicted to drinking the nectar from the lotus feet of Śrī Gaurāṅga, he will be forced to walk in endless circles on the labyrinthine paths of dry Vedic scholarship, wasting valuable time in useless discussions on futile religious practices."]

[Caitanya-candrāmṛta, 19] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.80]

Tavad-brahma-kathā. So long one may indulge in discussion of the abstract prime cause, that un accountable, un understandable, conscious ocean is there, and we must merge there, then all the misery in the life will come to an end. We shall merge into the abstract conception of the prime cause, consciousness. Tavad-brahma-kathā. Vimukti-padavi. And that is the highest conception of our liberated life. Tavan na tikti-bhavet. It does not seem to be bitter so long to a person.

tavad-brahma-katha vimukti-padavi tavan na tikti-bhavet
tavac-capi visrokhalatvamayate no loka-veda-sthitih

So long one is disturbed by the different interpretations of the revealed scriptures, and also different faith fostered by the different societies, puzzling, perplexing proposals in the name of religion coming to bewilder him, to puzzle him, so long.

Tavac-chastra-vidam mithah kalakalo nana-bahir-vartmastu. And so long also those scholars in the revealed scriptures they begin to chatter in meaningless arguments and differ from one another and go on quarrelling, no conclusion. Different conclusions drawn from different scriptures and they begin to quarrel, and no conclusion.

Sri-caitanya-padambuja-priyajano yavan na drg gocarah. This may continue so long, but whenever a real follower of the service of Śrī Caitanyadeva comes to our connection, we come in the connection of a bona fide follower of Śrī Caitanya, everything comes to an end.

No, no. This is the thing I was searching for. This is the thing. I don't like different interpretations from the different schools. I don't like that brahma samādhi, to be one with that unconscious ocean of knowledge. And I don't go to hear the different sorts of interpretations to puzzle my mind. This is, the Veda says this, some say karma, some yoga, some jñāna, some this, that. I don't like to be entangled in this jungle of different interpretations.

What I have seen in the followers of Śrī Caitanyadeva, that is my destination, goal of life I want. Niṣkiñcana. What is that? That Lord is love. This appeals to me most, the Lord is love. I want to connect my fate with this party. The Lord is love, full of love, mercy. I want that. This interpretation of the revealed scriptures, no other things I want, contact.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Straight, simple and straight. We're all hankering for affection, for love, adoration. We want Vṛndāvana, simple life, simple and dignified, and sacrifice and love, the novel, the ideal of Vṛndāvana life.

The son of the king of the cow, son of the cow king, in the forest, cow king. Lives in the forest, and whose property is cow. Ārādhyo bhagavān vrajeśa-tanayas-tad-dhāma vṛndāvanaṁ. The charming forest of Vṛndāvana. Ramyā kācid-upāsanā. And a very charming process of adoration, of worshipping of the Lord, has been discovered by the damsels of Vraja. Very charming process of worship, that touches our heart. Heart touching process of worshipping, with the heart, not by brain. We're too much disgusted with the brain. Heart to heart appeal, that seems to be _____ [?] The intellect has deceived us ultimately, intellect.

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

We're not going to believe our intellect. Every second a new invention, puzzling, no end. We shall take to our heart. We shall make our heart as guide, inner satisfaction. First thing, to select our future, the choice, our prospect, heart. And that is found there in Vṛndāvana, the play of heart. Heart is everything there. Transaction from heart to heartfelt, friendly transaction dependence. Not always suspicious and checking with intellect, no end. That intellect presupposes suspicion, always suspicion. They're tired of that, to follow the intellect, tired. They want hearty transaction. And they're not very intellectual giants, ordinary. And always eager to offer, sincere offering. So much pure and sincere offering, none ventures to come and accept that offering but Kṛṣṇa. The pure hearty offering.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

The internal sincerity, purity, genuineness, self sacrificing tendency, is so bright, so pure, so holy, none ventures approaching that side but the Lord Himself. Lord of heart. He has His claim over all hearts. He comes to accept, to capture. "I'm the owner of all the hearts of you. I have come to capture."

Ruci not victim, not argument, but sincere inclination, that is necessary. Desire then have. Learn to have, what is to have, learn, and not by intellect. Heart to heart. By the influence of the heart. The heart's language is another, which is independent of intellect, heart's language, ruci. Another world. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

Heart can help heart, no intellect can help heart. Sympathy, love, and sacrifice, that is the highest qualification there, bhaktyā sañjātayā. Bhakti, devotion, divinity, dedication, divine dealing. To forgive is divine, to err is human but to forgive is divine. One who's in a position to forgive, he must have such supreme position, then he can forgive. The plane of forgiveness must hold the most superior position. Who can accommodate and adjust for others defects or imperfection, who can render imperfection to perfection, he can forgive. He can show mercy. He's in position to supply the want in imperfection. So naturally that plane of devotion is holding supreme position. The mercy must hold supreme position, and compensate for every fallibility, defect, want, misdeed. So how perfect that plane should be, the mercy, the love divine. We must have that, or we don't want anything, we shall die, die to live. And do or die, either live or finish you. With so much determination and desperate tendency we shall approach towards death of this material life to end. All's well that ends well. We want that world which ends well. And to sacrifice everything, that is the same thing, die to live, risk everything, all. Such a life is there, such life is possible, the life of love. Love is not enjoyment. Enjoyment is its servant - may come indirectly.

Once Dāruka, the charioteer of Kṛṣṇa, he had come to fan Kṛṣṇa in the summer season. At that time he thinks, 'How fortunate I am. I've got the chance of fanning my Lord of my heart. I'm fanning Him. How fortunate position I hold.' And being conscious of his own fortunate position, the tears came, and something like mental paralysis and the fan slipped from his hand. 'How fortunate I am,' in this way that attention absorbed his movement and the fan slipped down.

Then he shuddered, "What is this? What is this sentiment, that is my enemy. It is coming to disturb my service. That I'm so happy, I'm going to be conscious of my fortune, I'm so happy, so good. And I'm going to feel my fortunate position, and the service is being disturbed." So the undermining enjoyment spirit he's discarding, discouraging. He won't concentrate to think he's fortunate, he has got the service of the Lord. He's blaming himself. "It is disturbing my service."

Always bringing income, and not to see the cash. Looking at the cash, how much I must go on earning, earning, earning. And don't try to satisfy yourself that so much cash I must bring, never that _____ [?] Service. Go on earning, earning. Don't stop to consider how much you've collected, all these things. No end, the campaign is infinite. Go on earning, accumulating, go on serving.

Ha, ha, ha. It is the opposite things. As much as one will advance so much he'll feel that he's unfit to serve, he's not able to do justice to the position, he's unfit. "So much duty chance in my front and I'm not able to avail of this." That will be the nature of the servers, because it is infinite, no satisfaction. "I can't do anything. So much to be done, I'm not able to do." That is the nature. Ha, ha. "I can't do. I got the chance but I'm the most unfortunate. I can't take the advantage. The opportunity I can't even utilise." This hankering _____ [?] That we see with the...

One has said, "What is love?" One lady asking her friend, "What is love? Is it only tears? Is it only sighing and tears in the eyes, my friend, is that love? Love means tears in the eyes and sighing and disappointment and always hankering, forsaking that I'm helpless? Is this the sign of love my dear friend? The eternal crying, is this the sign of love? What is this?"

Externally it is such, unsatisfactory. Eternal dissatisfaction that can't live so sweet.
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest tales.

["Our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught;
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought."]
(The English Romantic poet, Percy Bysshe Shelley, 1792-1822)

The sad experience. I'm hopeless. As much as I go I find more and more to be done yet.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Is there some explanation why separation is sweeter than union? Why separation is sweeter, is there some explanation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. What does he say?

Aranya Mahārāja: He's asking, "Why, what is the explanation for the reason that separation provides a higher taste than union? The separation of, for example, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa has a higher...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everywhere. Ha, ha. _____ [?] Sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest tales. The basis is that thought. It can attract us most. And also, when in the absence of a thing we cannot forget it, but we suffer more. That shows how much how much affinity, what is the degree, the intensity of my love towards that, a test.

Just as Kuntī Devī asking that, "Give me dangerous positions. Don't keep me in comfort."

Why? In the time of comfort also she may think about, meditate about Kṛṣṇa, she may recollect about Kṛṣṇa. But she feels that the depth is not so much intense at that time. When in danger, then the recollection becomes more intense and real. That is one thing. Another - I forgot... Vipralambha.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura told - once, I was a newcomer in the Maṭha at that time and posted in Kurukṣetra Maṭha. And Prabhupāda wanted to arrange an exhibition of the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, Dvārakeśa, and also the gopīs of Vṛndāvana, at Kurukṣetra on account of solar eclipse ceremony.

At that time Prabhupāda told that, "Shallow thinking people they like Vṛndāvana, they love Vṛndāvana. But the real servitors they prefer Kurukṣetra."

From the first time I heard Prabhupāda always used to say that, "Vṛndāvana is the highest place of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava cult." And now suddenly he says that, "All the hollow persons, they're satisfied with Vṛndāvana, but the real seeker after love divine, they like Kurukṣetra."

And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura after travelling through the different holy places in connection with Kṛṣṇa, he told that, "I shall construct a hut in Kurukṣetra, near Brahmā-kuṇḍa, and the last days of my life I shall pass there. Because, Kṛṣṇa is there, Rādhārāṇī and the gopīs are there, very near, but They can't meet together. Both the parties are not getting Their desired satisfaction, but They're face to face. This time the mutual attraction reached the highest altitude. The parties are there but They can't come in desired union. Hankering for one another, for embrace, for union, is in the highest peak."

At that time he told, "The service of both the parties will be most valuable. Their need is, when there is thirst the value of water depends on the necessity. So both the parties think Themselves helpless, very much pained. And the servitors they've got the greatest opportunity of serving their Masters there. According to the need the valuation increases."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally we're to think that at the time of separation all the nerves are affected deeply, to its deepest intensity, in the indirect way. And that will affect the inevitable union. So union is a finishing touch, and the preparedness, hunger for the union, that has been considered to be the highest point.

Just as youth is full grown, but just before youth, what should be the name? Kaiśora, in Sanskrit it is kaiśora. Bap kaisora andriyam [?] Not the youth but just before the youth - this stage of life. That has been considered to be the highest, desirable stage, kaiśora - just before youth, though youth is considered to be full-grown.

So, vipralambha, that hunger - hunger for eating, it is satisfaction, but just before the eating, the stage of hunger that has been given the best consideration of the health. Hunger is the cause of satisfaction of eating. So the first stage has been given the highest importance - vipralambha. And there, every nerve to its most intensified stage is surcharged with things, which are on the other, desirable side. Preparing to embrace. When going to embrace, that is considered to be the highest stage, rather than when embracing - vipralambha becomes more intense. Hankering, the full, it captures the whole, and to the deepest. It is a test to the real, for both the parties of the real relationship of the deep attack of the thing, the possibility, the kaiśora. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

That vipralambha. Vipralambha has got its own special kind of enjoyment. Rādhārāṇī is so great, or the Vṛndāvana party is so great - only for Their vipralambha. Vipralambha is the test of genuineness of the thing. Long after Kṛṣṇa had His līlā, up to aged twelve in Vṛndāvana, but we are told that in rare cases the age may be taken as one and a half. In twelve we may take Him as grown to eighteen. Anyhow, for a few hours He passed His time in Vṛndāvana, for a very small period, and more life in Mathurā and Dvārakā. One hundred and twenty-five years, twelve years in Vṛndāvana, but this born connection, limited connection of a few years, fed the Vṛndāvana party for more than a hundred years, and most intensely awaiting His union. And that has been given in the history of love divine, the unique position, of Rādhārāṇī, Yaśodā, etc. What standard of intensity of love divine They have got that They could endure so much time with the same intensity for the same. So much love and affection is never found in any history of the world, the long period of unabating intense tendency for union for Him. So what is there? I heard sometime that, "Failure makes us great."

Aranya Maharaja: Failure is the pillar of success.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pillar of success - that is another thing. And sometimes failure makes one great. There is another saying like that. So there is something there - not the result, but the action. That is the qualitative difference. "I'm doing, not for the result, but concentrated in the action, not for the consequence, action itself."

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, [mā phaleṣu kadācana
mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

A different quality. Friends may be faithful when they're together, but when separated far and for long time, if still they're faithful to one another, then there must be high quality, higher quality of faithfulness there. And when together, faithfulness to each other, that is an easy thing, but when separated and for a long time, still maintaining faith to each other, then that must be of higher quality. Separation is the test to the genuine thing, especially the love. What degree of love is there that can stand so long a separation and ever fresh? Always fresh, long standing fresh, to the highest intensity. The spirit of sacrifice challenging everything, requiring nothing in response, no want. The Queen is absolute, proud of sacrifice.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

A special character in giving, in bestowing, the ecstasy in giving, not taking. In giving not taking. So in the case of the union of the male and female, it is told that that of the female, they're more intense. Because, that is passive, negative, not aggression. Giving, sacrifice is greater there, it is told. By giving we thrive and that is the fundamental substance in love, to give and not to take. So vipralambha, separation, is the highest chance of this test in itself. So it is considered to be greater than union. Only action, no reaction, giving, not getting, love is there, more. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Love means to give, to give. And the test is there in separation.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Audārya, mādhurya and audārya. So Mahāprabhu is considered to be - though Kṛṣṇa, but when Kṛṣṇa is as Mahāprabhu He is considered to be higher. Mādhurya and audārya, when He's giving Himself to others without any consideration present, in a self-distributing stage. That is vipralambha, mad to give Himself to others. That aspect of Kṛṣṇa is said to be higher in conception - Kṛṣṇa in the mood of Rādhārāṇī.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.
Mahāprabhu. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa.
Govinda. Govinda. Govinda. Govinda. Govinda. Govinda. Govinda. Rādhe. Rādhe. Rādhe. Govinda.
Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

So I like to finish here today.

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When Mahāprabhu was in Śrī Raṅgam during cāturmāsya, as the etiquette of the sannyāsīs, at that time, He passed four months in one place, on the banks of the River Kāverī, Śrī Raṅgam - the headquarters of the Rāmānūja sampradāya. There He lived in a brāhmaṇa family. The householder was Vyeṅkata Bhaṭṭa, his young son was Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, and his brother was one Prabodhānanda.

At that time He regularly visited Śrī Mūrti Raṅganātha Vigraha, and there He found in the compound that one gentleman, a brāhmaṇa, he used to read Bhagavad-gītā, chant, recite - in Sanskrit of course, but full of mistakes. He did not know the language well, but still he went on reciting Bhagavad-gītā ślokas. And the people that were passing by used to cut jokes and ridicule him, because his pronunciation was always full of mistakes. He did not know the meaning of the passages. Like a parrot he's making the sound but not knowing the meaning, and no knowledge about the Sanskrit language, can't pronounce properly. And the people, naturally, ridiculed him.

Mahāprabhu one day approached him after his recitation. "You brāhmaṇa, you chant the verses of Bhagavad-gītā and the general public ridicules you so much. But still you don't care for them and go on chanting. What's the reason? What do you find in it that you continue in spite of these unfavourable remarks against you? What's the reason?"

Then the brāhmaṇa came out: "As long as I go on chanting the ślokas of Bhagavad-gītā I find I can see that Kṛṣṇa is just as a driver in the chariot before Arjuna, as if I can see Him clearly. I read it abiding the instruction of my Gurudeva. I do it here. And as long as I engage myself in this matter I can see Kṛṣṇa. A very beautiful, blue figure, just before the chariot, as a pārtha-sārathi, one who engages the horses, sārathi, the driver of the chariot. I can see Him and my heart is very much appeased thereby. So, whatever the public likes they may remark, but I can't leave that."

Then Mahāprabhu told: "Yes, your reading of Bhagavad-gītā is the fulfilment of the study you have got hereby. Such a fulfilment of your chanting here I understand."

So what should we learn from this? The brāhmaṇa is researching, reading, going through the scriptures. But he does not understand the meaning, but still he goes on.

When I was a student, about fourteen years or so, I came to read a Sanskrit poem where it is mentioned: arvrti sarva sastranam bhodha api ranjasi [?] The chanting of the forms or contents of the scriptures is more than the understanding of the meaning within it. I could not conceive, I could not catch the meaning at that time, how is it possible? Mere chanting of the scriptures can be superior than the understanding of the meaning within it? How is it possible? I could not understand. Arvrti - the repetition of the chanting. Sarva sastranam - of all the scriptures. If we read loudly, tries without number, repeatedly, we attempt to read - then it is told that it is superior to understanding the meaning of the passages. I found, when I came to Gauḍīya Maṭh, I could follow the meaning to a certain extent, how the chanting is superior to understanding the meaning within it. The chanting, the cultivation, of the divine sound, sound divine, which is conscious, which is consciousness, is greater than to try to understand the meaning in the inductive process. The sound will express itself, its meaning to you.

Just as Hari-Nāma, go on chanting with respect, with regard, with serving attitude, and the sound will come with its meaning within your heart. Śabda-brahma, the sound is not this material thing that your lips can produce. It is not like that - it is śabda-brahma. The Name of the Lord is all conscious and it can express itself within you, naturally. It can come to you naturally with His figure, colour, and His acquaintance. Śabda-brahma, Vaikuṇṭha Nāma, the Name Infinite, the sound Infinite, only with that expectation, that attitude, we're to tackle. We shall expect the Name will come with His real meaning, "I am so and so," if my attitude towards that, towards the sound, becomes so. So kīrtana, śabda-brahma, kīrtana.

And also, here, in Śrī Raṅgam, what Mahāprabhu certifies, something more.

"I can see the beautiful figure of the Lord there. Not knowledge, Kṛṣṇa is all-knowledge, not that. But appealing to the heart, the fine cord of the heart, to charm, it charms the inner core of my heart, appeals there, I am caught there. I can't give up this recitation because the fine cord of my heart is touched and I get some sort of inexpressible joy in me. Some ecstatic touch I find in my heart as long as I chant Bhagavad-gītā in obedience to the instruction of my Gurudeva."

So ruci, crossing the knowledge - the knowledge may also give out, but more than that is our taste for the thing, ruci.

"The experience, the conception of some supernatural knowledge, supernatural ecstasy, ecstatic feeling, I experience when I repeat the reading."

Sat, cit, ānanda, not only appealing to the conscious world, but transcending that they appeal to the ānandam, to the sense of beauty, love, charm, all these things. The higher plane, the superior plane of our life is there, that ānanda, ecstasy, happiness, joy, that plane. The most fundamental plane of our life is there. So, the proper way to approach the revealed scriptures should be in such a submissive way as if that is one with the Supreme Lord.

Mahāprabhu told Sanātana Goswāmī when Sanātana came to praise Him, when Mahāprabhu gave sixty-one kinds of interpretation in one śloka.

ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame
[kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ]

["Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

These sixty-one different forms of explanations were given by Mahāprabhu to this śloka.
Then Sanātana Goswāmī told, "You are Bhāgavata itself, You are Kṛṣṇa Yourself. You can express Yourself in any way You like, any way You like."
And Mahāprabhu, in His modest way replied, "Why do you praise Me? Don't you know Kṛṣṇa's Bhāgavata is Kṛṣṇa Himself. Every letter is Kṛṣṇa. Sanātana, every letter of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is Kṛṣṇa Himself. That is infinite. Every letter contains infinite meaning."

The approach is all-important. So scripture also if properly approached we shall find like that. It will come itself with its own real meaning, natural meaning, to us. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau.

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ]

[Therefore (Because the Name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Himself, and is beyond the realm of sense experience) the Name, form, qualities, associates, and pastimes of Kṛṣṇa are beyond the realm of sense experience. When, however, a devotee engages the senses beginning with the tongue in the service of the Lord, Kṛṣṇa reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

Śravaṇa, so all the scriptures to be studied in Gurukula, from a proper source.

ya'o paḍa bhāgavata vaiṣṇavera sthane [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.131]

["Go to a Vaiṣṇava, from him you will get the real stand-point of Bhāgavatam and how to approach it."]

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

The whole dealing of studying the scripture should be of such attitude. Then everything will be right, sevonmukhe. So all important is our need, out attitude, how to approach the infinite knowledge or infinite ecstasy. That submissiveness, total unconditional submissiveness in our search - then Kṛṣṇa is there, according to the purity of submission and earnestness to search the truth, to search for Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is there. Kṛṣṇa is everywhere. We can see only Kṛṣṇa, nothing else. Sometimes Kṛṣṇa and māyā. Sometimes Kṛṣṇa with His devotees of different pastimes, līlā. That is the Dhāma also, like that, every transcendental plane is like that. It is real, it is free, it has got its liberty, he or she, whatever, liberty, superiority, pleasure. So the only method, the nature of our approach - He's everywhere.

sarvatra krsna anoti pari cari nai seva diti parija artanini mai [?]

Everywhere the figure, the colour, or representation of Kṛṣṇa is shining with great lustre, but only one can see whose eyes are pure, purified. Not covered with the prejudice of different kinds in the plane of exploitation or renunciation, or calculative devotion. If we can cross these three planes then everywhere we can find Him. _____ [?] But whose eyes are covered by the dust of different plans and purpose, anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna, filthy desires, fleeting desires, or organised exploiting desires, or to get out of the troubles around liberation desires, we can't find Him. We can't find Him. Those prejudices cover our feeling. He's everywhere, still we can't see Him. We can see only the cover, because of cataract, cataracts of different layers on the eye so we can't see.

So, it is the duty of the Guru to remove the cataract. Ajñāna-timirāndhasya jñānāñjan-śalākayā. With speak, mixed with that ajñāna, some ointment of the eye, mixed with the ointment of truth, it removes the cataract of the eye. Then we can see the Infinite. And the background comes out in the front and we can see, we can feel, we can hear. The sound also, like the eye, the ear also so, touch also so. Only our own prejudice has covered us. Sun is there but if I cover my eyes no sun. Sun is, but no sun if I can cover my eyes. Sound is but if I can cover my ears no sound. Something like that. And deep vision with respect, with reverence, with love, with beauty, with earnest hankering for the sweet association, we become qualified to come to that plane.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hundreds, thousands of desires are already within us, and they have covered us. Like my hand against the sun, against the infinite nature of the world. Only compartmental knowledge has covered our sentient self.

Only simplicity, only real hankering can give Him to us. Bhakti, devotion, tendency to devote us towards Him, not to make Him subservient to our infinitesimal mean cause, but to surrender to His holiest cause. We're for Him, not He's for us. In the beginning we're for Him, then we shall be able to understand that He's also for us, visa versa. For our real life, His presence is urgent. Otherwise, how can we live if we can have a slight taste of that we won't want to live any longer without His association, can't continue our living, so sweet association.

yaṁ labdhvā cāparaṁ lābhaṁ, manyate nādhikaṁ tataḥ yasmin sthito na duḥkhena, guruṇāpi vicālyate

If anyhow we can come in contact with Him, we can never conceive, we have the possibility of conception there cannot be greater necessity, or greater gain. This is the highest need. We can feel it direct. And if we are in His connection, no trouble, however great in this world can budge me an inch from my position, can never affect in any way if I am there in that plane. No amount of affliction can disturb us.

Whether God is or not, a great problem, but God is only there. Ha, ha, ha. He's at the support of everything, support of me and the environment. He's there. What is existing, He's of what quality? What is His nature, of the environment and of me? The foundation where we stand, the environment and also myself standing, what is the nature of that foundation? Ultimately we have to go, that foundation is on the upper, not on the lower. We're not standing under the foot, no foundation, the foundation over the brain, not brain but feeling. Even brain can be crossed if in the material plane where we stand, that also can be crossed.

Only our feeling stands in some other feeling, some other higher and greater more spacious plane. There we are, the feeler, the subject, we require foundation of that thing. All these experiences are standing where? On some higher plane of consciousness. Consciousness is the be-all and end-all. Sat-cit, existence, sat means existence, cit means cetana, consciousness, spirit. Then ānandam, the next highest layer is all sweetness.

Only the crookedness of our consciousness of plurality and collusion of the interest of plurality, that must vanish. We shall try to find oneness, common interest, merge our selfish individual interest in search of common interest. Common, not only of human beings, but even insects, trees, the stones, everything, this ether, everything. Go back to the origin of the idea of all different concepts. What is there? The bed, the mother of all feelings, all sorts of sentiments, what is there? The sweetness, sweetness, sweetness. Then how this bitterness can come out of that sweetness? How is it possible? Then we're to know gradually the development there, the gradation, intensity, all these things to be known.

But if we're in the right view, nothing will disturb, everything will be pleasing. Competition is not bad, but only selfishness to be eliminated from the competition. All in player's mood, just as we say, 'take it in player's mood.' Then the difficulty may be minimised. So, this is līlā, then it is all right, player's mood. The gainer, the winner and the defeated party, if it can be taken in player's mood, a play, then no trouble within the heart, no vindictiveness, līlā. Both parties, the winner and the defeated, both parties may enjoy a play.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. From individual we're to go to universal, and again, from the general universal plane we are to go to a particular, specific, competitive life, but to please the Centre. And here, to please the individual effects, and that is the central cause, competition to please the central cause which is the Absolute Good, the source of all goodness. And here to please so many branches, competing, there's the rub.

ātmendriya-prīti-vāñchā - tāre bali 'kāma', kṛṣṇendriya-prīti-icchā dhare 'prema' nāma

That is love, this is lust. We're to avoid, sacrifice this individual aspiration for the Absolute, for the Centre. To be centralist, the problem in general is to be centralised in all its respect, to be centralised. Be centralised, try to understand central interest and be centralised. And there may be competition, no wrong. Giving, competition in donation, who can give more donation, competition, who can give more, not that who can absorb, take more, that is bad, who can give more. Peaceful and holy competition, holy competition, and this is mean competition we're in the midst of at present. This attitude should be analysed. Everyone has got their own attitude. More or less it is esoteric, and esoteric is necessary. Devotion, the basis of devotion. This is all intellectualism, but when it is endowed with life it becomes pleasant, sweet. Otherwise mere intellectualism won't give us the reality, the result, the desired end of our life. Practice, sevā, service, not formal representation only, but substantial representation, we're to accept, we're to live the life. We're to live, not intellectual acknowledgement, intellectual professing can do, but we must have to live the life, practice, sevā. Paripraśna, honest enquiry, not intellectual enterprise in the name of religion, that won't have much value, but to live the truth. Whatever we shall understand we must utilise it in our daily life, our daily movement, sincerely, then we can understand the gain, the benefit of the life. Kṛṣṇa. Govinda. Nitāi.

That is not imitation, that does not want any money, or any grandeur, or any sort of external charm, but it is more dependent on the inner heart.

The attitude of the inner heart - "I'm there, I'm there living in my innermost quarter."

The enquirer is a conscious unit, and that which is coming out that is also some judicious and intelligent thing within the nature. The researching intelligence is satisfied with the corresponding, wonderful conscious arrangement, design, below the surface.

They're coming with the truth, big story, "Oh yes, I have found out." But what they have found out, that wonder is already there. And that is an infinitesimal part of the wonderful design. And the source of the whole, how great He is. A very smallest part, discovering, inventing, he says: "I am great. I am Einstein. I am Newton. I am so and so. I have discovered this fresh thing."

But the very ocean of that wonder is already buried, ha, ha, under the surface. And that is to neglected, that is to looked at as stone, fossil. Devotee: Mahārāja, in the Bhāgavatam there's a story about Mahārāja Rantideva [?] and I believe that he's asking some prayer to, he wants to help all the conditioned souls, all the fallen souls, he has some prayer. So what type of devotion is this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. One who gets a sweet thing, it is natural that he will like, if he's not jealous, that everyone may taste that sweet thing. Sympathetic, he will engage himself to taste that sweet thing and he will also aspire that everyone may taste the sweet fruit, it is quite natural. Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2], all may live happily, and thereby the reaction comes to him and makes him more advanced. What is healthy to me, if I can distribute to the environment, the environment will also improve my health, more and more. If, purity, I can throw around, that will come as a reaction and make me purify again. It is natural. Satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi, in the first śloka of Bhāgavatam Vyāsadeva says, "Let us, not myself alone, but let us all come to taste of this sweet thing." Vyāsadeva in the first śloka of Bhāgavatam he's announcing, "Let all of us come and taste this great, sweet thing." Dhīmahi, that is plural number, that all have come, all of us engage ourselves in the search of the taste of the sweetest thing.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, I have one question here by Nimāi Paṇḍita Prabhu. He wrote a letter some time ago and he's asking a question, coming from Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, chapter four, sixth canto.

annaṁ carāṇāṁ acarā, hy apadaḥ pāda-cāriṇām [ahastā hasta-yuktānāṁ, dvi-padāṁ ca catuṣ-padaḥ]

["By nature's arrangement, fruits and flowers are considered the food of insects and birds; grass and other legless living entities are meant to be the food of four-legged animals like cows and buffalo; animals that cannot use their front legs as hands are meant to be the food of animals like tigers, which have claws; and four-legged animals like deer and goats, as well as food grains, are meant to be the food of human beings."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.4.9]

In this verse Soma is explaining to the Pracetās how Kṛṣṇa has arranged for one living entity to be food for another. "And four-legged animals like deer and goats as well as food grains, are meant to be the food of human beings." That's a quote from Bhāgavatam. So his question is, "Why does Soma and the Bhāgavatam appear to condone meat eating?" The words 'like deer and goats' are [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swāmī] Prabhupāda's and he goes on to explain that cows should not be killed, but cows are also catuṣ-padaḥ, four-legged animals. So in the light of this verse why should they also not be killed? Where does it say in the Vedas that cows should not be killed?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow your argument.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Aranya Mahārāja: He's quoting this conversation...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Somewhere it is mentioned that one animal is created as food for another?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes. And then uses the verse that describes "deer and goats can be eaten by human beings."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. And not the cows.

Aranya Mahārāja: He's asking, "Where does it say in Bhāgavatam that cows cannot be eaten?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is it mentioned in Bhāgavatam that cows cannot be killed?

Aranya Mahārāja: Yes, and eaten by humans. So he's asking that if deer and goats can be eaten, cows also have four legs, why can't they be eaten?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you think that Bhāgavatam has given advice that 'eat goat, eat fish, eat this animal, that animal?' What have you understood from Bhāgavatam?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Well, this is not my question. I understand that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Here you do not understand the very fundamental thing of the whole system. It is already there.

na kartṛtvaṁ na karmāṇi, lokasya sṛjati prabhuḥ
[na karma-phala-saṁyogam, svabhāvas tu pravartate]

["Due to their tendency towards ignorance since immeasurable time, the living beings act, considering themselves the doers or inaugurators of action. The Supreme Lord does not generate their misconception of considering themselves doers, nor does He generate their actions or their attachment to the fruits of those actions."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.14]

It is the outcome of the misuse of the free will of the jīva. And it is there, how to get out of that filthy nature, that has been dealt there. Not giving provision that you eat this animal, that animal, don't eat that animal, don't eat that animal. Even a vegetable, if you do not do anything else, still you are a nuisance by your bathing, by watering, by your walking, so many disturbances caused to the animal kingdom. How to get out of that attempt of creating nuisance in the environment? How to get out?

[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa-bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

And:

loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevānityastu jantor-nahi tatra codanā
[vyavasthitis-teṣu vivāha-yajña-surāgrahairasu nivṛttiriṣṭhā]

to drink wine to those who perform the Sautramaṇi sacrifice. The purpose of granting these licenses for sense gratification is only to restrict these activities and encourage people to give them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat-eating, and wine-drinking is to make a person abstain from these activities."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11]

Bhāgavata does not say that 'do this.' You are already in the mud. How to get out of the mud? That is the necessity of the advice of Bhāgavatam. Bhāgavata has said 'you eat deer and you will be innocent'? Does it say like that? 'Eat deer, eat goat, eat this thing and that thing and you will be free from any sin.' Has it told like that?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, it is already there, you are already in the mud. How to get out of that mud? That is the outlook of Bhāgavatam and it has advised in that way. And why you are in the mud? It depends on your free will. Why such free will has been given by God? It is a part of the spiritual substance.

That systematic knowledge you must have. Only abrupt questions from here and there that corner, absurd things, always repetition. Always repetition of the absurd questions, no digest. The questions must be made on a proper plane. Why some things should be repeated once, again and again, again and again. That means he does not understand anything.

We're to understand the whole system, how, what is what. Why this sin? Kṛṣṇa has directed to commit sin? These are the salient points to understand. Bhāgavata has asked to 'eat these things'? If already they are doing, that is less harmful than cow killing, and human killing. To kill an animal is less injurious than killing a human being.

When a football is just near the goal, if we lose it, then we moan, "Oh a great chance is lost." But when it is in the centre we do not moan. So, human life is a nearer approach towards our real life, a great chance, a key to the success of the whole wandering in the world of nescience. So come to human form, the valuable chance here, so if I kill a human being I've done a greater wrong to the person. And so many animals there are who are nearer the approach towards humanity, their chance should not be hampered, in that way. A creeper's life is less valuable than an animal's life, and an animal's life is less valuable than a human's life, in this way. The gradation is there. As I gave, when the football is nearer the goal and the chance is missed, the more deplorable it is. So according to that the valuation has been attached. And if a sādhu is killed then greater reaction, in this way, the valuation in the life is calculated according to its chance towards the higher. The important life has been taken away, so greater wrong to him. In this way, many times it has been told. Loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevānityastu.

The man is already in the mud, not to put him in the mud. Śāstra does not want that he'll be cast into the mud. He's already in the mud, so how to take him out from the mud, that sort of instruction. You tried where which side is very liquid, come easily from that, and when the mud is very dried mud you will be entangled and can't move. In this way some sort of recommendation to come out of the mud, śāstra recommends, not that 'you must have to do this', not that. And why he's in the mud when there's God who is all merciful? That question is given in another place. These important, salient questions you must have to understand, these important junctions.

When God is omniscient, He's omnipotent, He knows everything, and He has got every power, and He has got the highest feeling heart, sympathetic heart, then why this world suffering? So many jīva is suffering, so many souls are suffering. God has no heart, or He's not omnipotent, or He does not know, not all conscious?

The fundamental things, these points you must have your solution. Otherwise you will always be entangled into questions pushed here, you will run there, again pushed from that side you will run to that side. You will have to move with no way of getting out a solution. Kicked from one side you will have to go to another side, by kicking.

Cow species holds the higher position of all the animal species. So if that chance, if he's killed, his further curing life is ruined, so greater loss to the soul within, in this way. And human killing also more sinful. Why? Important chance, it may go towards the highest aim, so to destroy that is a greater harm. The higher chance, if lost, then he's more loser, in that respect.

The plant eating is also not innocent, there is also life. So Vaiṣṇavas are not like the Jains, the plant eating, but they take prasādam. And why do they not devote all the plants and vegetables for the Lord? There is the direction in the śāstra.

"These things, dedicate to Me."

So according to that we'll dedicate those things and take prasādam. Vaiṣṇava is not mere vegetarian, but they're prasādam _____ [?] And what is to be offered for prasādam that is also mentioned there in the scripture. And there is also some calculation behind. And all vegetables are not used. Tulasī is also a vegetable. Śālagrāma is also a stone, outside. These things are to be reckoned, then we can understand, we can give opinion.

82.12.09.C_82.12.10.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate]
hatvāpi sa imāḻ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

But if there is possibility of such attitude, that if one is externally seen to crush the whole of the solar system he does not do anything. Killing the whole solar system, or many solar systems, even killing, he does not do anything. That point is also to be understood carefully, how it is possible. Hatvāpi sa imāḹ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate. Yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate. Why? How is it possible? To kill this plant, kill that animal, the whole creation can be crushed, still no sin. How is it possible? In what plane of life it is possible?

The nirguṇa, the most fundamental flow is running towards some direction, and to identify wholesale with that. Any moment, the most fundamental flow, to identify with that flow, then, not only he does harm by killing, but he does good by killing. And killing means what, what is killed? Our dress, the body means dress, the person is not killed. His dress is changing. All these things are to be understood.

And industrious in another plane, inactive in one plane but active in another plane.

Aranya Mahārāja: I think I'm always acting in the lower plane.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then wakeful here and another party wakeful in another plane, ease lover.

Devotee: I have one question Mahārāja. Recently when I was in Vṛndāvana I went to Rādhā-kuṇḍa and at Rādhā-kuṇḍa I saw some devotees doing daṇḍavat parikramā of Govardhana Hill. And I understand that the object of doing daṇḍavat parikramā is so that you have darśana of Lord Kṛṣṇa within five days. And I wanted to know what type of devotion, is this bona fide?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe in particular case, but not bona fide in all cases. If there is any revealed direction, "circumambulate Govardhana for five times then you will see," if some conditional revelation, then it may be possible. Otherwise only by attempting, as a general part of devotion to circumambulate Govardhana, that does not mean that anyone and everyone will have darśana thereby. Kṛṣṇa. And what is darśana that is to be thought and understood. So many people see something and think that "I have got darśana." Gaura Sundara. So only by circumambulating Govardhana five times one can have, that cannot be the general thing, general rule, but in particular case it may be, may not be impossible.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, in many places in the śāstras we're being encouraged to chant the Holy Name. Sometimes in different Purāṇas, in different parts of the Vedas, different results are given for performing ritual activities and some austerities, but all meant to encourage. So still we find many devotees becoming discouraged.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śāstra has encouraged the chanting of the Name, but sometimes we find the devotees they're discouraged to chant the Name?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: They become discouraged.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the reason? You want to know the reason for the difference?
The present Gauḍīya Maṭh lies there? They discourage that imitation?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No, I'm saying that many ISKCON men have become discouraged.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They have come also from Gauḍīya Maṭh, ISKCON, ultimately Swāmī Mahārāja came from Gauḍīya Maṭh Mission.

That mere lip deep sound is of no value, imitation. There must be some wrong purpose within, that is not true name. Name means Vaikuṇṭha Name, Name and whose Name, that is inseparably connected. So anyhow spiritual Name, this physical imitation sound and the spiritual Name, that we're to differentiate and understand. Vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam.

["One who chants the Holy Name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly - sāṅketyaṁ (to indicating something else as in the case of Ajāmila who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa), jokingly - parihāsya, for musical entertainment - stobha (to use the Name with some other intention; Jīva Goswāmī has taken advantage of this in his book of Sanskrit grammar, the Harināmāmṛta-vyākarana; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats), or even neglectfully - hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14]

The aim must be towards spiritual, Name, Kṛṣṇa's Name, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, everything is spiritual, not mundane. If we want to make Him a member of the world of exploitation then we're wrong there. He's above, He's in the transcendental. Kṛṣṇa Nāma, rūpa, guṇa, līlā, all transcendental, we're to connect with that transcendental sound. Name God, and not a perverted reflection of the Name, that can be taken by the lips.

Even parrot, even a machine, the sound can be produced by a machine also, not that sound. Only ethereal material vibration, that is not it, the underlying connection must be with what is God, what is Kṛṣṇa. The Name must have that sort of connection, otherwise it will be imitation. It will be lip deep sound in the mundane vibration. We're to differentiate that.

Name of God not any perverted reflection of the Name. We must have that connection, that idea in the background. And taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, then not a man who is named as Kṛṣṇa. There may be a man whose name is Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes accidentally nāmābhāsa may come but not the Name proper. A systematic search, a systematic practice of taking the Name is necessary to relieve from this land of exploitation to take me to the land of devotion, some process. It is a concrete thing and not imagination. We can apply to myself and see the Name Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa and Kṛṣṇa's Name is one and the same, then I'm taking Kṛṣṇa. One Name of Kṛṣṇa can drive away all the sins. I'm taking, are all these sins driven from my heart? Then where's the rub, why not so?

nāmno 'sya yāvatī śaktiḥ pāpa-nirharaṇe hareḥ tāvat karttuṁ na śaknoti pātakaṁ pātakī janaḥ

[The sinner cannot commit so much sin, what even one word, the Divine Word, the Divine Name can.]
[Kūrma Purāṇa]

eka kṛṣṇa-nāme yata pāpa hare, pātakī sādhya nāhi tata pāpa kare

["No sinner can commit as much sin as one Name of Kṛṣṇa can destroy."]

One cannot commit so much magnitude as one Name is not sufficient to clear it off. A single Name of Kṛṣṇa can do away with all the sins, as so much sin that one man can never commit in his life. Then we're taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, all sins cleared, gone, left me, why not? Then where is the trouble? In a proper mood we are to take, the Name must be transcendental.

Vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha. Aśeṣa means infinite, endless sin can be washed off, if one Name is Vaikuṇṭha Name. Vaikuṇṭha, Name of infinite characteristic. Vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha- haraṁ. Āgha means pāpa, sins. Pāpa haraṁ viduḥ. We're to understand that one single Name can do away with all the sins a man may have, but that Name is infinite character, that is transcendental Name.

Anyhow we must be, must come in connection with the real party, not imagination. Kṛṣṇa saṅkīrtana is not imaginary thing, that by indulging in some sort of imagination we shall get out of all the practical difficulties. So absurd, not things so absurd. The whole energy must be diverted, directed towards that, left for His mercy. He will come and convert me fully, absolve me fully from the, anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Idea of elevation, idea of fulfilling fleeting desires and ideas of salvation, all these underlying ideas must be burned to ashes. We must have to come to the fact, to the reality. We're to deal with reality, not imagination.

Kṛṣṇa Nāma, Kṛṣṇa and His Name, His rūpa, guṇa, līlā, all inseparably connected and that is all transcendental. And what is transcendental, beyond the jurisdiction of our mind, not even, but soul also, we are to understand the plane of sense perception. Then mental concoction. Then our, the fact that can be caught by our intelligence only, mind also cannot imagine that. Then the ātmā. Then beyond that Paramātmā. Then on the other side there is that Vaikuṇṭha.

[upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya]

'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya
tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana'
['kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohaṇa]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

And that most subtle and most fundamental plane we are to reach. We must not think air as ether. Air or the smoke, we should not think a smoke, that this is ether. Just as electricity, that has got it's own acquaintance, own nature, own property. A foolish man may think, 'The smoke, oh, this is ether.' Won't get any response thereby, and he'll come to conclude, 'Oh there is no electricity.' That will be his conclusion. He's applying, making experiment with smoke, or with air, and he wants to have the facility of ether. That is not possible. We're to reach the layer of ether then we can expect to get its benefit.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Before one can chant the pure Name he must have the proper background conception.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. That is, our serving nature must be roused, awakened within us. Eye can see, ear cannot see. Eye cannot have any conception of sound. Ear cannot have any conception of colour. So our mind, avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ, our word, our mental thought cannot reach, cannot touch that plane. Repeatedly these things are told. He can come down to touch the mind, the body, but mind and body cannot rise up there, because they're gross and that is most subtle. That can come down to this plane. We want to have connection in that line, so we shall pray in such a way that He will come down and give me touch. The Name will have to come down to my plane and to dance on my tongue. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's, hṛdaya haite bale, jihvāra agrete cale, śabda-rūpe nāce anukṣaṇa;

[kaṇṭhe more bhaṅge svara, aṅga kāpe thara thara, sthira haite nā pāre caraṇa]
[Śaraṇāgati, 2, The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 59-61]
[Collection of verses, 253]

From Supersoul to soul. Then through the mind it will come to touch, from the heart it will come. The force will engage, will force the tongue to take the Name, take His Name. Not we can take but He can come and engage us to take His Name.

The subjective freedom is on that side, and our side is our negative prayer. Śaraṇāgati, surrender, so that He may come down. He may condescend to come down to accept me as His platform to dance, to handle me. The whole thing is of that type. That to attract Him to come to my gross self. My self is a very gross thing in comparison to that subtle, higher thing. He can come down, I cannot go up, and if He takes me up then I can go. Avaroha-panthā, descending method, not ascending method. The connection always in the descending method. He can descend. So we're to do something to invite Him to come down to our lower plane, then we can have touch. We can't force Him. His sweet will we're to tackle, anyhow. Why? How?

Śaraṇāgati, surrender, the negative side, dainyam. "I'm the most needy my Lord, poorest of the poor."

That sincere prayer can draw His attention and He can come, only this. It is not an area in this solar system that we shall go out of our own ability and find Him there, fixed thing, not like that. It is reality to the surrendered soul, but that is also existing, that can be measured. Śaraṇāgati, surrender, that can come to law, that can be measured by that sort of law. Why one is, dainya, ātma nivedanam, goptṛtve varaṇa, by all these symptoms one can measure, one expert. Who is expert in this department he can measure that he has got śaraṇāgati. What he says has got connection with Kṛṣṇa proper. Otherwise, gauri rame gauri rame mukhi badhi denai charay [?] only professing that, "I belong to Kṛṣṇa, I have devotion," these things have no value, this propaganda has no value. That is most impossible, still it is real.

Finite and infinite, condition, unconditioned, the relation just the opposite. How can I force, a point of my type can control the Infinite? This is impossible, but still it is possible by His infinite grace. He can do anything and everything. That is my solace, consolation, the basis of my hope and ambition. Only that side, hopelessness, helplessness, the sincere conception of one's helplessness is some type of capital, to draw Him, to force Him to come down. The negative side, opposite side. "I have got nothing. I'm the most needy." It is not professed, to profess only, but that deep, sincere feeling of helplessness and dependence on Him in His favour. His sweet will, that can give some sort of connection with that higher thing of the most subtle nature which is everywhere, and which can know everything. Whether it is a real call or some motive behind, He knows it fully well, the call for which, the quality of the call. "I want You my Lord." The call of what nature, it can be measured. He knows everything. So no cheating is possible there.

Still it is reality, though beyond our imagination, our conception, avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ. It is plainly described that He's not within, vāc means word, sound, manu, mind, avāc, manaso gocaraḥ, atīndriya, transcendental, supra-mental, all these terms already told a thousand times by the scriptures. This is His nature. Still He's real and He's the real, the reality. And all other things which we conceive to be real at present they all evaporate, they're unsubstantial. The real substance is He there.

Dive deep, dive deep, deeper to deeper, and self-abnegation, abnegation. The pride is there, "I'm something," that is ego, that is the most enemy to our soul's existence. I've gathered some rubbish from this material world, and some construction made of that nasty element, that is ego. And we're very much proud of that ego, mainly of knowledge, or some sort of favour, or internal capacity, of these things. That ego is the greatest enemy to us, to our own self. That should be totally dissolved, that ego, ahaṅkāra, false vanity. False vanity to be demolished, pulverised, or burned to ashes. Sacrifice, yajña, the word, sacrifice, give, give. What you have got, all rubbish, give it away, give it away. The part of your pride, all of different elements gathered together, give it away, give it away. And what you have within that, your real self, that is the child of the real soil.

Atma bari dustavyah, mantavyah, srotavyah [?] many things. Try to know thyself, your inner self, your fine handsome self. Then more handsome thing to be connected with that fine self within you. This is rubbish, we have gathered rubbish in the mind and different planes and that has formed an ego. From one birth going to another birth, and in different innumerable births we're living in different planes in this mundane world. Ego, that is our enemy. What is sitting at the centre of our heart, that ego, that is our enemy. Real ego is within and it is eternal. Atma bari dustavyah [?] Find yourself who you are, not this body.

When Brahmā began to explain the Veda there were so many students. Indra was there, and some _____ [?] one demon's son was there. "What is ātmā, you are that." Brahmā says, "You yourself are that ātmā."

Then the demon's son he thought, "This body, I'm this body."

Another thought, "No, I'm the mind."

Another student thought, "No, I'm not the body and mind, but within that something."

In this way, conception varies according to our capacity. Instruction coming from the same source with same force. But we, according to our capacity catch the meaning in different ways due to our respective abnormal position of different degree. So from the Vedānta different interpretations, variegated interpretations.

Śaṅkarācārya gave some interpretation and that is also accepted by a large majority of scholars.

Then Rāmānuja gave another, Madhvācārya. In this way, different sorts of interpretation.

And Śrī Caitanyadeva also hinted in the line of Bhāgavatam, the last production of Vyāsadeva, which was produced when he was given a good stricture by his Gurudeva Devaṛṣi Nārada.

"What you have done? You have done nothing. You have done diabolically wrong. Give this thing, otherwise all useless rubbish. You give to the public that ultimate cause is Kṛṣṇa, all love, not an imaginary cipher. God is not imaginary cipher, but He's all love. He's concrete, He's of human nature, so dear to us, we're so near to Him, but far, far off."

Vivekānanda says: "Wherever you get human figure, you take him God and worship him." This is Vivekānanda. "Leaving away the human figures, so many royal persons, where are you running after to seek such for God? God is all these fellows. Suffering from so many diseases, miseries, they're God, worship them. There's no other God. Those that say there is another God it is fictitious, they're enemy to the society. Serve these poor persons, daridra-nārāyaṇa, poor Gods, daridra-nārāyaṇa, poor Gods."

God can never be poor, they say: "Poor Gods, daridra-nārāyaṇa." The Nārāyaṇa has come in the garb of poor persons to you. Then, "I'm also Nārāyaṇa, why should we also go towards another Nārāyaṇa?"

Ha ha. Nārāyaṇa. Lakṣmīpati. Who is the master of all resources. He's Nārāyaṇa, and poor fallen souls, then what is the position of a goat, a cow? Why do you kill them? He's not Nārāyaṇa? Only human figure Nārāyaṇa? They also cry in pain, suffer. There is no Nārāyaṇa? All Nārāyaṇa is concentrated in the poor human figure?

The bogus persons and the bogus people they adore these bogus leaders. They're deceivers, self-deceivers, cheaters in the name of religion. Human figure is Nārāyaṇa, then everyone is worshipping a Nārāyaṇa. Husband is worshipping wife, wife is worshipping husband, then there's child. In this way they're worshipping the man God, God in man figure. If it is so everyone is doing some sort of service to the human body. Gaura Sundara. Self deception.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Mahārāja, how can we tell if someone is a pure devotee, I mean, what do we look for?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What does he say?

Devotee: How can we tell if someone is a pure devotee? What qualities do we look for?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The symptoms of a devotee is already given in the śāstra. Perhaps in Bhāgavatam twenty four, infinite characteristic, but twenty four has been given in Bhāgavatam perhaps. But the general, one is devoted to the Lord, who is, By Itself and for Itself. Attraction for the truth, central truth, which is, By Itself and for Itself. He's for Him. Everything is meant for Him and He exists by Himself, not created. Attraction, the affinity, the necessity of searching for such prime cause of centre.

Trying for the fulfilment of ones own inner heart, leaving aside all these things. Who are, generally the external signs or symptoms will be this, that he's not hankering for any gain or loss of this mundane world, flickering world, anitya, what is not stable, not eternal, not hankering for that thing.

Loss and gain of this mundane world is equal to him, does not care for any loss or gain here. And searching for some eternal truth, what is ecstasy, anāndam, or happiness proper, searching for that.

Those that are lady hunters, they engage themselves in that department and they also keep information where such ladies are available, kāmukāḥ paśyanti. No other things in their calculation, where a beautiful lady is to be had. Only engaged in that sort of mood, searching.

Lubdhāḥ paśyanti dhana-mayaṁ jagat. The capitalist, the money mongers, they keep the information who are moneyed men in the world. "Where is money? How to make money?" And dhīrāḥ paśyanti nārāyaṇa jagat, and the sādhus who are above all these things, kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā. Three opposite tendencies are attracting us, women for men, men for women. Then next, kanak, money which can...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Give it to others also. Kanak, kāminī and pratiṣṭhā, the credit, the name and fame, that is credit. Everyone wants that. These three, who can have conquered, he can be traced, can be taken to be the seeker of the higher truth. These three, position, this bodily attraction and this mind attraction, and also the hankering for the name and fame, the credit, prestige and popularity in this world. These three phases of life, one who has rejected, they can be taken as the real searcher of the higher truth.

Such a devotee has conquered over the material world and its illusions of enjoyment. Accepting only what is needed in the service of the Lord, he remains free from the diseased mentality of material enjoyment and dedicates himself in the Lord's service. Free from all false attachments, he sees everything in relationship to Kṛṣṇa, understanding that everything is meant for the pleasure of Śrī Kṛṣṇa."]

[Mahājana-racita gītā, from Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 3.24] & [Collection of ślokas, 236]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Very difficult to take, to give up the charm for prestige, position, pratiṣṭhā.

The māyāvādī, they can leave everything but not the pratiṣṭhā. "I'm Brahman, what is the highest existence, I'm that."

And the Buddhists, the atheists: "If I cannot be the supreme entity I won't live, I won't live, I won't live in a position of a slave, I won't be a slave to anything, to anybody." The atheists.

And the Vaiṣṇava, they want to live as a serving element in the whole. "I'm a serving element. I want to live with the whole as a serving unit. I like to love all. I want a life of a friend to all. Nothing to be left, nothing is bad, nothing. I want to be friendly to the environment." That is the underlying principal of the Vaiṣṇava. "Neither I want to exploit the environment, nor I want to renounce the environment, but I want environment to love."

To love means to serve, real nature of love is sacrifice for the object of loving, then it is love. Otherwise it will be lust if exploiting. If connection, affinity for exploitation it is lust. But if affinity to serve Him, to seek His good, the good of the environment, then it is love. And environment, the whole represented, not a finite like me, then it is love, the opposite of exploitation, dedication. We're to understand the special characteristic and purity of the life of the principle of dedication. There we live. Die to live.

[tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

Yajña means sacrifice. Apparently we put ghee, the most precious thing for our body into the fire. What is this? Ostentatiously most covetable thing and most useful thing for our body we put into fire, and praying for it, that this valuable thing in the world should be reduced to ashes to clear the atmosphere.

Just as in these days people are complaining as a loud cry, the pollution of the atmosphere by the motor gases, that of the atomic energy, all these things. The atmosphere, not only the water of the ocean is polluted but the whole atmosphere is being polluted by this scientific form of living.

But sacrifice, that purifies the atmosphere. In Bhagavad-gītā, we may not understand, we may not follow the method. Parjanyād anna-sambhavaḥ, yajñād bhavati parjanyo.

[annād bhavanti bhūtāni, parjanyād anna-sambhavaḥ
yajñād bhavati parjanyo, yajñaḥ karma-samudbhavaḥ]

["From food, living beings arise, and from rains, food is produced. From the performance of sacrifice, rainfall ensues, and sacrifice is born of action."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.14]

This favourable cloud, to give proper rain, to produce our necessary crops, that helps this yajña, this fire, putting ghee into fire, so such gas is made off, that a normal rain will come and help us in this world. So feed the society in a subtle form, to perform this yajña. Yajña means give, and it will get in fine form. In gross form if you give to the atmosphere, the atmosphere in its turn will give you, by which you will be saved. The yajña is different kind, dravya yajña, jñāna yajña, then real proper yajña cent per cent is devotion. Dravya jñāna to learn to sacrifice with gross materials. Jñāna yajña in thought, in thought we shall think good for others, and including the primary cause Who is holding all these things. And the bhakti yajña, bhakti yoga, that is touching to the centre, where from everything to be distributed is distributed. And the idea is given in this way. If you put food into the stomach the whole body is fed. If you pour water into the root the whole tree is fed. To find such a centre and put your energy there and everything will be fed. Otherwise, it will be impossible for you to feed every part of this universe. Concentrate your energy towards the centre. Collect food and put into the stomach and automatically the whole body will be fed.

prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānāṁ,] tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

So you worship, you serve Acyuta, and automatically the whole thing will be fed. This is the key of the devotee, their life is fine and subtle, high life. Otherwise, if you approach every individual to do something, you won't be able to. If you try to put food into the brain, or into the eye, eye won't get any food, brain also won't get any food. So whole thing you send to the centre, and automatically it will be distributed to every part according to its necessity. The most scientific way of helping the whole universe. At the same time to be faithful to that centre, and where you have every dependence. Very harmonizing principle, harmonizing thought, and most reasonable. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Not with the pride that 'I'm giving.' It is difficult to have connection with that centre. By giving to Him you find that you have got ample. The hand is giving food to the stomach, hand is also being benefited, everyone, the teeth are chewing food for the stomach, but they're also being sustained. Centre, fine centre, loving centre, Kṛṣṇa. Inconceivable, unthinkable happiness you will find within the heart of your soul. Gaura Sundara.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, I have not understood what you were saying completely. In a practical sense then how do we preach to the public? I don't understand how you approach the centre and also approach the individual at the same time.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Education. A primary teacher also gives education to the public, and little higher education, then further higher, in this way the most primitive attempt will be to make sukṛti to the people. They may or may not know, knowingly or unknowingly, some sort of energy should be taken and put into the serving wheel. The lowest type of sukṛti, the man may not know, he in a general way he's going in his own way, anyhow to snatch something, to steal something of his energy, and engage itself into the service of the Lord. Then when little inclination he has got for devotion, anyhow to canvass to make him understand in favour of the service of the Lord and to get some of his energy, or to utilize his prestige, his credit, in the service of the call. Then he collects some śraddhā, some regard for the central truth to help him in that way.

According to the stages to help the people. Not all sorts of preaching will be of the same nature. Different nature of preaching there should be, as much as one can do. The book distribution, they may not always consciously take it, but they have got money, they spend something here, there, "Oh, give me book." He may not like to study the book, but some money he gave and took the book. And another gentleman perhaps reading from his table that book.

In this way anyhow to engage the energy of others for the service of Kṛṣṇa. Beginning from that, from different layers we can help giving him saying, "There is the God conception is beautiful, it is very happy, it helps us to the last limit." To take it to them and when they come and join then to engage them in that service. So different stages there are. Sometimes to give battle with the atheistic scholars and to establish the supremacy of God Consciousness. Many stages there are for preaching.

As one is qualified they will do from their own position there. In different ways preaching may go. Some by writing, some by taking the writing to the purport, some by explaining what is written there. In this way, various ways. Some by cooking and offering, and some by distributing, some cleansing the temple here and worshipping the Deity thinking that, "He's been so kind to come here, to capture my mundane senses also."

Anyhow towards Him. In this way various, infinite ways of service, and that is preaching. Worship in the temple and dressing in ornamental way. And the people are coming and they're charmed with the beauty of the Deity. And purity of the pristine compound and they're being attracted by that.

Various ways. Sometimes by keeping watch that things of the Lord may not be stolen by someone. In various ways we can do. Even sometimes by giving a good beating to the dogs and boys that are stealing things or making filthy. Various ways we can serve the cause.

And service means preaching, to certain extent. And śravaṇa kīrtana, to hear what is God, and to reproduce it to others, to preach, that has been given more stress in this Kali-yuga. Śravaṇa kīrtana, and mostly kīrtana, chant, chanting. Not in the purpose of a trade to make money, but only with the sincere idea of preaching the greatness, of spreading the greatness of the Supreme Lord, with that idea to talk with one another.

[mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā,] bodhayantaḥ parasparam
kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, [tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca]

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

What is good, we talk about Him. "My Lord is the form of highest good, I cannot talk to people without Him. My Lord is such and such, He's so great, He's so good. You also come and take Him as your friend, you will be benefited." Preaching is inevitable.

If a good son or a good friend, we try to talk about him, it is our nature. So to talk about Him, He's the nearest and best friend of us. If we feel we cannot but talk about Him. That is the wealth of mine. I want to give that wealth to others. In this way preaching is natural. In whatever position, whatever level I am, if I find this is good, to extend it to others, that is preaching, maybe a different layer of preaching. Some even may preach within the heart, he may be meditating in such a strong way, mental waves will flow to other minds. He's thinking within, but the mental waves that are created by his meditation, that is going away and touching, entering into the minds of so many others. That's also preaching, something. Thinking is also preaching in a subtle form. Kanti śravaṇaṁ smaraṇaṁ, that is also devotion.

Smaraṇa means to recollect, to hear, to speak, to meditate, śravaṇaṁ kīrtanaṁ viṣṇoḥ, smaraṇaṁ pāda-sevanam, then to serve, arcanaṁ, to revere, vandanaṁ, to praise, dāsyaṁ, serve in very variegated way, sakhyam, to cultivate friendship, to understand we are friend, that is also, sakhyam, ātma-nivedanam, and we offer wholesale to the Lord, that He's the absolute owner of myself. All these ways of devotion. Anyhow exertion, we cannot but exert. All exertion should be converted into the serving attitude towards the Absolute Lord. Devotion, preach, preaching in different layers. All may not be the same. Whatever capacity one has got, a learned man he may go on in his own way, a strong man he will go in another way by bodily strength. So one, whatever he has got he will begin with that, but heart's object will be one, valuation will be according to that.

Mahārāja Pratāparudra he engaged himself in the sweeper's service, and that affected the heart of Mahāprabhu. Service, service is heart, own heart. Outwardly the emperor he engaged himself in a sweeper's service, and that attracted His heart most effectively. What is service then? Everything may be service, everything may be preaching, assertion. Preaching means assertion, to throw the wave outside, the vibration will be produced and it will go outside to appeal in the same plane.

Mahāprabhu danced and took the Name of Kṛṣṇa. The deer, the tiger, the birds, the elephants, they also danced and took Kṛṣṇa's Name. How? The inner vibration touched their soul, very fine. The elephant mentality, tiger mentality, all outside, but soul is the inner most, and soul's vibration moved that inner soul and excited them into Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So it is possible that they also were mad taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa and dancing. Some sort of inner urge made them to do so, though bodily elephant, mentally elephant, but in soul he's Kṛṣṇa dāsa. The inner most existence was moved and exerted. This is possible.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Jagāi and Mādhāi were converted immediately, but our conversion, sober people we are, our conversion is so much troublesome for the Lord. Ha, ha, ha. Intense force applied, a special care.

Mahāprabhu Gaurāṅga Sundara. Gaurāṅga Sundara. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

[vaṁśī-vilāsy-ānana-lokanaṁ vinā, vibharmmi yat prāṇa-pataṅgakān vṛthā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said: "My dear friends, I have not the slightest tinge of love of Godhead within My heart. When you see Me crying in separation, I am just falsely exhibiting a demonstration of My great fortune. Indeed, not seeing the beautiful face of Kṛṣṇa playing His flute, I continue to live My life like an insect, without purpose."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.45]

How rarely found treasure, jewel. Sanātana, kṛṣṇa prema nṛloke nā haya.

[akaitava kṛṣṇa-prema, yena jāmbūnada-hema, sei premā nṛloke nā haya
yadi haya tāra yoga, nā haya tabe viyoga, viyoga haile keha nā jīyaya]

["Pure love for Kṛṣṇa, just like gold from the Jāmbū River, does not exist in human society. If it existed, there could not be separation. If separation were there, one could not live."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.43]

"It is so precious, never to be found a drop in the whole human society." Mahāprabhu conceived of so deep and interest, though so deep and purest drop of Divine Love. He says, "Never to be found in this human society, it never comes down to the human society here, Sanātana. It is to be worshipped in the highest layer of the existence in Vṛndāvana. If fortunately, if anyone comes in contact with that he can't live without that, he dies without that fine food. He does not take any other food and the dearth of that food, if he does not get, he will die. If anyone comes in connection generally he's never disconnected, but if disconnected by chance he will die. Can't stand the separation of that highest drop of nectar."

All high talks, ha ha, high talks here, ha ha, making, ha ha. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Necessity is the mother of invention. Create necessity, create necessity, and necessity is the mother of invention. That without Kṛṣṇa prema, without that nectar, nothing can satisfy our hearts, quench our hearts thirst. Preach in favour of Kṛṣṇa prema in the market. Ha ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Prema, love, the most valuable thing ever invented is love, in the world. The most valuable thing in the world is love divine. Just as it is told about one's learning. Learning cannot be stolen away by thieves. Learning does not come to be divided amongst the partners. _____ [?] Learning, if you distribute it to others, it does not decrease. Learning is such a wonderful wealth that your partners cannot divide it, a thief cannot steal it, and if you distribute it to others it will rather increase and not be lessened. So what about Kṛṣṇa prema? How wonderful thing that will be, that love, a drop of divine love. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaurāṅga came with that thing of highest conception of our ambition, ever come to this world, love divine. So do or die. Die to live. Everything for Himself. We belong to Him wholesale.

He was the son of his former āśrama, Tīrtha Mahārāja.

While your G.B.C, I am fifty years, more than forty five years experience in Gauḍīya Maṭh and yesterdays G.B.C resolution will be binding on me? Then what am I doing all these fifty years, more than half a century? I have got experience here. And yesterdays G.B.Cs resolution will be binding on me, then what am I, I'm a zero?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some questions I may have answered and he wrote an article in Back to Godhead, and that article was very much adored in the whole of America.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, I remember.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Remember. Then some told that, "You're suppressing the credit of our Guru Mahārāja and you are introducing some other gentleman as a big Vaiṣṇava. In Navadwīpa you have found, and you're trying to introduce him into the arena. You're a traitor to Swāmī Mahārāja. You don't think that he's the absolute teacher of all of us. You're introducing another Vaiṣṇava here in this article, with credit. We consider it that you've lost your faith in Swāmī Mahārāja, your Guru Mahārāja." Acyutānanda told that.

And then Acyutānanda wanted a letter which was written by Swāmī Mahārāja to Govinda Mahārāja.

"I leave Acyutānanda in the care of [Śrīdhara] Swāmī Mahārāja, I relieve him and let him have his training there, I relieve, very much satisfied if Mahārāja takes him as his student." In this way, then Acyutānanda wanted it, "I want that letter, by order of Swāmī Mahārāja I have come to you. He ordered me to learn from you." But that letter was not found at that time where it was, afterwards that letter was found, at that time we don't know.

Then Acyutānanda asked me, "I want some incident."

Then I asked him, "Your field will be Calcutta. English knowing people you want, so if you want to do some service for your Guru Mahārāja you go to Calcutta. I shall ask Mādhava Mahārāja to make arrangement for you, and there you will preach to the educated section and try to purchase a land on that side, where it is now."

He did so. Then he asked me that, "Swāmī Mahārāja asked me to preach amongst the masses on the banks of the Ganges. And you told me to approach the elites of Calcutta. What should I do?"

I told him, "Our Guru Mahārāja wanted that we should approach the scholars, big persons, and the mass will come automatically. Our policy was that. When your Gurudeva wants you to preach amongst the masses in the bathing ghat in the Ganges where ordinary religiously minded people will go to take bath, you obey your Guru Mahārāja's order." I told him plainly.

This is the two points in difference. So he was condemned by the G.B.C. and so many disciples of Swāmī Mahārāja, 'that he's making much of Śrīdhara Mahārāja.'

So many things may come and go, it does not matter, we are to go on with our own. It is the ocean, the infinite ocean. Kṛṣṇa is deciding what is what, how much we can understand what is what. We're in the ocean in the infinite. Only we're to take care of our own self, sincerely, according to our understanding, there responsibility ends.

[mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

"The consequence is in My hand, and the part of duty attached to you, that is the burden of that on you only. The tiny part of duty attached to you, that is on your head, your responsibility finishes there. But the result is in My own hand. It is the resultant of so many forces around. Mā phaleṣu kadācana. It is with Me."

We must be sincere in discharging our duty what we can understand to be, there ends our responsibility. There may be so many defects in me, there must be. And that Lord Kṛṣṇa, or Mahāprabhu, Gurudeva, clears me of those defects, that is good for me. I should not be afraid and I shall not preach that I'm a perfect man. That is foolish, that is the most foolish thing for a person to say that he's perfect, a bogus person. How much can I know? Whatever Kṛṣṇa wants me to know I know only that, I can know that only.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. I must be sincere to my own understanding and feeling, to my own conscience. Whatever I shall think good, best, I shall say that. To take, to accept that, or not to accept, that is with the other party. I'm clear there what I'm saying, according to my own conscience and understanding, I shall say what I understand.

Now they're told that if after Vṛndāvana sitting, that Kīrtanānanda is accused of preaching a cult and not the truth that was given by Swāmī Mahārāja, he's preaching cult. A cult is a thing known in America, eh?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...and they can't venture to interfere in any way. That's the present condition of ISKCON. It is His will. We shall try to do our best according to our understanding. Our responsibility finishes there.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If we go on sincerely no trouble can come to us. The enemy is within, not that the enemy is without, the enemy is within. To be sincere, that is necessary. _____ [?] If you're sincere then you will be able to understand the advice, the instructions, of Śrī Gaurāṅga. Mahāprabhu. Who can do, mischief to another? None. His own self is responsible for his own.

tat te 'nukampāṁ [susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam
hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

[Lord Brahmā says: "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom. He attains to the plane of positive immortality."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

Rather, we are advised to see external things in the opposite standpoint. Everything is grace of the Lord. Whatever comes to you, that is all grace, it is the necessity for you. In that sense, if they're preaching against me, making any propaganda, that is necessary for me. It is wholesome for me. I'm advised to look at it with that angle of vision. It is all for the good, all for the best. Everything is passing through His hand.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, what is it that Kṛṣṇa wants us to learn from Him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa wants us to learn that He's all in all, He's our friend. The dictator of the infinite world is our friend. Try to see this. Everything will be all right. He's your friend. The controller absolute is friendly to you, and whatever is coming to you from outside, that is all for your best. Adjustment with the absolute harmony depends on you. You cannot correct the environment infinite. You have no power to control the environment, but you have only power to control yourself. And control yourself in such a way that you are in harmony with the environment, then you will be happy. That is what Gītā says, Bhāgavatam also.

Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ. The cause of trouble is within, not outside. Man is the architect of his own fortune. Whatever anomaly, whatever misery, discomfort, I feel, I experience, that is my creation. So, I'm to correct me to adjust with the environment. If I can do so then I shall find that everything is all right. Everywhere is the hand of God, Kṛṣṇa's hand, everywhere. And He's my friend. He cannot do anything which can go against me. All meant to correct me. The hand is affectionate. We're asked to look around with this spirit. The affectionate hand of Kṛṣṇa is all around us. Only we're to adjust with that, the anomaly is within me.

Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam. What is wrong, that is the result of my own previous action, none is responsible for that. For this attitude will purify you in the very shortest time, mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk. Then you'll be liberated from all these complaints within you if you can adjust with this advice, according to this advice. This is the highest direction of the Lord. Take all the faults on your head, and try to correct yourself. Then, automatically we will come in connection with such a plane where we'll find that all is good. If you try to do in this way then all your outer coatings will be removed and you will be reduced to your intrinsic position. And from there you'll come in contact with such a subtle plane around you that you will find all good, all blissful, all happy, all sweet. You'll come to take your stand in the subtle-most plane of sweetness, and all the so many covers will all be eliminated, which are misidentifying you, your own self, your own heart. You're thinking, 'this is me, this is I, this is I, this is I.' No, they're all coatings, outer coatings. And that will go away if you take such steps that everything is good and I'm in the wrong. Thereby your over-coatings will be all eliminated and you'll come to your own intrinsic position. And you'll find that you have come in connection with a plane, the most sweet and subtle, and most fundamental. Do you follow?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If this one advice is followed correctly then the whole solution of life is here. Tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam. And sincerely, hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir, by word, thought, deed. Hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, and showing our gratitude towards the supreme authority wholeheartedly, by word, thought, and deed. Jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk, if one can come to think in such a position of his own self then very soon he will be cleared of all his undesirabilities. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hṛd-rogam, ha, ha. You will come in contact with Kṛṣṇa līlā when? Kāmaṁ hṛd-rogam.

> [vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ, śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ, hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ]

"I want this, I want that. I don't want this, I don't want that," but this is all diseases of your heart. Diseased heart only wants this, that, thousand things. But if that disease is cured, you'll be cured when you come to understand everything is for the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, my Lord, and I'm also included there. Then you're absolved from your crooked ego, that selfish prejudice. You will come at last to the ocean of sweet waves, the Kṛṣṇa dancing. Kṛṣṇa is dancing, and I'm to be in consonance, in harmony with His dance. He's dancing and we are to cooperate in His dance. That is the key to our satisfaction wholesale, to be qualified to enjoy wholly His dance. We shall have to dance also in that tone, that movement. But separate interest has created all the difficulties in different ways, the separate interest, ahaṅkāra. The consciousness of separate, selfish interest, that is the disease in us all.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Nitāi Gaurāṅga came for that, to tune, to put us into the harmony, in the harmony around. So many, the detached portion is brahmānda, and there also, so many sections. Human, then beast, then trees, then insects, so many sections, all detached consciousness, a big ahaṅkāra, a big ego. And that is also part by part, and by different kinds it is located. A big ego, illusion, just opposite the truth, what is what. And we're a particle in the big revolted ego, who are self-seekers, māyā means self-seekers. Those that are in māyā, illusion, misunderstanding, the cause is self-seeking, erroneous self-seeking, misunderstood. So many suggestions recommended but all superficial.

The deepest solution given by Bhāgavatam, Gītā, and Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu. The depth of the solution is ultimate, absolute. There is Kṛṣṇa dancing, and not Nārāyaṇa commanding. The commanding Nārāyaṇa is also there, but Mahāprabhu says go deeper and you will find Kṛṣṇa dancing with the gopa, gopī, and that is your home. Go there, join there, that dance, that singing, the flute, and dancing.

No response, Nārāyaṇa has also got responsibility about the mundane world and that world administration. Kṛṣṇa does not care for any outsider. His flute can adjust everything in its proper place. The flute can establish harmony if anything wrong comes. Everything moves according to the advice in the flute. The sweet sound gives impetus to all movements there.

Earth, then this body and another body, and then, the difference between this body, hand, foot, three kinds of differences. Everywhere there's differentiation, differentiation is drawn, it's not bad. If mutual sympathy then it's all right. That plane of harmony we're to connect, then everything is friendly. By mutual service, from its own position, service towards the centre, harmony, and some sort of discord. Discord but difference, ha, ha, ha, everywhere. We're to adjust within that our position. Growth, development, is like this, otherwise no development, no high or low. All one, that means non-differentiated, non-specified mass. That is Brahmaloka, Virāja, something like deep slumber. Differentiation there will always be. And difference, defeat, gain, loss, in a players mood, līlā, players mood, not serious.

We have told, when first, we were startled to hear from Prabhupāda in Benares when he's explaining things to some māyāvādī paṇḍita, he told that, "The lion is killing Prasena. The lion is also feeling enjoyment, and he's eating one and whom he's eating he's also feeling pleasure. Aggrieved and aggressor, both parties feel pleasure, such is the plane. The victor and the defeated, both parties are pleased. That is possible in players mood, līlā. Līlā, it is infinite, eternal.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: This is on the transcendental plane?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, transcendental plane.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: A lion will be eating another living entity, and that entity in pain is enjoying?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is eternal, so no finish. One who is being killed, that is only a play. His existence is there because eternal. Just as in a drama, one is killing, another is being killed, but none is killed, it is only a show. So, because they're all eternal they can't be ruined, destroyed. So in that sense, the killing, we understand, is absent there. So the killed parties, aggrieved parties, the defeated party and the victorious party, both gets pleasure. We're to understand that.

And the defeated party may get more pleasure, it is also possible, if their part is perfectly played. The people will appreciate, "The man who was killed, he's played his part very nicely." In this way, he's defeated, but he's shown his attitude in such a pleasing way, his defeat, the audience they will say, "Oh, he has played wonderfully." So in this way, playing, both parties may be gainers. The loser also may become gainer, something like that. Because eternal wave going on, no end. Plays in the eternity is of such nature, līlā. Līlā means play.

Sometimes Kṛṣṇa is climbing on the shoulder of His friend, and sometimes His friends are also climbing over the shoulder of Kṛṣṇa. "We're all equal, in friendly circle." That posing also there. Infinite, but something like this we can say, "It is like this, to certain extent. But what it is really we're to feel it within us, after realisation from that plane."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. That is to be ascertained, that soul, who is not found in our present area of calculation. The trouble is there. The body is deceiver, the body, mind, the external covers, they're representing us. If the tongue is satisfied with sweetness I'm satisfied, in this way. If the ear is satisfied with music I'm satisfied. But these are outer things. The mind is there, the intelligence, then the soul proper, his satisfaction we should search, "Where is he?" That is the question. "What is my soul? Where is he? Where is that? Then, what is his satisfaction?" We're all with some guess, guessing, imagination, the imagination has become reality and the reality has come in the position of imagination with us at present, fallen souls.

yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his uninterrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy." [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

"The night is day and day is night."

Rāma Rāma. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Aranya Mahārāja expected back by four o'clock train this afternoon?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes, Guru Mahārāja. This violent līlā, this does not exist on Goloka, in the spiritual world? This is only in the material world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No violence, ha, ha, ha.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: This is, you were describing...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Violence, you see, if a man is very weak, then if we push in this way he'll be finished. A strong man he will say, "Oh, I felt much pleasure." Ha, ha, ha, ha. Massaging. He will feel that's massaging, a very sweet massaging. So according to the position. A soul is invulnerable. It is eternal type. So you cannot produce any practical pain in it. All will be like massaging, pressure massaging. It is eternal. It has got its own pain of its own characteristic, and there is separation. "I can't get my service quota to Kṛṣṇa. You must give some service. How, otherwise how, I can't go on fasting, some sort of service I must have, of the Lord." Service is the food there, service is the food for the soul. Without service we may die. And service _____ [?], that's eternal. Sometimes fasting, sometimes eating.

kṛṣṇera yateka khelā, sarvottama nara-līlā, nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa
[gope-veśa, veṇu-kara nava kiśora, nata-vara, nara līlāra haya anurūpa]

["Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa has many pastimes, of which His pastimes as a human being are the best. His form as a human being is the Supreme Transcendental Form. In this form, He is a cowherd boy. He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

Mahāprabhu told, "Of all the different pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, this human form of pastimes is the highest."

Pastimes in different phases, but Mahāprabhu says that human form pastimes, that of aprākṛta, that is the highest, the deepest, most sweet. But that must be in the plane of Kṛṣṇa, not imitation in the plane of flesh and blood, then we'll become sahajiyā. There is a plane of Kṛṣṇa, and no imitation in the exterior plane, superficial plane. That will create rather prejudices against the reality.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: I was reading Swāmī Mahārāja's purport to Parama koruṇa, and there he describes the author [Locana dāsa Ṭhākura]. He's telling it is such a nice process, this chanting of Hari-Nāma. It will give the result if one simply gives up sense gratification. That is the only requirement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If it is possible for us to go on taking the Holy Name in a real process, then of course these things must be effected. We'll be saved from our apparent charm of sense pleasure. We'll be saved, that is if the transaction of taking the Name is of real character. Otherwise there's aparādha, nāmāparādha. If we continue the offences against the Holy Name then that can't take me to my desired end. There's a process of taking the Name.

aparādha' nāhi, sadā lao kṛṣṇa-nāma [eta bali' prabhu āilā sārvabhauma-sthāna]

["Amogha, always chant the Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā-mantra and do not commit any further offences." After giving Amogha this instruction, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu went to Sārvabhauma's house.]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 15.285]

So, there should be improvement in taking that. Our earnestness for Kṛṣṇa, help for the Name, through Name to go to Kṛṣṇa. The desire must be sincere and not an imitation and to gather the credit to the false party, "That I'm a devotee." It's not a trade, not to show to the public and to get some name and fame from the external plane. That will be otherwise. If by accepting the life of a sādhu externally, my object is to gather name, fame, or money, or anything else of this superficial world, then it won't produce the desired result, but something else, mundane. So it must be taken in a proper way, proper process, and with the association of the good devotee that is possible. He'll correct me at every step, "Don't go this way."

From finite to eternity, the way, that is not so very easy. It is a great thing. So many stages of achievement, and the charm must be neglected and passed through to reach to the highest plane. So guide and association, that will help us greatly, to eliminate different stages. Different proposals will come in our front, "Remain here, remain here, this is a good plane of living." We're to cross everything, dismiss everything and go through, neglecting all planes in the middle until we can reach the Vṛndāvana. Even Paravyoma, the plane where Nārāyaṇa is, Lakṣmī Nārāyaṇa, that is to be known. The Ayodhyā, the Dvārakā, the Mathurā, conception of Godhead. We're to go to the plane of Vṛndāvana. That's what Mahāprabhu told us. Then you will be at your sweet home.

So association, guide, we must work in a regular, and in a proper way, not this way, that way, and not stopping our journey in the middle, so many difficulties there. So guide and good association, encouragement of the association, scriptures, all these helpful to us for this wonderful journey, from the foreign land towards home. Towards home, the wholesale solution of one's life. Not only one's own by his connection, many will have similar solution of life, sweet solution, sweet and highest solution of life, we're after to get that. How we can reach home? We're wandering in the land of mortality, discord, suicidal plane. We want to go home, sweet, sweet home. Home is such and such. Sādhu will encourage us when we'll feel very tired in our journey, the sādhu will encourage us, "No, not far off, come a little more, and we shall reach the home."

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Who is there?

Brahmānanda dāsa: Brahmānanda dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmānanda. And you?

Nārada Muni dāsa: Nārada Muni dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nārada Muni. He?

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā dāsa: Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā. Vidagdha?

Madhu-kanta dāsa: Madhu-kanta dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhu-kanta.

Sudar Kṛṣṇa dāsa: Sudar Kṛṣṇa dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sudar Kṛṣṇa. Where is one Bhāgava, or someone?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Bhāgava will return after one week.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's gone to Calcutta?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: He went to Dacca, Bangladesa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When did he start? Yesterday?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Two days ago.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two days ago. And that Parthamitra, where is he?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Parthamitra went to Calcutta. He'll come with Aranya Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, he went together with Aranya Mahārāja to Calcutta?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Madhu-kanta?

Devotees: He's here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. You have come to me here, to hear, but see what is my position, the eyes and brain is also not so sharp memory. Tabu likhi' — e baḍa vismaya.

[āmi vṛddha jarātura, likhite kāṅpaye kara, mane kichu smaraṇa nā haya nā dekhiye nayane, nā śuniye śravaṇe, tabu likhi' — e baḍa vismaya]

["I have now become too old and disturbed by invalidity. While I write, my hands tremble. I cannot remember anything, nor can I see or hear properly. Still I write, and this is a great wonder."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.90]

Kavirāja Goswāmī says, "I'm so old I can't write. While trying to write my hand is shivering, trembling, but still I'm writing. It's wonderful."

Robust health, sharp memory, and very able senses, they're no qualification.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol!

82.12.11.C

Devotee: Mahārāja, I have one question. I was reading the other day that Lord Caitanya was the first to give information on the mādhurya līlā. And my question is, understanding the tendency of man to misinterpret certain pastimes of Lord Kṛṣṇa, why was this information given to the world at large?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. Repeat it. We're told that Lord Caitanyadeva, He came with this information that Kṛṣṇa līlā is the highest.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mādhurya līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhurya līlā.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: So, he's asking why in such a fallen age did Lord Caitanya give this highest realisation in an age when men, most likely, most men will misunderstand, take it for the lower thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. When the environment is most unfavourable, at that time He came with the highest prospect. That is your...

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Kali-yuga is the worst portion of the time, and at that time He came with the best thing. This is your question?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why the best thing came in the worst time? That is your question?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The best thing came in the worst time. The Kali-yuga, when the environment is the worst, at that time the best thing came here, to be distributed. That is your point?

Devotee: Yes. And also that this particular līlā has a tendency to be misinterpreted by such people as...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Misinterpreted, not only in this time but all time. In Satya-yuga also, in golden age also the possibility of misinterpretation and that is more hard. Can't you realise that? A bad thing can easily be condemned. But what is good, sattva-guṅa, that cannot be condemned so easily and convinced. So,

kṛtādiṣu prajā rājan, kalāv icchanti sambhavam
[kalau khalu bhaviṣyanti, nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇāḥ
kvacit kvacin mahā-rāja, draviḍeṣu ca bhūriśaḥ[

[tāmraparṇī nadī yatra, kṛtamālā payasvinī
kāverī ca mahā-puṇyā, pratīcī ca mahā-nadī]

[ye pibanti jalaṁ tāsāṁ, manujā manujeśvara

prāyo bhaktā bhagavati, vāsudeve 'malāśayāḥ]

["My dear King, the inhabitants of Satya-yuga and other ages eagerly desire to take birth in this age of Kali, since in this age there will be many devotees of the Supreme Lord, Nārāyaṇa. These devotees will appear in various places but will be especially numerous in South India. O master of men, in the age of Kali those persons who drink the waters of the holy rivers of Draviḍa-deśa, such as the Tāmraparṇī, Krtamālā, Payasvinī, the extremely pious Kāverī and the Pratīcī Mahānadī, will almost all be pure hearted devotees of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Vāsudeva."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.38-40]

Those that understand the very spirit of things, such persons, they do not want their birth in Satya-yuga, in the golden age, but they prefer to have a birth in this Kali-yuga, iron age. Because, in this iron age, the most helpless condition, the high things are extended by the Lord for their help.

When there is a famine period the authorities make arrangement for some rations. When our need is most, the authority comes down to give us the best. That is the principle underlying. The most wretched period, at that time the boon comes from above to save us. This is the nature. If we reach the lowest point, then begins our movement upward. He selects His way in this. All other things, more or less contaminated by the environment.

His question not solved? When an affectionate father finds that his beloved son is in the highest need, then, with his high standard of affection he comes to take him up. This is not unnatural. This shows the sympathy in the centre, that in the worst period the guardian comes with the best affection, in our worst condition. Can't follow?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja. I can.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because there is no vindictiveness, the affection is there. The centre is affectionate in dealing our punishment reluctantly, but affectionate. So, when in the worst need, He comes with His. Just as when capital punishment, mercy comes, king's mercy, when the judgement is of capital punishment. At the moment of the highest need the mercy comes. Something like that. He's affectionate centre, He's affectionate, our relationship is that of affection and not any coercive nature, or vindictive nature.

And Mahāprabhu's coming, there's a principle, every time in its way is repeated in the cyclic order of the time, Kali-yuga is coming many times. And in a particular Kali-yuga Mahāprabhu comes with that highest thing. Not in an ordinary Kali-yuga and not in every cyclic order. Twenty-eight Kali-yuga, the iron age, the number twenty-eight, one day of Brahmā, one kalpa. Then, He comes with that highest gift.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then, what was your question?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: My question Guru Mahārāja is, how to increase ones earnestness, to increase that sincerity?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

The light can be increased by the help of light, that combustible thing, or anything. Light can increase light. The bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. So, the light in one's heart can be intensified with the help of the light of another heart. The knowledge, the affection, everything what is necessary can be transmitted from one place to another to help. From one store to another store, it may pass, to help growth. Transformation of energy. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, it is the most fundamental plane. Nothing can produce this. We are to take it. Nothing can produce that most fundamental substance. That can produce that. So wherever that thing is found we are to take help from that store, from one store, and the store has got eternal backing, backed by the government, different stores. A store in a particular police station is strengthened by the store in the district headquarters, and friends from the central supply, in this way, from store to store. Of the same thing, bhakti is bhaktyā sañjātayā, bhakti can increase bhakti, not any other thing. And where's that bhakti to be found? It is with the sādhu, the saint of that type. So with the help of the devotee we can immolate, get our devotion. And how can it be transferred from one store to another? By serving, or by his advice, by service only the movement is possible from one to another.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Mahārāja, this earnestness cannot be increased by prayer or personal endeavour?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. By prayer also, by prayer, by infinite ways of gaining, acquiring that. But the most effective and living thing will be that decision of the sādhu, and the sādhu also of the higher type, real type. The prayer and all other forms of devotion, services, will imbibe, will acquire strength and reality in the association of the sādhu, get their life, the strength. Not only formal prayer, empty prayer, prayer or other things may be empty, lifeless, formal. But living things, life, there is inner strength to be imbibed, to be indented from there. The strength, inner strength of prayer, of doing anything and everything, very life, vitality, will have to be drawn from there. So it is sādhu-saṅga, sādhu and śāstra, next, scripture, that also comes from the sādhu, like so, less strong, but living scripture that is sādhu, saint, devotee. His help will be the best, give, supply the vitality of every form of services. A thousand kinds of devotional practices may be there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Any question? No question?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Perhaps one last question. The same, but, the bhajana we have in the association of the devotees here, that is a good way of increasing devotion...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is also, association also has been recommended of this type.

[śrīmad-bhāgavatārthānām āsvādo rasikaiḥ saha]
sajātī-yāśye snigdhe sādhau saṅgaḥ svato vare

["One should taste the meaning of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in the association of pure devotees, and one should associate with the devotees who are more advanced than oneself and endowed with a similar type of affection for the Lord. Those that are in our line, who have the same high spiritual aspirations as we do, and who hold a superior position. To associate with such saintly persons will help us the most to progress towards the ultimate goal."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.91] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.131]

He must be superior to me, and must be in my line, and must be of favourable temperament to me. Sajātī-yāśye, must be in the same line of inner aspiration, snigdhe, and must be affectionate towards me, not reserved. And also, must be superior to me. Such association will be conducive to my growth, or my awakening. So I close here.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: ...and I said because you had criticised our Guru Mahārāja. He said no criticism, he did not criticise, he was making some comment about his statement in regard to what Bhaktisiddhānta had said and he was defending Bhaktisiddhānta's position. He was not criticising anyone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not only Bhaktisiddhānta's decision but the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava decision. Sanātana Goswāmī, Jīva Goswāmī, Cakravārti Ṭhākura. That is concerned what is the real conception of nitya līlā, eternal pastimes of Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana. That is the original līlā.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So I asked him if he had...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is the special gift of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. That Vṛndāvana conception is the most fundamental. And when Kṛṣṇa is, Yaśodā is also. Independent of Yaśodā, Kṛṣṇa cannot exist. Co-existence, that is the fundamental principle of the whole Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava philosophy, that is of Mahāprabhu. And inspired by Mahāprabhu that has been cleared in writing by Sanātana, Rūpa, Raghunātha, Kavirāja, Viśvanātha Cakravārti, Śrī Jīva, all Goswāmīns. That this is the most fundamental, Kṛṣṇa līlā, that is a system, and Yaśodā and the cowboys, Rādhārāṇī, all co-existent. A system, and not that Kṛṣṇa is alone there and then they will gather, it is not. So that is a fundamental thing, principle of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: He wanted to see Akṣayānanda Mahārāja also...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Akṣayānanda Mahārāja already he saw, and he protested to a certain extent, and he himself realised that other things cannot be questioned. Now I think, I'm also told, there were more anomalies there. And Swāmī Mahārāja himself enquired about them from one gentleman, one devotee, our Godbrother in Vṛndāvana. And I think that Akṣayānanda Mahārāja come for the prestige of Swāmī Mahārāja, another small book is to be published in his name.

"What is ordinarily conceived of the general Vaiṣṇava school I have dealt with that. But the speciality of the Mahāprabhu cult, Goswāmī cult, still to be published. For the general public I have dealt so much, _____ [?] But there are some special features of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school that is of Mahāprabhu."

What he has told, that is common to Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, and other Vaiṣṇava cults. But the special conception is Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Nanda-nandan, that is not yet given out.

As Vyāsadeva also did, Mahābharata, Vedānta, and Purāṇa, Upaniṣad, then again Nārada Goswāmī came and gave him impression that he's to give Bhāgavatam, harmonising all his past scriptural gifts.

So also, in the name of Swāmī Mahārāja, I think, as I heard something, one of our Vṛndāvana Godbrothers, with him, Swāmī Mahārāja had some correspondence, "That you take what I am writing." But he showed some points of difference and he accepted and told that, "I shall show it in the next edition."

So, on the basis of that, I think, give a special decision based on Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava siddhānta that should be published in another booklet, salient points. And in the introduction there will be, "Just as Vyāsadeva did in Bhāgavatam after distributing all the śāstra. So in that way, this is not for the general, this is a speciality of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school and Mahāprabhu, and I am publishing that now, to harmonise." I think that will be necessary.

Consult the seven Goswāmī books, fine, and Swāmī Mahārāja also told, "And in a general way I am giving the explanation, the common ground of Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, and some other sampradāya. But what is the most secret and special teachings of Śrī Caitanyadeva, and according to that of the Goswāmīns, that I am putting here, like in Bhāgavatam."

In this way we are to publish a book in his name. And you are his direct disciples, you might have heard many things from him, so from you, in this generation it must be published. Otherwise the whole of ISKCON will be effected in the future. This is my suggestion. And I think, you, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Goswāmī, and others, Bhāratī Mahārāja, you are to take up this and find out in yourself what is written by Sanātana Goswāmī in his Bhāgavat-Tipani and others. You are to search, research the śāstra and in that attitude you are to publish a second book summary, thing. And that was given to the ordinary, and the special instruction, he had a mind to publish in a second volume. In that way, it must be done to save the day.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Goswāmī siddhānta is this, that Vasudeva took Vāsudeva Kṛṣṇa to Yaśodā's house, and that room where Yaśodā gave birth to one girl child. And it is generally stated that Vasudeva took his boy, new born babe there, and took away the girl. But in many places it is mentioned that Kṛṣṇa was Nanda's son, Nanda Yaśodā's son. He's Yaśodā-nandana, Nanda-nandana. In many places it is mentioned. And there in different Purāṇas also it is mentioned.

Krsno 'nyo yadu sambhuto. The Kṛṣṇa who comes from Vasudeva Devakī, He's another nandana. Just as Gopendra-nandana and one who is the son of gopa, Nandana Yaśodā. Vrndavanam parityajya sa kvacit naiva gacchati.

[krsno 'nyo yadu sambhuto yah purnah so 'styatah parah vrndavanam parityajya sa kvacit naiva gacchati]

["The Kṛṣṇa known as Yadu-kumara is Vasudeva Kṛṣṇa. He is different from the Kṛṣṇa who is the son of Nanda Mahārāja. Yadu-kumara manifests His pastimes in the cities of Dvārakā and Mathurā, but Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the son of Nanda Mahārāja never at any time leaves Vṛndāvana, even for a moment."]

[Laghu-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Purva-khanda, 165] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 7.42]

He does not step forward to any place leaving Vṛndāvana. He's always in Vṛndāvana, sometimes explicit over the surface, sometimes underground. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān is He. And the Goswāmī's, Sanātana Prabhu and those who have got direct instruction from Mahāprabhu and all siddhānta, they have written that Yaśodā gave birth to two, one girl one son, and Vasudeva put his son and that was absorbed by Yaśodā's son there. That was mixed together. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān Kṛṣṇa that came from Yaśodā, He absorbed this Vāsudeva into Him. That is the finding of the Mahāprabhu group. Otherwise there cannot be harmonised that in so many places Kṛṣṇa has been mentioned as the son of Nanda and Yaśodā. It is not only hearsay but the fact is there, Svayaṁ-Bhagavān was there. _____ [?] He was born from the body of Nanda. In this way it is mentioned. Direct connection with Nanda and Yaśodā. And He's Svayaṁ-Bhagavān and not Vāsudeva is Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. Vāsudeva is vaibhava-prakāśa of that Nanda-nandana who came from Yaśodā.

All these things have been described scrutinisingly so we can't ignore that. They're direct students of Mahāprabhu, inspired by Mahāprabhu they've given those siddhāntas. We can't ignore that. And that is not found in Swāmī Mahārāja's writings. Rather, that Vasudeva, the son of Vasudeva and He was adopted by Yaśodā, in this way he has gone. But it is not possible to keep up in Gauḍīya school that sort of decision, his conclusion, siddhānta. So I think, not only that, there are many similar things, so you're are to collect them anyhow, very cleverly, and to put, and publish, in one small book.

And with this introduction, that "Swāmī Mahārāja he first gave what was generally accepted about Kṛṣṇa līlā by so many Ācāryas. But the speciality in the thought of Mahāprabhu he gave."

anarpita-carīṁ cirāt [karuṇayāvatīrṇaḥ kalau samarpayitum unnatojjvala-rasāṁ sva-bhakti-śriyam hariḥ puraṭa-sundara-dyuti-kadamba-sandīpitaḥ sadā hṛdaya-kandare sphuratu vaḥ śacī-nandanaḥ]

["May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacīdevī, be transcendentally situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4]

"What was not ever given before, that Mahāprabhu came to give. On the basis of this stanza, which is found in Kali-santaru Upaniṣad and also by Rūpa Goswāmī. Given there, Mahāprabhu has given something what was not given before. Tasting, and to make the verification with all the detailed facts, this is necessary to explain the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava siddhānta. So Swāmī Mahārāja had a mind to publish these subtle points in a separate book, and he expressed his desire to someone, of his disciples. And you who know it, we're publishing those things in a booklet now. It was his order to us. In this way, a small book should be published in his name. And he already gave direction to us to do this, these points."

I think it would be better. You're are to consult and then from Mahā-maṇḍala you will publish that small booklet, pamphlet, where those special decisions of Mahāprabhu will be given. And with that explanation.

Just as Vyāsadeva gave Bhāgavatam after he had given so many things to the common mob, the special thing: nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2] He gave at the end of his life.

So also, Swāmī Mahārāja in his last days he told that he will give the choicest things, the speciality of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school of Mahāprabhu, in a small pamphlet. Something like that. You're to consider that. In this basis you should publish a pamphlet to save his prestige. And the details, what are the points of difference, you're to collect.

I've not read through all his books, but the Yati Mahārāja has read something and according to his request, a Puruṣottama, one gentleman in Vṛndāvana, our Godbrother, he also published many books because he also detected some points and intimated to him. So those points should be taken up cleverly and then they should be published in this way. That is my suggestion.

Let Akṣayānanda Mahārāja come, he knows some, to a certain extent. He opposed that comment of Yati Mahārāja. But he himself told that, some I answered, but something he can't correctly reply, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja told to me. So let him come here and then. Otherwise this will be, Yati Mahārāja is taking, and the Bhag Bazaar Maṭh, just the other day that Kṛṣṇa dāsa came, then Bhāgavat Mahārāja came, they will also take up this. There will be an awkward position. So as soon as one book is published in such a way it will be better I think. We must consult with Goswāmī Mahārāja, Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, the Bhāratī Mahārāja may be intimated.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja came to me and he told that he heard from Swāmī Mahārāja direct, that, "I am giving this translation of Bhāgavatam, and another has got the capacity to do the same work. Who is he? He is Śrīdhara Mahārāja, he can only." He heard it direct from him.

So he came to see me. He told, "I heard direct from Guru Mahārāja many things about you. And so I had the curiosity to see you, and I have come to see you. And I hear many things new." In this way he told.

So you did not give vent to all these things very extensively, keep it concealed. And let Akṣayānanda Mahārāja come, we shall discuss, and we shall make a plan and do accordingly.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja Bhaktivedānta, most of his writings were translations, in the Bhāgavatam he was translating. So I don't know whose commentary he was using, but...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's not always followed commentaries.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: No, some of his own he's put.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In a general way he has given. By instalments, ordinary teachings should be given by instalments. It is the decision of the higher scientific knowledge. Not the whole thing should be delivered at once, to be installed, gradual instalment. Then it will be good for the people to understand.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: He was presenting general way of accepting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In a general way he has given and he has attained a great success.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja expected today? Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Many times in his books also, Swāmī Mahārāja mentioned that the serious student should study the original literature.

Mahārāja, I have a question on another subject. This material world is the perverted reflection of the spiritual world. So does that mean that all relationships we have in this world, there is some relationship in the spiritual world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It has got its original and wholesome representation there.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So we have an eternal relationship with everyone we meet in this world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In this world?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: If we meet someone in this world does that mean we have an eternal relationship in the spiritual world, with that individual?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is distributedly. If anything in an organisation, suppose this nail has got some connection with the hair, in this way, an organic whole. The connection may be in some such way or other, because it is one, in the feeling system they are, so must have some connection. But that is very near and very, very far.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: And Madhva's conception of the jīva, that there are three...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is different from that of Mahāprabhu.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: How is it different?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhva's conception, Rāmānuja's conception, there are certain differences.

Madhva gave too much stress on the difference, because Śaṅkarācārya told that one, jīva, Brahman and Bhagavān are one, so Madhva laid much stress, "No, this is two, different."

And Rāmānuja, something common something different.

But Mahāprabhu has given a very short and clear expression, acintya bhedābheda. Bheda and ābheda, both common and different, but the demarcation is not in the hand of any human being, it is His sweet will, and so it is acintya, inconceivable. The inconceivable word was added by Mahāprabhu to bheda and ābheda, and that is most important point. Because how much different and how much common, that depends on His sweet will. So you can't get a demarcation line hard and fast. It is His sweet will. That was told by Mahāprabhu.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Madhvācārya had also mentioned this acintya bhedābheda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mentioned a very different jīva and God is great difference, he laid stress on the difference.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: But there is some place, Jīva Goswāmī found in one place in Madhvācārya's writings where he mentioned acintya bhedābheda also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not so perfect and not so very clear. Ultimately he had also to take resort to that.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: But specifically Madhvācārya talked about three classes of jīvas - nitya-baddha, nitya-siddha, and jīvan-mukta - the souls who will become liberated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, nitya-siddha, nitya-baddha, jīvan-mukta, and mumukṣus, who will get salvation. But nitya-baddha, he says these māyāvādīs they will never get any liberation, they're ever doomed. This is the opinion of Madhvācārya.

But Mahāprabhu does not say that. "It is possible, though it is very hard nut to crack, but it is possible that the independent will of Kṛṣṇa, and the very powerful servant, they can convert even māyāvādīs, that nitya-baddha class." This possibility Mahāprabhu has accepted, but very, very rarely, it is difficult but still there is possibility.

And Madhvācārya says, "No, the māyāvādīs are ever doomed." Ha, ha, ha. So very much enemy to the māyāvādī section.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So are the jīvas who are engaged in Kṛṣṇa līlā in Goloka Vṛndāvana, they have no possibility to fall down?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no possibility.

82.12.12.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally it is to be held like that, that we come from taṭasthā, marginal plane. That mumukṣus. Mumukṣus means comes from marginal plane.

kṛṣṇera taṭasthā-śakti, bhedābheda prakāśa
["The soul comes from the marginal potency."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

Jīva soul springs up from the marginal potency of Kṛṣṇa, so having adaptability of both the sides. Comes to participate here, and can go to participate there. The adaptability is within.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So we're eternally in that taṭasthā position? The souls who are in this world, before they took birth, they were eternally in this taṭasthā position?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: They never had any līlā with Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: And then, how they can...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eternally, but as Kṛṣṇa is eternal, svarūpa-śakti, taṭasthā-śakti, māyā-śakti, also eternal. And taṭasthā-śakti is also eternal, and we're not to venture to apply any rulings of this mundane world on that, infinite. The laws that are concerning these finite things, may not be applied in the case of infinite. So, jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3], not finality. That cannot be caught within the fist. It is infinite character. And as much as possible we shall try to assimilate _____ [?] for our own end.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So we cannot aspire...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Being limited we cannot venture to catch the unlimited within our fist. But only what is necessary for our own good we're to discuss, the environment of our own, as much as possible.

acintyāḥ khalu ye bhāvā na tāṁs tarkeṇa yojayet
[prakṛtibhyaḥ paraṁ yacca tad-acintyasya lakṣam]

[Skanda-Purāṇa] [Mahābharata, Bhiṣma Parva, 5.22] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.41, purport]

Acintyāḥ. Everything is not of such characteristic that we human beings we'll finish it, thinking. It is impossible. He's infinite. We must have to admit the superiority and un - understandability of the infinite. Otherwise, why He's infinite? What is the difference between finite and infinite? If finite can know infinite? Only as much as the infinite makes Himself known to the finite, finite can know that much. That is the general law, we must follow that law. As much as infinite makes Himself known to finite, the finite can know so much, not the whole infinite.

The infallible position he acquires. But from taṭasthā, marginal position, if a small approach, then there's possibility of again coming back. From the gate of Vaikuṇṭha may be again reverted, but if enters and to reject, no possibility of coming back. Under the jurisdiction of the central attraction with sufficient degree, then no possibility of coming back. But in the beginning if he commits some offence against some higher Vaiṣṇava then reaction will come, in kaniṣṭha adhikārī. In beginner there is danger and reaction. But as much as he acquires more affinity the less possibility of coming back. _____ [?]

And that also generally temporary, as in the case of Jaya, Vijaya. They were gatekeepers, some which came with the śanta rasa devotees, and for the time being they had to experience some worldly life. Hiraṇyakaśipu, Rāvaṇa, and three births.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja he said that we're eternal servants of Kṛṣṇa. Jīvera svarūpa haya kṛṣṇera nitya-dāsa [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108].

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jīvera svarūpa, that is, from the absolute standpoint his position is such. Mahāprabhu says, Jīvera svarūpa haya kṛṣṇera nitya-dāsa. From the absolute standpoint his position he's as a slave to Kṛṣṇa, servitor.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: So those jīvas who're existing in the taṭasthā śakti, before they come to this material world, what is their position? What do they do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Undetectable, unknowable position, ākṣara, kṣara ākṣara, ākṣara means undetectable. In the plane undetectable position. Individual nature is not to be detected there. Kūṭastho 'kṣara ucyate. Kūṭa means un understandable.

[dvāv imau puruṣau loke, kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca
kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni, kūṭastho 'kṣara ucyate]

["In this world, there are two kinds of souls: the fallible and the infallible. All beings from Lord Brahmā down to the lowest stationary life-forms are known as fallible (as they have deviated from their intrinsic nature). But the personalities who are eternally situated in their divine nature are known as infallible (personal associates of the Lord)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16]

That is ākṣara. In permanent position it is like that. So nirviśeṣa, non differentiated anything, kūṭastho.

And the māyāvādīs say, "That is the highest position, no further."

And the Vaiṣṇavas say, "Crossing that, another type of infinite world full of rasa, worth living, is there." And that is by serving. The plane of exploitation and the plane of dedication, and the connecting marginal position undetectable. Neither this nor that, not to be differentiated and detected. That is taṭ, that is kūṭastho. That is called ākṣara. Neither this nor that, margin.

The conscious part is called Brahman, and this material part is called Virajā. The water and land. Watery side is called Brahman, and the land side called prakṛti, Virajā. Or, water and heat. Watery side is Virajā, and the jīva side is compared rather with the light. The light and water, mixed together. That side is known as Brahman, this side as Virajā.

Buddhists finally enter that Virajā. And the Śaṅkara that light side, undifferentiated.

And the Vaiṣṇava, crossing that non differentiated light side, enters into the zone of light. And finds that their own inner self, a serving unit, of that, another world of dedication, current going towards the centre. Everyone is competing to please the centre, and the harmony, and the beauty, the charm, the love, mercy.

And lower side is calculative devotion, higher side is spontaneous devotion. That is Goloka, and this is Vaikuṇṭha, hemisphere. Something like this. It is indescribable, but still to do something, to attempt to understand and to make others understand. But this is infinite, it cannot be wholly finished. Div-darśana, to say that "this side." This side means long, no limit. Div-darśana, something like this. Not full estimation is possible of the infinite to finite. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, it is said if someone practices too much austerity the heart becomes hard. Is there a process for making the heart soft again?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. To live the austerity for the service. Austerity is not the end in life. _____ [?] Hmm? What was your question?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: How to make the heart soft?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, soft. Mere austerity is not end in life. Rather, we want the opposite, the ānanda, the ecstasy. That is the object of our life. And to get more intense and higher quality of rasa, ecstasy, we sometimes go to practice austerity. We fast for some time, because to relish the food more. Something like that. But too much fasting has no meaning. That will decrease the appetite and dissuade me from relishing the food. So much hunger is necessary, fasting necessary, as much is natural, healthy, to relish food, to take food. So austerity must have some limit. Austerity is not the end in itself. It is necessary to certain extent to control our senses. But we should not undertake so much austerity that will dissuade me, that will hinder me for the service of Kṛṣṇa, to get Him. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As much is necessary, as I gave the example of the fasting. Fasting is necessary so much that I can take food and get strength and do some service. So this is also, austerity to control the senses, but not to lose the strength to serve Kṛṣṇa or Vaiṣṇava. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is healthy austerity. And if we go on with austerity, for what purpose, abnegation for what purpose? Leading to eliminate Kṛṣṇa also and the service of the Vaiṣṇava, that is not tolerable, that is destructive, not any constructive goodness there.

Maximum service to the Kṛṣṇa kāṛṣṇa, Viṣṇu Vaiṣṇava, for which, whatever is necessary I shall do that. This is yukta-vairāgya. Yukta-vairāgya and phālgu-vairāgya, and Gītā recommends yukta-vairāgya. Not too much feeding, nor no feeding. Not too much sleeping, nor less sleeping. Everywhere we must have some temperate habit, and that will help us most to keep us fit for the service of the Lord. Service is all important, and for which, whatever will be necessary we shall accept that.

Austerity cannot be the end in itself, only to control the senses, that much. That the full fed demonic faculties, tendencies, may not come to trespass in the way of my divine service. So those demons should not be fed. And that does not mean that I shall also finish me and no energy will be left to serve Kṛṣṇa and His devotees. Do you follow?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yukta-vairāgya, everything. Nothing is the end in itself. The only end is service of Kṛṣṇa and His devotees. And all other things may be accepted according to its favourable contribution towards the serving life. The knowledge, the austerity, the feeding, and anything else, to be accepted so much as may help me for the best of my devotional life, for the service of Kṛṣṇa. As much as they can help my slavery to Kṛṣṇa, we shall accept them so much. Others we eliminate, I have no concern with anything else. If they come to help me I shall take their help as much as possible as necessary for me.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: ...person, in a more universal conception of Guru.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally take it as a teacher in this mundane world. But there may be gradation, here also may be gradation.

Mahāprabhu took dīkṣā from Īśvara Purī. He took sannyāsa dīkṣā from Keśava Bhāratī when that Īśvara Purī's still living, a sannyāsī. He took sannyāsa from the nearest sannyāsī, Keśava Bhāratī. And again, He showed that if we're to enter into the most private līlā of Kṛṣṇa, we're to take śikṣā instruction in the mādhurya rasa from a sakhī, she friend of Rādhārāṇī. And He took it from Rāmānanda Rāya. He showed, took general dīkṣā from Īśvara Purī. Of course as a brāhmaṇa He had that bathing dīkṣā first. Then next dīkṣā He got, took from Īśvara Purī. A brāhmaṇa dīkṣā in home. Second, dīkṣā from Īśvara Purī. Third, sannyāsa from Keśava Bhāratī. And the fourth, He took from Rāmānanda, that śikṣā, who is well versed in the private dealings of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa with closer she friend of Rādhārāṇī.

[sakhī vinā ei līlā puṣṭa nāhi haya] sakhī līlā vistāriyā, sakhī āsvādaya

["Without the gopīs, these pastimes between Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa cannot be nourished. Only by their cooperation are such pastimes broadcast. It is their business to taste the mellows."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.203]

In His end. Kavi Karṇapūra, a follower devotee of Mahāprabhu, he took exception to Kālidāsa, the great poet. "That he has no idea of the rasa in the subtle way. Because he's addressing Śiva and Pārvatī as father and mother, and describing Their union, that is fighting. One must not discuss or cultivate or bring in his memory and think the union of father and mother. That is against the scientific rules of rasa."

So it is only possible for the she friends of the Predominated Moiety, that is Rādhārāṇī, to mention the rasa. To taste the union in rasa of her she friend, Master, Mistress, and to preach it to the public, to taste and to distribute. It is only the adhikāra, that is the right, the she friends of mādhurya Rādhārāṇī, only they can taste the sweet pastimes of Them Both, and can distribute to others. And no others have entrance there.

So Mahāprabhu went to Rāmānanda who was Viśākhā Sakhī and heard from him. Though He Himself He knew everything, but still He showed.

Kṛṣṇa has no necessity of taking dīkṣā _____ [?] but He went to Sandīpanī Muni, because He's playing the part of a human body, to show us how we should go on. So He went to His Guru and He showed that He was being taught there, got sacred thread. And served the Gurudeva, so much so, by the order of the wife of Gurudeva went to the forest to fetch wood, fuel. All these things are described there. Serving Guru is necessary for the cultivation of the higher spiritual knowledge. So Kṛṣṇa also showed that.

Mahāprabhu also showed that we should go to Guru, with such and such attitude, serve them, and get some instruction in different ways.

_____ [?] But I was told that he will have to be present in Goswāmī Mahārāja's camp, and another party will come during Gaura Pūrṇimā.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Who told that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, I heard in the beginning that they'll come and stay for some time. And they'll go back and some others will come during Gaura Pūrṇimā. Otherwise the work there will suffer. I heard something like that, about them, the other party.

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Well, I don't think Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā has...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Threatening. But the opposition will also be very strong there.

Devotee: Yes. Especially ISKCON is not there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're threatening to do away with you. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: ...Vaiṣṇava university.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Some place, in Navadwīpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Who?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: If Mahā-maṇḍala makes the university then also ISKCON will be surprised, because they've not done it so far. They've not been able to do it, although...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But money is necessary...

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Something is necessary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to back the plan of university. It's good to imagine, but to put that into practice men and money are necessary.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: ISKCON has the money but they've never done it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I proposed university here in this place, in Vidyāvācaspati's and Sārvabhauma's - Sārvabhauma was a great scholar, most famous scholar, and his brother Vidyāvācaspati he was the first Guru of Sanātana Goswāmī. And Vidyānagara that was a famous place of ancient _____ [?] The name still continues, Vidyānagara, the town of learning. _____ [?] ...who was converted by Mahāprabhu in Purī. And that gave a great chance to Mahāprabhu, that Pratāparudra came down, the emperor. Rajaputs [?] came down. Who were very near to Bengal, it was to make like university _____ [?]

But Rāmānanda was taken away by Mahāprabhu. Rāmānanda was a very expert ruler. And when he came to join Mahāprabhu's camp then that kingdom under the whole of Andra Pradesh was independent of Pratāparudra's rule. So the present modern politicians in Orissa they say that Caitanyadeva is the cause of the downfall of the Orissan empire. Rāmānanda was withdrawn. Pratāparudra was converted into prema dharma, did not care so much for the political control of the country, and his empire diminished day by day.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I was reading something in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta, our Guru Mahārāja's book, that a highest devotee does not think himself to be a devotee, and he sees his own body as material.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where did you find it?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: In Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I can't remember the section. In the Madhya-līlā somewhere, I can't remember the section. But he's explaining about sahajiyās, and that the sahajiyā thinks he has a transcendental body. But the pure devotee he thinks his body is material. But the sahajiyā thinks his body is spiritual.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He might foolishly. He foolishly thinks that his body is spiritual. But this body, that is imagination, and that is the product of all evils. With the help of physical senses they'll be able to rise up to Goloka. There was one sakhī, a gentleman, he was dressed in the garb of a lady, and called himself a sakhī. "I'm Lalitā sakhī."

And the Gauḍīya Maṭha was the bitterest enemy. "You fool, where you are, so high, that is Lalitā sakhī, in the spiritual realm. And living in the mundane world if you dress yourself as a lady you'll be a lady? There are so many ladies they can easily imagine they're Lalitā sakhī. What is this? A great distance between the two. Bhūr, Bhuvar, Svar, Mahar, Janar, Tapar, Satya-loka. Then Virajā, Brahmaloka, then Vaikuṇṭha, then Goloka. Different stages of consciousness. You ignore that. You take that down into the mud. You fool, you're be-fooled and you're also abusing so many, being a nuisance to think all these things."

That Hiranyagarbha, that Nadia-nanda and another gentleman, we told him, vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

What is Vaikuṇṭha? That is all conscious. Uncontaminated with the conception of matter. The wholesale spiritual substance, there begins Vaikuṇṭha. Pṛthivy ādi. The earth, the water, the fire, everything is composed of spirit, of consciousness, not anything mundane. And we're to enter that Vaikuṇṭha, then pass Vaikuṇṭha, again to go to Goloka. So higher, deeper position in the spiritual realm, all spiritual. The soil is spiritual, and the tree, everything is spiritual there, all conscious units.

And you venture to say that you're there, your consciousness is there? All spiritual, and the stuff is more valuable than your own body. So you're to pass there. To live there means in the midst of your Gurus, all Gurus of superior quality than the stuff you are made of.

That is subjective, and you are subject, and that is made of super subject than you yourself are. To enter into super subjective realm. You're taṭasthā śakti, you come out of a lower consciousness quality, and that is superior quality of consciousness. You're to enter there, and to move and live there as a slave. Kṛṣṇa dāsa, _____ [?] they can enter there. Get the visa of that land, for the interest of that land only, not for your whims will the visa be issued. When you'll be considered that you want sincerely to serve in that land Kṛṣṇa and the devotees, then visa will be issued to you and you'll be allowed to enter into that super subjective area.

A fool's paradise you're living. It is not such an easy thing, after liberation, after mukti. The abscissa, and then another, the positive world, and dedicating units can enter there, wholesale dedicated. And fool's paradise, I'm Goloka, I'm getting, by imagination I'm taking Rādhārāṇī. The sakhīs, I'm one of them. And with the physical mental concoction you want to enter. The truth is ignored, the fact you're not to receive. This lowest conception of Mahāprabhu's creed, most blasphemy. You're all demons, want to misguide the people about Mahāprabhu's teachings.

Hari. Gaura Hari. Recording, they also recorded. Hiranyagarbha came, and I told, forcibly, and they recorded it.

Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī came to crush those sahajiyās. "It is not so. It is very, very high."

Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Hmm. So the pure devotee sees his body as material? A very high devotee, he sees his own body as a material body?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Not admitted there. They're above matter, but still, in jñāna śūnya bhakti they may think like that. That sort of temperament is supplied by Yogamāyā, ajñāna, in jñāna śūnya bhakti. "I'm worst of the worst." That is aprākṛta. After crossing over Vaikuṇṭha, then that sort of conception comes, aprākṛta. Apparently human, but really spiritual. That is the fifth stage of our existence, according to Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu. After passing the fourth stage, of Vaikuṇṭha, the fifth stage, aprākṛta, that is very similar to this mundane. But really it is spiritual, the form is mundane, fashion is mundane, but really it is spiritual. That is considered to be the highest position, Kṛṣṇa līlā.

[gope-veśa, veṇu-kara nava kiśora, nata-vara, nara līlāra haya anurūpa]

["Lord Kṛṣṇa has many pastimes, of which His pastimes as a human being are the best. His form as a human being is the Supreme Transcendental Form. In this form, He is a cowherd boy. He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

Aprākṛta, similar to mundane but not the same. And these fellows are just the opposite. _____ [?]
Bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya. Brahmāṇḍa means, then 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya
tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana.'

[upajiyā bāḍe latā 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya / 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya
tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana' / 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana]

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

Mathematical calculation is there. What is Virajā, Brahmaloka? The domain of liberation, after mukti. Then positive life begins. The lower part of positive is of awe and reverence and calculation. Then above that is Goloka. There the similar to this mundane but not the same. That plane has been told to be the highest conception and taste of the highest juice personified is possible. Not only that, even parakīya, that not as own husband or own wife, not svakīya, they're not married. But only through love, risking everything what is desirable in ones life, to make its most acute taste it is necessary. So anywhere and everywhere, not to be discussed anywhere and everywhere.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then Akṣayānanda Mahārāja we expect in the afternoon?

Vidagdha-Mādhava: Around four o'clock.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Four o'clock. And our Aranya Mahārāja also, we expected four o'clock train yesterday. But at least today we can expect him, by four. Both of them together. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

82.12.12.C_82.12.14.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where do you come from?

Devotee: _____ [?] Bombay.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bombay? Where?

Devotee: I'm Gujarati.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you live in Bombay? Where?

Devotee: _____ [?]

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...he went to that side and preached Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavism in _____ [?]
You joined Swāmī Mahārāja, or Jayatīrtha Mahārāja? Whom?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. You were disciple of Tamāla Kṛṣṇa?

Devotee: Yeah.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And then he requested you to go to...

...

Nathadvara [?] Goswāmī, of the Vallabha party, he married a Mohammedan dancing girl, and kept her in his house. Then the disciples divided into two sections. One gave opposition, another accepted. "You're Guru whatever you've done." Just as in the case of Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. "He's our Guru, he can do anything and everything."

And there was a case. Another party wanted to remove him from the body, the position, the throne of Ācārya. There was a big case continuing in Bombay High Court. Then, anyhow, he was wandering, searching for money, collection, he reached his pleader, the opposite party pleader. His name was also...

I forget his name... The pleader's name, he was big pleader, advocate, Ragu something. He's opposite, at the same time his wife, she's supporting the Goswāmī. "He's Guru, he can do anything."

Then, myself and Mādhava Mahārāja was Hayagrīva Brahmacārī at that time, then that gentleman, that big advocate, they called his wife to us. "What these sannyāsīns say here?"

Then of course that lady was little, modestly she told that, "Guru is God, so he can do anything and everything. He's Kṛṣṇa."

And we're to tell, and we told, never. If we see him in these filthy affairs we cannot take him as Guru. It is in the śāstra. Guru means only Guru's son is Guru, Guru's disciple is Guru, that is not the case. Guru must have his own symptom. It is mentioned in the śāstra who is Guru, who is disciple. The disciple's characteristic and the Guru's characteristic is there. You're to consult the śāstra and then accept. And there is also mention if some type of Guru he falls down, then he must be given up, for our spiritual benefit.

Then the husband was very much satisfied, and wife mortified, went away.

Raghunātha, Ragupati, or something like, he was, Nathadvara. Half Vallabācārya section, and the Swāmī Nārāyaṇa section. Swāmī Nārāyaṇa, they're after all _____ [?] followers of Rāmānuja, not Śaṅkara?

Devotee: No. He's worshipping Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, anyone may worship, but from different view.

Devotee: He's come from Rāmānanda sampradāya. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: Swāmī Nārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Rāmānanda sampradāya springs from Rāmānuja, but they've got some modified opinion. Tulasī dāsa belongs to Rāmānanda. But their ultimate conception is mukti, liberation, not service divine, but liberation, mumukṣu. To be traced in the Rāmānanda sampradāya. Mukti, salvation, is the highest amongst them. So Swāmī Nārāyaṇa.

I heard more or less that they say they're coming from _____ [?] sampradāya. And Rādhā Swāmī sampradāya is also there in Bombay, Rādhā Swāmī? Another school.

Devotee: Yeah.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Who is that Rādhā Swāmī? He's coming from where?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Rādhā Swāmī School, now divided into two or three sections. Bengal School _____ [?] Ṭhākura. Another, Allahabad School. And Agbar School. And the idea may be said to be, the Agbar School is also divided into two. Anyhow, their contribution is that Rādhārāṇī is the highest entity, and Kṛṣṇa is lower than that. So potency is the highest and the consciousness is lower than that. Potency, positive and negative. Negative side is potency, śakti. And śaktimān, the possessor of potency, is Kṛṣṇa. And the potency in its highest form is Rādhārāṇī. That is the Caitanya conception. But they're the opposite, the potency holds the highest position, and the possessor of the potency is lower. So diabolically opposite. Something like that, I heard from one gentleman.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: And where do they come from? What line of teachers?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Teachings, that was one Rādhā Swāmī. Just as the Jains, just as the Buddhists, so many.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I see. He came on his own?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Came, just as Nanak, founder of the Sikh sampradāya. And they think that saint is the highest position, saint sayings hold the highest position, and not God. The Jains and the Sikhs, so many similar, Buddhists, 'no God,' like Śaṅkara philosophy.

pāśa-baddho bhavej jīvaḥ pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ

There are so many śiva. Liberated souls, they're all holding the position of Śiva, Mahādeva, liberated. Souls that are under the clutches of mundane potency they're jīva, and when they're liberated they're Śiva. There may be so many.

Then I asked one gentleman, so many Śivas are there, innumerable number. What is their mutual relation, and where they live? Any description about them? What is their nature? What is their mutual relation? Where are they all? And is there any principle where they join?

He could not answer.

And here Bhāgavata comes, after liberation, what is the position of those liberated souls, Bhāgavata comes and gives us information. _____ [?] After liberation the real life begins, and that is service.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. So I close here.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... means Brahmo, that Ram Mohan Roy etc. Aurobindo also had Brahmo touch. But Vivekānanda another party, they worship Deities. But that Brahmo they're opposed to Deity worship. "They're idolaters, idol worshippers." But Vivekānanda respected idols. Ramkrishna, Subash Bose, follower of Vivekānanda, he was political leader.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I met one gentleman in Delhi. He's met you once. He's a good scholar. He translated Gītā for Swāmī Mahārāja into Hindi. His name is Rajiv Gupta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He came here.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, once. He wishes to send his praṇāmas, obeisance to you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The other day also, the second time he came to me perhaps. Now he told, "I want work independently. You please bless me." In this way one gentleman came very recently. "That I want to start this campaign, translation into Hindi, independently, without help from ISKCON."

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Oh, that is Niranjan.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, Niranjan, yes.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: I heard that also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And this man is Gupta?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. But this Gupta he has a question for you. He says, "I'm losing my faith in Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Losing?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. He says, "I see that the demons are flourishing, but at the expense of the innocent. What shall I do?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: "The demons are flourishing at the expense of the innocent."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you have so meagre knowledge of history? But Kṛṣṇa Himself has said,

yadā yadā hi dharmasya, glānir bhavati bhārata

abhyutthānam adharmasya, tadātmānaṁ sṛjāmy aham

When it will be most acute, He will feel and He will come down Himself. But it is already foretold that in this iron age this will be such and such. It is already described in the scriptures also. So much acute stage not yet come as described in the scripture, Bhaviṣya-Purāṇa etc. And if you can have real study of Bhagavad-gītā then in the midst of this you'll find a hopeful nectarine infinite of nectar. Only you have to dive deep into the fundamental plane.

Just as if you're in the ocean, if you're on the surface, so many waves will come and hit you. But if you dive deep the waves are passing away from over your head. Those that go to swim in the ocean they've got that experience, that sometimes to avoid the push of the wave they dive deep. So if you dive deep, these very trifle things, these sort of very poor waves are passing superficially, and if you dive deep you'll find you're within a peaceful ocean. Only on the surface, the turbulent ocean only on the surface, not in the depth.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Another person I met, they said, "Your Swāmī Mahārāja has concocted in Bhāgavatam in the story of Banasura there's a fight between Lord Śiva and Lord Kṛṣṇa. We cannot tolerate that there's a fight between Lord Śiva and Lord Kṛṣṇa. Your Swāmī Mahārāja has concocted. This is not Bhāgavatam."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But neither do you know who is Śiva, who is Kṛṣṇa. So the trouble. You're to know who is Śiva. Śiva means which? And Kṛṣṇa means which? By comparative study, not omitting any steps. Step by step you're to understand what is what.

I want to meet those gentlemen. What is nirguṇa and what is in the border and what is in the depth of the real substantial world, that difference we're to understand, what is what. Śiva representing the border of both the worlds, real or unreal, representing the border. Something this side, something that side. That side bhakta, this side the destroyer of the, the punishment dealer of the demons. And also encouraging some of them. Śiva is something like leader of the opposition party. And he's the opposition party leader, nowadays they get some salary from the government side. Some recognition that side, so devotee of the lower state.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

We're to understand clearly by the merit of things, not only formal reproducing capacity. _____ [?] To get by heart, only by the burden of memory.

Devotees: _____ [?]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: We say 'parrot fashion.' _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Artificial memory and proper understanding they're different. We must have proper understanding of the thing, and not an artificial record represented in the memory.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Can we say guru laghu jñāna?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Guru laghu, or small, big, all these differences must be understood substantially, not formally.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. Realisation of the inner substance, the gradation there. We're to come in direct touch of that, not only formal representation as the record keeper. Like a computer without feeling we can represent many things, but computer like understanding.

Aranya Mahārāja: So feelings come through the media of sevā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Ha, ha. And that should we give in this example. When Satī died and Śiva was mad, taking her body on his shoulder he began to dance like a madman throughout the whole country.

And the whole world thought, 'What a dangerous position has come. Śiva has gone mad, putting the body of Satī on his shoulder he's engaged in mad dancing.'

Then, Viṣṇu came to the relief. Unconsciously to Śiva He cut the body into pieces and threw aside.

Suddenly he found, "Nothings on my shoulder." Then the mad dancing subsided gradually.

Then one Vṛkāsura, he got a boon from Śiva. That whose ever head he'll touch, the head of any person, then he'll at once be reduced to ashes.

Then in order to finish his demonic career Nārada intervened and told, "It is impossible. You please go to Mahādeva and say 'I want to verify it, whether your boon is true or it's a bogus one. I want to put my hand on your head.'"

Mahādeva was in danger. What to do? He's running hither and thither. "No, no, don't touch my head."

Then it was referred over to Viṣṇu and He came. And He by His charming figure attracted that demon and began to dance, and the demon also began to imitate in dancing. And Viṣṇu, in the meantime Śiva escaped from the place, and by the course of His dancing He put His own hand on His head, and he also imitated the same and touched by his hand his own head and reduced to ashes. Śiva was saved in the meantime.

_____ [?] Śiva means what is Śiva, Mahādeva? My master of this whole misconceived world. He's the Lord of Māyā. That is, the Lord of the whole misconceived area. He's the master. Just sitting on the verge of this misunderstood world, he's reigning over it. And also Bhāgavatam has said, vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ.

[nimna-gānāṁ yathā gaṅgā, devānām acyuto yathā
vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ, purāṇānām idam tathā]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam,12.13.16]

To get out of this māyāic conception Śiva can help us a great deal. So first conception of Guru is Śiva, Sadāśiva. He's outside māyā. The jīva soul, that is outside māyā, has experience of outside māyā, he's Mahādeva. Then also they say,

pāśa-baddho bhavej jīvaḥ pāśa-muktaḥ sadāśivaḥ

When a soul is in bondage he's jīva, and a soul liberated that is śiva.

[25:12 - 26:00?]

Of course, he's not sick, only idle he'll pass time without joining the function.

Aranya Mahārāja: It's said that Guru is heavier than Himālayas. And he was sitting and looking just like Mount Everest.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's heavy in his position. None can move him from his thought, his present position he's taken already in the universe. He can never be moved from that position where he's taken his stand, can never be moved. The eternal stand he's taken in the conception of the whole absolute universe. He's Guru. Today saying something, tomorrow saying another thing, eternal position he has acquired. Sambandha-jñāna, means what is what, in the absolute system what is what, a final knowledge, though of the infinite direction.

Mahāprabhu told to Rāya Rāmānanda, when Rāmānanda told, "You have come to rescue this fallen soul. And now You play hide and seek with me my Lord."
"No, no, Rāmānanda, I'm defeated. I feel consumed by the force of your devotion. You can know anything and everything. I'm really such and such. You see it."

Bhakti bali para timitri janite [?]

rāya kahe, — prabhu tumi chāḍa bhāri-bhūri [mora āge nija-rūpa nā kariha curi]

[Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "My dear Lord, please give up all these serious talks. Please do not conceal Your real form from me."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.278]

"I'm not to be deceived by You. I won't be deceived. You are hiding Yourself, Your proper self, before me, can't do."

Then Mahāprabhu accepted defeat. "Yes, you can know by dint of your devotion anything and everything. You have caught Me. Yes, you see what I am."

So Mahāprabhu had to, was compelled to show His inner nature, who He is properly.

[tabe hāsi' tāṅre prabhu dekhāila svarūpa] 'rasa-rāja', 'mahābhāva' — dui eka rūpa

["Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the reservoir of all pleasure, and Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is the personification of ecstatic love of Godhead. These two forms had combined as one in Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. This being the case, Lord Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu revealed His real form to Rāmānanda Rāya."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.282]

"Both the positive and the negative joined together, I'm such and such. Influenced by the mood of the negative I'm the positive."

sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana, bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa

["Ecstasy personified is Kṛṣṇa Himself, and He feels, tastes and enjoys Himself; but only through faith is it possible to transmit and distribute that ecstasy and joy to others. Faith is the very nature of the hlādinī-śakti, the ecstasy potency, which is represented in full by Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. It can transmit total Kṛṣṇa consciousness to the devotees outside. Faith is the halo of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, by the light of which others may understand Kṛṣṇa. When the negative combines with the positive, realisation of Their function is distributed to all other negative parts."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

Kṛṣṇa is ecstasy Himself. The hlādinī's duty is to draw that ecstatic bliss from Him and to throw it outside, to bring it from the inner zone to attract. And in that transaction that is thrown outside and others taste that. The function of the negative is such, bestows the gist of positive, by His intrinsic attractive nature. And He, or She, tastes Themselves, and throws to the public. And others of same type they also take taste of that and become mad. How higher order of ecstasy may be possible in this world? Higher type of nectar, how, what degree of nectarine juices can exist in this world?

As if the god of death has caught you by your hair, and he'll take you out from the present position in a second. It is like that. With this much earnestness you engage yourself in the enquiry of the supreme truth. Save yourself from the world of misconception with such urgency.

And Śaṅkarācārya also says, "If one feels that there is fire on his head, what should he do? Run at once to the nearest tank and jump there, then fire will be quenched."

With such urgency we must take to this study of Vedānta. That this is all false. I'm in the land of enemy. All are enjoying, anomaly, enemy. Must jump to get out of the land of enemy, māyā, misconception. In every way the misconception is always capturing you, by slow poisoning, you are of the position. The external potencies trying to make you captive by intensive force every second. You're in the midst of that. Anyhow by the grace of God unknown you have got the clue to take the advantage without any delay. That sort of warning is given by the guardians of the truth.

And His force also sometimes comes even to take shape of a battle, as in Kurukṣetra. That is the outer push of the wave, apparently which is seen to be very cruel and rough. Only to crush those provincial conceptions of goodness, local conceptions, provincial conceptions, they come to clash with that universal flow, and they must be crushed, cannot stand. Only on the surface for the time being. As long as we do not interfere that can anyhow drag on. That is māyā, that misconception, local conception, conception of provincial interest, selfish, crooked, meagre, narrow. And this is universal.

go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī-vitaṁ brahma

["To whom can I tell it, and whoever will believe it, that the Supreme Absolute, Param Brahman, the Paramour of the damsels of Vraja, is enjoying in the groves on the banks of the Yamunā?"]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.98]

He began his lecture with this śloka, with the quotation of this śloka. And the very beginning, well began, half done. Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī began to laugh, "Ho, ho, ho." Simply hearing this beginning with this śloka. Raghupati Upādhyāya, he's chanting this śloka to Mahāprabhu. Kam prati kathayitum īśe. "To whom should I say, I speak out my innermost feeling? I wonder simply, simply I wonder. And who will come to hear this madman's delirium? I can't find who will come to attend this delirious statement of mine." Kam prati kathayitum, ko vā pratītim āyātu, go-pati-tanayā-kuñje, gopa-vadhūṭī. "That the Absolute has no other engagement, He has come down here to play with the damsels, the girls, of this half fed, half civilised jungle girls. Param Brahman. Is it to be realised, relied upon? Who will believe this? I don't find anyone. That Param Brahman has come down to play with these simple and stupid, half civilised jungle girls of Vṛndāvana. Who will come to believe?"

Kam prati kathayitum īśe, samprati ko vā pratītim āyātu. "Who will come to believe that [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta] Swāmī Mahārāja has done such a tremendous, most astounding work in the West." He began with this introduction, this śloka.

And Govinda Mahārāja told ultimate, and you also told there, whether tape is there I do not know. He told that, "Prabhupāda [Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī] has many stalwart disciples, but his special favour was to Swāmī Mahārāja for this grand propagation in the West. And from my childhood I came in connection with Swāmī Mahārāja, by my fortune, and he treated me as his own child, own son, child. And also I heard, I saw, that he came to discuss about Gītā and other śāstra with my Gurudeva [Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja], and I saw him to behave with my Gurudeva as śikṣā-guru." That was what he told in that lecture.

And Swāmī Mahārāja in his turn, he also clearly accepted those things. "Yes, what Govinda Mahārāja has said, I treated him as my son. Still, I like him, I have my affection towards him. And it also true that I took Śrīdhara Mahārāja as my śikṣā-guru. And he's, "Oṁ viṣṇupāda," in this way he gave that. Whether it is taped or not I do not know.

Devotee: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You may find that, if still living. Bhāvānanda was there, and who else? Delivered lectures. And Kṛṣṇadāsa Bābājī, Paramahaṁsa Mahārāja, and who else, Nimāi perhaps? Then we took prasādam there along sitting together. Mādhava's mother, some others. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Premadhāma-deva-stotra _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nimāi. He has that Premadhāma-deva-stotra duty?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And also I have got some engagement. Yājāvara Mahārāja is going today.
_____ [?] One or two questions I shall answer. Any question?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Previously you have told, I'll just trouble you once, this,

gurur na sa syāt sva jano na sa syāt, [pitā na sa syāj jananī na sā syāt
daivaṁ na tat syān na patiś ca sa syān, na mocayed yaḥ samupeta mṛtyum]

["Even a spiritual master, relative, parent, husband, or demigod who cannot save us from repeated birth and death should be abandoned at once."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.5.18]

For each example, for Guru or Śukrācārya, sva jano?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śukrācārya. Sva jano - Vibhisana. Sva jano na sa syāt, pitā na sa syāj - Hiraṇyakaśipu. Vibhisana means Rāvana. And the pitā - Bhārata, jananī na tat, Bhārata. Then daivaṁ - Khaṭvāṅga Raja. And patiś - yajña patnis. And guru, this Bali.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Śukrācārya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śukrācārya was the guru, and given up by Bali.

Aranya Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, in that letter yesterday by Nagendra, he had some questions about the topic of Guru. So he...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhyama-adhikāra Guru, Guru is always in madhyama-adhikāra because in madhyama-adhikāra both māyā and māyā-tīta, both in contact. Uttama-adhikāra is fully engaged in Yogamāyā and not in Mahāmāyā. So uttama-adhikāra Guru if he comes from there, by Kṛṣṇa's will, he comes in touch with Mahāmāyā, then the necessity of the function of Guru arises.

[Loud explosions from fireworks near the Maṭha are heard]

The police are leaving the position today, from this, they have taken their position here in our building and the bombs are beginning.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, starting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're leaving today, and the bombs are beginning. What is that what I began?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Madhyama, uttama, by Kṛṣṇa's grace, as a madhyama.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, by Kṛṣṇa's special influence he's to come here and to see māyā and then to advise, "Give up māyā." In this way. And the madhyama-adhikārī he can see, as I told, three kinds, two feet here and looking at the Vaikuṇṭha and trying to take others along with him. And one foot here and one foot there and carrying. And uttama-adhikārī, from there, one foot here and taking away, in this way. So madhyama-adhikārī is Guru and he's fallible, so Guru tyāga is possible in that case and that is the most undesirable thing ever found in one's fate. If it happens, the most undesirable thing, then we're to face that disaster. And what should be the direction in that case, that also given in various places, how to go on in that position.

And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura in Harināma-cintāmani he has mentioned it, how to deal with it. At that time there was a caste position. But śikṣā-guru is there, śikṣā-guru, dīkṣā-guru and śikṣā-guru. Sometimes it may seem that dīkṣā-guru is genuine but not well-versed in scriptural advise. In that case to understand scriptural instructions śikṣā-guru is necessary, and his help. Not to differentiate much from dīkṣā-guru and śikṣā-guru. And especially ours is the list of guru-paramparā, all śikṣā-guru line, not dīkṣā-guru line, śikṣā-guru, the substantial line, not formal. Form is rather neglected and the substance has been given very much importance in our lineage of śikṣā-guru. We prefer that, we want substance, not much form. But form is also there, and that should also be respected. If form and substance are together then that is very good, otherwise substance will have, spirit will have to be given preference, not the form.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura came in the line of that sahajiyā section almost, Vipina-vihārī Goswāmī. But we do not take him in our guru-paramparā, because he was more of brāhmaṇa and Yati Goswāmī spirit. He told openly, that, "I can bless [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī," which is impossible, like a madman's statement. So that brāhmaṇic, the pride if this flesh and blood, we don't tolerate.

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro
nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarine ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

This comes direct from Mahāprabhu, this śloka. "Neither I am a brāhmaṇa, nor a kṣatriya, nor a vaiśya or śūdra. Neither I am a brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, or sannyāsī. But I am the servant of the servant of the servant of that great illustrious sweetness personified, Kṛṣṇa."

So we're to follow that spirit and not making so much of the form. That is our line. Cash dealing, and not by cheque, ha, ha, ha.

Aranya Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. So then another question that he had is, "In Caitanya-caritāmṛta, or Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, are any of the Gurus who are mentioned there, described, are they of madhyama-adhikārī nature?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In particular cases. One case we find, that is of course a different type, very rare type. The Śyāmānanda Prabhu first initiated by Sāraṅga Murāri in the sākhya-rasa. Then by some miraculous interference from above, he was transformed into the mādhurya-rasa, and took initiation again from Jīva Goswāmī. That is a very, very peculiar case. And generally, so many that were followers of this physical lineage, they left everything and joined Mahāprabhu's movement and took initiation from the Vaiṣṇavas.

Yadhu-nandana Ācārya, he was the family Guru of [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī, he took initiation from there. But Mahāprabhu gave him Svarūpa Dāmodara, and get advice from there, from Mahāprabhu, then to Rūpa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī. And he says, "These are all my Guru, all Guru." But his most intensified adherence we find to Rūpa, Sanātana. But his family Guru was Yadhu-nandana Ācārya. He says, explaining his confidence, gurau goṣṭhe goṣṭhālayiṣu sujane bhūsuragane - brāhmaṇas. Goṣṭhālayiṣu sujane - Vaiṣṇava*. Svamantre śrī-nāmni vraja-nava-yuva-dvandva-śaraṇe*. All these, he's, "My śraddhā, let my regard be intact in all these."

[gurau goṣṭhe goṣṭhālayiṣu sujane bhūsuragane svamantre śrī-nāmni vraja-nava-yuva-dvandva-śaraṇe sadā dambhaṁ hitvā kuru ratim apūrvām atitarā maye svāntarbhrātaś caṭubhir abhiyāce dhṛta-padaḥ]

["O mind - my brother! I fall at your feet and implore you: 'Give up all pride and always taste ecstatic love while remembering the divine guide, the holy abode of Vṛndāvana, the cowherds and milkmaids of Vraja, the loving devotees of the Supreme Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the gods on earth or pure brāhmaṇas, the Gāyatrī mantra, the holy Names of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and the divine youthful couple of Vraja, Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govinda- sundara."] [Manaḥ-Śikṣā]

Then:

nāma-śreṣṭhaṁ manum api śacī-putram atra svarūpaṁ rūpaṁ tasyāgrajam uru-purīṁ māthurīṁ goṣṭavāṭīm rādhā-kuṇḍaṁ giri-varam aho rādhikā-mādhavāśāṁ prāpto yasya prathita-kṛpayā śrī guruṁ taṁ nato 'smi

[Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī prays: "I only aspire after one thing. I cherish the hope that one day I may be welcomed into the plane where Rādhikā and Mādhava are in Their glory, sitting and playing." That should be our prospect. This is found in Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's prayer to his Guru.]

[More loud bangs of fireworks from outside the Maṭh.]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. What is this?

Devotee: Madness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only show, or doing any damage? Those bombers we are told a party who were living has possession in these secuny [?] plots here, and they're driven by another party. Now they want to come here again to take possession of their old plots. That is the cause of the bombardment cursing.

Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare.

These questions are dealt with many times before.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari bol!
Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Aranya Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja, then there's one other question. He said, "Is there any instance of a madhyama-adhikārī Guru falling down, in the history of the Bhāgavatam or Caitanya-caritāmṛta?"

[Fifty seconds silence]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We don't find. In the case of Śukrācārya, Bali Mahārāja left him, disregarded him. But Śukrācārya was in his standard as he was the Guru of the demons, but he could not satisfy Bali Rāja. That we find, Bali Rāja. So, that cannot be considered as a fall from his position, but he was there, but his guidance could not satisfy Bali Rāja. He had his previous acquired sukṛti and devotion, so much, but crossing his Guru he had to take steps against his Guru. That's what we find.

And also, in Prahlāda's case, of course no Guru is found. He was sent by Hiraṇyakaśipu as a student to the sons of Śukrācārya, but he did not submit there. Formally he was taking the Vedic education, but in his heart he was sufficiently rich. And one day he began to take the class himself, without caring for his guru. That guru also Veda guru.

And also, Jīva Goswāmī has given that instance, you know, Bhiṣma he gave up Paraśurāma, something like that. Paraśurāma was the Guru of Bhiṣma in astra-śikṣā, Dhanur-Veda. But Dhanur-Veda is also included in Veda. Atharva-Veda, Dhanur-Veda, Āyurveda, Dhanur-Veda included in Atharva-Veda.

So Jīva Goswāmī said that there is his Veda Guru in the Vedic style, Bhiṣma had to learn those fighting tactics and weapon applications from Paraśurāma. And when Paraśurāma asked Bhiṣma to do something, to marry a girl, that girl to control Bhiṣma, she sought help of Paraśurāma, and Paraśurāma recommended Bhiṣma to marry the girl.

Bhiṣma told, "No, I have already promised that I won't marry."

But Paraśurāma pressed, "That where will this girl go? You have forcibly taken her up from her father's house for some person. But you now are rejecting her, so you will have to marry yourself. Otherwise her future will be spoiled."

He gave some pressure but Bhiṣma did not submit.

Then Paraśurāma told, "I shall teach you a lesson." The fight began in Kurukṣetra. Bhiṣma and Paraśurāma - Guru and śiṣya. And Bhiṣma at that time told,

guror apy avaliptasya, kāryākāryam ajānataḥ
utpatha-prathipannasya, parityāgo vidhīyate

["A Guru who is addicted to sensual pleasure and polluted by vice, who is ignorant and who has no power to discriminate between right and wrong, or who is not on the path of śuddha-bhakti must be abandoned."] [Mahābhārāta, Ūdyoga-parva, 179.25]

The Guru who crosses his boundary and his position and whimsically takes any step, then he must be given up. That has been taken as instance, as precedence in the Purāṇa by Jīva Goswāmī for Guru tyāga. If Guru comes to such a position, crosses the general courtesy and rulings of the śāstra, then he should be abandoned. That is one instance. Another just now came in my mind and I forget. This is Paraśurāma's case, Bhiṣma.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Avaiṣṇavopadiṣṭena.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

avaiṣṇavopadiṣṭena mantreṇa niryaṁ vrajet punaś ca vidhinā samyag grāhayed vaiṣṇavād guroḥ

["One who accepts the mantra from a Guru who is a non-devotee or is addicted to sensual pleasure with women is doomed to a life in hell. Such a person must immediately approach a genuine Vaiṣṇava Guru and again accept the mantra from him."] [Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa, 4.366]

That is another question, that he took mantram from avaiṣṇava, and when he finds a Vaiṣṇava Guru he leaves that māyāvādā and other things and comes to the fold of the Vaiṣṇava. That is mentioned there, avaiṣṇava. Formal Guru, the family Guru, that must be abandoned for the acceptance of a real Guru of the spiritual order.

In Mahābharata in one place it is mentioned by the lips of Aśvatthāmā. Satrau rupi gunava ca dosa vaca guro rupi [?] Satrau. If one is enemy, if he has got any good quality, that must be spoken out, praised. And dosa vaca guro rupi, if Guru is faulty, then his fault also should be given publicity. What is right, that must be followed, no respect of any person against the truth. It is in Mahābhārāta, Vidag [?] parva.

Madhvācārya took sannyāsa from Acyutaprakāśa, sannyāsa Guru. Then he saw Vedavyāsa and came away, returned home, and his sannyāsa Guru was converted into his disciple. Acyutaprakāśa, he became Padmanābha. Who was the sannyāsa Guru of Madhvācārya, he became disciple of his sannyāsa śiṣya, Madhvācārya. Acyutaprakāśa became Padmanābha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Brahmanya Tīrtha and Mādhvendra Purī were Godbrothers? In the Madhva line before Mādhvendra Purī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmanya Tīrtha?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, perhaps.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where do you find his name, Brahmanya Tīrtha? Śrī Madhva, Śrī Padmanābha, Śrī Mañjarī Madhavan.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: No, not Brahmanya Tīrtha, a mistake, that Lakṣmī Tīrtha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, Akṣobhya Jayatīrtha Śrī. jñānasindhu tore. tāhā hoite dayānidhi, tāra dāsa vidyānidhi. vyāsatīrtha tāra dāsa, lakṣmīpati vyāsa-dāsa, tāhā ha'te mādhavendra purī.
[From Śrī Guru-paramparā, by Śrīla Bhaktisiddhanta Saraswatī Ṭhākura]

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Lakṣmī Tīrtha, Lakṣmīpati.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lakṣmī, vyāsatīrtha tāra dāsa, lakṣmīpati vyāsa-dāsa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: My mistake. Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vyāsatīrtha's disciple was Lakṣmīpati.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tāhā ha'te mādhavendra purī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: But we find somewhere that Lakṣmīpati and Mādhvendra Purī were Godbrothers. Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Lakṣmīpati vyāsa-dāsa, tāhā ha'te mādhavendra purī. Lakṣmīpati was Guru to Mādhvendra, it is mentioned there in that way. But if another Brahmanya Tīrtha who was a disciple of Lakṣmīpati, he may be Godbrother. But Lakṣmīpati was the Guru of Mādhvendra Purī, Lakṣmīpati Tīrtha. Guru means not sannyāsa Guru, because in Madhvācārya sampradayā no Purī, all Tīrtha. But like Mahāprabhu, Mādhvendra took sannyāsa from some māyāvādī sannyāsī. But his Guru was Lakṣmīpati.

And Mahāprabhu did some peculiar thing. Īśvara Purī sannyāsī, he was living, but He took sannyāsa from Keśava Bhāratī, though Īśvara Purī is still living there. But He was wandering and His sannyāsa was urgent, He found anywhere He took. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Then I found that Nityānanda Prabhu took initiation from...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhvendra Purī.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Mādhvendra Purī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Advaita Prabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, Īśvara Purī - They're Godbrothers as from Mādhvendra Purī They took dīkṣā.

...guṇa-viśiṣṭha - the All Attractive.

...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: ...Bhāgavata verse, he accommodated both the jñānīs and yogīs goals of Brahma and Paramātmā respectively, showing how they are included within the Supreme Personality of Godhead Bhagavān, Who, as the ultimate non-dual substance, is the supreme origin and essence of all relationships.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, Bhagavān?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Who, as the ultimate non-dual substance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Conception of Absolute?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then? Next. Developed first plane, first in the argument in the first plane, and the next plane developing.

...

Must have to accommodate all these different stages from higher to higher. In this way He gave clear hints to the assembly of the māyāvādī paṇḍitas.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: By disclosing the most confidential, blissful pastimes, the Lord hinted that it must be concluded that the Supreme Absolute Truth appears as the son of Nanda Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The conclusion must have to go to that direction, in this way.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Not a final conclusion but for this argument only.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In such conclusion, and the next conclusion we'll have to reach in this way, that the highest conclusion cannot but come to such stage if we want to say that He's the combination of all rasas. The necessity of these revealed words cannot but take to that direction, to be the highest. To establish the position of the Absolute in Bhagavān, or Nārāyaṇa, then next He took the course of going into deeper and deepest conception of the Absolute in vātsalya and mādhurya-rasa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: By disclosing the most confidential blissful pastimes, the Lord hinted that it must be herein concluded that the Supreme Absolute Truth appears as the son of Nanda Mahārāja in order to fulfil the necessity of transcendental loving service in the mood of...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As son of Nanda Mahārāja.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, yes. Appears as the son of Nanda Mahārāja, Nanda-nandana, in order to fulfil the necessity of transcendental loving...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nanda Mahārāja, that is going to history, moving towards the historical side.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ah. That we have given as a translation of Nanda-nandana, son of Nanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As Nanda, representing son of Nanda.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: In order to fulfil the necessity of transcendental loving service in the mood of parenthood.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Another thing also to be considered, as we heard from Prabhupāda, the sonhood of Godhead. Have you mentioned it here?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Parenthood, other way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not parent, sonhood, sonhood means in the centre. Not fatherhood, sonhood. Sonhood, Nanda-nandana, the sonhood coming in the centre. And consorthood, sonhood and consorthood. If you like you can explain in that way. Sonhood and consorthood in this abstract way you may advance. He took from Nārāyaṇa the masterhood, the Prabhuhood, from there to sonhood, and from there to consorthood. Within brackets you may replace sonhood with consorthood.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: By disclosing the most confidential, blissful pastimes, the Lord hinted... By this verse: brahmeti paramātmeti, etc.

["Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this non-dual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11]

By this verse He accommodated both the jñānīs and yogīs apparent, ultimate goals of Brahman and Paramātmā, showing how they are included within the Supreme Personality of Godhead Bhagavān.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The conception of Brahman and Paramātmā, how it is included in the conception of Bhagavān. And again, the conception of Bhagavān, how it is included into Nanda-nandana, and how that conception real included there.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. Yes, as progress. We'll indicate that within.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More comprehensive, accommodating, how this is accommodated there, again this is accommodated there, how the development, the comprehension, comprehensiveness, in this way.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Step by step progress.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the sonhood and consorthood. Exactly fatherhood, Bhavavān, Nārāyaṇa, but something like fatherhood, near there. You may not mention, but Nanda-nandana, vātsalya-rasa, the centre of vātsalya-rasa affection, and that centre, mādhurya-rasa, consorthood. _____ [?]

They're showing the path, they go this way. The Kṛṣṇa, Svayaṁ-Bhavavān, Vṛndāvana, rasa-līlā, gopīs, all in this side. If you want that you'll have to go this side. And that only showing the path, the Veda.

Devotee: Not explanation.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Hinting, hinting.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, these high things, not to take them there on the hand and show it like a sweetmeat. This side, vague, mysterious way, but this side. The language will be such, ontological, in the assembly of the māyāvādīs, "You will have to go this side. This is not unreasonable. After this, after this, you will have to go this side."

Śrutibhir vimṛgyām [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61] Ānusandhān. Kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Not Kṛṣṇa within the hand, not within the fist, that characteristic should be maintained.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja says be made apart, must not be very clear, but it should be...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very clear, that will come within sahajiyāism.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Devotee: It may not appear as...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Understood.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Mahārāja says you very clear do, but you cannot very clear.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Understood.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: The general direction but not specific.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: You try to do clear, but you cannot do clear, this is the nature of this thing.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Understood.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: You try no doubt, but you cannot do.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you go to finish it will be māyā.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. We can't explain it. We can only indicate.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The infinite characteristic you are to maintain.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes Mahārāja.

...

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Everything here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The ontological and mysticism, that must be based always.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Desirable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "And this side it is going, you can't resist, it is going this side, you can't resist it, you māyāvādīs, you can't stop it here. But it must have to go, although you won't allow, the outlet this side it is going, the development in theism cannot but go this side. He's giving hint for you all."

In this way Mahāprabhu's doing.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: ...doing Vaiṣṇava aparādha, but foreign people no scope of Vaiṣṇava aparādha.

Aranya Mahārāja: Give them chance.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: There is no Vaiṣṇavaism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No misconception, but they're open, open to truth, whatever it may be, unprejudiced hearing. And there, they're got some prejudice, prepossessed that, "This is Vaiṣṇavaism, Oh, this bābājī, mataji, Oh, go away." In general in this way.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: ...was a great sinner, but not Vaiṣṇava aparādha. That is Jagāi, Mādhāi.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: He hit Nityanānanda. That is not Vaiṣṇava aparādha?

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. No. Nityanānanda Prabhu, that is the līlā final, that time finalised.

Parthāmṛta: So the Vedas were written by Śrīla Vyāsadeva and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vedas were not written by Vyāsadeva, is compiled by him.

Parthāmṛta: Hmm, right, yes, but he has divided the Vedas into four.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Parthāmṛta: So does he do this in every Kali-yuga? Every Kali-yuga, is there an incarnation of Vyāsa that divides the Vedas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Aranya Mahārāja: He's asking does Vyāsadeva appear in every Kali-yuga, and does he divide the Vedas into four sections?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Dvāpara-yuga, not Kali, they leaves the whole yuga. Pitur dvaipāyanād, adhītavān dvāparādau.

[idaṁ bhāgavataṁ nāma, purāṇaṁ brahma-sammitam
adhītavān dvāparādau, pitur dvaipāyanād aham]

["At the end of Dvāpara-yuga, I studied this Mahā-Purāṇa Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam from my father, Śrī Kṛṣṇa-Dvaipāyana Vyāsa. I conceive that to be the highest standard of education and you are the fittest man to receive it. Therefore I shall deliver it to you."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.8]

Śukadeva says, "Oh Parīkṣit Mahārāja, you're a bona fide listener, so I shall tell to you that great Purāṇa, Bhāgavatam, which I read from my dear beloved father before. Before Kali, that is in Dvāpara, dvāparādau. Adhītavān dvāparādau, pitur dvaipāyanād aham. The last point of Dvāpara-yuga, I read it from my father, I got it. And that great theistic conception carrier Bhāgavatam, I shall offer to you. You're a very bona fide and good disciple, listener, receiver, recipient. You can understand, and you can accept, you can utilise, you can practice those high teachings. So you're the fittest person for giving that sort of high standard of knowledge, ever considered or conceived for the human section."

"You are a great, qualified receiver of revealed truth of Bhāgavatam. So I shall deliver it here to you now."

Parthāmṛta: Mahārāja, the Vedas are non different from Kṛṣṇa. Why do they contain mostly ritualistic, karma-kāṇḍa writings instead of the direct...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Aranya Mahārāja: He says, "If the Vedas are the personification of Kṛṣṇa, then why do they contain so many karma-kāṇḍa, or fruitive activities in them?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as in a man there is this nail, this hair, something like. That is because there is māyā accommodated in Kṛṣṇa, He's advaya-jñāna, all unifying principle, so everything will have some place with Him, direct or indirect. And also mixed, direct indirect means taṭasthā. But because there is misconception, and to bring one from misconception to proper conception, some midway steps necessary. So, they're engaged in full exploitation, then exploitation must be decreased, and gradually renunciation, and then to come to devotion. In this way, step by step. You're already in the mud, to take you out of the mud you will have to come a certain portion through the mud, then you can come to the earth solid. Do you follow? Loke vyavāyāmiṣa, nityastu jantor. You're already there in the mud, and if I'm to rescue you, you're to take some paces at least through the mud, and then again this side.

["The conditioned souls are naturally inclined to have sex, eat meat, and drink wine. There is no need for the scripture to encourage these things. The scriptures do, however, give concessions to people who are determined to do these things. The scriptures therefore grant a license to enjoy sex by allowing sexual intercourse with one's lawful wedded wife at the proper time of the month. They grant a license to eat meat to those who perform a certain type of sacrifice, and a license to drink wine to those who perform the Sautramaṇi sacrifice. The purpose of granting these licenses for sense gratification is only to restrict these activities and encourage people to give them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat eating, and wine drinking is to make a person abstain from these activities."]

The Veda does not say that do this, but because you are in the midst, some modified method to be found, and then through the gradual process you are to take in on the higher plane. Step by step. Suppose one is taking intoxication, if he's to be taken out, if you stop wholesale, then there will be great reaction. By minimising the measure, the quantity, you're gradually, smoothly taking him away, in this way.

Parthāmṛta: Also Mahārāja, what level are the Upaniṣads on in comparison to the Vedas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Upaniṣads is nearer approach towards consciousness. From gross exploitation it is taking towards renunciation of the exploitation, and it suits there. And containing in a very small way within that what is dedication, in a suppressed way. It is the higher portion of the Veda.

["There are those in the world who regulate their tendency for exploitation in accordance with the scriptural rules and thereby seek gradual elevation to the spiritual domain. However, superior to them are those wise men who, having given up the tendency to lord over others, attempt to dive deep into the realm of consciousness. But far superior to them are the pure devotees who are free from any mundane ambitions and are liberated from knowledge, not by knowledge, having achieved divine love. They have gained entrance into the land of dedication and are engaged there spontaneously in the Lord's loving service. Among all devotees, however, the gopīs are the highest, for they have forsaken everyone, including their families, and everything, including the strictures of the Vedas, and have taken complete shelter at the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, accepting Him as their only protection. But among all the gopīs, Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī reigns supreme. For Kṛṣṇa left the company of millions of gopīs during the rasa dance to search for Her alone. She is so dear to Śrī Kṛṣṇa that the pond in which She bathes is His very favourite place. Who but a madman would not aspire to render service, under the shelter of superior devotees, in that most exalted of all holy places."]

The jñānīs, the speculationists, those that are dealing with knowledge, they hold better positions than those that are engrossed in deep karma-kāṇḍa, that is, engaged in the exploitation. Then, from the exploitation, a little better, is jñāna, knowledge, cetana. From being absorbed in matter, material acquisition, and then a little indifference to material acquisition because they're all mortal. Then, going up towards knowledge proper to enquire what is what. In this way they're leaving the intense engagement into the material transaction, and seeks after something more dealing with consciousness, with knowledge, jñāna. Then, they may get, generally comes to renunciation. And by the grace of the agents of the divine world, or the transcendental world of devotion, they collect something, or know something of the positive world and collects sukṛti, and then begin their enquiry into the world of dedication. Passing through the line of renunciation they enter into the land of dedication, in this way.

The knowledge that consciousness is better than matter. Material engagement is lower than conscious engagement. Consciousness means some search, and not satisfied with the material exploitation, or energy, searching something, what is what. Concentrating into the world of consciousness, that is searching, learning. And then they can have a chance of coming in contact with what is dedication. There is another plane where we can live with the spirit of dedication.

That is bhakti. Only by worship, only by loving sacrifice, we can have a life proper. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

[sarvopādhi-vinirmuktaṁ, tat paratvena nirmalam

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 1.10]

That is, working for the centre, not for my own interest, not for individual interest, but for the interest of the universal whole, represented by the Prime Cause, the Absolute, and Absolute Good. We come to understand that Absolute Good is the main centre and we must work for Him. And that is the best thing. Before that, withdrawal from this nasty, selfish attempt of reactionary nature we're entangled in.

In this way the development in our life we can understand, we can follow, we can achieve. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Parthāmṛta: Guru Mahārāja, can you explain Nārada's instructions to Vyāsa. He says, jugupsitaṁ dharmma-kṛte 'nuśāsataḥ, [svabhāva-raktasya mahān vyatikramaḥ yad vākyato dharmma itītaraḥ sthito, na manyate tasya nivāraṇaṁ janaḥ]

["You have committed a great wrong. In your injunctions of religious duty for the masses, you have sanctioned condemnable worldly works for fulfilment of mundane desires. The masses are already by nature attached to condemnable worldly works for fulfilment of mundane desires. It is a great wrong because the worldly masses will conclude that your messages alone are the central religious duty. Even if they are taught by other knowers of the truth to refrain from those worldly works, they will not accept those teachings, or, they will not be able to understand them for themselves."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.15]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. He told that: "So long you have dealt with the Vedic mantram only giving your recommendation how to get out of the world of exploitation and come to a liberated stage, that mukti. But after mukti there is real life, life proper is after liberation. You have not mentioned in details, or in a very charming way about that, so you have done a great disaster to the ordinary public. Mere renunciation has got no value, mere liberation has got no value. Because that is only to be absorbed in the abscissa and not having any positive life. But there is immense prospect in the positive life and the whole thing you have not mentioned as if at all, a very meagre mention, that one can neglect easily. A negligible mention in Bhagavad- gītā, here, there, a negligible mention. But not an elaborate life of high devotional prospect you have given to the public as yet. So you have done diabolically wrong."

Jugupsitaṁ. "What you have done, that is condemnable." Devarṣi Nārada says to Vyāsa. Why? "You have not given any form of positive life, the conception, and hope, and prospect of positive life you have not hitherto given to the people. Only withdrawal from the negative side have you dealt with in details and no mention of the positive thing. So you have done a great mischief to the people. Because if anyone afterwards comes with this fresh news, 'there is a positive life,' the people won't believe it.

"Oh, do you know more that Vedavyāsa who has given an ocean of scriptural books? So many advises in different ways he has been distributed to the world. Do you know more than him? I won't care for you, I reject you, I won't hear you at all."

So, you, Vedavyāsa, you will have to give that very same thing, that there is positive life, and that is by dedication to the Absolute Good. That is real life. And that is beautiful and very happy life, very pure, happy, and beautiful life. And you have omitted that almost, so have done great mischief to the world. Because none will believe if anyone ventures to give it to the people, so you have done wrong. Now I have come to correct. You will have to give it now, as the very sandhāna, the very clue, and to give some real description of that high, transcendental, dedicated life. You are to give it to the people. So I have come to you. And after giving so much to the people you don't find peace in your heart, and this is the cause. And I have come to remove that non-peaceful character in your mind, to give you peace. And if you engage yourself in such divine service you will be peaceful again."

That is the talk there.

Gaura Hari bol! Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Mahārāja, can you say that the original Vedas, they don't contain much information about Kṛṣṇa or His pastimes...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as a tree is not found to contain the fruit, gradual, after development, outcome is fruit. Veda āvṛta, Vedānta puṣpa, and Bhāgavata phalam.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Can you say though that that is because this knowledge of Kṛṣṇa was common knowledge in the beginning of Satya-yuga, and there was no necessity to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Can you say that the knowledge of Kṛṣṇa was common in the Satya-yuga, common knowledge?

Aranya Mahārāja: Commonly known to the people in general?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Commonly known? No. So,

kṛtādiṣu prajā rājan, kalāv icchanti sambhavam
[kalau khalu bhaviṣyanti, nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇāḥ
kvacit kvacin mahā-rāja, draviḍeṣu ca bhūriśaḥ]

[tāmraparṇī nadī yatra, kṛtamālā payasvinī
kāverī ca mahā-puṇyā, pratīcī ca mahā-nadī]

[ye pibanti jalaṁ tāsāṁ, manujā manujeśvara
prāyo bhaktā bhagavati, vāsudeve 'malāśayāḥ]

["My dear King, the inhabitants of Satya-yuga and other ages eagerly desire to take birth in this age of Kali, since in this age there will be many devotees of the Supreme Lord, Nārāyaṇa. These devotees will appear in various places but will be especially numerous in South India. O master of men, in the age of Kali those persons who drink the waters of the holy rivers of Draviḍa-deśa, such as the Tāmraparṇī, Krtamālā, Payasvinī, the extremely pious Kāverī and the Pratīcī Mahānadī, will almost all be pure hearted devotees of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Vāsudeva."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.38-40]

The clever, or the wise persons, in Satya-yuga, they want to aspire after a birth in Kali.

What do you think about Satya-yuga? It is already passing in a cyclic order, so no speciality of Satya-yuga. It is stale like anything, Kali. Only passing, so many summers, so many winters. Then, what is the speciality of the summer, the speciality of the winter? But rather we shall learn to value the time according to the theistic development. Then Kali is preferable than Satya-yuga.

What is Satya-yuga? It is tapasya, satya, dhyana, it is adaiyatu, the internal meditation. That was the important religious function in Satya-yuga. They're simple, truthful, and moral, all these things, and not very fond of luxury. Plain living, high thinking, but high thinking cannot give you Kṛṣṇa consciousness. It must have to come down by sukṛti from the devotees of Kṛṣṇa. In any time it may come.

The honourable guest, a saintly guest, may come to your house when the season is bad, rainy season, or very winter, or very great summer. In that time the guest may come, saintly guest may come to your house and you can gather something from him. And not in ordinary normal time they may come to you as guest.

So our standard of counting what is good and bad, that is all false, no value.

tad dinam yodinam manye neha canyam naradinam [?]

There is a poem that when the rainy day is not a very bad day, but the really bad day is that day where we cannot have any discussion about Kṛṣṇa, about the Lord. The standard of good or bad should be changed. When we are engaged with the holy thing, divine thing, that is good, independent of the external environment, both physically and mentally. Plain living, high thinking, but that thinking only about Brahman or Paramātmā, not of Kṛṣṇa, then no gain there.

So Queen Kunti wants adverse circumstances, invites, that when we're in deep suffering, our heart in more intense prayerful mood, and that can reach to high standard, to the depth of things. The deeper will be the quest, the search, if we are pressed by adverse circumstances. The ordinary standard of good or bad is not effective in this plane.

'dvaite bhadrābhadra-jñāna, saba-'manodharma' / 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

["In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions. Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176]

Everything is false, the conception of our good or bad is all false. So we're to understand what is good or bad in reality. Good or bad, we're to understand a primary teaching in the school of nirguṇa, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, what is good, what is bad. This ordinary world good or bad cannot go there. All false, all relative, all local valuation. Provincial valuation does not stand in the case of Absolute calculation. They clash together, they fight together, another plane. Vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam.

vaikuṇṭha-nāma-grahaṇam aśeṣāgha-haraṁ viduḥ]

["One who chants the Holy Name of the Lord is immediately freed from the reactions of unlimited sins, even if he chants indirectly. Sānketyaṁ (to indicating something else as in the case of Ajāmila who called for his son by the Name of Nārāyaṇa), jokingly. Parihāsya - for musical entertainment. Stobha (to use the Name with some other intention; Jīva Goswāmī has taken advantage of this in his book of Sanskrit grammar, the Harināmāmṛta-vyākarana; when one is playing the mṛdanga drum, using the Names Gaura Nitāi, Gaura Nitāi to represent different drumbeats). Or even neglectfully - hela (when we are rising from bed in the morning sometimes, we may neglectfully say Hare Kṛṣṇa; in this way we may cast off our indolence). This is accepted by all the learned scholars of the scriptures."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.2.14]

Even the Name of the Lord must be of transcendental characteristic, not of this mundane type, mundane sound. This is aparādha, offence. To think that the physical sound is the spiritual sound, that is an offence. But the spiritual sound can come within the mundane sound, but mundane sound cannot contain spiritual part in it. He's all pervading, that is, He can enter and can influence matter, handle matter. But matter cannot handle spirit, cannot have any masterly movement in spirit. But spirit can do anything and everything with and over matter.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: There are different descriptions of the ten subject matters of the Bhāgavatam.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ten subject matters means Daśa-mūla?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Yes. There are different, some places they say one thing and in another place they will say something else.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where? You say, you quote it.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: I can't remember exactly. I've seen in a couple of books different explanations of what the ten subject matters are. They're not the same.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say? Instance, example?

Aranya Mahārāja: He doesn't have example. He just remembers from his reading that he found some different explanations of those ten points, or what the ten points actually are.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What are the ten points, you say? What are those ten points?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Like sarga, visarga, āśraya. Those ten topics of the Bhāgavatam that Bhāgavatam discusses.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There may be different standpoints from the Rāmānuja school, the Śaṅkara school, different schools, different angles of vision. But from the Gauḍīya angles of vision we're to consider.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Are those ten points found in the Bhāgavatam itself? Are they listed in the Twelfth Canto of the Bhāgavatam, those ten topics?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't know. We're to deal with separately, then we can say. We can give our opinion if any practical item is placed to us. And what are the different views, different angle of vision. If you put the particular example to me, then I can give my decision there. It may be viewed from different planes. From the plane of the karmī, plane of the jñānī, yogī, and then the devotional angle of vision. Partial representation and then wholesale accommodation, it may be different in this way, local and absolute. And local means small locality, bigger locality, bigger locality, more spacious, more spacious, in this way may differ. From the angle of vision of the man, from the kṣatriya, from brāhmaṇas standpoint, from a Godly standpoint, from Brahmā's standpoint, from the standpoint of Śivaloka, in this way it may vary, local. And that must be accommodated into universal conception of the thing. There it will be harmonised. Local and Absolute, local may be small and big.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Is any anthology been written by any of the Ācāryas that incorporates the ten points?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Ācārya is also very uncertain term. The Ācārya of the karma-kāṇḍi; Ācārya of the jñāna-kāṇḍi, and Ācārya of the bhakti school. Ācārya means one who practices some truth and preaches that, and takes from Veda. Veda is also full of different class duties. In Veda, so many duties of different classes are enlisted there. So from one standpoint, another comparative study amongst those findings.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Is there one book that has been written by the Ācāryas, by any of our Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas that incorporates these ten topics, taking verses from the Bhāgavatam to explain each topic?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I do not know those topics, but this Daśa-mūla, the very gist of all the different planes of teachings of Bhāgavatam has been represented in Nimbarka sampradāya, Daśa-mūla. And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has also given Daśa-mūla. Ten different kinds of principals contained in Bhāgavatam he has written in truth.

[(1) - The Vedic scriptures received through the authorised disciplic succession of bona fide spiritual masters state that:
(2) - Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Absolute Truth.
(3) - He is the source of all energies.
(4) - He is the ocean of all transcendental mellows.
(5) - The living entities are His separated parts and parcels.
(6) - Due to forgetfulness of their constitutional position, the living entities are illusioned.
(7) - By awakening their transcendental ecstatic affection and attraction for the Lord, all living souls can be liberated from illusion.
(8) - All things are one with and different from Kṛṣṇa; this oneness and difference is acintya or inconceivable.
(9) - Pure devotional service (śuddha-bhakti) is the only means to attain the supreme goal.
(10) - The supreme goal is divine love of Kṛṣṇa.]

The ten principals in Bhāgavatam, drawn from Bhāgavatam by Mahāprabhu, and Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written Daśa-mūla, explained them.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: Do you believe that there's going to be a nuclear war in the world soon?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: War is immanent. We're not concerned with that. But the greater war is always existent between māyā, the science and nescience. What you call science we call the nescience. Kṛṣṇa conception is science and all else nescience. The fight is always going on. So many births and deaths past, and so many births and deaths are waiting in the future. We're in the midst of that. So many dissolutions of the whole solar systems has occurred, but I'm still lingering with my life. Many, many solar systems dissolution passed away and I'm living. How, where? That is to be solved, the wholesale solution is necessary. This is pertaining to this body only, not even to the mind, very slight. But I'm above that.

There is a war, the Theosophists, they believe in the mental system beyond this body. They won't be affected much, they'll live in their mental plane. The war may demolish the whole physical existence. The mental system which we find in our dream, that will be left intact. Some contamination, some change, but mainly intact. The bombshell cannot kill the mind, only the body.

So with such seriousness of war we're to engage ourselves in the search of Kṛṣṇaloka. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, Virajā, Brahmāloka, with that seriousness go on. We're told, 'any moment I may die.' Thinking this, engage yourself in the quest of Kṛṣṇa. What of war, whether it will come or not we don't know, but my finishing, the body, the finishing of my body, that will come surely. War may not come, but I may be finished without war. That is enough for me, and that is enough for everyone, that his physical existence may be finished any time. With this idea, start your searching for a plane of life where you can live in a very happy mood, happy way.

yad gatvā na nivartante, tad dhāma paramaṁ mama

["My supreme holy abode is that place which the surrendered souls reach, never to return again to this deathly plane. Upon going there, one never returns to this material world. Neither sun, nor moon, nor fire - nothing can illuminate that all-illuminating supreme abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.6]

From there, no fall is possible into this mortal world. Try to find out that soil, and who can live on that soil? That is living within you, and your proper self is there. This is all wrong conception of your identity. You're not this, this body does not represent you properly, nor your mental system, that also changes life. This also dies, mind also dies. But within that your proper self is living, and find out a happy soil for your soul to live in there. That is reality and this is all imaginary.

So be earnest, be sincere, eager to search for Kṛṣṇa and thereby searching of your own self in the land, in the plane of Kṛṣṇa. That is not only indestructible by war, but no natural force can do any harm, however slight, to it. And it is at your discretion. You try with that sort of earnestness. Be serious in your quest. It is not imagination. We're living in the world of imagination, but we must try to escape from this world, to get out from this world of imagination, this māyā, illusion, misconception, that is the problem. The problem is there, from imagination, from the land of death, how to remove us, our dwellings, from this plane to a plane where war cannot do anything wrong. War means a very general death and destruction. But individual case is always occurring, always happening, that the result of war, that is death, individual. Not a collective destruction, but individual destruction is always taking place.

And amongst the atoms consisting this body, always dying, always dying. Some new class are coming and some old dying, all, everyone. In this mortal world some sort of thing always dying, always dying, always dying. The nation, individuals are dying, still the nation lives. Nation lives but individual persons are dying. Very useful, non-useful, all dying. The nation lives for some time, again the nation will die. Then the Earth will die. In its course, everything will vanish, and again it will come, from the subtle plane of karma, inner tendency, in this way. But we want to get out of the wholesale death, not only including human beings, but even the trees, even the insects, worms, everything.

The ṛṣis, the scripture, they have tried their best to arrange relief...

82.12.16.C_82.12.17.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...life, whether in a tree, or in a worm, or insect, or in a beast, or in human beings, human bodies. The wholesale campaign, progress, march from nescience, that is mortal, to science that is eternal. Mortal to eternal, and ignorance to knowledge, consciousness. And from misery to happiness, or joy, or ecstasy, ānandam.

asato mā sad gamayo tāmaso mā, jyoti gamayo mṛtyor mā amṛta gamayo

["I am mortal, make me eternal. I am ignorant, filled with nescience, take me to science, knowledge. And I am threatened with misery, guide me towards bliss."]

[Bṛhad Āraṇyaka Upaniṣad, 1st Adhyaya, 3rd Brāhmaṇa, 23rd mantra]

The clarion call from Upaniṣad. If there is any one director of the whole movement in this world, I pray to Him. From this mortality, take me to eternity. Asato mā sad gamayo tāmaso. From this darkness, take me to light, that is from ignorance to consciousness, to knowledge. Mṛtyor mā. From the death and misery, take me to the ānandam, to the ecstatic world, happiness. The general instruction to all of us, from the Upaniṣad. Try to live, and to live happily. That will be the only aim and object of our every movement in life. Every step we must go from death to eternal life.

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Awaits alike the inevitable hour;
The path of glory leads but to the grave.

[Elegy written in a country churchyard. (1751) Thomas Gray, 1716-71, English poet]

All the achievements, with its charm, ends in grave. So we must not allow ourselves to be charmed by the glamour of this mundane world. And must be a faithful bona fide student for study of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, to cultivate about Kṛṣṇa, by all means, the culture of Kṛṣṇa. Who is Kṛṣṇa? How is He? What is my relation with Him? We're there, in every way to cultivate about Kṛṣṇa, what may be my highest achievement there. All these calculations we must indent and not satisfied we must start to that direction. And that must be faithfully, sincerely, practically, substantially, true. Gaura Hari bol. We stop here today.

Absolute interest, to find out what is absolute interest, with the help of the revealed scriptures, revealed by Him, by the Absolute. Anyhow to find out that and to make us harmonious with that movement what is necessary for us. That is, nirguṇa means without any disease. All others are under disease, that is reaction. Disease means reaction. So free from all reaction disease, that is nirguṇa. Guṇa means disease, disease of three types, jarā-vyādhi. We're to be, what we were, not satisfied we're to be as individual. Individual of course is desirable there, but individuality when in consonance with Absolute, that is Kṛṣṇa dāsa. And outside that self seeking, either single or in a group. Either nationality or humanitarian, or identifying with a particular solar system, all is local and provincial.

Absolute, the absolute beauty, the absolute harmony, the absolute love, all of same nature. We're to go back there, back to Godhead, back to home. That is our sweet home. We're to throw ourselves in that. In the beginning something as fire, that will reduce to ashes all our selfish, local, provincial desires and desired. And that will be put to fire and they will be all reduced to ashes. Then the pristine glory of the golden self within will come out, to work as a slave of Kṛṣṇa.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' [kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa']

You are eternal servant of the Supreme Entity. That is your glorious position.

And now you want to be, "I'm monarch of all I survey." Alexander Selkirk or someone was banished on an island, and he was consoling himself in his banished stage. "I'm monarch of all I survey. There's none to come in dispute with me as regards any possession of this part or that part of land. Here no one, but I'm the only human being on this solitary island. I'm monarch of all I survey."

So we wanted to be a monarch of all we survey, and we're cornered now. And now we must get out of the cornered position and roam at large as a representative of Kṛṣṇa, His servant, His slave. The slave word, that is very unpleasant to hear, slave. But slave of the Supreme, the most glorious, confidential position I'm given as confidential attendant, slave, who can be relied. Jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'. Though a particle we're in connection with the whole. A particle can have backing of the whole force if in an affectionate connection. The particle may be supported by the Infinite if it's in happy relationship with the Infinite. So that is the most desirable position of us, every one of us.

Why this danger came to us, the taṭasthā-śakti, marginal potency? So we're in danger. Those that are in the nearest potency, svarūpa-śakti, they cannot be overpowered by the external potency, the out-carrying current. In-carrying and out-carrying current. Now anyhow we're caught by the out-carrying current of Kṛṣṇa. We came from the marginal position. Adaptability of both the sides within us. And we want to, by the grace of the agents of Kṛṣṇa from the higher world, they came and reminded us of our greatest fortune and prospect. And anyhow we have accumulated such sort of tendency, that there is my Master in the happy land. And I can be an affectionate child to Him. This news has touched our heart and brought us together. We all want to go back to our native home.

Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. We're wandering in this undesirable plane of mortality, regular reaction. Whatever I do there are other forces to demolish the same. Whatever we desire the opposite current is also to demolish that. So we're suffering from disappointment everywhere. Now we want to leave this land, where our predecessors all vanished. And the posterity is also to meet the same fate. And we're also experiencing the mortal influence of the environment, what is undesirable to us.

Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9]. We're to come here as a stranger, by birth. Then again to meet the inevitable fate, the death. And in the middle portion, span, we're to suffer from disease and infirmity. So undesirable to the intelligentsia. It is an undesirable plane to live in. We must seek some other higher shelter for our safety, for our good prospect. And we're trying to do that. That is our present position.

So many recommendations have come hitherto, to our relief. But anyhow we've come to understand the relief recommended by Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva in the line of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Bhagavad- gītā. That is the highest. That is the most infallible and most desirable goal. And we shall go back to that land, the land of beauty, love, charm, harmony. That has attracted us anyhow, and we want to go back there. How to do that, that's a problem to us now. The main thing, the guide, good company and the guide. That unknown quarter, only with good hope, and a favourable advertisement, we're charmed by that destination. And how to go to that uncertain and infinite land of infinite character? Only our main help, our guide and our faithful association, those also who want to go there along with us. The faithful association, faithful group. In long journey if you undertake it in a group, that will help us in many ways.

So saṅkīrtana, go on chanting so that we want to go back to home, and so many of us. We get the facility from Mahāprabhu. Saṅkīrtana party is going towards their home. Go home, the land of love divine. We're disgusted here, always fighting with the apathetic environment, that's in the form of mortality. The form of change, towards mortality, always, incessantly changing us, always. And we want to go to the eternity. The finite has also got its proper position in that sweet eternity. As located and analysed by Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu. Nityānanda Prabhu is there, a general guide under Him. So many are swimming towards that through the ocean.

Who's there? Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Prabhu?

Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Parthāmṛta: Parthāmṛta dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Devotees: Thomas. Śuddha Kṛṣṇa. Parama.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Thomas. I can't remember you specially. Where do you come from, Thomas?

Thomas: From New York city. I've always worked with Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā and Dev Nārāyaṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parvat Mahārāja has again gone to New York?

Thomas: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You've worked with him?

Thomas: I used to visit him sometimes. But my business is such that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Fruit seller?

Thomas: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My memory is very weak. Eyesight almost finished. So it is very difficult for me to understand, to recognise. So I always trouble you, putting questions several times. "Who are you, who are you?" These bothering things I'm to repeat, helpless, what can I do? Gaura Hari. It is still by the grace of the Lord, anyhow, some feeling is within. In one sense it is better, good, forget, that personal things are vanishing. And what's remaining that is extended to me by my Guru Mahārāja, that is still retained in me. That is in one sense it is a good thing. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. That is desirable of course if it stands well.

Kavirāja Goswāmī says, "I'm sufficiently old, I can't write, can't see. And so, still the work is being done through me. It is a very wonderful thing. _____ [?] I don't know what I'm writing and what is to do, still I'm engaged. It is a very happy thing."

Sanātana Goswāmī is also saying that, "How audacious, audacity I have got, I'm going to write about the harem of Kṛṣṇa. Rukmiṇī is such and such. Satyabhāmā is such and such. Jāmbavatī is such and such. What audacity I've got that I'm going to write, to give description about the nature of those great damsels, Kṛṣṇa. But what to do? I assure you it's not mine, it's not my writing. Someone is forcing me to write this. So excuse me. I have not got the audacity to know about their nature. They're so high personages. And I'm going to give you description of the harem of Lord Kṛṣṇa? Someone is forcing me, my pen is pushing me towards that. I can't help it, it is His will."

Mahāprabhu also He repeats the same thing. "Sanātana, what I say to you, this is not Mine. I feel that a current is passing through Me to you, Kṛṣṇa's grace. What I say, to Me it is something like a delirium. I'm talking, I do not know the meaning proper within. Pralāpita vakra, pralāp means delirium. I don't understand, still I utter. Anyhow I feel somewhat that Kṛṣṇa is sending something through Me to you."

That is the way, to be instrument of the revealed truth. Nārada came and chastised and forced Vyāsadeva. "Give delivery to these things what you have not clearly done. Think of what I say, these outlines, you think of them, and harmonise them with your past writings, and give delivery in a new kind of way, as I say."

Put off everything, above everything, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, as it is unconsciously done in Bhagavad-gītā by Vyāsadeva. The karma, the jñāna, the yoga, whatever, but winding everything towards Kṛṣṇa. Do karma, karma is good, without karma you cannot collect your food. You'll have to die without karma, so you must do karma. But all karma binds you with the environment with reaction. Only,

tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara]

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

"Karma must be directed towards sacrifice, and the object of sacrifice, the recipient is Myself." Kṛṣṇa says.

Connecting karma with Him. Jñāna is very pure thing, not entangled much with the mud, it is a pure thing. _____ [?] But,

bahūnāṁ janmanām ante, jñānavān māṁ prapadyate
[vāsudevaḥ sarvam iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ]

["After many, many births, the knowledgeable person (who happens to attain the association of such a pure devotee) finally comes to understand that the whole universe of moving and stationary being is of the nature of Vāsudeva alone, inasmuch as all are subordinate to Vāsudeva. Having grasped this conception, he surrenders unto Me. Know such a great soul to be extremely rare."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

"At the last conclusion of the jñānī to surrender to Myself. And such jñānī is very rarely to be found. They're all going mad, that they're the ultimate substance in the world. But very rarely they escape from that sort of vanity and come to My feet that I'm all in all."

Then yogī is very good section, the yogī. Tapasvibhyo yogyatā. The penance, the austerity, some takes out their, for their improved life, jñānibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikaḥ. Even the yogī's position is better than that of the jñānī, or the salvationist. Karmibhyaś cādhiko yogī. This varṇāśrama karmī, above that the position of the yogī. So yogī is the highest position amongst all of the sections.

[tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogī, jñānibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikaḥ
karmibhyaś cādhiko yogī, tasmād yogī bhavārjuna]

["The yogī who is a worshipper of the Supersoul is superior to persons engrossed in severe austerities such as the cāndrāyaṇa, superior to the worshippers of Brahman, and superior to the fruitive workers. Know this certainly to be My conclusion. Therefore, O Arjuna, be a yogī."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.46]

But,

yoginām api sarveṣāṁ, mad-gatenāntarātmanā
śraddhāvān bhajate yo māṁ, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ

["Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all his heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47]

"Amongst all sections of yogīs, karma yogī, jñāna yogī, hatha yogī, aṣṭānga yogī, raja yogī, all sections of yogīs, the highest class is that who comes to My feet. And giving up everything begins My bhajan."

Śraddhāvān, ādau śraddhā. Begins as a primary student in the devotional school. What is the primary course in the devotional school? Ādau śraddhā, tataḥ bhajana-kriyā, tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ, tato niṣṭhā, tataḥ ruci.

[ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati
sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ]

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

"In this way he comes to take admission in the lowest class, primary class. Mad-gatenāntarātmanā, śraddhāvān bhajate yo māṁ [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.47] With śraddhā, with faith, begins My service."

So, in Gītā, so many things are described. Full justice is made to all the particular different sections, but in conclusion drawing everything towards devotion towards Him. Then at last.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"Give up consciousness of all the duties of all phases, wholesale, and come single to My feet, alone. I'm not a group, only alone, and I shall compensate the whole thing. No loss you'll have to incur. The assurance."

Sometimes such satisfaction also they feel when talking about Me, and dealing about Me. Sweetness they can gather, of different, very, very desirable type, all comprehensive. "These persons, I give inspiration, that may follow the path of the gopīs of Vṛndāvana. Who risks everything, only to get My company, which is considered both unholy and holy. Everything they severed their connection from, and desperately throwing themselves in Me, I ask these people to follow the footsteps of the gopīs. That is the highest attainment. Without caring for anything good and bad, only exclusive attention to throw them in Me, in My service. That is the highest type of devotion we may see, to catch Me. By this type of devotion I'm caught in their fist. Such high value. All risking everything, good or bad. Svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca.

They're so high, and they're so dear, beloved to Me that I always feel that I shall seek their kindness. So divine, so high, so pure, so selfless, so surrendering, so brave, so desperate. Teṣām evānukampārtham. Whenever they're with any separation mood, because in jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, they do not want knowledge or direct consciousness of Me. They're engaged, they're absorbed in discharging their duty and do not care to know anything outside that. Rhyme or reason, or explanation, nothing they want. Only extremely given to My service. Such servitors, I'm indebted to them. I think that I cannot clear the loan that I had to incur from their serving attitude. So for their satisfaction _____ [?] they faint. They're under the impression that I'm not regarding them, I'm far away from them, I do not care for their convenience or inconvenience. Then I run at that time for their help. 'Oh, I'm here My dear.' Taking His own name and madly dancing. Seeking Himself, searching Himself. "What am I?" In the mood of Rādhārāṇī. The most eagerness personified. Most earnestness ever imagined, search. Kṛṣṇa is searching Himself in the mood of Rādhārāṇī. That is Gaurāṅga. Sva-bhajana vibhajana prayojana avatārī. And He's throwing on all sides, a particle of that mood, throwing out in the environment. He's searching of Kṛṣṇa, in the mood of Rādhārāṇī. Any question?

Devotee: Mahārāja, I was wondering, I've heard that there's some pastime that does not allow Lord Nityānanda to be on the altar with Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lord Nityānanda, from Him comes this vātsalya, sākhya, śanta, all other rasa, except that of mādhurya rasa. There Rādhārāṇī is independent and final authority, mādhurya rasa. All other rasas they can come from Baladeva and Nityānanda. Three divisions, jñāna, bala, krīya, ca, thinking, feeling and willing. The three principles of theological conception.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Willing represented by Nityānanda, Baladeva. And thinking may take us to Kṛṣṇa, jñāna pradhana [?] _____ [?] subjective existence. And feeling represents the līlā, by which the pleasing principles arise, hlādinī. Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca, the three main underlying principles. In Upaniṣad and in all philosophies, thinking, feeling and willing, three phases of the Absolute. Maintaining the existence, and enjoying the position, and supplying the fodder to enjoyment. And then to take it and throw into the world, particles of that divine pleasure, three phases.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. What was your question?

Devotee: The reason that Lord Nityānanda is not being permitted...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Nityānanda up to vātsalya rasa, sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, Nityānanda. And Nityānanda, in another position, as Anaṅga Mañjarī, She enters into the camp of Rādhārāṇī as Her younger sister. And there He enjoys the service divine in mādhurya rasa, it is mentioned. Another aspect, but not Nityānanda Himself proper, He's Anaṅga Mañjarī. Here also as brother of Kṛṣṇa, and there also as sister of Rādhārāṇī. We're told like that. That is another aspect. But not the same as Nityānanda, but His, not shadow cast into mādhurya rasa, but is another phase. These are peculiar necessities in harmony, in details.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I've read somewhere that Draupadī is a combination of Shamala, Bharati, and Saci, wife of Indra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow his intonation. What does he say?

Devotee: Draupadī is a combination of...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Draupadī's in Dvārakā connection, not in Vṛndāvana. But what do you say about Draupadī? What does he say? Hmm?

Devotee: Is a combination of Shamala, the wife of Yāma, Yāmarāja. And Bharati, the wife of Vayu. And Saci, the wife of Indra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. These three combined in Draupadī?

Devotee: Yes.

Devotee: And Uses [?] wife of the Asvini devatas [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Five combined?

Devotee: Er, four?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Four or five?

Devotee: Maybe five. But Uses [?] the wife of the Asvini devatas [?]...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It may be mentioned in Mahābhārata. It is not concerned with Bhāgavatam or Mahāprabhu's group. It may be there. So the five combined there, and so five husbands there, so those five combined.

And there are some other tales also, mystic tales, by which Draupadī had to marry five husbands. Five phases, and also five times, she wanted _____ [?] in her penances.

And also when she found in heaven, surabhi, the divine cow, she had more than one bull, companion, Draupadī smiled, remarking that 'how she can allow so many bulls for her company?' So a curse came to her, and she had to take these five husbands as reaction.

And also, as you say, I remember slightly from Mahābhārata that five combined there within her. There one, and another four combined, and came to her. A marriage with five husbands by chance coincidence, in the line of inevitable action, reaction.

But that has nothing to do with these talks which we're going on with. That is all karma-kāṇḍa, action, reaction.

Devotee: Yes. Actually my real question is, can you explain how is it that so many jīvas can occupy one body?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A man may have different functions, one officer. Suppose a district magistrate, for the time being the police officers' function may also be attached to him. And the governor is there, he may have to do the function of a captain. So many functions may combine in one man. So ultimately different types of persons, but their duty may be combined together. And one can do as a general, as a king, as a peace maker, so many functions one can do. Something like that.

We're told also a man has been captured by a ghost. Have you heard this?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In your country, the ghost has captured a person?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Something like that. The ghost taking possession, sometimes coming aside, in this way. And a good ghost, or good _____ [?] so many yogīs and gods, they also can capture and influence the person and live there.

It is not only the case with Draupadī, but in many places we've found like that. In Nanda the Droṇa was absorbed. In Yaśodā the Dharā was absorbed. In the gopīs so many divine prostitutes, Urvaśī etc, divine prostitutes absorbed in the gopīs. It is mentioned there, they're getting their satisfaction by some good decision of their previous fate, fortune. And many cases we find are there. In Rāmānanda both Arjuna and Viśākhā Sakhī is represented.

The different types of mentality represented in one body is possible. Sometimes a man, in man also, sometimes womanly temperament may come in, and sometimes manly. In women also sometimes manly courage and temperament may come, and sometimes womanly, modest temperament. It is possible in the science of subtle elements.

Kṛṣṇa Himself combines Himself in many types of Kṛṣṇa. Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Svayaṁ-Prakāśa, Prabhāva-Prakāśa, Vaibhava-Prakāśa. Dvārakeśa, Mathureśa. Different temperament, different functioning. It is possible, and not unscientific.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Devotee: So also Mahārāja, the compilers of the Bible, those who compiled the Bible, sometimes we hear it is scripture. But those who compiled it were they liberated or they were conditioned souls?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say? In Bible?

Devotee: The compilers of the Bible, were they liberated or conditioned souls?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They were liberated to certain extent. Full fledged theism, they had no idea. Partial conception of the spiritualism they've distributed, not complete. They did not have any recognition of transmigration of souls, not mentioned there, clearly. And not even souls to the animals and trees, only human bodies, and no transmigration. Only one birth, and the future is eternally fixed, either eternal hell or eternal heaven. All these things. For the time being, by instalment it is given. It has not been dealt with full possibilities and answers. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, then did Lord Jesus attain the spiritual world or heavenly planets?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Spiritual world in a particular zone, a zonal position we're told.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Our mother Parama? No question?

Parama: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then? Ha, ha, ha. Why do you shrink, without putting question?

Parama: When we become discouraged in spiritual life, and māyā is more attractive than Kṛṣṇa, what does that mean, and what should we do?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Your free will, if it is independent of māyā can understand that māyā is my enemy, dragging. Your help from the guardian. What do you do here? If a boy finds some difficulty outside, what does he do? He runs to the guardian, to the superior power. So ours will be of same nature _____ [?]

We shall cry aloud to get help from the men of the police section of the government, that is sādhus. We shall cry aloud for their help. "Oh save me. I'm caught by this nasty temperament, this kāma, krodha, all these things. _____ [?] party. I'm making journey towards _____ [?] and so many plunderers attack me." And I shall cry aloud for shelter.

That will be of that nature. The next safe position, we will run to seek help. It is plain thing. It is also there. So many protectors, so many police are giving - posted to protect the people, general. Anyhow to run towards the guardian, to the helpers that are posted there. So always to remain with the guardian when we are minors. That is the direction of the śāstra and sādhu. As long as you consider yourself to be minor, you must be under the guidance of a major, Guru, sādhu, friend, of equal temperament, who has got appreciation for the thing you adore. The friend must have appreciation for the gem which you have got with you, who you want to protect from outside attack. The appreciator of that valuable gem very favourably will come to help you properly.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Śuddha Kṛṣṇa - you are silent.

Śuddha Kṛṣṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nothing to enquire?

Śuddha Kṛṣṇa: Yes, so many questions...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Without enquiring, many things is going to be cleared, automatically, in the course of this talk.

When I joined Gauḍīya Maṭha, in the very beginning I put some questions. And then I found that it is foolish to put any question. Only if we hear, in course of the talk, that I find in the midst of, from one to another, everything is being clarified. Everything is being clarified, all the doubts are being cleared.

bhidyate hṛdaya-granthiś, chidyante sarva-saṁśayāḥ
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.21 and 11.20.30]

All the doubts and suspicions will be cleared when we can indent Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Wholesale satisfaction.

Our Guru Mahārāja used to tell that, "Only allow Kṛṣṇa to land in your heart."

The force came in the ship, previous day and they landed the soldiers into the shore, and they captured the country. Julius Caesar, he told someone, "Veni, vidi, vici," something? - "I came, I saw, I conquered."

Ha, the Kṛṣṇa conception is such. Only we must allow Kṛṣṇa conception to land in our heart, and the battle will go on. And ultimately He will conquer, every nook and corner. The whole heart will be captured by Him. He's such in His intrinsic quality of value, Kṛṣṇa consciousness. All embracing, all solution, all clearance, all capturing. All engagement, all sorts of engagement, different, whatever aspiration may be within us. The wholesale dealer.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"All your enquiries will be fully satisfied in Me only. Myself alone, mām ekaṁ, Myself alone. I am alone capable of satisfying all your possible hankerings which you cannot detect even in yourself. You do not know yourself what are the variegated hankerings are within you, aspiration. But I know, and I'm so prepared. My position is such, I can satisfy all your aspirations of innumerable natures."

Ha, ha. Kṛṣṇa is such.

akhila-rasāmṛta-mūrtiḥ [prasṛmara-ruci-ruddha-tārakā-pāliḥ kalita-śyāmā-lalito rādhā-preyān vidhur jayati]

[" 'Let Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, be glorified! By virtue of His expanding attractive features, He subjugated the gopīs named Tārakā and Pāli and absorbed the minds of Śyāmā and Lalitā. He is the most attractive lover of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī and is the reservoir of pleasure for devotees in all transcendental mellows.'] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.142]

Scientific representation of Kṛṣṇa. He's a figure. How? All sorts of ecstasy combined has produced as if that. All beautiful phases. Emporium of all rāsas.

We're to go to different shops for different things, but emporium means, only go to one shop where everything is available. That is emporium, is it not?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You know it better. Emporium is a shop where all things are available, but other different shops, different things they're dealing.

The Emporium of all rāsa. Whatever you want it is there. That is Kṛṣṇa. You're to understand, gradually, according to your capacity and necessity and advancement.

Nitāi. Nitāi. I feel tired. I began talking long ago, with them. So I want to close here today. Gaura Hari bol.

...

...Kṛṣṇa consciousness, why? What peculiarity you find in Kṛṣṇa consciousness that attracts you?

Devotee: Because it's the only thing that actually tells you about God.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Aranya Mahārāja: He said, "It's the only thing that explains about God."

Devotee: The science of God. Everything else is just so very limited...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What attribute in God attracts you most? In God conception, what attribute of God attracts you most?

Devotee: Well, just that He's a person, just like... He's a person...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's a person, but what do you mean by person?

Devotee: Well, He's not something impersonal, He has a character, He has a form. And it's what I want to know about Him. And I want to know about my self also.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That person means we can mix with Him freely, in the same level, you mean that? Person means, big, infinite personality, then, are you attracted by that, personality infinite?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Aranya Mahārāja: The infinite aspect of His personality.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, what will be your position there? Negligent, most negligent.

Aranya Mahārāja: What is your position in relationship to that infinite personality?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Most negligent.

Devotee: I want to develop a relationship...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How is it possible? He's infinite, we're infinitesimal, and how can we develop our relationship with Him? Is it possible at all?

Devotee: Yes, it's possible, but I want someone to show...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why possible? Why it is merely possible?

Devotee: Well, I want someone to show me.

Aranya Mahārāja: He wants someone to show him how to develop that relationship.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you have faith that the development may be in such a way that you can connect with that infinite personality? Such development is possible within us?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Good. All right. Are you married?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How do you want your energy to be utilised?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In form of search, or through service?

Devotee: In Kṛṣṇa's service.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only by knowledge, or through service?

Devotee: Well, I want to acquire some knowledge, and then utilise that in Kṛṣṇa's service.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That's good, reasonable, very good. Go on in your way.

Śravaṇa-daśā, then varaṇa-daśā. The first stage, to hear about Him. The second, to accept Him as our guardian, our master. Then sādhana-daśā, then to apply one wholesale for His utility. God is for Himself. He's by Himself and for Himself. He has no other cause. He's His own cause. And He exists not to fulfil the purpose of a third thing. He exists to fulfil His own purpose, for His own satisfaction, for none else.

So, if we want Him, we must accept the way to fulfil His satisfaction. For His satisfaction we're to move. He won't engage Himself for the satisfaction of anyone. He's for His own. He's absolute. He's for His own. Self existent, and for His own satisfaction. He's the satisfaction personified. And if we want Him, we're to work for His satisfaction. Our satisfaction must be a part and parcel of His great satisfaction. We're for Him, everything for Him. He's absolute. And anything and everything for Him.

We must learn to live a life to be utilised to fulfil His satisfaction. There the harmony. We cannot have any independent life. Cent percent subservient life. Then we may come in His connection properly, in consonance, in harmony. He's for everyone. And those who want to engage themselves in His service can give satisfaction to us, then we can have Him. Otherwise we're outside, as we are at present.

Anyābhilāṣa, our whimsical activities. Karma, then systematic organised activity, keeping in touch with God consciousness. Jñāna, mere search to satisfy our curiosity. What is the environment we're living in? What is our ultimate goal? As a subject we're to enquire, making the environment an object of our search. That is jñāna. Elimination - I don't want this, I don't want that. One, two, three, four, five, six. I don't want, dismissing, elimination and acceptance, as subject that is knowledge.

And devotion, dedication, that I want to have a common end in His satisfaction of life, not a separate object of life. I want to merge in the harmony that is working for His satisfaction. One, plurality connected in oneness, diversity and unity. Diversity must be subservient to unity. There is harmony. We're to learn and we're to practically engage ourselves in that. Only theoretical knowledge, intellectualism, cannot satisfy our internal demand. Our hunger cannot be appeased by mere search. But search must be substantial, must have some practical aim, and constructive object. Not in the scientific laboratory, as they're searching so many things, or searching about God. If He is? How He is? All these things. Not like that.

He won't come to our laboratory. He won't come to be the object of our brain, speculation. We're to throw ourselves wholly at His mercy, and then He will be gracious to make Himself known to us. And to surrender, and honest searching mentality, and we can make progress only as much as we accept Him as our guardian, as our master, as our Lord. And not any object to satisfy our curiosity, or any mundane need. Not in that way can we approach Him. Then we shall be kept outside. Sevonmukhe hi jihvādau.

sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ]

["Therefore the material senses cannot appreciate Kṛṣṇa's holy name, form, qualities, and pastimes. When a conditioned soul is awakened to Kṛṣṇa consciousness and renders service by using his tongue to chant the Lord's holy name and taste the remnants of the Lord's food, the tongue is purified, and one gradually comes to understand who Kṛṣṇa really is. In other words, the holy name of Kṛṣṇa can never be grasped by the material senses. Only by rendering devotional service, beginning with vibrating the Lord's glories upon the tongue, can one realize Kṛṣṇa, for He will reveal Himself directly to the sincere soul."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 17.56]

Always surrendering mood. I don't want a single independent life. I want a life under His shelter, under His guardianship. My interest will be included within His interest. In this way we can approach towards Him. Not independent attitude. In the beginning we're to accept this.

The bond will be written, 'That I'm for You. Whatever You will inspire I shall do, You will require of me I shall do unconditionally."

Unconditional surrender. Then He will allow me to enter into His domain, His compound. Otherwise we're on the outskirts.

You're Englishman, or Scotch?

Devotee: English.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

So association is most powerful thing to help us in this matter. We're to imbibe our efficiency from the association of these devotees. We're to acquire the need by which we shall approach Him. The scripture and the saints, in reality, saints.

Saints is a term generally that may accommodate many kinds of saints. And believers in God, even non-believers in God, that is also called saint. Buddhist saint, Jain saint, they do not believe in God, but based on morality of higher kind, saint.

But here, bona fide devotees, not professed devotees, not imitation devotees. Real devotees, sincere devotees, we're to associate and imbibe the mood of searching Him in a spiritual type. He's subject, and all else object. His subjective existence He holds. He can see us, we can't see Him. If He wants He can come within our heart, and can capture our eyesight, or our ear, from within. Then we can think that I'm seeing through the eye. The sight comes from the subtle to the gross. He has got no gross body, or anything of the gross type. The whole thing spiritual, and that can come down, very finer spiritual than the soul we possess. Through the soul, through the mind, then through the eye - and can withdraw. No material, what we understand as matter, above material existence. Matter is misconception.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. What is your program? How many days to stop here?

Devotee: Well, I'm leaving tomorrow_____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tomorrow. Towards?

Devotee: Purī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Who is your guide? Have you got any map, chart?

Devotee: Well, we have some maps.

Aranya Mahārāja: He used to study the science of making maps. In university he was studying maps.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Map making? Map is not the country, but it has got some connection with the country. The map of a country and the real country. So in the scriptures what we have conception of dhāma etc, that is like map. And consulting the map, with the help of right calculation, we can come to the substance for which the map has been drawn. So God consciousness which we find in scripture, something like map. That is not reality, but that can give some idea about the meaning.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Akṣayānanda Mahārāja has not yet come?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Just came now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

82.12.18.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The morning time will be the most suitable. You'll capture Nimāi.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. I just came for your darśana and then I'll try to find him out.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Unexpected engagement, serious, has caught you.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Happy engagement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hard nuts, to break. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha. Premadhāma-stotra, apparently, it is very easy thing, is it? Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Devotees: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But, it is a hard nut to gather. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Keśava Mahārāja, he used to appreciate my writings very much. He said that very intricate and very hard things have been distributed in the form of poems. Our Guru Mahārāja also liked it much, that ontology in the form of poetry. Bhāgavatam is there, Caitanya-caritāmṛta and Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is of that nature, ontology in poetry and beauty.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: It looks very difficult but if you look inside a whole world is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha.

Aranya Mahārāja: The world of the unlimited.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes, unlimited.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Where do they stay? In that blue house?

Aranya Mahārāja: No, they're staying in some hotel in Navadwīpa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, in hotel.

Aranya Mahārāja: He came by himself today.

Devotee: What would be the best way for me to make advancement in spiritual life, specifically when I go back to England?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To have proper connection with that sādhu association. Association can help us most. That is repeatedly told in scriptures, association. Living association or the śāstric association, scriptural, but more preferable is living scripture, which means sādhu, devotee. And that must be genuine of course, not imitation.

A candle of small power may thrive nearby the candle flame of high power. And if in the midst of opposite element it will die, easily and shortly, quickly, can't maintain itself. When the atmosphere is surcharged with heat by so many flames, it can stand and it can develop. Favourable circumstance, we can thrive in a favourable soil, favourable circumstance. And if we're to fight with the environment then we waste our energy and we have to die.

Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! What is your age?

Devotee: Twenty-one.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Twenty-one. Your parents living?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Are they connected with ISKCON?

Devotee: No. They're opposed t.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're Christians?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Protestant or Catholic?

Devotee: Catholics.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Catholics?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the meaning of Catholics and Protestant, the difference?

Devotee: Well, it's...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oppositionist, catholic means very generous in faith, and Protestant, they want to calculate, they want to measure by reason and then to accept. Reason is the predominant factor with the Protestants, started by one Martin Luther in Germany. Then again another subdivision amongst the Protestants was the Puritans. Milton was a Puritan. While studying Milton we had to know all these things. Puritan, they're very ultra moralist, therefore they're called Puritan. Then another branch came from Puritan as Independent. So many branches, Christian, Catholic, Protestant, Protestant divided is Puritan, and then against within Puritan the Independent, another section. Now I don't know whether those Independents or Puritans are finished. But Protestant and Catholic going side by side. King of England is Protestant.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Catholic, a good expression, catholic, in the proper sense, catholic. How much faith we can claim to have? Ha, ha, ha, faith infinite.

There is a story of a frog, and one of the cubs of the frog saw an elephant, and the mother frog was not present at that time. Then when the mother came and it said to the mother that, "I saw a very big, big animal."

"How big?"

The frog is pumping itself. "So big, so big, so big?" In this way the pumping and getting bigger figure. Then, "No, more, more, bigger, bigger." Then the frog burst, finished.

So how much catholic we can be? What capacity have we got? We are so like the frog. The elephant is also a meagre catholic. How much catholic, generous we can be that to contain the whole within us? Impossible. So only faith can do something, give some connection. Our reason and all other weapons, all failure, only faith can connect somewhat, some touch. How much spacious faith we can accommodate in our tiny self? Ha, ha, ha. Infinite possibility is there.

Kṛṣṇa says, "Whatever you can conceive, whatever infinite you can conceive, that is in My one part, negligent part."

athavā bahunaitena, kiṁ jñātena tavārjuna viṣṭabhyāham idaṁ kṛtsnam, ekāṁśena sthito jagat

["But Arjuna, what is the need of your understanding this elaborate knowledge of My almighty grandeur? By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42]

"Your conception of infinite, thousands of infinite forms only one negligent part of Mine. I'm so big you can't imagine."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. To have connection with Him is only possible by His grace. Then how to get His grace, that's the question. Total surrender and trying to please Him, to enter into His sympathy by fully inviting and accepting His ways, whatever small we can know. So through His bona fide devotees, they're our wealth, our ultimate resort, shelter, His devotees. His agents, we should try our best to connect with His bona fide agents. Impossible, ha, ha. To make impossible possible, to make possible what is impossible, to get the infinite. Being finite we aspire after to have connection with infinite, it is impossible, apparently. But it is only possible through our most humiliated attitude. To admit straightly that we are nothing, we are so mean, we are so mean, so small, so negligent, so meagre. To come to realise our proper position, then the relativity, law, will take me to Him, the law of relativity. Hare Kṛṣṇa. He will come out of mercy. We shall try our best to show ourselves that we're sinners.

"If You take the path of justice no hope, no hope, infinitely sinner. Only the zone of mercy, the line of mercy may be extended to us, then I may have some hope. I'm so low, so mean. You're so high, so noble, that only through mercy, through Your affection only can I have a door to You, to enter into Your shelter."

Śaraṇāgati, condemning ones own self to the extreme, sincerely of course, and to feel the greatness of the other party, of the master type.

"Will You graciously accept me? I'm not fit to render any service to You my Lord."

Only this sort of attitude may take us, appealing to the mercy side, the affection, the devotion, the grace, His kindness. That subtle aspect to be tackled by the souls, then they may have some hope, some prospect. Mercy, no justice, no justice, I have got no prospect.

vicaritay arvihe guna nahi paobe kṛpa kori choro tava ca [?]

"If you come to judge then You won't get anything in my favour. So kindly give up that sort of attitude. In the way of justice I've got no hope. You come with mercy, then I can hope to enter into Your domain."

That is devotion proper, śaraṇāgati. And in Kṛṣṇa consciousness that is the plane of mercy and love and affection. In Vaikuṇṭha it is not so strong, the mercy, some sort of justice mixed there, calculation, viddhi, all these things. But in Vṛndāvana, the land of mercy, love, affection. And there is no want, it is infinite, mercy also infinite, so to accommodate infinite number of culprits does not matter. It is not polluted, no possibility of any pollution of the atmosphere if so many nasty souls like us are indented. It is infinite. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is so generous. It may be extended to the lowest, but only that must be sincere negotiation. Not afraid of any meanness of the negotiator, not afraid for that, "That I won't be able to purify him," No such possibility that Kṛṣṇa cannot purify any sinner, no question of that. The greatest sinner may be purified in a second, or more quickly, so much dynamic power. But we are to enter into that door of mercy, affection, not of justice.

vicaritay arvihe guna hahi paobe krpa kori choro tava ca [?] "Take me by the door of mercy my Lord."

That is our real nature, and we should live in that atmosphere there. If we're to live in Vṛndāvana, not any vanity will be there, they're all of such temperament. We're all dependent, parasite, we may be rejected, given away any moment, slave, every right of the master over us, kṛṣṇe nitya dāsa. We're to enter with the mentality of a slave. His property, He can do anything and everything with me. Cent per cent mastership, Lordship is with Him over me. This is our property, our wealth, this sort of conception, always thirsty for mercy. Thirsty, thirsty for water, so always thirsty for mercy there. They're fully cognisant of the fact, they're all living on the plane of mercy, mercy of the master, of the Lord.

Still we find in some way or other that one is asserting himself, one party asserting himself against another party. That is all managed by Yogamāyā to perform the līlā of Kṛṣṇa. Just as there are many slaves and one is appointed as a leader of the slaves. In a drama a slave may have to play the part of a zamīndār, a landlord, but he's a slave. The slave can also play the drama, holding different positions. By Yogamāyā it is managed to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. They have got that position, that right, slave has also got the right. In another way, according to the degree of their sacrifice, degree of their self-abnegation, degree of their intensity of hankering for mercy, gradation may be there. Progress in the negative side.

We're told, who is the highest, he says, "I'm the lowest." Whose holding the highest position, he thinks that he's the lowest of all. It is measured in that way, a measure of negativity. "Most unsatisfied that I can't do any service to Kṛṣṇa." Who is rendering the greatest service, he or she thinks that, "I'm the worst of all the servants, only imitating, real service I can't render." In fact that is the qualification of rendering service to the Lord, "That I can't do, I do so, I can't serve properly." That dissatisfaction is the capital of service. Always alert. I can't satisfy my Lord, I can't do satisfactory work as directed, I can't." Always living to the highest degree, alert to the highest degree, suspicious about his own self. Ha, ha.

Ahaṅkāra, the ego, the negative ego, ego of the negative type, not assertive, not assertive at all, but always self abusing, not asserting but self abusing ego. Combined of that type of servitors. That atmosphere becomes very, very sweet, no aggressor, all contributor. Sometimes when there's famine, this artificial famine, all the food is put underground and an artificial famine created. Then the government says, "None will be able to hold anything. Everything must come to the market. No hoarding." Then there's opulence, and where there's hoarding there's dearth, and no hoarding all fair, all taking to the open market. That is opulence, something like that. All earnestly contributing service and no hoarding for any unit. The market is full, anyone, passer by, they will find all full. Their hearty contribution for Kṛṣṇa and His own. There is ample.

Prema means that love - that is the nature of love. Die to live. Ha, ha, ha. Die to live, that maxim, die to live. Kill to live, and die to live. We're in the land of exploitation, kill and live, but the opposite, die and live. Give and live, and not take and live. And that is the order of that land, die to live, where everyone is living happily. And apparently they show as if they're dying. But really we thrive there, by giving we thrive, and by taking we become loser.

Devotion, exploitation and devotion, opposite, dedication. And one thing most important is that's connected with the centre and not combined nationalistic, not as a group, but must have proper connection with the centre. Otherwise that will be selfishness, partial, national unity, or country, religious unity. There will be hitch. Real religious classification, or the sampradāyic, or provincial, local? No, that centre, absolute centre, and that is representing love, affection, beauty, harmony. Some such thing we're to connect with, to live, to give.

This worldly giving is not giving. One is giving to a gunda, or giving to a prostitute, that sort is not giving at all. That is exploitation, only to get loan for exploitation, more exploitation, greater exploitation, to invest some energy for future, greater exploitation, not that.

But give in the proper sense, to give to die, that is that die to live. That is dedication. And die for what? Die for the centre, central good. Merge there, merge yourself wholly in His interest, then you'll be happy. Consider yourself as a slave to the Absolute Lord and you'll be happy. Slave, which is most dishonourable to hear and to think, "A slave, slavery?" Most contemptible thing, hateful thing, to think, to pronounce the word slave, a most objectionable thing. But in connection with the Absolute Good that is really an honourable position, the most honourable position to be reckoned as slave to the highest good.

"I don't want to assert myself." To assert myself will be loss to me, to my own interest. As much as I shall go to assert myself I shall be loser, I shall be devoid of His perfect decision and interference. I shall take my fate into my own limited hand. So depend on Him as much as you can. Learn to believe Him, the Absolute Good, believe Him. You're afraid of believing your neighbour, you have come, you have earned such a position by your own actions previously. But always, your reason is alert whether you're being robbed by your neighbour or not. The intelligence is keen whether I'm being robbed by my nature, because I'm thrown into such a position by dint of my own previous karma.

Saṁśayāḥ, doubt, suspicion, I'm being exploited by the environment, always alert. That is a suspicious and most miserable life, always we shall have to be cautious that "I'm being robbed," a most intolerable life.

So we're to become good and to have a cottage in that good soil where none deceives his neighbour, or none. Always makes himself empty to give everything to the neighbour in that kingdom of Kṛṣṇa.

We should not rely in future. "Trust no future, however pleasant." By the course of the different currents of the environment, next moment where shall I be taken off to I don't know. So, "Act, act in the living present." Believe only the present, and try to utilise the present most. The future is not in your hands, it depends in the results of so many actions, so many forces current in the world outside. Where it will take what thing is unknown. Only the present chance you try to utilise. "Trust no future, however pleasant." And don't bother yourself retaining the previous incidents of your life. "Act, act in the living present. With heart within, but with sincerity, and God overhead."

[Trust no future howe'er pleasant! Let the dead past bury its dead!
Act, - act, in the living present! Heart within, and God o'erhead!]
[Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-82, U.S. poet]

The ultimate reality must be good absolute. Accept a life of this type.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If you be sincere, well meaning, then none will be able to defeat you. Your victory is assured.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

With this spirit we're to take the Name Divine. With the help of the sound, divine sound, we can approach towards that soil. The sound is also assertive, it has got divinity in it. Gradually, but we must be sincere to go where the sound will guide us. Absolute sound will guide and we must be sincere to obey the direction, in this way. The Name, most concise form at present, but as much as we make progress we shall see the broadness of the sound, and whatever is contained in that substance of sound. The figure, the colour, the appearance, sound will produce the appearance, the food for the eye.

Then, attributes, food for the mind. Parikar, then the paraphernalia for our movement, it will show a soil that we can live and move, and then līlā. What is the object of that movement, how, what is the product of movement? Just as a machinery movement we find money is the product, ultimately so many parts of the machinery, so many coolies are moving in a compound, but what is the result? The money.

So also we shall find that līlā. Līlā means movement with intrinsic satisfaction. Not that movement will produce satisfaction, but ultimately every movement that means the wave of love, wave of joy, wave of ecstasy. The whole movement is that of joy and ecstasy, happiness. Līlā means that, līlā means movement, but what sort of movement? Automatically with it is that joyous wave, joyful movement, dancing. In Brahma-saṁitā [56], that gamanam nāṭyaṁ, movement ordinary, and dancing movement contains joy in it, movement. Kathā gānaṁ, speaking, that is singing, that with the sound wave there is the sweetness. Sweetness mixed everywhere, uta prata [?], within and without. Sweetness, sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet. Sweetness, charm, beauty, sweetness, love, affection, all these come to give some conception of that highest soil. That Kṛṣṇa consciousness promises to take us in.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
I close the class here.

82.12.19.A

Devotee: What is the reason the westerners are not allowed in the Jagannātha Mandir?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because they strictly observe the physical purity. So even the mṛdaṅga they do not allow to enter. If mṛdaṅga is broken it will be considered, according to them, as this impure skin of cow.

The Sītā-Rāma _____ [?] of the smārta sampradāya, he had some peculiar religious conception, he tied the wooden sandal of his guru on his breast, chest. He always tied the sandal of his guru on his chest. He wanted to enter there.

The pāṇḍāpur, "No. The pāduka may be of your guru, your guru's pāduka may be pure to you, relative position, but we consider it as a pāduka so we won't allow you to enter with that pāduka. You must leave it outside."

They strictly follow the physical impurity, something, physical impurity with some mental modification. That is their custom. So they do not allow anybody, considering that the mleccha, the yavana, their habits both mental and physical are impure. That is very closely connected with hiṁsā, animal killing, etc. And other customs also, rules of life not controlled, boisterous. Their conduct is not regulated according to the Vedic scripture so they're not allowed to enter within.

Even Gandhi wanted to enter into, with some followers of the out-castes, the lower castes, but they did not allow. And Gandhi also did not enter. He wanted to enter along with the out-castes of the society, the untouchables, but they did not allow him to do so. He had got great influence over the country but he was not allowed entrance.

But Gandhi's wife, she, without notice of Gandhi, entered there to have a darśana of Jagannātha.

And when Gandhi knew of it he chastised his wife very much.

"I did not enter, then why you went to see Jagannātha?"

So Gandhi was more a patriot than devotee. He thinks that his mastership over his wife is permanent, not to be modified even by the devotion of Jagannātha. He's wholesale master of his wife.

But according to us, his wife did right. The husband and wife, how long is the connection? Only this body, mostly this body connection. And connection with the Lord, the husband of husband, the master of all the world, in consideration of that, what is that nasty husband in comparison with the Lord of the world, the whole universe?

He wanted to check his wife that she should not go to the temple, for national cause, for the cause of his political creed. So God is within politics, political zone?

Haridāsa Ṭhākura never entered. Rūpa and Sanātana, they never entered, the temple. Not only so but Sanātana Goswāmī avoided the main streets where the servants, the servitors of the Jagannātha temple were always passing usually. He did not walk on the general street where the servitors of Jagannātha were always wandering here and there. Giving respect to the laws and by-laws that are current there.

Not only so, Sanātana Goswāmī has written in Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa, "That what I am enlisting here, the rules and regulations for the devotees, a devotee should try to follow all these regulations. But what is not mentioned, they may look after what is going on in the temple of Jagannātha, and do accordingly."

So catholic in his faith to Mahāprabhu, because under Mahāprabhu, during the presence of Mahāprabhu, whatever went there we should take it as approved by Him. So we won't go to interfere. He's above law. His will is law. Law comes from His sweet will. This principle we must not forget. Everything is designed as well as destined by Him, not only designed but destined also. The whole universe designed and destined according to His sweet will. His position is so high and unchallengeable and it is Absolute Good. Rules and regulations are prepared only to take us to the Absolute Good. But Absolute Good is not under law, under these rules. That is above everything, independent. We're to prepare for that. Kṛṣṇa līlā is the very nearest approach to the Absolute Good, or other, the Absolute Good Himself, if we can realise so much. Whimsical, and that is the best conception. To put any restriction to the Absolute Good is to commit suicide.

Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because He's good, not only good, but Absolute Good. We cannot know.

Here, once, [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāja and myself had a talk.

Acyutānanda was present. Then after going from here to that blue house where Swāmī Mahārāja lived for three weeks, Acyutānanda asked, "What sort of talk did you have with Śrīdhara Mahārāja?"

Swāmī Mahārāja told, "You will faint to hear that."

Ha, ha, ha. Do you follow?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "You will faint. It's beyond the reach of your consciousness." That means you will faint. What does it mean? That is beyond the reach of your consciousness, unintelligible to you in your present stage of realisation. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Rāmānujācārya once wanted to modify the rules and regulations that are being practised in Jagannātha's temple. But with this contemplation he slept there in a bedstead, and when he woke he found along with the bedstead his body is cast to Śrī Kūrmam, a few hundred miles far from Jagannātha's temple.

He awoke and found, "Where am I?" Ha, ha, ha. "I wanted to modify the regulations, to regulate the current, the present practices, rules and regulations of Jagannātha's temple. But I got a dream that, 'You are not to modify here, you go elsewhere.' Rāmānuja told that, "You have given me inspiration, order, to modify the existing rules and regulations that are going on in the temples. Now why do You oppose me?"

"It is for other temples but not for here." He got the dream. "You go and push your regulations in all other temples, save and accept this temple."

Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi was one who was considered to be the Vṛṣabhānu, father of Rādhārāṇī's incarnation here in Gaura līlā. He thought that, "What are these pāṇḍās, they are awkward people, they do not know what is pure or impure, no consideration. The new cloth, which is smeared with boiled rice water, starch, that is mixed with the blood and that new cloth they have used for Jagannātha. These people they do not know what is pure or impure, this consideration."

At night, he found that both Jagannātha and Balarāma, the two brothers had come to his bed and putting slaps to both the cheeks. In the morning he found, then also he felt, found, the people saying, "Why is there so much swelling on your cheeks?"

"Because this occurred at night. He's saying, 'This is not the place to suggest any change in the regulations that are going on under My direction. Don't interfere.'"

With this, some special grant. Their special rule for that place. He's Absolute, unquestionable. Only we're to ask questions to understand this sort of possibility, how everything, all laws enter into the Absolute Good, ever conceived. Any law, that only enters ultimately in the Absolute Goodness. That is beyond our conceptions, mostly. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

patita-pāvana jagannātha sarvveśvara, vṛndāvana-candra sarvva-rasera ākara

["Lord Kṛṣṇa is the purifier of the fallen souls, the Lord of the universe, the Lord of all beings, the moon of Vṛndāvana and the origin of all rasas."] [The Songs Of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 92]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, when enumerating one hundred and eight Names of Kṛṣṇa, then he mentions in the last, patita-pāvana, Jagannātha has come to save the fallen. And Kṛṣṇa, His peculiarity is that He's the emporium of all rasas, vṛndāvana-candra sarvva-rasera ākara, the very source of all sorts of ecstasy personified. That is Kṛṣṇa. So Mahāprabhu is also patita-pāvana. He passed most of His time there in Jagannātha, the major portion of His life spent in Jagannātha, patita-pāvana, saviour of the fallen.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. But everything has got some peculiar thing. The doctor will prescribe a medicine. "You can take that, any diet you can take, with only with the exceptions of two of three." He will comment. So in Jagannātha also we see, very liberal, but with the exception of a few, like that.

In the beginning when I came to this line, to appreciate Mahāprabhu, I thought, "If Mahāprabhu is the incarnation of God, then why did He not overthrow the Mohammedan rule? Why did He tolerate the Mohammedan rule here in India? Easily He could have overthrown." That was my question. But gradually I came to know that this is a very trifle thing. This Mohammedan rule, that is the political life, which has got nothing to do with spiritual life.

Rather, as Queen Kuntī, she welcomes adversity. "Keep me always in a dangerous position. That will be convenient for me to pray for Your grace. And ordinary, worldly, favourable circumstance, that will encourage me to engage more Your valuable grace. So always keep me in adversity." That was her prayer.

So, the political environment, social, all other campaigns have got no value. According to the result of my karma I shall be put in a particular environment and I must start my spiritual life from there. Where I am according to my own past karma I must begin my work, conquering all those saṁskāras, the mental encasement within which we are living. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

[Lord Brahmā says: "One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom. He attains to the plane of positive immortality."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

Not only we shall have to live without complain where we are, but moreover we're to consider that this is what is really necessary for my upliftment. In this way we're to accept, 'Whatever adverse things come to us, Oh, the grace of the Lord.' This positive angle of vision of goodness we must have to deal with them. This is the necessity, this was just necessary for me. There is no error in the calculation of the Lord. It is extended to me for my benefit, the test, and I must have to stand this test, then I shall make progress. I have got the chance to have my progress in life and this opposition I must have to cross, I'm to face and cross. This is given by Kṛṣṇa to facilitate my progress in life. In this way, in optimistic way, we're to face all adverse circumstance. It is advised in Bhāgavatam. Then only, very easily and shortly, we shall cross these walls of misunderstanding, this māyā, and we'll be liberated. Not only liberation but with some participation into Kṛṣṇa consciousness, a life of dedication.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...went to Padmanath temple, Sri Rankor [?]. We had our tridaṇḍa in hand, sannyāsī. They did not allow us to take the tridaṇḍa within the temple. Ha, ha. A local fashion. They may think, "What is there we don't know," in this way.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!
Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Parthamitra: Mahārāja, Parthamitra. I have a question. I have heard two things; one is that a Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa is the devotional line; and then I've heard that it's a formality, or like varṇāśrama-dharma.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. The outer touch of the varṇāśrama-dharma, sannyāsa, but it has got its positive side. Both are negative and positive. The negative side is this - that it is a symbol that one who has accepted, the three daṇḍas represents thought, word, and deed. He won't use his thought, word, and deed for any exploiting type, nature, for any exploiting aim, object, he should not. But the positive side he will punish these three, thought, word, and deed and engage them in the service of Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa. Then it becomes Vaiṣṇava. Do you understand?

Parthamitra: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The negative side, that is sannyāsa, that he won't use his word, thought, and deed, three things. Three daṇḍas representing three aspects of our life, thought, word, and deed. It won't be used for any material purpose, mundane purpose. At the same time the Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa is there and should be used for the service of Nārāyaṇa, Kṛṣṇa. Then it becomes Vaiṣṇava connection, the positive side is there.

Those that do not believe in the positive side of life, they may accept it only that, "We must not use our thought, word, and deed for mundane purpose." They will prefer, "No, no, silence."

But Vaiṣṇava sannyāsī, he will prefer Kṛṣṇa kīrtana, in this way, the positive side they have got. Tridaṇḍa, these things, these three aspects of life should be controlled, should be punished. Daṇḍa means punishment. Our thought, word, and deed should be punished, so they may not interfere with the incidents of this mundane world, must check them. That is one side. But the other side, check them not to be used in this object of life, but use them for spiritual object of life. This is Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa.

Parthamitra: Mahārāja, but a brahmacārī and gṛhastha, he should also use his body, mind and thought.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, everything, this is a peculiar, this will remind you, it does not mean that one who has not taken sannyāsa, he won't use. A gṛhastha will also do, a gṛhastha paramahaṁsa who's a parśada bhakta, he also can come without sannyāsa in a householder's form. He may not have the sacred thread also, anything. But still, the necessity of all this is to remind us of that life. That is healthy, the sacred thread, the red cloth, the daṇḍa, always gives us caution. "Think that you are meant for, you have dedicated your life for this. So beware, don't misuse, don't misuse your red cloth, don't misuse your sacred thread, don't misuse this Tulasī mālā." It will remind us always. The utility is there.

A siddha-mahātmā may not have red cloth. Sanātana Goswāmī and others, they had the white cloth, minimum necessity of cloth garment. Not red, not daṇḍa, not sacred thread, without them also pure life is possible. But for the beginners these things will be helpful, so they're introduced into the society of the Vaiṣṇava school in the lower class, plane. And sometimes the higher, they also come to accept these lower emblems, as Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa, in order to help the public that this sign, this sort of dress, is the dress of a world Ācārya, so we should give respect to them.

If he's in ordinary dress the people won't show any respect or give any attention to his words and advice. But if he's, just as a policeman, if he's in his dress, in uniform, people will show some respect, to the police, to the military. But a military man or a policeman may patrol in plain dress also, and do even higher service. Still, it is necessary for the society to regulate. So this is something like a uniform that we're meant for this. The society should learn to take them as the teachers, the holy men, we should deal with them very gently for our future benefit. The society will also get their benefit, and the man will also get some instruction.

"Oh, I should not mix with anyone and everyone. I must show my ways to keep up the standard, the model of the teachers." All these things for this. Otherwise independent of all these things a man can also grow in spiritual life. Without taking the role of brahmacārī or gṛhastha or varnaprāstha, internally he may grow, his heart within.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, how does one understand, or deal with, the temporary fall down of a sannyāsī, or of a brāhmaṇa? What is the correct understanding?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There we shall take that he had some offence for which he could not keep the standard of his life expected by his Guru Mahārāja. That should be the general way of thinking about them. Some previous offence is taking its course, not allowing him to go on smoothly in the way of his realisation, suddenly came and stopped it, checked, previous action of offence. Evil action or offence against a Vaiṣṇava, in particular cases we're to see. Sometimes Vaiṣṇava aparādha, and sometimes in ordinary lower cases, that previous bad karma can come and stand in his way of progress. That should be taken.

So we'll always be cautious with our free will, free choice. Our free choice, just as a minor, he requires the vigilant eye of the major guardian, so also, our free will in immature stage is surrounded by so many misdirections. So it will be safe to be under the guidance of a bona fide guardian, always, in our lower stage, until we attain the major. Major in the spiritual line, minor, we should always try to be under the vigilant eye of a spiritual guardian. That is necessary. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, how is it possible if one has initiation and his karma has been removed, how is it possible for his previous karma to check him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you mean by initiation? Initiation means at once all karma finished? It does not say like that.

Vidagdha Mādhava: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're given the chance, entrance, admission. When the doctor has accepted a patient that does not mean that immediately he's cured. He must follow the direction of the doctor, take proper diet and medicine, then he may expect that he'll be cured shortly. To call the doctor and have his prescription does not mean that he's fully cured, the patient. Come to practical thinking, why hover, wander in the world theoretically, imaginary.

Vidagdha Mādhava: I was told in ISKCON that at the time of initiation previous karma is taken away. It's not like that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. That is told, when one has called for a good doctor and accepted his treatment, your cure is guaranteed, in that way.

Otherwise, we're seeing that so many veterans are going down. Initiation, [Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedanta] Swāmī Mahārāja who gave a shake into the world, and his accepted disciples, he gave mantram, and they're also falling back. What is this? It is recommended but not final.

When you've got a good doctor, engaged a good doctor, under his treatment your cure is guaranteed, in that way. You're under his vigilant eye, but if you don't care to accept his guidance and secretly if you take evil diet, then what will the doctor do? In this way, it's almost guaranteed. When you have got a good doctor your cure is almost guaranteed. You have to follow, that is. And also it is possible, if by taking unfavourable diet you're a little ill, then if the doctor comes to know that you have taken this bad diet, or did not use my medicine, then he will again take up the case more seriously and will cure you.

That sort of help we may get from the Guru and Vaiṣṇava. But our free choice is never snatched away. Unless and until we get, we find out from the innermost part of our heart real taste for the truth we're not saved. When taste has come:

ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt [tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ
athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati
sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ

love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

Ādau śraddhā, first, over the surface. Underground is sukṛti, then over the surface spiritual life begins with śraddhā, faith. Then sādhu-saṅga, our company with the sādhu, within that our surrender to Guru. Then bhajana, our serving life in many ways begins, śravaṇa, kīrtana, etc., prasāda sevā, all these modified. Then anartha-nivṛttiḥ, anartha, our attraction for things other than Kṛṣṇa, than God, gradually diminishes. Then niṣṭhā, continued attempt for the service, not for otherwise. Then taste will be created, real taste, taste proper for the truth will be created, awakened in our heart. Then we're safe, not before that. When the spontaneous taste within us is awakened for the truth we're safe. We can make fair progress from that time. Up to then we must remain under guardian. The taste will take me. 'I have got the taste, sweetness, so automatically I shall run towards that, very sweet.' Until and unless we find that truth is sweet, Kṛṣṇa is sweet, I'm not safe to go towards Him. So many things may take me hither thither. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is Guru also under the law of karma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not under the law of karma. Guru, as I told, from the examples of the sādhus and scriptures, three kinds. One comes from Vaikuṇṭha, from the land of wholesale truth, he comes here as agent to take them up. Another Guru, one step here, another step there, he takes, he carries the persons from here to there. And the last type of Guru, two legs here, but eyes are fixed there and he takes persons along with him to that position. Three kinds generally.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The officers are generally - stamp is but the - rank is but the guinea stamp, man is the gold for that. So, some officers, military generals, or police officers, the stamp is given that he's police superintendent, he's the district magistrate. But the man to whom that stamp is given, that should also be considered. So sometimes all persons that get the stamp - I'm not talking of the trader guru. With mundane purpose they're going on with the business of guru-ism, not that. But sincere persons, if his capacity is not very high, but he gets some impression, that he gets license, he gets from upper world, he may go on doing discharging his duty but he's fallible. Under adverse circumstances he cannot maintain his own position, he may be lost - in lower type.

But in the higher type if that license comes they're strong enough to carry so many. And the lower type of guru, it is mentioned that they must not do all these things, they must move cautiously, in this way. So the higher type of Guru is quite safe, who are already settled firmly in their positions, nothing can deviate them from that consciousness. And that is well and good.

And why, in the lower type, he finds that this is very sweet, extending it to others. "This medicine has cured me from such disease." He's recommending that medicine to that man. "I'm in the curing process. I used this pill. I think I'm in the curing process. Disease is going away."

Then if he's a sincere giver, he may give that pill to others. "You use it." In that lower position he may come down also sometimes.

But they're strongly rooted, no question of falling away.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is it not the duty of a lower Guru to take a disciple to a higher Guru?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is written in the scripture that one, in another phase it is written that a śūdra may initiate in his own cast, but he'll never go to initiate higher cast. In this way it is mentioned. He will take rather to the guru of that cast. In this colour it is mentioned.

So always, when seed of higher quality is available to sow into the soil, our sincere attempt will always be to that direction. The good seed is available for the soil. At that time if I neglect that good seed, and the lower class of seed I sow in the soil, then the product will be less. And the man who is manipulating in this way he'll be responsible for that.

So when higher Guru is available, the lower persons should always think that he may be connected, vartma-pradarśaka, show the way, go there. That will be our sincere dealing. But sometimes in the relative position they think that to continue the line of my Gurudeva, I may hold lower position, lower capacity, but to continue the line of my Gurudeva I must accept disciple. That is also a sort of tendency in the śiṣya. But they will have to meet their own fate. If he does not deserve then he'll have to fall and die. But if with all his might he tries to keep up that faithfully then he may be safe. The risk is there.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, in Nectar of Devotion, 'the waning moon of attachment' is described for one who has committed aparādha. So if someone sees the symptoms of aparādha in his devotional life, how can he correct that aparādha? How can he adjust, or mitigate that aparādha?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No other alternative but,

bhūmau-skhalita-pādānāṁ bhūmir evāvalambanam
[tvayi jātāparādhānāṁ, tvam eva śaraṇaṁ prabho]

If we slip down and fall onto the ground, with the help of the ground we're to rise again. So where I've committed wrong, I must have to redress the wrong. And with the help of that same place I shall try to rise up. If I've committed offence against any Vaiṣṇava, if I go to the higher, to his Guru, or to God Himself, God will direct, "You've committed offence against that particular Vaiṣṇava, you go to him and pray for forgiveness. And if he forgives you, you're absolved." Do you follow?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura has given an example. If any thorn enters into a particular place, the thorn must be taken out from that place. _____ [?] He has given. The thorn entered into a sole, and you're trying to take it out from the shoulder. No, go direct to the thorn, to the sole, and try to take out that thorn.

So offence committed to any particular Vaiṣṇava, if you go to higher Gurudeva he'll say 'Oh, go there.'

Mahāprabhu asked that Cāpāla Gopāla, when Mahāprabhu as sannyāsa came to this aparādha-bhañjan- pāṭ, here Kuliyā, Cāpāla Gopāla came and fell at His feet. "I have committed offence against You."

"No, no. Not against Me, against Śrīvāsa Paṇḍita. Go and beg your forgiveness from there." Mahāprabhu directed, "Go there, where you've committed the offence."

Something like that. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, can you ask for forgiveness through your heart?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Can you ask forgiveness through the heart, towards another Vaiṣṇava? Rather than going to him personally and beg forgiveness...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you commit offence internally, then you may beg forgiveness internally. But if externally, you'll have to go through the same road, you'll have to beg forgiveness externally. In the assembly if you've insulted anyone, in the assembly you must beg forgiveness. If internally you thought wrong about anyone, internally you may beg forgiveness. The similar way. I committed offence in an assembly, in a public meeting, and internally I'm begging forgiveness, that is hypocrisy.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I've heard it said that because this is Kali-yuga that whatever offence we make internally, if we think something bad, because we cannot control our mind so much because it is Kali-yuga, then we're not so much responsible. Because it is Kali-yuga and we cannot control our mind so much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some concession may be attached for that. But you're a good boy, but with the company of the bad boys, you've committed particular offence, you may get some concession for that. You may know that you're innocent man, but either by under threatening, or by wine, or any other way, you've committed. Just as a madman if he kills another man, then some concession, the madman might have committed murder, he may not be hanged. In this way some concession, but that must be calculated concession.

Devotee: Mahārāja, but are offences of the mind, are they tolerated in the age of Kali-yuga?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tolerated. Kali-yuga, that has special grant, may have some sanction. But that does not mean that anything in Kali-yuga will go in the name of purity. It does not mean that. Some concession is granted for Kali-yuga. The environment is, the atmosphere is polluted, and then he's got some disease. He may be removed from this place and he'll be cured. So Kali-yuga, means mostly are, the majority is, generally, mostly everything is impure. So a good, healthy man may come here and feel some sort of uneasiness. Otherwise he's a healthy man. Some sort of medicine he'll get, and some special benefit also of treatment. He's sick, he gets the facility of the hospital, in this way, our free medicine. Just as during the famine, gets some grant. During that pestilence when everything polluted, some free treatment. In this way. In Kali-yuga everything polluted, something like, so government has arranged for free treatment, free diet. That sort of facility we may get.

["Śukadeva Goswāmī tells Parīkṣit Mahārāja: "O King, the age of Kali, the repository of all evils, has but one glorious characteristic: in this age, those who simply chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa are liberated and reach the Supreme Lord."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.3.51]

You're unfit for other services, give slogan for Kṛṣṇa, in favour of Kṛṣṇa. That is also a kind of service for the country, mere slogan. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Give, and you'll get some benefit. But do it sincerely, not hypocritically. _____ [?] A spy also may superficially give slogan, but that won't be to their benefit. Spy given slogan won't get any benefit. But sincere we must have to be. That slogan will also be considered to be service of the country and you'll be _____ [?] for that.

Any other question? That new girl has come, has she got any question?

Devotee: Mahārāja, when is someone finally free from the laws of karma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When he's got no charm for this world, then, first liberation begins, and the previous debts to be cleared. And when that previous debt is cleared he becomes practically free. The injured may come out of the dangerous zone, but the worms may be within the dangerous zone. The injured has already come, that liberation began. And then the worms will also have to come beyond the dangerous zone. So our past prejudice are there. Only I could understand that this is good, this is bad. I may not do anything wrong from that time. But I did many things, the reaction I shall have to suffer. To every action there's equal and opposite reaction. I became a saint. I don't do any harm to others. But in my past life I did, and they will come to take their revenge. I must have to tolerate. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes. We have to tolerate _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So freedom of the free choice, free will, and wholesale freedom when the past actions, the reactions are finished, then I can get wholesale freedom. So freedom may be thought as two kinds. The free choice has come out of the filthy atmosphere, and my past deeds I'm to suffer for, the reaction. And that is free, then I'm free. And also my entrance into, the free enters a very highly powerful zone, and that can come to meet, to react with my reactions. It is also possible. Kṛṣṇa and His men can come in my favour to fight with my enemies. That is also not impossible in particular cases. So many prejudices, just as, jñānāgniḥ sarva-karmāṇi, bhasmasāt kurute 'rjuna.

jñānāgniḥ sarva-karmāṇi, bhasmasāt kurute tathā]

["As a blazing fire reduces the wood and everything else within it to ashes, O Arjuna, so also does the fire of knowledge burn up all action."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.37]

A bonfire, a spark can finish a mass of woods and straw and other things. That darkness, a room is dark, or cave is dark for a long time, but whenever the light is there the whole darkness goes away. Something is also possible by the special grace of God, Lord. All the previous karma, that prejudice, may be finished by His grace. But that is not the general case. We can gradually work out our relief, is the general case, but there are special cases also. According to our sukṛti we may have association of such powerful substance of things, a help, that I may not know the troubles of my past action. Immediately that may be destroyed. It is possible, by the grace, kṛpa. Kṛpa siddha, sālokya siddha, four kinds of liberation is mentioned. Sālokya siddha, sālokya dhyāna, kṛpa siddha, and another two. One generally in two kinds, acquired, and another from grace, outside. That generally depends upon sukṛti, our previous noble actions in the course of our mundane activity. Some way, anyhow I have collected some noble result, that will come to my help suddenly.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, can you say something about the importance of formally accepting initiation, as opposed to accepting the cure, apart from initiating, becoming initiated by a bona fide Spiritual Master? You were describing initiation as like accepting a good doctor, to cure the disease.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. So that example will teach you that doctor may affect the disease also. It depends upon the choice of the doctor. Instead of taking to the curing facts, he may spoil the patient also. It depends upon the doctor. He may take away from the real path here, and enter to the jungle.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But, for example, one may accept the cure from a distance, but he may not take formal initiation. He may accept in his heart the cure...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is śraddhā, our regard for any good faith, for any good ideal, from anywhere, to come nearer to that substance, far off.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But it is still important to take initiation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Influenced by some ideal, their sympathy for a thing takes us mentally nearer to the person. Suppose someone read the books of Lenin, and he's attracted towards him, and gradually becoming communist. So from far off also, if someone's reading Bhāgavata, or Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Swāmī Mahārāja's books he may be reading, and they're being transformed. Their heart and mind is being transformed and trying to seek some company of Swāmī Mahārāja, in this way. The activity begins there, good or bad, from far off. Our mental zone is more spacious than the physical body. Generally we get the mental touch first, and then the body follows.

Devotee: Can the same goal be achieved if someone accepts initiation, or just accepts Guru in his heart?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Can the same result be achieved if one simply accepts Guru in his heart, and not external initiation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If available, if physical connection is possible, then to keep the distance, what should be the reason? It will depend upon the circumstances.

Suppose, he's got, reading the book he wants to take initiation, but he's got no money, he can't go to the Guru. But from there he's trying his best to follow his directions, he'll make some progress surely in the life.

But when one, out of negligence he does not like to go there, or some other reason, that formality he may not accept. In heart he may have some regard, but he's unable to accept the formality, he thinks that the society is abusing, then it will be something different.

The sincere approach must be towards the truth, with thought, deed, and words, wholesale. And we shall get the benefit of wholesale, otherwise partial benefit we shall get. But in special cases it may also happen that far off I want to surrender myself wholly, but external circumstances not favourable.

Perhaps he may get initiation in dream also, and that may be effective.

Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

One English lady, after the departure of Swāmī Mahārāja, came here, half mad. She was a daughter of a high police officer in India, in Calcutta and also Allahabad.

She told that, "I heard that Swāmī Mahārāja has come from London, and so many devotees. I got his books. I want to see him. I heard that he's left England. Then after making some arrangement I came to India, and I was a little late, and I heard that he has departed."

She came to Navadwīpa, came here, half mad.

"My life is unfulfilled. I could not get his company, connection."

I don't know where she is, neither I remember her name. But at that time I found her very, very disappointed. She was the daughter of a police officer of high rank in India, for long time. She knew Hindi, good, well. Bengali a little. Almost dressed as widow, widow's dress she came, no luxury. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hankering after that contact. No physical connection, but internally she's hankering for.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, should a disciple...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know about that Aniruddha's mother? What is her name? Arundati, in America, she came here several times with Swāmī Mahārāja. Wife of Pradyumna. Her name is Arundati, and his boy is Aniruddha, father Pradyumna, and Arundati, mother's name.

I asked Swāmī Mahārāja here, the boy has imbibed pure devotion very well. I asked Swāmī Mahārāja, has he got this tendency from his mother or father?

Swāmī Mahārāja told, "He got it from his mother, and not father."

The boy's name, Aniruddha, and the father was Pradyumna. He's gone astray, that Pradyumna, for some time, we heard. But Arundati's all right. She's in some temple perhaps in America, where I don't know.

Another lady Swāmī Mahārāja introduced to me. "I picked her from the sea shore of Australia. She was such and such, now she's giving very useful services for the Maṭha."

Another lady came from Iran, and she engaged herself in the service of Madan's mother, Pishima, Swāmī Mahārāja's youngest sister, Madhan's mother. Her youngest child was Madan. She paid for the publication of Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam to me. She came to take initiation from me, but at that time I did not begin to give initiation to anyone, no inspiration. So I sent her to Goswāmī Mahārāja and she took initiation there. But she had much respect for me. And she paid for the printing cost of that Ambrosia, that Prapanna-jīvanāmṛtam, back in forty three or so. So long ago. For her service that Iranian girl was engaged with her. That girl came here several times.

Another lady, when about a hundred and fifty came here along with Swāmī Mahārāja, and took prasādam here. They're delivering lectures, I asked if any lady wants to speak something she's at liberty to say. Then one lady spoke, and her lecture was very impressive, at least to me. She explained why she came.

She told that, "When I heard that we can live with God as if in a family, as family member we can serve Him, we can have Him within our midst, this attracted me most. About God we heard so many things before, but that is transcendental, abstract, imaginary, all these. But if it it possible that God as Kṛṣṇa, He may accept us within His family staff, and allow us to serve Him and His servitors, it touched my heart, deepest."

And I was captured there by that girl, very satisfactory.

"I'm here. That family life with God attracted me most _____ [?]"

Very touching lecture she delivered here.

In Kurukṣetra the gopīs gave such statement. "We're not yogīs, we're not karmīs. The karmīs also worship God for the elevation of this mundane life. The jñānīs they use up their, they want liberation from, by His help, liberation, abstract thinking. But we do not belong to neither to these two groups. We're family persons, and half jungle persons, girls. We know only family life. We want You, to serve as family servants, maidservants. And if You're gracious, kind to us, please come in our cottage to accept our services as family members. We're meant only for that. We have no other capacity. A little affection of heart if You have got, with that we can serve, render Your service. Please be kind to us for that."

Kṛṣṇa told in answer. "The whole world, by their attraction towards Me, they get their necessary relief. And that person alone, I'm caught by your affection. Your affection is so pure and simple and sincere, that I think it's My fortune that I've got your affection. So I'm always with you."

Vidagdha Mādhava: ...the difference between Mahāmāyā and karma? As the effect of śikṣā in his struggle to become free, the different actions of karma and Mahāmāyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow what you say. Mahāmāyā and karma.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These two words, and the help, the relation between them you want to know?

Vidagdha Mādhava: The relationship, the influence they're having on one devotee who...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Karma means our movement under the influence of Mahāmāyā means misconception, misunderstood activity, cannot give desired result, normal result. Mahāmāyā means misconception. The movement, the energy that is used under misconception, that will misdirect, cannot give us the desired result. The misconception may be intense or be light. So satya-guṇa is light misconception, raja-guṇa is a little stronger, and tama-guṇa very deep misconception. The misconception is misguiding, so any movement under the influence of Mahāmāyā, that is misguiding. So what result it will bring for you? This knowledge of misconception, some sort of, some form of misconception, light or deep.

They reach their respective gods, but My devotees obtain Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.22-23]

Temporary results they're acquiring, and that is finished, and again acquiring, again finished. Time immemorial in this vicious circle they're wandering. Tasyaiva hetoḥ prayateta kovido, na labhyate yad bhramatām upary adhaḥ. High and low, in this way, action reaction, action reaction, in this way. Tal labhyate duḥkhavad anyataḥ sukhaṁ, kālena sarvatra gabhīra-raṁhasā. Sometimes happy, sometimes sorrow, in this way they're wandering in immemorial time.

But only when connection comes from the agent of the land of perfection, then by getting their touch, gradually develops his fortune towards that zone. Out of misconception, revealed truth. Everything is calculated from the standpoint of the wholesale, not any partial, or departmental, or local. Not from local or departmental interest. Everything calculated here all local, personal, individual, national. All, in the comparison with infinite everything is a small point. Whether country wide, or philanthropy, or I may identify even with the interest of the whole solar system, that is also a mere point in consideration with the infinite whole, Vaikuṇṭha.

We're to transform us from the local interest towards the universal interest. God interest means universal interest. Everything, the estimate in that calculation, everything is right, no change. So Kṛṣṇa conception means that, from the standpoint of the absolute, what is what.

Īśāvāsyam. Everything belongs to Him. Even this body does not belong to me, but we're thinking 'this kingdom belongs to me.' All false, suffering from falsehood, from misconception.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And we're to transform us into absolute interest. Vaikuṇṭha, Kṛṣṇa's interest. We shall live or die only for Kṛṣṇa's interest. The membership in another plane. That visa we're to acquire. In that plane we're to live. Die to live. We'll have to undergo wholesale death, and again to awake in that soil, that I'm a servant of Kṛṣṇa. Almost a suicidal squad, whatever will be necessary for His whim, I shall jump into that immediately. And there we thrive. In that sort of conception we really thrive. Otherwise, we lose ourselves, our interest. That is the conception under, die to live. These Hegelian words, die to live. The wholesale death we're to face, and get.

All forgery, a forged life we're living at present, forgery. Wholesale is forged. Love for country, love for ladies, love for wealth, love for name and fame, wholesale forgery. We're to get out of the forged life, and to enter into life proper. We're, as atom, we must accept the atomic position, in comparison with the infinite whole, Kṛṣṇa, Absolute Good. We should like to have proper dealing of an atom, from the infinite.

We want to become a king, which is the absolute. So many Kṛṣṇa's may come and serve me. That malicious temperament we've got, everything we'll want to serve me. We don't know what is service proper. The wholesale diabolical change is necessary. It is not so easy a thing. Die to live.

He's for Himself. He's not for anyone. If we're for Himself, we're one with Him, then He's for us. But as long as we think we've got our separate interest, He's not for us. When we convert ourselves to be for Himself, then He's also for us. But how this possibility of independence we've got, that is the most intricate question. This māyā, misuse of the free will, of so many atomic souls.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Free will. Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. We're nowhere. I'm such a substantial man, I have no position at all, I'm nowhere. I'm to be lost in the infinite. But easily in the infinite you'll grow, you'll maintain your real existence. It is possible. Die to live. If you want to live a healthy, proper life, you'll have to die wholesale as you are. Mainly things have such characteristic.

Today I stop here.

Devotee: Jaya. Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...branch of this Maṭha. _____ [?] Naika?

Parama: I didn't see her today. I spoke with her yesterday, she wasn't feeling so well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She was not living with you in that building, blue house?

Parama: Yes, she's there, she's over there in the blue house.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She comes from Malaysia?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Another lady, she has _____ [?] in Malaysia, she has also left everything and joined the mission. Now anyhow she's left here. You can talk with her also, she'll come here very soon, in that house, with her. ...Christian, is it not.

Parama: No. Buddhist.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She was Buddhist.

Devotees: Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā dāsa. Vidagdha Mādhava dāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now we start. Any question?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. Guru Mahārāja, can everyone in this lifetime aspire to be sannyāsī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Everyone cannot. But mentally he can do, but formally one who's qualified for the service, he should be given, and he should aspire. Ācārya, sannyāsa means the position of an Ācārya, in general, preacher. Someone who's got the capacity of preaching, he should accept sannyāsa āśrama and go on with his activity.

And internally everyone may accept, for that, generally bābājī, that's also a form of sannyāsa, the bābājī, does not like to preach but wants to live an exclusive life devoted to God. He may take that sannyāsa, that bābājī sannyāsa, white clad, with kaupīna, and taking the Name of the Lord, and other functions of devotion. But not out to preach. That is a form of sannyāsa of bābājī type.

But not the so-called bābājīs who are sahajiyā. That together with ladies they go on with some sort of practices thinking that they will help them towards the devotional life. Not that. But as the model of Rūpa, Sanātana, Jīva, etc., Raghunātha, that type, they're servants.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, everyone has capacity to preach something, so what is the qualification that allows one to take sannyāsa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The main thing, they work under some bona fide Ācārya. They may engage themselves in any sort of preaching. Book works also, the press work also a kind of preaching. Distribution of books also preaching. So many things are preaching which is meant for the help of the people at large. Kīrtana is also a kind of preaching. To propagate anyhow devotional spirit to the public, that is preaching.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But what separates, that makes sannyāsa, that preaching that makes one understand he can possibly take sannyāsa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That must have some knowledge of scriptures, and also some capacity of delivering lectures, or at least to talk amongst the public, and to receive question and to answer them. All these qualifications in general must be present in a sannyāsī. Mahāprabhu took the role of sannyāsa for preaching purpose. Generally sannyāsīns are accepted as preachers here in India. Buddhist sannyāsī, and this Jain sannyāsī, also Hindu sannyāsī. Hindu is the oldest type. Different types of sannyāsa. The tridaṇḍī, ekadaṇḍī, then this Buddhist kapanaka [?] And then the kapalik [?] Tantric sannyāsī. So many kinds of sannyāsa.

...sampradāya, and then Madhva sampradāya, there are also different types of sannyāsa.

Vidagdha Mādhava: This lady is going now Mahārāja.

...

You're saying internal vairāgya, everyone, or some, they don't take the external paraphernalia of sannyāsa, but there's some renunciation within. Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What do you say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Everyone may not take daṇḍa but internally become renounced.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Internally everyone may be a sannyāsī, even a lady, internal temperament, do not want anything, no enjoyment. That is sannyāsa. Kāmyānāṁ karmaṇāṁ nyāsaṁ, sannyāsaṁ kavayo viduḥ. In Bhagavad-gītā.

[śrī-bhagavān uvāca
kāmyānāṁ karmaṇāṁ nyāsaṁ, sannyāsaṁ kavayo viduḥ sarva-karma-phala-tyāgaṁ, prāhus tyāgaṁ vicakṣaṇāḥ]

["The Supreme Lord said: According to the learned, the abandonment of all materially desirable actions is called renunciation (sannyāsa), and the abandonment of the fruits of all kinds of action (whether daily, incidental, or based on material desire) is called detachment (tyāga)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.2]

What is sannyāsa? Who renounces all sorts of pleasing activity, enjoying mood, that is sannyāsa. And what is the activity that is necessary to keep up ones body fit, that should not be given up. Yukta-vairāgya. Kāmyānāṁ. No aspiration for any material gain. That is the qualification of a sannyāsī, in general. Anyone may be that stage, internally, whoever has rejected all possible enjoyments of this mundane world, he's a sannyāsī. But he will take help from the mundane world, so much as makes his body fit for service of the Lord. Body is not our enemy, body may be utilised in the service. Service can never be renounced. Whatever will help me in discharging my duty towards the service of Kṛṣṇa, that should be taken, and no individual reward. Kāmyānāṁ karmaṇāṁ ṇyāsaṁ. Nyāsa means rejection, of all sensual activities. That is sannyāsa.

Sarva-karma-phala-tyāgaṁ, prāhus tyāgaṁ vicakṣaṇāḥ. And to give up the consequences of all sorts of activity, whether necessary or unnecessary, that is tyāga, that is higher. He can do anything, but he's not captured by the consequence, by the attraction of that thing. That is tyāga, that is higher type. Sarva-karma. What is indispensable to keep up the body, and what is luxury, giving up both, the consequence, the result, that is tyāga, not the activity. As sannyāsa means to give up the internal and external also, stopping the mundane activity. The aspirations for future life, 'I want to be a Brahmā, I want to be Indra, I want a kingdom, I want fame, name.' All is kāmyā, unnecessary. And to keep up this body, and the duty, whatever is necessary, to accept that, but indifferently. That is tyāga, everywhere indifferently, without caring for the result, for the consequence. 'Whatever may be, may come, may come. I'm doing as my duty.'

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

_____ [?] destroying brahmāṇḍa, a solar system, he does not do anything. That is nirguṇa. Above everything, but he's not connected with that thing. Only he's pushed by the universal current. He's so selfless he allows himself fully to surrender to the fundamental wave. So whatever he does, the responsibility is with the fundamental wave, with Kṛṣṇa, and not himself. Only mere agent. That is nirguṇa.

Vidagdha Mādhava: There are a class of persons in America, in the west, that are now pursuing purification of the body as a means of advancing ones consciousness. They purify the body by fasting, by taking certain diet...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Should not be whimsical, that direction must come from up, from the nirguṇa place, revealed. Any whimsical attempt cannot be taken as nirguṇa. There must be some criteria. Any whimsical action may not be accepted as nirguṇa.

Vidagdha Mādhava: How does one recognise that the information is coming from that plane?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So we must have some realisation about the facts.

There is a story. Once, a brāhmaṇa he had a garden, and with much care he grew his garden, made his garden to grow well. Then one cow has entered into the garden and much damage she caused. So he ___ [?] with some bamboo _____ [?] some cow in such a way the cow died instantly. The brāhmaṇa uttered at that time, "Govinde richa." [?] "The will of Govinda."

Then the clerk of Yāmarāja, record keeper, he stopped there. "At the time of killing the cow, the brāhmaṇa uttered these words, 'This is the will of Govinda, Kṛṣṇa.' Then whether the record will be in Kṛṣṇa's name or this brāhmaṇa?" He referred to his master, Yāmarāja. "Such incidents happened. A brāhmaṇa gave a beating to a cow, and she died instantly. And he uttered these words 'Govinde richa,' the will of Govinda. Then in whose name the sin to be recorded?"

Yāmarāja referred to Brahmā. "Such is the incident, what to do?"

Brahmā told, "Stop for some time, I'm coming, and will give you information what to do."

Then Brahmā, he took the shape of another brāhmaṇa and entered the house of this brāhmaṇa, the cow killer, as a guest. And enquired, "Oh, a very good garden you have got, so many flowers, fruits, all these. By the will of Govinda how everything has been done very beautiful, by the will of Govinda, by the will of Govinda."

The brāhmaṇa could not tolerate his words, 'that everything by Govinda.' I have done with the sweat of my own brow, and you say, 'Govinda, Govinda."

Then Brahmā's object was achieved, he went away, then. "The cow killing should be recorded in the name of the brāhmaṇa, not Govinda."

Do you follow?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When the cow is being killed only uttering the name of Govinda. But all others, "I have done, with the sweat of my own brow, by my own hands and limbs and labour I have produced. You always utter the name of Govinda, Govinda, Govinda."

So the criterion in this way to be determined. _____ [?] Only to profess that, "What I'm doing, I get dictation of the Lord." Only this sort of posing won't do. It must be heart depth. Depth must be to the fullest extent, everything. "I'm only instrumental, and whatever dictation I get from my Lord I do that." There is such a position. Mere posing won't do. A real position is there.

Vidagdha Mādhava: How can one be sure that his activities are bringing devotion?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Generally when it is approved by the scriptures as well as the saints, sādhus. When appreciated by the sādhu, and also śāstra.

Ones activity is loyal or disloyal, or it is criminal or saintly, in the country, how? The law book is there, the experts, the lawyers are there. They will say that, "This is criminal action and so much criminal. And this is all right." The law book is there and the lawyers are also there.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

...

Vidagdha Mādhava: Is there an attitude that one has when he performs the action? Would that increase or decrease the result of devotion? If one has an attitude, a proper conception at the time of action, at the time of activity, then that will help him...?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. According to the attitude.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So internally it is important his purpose is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course, it is all important. The internal sincerity that is all important. With what attitude he did? What was his meaning?

A doctor, to his best ability, he's making treatment of a patient. But suppose, due to his scanty knowledge he did not diagnose rightly, patient died. But he tried his best to help the patient to recover, but due to his ignorance he could not. Then he should not be considered as a sinner, that he's killed the patient. Not killed, his nature was to help but he could not, perhaps by his mistake it may be, but he should not be considered as a murderer. Though by his maltreatment, his mistaken treatment, the patient died, but he's not a murderer. Due to ignorance the patient died, not real medicine was applied, it may be.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But fault is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Some fault is there, but not that of a murderer. So according to the attitude the calculation will be different.

Devotee: _____ [?]

["O Arjuna, I am situated in the hearts of all souls as the Supersoul, the Lord and Master of all souls. For every endeavour of the living beings in this world, the Lord (My plenary expansion, the Supersoul) awards an appropriate result. As an object mounted on a wheel is caused to revolve, the living beings are caused to revolve in the universe by the almighty power of the Lord. Incited by Him, your destiny will naturally be effected according to your endeavours."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Yantrārūḍhāni māyayā.

tam eva śaraṇaṁ gaccha, sarva-bhāvena bhārata
[tat-prasādāt parāṁ śāntiṁ, sthānaṁ prāpsyasi śāśvatam]

["O Bhārata, surrender unto Him in all respects. By His grace you will attain the supreme peace and the eternal abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.62]

Then the other part, where He explains. Tam eva śaraṇaṁ gaccha. Everything is done by Him. Where then, where is the room for asking, "You take refuge to Him. You try to obey Him." Who is that 'you?'

Anyone? Do you understand his question?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Bhagavad-gītā, have you heard this śloka in Bhagavad-gītā?

īśvaraḥ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, hṛd-deśe 'rjjuna tiṣṭhati [bhrāmayan sarvva-bhūtāni, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā]

"Oh, Arjuna, the Lord exists in every heart. And how? Bhrāmayan sarvva-bhūtāni, yantrārūḍhāni māyayā. And He's moving everything, everyone, just as one is handled by a machine."

One who is handling a machine, the machine has got no independence of its own. So Lord is there. And you're all moving in His hands through the machine. You say, "Then where is the responsibility of jīva?"

And again there is asked in the next line, tam eva śaraṇaṁ gaccha. "Just take shelter under His feet."

To whom this advice? To take shelter or not to take shelter, that is also being done by Him. Then where is the independence? Do you follow? No?

Devotees: No. Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you've got any independence then you'll take shelter under Him, you'll surrender to Him. But He's doing everything, where is your independence? You're free, but you're to obey Him, and to accept Him or reject Him. The advice is to whom? He's doing everything, and we're all like mechanical dolls, playing at His hand. Where is our independence that we're asked again to take shelter, surrender to Him? Do you follow? No?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes, Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is His _____ [?] What is the answer?

Vidagdha Mādhava: One can choose to be controlled by the lower energy, the apara-prakṛti, or the para-prakṛti. He's controlled at all times, but sometimes by guṇa and sometimes by Yogamāyā. The jīva is controlled at all times, but his choice is to be controlled by Kṛṣṇa or māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow what you say.

Vidagdha Mādhava: The jīvātmā is controlled.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Controlled by?

Vidagdha Mādhava: By, depending on his choice, by māyā or by Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By Kṛṣṇa. Now, then Kṛṣṇa says that, "I'm playing everyone like a mechanical doll. They've got no independence." And again says, "You accept that."

What is your independence of accepting or rejecting?

Vidagdha Mādhava: It's accepting a good master over a bad master.

Swāmī Mahārāja would say, "You serve māyā you get kicked, she kicks. You get punished. So what is the use? Better to renounce sense gratification and choose to serve Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever is happening, that is by His will. Without His will, even a straw cannot move. Everything is happening by His will. And we're to accept that in a good sense. I'm reluctantly doing something, I'm forced by Kṛṣṇa to do something, but only my choice is in my hand. And I shall learn to make choice what is happening by His order. I have got no hand to interfere any practical incident. It is by His will, as the result of so many wills controlled by Him, the incident is happening. But it may not please me, it may not satisfy my choice, my will. Only learning, you're requested to learn to accept them, what is happening, to be the best.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, [bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam

Whatever is happening, you're to learn to take that this is the good. Do you follow? No?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever is to happen it must happen. By the will of God, none can oppose that. But you may not feel pleasure of that incident. You're requested to be pleased with that incident what is happening by the will of God. You'll learn to accept everything as best. It is all for the best. You accommodate, adjust yourself with that principle, it is all for the best.

Whatever is happening, yes, by the will of God, and it is the best thing. No other alternative would have been best. This is the best, under such circumstances this is the best. You only learn to accept that.

82.12.22.B_82.12.23.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...will say that if it would have been otherwise it would have been better. You should not say that. Whatever has happened, it is by His will, and it is the best. You're to understand, you're to follow that, how it is the best. You learn to have your choice in accordance with the choice of the universal, of the absolute. Try to harmonise your choice with the choice of the absolute, outside.

Do you follow? No?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you all follow, what I say? Tat te 'nukampām. Not only it is not undesirable, but it is the most desirable, what has happened. I may not appreciate but it is the best, and I must try to understand how it is the best, with good attitude. No objection. What has happened that is the best. Why it is best I'm to learn, and try to make oneself in the harmony with that what is happening.

One German scholar, I do not know his name, forgot, he told, "The Gītā is the highest book in all the theological scriptural world. Why? Only for one point. Gītā has requested us to adjust our own self with the environment. Environment you can never change. You must be confident, you must know it for certain, that you cannot change the environment. It is in the hand of the Absolute. Only is you like peace, you're to adjust yourself with the environment."

So what is happening, that is the best. Not only can you not change but it is the best. And you are to understand why it is the best. It is the best, there is no doubt it is the best. Without His will even a straw cannot move. So what has happened cannot but be the best. But why it is the best, anomaly is with you, and that anomaly should be removed and you'll need to harmonise with the will of the Supreme which is really controlling everything. But your choice is revolt and that revolt must be checked and you'll learn to appreciate that what has happened that is all right. The whole thing on that subtle point. The whole world, this brahmāṇḍa, is suffering only in that subtle point it is standing. _____ [?]

Very, very subtle point. We cannot be satisfied because of our selfish whim. Your selfish whim must be shaken off, and then you'll be able to understand 'yes, it is the best.' Your own individual selfish consideration is in the way of your understanding that what is happening that is the best. That has made the world of your own local interest, individual interest, provincial interest, national, all these qualified interests, that has made up this world.

Otherwise, remove all these local interests. You will find you're in the absolute plane where the happy waves are always rising and going down. Only on that subtle point the whole world is going away from the Absolute, that individual choice. But they have got no power to modify the outside things. But it is there. Your transaction will be in that plane.

That revealed truth will come and say that, "It is cent percent good. Why do you not understand that this is cent percent good? The whole campaign, preaching, scripture, all applicable only in this smallest, thin plane. Give up localism mania, individual mania, and merge into that universal plane. And there Yogamāyā will give you another individual consciousness, and that will all carry to the centre for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. You'll be contributor to the activity what is inevitable, you cannot avoid."

Am I clear? No?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. But one question arises.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that?

Vidagdha Mādhava: If something against śāstra, something, for the sake of example, if someone...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But śāstra and sādhu they have got their gradation, so difference according to that. Just as to boy, whole thing cannot be said. By partial instalment śāstra has served it, so sādhu is also that.

Vidagdha Mādhava: One example. If someone comes to due harm to ones Guru then one must act. He cannot accept this is the best thing. Yes? He cannot accept a situation without at least trying to do something. Yes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. If someone is dead, then also we're to see that there's some goodness. There must be some meaning. Someone is finished, still also we must take it is for the best. How? Death is better than living, apparently. That is also possible. If he did not die he would create greater wrong. Apparently, I say like that. So death is desirable than life sometimes. It may be also possible.

Vidagdha Mādhava: If someone comes to rape ones daughter...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because ultimately in the līlā of Kṛṣṇa nothing is unnecessary, or nothing is evil, from the eternal standpoint. Only from the local standpoint this death, and this one is aggressor on others, all from local standpoint. And from the eternal standpoint everything, even the death is līlā, pastimes. Nothing dies. Do you follow?

As I was told I remember. The lion is devouring Prasena. Siṁha Prasena, both parties are enjoying. Who is being killed, he's also enjoying. And who is killing, he's also enjoying. It is possible.

Just as in a play, I told many a time, that in a play the one is killed, another is killing. But one who is being killed, he may get greater appreciation of his play, than the killer, murderer.

So from the absolute standpoint, no loss, everything is play, līlā. And from our local view we're ascribing to it loss and gain, pleasing and non-pleasing, we ascribe. Really it is not so, really everything is good.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But if someone sees some evil he should not try to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Evil in that relative plane.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. He should not try to stop it if he sees it is wrong?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, yes. He should try to stop it.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But if he cannot he accepts it the ultimate good?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When he understands it is good he won't go to stop.

Devotee: Mahārāja, if everything is happening by the Lord's will anyway, then what is the point of our struggle? Why should we struggle for anything?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Struggle only to make those that are not appreciating that everything is good, to disarm them from that sort of evil mentality. The good I'm seeing, it is not good. That is in me, and not there. And the defect in me should be removed. And all the scriptures, truth, preaching, only concerning that, to cure the seer. There is some defect in your seeing, prejudice in the mind of the onlooker, and not the sight. The defect is there, where, in the subjective disability. Only for local prejudice, that is māyā, misunderstanding. The independent valuation of everything is being ignored, and our local interest we're pushing on it, and we're seeing that it's bad, because it's not suiting to my local demand.

Vidagdha Mādhava: There's one story...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My local, selfish view, that should be removed. I must convert myself to see everything from the universal standpoint. The crooked angle of vision of my own, that should be cleared off. Treatment is necessary in my eye, and not in the object of view. My mind imposing local interest over everything that is universal. And so others are also, and they clash and then suffer.

All belongs to Kṛṣṇa. Everything meant for His service. And I must join that campaign wholesale, then no difficulty in me.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. On His interest, we shall learn to see everything in His interest, in the universal, in the interest of the whole, of the absolute. The training of us should be in that line, from individual to universal interest, you can convert everyone that are suffering from the disease of individual interest.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Everyone should try to give his prejudices of their, some this individual consciousness, in selfishness, some country, national selfishness, some social selfishness. All these things we're suffering from, the local, limited. The limited should merge into the infinite. And there is another division in that. In harmonious movement also there are divisions, by Yogamāyā, but all faithful to the centre. And they're all suffering from out-carrying current, absorbing from the interest of the universal temperament to the local. Everything is good. My consideration may not appreciate. My consideration is vulnerable. The local calculation is defective. Universal calculation, infinite calculation, is very great. But through faith, through śraddhā, we can have touch of that, and not by intellect or anything else, so,

sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir, ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

Give up your pride that you know things. Only faith will come to your relief, śraddhā. The Absolute cannot do any wrong, so whatever is done by Him it is all for the best. Everything is for Himself. We're to swallow this pill. Everything is for Himself. He's by Himself, the Absolute by Himself, and Absolute is for Himself. We're to adjust with that, then we'll find pleasure. Otherwise we shall have to struggle if we represent only our crooked, partial representation. Enter into that faith, that Absolute is for Itself, and we're all contributors to His faith, to His joy. Die to live. Here we're to understand 'die to live.' If you want to have a proper life, a blissful life, you'll have to die wholesale as you are at present. The seeker after own bodily self, or own eternal self, then this national, or family, or country, or clan, all these, whatever bigger it seems to you, it is a mere point in the infinite. No consideration. The whole. For Himself. You must merge in that, successfully. Everything for Himself. What is the calculation of good or bad concerning me, or anyone here? He's for Himself. And we must die to live if we can accommodate such thing within us.

So Kuntī Devī wants, "Give me danger, give me adversity, my Lord, which brings You nearer to me."

Adversity, she's welcoming adversity. Why? How it is possible? Because I can get the centre of harmony there, adversity. Adversity to me, and prosperity to another. In this world of dualism it happens such. One is eating and another is being food to him, in this plane.

Karma dosa pada teki [?] No work can be pure, must be harmful. Eh?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Selflessness, cent percent selfless, they get the grace, the kindness of the Lord, and they become happy. That is die to live. Tat te 'nukampāṁ. Everything what is happening, His grace, we're to accept that. That is our goal. And in the eternity here there are different advices, and different practices to be accepted. All of a sudden we cannot remove this sort of anomaly within us. A gradual process we're to pass through, by the help of scriptures, and by the help of the saints. What is told that in this revolting system there are different subtle planes within it, and we're to cross one by one, in this way. It has been divided, eighty four lākhs of species of interest. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka, Virajā, Brahmaloka, Paravyoma, and Goloka. That is also divided in the subtle planes of - are divided in this way. But this only same word, we devotee, we want to devote, to dissolve our ego. Crores of infinite number of egos are there, such as infinite number of diseases may be to be cured. So infinite number of egos, and they require special treatment to be cured of that egoism. That egoism means this, separate consciousness.

bhayaṁ dvitīyābhiniveśataḥ syād, [īśād apetasya viparyyayo 'smṛtiḥ tan-māyayāto budha ābhajet taṁ, bhaktyaikayeśaṁ guru-devatātmā]

["Fear arises when a living entity misidentifies himself as the material body because of absorption in the external, illusory energy of the Lord. When the living entity thus turns away from the Supreme Lord, he also forgets his own constitutional position as a servant of the Lord. This bewildering, fearful condition is effected by the potency for illusion, called māyā. Therefore, an intelligent person should engage unflinchingly in the unalloyed devotional service of the Lord, under the guidance of a bona fide spiritual master, whom he should accept as his worshippable deity and as his very life and soul."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.37]

"I've go some separate interest. I cannot merge in the interest of the whole."

Separate interest. Bhayaṁ dvitīyābhiniveśataḥ syād, īśād apetasya viparyyayo. And the wholesale at the bottom of all this that we've got, we've come away from the common interest. So separate interest is the evil at the root of all evil. And that may be analysed into different planes also, divided, sub divided, in this way. And according to that division of the plane, different medicine is to be applied, and different diet also. But on the whole, separate interest. Absolute interest, and separate interest, and separate interest of infinite number. Everything has got its peculiarity, so peculiar medicine and diet is necessary for everyone. Śāstra has grouped them in different number, and applied a general medicine for them, in this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: So Mahārāja, how does one view the annihilation of the Jewish people in Nazi Germany? And is it possible to preach to the survivors of that race the divine will of God?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If the good of the creepers and animals also may be attempted, then what of the Jewish people. We may try, but according to their position they'll accept. So different, and sometimes punishment is necessary to dissolve the ego. Sometimes punishment is very helpful, sometimes kindness is helpful. Different types of treatment is applied. So many punishments where? In this separate interest consciousness, so much punishment. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi [Bhagavad-gītā, 13.9] These are the general punishments dealt to them, to the separate consciousness party. Janma-mṛtyu-jarā-vyādhi. [birth, death, old age, disease] They cannot be satisfied there, so they're forced to seek some relief, and ultimately they're told, 'give up your separate interest, and merge, die to live.'

So the stone is there, the tree is there, so many insects, worms, so many ghosts, so many good ghosts also in the creation, so many things. All of that separate consciousness, separate interest of different types. But as general medicine, 'give up your egoism of infinite classes and merge in one God consciousness.' And there is also gradation there, that side. After death of this material separate interest, as in the positive life there is also gradation we're told.

So faith can take us and no knowledge. So Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam especially giving whips after whips to our intellectual attempt. Only take resort to faith, and don't think that faith means credulity. That is also a disease to a normal faith. Faith is most accommodating, all accommodating faith. How much you can increase the position of your faith? The infinite is there, and your little mind can spread how much faith? What capacity have you to extend your faith, abnormally? What do you know about the infinite? Nothing you know. So only faith can take you to touch of that absolute, and no knowledge. And what of the energy of your negative side? The energy is, elaborately, relies on the negative side, no director in the proper line. And the director, that is your knowledge, that is futile, that cannot hope to reach that side.

It's the revealed truth, He can connect, and you cannot connect with Him against His desire. The superior subject can come to your lower subject. Your subject is gross, it cannot go up to touch that sort of subject. A hand cannot capture the mind, but mind can see, look at the interest of the hand. So higher existence. Intelligence can work on the mind, but _____ [?] cannot touch the intelligence. It is higher existence. So jīva soul, under the fine Supersoul, Paramātmā, in that way. The Absolute is only that way.

A flying saucer, a few years back there was a story of flying saucer. That can come and connect with these worldly things, but they're chasing but can't catch that saucer. A few years back there was a story that first it was seen somewhere, in Canada or so, and here and there, flying saucer. And they're trying to chase but it vanishes. That can come, we can't catch it, go there.

So Super Subject can come down in our gross consciousness, but our gross consciousness cannot go to pierce that subtle thing and to feel it. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, when we act in our separate interest, is it good if we feel guilty, we feel remorse? Is that positive?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Separate interest is wrong. The Kṛṣṇa interest. In the name of giving up separate interest, we may not invite another greater selfish interest. That national interest, the philanthropic interest, so many interests are there. They're all, in a circle may be a little better, then another a little more, another a little more, but all is limited. And that is no part to infinite, it may be smallest part in the infinite. Any number of finite cannot produce infinite. That is naturally of different type. That is diabolically, of different type. No number of zero can make one. So no number of finite can make infinite. Infinite is of its own type, not a second. So self interest may be concerned with a little more, a little more.

Our Gurudeva used to give some example. That there is a river and some fire on the other side, of the Ganges. And from here there are some _____ [?] drunkards, they're intoxicated. They want to light a thing which is necessary to put on that intoxicating substance, fire, to put fire and then to take the smoke in, that fire _____ [?] It is known as tika [?], something will light that is to take into fire and put into intoxication, and then with the help of the pipe they'll smoke. So that thing he wants to, that fire, is on the other side of the Ganges.

So one intoxicated man is pushing that tika [?] with his hand to catch the fire.

Another man, "No, no. What do you do? You've not seen. One step further, then again pushing this."

Another person's going a few steps further and putting the hand to catch the fire.

In this way the ascending method, they're trying to reach the infinite, it is impossible. Then at most, one leg in the river, in the water, and pushing his hand to get the fire. The fire is long, long distant.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So no number of finite can make infinite. Infinite is reigning in His own glory. And to have His connection, to give up wholesale, and to submit to the agent of that infinite, and he'll connect me to it, in this way. So jñāne prayāsa, give up all your hopes of your knowledge. Only take to faith. That can take you, somehow, towards that connection, because everything will be wonder. Everything, every description of the infinite will simply come to you as wonder. Wonder means, which you have never experienced. He's beyond all your experiences. He's such. Wonder of wonder. And only through faith, through the agent, we can come in connection. But when we feel it then, 'Oh, it is such.'

Just as a man who was born in a dark room of a prison house, a boy was born, and he's being brought up there. Then one boy is coming from outside to meet him and talking with him.

One day the boy proposed, "Come out, I shall show the sun."

Then the boy in the darkness went to take some light.

"No, no, light is not necessary. We can see the sun without light."

"But am I a fool? Without light, nothing can be seen. And you say the sun can be seen without light?"

Then the boy drew him by his hand. "See the sun."

"Oh, oh. It is such. We can see everything by sun, and sun can be seen by his own light."

It is like that. Our Guru Mahārāja used to give such example. It is like that. Everything is new. No knowledge of here will help us to see the sun there, that light. Self effulgent. He's self existent, self effulgent and self satisfied. Only through His agent, His grace, we can be taken in His jurisdiction. And how? Now you imagine in what way? Most sincerely, prayerfully, we shall connect ourselves with the agent, and also the scripture. Most earnest tendency to get out of this land of death and dissipation, destruction, to be saved. And who will go there? Our soul, and giving up what are the territories, the body, the mind, and the mental, the fame of I'm a scholar, I'm a giant. All these should be kept here. Suppose if the atom bomb war begins, everyone will run to some safe position. No iron chest, no money, no book, nothing. Only run to safety. So the soul should run. With this bodily fame, our knowledge, scholarship, everything should be left here and soul must run to the safe position. Only through the agent and any guide book. That is what is necessary.

Nitāi Gaura. Nitāi Gaura.

So Nityānanda's question?

Devotee: Mahārāja, I'd like to know something about the Pañca Tattva, the Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda part.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What does he say? What about Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda? Who are Gaura- bhakta-vṛnda? Or how many types? What is the question about Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda?

Devotee: Who are they?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are they? Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda, two classes. One came along with Him, along with Gaurāṅga. And the second class that got admission into Their clan, Their group. Received Their grace and kindness and got admission and accepted, got acceptance, they're also Gaura bhakta. And some, they're parṣada, they're eternal servitors of Gaurāṅga. Two classes of Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda, one group eternal, and another, new recruits. Everywhere it is such.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu.

82.12.23.B

Parama: [When one has material attachments for performing a...] [From the end of the previous MP3]

...is it better to renounce it completely, or to dovetail it in Kṛṣṇa's service?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is generally seen that it should be utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa and devotees, whatever karmārpaṇam, in a general way. But there are particular applications as it is included in the process of śaraṇāgati, surrender. So the general question, whatever quality you've got we shall utilise it in the service of Kṛṣṇa. But particular instructions also there, in particular cases, keeping connection with śaraṇāgati.

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam
[rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā.
ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ
evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ]

["The six limbs of surrender are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa's guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100]

Whatever is favourable we shall accept, and whatever is unfavourable we shall reject. So it will come under these two principles of decision, and we're to adjust.

Suppose one has got a tendency of stealing things. That stealing capacity may be utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa. Steal property for the service of the devotees and for the Deity. But sometimes it is necessary that we should try to avoid that stealing mentality.

This Ranganātha temple under Rāmānuja section in the south, there were some dacoits, when one Āḷvār, that is the parṣada bhakta, eternal devotee, came, wanted to glorify the temple of Ranganātham by having some construction, some boundary walls etc., but he approached the moneyed men, _____ [?]

Then he organised a gang of dacoits. And with the help of the dacoits he amassed some money and constructed so many things in Ranganātham. And it has been justified in the Rāmānuja sampradāya, that he did so. There are so many risky things also we find in that sampradāya. Even what is immoral, that also has been utilised in the service of the Vaiṣṇava. And sometimes they're given very high value. Very risky. But the inner mentality must be pure.

So generally, whatever saṁskāra, good or bad we've got, if we can utilise in the service of the Lord, then we can get relief of those bad prejudices, in general may do. At the same time, suppose if we're in the midst of the holy society, and if I'm detected to steal something for the service of Kṛṣṇa, the social reaction will be greatly in opposition to the mission, and the credit will be lost, and it will be difficult for them to work further on, advance. Do you follow?

Parama: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, special, generally whatever tendency previously acquired we've got within us, we may use it in the service of the Lord, begin there. But at the same time that must be modified with some sort of discretion, as we find in śaraṇāgati. Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam. What is opposite to a religious life, to a preaching life, that must be abandoned. And what is favourable for the progress of our preaching, that should be respected and accepted. Special consideration should be made.

But really, whatever is done for Kṛṣṇa that is welcome, whatever is done for Him. But mentally must be pure, must be sincere. Not only in the name of Kṛṣṇa, we should not indulge in exploitation. Sincere we must be. Whatever is done for Kṛṣṇa it is well and good. But it must be for Kṛṣṇa, the guarantee we must have there.

Music, of course if one has got that sort of capacity _____ [?] It is beautiful to pacify Kṛṣṇa, to satisfy the devotees. God music has got much to pray. But at the same time it attracts many apathetic persons towards us, and that may create some disturbance. So the music may not be, that is very easy food for the ordinary people, and it will attract some ordinary people in the fold and they may cause some disturbance thereafter. And also it is told that musicians can acquire some special appreciation from the public, and their appreciation has got negative value. And we're to consider about that.

I'm doing something, but the others may not misuse that. I'm taking some beautiful food towards the temple. I should do that. But if I find that there are so many greedy persons if they come and loot and cause other disturbance, I may avoid that for the time being, and general food I must take to the temple.

Do you follow?

Parama: Yes I do.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Considering the circumstances we're to adjust. But in general, everything should be devoted to my Lord. Whatever things good I must offer it to my Lord. But we must have to consider about the space, time, person, deṣa-kāla-pātra. So that another special trouble may not arise, I must adjust my program suitably to the time and space. Am I clear?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in the past history of Swāmī Mahārāja's movement, there have been some examples of drug smuggling to amass large sums of money in order to push on the movement.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If that may be carefully done for the service of the Lord, sincerely, that is acceptable. But if that gets publicity and brings a great ill fame to the mission, then the credit of the mission will be at stake, and we shall have to incur loss, ultimately. I told like that, anything, if it's done for Kṛṣṇa then it's all right. But we'll have to consider the time, place, and person, and to accept that with sufficient care and cautiousness. Otherwise, the ill fame, the credit will be at stake, and none will come to approach us for religious hearing, and ultimately the mission will be loser.

Just as the communist rule. "Everything belongs to humanity. No proprietorship of any rich man or king, etc. Everything belongs to humanity." So,

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, [yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat
tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam]

A devotee will see everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa. Everything is meant to satisfy Him. So I must do that. In reality it is so, everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa. Everything should be utilised for Him and His devotees. It is the general rule. But this sort of truth may not be swallowed all of a sudden only by a pill. Gradually this sort of education, this sort of learning, this sort of conception to be spread to the public so that they can accept. So the mediation must come between them. Mananye iti karpam vidaya maya kalpate [?]

It may be sinful, but still everything can be done for Him, though apparently sinful, that also can be done for Him. It is justified. He's the owner, and enjoyer of everything. And none of us are proprietor or enjoyer. Only He's the enjoyer. And we're also object of His enjoyment. This is the fact. But to spread this creed to the public we shall have to take some gradual steps so that may be acceptable to them. If whole truth is given to a boy, he can't understand anything. So by instalment things are to be distributed to the beginners. Ke?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The same thing.

loke vyavāyāmiṣa-madya-sevānityastu jantor-nahi tatra codanā
vyavasthitis-teṣu vivāha-yajña-surāgrahairasu nivṛttiriṣṭhā

them up altogether. The real intention of the Vedic injunctions regarding sex, meat-eating, and wine-drinking is to make a person abstain from these activities."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.5.11]

People are not in conception that everything belongs to God. They think, 'This belongs to me. This belongs to him. That belongs to him.' In this sense if I snatch a flower from his garden, and something else for the Lord, they'll be disturbed and they'll be enemy to us, and my campaign to convert them that will be hopelessly disappointing. So gradual process is necessary. So whatever is done for Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction that is justified. This is the whole truth. But by instalment it should dealt, otherwise the preaching will be at stake, and our practices will defeat its own object. So ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam. We're to calculate what is favourable to my activity and accept, and what is considered unfavourable I must reject. Considering the circumstances, and considering the mentality and progress and capacity of those with whom I'm talking, or I'm debating, so ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam.

Ha, ha, ha. Law has got no value in the kingdom of Kṛṣṇa. Law comes from Him. So law cannot apply itself in His case, or in His own family. Law is never applicable on Him. He's the producer of law. Law comes only to adjust things among those other proprietors, and that is wrong. None is proprietor in this world, in the absolute consideration. So from the absolute standpoint, everything that is done for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa and His own, that is justified. That is the cent percent truth. So in His case, no stealing, though we're told, we see that He's stealing things, but no stealing because everything belongs to Him. So for Him, Manye _____ papam ___ dharmaya kalpate [?]

["In the scriptures of religion, I, the Supreme Lord, have instructed men of all statuses of life in their duties. Duly comprehending the purificatory virtue of executing those prescribed duties as well as the vice of neglecting them, one who abandons all allegiance to such dutifulness in order to engage in My devotional service is the best of honest men (sādhu)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.11.32]

"The best of the devotees, of the honest men, are who? Those that can consider that I've given so many laws in the scriptures, and it's for them, and not to be applied to Me. One who can understand this principle of the law making, for My interest they can leave and give up all the laws and come to Me with clear hands. It is meant for them. I have given, the laws are Mine, it is made by Me, and it is for their benefit, and it should not be applied to Me. So those that can understand this principle, and crossing the law come to serve Me, they're the best of the servitors, highest class of the servitors. But that does not come to apply My made laws and Me. I'm above law. And law for them, they're many, and they're under the false insinuation that a property belongs to them, so some proper division amongst them is necessary. All this is misunderstanding. So those that can give up this mania of law, that something belongs to him, something to others, this is mania, who can give up this mania and come to serve Me with anything, they're the best of the devotees."

"What is considered in the ordinary sense as sinful, if that's done for Me, that will be dharma, that will be the real conception of duty. Real function, truthful function, that will be."

Vidagdha Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja, considering your explanation, should we consider the crusades to be dharma? That is, the Christians they came to the middle east to smash what they called infidels, so is that dharma? In the name of Christ, many Europeans, Englishmen, came to kill the atheists, or the Muslims.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They came, and if their conception of theism is of higher they're justified. But if of lower type, if with lower conception of theism they come to disturb the higher conception of theism, then they'll have to incur reaction. It depends on the application, over whom. Less theistic and high theistic. If the higher conception of theism is preached towards less theistic it is justified. And lower conception of theism attacks the high conception of theism, then of course it must be suicidal. The criterion of theism, that must be known, and it depends what is that criterion.

There is a story behind. Once, when our western preaching began, Bon Mahārāja's party had gone to England to preach. Then it was arranged that one Governor of Allahabad, he'll come to lay the foundation of the Rūpa Gauḍīya Maṭha in Allahabad. Previously engagement was made. And then Gandhi's movement came in full swing. And there was one Jatindas [?] _____ [?] He died fasting for continuous sixty two days or so, so the country was on fire at that time. And according to previous appointment the Governor came to lay the foundation stone of Allahabad Maṭha. And we had to accept that. And he came and laid the foundation, and the whole of Allahabad they were all dreadfully attacking us, the Gauḍīya Maṭha people.

"That in such time when the whole country is passing through fire for war of independence, the Gandhi movement, and that will give us all these things, and you're giving honour to a European officer to lay the foundation to another religious institution?"

Tapasvi Mahārāja was Maṭha commander at that time. Anyhow I came there from Vṛndāvana.

Tapasvi Mahārāja told me, "We can't go outside the Maṭha. The people are coming furiously against us, and treating us like dogs and cats."

I told him, let us try. Before this movement, I was in that Gandhi movement, in the first, nineteen twenty, and this was about thirty two or three, or so. So I had some experience of political service. And how I came, leaving that political to spiritual, I had got my own arguments,

I was well equipped. So I asked Tapasvi Mahārāja, take me to some soft hearted leading persons of Allahabad.

He took to one, two, three places. Arguments going on. "What is your thing?"

This is only for the country, a material, a transient thing. Politically free country, political emancipation is not whole emancipation. A real fight should begin with māyā, misunderstanding. That is the Vedic doctrine, to fight with māyā. And political freedom is nothing. So many politically free countries in the world but are they really happy? All these arguments were put.

And that man told, "Yes, I understand what you say."

But it is difficult to make that understandable to the ordinary public, there I intimated.

Then, in this way, I went to another, the Principal of the college. That gentleman he treated in very evil way to me.

Then next I approached the leader of the Bengali association there, one Justice _____ [?] He was the President of the Bengali Association. I approached him. Of course he was a sober man, he was a judge.

He told me, "Swāmīji, we're in the high officiate, we're compelled to deal sharply our dealings towards _____ [?] Holding high positions what can we do? But you're - out of office I want to say to you, that you are all independent association, why do you invite and give honour and credit to the present government against whom the whole country is fighting? What is the justification? Out of office I want to ask this question."

I told him, out of diplomacy. We want help of the British government for our propaganda in the western countries, we want their help, so this is a diplomatic movement, not a religious one. Did Mahāprabhu accept any diplomacy in His practices?

"Yes, He did."

What did He do? Take the case of Sārvabhauma. An innocent child, he's sitting before Him for weeks. Then whenever He got chance He caught him and captured him. That sort of diplomacy.

Then, another thing he told that, "Do you say that the means are justified by the end?"

Yes, I say.

"Diplomacy even for religious purpose, that is justifiable?"

Yes, that is justifiable if it is absolute truth.

"You say that you've got absolute truth, but others will also say like that."

Mere saying, mere statement, is not the truth. There must be some criterion. You're a judge, and when you're in court, so many advocates come from different causes and plead their own cause. Then what do you say? That you're a gentleman, what you say that is also true, and the other parties that is also true? If you say like that then what will be your judgement? That you're a gentleman, you're a gentleman. You're quoting so many laws, legal instances. He's also quoting. Both parties required. If you say like that then your justice will go all right? Or you have to find a third plane, that how much truth is in whose argument? And according to that to compare and then to give your judgement. There is criterion. Then he could understand. Everyone will say 'my cause is the highest, it is the truth,' but that won't do, a criterion should be there.

Then he was satisfied. "What do you want?"

You're the President of the Bengali Association. The Bengali's are very much rude to us because according to our previous engagement we had to accept that function. So you please try to preach, to intimate among the Bengalis especially, they may not be so much rude to us.

Then in his part he wrote a note that "They're preachers of very high order. I request everyone to hear them very patiently, and then to do in a gentle way about them. They're workers of a very higher order." In this way he issued a circular among the Bengali Association.

What is the criterion? Īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ. Everything for Him. Like Hegel's theory, reality must be for itself. That is the highest criterion. Everything for Him. If we can understand this sort of criterion then all will be clear. But the whole truth cannot be told in one step. The gradual process should be accepted, and there is the trouble. So whatever is done for His satisfaction, and He means who? He may be that concocted Brahman. He may be Śiva. He may be Kālī. He may be Nārāyaṇa. He may be Rāmacandra. He may be Kṛṣṇa. Who is He? He's the highest conception of the Absolute. That is to be found out first. Then whatever should be done for Him it is justified.

The Śakta they will say whatever should be done for Kālī. Some will say for Gaṇeśa. Some will say for Paramātmā. Some will say for saint. The Jains and the Buddhists they believe in saint, not in God. So many varieties of difference will come, and we're to adjust that in our thought.

And our point is that we understand that Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead is the highest. That beauty and love is above power.

And that indifference or non differentiated, non specified existence, that cannot be the ultimate conception of reality. A negative idea cannot be the cause of the whole universe. All these things we're to understand. That Brahman, Virajā, the Buddhists, that school of negative conception background, that is everything, that something has come from nothing. We can't accept that.

And then advancing, that Śiva, always searching after truth, searching after something. That may not be the highest principle. The case of Śiva, he's indifferent towards worldly aspiration, and in searching for something higher.

Then what is that higher? Who is self satisfied, not seeking anything else from outside. The ultimate cause must be of such type. Then we go to Nārāyaṇa. Everything is opulent there, but there is also power. And two and a half rasa.

raso vai saḥ. [rasaṁ hyevāyaṁ labdhānandī bhavati ko hyevānyāt kaḥ prāṇyāt yadeṣa ākāśa ānando na syāt eṣa hyevānandayati]

["Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the embodiment of all ecstatic bliss; He is the reservoir of all pleasure. Having derived ecstasy from Him, the individual souls become blissful. For, who indeed, could breath, who could be alive if this Blissful Lord were not present within the hearts of all souls. He alone bestows ecstasy."]

[Taittirīya Upaniṣad, 2.7] & [Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 9.2] & [Collection of ślokas, 406]

The full rasa of all, with all its fledge, where to be found? This full-fledged rasa we find in Kṛṣṇa. And Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, the last scripture by Vedavyāsa gives hint to that. And Mahāprabhu Himself came to explain that. And Rūpa, Sanātana, and Jīva, under the direction of Mahāprabhu they have clearly given us the highest conception of the ultimate truth.

And also we find corroboration from Hegel and other philosophers also. Everything for Himself. To be the highest reality we must admit that He's Svayaṁ-Bhu. He's by Himself, and reality must be for Himself. And what is the conception of reality? That is Reality the Beautiful, not reality the power. In this way if we can understand, then we can understand what is given by Mahāprabhu, and how it will march on in that direction. That also given by their advices in details, by śaraṇāgati, surrender, and, ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam, rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso. All these steps we're to march on in a gradual process.

So, though it is the maxim, everything can be done for His satisfaction, still, as long as we remain in the society, and if we want some good of the environment, we're to look at them and their temperament and go on accordingly. A preacher, a missionary, he must be cautious of his own. But a paramahaṁsa, avadhūta, those that have got no necessity of any propagation, they can do anything and everything in their own risk. And they do not profess themselves to be preachers of the Deity, the avadhūta and the paramahaṁsa. They do their own way, in their own risk they're marching towards Kṛṣṇa. But one who wants to preach, he'll have to accept some limitation. Who is Ācārya?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Teaching by example.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

ācinoti yaḥ śāstrārtham, ācāre sthāpayaty api / svayam ācarate yasmā, ācāryas tena kīrtitaḥ

["An Ācārya is one who fully understands the conclusions of the revealed scriptures. His own behaviour reflects his deep realisation, and thus he is a living example of divine precept. He is therefore known as an Ācārya, or one who teaches the meaning of the scriptures both by word and deed."] [Vāyu Purāṇa]

Ācinoti yaḥ śāstrārtham. Who can collect the real purpose, the real aim from the scriptures. There are so many scriptures, śāstra, given by the experts. Who can really understand the real purpose of the book, of the scriptures. Ācinoti yaḥ śāstrārtham, ācāre sthāpayaty api. And can accept people, and which, he's able to make them accept those advices which are drawn from the scriptures. And svayam ācarate. And he himself also practices the same things, same truth. He's an Ācārya. In Bhagavad-gītā the symptoms of an Ācārya.

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā
upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

tad vijñānārthaṁ sa gurum evābhigacchet, samit paniḥ śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭham

["To understand the Absolute Truth, one must approach a Guru who is fixed in spiritual knowledge and well-versed in the scriptures. And he must approach the Guru being prepared for sacrifice."]
[Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 1.2.12]

Śrotriyaṁ and brahma niṣṭham, in Upaniṣad, samit paniḥ śrotriyaṁ brahma niṣṭham. Who has got knowledge of the scripture, as well as he's established there. In Bhagavad-gītā,

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā

Ācārya must be jñānī and tattva darśi. He must have knowledge of the scriptures as well as he must have some practical experience of the truth. So Ācārya should have to keep himself under some rules, then he can help others to accept that. Svayam ācarate. He must accept those practices for himself, in general, as much as possible, he'll have reverence for scriptural rules and he'll preach that to others. So preachers, preaching mission, they have to adjust themselves according to the present circumstances, so that their advices may be acceptable to others.

And that will be by instalments, it is possible, not the whole truth can be preached to anyone and everyone. Different sections they will understand. Very few may understand the whole truth. But to the ordinary people if it's given out they'll misunderstand and may go away from those. So that process has been accepted in the preaching of the Vedic truth.

parokṣa-vādo vedo 'yaṁ, bālānām anuśāsanam
[karma-mokṣāya karmāṇi, vidhatte hy agadaṁ yathā]

["Childish and foolish people are attached to materialistic, fruitive activities, although the actual goal of life is to become free from such activities. Therefore, the Vedic injunctions indirectly lead one to the path of ultimate liberation by first prescribing fruitive religious activities, just as a father promises his child candy so that the child will take his medicine."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.44]

Just as to a child the whole truth cannot be told at once, by instalments he's to be given education. So also the spiritual education to be spread by instalments, not the whole thing at once.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. So to recognise an Ācārya whose following the śāstric rules...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Always vice versa. The scripture, the śāstra will help us to understand who is Ācārya. And the Ācārya will say also what will be the real scriptures. Interdependent.

yāha, bhāgavata paḍa vaiṣṇavera sthāne [ekānta āśraya kara caitanya-caraṇe]

["If you want to understand Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam," he said, "you must approach a self-realized Vaiṣṇava and hear from him. You can do this when you have completely taken shelter of the lotus feet of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.131]

You must have proper interpretation from a bona fide Ācārya. What is the explanation and the real purpose of śāstra you're to know from the Ācārya. And who is Ācārya you're to go through the scriptures, generally. And the scriptures will say that these should be the symptoms of the Ācārya. So mutual help, sādhu, śāstra, saint and the scriptures.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But how does one recognise a bona fide, real avadhūta? His practices are not structured...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is difficult to understand them. The higher realised souls, they will say that he's avadhūta. Internally he's all right, but externally he's found to be ordinary man.

82.12.23.C_82.12.25.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Man of ordinary type cannot be able to understand avadhūta class of Ācārya, of sādhu. So they're told as avadhūta, that they're beyond all laws. They do not care for that, they're busy with their own. They do not care for the society. In their own way they're moving, they're of different section.

But those that want to do some good to the society, their case is different. They're to go on with some restriction, and by gradual development, in order to do good to the different sections of people at large. Suppose a big scholar, when he's talking with a similar scholar, he'll talk in one level. But when he's teaching a child, then he'll come to the level of the child and talk with him. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So Mahāprabhu, what did He show in His līlā? When rasa āsvādana only with a limited circle. At night, in the limited circle of the devotees, Mahāprabhu used to taste the rasa, the highest rasa of Kṛṣṇa and gopī līlā, all these things. But at large, in the public, Nāma saṅkīrtana. It was Nāma saṅkīrtana, not the tasting of the higher līlā of rasa in the public. And the rasa, the āsvādana, the tasting of the higher ecstasy that is in the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, in a limited circle, and that also in the dead of night.

Antarange sange kale rasa asvadana _____ [?] Nāma saṅkīrtana.

According to their status, go on Nāma saṅkīrtana. And when they will make sufficient progress, then they may be enlisted in that higher group.

...

The preacher, looking at the benefit of the ordinary public he should not do such things as may acquire a bad reputation for the mission. Cautiously he'll do, but privately he may do anything and everything for the service of Kṛṣṇa, privately. But publicly he'll have to modify his ways, so that may be acceptable to the general religious minded persons. Then gradually they'll be improved and ultimately they'll see that whatever is done for Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest realisation. But that is not very easy.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, if someone is not pure and they perform an activity like drug smuggling, for Kṛṣṇa, couldn't that possibly increase their material attachments?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only imitating, then if certain portion is for Kṛṣṇa, that benefit he'll get and what is non Kṛṣṇa, for that part he'll have to suffer. If any mixed attitude is there, that will be divided. Whatever little tinge there will be for Kṛṣṇa, that much will be good. And what is for selfish purpose or any other adverse purpose, he'll have to pay for that.

Devotee: Are there any examples of this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Smuggling, there were some sections in connection with ISKCON, they're keeping in touch with ISKCON and they're engaged in smuggling.

Devotee: Why don't you take the example of Rāmānuja's life who built the temple by smuggling, stealing?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They're smuggling, but if those smugglers have their own selfish object, then they'll have to suffer. And for that purpose, that Ācārya, after finishing his temple activity took them away to the river and made them drown.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So they may not utilise it for their own purpose, he utilised it for the Ranganātham. But further, they may go on with that sort of dacoity, so their life was finished, put to end.

"You don't do it for yourself. I have done it through you, utilised you for the Lord. I'm guarantee there. But afterwards you will do it for your purpose, so I make arrangements to end your life."

That dreadful step was taken by the Ācārya. In the name of Kṛṣṇa you will go on exploiting, yourself, and that will take you to hell. So it is a very difficult thing.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, in that case, if the attitude is mixed, is it better to wait until the person is pure?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow. And that was the cause for which I did not go to England. I can't understand the intonation generally; a defect in me. So what does she say?

Parama: If the attitude is mixed, is it better to wait until the person is pure, before they perform the activity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, one should not venture until and unless he's _____ [?] that my attitude is pure. But at the same time it is difficult to understand one's own purity and judge. So general common sense should be applied.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

To our best sincerity we shall think and go on, and take the risk. To our best sincerity, and also consulting some bona fide sādhu, saint persons, and with risk. But with our best sincerity we shall do and then the Lord is there to help me, if I'm sincere.

Na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. "If you're sincere in your attempt, still if there's any defect, I'm there to correct. It's My responsibility." He says.

What is dharma? In Manu-saṁhitā [2.1] the definition has been given, his recommendation.

vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ [sadbhir, nityam adveṣa-rāgibhiḥ hṛdayenābhyanujñāto, yo dharmas taṁ nibhodhata]

What is religion proper? Vidvadbhiḥ, veda-vidbhiḥ, who are expert in revealed scriptures, veda-vidbhiḥ, vidvadbhiḥ, means who are expert in revealed scriptures, vidvadbhiḥ sevitaḥ. Sadbhir. And what is practised by the real saints, and who are the saints who are indifferent to the loss and the gain of this mundane world. Such saints accepts them and practice in their life, the second symptom.

And the third, hṛdayenābhyanujñāto. And your inner heart will come to approve with sincerity. With these signs we shall approach towards religious realisation. Inner approval, approval of the inner heart, that is sincere _____ [?] And what is found in the practice of the saints that are indifferent to the loss and gain of this mundane world, and the third thing, or the first thing is who are expert, well versed in the revealed scriptures. These three things can give us assurance that we're marching in a right way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha Mādhava: If, some people, they're hesitating to accept 'the end justifies the means' possibly because in Kali-yuga there are so many cheaters, so many false and fallen souls, they may misuse this philosophy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is your argument? I don't follow.

Vidagdha Mādhava: The end justifies the means...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So what is the end means popular opinion? The opinion of the public, that is the end?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No, say, I can kill someone for Kṛṣṇa, so the end, killing is justified, because I'm doing for Kṛṣṇa. So someone may be afraid to accept that. He may be afraid to accept me as representing Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. But his justification will come as much as he's concerned with the real truth, and not in hallucination.

The difficulty is there always, that our relative position and the absolute position. And what is the progress from the relative towards absolute? And in the absolute consideration also there are higher relative things. That is by Yogamāyā, that is high above. But in the present, how much misunderstanding and how much truth? That we must have separate conception. And the whole thing is discussed in that way. That must have basis in the revealed scriptures, it must have in the practice of the sādhus, and it must have my heart's approval. By the consideration of these things the whole risk is one's hearts approval.

How have you come? So within Christianity, your own creed, you were attracted by Swāmī Mahārāja's lectures, advice. The responsibility is where? Responsibility with the person who makes the choice, leaving Christianity, Buddhism, or this, that, come to hear Swāmī Mahārāja. Why? Who has taken this risk of leaving his own association? The heart who is enlightened with revealed scriptures advice, as well as practices of the sādhus. And he himself is the real responsible, who comes, who accepts. He's to take the risk, who wants to be gainer he must take the risk. "I'm dissatisfied with my circumstances. I want something special, gain." And as much as I feel, I shall do that, accept that, at my own risk.

That is on the surface. And we're told that our sukṛti guides us.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

A fortunate soul, and what's underlying the constituent part of this fortune? That is śraddhāvān. Below śraddhā there is sukṛti. There is ajñāta-sukṛti and jñāta-sukṛti. That unconsciously my energy is utilised by some sādhu, and in brhamite, in exchange of that I got some sukṛti, good elements in me. And that develops into śraddhā on the surface.

[bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate]
sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the Guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads."]
[Bṛhan-Nāradīya Purāṇa]

And that sukṛti guides me to select the company of a sādhu. And then we come to a sādhu and I find that it is very hopeful, very promising, and we accept by our inner approval. We take the risk of leaving our society, our religion, our country, and come to that, realise that end, highest end of our life.

And then we come in comparative study. When we take the life of a preacher, we're face to face with comparative study of religious different conceptions. And we have to meet, and we have to strengthen our faith and go on.

So kīrtana. Kīrtana means preaching. Not aloud, only with high voice to chant the name. Kīrtana real meaning is preaching, to shake the atmosphere, environment. And the reaction will come, and we'll have to go and meet those reactions, and to develop our own internal position, and then to march on. In this way, kīrtana means this. Especially in Kali-yuga, offensive for offensive. Offensive environment and we have to give with offensive, attack and demolish, and go.

Consciously we march, not a blind impression, through the blind impression. Then we shall have to suffer the setback. Our march will be conscious and firm and considerate. Otherwise there's possibility of a setback, to come down again. And march must be thorough, that we're not to retrace back.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, you say "demolish and go."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Demolish the outside misconception representation; the representation of misconception to demolish, to clear up. Just like the mist, ignorance, that to demolish. Nescience, to demolish, to destroy the nescience, the ignorance, the misconception that I find outside me in this world.

A good health; suppose one has gone in an unhealthy place or in hospital, so many germs are coming from different quarters to attack one's body. And the body will have some resisting power. And those that germs will come to attack in the hospital, the germs are emanating from his body will kill them, demolish them and he will go. And if weak, then those germs will come and attack and kill him.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Vidagdha Mādhava: In the talks between Rāmānanda Rāya and Mahāprabhu, so many levels of devotion are discussed, and varṇāśrama is one of the first presented...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Beginning from varṇāśrama, then They're going higher and higher realisation, yes.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Would this necessarily take lifetimes, or possibly...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That depends upon the particular cases, particular case. It is not a general thing; particular cases. One may finish a long course in a few weeks, or a few years. Another he may take it a long, long time. That it depends upon the particular.

Vidagdha Mādhava: What is the cause that one advances so quickly and another...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're giving the same question a thousand times.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Oh, I see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Try to realise things then you will be able to answer these questions. Mere repetition of only one question in different colours, a hundred times, there's no credit. Try to realise deeply what is told. Try to understand deeply, think. The same thing in different ways, the same question is coming. "How to?" More than a thousand times.

Only with the help of sādhu and śāstra we're told. To create change within us only these two things have been recommended always, the passive and the active association, higher; due to that. And we must submit to them and they must apply us to obey them. Then it will be. The anartha will cleared and we'll be able to know things. Only service can change us. That is association of the sādhu, to obey them.

Just as a patient can improve only with the help of the advice of the good doctor; real, bona fide doctor. The diet and the medicine from a bona fide doctor can help the patient to get out of the disease. So we're patient _____ [?] yoga, this mortality. We're in the midst of mortality. Mortality has attacked us in and out. And how to get out of this disease of mortality, that is the general question. So, according to the doctor's advice we are to deal, to take medicine and to take proper diet, and to obey his instructions. Thereby I get out of the disease of mortality. That influence of the mortal environment has captured me in and out.

And to get out of that, and to have a clear atmosphere, of pure consciousness; Kṛṣṇa consciousness, pure consciousness. And through renunciation of this mortal zone we're to go towards Vaikuṇṭha, and then Goloka, that atmosphere, that consciousness, by the association of the saints of that realm. In this way we can come out of this unhealthy environment that has absorbed us within it, to get out of that, with the help of the saints and the scriptures. Sometimes scriptures, and whenever available, saints. By their association, their influence, we're to immolate our condition.

Every second, every moment, thinking about what I'm about? What for I've come here? What is the real principle that I am? Looking at it, on my front, I am going to my aim. So always making himself very intensively busy about that. Even in sleeping also, that influence we should trace. It must pierce through into the innermost heart, capture all my existence, it will be in the dreams also. Every aspect of life must be coloured with this religious feeling of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Talking, moving, eating, even passing stools, everything must be connected. The paramahaṁsa have always wholesale connection with everything of it. Every aspect of his life is connected with Kṛṣṇa consciousness, even passing stools, passing urine. That also can be connected with that, in paramahaṁsa stage, Kṛṣṇamoya, wholesale captured by Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But to keep my health ready and proper for the service, day and night, always I shall aspire and hanker how it may be purified and it may be acceptable by Gurudeva, through Gurudeva to Kṛṣṇa, in this way.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Not a tinge of selfish view or object should be there in any sort of activity, even a step forward for Kṛṣṇa's cause, not for my comfort. But to keep up my health for the service of Kṛṣṇa I shall make arrangements. Not abruptly, give you a jump and to fall and die. Yukta-vairāgya. That is possible in my stage. But I shall be very much eagerly try to transform me wholesale for the utilisation of every part of mine, mental, body, everything for Kṛṣṇa's satisfaction. That should be helping to us, to get out very shortly from this mundane towards the eternal blissfulness. We must be very much earnest in our conversion, transformation.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Today I close here the class.

...

Vidagdha Mādhava: Bhāgava has one Christmas question. Today is Christmas.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who? Bhāgava?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is he? What is your question?

Bhāgava: The Christians very strongly believe that Christ will appear again, because Second Coming of Christ.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's mentioned in the Bible?

Bhāgava: Yes, and they believe it will happen again soon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe, it's not impossible. In different layers, different type of instalment, different layers there are. It may be possible. And that sort of hope is given everywhere, in almost every department of theology, that sort of assurance is found. In Bhagavad-gītā in general.

yadā yadā hi dharmasya, glānir bhavati bhārata
abhyutthānam adharmasya, tadātmānaṁ sṛjāmy aham

["O Bhārata, whenever there is a decline of religion and an uprising of irreligion, I personally appear, like a being born in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.7]

"I create Myself, that means I appear when such most acute undesirable position comes here. I come down to set right everything."

This is the general provision, we find. So in every provincial conception of theology or religion that sort of hope is not unreasonable.

The Muslims say their _____ [?] is the last one, they come from same lineage. The Muslims, they have got their guru paramparā common with the Christians. Only this exception, that they think that Mohammed is the last _____ [?] The Christians do not recognise that. Otherwise, Moses, Abraham, and so many other predecessors in the religious line are accepted by both the clans.

Maybe from different plane, the reaction may occur from different plane. It is not unreasonable. Political for political, then religious for to make political cruelty. It may come. And different conceptions of religion, different instalments, quality and quantity; different varieties according to that. So it may come. Not impossible. But they come with that sort of news.

If Christ comes, he will come with Christianity not with Vaiṣṇavism. So many Avatāras in Indian theology, if any of Them come, They repeat, They'll come with the same thing. Classification in the religious conception; all are not one and the same.

Bhāgava: This classification is due to lack of full knowledge on his part. His limited teachings is due to lack of...?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This has been dealt with many times. Many times this has been dealt with already. The same question is being repeated.

Jesus has got his own jurisdiction. So many others they have got their jurisdiction. And that has been drawn into comparison, and then everyone asserts that his is the highest, the most catholic. Everyone demands that. But still there is a possibility of comparison. And if anyone has got faith in that sort of comparison he will come to take, to weigh the religious heaviness. How much weight is in which measurement?

_____ [?] the measuring substance, what is that? Measuring lump of iron?

Money measurement, the sterling, the pound, then the dollar, then the yen, then the rouble, rupee. Everyone in his own line, it may be absolute. But gold is to come between and to make harmony amongst them. The common measurement, it is taken in to measure how much value is where. How much in the rouble, how much in the sterling, how much in the dollar. Gold has to come to decide, the common measurement. So that sort of criterion is to be found out.

And then to apply in every conception of theism, and then to draw, how much value is where. And not only there, but even in the śanta, dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya; each one asserts that, "Mine is the best." But still there is taṭasthā-śakti, independent possibility of thinking, and to compare them, it is there.

It's a thousand times I've told it here.

Bhāgava: One Mr Kennedy, he wrote a book published around Nineteen Twenty Five called The Caitanya Movement: A Survey.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That I know. His caitanya means that of the sahajiyā caitanya, not Gauḍīya Maṭha. He was anti Gauḍīya Maṭha. And to think what is Gauḍīya Mission, Caitanya Movement, he took generally this Rāmadāsa Bābājī party, an easy food. And Gauḍīya Maṭha is a hard nut to crack. So none approached Gauḍīya Maṭha, to accept that they're preaching the ideal of Caitanya really. They're afraid to approach Gauḍīya Maṭha because they oppose everyone, that Caitanya's cult is the highest. So not an easy fodder to them, of the western scholars. The Gauḍīya Maṭha not an easy fodder, that anyone will come and eat.

Bhāgava: Mr Kennedy had some very strong personal motivation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We do not care for that. Anyone out for his pleasure, or mad with his own scholarship, he comes to measure anything, then we discard them thoroughly.

Bhāgava: I just browsed through the book.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, no time to lose, to mix and talk with them. We must have a standard with whom we shall talk, a general standard. So I was thinking for a few days, from a few days I'm tired.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja has gone, after that this thought came, that this is not a place of an inquiry office. Anyone putting some question and he'll get some answer. It's not so, not an inquiry office.

It must have its dignity as it is mentioned in Veda and Bhāgavata and Bhagavad-gītā. The inquiry must have to come to a particular level, paripraśna. Inquiry should come in a particular form as paripraśna. And that means praṅipāta, paripraśna, sevā, three relative things, surrender, and inquiry, and with service, serving mood. "I want to accept. I want to give myself. I'm wanting. I'm in quest of something where I want to sell my head." With this spirit one comes to inquire. That is paripraśna.

And before, surrender, that means, "I have finished all my inquiry everywhere, and this is my last time." Praṅipāta. Praṅipāta means to fall before one's feet. With this idea that, "I have finished all my possible engagements with anywhere and everywhere, and exclusively I have come. I'm searching where to sell myself, to give myself. With this spirit I have come, and not to satisfy my curiosity."

Otherwise it will be a waste of energy. We've not so much energy to meet with those inquiries. It must be sincere, and sincerity to the measurement that I want to offer myself wholly. I'm seeking something, and not to satisfy my curiosity I shall compile a book and mention so many opinions, I want another one to add to it. Not like that, not inquiry office. Anyone from anywhere throwing a letter, "I require the answer about these things." I don't like to cooperate with them, no time, no energy.

Those that are very earnest, sincere, they'll be able to catch the points. Otherwise, hundreds of times I shall mention the points and they'll miss it, and again will come that question. But, the degree of earnestness, once caught in the ear, they'll catch it. "Oh, long searching thing, that thread I have got." Once or twice or thrice, they will catch the point, otherwise...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...name and fame, for his own instalment, installation. Someone wants to install himself in a throne of fame and name, and wants so many materials. We're not going to supply their fodder.

So, the inquirer, the disciple, the people, they must have some certificate, some standard of knowledge, some standard of capacity. So there is symptom of the śiṣya, of the disciple, and Guru. And then if they meet there will be something produced, otherwise it will be useless bothering.

Bhāgava: The reason I asked about Mr Kennedy's book was that I have one God-brother who read that book...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I have nothing to do with - I don't like to hear Kennedy. He's read already. He has found this Rāmadāsa Bābājī who represents the nasty aspect of Śrī Caitanyadeva, and he has accepted them as Vaiṣṇava standard. So the man is judged thereby, the Kennedy is judged. He has come to take that party as Vaiṣṇava, representing Caitanyadeva, so finished. Why should I go to use my energy against him?

Bhāgava: One of my God-brothers read that book, and I think it disturbed his faith, so that's why I wanted...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If they're ill-fated, so many, that Hiranyagarbha etc, they were tempted by that thing and they've gone out. Many will do so. Coming and going, that is a fashion everywhere. If out of curiosity they come, and after some time they go away. Not deep inquiry to solve his problem of fate and fortune.

Parthamitra: Guru Mahārāja, I have a question. We see that even kindness, that the quality of kindness can even be a contamination. Because we see that Mahārāja Bharata he showed kindness to a deer, and because of that he fell down.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow. What is the question?

Vidagdha Mādhava: The question is, Bharata Mahārāja in Bhāgavatam, he became attached to one deer, and out of that kindness, Partha is asking, is it some defect? Kindness, is it some defect? From that example?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, where's the rub? Kindness?

Parthamitra: It seems material affection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, your answer within you. The material affection is no affection, this is māyā. Not to the soul. Soul to soul. But the mind to the body.

The body of that deer child and the mind of Bharata, material transaction. He came in connection with material transaction. So it's shown that it's very hard to get out of the material transaction. It's very, very difficult. Only mere mental profession, only lip deep profession is not the real thing. We profess something, that, "I'm so and so," preach, but it may not really be so. In Bharata also, such exemplary indifference to the skin, down to his own family, but still the material connection does not leave him. There he again comes in connection with material affection.

So it is very difficult to get out. It is easy to get out from tama-guṇa, raja-guṇa. But sattva-guṇa is very subtle and durability is also long, sattva-guṇa. So he's showing kindness to a most lower level animal, kindness to the animal. But there also the misconception of the spiritual truth. The body concern of the animal. Kindness towards that, towards the body, not to the soul.

And so, Bharata here, he's not energising, he's not functioning his spiritual attribute, but it's connected with material, misconception. So from high level of renunciation we find that they fall.

The Caitanya Movement written by Kennedy, that name Caitanya, that is enough, we don't consider, that is blasphemy of Caitanya. He has to know who is Caitanya first. In a regular process, he must be a disciple to a bona fide Ācārya. Then he'll be able, what is real spiritual, then the high degree of spirituality, then he will come to know what is Caitanya.

He's come with veni, vidi, vici. There's one expression of Julius Caesar, "I came, I saw, I conquered." Mr. Kennedy came and he tried to know about Caitanya, and he got a party and got Caitanya, and he left something and we're to take that?

Your mentality is also of similar type. You want to be a master very cheaply. So many thoughts in the religious world you want to devour, and then to vomit something to the world. And those that are ill-fortunate, they'll go to read those things. They'll lose their energy and their time. What's the value of these ordinary intellectualisms over spirituality? That's all screen, screening the spiritual truth. So many enemies to the spiritual truth. You're eager to be a master of giving so many theological opinions in a book. But what is your position? How much have you learned? How much trouble you have taken to understand what is the real spirituality? And you want to be an authority, giving so many, what is underlying? Underlying your fame, name, to cheat the world?

They're all, almost all, they're cheaters. We must be aware of those cheaters who want to exploit the religious world. The cheaters of this world, they're of less value. These cheaters, they're the worst enemy of the society, of the jīva. They want to cheat the people, exploit the people that have got very meagre capital, very little capital to spend for spiritual life, and that is being cheated by some exploiters. Worst type of cheaters they are. That is cheap preacher-ship, Ācārya, paṇḍita.

We can't get any touch with spirituality, spiritual fruit with our intellect. Avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ. It's not under the jurisdiction of the mind or intelligence. But it's the property of the soul. It will come from the Supersoul to the soul. And the method of acquiring such truth is quite different from any one of the teaching schools of this world. Not intellectualism. And to supply in the markets, intellectualism in the name of spirituality, that is what sort of learning? The society.

So I told so many days that there's Nagara Sharma [?], he criticised this Radhakrishnan, and S.N. Dasgupta, and many others. They want to exploit people by intellectualism, in place of a spiritual truth. Required, that is revelation, and to come to revelation a process is recommended. And that process is leaving all your experience of this world. Clean hands, naked you must stand, frustrated with all your truth of experience, you will go to this spiritual world.

"I want, I've come, it's all finished, I've come for revelation, revealed truth, which is coming from the infinite to finite. And all finite attempts are discarded. All empirical experience is demolished. I've come to know from the Infinite what is His characteristic."

A beggar on the door of the infinite. The finite will stand as beggar on the door of the infinite, the agent of the infinite. And there he can get some spiritual truth. And that also got by instalment and of different nature. Revealed truth also may be of different nature, according to the circumstance and the environment.

Do you follow what I say? No?

Devotees: Yes Guru Mahārāja.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, I think Swāmī Mahārāja intended even small children to repeat something as simple as "Who is Kṛṣṇa? Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead." So to the westerners he was saying, whatever...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the beginning some advertisement is necessary. So even to the reporter of the newspaper he may say something, that is for advertisement, for primary treatment. But not a real Guru śiṣya _____ [?] a real transaction of spirituality there. Only in the way of advertisement. A reporter also comes, and may say something to that. "I have come with this opinion, this such and such." Something like. But that does not mean that the reporter and Swāmī Mahārāja, that some spiritual transaction is being done. A very slight border, advertisement.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So I think what Bhāgava dāsa's intention was in his present situation try to attract some westerners to Indian mysticism, philosophy, and ultimately Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But not as you're describing, in exactly the perfect śikṣā, Guru, disciple arrangement. He's trying to preach in a very general way, for this preliminary attraction, not that he _____ [?] only possible.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] So, acceptance and elimination, by stages, that means progress. Progress means accepted things, eliminated, and a new acceptance.

Bhāgava: I don't want to be a Guru, it's just that, I don't want to take the position of a Guru. But Swāmī Mahārāja he taught us that we should preach from our own level of realisation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why Acyutānanda was left almost out of the group, his group, why? And he's written A Jewish Yogī. Why? What for? He was neglected, and he wrote a book, Autobiography of a Jewish Yogī.

Bhāgava: I think his intention is to attract people...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So, after mixing with Swāmī Mahārāja from the beginning, and having deep connection, after that also he's engaged in that. Not a proper Vaiṣṇava. But Jewishness is there, and a yogī is there, and no mention of bhakti, or Kṛṣṇa, or Rādhā, Vṛndāvana, nothing, mainly. Why?

Bhāgava: I think he wanted to attract people who came from a similar background, to show his evolution in consciousness. How he came from a Jewish background from America, and then he came to appreciate...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, do you think that if the name of Gītā was given as Bible that would have been better for the people? Instead of Bhāgavatam if we put the name of the Bible then it will be more beneficial to the people?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Sometimes to preach in the west it's thought one must come to the level of the westerner, which is very low platform. Instead of offering pure bhakti in the beginning...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. So to live there permanently, that is not laudable. A professor, he will be a primary teacher, he will always remain there, it is not desirable. He can give higher education. It will be waste of energy, bad economy. Sometimes he may come, very few, rarely he may come to the level of a primary student. But he must maintain his own higher position. He will convert himself fully for a primary student, the professor?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, that will be a waste of energy, bad economy. Sometimes he might have come to the lowest level, but he must maintain his own position. And there's no dearth for his students in higher level. Why should you come down always, and remain there, as primary teacher?

Devotee: Through this book that I wanted to work on, I wanted to attract those people who are basically interested in culture, the superficial part of culture, the external, the visual part of culture, and try to introduce bhakti through that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Our business is to tell them, "Physician, cure thyself."

Devotee: That I'm in a diseased condition I understand. Should I give up this idea?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. As we've got the taste from our Guru Mahārāja, we can have some conception if we're sincere, we see that so many diseased persons outside, cannot but. Otherwise why I've come from such level to some other level, I'm striving, I'm staying, I'm talking of that level? What is the justification of my speaking to the public of the standard of truth that I've got from Guru Mahārāja and Śrī Caitanyadeva? I must be sincere to my own cause. I feel sincerely there is a grade in the learning or in the realisation of spiritual truth, and I must speak so to the outside.

Śaṅkarācārya he gave a great deal to his followers. And the Vaiṣṇavas, they say that what he told, that is cheating. What is the truth underlying this, all vanity? The Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, etc, Caitanyadeva, He's abusing Śaṅkarācārya, who is revered by so many scholars. Only from the standpoint of abusement, or something substantial in their store, only negative side? Śaṅkarācārya refuted Buddhism. Buddha has many big followers, so many scholars, but Śaṅkarācārya refuted him. And Rāmānuja refuted Śaṅkara. What is the reason? No inner necessity, no pressure from the truth, only for name and fame? Those big persons, they have dismissed like anything the cheaters. They're all cheaters. They boldly assert. Why? What is justification behind? Only to propagate their own vanity, or there is some truth behind?

Vidagdha Mādhava: To preach from a pure platform has great value. To preach from a pure platform, where one is very strict in his own practice, that has great value.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At his own level he will speak, generally.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
[yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ]

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

What is night to one is day to another. What a Caitanyaite will say, that your Swāmī Mahārāja told to Acyutānanda, "What talk I had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja, if I say to you, you'll faint. You'll faint." He was a general scholar, Acyutānanda, but Swāmī Mahārāja had to tell him that "What sort of talk I had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja, if I say to you," He inquired that, "What sort of talk you had?" "You will faint." What does it intimate? Beyond his jurisdiction.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So, to preach, one should at least live an uncompromising life with the absolute truth?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The long and short is this; that I feel it very troublesome to be dragged down to the level of primary education.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The whole trouble is here. That I've got little energy, and I want to utilise that energy in a proper plane, and not go to the down-limit of the primary teacher. That is, once, twice, thrice, I can go, but always if I'm drawn to the primary class, it's too much for me to bear. The same question, repeating, repeating, repeating; I'm disgusted. A fine, higher inquiry: that should come to me. My days are numbered, energy is very scanty. Still I want to do some service to my Gurudeva. What special things he has deposited with me. Once, twice, thrice, five times I can repeat the lower things, but always only taken down to the lower level and to struggle there, that is too much for me. The long and short is this.

Devotee: Mahārāja, then what is the proper way for a neophyte to inquire knowledge from you?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I shall recommend so many scriptures and other teachers also. You try to understand the practical side. I'm not very happy to give vent to all these feelings. But only hammering on the same place always: that is very tedious.

Vidagdha Mādhava: I think it would be good if the devotees who have questions bring them to someone who...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So many tapes already there, already given out.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. And these can be answered separately.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Fine points with, come to inquire from me, fine points. This is all ordinary, stale and repeated many a time. Chewing, this is like chewing the fodder.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Chewing the chewed.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Straw, chewing straw is also food in a particular group, but not everywhere.

Devotee: Mahārāja, should I give up working on this book, should I stop?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To collect your materials, you give up that mentality, that you have come to collect materials for your imagined book. I'm not going to supply that to the market.

Devotee: What should my mentality be then?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I will say, you inquire yourself, "Physician, cure thyself." Come for your own necessity that you're in the fire. We must feel that we're within fire. And to get out of that fire, there I shall find your sincerity. Not that only to collect some straw and scatter before them. I've got no such business. To supply straw for the cattle, no such business with me. I want to deal with them who think that "I'm within fire, how to be saved?" That sort of type I want. How can we save? "Physician, cure thyself." "How shall I be saved? I find that I'm within fire." Then he's a bona fide disciple and seeker after truth. Otherwise all _____ [?] seekers of the truth, making fun. I have not so much energy overflowing to spare for them. Really the needy, who feels that he's needy and wants to be saved. Then I shall embrace him. I'm also in the same condition, I came to Guru Mahārāja and he's sending me in such a process. You also take this. Not any acquisition in this area of misunderstanding, of different type.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

"I have no ground under my foot. I'm in the sky with no support. No support. I want some support, where to stand, what to catch. I'm in danger. I want to get out of this dangerous position." They're sincere seekers after truth, and transaction with them will produce some fruit, some desired result. A sort of luxury.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, for your personal disciples, do you require them...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Personal disciples does not mean they're of same level. _____ [?] coming to hear from me. They're engaged in their level, go on doing this. Then he's in different types of services. Then one day they will come to such a level as to inquire, direct, about things of higher principles.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, would it be possible...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are they? First boy?

Vidagdha Mādhava: This is Brahmānanda dāsa. Nityānanda, Sudama Kṛṣṇa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then Partha-Sarathi. Parama and Naika. All right. What do you say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: If we can have your darśana in the morning time it is very wonderful for us to be able to associate with Your Divine Grace. Perhaps you could just give us a short discourse in the morning. Perhaps that would be better. And if any serious questions come, maybe after, only serious questions. Is that possible?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow what you say.

Vidagdha Mādhava: If we could have some Bhāgavata discourse from your divine grace, in the morning. Rather than questions and answers from us, unless there are very serious questions. That might be better.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One-sided. I shall give lectures and whether you'll be able to accept it, to get it, I won't be able to know? You want that? That I shall go in my own way, whether it will produce any effect on you, I won't care for that. Do you like to say that?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Well no. We could ask a question if we don't...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Question means to examine from what level you're coming to understand me. Question means this. Question means testing your level of thinking and aspiration, where you are. You're making any progress, or you're standing in the same place, same layer? For that I want to ask you questions, that what platform you come to question me. Whether my energy is being utilised or it is spent useless, wasted. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Earnestness, eagerness must increase. No knowledge. Bhāgavatam has come to teach us in such a level, the knowledge is futile. That is a wonderful thing. Who can digest, he will come to inquire what is devotion in Gauḍīya Maṭha, of the Caitanya cult. That knowledge is useless, _____ [?] over-coating, not within the substance, knowledge. Knowledge is a coating, cover. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. The energy and the intellect, that is outer cover, and the real man within is devotion. Devotion is the real plane of life, and the spirit of inquisitiveness that is a foreign thing. And to try to exploit, by our energy I may earn, that is a foreign thing, to the soul. Automatic service to the centre, to aspire such satisfaction towards the centre: that is life proper. And this is all covers, spare. The very definition of devotion is such.

[ānukūlyena-kṛṣṇānu-śīlanaṁ bhaktir uttamā]

["One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa favourably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.1.11] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19-167] &
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.21.11, purport]

Anyābhilāṣa means fleeting desire, whimsical questions, everything whimsical, no principle, no basis, no law. That is anyābhilāṣa. Karma. Systematic application, engagement of our energy to produce some desired result. That is karma. And then, inquiry, inquisitiveness, and to develop, our interest will go to acquire so many units of knowledge. All redundant, unnecessary to a bona fide student of a devotee, of devotion proper. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, we have to understand first, the primary education of śuddha-bhakti is this. This karma and jñāna, the energy, energising, as well as intellectualism, both are only in the cover. It has got no connection with things proper, substance, spirit, with our soul. From this standard we shall strive to inquire and understand, different interest we find there, in that level. For the beginners, this qualification is necessary, to be admitted in the school of Caitanyadeva, bhakti. The karma, jñāna, the material energy, this jagat, the physical power, all these things, and the gift of the present civilisation, that vijñāna, science, they're all enemy. How to get out of them, this civilisation, how to get out of this present civilisation? From the clutches of this show, this...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the present civilisation, to get out of the glamour of that, to seek something other, independent. If it can peep in my mind, then I shall come to this, here. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. Intellect has no place. That is only to increase our egoism. In the case of finite, the inquiry is futile, it is foolishness. If a boy jumps into the ocean to measure how much water is there, it is ridiculous, ludicrous. So finite and infinite, the relation is such, and I want to measure the infinite. But don't go there. That won't help you, anything. You'll waste your energy, you'll be lost.

Only through faith, through submission, through service, you can come in real contact with the infinite. All these methods you must hatefully disperse, reject. That is the principal thing. The very definition of devotion is that. Jñāna-karmādy-anāvṛtam. They're not a part and parcel of the spiritual life. They're all a cover, a foreign thing, and that must be given up, removed.

We're to begin first with that definition, then if we're satisfied that if it's possible, I want that thing, then we'll be a bona fide student to this school. That finite can never finish knowing infinite. This is impossible, this is ludicrous. So I seek the line of faith, śraddhā, intuitive regard. If we can understand the reason-ability of such attempt, then we should come to the devotional school. Otherwise it will be farce.

Some may say, "Why was Christ crucified? If anyhow he could avoid this and live for more time he could do greater help to the society, to the humanity. Why was he so much obstinate, and faced crucifixion? _____ [?] If he did not die so early he could have done immense good to the public. Why was he so much obstinate to people, offered his death voluntarily?"

But to increase the faith he's done so. Faith is a very high powered thing. Socrates, he also accepted mortality, ignoring any _____ [?] stand there. "The soul is immortal." Only for this he had to die. But that death has given a great impression to the people, and durable. So faith is a great thing. By death also we can gain through faith.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...concentrate whole of my energy in the work, and not in what it will produce, that. Then I'll be a coward. Phale sakto nibadhyate.

[yuktaḥ karma-phalaṁ tyaktvā, śāntim āpnoti naiṣṭhikīm ayuktaḥ kāma-kāreṇa, phale sakto nibadhyate]

["The pure, materially unmotivated (niṣkāma) karma-yogī, giving up attachment to the fruits of his action, attains constant peace, or liberation from reactionary work. But the ambitious (sakāma) karmī, the fruit-hunter, is obsessed with the result of his action, and he becomes implicated by his endeavours."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.12]

If I calculate the result and go to due accordingly, then proper things I won't be able to do. I'll be afraid of doing justice. I can't do what's considered to be right. But if it's possible for me without caring for the result, to conceive, this is my duty, I must do it, independent of what the effect will be. Then, the faith will grow in me, that the environment where I'm living, this is nothing, no importance, no value. Then we can do such things. I do not care for this environment. I'm only attached to me as duty I'm doing so, whatever the result will be. That is, I don't care about, no attachment to the present environment. I maybe die, discharging my duty I may die any moment. With this strength one should have to do, so he'll be automatically free from this present environment, māyā, misconception. He has no attachment because he may have to do his duty properly he may risk his life, any moment, in any actions. But if with that faith he wants to discharge his duty, then attachment for his present environment will at once have to retire, and he'll be freed.

When I came out from the college I strictly observed this principle of Bhagavad-gītā for some time, that I must always speak truth, whatever danger may come to me. In this way, whatever I shall consider to be my duty, blindly I must do that, without caring for any effect that may fall on me. My courage began to increase. A Himālayan courage I got, and I saw that the whole world, this great earth, is like a ball of play in my hand. Nothing. I came in consciousness with such a high force of the universe, that this earth became like a ball in my hand. I felt it myself.

That is niṣkāma karma-yoga. Any eventuality, any danger I may face at this moment. So I must be so much apathetic of such a great degree that I can do that. Every time, every action, may have to face me as death, if I do rightly my duty. Any danger may come, and I must not care for that. So how high position my soul has to take. The atmosphere will be changed, diabolical change, revolutionary change in the heart. Don't care for anything, only duty. And how to understand duty? That is given by the scripture, and as much I can understand with my reason and conscience, that I shall do, without caring for anything else in the world. No popularity, no popular opinion, mainly pratiṣṭhā, and this money, and any valuable thing of the world, all got down below. Only sense of duty, the whole concentration there, all else vanished, if we strictly follow that principle of karma-yoga.

mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Don't stop, but do your duty, careless of any result that may face you. So, a great position one can hold by strictly following that principle. It does not care for any forces of nature. The whole world may go one side, and you'll go on, single handed. Karma-yoga.

Mr. Gandhi he followed to certain extent, but his principle was, object was some other thing. The political freedom of a limited people, that was his aim. But his policy was that at every moment, without doing any harm to anyone, he wants to follower whatever his inner voice says. He stood by the side of his inner voice, always, neglecting the popular opinion, anything else. But object was not very high, according to us. That was only the political emancipation, and for a particular group. That was a small object. The good means for the limited end, means and end. The means was good, but the end was little.

But the highest end is Kṛṣṇa, according to Mahāprabhu, and means, going thoroughly, advancing towards Him. In a combined way, go. And Mahāprabhu also,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, [taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

Be humblest of the humblest. Taror api sahiṣṇunā. Don't create any opposition to the environment. Still the opposition will come to you, and you're to forbear that. Amāninā mānadena. Don't try to encroach on anyone's prestige, mānadena, and you will give proper prestige to everyone. With this attitude you march towards Kṛṣṇa, in a congregation. That is His advice to us all. From nescience to science, from animosity to love, and with this attitude you march. Your attitude of your marching must not have any complaint, the least resistance. You'll have to face with least resistance from outside if you accept this type of attitude in your march. Tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena. This way you march.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Devotee: Mahārāja, there are many brāhmiṇical rules and regulations. And Vaiṣṇavas don't generally follow so many rituals and rules and regulations. But as Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas we follow some. So I'm questioning how much should one follow? What should we do? How should we ascertain how much to follow?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow. You repeat.

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's asking, there's many rituals in the brāhmiṇical culture. We've been given some by Sanātana Goswāmī. His question is, "How much of these rituals...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is for the primary students, rituals. The formality is mainly for the primary students. And as one will go forward, advance, the formality will be less binding on them. More independent they'll be. As three groups it has been arranged, this arcana, and for the beginners.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

["A devotee who faithfully worships the Deity, but does not properly respect the Vaiṣṇavas or the people in general is called a materialistic devotee, and is considered to be in the lowest position of devotional service."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.47]

In the primary stage some restrictions and regulations in their conduct when they'll engage themselves in the service of Kṛṣṇa. The arcana, the first group, primary group. They cannot have much faith in the devotee, but more in the Deity, and holy places, and the śāstra, all these things, these formalities. But when they come to realise the very nature of the spiritual substance, they learn to give more importance to the devotee than the Deity. Because in devotees they can find the real and higher acquaintance of spirituality, than in a Deity, or any material thing, or material conduct. Then they come in the level of a middle stage Vaiṣṇava.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

īśvare tad-adhīneṣu, bāliśeṣu dviṣatsu ca
prema-maitri-kṛpopekṣa, yaḥ karoti sa madhyamaḥ

["The devotee in the intermediate stage of devotional service is called a madhyama-adhikārī. He loves the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is a sincere friend to all the devotees of the Lord, shows mercy to the innocent, and disregards the envious."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.46]

In the middle stage the Vaiṣṇava has got such signs and symptoms in him. Īśvare prema. His attraction towards the Lord. And friendship in the devotees. Īśvare tad-adhīneṣu. And bāliśeṣu. And his sympathy towards the ignorant. And his apathy towards the opposition-ists. That will be the temperament of a middle stage Vaiṣṇava. Attraction to Kṛṣṇa, friendship to the devotee, and the apathy to the oppositionist, and sympathy to the ordinary ignorant person. And the highest stage Vaiṣṇava.

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

["The first class devotee sees Kṛṣṇa in everything, and everything within Kṛṣṇa."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

He will always find trace of the highest position of the Lord. Bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ ca. And accordingly what will be his relationship with that thing, ātmanaḥ. Bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany. And everything he finds in him, and accordingly what is his position there. Vice versa. The position of the Lord _____ [?] and the position of the world thing, in him. And accordingly his adjustment, that is, that everywhere the connection of the Supreme Truth. That is the highest class of devotee.

So, in Hari-bhakti-vilāsa and other smṛti, the śāstra, they're for the lower class. And when they can understand the real principle, their position is, laukikī vaidikī vāpi, yā kriyā kriyate mune / hari-sevānukūlaiva, sa kāryā bhaktim icchatā

["O great sage! One who aspires for devotional service should perform all activities, whether Vedic or mundane, in a way that is favourable for the service of Lord Hari."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.200, from Nārada-Pañcarātra]
[Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra, 13.82] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 13.113, purport]

Whatever will be found favourable, whether it's social, or religious, he'll do accordingly. Keeping his own principle intact, he'll move with the people, that his inner wealth, devotion, may not be lessened and disturbed in any way. He'll do anything and everything, but always very alert that his faith may not be disturbed. If his faith is disturbed anyway by mixing with anyone he'll avoid. And wherever he'll find that inner capital is being increased he'll mix there, in accordance to his own way, that he'll do. He's come in direct transaction with reality, that is devotion. The madhyama-adhikārī.

And Īśā dāsye hari dāsye, that uttama adhikārī, another definition.
Īśā dāsye hari dāsye karmaṇām _____ [?]

Whatever may be the circumstance and environment, he won't budge an inch from his principle. And he'll do anything and everything for Kṛṣṇa, by thought, word, and deed. He's already given to Him and to do His service, whatever the circumstances may be, favourable or unfavourable. Die to live. He's always prepared to die to give his service for the Lord. That is the highest position. Without caring for the environment. He's fully established there. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Which will be our guiding principle? The sense satisfaction, or this mundane social welfare? Or to get out from this mortal atmosphere? For which? And what will be the symptom of what I want to invite, as my guardian, as my friend, as my everything? Practical things. What for I'm living? I'm living, what for? I'm eating, what for? I'm working, what for? Thinking, what for? Every second, every energy should be used in the inquiry of my Lord. By losing His company I'm suffering so much.

Knowingly or unknowingly we're searching for the perfect thing, but we're misguided. That is māyā. We're seeking, searching for satisfaction in the lower stage, sense satisfaction, then intellectual satisfaction. Then this soul satisfaction, that is desirable, soul satisfaction. Permanent satisfaction, not temporary and conditioned satisfaction. Not external satisfaction, but innermost and wholesale satisfaction.

andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

["Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."]

Prahlāda Mahārāja says, "Those that are hankering after this external satisfaction they don't know, can't detect that their internal hankering is for the substance, not for the cover. The cover is connecting with the cover. But the internal soul is searching for the touch of the internal Supersoul of the whole world. Without that, no end of satisfaction and inquiry."

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is to try to seek His advice.

tam eva śaraṇaṁ gaccha, sarva-bhāvena bhārata
[tat-prasādāt parāṁ śāntiṁ, sthānaṁ prāpsyasi śāśvatam]

["O Bharata, surrender unto Him in all respects. By His grace you will attain the supreme peace and the eternal abode."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.62]

By all methods, try inquire Him. He's within.

Once, when I first felt some spiritual impression, then I had one educated cousin, an advocate. He wanted to discourage me from this path.

And he told, quoting a lecture from an erudite scholar of the Brahmo School, that, "If there's any God, He's so far, far, far away. There's such a star whose light has not yet touched this earth. And the speed of light is such. And still there's a star whose light has not reached this earth. The infinite is so great, and if there's any creator of that infinite world, he's so, so far, it's almost impossible for us to connect with him."

He wanted to discourage me from this path, that learned advocate, cousin.

But I had some sort of experience because I've always been in that mood of God conception. I at once put this answer. Can you show a place where He's not present?

He stopped. "He's everywhere."

Yes. The Infinite is so great and He's everywhere. Tad dūre tad v antike.

[tad ejati tan naijati, tad dūre tad v antike / tad antar asya sarvasya, tad u sarvasyāsya bāhyataḥ]

["The Supreme Lord walks and does not walk. He is far away, but He is very near as well. He is within everything, and yet He is outside of everything."] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 5]

He's in the distance of the distance, but nearest of the nearest is He. He stopped dead, when I told, can you show such a place where He's not existing? He's existing everywhere, and it can't be denied, so, tam eva śaraṇaṁ gaccha, sarva-bhāvena bhārata. If we sincerely seek after Him, then He's always very eager to meet with us. Only sincere attempt from our side is necessary, to seek His guidance.

"Where are You my Lord? I can't stay without Your company. Please give me chance to understand You, to have a look at You. Anyhow I want Your guidance."

In this way we can pray fervently, we can try for the Lord. And then we'll be able when connected with Guru, then we'll try to find that He's come to me through His agent. And He'll talk with me through this agent.

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit
na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

If the transaction is right, a lawful transaction, then if my quest is sincere, His coming near to me will also be true. And when that connection is there, then we're to try to look that His voice is coming to me through that agent, in whose figure He has accepted me. Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān. He's everywhere, so especially He's there where He has selected me as His special considerable devotee.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

You'll get in no time a conception of the eternal plane, sthānaṁ, śāśvata, you'll be introduced to the eternal aspect of the world. You'll be saved from the relativity of this mundane, flickering, changing aspect of the world, apparent, sham aspect of the world. You'll rise in connection of an eternal, all pervading, and all blissful, will come in touch with your heart.

["The state of perfect samādhi, or trance, is that in which the disciplined mind of the yogī gains detachment from even the slightest thought of mundane connotation. The yogī remains satisfied in the Lord alone, having directly seen the Supersoul by dint of his purified heart, and he experiences that happiness which is eternal, perceptible by the divine intelligence of the soul, and devoid of contact with the senses or sense objects; he never deviates from the intrinsic nature of the soul. By attaining to this state, he never considers any mundane acquisition as superior, and in the face of unbearable tribulation his heart never wavers. Therefore, by the very contact of distress, its absence is accomplished. Know certainly that such a state of perfect trance is defined as yoga. Such yoga should be practised with perseverance and an untiring heart."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.20-23]

If we come in slight connection with Him, once, then this impression we'll receive from there. That there cannot be any gain better than this. Cāparaṁ lābhaṁ, manyate nādhikaṁ. No greater conception of gain can be existent here than this. This sort of direct understanding we shall get from there. And if I can maintain my connection with this wonderful thing, no trouble abusing anything and everything will be able to pain me. If all things at present that seem to be indispensable for me they're left, I won't be loser. But this will remind me of such hope. If everything goes away from me I won't be loser if I can keep my connection with this thing. The positive proof we shall get by His direct connection. This sort of assurance we shall get there, that all may abandon me but I won't be loser if I get my connection with this most friendly thing. And this is the highest achievement of my life. This sort of conviction and experience we shall have if we can come in a slight connection of Him. The guarantee is there with that connection. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, _____ [?] They're told that Kṛṣṇa prema, Vṛndāvana līlā, _____ [?] harmful for the society. So then how...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Harmful for the lower, they'll misunderstand that, and go to imitate that. Just as this ghee, the rich dish is helpful to a healthy man. But a diseased person that rich food will kill him. So, it is mentioned in Bhāgavatam that if one is not Śiva and he goes to drink poison he's sure to die. So one who's not master of his own self, one who's not a bona fide seeker after truth, if he comes to imitate all these matters physically, in the mental plane, he's sure to die, he'll be destroyed. 'Rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam.

naitat samācarej jātu manasāpi hy anīśvaraḥ
[vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād yathā 'rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam
īśvarāṇāṁ vachaḥ satyaṁ, tathaivacharitaṁ kvachit
teṣāṁ yat svavacho yuktaṁ buddhimāṁs tat samācharet]

["One should never imitate the behaviour of great personalities. One who foolishly does so, even mentally, is doomed, just as one who imitates Lord Śiva drinking poison."] ["The instructions of the great personages are always true, but their conduct and their practices may not always be useful to the beginners. So the sober person will accept those practices that are backed by his words, understanding that in his higher stage he may do something which may not be useful to those of a lower stage. He has such spiritual power that what may be seen as a defect in the beginner, cannot harm him in any way. Therefore the fair minded beginners will accept those practices which are in consonance with his instructions, as being useful to their progress."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.30-1]

Even not mentally should one try to cultivate about these supreme pastimes of Kṛṣṇa with the gopīs. Even mentally he must not do, indulge in enjoying. If he does it he'll surely have to die. Just as if not in the status of Śiva if he drinks poison he'll surely die. So also, these three qualifications are necessary to come in connection with this.

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ [ca viṣṇoḥ, śraddhānvito 'nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ

["One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39]

Śraddhānvito, first faith. What is the definition of the faith? Kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile.

["By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, all subsidiary activities are automatically performed. Śraddhā means viśvāsa, faith, sudṛḍha, very firm and strong, unflinching faith. Faith in sādhu-śāstra-guru, faith in Kṛṣṇa. This is faith. If someone develops Kṛṣṇa bhakti, all their activities are finished. Nothing is left out if you have faith."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

If I do my duty to Kṛṣṇa, everything is done. Such śraddhā, everything is bad, only Kṛṣṇa is good, and His paraphernalia, śraddhānvito. 'Nuśṛṇuyād. He must learn it from a proper source, not empirically, as in the ascending method he'll go to capture. No possibility of misunderstanding, wholesale, 'nuśṛṇuyād. But śraddhānvito, first qualification is śraddhā. Our duty to Kṛṣṇa is the most comprehensive and eliminates everything, every sorts of duty. 'Nuśṛṇuyād must have the connecting line in a bona fide source, in a bona fide way, 'nuśṛṇuyād. Atha varṇayed yaḥ. And then he will chant about the, he will connect with these things.

'Nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ, bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ, hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ. And he must be in the status of dhīra, that he's master of his own senses. Dhīra, he's jitendriya, he's not a prey to his sense pleasure. That qualification he must have. Three qualifications if present, then he'll come to have connection with his desired, high end of life. Independent of sense pleasure, and must have a good, genuine guide, and he'll have genuine faith that if want for Kṛṣṇa then all else will follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...went back. Ha. Ha. Ha. Ha. Felt discouraged? Save yourself and save others. That should be the maxim. Self forgetfulness, is another thing. Self sacrifice and self forgetfulness. What is the difference between them?

The Christian scholars they tell, "Socrates' case is of self sacrifice. And that of Christ is self forgetfulness." Self sacrifice. Both are almost reference to the environment. Self sacrifice, not single, sacrifice for something, a relative term, sacrifice. Sacrifice for which? And self forgetfulness also something like that, for others' cause, to forget oneself for others, for the interest of others. They say that self forgetfulness is higher than self sacrifice.

Self sacrifice may end in māyāvāda also, to enter into Brahman. Viśate tad-anantaram.

But Gītā has given the positive meaning of viśate. Tad-anantaram. "That in Me." From the misconceived world they enter into the properly conceived world. Viśate tad-anantaram. From self consideration to centre consideration. Centre consideration is called as tat, and self consideration that is māyā, misunderstanding, self interest, provincial.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...we're suffering from that. That sort of conception, mentality, and we should try to get out of that. Everything mutilated, misconceived, misunderstood, and misused. We're in the midst of that. That is the true position of us. What to do? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. None wants to be a prey of misconception, of mistake. We're hankering after truth, true conception of things. That is our innate way. We can't avoid that, ignore the proper thing. We cannot but be out of mistake, or error, erroneous conception, that is our nature. So from falsehood to truth. And that is in the absolute sense we must accept that, from wholesale false conception to the wholesale true conception. That should be our campaign.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Brahmānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmānanda. He's coming from here, or from land?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No, he's coming from here.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. No letter yesterday in the land?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yesterday was holiday, birth of Jesus Christ yesterday. Very appealing ideal, Jesus. Self forgetfulness they say for the good of others. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Remarkable life. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Charming. The basis of theism. He has given the basis, the foundation of theism, that theism is so necessary, so urgent, that we can neglect this life like anything. That is so real, our after life, our real life, our eternal life is so real that we can sacrifice very negligently all the resources of this life. He gives foundation to theistic life. We may not care for any gain of this life for the aspiration of that high life. A strong foundation, neglecting all the aspirations of this life.

"This is negligible. I show you by my example. It's trifle and that is higher and holy. For that, every sacrifice we may make for better gain. My life is to show the standard, how valuable that life, and how negligible this life, abhorrent."

Such examples supply us the basis of the high, sweet after life, eternal life. The soul is there. For soul's interest we can sacrifice the body interest wholesale, neglectfully. That teaching we may get from Christ's example. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Now the question, what is the nature of that after life, spiritual life, the environment of the soul after death? That is the question. God the Father, God the Ghost, and God the Son. God the Son is very near approach to God the Guru. And God the Ghost that is God the Brahman. And God the Father very near to Nārāyaṇa, the creator, the well wisher, near to Nārāyaṇa, something like Nārāyaṇa.

[vadanti tat tattva-vidas, tattvaṁ yaj jñānam advayam]
brahmeti paramātmeti, bhagavān iti śabdyate

["Learned transcendentalists who know the Absolute Truth call this non-dual substance Brahman, Paramātmā or Bhagavān."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.11]

Paramātmā conception has got no room here. Brahman conception, Guru conception, and creator conception.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. When our first wave went to preach in England, a question came from the, what are they, clergy, churchmen, priests.

"That mādhurya rasa is also there within the Bible. Somewhere it is mentioned that a section are accepting Christ as bridegroom. Some parable is there, Christ as bridegroom. What is the answer?"

But the answer was given that the son of Kṛṣṇa is not Kṛṣṇa Himself. If we consider that, that is a parable, not in the main teachings of Bible, but a partial representation. But still, with His Son, Son of God, that connection, and not with Godhead proper. That sort of rasa is found, is explained. Passing through, and not a permanent abode, of consorthood in Godhead, God conception, clearly, in gradation, with all the paraphernalia favourable, vātsalya, sākhya, dāsya, etc. Not in a systematic way has it been mentioned there, only something like a passing remark. No systematic consorthood of the ultimate principle, or absolute, has been provided.

The smārta also, they also accept Kṛṣṇa līlā. "That Kṛṣṇa He's of course a particular form of conception of Godhead. And Vṛndāvana līlā all true, but this side, the Brahman, sattva-guṇa, not nirguṇa." That is their conception, that Śaṅkara School. Śaṅkara School has also given recognition for Kṛṣṇa līlā, everything, but that is within the area of misconception. Ha, ha. So everything gone there, spoiled. Higher form, only slight misconception is there, but it is misconception. Reality means, plurality means misconception. It is away from the conception of oneness. Their conception of oneness, that cannot but be non differentiated, non specified, one. Just like deep sleep, samādhi, that is oneness. And not a systematic one, organised one, not one organism, not a harmonised one.

And harmonised one of the absolute conception is with the Vaiṣṇava School. Here also, Rāmānuja, Madhvācārya, Nimbarka, Viṣṇuswāmī. The representation of the whole is that of an organic whole. Panentheism, Hegel also, Panentheism, Perfectionism. The conception of the world, or the conception of the Absolute, is an organised thing. Pantheism and Panentheism. Pantheism is nirviśeṣa, non differentiated. But Panentheism is something like viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda of Rāmānuja, similar, not same.

Perfectionism, another name, positive, negative, both sides have got its existence, of its own nature. Conditioned and unconditioned, infinite and finite. Infinite is not sufficient alone, finite must be by its side, then it's absolute. The name has been given as absolute, not infinite. Infinite is incomplete. Infinite and finite, unconditioned and conditioned, both consist what is known as absolute. Positive, negative. But more, Brahman and māyā, Bhagavān and māyā. Māyā is a necessary part of Brahman, but in the opposite side, necessary part.

But Mahāprabhu's decision, direction, that not wholly necessary. Without māyā also kingdom of Kṛṣṇa can be conceived, in fullest form. But still, it is there in very subtle form, it is nitya. But the territory of māyā may not exist sometimes, it is possible. The possibility of misconception is eternal, but misconceived world may not be eternal always.

All the prison houses may be abolished, but the possibility of the prison houses remains. But practically prisons may be closed for some moments. But the possibility is that it's eternal, something like that.

koṭi-kāmadhenu-patira chāgi yaiche mare / ṣaḍ-aiśvarya-pati kṛṣṇera māyā kibā kare?

["If a person possessing millions of wish-fulfilling cows loses one she-goat, he does not consider the loss. Kṛṣṇa owns all six opulences in full. If the entire material energy is destroyed, what does He lose?"]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 15.179]

Mahāprabhu says, "One who's master of crores of kāmadhenus, the milking cows, _____ [?] what will a small she goat do for him?" So māyā is like a she goat. And svarūpa-śakti, the līlā, that is going on in the realm of bhargo, the svarūpa-śakti. That is full of itself.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Tat paratvena nirmalam.

["Pure devotion is service to the Supreme Lord which is free from all relative conceptions of self interest."] [Nārada-pañcarātra]

One striking point to be noted. Purity depends on how much it's directed towards the interest of the centre. This criterion we should know very much, with great attention. What is pure? What is the symptom of purity? As much as it is satisfactory to the central cause, purity depends on that. All other conditions are futile. And with as much earnestness we seek that purity, our condition is so much improved. No other law is applicable. If you come to apply your legal sense there it will be redundant. And there lies the position of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. Only tat paratva, full attention to the centre, what will satisfy Him. At all risk, it is the greatness of their position there, tat paratva, no law, no other consideration. If a second consideration enters there it will deviate my position. Tat paratvena nirmalam. Only one criterion, as much as is satisfactorily to the centre.

When Droṇācārya he educated the Kaurava and Pāṇḍava, including Arjuna, he gave training in the astra ____ [?] archery. Then there was examination, a test. Once, on a tree, he put an imitation bird on a branch, and asked all his students to aim at the eye of that imitation bird.

First he asked Yudhiṣṭhira. "We want to examine you, how much you've made progress in your archery learning. Try to pierce the eye of the bird put there on the branch."

"Yes." Yudhiṣṭhira was ready.

"What do you see?"

"I see the bird."

"And anything else?"

"Yes. The tree."

"Anything further?"

"Yes. I see all of you."

"Give up your bow and arrow."

He ordered to give it up.

Then in this way others also he called and asked to aim at the eye of the bird.

They say, "Yes, I'm seeing the bird."

"Fix your aim towards the bird."

"Yes, I'm doing."

"What do you see?"

"I see the bird."

"Whole of the bird?"

"Yes, whole of the bird."

"More?"

"Yes."

"The branches?"

"Yes. The top of the tree."

"Then give it up."

Then in this way, trying towards a few more he asked Arjuna. "Arjuna, you're to pierce the eye of the bird."

"Yes, I'm ready."

"Fix your arrow Arjuna. What do you see?"

"I see the bird."

"Nothing else?"

"No."

"Neither tree, or nothing?"

"No."

"The whole of the bird?"

"No."

"What do you see?"

"The eye of the bird."

"And nothing you can see?"

"Nothing I can see. I can see only the eye of the bird. I can't see anything."

"Yes, you throw the arrow."

So such should be our condition, our case. Only satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, nothing else, His satisfaction. No other thing we shall reckon, we shall see. That is the case with the gopīs. Only interest of Kṛṣṇa, nothing is seen, not even the whole world. Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Tat paratvena nirmalam. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. The interest proper, Kṛṣṇa's interest must be proper, not only in the physical sense. Kṛṣṇa's interest may be apparently put in some other place, then that should be the aim?

As He says to Uddhava. "Uddhava, you're My most favourite. Not even Brahmā, Śiva, My elder brother Baladeva, My Lakṣmī Devī, My body. Even My body is not so favourite to Me as you Uddhava."

So that also should be reckoned. Kṛṣṇa means, what is He? And He's not a stagnant, permanent thing. He's living, He's changing. Where is He? What is His interest? What is His representation, we're to reckon.

Gaura Hari bol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi.

_____ [?] arrangement of arcana, it is mentioned, ātmānath sevā. "Whatever is favourable to me, I shall offer to my Lord." That is one type, whatever is favourable to me. "If very sweet I shall give it to Him. And if I know that this is very favourite to my Lord, I shall offer that, and then I take prasādam." Ātmānatha sevā, and śāstranath, whatever the scripture say, announce, that this is very favourite to Him, I shall offer that to Him. Then, another also may be, what I'm asked by my Guru and higher devotees, offer this to Him. Even sometimes neglecting the order of śāstra we may have to offer that to Him. Sādhu, śāstra, guru vākya, cittete koriyā aikya. So service may be of different kinds, different type. Then there is classification, gradation. How should we serve my Lord? What is pleasing to me, or what is pleasing to Him recorded in the scripture? Or what is suggested by my higher authority, Gurudeva, or senior Vaiṣṇavas?

...

Devotee: When I first came to Swāmī Mahārāja he opened our hearts. And there was some strong element of surrender and trust.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Surrendering, eh?

Devotee: Yes. That was happening, there was surrender.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You wanted to surrender to Swāmī Mahārāja? Do you think that you understood him to the finishing point?

Devotee: No. There was one point where I lost faith.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, how did you surrender? As much as you could understand from him, you surrendered to that conception of truth, is it?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Now, what is the difference?

Devotee: I guess I feel, and others feel, I feel in my heart, to be honest...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

...

...as much as you can understand...

Devotee: I feel somewhat cheated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] that line, that direction. It is happy thing, sincerity. Hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto.

You have your responsibility of going further as much as you'll be able to understand the path of truth. You should do that, towards the goal, ideal, what you could guess that this is the ideal. Ideal going to this direction, you should sincerely follow that path. And whenever you'll find any difficulty in asserting, having clear vision of the path, very vague, then you're to consult with some friends of the same circle. And with their help, how much you can understand you'll do that. You can't do beyond this. You should do that, not by any elimination from outside. Some deviation to certain extent, slight, we can tolerate some sort of deviation from the friends circle, but not wholesale. Conscience, our inner understanding must have its full choice, and deviation to the local friends to certain degree, with the spirit of toleration. But our way should be according to our inner voice.

Incited by Him, your destiny will naturally be effected according to your endeavours."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.61]

He's everywhere. Only I'm to connect with Him to set my ego aside, and search for Him. That is the main capital of a sādhu, a pious man, a devotee. I want Him. He's everywhere. One may be sympathetic, He's eager to deliver me from this mud, into His domain. I'm earnest in my search, He's also not cold. He's more earnest than me, to get me back in His domain, in His family life.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

And I'm not going for any research in the objective world of matter, but I'm going to the super consciousness area. Superior consciousness, superior love, superior sympathy, superior sentiment, feeling. My path is towards that. We should not be cowed down by the adverse circumstances. God helps those that help themselves. If we really want to help our self, then He's there. He'll come with a thousand times eagerness to save me. I'm not going towards any dead matter. He's an affectionate friend, father, guardian, heart.

["To endeavour for spiritual life with enthusiasm, to be certain that the Lord will give His Grace, and therefore to patiently continue to render devotional service. By following the practices prescribed by the saints, to give up the company of those who are averse to devotion, and to tread the path which has been chalked out by the true Vaiṣṇavas; these six practices will go a long way to help us be successful in our spiritual life."] [Upadeśāmṛta, 3]

In Upadeśāmṛta, according to the advice of Mahāprabhu, Rūpa Goswāmī has given this śloka to us. What should be our fare for the journey, the capital for the journey? Utsāhā, enthusiasm. Niścayād, some sure faith. Dhairyāt, patience. Tat-tat-karma pravartanāt, perseverance, perseveringly going on doing those very programmes that is śravaṇa, kīrtana, etc. What is mentioned for us to do, required of us to do, go on with that program, pravartanāt. Saṅga-tyāgāt, and we must leave the opposite association, anti God association. And sato vṛtteḥ, we shall try to accept the sentiments, feelings, the nature of souls of the high. So sato vṛtteḥ means we shall try to associate with the sādhus, the devotees, and give up what is anti devotion. We must continue this program to infinite, and thereby we shall find Him everywhere, in them.

If I withdraw from them I'll see darkness, _____ [?] if we follow the real path. If we stop it will seem to be horrible for us. So unconsciously we'll enter gross domain.

It is the nature of infinite. Sometimes He'll seem to be very nearer, close by. Sometimes it will be seen, "Oh, am I making progress in the wrong direction?" Then next moment again, "No, no, I'm all right."

The play of Him on the background. So many things may come. Always, the association of the genuine devotees, that is the most important factor. In the absence of that the scripture, the words, thoughts of the devotees. That is our solace, consideration, capital, everything, hope. Holy books and holy persons. And we must think that we're infinitesimal, and we're going to have infinite.

The real sādhu is a concrete thing to us. Everything almost abstract, but a sādhu is a concrete thing. In his heart we shall find the existence, the feelings, surcharged with God consciousness. That is something tangible. We can talk, we can converse with each other. That will seem to be something tangible. Otherwise almost everything abstract. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: I also see my mind is continually disturbed by the existence - I mean I'm nothing myself - but to see pseudo sādhus. My mind is disturbed to see what I consider pseudo sādhus representing Kṛṣṇa and Kṛṣṇa's teachings, like what I see at ISKCON.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then you pray to Him as much as you can to get real help of a real sādhu. "Please give me that way."

And sometimes you'll look to the negative side. If I leave this campaign, then with what I'm to be satisfied? This mortal world? Should I aspire after that? No, no, no, never. Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...can be satisfied with those of mortal world. I must seek the truth internally. Happiness. Virtue is its own reward. We shall be virtuous, that does not mean that something else. Virtue is its own reward, that I'm in the real path of searching the truth, that is its own reward. With this capital we must go forward. Can you follow?

Devotee: Yes, goodness for goodness sake.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I'm searching after truth, eliminating falsehood, dismissing sense of falsehood. That is the reward, virtue is its own reward. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: I find myself and many of Swāmī Mahārāja's disciples who have left ISKCON have tremendous difficulty trying to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to your sincere conscience you will choose your companions. What can one do other than this? A sincere seeker of the truth can only do that. According to his own choice of conscience he will associate, find out, select association.

Devotee: It's so hard to regain sādhana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No other alternative, otherwise I must be a cheater of myself. Near to my conscience I shall select my association who'll be able to help me on this long journey. Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! And selection only search after truth, that must have the first consideration, not any other thing, that I'll get some name, fame, or money, or power. All these things must not come in consideration when we're searching a real companion. Only the truth, not for anything outside, capital, or temptation, or wealth. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna.

Devotee: Once a devotee realises certain weeds that have surrounded his creeper of devotion, so how does he make progress and strength to overcome such weeds?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By self analysis, from time to time, he'll find out whether he's being misguided by any other ulterior motive, thing. Self analysis, and what are they?

atyāhāraḥ prayāsaś ca, prajalpo niyamāgrahaḥ
jana-saṅgaś ca laulyaṁ ca, ṣaḍbhir bhaktir vinaśyati

["One's devotional service is spoiled when he becomes too entangled in the following six activities: (1) atyāhāra, eating more than necessary or collecting more funds than required; (2) prayāsa, over-endeavouring for mundane things that are very difficult to obtain; (3) prajalpa, talking unnecessarily about mundane subject matters; (4) niyamāgraha, practising the scriptural rules and regulations only for the sake of following them and not for the sake of spiritual advancement, or rejecting the rules and regulations of the scripture and working independently or whimsically; (5) jana-saṅga, associating with worldly-minded persons who are not interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness; and (6) laulyaṁ, being greedy for mundane achievements."] [Upadeśāmṛta, 2]

These six are detrimental to devotion proper. In Upadeśāmṛta, just as before I told that this is contributing to devotion, and this will diminish the devotion.

Atyāhāraḥ means whatever we get to collect that, and to also feed one's own self for feed, fat. Not only by this food, but whatever I get I want something, I want a portion of that thing, not that temperament.

Prayāsaś ca, in Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's Bengali translation of this there is viṣaya prayāsa, for some false errand, enthusiastic attempt for some undesirable, false scent, prayāsaś ca.

Prajalpa, and the slackness in the mind, and to discuss anything and to enter into the discussion of anything and everything. One may read the newspaper, the present topics, the war topics, and some other unnecessary things which happen around. To abuse the reins of our self-control and to allow to enter into the discussion of anything and everything outside what we get, prajalpa.

Niyamāgrahaḥ, and to give extra attention, abnormal attention to any particular rulings. Rulings are always meant for some stage, and after passing that stage that ruling is no longer applicable to me, another ruling I shall have to mark. So in particular, just as suppose in the Ekādaśī day we must fast, wholesale, without taking any drop of water, to be very much firm to such ruling. The general rule is I must keep my body fit for the service of the Lord. So to take something, some water, at least some saṅkalpa, I must not be very strict, over strict to a particular rule, ruling, so that the general law will be hampered, niyamāgrahaḥ.

Jana-saṅgaś ca, and to be very approachable to the public persons, for politics, sociality, this and that, the poor feeding, all these. So many conceptions of ideal are there all around, and to allow to be chased, or to be captivated, captured by them, jana-saṅgaś ca.

Laulyaṁ ca, and laulya means the very softness of the nature. Whatever I get I want to note that. I'm going to the market and something is, 'Oh, everything is trying to capture my attention.' So many things, hundreds of things we find, and if anything and everything comes to capture my attention, that is laulya, weakness of the heart, or weakness of our promise, or our object of life. Whatever I find I engage myself in that. In the market, or anywhere and everywhere, everything is attracting my attention. We must save ourselves from these natures.

atyāhāraḥ prayāsaś ca, prajalpo niyamāgrahaḥ

...increases, and here it decreases, decrease and increase by these practices. And also there are some others.

vāco vegaṁ manasaḥ krodha-vegaṁ, jihvā-vegam udaroprastha-vegam etān vegān yo viṣaheta dhīraḥ, sarvām apīmāṁ pṛthivīṁ sa śiṣyāt

Vāco vegaṁ, not to get control over our speech, our speaking nature. Anything and everything I speak, and then I repent. "Why did I say so? I should not have told that thing, only to pain the heart of that gentleman." Vāco vegaṁ. When the force comes from within to say something I can't control. I may abuse a sādhu also sometimes straight forward. "I'm straight forward, I can say anything and everything to anyone and everyone." And that should not be. We must try to control our, the force coming out in the form of speech, talk. We must have some control, balance. We shall try to keep up the balance of our mind.

Manasaḥ, mental waves, sometimes some idea, the rush of some idea overtakes me and manipulates me to anything and everything.

Then, manasaḥ krodha-vegaṁ, I abused someone. Or by pressure I used to take something which may not be proper diet to me, out of greed I took something, or I took something more, what was not necessary for my health, so krodha-vega, these rough speeches.

Jihvā-vegam, what is very tasteful, I'm a servant to that, slave to the tastefulness. Whatever is tasteful, it may be detrimental to my health, but I cannot control my tongue. I shall try not to be a prey to my tongue, the slave of my tongue, jihvā-vega.

Udara-vega, to feed more. Jihvā-vega means what is palatable to the tongue, and udara means to feed ones own full belly. Otherwise we think, "No, I've not eaten." What is necessary that sort of food we should take, and that amount of food we should take, what is necessary to keep up the health, udaroprastha-vegam.

Then ones earnest desire to be united with the, for the men the women, for the women the men, that is also a great tendency within us. We should try to check that sort of tendency. That is mental, that is not even in the soul, that is only in the mind, and that is the worst cause of our wandering in this world. Even from the tree to the demigods this sort of tendency is flowing, and we must be cautious not to be prey of such flow. It is a universal and very powerful flow, and we shall try our best to keep aloof from the flow of that plane as much as possible.

Etān vegān yo viṣaheta dhīraḥ, one who can control all these animal tendencies, sarvām apīmāṁ pṛthivīṁ sa, he can control the whole world. Pṛthivīṁ sa śiṣyāt, one who is master of his own self, his own mind, he can be master of the world. Otherwise, in other words, whatever he likes he can do. He can make fair progress towards his ideal.

All these things are recorded for our benefit and caution, in Upadeśāmṛta, that was given by Mahāprabhu through Rūpa Goswāmī to us in details. We shall be very much cautious about all these animal tendencies within us. We are rather slave to them. These different types of mentalities, they're masters, and I'm their slave. And we must be independent of all these masters.

kāmādīnāṁ kati na katidhā pālitā durnideśās [teṣāṁ jātā mayi na karuṇā na trapā nopaśāntiḥ utsṛjyaitān atha yadu-pate sāmprataṁ labdha-buddhis tvām āyātaḥ śaraṇam abhayaṁ māṁ niyuṅkṣv ātma-dāsye]

["O Lord, for so long I have obeyed the unending, wicked dictates of lust, anger, greed, madness, delusion, and hatred, but they never took pity on me, and I have felt neither shame nor the desire to abandon them. O Lord of the Yadus, after all this, I am leaving them behind. At last I have found my genuine sanity: I am surrendered wholly unto Your lotus feet, which are the abode of fearlessness. Please now engage me as Your personal servitor."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.16]

These are my lords and they're using me as their slave, and such a helpless life I'm leading here. In the name of a human being I've got so many shameful tendencies within me that an animal also may not come to that lower standard. So this is our, if with self-analysis, our real nature will be like this, shameful nature within. The enemies are within, not outside. And again within that the Lord is there in the heart, the conception, the rein, the kingdom of Lord again more deeper. So we've got that consolation and hope and prospect. More powerful, the agents of the Lord. Only we must give a bond and try to keep up our promise. Then the help will come from that deeper plane and will drive away all these superficial enemies that are dancing like demons on the surface of our mind. They must be driven away. And help will come from within if we seek, if we cooperate, if we invite them really. Then those sādhus, the agents of the Supreme Lord will come and drive away all these things. These demonic demonstrations on the surface of the mind will be driven forever. And we'll have happy engagement in the service of the Lord. We'll be free from all these demonic masters. That is not a cheap gain, achievement. Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Vidagdha Mādhava: The process is to recognise the defect and then to pray to Paramātmā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, Paramātmā, to Guru, that is more, to Guru and the devotees. To Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, Kṛṣṇa. To pray to Nityānanda Prabhu, that should be most fruitful. His incarnation is meant only for the fallen. Easily we can get His help, Nityānanda Prabhu, the chosen Lord of the fallen, Prabhu Nityānanda. Guru Nityānanda. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, there's one story in the Bible where Christ is hearing complaints from the Pharisees, from the priests. They're complaining his disciples are not following certain regulations, certain observances, some austerities. So Christ told them, "When the bridegroom is present the wife is not required to fast."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not required to?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Fast.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That means that is for service. We must take, the service is all important, and fasting is not the end of life, service is the end of life. And when service is there and we shall take food properly, anything and everything, to keep me fit for the service. So this analogy means that. That mere austerity has no value. Austerity which is necessary for the service, for the positive engagement, that sort of austerity, withdrawn from the evil to make fit for our attempt towards positive. So austerity is not its own object. So austerity is withdrawal from the negative side. Service is all important, so yukta-vairāgya. For the proper service, whatever will be necessary we should take that much from the fund of Kṛṣṇa. Everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa, and we must take food, clothing, whatever is necessary as much as to satisfy Him.

The gopīs, not only in the case of food, but in the dress also. What Kṛṣṇa likes, they will dress in that way. That is not luxury. Otherwise it will be luxury to satisfy our own self or other persons. But it must be regulated to one aim, what Kṛṣṇa likes. Their dressing means according the criterion, the liking of Kṛṣṇa, they will dress and not rich and not poor. They're not servants of poverty or wealth, well to do, but servants of Kṛṣṇa's sweet will.

So here also, the meaning goes to that side. The bridegroom is there, to serve, to satisfy him, that is the general duty of the wife. So wife must not go to practice austerity. She will take sufficient food so that she may be well fit for rendering the greatest service to her lord, analogy, the value of analogy.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But after the bridegroom has gone...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bridegroom, naturally in viraha, vipralambha, when they're in viraha, vipralambha, they won't like to feed then, not to dress then, it is natural. Always feeling the pain of separation. So not well feeding, and well dressing, and any other things are palatable to them, to a chaste lady, labour.

The Lord is Kṛṣṇa. In His presence to satisfy Him we shall do anything and everything. Whatever we feel as necessity, freely we shall tackle that. But when He's absent then we cannot but be in a repenting mood. In a repenting mood nothing will be tasteful to us, all these things, a natural thing. Viraha and milana, the milana, the union is joyous, and the separation is sorrowful, painful. But it is applied in the ordinary case and we apply in the case of Kṛṣṇa, the only Lord of the soul. The Lordship is not to be located anywhere and everywhere. But He's the only Lord of our heart. And for His satisfaction we shall do anything and everything, for His satisfaction. For the least satisfaction of Him I shall do anything and everything freely. But when He's not here then everything is dark to me. I can't see even, I can't hear even, I can't go, everything. The movement also being stopped, it may be, according to the position.

He'll be engaged deeply in abusing his own fate. "I'm such a distressed, ill-fated person. Kṛṣṇa has deserted me." In this way he'll enter into abusing his own self, his own fate. What to speak of taking food, and the dressing, and going on a pleasure trip, all these nonsense in heart. It is like that.

Here also the practice in varṇāśrama. When the woman has got her husband she's allowed to take food and dress in any way she likes. But when the husband dies they generally practice austerities. Because that serving connection.

When you're supplying service to Kṛṣṇa you're thriving in your trade. You can spend money amply. But when no demand of that side the markets stand still. Market not current, so you cannot spend your money like anything. You must be miser because the market's closed, no transaction. The consumer is there and you're to supply for His consumption. So you can handle anything and everything profusely, and at the same time in the intermediate position you are also, can enjoying all these things, indirectly.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

At the cost of Kṛṣṇa, His servant. He's not bankrupt, but His connection, that is all in all, everything. So austerity is not a thing which is much recommended, much valued, in the sampradāya really, in the ideal. But as long as we're not in the Kṛṣṇa conception that He's the only enjoyer, as long as we are enjoyers, so we're to control. And not control from the negative sense, by fasting and penances, but by Kṛṣṇa prasāda.

tvayopabhukta-srag-gandha-, vāso 'laṅkāra-carccitāḥ
[ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi]

By the positive engagement, by taking prasādam, in both food, clothing, everything. Everything we must try as remains of Kṛṣṇa. Anyhow to intense our connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is what is necessary, that is positive. And by negative, if we try by negative means then again with greater interest we'll be prey to the reaction. _____ [?] No.

["By fasting, learned men quickly bring all of the senses except the tongue under control, because by abstaining from eating such men are afflicted with an increased desire to gratify the sense of taste."]

By controlling other senses we cannot really control them all, until and unless we control our tongue. The tongue is the key point, and if we can control the tongue, then all other senses are automatically controlled. And how to control the tongue? If we abstain from food, the tongue, that will increase, the tongue's capacity, tendency, will increase to taste more. Then how to control? You can control all your senses by abnegation, negative side, but with the exception of your tongue. If you go to control the tongue from the indirect direction, the appetite of the tongue will more and more increase. And until and unless you can control the tongue, whenever tongue will begin taking food, all other senses will be ruined, eliminated. Then what is the solution? Only to take prasādam of Kṛṣṇa and thereby to control the tongue.

Now please accept that nectarean Kṛṣṇa prasāda and sing the glories of Their Lordships Śrī Śrī Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa, and in love call out, "Caitanya! Nitāi!"]

Very hard to control the tongue, and that is the key point. Kṛṣṇa baḷo doyāmoy, koribāre jihvā jay, sva-prasād-anna dilo bhāi. So Kṛṣṇa has graciously sent His remnants, and you take. "Oh, this is the remnants of Kṛṣṇa." And that will control the tongue, taste towards Kṛṣṇa prasāda, and all other senses will be automatically controlled, the Bhāgavatam says. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

...problem not yet solved, fully, is it not? Some talk with you. Make some engagement and some free talk, and then definite, accordingly, considering the circumstances, and with some restrictions it may be applied. Then I shall have to ask some questions and then I can give my final verdict. In which way and how restricted way we can utilise our capacity for the service of the Lord. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...

...everything for His service, that is very laudable. But some restriction for some particular case and that may be considered and fixed, what sort of restriction and how much. That may make my position safe and not risky.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Question?

Devotee: Yes Guru Mahārāja. I have heard in my readings that Kṛṣṇa's will, the will of Kṛṣṇa, consorted with speech, or śabda-brahman, which formed the seed which became Brahmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What do you say? Will of Kṛṣṇa combined with...

Devotee: Consorted with the śabda-brahman and then became the seed which later became Lord Brahmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa's will, will generally represented by Baladeva, energy, will, at the back of every existence. Will, thinking, feeling, willing. Willing is a fine energy which supplies for the existence of everything. So Kṛṣṇa's will, that is the root of everything, but that will is not temporary, but it is eternal. So the appearance of everything is also eternal, coexistent with Kṛṣṇa. That is, at the back the existence of everything there is the will of Kṛṣṇa. And more explicitly known as Baladeva, willing. Thinking mainly representing Kṛṣṇa, and feeling representing mainly Rādhikā, hlādinī, sentiment, emotion. And thinking mainly representing Kṛṣṇa. All inter-mixed, but the principal nature is like that. So the will of Kṛṣṇa, that is Baladeva's sandhīnī-śaktī. That is at the back of everything, to support, maintain its existence. So not only Brahmā but everything. Will, thinking, feeling, willing, sat, cit, ānanda, satyam, śivam, sundaram. Jñāna, bala, krīyācara, in Upaniṣad. _____ [?] Jñāna, bala, krīyā ca. Jñāna - Kṛṣṇa, bala - Baladeva, and krīya means vilāsa - Rādhārāṇī, these three aspects of the one advaya-jñāna, Absolute. In this way we're to understand.

Not only Brahman, Vaikuṇṭha, etc, Vṛndāvana, Goloka, everywhere, the energy, the highest principle from which energy is coming, that has generally got recognition as Baladeva. And here, Nityānanda, in Navadwīpa. And Navadwīpa has also got representation eternally in Goloka, in one part. Vṛndāvana and Navadwīpa of same value. One is pastimes within a group, and another place, in Navadwīpa, it is being distributed to the fallen. That is the difference. Rasa, the ecstasy, is of the same value. One is distributing, offering to others, another which is enjoyed among a particular group, selected, that is in Vṛndāvana, mādhurya-rasa and audārya. And the gist is the same in both the places. The quality of the ecstasy, that is equal rank, equal value, generally, but here with a tinge of magnanimity. Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: In Ayodhyā Dhāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And in māyā, this area of māyā, misconception, the Baladeva's perverted reflection is Mahādeva, Śiva, the master of māyā. What do you say?

Devotee: That you explained that Vṛndāvana Dhāma and Navadwīpa Dhāma, they're in Goloka. So I'm wondering, where is Ayodhyā Dhāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Goloka means full-fledged solid circle, Goloka, like a football, Goloka, solid circle, full-fledged representation of the whole. That means Goloka. And Vaikuṇṭha hemisphere is representing half of the Goloka, because the measurement by the rasa, two and a half we find in Vaikuṇṭha. A straight angle...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...from the centre, all sides, flowing from the circumstance, as if we have to say, that is, it is infinite in character.

Devotee: So where is Ayodhyā Dhāma?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ayodhyā Dhāma, between Vaikuṇṭha and Dvārakā. The vātsalya-rasa we find there, more than Vaikuṇṭha. Then again we're to go to Dvārakā where more developed form is this, bahu-vallabha. Here Rāmacandra is approachable in mādhurya-rasa only by Sītā Devī, none else. But in Dvārakā, bahu-vallabha, it is distributed to many. That opportunity is given to many, that opportunity of service of that particular type, bahu-vallabha. Then from there to mādhurya, then from mādhurya to Vṛndāvana, Gokula, Nandagrama, Vṛndāvana.

Devotee: But is there an eternal planet called Ayodhyā? Where is it situated?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vaikuṇṭha is situated where?

Devotee: Beyond the Virajā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is a part of infinite conception. Ayodhyā is also like that. Dvārakā, in the midway from Vaikuṇṭha to Goloka, vātsalya-rasa, the janma-līlā of the Lord is there. The service in vātsalya-rasa is found there in Ayodhyā first, but not in Vaikuṇṭha. In Vaikuṇṭha, no parents of Lakṣmī, neither of Nārāyaṇa, so no possibility of service in vātsalya-rasa, filial affection. That is to be found if we go more deeper, we shall find Ayodhyā. The vātsalya-rasa, the service as a son, the sonhood is found there in Ayodhyā first. And the consorthood is found, husbandhood is found in Dvārakā.

According to the measurement of the rasa we're to measure the ecstatic supremacy. That is the criterion to measure the development of the theistic substance. More gracious to extend us service of new characteristic. Service, that vātsalya-rasa service, that opportunity not found in Vaikuṇṭha. But if we can go deeper, then we shall find the opportunity of serving the Lord in vātsalya, or filial affection, is found, it is something more. Here, the land of enjoyment, the land of exploitation, and there, rendering service, dedication. So the scope of greater dedication of the devotee is found deeper of Vaikuṇṭha, or higher, as you like to say, and there we find Ayodhyā. The Lord is more gracious there, more kind, benevolent, to accept His filial affectionate service from us. Greater chance has been granted there in Ayodhyā. Then again if we can go further we shall find that in Ayodhyā, only wife's service is limited to Sītā Devī only, alone. But in Dvārakā, thousands of queens, they can render service to the Lord in a more sweeter way, in Dvārakā, bahu-vallabha. Here, eka-patnī-vrata-dharo, Rāmacandra.

[sva-dharmaṁ gṛha-medhīyaṁ, śikṣayan svayam ācarat]

[Lord Rāmacandra took a vow to accept only one wife and have no connection with any other women. He was a saintly king, and everything in His character was good, untinged by qualities like anger. He taught good behaviour for everyone, especially for householders, in terms of varṇāśrama-dharma. Thus He taught the general public by His personal activities."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.10.54]

And there, bahu-vallabha, opportunity has been allowed to numerous in the service of mādhurya-rasa there, in Dvārakā. Bahu-vallabha, more gracious, more liberal, more generous, to allow service of Him in a different, sweeter form. In this way we're to understand the greater nature of the Absolute, greater aspect of the Absolute, more generous and higher to us. And that is enhanced in Vṛndāvana to the gopīs in the form of parakīya, crossing all the existing laws. Relationship with every atom is with the centre. He gets the supremacy over everything, society, scripture, and any other formality. It is Absolute, the connection, the connection with Him is Absolute, not depending on anything else. It is to be found there. But everything must be in a form of service, not of enjoyment here, then they will be sahajiyā. That is a reactionary of the worst type. South pole, north pole and south pole, such difference. One absorbed with vision in the centre and another in the last extremity of the extended position. Atom centred, atomic, and Absolute, atom centred and Absolute centred, opposite. Extreme localism and there the highest universalism. The difference is of the greatest difference.

Devotee: So Guru Mahārāja, the understanding that I have is that there is a River Virajā, that there is a material world and beyond that the River Virajā, the river that separates the material world and spiritual world, Virajā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Virajā, yes, Virajā. Material world means the world of exploitation, and it ends in Virajā. Exploitation vanishes there in Virajā. And then, Brahmaloka, the soul proper, without its innate nature, only cover of the soul, something like, Brahmaloka. And then, Śivaloka, there the peeping of the service, very slight beginning of serving temperament in Śivaloka. Then, Vaikuṇṭhaloka, there is some sort of serving, restrained, as well as half, not full, in Vaikuṇṭha. And then, a little more in Ayodhyā, and then, from there, in Dvārakā, then in Vṛndāvana.

Devotee: So, we hear that in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We find the highest position in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, very fine development there, gradual in Vṛndāvana also degree of development. And we're told that Kṛṣṇa is wholesale open to play, to finish, in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. Sankucita prasāda, the fullest extension, fullest expansion is found in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. The highest generosity of giving Himself to the servitor. The servitors get in Rādhā-kuṇḍa the opportunity of service to the fullest extension, highest degree.

vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād
vṛndāraṇyam udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ rādhā-kuṇḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt
kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevāṁ vivekī na kaḥ

["The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?"] [Upadeśāmṛta, 8]

According to Mahāprabhu, Rūpa Goswāmī is writing this śloka. The gradation, how it develops, the opportunity of service in quality, how developing in Vṛndāvana area. Unreserved, His fullness is found in Rādhā-kuṇḍa to accept service, Kṛṣṇa. In other places also, but a little narrowed. But wholesale open, He's found there only, and amongst the most confidential class, section. The most confidential section only found in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, Rādhārāṇī's own special group, confidential group. There, Kṛṣṇa is open wholesale. In other places more or less reserved, reserved, reserved. Service begins from Vaikuṇṭha, from Śivaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, and it reaches its zenith in Rādhā-kuṇḍa. Very subtle thing, we're to attend.

Yuta mali sece nitya śravaṇa-kīrttana-adi-jale [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.152 & 155]

The devotional creeper will reach to that stage. But here, the owner of that creeper in his heart he will pour water into the root of the creeper. What is that? Śravaṇa-kīrtana-nityadi. These practices are in the background and overhead, and we must try to nurture the creeper from our level, by watering, etc. That is sādhana, śravaṇa, kīrtana. Culturing about Kṛṣṇa, cultivating with sādhu-saṅga, sat-saṅga, saṅkīrtana, nāma-saṅkīrtana. Then the Śrī Murti ārcana, then Vaiṣṇava sevā, Guru sevā, service of Gurudeva and Vaiṣṇava. These duties we shall try to perform, and internally our aspiration will rise up and up and up. And one day will come when by the association of that creeper we shall be taken over, taken up to that stage, but not hurriedly. Automatically, naturally, we should be taken there.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: How is it that just by bathing in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, just by taking the water of Rādhā-kuṇḍa, that we can get the benefit of developing one day that love for Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla B.R. Śrīdhara Swāmī: Rādhā-kuṇḍa, Rādhārāṇī represented as liquid. So to bathe in that is to transform one's self wholesale and identify with the interest of Rādhārāṇī and nothing beyond. To take bath in the solution representation of Rādhārāṇī, that means to be converted wholesale Rādhā interest, not beyond that. No trace of existence beyond the interest of Rādhārāṇī, is what it means to take bath in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, the interest of Rādhārāṇī wholesale transformed.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

The highest fortune is there. No tinge of selfish interest but wholly identified with Her interest. That category, or that cata [?] of loving service. Wholesale transformation is Her interest and not a tinge outside.

Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol! Gaura Hari bol!

Devotee: I have heard that Brahmā, after austerity, and consorting with Vakdevī, or Icha śakti, that the...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So you talk of Brahmā not Brahman?

Devotee: Brahmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmā is personal and Brahman is impersonal.

Devotee: Yes, personal Brahmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmā, there will be one occur, Brahmā.

Devotee: Yes, Brahmā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmā, you're talking of him?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmā, he's represented as karma-miśra-bhakti, representation of karma-miśra-bhakti, the creator and master of this world of exploitation. Through him this brahmānda, this material world is created through him, and he's in charge of the whole interest of this created, material world. That is Brahmā. And he's a mortal being, Brahmā, he's a jīva soul. The first Brahmā, first creator was represented by Nārāyaṇa Himself, Puruṣāvatara Himself. But other Brahmās are generally recruited from jīvas according to qualification. If one jīva can perform this varṇāśrama-dharma purely for a hundred births then he can become a candidate for Brahmā's position.

svadharmma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti [tataḥ paraṁ hi mām
avyākṛtaṁ bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye]

["A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29]

Hundreds of births if one jīva can perform this varṇāśrama-dharma satisfactorily, then he becomes fit for the position of a Brahmā, he's jīva.

And Brahman is another thing, Brahman, Virajā, Brahman, that is another thing. The most subtle conception of matter or material existence is Virajā. And the most distant conception of the spiritual existence is Brahman, meeting together, both marginal. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: So after Brahmā performs austerities, I've heard that the jīvas enter a vasana maya deha [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: The jīvas, they enter into a vasana maya deha stage.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jīvas, there are so many jīvas, there in Brahmaloka. Brahmā is qualifying himself to take the charge of looking after this development in the negative side with the jīva and their administration. But Brahmā is not the cause of the jīvas coming into this material world. He's not party, he's not responsible for the connection of the jīva soul with the matter. He's only an administrator with some charge.

Devotee: Does he give the jīvas breath?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: System, to look after, how from Brahman jīva is coming to this world, what gradation, mainly the administration he's looking after. But the cause of coming to this world is jīva himself. Brahmā is not the cause. Creator means he watches and helps the development in the material world, creation, rajа-guṇa means creation. The civil department has attached that this culprit must get this sort of punishment. And the man is brought into the jail, in the prison house. And the jailer's duty is to take the charge of the man from the outside department and to put in his function. "Go there, and this is your punishment, carry out this." All this within the prison house. The jail superintendent. His creation means the development, to obey the order according to the civil department to engage them in this. Gave them engagement, engage them in the practical activity of the punishment. Something like that. He's sent into brahmānda and he's connecting them with the particular cell. "You remain here, get these blankets, take here food, and go and do your duty there. And if you can't do you will be punished in this way." All these practical transactions in his hand.

Devotee: When the jīvas are born into the material world, does Brahmā give them breath?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmā is not the cause.

Devotee: He's not the cause.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He can give the necessary shape of development, making arrangements. "Do this, do this, do this, as you deserve." He's not master. Responsibility is with jīva. The jīva is the culprit, and he's found by the judicious department and then he's sent to the, to Brahmā. "Give some engagement in your brahmānda. Begin with this, and gradually developed in different departments. If you don't work carefully, if you do anything wrong, you'll be punished in a more severe way." All these things may come under the consideration of Brahmā, the creator of this world.

Actually, none is creator but the Lord, Nārāyaṇa. The creator of this world, that means according to the quality to give some engagement actual form in the material way, according to his deserve. As he deserves, so to give something according to his necessity, that is Brahmā. Brahmā is an ordinary jīva, in an officer class, and not responsible for the connection of the jīva with this material world. He's to carry out the order how to connect a culprit jīva in this world and to give engagement in this way, the outer show. But it is earned by jīva himself by his own intrinsic free will. Even the Lord is not interfering with the free choice of jīva. Jīva, for the suffering in this material world, jīva is responsible himself.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, what is meant by the unmukhini vṛti of prakṛti, our relationship with prakṛti? For the bhakta, prakrti is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow. Prakṛti means nature.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you want to say?

Devotee: So I've read in the Upaniṣads that for a devotee, they're the helping hands of unmukhini vṛti. I don't know what that means.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Unmukhini vṛti of prakṛti.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then, unmukh towards what? Unmukhini vṛti towards?

Devotee: Towards Kṛṣṇa, that this helps one reach perfection of life.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prakṛti means here nature, the internal nature of jīva soul towards Kṛṣṇa. That may come from sukṛti by the association of the Kṛṣṇa bhakta it may develop. First by ajñāta-sukṛti then by jñāta-sukṛti, and then it becomes śraddhā. Unmukhini vṛti. Vṛti means nature of patient, tendency towards Kṛṣṇa. And that may come, that is the contribution of the svarūpa-śakti.

The most internal nature of the most original plane is such, to draw everything towards Kṛṣṇa. That is the most fundamental plane, most subtle plane, everywhere. Just as ether is all pervading. In every atom of matter the ether is present. In this way the most fundamental and most fine element is Kṛṣṇa unmukhini prakṛti, Kṛṣṇa śakti, that everything is drawn towards Kṛṣṇa. That sort of fine flow in the deepest plane everywhere. And that is the most spacious, powerful, the innermost force, or tendency, in the whole world. The deepest plane is like that. Fundamentally it is drawing towards Kṛṣṇa, attracting, attraction of Kṛṣṇa. Everything is attracted towards Kṛṣṇa. That is the deepest and finest and irresistible nature everywhere. Kṛṣṇa unmukhini prakṛti, the flow is towards Kṛṣṇa, suppressed, Kṛṣṇa unmukhini vṛti.

Centre, there to tendency to go towards the centre, to catch the centre carrying current, and that is the deepest flow everywhere. And all others are gradually external, external, external, in this way. In and out, everywhere, that is the highest substance of highest utility and value, everywhere, piercing through everything. The most powerful, like x-ray, the ray can pierce through everything. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness everywhere, piercing through everything, pervading everything. The most graphic, widest, and most efficient, most tasteful, in all respects it is of the highest type. But we're floating above with the gross estimation of the world.

sarvatah krsne murti kari janmal se deketi pai jal arkini armarl [?]

Everywhere this Kṛṣṇa consciousness is pervading, but one can trace only if his eye is purified, can see everywhere, the dancing of Kṛṣṇa. "Oh, it is coming, the origin from Kṛṣṇa." Crossing all these covers, layers, through gross layers. His life, his very heart is connected, piercing through so many layers, carrying so many types of tidings, news. His ear is after that flute of Kṛṣṇa. Eye searching deep for Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu. The heart is tuned there. As you've connected this to the machine, so the connected heart, the soul is connected there. So surpassing the circumstance, only he's seeing that, and hearing that, crossing all these covers, it has no meaning. What we see that has got no meaning to him, neglected, inattentive, attention towards that thing. Sarvatra, he will find everywhere.

yo māṁ paśyati sarvatra, sarvaṁ ca mayi paśyati

["For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

"He's never lost in Me, and I'm also never lost in him, who can learn to see Me everywhere."

Whose mind does not relish anything else in the cover. but connection given like this thread to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. It is possible.

andhibata yat kuyar visaya dulyi te kamana sei bara tattva vaiba deki te [?]

Whose attention is always attracted by so many dusts of the material world, how can he feel that universal song? Or that universal representation, the play? Prejudices, dust of prejudices are playing with us. We're not master of our own. But so many prejudices they're manipulating our senses. And we're not connected with reality but attracted by the apparent charm of this cover. This eye is not connected with soul proper, but will come with so many prejudices, and so our attention diverted towards various things, missing the centre.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol! Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

sarvatah krsne murti kari janmal se deketi pai jal arkini armarl [?] andhibata yat kuyar visaya dulyi te [?]

Visaya dulyi te, eyes, if we throw some dust into the eye, so the prejudices are like dust. They're thrown to the vision senses and they feel those dusts. So depth of our sight should be improved, not to see anything and everything.

The general of one party, he should look to the general of the other party, in fight, not a particular soldier, or particular tank, or anything else. But the general must look to the general, his brain, his brain. Then he can continue the fight. He won't see, offer the outer, the tank, the plane, the soldier, all these things, no. The general, the brain, how he's conducting. So the vision must pierce through all these grandeur to the brain, how he wants to design to move his soldiers. That is proper vision.

As it is possible and useful so also our vision should not be led astray by the apparent side, we must go to read deeper, who is conducting all this show. That is proper vision. Nitāi. Nitāi. Who are you, Bhargava?

Parthamitra: Parthamitra.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parthamitra. And?

Bhargava: Bhargava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhargava. Today Vidagdha is not here?

Devotee: No.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.
Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: The disappearance of Lord Kṛṣṇa, what happened to Rādhārāṇī and the gopīs?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. You want to know the history, ha, ha, historical aspect? Very puzzling, not one thing, Mahāprabhu disappeared, some say that He entered Gopīnātha in, where Gadādhāra Goswāmī he was worshipping the Deity Gopīnātha. He saw that Mahāprabhu came and entered there. We've found in some literature that some saw that Mahāprabhu walked over the ocean and disappeared. Some say He entered into Jagannātha Temple. Other days He used to have darśana of Jagannātha from a little far away, from Garuḍa Stambha, but that day...

82.12.27.C_82.12.28.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...approached slowly towards Jagannātha, and uttering a few words He embraced Jagannātha and vanished. Some say that He was dancing before the Jagannātha ratha, the historians say, and He got some wound on His finger and had some septic fever and died. So many versions, and everything may be true simultaneously. So here also some different type of explanation given. Converted into _____ [?] Then some say _____ [?] they dissolved their physical, apparent body. Some say He disappeared suddenly withdrawn. In this way.

If a ghost can appear and disappear, and if some yogī can appear and disappear at his sweet will, then what about the Supreme, and His own? If we count them under the jurisdiction of material historic incidents, events, then we're deceived. If we go to search in that way we'll be self deceptive. We must have a faith in the fundamental nature of His existence, Who can do anything and everything of the whole infinite, how He can withdraw. To make Him a criminal in the court of this māyāic law court, that is wholesale wrong and suicidal to the spiritual understanding, the curiosity. In any way He likes. In Viṣṇu-Purāṇa we find that Kṛṣṇa died, and Rukmiṇī and others, in the same fire They're burned. And in another place Kṛṣṇa withdrew from the vision of the ordinary people suddenly. All one and the same.

(The environment process?) I had a talk with the greatest Ācārya of the Madhva School in Madras when I was there in charge of the Madras temple, about what is the Śrī Mūrti?

He told that, "There is Lord within the Mūrti."

We told that no, the wholesale is the Lord. Śālagrāma, or the Śrī Mūrti, not that within the wood, or within the minerals, or within the earth, there is Bhagavān. That was his contention. We told, rather, the wholesale Bhagavān.

deha-dehi-vibhāgaś ca neśvare vidyate kvacit [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.6.2-4, purport]

["There is no distinction between the Supreme Lord and His personal body. The jīva soul is different from his body, but the beautiful, transcendental form of the Lord is identical with the Lord in all respects."]

Dehi, the owner of the body, and the owned body, no difference in the case of the Lord.

But he did not admit. I quoted one śloka from Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, and on the basis of that, asked him, with the example, when Kṛṣṇa was hit by the arrow from a hunter, at that time, did the blood ooze from His body?

"Yes, the blood was oozing."

Is that blood material?

"No."

Why not? It's seen in the eye as ordinary blood, like that of us. Why do you say that blood is only apparent and not real material blood?

"Oh, if it can be so, then it will be this and this and that. And so also if you say that if we strike a Śālagrāma it will be reduced to pieces. How can it be the wholesale God?"

It is also that, deceiving our eyes and our false experience, it is deceiving. We must try to retain in the principle of revealed truth that it cannot be so.

sarva-vedānta-sāraṁ yad, brahmātmaikatva-lakṣaṇam vastu advitīyaṁ tan-niṣṭhaṁ, kaivalyaika-prayojanam

["This Bhāgavatam is the essence of all Vedānta philosophy because its subject matter is the Absolute Truth, which, while non-different from the spirit soul, is the ultimate reality, one without a second. The goal of this literature is exclusive devotional service unto that Supreme Truth."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.13.12]

The continued consciousness established, and the teachings of the revealed scriptures, without not allowing our senses of this mundane to venture to measure things and report to our material consciousness. It is so. He's dying in this way. He's passing this way, that way. Neglectfully, keep it out. Stand on the plane of revealed truth. This is all magician's magic, all forgery. And revealed truth, that is real. The continuous stand on that revealed truth plane. Don't allow yourself to be enticed by the so many witches of the eye, ear, of these mundane things. This is all magic. Ha, ha, ha, ha. It is ludicrous. What do you say? Eh? Is it possible? Only fools can have such faith, credulity. Credulity of the highest degree, blind credulity. Is it?

Devotee: Those that are scholarly say, that's how they tell a scholar, one who's following scholarship, logic...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wholesale forgery within which we're living at present, wholesale forgery. Nothing to be accepted as truth. This diabolical change.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

A fool's paradise we're living in. All temporary, all extended from our self interest. The environment created from our own self interest necessity, not universal estimation. Are you ready to live with this? We're living within a cage created from within our selfish necessity. Everyone is living in a cage. And so many, in a general case, I'm living in a cell of a prison house. Another, another cell, another cell, and some in a broader position, but all confined. And that is earned by his own evil karma, to live in that jail, prison house. So all forgery, māyā, misunderstanding, miscalculation, my knowledge, no knowledge.

jñāne prayāsam udapāsya [namanta eva, jīvanti san-mukharitāṁ bhavadīya-vārtām

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

So we're requested, that give up wholesale the knowledge of your experience. Begin with ABC. Reject all classes of experience you have gathered for so long for lives together. It is all anti value, all false, all lie. Whole calculation and whole valuation, everything is false, false, false. Try to get relief of that prison and to live in the broad atmosphere of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Everything belongs to Him, universal consciousness. Everything belonging to the Master. I also belong to Him. I must move boldly in such a temperament in the world, everywhere.

This is general, or what he says that is general? What is broadest knowledge? We're suffocated. We must be a member of that universal land of one interest, and we'll be saved from this suffocating atmosphere. Wherever we go there's clash with another interest, every step, clash with another interest. Here's the new place to live, newest of the new, widest circle we must move. Everything belongs to my Master. I also belong to Him. Everything is mine because the Master is my own Lord. In this way, in the broadest, widest atmosphere we shall try to live. Get out of this cage constructed by your own filthy desire.

And that is very sweet, very generous, very charming, very blissful. That atmosphere, that is above so called liberation.

All guardians, all well wishers, all are around us, all affectionate. Not only liberation, but amongst the highest sympathetic atmosphere, all eager to take care of us. Long missing link.

"Oh, you're lost my child. I'm searching for you so long. Where have you been lost?"

In this way the affectionate will come to nurture us. How beautiful a life is that?

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

And Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu came to take us there. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. And Swāmī Mahārāja gave this news to you throughout the length and breadth of the world. Carried this news of the highest realised stage to the world. He was chosen to be the messiah, to be the agent for such good prospect for us all. That was brought here by Gaurāṅga Mahāprabhu. This Vraja Dhāma is the bed of such prospect and such knowledge and hope for us. Here it came out from Mahāprabhu, and Nityānanda Prabhu carried to every door here. This is your home. Back to God, back to home, back to Godhead. Our home is such, not just travelling endlessly misguided by your own hobby.

Gaura Sundara. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya! Gaura Hari bol.

There was one Indian, big scholar, whose name was _____ [?] About fifty years back. International Religious Conference in Italy perhaps, and he represented Indian philosophers _____ [?] A good scholar, but ultimately he became mad. So intellect is not reliable, the reaction may come to madness. Affection is sustainer of life, keeps the balance, love. Without love, intellect is mad. Affection, soothing, hlādinī śakti, sacrifice, keeps the balance. Bhargava Prabhu, where is he?

Bhargava: Here, Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You have no ambition of discovering the last days history of Christ in Kashmir? No program?

Bhargava: Ha, ha. I've heard that story, a little bit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You've heard the story? What is that?

Bhargava: That there's a grave in Kashmir, and they say Christ is resting there. And that he has a descendent that's still living there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The day of crucifixion, and day of resurrection, so after four days he came out of the cave, it is told?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. Three days.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After three days. His body was put in a cave, and after three days, when some people went to find what's the condition of his body, they found that no trace is there. He has fled from there. And then he went to Kashmir, from there, and lived for some time? What's the story with you?

Bhargava: They say he became householder and he preached there. They've published one book in English. I think his name was Isha. In Kashmir they called him Isha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Isha? Isha is also called amongst the Mohammedan section. Isha, Jisha, Jesus, Jesu, Ishu, Isha. Isha, the Muslims consider him as Isha. And among the predecessors is Mosha, Moses. And then Abraham, all these in the line of the Muslim guru paramparā. So Isha is considered as one of the prophets in the line of the Muslims. So they include him as the divine agent. Their condition, the last agent from heaven is Mohamed, and he's the greatest, and no other representation from heaven will come. The last representative from the heaven is Mohamed _____ [?] But all other spiritual teachers they're common to Christian and Mohammedan. Isha, Mosha, Jesus, Moses, Abraham, and so on.

Abraham, they say he's Brahmā, Vedic Brahmā, Abraham, of Brahmā, similar sound.

Uruporus [?] Pythagoras. Pitiguru [?] Pythagoras. Porus in Greek...

...

...in Sanskrit guru. Guru is goras. In this way the Greek language from Sanskrit comes to this way.

Humburg, and in England they say humbug. Burg, bug. In Germany they say burg, humburg, centimetre burg, but English pronunciation humbug.

So also, the puru, porus, guru, goras, in this way.

Pita, Sanskrit _____ [?]

Mother, Sanskrit is mata _____ [?]

Sanskrit, similar _____ [?] root.

From Kashmir and Caspian Sea. Kaśyapa, the father of the [demi] gods was Kaśyapa Ṛṣi. And in Greek his name was _____ [?] Caspian Sea.

At that time, this portion of India was under ocean, Indian sea. And then the Himālayan peaks they were down, now they're up. Himālaya is going up, and the neighbouring land is also coming up. These were under water, and that portion lower, and there the Indian civilisation of the Himālayas.

When Ambarīṣa Mahārāja was living, he was the king, emperor, at that time he performed his hundreds of sacrifices on the banks of Saraswatī, which is near Badarikāśrama at present, so high. The Vyāsadeva's āśrama, Badarikāśrama, where Vyāsadeva composed Bhāgavatam, read it to Śukadeva, Devarṣi Nārada came, that is so high now, that was down. Himālaya is going up, gradually, and the area of India is also increasing. So many differences in geographic condition, no stability here. Just as our mind, sometimes this, sometimes that, so the wholesale of this rigid matter is also like that.

First one scholar told, first from Germany perhaps, that all these lands are floating, on the ocean somewhere they're floating. Coming together and going away, in this way the land. Africa was joined with America. Some big earthquake separated them. Because they say that the trees on the west side of Africa are similar to those on the east side of America. And also the hill that was broken, half portion, some portion this side another portion that side, and if joined together they'll be one. So Atlantic has come between by some earthquake and separated America from Africa. They say like that.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. And India was somewhere in the Indian Ocean, _____ [?] a big flow, driven by storm or something, pushed this Himālaya. And up to Tibet, that was on the other side. And this part of the whole India has come, led by a great storm and pushed this side and joined. These are the opinions of the present geologists.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Is that reasonable Guru Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe. We're not much concerned with that. One who has withdrawn in the mental system has got some relation with this effect of this mental wave, no going upward. No necessity of all these things. Pitṛloka, the moon is supposed to be the resting place of the soul after death, who will again return here. Pitṛloka. In Gītā, two kinds of going away after death, uttarāyaṇam and dakṣiṇāyanam. Cāndramasaṁ jyotir yogī prāpya nivartate.

[dhūmo rātris tathā kṛṣṇaḥ, ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyanam
tatra cāndramasaṁ jyotir, yogī prāpya nivartate]

Go up to moon and then come back. That moon is a satellite moving around the earth. So after death, those mental systems are going to the moon, and may take some rest for some time there, they're to come back here. And those that are leaving, they've no charm for the earthly pleasure, they'll go towards the sun. They'll cross the line of gravitation, and go towards the sun, towards the light, uttarāyaṇam. Ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyanam, ṣaṇ-māsā uttarāyaṇam, and yogī prāpya nivartate. Cāndramasaṁ jyotir, from moon they'll come back. But those that are going towards sun they won't come back to this earth. They'll go somewhere more luminous place, they'll go and take their physical form and live, crossing the limitation of the earth.

Towards light means towards knowledge. Light means knowledge, consciousness. And moon means mind, our mental tendency, with attraction for the earthly pleasure, worldly pleasure. Go up to moon and then come back, because attracted by worldly pleasure. And who has no charm for worldly pleasure they'll go beyond the jurisdiction of the earth and towards infinite, catching the ray of the light, consciousness, soul, Supersoul, light. And candra, moon, the charm of the world, this earth, they're caught under the charm of the worldly pleasure, earthly pleasure. They go up to the moon and come back. Moon's appearance is a good contribution to the earthly charm, mental pleasure here we may find.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

We're to scrutinisingly find the difference between the layers of knowledge. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satya, Virajā, Brahmaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka. These layers, different positions, different planes of charm. Ultimately we're charmed by something, and become slave to that. So everything has got its own specific charm, and we're to compare, and to dismiss and accept, eliminate and accept. What is the peculiarity of Bhūrloka? Then what is Bhuvaḥloka, Mahāloka, Janaloka, Tapaloka, Satyaloka, which is within the jurisdiction of exploitation?

Gradually exploitation is being lessened, decreased. In Satyaloka, slight attraction for pleasure, for exploitation, mixed exploitation in the Satyaloka. More conscious of the eternal position of the soul, independent of material acquisition and enjoyment. They do not like the enjoyment of these material things. More self sufficient, ātmārāma, they find more pleasure in the perception of their own self, ātmārāma. Ramanti, means they feel pleasure. Where? In their own soul. More or less they can find the nature of their own soul and are satisfied with that, ātmārāma, self satisfied. That is to be found in Satyaloka, mostly, ātmārāma, self satisfied. They can realise the position of their own soul, so no material body, so no exploitation is necessary to preserve this material body. And they're charmed by the beauty of their own soul, and more or less engaged there. Ātmārāma, who's finding pleasure in his own eternal self, then:

kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim, ittham-bhūta guṇo hariḥ

["Those sages who, being merged in the bliss of the spirit soul, are totally free from the binding knot of mental images - they too engage in the unmotivated service of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the performer of marvellous deeds. This is but one of the qualities of the Supreme Lord Hari, who charms the entire world."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.7.10]

Then those that are self satisfied, that are found in the last extremity of this exploiting world, self satisfaction, not dependent on the exploitation of this material world, they have got some charm, over their plane, and they find Hari there. Hari is such that can attract the attention of those that are self satisfied. So ātmārāma, that is a conception of liberation, from the exploiting tendency of the environment. Self centred, self sufficient. They feel attraction for some other thing, so that thing must be superior to the human self, otherwise how those that are self content, their appreciation can be drawn, that must be final. So it's a proof that Hari is not this side of the world, but on the higher side. Ātmārāmāś ca munayo, nirgranthā apy urukrame, kurvanty ahaitukīṁ bhaktim. Causeless attraction they feel for Hari. Then, Hari dāsa, the ecstasy which we can get in connection with Hari, in association of Hari, that must be of higher degree, than what we find in our own self.

prāyeṇa munayo rājaṇ, nivṛttā vidhi-ṣedhataḥ nairguṇya-sthā ramante sma, guṇānukathane hareḥ

["O King Parīkṣit, mainly the topmost transcendentalists, who are above the regulative principles and restrictions, take pleasure in describing the glories of the Lord."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.7]

These are the proofs that Hari is not this side, within the natural production, as the Śaṅkarites, māyāvādīns, say. It is nirguṇa, it is beyond. Prāyeṇa munayo rājaṇ, nivṛttā vidhi-ṣedhataḥ, nairguṇya-sthā ramante sma, guṇānukatha. They're nirguṇa, they do not care for this satya, raja, tama. Their posing is such. Still they find some attraction and they discourse about Hari, so Hari must be on the higher side, in this way. Catuḥsana.

tasyāravinda-nayanasya padāravinda-, kiñjalka-miśra-tulasī-makaranda-vāyuḥ antar-gataḥ sva-vivareṇa cakāra teṣāṁ, saṅkṣobham akṣara-juṣām api citta-tanvoḥ

["When the breeze carrying the aroma of Tulasī leaves from the toes of the lotus feet of the Personality of Godhead entered the nostrils of those sages, they experienced a change both in body and in mind, even though they were attached to the impersonal Brahman understanding."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.15.43]

The Tulasī which was placed on the, had contact with the holy feet of Nārāyaṇa, that scent disturbed these people who were ātmārāma, Catuḥsana, who were self sufficient, self satisfied. Their attention was attracted by the sweet scent of the Tulasī which had got contact with the holy feet of Nārāyaṇa. They were attracted, snatched away, so that must have some superior position. In this way the proof has been given that Vaikuṇṭha is over Brahman, and not this side Brahman, as the Śaṅkarites, māyāvādīns, they argue.

Śukadeva also says,

pariniṣṭhito 'pi nairguṇye, uttamaḥ-śloka-līlayā gṛhīta-cetā rājarṣe, ākhyānaṁ yad adhītavān

["O saintly King, I was certainly situated perfectly in transcendence, yet I was still attracted by the delineation of the pastimes of the Lord, who is described by enlightened verses."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.9]

"O Mahārāja Parīkṣit, you all know that I'm well established in nirguṇa brahman, that beyond. My position is proved that I'm beyond the charm of this mundane world. You all know, that cent percent I've no charm for any vanity or temptation. Still, I had some special charm to hear about the līlā of Kṛṣṇa, Vṛndāvana. My attention was forcibly snatched to that. So that must be on the other side, on the higher side of this world, that is not among the pleasing pastimes of this mundane world."

In this way, these are the witness elements that Kṛṣṇa līlā is aprākṛta, is adhokṣaja, is transcendental. These are the proofs, that those that have got no charm, least charm of this mundane pleasure, they're reverentially attracted towards that, similar things, that is very high, on the other side of the Parabrahman world, and not this mundane.

So hallucination, intoxication, dangerous. It may draw our attention to any side and every side. These are the sound calculations towards the transcendental līlā of Kṛṣṇa, Vaikuṇṭha, etc. And we must strictly follow, stick to this sort of judiciousness and judgement. Otherwise we may be mislead, misguided.

Who is Christ? Who is Mohamed? What is their position? Who is Śaṅkara? Who is Rāmānuja? Who is Caitanya? What are their subtle differences? We're to measure by these standards of subtle knowledge, and differences between the standards. Very scrupulously, and very discriminatingly we're to follow all these, to examine all the specialities of these different layers or planes of existence. If we miss them then our brain will read, and anything and everything we shall accept, in the name of anything and everything. Puzzled, perplexed. The systematic study, strong...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...strong, and very accurate differences between the different layers of thought must be maintained, must be followed, must be understood. Otherwise we're in danger.

Any moment anyone may say, "O, I've finished all these things. This is all nothing. What Cārvāka says that is well and good."

Endless reaction. Sincere sevonmukha. Generally we must try to understand the nature of three planes. The plane of exploitation, renunciation, and service, dedication. We're to clearly understand the nature of these three planes, plane of exploitation, plane of renunciation, and plane of dedication. Then we're to calculate. If we understand the proper valuation of these planes in general, then in fine points also we can try to calculate how much renunciation, how much exploitation, how much dedication is mixed in these, then valuation. We must be well versed in the intrinsic knowledge of these three planes first. And then the gradation, and how the development by degree is possible, in a mathematical way. Then we cannot be removed from our present fixed position. Otherwise we're uncertain. Anyone may try to convince and I'll be a prey to his whimsical representation. Today I'm a Caitanyaite, another day I'm a Śaṅkarite, another day I'm a Buddhist, another day I'm Islam, another day I'm atheists, with no stability.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Someone, who was that gentleman for whom we sent some money, to come back from Kashmir? What was his name? Four hundred rupees were sent to him, to come back.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. One of Tīrtha's disciples. O no, actually he was Prabhupāda's disciple but he came with Tīrtha Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He went to find out the place where Jesus was buried, or Jesus preached something. That tendency entered into his brain. Leaving Hari Nāma, and earnest, where, how he may be relieved of these worldly troubles, and engagement how he can be taken in on the higher position in the devotional school. But he's master of his own. He has no engagement from Kṛṣṇa. He's master of his own, and he's wandering here and there according to his own whim.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'

["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

You've got no independence. The connection between you and the Centre, it is not negligible. It is a high powered connection. If you come in a normal position you will feel that the strongest attraction from you to the Centre, and you can't ignore if you come in the normal position. If the outside dresses are removed you'll find that the greatest attraction from the Centre within you, and you can't go astray, aside. Your bounden duty you're always to be set from there and you're to discharge that. This cannot but be in your normal position. You'll find the greatest attraction force from you and the Centre. Whatever will be required, will be demanded from you, from that quarter, you cannot but do that. That should be the normal position.

But you are independent, you can do this, this, everything. No value of time, no engagement, wandering everywhere. Jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'. When you're completely free, we're completely independent of apathetic forces, only then we shall realise that I'm bound down, duty bound towards the Centre. I cannot go hither thither at my own sweet pleasure. I'm a slave to the Centre. Central connection with every part, normally it cannot but be such. But we think we're free _____ [?] That means, neglected by the Centre, away from the Centre.

And as much as the dust will be cleared we shall have to feel the call of the Centre within me. And we'll be busily engaged, no time to waste, busily engaged. I shall have to find it is not unreasonable, that Centre's demand is the absolute in me, and I shall have to feel that. That I've got full engagement there from the head office. No time to waste my time wandering this way or that way.

[apaśyatām ātma-tattvaṁ gṛheṣu gṛha-medhinām]

[Śukadeva Goswāmī said to King Parīkṣit: "Those persons who are materially engrossed, being blind to the knowledge of ultimate truth, have many subject matters for hearing in human society, O Emperor."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.2]

In Bhāgavatam Śukadeva in the beginning he says, "Thousands of things here to attend, to do. For whom? For those unfortunate, neglected souls. They've got their thousands of engagements in different ways."

But to the normal, only one, directed, connected with the Centre. Very fine, that one engagement. Wholesale captured by Him. That duty has captured me wholly, not to get outside. Really it is so. But scattered we are, our rub is such, no deed, thousands of deeds. Thousands of witches are attracting our attention and we're running after this, that. That is the worst condition we are. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Apaśyatām ātma-tattvaṁ. Who does not know his own self, he's got thousands of engagements, hundreds. Apaśyatām ātma-tattvaṁ. Who cannot see his own self, and thereby the layer in which the soul is living. And thereby the centre of the plane where he's living are ignoring. Saropari bhram [?] Far from our own self interest.

So we must understand these exploitations of different types, and renunciation, and dedication of twofold. One calculative another spontaneous. Then we're to calculate in details what is what. A new proposal will come, I'm to put in the map, what is the similarity, it must be posted there. This is in karma-kāṇḍa, or vikarma, or jñāna-kāṇḍa, or yoga-kāṇḍa, or viddhi-bhakti, or raga-bhakti?

We're to search, just as in the post office, the sorting department. This will go in the foreign land, there is one compartment, these parcels will go to foreign land, I must put them there. Or, this is in the local, somewhere. Then in this district, that district, that district, compartmental positions and we put there according to the address.

So also we shall have to know whatever new things will be given, extended to me. O, this is that thing, it must go into that category, into vikarma, or in the karma, or in the yoga, or in Vaikuṇṭha, or in this. We must examine it, the opinion, the plan, the design, that is given to us to examine and put in a particular position. We must have a world map. The whole sort, the exhaustive thinking world, a map of that we must have, possess, and we'll understand what is what.

So many diverse things, the rouble, or the yen, the sterling, the dollar, how to come to adjust? Everything is independent. Then some gold, common standard must be there, and with that we're to measure. What is the measurement of dollar? What is of rupee? What is of sterling? In this way a common criterion we're to secure.

And this exploitation, renunciation, and dedication, if we understand them properly, that will help us a great deal there. We're to understand properly, what is the value, what is the worth, of the exploitation, renunciation, and dedication. These three fundamental planes, trinity, and thinking, feeling, willing. Satyam, śivam, sundaram. Sat-cit-ānandam. These fundamental principles of life, and the environment, the basis, we must have to understand, properly, rightly.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

I'm Kṛṣṇa. I'm Mohamed. I'm Jesu. I'm everything. Now I'm one thing, next moment I'm another thing. This is anarchy in the religious world. And the greatest enemy may not have such misfortune. We shall pray to the Lord, that none may have such misfortune, lost in the calculation world, besides himself, derangement. Gaura Hari bol. That is horrible to think. May that madness not attack us in any position. Lord save me. O Lord save us, anything and everything we have. We're not safe, tiny souls. Give us shelter under the shadow of Your cool Holy Feet. We're not safe. Allow us, give us admission within Your fold and sustain us. We're so tiny, we're so meagre, so tiny, so helpless, so,

ye yatha patita haya, tava dayā [tata tāya, tāte āmi supātra dayāra]

[Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says: "Your grace is given in accordance with the necessity of those who really deserve it. In that consideration, I have some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have some claim to Your grace."] [Gīta-mālā, Yamunā-bhāvāvali, 19]

I'm most fallen of the fallen, so I'm qualified for Your mercy. Accept me, dayāra, ocean of grace You are. I'm uncertain in my present position.

Yāmunācārya says, "Lord, I think I'm quite normal in this time. I sign a bond that I'm Your servant. Take care of me. And this bond should apply in future for me. I may be otherwise in future. Now I'm in full consciousness I'm giving this bond to You. Please protect me. Next moment I may be otherwise, I can't say. So if in future I want something else, You won't allow. I'm in my fullest perfect knowledge at present, that You are my all. You give me admission. The next moment I may do something else, but that won't be granted." _____ [?] Yāmunācārya, Guru of Rāmānuja, he says like that. "So much uncertain our position. Next moment I may seek something else. But don't allow, my Lord. You're my guardian, and it is final. You take my charge." So alert, so suspicious of his own self. Jīvātmā is so subtle, and so meagre, and so helpless, he's showing.

With this attitude we shall go to take refuge, to take shelter under the holy and safe shade of the Lord's holy feet. We won't believe us, _____ [?] that is our position.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

"You're my guardian. I realise this moment that fully, and I won't like that it may be otherwise. It is horrible." Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. This Yāmunācārya. I can't remember the śloka in Sanskrit. It is there, Mukunda-mālā-stotra [33?] or somewhere. Have you come across this śloka, you, Bhargava Prabhu?

Bhargava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mukunda-mālā-stotra. Do you remember about this śloka, there?

Bhargava: The Sanskrit I don't know but...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By Yāmunācārya. Very good advices are there in Kulaśekhara Ācārya, who was perhaps in the first century A.D. of Christ, king of Cera. Kulaśekhara Āḷvār. His prayer to Nārāyaṇa is also very fervent and very encouraging and educating.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhargava: Yāmunācārya was charmed by his kingdom so much, when he was a king...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yāmunācārya, for some time conditioned, he got above that. He was a student, do you know this story? No?

Bhargava: No. You can tell?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was a student in a school. And the then king had a court paṇḍita who was very much proud. He issued a circular to all the local paṇḍitas to this effect.

"You accept me as the paramount scholar, best of all. Otherwise you come to me and you'll have to discuss with me. I want to defeat you all."

A circular came to the head teacher of the school where the boy Yāmunācārya was reading. He was quite talented, he asked, his Guru was going to give his signature, "That I admit that you are superior scholar."

Yāmunācārya approached, "What is this?"

Guru explained, teacher, "The court paṇḍita has issued a circular, if anyone thinks to give his signature that he's the greatest scholar. If not then he must go and discuss with him and defeat him."

And Yāmunācārya told, "No, you must not give signature." The boy.

"Why not? What is the good by quarrelling with the court paṇḍita? He will stop our monetary help from the state, and we'll have to suffer. So I'm giving the signature."

"No, no. As your representative I shall go."

Then he was so determined the Guru had to accept that. "Yes. If you like you may go."

Then all other teachers they gave their signature. And this boy Yāmunācārya went to discuss with him. There was a great commotion in the state, that one boy is coming to discuss with the court paṇḍita, the state scholar. There was a great uproar.

And when the boy is going, the king and the queen they're also seeing from within their room, through the window, that this is the boy. The queen was very much charmed with the appearance of the boy.

"I say the boy will conquer in this fight."

Then king says, "It is not certain."

"No, no."

Then there was a bet between them.

"If the boy wins the field, what will you do?"

"I take this bet, that my daughter will be married with him, and half of the kingdom will be given to him." But the king hesitated and anyhow that was effected.

And when in the assembly the boy and the old paṇḍita were together, the court paṇḍita he felt much excitement. "There are so many paṇḍitas in the country, scholars, but this boy has come to debate with me? You, boy, whatever question you'll put, I shall cut it asunder. Say what is."

The boy put three points. "I put these three questions to you and you must cut it asunder. First thing I say, that your mother is not barren. You'll have to prove that your mother is barren."

Do you follow, barren?

Devotee: Yes, without children.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A woman does not produce any child, she's known as barren, is it not?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I say your mother is not barren. This is my question. You say that you'll crush it, smash it. And next I say that the king is free of sin, king is not sinful. You'll have to prove that the king is a sinner. And the third, and the greatest, I say that the queen is chaste, and you're to prove that the queen is not chaste." _____ [?]

Then that court paṇḍita he could not answer, and began to sweat, puzzled. And the whole public they're also waiting with suspense. What's the answer that may come in future? These three questions.

Then anyhow the court paṇḍita he told, "Can you answer these questions? This is all fallacious, nonsense. These are not proper questions at all. Can you answer?"

"Yes, I can."

Then the whole audience hearing became very acute. "He'll answer, this boy."

Then he quoted scripture. "That a mother can be called barren if her son is very worthless." Quoted some. "The son is worthless cypher, then mother may be called barren." He quoted from some scripture.

And then great silence.

"The next, the king is a sinner, very true. The king is always accepting the taxes of the people, always drawing taxes. And the sin of that tax is coming to the king. And the king performs so many religious works to get out of the sin. But they're always current, the taxes from so many people are coming to the king, and their sin is always coming to the king with that tax money." All with quotations from the scripture. "So king is sinful, and to remove the sin he'll have take to so many sacrifices and other holy duties. It is in the scriptures." He quoted.

Then thunderstruck.

Then the last and the greatest, "That queen is unchaste lady." Horrible thing to prove, that also he gave. "That with the king, it is mentioned in the scripture, eight gods are always living with the king, Indra and Candra etc. The king is the combination of all these gods. They always stay with him. So when the king enjoys the queen, those gods are also there." He gave quotation. And none can oppose, so he won the day.

Then the queen was satisfied, and as they had their bet between them, came with the princess, as well as the half portion of the kingdom was given. And Yāmunācārya was king for some time, and neglected the culture of the śāstra and the Vaiṣṇava school, all these things. And he was enjoying.

So one Ācārya of the Rāmānuja school, he was very much mortified, and wanted to visit the king. But it was not very easy to have his darśana, his interview. So that Yāmunācārya was too much fond of some vegetable, so he used to collect that sort of vegetable every day for his cook.

Then one day Yāmunācārya asked his cook, "How do you get this sort of vegetable? I'm very much fond of this vegetable. But it's difficult to collect this vegetable all the season, but you keep it supplied. Where do you get it?"

"One old brāhmaṇa Vaiṣṇava, he brings this thing for you every day."

"Is it?"

"Yes."

"Ask him what is his object, purpose."

Then, when he was asked he told that, "I want his interview."

"Yes, yes."

An interview was arranged, and the brāhmaṇa met him and began to cry.

"Why brāhmaṇa you're crying? What wrong have I done to you I don't know."

"You have done a great wrong to our society. You're such a great paṇḍita, a giant intellect, and you've left us, engaged in your pleasure life here. You got a princess, you got half the kingdom, you're madly enjoying them. But what about our sampradāya? The other party, Śaṅkara's party, they're trying their best to humiliate our sampradāya. And you, being a genius of our sampradāya, you're sleeping over the interest."

That disturbed him. "Yes brāhmaṇa, you have given me that light. Now I shall try."

So there from he began to read the śāstra and write books, all these things, service of the Rāmānuja Vaiṣṇava sampradāya, he engaged himself. And in his last days, when Rāmānuja was a rising boy scholar, he could not meet him anyhow. But he found three necessities for the sampradāya. One, the commentary of Vedānta. Another, the worshipping, by how the Deity should be worshipped. And another, the interpretation of all the Upaniṣads. Then in last days he removed himself to Śrī Raṅgam, and there he sent for Rāmānuja.

"I want to meet him and to request him something for the benefit of our sampradāya."

But before Rāmānuja could come to meet him he breathed his last. Rāmānuja came and found that he's already gone. But he sent for him first particular purposes he already told, three objects. Rāmānuja detected his body and found, one, two, three, these fingers closed. Then he told, Rāmānuja could know the meaning. There is a custom in that country to count one thing in this way, this one, two, three, in this way, closing the finger. He detected that three things, three fingers closed. So he could read that, "Three things he had to say to me."

So he also living in the common platform to do some service to the Vaiṣṇava society. So Rāmānuja could feel what three things he was to convey to Rāmānuja. He told, "I shall prepare commentary to the Upaniṣads." One finger became straight. "I shall also prepare a bhāṣya to Vedānta." The next finger. "I shall prepare a ritual worshipping book for the service of the Deities." Then the third finger also stood erect.

Then people were very much surprised, and they began to cry jaya of Rāmānuja and accepted him as the leader, though a boy, Rāmānuja.

This is Yāmunācārya, and he wrote some Sanskrit verses which is considered to be in the line of very pure devotion, this Yāmunācārya. Kulaśekhara, Rāmānuja, and one Śaṭhakopar that is in Tamil only. Deśikācāryya, so many stalwarts in the, Kureśa Ālwār. All these are stalwarts of the Rāmānuja sampradāya. Śuddha bhakti, pure devotion we can trace from them, free from contamination of māyāvāda.

"So ham, we're one, we're of the same status with the absolute." That wrong conception of Śaṅkara.

The difference is great, and He's Master and we're man. Man and Master. That admission, that is more acceptable and palatable thing for us. We're uncertain of our position, without His help it's uncertain. And when we're in the fold of His devotional area then we can thrive most. The main thing is there.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi Gaura. Nitāi Gaura. Nitāi Gaura. Nitāi Gaura.

Devotee: Mahārāja, how is it that the Vedas declare Kṛṣṇa as nitya brahmacārī?
The śrutis declare Kṛṣṇa as nitya brahmacārī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where do you get this? The Kṛṣṇa is brahmacārī? From Dāsa Gopāla Tapanī?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know the story? The gopīs are observing some vrata, vow, and fasting. And after feeding a brāhmaṇa then they'll break their fast. They want to go to the other side.

Devotee: Of the Yamunā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They want to go to Durvāsā's āśrama, and the Yamunā River is between. And the Yamunā was in full fledged turbulation. So, what is the first, and the next? _____ [?] Then, perhaps they came to Kṛṣṇa. "How can we cross this Yamunā? We've got such vow. We want to go there."

Then Kṛṣṇa told them, advised them, "You go to Yamunā and say that Kṛṣṇa is brahmacārī, and you'll be able to cross Yamunā."

And they went to Yamunā and their folded palms, "Kṛṣṇa brahmacārī. Give us way to cross on."

And they crossed on and they did not dive there. Then after feeding Durvāsā and his disciples there in a good way, then they asked Durvāsā, "How can we cross this turbulent Yamunā?"

"How did you come?"

"We came with these words, that Kṛṣṇa brahmacārī, we told like that and we came."

"Then you go and say to Yamunā, "Durvāsā upavāsi. Durvāsā is observing fast."

"What is this that we're feeding you with so many things and...

82.12.28.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...go and see. And they came to the Yamunā and told, "Durvāsā upavāsi." And Yamunā was calmed and they crossed.

Then, eating so much he says that, "I'm fasting."

And Kṛṣṇa also playing with the gopīs, "They say I'm brahmacārī."

Then what is the theme underlying? How to read this?

yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate / hatvāpi sa imāḻ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

The basis of thought is such principle. One who has got no selfish motive, he, destroying the whole universe does not do anything. Not responsible for their destruction. It is a plane, it is a position particular. That means that I'm totally an instrument. No starting egoistic action in me. I'm wholesale an instrument. Nimitta-mātraṁ bhava savyasācin.

[tasmāt tvam uttiṣṭha yaśo labhasva, jitvā śatrūn bhuṅkṣva rājyaṁ samṛddham mayaivaite nihatāḥ pūrvam eva, nimitta-mātraṁ bhava savyasācin]

["Therefore take your stand for battle, take the glory, conquer all the enemies, and enjoy a flourishing kingdom. Actually, all these warriors have long before been killed by Me. O Savyasācin, you simply take all the credit."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.33]

The central power is, the aim is coming from there. I'm only instrument to that. That plane, that position is possible to be taken by any separate agency, in that. One can be eating he may not eat.

So Kṛṣṇa's līlā with the gopīs, it is not like the enjoyment reactionary, victim to reactionary enjoyment. It is divine, it is service, anything is service there, nothing is enjoyment in that locality, in that plane. Everything is approached in the spirit of service, dedication, both the parties. Both the parties, the men and women may mix but with the spirit of dedication, not with the filthy spirit of exploitation. Exploitation, that is a nasty thing. Otherwise it is as holy as anything. If anything is approached with that possibility, that divine state, it is as holy as anything. We're to understand, we're to feel, we're to follow, try to follow how it is possible. Dedication is such. It is pure, and the vilāsa, the movement may be similar, not same. Like this kāma but not this kāma, not lust. But it is love, because sacrifice, self sacrifice. Not a party to do anything wrong in the environment. That is the key to understand what is that pure land.

All play, the player's stage, venom-less, no venom, biting but no venom. Rather nectar, instead of venom there is nectar biting. It is possible. The land of that holy dream, everything is possible, but only instead of venom there must be nectar. It is possible _____ [?] and approach everything. The gradation of purity is going on in that way. Prostitution, married union, and that also under strict condition. Prajanaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ.

[āyudhānām ahaṁ vajraṁ, dhenūnām asmi kāma-dhuk
prajanaś cāsmi kandarpaḥ, sarpāṇām asmi vāsukiḥ]

["Of weapons I am the thunderbolt, and of cows I am the heavenly desire-fulfilling cow. Of cupids I am he who ensures progeny, and among the single-headed venomous snakes I am Vāsuki, the king of all snakes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.28]

praja para nanote [?] The restriction to follow, in this way the purity is going above. And sensualism, that is bad. As much as it is so much bad, as going purer in that way. And there wholesale pure and that is the plane of the highest type. We're to understand that way. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Am I clear?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To certain extent, not wholesale possible.
Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All holy things.
Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

When once from Delhi and Bengali higher officer abused Bhāgavatam with this remark that, "Bhāgavatam deals with this immoral, nasty things about the God, all these things."

Then our Guru Mahārāja was present that time. Then three opposition articles were issued against that.

One Bharamdas Sambhanda [?] he drew attention, "That in a particular paper that Bhāgavatam has been abused with this remark, 'That God is connected with filthy things.'" In this way.

Then three articles were issued in different papers from our side, from our Guru Mahārāja. One in the name of Amnay Carit [?] Another by Dr Sanvit [?] he's barrister now, he was at that time a student in London. And another by the name of Bon Mahārāj, three articles.

There, Guru Mahārāja pointed out that these things, suppose a doctor when he's engaged to examine the private part of a lady and apply some medicine, is he lusty, so much? The method of approach makes it nasty or pure. If for treatment this approach is necessary, is it filthy, wrong, or abusing? If it is not so then from this we can see that approach and handling may not always be nasty in particular cases. According to the mentality of the approach that may be laudable and useful to want to cure a disease in a particular part. We can suppose that with whole heart that approach may not be filthy.

So there is a more higher and higher approach to everything is possible. Only our enjoying spirit, aggressive spirit is to be blamed and not the physical approach. So with this way we're to come. This is also very material, but still the comparative purity is to be found there. And that is so high and that is the real fulfilment of everything, and here abuses of everything. So, kāma-preme bahuta antara.

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara / kāma - andhatamaḥ, prema - nirmmala bhāskara]

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

A great distance between the two, one is dense darkness another is holy light. Gaura Hari. I stop today.

...

vikrīḍitaṁ vraja-vadhūbhir idaṁ ca viṣṇoḥ, śraddhānvito ['nuśṛṇuyād atha varṇayed yaḥ
bhaktiṁ parām bhagavati pratilabhya kāmaṁ, hṛd-rogam āśv apahinoty acireṇa dhīraḥ]

["One who hears with firm faith the supramundane amorous affairs of Lord Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs, as described by a pure devotee of the Lord, soon becomes freed from mundane lust and achieves divine love of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.39]

You can understand the approach of Kṛṣṇa to everything properly, then we're cured of that disease, great disease, rather the greatest disease, like kāma, lust. It is the medicine in the beginning, and in the highest form it is all blissful.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Did you see the Tamarind tree...

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...under which Mahāprabhu took rest? I don't know whether that Tamarind tree is still living there.

Devotee: Yes it is.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The first group of Śrī Mūrti, Gaura-Nityānanda there. When Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu went to visit Gaurī dāsa Paṇḍit, Gaurī dāsa Paṇḍit is Subal Sakhā in Vṛndāvana, considered. And there is a very beautiful and mysterious tale of the Śrī Mūrti there.

When Gaurāṅga and Nityānanda went there, Gaurī dāsa Paṇḍit did not allow Them to come away. "I want to install You, You stay here."

"Yes, you install."

Two Śrī Mūrtis were prepared, and They're put, abhiśeka. Then Gaurī dāsa Paṇḍit again began to cry, "You are going away."

"No, no. Our Śrī Mūrtis, We are there."

"No, no. I don't believe that You are this. Then You keep up there."

So Gaura-Nityānanda was there in the room, installed, and the two Mūrtis were put outside, and They began to go away.

Then he again, "Oh, You have removed These in any way. I'm a stupid man. You've managed to come out of the room and put the Murtis there."

Then again They asked, "Whatever you like you put into the room and put Others outside."

Again it was changed, and again when he had a mind, "You go." The outside Mūrtis leaving, began to walk. In this way this story has been described there.

What is what? What is what? Everything is hallucination in this world. Ha, ha. Subjective control. The magician can show anything and everything. The master magician, His playing, playing with the eyeball, with the mind, with intelligence He's playing, not outside so much. "You see this."

"Yes, I see."

"No, no, it is not that it is a third thing."

"Yes, it is a third thing."

In this way, wire puller, in the subjective conception.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Will power. Ha, ha, ha. "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light. The creation in our so eye so rigid thing, but to Him it is sweet will. Ha, ha. It is sweet will, to create anything, so rigid thing to create. His will, simple sweet will can create, can make us see, control the seer, the onlooker. The world is such.

Not that the world has produced us, but we're producing the objects of our world. The world is in the mind, not that mind is in the world, [Bishop] Berkeley says. The world in subtle form in the mind, mental system, and then that is much developed comes on the senses, beyond the senses it comes.

When Dhruva after meditation he saw Nārāyaṇa in his mind. The Nārāyaṇa has appeared and captured his mind. Then it was so intense when he opened his eyes he saw Nārāyaṇa Mūrti on the outside, inside and outside. What is the difference? More intense it comes outside.

Sometimes in our dream we might have such experience someone that as if we hear something that someone is saying this in the ear I hear. When half awakened we sometimes hear from dream it is converted into real, we hear some sound. 'I heard some sound and woke up. Who called me?' None, only from the dream stage that subtle sound when it is very intense it comes in the outside. So vision also can be transformed in such way. When the vision, when an idea I'm seeing is very much intensified we can see as if in the eye, just in front of the eye. So everything is possible, when more intense, subtle things transformed into gross, what you say, gross. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

I'm told that one French gentleman he's saying in the scientific world that the sight comes through the eye. There's something in the eye which helps us to see outside. The cause of what we see, that is in the eye, within the eye. The colour is in the eye.

In our Sāṅkhya philosophy also, the essence of sound, ether, ear, and sound. Then sun, eye, and the colour. In this way it is divided into three. One principle divided into three, sattvic, rajasic, tamasic, three branches. The tamasic - objective, rajasic - the instrumental, and sattvic - which helps to have the experience, that light. Sun is sattvic, eye is rajasic, and the colour is tamasic, the objective side. So also sound, just as the touch, everything is like three branches, one thing branched into three kinds. One showing, another seeing, another is sight, in this way all divided. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given this idea in Śrī Kṛṣṇa Saṁhitā. If you go through Śrī Kṛṣṇa Saṁhitā Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has described all these things from the Upaniṣads and Sāṅkhya philosophy.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. That is a very scientific book. On the basis of science, spiritual truth has been distributed.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Then from Kalna did you go to Śantipur?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja, to the house of Śrī Advaita Prabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Advaita Prabhu, and nearby that Kuliyā, Haridās Prabhu's bhajan-kuṭīra, you didn't see?

Devotee: No Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A little far. Haridāsa Ṭhākura on the banks of the Ganges in a hut he used to take Hari Nāma. And there Māyā Devī went to test him, and afterwards Māyā Devī begged Hari Nāma from Haridāsa Ṭhākura.

pūrve āmi rāma-nāma pāñāchi 'śiva' haite, tomāra saṅge lobha haila kṛṣṇa-nāma laite

["Formerly I received the holy name of Lord Rāma from Lord Śiva, but now, due to your association, I am greatly eager to chant the holy name of Lord Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 3.256]

"I got Rāma Nāma from Mahādeva, Śiva, my husband. Now, hearing you to chant Kṛṣṇa Nāma so sweet, my heart aspires after getting Kṛṣṇa Nāma from you Haridāsa."

That kuñja nearby, perhaps two miles off on the southern side of Śantipur town, something like that, old bed of Ganges. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Mahārāja, at the temple of Gaurī dāsa Paṇḍit we were shown a piece of a Bhagavad-gītā that is said to have belonged or was hand written by Mahāprabhu.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Handwriting of Mahāprabhu?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We did not know. Mahāprabhu's handwriting of Bhagavad-gītā, we did not hear of it. It is not mentioned anywhere in the authentic scriptures. But the paduka of Mahāprabhu is shown in the Mahāprabhu temple here in Navadwīpa, the wooden sandals, not shoes, wooden sandals.

Vidagdha Mādhava: That is in Janmāṣṭan Yoga-pīṭha?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. It is here in Mahāprabhu's temple. Viṣṇuprīya, she installed Mahāprabhu's Śrī Mūrti. And that was removed when by the flow of the Ganges that side was being broken, They came this side with the Śrī Mūrti. And there that wooden sandal what was given by Mahāprabhu to Viṣṇuprīya, that is shown here. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, were those shoes given before Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa or after?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After sannyāsa. After sannyāsa Mahāprabhu came here and went to see His old house on the other side. And then just in the front of His house He stood, and Viṣṇuprīya covering her body wholesale she fell straight in front of Mahāprabhu's Śrī Mūrti. She came out of the house and fell straight there. And Mahāprabhu took those two wooden sandals there and asked, "Console yourself with this." And He went away. He told, "Have consolation with these two sandals." So He left those two sandals there and He went away.

Then Viṣṇuprīya arose, got up, and took those sandals and she used to worship them as long as she lived. Then she lived with her brother. Śacī Devī disappeared, and her brother was her guardian and they gradually moved this side, Mahāprabhu. Viṣṇuprīya wanted to have Mahāprabhu's Śrī Mūrti but the carpenter he prepared it and used to show but she was not satisfied fully. Then third time we are told when she took the Mūrti Viṣṇuprīya suddenly took her head cloth withdrawing, as if living Mahāprabhu is at her front. And that Mahāprabhu is, was here.

Vidagdha Mādhava: _____ [?] at the same temple?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One must have been changed but still that continuation is there. Just as Jagannātha Purī, every twelve years Śrī Mūrtis are changed. But it is in accordance with that same, we're to take it, representative. His will, His word is law, wish is law, reality, His wish is reality.

Paper _____ [?], and that may become document, how? Closer it is document, only cheap paper on the outside, what more, a stamp? But closer it is, crores of dollars may be present, one sheet of paper. Why, how? The will is behind.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Also, some pastimes are spoken at Gaurī dāsa Paṇḍit's temple about the Mūrtis, about Śrī Śrī Gaura-Nitāi, these are authentic stories?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, authentic stories, and that was the first Śrī Mūrti.

Vidagdha Mādhava: They have not changed?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Change may take place, does not matter, but still continued I told here. Jagannātha Purī, every twelve years Mūrti changed, but that does not matter. We're to understand how. And I gave the example behind. The will is there. "I'm there. I represent that will, document guaranteed." It is going on, a treaty is signed by both the parties, the will behind. So everywhere the guarantee is with the party, with the person, with the spirit, not in the matter.

Everything is such. The gold is gold because we have got recognition for that. But gold has no value amongst the jackals and tigers. Because human society gives some importance to gold, 'O, this is gold,' and for a bird or a beast gold has got no value. So everything is like that. Material representation has got no value according to the demand of the subjective world. It is only prthi bhu [?], representation, as long as admission comes from subjective world. This is, gradually this is unknown, valuable, this is unnecessary, this is necessary, all calculation from the subjective world. Otherwise what value this has got? All relative. Oxygen has value to us, but to the trees carbon dioxide is valuable, the opposite, all relative.

Subject is all in all. Without matter subject can live, but matter, material conception, always dependent on subjective plane. Everything presupposes consciousness. The theistic school has got this atom bomb against the atheists. Whatever you say, this iron, the fossil, what is fossil? Fossil means hard, fossil means black or something that presupposes subject, subjective conception. The fossil is nothing but a cluster of subjective conceptions. So any material existence presupposes subjective substance, cannot be independent. So here the atheists they have to come down. All floating on the subjective consciousness. Consciousness is the reality and everything is floating on it. And consciousness can live independently. Introspection, consciousness can feel consciousness, it makes it object.

Hegel also told, "Subject and object co-relative. No object can be there without the help of the subject, and also, no subject can exist without object. The thinker must have something to think, that is the object. And object means someone is thinking of it, so co-relative."

But consciousness can feel itself, but the object cannot do so. Independent of our consciousness something is there, some star is there. No consciousness is conceiving. We may think there may be some star, none has visited, none has conceived. But it must be in the universal consciousness. Everywhere it is assured that it is the star in the furthest corner, independent of any consciousness we know. Star has got some description and description means state of consciousness. No independent existence of matter is possible.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Consciousness is independent to us. Different gradation in consciousness. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Sat-cit-ānandam, ānandam is more graphic, more extensive, more comprehensive, ānandam. Everyone aspires after, it is so comprehensive that none can say that 'I don't want any blissfulness. I don't want any happiness.' None will say, none can say. It is all comprehensive including the most backward type of atheist. They'll say, "Yes, I want happiness." Everyone says in his argument all these methods, 'I want happiness.' Everyone will say the most comprehensive thing is ānandam, sat-cit-ānandam, next cinmaya, cetana.

But we're accustomed to think just in the opposite way. We think that material existence is infinite and a part of that is conscious and even very few of consciousness are happy. So happiness is the smallest in amount, and consciousness is more spacious, and material conception is infinite, so just the opposite.

Sat-cit-ānandam, raso vai saḥ, all rasa. None requesting you, if all is rasa, ānandam, then how this _____ [?] can come? If the infinite is God then how this Māyā can come in the small portion? That is the problem will be the opposite. If the light is everywhere then how darkness can come, how ignorance can come? So it has been explained that these are the potencies [?] interdependent, correlative. Without darkness light cannot be conceived, so darkness is there. Taṭasthā-śakti, māyā-śakti, is there, it is correlative. In the absolute consideration it is necessary. Negative, positive, both, one whole, condition, unconditioned, together absolute. Finite, infinite, together absolute, the conception of Absolute requires, conception of light requires dark, this way. But light is desirable than darkness, that is pure sat-ānandam. And this is ignorance, darkness, it is far from ānandam. So ānanda rasa, that is the most comprehensive, and most universal, and most desirable.

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ - Oh you child of nectar, give your ears to me. Assurance, the word of assurance of your future prospect, come back and attain, hear from me who are you, what you want. Your aspiration is to be satisfied here My children. Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ - Oh you all, you are child of nectar, child of immortality, you are all immortal. But now your problem is mortality everywhere. You find one mortality is the greatest danger of you, greatest enemy of you. But we guarantee you're not so, you can be saved. Really, you are sons of the divine soil, not mortal. Back to Godhead, back to home, the clarion call, back to home. Come to colonise, but suffering from reaction. Let us go home. Neglected your duty and come to enjoy some special freedom, but you're mistaken. Come back, come back, come back to Godhead, back to home, sweet, sweet home, sweet, sweet home.

And whom, who will hear it? To whom such words, such advice is given. Those that have got the capacity to catch these words, this advice. Otherwise everyone has deaf ears through the world, discord. Who will come to give importance to such call, a particular...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. "Oh you, My sons, My children of nectar, come back. You listen to what I say."

The call will create encouragement into the heart of a particular section who have got a possible, a considerable, a real status of self consciousness to certain extent. Others won't care to hear this call. So how many are searching after this truth amongst the human beings?

eita brahmāṇḍa bhari' ananta jīva-gaṇa, caurāśī-lakṣa yonite karaye bhramaṇa

["In this universe there are limitless living entities in 8,400,000 species, and all are wandering within this universe."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.138]

Innumerable souls are wandering in this world in different stages. Eita brahmāṇḍa bhari' ananta jīva-gaṇa caurāśī-lakṣa. Eighty four lākhs of species. Everywhere there is that path of knowledge, the atomic knowledge, in bird, in insect. So though material measurement is not with soul, but still it is said, bālāgra-śata bhāgasya [śatadhā kalpitasya ca, bhāgo jīvaḥ sa vijñeyaḥ sa cānantyāya kalpate]

["If we divide the tip of a hair into one hundred parts and then take one part and divide this into another one hundred parts, that ten-thousandth part is the dimension of the living entity."] [Śvetaśvatara Upaniṣad, 5.9]

Imaginary magnitude has been given. If the hair breadth, the breadth of a hair that is divided into a hundred, and one part again divided into a hundred, such is the magnitude of the soul, a figurative statement. Bālāgra-śata bhāgasya śatadhā kalpitasya ca bhāgo jīvaḥ sa vijñeyaḥ. Soul in every germ, in every virus, most insignificant creature, there within that also there is soul - this imaginary.

The light cannot be divided in any part, division, possible. So everywhere there is all filled up with soul and peculiarity that so many individualities are there. Every imaginary point is endowed with individuality. There's the rub. How it is possible? Every brick, or earth, or wood can be divided into atoms, then again molecules, then again protons. Everything can be divided and divided. So also consciousness also divided, divided.

But anything in its smallest part is person. Just as the cell is divided, they say that something like dream. A cell can be human body, may be nurtured and produce a human body. Today's scientists are saying like that. A cell from Napoleon's body if properly nurtured a Napoleon will be produced. Now they say that, _____ [?] or someone. In due process the cell, just as a potato's part can produce a potato. _____ [?] So many trees, branches may be put in a place and it may be a tree. So the human cell may be put in a particular environment and can produce that man [from] whose cell it has been taken.

So material is such, soul is also such, any infinitesimal part of a soul is person, taṭastha-śakti, tad-adai, it is all taṭastha-śakti of the Lord. But every infinitesimal part of the taṭastha-śakti, marginal potency, that has got individuality, individual personality is there, akṣara.

[uttamaḥ puruṣas tv anyaḥ, paramātmety udāhṛtaḥ / yo loka-trayam āviśya, bibharty avyaya īśvaraḥ]

["In this world, there are two kinds of souls: the fallible and the infallible. All beings from Lord Brahmā down to the lowest stationary life-forms are known a fallible (as they have deviated from their intrinsic nature). But the personalities who are eternally situated in their divine nature are known as infallible (personal associates of the Lord)."] ["But totally distinct from both these types of souls, there is a Supreme Person who is known as Paramātmā, the Supersoul. He is the Supreme Lord. Entering into the three worlds in His eternal form, He maintains all beings in the universe."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 15.16-17]

Undetectable, unrecognisable part of the marginal potency is akṣara, unchangeable seat of consciousness daily.

As I was saying, that how many here are attracted by this sort of call, clarion call back to home. Very few, very few think it necessary to attend such call, that come back home, very few. But so many ignoring. Some have got no chance, no connection. Brahmāṇḍa bhari' ananta jīva-gaṇa caurāśī-lakṣa yonite karaye bhramaṇa. Tāra madhye manuṣya-jāti ati alpatara.

[eita brahmāṇḍa bhari' ananta jīva-gaṇa, caurāśī-lakṣa yonite karaye bhramaṇa]

["In this universe there are limitless living entities in 8,400,000 species, and all are wandering within this universe."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.138]

[tāra madhye manuṣya-jāti ati alpatara, tāra madhye mlecchа, pulinda, bauddha, śabara]

["Although the living entities known as human beings are very small in quantity, that division may be still further subdivided, for there are many uncultured human beings like mlecchas, pulindas, bauddhas and śabaras."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.145]

Human species forms a negligent part of the whole, jīva, jīva as a whole, ati alpatara. Tāra madhye mlecchа, pulinda, bauddha, śabara. Different sections, classes of consciousness. There are many who outwardly, apparently, accept revealed truth, revealed scripture. But real truth which is extended to this plane from the perfect region, that should be accepted and not any truth which is produced by our experience, that must be faulty. Because we're imperfect, our experience, knowledge of our experience, cannot but be imperfect. But there is a perfect zone and what knowledge is extended from that quarter to here, that should only be true, really be true. And such persons are very few, veda-māne. Veda means the revealed truth that is extended from the quarter of perfect thinking to this imperfect region. That is Veda, that is revealed scripture. There are very few that have faith in such scriptures. Veda 'mukhi' māne veda-niṣiddha pāpa kare, dharma.

[veda-niṣṭha-madhye ardheka veda 'mukhi' māne, veda-niṣiddha pāpa kare, dharma nāhi gaṇe]

["Among human beings, those who are followers of the Vedic principles are considered civilised. Among these, almost half simply give lip service while committing all kinds of sinful activities against these principles. Such people do not care for the regulative principles."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.146]

Only lip deep faith in Veda, revealed truth, but they're working day and night according to the knowledge of their worldly experience. But theoretically they accept, "Yes, revealed truth suits us." That is analogous, such is, the number of such people is most. Veda-niṣiddha pāpa kare, dharma nāhi gaṇe. And, dharmācāri-madhye bahuta 'karma-niṣṭha', [koṭi-karma-niṣṭha-madhye eka 'jñānī' śreṣṭha]

["Among the followers of Vedic knowledge, most are following the process of fruitive activity and distinguishing between good and bad work. Out of many such sincere fruitive actors, there may be one who is actually wise."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.147]

Amongst those that really have recognition of the revealed truth, most of them are engaged in elevationist school. Keeping the Vedic truth on the head, really they're busy in transaction of the material acquisitions. Having a little colour of the revelation, revealed truth.

veda-niṣiddha pāpa kare, dharma nāhi gaṇe dharmācāri-madhye bahuta 'karma-niṣṭha'
koṭi-karma-niṣṭha-madhye eka 'jñānī' śreṣṭha

Amongst such crores of elevationists one may be found as a renunciationist, no elevation here, he may not have any temptation. 'We must jump into the sky. This material position is not safe, it is mortal, it is fire, burning it up, so I must jump from this atmosphere. Tyāga, get out of the present so-called friends in the mortal world.' Jñāna, they want to engage themselves cent-per-cent in the cultivation of knowing faculty, knowledge.

dharmācāri-madhye bahuta 'karma-niṣṭha'
koṭi-jñāni-madhye haya eka-jana 'mukta'
[koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta]

["Out of many millions of such wise men, one may actually become liberated, and out of many millions of such liberated persons, a pure devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa is very difficult to find."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.148]

And those that try to get out of the material influence, gets proper liberation from material temptation, very few, they're liberated souls. And amongst those liberated souls, koti-mukta-madhye, haya eka-jana 'mukta,' those that are trying to get out of the material encasement, crores of them, some are surviving, really getting out of the association of the material energy, liberation. And amongst crores of liberated souls one may find the trace of another superior subtle like plane of devotion. There is another fine plane where with our individual conception we can live, and that is the plane of dedication. Just as here, there is exploitation, so, in the finer world the liberated souls can enter and find that finer plane of dedication, and we can live there. And that is the proper soil to live happily.

Koti-mukta-madhye 'durlabha' eka kṛṣṇa-bhakta. Then also we're told that liberated, that the land of dedication is also divided into two. In the first half, lower half, calculative dedication. With the help of scripture and with the help of the friends, sādhus, and some sort of, our interest, we like to get, have.

Then we're told the highest half their self-forgetfulness automatic dedication, self-forgetfulness. Rather touched by Yoga-Māyā, another higher, superior, affectionate power comes and captures us and utilises us in the service of the mysterious Lord Kṛṣṇa. The Yoga-Māyā comes and influences us. And by the magic touch of that affectionate hand we're taken to Him, a land of our dream. And there we self-forgetfully engage ourselves.

Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, oxymoron, veda-alaṅkāra, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, all affection. We're under the affectionate guardian's hand. We do not know anything. But we're handled by our affectionate guardian's in such a way that we live in the land of _____ [?] We think that we're in lower position, hold lower position, but in the taṭasthā-vicāra, in the impartial judgement, they say that this sort of life, playing by the affectionate hand of the guardian, and if some natural spirit, faith and consciousness to work on, according to their direction, that is the happiest position of one jīva soul.

Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, no calculation, no self-interest, but so given to the central cause that as if in a dream automatically they're like a machine working. And they're the happiest part, that suicidal squad for the centre, that is the happiest portion of the world. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. That is manipulated, handled by faith, by affection, by goodness, by love, by mercy. No necessity of any individual selfish calculation. The soil is such, no individual self-interest calculation is necessary at all. The very soil is thinking of our interest. Everyone, at the cost of their own interest they're seeking the interest of the others. So, the interest is opulent there, no dearth of any ānandam, or rasam, or what is being searched after, no dearth of that thing there. Profusely everything, the affection, the sympathy, the mercy, the love, overflowing there in the land of opulence, no dearth of anything, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti.

This has been appreciated very much in Bhāgavatam and by Mahāprabhu.

"Anyhow, throw yourself there in that plane. They will take care of you. The soil will take care of you. The soil is so high, so elevated, so good."

Bhūmiś cintāmaṇi, vṛkṣa kalpataru, gānaṁ nāṭyaṁ, kathā gānaṁ. [From Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, 56]

Sweet, sweet, sweet, sweet. Everything is sweet in the land of sweetness. It is there. Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is in Bhāgavatam, Caitanya-caritāmṛtam, and somewhere scattered in other Purāṇas. And Mahāprabhu as Rādhā-Govinda, Both combined, came to distribute Their own inner wealth to the public. And so it is possible for us to try to approach. Brahmādi deva yāra nāhi pāya.

[caitanya-prabhura ei kṛpāra mahimā, brahmādi deva yāra nāhi pāya sīmā]

["This is the glory of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu's causeless mercy, which even the demigods, headed by Lord Brahmā, cannot estimate."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 16.76]

The creator of this world, he cannot catch it by his imagination or heart felt meditation.

Śiva viriñcira vāñchita ye dhana [in the Collection of Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja's verses, 147]

Śiva, the type of the soul that does care at all for this material prosperity, or its favour of any type. Indifferent, does not care at all for any material pleasure or comfort, the type of Śiva. They also aspire after such a form of life. _____ [?] uncared for. The care is taken by the atmosphere. The whole guardian to it's details, every part of the soil works with us, treats with us as a good guardian. The very nature of the soil is a good guardian, everyone is adoring. That is the best we can have. And the type of sweetness is quite different from any experience of that sweetness in this area.

Kṛṣṇa. Brahmā cannot understand. Kṛṣṇa, He's taking a little together with His friends. And with a stick in His armpit, and He's going after to search where the cows and the calves have gone. And friends also know that Brahmā has stolen them.

The cowboys and the calves had been stolen by Brahmā to ascertain that, "Who is this cowboy Kṛṣṇa? He seems to live within my jurisdiction, but seems to be of very superior capacity, superior power, mystic. So I have to test what sort of mysticism is in Him. He's within my jurisdiction, but still He's above, His ways are quite different, does not care for anything else, as if."

So by stealing His friends and the calves, he again went to see, approached Him. Then he saw that no harm, the same friends, cowboys are there, and the calves are there. Ha, ha.

A big pot of water is taken from the ocean, but it is filled up, no trace that something has been taken away, all as before everything is going on.

Then he thought, "Anyhow, those boys again have come here without my notice." Again approached where he kept them concealed. "Yes, they're there." Again coming, "Yes, it is full. Then what is this?"

Here a very good comparison has been drawn, that at day time we cannot see the glow worms, glow worms cannot be seen in the day. And mist cannot be seen in the dark night. So here, Brahmā's māyā, Brahmā wanted to test Kṛṣṇa, that was like mist. And Kṛṣṇa's māyā was like dark night, deep darkness, and the mist cannot be traced in the deep darkness. So Brahmā wanted to test, but Kṛṣṇa's capacity of testing is of very superior quarter. The Brahmā could not find anything of his testing practice, failed. Then Brahmā fell on the feet of that seeming cowboy, apparent cowboy.

naumīdya te 'bhravapuṣe taḍidambarāya, guñjāvataṁsa-paripicchala-sanmukhāya vanyasraje kavalavetraviṣāṇa-veṇu-, lakṣmaśriye mṛdupade paśupāṇgajāya

["I offer my prayers unto You, O praiseworthy Lord who are the child of the cowherd Nanda. Your complexion is the dark blue colour of a thundercloud and You are clad in silk garments that shine like lightning. Your charming face is adorned with guñja-mālā ornaments, and Your hair is decorated with a peacock feather. You look beautiful wearing a garland of forest flowers, and that beauty is enhanced by the morsel of food in Your left hand. You carry a buffalo horn and a stick for herding cows tucked beneath Your left arm. You hold a flute and other emblems, and Your feet are as soft as a lotus."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.1]

Brahmā fell at the feet of that cowboy. "Who are You? Naumīdya te 'bhravapuṣe. I surrender at the feet of You, Whoever You are. Avapuṣe means the bubble like cloud that is like the element of some smoke, undistinguished shape, figure, is not to be ascertained, avapuṣe.

Taḍidambarāya. But one trace I can find in You, that Your dress is yellow. It bears the simile of my Lord's dress, hidamba. You're fond of using this yellow dress, taḍidambarāya. But You're indistinguishable, unknown and unknowable. But taḍit, the yellow connection, Your fondness of yellow colour gives some trace to understand You. Your śakti, Rādhārāṇī, yellow colour, śakti, Your potency is of yellow. But black is invisible but yellow is visible. By the help of Your potency You can be approached. Taḍidambarāya.

Naumīdya te 'bhravapuṣe taḍidambarāya, guñjāvataṁsa-paripicchala-sanmukhāya. But the peculiarity is here, that guñja, these forest seeds, or fruits, small red colour, something blackish. Guñjāvataṁsa paripicchala-sanmukhāya. And the tails of the peacocks that fall flat on the ground, collected there something You have ornamented Yourself with those things. Guñjāvataṁsa-paripicchala-sanmukhāya. Vanyasraje. And whatever, these forest flowers You can easily collect, with that You're satisfied in Your garland.

Kavalavetraviṣāṇa-veṇu. Kavala, and I find like this shepherd boy, who's taking some food and that is in Your mouth. Still, no regulation about taking food, not so civilised, as the food taking and other things should be taken in a regulated way, no. Taking and running. Taking the food within the mouth and You're going away, walking, kavalavetra. And one stick always with You. Aviṣāṇa-veṇu, at the same time one flute, that is always with You. Kavalavetraviṣāṇa-veṇu lakṣmaśriye. This is all with which we're to try to understand You. Traviṣāṇa-veṇu mṛdupade paśupāṇgajāya. And the steps You're taking, it is very slow and firm, no hesitation, no expectation of any hindrance, as if, in Your march, in Your progress. It is natural, it is irresistible, but slow You're going.

Whoever You are, the son of a cow keeper, I find You ostentatiously, Whoever You are, I fall at Your feet my Lord. I can't understand You, unknown and unknowable. Moreover, concealing Yourself, Your ways are misguiding that we shall think that our master will be with such high signs, grand things, but it is all misguiding I find in You. Anyhow, Whoever You are, my attempt has finished, my pride is down, I take shelter under Your feet."

In this way Brahmā surrendered to Kṛṣṇa. The mystic of the mystic, that is the way there. And what small understanding, and what meagre quality of understanding we've got, it's such a mystic to us that it's no wonder. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol.

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.83]

These things are not to be dealt with in the ordinary way. Who will come to believe all these things? So many concrete demands in the world. Give any problem, the war problem, so many problems, the anarchic problems, so many problems are here. And like an idle man to pass one's time in these idle talks. Wherever such a half-mad person should be available that will come to attend all these idle talks, ha, ha. Kahile keha nā bujhaye. But there's a particular group, those that you may say half-mad, they can't avoid this, they'll go on talking all these things. _____ [?]

War continuing, battle continuing, and one man is playing on the flute _____ [?]

Who're serious thinking, they'll say, "Oh, let them go on with their mad talks. You do not go that side."

_____ [?] Wholesale, all, everyone, every part of it, feelings of such suffering, that is the general tidings of the world. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, the verse in the Īśopaniṣad [15] hiraṇmayena pātreṇa, satyasyāpihitaṁ mukham [tat tvaṁ pūṣann apāvṛṇu, satya-dharmāya dṛṣṭaye]

["O my Lord, sustainer of all that lives, Your real face is covered by Your dazzling effulgence. Please remove that covering and exhibit Yourself to Your pure devotee."]

Can this verse be explained in Caitanya līlā, hiraṇmayena pātreṇa, that golden effulgence? Does that mean Rādhā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hiraṇmayena pātreṇa, satyasyāpihitaṁ mukham. The application of the meaning is not that way. Hiraṇmayena pātreṇa, satyasyāpihitaṁ mukham. That is, a charming cover has concealed the truth proper from our eyes. So Rādhā, Rādhārāṇī, She's not covering Kṛṣṇa, hlādinī.

sukha-rūpa kṛṣṇa kare sukha āsvādana, bhakta-gaṇe sukha dite 'hlādinī'-kāraṇa

["Lord Krsna tastes all kinds of transcendental happiness, although He Himself is happiness personified. The pleasure relished by His pure devotee is also manifest by His pleasure potency."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.158]

Rādhārāṇī's function is rather opposite. The highest type of ecstasy is drawing from the source of ecstasy to the world, and making it possible for the others to taste. Her duty is rather the opposite.

And here, it may be rather conferred to Devī Durgā. Those that get charm of self collective interest, that separate dvitīyābhiniveśa, the separate interest of the jīva as a whole is covered with the charm of freedom.

When, in Bhāgavatāmṛtam Sanātana Goswāmī has written, when jīva is going to be liberated, crossing the area of Durgā Devī, Māyā, she comes very mildly to beg him. "Why do you go beyond, crossing my jurisdiction? You please stay here. I shall serve you to your satisfaction. I shall give you service." When going away one is becoming Śiva, at that time she's offering herself at the service of that Śiva. "You stay here with me. I shall serve you. Why you're leaving me and going away beyond my jurisdiction?"

That Devī, that charm, who keeps the ordinary individual souls here, she, with some charm, covers the real nature of the truth as a whole. Hiraṇmayena pātreṇa. Which has sweet dealings and offering independent exploitation and elevation as she has charmed all within her clutches. Hiraṇmayena pātreṇa. She's not allowing to see beyond her jurisdiction. That beyond her jurisdiction is the domain, the land, the plane of truth is there, she's not allowing, Umā.

But Rādhārāṇī is just the opposite, the hlādinī śakti. Only by Her tendency, the tendency of Her personality, that real ānandam, rasam, sweetness, is coming from the centre and being distributed to the whole area. That is svarūpa-śakti, attracting everyone towards the centre and feeding them with honey. That is Her duty, that is svarūpa-śakti. The land nearer Kṛṣṇa is of that nature. Everything is fed with sweetness and drawn towards the centre. And this is out-carrying current and the master of this out-carrying current area is Durgā Devī, Kālakātrī, the keeper of the prison house, here, by fascination of self-enjoyment, self-freedom. That is slavery and this is freedom. But really here is slavery of the lower senses and there is freedom to attain, to serve the highest good.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: In the Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛtam it says that sometimes Umā Devī gives bhakti to some rare jñānī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, also there is a method. When she's satisfied, she opens the doors, "Go." That is also to be found in her, Umā Devī. So these Chandi and other śāstras of the rājasic, second class śāstra, they say, "Try to serve Umā Devī, the śakti, the potency. And if she's satisfied to her heart's content then she will allow you. 'You must leave here, go to that superior land.'" It is also found sometimes.

Just as in Kṛṣṇa's dealings also we find three types.

ye yathā māṁ prapadyante, tāṁs tathaiva bhajāmy aham
[mama vartmānuvartante, manuṣyāḥ pārtha sarvaśaḥ]

["As a person takes refuge in Me and surrenders unto Me, I respond and reward accordingly. Being the ultimate goal of all philosophies and doctrines, I am the objective to be attained by all. Certainly, O Pārtha, everyone follows My various paths in all respects."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.11]

"Whoever will approach Me with what temperament, accordingly I deal with him."

At the same time He says, "There's a particular section who wants devotion, but we rather give them mukti, sma na bhakti-yogam [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.6.18]

"I generally do not give them devotion, but rather, I try to avoid them by giving liberation." And at the same time another opposite side He says, "But if any sincere, ignorant soul, he comes to Me and wants some material lower things, I say no, no, don't take this."

"No, don't take this transient thing. You come to Me, accept Me. I also say."

So also we find different types of transactions in almost every...

82.12.31.C_83.01.02.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... nature of the person who comes with the application. It depends on that. So there is a section to whom Umā Devī will say, "No, no. You go to Vaikuṇṭha. I've opened the door. Don't stay here."

But very rare, a class may be there. And from the absolute standpoint her position is such.

The jailer, the superintendent of the jail should not try that everyone will live there for infinite time.

You see, he should help the persons in such a way that after their terms they may get out of the jail. And you do not do such activity that they will have to come there again within his clutch. But when a sensible jailer finds, that this man finished his term, now he'll get out, but going out of this prison area he'll again disturb so many peace loving persons. So as soon as he can be taken again into this prison house it will be better for the public. With this sense also we may be guided sometime. It depends upon the particular case.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, we have free will. Yet in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta it says that Caitanya Mahāprabhu arbitrarily delivered everyone within the whole universe. How can He do that if there's no affection in the heart of those people?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That sometimes applying His special power. He's got that capacity also. As an absolute, His capacity knows no bounds. But that is not general. As we're told that when Rāmacandra left this world the whole of Ayodhyā He took away. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 3.81]

It's mentioned there in the talk, you'll find the answer also was given there, that Haridāsa Ṭhākura and Mahāprabhu they were talking. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 3.67 - 90]

Haridāsa Ṭhākura says, "You're chanting the name of Kṛṣṇa, and whoever is in connection of that chanting they'll all be taken. Their sinfulness and offences will all be cleared and they'll be taken to Kṛṣṇaloka."

Then Mahāprabhu says, "Then Haridāsa, how this brahmāṇḍa will stay? It will be wholesale abolished?"

"No. no." Punaḥ sūkṣma-jīve karme udbuddha karibā.

[haridāsa bale, — "tomāra yāvat martye sthiti / tāvat sthāvara-jaṅgama, sarva jīva-jāti]
saba mukta kari' tumi vaikuṇṭhe pāṭhāibā / sūkṣma-jīve punaḥ karme udbuddha karibā]

[Haridāsa said, "My Lord, as long as You are situated within the material world, You will send to the spiritual sky all the developed moving and non moving living entities in different species. Then again You will awaken the living entities who are not yet developed and engage them in activities."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 3.78-79]

The wholesale. All the members in a prison may be liberated, but again there are so many who will fill up the jail, the prison house. Like that, one set wholesale liberated, but from the infinite layer of Brahmaloka, so many they're waiting to come here and fill up the whole thing. That explanation is given there. It is infinite. The law of infinite it cannot be applied in this finite world.

Just as the question of zero. Zero plus zero, zero minus zero, zero into zero; everything is zero. So infinite by added infinite, infinite into infinite, infinite divided by infinite; all infinite. Infinite taken from infinite, the remaining is infinite.

So we should not think that the whole infinite will come within my fist. So it has been discouraged, that don't lose your energy for inquiry into the ways of the infinite. It is impossible for you. Leave that mania and try to engage in the service where you will thrive. Jñāne prayāsam udapāsya, in many places. It is impossible, that the whole infinite will be able to enter into your one, the smallest subjective plane, brain. That the infinite will be included within the finite; it is impossible. So don't attempt that way. Mind your own lesson; that is, engage yourself in the duty what is given you in this infinite, there you will thrive.

Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, faith. Knowing means it comes from the doubts, suspicion, and the stage of suspicion is not a very laudable thing. Suspicion, doubt, all these things, only indicates that we're living in a lower, mean plane. In the higher plane no position of any suspicion, doubt. There, men do not cheat anybody. So suspicion and checking; all these faculties are always with the lower creation, not in the higher. There, no possibility of cheating to any other, all helping, helping, helping. So this is the quality of the lower class. So suspicion is bad, faith is good. If you want to live there, try to acquire faith. Try to learn, believe the atmosphere, acquire this good habit if you want to live in that civilised world. And give up that you will know everything. This won't help you for your progress, but deteriorate your progress. Take the path of bhakti, devotion, faith. There is the Lord, His eye is there over you, none can cheat you.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

His vigilant eye is always over our head. If I do not cheat me, none can cheat me in the world. None has any power to cheat me. What it seems to be, because we cheated previously, and we're feeling the consequence now. Cheating is coming from the environment to me. Why? I cheated in the past. The reaction is coming. Otherwise no cheating comes to an innocent person. His vigilant eye is there, everywhere. So,

sthāne sthitāḥ śruti-gatāṁ tanu-vāṅ-manobhir / ye prāyaśo 'jita jito 'py asi tais tri-lokyām]

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

As much, as small as necessary we may inquire a little. But we must engage ourselves in the service. Service is nectar. Dedication is nectar. And not apprehension that I'm going to be cheated, so I must try everywhere, every corner search and I shall see whether I'm going to be cheated or not. This is something like suicide. It's to ruin ones own cause.

So Bhāgavatam says jñāne prayāsam udapāsya. Knowledge cannot take you there. If you want to go to that land of simplicity, and cooperation, and dedication, and goodness, mutual help, you acquire such sort of nature. Try to give yourself.

Don't apprehend, and out of the lower nature's current civilisation, that I must guard myself against any sort of cheating. Cheating, cheating, cheating. That is keeping you in the relativity of the cheating. Leave it, throw it off. But still, because we're within that plane, we can't avoid it. But as much as possible we shall try to neglect them and to encourage our inner faith towards, to live in the higher circle.

If we like at all to live in the higher circle, no misgivings we should encourage within us. Must be generous, liberal. Because, I'm in the relativity of Him, I'm approaching the absolute good, and not only so many agents of this misunderstanding world. If I'm in search of the Lord, then I'm in His relativity. He will look after me. And when I've accepted devotion, not that everything whatever I shall see I shall command respect from them. 'O, he's going to be a devotee. You all come and help him.' Not with that temperament.

But when approaching towards Him, rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso. He'll protect him. If He likes to protect me He'll do. Otherwise He may do anything and everything with me. I'm a slave. With this sort of courage, and this sort of simplicity, and this sort of certainty, we shall try to approach towards Him. I'm approaching towards Him. That consciousness must be always in me. He's omniscient, omnipotent, and all love. I'm approaching Him.

Because others are engaged with diplomacy and doubts, and in order to meet with them, those particular details, I must have to culture that, cultivate that thing in me. This will be a fun, where all those misgivings will be created. Not that.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, how can we have faith in Kṛṣṇa's protection without thinking we're deserving of it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The devotees as much as they make progress they can't realise that they're really fit to attract Kṛṣṇa.

Rather they see that, 'I'm the most unqualified, no devotion. Why Kṛṣṇa will care to protect me?'

All these things will come. But still, hoping against hope.

"Then rather I shall die than to put my faith on anyone else. If my Lord, if He likes to protect me, He'll let me live. If He does not care, let me die. Whatever? Still I can't give my reliance to any other thing."

With this attitude one will approach to Him.

"I'm unfit. But still He cares for the fallen. I'm fallen. He may care or He may not care. But under any condition I'm not going to accept others for my protection. If He likes He may protect me. If He does not like He can make or mar. This right He has got over me."

With this sort of temperament, desperately one should approach towards Him, search after Him. Exclusive search. That sort of faith we should try to encourage, to have within us.

"I'm fallen. I have no such capacity, such attribute that He will come to protect me. I'm the most negligent factor. But still, He's great, we hear. And I aspire after His care and not the care of anybody."

That should be the inner temperament. At the same time, as outwardly you should try to clutch at a straw, whatever we shall find to save me. Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ. Whatever is favourable to nurture such thought of Kṛṣṇa within me at the same time, what level I am, I shall try to catch at a straw. In this way. Not that I shall be a party to cast me into the fire.

Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, and rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāsaḥ, and goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100] "You are my protector, none else. And You will protect me. You are so great."

And still, ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, whatever little thing comes as obstacles I shall try my best according to my understanding to remove that also. In this way. Change of temperament sometimes comes, according to the progress of the devotee. "If You don't take care of me, I won't live any longer."

And sometimes He comes at that time and saves him. Such things are also, we can see. Many types of devotion. But on the whole ānukūlyasya, according to one's stage he will try to take help from the environment. But the main thing will be in him or her, "That I want His protection, and from none else."

And at the same time many Gurus. Gurus, His agents, His representatives, and so many Vaiṣṇavas, caretakers, they're our friends. Their advice also I shall take sometimes. They're my friends, my helpers, that what they will say, I shall accept that. In this way we shall go on. Anyhow He will be the centre and His agents and His books, all these I shall consult and go on. And if I'm sincere then of course I must have progress in my life of devotion.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, how do we develop sincere humility?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sincere humility? With the progress of the devotion it will come. And we shall try to guide according to the rulings of the scripture and the sādhu, their conduct, their advices, we shall apply within us and go on, progress. Humility, not apparent humility, that is hypocrisy. In the name of humility, hypocrisy should not be indulged, given indulgence.

And humility also has another meaning. What is humility? Suppose a Vaiṣṇava is being blamed, and if at that time I've got power to protest but I do not do, then that is not humility. Humility from the standpoint of the Vaiṣṇava standard. Ordinary people, others, they're to be treated like madmen.

If a dog tried to enter into the temple, and if I pose humility, that he's going how, why, something editable there, and why I can stop the dog, that is no humility.

So also, Guru, Vaiṣṇava is being molested, and I'm there and I don't give any opposition, that is also not humility. I must come between, that the filthy things may not go to him. As much as possible I shall oppose. That is humility proper. Humility in consideration with the Vaiṣṇava world. They're standard thinkers, and I'm trying to enter into that sort of level, so that law should be binding on me and I shall take, appreciate and I shall apply that in me. So if someone is coming to attack a Vaiṣṇava, I'm there, if I'm humble I must go and participate. I should be considered to be humble, humble than the Vaiṣṇava and to serve them, to oppose his opponents. That is humility. To go and stop the attack and take it within me, saving the higher Guru, Vaiṣṇava, worshippable person. That is humility.

So humility must be in the eye of the superior, the normal thinking person, humility. And humility standard is not according to this worldly thinking person, abnormal thinking person, the standard is not according to their judgement. Humility.

I'm humble, I'm servant, I'm to serve my Gurus, superiors, and whatever is the necessity I must go to do that. If I consider that I'm a servant, my master is being molested, I must go between them. That is humility.

And in the worldly sense that may be, "Why do you come and interfere? You're not concerned. I'm talking with him. He's done some wrong. I'm chastising him, that madman. I don't consider, you say he's a Vaiṣṇava, I consider he's a pest of the society. He's a deserter, he's deserted his family, and they're starving, and you call him sādhu. We don't call him. I want to chastise him. Why you come to interfere?"

Such questions may arise. But you have that capacity, you come and you go, "No, he's engaged in higher matter, and you're in the worldly matter. I know what is his magnanimity. You do not know."

In this way, the trespassing in the ordinary sense, but that will be humility, service of the Vaiṣṇava. So it differs according to different circumstances.

On the whole, there is a story I say to you, of our Guru Mahārāja. He once was in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, along with us. Kārtika mas, a whole month he's staying in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa.

One pāṇḍā, a brāhmaṇa of course, he told that, "We can give blessings to [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī. Dāsa Goswāmī he came from kāyastha, śūdra family, we're brāhmaṇas. We're in a position to bless him."

Dāsa Goswāmī has a great position, a Guru in Gauḍīya sampradāya, prayojana-tattva Ācārya. And this came to our Guru Mahārāja's ear. Then Guru Mahārāja, he gave up taking prasādam.

"Until and unless I can make any justice to this, that ordinary pāṇḍā has insulted my great Gurudeva, and until and unless I can do something in return, I can't take prasāda."

He's not taking prasāda, we also are so many, we also can't take prasādam. A standstill. And he's mourning, sighing.

Then one of our general secretaries he came, "That man, ignorant man, what he was talking, why you are giving so much importance to his expression? You do not care for that, you take prasādam."

Guru Mahārāja told, "No. I'm here driving motor car in Vṛndāvana. I'm not an ordinary beggar with kaupīna. If I were so then that man remarked in such a bad, I put my hand in my ear and would have left the place. Without caring to hear all his bad remarks I would leave the place. But I'm in the position of Ācārya, I'm driving motor car, and so many grandeur, this building, all this I am living. What for?

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us,
and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

My life is dedicated to show to the public what is the dignified position of our Gurudevas; Rūpa, Sanātana, Raghunātha, who showed their life like a street beggar, rather less than that. But their internal wealth was so high and great. To show that I'm showing a life a grandeur as an Ācārya, to show that our Gurudeva, whose words we're trying to distribute to the people, to remove wholesale their difficulty, that Guru. And he's being insulted, and I'm living in such a gorgeous way, grand way, and I shall tolerate all this? I can't do that." So he does not take any prasādam, "Until and unless I can undo, give something in return."

Then it spread. Then one gentleman he approached Guru Mahārāja. He was an inhabitant of that place, Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. He appreciated our Guru Mahārāja, had greater appreciation, and he called that gentleman, that brāhmaṇa.

"What have you done, you don't know? You give apology. He's a great mahātmā. What he's doing you do not know. You have insulted his Gurudeva on his face. You fool! You don't know your position, what are you? You're a brāhmaṇa, what of that? You're servant of the anger and this lust and all this greed, all these things. What is your position? This great mahātmā, and his Guru, you do not know about him. You apologise."

Then he apologised. And then our Guru Mahārāja took prasādam, and then we also took prasādam.

So humility, what is humility? In his case, that is humility. And if he ignores that he said that, "I'm not humble. I'm a seeker of my own position. I'm riding this motor car, grandeur, gorgeously moving here and there; what for? Only to show, to save the public from any offence by insulting those great self-abnegated persons. Our Gurudeva. This is, tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

The application of humility in such way also. So it is relative, not absolute, according to our position.

_____ [?] If we're sincere, help will come from outside to guide us always; we may be confident. So we shall pray that we can have that sincerity, simplicity, and a purity of our purpose. And we shall fall at the feet of the mahātmās to extend their internal life and affection towards me, towards us, so that we can be elevated more and more. That is our inner nature, that is our hope, that our inner nature is good, is such. Whatever is undesirable, that is only cover, a foreign thing. So the foreign thing will go and the inner nature will come out. It is in one sense it is very easy, and now I'm roaming in wholesale foreign thing, behaving, so it is difficult. But with the help of those that have got natural life I shall try to remove the dust that has come on the mirror of my heart.

All phases of the self of which we may conceive are fully satisfied and purified, and at last conquered by the all-auspicious influence of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1]

This kīrtana, śravaṇa, vandana, Vaiṣṇava sevā; with all these things gradually it will be cleared and we shall be able to see what is what, gradually. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, could you tell us if Advaita Prabhu, if he's the incarnation of Mahā Viṣṇu or Śiva Śaṅkara?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahā Viṣṇu means Sadāśiva, the outer descent is Śiva. So Advaita Prabhu is considered as Mahā Viṣṇu or Sadāśiva, the devotee Śiva. Not the master of this world, as giving punishment to the culprits of this world by imparting dissolution. Not that, but the Vaiṣṇava, vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ.

[nimna-gānāṁ yathā gaṅgā, devānām acyuto yathā
vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ, purāṇānām idam tathā]

["Just as the Gaṅgā is the greatest of all rivers, Lord Acyuta the supreme among deities and Lord Śambhu [Śiva] the greatest of Vaiṣṇavas, so Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the greatest of all Purāṇas."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam,12.13.16] & [SCSM's Śrī Brahma-saṁhitā, p 144]

Sadāśiva has got his kingdom just below the Vaikuṇṭha. Śiva is the conception of impersonal and personal, both combined. Personal, differentiated, non-differentiated. And the differentiated covering the non differentiated area, Virajā, Brahmaloka, non differentiated. But covering that, something extended towards the Vaikuṇṭha in the plane of dedication, and something towards the land of exploitation, that is the conception of Śiva. That the portion of the function that is found entering into Vaikuṇṭha, that differentiated conscious area, that is Mahā Viṣṇu. And this side, that is Rudra, and the whole non differentiated area within him.

svadharmma-niṣṭhaḥ śata-janmabhiḥ pumān, viriñcatām eti tataḥ paraṁ hi mām
avyākṛtaṁ [bhāgavato 'tha vaiṣṇavaṁ, padaṁ yathāhaṁ vibudhāḥ kalātyaye]

["A person who executes his occupational duty properly for one hundred births becomes qualified to occupy the post of Brahmā, and if he becomes more qualified, he can approach Lord Śiva. A person who is directly surrendered to Lord Kṛṣṇa or Viṣṇu in unalloyed devotional service is immediately promoted to the spiritual planets. Lord Śiva and other demigods attain these planets after the destruction of this material world."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.24.29]

Not very expressive, very mystic conception of Śiva. Differentiation in this side and also in that side, and the middle margin. The covering that margin, something extended this side and something that side. This side, the lord of exploitation, and that side the servant of Nārāyaṇa. That is the peculiar position of Mahādeva. There is tyāga, tyāga, bhoga and sevā. Three things mixed there. Śiva represents bhoga in that he's the enjoyer of māyā, leader of the opposition party. He's the leader, husband of māyā. And on the other side he's a servant of Viṣṇu. And also the middle, the margin position also he's covering, tyāga. Enjoyment, renunciation and service; three things together, Mahādeva. Sometimes he's seen to enjoy here, but his tendency is always to getting out of this enjoyment. He's a beggar, but still he's married and he's got his children. Sometimes he lives with them, and sometimes wandering as beggar, renunciation. And sometimes he's seen to fight against Nārāyaṇa, Viṣṇu. Giving opposition, giving indulgence to the demonic class. And sometimes he's seen very submissive to Nārāyaṇa, and praying to Him.

"Why You have engaged me in this awful duty! It is my bad luck. You, my Lord, You have given me, attached me to this function. This is very undesirable for me."

Submitting to Him, again fighting again, going to fight in favour of his demon disciple. In this way, the mixed thing, both, the beginning of Vaikuṇṭha and highest position of this māyā, and including the renunciation spirit.

...

...But now he's disappointed, so he's besides himself. Can't contain him within himself. What to do? Half-mad - of his sacred thread. Everything is one and the same, jumbled together.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Hare Hare. Hare Rāma.

Devotee: I think I wish I had some things I could say to her. But I don't know anything myself about Rāmakṛṣṇa. I wish I'd known something about Rāmakṛṣṇa in order to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But to what she told?

Devotee: Yes. But I could not answer her, she kept on saying that Rāmakṛṣṇa is the same as Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "I'm quite satisfied with Rāmakṛṣṇa. You do not know him properly. So you're boldly giving assertion like that. What do you know about Rāmakṛṣṇa?" She will tell against you. "Who's Rāmakṛṣṇa, do you know? He's both Rāma and both Kṛṣṇa. Rāma and Kṛṣṇa both combined, he's Rāmakṛṣṇa. What do you know?" They'll say to you.

Acyutānanda told, in his experience, "That wherever I've gone I found that the general educated public is in the hands of the Rāmakṛṣṇa Mission. We had to fight with them. Our worst enemy is Rāmakṛṣṇa Mission, they're capturing the field, and we're to fight with them if we at all want to do some good to the public. Mostly the educated section under the influence of the Rāmakṛṣṇa Mission.

"Whatever you do, it is all right. Any conception of religion is all right."

I told, "If we hate Rāmakṛṣṇa, if I preach an opinion if one can hate Rāmakṛṣṇa, Vivekānanda, they will achieve salvation. Will you accept that? Any opinion you're to accommodate any opinion. And this is my opinion, you record! Your first and worst conception, conviction; that Rāmakṛṣṇa should be accepted as the highest authority. If one does not do, then will you accommodate him? Never!"

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Yata mata tata patha. [Anyone's opinion is as good as another's]

This is all on the basis of Śaṅkarācārya. Their basis is Śaṅkarācārya, māyāvāda, all saguṇa, māyā, everything is misconception. So even there is variety in misconception; raja guṇa, tama guṇa, sattva guṇa. Misconception also may be deeper, deepest and very less deep, it may be, sattva, raja, tama, but all misconception. There the common thing, misconception. There's classification of misconception also. And proper conception; it is beyond our knowledge. Then this is there, long and short is this. The proper conception of the truth is beyond our conception, unknown and unknowable. Unknown, and the comparison, just like deep sleep. Like deep sleep, something like that, that is the conception of the real truth. And all other, whatever we're conscious of, that is misconception of different degree. Good or bad, according to the degree of misconception; that is Śaṅkarācārya. And there is truth, and we can awake in the world of truth, and there is also gradation, hierarchy. How we can understand truth, what sort of life we may have there. That just the opposite here in the misconceived world we have a life in exploitation, and there just the opposite. in dedication. In dedication we're to understand what is dedication.

We’re to understand exploitation, that is the general misconception, root of general misconception is exploitation, just opposite dedication. There we can have such gradation, everything in details, only in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... and we shall be very eager there to consider ourselves to be slave. That is so high. A competition, in the conception of the slavery; slave of the slave of the slave. Such high sphere is that. If we have enough boldness, then, of sacrificing, then we can hope to enter and live in that domain. Sacrifice. Sacrifice to the extreme.

And again Hegel comes, "Die to Live." It is a very broad thing, broad and bold, and also meaningful, die to live. Are you ready to die? Then I can recommend you a land where you can live. Are you bold enough to die? That nothing worth living here, have you come, can you come to such conclusion? That here every particle is worthless and it is mischievous. Have you come to realise that? Not worth living. This world not worth living, at all. So you can easily agree to die. And you will be given the opportunity of living a proper life, after death. Life after death. Die to live.

And He's for Himself, not for you or any ghostlike, me, like us. He's for Himself. So dignified; every atom is so dignified that they all should be regarded with honour, the soil is such. Do you like that soil to live in? That soil is such; so dignified soil. To become a slave there.

In Milton the opposite statement, "It is better to reign in hell than to serve in heaven." Satan's opinion. "Better to reign in hell than to serve in heaven." But just the opposite, it's better to serve in heaven than to reign in hell. The opposite of the Satanic doctrine.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So paradise lost, because they've lost their faith in śaraṇāgati, surrender. In the truth of surrender, that was disturbed and they came to live with their freedom and a free judgement, Adam and Eve. And they had to come down in the world of calculation of ones self, individual free will. Own responsibility; then earn, and each enjoy. Earn and enjoy the world, we have come, earn and enjoy. Labour and live. The world of labour and live.

And there, without labour, sustenance is to come. When Adam and Eve were in a surrendered position no labour was necessary. Automatic, everything automatically. Soul does not require any food to maintain this material body. That is spiritual, eternal body, no necessity of any addition from the outside to keep up the vitality there. Surrender your spiritual life, soul.

And then when free choice came, in place of surrendered stage, then labour and live. Enter that world; labour and live. And the Satan was at the back. "Why you are a slave? Why you are a slave?" The tree of knowledge. So Bhāgavata has discarded knowledge. Don't rely on your knowledge. The tree of knowledge, the fruit was tasted by Adam, no, Eve first. First Eve then Adam. Tree of knowledge is dangerous, brought down the world of calculation here.

Surrender. Good man's society, higher society, no deception. No hypocrisy, no conspiracy there. So knowledge, calculation, good, bad, all these are meaningless there. Automatic flow of the goodness in the atmosphere, whole. No doubt, no suspicion, no meanness to cheat one another. So no question of calculation, everything automatic and flow of goodness is in that atmosphere. That is at the lower part of Vaikuṇṭha. Then again higher in Goloka, it is more beautiful, more loving, more sustaining, more sweet, ecstatic. Goloka. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So practical faith in that sort of life, charm in that sort of life.

[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

In Bible the history of fall, and not going up so very expressively, that is vague. The son of God has come to take them again up there. The fall of Adam and Eve, that is very clear. But when man is taken from this plane to that plane, not such a very expressive, clear history.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

We hear there like so many Christs that have full faith in God's land, God's action, God's goodness, wholeness. They will treat the wealth, the prosperity, the charm of this world of enjoyment, to trample under feet, die.

"I resign all covetable post in this world. However, a kingship, a leadership, a lover like Romeo, a beloved like Juliet, all dismiss. I'm ready to dismiss all these things for higher, some mystique and unknown sweet, sweet life, sweet, sweet home. I have finished."

There was one Bakat Singh [?], one of the leading anarchists in Punjab. He got capital punishment. Then one gentleman asked him, "The day of your death is drawing near."

He told, "I'm very eager to see the after life. This life is all finished. No charm in this life, it is finished. Eager to see the after life."

But that man does not know that after life is also similar. The anarchist's after life, what can be very good? Attraction for this mundane, can't tolerate another's ownership, kingship. He wants to snatch the kingship, the leadership of this material world from another gentleman, has charm of this material world. What after life he can have, to see very glorious? Ā-virincyād amaṅgalam.

[karmaṇāṁ pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam
vipścin naśvaram paśyed, adṛṣṭam api dṛṣṭa-vat]

["An intelligent person should see that any material activity is subject to constant transformation and that even on the planet of Lord Brahmā there is thus simply unhappiness. Indeed, a wise man can understand that just as all that he has seen is temporary, similarly, all things within the universe have a beginning and an end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.19.18]

One is to look after, with very neglected dignity, even the post of the creator of this world. Who can create this world, but is in relativity of this world, mortal, nasty. The Brahmā, who has created and who's master of this world, but he's in the relativity of this nasty world. His position is also condemnable, what to speak of the ordinary persons. Karmaṇāṁ pariṇāmitvād, ā-virincyād amaṅgalam. You and I, what is our position? Meagre. But even the creator of this whole mundane world, he's also surrounded with inauspicious reactionary consequence of life.

Then, sivo 'ham, sivo 'ham, sivo 'ham. Next after Brahmā there is Śiva. Sivo 'ham; do not care for material comfort. "Independent of material comfort as a soul I can live." That temperament, sivo 'ham. "I don't care for any material achievement, I'm sufficient in myself. Sufficient, ātmārāma, I'm self sufficient, I don't require any exploitation of this world, of any world."

That is marginal position. That is so high and so charming domain over the head of that Śiva, when he comes in connection with that, "Oh, I want to enter as a slave to that holy and magnanimous land! I want to be a member in the lowest member, as the ant. Even an ant's position in that noble domain is something to be envied, in Vaikuntha."

And then Vaikuntha, over that Goloka. Or Goloka, over that deeper, or the most comprehensive and most subtle, all-pervading, Goloka, solid circle. Highest plane ever found. Subtlemost plane ever found, that is the foundation of all different variety of planes we can experience. Goloka. That is beautiful, that is love. Beauty and love, similar things, sweet, similar thing. Beyond power, power seeking.

This has been definitely brought down for us by Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. The last treatise of Vedavyāsa, the giver of the greatest magnitude of revealed truth in this world. Revealed truth in different forms, in its greatest magnitude and detail, given by Vyāsadeva here, from Badarikāśrama.

And the key to that, to the highest was given first to his son, Śukadeva. And Śukadeva, he tried to impress the present scholarship of India, the then scholarship of the then scholars of India with that high ideal, in the whole theological world. Śukadeva did successfully.

And next there was another sitting in Naimiṣāraṇya where sixty thousand brāhmaṇa scholars met there just before this Kali-yuga, the iron age. And there also one who heard, who was present in the assembly of Śukadeva, and he was śrutidhar, that once heard he remembered it eternally. That is śrutidhar, only once hearing it is recorded final. There was one such peculiar scholar, Sūta. Ugraśravā, whose aural reception was revolutionarily extraordinary. Once one impression was caught, then it was final. That ugraśravā, through śruti, whose hearing is of very, very highest degree, he was present in that assembly and he caught it and distributed to the sixty thousand brāhmaṇaic scholars gathered in Naimiṣāraṇya just before the advent of the beginning of this Kali-yuga, iron age. And that is Bhāgavatam. And Vyāsadeva from these four sittings completed, one Nārada to Vyāsa, second Vyāsa to Śuka, and third Śuka to Parīkṣit in the scholars assembly, and the fourth from ugraśravā Sūta to Śaunaka Ṛṣī. Then with this introduction, three ślokas of Vyāsadeva, he sent it to the market, Bhāgavatam.

Janmādy asya yato 'nvayād [SB, 1.1.1]. Dharmaḥ projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo [SB, 1.1.2]. And nigama-kalpa-taror galitaṁ phalaṁ [SB, 1.1.3]. These three poems introduced as introduction, introduced Bhāgavatam. One about, dharmah projjhita, sambandha-jñāna, what is what. The second, what is the means to the end. And third, what is the proper conception of the end, of destination. Three. Where we are? Who am I? Where am I? What am I? In this way, sambandha-jñāna. And the second, abhidheya, what is means to my end. And third, what is the conception of the proper end of life. Different from all other recommendations from different theological scriptures. This is the speciality of this book.

Mainly after liberation, how one can live a dignified life, it is meant for them. They are to, nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ [SB, 1.1.2], they must be free from all jealousy, Vyāsadeva says. It is meant for those particular souls who are completely free from any trace of jealousy, nirmat-sarā. Jealousy means who cannot tolerate the higher position of any other than him, that is jealous. That is the test.

At every step you're to feel without prejudice that everything in your paraphernalia is holding a higher position than you. If you're jealous then you can't advance a single step there. If jealousy is fully eliminated, if you're ready to tolerate that everyone you come across will be holding higher position than you. And you should not mind anything from that, no reaction. If you can tolerate that everything, every atom, every dust of that plane is holding superior position to you. All Prabhu, and you're the slave. If you can accommodate you in such a way then you have a very higher place where you can enter and live.

But nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ, not only ordinary saint. That jealousy must be exhaustively eliminated. Then you can hope to come to study and you'll be able to understand what I say. That everything is superior and you're the lowest. Then you can have everything there, progress, faith. You can freely live there, move. But that temperament, the minimum demand from you is that. And that will finish everything. This demand finishes everything.

I told that Hiranyagarbha here, sahajiyā. From Lalitā Bābū and went to bābājī class.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

That Goloka, and below, Vaikuṇṭha, and there also everything made of spiritual dust. Water, all atoms are spiritual, and that is of higher quality than you soul who wants to enter there. So you're to enter into that domain and then you can hope to get the company of the Nārāyaṇa bhaktas, and then higher up, then Goloka Vṛndāvana. It is not a matter of joke, or a matter of luxury, so easy. Then, first deserve then have. No deserve, no having. Only imitation he had, plodding in the mud and thinking, "I'm in the divine lake of Rādhā-Kuṇḍa." Ha. Ha. Ha.

Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Die to live. Death means not only this physical, but mental death, and the death of all our ambitious aspirations. Death means, death's jurisdiction is so much. Die to live. Living is also wonderful living. Living is also wonderful, strange thing in comparison with the present living. There is living. Living along with all good, all high, all divine, all superior. How happy living! Wherever I'm breathing, everything is of higher quality than my own self. How happy, how elevating! But have we such courage, boldness to live there? To die a wholesale death? To die a wholesale death of our all experienced life, to be severed from all valuable things we ever gathered experience of. Is it possible for us? Not so easy! All the ideals, high ideals we have ever accumulated or come in association to; all to be given up. Not only our physical acquisition, but our mental acquisition, mental prospects ever acquired, all give up. Dissolution of the whole mind and body. And only soul, naked soul to be taken into that land, with the help of so many saints of that calibre.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Stranger than dream! Reality is stranger than dream, fiction. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Our standard of prospect should be raised so high.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Self abnegation. If we can have some conception of the truth, then we think it is sinful, what we aspire, that is all sinful, nasty. "Why should I be a master of so many?"

Gaura Sundara. Gaurāṅga Sundara. Gaurāṅga Sundara.

How, we hate slavery, but we'll be able to understand, how dignified position to be a slave to the so wonderful goodness, to the wonderful master. It is possible, not impossible, to peep into that higher position of truth.

We'll be eager to cast ourselves at the feet of those holy persons.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Mahāprabhu told once in Purī to Sanātana Goswāmī's case.

sanātana, deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa yadi pāiye, koṭi-deha kṣaṇeke tabe chāḍite pāriye, [deha-tyāge kṛṣṇa nā paī, pāiye bhajane, kṛṣṇa-prāptyera upāya kona nāhi 'bhakti' vine]

["My dear Sanātana," He said: "If I could attain Kṛṣṇa by committing suicide, I would certainly give up millions of bodies without a moments hesitation."] ["You should know that one cannot attain Kṛṣṇa simply by giving up the body. Kṛṣṇa is attainable by devotional service. There is no other means to attain Him."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.55-56]

"Sanātana, if it would have been possible that by giving up this body I can get Kṛṣṇa, then in a moment I'm ready to sacrifice this body crores of times!"

Sacrifice, this body, die. That is, in a moment I want to invite crores of times death. Die to live. Crores of deaths I like to invite, welcome, if by doing so I can get my Lord Kṛṣṇa. How standard, what standard? Where is Kṛṣṇa of Mahāprabhu's conception? Die to live. We think die to live, to die means to give the whole thing.

But Mahāprabhu says, "In a moment eke-kṣaṇe, in this moment I'm ready to die crores of times if by the result of that I can get Kṛṣṇa. But no, Kṛṣṇa is not so cheap."

The physical death, what benefit is there by physical death? This is to give up a dress, a flesh and bone dress, what charm is there? So something more, paliya sevāna [?] some positive life is there, not by negative sacrifice what we all possess we can go. Not by naked, if we can have a naked body we can go, no. Some positive attraction for that, that is the real thing. Śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga, serving tendency, that is the visa, not passport. Not passport, any number of passports I can collect. No, visa is necessary, the sanction of that place. But they're very broad hearted, very generous, very loving, and infinitely resourceful. Infinite resourcefulness is there.

Now England is trying its best to oust the foreigners. So long they're liberal. Now a party says that, "So many foreigners have come to live in England, and making the original British people's life intolerable. So there must be some check over the immigrants."

But that is infinite, no such limitation there. "All may come, but come with good will. With good will, standard good will you should come, you're all welcome, infinite. But you're to give up all your anti tendencies of this land, to keep outside. You come, you come for the interest of us, for the whole country you come. For the Lord you come. You're all welcome, very earnestly, affectionately welcome. He's Lord of all of us, not only of a particular section, but He's the Lord of all. A loving Lord, an infinite Lord, His love is infinite, His ways are infinite, everything is infinite. So no possibility that our portion will be lessened if you come and partake into the service, no. Come, we rather want more, more may be engaged in His service. We'll be happy, more happy, more happy. But serving is, be in mind of that, mind that service for His satisfaction, the criterion. We're all seeking, searching for His satisfaction, not any one of us. If we find that lacking there, then we'll turn your enemy. With this idea, all can come."

Rādhārāṇī says to His anti group, though it is all necessary part, "She does not know how to satisfy Kṛṣṇa to His heart's content, then why she ventures to come very close connection of Him?"

That is in Her company, the harmony. Harmony means many and one, and gradation. The gradation is of that type, it is mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta.

"If she can serve more I shall be aloof, I shall give her nearer to My Lord. But she fails to do service to the highest satisfaction, so what to do? I have to go nearer, because for His satisfaction, not for Myself."

That is the criterion there. It is very inconceivably understood, to understand. Inconceivable to understand but still it is there. We find it is recorded in Caitanya-caritāmṛta. In this way the gradation is there, all centre concern. And another remarkable, pati lāgi' kailā veśyāra sevā.

[kuṣṭhī-viprera ramaṇī, pativratā-śiromaṇi, pati lāgi' kailā veśyāra sevā stambhila sūryera gati, jīyāila mṛta pati, tuṣṭa kaila mukhya tina-devā]

["The wife of a brāhmaṇa suffering from leprosy manifested herself as the topmost of all chaste women by serving a prostitute to satisfy her husband. She thus stopped the movement of the sun, brought her dead husband back to life, and satisfied the three principal demigods [Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Maheśvara]."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 20.57]

If to satisfy Him, my Lord of heart, I'm to serve a lower idea. Like a prostitute I'm ready for that, if it's for His satisfaction. Whatever is for His satisfaction, apparently it may be the lowest, but that is the highest. Only one criterion, His satisfaction. And our calculation of good or bad has no value. Only one criterion, His satisfaction. That is the only one criterion. Kṛṣṇendriya-prīti-vāñchā - tāre bali prema.

[ātmendriya-prīti-vāñchā - tāre bali 'kāma' / kṛṣṇendriya-prīti-icchā dhare 'prema' nāma]

["The desire to gratify one's own senses is known as kāma (lust), but the desire to please the senses of Lord Kṛṣṇa is prema (love)."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.165]

And it is drawn up to the highest position among the servitors. All these are very high things, to be good to talk, but to get it is very, very, very difficult. So it is safe that one day we may hope to reach that domain. But now we're in the midst of disappointment. But I do not like this, I don't feel normal position here. Dissatisfaction, virakti. I do not know whether my aspiration will be realised any day or other, but still I cannot connect my faith with any other thing, any other conception but Kṛṣṇa conception. Because I shall be able to get anything easily in a day or two, then I must contact with that, I'm not a person to do such contact. No. I may get or I may not get, in my eternal quest, eternal search. Still I won't budge and inch from the ideal that my Lord is Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana! Kṛṣṇa in Vṛndāvana, as the son of Yaśodā, as the friend of Subal and others, and as the consort of the gopīs and Rādhārāṇī. I want to have His service, and the service of the servant of Him, that I adore, welcome. But no kingship, leadership of any sort of achievement.

na nāka-pṛṣṭhaṁ na ca pārameṣṭhyaṁ, na sārva-bhaumaṁ na rasādhipatyam na yoga-siddhīr apunar-bhavaṁ vā, samañjasa tvā virahayya kāṅkṣe

["O my Lord, source of all opportunities, I do not desire to enjoy in Dhruvaloka, the heavenly planets or the planet where Lord Brahmā resides, nor do I want to be the supreme ruler of all the earthly planets or the lower planetary systems. I do not desire to be master of the powers of mystic yoga, nor do I want liberation if I have to give up Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.11.2]

Vṛtrāsura says in Bhāgavatam, "My inner aspiration is after You, my Lord."

But not here Lord Kṛṣṇa, Vṛtrāsura, Nārāyaṇa.

"But Nārāyaṇa is also so charming that I eliminate all these prospects of my future life. I want You my Lord, my Lord of my heart."

So sweet. Godhead is so sweet. Back to Godhead, back to Godhead. Back to Godhead, and God is such of Kṛṣṇa conception of God, very sweet. Sweetest of all conceptions.

Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Any question?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes Guru Mahārāja. How to recognise and eliminate jealousy in devotional life?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hṛdaye nābhya. According to realisation, and other realisations, how other realisations in the absolute sense we can understand, other planes of life? How can we understand that this is the gold without any alloy? How can we do? Not only Kṛṣṇa realisation, it is of peculiar type, but in other fields of life also we're to know by elimination and acceptance, how? How? With the help of some experts, or with the help of some books. Śāstra and sādhu. Then it comes to us, that knowledge. From the experts that knowledge comes to me. Or by scripture, book, the knowledge comes to me, gives some eye. With that eye I can find, "O, this is real gold, and this is alloyed gold." Every case, how we do? Help from outside, and the guarantee from ones own inner conception. And if he's dull, he can't gather conception from the experts, or from the books, then he's to suffer, himself. Here also we may apply the same thing. The experts know this expert, the religious experts of different type, and also books from different type. Always we're to test. And who is to accept them, his chastity, his sincerity, these three things come to meet us. Whether we're gaining, or we're losing, these three things. The scripture, the expert and expert's opinion, and then my sincere ability, judgement. These three together come to realise the truth, in every case, as here, so there. Here some intellect, and there the heart, the sincerity. So ruci, sincerity _____ [?] The same tangle everywhere. The one question. Hṛdaye, ones own heart, approval of ones own heart. For the acceptance of the external decision, the responsibility is his own. And also we can't deny that the external association...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...both outside and inside, by the cooperation we can make progress anywhere and everywhere. Every department is such. We're to take help from the environment. From different departments also, a dacoit also gathers his knowledge of dacoiting from a higher dacoit. And a good man also gathers from here his education from a higher educated man.

So comparatively in the theology also, different conceptions of theology, religious conceptions, and we're to compare. And according to our sincerity we're to take. This is in a general way. Others we're to live on our fate, fortune. Bhāgyavān jīva, fortunate, which comes from the sukṛti, unknown grace gained by the saints, the agents of the Lord, in this way.

You may call it to be chance. But to our consciousness there is no chance. A chance to the partial realisation, but every chance is known to the Almighty, to the Omniscient. To the ignorant, which is outside their jurisdiction, that is called by chance. We can't - that is unintelligible. Which is unintelligible, beyond the scope of our intelligibility, we say it is chance. But to the Omniscient, chance is within it, His will. He's Autocrat, His will. Everything contained in Him. He's the source of everything, both the chance and both the will, everything in Him. The history, the geography, the mathematics, the science, all congruent.

Jñāna, bala, krīya, ca, generally classified - the energy, and the intellect, and the necessity of satisfaction. Generally these three things, feeling, thinking, willing. One absolute. So not much intelligence into the intellectualism, but begin, hear about the prospect and begin the work. Only by speculation you cannot earn your bread. You must do duty and earn your bread. Do something and you will earn your bread; not by speculation or imagination. Of course education department is also there, but that is also duty, work, labour; labour and live, energy.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Should one see things in his environment higher than himself in this plane? In devotional life, the Ācāryas they write songs about how they feel they're the most fallen, patita-pāvana, or they're...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They also do not feel that they're the higher power holders, they also think that, "We're little, very little." In the infinite everyone thinks they're very little. Mean position, "I want to emulate my condition." The aspiration for the higher always, they're thinking that, "I am meagre. I'm atom."

Vidagdha Mādhava: But also in the relationship to the environment, they're feeling outside themselves everything is higher?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, everything is higher. Everything is higher, even Haridāsa Ṭhākura is giving honour to Māyā Devī. Paramahaṁsa, sees everything regard-fully, no hate, in connection with Kṛṣṇa. That some connection with Kṛṣṇa, that long thread, and giving respect. But at the same time, very careful not to be enticed, but giving respect.

Devotee: Mahārāja, but I cannot act that way every time in my life, as though everyone is higher, because there are so many dacoits and so many low class people. So I must act in a way sometimes that I'm better or higher, or my will is more important than theirs.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It's a possibility that one can trace ones progress. Everyone may feel that he's in progress of life towards his goal. Whether in the wrong way, or in the right way, he can measure his progress. He has the capacity of measuring his progress. But the way may be wrong or right, according to his position. And sometimes bewildered, temporarily he's bewildered, can't ascertain what way he's moving, that is also possible. And sometimes also wrong and right, that also he can, sometimes they cast their shadow in his mind, in the sheet of his mind. Sometimes a dacoit in a moment may think that, "I'm doing wrong, I'm going in the opposite direction." It is also possible. Because different stages of memory within us, while travelling through different positions of this world. Different stages of knowledge we're travelling and they leave some sort of trace within us.

And whenever we're conscious of any particular plane of life, we can judge; good, bad, progress, resolution, slothfulness, energy. Then sometimes sattva-guṇa means sometimes some sort of true conception. Raja-guṇa, too much energy without caring for the good or bad. And tama-guṇa, dullness, idleness, depression, all these. These three things are to be found anywhere and everywhere, even including the beasts and animals and insects. Everywhere, sattva, raja, tama, more or less.

But exclusively given to one way, and that is in the good way, that is rarely found. That gradually rejecting good or bad in the calculation, and catching the higher particular thread, making progress towards one direction, and that is good. It is very difficult to find such a section.

manuṣyāṇāṁ sahasreṣu, kaścid yatati siddhaye
yatatām api siddhānāṁ, kaścin māṁ vetti tattvataḥ

["Out of countless souls, some may have reached the human form of life, and among many thousands of human beings, some endeavour to attain direct perception of the individual soul and the Supersoul; and among many thousands of such aspirants who have attained to seeing the soul and the Supersoul, only a few receive actual perception of Me, Śyāmasundara."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.3]

Gradually elevating towards higher truth, eliminating, eliminating, very few are going to hold the highest position. Everywhere we find that, selected few goes to hold the highest position.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Anyhow we're in a jungle, still we've come to human section. If we cast our glance towards the lower creation then how much I'm saved? I had to experience all those stages of life; the trees, the creeper, the insect, the birds, beasts, animals. Now civilised human section I've reached anyhow. By the grace of any unknown power I've come so far, and here I can use my conscience. It is possible for me to understand good and bad somewhat. And if I can apply this chance to get good association to better my internal condition, something in my hand. But in other sections, in the lower creation, quite helpless. So a good chance, a valuable chance I have got to elevate my position by the help of the associations and the holy things. As much as I've come to understand, so much my responsibility is very _____ [?] in me.

If I go back; a ball coming near the goal, if it goes other way, so much disappointment. The ball is everywhere in the field, no disappointment. But ball coming nearest to the goal, if it missed the goal, then a particular section are very much disappointed. So we've come to human section, near the goal. If I miss this chance to elevate me towards a higher direction, again to go to the savage, and to the animal, and the vegetable kingdom, I have to go back, then how deplorable it should be. In the infinite wave we're being moved helplessly, what position we've got? Now we're human beings we've got much in our hand. And only little that we must associate with highly living person and to elevate our position as much as possible, taking this chance, utilising this chance of human life. Very, very valuable.

The Ṛṣis, the spiritual experts, they all deplore of us. "No, you've attained up to this much, human life, and again you will go back to this animal and vegetable kingdom? Take the chance, take the chance!"

Śṛṇvantu viśve amṛtasya putrāḥ. You're all sons of nectar. Hear me please, what is your prospect, and do it. Accept it! Liberate yourself and have your highest object of life. Do it! Save you! Otherwise you'll be lost in eternity. How responsibility you have got in this life of yours. In a valuable position, utilise to the utmost and get the greatest achievement possible for every soul. Don't lose the chance!

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Be pure, and make others pure. Purity means to give up exploiting energy. And service is holy thing. We can approximately understand that to give to others that is high happiness. And to snatch from others that is filthy. And to satisfy others, and to satisfy the Lord of all, how valuable that can be. Who is everything to me, who is dearest, is everything to be loved, and who is really holding the position of the highest love, to connect with Him, how valuable life to attain.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Dive deep, attempt very earnestly and deeply and comprehensively. So wholesale, total war. I used to say when I was a preacher, "The Gauḍīya Maṭha has declared total war against all the existing opinions of the world in every aspect. Total war, total war. Non-cooperation wholesale with this enjoying or exploiting tendency, and the tendency of renunciation, renouncing everything. Why should we renounce? Only the bad, only to accept the higher environment we're to invite. Renunciation is destructive, equating to zero. Renouncing everything I shall be alone and no consciousness of the environment, how? It is death. To invite everything in its proper angle of vision, proper relation; that is of service. And that can be had, as light from the origin from the sun, so origin is Kṛṣṇa. In His connection everything can be seen in broad daylight, their all friends. None enemy, all friend. In that plane we're to live, where everything is friendly to me and nothing is enemy to me. I want to take my soul in that angle of vision, that everyone I shall see as friend, in connection with that great, great Lord, the great friend of my heart. Everything is friendly.

[bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram]
suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

As long as you are in the adverse position, still remember that whatever happens is at the dictation of one who is my friend, my guardian, my friend. And everything is coming ultimately by His sanction. So you need not bother yourself for any useless apprehension. Go! Optimistic march towards the truth, whatever you think it to be at your present stage. But promise that I must make progress towards the truth, step forward towards the truth. And what sort of conception of the truth? You're to consult and be educated by the departmental experts. If you're sincere you'll be all right.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

He's there, so none can ultimately deceive you, if you do not like to deceive yourself. Your free choice is at the root of all undesirability that has captured you. Free choice. Free choice is the highest jewel and free choice is the highest enemy. When he chooses bad it is the enemy, chooses good it is the highest friend, free choice. And without free choice none can exist as person, as individual. Just as a point of sun ray is illuminating, so the point of consciousness is endowed with free choice. Consciousness is free. Consciousness means free choice. Particle of consciousness, particle of free choice. It can grow along with his own community. When within own community it can grow. And when in the camp of enemy it dwindles. So gather your own community, enter there, and with the help of that, march towards light, towards love, the domain of love.

Devotee: I heard from someone that when the soul returns to Kṛṣṇaloka the Guru appears and introduces him to Kṛṣṇa personally. Is that true?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To certain extent. By the will of Kṛṣṇa everything is done. Again also in different stages. That Guru, His agent, who was entrusted with some recruitment, he's recruiting new persons and again introducing them. That is also there. But internally Kṛṣṇa knows everything; who is who; what is what. But still that sort of līlā is also there, introducing. But He knows everything. Ha, ha.

By only sense he knows, the king may know from the intelligence branch, something, and again the official side bringing something in his notice. But he already knows, the king already knows by the intelligence branch. Do you follow?

So there is one function of Kṛṣṇa, He's omniscient, knows everything. At the same time the līlā portion, someone is doing something, giving this. Another function of Him. In Mahābhārata also we find that Kṛṣṇa is knowing everything, still He's playing the part of an ordinary human being.

But when pushed a little He says, "Yes, I knew. This is this, this is that."

We find Him, knowingly He's playing the part of an ordinary person, as if He does not know. In Mahābhārata everywhere you'll find that līlā. Underground, everything known to Him, but superficially He's playing the part of an ordinary human being, with a little superior intelligence, that's all.

Do you understand?

Devotee: The acting propensity is in Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Līlā is like that. To know, that is aiśvarya, that is not the better function. The jñāna-śūnya, to deal with the limited knowledge people, that is sweet to Him, that is līlā part. "I'm one of you." _____ [?] king, playing with his friends as, "I'm one you." But, "I'm king." That aspect is underground. But when playing, "I'm one of you." That is sweet.

Devotee: I have a question about attachment. Bharata Mahārāja, he was attached to a deer, and for this he had to take another birth. And Yudhiṣṭhira Mahārāja, he was attached to the welfare of one dog. In Mahābhārata this dog was following him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was not attached to the dog, but he was carried by his religious consciousness, conscience. Because the dog told that, "I'm your śaraṇāgata." And the law of śaraṇāgata, one who has given śaraṇāgati, refugee, he can't leave him. That is the law. And for that law, not for particular attraction for the dog.

But it is the direction of the religious books. That the kṣatriya generally if anyone comes to take, to surrender to him, for any fear, the kṣatriya must give that shelter. If anyone seeks shelter, kṣatriya must give.

So Yudhiṣṭhira had, the dog told that, "I surrender to you." Then Yudhiṣṭhira gave him shelter. And it is the law of this master and sheltered, shelter-giving and shelter-taking that he must not leave him in any position. So Yudhiṣṭhira told that, "If I go there, the dog is in my shelter, and I have given him shelter, so I can't leave him. It is the scriptural rule."

Who could dismiss Draupadī, and Arjuna, Bhīma, everyone, but he did not leave the dog. Only for the scriptural injunction.

So, "If you don't take the dog, I can't go, because he's taken shelter under me, and I've already given. And this is the dictation of the scriptures that one must not leave one to whom he has given shelter. So I can't do so under religious law."

That was the question. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Do you follow? Yes means hesitation, hesitatingly, or not clear?

Devotee: He was doing out of duty, not out of sense of affection.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Out of duty; not of attraction, the sense of duty.

Devotee: And one other question about there is one Mahābhārata I read which indicated that Yudhiṣṭhira went to heavenly world, instead of Goloka. Is that because of his nitya līlā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He passed through that, because he played the part of a kṣatriya king. And he found Duryodhana and others also there. Because who observes the rules of the kṣatriya, that is fighting in the front to front, who dies fighting front to front, weapon fighting, they will go to a particular stage of heaven. And Yudhiṣṭhira also had to pass through, but that is not the final. That is the apparent.

Just as so many Urvaśīs, they lived with the gopīs. Just as Dharā with Yaśodā, Droṇa with Nanda. Something like that. That is taken, that is left there in Svarga and they'll go up to Goloka.

Yudhiṣṭhira proper will go to Dvārakā Mathurā camp of Kṛṣṇa. That is hidden.

Keśāvatāra. Brahmā, the goddess of earth complained to Brahmā that, "I'm too much overburdened with the sinners. Please give some relief."

Then Brahmā gave two of his hairs, one white one black. _____ [?] Kṛṣṇa Balarāma came, Keśāvatāra. But that was mixed in ordinary Svayaṁ-Bhagavān and Baladeva.

Mahāprabhu, Yuga-Avatāra, only spreading Nāma-Saṅkīrtana. But Rādhā-Govinda-milita-tanu, that once only in the one day of Brahmā, twenty eight yugas, these things occur.

Just as a ghost entering into a human body, lives with him; something like that. Some god also comes and to take charge of a human soul, that one can overpower another in the mental sphere. And one cannot, does not overpower, but lives within his shelter, that is also possible.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
The mental message, or massage? Or what is this? Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

...

Devotee: I was wondering, there are eight ślokas, if you could give explanation of these prayers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, I can try. But Swāmī Mahārāja has already done perhaps.

Devotee: He has translated...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He himself sang that śloka. I heard from various.

Devotee: But he has not given a very elaborate explanation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, we shall try to publish a book on that. Just as Premadhāma stotram, we may publish a book on that poem.

nānā-śāstra-vicāraṇaika-nipuṇau sad-dharma-saṁsthāpakau
[lokānāṁ hita-kāriṇau tri-bhuvane mānyau śaraṇyākarau] [rādhā-kṛṣṇa-padāravinda-bhajanānandena mattālikau] vande rūpa-sanātanau raghu-yugau śrī-jīva-gopālakau.

["I offer my respectful obeisances unto the six Goswāmīs, namely Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī, Śrī Sanātana Goswāmī, Śrī Raghunātha Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, Śrī Raghunātha dāsa Goswāmī, Śrī Jīva Goswāmī, and Śrī Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, who are very expert in scrutinisingly studying all the revealed scriptures with the aim of establishing eternal religious principles for the benefit of all human beings. Thus they are honoured all over the three worlds, and they are worth taking shelter of because they are absorbed in the mood of the gopīs and are engaged in the transcendental loving service of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Ṣaḍ-gosvāmy-aṣṭaka, 2]

Beautiful śloka by Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. Gradually we shall publish all those important ślokas, as we are doing here, transliteration, and translation and main verse in Nagari type, Sanskrit type.

Devotee: Yes. I was wondering, since I'm in Navadwīpa, what special service is very important to do while in Navadwīpa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha. Ha. To acquire the angle of vision. The most important is that, everywhere. Only we're to acquire proper angle of vision. New eye, divya-dṛśti. Dīkṣā means divya-dṛśti. Not our prejudiced estimation, but piercing that to have a real view into the reality of things. That is what is necessary everywhere. Whole sādhana means that, realisation.

And there we're to die to live. Ha, ha, ha. To have such a life we shall have to die as we are at present. The whole mental system should have to be dissolved. Because it is all full of misunderstanding and prejudices, from the selfish standpoint. Everything is estimated from selfish standpoint. Either very meagre or extended selfishness. Standpoint of a country, of a nation, that means extended selfishness. I do not want selfishness, but I stand for the cause of my country, extended.

In the infinite, what is the meaning, value of that extension, that country? Nothing. Not less than infinite standpoint we're to acquire, gather, angle of vision. How to look at things, look at the environment from the universal standpoint. And that is from the standpoint of Kṛṣṇa interest. Central interest, absolute interest, that is the conception of the absolute as Kṛṣṇa, Autocrat, Beauty. From that standpoint we're to learn to see everything here. Giving up our so-called real vāstava-vādī, so-called real estimation of the environment. So-called real, it has got no value.

They say, the political realists, what is real? All transient. All deceiving. Whatever we're drawing from outside, all deceptive, not stand. For some time and for particular section all relative truth. And relative also in the misconceived world, not in the absolute standpoint relative. That is another thing. There is also relative from the absolute standpoint according to gradation, hierarchy. But that is another relative. And this is relative in the misconception. Within misconception, the wholesale is misconception, and part of part of misconception, and quality, quantity difference.

Dīkṣā means divya-jñāna. Divya-jñāna, the knowledge from the absolute standpoint, not knowledge self-centred, or country-centred, or nation-centred, or humanity-centred, or even whole animation-centred. Not less than infinite-centred calculation, we're to know that. What value anything has got for the satisfaction of the Lord? For Himself. Everything for Himself. How to calculate how much contribution it has got for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, we're to know that. We're to enquire and know. That this thing, how much it can supply the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa interest. We must convert ourselves as the agent of Kṛṣṇa interest-looker. Searching, Kṛṣṇa interest, Gaurāṅga interest, giving up our self-interest of different types, of different layers. That is the main thing, dīkṣā. This is what is wanted. Where the ego is here, the Kṛṣṇa must be allowed to sit on the throne of my heart, and according to that I shall try to look at anything and everything.

Devotee: I wanted to hear your opinion as to why Kṛṣṇa allowed the Muslims to do so much damage to this culture, under Auranzeb and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. You do not see any more heinous thing in the world, only damage under the Muslims?

Devotee: But they were to Kṛṣṇa temples.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One is reduced to stone. Damage, what is damage? That is to be thought out. Punishment, in Kṛṣṇa's angle of vision, no punishment.

As we can imagine when a mother is beating her son. Ordinary onlooker will say how cruel is she. But someone may think that to correct that child more beating is necessary.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, [bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam
hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

None can deceive as one's own self. A bad workman quarrels with his stools. The environment has been earned by us, we're the culprit, not the Muslim plunderer or guṇḍā. Not only guṇḍā is responsible, in the most extended view, all acquired by us. All the punishment, however acute it may be, earned by me. That is truth, and when I shall be able to realise that fact, the day of liberation is nearby. It is said in Bhāgavatam, tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo. Not only that, indifferently, but His grace in the punishment. However severe the punishment may be, when one will be able to see that it is the grace of the Lord, he'll be absolved from all bondage. Criterion is there.

Do you follow? Such spacious the vision must have to be. No complaint against the environment, but complaint against ego. We're to learn that. The whole responsibility, the acquiring force, the free will, culprit, he's gathering moss, and now has taken in such a mossy tank. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. That is the angle of vision given by Bhāgavatam. "You are responsible. You have earned. Man is the architect of his own fortune, or his own fate...

83.01.04.B_83.01.05.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...not only mine, the whole animation. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So with that spirit we're to start in our bhajan, our realisation. "That I'm the sinner. None else to be blamed." The most sincere attempt will begin only there, when we'll be of that attitude, we'll start for purity. None to be blamed. Now see what is what. Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. To err is human, to forgive is divine. He's ready to forgive. He's divinity. And I'm born to err, my weakness, weakness of my free will. So always I must seek for some shelter. I'm not reliable. I want a guardian always. I'm not reliable, myself not reliable, so guardian is necessary, āśraya, shelter is inevitable, the search for shelter, śaraṇāgati.

So Mahāprabhu says, "Your normal position is to become a slave to the highest good. There you'll thrive most. Don't hate slavery, slavery to the Absolute good means that."

Slavery to the beauty we can understand it something; caught by the beauty, charmed by the beauty. We don't know how we've become a slave of beauty. We're already, we can think it well. Beauty can charm. So become slave to the absolute beauty, that is not wrong, no loss there. That is normal, that is goodness, that is fairness. Everyone has got that temperament. That is universal. Without that, there must be rub.

Shakespeare has written somewhere I'm told, "That if a son cannot melt one's heart, then he can commit murder." Something like that in the writing of Shakespeare. "A man is so hard-hearted, if his heart cannot be melted by good son, then he can commit murder."

Ha, ha, ha. So, so abnormal, who does not melt by sweetness, sweet sound, sweetness, beauty, sound beauty. Music means sound beauty. So who is not charmed by beauty, not by sound divine, he's hard-hearted, he's a demonic temperament, not normal. A normal heart must submit to beauty, goodness. Goodness, beauty, harmony, all of same layer, love.

Seek love through love. Search for love, through love. That is the main principle. And there may be some modification in the details. For love we may have to come into conflict. A dog is coming to attack my child; I love my child, I must go to fight with the dog. The higher consideration and the lower consideration is there in love. So love also sometimes presupposes cruelty, but this of less value. Higher value will be on the love's side, affection's side.

Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Sometimes Kṛṣṇa's sense of humour is a little bit cruel. He's always stealing butter, breaking pots. To the gopīs He's always destroying their work...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not cruelty. If the mother makes the child fast for some time, fasting, then he'll be able to relish the food more palatabley. So that sort of cruelty of the mother to the child, "I won't allow you to eat now, fast for some time," that means new health and new taste for the food. So apparent cruelty is not cruelty, it is only to increase the tastefulness of the thing. That is not cruelty, but judiciousness. That is the nature of love.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet [ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]
[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

Rūpa Goswāmī says just as a serpent does not go straight, but by crooked nature, so the love, the nature of love and affection is naturally crooked. But that does not mean that crooked means that cruelty. Crookedness is not cruelty, is it naturally crooked, the serpent moves. So love is also of that nature, only to create taste, only to create variety into the beauty so-called partition and division is there, to improve. Classification is to improve and to remove the staleness of things, to supply some novelty every point, nava-yauvana, it does not become stale. Every moment it seems to be new. So that variegatedness only for this purpose. Just as moving in a cycle, it contributes to the eternity, Viṣṇu cakra, one pushes another and in that way it becomes eternity in a circle. So also this variegatedness, one is pushing, one is pushing in this way, the novelty is maintained there in the movement. It is necessary for that. Hungry, then relishing food. Without hunger one cannot relish the taste of food, so hunger is necessary.

Devotee: Is this why on this plane sometimes someone is a devotee of Kṛṣṇa and he's feeling Kṛṣṇa's presence in some way, and then all of a sudden he goes through a period where there's no sense of feeling Kṛṣṇa? The Christians, one John of the Cross he called this, "The dark night of the soul." When this awareness of Kṛṣṇa goes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is viraha. In the nitya līlā that is viraha, and what more, they're quarrelling with one another, there, for separation. And that is the necessary development in the art of love. We're told that the necessary development, nature of development in the love, artistic, they're all artistic representation in love. For beauty and harmony, the artistic division necessary. And the sound also; high, low, the different types. In beauty also, different sorts, types of figures, not one stale thing is beautiful. So diversity in unity. And harmony means grouped in such a way that it seems very happy, beautiful.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, when Śrī Śrī Premadhāma-deva-stotram is published some hearts will melt. It's a very beautiful translation of a very beautiful poem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right, let us hope so. Then step by step he will advance. So many things are there. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Parama: Guru Mahārāja, can you tell us some things about the disappearance of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? What does she say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: She's asking if you would relate some incidences about Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Disappearance?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I shall give some statement?

Vidagdha Mādhava: That's the question, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does she know? How he disappeared?

Vidagdha Mādhava: I don't think she knows much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you know, or want to know?

Parama: I know nothing, except the year.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, what do you want to know?

Parama: What were the circumstances surrounding his disappearance?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...history? For some time he showed us in his last days that his heart is going to be damaged. Then some sort of treatment, that kaviraji and alopathi that was arranged. But gradually he felt that he's becoming weaker and weaker. Then October, [19]36, he went to Purī along with some of us and there was that Puruṣottama Maṭha, and that Chatak Parvat. Whether you have gone there or not? Have you visited Purī?

Parama: No, not yet.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is one sand-hill, hillock, there was his bungalow and he lived there at Purusottama Math, and so many of us also went with him. And he was very fond of hearing that śloka of [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī, Nija-nikaṭa-nivāsaṁ dehi govardhana tvam [From Śrī Govardhana-vāsa- prārthanā-daśaka, Ten Appeals for Residence at Govardhana Hill] Every day that was sung before him. And Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, this song also was sung by Yājāvara Mahārāja who came here, lived for some time. You might have seen him.

And in this way, and then after a month he came back to Calcutta. We left a party in Cuttack for some collection. Then we got information that his health is being broken day by day. We also came to Calcutta. When we went to Purī, at that time one [Bhakti Saranga] Goswāmī Mahārāja, there he was Aprākṛta Prabhu at that time, he was sent to London. And in the Kuldah [?] Station his own garland he put on his head and told him, "Go there, and if anyone desires to take Hari-Nāma I allow you to give that."

Then while coming back, when we got this news from Cuttack we came to Calcutta and found that it was a very stingy winter and treatment was going on. In spite of that, health did not improve. We were rendering duty at his sickbed, I was also among them. My duty was from two o'clock at night to four o'clock morning. Just before twenty-four hours of his departure he called for me and asked me to sing a song. Śrī-rūpa- mañjarī-pada sei mora sampada, this famous song, which is supposed to be the highest realisation of any Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava devotee.

Then after twenty-four hours, that is the 1st January early morning he left the world. He was lying and slight jerking, thrice, like hiccup, slight hiccup thrice, and everything was calm. Then of course we, it was in Calcutta Maṭha, Bagh Bazaar Gauḍīya Maṭh, a special train from Calcutta to Krishnanagar was arranged. And from Bagh Bazaar Maṭha we carried his holy body to Sealdah Station and from there that special train to Krishnanagar. From there on the roof of a bus came to this Svarup Ganja Ghat. From there we crossed the Sarasvati River. And then again we carried by our shoulders to the Maṭha, and there his place of samādhi. In the morning we came, we reached, the whole day it took to come from Calcutta to come to Caitanya Maṭha, about seven or eight o'clock we reached Caitanya Maṭha, at night.

Then the digging of the grave was begun, we were engaged in that ourselves. Then early morning, of course he was placed on there. I still remember his dignified figure, he sat in a very dignified position and a very glazing colour. His complexion was fair, but after twenty-four hours when he was made to sit on an āsana, a dignified position of an Ācārya, he was tall and fair and thin and very soft body. Then of course the salt was given around, and then the salt and earth came up to this, [his neck] he's sitting, I came out, I could not stand to cover his head, I came out. And then I again go, covered, a Tulasī plant was put there and we all circumambulated with some song and some reading of Bhāgavatam, Haridāsa Ṭhākura.

I specially requested who was chanting the conclusion poetry in Caitanya-caritāmṛta commentary made by himself. Prabhupāda had his Anubhāṣya in Caitanya-caritāmṛta and in the conclusion he composed that poem, very sweet and very lamenting temperament. I asked to read that poem of his and it was read. Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura nirjana in Caitanya-caritāmṛta it was read. And then circumambulation of the samādhi, the Tulasī plant on that. And one gentleman requested me to chant the same Śrī-rūpa-mañjarī-pada, what two days before he requested me to sing and I sang. So that song was sung by me and then everything finished.

And we were all fasting yesterday, the whole day. And the Thursday before sunrise, one or two hours before sunrise, he disappeared. Whole Friday we took him to the Maṭha and everyone fasting, even not a drop of water. Then after, the Saturday, about nine or ten o'clock we took something. Then taking prasādam, again their engagement in Calcutta. And a respectable man was appointed as president in a meeting. So after that again we, at least I and a few, had to go back to Calcutta, to attend the meeting. The whole body was too much tired, that can't move. Still we had to attend. So many disciples from outside they flocked together, all in pain and weeping mood, the whole small area was all flailing, crying, weeping, in this way. Hare Kṛṣṇa. In this way in 36 went away and 37 began, meeting point.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, have you had any visions of your Guru Mahārāja since his disappearance?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Several times, many a time.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So I've got some engagement hereafter.

...

So you are to collect two hundred copies, as much as...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...question?

Devotee: I was wondering why the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas they don't use any yoga āsanas, prāṇāyāma in their service to Kṛṣṇa? Whereas the Rāmānuja and some sects they use yoga and prāṇāyāma.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Breathing exercises.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prāṇāyāma? Why they discard? They discard any artificial thing. God is with heart. Heart is the important part, and to appeal to the heart, transaction with the heart. By natural force to acquire some psychic power and to press them with that power to God; is that a form of worship pleasing? One who has got heart, hearty transaction, that is the most natural thing. Service, satisfaction. He's for Himself. And I shall acquire some power from elsewhere and by dint of that I shall encroach on Him? What the yoga will do? Yoga will give some power in me, and what with that power I shall do with Him?

The opposite is necessary. "I'm meanest of the mean. I'm fallen of the fallen. I want Your grace. You accept me as a slave, as Your meanest servant." This is the way to approach the high. And to gather some power, and by dint of that power to jump on that superior entity, that should be the process of getting Him, His favour? Favour is favour. "I want His favour. He's all complete, all perfect. I want His favour. And I must approach Him in the meanest way to secure His favour, His grace. I have no position. I'm nowhere. I'm wholesale dependent on Him. This is my natural position, constitutional position. I'm wholly dependent on Him." So anything _____ [?] Him must be of that temperament. "I want His favour, His grace. Please accept me. I'm so heinous, so sinful, so meanest of the mean. You're my best friend. I left You and I went somewhere else to search for my prospect. I was so mean. Neglecting You I went somewhere to search my prospect. I'm not only a sinner, I'm a treacherous man." In this way we're to go back to our highest friend, our most affectionate friend.

What this yoga power will do for my help? He's above all seduction. With the power of yoga I shall influence Him, and bring Him in my favour? He's in any way to be controlled by the yoga power? What yoga will do to Him? He's all-independent, absolute. He's perfect in Himself. Other influence won't work there. That will be enraging His temperament.

If I approach Him with some recommendation, or with some guardian, He will have to, a Vaiṣṇava is our guardian, Guru, Vaiṣṇava, we may go to Him and ask them to plead for me to Him. His agents and not any natural power external to Him. By yoga we can acquire some subtle power, but no power can work on Him against His sweet will. We must approach Him in the line of His sweet will, and those that have faith in His sweet will, that is the devotees. Through the devotees we must approach. Through them we must approach Him, and not through any other power we should try to approach Him. That will be opposite. If we want to know Him it is futile, we can't know Him.

We shall pray, "Please make Yourself known to me, if necessary. Otherwise it is not necessary that I shall waste my energy requesting You, You please make Yourself known to me. That is also not necessary, redundant. I want to satisfy You, to contribute something for Your satisfaction. Please accept me. You are full. You are perfect. You have no need. But for my necessity give me some sort of service. Service means in the line of satisfaction to You." That should be our attitude to approach Him.

To approach an affectionate friend, so many mystic persons should not be called for help in our attempt. And whatever is done, we can control ourselves to a certain extent by taking course of those yoga practices.

[mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati]

["The agitated mind, repeatedly taken captive by its enemy in the form of depravity rooted in lust and greed, is directly mastered by serving the Supreme Lord, Mukunda. It can never be likewise checked or pacified by practising the eight-fold yogīc discipline, which is generally based on sensual and mental repression (yama, niyama, etc)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.6.35]

For some time we can check our senses, this is the effect of the yoga. But yoga cannot give the Absolute. Absolute means He's above all, He's self-sufficient. Absolute means self-sufficient. He's not dependent upon any other thing. And yoga can help us to control our mental and physical anomalies, or eccentricities. That also for the time being, not for eternity. Yamādibhir yoga-pathaiḥ, kāma-lobha-hato muhuḥ. For the time being, this kāma, krodha, lobha, moha, all these may be brought under control for some temporary period. But mukunda-sevayā yadvat, tathāddhātmā na śāmyati. But if we can engage ourselves in the service of Mukunda, then all these disturbances go once and for all. By finding the sweet taste in His service, in His company, all these so-called charming proposals retire eternally, won't come back again. The charm for lust, the charm for anger, or for greed, all these things they will vanish altogether once and for all, if we get taste for the service of the Lord, Mukunda.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

nāhaṁ vedair na tapasā, na dānena na cejyayā śakya evaṁ-vidho draṣṭuṁ, [dṛṣṭavān asi yan mama bhaktyā tv ananyayā śakya, aham evaṁ-vidho 'rjjuna] jñātuṁ [draśṭuṁ ca tattvena,] praveṣṭuṁ ca parantapa

["Neither by study of the Vedas, nor by austerity, charity, or sacrifice, can anyone behold My human like form of Supreme Absolute Truth (Parabrahman) which you are now seeing before you."] ["O Arjuna, conqueror of the enemy, although in this form of Mine I am practically impossible to be seen by all other methods, the pure devotees, by their exclusive devotion unto Me, are capable of actually knowing Me, seeing Me, and entering into My divine pastimes."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.53-54]

"All other means they fail. Only bhaktyā tv ananyayā, only exclusive devotion can get Me as you see, Arjuna. But other things they cannot lead to such position, any devotee. Bhaktyā tv ananyayā śakya. Not also devotion for the temporary devotion. Permanent and exclusive."

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"All else rejected, only concentrated to My own self. That sort of devotion can only give Me to you, to the devotee. All else futile and shameful. That with some hired persons they will come to canvass Me? No. My agents are best benefited to you, benefactor to you. They're searching to canvass persons in My favour, My agents are there. And that is not for any business purpose. Their business is to do good to others. With this idea so many agents are out to canvass for Me. Come through them, and not seek any recommendation outside, and anyhow to come to force Me to favour you. That is not the path proper. Come to Me through My own agent. And there, they've got no other aspiration for their own. They're all given to My service. And they're wandering and trying to recruit persons for the benefit of those recruited. For their benefit they're wandering, so come through them, never otherwise.

What is yoga, yama, niyama? There is air, there are so many things, by controlling that you will force Me to come to you? I'm the Absolute Autocrat, don't care for anything else, no necessity of caring for anything else, any force, any tactics, any cunning method, subversive. None can, nothing can defeat Me. I'm autocrat. And in the line of autocracy, admitting that, you try to come to Me. The demigods are many, they are making trade, and I'm not under them, the commodity of their trade. None can make trade with Me. I'm Absolute. Only devotion, and exclusive devotion, and not formal, but natural, hearty, that is sincere. I look for that, I look for the heart, and not for anything else." Bhāva-grāhī-janārdanaḥ.

patraṁ puṣpaṁ phalaṁ toyaṁ, yo me bhaktyā prayacchati tad ahaṁ bhakty-upahṛtam, aśnāmi prayatātmanaḥ

["Certainly, if one offers Me with devotion a leaf, flower, fruit, and water, I partake of that whole offering from such a pure hearted and affectionate devotee of Mine. With heartfelt love, I graciously accept."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.26]

"Whatever My devotee offers to Me with sincere devotion, with sincere affection, I take that. It does not matter whether it is a leaf, or a flower, or water, or anything else. Not only the rich food, or rich presentation is necessary for Me. What I want, I want the heart, I want sincerity. Good faith I want. That is the highest thing in Me."

Ha. Ha. There is one poem written by a poet, carefully, "O Kṛṣṇa, You have everything. But only You have not the heart. The heart is stolen by the gopīs. Your heart, gopīs have stolen Your heart, so You have everything, but the heart or the mind is not present in You, that is already stolen. So, You take my heart." Ha, ha, ha. "You accept my mind. That is wanting in You." Ha, ha. "So please accept my mind to You. Because Your heart is empty, please take my heart. That is, attract my heart towards You."

A sweetheart is a word. Sweetheart is applied only to the ladies, or to the men also, visa-versa?

Devotee: To the ladies.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only ladies can be sweetheart?

Devotee: Mostly. But it can be both ways, usually to the ladies.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And the man cannot be sweetheart to the lady? Not that sort of application?

Devotee: It could.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It's not applied in that way?

Devotees: It can be. Sometimes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sometimes? So sweet heart. Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] That śloka I forget, it is... Ke? Who is there?

Parama: Mother Naika.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mother Naika. Where was she so long?

83.01.05.B

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. In every activity there's a science, so I wanted to understand the science of faith.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the science of faith?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The underlying principle of faith is this.

'śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

["By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, one automatically performs all subsidiary activities. This confident, firm faith, favourable to the discharge of devotional service, is called śraddhā."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

If I do my duty to the centre, everything is done, that is faith.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati
yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["Enquire into that upon knowing which, nothing further remains to be known. Try to achieve that upon gaining which, nothing further remains to be gained."] [Upaniṣads]

Faith covers the whole by accepting one. Apparently by accepting a part, he can cover the whole; that is peculiar there. If I can capture one the whole can be captured. If I love one the whole is loved. If I know one the whole is known. If anyone has got such sort of conception then that is the seed of faith and he approaches on that path of faith. By approaching the centre, all the branches all that sprung from Him approached. Pouring water into the root the whole tree is fed. Putting food into the stomach the whole body can be fed. Something like that. If one gets the key he gets the almirah, the iron chest, something like that. Such sort of faith, confidence, start, that is śraddhā, that is faith. And he approaches in that way, otherwise how being a part I can claim the whole? Our inner necessity to have the whole, but how it is possible? But it is possible only through the heart.

Once in Bombay our Guru Mahārāja gave an example to this. That a poor girl she's got nothing, but if she's married to a prince who has got enough, then through that tie of affection she may think that all the properties of the prince belong to her. Something like that. Kṛṣṇa has everything under His control. We have nothing. But if we can establish a connection with Kṛṣṇa through affection, affectionate connection we can establish with Him, then we can have everything thereby through Him.

This is the idea, to get whole. By getting one is to get whole. By capturing the fort we capture the country. So capturing the controller we capture the whole that He controls. So how can one control? Bhakti is such an astounding thing that śraddhā, bhakti, that the small can control the big, an atom can control the centre. It is the speciality of devotion, śaraṇāgati, surrender. Surrender is the most wonderful thing in the world which makes possible for the small to control the great, the smallest to control the greatest, only this means, through love, through surrender. The smallest part, the particle can control the whole only through faith, through surrender. He's so kind, kindness in His heart. By humility, by our incapacity.

"I am the most wretched, most fallen so attraction should come to me. I'm the most negative, I represent the most negative aspect so the positive has got His, should have His greatest attention for this negative."

So, so much praise is shown about bhakti in scripture. Bhakti can do what is impossible; can control the high to the lower. This is affection, this is devotion proper; devotion proper is such in characteristic, that the high is controlled.

Suppose a General after conquering a country has come home and his young child is taking him by his finger and drawing and he's going. A powerful General controlled by a child, a child is drawing and he's following, why? Through affection. So affection, or love, or faith, it is wonderful thing which can control the big for the low.

So no such wonderful thing can ever be, not only discovered but not even thought out, none can think also of such things. But this is the real nature of faith, or devotion, or affection, what we call it. Where it is present, the big is controlled by the small, there bhakti is present there, bhakti is there, to be traced there. Where it is not seen no bhakti. Bhakti means this that the big is controlled by the small, and the inner thread is that of devotion, affection, surrender, and love. That is the real characteristic of bhakti. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. How wonderful thing it is, and how powerful thing it is, strange, strange, strange.

ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija
sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

The Lord Himself says: "What I say Durvāsā," Durvāsā was a big yogī, "What I say Durvāsā, I am already surrendered and committed to My devotee. I have no independence of My own. I'm already committed to My devotees and I can't back out from that claim. So you'll have to go to that Ambarīṣa, as your appeal to Me is futile, useless, won't work anything, won't fetch anything for you. I'm already committed there to My devotee, You will have to go back to My devotee and beg forgiveness there."

He says, Nārāyaṇa. And this is not hyperbole, it is wholesale truth, not merely a show or poetry, it is truth cent per cent.

ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija
sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ

"This is My nature. My very nature is such Durvāsā. I'm committed to My devotees. I have no independence. Iva, and this is My voluntary contribution, or acceptance, or commitment. This commitment is voluntary, so though I'm the Absolute still My voluntary commitment is such by nature. What to do?"

That is bhakti, that is bhakti. Gaura Hari. So we are out to find out the most secret wealth the world has ever conceived, secret power, or whatever you see which can control, the smallest can control the highest, greatest. That sort of learning, or tact, or whatever you may say, it is possible.

Mahāprabhu came with that most valuable thing. What do you do? You make yourself busy for nothing, or busy for rubbish? Try to acquire this most valuable thread. The stand of the witch, magic stand, magic wand - try to find out, get this magical wand. Nothing so valuable ever discovered in the world. Take to this subtle most power, by which the smallest can control the highest, the greatest. This is love, this is love, this is faith, this is affection. So cultivate, give up everything and cultivate about this. Search for this, search for Kṛṣṇa, search for love, search for devotion. Die to live. This is self determination to the highest degree. Self determination, self realisation to the highest degree is to acquire such position. By humility we may be master.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

And we'll be able to conquer the whole by that sort of qualification, and not by jumping and capturing and carrying and looting and fighting, not that.

Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in the life of Bilvamaṅgala Ṭhākura, he had devotion to Kṛṣṇa, yet attachment. At what point in his life did he leave that attachment, and the grace of Kṛṣṇa come down, what was that single point?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was, he lived when he was in the process of acquiring, when acquired then he challenged Kṛṣṇa: "You're going, You're slipping Your hand from my hand, but I challenge You to go from my heart if You can do it." That was a final state, but the fall, that is in the stage of sādhana, in the way of realisation, not realised it, the slip came.

Devotee: Was it that he poked out his eyes, is that what brought the grace of Kṛṣṇa down to him?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: At that time he had not attained siddhi. Before attaining the stage of siddhi, in the way of sādhana and in the course of realisation some fall here, there. But after he had attained the position of a siddha, svarūpa-siddha, even from svarūpa-siddhi the chance of fall is there. But after vastu-siddhi no fall is possible, very little, but very rarely. From svarūpa-siddhi stage also one may fall. But even when he has placed in vastu-siddhi, acquired such place, no fall is possible any longer.

Devotee: So is it by the power of his sādhana or the sacrifice of his vision that the grace came down?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That sacrifice of the vision in that character it is shown that he has not finished, he has not attained finally, he's on the path of attainment. And as long as one is on the path of attainment he may fall, but very rarely maybe one may fall. Slip is possible when climbing, but when already climbed in a particular level then no possibility of any fall.

From the beginning Bilvamaṅgala is not accepted as siddha. He was going to the prostitute regularly and so intensely he was habituated to that, all these things. Then gradually he got that intimation leaving everything to go to Kṛṣṇa. First he went to the māyāvādī sannyāsī, leaving this life of a debauch went to a māyāvādī sannyāsī. But anyhow he was not satisfied, he got his dream about Kṛṣṇa, His grace, Kṛṣṇa's special grace he received, and then he left māyāvādī and went towards Vṛṇdāvana. And when going to Vṛṇdāvana then also some break in his journey. That is he was captured by the beauty of a lady, perhaps near Maharastra or so. Then when the gentleman sent the lady for his service at night, in the meantime his conscience came back. And he begged for two pins and took them and pierced his eyes with those pins, and paid his daṇḍavats and went towards Vṛṇdāvana, finished.

That does not mean that when one has begun his journey the journey will be safe and finished in one stride. He may have some check according to his previous karma, some sort of obstacles may come in the way naturally. And after passing through the sādhana stage when he climbs up to the bhāva-bhakti then he'll be safe more. To begin is not to finish, there is a process between the two, to begin and to finish there is an interval. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, what is the significance of Mahāprabhu saving Gopīnātha Panayaka. Rāmānanda Rāya's brother, the son of Bhavānanda Rāya?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow the pronunciation of the words, what is this?

Gopīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka, Bhavānanda, Rāmānanda, they are all Paṭṭanāyaka, their caste family. Vāṇīnātha was the youngest brother who used to serve Mahāprabhu. And the Gopīnātha he was a money collector under Pratāparudra, and he collected more money but did not give it to the royal treasury. So he had a loan and the king's eldest son he wanted to get back all those monies by making some arrangement of his punishment. Showing him the fear of capital punishment, he took him on some platform and from there so many swords were arranged in the lower position and he will be pushed to fall on the so many swords and he will be cut into pieces. And that sort of capital punishment was arranged by the crown prince of Pratāparudra.

And so many persons ran to Mahāprabhu: "The Rāmānanda's brother, Rāmānanda is a great devotee and his brother is in such danger. The crown prince is imparting capital punishment to him, he will be thrown over the swords and he will be cut to pieces. If You intervene kindly then that man may be saved."

Mahāprabhu told: "What is this? It is all worldly affairs. What connection I have got to do in this matter? He has looted the cash of the king and the king is imparting punishment. And it is not My jurisdiction to go and ask the king give Me so many lākhs of rupees to a beggar. And I'm worth one paisa. I'm a brāhmaṇa, a poor sannyāsī. Society has allowed Me to beg for My belly and not for lākhs of rupees I shall beg from him and he will give. Why he will give Me? I won't stay with you, I shall go to Allanatha, I can't tolerate all these troubles."

Then anyhow that went to the king, Pratāparudra, that Mahāprabhu is leaving Purī, going to Allanatha."

"Why He's doing so?"

"This is the matter."

"No, no. Why? I want the money and not the man to be killed. I want the money, why should you do this? So send some intimation to the crown prince that his capital punishment should be stopped. I want money."

Then the whole thing was otherwise. This is the story of Gopīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka.

Then when the king Pratāparudra excused him, and also the money, the loan was also excused. And he was also given some reward. "That your previous service satisfied me very much. I do not care for only these few lākhs of rupees. You go, and I'm giving you a more higher, important engagement in my kingdom."

Then that Gopīnātha and Bhavānanda, the whole family came to Mahāprabhu to show their thankfulness to Mahāprabhu. "It is whether You told or not, but because You went to leave Purī and went to go to Allanatha, this king Pratāparudra could not tolerate and he intervened into the matter and now we've been very much glorified. Instead of being killed we're glorified and You are the only cause." They all came and fell flat under the feet of Mahāprabhu. That is the story.

And what do you say? The Gopīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka what did he do? I don't understand the word, what you say, Gopīnātha Paṭṭanāyaka, his name?

Devotee: Yes, it's just his name.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's a brother of Rāmānanda Rāya. Now what do you want to ask about him?

I fail to understand.

Devotee: I just wanted to know the spiritual significance of that story.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Spiritual significance it may be that if anyone is connected in the service of the Lord, then in His connection many may get that holy connection, many things may be got.

Rāmānanda was favourite to Mahāprabhu. Though apparently Mahāprabhu did not want to participate into this worldly matter, but still it was done, slight connection of Mahāprabhu. But this achievement is not very laudable. What Gopīnātha got, that is not very laudable. Not only Gopīnātha but his family was also treated that way.

Mahāprabhu asked: "What is Vāṇīnātha doing?" Who was an attendant to Mahāprabhu: "What he's doing?"

Vāṇīnātha is taking the Name of the Lord and when some number is finished and he's cutting one line in his body and taking the Name, waiting the death next moment. Vāṇīnātha, who was a devotee, who was a constant attendant of Mahāprabhu, this youngest brother, he, on the apprehension of his immediate death, he's taking Kṛṣṇa Nāma without caring for the future, or any result whatever may come.

He's not come to Mahāprabhu, "Please save me. I'm Your whole time servant. I'm only in connection with my brother for his fault I'm taken prisoner and I'm also being dealt with capital punishment, save me."

No. But whatever the will of Kṛṣṇa it may take place. He's taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa before the immediate possible death, he's doing.

Mahāprabhu felt extra satisfaction for his satisfaction: "Yes, Vāṇīnātha is a real devotee. Without caring for any future adversities he's taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa."

That should be the attitude of a pure devotee. Whatever circumstance he faces, he does not care for that. He will take more intensely in the service of Kṛṣṇa, the Name of Kṛṣṇa, engage himself more intensely in the face of any danger. He won't shirk. He will face bravely any circumstances and will take the Name of the Lord. That should be our idea.

And there was one instance in this Pakistan affair. When after a few years, 1971 or so, the Pakistan two sides, East Pakistan and West Pakistan, there was a war, and this East Pakistan became independent in that war. There was one devotee of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura living in East Pakistan, And the West Pakistanis they thought that the Hindus are at the bottom of this revolt, so they were killing Hindus right and left. So one devotee of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura named Kumud Babu, he was there.

And one soldier came: "Here is a Bengali sādhu. I want to kill him" and asked him to come out.

He came: "What do you say?"

"I shall shoot you."

"Oh, wait a little, wait a little my friend, I'm coming." So he went to the room and took this Hari-Nāma mālikā and with his Hari-Nāma mālikā in hand counting he sat on the chair and asked: "Now you shoot me."

Anyhow, that soldier he could not do so. "No, no, no, you are, you cannot have any political impetus, so I don't like to kill you." He went back.

He came with mālikā in hand and sitting on the chair: "Now you may shoot me." And began counting.

And that soldier, that murderer, he went back. "No. We have no apprehension, or any fear from you. You're a real spiritual man. No apprehension of any political conspiracy from a man like you. I won't like to kill you." He went back.

His name was Kumud Babu, he was a devotee, a disciple of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. 1971 or so perhaps. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: So Guru Mahārāja, in the story of Gajendra, he prayed for protection from the Lord, so is that not as high?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not always. It is sometimes as he's inspired by the Lord he does so. In the case of pure devotees as subtle inspiration he receives from higher, he does that way.

He may think that, "If by appealing a little I can live long, I shall be able to serve my Lord, so what is bad there. I'm innocent, why have you come to kill me?" He may say, and his life may be saved. He may do that, no harm. This human life is valuable and I'm really not partaking in the politics and if he appeals: "Oh, why do you kill me my friend? I'm not a party to any political campaign. I'm going on with my religious life. Please give me up." That sort of appeal or expression of any desire, that is not to be blamed because the human life is valuable. If I live I can serve.

So much disease has come and we take the medicine, we call for the doctor, why? Because this chance I have got in human body to do some service to my Lord. Why I should go to give up this life if possibility of continuing is there? So we take the medicine, we call for the doctor to continue this life because this valuable life may fetch some valuable property for me. And the next life uncertain, I don't know where I shall be born. So that is not bad. What will underlie the prayer; that will determine good or bad. For the service one can do anything and everything, for the service. For Kṛṣṇa and kaṛṣṇa, for the service of Kṛṣṇa and His devotees, to pray for that is no prayer for selfish purpose.

Rather, Sanātana Goswāmī was very eager to give his body up under the wheel of Jagannātha's chariot.

Mahāprabhu depreciated that. "What do you do? Your body given to Me already, surrendered to Me, and I want to utilise your body in a very important way. And you want to give up your body by committing almost suicide under the wheel of the chariot of Jagannātha? What does it? This sort of body giving is not a very highly valuable devotion. If it were to be so I can die in a moment crores of times. What is the value of this body? This is only a cage of flesh and blood. Only by giving this body we can capture Kṛṣṇa? It is foolish. What value this body has got? Only as long as we think that this is very important we have got this body consciousness. Only service of Kṛṣṇa that is being the object of our eternal aspiration, service of Kṛṣṇa. Whatever necessary, if to die for Kṛṣṇa is necessary through service I shall die. If to live for His satisfaction is necessary I shall live. It will be determined by the serving attitude and that must be sincere not a diplomatic thought."

To accept death, that is physical courage, that is not a very laudable thing. To face death there are so many animals they fight together until one dies they continue fight. Physical courage is there, do not fly away, until one is dead they both fight, these cocks, the bulls, there are so many. If any fighting will begin then as long as one is not dead the fight won't be over. Physical courage that is not a very laudable thing. But only to utilise everything for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that tendency is the most valuable. To die for Him, to live for Him, whatever is necessary we shall be prepared for that. That is valuable.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I wanted to ask a question about gṛhastha life. If one partner...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gṛhastha life of two sections. One because one cannot live a life of celibacy, he cannot but have to get a householders life. Another, the paramahaṁsa, they're master of their senses, but still by the will of God they come here and live as a gṛhastha. In Mahāprabhu's time, in Kṛṣṇa's time we find so many gṛhastha, and child are also coming from them. But still they're supposed to be situated in the highest position above this lust, anger, all these things. Paramahaṁsa, above any calculation of devotion, they're established there. Their gṛhastha life should not be neglected as if they're unable to control their senses, not that. There is a possibility of a life when husband wife living and child is also coming, still they're cent per cent above sensual pleasure, sensual play, it is possible. And at the same time one when in the path of realisation cannot control his senses he will have to take some help in a very gentle way to go ahead on the path of devotion, that is also. So two classes of household life we see.

83.01.05.C_83.01.06.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as prasāda, one is taking prasādam according as a slave of the tongue or the belly. Another is honouring the prasādam. "Oh, Jagannātha, or Kṛṣṇa has taken this. How fortunate I am, I'm tasting this prasādam." To take, to honour prasādam is not to eat, to devour, to swallow, but the main thing there, "Oh, how fortunate I am getting this prasādam which is already taken by Kṛṣṇa, Jagannātha, this taste that."

And automatically the physical side is going on. When a devotee honours the prasādam, his main aspect is he's honouring what is already taken by the Lord. His mind is concentrated there, not in the physical appeared thing. For ordinary people he's taking physical taste. The difference between, everywhere such difference. One looking at the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, another searching for the satisfaction of his own sense. The physical activity is one and the same in both the cases.

One has come to look at the Deities, "How very beautiful the Kṛṣṇa, the Rādhārāṇī, Mahāprabhu, He came to grace the people in this way." Another man has come with the mal purpose. "Oh, so many ornaments there, I shall come in night and I shall take this golden crown and these ornaments." He's also looking at the Deity. So everything, the internal estimation is the most valuable thing, the angle of vision. Only physical activity has not got much value. Approach, whatever we do, the plane of our approach, that is to be considered for the valuation of the activity.

rāga-dveṣa-vimuktais tu, viṣayān indriyaiś caran ātma-vaśyair vidheyātmā, prasādam adhigacchati

["However, a true devotee on the path of renunciation in devotion (yukta-vairāgya) acts exclusively for My transcendental satisfaction. Abandoning attachment and envy, although accepting sense objects with his controlled senses, he attains full contentment of heart."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.64]

Not under the control of the guidance of the senses, one is accepting, connecting, making connection with the external things. But he's not a prey for any affection or this disaffection, not a prey to that, this is the negative side. And the positive side is that everything meant for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, he's doing, that is the positive side. And if I get out of the negative side we do not care for any pleasure or any pain when we approach anything outside that cannot tie me down with this material world. In Gītā it has been dealt in details. The physical activity is not to be blamed, but how do you approach, that is the valuable thing. Do anything and everything but don't be a slave to that purpose of what you're doing. Only attend everything as your duty come to you and you are to deal with that. But don't be a slave to the result, the consequence. The pleasure and pain that duty will produce, don't be a slave to that karma-phala. If you can do with that spirit one can demolish the whole universe but he does not do anything, he's not responsible for doing anything.

[yasya nāhaṅkṛto bhāvo, buddhir yasya na lipyate]
hatvāpi sa imāḺ lokān, na hanti na nibadhyate

["He who is free from egotism (arising from aversion to the Absolute), and whose intelligence is not implicated (in worldly activities) - even if he kills every living being in the whole world, he does not kill at all, and neither does he suffer a murderer's consequences."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.17]

He does not kill neither he will have any reaction for that. Who? Who has got no charm for any loss or gain of his activities. In other words, he's working and standing on the plane of the universal wave. He's only mere instrumental; he has not got his own selfish end, purpose. Then he's working, he's got no selfish tendency, so he's working on the universal wave is dancing, making him dance and he's an instrument to that. So he's not responsible for the consequence of his activity, it is so. Withdrawal from the negative side, and then participation in the positive side, to do anything for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa consciously, that will be more laudable.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: In the śāstras chastity for a woman is very important, to be very loyal to her husband. And in devotee life if the husband is not as strong in some ways as the wife, is the wife ever justified to leave the husband, or should she try to stay...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, if husband is seen not in the way of the devotion towards Kṛṣṇa realisation, then she may leave husband.

gurur na sa syāt sva jano na sa syāt, pitā na sa syāj jananī na sā syāt
daivaṁ na tat syān na patiś ca sa syān, na mocayed yaḥ samupeta mṛtyum

[Ṛṣabhadeva says: "Even a spiritual master, relative, parent, husband, or demigod who cannot save us from repeated birth and death should be abandoned at once."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.5.18]

So he's not in the way of my highest welfare, friendship with him, that will damage me, I must avoid such company. My main interest is to march towards Kṛṣṇa. Who will help me I shall mix with him. I shall take his help and give help to him. By mutual cooperation we shall go towards Kṛṣṇa. But if one drags me down towards another direction than Kṛṣṇa, then I must have to give up that company and to go alone towards Kṛṣṇa. He may be son, he may be a father, he may be a husband, he may be a wife, he may be anyone, he may even be a Guru. Anyhow accepted a Guru but it is shown that he's utpatha-prathipannasya, parityāgo vidhīyate.

[guror apy avaliptasya, kāryākāryam ajānataḥ
utpatha-prathipannasya, parityāgo vidhīyate]

["A Guru who is addicted to sensual pleasure and polluted by vice, who is ignorant and who has no power to discriminate between right and wrong, or who is not on the path of śuddha-bhakti must be abandoned."] [Mahābhārata, Ūdyoga-parva, 179.25]

I shall have to go to the absolute goal, and anyone helping he's my friend, and anyone trying to deviate me, to draw me from that path, I shall have to leave his company respectfully. My main absolute way, absolute end, absolute call, I shall attend. And to do that whatever is favourable I shall accept, and unfavourable I shall have to reject. Otherwise I can't give up the main gain of my life. Gurur na sa syāt sva jano na sa syāt. Balirāja, Vibhiṣana, Prahlāda, Bharata, Khatvangarāja, and yajña patnis, they disregarded their objects of affection and went straight towards the Absolute Truth. My universal interest is there, the whole interest is there. So my ways will be fixed in such a way. Whoever will come to help me in that absolute way, he's my friend, and who will try to deviate me, he's my foe. The general instruction is such.

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Dharma means religious duty. We're bound when we come in this world, we're bound by our birth to certain duties. Action, reaction, give and take, in the family, in the society, with the king, all these. But all sorts of duties should be cast off in consideration of the call of the duty of the Absolute. Sarva-dharmān parityajya. "I represent absolute truth, absolute good. So giving up everything; all phases of duty ignore and come straight to Me." That is the last conclusive advice of Bhagavad-gītā, the call, the absolute call.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Devotee: Mahārāja, in Mahābhārata where Kṛṣṇa gives His own army to Duryodhana, and Arjuna chooses Him, even though He will not fight, to drive his chariot. Why did Kṛṣṇa choose not to fight in the battle, only to drive the chariot?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Generally He tried His best to be neutral in the fight because Baladeva was in favour of Duryodhana's party, His elder brother. And when the fight began Baladeva went away for tīrtha-yatra so that He may not have to support Duryodhana, His own disciple. Duryodhana was disciple in this gadad yujya [?] from Baladeva, and favourite.

And because Kṛṣṇa saw that, "My brother He left His favourite party and went on in pilgrimage, and I should also not participate wholly."

But He cannot leave the really truthful party, He had sympathy. And to keep the balance He gave the soldiers towards Duryodhana's party, and Himself most empty handed went to help the Pāṇḍava Arjuna. But you know that the physical force is not all, the guidance is everything. So His guidance as a charioteer, His advice in all affairs, that was all important, and not fighting.

In this way He tried to show that, "The least I tried to avoid this wholesale murder of the kṣatriyas in this battle of the whole of India, but it was unavoidable. I shall have to do, but most reluctantly, tried My best for peace."

Only five, Yudhiṣṭhira was the real owner, his father was king, but because his father died they're all minors, the other party manipulated in such a way that they're usurped, usurper.

But still He tried His best. "Only five villages give to these five brothers."

They didn't. Then the war was inevitable and He took this attitude, and there almost the whole kṣatriya power was smashed in that, crushed in that war, finished. So such a dreadful war He was not ready to be party, as much as possible He avoided, but still it was inevitable. And He only advised them, guidance that is all important thing and all these physical forces this is nothing. The policy, the guidance that is all important. And specially Baladeva Who was in favour of Duryodhana was His favour, He also withdrew and He also should withdraw from the other party. So the fighting They gave up and only as a charioteer going. But His high intelligence, guidance, that was everything, that facility the Pāṇḍavas got.

One day he went to fight against Kṛṣṇa with some weapon, but that was other thing. Bhīṣma stopped the fighting and with folded palms began to pray to Him in praise. "Oh You Lord, You are Kṛṣṇa, You are Nārāyaṇa. You can destroy everything at Your glance. Casting a glance You can destroy the whole creation. And to keep my promise You have broken Your promise that You won't take any weapon. You have taken weapon and You're running to kill me. You have broken Your promise to keep my promise that I made. Yesterday I promised that I shall force You to take weapon. You have kept my promise and You've broken Your promise. You're so generous, You're so big, so high." In this way Bhīṣma began to speak.

mayā hatāṁs tvaṁ jahi mā vyathiṣṭhā, yuddhasva jetāsi raṇe sapatnān

[Kṛṣṇa tells Arjuna: "Slay (again) Droṇācārya, Bhīṣma, Jayadratha, Karṇa, and the many great warriors, all of whom have already been killed by Me. Do not hesitate - fight! Without any doubt, you will be able to conquer the enemies."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 11.34]

"It is I Who am doing this, this great war, this sacrifice of man killing, it is I. So Arjuna you become merely instrumental to that. It is inevitable, the world forces, the fate of the world is coming to its doom, in this way."

Apparently it is as if He's showing that He's got no, He does not want to help such a great man killing yajñā, but it is inevitable.

"As much as possible I'm withdrawing as you see as a man in Me, but still it can't be avoided."

Only five villages to be given to the other party but Duryodhana was not willing, he told, sukagra sudhi ne na vidyate yata me dini [?] "The earth in the point of a pin, I won't give it to the Pāṇḍavas without war, without fighting." Duryodhana told. "Now what to speak of five villages to five brothers, only not a point of earth which can be contained in the point of a needle, I won't give it up."

The other party was so much obstinate, and that's why war was inevitable. And yato dharma satoja [?]

Pāṇḍavas are religious, and Kṛṣṇa is bound to side with the religious. And they're demonic, they must be on the opposite side. But Baladeva, He had some encouragement of the other party. He was Guru of Śiva, the opposition party leader. All these fights. Sometimes it is necessary that one is following and asking his own person: "Go and help with sympathy the other party." It is diplomacy, to take part in one side, and to use another of his intimate men to participate on the other side, opposite party. It is diplomacy we find in the political world. And wholesale, the whole universe is like that, direct, indirect, with the help of the both the world is going on.

So any important question? I shall close.

Vidagdha Mādhava: One last question in this connection. How could Duryodhana who was demoniac be the favourite disciple of Baladeva? He was the favourite disciple of Balarāma. How could that be as he was wicked minded and would not allow the Pāṇḍavas their rightful...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That I answered here, that it is a policy in the creation, the positive and negative together going, marching on. So Mahādeva is the leader of the opposition party, still he's a devotee, His own, Mahādeva, Śiva, he's indulging, seen to indulge the demonic power.

So I told Baladeva is the Guru of Śiva, Baladeva is the bifurcation from Kṛṣṇa. That is to, līlā means both and many parties are necessary by gradation. So He Himself extends Himself in such a way that to support so many parties as if against Him, really not, He's all inclusive. But still, some power must emanate from Him and supply the basis as if something is different from Him. Baladeva is the basis of so many which is not Kṛṣṇa at present. He's the basis of that, of different rasa.

Only for the līlā purpose it is necessary. Kṛṣṇa and non Kṛṣṇa, and with them and there is another side, hlādinī, jñāna, bala, krīya ca. Hlādinī, saṁvīt, and sandhīnī. Baladeva sandhīnī, He extends the basis of the extension of the so many, and so as if they're non Kṛṣṇa, but really they're meant to work for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, those non Kṛṣṇa. So that deviation is necessary, and that is supported by Baladeva. And Baladeva's facsimile is Mahādeva, He's also encouraging so many demons, and so the creation is going on in different ways. This is by thesis, antithesis, synthesis, in Hegelian philosophy. Thesis, then antithesis, and harmonising both is synthesis. In this way we find the pastimes is going on of the Absolute, thesis, antithesis, synthesis. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, can I ask one more question about Duryodhana? When he was king for a while, when Duryodhana had power while the Pāṇḍavas were in exile...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow the name, Duryodhana, yes.

Devotee: When he had some power they say he was a very good king. The people were happy under him and he ruled well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is by the help of morality he wanted to fight the real owner. But good management of others property cannot be a plea of his ownership. The property belongs to Yudhiṣṭhira and Duryodhana usurped it, and he gave good management for the subjects. That does not mean that the property belongs to him. That was against the existing law of the country. Yudhiṣṭhira's father was the king, and Yudhiṣṭhira and his brothers were minors. In that plea, taking advantage of that circumstance with the help of Dhṛtarāṣṭra, their elder uncle, Duryodhana dispossessed the Pāṇḍavas of their own property, because they're fatherless and they're minor, usurped their property.

The good management of others property, A's property, B is managing very smoothly, then B will be the owner of the property? That is one thing. Another thing, the demons they depend on good law. But the deva, who're the real party, the [demi]gods, their characteristic is allegiance to the Absolute, to the Supreme Power. Generally this distinction we find. The demons may be more moral, and the gods they're more allegiant, faithful, towards the highest authority, the Absolute. Do you follow, no? The absolute allegiance to the Absolute Authority - that is more theistic life. And to depend on the moral, that is democracy, opinions of the so many, they're anti God. Can you understand, no?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, why do you say yes? Do you understand it?

Devotee: Yes, I can understand.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The opinion of the many, to satisfy so many subjects, that is one thing. That is to satisfy the plurality or to satisfy one, the division in two ways. To try to satisfy the one Absolute Autocrat, the owner. And another, morality, that is to satisfy so many, plurality. That is theistic, and this is anti theistic. Vox populi is not vox dei, vox dei should be vox populi.

The Abraham in your country, he told, "The government of the people, government by the people, government for the people." That is democracy, the basis of democracy, that is anti God.

We say, "The government of the people, it is all right. Government for the people is also all right. But government by the Absolute Law." Not by the people, mass is ignorant, mass is ignorant, so that cannot be the highest standard. The mass conception of justice cannot be the highest. The highest justice is above with the Absolute. And the mass should be guided to the standard of that Absolute Justice. They should be considered as student and not they're masters, the mass. So vox populi is not vox God, vox dei. But if the people they can be subservient to God they will be happy, that will be their benefit.

I'm not clear? What do you say? We must show our allegiance to the highest authority and to satisfy so many plurality that is not theism. They're all under māyā, they do not know what is good to them. The guardian knows what is the good of so many minor children. So to satisfy the child's mind that is not the high standard. To satisfy the mind of the guardian, that is high standard. We must search for the guidance of the Absolute Truth, Absolute, and not to satisfy by so many masses. To satisfy the masses that is demonic, and to be allegiant to the highest power, that is godly. Deva-śakti, daivi-sampada and aśura-sampada, in Gītā [16.3 & 4 & 5], property of two classes. Daivi-sampada is allegiance to the highest power, and aśura-sampada which is based on the popular opinion of the so many ignorant persons.

In Germany some gentleman told, "Mass is ignorance, monarchy is mad, and dictatorship is something."

In this way differentiated between different type of ruling, government. The mass is ignorant. Connotation decreases, denotation increases. So to satisfy the mass that is not a credit. Rather they should be advised to satisfy the one Absolute, and those that do not care for this, plurality, so many.

The Absolute Truth they want to satisfy, their position is higher than those who are seeking satisfaction of the plurality who are ignorant. Here I stop.

Devotee: ...temple, I had visited.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You visited?

Devotee: Yes, and that Deity has some special magic. Of many tīrthas I have been to, something about that Deity, is a very enchanting Deity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, what of that?

Devotee: They say that Deity came from Mahā-Viṣṇu Himself, was given...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahā-Viṣṇu, what is this? Where is Mahā-Viṣṇu? Where is Mahāprabhu? Very, very high.

Devotee: They say it was given to Ikṣvāku, and came down through the solar dynasty and was the Deity of Rāmacandra, and then was given to Vibhīṣaṇa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: London, Jaya Tīrtha Mahārāja centre?

Devotee: No, no, no. I was saying the Raṅganātha Deity, Mūrti.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Śrī Raṅganātha, in the South, on the Kāverī?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They say that Deity Raṅganātha has come from Mahā-Viṣṇu?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Raṅganātha is above Mahā-Viṣṇu. Mahā-Viṣṇu, that is at the root of the whole created world. Puruṣa-Avatāra, three Puruṣa-Avatāra, Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī [a.k.a Kāraṇodakaśāyī] is Mahā-Viṣṇu, then Garbhodakaśāyī and Kṣīrodakaśāyī. Three aspects, and all related to this created world. Mahā-Viṣṇu is in Brahma-saṁhitā you will find māyāvata, Who is at the support of the whole māyā, misconception. He's in charge of the whole misconceived area where the misguided jīva souls by misuse of their free will are wandering. He's in charge of the whole creation, Mahā-Viṣṇu. And Garbhodakaśāyī in charge of particular brahmāṇḍa, particular solar system or something. And Kṣīrodakaśāyī Who is present in every heart of every soul, individual. These three stages of Puruṣa-Avatāra They're in relativity of this created world. And above that, that Catur-vyūha, this Vaikuṇṭha Mūrti, there is in Vaikuṇṭha, Nārāyaṇa and with the twenty-four extended self that is in Vaikuṇṭha. And above, Rāmacandra, Ayodhyā. Superior to that is Dwārakā, then Mathurā, then Vṛndāvana Gokula. This is the way to understand development in the theistic world through rasa. Criterion is the rasa, ecstasy. The standard of measurement is ecstasy, sweetness, beauty, charm, love. By that standard we're to measure inferiority and superiority of the transcendental substance.

Devotee: So Mathurā rasa is higher than Dwārakā rasa, how is it higher? It seems very similar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mathurā rasa higher than?

Devotee: Dwārakā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dwārakā? Dwārakā is also mādhurya rasa but in a narrow sense, or sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, all in full in Vṛndāvana. Mādhurya rasa that is under law and scripture and society, mādhurya rasa, everything in their Dwārakā. But in Vṛndāvana above consideration of scripture and society, everything. The relation with Kṛṣṇa unbridled, not restricted by anything else, any scripture, or any social rules, or any other consideration. It is free to the fullest extent. Service does not care for any law or any social consideration. Service in the fullest extent where a servitor can engage herself in the fullest degree unbridled.

Highest intensity of attraction is found there. Kṛṣṇa is attractor, but the intensity of attraction is in its zenith in Vṛndāvana, in mādhurya rasa. And there is also gradation there, different camp in mādhurya rasa and the highest camp is the camp of Rādhārāṇī.

Devotee: Do the other sampradāyas that are existing today, do they have some potency for giving entrance into Ayodhyā, or entrance into Vaikuṇṭha?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, the Madhva sampradāya, the Rāmānuja sampradāya, they conceive, especially the Rāmānuja sampradāya conceive that Nārāyaṇa is the highest conception of the Absolute. But Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and other Purāṇas we find supports the view of Mahāprabhu what He has given that Svayaṁ Bhagavān, kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28], the highest conception of the Absolute is found only in the Lord of Vṛndāvana, because in consideration with the rasa, ecstasy, the degree of ecstasy. Akhila rasāmṛta mūrtiḥ. [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.142]

vaikuṇṭhāj janito varā madhu-purī tatrāpi rāsotsavād
vṛndāraṇyam udāra-pāṇi-ramaṇāt tatrāpi govardhanaḥ
rādhā-kuṇḍam ihāpi gokula-pateḥ premāmṛtāplāvanāt
kuryād asya virājato giri-taṭe sevāṁ vivekī na kaḥ

["The holy place known as Mathurā is spiritually superior to Vaikuṇṭha, the transcendental world, because the Lord appeared there. Superior to Mathurā-purī is the transcendental forest of Vṛndāvana because of Kṛṣṇa's rāsa-līlā pastimes. And superior to the forest of Vṛndāvana is Govardhana Hill, for it was raised by the divine hand of Śrī Kṛṣṇa and was the site of His various loving pastimes. And, above all, the super-excellent Śrī Rādhā-kuṇḍa stands supreme, for it is over-flooded with the ambrosial nectarean prema of the Lord of Gokula, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Where, then, is that intelligent person who is unwilling to serve this divine Rādhā-kuṇḍa, which is situated at the foot of Govardhana Hill?"] [Upadeśāmṛta, 9]

Rūpa Goswāmī, according to the direction of Mahāprabhu, Rūpa Goswāmī has given such conception in the development of the theistic absolute.

Devotee: I was reading that Śrī Caitanya-Śikṣāmṛta, he was talking about siddha-praṇālī and once I asked you about it. Is it necessary to take up that bhajana?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When you say, you pronounce siddha-praṇālī, then you should not find much encouragement to enquire into that. Because you're not siddha, so only cursory view, a distant view you may have there, but don't try to enter into. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread. It is siddha-praṇālī, not for the sādhaka. After one attains fulfilment in his life, then he may talk of all these things in details. Otherwise it will be like drinking poison. Warning is given in Bhāgavatam.

naitat samācarej jātu manasāpi hy anīśvaraḥ
vinaśyaty ācaran mauḍhyād yathā 'rudro 'dvijaṁ viṣam
[īśvarāṇāṁ vachaḥ satyaṁ, tathaivacharitaṁ kvachit
teṣāṁ yat svavacho yuktaṁ buddhimāṁs tat samācharet]

["One should never imitate the behaviour of great personalities. One who foolishly does so, even mentally, is doomed, just as one who imitates Lord Śiva drinking poison."] ["The instructions of the great personages are always true, but their conduct and their practices may not always be useful to the beginners. So the sober person will accept those practices that are backed by his words, understanding that in his higher stage he may do something which may not be useful to those of a lower stage. He has such spiritual power that what may be seen as a defect in the beginner, cannot harm him in any way. Therefore the fair minded beginners will accept those practices which are in consonance with his instructions, as being useful to their progress."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.33.30-1]

One who is not Mahādeva, Śiva, if he drinks poison...

83.01.07.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This hard truth, this stern truth, we're to face, we're to fight out, we're to solve. Practical life, physical, practical. Ke?

Devotee: Mother Naika.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But no news of Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā Prabhu?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No news Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The adverse circumstances with boldness and indifferently, but Bhāgavatam says he's your friend. Whom you think as your enemy, really he's your friend. That is the special instruction of Bhāgavatam. You welcome, and the undesirability will disappear very, very soon, very soon. Not only to tolerate indifferently, but to welcome as friend. Then in no time it will disappear. Ha, ha. What you say to be demon, that will turn into god. That is the key to success in our life.

Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Mahāprabhu says,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

With most humility, as you can command, and most forbearance, sahiṣṇunā. Amāninā, don't require any position, prestige. And at the same time you give prestige to one and all. With this attitude you go on with your cultivation of the Supreme Entity. This should be our attitude, and in no time you'll be successful. You'll give honour to all, but don't seek honour from anyone, not even from a dog. But give honour to everything, to tree, to insect, everything give their due, but don't demand. And be humble, that no opposition, you cannot be a party to any opposition. Still, any opposition comes you're to forbear patiently. This is the key to success, of the highest divinity, divine life. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. A man whose living in such a way he's living in the divine world, in other words. Gaura Hari. Gaura Sundar. Gaura Sundar. Can you feel? Bhargava Prabhu? Can you conjecture?

Bhargava: The instructions make my heart happy, your words.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Instructions? Happy? So you're a member of that soil. Ha, ha, ha. Of that happy soil. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhargava: Guru Mahārāja. It seems if one lives as a solitary sādhu or bābā in a rural scene one can live very simply. But when a sādhu takes up the preaching he has to establish Maṭhas, centres, then he's dealing with money.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But this should be the firm object of his life.

ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam
[rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāso, goptṛtve varaṇaṁ tathā.
ātma-nikṣepa kārpaṇye, ṣaḍ-vidhā śaraṇāgatiḥ
evaṁ paryyāyataś cāsminn, ekaikādhyāya-saṅgrahaḥ]

[The six limbs of surrender are as follows: 1 - To accept everything favourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 2 - To reject everything unfavourable for devotion to Kṛṣṇa. 3 - To be confident that Kṛṣṇa will grant His protection. 4 - To embrace Kṛṣṇa's guardianship. 5 - To offer oneself unto Him. 6 - To consider oneself lowly and bereft."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.100]

When you're to work out these principles in details, you're to do many things. You're to go to the market to feed the Vaiṣṇava, all these things, details are there. So not much money making, and if you can, you can utilise all other's money in such flow they'll be benefited. This benefit - one cannot swallow the whole thing at once. But in order to draw them gradually to this path, some sort of sukṛti without their consciousness to be injected to them. For that purpose all these things are necessary.

Prana yatra yavata [?] You can engage some energy from some person, prana, life energy. Artha, one cannot give his life energy, he can give some money, that is also a form of energy. Dhīra, one can give suggestion, use his intelligence, his scholarship, for the service of such, dhīra. And vācaḥ, and one can also use his tongue for the service of all these things. They get some small salary, and in future they'll be drawn towards this truth, towards the main current. To help them all these things are necessary.

Once our Guru Mahārāja told to his disciples in the beginning when he started his Maṭha. "Give me one lākh of paisa." Say penny. "One lākh of penny I want. Collect it."

Then once at Bagh Bazaar Maṭha one gentleman donated three lākhs of rupees, for the construction of the Calcutta Bagh Bazaar Maṭha. Then one of his disciples told him, "Prabhu, master, you asked us to collect one lākh of paisa. But you've got three lākhs of rupees now."

Then Guru Mahārāja answered. "What I told, I've not got this. One lākh of paisa means from one lākh of people. I wanted to make sukṛti to one lākh of people. They'll give one paisa, one paisa, in this way I told. The sukṛti will be spread to the heart of one lākh of people, that I wanted. Not that one gentleman will give one crore, not that."

So to distribute this sort of idea in the groundwork requires that we shall get money, we shall ask someone to lend his energy, in this way, that way, words, intelligence, labour, and money. That means that, to spread this creed to the world for the help of others. All of a sudden one cannot come, like you, to give up everything and to hear such words. This position is also to be acquired, and gradually that is done. First sukṛti, jñāta-sukṛti, then śraddhā, then sādhu-saṅga. Then hearing and preaching all these things, gradual process. Ānukūlyasya saṅkalpaḥ, prātikūlya-vivarjjanam. Then surrendering, that is a part of surrendering ones own self.

Bhargava: Once the organisation was established and a constant cash flow had to come in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The organisation must be a living one. That must be wedded to the ideal, may not be a mechanical organisation. The organisation must be a living organisation. But the ideal must be, must have the whole whole within. This body, everything is there, but the life must be. Otherwise the eye, the ear, everything can be utilised if there's life, otherwise a dead body. So organisation is all right, it can help greatly to many of the people, but the life must be there, not mechanical things. The life is drawn, the spirit is drawn, as if it's a machine...

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

Our Guru Mahārāja gave his explanation for his engagement in so many gorgeous, splendid activities. That is to spread the credit of divine love. This aiśvarya, awe, reverence, splendour, this is necessary for the public, there is grandeur. The grandeur generally attracts persons, and when they're attracted by the grandeur, just like bait. To catch the fish they put some bait, and the fish come together and then catch them. Just as trapping, to catch the elephants or tigers, some sort of trap is arranged, and when they come they're caught. So grandeur attracts the public, and when after they're invited, in that meeting we try to spread the greatness of the love and the affection. By money we attract, by grandeur we attract, and we deal affection, love divine. For that purpose we shall utilise this. Aiśvarya, Nārāyaṇa, in Vaikuṇṭha. Then we're to pass to Goloka, through aiśvarya, through Vaikuṇṭha. Passing through the plane of grandeur, then we go to see the land peaceful, village nature civilisation, plain living, high thinking. Before that we have to cross Vaikuṇṭha, the land of grandeur, awe, reverence, majesty. Then crossing that if we can come to homely life, village life, we can understand the dignity of that plain living.

Otherwise, ordinary public thinks plain living as poverty. "He's a poor man, he's living hand to mouth, in this way, in a poor way. But a rich man he comes to live a forest life, so there must be something in this forest, plain life. He's left his grandeur, his splendour, and why has he come to live in the plain life in the forest, tapovan?"

This is high. So sometimes this is necessary, this money making, this splendour, all these things.

So brāhmaṇas are the head, and below them the kṣatriyas, the king section, the kṣatriya. The valour, the organiser, the fighter, the forceful, the power. Then above there is the brāhmaṇaic section, the scholars, the spiritual cultured people, above the kṣatriya.

In India, previously, the custom was a brāhmaṇa was walking, a kṣatriya is driving by that way, by the elephant, he must come down and give his honour to the brāhmaṇa. Then he'll pass him something, then he'll go. The vaiśya, a rich, wealthy man, he's also passing, and whenever he finds a brāhmaṇa he must get down from his carriage and give some honour to the brāhmaṇa. And with his permission he may again go.

That spiritual wealth is given honour to the wealth of this material, first. First knowledge, then valour, then finance, then ordinary labour. Four sections, as in army also, the various departments. The horse rider, the walking on foot, then on horse, on elephant, on the chariot, previously. Now the tank, and the rocket is there, and the soldier, the navy, the air force.

So a march from nescience to science, from ignorance to knowledge, from matter to spirit. A march of a nation. In the forefront, who have got affinity for some sort of culture about the spirit, about soul, spirit, God, in the forefront of the nation. And the next, the organiser, the powerful, the strength there. And then in the third section the financier, one who can collect money what is necessary for divine lives in helping different sorts of - with clothing with food, all these things. And the last of all the general labour, wherever they may be used, by the financier, by the kṣatriya, by the brāhmaṇa. In other words they do that, free worker. In this way varṇāśrama, brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra. A nation is marching from ignorance to spiritual light. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Kula-dharmāḥ sanātanāḥ [1.39] In Gītā we find this arrangement is eternally beneficial, sanātanāḥ.

cātur-varṇyaṁ mayā sṛṣṭaṁ, guṇa-karma-vibhāgaśaḥ
tasya kartāram api māṁ, viddhy akartāram avyayam

["According to the three modes of material nature and the work associated with them, the four divisions of human society are created by Me (Kṛṣṇa). And although I am the creator of this system, you should know that I am yet the nondoer, being unchangeable."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.13]

"I have done not as a matter of grace, but according to their intrinsic capacity, their merit. I've arranged in such a way, for their facility."

But Bhāgavata-dharmāḥ is something else. Bhāgavata-dharmāḥ is this, mentioned, wherever one may be, a śūdra may go independently without taking the position of a kṣatriya and a brāhmaṇa, direct recruitment to Vaiṣṇava. Only sukṛti, śraddhā, sādhu-saṅga. Not this general couching is necessary. This is mass movement, varṇāśrama. And these particular cases are Vaiṣṇavas. Wherever they've acquired some faith and some affection in Lord, by his previous life serving any Vaiṣṇava, he's, with suggestion he may go, avoiding this varṇāśrama, he may go straight to Vaikuṇṭha or Goloka. This is Bhāgavata-dharmāḥ. He may be a brāhmaṇa.

He says, "I'm not a brāhmaṇa, not a kṣatriya, not a vaiśya, not a śūdra. Neither a sannyāsī, neither a vānaprastha, neither a gṛhastha, neither a brahmacārī. I'm the servant of the servant of the servant of the Lord."

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro
nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā
kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

The special group, they're guided by special principle. Wherever they may be, only catching the thread of affection towards the Lord, they start their life. Bhāgavata-dharmāḥ, path of devotion, eliminating that karma, and jñāna, yoga, all these things. And Gītā has connected to Bhāgavata-dharmāḥ all this varṇāśrama, the brāhmaṇa, the yogī, the karmī, they're incomplete. They're only marching towards in a form, a mass march. But anyone specially qualified they'll be taken to Bhāgavata School, only through devotion. Everyone is qualified if they've got some sort of affection towards the Lord. He may be a man, he may be a beast, a tree also may be benefited, unconsciously. Now he's become a tree by the result of his previous karma, but within that some affection for the Universal Absolute. That is a separate thing, attraction, no calculation, yukti, or no position. They aspire after nothing but attraction. They don't know why they're attracted, but feel some unconditional attraction. Something like blind faith, that attracts them, by the way of surrender. Surrendering, that must be there, through faith only.

And in the varṇāśrama system there's some, for the masses, some sort of calculation is there, consideration is there. General march, mass march. And these are all particular cases, not mass, but they're also collected together, then they form a group. When the mass march of the ignorant towards the knowledge, varṇāśrama will be befitting for them.

And this is, our Prabhupāda, Guru Mahārāja, he tried to organise _____ [?] varṇāśrama against daiva varṇāśrama, they gave sacred thread to those devotees. This is daiva varṇāśrama, not this body varṇāśrama, this sattva-guṇa varṇāśrama, but this nirguṇa. But direct approach, that is also classification, he wanted to make it. Otherwise anyone and everyone, to save from the sahajiyā section, from the imitating section, he wanted to introduce a new form of varṇāśrama, named daiva varṇāśrama, in this special group. To make arrangement of similar devotees together, and give them engagement. Some financier, some organiser, some dictator, in this way. The preacher of the brāhmaṇas, then so many engineers, and labourers, they're all engaged, moneyed men also. Let them have some sort of, and they'll get direct sukṛti towards the Lord, and not indirect, through Brahmaloka, Virajā, Vaikuṇṭha, to Kṛṣṇa, not that, direct. The direct march, by special organisation, by special train, not stopping at every station.

Something like that he wanted to introduce, this daiva varṇāśrama - so sacred thread amongst them.

"At least, you're to think you're to cross the standard of a brāhmaṇa, and then to go. Otherwise you'll become sahajiyā, the imitationist. You'll imitate the higher Vaiṣṇava without that realisation, and that will be bad to you and to others also."

This we're to understand and feel within us. All must be engaged in the service, and that ideal must be there in the organisation. As a brāhmaṇa one may wear sacred thread, and without the nature of a brāhmaṇa he's nothing. By dress one cannot be a soldier, must have some training, some life of a soldier, then the dress of a soldier that will be beneficial. But the dress of a soldier, and the man within is not a fighting one, that won't be helpful to him or to others also, in such way.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. But this is more intricate, it seems to be? Bhargava Prabhu?

Bhargava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Varṇāśrama and Bhāgavata dharma.

Bhāgavata dharma, "eho bāhya, eho bāhya." [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.59]

In Rāmānanda Rāya discourse you'll find. Where from it begins? From varṇāśrama. Then Kṛṣṇa karmārpaṇa, then karma-tyāga, then jñāna-miśrā-bhakti. All these varṇāśrama.

"Eho bāhya." Mahāprabhu says. "Superficial, superficial, superficial."

"Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. The faith, independent of energy and knowledge, faith, attraction towards Kṛṣṇa."

"Yes. It begins here. Here Bhāgavata dharma begins. May be a yogī, may be a jñānī, may be a karmī, in connection with God, but more of the mundane, and less of spiritual." And here Mahāprabhu says, "Here I give recognition, the bhakti proper, śuddha-bhakti, not mixed with grandeur, the scholarship, or financial talent, nothing else, pure devotion. Eho bāhya āge kaha āra. Now it begins."

Jñāna-śūnya means something like blind faith. Not blind, of course, but faith independent of scholarship and valour. There He gave recognition.

"This is pure devotional life. Go further. And before that, karma-miśrā, jñāna-miśrā. Eho bāhya āge kaha āra. Go further, go further, go deeper, go deeper." And came to pure devotion, "Yes, here it begins. We cannot avoid this to be superficial. Begin from here, go, march towards."

In Rāmānanda-saṁvāda...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhargava: Mahārāja. How can one learn how to take direction from the Lord in the heart?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How can one...?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Paramātmā, Supersoul?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Supersoul. What do you say?

Bhargava: How can one learn to listen, to hear the Paramātmā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Paramātmā may be an inner voice. Ātmā is there and besides that Paramātmā, the representation of the Lord is there. And one who has got clear introspection, can catch the dictation of his conscience, and also the divine impression, that is Paramātmā, coming. When we can make ourselves independent of the worries of this life, we may be able to catch the direction of the inner voice of Paramātmā within us. "That He asked me to do this, not to do that." We can catch that inner advice within.

Just as all may not catch the direction of his own reason. Whimsically they do this and that, no decision, no deliberation. Whimsically as a servant of his own whim, his own impulse, he acts. And sober man he finds decision in him and does accordingly. So further sober persons of higher realisation they can read what is the inspiration of the Supreme for him to work.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Bhargava: Mahārāja. If someone is brought up in a culture where he does not know the śāstras, can he also learn to hear Paramātmā? Like one Christian man I met...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Without study of any scripture one can have dictate, catch dictation of Paramātmā. It is possible, if he's not internally very busy with mundane affairs. His heart, his mind, is very calm, and he's full of searching of higher existence, he may come to catch the dictation of Paramātmā.

The yogīs, they're after search of Paramātmā, the regulator of everything, all pervading spirit, the finest of the fine, Paramātmā. He's everywhere and trying to regulate everything, that is Paramātmā. And who's controlling from outside that is Brahman. And who has designed and destined He's Bhagavān.

Bhargava: Is it good for the bhakta to take some time in the day and silently meditate, trying to hear the Lord in the heart?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that you'll find in Bhagavad-gītā, how, and what chance he'll try to find out Paramātmā within him, it has been recommended. But after all this said,

"But who has got, wherever he may be, but when he gets proper connection of Mine, he's to be considered superior."

Suppose to become a doctor that is necessary. So one after some primary education he takes admission into medical school. And one after higher education takes admission into medical school. He may be able to be more efficient, but the medical degree, this man after passing primary education he takes admission in the medical school. And one with some higher education, then again enters into medical or technical school, it does not mean that one with higher education if he enters into any technical school he'll hold the higher position in the medical examination. That is not guaranteed. Am I clear, no?

Bhargava: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is optional. The knowledge of Paramātmā, knowledge of Brahman, that is something optional. But this is compulsory, that we must come at last to the bhakti school. And from the beginning they're going on in the bhakti school, devotional school, śuddha-bhakta, with śaraṇāgati. And they, after some side education, they're again coming and taking admission into the devotional school. These are up to subtle degree, and this is eternal. Independently the bhakti school is independent. And they, after having some time passing in other education, again coming to take admission and going on in that school.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prabhupāda was giving dictation to the commentary of Caitanya-Bhāgavata or something. Then some sort of money transaction, or Maṭha affairs are coming and interrupting him. He's compelled to give attention to some other topics than his dictation in the commentary of Caitanya- Bhāgavata.

Then some told that, "Why they come to disturb Prabhupāda when he's engaged in such superior service, as dictating commentary to a particular book? And they're coming and disturbing with these Maṭha affairs, management affairs."

Then another told, "The whole responsibility to manage the family of Kṛṣṇa is on the head of Rādhārāṇī."

Ha, ha. Major-domo, in English, major-domo, the leader of the house management.

So that function is not a negligent one. She's to look after everything in the family of Kṛṣṇa. Whole responsibility is with Her. So the scholarly aspect of the service, of the particular section, that is not the highest. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, every department is valuable for service. Nothing is less important. Hare Kṛṣṇa. According to the need of Kṛṣṇa, the degree, of the necessity of Kṛṣṇa, the valuation to be attached. What is His immediate want, immediate demand, we must give our best attention to that, accordingly. The importance, the value of the activity will be given to the necessity, the immediate demand of the Supreme Lord, whatever it may be. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. Automatic, spontaneous. Devotion is reflex action. What is reflex action? ____ [?] Voluntary, and another?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Involuntary.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Involuntary, so just as within our body the digestion, the heart's activity, we're not conscious, that is not voluntary? But what is that? Reflex action or something.

Devotee: Second nature?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But that has got some technical word.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Autotomic.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That without our consciousness, our voluntary will, so many things are working underground, intuitively.

83.01.07.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So superior bhakti is like that, automatic.

Devotee: Spontaneous?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sometimes we're not conscious of the fact, it's going unconsciously. We cannot but do that, we can't avoid that. Automatically that is being done. There is a stage of such.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. You're living alone in that house?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Don't find any uneasiness?

Devotee: No. I'm all right.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. Śrīla A.C. Bhaktivedānta, in the last days, he said we should establish varṇāśrama. But in his books he's telling it's not possible in Kali-yuga to establish varṇāśrama. So is he meaning this daiva varṇāśrama, or some varṇāśrama arrangement within the society, or is it...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Varṇāśrama, that some sort of organisation to help the devotional people. But nothing can be perfect in this mundane world. He saw we can attain as much as possible. But this mundane world is world of misconception. The environment is always doing some mischief, whatever we do to that. But still, we must try in different ways, how it is.

We should form a military where there should not be any revolt. But sometimes it cannot be avoided. In a branch there may be revolt. And we shall try our best to avoid all sorts of revolt and take precaution that an upheaval may not come in the military, in the police system. But still sometimes we're under the painful necessity to find that. So we shall try our best to find an organisation to help the devotional life. But sometimes it becomes topsy turvy. The enervating plane makes weak and they decay.

yadu-pateḥ kva gatā mathurā-purī, raghu-pateḥ kva gatottara-kośalā iti vicintya kuruṣva manaḥ sthiraṁ, na sad idaṁ jagad ity avadhāraya

["Where has the Mathurā-purī of Yadupati gone? Where has the Northern Kośalā of Raghupati gone? By reflection, make the mind steady, thinking, 'This universe is not eternal.' "]

[Within Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.3, purport]

Rūpa Goswāmī sent a letter to Sanātana Goswāmī. "How is that Dvārakā which was once controlled by Kṛṣṇa? Such a grand city, full of all perfect things. And where is that Ayodhyā, the capitol of Rāmacandra, Who was so powerful, so enduring, so religious? Where are They?"

So nothing can be perfect here, always bitten by the mischievous infection of the mortal misconception. Still we shall try as much as possible.

[nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate]
svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt

["Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

Even a very little is done for such cause, that gets a wonderful help to the people, of wonderful effect. Saves us from grave danger, a very small can save us from grave danger. So any attempt, however little benefit it may fetch, that is desirable, because very, very valuable in our eternal life. The path of our eternal life, this sort of passage is highly valuable. So shall try any way to help the people. No guarantee that whatever I shall do that will remain permanent, no guarantee.

yadā yadā hi dharmasya, glānir bhavati bhārata
[abhyutthānam adharmasya, tadātmānaṁ sṛjāmy aham]

["O Bhārata, whenever there is a decline of religion and an uprising of irreligion, I personally appear, like a being born in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.7]

Kṛṣṇa says to Arjuna, "What I say to you that was said by Me to Manu."

imaṁ vivasvate yogaṁ, proktavān aham avyayam
[vivasvān manave prāha, manur ikṣvākave' bravīt]

[The Supreme Lord said: "Previously I instructed the sun-god Sūrya (Vivasvān) in this imperishable scientific knowledge, which is achieved by selfless action. Sūrya, the presiding deity of the sun, delivered it to his son Vaivasvata Manu, exactly as he had heard it from Me. Thereafter, Manu instructed the same knowledge to his son Ikṣvāku."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.1]

"I did say this to Manu previously."

[evaṁ paramparā-prāptam, imaṁ rājarṣayo viduḥ]
sa kāleneha mahatā, yogo naṣṭaḥ parantapa

["O conqueror of the enemy, in this way, the saintly kings such as Nimi, Janaka, and others, learned this path of knowledge through divine succession. From the beginning of time, I am giving My tidings to others, transmitting the truth that I am the goal through this system of disciplic succession, generation after generation. Presently, due to the influence of this material world and the passage of time, the current is damaged, and this teaching appears to be almost completely lost."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.2]

"But by the waves of this mundane energy that has been dispersed, in course of time, finished. Again I'm saying it to you."

The adverse environment is always hitting, disturbing the thing. Still, the high, so persons they try their best to bring that thing to heal the disease of the locality, local people. Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Mahārāja. In Śrī Caitanya-śikṣāmṛta, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he recommends that when a devotee rises in the morning he should plan his day, materially and spiritually. Is that a time for consulting Paramātmā, or trying to? Is that a good time? Is that part of that process?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: As soon as he'll rise from his bed he'll do what?

Devotee: Plan his day, materially and spiritually, what he will do.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To make a program?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is in the lower position, one should do when living an individual life. With the help of the scripture he's progressing in his life, he'll try to do. But when he gets sat-saṅga then he'll leave himself at the disposal of the higher agent. Whatever he'll say he'll do. He will order, he will obey. That is higher form of life. And when he's not got such high life, that constant connection with the devotee of Kṛṣṇa, the agent of the divinity, with the help of the scripture he'll try to chalk out his program.

"That today I shall do this much material and this much spiritual. I must do."

That will be a good way for him, individual case, an independent life. But when one has got connection with sādhu, Guru, and has got that high fortune to do along with them in an organisation, he'll have no other business but only to look, like the cātaka bird to the sky. "What order from Vaikuṇṭha is coming to me through my master? And I shall do that. Whatever order, dictation is coming from the land of Kṛṣṇa, cent percent I shall devote myself for that." That will be his position.

And for the beginner what you say, that is kaniṣṭha adhikāra. And this is madhyama adhikāra, the second stage, intermediate stage, to leave the master. That is to be in direct connection with the spiritual dictation. Until and unless he can himself catch that vibration of the spiritual world, he'll put himself under an expert who can catch the spiritual vibration. Who can read the spiritual wave.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.
Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: Mahārāja. When Swāmī Mahārāja was here he had that power to uplift my consciousness. And then when he disappeared my consciousness fell down again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is natural. With powerful dainyam when he was living you were getting some influence thereby. And when that is taken away, physically, you're in dearth of that association.

['duḥkha-madhye kona duḥkha haya gurutara?']
'kṛṣṇa-bhakta-viraha vinā duḥkha nāhi dekhi para'

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked, "Of all kinds of distress, what is the most painful?" Śrī Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Apart from separation from the devotee of Kṛṣṇa, I know of no unbearable unhappiness."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.248]

In Rāmānanda's talk, there it is mentioned. What is the greatest loss in ones life, to mourn? If one is disconnected with the sādhu, Vaiṣṇava, the devotee of Kṛṣṇa. If we lose his company, that loss is reckoned to be the greatest, highest loss. The well wisher, the guardian departed. I'm helpless. Who'll take care of me, independent of mine, good thinking for myself? The guardian went away. I'm helpless, like an ox. Guru departed, I'm like an ox, none to take care of me, of my vitality.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. But by following the vāṇī, by following the instructions of that departed sādhu, one can continue his relationship, and feel that relationship?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. To certain extent. When he's living, then if I commit some mistake he can detect. "O, I told this, and you have mistaken it for that." That is alive there. But in his absence I may be reverted to conceive what he has spoken in my own way. I'm helpless there. Living scripture. Scripture is passive, passively giving something to me, not actively, but the saint, actively. If I commit fault he'll at once come and detect. "O, you're committing fault here." Living scripture is saint, more helpful. And he'll help to make me understand the real meaning of the scriptures. I may not be able to catch the real purpose of the scriptures, sometimes, in many places. He will help more. "The meaning is not this, the meaning is that." He'll point out.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.
Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. In collecting funds, sometimes it's a cheating process, on the external, in the material calculation it's a cheating process. So if someone is trying to be brāhmaṇa, one of the qualities is truthfulness. So if he's disturbed too much by this collecting, this kind of...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We must be sure what we're collecting that is being strictly utilised. That is the first thing. The energy what I'm taking to a particular place, that is being fully realised, for the nirguṇa. If that is fully utilised for nirguṇa, whatever I do wrong here in the miscalculation world, that will be amply compensated. But if it's not utilised then I shall be a robber. It depends on that, on the one side.

Another side, if by robbing I'm caught and great discredit comes to the mission, that will spoil the whole thing. That caution must be maintained there when doing that thing. And there must be this consciousness all along in me, that I'm doing benefit to that person. Just as a guardian swallows the medicine to a boy, knowing fully well that this will do some good to him, without his notice. So I'm taking his energy, cleverly, without his notice, and supplying it to the place, and it will be fully utilised and he'll get the benefit. This guarantee must be there, all these things.

And at the same time, if these worldly immoral things are exposed, then it will cause a greater discredit to the mission. And then also, prātikūlya, the opposite things should be done by me. So all these risks must be calculated and done. Then fundamentally that is not bad, because everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa. He's thinking, "It's mine." If I can take independent of him by stealing his property and properly utilise for Kṛṣṇa he'll be benefited unconsciously. He may not know but he'll be benefited. If it's really utilised for the service of Kṛṣṇa he'll get sukṛti. Ajñāta-sukṛti, unconscious accumulation of any primary devotion, that sukṛti. What is done, the man may not know, without his notice something is done, taking his energy to devote in the service of Kṛṣṇa. These things should be considered and should be done. On principle it is not bad, but the adjustment should be made in such a way that may not bring ill fame to the mission. And also it must be utilised, guaranteed, that it will be used for the purpose of the service of Kṛṣṇa, not for any other fashion, in the name of Kṛṣṇa. Both sides should be calculated, and consulted, and given proper consideration. You can't follow?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes, I can follow. So truth is a higher truth? It's not some mundane calculation truth.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. The most important that what I shall do that must be utilised properly. And the next thing, that I'm going to do some benefit to a particular person. And the process, generally it cannot be appreciated by the public. But if it is known, that will be dishonour to the mission, and disservice to the credit of the mission. All these things should be calculated.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. When one makes his decision to do this activity, how does he know whether this is coming from Supersoul, Paramātmā, or the mind?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say? Eh?

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's saying, when one makes a decision...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How does he know that there is guarantee that it will be utilised fully?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No. He's wondering, see, he's independently thinking to do something. How does he distinguish if it is coming from the mind, or from Supersoul, from Paramātmā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then he's to understand what is mind, and what is soul. All these things we need to be differentiate and understand in their proper position. How do we understand this is eye, this is ear? So also we're to understand what is mind, and what are the constituents of the mind. And what is intelligence, deliberation? And crossing that, what is soul? It is described in so many scriptures, that this is the symptom of soul's existence, soul's nature. This is what is judgement faculty. This is what is mind. All these have been described there. And we're to follow that and we're to understand, we're to feel what is what. And what comes from mind, and what comes from intelligence, we can understand.

And my mind says, "It is very good, you take it." And the reason will say, "No, you don't take, it will produce this disease in you. Don't take it." The differentiation between mind and judgement, reason.

So also there are symptoms of what is soul, and what is this, it is there. We're to try to understand, read, feel. But generally by doing niṣkāma, that is selfish activities, our internal position becomes more clear and it is easy to understand them. So much rubbish is there, and if we can clear some rubbish then it's possible for us to see what is what. So niṣkāma, so many selfish desires, prejudices, they're covering my mental system, subtle system of life in such a way that we're not able to detect what is what there.

But there is possibility of understanding them clearly, by differentiation. This is mind, this is kāma, lust, this is anger, this is greed, this is jealousy. In this way we can analyse and detect within us. It is possible. Kāma, krodha, lobha, moha, mada, mātsarya, within mind. And then, this is reason, this is conscience. This possibility is there.

Just as a doctor - I do not know my own body, but a doctor, he knows what is where in my body. And he can say that 'these sort of disease are in your body.' But you'll not know that. So such knowledge is possible, and the doctor has to learn by reading the books of the past experienced persons.

So also there, it is possible to understand what is what within the mental body.

Now I want to retire. I shall have to go.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Śrī Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!
Śrīpad A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!
Bhakta-vṛnda kī jaya!

[27:00 - 28:10 ?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, devotion devoid of knowledge. That blind faith, something like blind faith in the Supreme Authority.

Yaśodā is taking feet dust of some saint and putting it on the head of her son Kṛṣṇa. She's asking the saint, as if, "Make some blessing. O, saint, please bless that my son may live long."

Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. If anyone says, "Yaśodā, your son is not an ordinary child. He's Supreme and He's got great power, infinite knowledge. He can do anything."

"No, no, no. Don't say that to me. I don't like all these _____ [?] My son, my child. These are big things you're saying. How can He be so big? And his mother, myself, I'm an ordinary woman. My child, how can he be so big? No, no. He's my child, a little wicked child you may say, a little wicked."

Ha, ha. And there is peace. But where there's knowledge there's disturbance. Where there's calculation there's apprehension. And where the kingdom of faith, the kingdom of peace. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Mahārāja. Can I ask a personal question?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Question? Yes.

Devotee: I hope I'm not too personal. But I was going to ask, at any time in your life, were you on intellectual plane, and then moved to the plane of bhakti? Or your whole life you were into bhakti?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When I began my study in college, after passing matric standard, at that time I came to some, I had some association with some intellectual students. And also I was reading the logic and other things, empirical deductive, all these. I remember at that time my faith in God was disturbed for some time. And during that time I thought, what should I do then, if supposing there's no God? How to go on with this life? What activity should we take then? I thought, as much as possible I shall try to live for others, helping others, in any way I shall do.

But again, when I read in the philosophy in B.A. standard, in Hegel's philosophy, then Descartes, Martineau, Mill, Hume, all these things, gradually, intellectually, I regained my faith in God. It is not impossible. The other argumentative parties are also there. They say it is possible God may exist. So that removed my temporary disbelieving. _____ [?]

But after a year a great evolution came in me, when I was a fourth year student. Very slight point.

One boy talking with me he told, "That my father was a gentleman of this type."

I at once opposed. What do you say? Your father as a gentleman? This is not a happy remark, your father, as gentleman, in the third person. He was your dear father, and you say he was a gentleman of this type.

He told, "Yes, of course, I should not mention in that way. But really it is so. In this life I have come as his son. And in next life where I shall go I don't know. And in previous life also where I was I also don't know. So for the time being I was his son and he was my father. A gentleman like relation but not permanent." He told like that. But he did not talk much.

This remark pierced into my heart and I began to think, what is this? It is true. Then, where I was, and where I shall have to go? In the relativity of infinite I'm living. No position. No shelter. How am I guided? My future is uncertain. What to do?

This was so much intense that I lost myself in this. The test, the graduation examination is a few months away, I can't give my attention to the study. My friends they come and press me to read the books. I can't concentrate there. In this way. _____ [?]

And at that time, that very boy gave me one book _____ [?] Śrī Caitanyadeva. I got His life and Teachings. It was just like nectar to me, and this converted me to this side.

Before that also I was a student of Bhagavad-gītā, and Bhāgavatam. My family was engaged in that, in the discussion and reading of the śāstra of different types, always going on in our house talk. A big family, about fifty members maybe in the family. My father had four brothers. And my eldest uncle he had five children, all grown up, twenty years more than me. And so many ladies also. So house full. And mostly all Sanskrit scholars. So I was born and brought up in a big paṇḍita family, scholar's family, Sanskrit, etc. Purāṇa, Bhāgavatam, Gītā, _____ [?] Different types of culture there.

But anyhow, this Life and Teachings of Caitanya saved me, and I drank it, as with full belly I was converted from then. A great change in my life. And I was at that time twenty two or three years of age.

I did much penances also, did not eat more, sleeping, no eating. No rain, no winter, no summer. Everything, not much value for anything, in this way I passed. And used to take ____ [?] also, sometimes cow dung. Ha, ha, ha. Sometimes the bitter leaves of neem, to control the tongue. All these things. Sometimes this prāṇāyāma yoga. Many things I did at that time.

Then gradually my father left us, and the burden of the family came on my head. And gradually then again went to join the law classes. After one year, then the non-cooperation movement came of Gandhi. I left college and joined them, nineteen twenty one. Then three years passed in that non-cooperation movement. Then after matriculation I joined. My mother also died.

Then I joined Gauḍīya Maṭha. Three brothers, one brother at service, and other two brothers were students. Some property there was, and they were not in poverty. Anyhow I left everything and joined Gauḍīya Maṭha, nineteen twenty seven. Nineteen twenty six, August, I came in connection with Gauḍīya Maṭha, and nineteen twenty seven _____ [?] I joined Gauḍīya Maṭha, after six months or so. From then I'm here.

First I was posted near Kurukṣetra, Delhi, northern, towards Madras side, a year. Then Bombay side, and then all India preacher. And there was a proposal, suggestion of Guru Mahārāja to go to the west.

I told, you'll have to spend much money, but I won't be able to show any progress of work, because I can't follow their intonation.

Still you can mark, if you say something I can't follow. What is this, what is this? I say. Ha, ha.

So I told him, I've got some defects, I can't understand the intonation. And at the same time I've not a mind, a nature, to mix with anyone and everyone. So I won't be able to show any progress of work there. If you order, then I must have to go.

But Guru Mahārāja sent someone else. The Founder of Gauḍīya Saṅga, Bhakti Saranga Goswāmī, who in England gave Hari-Nāma to one lady and her name was Vinod Vani. And she established on her own a centre of Gauḍīya Maṭha. And still it is there, and Gauḍīya Maṭha is there, under the supervision of Bagh Bazaar Maṭh. Vinod Vani Gauḍīya Maṭha, in London, Sabhā.

Devotee: One of your disciples, Dāsānudāsa, he met one lady who was...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dāsānudāsa?

Devotee: Yes. In Santa Cruz, you gave him second initiation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whom?

Devotee: Dāsānudāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Myself?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, I don't remember.

Devotee: And his wife you've given initiation. I think you've given him second initiation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Myself?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First initiation?

Devotee: Prabhupāda I think.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: O, second initiation from me?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Dāsānudāsa?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's an Englishman?

Devotee: No, he's American. He's working with computers, he's a computer consultant. He told me one story, he met one lady who during World War Two, she was living in Germany. As little girl she said German Nazi government established experimental varṇāśrama community in Germany. Have you ever heard of this? They imported brāhmaṇas from Śrī Raṅgam and had experimental varṇāśrama community in Germany.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't know about that.

83.01.10.B_83.01.11.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...It is infinite. We know that is infinite. Being finite our aspiration is for infinite, so not easily to be satisfied. But as much as I can get, that is enough, but that must be of good type. Our prayer should be that what I shall acquire, what I shall get, earn, that may be of good type. That should be our object always, to associate with goodness, and not bad, not reactionary thing. That is also reactionary, but in reaction that brings good thing, good result, by serving. Serving the truth. Serving means serving the high. And by association with the high, that colour, that influence comes to me and I'm purified. So we shall always try to associate with higher existence, and that cannot be without serving tendency. We can enjoy things of lower type, but if we take the help of service we can associate with higher truth, higher things. And as a reaction we'll get something higher and be purified. Do you follow?

If we're in the mood of enjoyment then we cannot but associate with lower things which I can control and enjoy. But if I'm open to service, then I can get chance of association of the higher thing. And doing something for that, the reaction that comes purifies me, elevate me. By service we grow, by enjoyment we die. And by renunciation we go to disappear, to nothing. Extreme renunciation of the environment, it means to be alone, cut off from all association, to be one, so to be in deep slumber. If I awake then I must come to reject something, or renunciation is not complete. So complete renunciation it is sinful, cut off with all the environment, that is alone, that is cypher, like slumber, deep sleep, renunciation. The life of a servant is a golden life, thriving always, and progressing in the pure and purer world. A scientific understanding.

Devotee: The bhakta who has material desires mixed with bhakti, he's still on superior platform to a pure jñānī? The bhakta who has mixed desires, to enjoy and to serve, he's on superior platform to the renunciate?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, because he may have chance. And the renunciate, whose possessed with that ghost of renunciation, his future finished. And he's in the enjoyment and service, mixed, one day this bad element may go and the good element may thrive, and he'll be saved. So, ei du'yera madhye viṣayī tabu bhāla, māyāvādī saṅga nāhi māgi kona kāla

["The company of ordinary persons, misguided souls in the ordinary street, is somewhat better than the company and influence of the so-called scholars."] [The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, Śaraṇāgati, p 31]

Māyāvādī and viṣayī, renunciationist and exploitationist, between the two the exploitation position is better. Because, here we're endowed with some personality, and so many persons, good, bad, are coming. If I can meet a saint and I may elevate my position, there is chance. But when I go to renunciation, to slumber, the whole chance is finished. Māyāvādī saṅga nāhi māgi kona kāla. Viṣayī tabu bhāla. It is mentioned in the scriptures. Bhoga, tyāga, bhoga is better than tyāga, apparently. Why? In the bhoga we retain our individuality. And there is possibility that I shall come in connection with some sādhu and then I may be transformed. But in tyāga, they think that they're very - they boast their higher position than these exploitationists, and ultimately they enter into some black, dark cave, and not to be coming back again. This man has possibility in his future, but that man he destroys his future also. So this man, apparently though lower, but his future prospect may make him good.

Bhogi tyagi bolche padai bolche [?] _____ [?] Rāmānanda Rāya.

mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāṅ duṅhāra gati?'
'sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti'

["And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?" Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked.] [Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept bodies like those of trees. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

Some aspiring after enjoyment, and some aspiring after liberation. What is the ultimate result of those? 'Sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti'. Those that want liberation, their future is sthāvara, like Himālaya, becomes a Himālaya, or a banyan tree. For long, long time sleeping. If in deep slumber the body may be that of Himālaya, or Alps, does not matter, sthāvara-deha. And bhukti, who wants enjoyment, he gets a demigod position. Those that are aspiring after enjoyment and are doing accordingly, they will attain the position of a demigod. But those that are aspiring after complete renunciation, complete withdrawal from this turbulent world, they necessarily have to go to be sthāvara-deha. Because whenever they want to enter into Vaikuṇṭha, the 'So ham, I'm equal with You,' they're hurled down for that offence, into the lowest creation, to become fossil. Apparently they have to become fossil.

"Yes. Slumber you want, long sleep, no consciousness _____ [?]

Mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāṅ duṅhāra gati? Mukti, bhukti vāñche. 'Sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti'. So deva-deha for the bhogi it is clear, then sthāvara-deha for the renunciationist is quite necessary. Ha, ha.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ
[āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ]

(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said:)

["O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

Brahmā says, repenting. "Those, that soul, that they try to retire completely from this world, and climbs up to the highest position, and think that they're fully liberated, vimukta-māninа. They think themselves they're completely liberated. Tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ. But really, what is their position? That they cannot understand Your higher supreme position, absolute good position. They're deprived of that truth. Tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ. They're, within them the misunderstanding is there, can't understand the reality, aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ. They think that they've attained the highest position, but really they're suffering from misconception. Cannot have appreciation of You, the higher substance. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ. By great difficulty they come up to the highest position, of the enjoying world of creation. Tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ. Coming so near to the divine feet of You, devoid of that service, they are hurled down. They dishonour Your holy feet, and for that offence they're hurled down, and become a fossil."

Devotee: _____ [?]

Vidagdha Mādhava: Fossil. He couldn't understand the word fossil, Guru Mahārāja. Means one animal...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sthāvara-deha, sthāvara means this stone, earth, all these, sthāvara, wood, sthāvara. Deva-deha and sthāvara-deha, sthāvara means which is durable, cannot be easily changed, sthāvara.

sthāvara-jaṅgama dekhe, nā dekhe tāra mūrti [sarvatra haya nija iṣṭa-deva-sphūrti]

["The uttama-adhikārī, sees the moving and nonmoving entities, sthāvara-jaṅgama, but never sees their outward form. One sees one's iṣṭa, one's most beloved Deity, Kṛṣṇa, everywhere, sarvatra haya nija iṣṭa-deva-sphūrti. This is a completely Kṛṣṇa conscious person."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.274]

Sthāvara means this wood, this earth, the stone, all these things are sthāvara, _____ [?]

So sthāvara-deha, they come down to the lowest creation, like a fossil stage. And naturally it does not matter, because he wants that his consciousness may not remain. There also the fossil, whatever little consciousness may be spared there, then this is almost unconscious, and it is going. And after crores and crores of yugas, from the fossil, a spark soul may emanate and may be transferred to the tree section. And then from there to animal section, again it may be elevated in this way, crores of years after, this fossil.

A very difficult position, and to understand it is also a very difficult thing, that the ultimate liberation is similar to fossil. It is only impressed in Rāmānanda Rāya topic, and corroborated by that śloka of Bhāgavatam. Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ. The last, highest extremity of this world, tataḥ, patanty adho, from there, falls down. Why? "You came to the honoured holy feet and you did not worship it. So for that offence, hurled." Do you follow?

"The venerable, the revered feet, you have come very near, Brahmaloka, and then Vaikuṇṭha. But you dishonoured that, you neglected that. And this subtle offence, O, you want sleep, slumber, and not service of the holy feet, no service. Coming so very near you neglect. O, go on, take sleep, for long, long time take sleep. Mukti you want? Complete seclusion?"

"Yes."

"Go there, in the cell."

Devotee: Is this the ultimate manifestation of envy?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not envy. That is the general law of the nature.

Devotee: Of desire?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. This is going to the opposite side and the reaction must come, of renunciation. Renunciation is to be a culprit, because he has some position in the whole, he can't ignore that. Every atom has some good position, good relation in the whole system. This is called natural and good. He ignores that. He's a sinner. He hates the environment. He fails to judge, to find the environment is for good, it is holy. So he hates everything. Nothing good there can be with whom he'll associate. Everything is bad and he's good, so he's going to be one. And that is the greatest offence, the most pessimistic, and the consequence of pessimism is to go down. Pessimism is punished by the liberal whole. Pessimist has got no room in this world. Pessimist is the greatest sinner.

You can't see that anything really good from universal. You are the best. You know how fallible you are, and you think you're the best. If you come in the company of others you'll lose your position. Such a bad person you are. You're the bad and the whole is good. Be converted into that _____ [?] That I'm bad, everything is good. I'm blind, I cannot see the light.

That is Vaiṣṇavism. Do you follow? No?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: For the time being.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Devotee: Only if you keep me out of māyā, if you pull me out, then I can see.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They say that is envious, nature, environment is full of envy to punish him. But no, he punishes himself. No place of such a culprit. He's the hater of everything, and sycophant of his own. He's the personality who's committing fault every time. He's his own God, and no God outside. No anything outside, the most pessimistic. And the punishment of his pessimism is done in such a way.

Find? Now you find the reason? Without envy. You're thinking that the nature is jealous, with envy, and giving punishment to that man. He's innocent, you think?

But I say this is not innocent, but he's committing the greatest offence, to think everything bad, and he's only good. He wants to be alone, divorcing everything. That aspiration marks him to be the worst sinner, worst hater of everything. He's to be punished.

Just as if one goes to commit suicide he's punished by the government. Do you know? Why? Why one who's going to commit suicide he's punished, why? What is the basis? He does not do any harm ostentatiously to the world. He commits suicide, it is his own jurisdiction. But why that tendency is not encouraged?

So this renunciation to the extreme is committing the suicide. It comes under that law, and they become punished. The life is not for nothing. It has got its good aim. We're part and parcel of the whole holy world, and we must do our duty, our quota. I have no right to fly away from the environment. I must give my contribution, my quota to the whole. Otherwise I'm a traitor, I'm suicidal. I've got my utility relation to the whole, and if I deny to do that, what type of man am I? I have no right to take me off from this whole system. I'm a necessary part of this whole system, and I must do my duty, and I'll be benefited and the whole will be benefited. I revolt and go to the cell, commit to suicide. So this must be punished. This is not envy. The nature does not allow to do so. If this is encouraged then many will be doomed.

Who are you? You're not independent. You're of this organic whole. The finger is not independent, but part and parcel of an organic whole. You can't do anything independently, then the disturbance will be in the whole system. You have no right, a part has no right to revolt against the organic whole.

It is very difficult? No?

Devotees: No. It is wonderful. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So renunciationists, Viṣayī tabu bhāla, māyāvādī saṅga nāhi māgi kona kāla. They're the great enemy of the divine, of all the animation, those renunciationists. They're pessimists, they're rebel. They do not believe in the systematic whole. By committing suicide they want to indulge dreadful _____ [?] and inject into the whole world. Do you follow? No?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That can't be allowed. A man is suffering from disease, we're to accommodate him. But he's going to commit suicide _____ [?]

Vidagdha Mādhava: So Guru Mahārāja. Swāmī Mahārāja he said some māyāvādīs they come back as philanthropists, and do some altruism, do some humanitarian work. Sometimes...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe from the lower position, is taking the path of māyāvāda. But their position by some powerful agent he may be converted, gradually. By the special wish of Kṛṣṇa and His higher followers, one who's going in the line of māyāvāda he may be enticed away from that heinous path.

Rāmānanda-saṁvāda. "You are so great devotee. What to speak of others? I'm a māyāvādī sannyāsī."

Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa from māyāvādī sannyāsī Keśava Bhāratī.

This sthāvara-jaṅgama, _____ [?] Gaura Hari bol.

Devotee: _____ [?] One author in the west that had a lot of popularity. It is a spirit speaking through a medium. And much of the philosophy is similar to the Vaiṣṇava philosophy. But one thing they teach...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If anyone is sincerely doing that is well, otherwise imitationist, sahajiyā, there are. Many types of imitationists there are.

We're where? We're in the hospital, we're visiting hospital, so here we expect only to find many types of patients because we're living in the hospital. And in the prison house so many culprits around us. Ke?

Devotees: Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: O, you have come. Now...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Union in separation, that is the highest type of union. Union that can stand separation, that is the highest type of union. _____ [?]

So you like to go there, in your previous room?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja.

Devotee: This author who's very popular in the west.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Which?

Devotee: There's a spirit name Seth [?] that speaks through this author, a medium, and he gives much information of the subtle worlds. But there's one interesting...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Within his jurisdiction he can move and know and gain maybe information. That must be within his jurisdiction. He cannot say anything of the Vaikuṇṭha, a ghost. In his own jurisdiction he may move and see and inform, then it is not unreasonable.

Devotee: In theory he accepts God as a person, but he has no information, and he's more interested in the mechanics of the universe.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Devotee: This Seth, this ghost. But one thing he says that's very interesting, he says the individual jīva is, what he calls, multi dimensional. That one jīva can be in many bodies, in different planes, developing differently, one jīva. Not one jīva per body but one jīva may be in several bodies. Like Pañca Tattva, the Lord can do Pañca Tattva, can the soul have that same quality, one soul in many bodies?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. The yogīs, they can extend themselves to be kāyavyūha, in many bodies they may live, as if. But they'll all show what one will do the whole bodies will do that. One body is eating, all the extended bodies they're also eating. Not any other independent work they can be engaged in themselves.

It is mentioned in Caitanya-caritāmṛta, when Nārada visited Dvārakā he found that Kṛṣṇa, with kāyavyūha, with many extended self, He's representing Himself in so many thousands of kings. Then Nārada was very much astonished to see that kāyavyūha. That in every, in His full body, He's in every room of all the queens, kāyavyūha. All queens they're thinking that 'Kṛṣṇa has come to me, to my room.' And Nārada was very much astonished.

But Nārada was a higher yogī. The yogīs they can have kāyavyūha, many extended bodies. But Nārada wondered why. The yogīs with so many extended bodies, but they must do, move, in a same way. One sleeping, the whole, all bodies will be sleeping.

But in Kṛṣṇa's case it is not that. In every body He's doing something new, new movement. That is only possible with Him.

And this is physical imitation, just like a magician can show, it is something like that.

Thomas?

Thomas: Hare Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja. It's nice to be back.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Thomas? And another?

Thomas: Yes. And this girl, Miss Robin Sherwood, she's from America. We met her in Calcutta. She's travelling through India for maybe one month. And we preached to her a little bit, and we asked her if she would like to come and see Māyāpur and Navadwīpa and yourself. And she said yes, and we're now just arriving, we just got off the train.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: She comes from America?

Thomas: Yes. We went to the hotel but there was no room in the hotel. So Kṛṣṇa Kiṅkarā told me to come and ask you if she may stay with Parama, in Parama Devī Dāsī's room.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, she may stay with Parama.

Thomas: Thank you very much Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. How long she's come to visit India?

Robin Sherwood: _____ [?]

Devotee: One week.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only a week?

Robin Sherwood: One more week.

Thomas: This is her second time in India. She's visited India...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're connected with _____ [?] Ramakrishna Mission?

Robin Sherwood: Yea, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Are you connected with their centre in America?

Robin Sherwood: Yes, in San Francisco.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ramakrishna Mission has got their centre, which party? That Ramakrishna Vedānta Society, or _____ [?]

Devotees: Vedānta Society.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vedānta Society, founder, Abhedānanda. Abhedānanda is the founder of Ramakrishna Vedānta Society, here and America, one Abhedānanda. He's direct disciple of Ramakrishna.

Thomas: You know who the founder is?

Robin Sherwood: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You've heard the name of _____ [?]

Robin Sherwood: O yes, spiritual disciple of Vivekānanda, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vivekananda, and their books also you've read?

Robin Sherwood: O yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you've not heard about Lord Caitanya?

Robin Sherwood: Of course I have, yes.

Thomas: She's known about ISKCON for some years, she's visited ISKCON temples in America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, ISKCON temples.

Thomas: She knows Haṁsadūta very well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But does she know the difference between the theological conception of Śrī Caitanya and the Ramakrishna Mission? The theological difference between Śrī Caitanya's doctrine and the doctrine of Ramakrishna? Vivekānanda? The difference between the doctrines of both, you do not know so much? All right, we shall talk here after. Now you're making journey. Go and take rest there, take something, and then we shall see.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Along with Swāmī Mahārāja, many ladies from America, and U.K, and other parts of India, visited this Maṭha and delivered lectures, in this Nat Mandeer, this lecture hall. Many western ladies came here to visit me, and delivered lectures also, in the meeting. Once, one hundred and fifty foreign men and women came, and we had a meeting here, about three or four years back, when Swāmī Mahārāja was living. Have you gone through Bhagavad-gītā?

Robin Sherwood: Do you mean have I read it? O yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gītā. Well good. Vidagdha Prabhu, make arrangements for that.
Now I dissolve the class.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

...

Devotee: ...Delhi. But I do not think he's working for ISKCON any more. I was thinking maybe I could...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That man wanted to start an institution independently?

Devotee: No, that's another man. After him, that man actually started another institution. He was, I think, māyāvādī. But this boy he translated maybe six or seven books very quickly.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Which books?

Devotee: Hindi version of Kṛṣṇa Book, and Teachings of Lord Chaitanya. Swāmī Mahārāja's books. Teachings of Lord Chaitanya he did first, then Kṛṣṇa Books, and I think some small books.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There's one book named Kṛṣṇa Book?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Devotee: And I was thinking if he's not working for ISKCON any more, maybe he can do some English to Hindi translation of Bhaktivinoda's books. And also your book is now in English, maybe he could translate into Hindi. Can I approach him on this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't know how his translation goes on, how much accurate the translation.

Devotee: Should I try to get a sample?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. If I get a sample then I can. Has he translated Bhagavad-gītā in Hindi? No?

Devotee: I think he did. I'm not sure. I've not seen him for a number of years. But I think he did Hindi. But I have to check.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right. Translation may be from the standpoint of Śaṅkara, Rāmānuja, Madhva, Nimbarka, so many, and Gauḍīya.

Devotee: He did Swāmī Mahārāja's Gītā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How he has translated, how much Swāmī Mahārāja appreciated his translation? Accepted by him?

Devotee: Yes. But still I'll write to him and see if he's interested, and get a sample.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But he translated with who's finance, for the publishing?

Devotee: I think he - oh, for the publishing, I don't know. But at least there will be a manuscript form, so when the money becomes available it will be done.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But that man he'll do it for free, or he'll want some remuneration for that?

Devotee: No, he did it for free. He did all that work for Swāmī Mahārāja for free.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is better if he meets me. I can sound him, and then give my opinion. Where is he, where does he live?

Devotee: Delhi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Delhi. Have you consulted Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, the president of the Mahā- maṇḍala? If he wants to do for Mahā-maṇḍala _____ [?] Nitāi.

I'm troubled by this cough and cold. So I told you that I shall take class three o'clock, evening. But you've all come. What to do?

Devotee: If you like Mahārāja we can...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But for the lady, newly come.

Parama: She's here Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is, any question from her, wants to know anything?

Robin Sherwood: I have one question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, what is that?

Robin Sherwood: I have trouble with relating to God in a form. I see God as formless. But I know it helps to have a concept of God with form to make it more intimate, in more human relationship. So how can I develop a relationship with God _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh?

Parama: She says she has trouble seeing God in form, with form. She sees God as formless. But she understands that it's easier to understand God in form. She wants to know how she can understand God in form?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not clear to me. Anyone present, anyone?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes, Guru Mahārāja. She's more comfortable in an impersonal conception of God. When God takes on personal form, she has difficulty to accept.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This is your contention? You find? Impersonal God you say?

Robin Sherwood: But I would like to relate to God in a form.

Vidagdha Mādhava: She would like to relate to a personal form. But...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How it is possible?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How it is possible that the infinite can have a finite form? Is it? Form means finite. So God is infinite, and how infinite can take the form of a finite? This is your trouble?

Robin Sherwood: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When you say God, how can you say impersonal? What is the conception of God?

Robin Sherwood: To me, God is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: God. Impersonal means what? Impersonal means no attributes.

Robin Sherwood: Well, in all attributes. To me, God is either, you know, everything, or appearing in my heart. But to see God in a form, in one form, it's very hard.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If you can see, then what should you see? If we have any eye experience of a thing then it must have a form. Otherwise how eye can experience?

There was one story, about one hundred years back, when British rule was here. They had their centre _____ [?] the British had a strong centre in _____ [?] town, in northern Bengal. Some bishop was explaining from Bible. One boy, he came to me later on, he told that he was explaining, when Abraham, or someone, saw Him in dream, that He's giving some advice to him, to this and that.

Then that gentleman told, "I was a boy at that time, I stood up."

If anyone stood up in the meeting then he's to stop the discourse and...

83.01.11.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...That gentleman told, "I stood up, and he stopped his delivery, and asked me, 'What do you want to say?'

"You say that from Bible that Abraham saw God in dream. But if God has no form, then how he saw in dream, and what did he see?"

He stopped for some time and told, 'I shall have to consider it, and tomorrow I shall answer, the next sitting I shall answer. What the boy has told, it is of course difficult to answer.'"

So it is mentioned in the Bible also that sometimes in dream they see God.

How we're to understand? Not form like this. Everything has got a form. The atom has also got a form, the constituent parts they've got a form, every atom, molecule, they have a particular form. If anything is analysed, so many different particles come. Everything has got a form, a quality, a limitation. Form means limitation. Limitation may be in different ways. Even sound may have a form, different type of sound, sound may have a form, limit. Some forms are not to be conceived by our mundane senses. That is the opinion of the Vaiṣṇava philosophy.

But He has got everything, otherwise what is not in the cause can never come in the effect. If there's no form in the cause, then no form comes in the effect in this world. But the difference is, this is mundane and that is spiritual. Soul's eye can see the form, not this fleshy eye. So also, everything, that is transcendental form He has got. Transcendental sound He has got, body, everything transcendental...

...He's got no legs, no hands _____ [?] He can see, but He's got no eye. That is, not this mundane eye, but He's got spiritual eye. The eye of knowledge _____ [?] Everything is there. But not like this fleshy substance.

In dream also we can see, we can hear, in dream. But that is not exactly this mundane, but drawn from this mundane. Do you follow? In dream we can see form, but this eye has got no experience of that at that time. It is drawn from this mundane world. But still, without the help of this eye we can see in the dream, we can hear in the dream, we can walk in the dream. But that is not really walking, or seeing, or hearing, as we do when we're awake, this physical, subtle.

So also in the plane of soul it is possible to see, it is possible to feel, to catch, everything is possible. And that is more real than we do here. Because soul proper, the knowledge is, the conception is very pure. Here it is rather vague, attempts here vague. But that is very clear.

So if we compare our dream experience, and this wakeful experience, and we continue the line, then we'll be able to feel that in pure soul also such conception, the talking, the seeing, hearing, everything may be possible, but in different planes. It is possible. And that is not imaginary. That is more real than we've got in this concrete world. This is rather vague. The estimation of this physical experience is rather vague and incomplete. And that is more complete and more real and more substantial, that transcendental experience.

That is natural. Otherwise, impersonal means non differentiation, impersonal. And that is more possible. When He's impersonal, we cannot have any connection with Him, because He's got no attributes. Impersonalism. Impersonal, then this material substance, the objective, impersonal, no person. Then if no person, no subject, then He's mere object. He cannot be subject. This is not possible.

He's super subjective existence. So impersonal is a marginal conception, abstract marginal conception is impersonal, which has got no attributes, and which is not understandable. Then how can we say that anything is impersonal? If it's impersonal, that has got, cannot have any attribute. Or like fossilised substance, no possibility that the attribute is there. But that is also a mere object of our subjective experience. And really, the impersonalist school they say the ultimate reality is impersonal. Then impersonal means which cannot be caught and known by any means from our senses, or our thinking capacity, or anything else. So that is unknown and unknowable. So we have no right to say anything about Him, what to have any connection with Him. Unknown and unknowable. Impersonal. Just as we're in a dreamless sleep, in dreamless sleep we have no experience of anything. So impersonalism is reduced to that position, that can be only marginal, and not positive thing.

So we're to try in this way, that finite cannot know infinite, but infinite can make Himself known to finite. He's super-subjective, beyond the jurisdiction of our senses, the limit of our thought. Our thought cannot reach so far, so high, to the so subtle world. But that subtle-most thing can come down to our experience. Only the connection is possible there by devotion, by dedication. By bhakti, we can attract Him to come to our level and to give experience of Him to our plane. That is possible. And we can never go up to His realm where we can see Him. The whole thing, that He will come down graciously to satisfy my every necessity, He may come. And only by dedication, by devotion, we can attain such a condition where He can come and accept me in any way He likes. And my life will have fulfilment then. He can come down. I cannot go up by my own power.

But only increasing my negative side, dainya, 'I'm so poor, I'm helpless, I'm needy, I'm fallen.' In this way I can invite Him. With sincere attraction, sincere love, I can invite Him to come down in my level. 'I'm so poor, helpless, mean, all these things. I deserve Your blessings. I deserve Your grace. I'm so fallen.' In this way, increasing our negative side we can attract the positive.

And when the positive comes to accept us, then we can find Him. This is the line of thought. The small can attract a big only by explaining his negative position, can attract, and the positive may come. High may come to low, to help him, to grace him, to bless him. Our position is that with the Supreme Entity, with God, means that. And by this way only we can get Him. We're to do in such a way that He may be attracted by His natural kindness and graciousness. And He will come and accept me as His servitor, as His slave. He'll be kind enough to accept me. Then only a slave can come to mix with the Master, if he's a sincere slave. In that way connection is possible with the so high Supreme Entity as God.

And God means, He has got all these attributes that He can meet and deal with anything in His created world. And very closely, very intimately, He can mix and come and accept and take service, He can do. Nothing is very negligent. Only when he does not want Him, He does not care to come. But if he sincerely wills Him, hankers after Him, He cannot but come. Because everything belongs to Him, and He's got a gracious heart, He can't leave us, as if.

Nothing is impersonal in this world. If we scrutinise then we'll find that there is some specification differentiation particular. Impersonal in the sense that non recognisable, then unknown and unknowable it is not possible. Everything is in the consciousness of God. God cannot know anything else, that cannot be, God does not know about anything. It is redundant, self conflicting. He knows everything. Then through Him everything has got some sort of manifestation, some sort of experience, about its nature, its future, its path, anything, everything. The past, present and future, everywhere there is God, One. So nothing is beyond His knowledge. Even every point of fossil, every atom of fossil, there also God living. Nothing is outside Him.

As you told, so also one European lady delivered a lecture here in this hall. "That we can live with God as family man. This has attracted me most to come here, leaving aside everything, that I can live as a member of the family of God. What more can I want? I'm attracted by this idea.

And I've taken risk to come to that mission where it may be possible that one day I'll be happy to serve God as my family head."

Then nothing is impossible. Only the small can capture the big through love and attraction, not by power. Which is impossible to attain by power, that can be attained through affection, through love, through service, through humility. Especially, if we want association with the higher, we must be humble. And my appeal will also be of that nature, to Him, to attract Him. And that is called devotion, śaraṇāgati, surrender. The very beginning is surrender, causeless surrender, without any prayer, surrender. No condition, unconditional surrender, that can move the biggest power, the highest power. The most subtle thing, surrender, and as much as its unconditional, it can move the whole, the biggest thing, such it is. And this is called devotion proper, dedication proper. It is approached from the negative side. This is an astounding way. Bhakti, devotion proper, has got astounding consequence, results. Unconditional service, the greatest force ever known to the world, that the biggest can be moved, the biggest can be compelled.

This Japanese, this jujitsu, a fashion of fighting, jujitsu, have you known? Do you know? Anyone? When anyone's coming with heavy force to attack, only he slipped and he fell. Something like that. Negative. Punishment, attack by negative line.

So unconditional surrender, that is the greatest force ever discovered, or invented, the high surrender. That moves the highest power. And if you approach Him through any other means you're nowhere. Very finite. He's infinite. But this is the only weapon by which He's hit, unconditional surrender. And He'll be mad to come to you.

kleśa-ghnī śubhadā mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā
sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā

["Uttamā-bhakti, the purest devotion, is the vanquisher of all sin and ignorance, and the bestower of all auspiciousness; liberation is belittled in the presence of such devotion, which is very rarely attained, the embodiment of the deepest ecstasy, and the attractor of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

In Rūpa Goswāmī's Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, this śloka. What is bhakti? What is devotion? Kleśa-ghnī. The first instalment we get, that all our pains are removed, troubles removed, that first instalment, kleśa-ghnī. Śubhadā. Then we can feel that very auspicious things are approaching towards me. Mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. Then we can feel that even liberation is feeling to me very non substantial, unfruitful, mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt. Then sudurllabhā. Yet we find yet more we have to make progress, sudurllabhā. Even the liberated souls also cannot approach Him, we can find, sudurllabhā. Then sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā. A peculiar type of ecstasy, joy, enters into our mind when in relativity with that God consciousness. The last effect, or gift of devotion, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā, as if Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the centre of attraction, He's forcibly drawn towards him. Śrī- kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī. Kṛṣṇa the Autocrat is forcibly drawn towards him. Such is the power of the śaraṇāgati, that surrendering, or devotion, serving attitude. Intense serving attitude can draw the highest Subjective Existence to him, nearby. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā. These are the effects, these are the functions, or forces of devotion, we're told by Rūpa Goswāmī, direct disciple of Śrī Caitanyadeva.

The prema, bhakti in its highest form is prema, love divine, and that has got so much power, and none else. Such power we can never expect to find anywhere. Love, not force, not power, but this sort of power which is negative in character. This is devotion. Form. All the elements that are with me, they have their fullest satisfaction in His company. Whatever demand or hankering of variegated nature there may be in me, everything can have its satisfaction by His connection. Vaiṣṇava prati aṅga lāgi kānde prati aṅga mora.

[rūpa lāgi āṅkhi jhure guṇe mana bhora, prati aṅga lāgi kānde prati aṅga mora hiyāra paraśa lagi hiyā mora kānde, parāṇa piriti lagi thira nāhi bāndhe]

["Seeing the festival of His divine beauty My eyes shed tears, My intoxicated mind is fully absorbed in tasting His virtues, every part of Me deeply craves for every part of Him and My heart incessantly yearns for the thrill of His touch. O sakhī, by such intense irresistible love attraction My heart cannot have patience to have Him."] [From Jñāna Dāsa, Vaiṣṇava-padāvali; Anthology of Vaiṣṇava Songs]

In mādhurya-rasa, it is told by Rādhārāṇī. "Every particle of My body is crying for the embrace of His corresponding particle. All My limbs are crying to get embraced by that body. Not only Myself, but all the particles, all the atoms by which I'm formed, the whole are crying to get, and welcome, an embrace of the other."

That is the God. And every atom has got claim to get the embrace of Him, that positive, negative connection. That is already there. And it is we that separated ourselves from Him. Or we may say, it is our birthright, constitutional demand. But free choice, we're under such helpless condition.

Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. In my soul's deepest existence I'm there. That position, in my deepest conception, I'm placed there, I'm adjusted there. And the maladjustment, I'm far off, that is only hallucinating. My separation with God, that is a hallucinating condition. But if I'm awake properly, this hallucination disease is cured, and I find myself in my own original position, then I'll see that I'm there. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. I'm there, my soul is there, in a particular position, embraced with the Supreme Soul, the Lord of Love. But our deviation, that is in the process of hallucination, māyā, misconception. Misunderstanding has taken us so far.

Such hopeful assurance we're given by the experts of the spiritual world. "That you are there, but your misconception, māyā has taken you so far from you. So far from your own property, your own possession, your own self. You're a foreigner in your own land. That is your present position. But everything there. The wholesale fulfilment of your inner heart is there, and is possible to regain. All particulars of hankering, so sweet, is possible, and free. Not by any partial aspect as we sometimes do here. But the wholesale, with Him I'm connected in such a way. Very near, very closer, very intimate, my position with Him."

"What man has made of man." Wordsworth's poetry is one. As he's in a philosopher's side. "Everything is all right. But what man has made of man. Man has created in his own world and he's losing the nature's gift."

But not only man, the whole creation we find, all created from Him, and we're to be readjusted. Our problem is to be readjusted with our former position, or our natural position. That is God. We want to be reinstated, readjusted, what we've lost by dint of our free choice which is vulnerable free will.

The fulfilment of the fullest order, fullest nature, is possible. I may not know what sort of fulfilment I really want for me. I'm not aware of that. So many subtle hankerings are there in the background. They'll also all come out and we shall have a full engagement with the holiest thing. That is possible, perfect and complete engagement in service. Service is a holy thing. Exploitation is a nasty thing. And wholesale dedication, that is service, that is the purest thing ever found in this world. And in that plane we can have our fullest fulfilment invested to my innermost desire. It is possible.

Only in their dream, deceived, by our present knowledge and estimation of the environment. We're to get out of that trap, that proposal of exploitation. This māyā, the misconception is throwing a snare to catch us in her trap. "I shall make you happy. You remain here as my master. You exploit me. I'm ready to be exploited by you." This is all misunderstanding. We're a particle. We cannot be a king of the whole. But only misconception makes this possible, if we're being be-fooled by such proposal of māyā. "Oh you, stay with me. I shall make you king, lord of my heart. Everything I shall offer for you." This is all misunderstanding for this particle of soul, consciousness.

But the other proposal, you're really a part, just a point of light. You're nothing, very, very meagre. You come to understand you're that position. And, call for adjustment with the whole, that is reality. And this is misunderstanding, misconception, error. The proposal of Māyā that 'I shall make you king,' that is only a trap, a snare. And the truth is that you're smallest of the small. Still, if you approach in this way that you're very small, you're unfit to become a slave with that highest power, that call is reality. And that will take you to the kingdom of heaven. That is truth. So we must not allow ourselves to be enticed by the proposal of an exploiter, 'I shall make you king of this world. So many things I shall supply for your enjoyment.' That is all hoax. Ultimately we're fettered thereby and we're forced to become a slave to the whims of this kāma, krodha, lobha, these meanest things. And by accepting the proposal of slavery towards that high domain of the Supreme Lord, there we live properly. Really, we enjoy free air for breathing.

...then what benefit we can have from such unknown and unknowable substance, cause?

Then the grace, the God and His blessings, holy things, all these high ideals will go, they'll vanish? The idea of goodness will vanish? Ideal of devotion, dedication, God's grace, all will vanish? Everything will lead to impersonal? That is a spiritual death, to think that God is impersonal, He cannot extend His grace to us fallen jīva souls. He cannot do this, that. He's ultimately impersonal. He's a zero.

...

...impersonal cannot create anything, the world created, all things created comes from Him, springs from Him. How, if He's inert and without any spiritual exertion, extension? That is the conclusion of the hopeless, the disappointed. Only the disappointed that are working in the wrong way, they're ultimately disappointed, it is their judgement. 'He's impersonal. There's nothing good in this world. The world has got no good thing to give, no representative character.' Impersonal means to do away with everything.

Rāmānuja said, sakala kalyana guna karni [?]

Śaṅkara said, "Impersonal."

Rāmānuja said, "All the good qualities, He's the source of all the possible good qualities we can ever think about. Sakala kalyana guna karni [?] Not impersonal, not nirguṇa, not devoid of all attributes. He's rather the source of all the good qualities. That is the positive substance. That is He, God means He. The embodiment of all good qualities, that is God. And not this summation of all negation, all sorts of negative things collected together and has produced God, the prime cause, impersonal.

Puruṣottama He's named. The conception of impersonalism also accommodated in Him in His one part.

[yasmāt] kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ
ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ

["Because I am transcendental to the fallible souls and also superior to My infallible eternal associates, My glories are sung in the world and in the scriptures as Puruṣottama, the Supreme Person."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 15.18]

You say that you've read Bhagavad-gītā? But you still read aksaraṁ paramaṁ brahma [8.3] Dvau bhūta-sargau [16.6] Two kinds of created things, aksara, kṣara. What is aksara? Which is constant. And kṣara that is making rounds, moving. And aksara stagnant.

"Two kinds of objects created by Me. I'm above both of them. Kṣaraś cākṣara eva ca, kṣaraḥ sarvāṇi bhūtāni [15.16] All you see they're all moving. And kūṭastho 'kṣara ucyate, the constant, the stagnant part, the prime cause of the kṣara, that is aksara. Aksaraṁ paramaṁ brahma. Sometimes that is called by particular sections as Parabrahma. But kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ. What is My position? I transcend both kṣara, the moving world, and the unmoved world. I transcend both of them. My position is there. And so I'm told as Puruṣottama. Kṣaram atīto 'ham, akṣarād api cottamaḥ / ato 'smi loke vede ca, prathitaḥ puruṣottamaḥ. Both in the scriptures and in the society of saints I'm told as Puruṣottama."

brahmaṇo hi pratiṣṭhāham, [amṛtasyāvyayasya ca śāśvatasya ca dharmasya, sukhasyaikāntikasya ca]

[Kṛṣṇa says: "I am the basis and original mainstay of the undivided divine vitality of the impersonal Brahman, which is immortal, imperishable and eternal, and is the constitutional position of inexhaustible nectar and the sweetness of the ambrosia of profound love divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 14.27]

"I'm the support of that Brahman, what is called Brahman, all comprehensive aspect of the world. I'm even above that, I'm support of that thing."

It is mentioned in Bhagavad-gītā clearly.

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati
[samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām]

"Once who has attained the position of Brahman, that purely spiritual consciousness of soul, of personality, not with reference to any mundane material world, but purely soul consciousness, Brahman. Na śocati na kāṅkṣati. He does not aspire after anything in this world. Neither he mourns if he loses anything of this world. Na śocati na kāṅkṣati. Samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu. The loss and gain of this world, both aspects are equal to him. Samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām. Then he's eligible to get My devotion. From that soul consciousness, to Supersoul consciousness, leaving down this material line of abstract and hallucinating exploitation. From the jīva soul plane, to Supersoul plane, to My plane, he's starting, his movement begins. Mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām. My parām bhaktiṁ labhate, My real, pure devotion, then he becomes eligible to attain."

It's in Bhagavad-gītā. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol. Gaura Hari bol.

That God, that the Ultimate Reality must be personal, and we'll be able to approach Him through service. And to live in that holy environment. Our inner aspiration is such. And that is really true.

And that ultimate end is impersonal. We all jump into somewhere where we've got no trace, that is undesirable thing. Everything, that ultimate death, we accept ultimate death of the soul, that cannot be desirable.

But how to get fulfilment of all our mere hankerings, that is the problem, and that is possible in the land, in the plane of dedication. Not in the plane of exploitation. If we're ready to dedicate ourselves for the satisfaction of the whole, the centre, then we can have such a laudable and aspiring, desired life we can have. Only through dedication, to the centre, to the central aim, not to any part, but the whole, representing the whole, the centre. Now, whether the centre can represent the whole, that is a troublesome question, whether the centre can serve? The Upaniṣad says that what is faith? This is faith. The conception of faith is this. What is that?

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati / yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."]

83.01.11.C_83.01.12.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But there is one substantial thing. If we know Him, everything is known. If we get Him, everything is got. If such conviction we can have, then we can have faith.

'śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya / kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

["By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, one automatically performs all subsidiary activities. This confident, firm faith, favourable to the discharge of devotional service, is called śraddhā."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

What is the definition of śraddhā? Śraddhā is a particular faith that if I do my duty to one, the duty to the whole is done automatically. If I get one, if I know one, the whole is known. By knowing the centre of the whole, you know the whole. How is it possible? An analogy also has been given in Bhāgavatam.

yathā taror mula niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopaśākhāḥ
prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānāṁ, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

Just as if you pour water into the root of the tree, the whole tree is fed. If you put food into the stomach, the whole body is fed. So if we do our service to Him, the whole is served. If we have such faith in us, then we get what is śraddhā. So faith is the predominant fundamental foundation over which we can have satisfaction of our devotional aspiration.

Kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya. This is faith. Faith means this, not knowledge drawn from the experience. But it is another thing, it has come down, from up. By knowing the centre we can know everything. By getting the centre we can get everything. It is possible. And such sort of analogy is given. Put food into the stomach, the whole body is fed. In this way. He's the centre. Just as if you can control the sun, the whole world will be controlled _____ [?]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. This is a peculiar thing, and this is śraddhā. If we can know one thing, the whole is known. We can know, we can have one thing, I can get everything. This is a very hard nut to crack, like the faith. In other words, we can think,

aṇor aṇīyān mahato mahīyān, [ātmasya jantor nihito guhāyām
tam akratuḥ paśyati vīta-śoko, dhātuḥ prasādān mahimānam ātmanaḥ]

["Smaller than the atom, greater than the greatest, the Supreme Self secretly resides even within the core of the atomic individual soul [the jīva]. When the devotee beholds Him he is freed from lamentation, and by the grace of the Lord [Dhātṛ] he realises the superiority of the Supreme Soul."]

[Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.20]

If we want to divide things into smaller parts, smallest, then again divide smallest, again divide smallest, no end. And if we go to the line of biggest, then also so big. Again, more bigger, more bigger, more bigger, no end. Then, where to trace Him? In our intellectual inquiry, if we go in greater to inquire the biggest, the most comprehensive, no end. And the most subtlest of the subtle, no end. Then, where is God to be located? The prime cause, the real cause to be detected, where?

So somewhere in the middle, ha, ha, madhyama adhikāra, pramāṇa. He's in the centre. God as the father, in Christianity. But Vaiṣṇava, they say son-hood of Godhead, Kiśora Mūrti. Son-hood, in the centre. The father, mother, all servants, all extending this side, that side, all servitors. But the centre represents the very gist. The most valuable substance is in the centre, not in any end, outside, not in any end, inside. But He's got central existence. And therefore He controls both sides. Aṇor aṇīyān mahato mahīyān.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]

So Kṛṣṇa says, "What is tried to be conceived as infinite, that forms one part Mine."

athavā bahunaitena, kiṁ jñātena tavārjjuna / viṣṭabhyāham idaṁ kṛtsnam, ekāṁśena sthito jagat

["But Arjuna, what is the need of your understanding this elaborate knowledge of My almighty grandeur? By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42]

"The conception of your infinite, that forms one part of Mine. Try to think like that."

A line has got no end, but a line can contain innumerable forms. And a plane can contain innumerable lines. And a solid can contain innumerable planes. So infinite is of what type? A line is also infinite, a plane also infinite, solid also may be infinite. And in negative side a point is infinite, smallest of the small. So all these form of thoughts. And ultimately one thing, like a hypnotiser, what he wants us to see, we cannot but see that. As a hypnotiser controls the subject of a person, and he'll see whatever.

"Are you seeing this?"

"Yes, I'm seeing that."

But real object not outside, but he has controlled the subject, the seer. Seer is controlled in such a way that whatever he orders he says, "I'm seeing that." The real position is there.

I was told that one French scientist recently he's trying to prove that the colour, figure, is not outside but it is within the eye. Ha, ha. The colour is within the eye, not outside.

Did you study philosophy? The sun, the eye, and the colour, from the common origin. Pañca tan-mātra. In satya-guṇa the sun, in raja-guṇa the eye, and tama-guṇa the experience of the eye, coming from same source. Bifurcated in these three ways, one is showing, another is seeing, another is seen, all common branch. So also sound, the ether, the sound, the ear.

So coming from the subjective world, and if our subject is controlled, the whole world of our experience is controlled. We're nowhere. What He wants us to see, we're compelled to see that. He has such a peculiar, strange power, will.

"Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light.

The will power, so everything controlled. The jīva consciousness is controlled wholly by the super consciousness.

All the officers, how they will deal with the subjects? They're controlled by the higher officer.

In this way. We're such.

So with folded palms. "We're Your slave. As You like to play with me I'm ready to do that."

Without challenging mood, this is the real position by which we can thrive. We can have His real nature, we can experience, somewhat. We're helpless. Ha, ha. But still, it is not unsubstantial. But substance is not the fossil. Substance is the pure consciousness. And more than that, real substance is ecstasy, is joy, happiness, that is, and He's that joy Himself, ocean of joy, ocean of ecstasy. That is the concrete thing. All else are their dependent. In the original, in the conception of the experience, the feeling of the ecstasy, that is also a part of ecstasy. Truth, that happiness is the most integral conception of truth. Everyone is hankering for happiness. Where there's any conception, any feeling, the only aspiration is for happiness. So happiness is the centre, pure. When that is misguided in the name of happiness we're meeting displeasure, sorrow, pain.

The central cause comes from happiness, Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa attracting, attraction. Absolute attraction can come from where? Only from happiness, from ecstasy, the call of ecstasy. "Come to Me."

That is universal, and nothing can be universal. Everyone thinks, "I want happiness. I want to be happy." Happiness is a general call. So the general centre is there, that of happiness.

And He's calling all of us. "Come to Me. Come to Me."

But misguided we are, puzzling, running hither, thither, any which way.

A call from Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu says, "The Lord of love. The Lord of beauty. Reality the Beautiful. Relevant call from Him, and _____ [?] near most heart."

None can deny, that I do not want happiness, want to be happy. Universal call to every heart, every soul, there, wants to be happy. "I want happiness." So pure happiness of the highest order personified. Everything you have got. To have a personal conception of the world, that is not disappointment. That is the highest ideal. Impersonal things, they're under our feet. But personal conception of things, that we can adore, that we can aspire after to be encouraging.

And that to the highest degree is there, the Lord of beauty and love, calling every heart. "Come to Me."

And we're also trying to go but misguided by this or that, the blind lane. We're wandering in the blind lane in quest of that universal happiness, the Lord of love, the enjoyer.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Vasudeva Ghosh says.

"After coming in the conception of Śrī Gaurāṅga, what He gave to us," - Vasudeva Ghosh is fervently giving vent to this feeling - "If Gaurāṅga did not come and He did not deliver this news of our self prospect, how could we live? It would have been impossible for us to live. So high prospect we've got. And He came and gave this news. 'Oh, you're more than king. You have got such honoured position in the relation of Kṛṣṇa.' And that news of that prospect is given to me by Śrī Gaurāṅga. If He had not come then how could we live? We would have died of suffocation, met death. Am I dead? Without hearing that great prospect of Him, everyone has been announced about their highest prospect. And the Lord has come with that hope to us. It is impossible to have, to sustain ones life without His association." He says in this way. "How could we live?" Vasudeva says, "Kemone dharitām de. The very sustenance of our life is there, given by Gaurāṅga, the life worth living. The love we have got or lost, we can do such intimate service to the Lord and we have high position of adoration. We're so great, so big, so high, so noble, that we can remain around that highest Lord. So insignificant we are, neglected we are in this world. Just like a football kicking from this side, going that side, relative like that. And another side in this way we're going round. And our fortune is so high, prospect."

Tomorrow?

Devotee: I'm going to go to Calcutta tomorrow, and remain for a couple of days. On the eighteenth I'll go to America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Tomorrow, for Calcutta? Eighteenth January?

Devotee: Yea. I will try to come back in two months.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Mahāprabhu's birth ceremony? March?

Devotee: Gaura Pūrṇimā. Yes. I will try.

What did Mahāprabhu say to the Muslims to turn them into Pāṭhāna Vaiṣṇavas? How did He make the Muslims Vaiṣṇavas?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When He was coming, returning from Vṛndāvana, He met some Pāṭhāna Vaiṣṇavas on His way. Coming away from Vṛndāvana He was overwhelmed with prema of separation from Vṛndāvana. So many symptoms in His body came out, the sattvika symptoms. Sometimes fainting, sometimes dancing, sometimes chanting, sometimes rolling on the earth, so many things.

Then one of the Mohammedan group was going towards Delhi, perhaps, and they met Śrī Gaurāṅgadeva. And seeing His feats in so many ways, the leader of that Muslim party was very much impressed. First they thought that, 'this man has much wealth, has much golden coins or so.'

Two or three attendants He had, one Kṛṣṇadāsa Rājaputa, another Sanoḍiyā Brāhmaṇa, and Balabhadra Bhaṭṭa, His attendant.

That leader of the Muslim party he thought that, 'He has been administered some sort of drug, and His condition is such. And these persons have looted His golden coins. They put like that. Then it cannot but be the effect of a particular drug that He's showing so much things.'

Then after Mahāprabhu came to senses, in other words, then that Mohammedan gentleman approached Him. "I saw You just before in an abnormal condition. What You were doing, a normal thinking conscious man cannot move in such a way. They must have administered some drug to You. And perhaps You had some wealth, they have taken it away. Is it?"

Mahāprabhu told, "No, no. I have got some disease. A particular permanent disease I've got so sometimes I'm a prey to that disease. And these persons they're all My friends. They try their best to nurse Me. They're all friends, they're not foe."

Then that leader of the Islam party thought, 'If this is not the result of drug application, then how it is possible? Such feats I saw with my own eyes. Then this is the effect of what thing?' Then with more modest inquiry he approached Mahāprabhu. "That what I saw, that is impossible. You say 'No drug.' But no disease can produce such effects? So please tell me what is the real reality behind this."

Then Mahāprabhu told that, "We hear from the scriptures that the love divine, that is the highest thing, and sometimes through that, Kṛṣṇa comes down. And by His inspiration so many things happening."

Then he had more inquisitiveness. "What is that thing? In our Islam, the Koran, all this is not mentioned. Ultimately it's something like impersonal God, mere impersonalism. But You say it is such, Kṛṣṇa, all these things."

Then Mahāprabhu had some talk, then summary is given. "That your Koran also contains such ____ [?]

Rue [?] means pure jīva, and esk [?] is the plane. Rue, the jīva soul may have esk, and that is the highest prospect of him. It is mentioned in your Koran. But your Ācāryas they do not understand that and they explain in some other way. But really it is there."

Then he remembered, he had some knowledge of Koran. "Yes, the esk, or rue, all these mentioned and such meaning is possible." Then he thought that, "He's not a man of ordinary type, Śrī Caitanyadeva. Anyhow He's of the highest standard of spiritual life." So he submitted. "What I saw, this is not an exhibition, it is natural feeling of love for the Supreme Lord. I want Your Grace. Please accept me as Your disciple, and make me blessed. I want Your blessings."

So Mahāprabhu asked him, "Yes. Chant Kṛṣṇa Nāma. Hare Kṛṣṇa. That is the only way to."

And those with that mullah, leader, with three of his followers became. One was Vijulī Khān. They accepted Mahāprabhu's Grace, and so they're taking Kṛṣṇa Nāma, Hare Kṛṣṇa mahā mantra. Their fame, they're known as Pāṭhāna Vaiṣṇavas. They came from the Pāṭhāna society, the section of the Muslims. So they were, rather this mission, as Pāṭhāna Vaiṣṇavas. Vaiṣṇavas coming from the Pāṭhāna section. In this way they got some acquaintance amongst the Vaiṣṇavas and society, the Pāṭhāna Vaiṣṇavas. One Vijulī Khān, he was a little advanced, in such realisation. That is the Pāṭhāna Vaiṣṇavas.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You're a little satisfied? Eh?

Devotee: Of course I'm satisfied. Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inner satisfaction, we're assured our inner demand. Eh? That we can have our inner fulfilment to the fullest extent. We can realise if we come near about Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. Kṛṣ ṇa, He attracts, and He gives satisfaction. And His nature is beautiful. Satyam, śivam, sundaram. Real beauty, ecstasy, love, all similar things, same, embodied. And that attracts everyone. The power also attracts but that is superficial. Real attraction is of love, anurāga, ānandam. We want to be happy. Sometimes we reject power while searching for ecstasy.

_____ [?] He was a son of a king, but he left his kingdom. There and then he left that position of power and enjoyment and for heart's satisfaction, for sukham, for ecstasy. He began to search and travel the whole area.

So Kṛṣṇa represents the beauty side, love divine. That is ecstasy, the mercy, all these higher things, above justice. Causeless, not under the jurisdiction of justice. A plenary and automatic, spontaneous flow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...clear, the God is Person, He's enjoyer, and everything to be enjoyed by Him. For Himself. Everything for Himself. He's for Himself. This is Vaiṣṇavism. He's for Himself and everything for Himself. That means He's enjoyer of everything, and we're to supply His enjoyment, our position, prakṛti. Prakṛti means the energy which moves, works. The working energy is prakṛti, and to what purpose? To fulfil His satisfaction. He's Puruṣa. Puruṣaḥ sukha-duḥkhānāṁ, bhoktṛtve hetur ucyate. So the symptom of Puruṣa is that He's the enjoyer of everything. And the nature of prakṛti is this, that he supplies the enjoyment, he's used for the enjoyment. Prakṛti Puruṣa.

And Puruṣa, eyed but lame. Two things both combined. The seer of the way is Puruṣa, guider. And the prakṛti is guided, moving.

Robin Sherwood: Robin.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Robin Crusoe?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A bird in the seashore? Where to be found? In the hill, or seashore?

Devotees: Forest.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Forest. Robin. A bird means, in Sanskrit, sound. In Sanskrit the rāva means sound. "My rāva." Kṛṣṇa-kṛṣṇa-rāva-bhāva-hāsya-lāsya-bhāsvaraṁ.

["Hopelessly overwhelmed by the wave of Love Divine, Lord Gaurasundara madly danced and chanted the Holy Names of Kṛṣṇa. A stream of tears fell from His eyes, with tear-drops falling onto His golden chest and His saffron garments that are the colour of sunlight. The earth itself was drenched in His tears, when He wandered here and there deeply absorbed in remembrance of the Divine Love that Śrī Rādhā feels for Śrī Kṛṣṇa. In the mood of mahā-bhāva, He would break out in loud laughter and without restraint would cry out at the top of His voice, "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa!" In this way, by the many different postures of His pastimes, the brilliance of His beauty and rapture was displayed to the highest degree for the fortunate devotees who were present there. I fall at the feet of Śrī Chaitanya Mahāprabhu, the Golden Volcano of Divine Love."]

[Śrī Śrī Premadhāma-deva-stotram, 40]

In Premadhāma-stotra. When Mahāprabhu was wandering in Vṛndāvana, loudly He's chanting Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa. And that sound, and that is of course backed by the bhāva, the inner emotion. Sometimes laughing, sometimes dancing, sometimes rolling on the ground, and tears flowing from the eyes so profusely that the ground below His foot is being wetted. In this way He's wandering in Vṛndāvana, thinking about Rādhā- Govinda. He went to Rādhā-Kuṇḍa, and there, suddenly He had some, He came out from His emotional mood, and asked, "Where is Rādhā-Kuṇḍa here?" _____ [?] "Where is Rādhā-Kuṇḍa?" He came out of His trance. And there was some paddy field, and He took some water from some paddy field, and bathed in that kuṇḍa. Afterwards there was a pond dug out, and now it is known as Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. That was forgotten by all, and the tank was also covered by earth, and that was transformed into a cultivating land.

But Mahāprabhu in His transcendental trance went nearby and asked the people, "Where is Rādhā- Kuṇḍa?"

"We do not know."

Then with His emotion He took some water from paddy field. And began to chant the stotram from the śāstra of Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. So this is the great nobility of this place, the highest place in Vṛndāvana. Where Kṛṣṇa with His most confidential group performed His līlā there, in the water, as well as on the bank. That is Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The land of spiritual love, transcendental love, love divine. Where sacrifice to the highest extent. Love means sacrifice, must be backed by sacrifice. The degree of sacrifice creates nobility. What is noble, there is sacrifice. And sacrifice to the highest degree for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa is found only there in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa līlā. The whole Vṛndāvana area, the holy land of spiritual sacrifice...

83.01.12.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Līlā, pastimes of Śrī Kṛṣṇa with His own group, selected few. That was performed there, to the highest degree. Rādhā-Kuṇḍa. The Name Rādhā means ārādhanā, that is sacrificing, worshipping. Worshipping also ārādhanā. Sacrifice is great, sacrifice is noble. Only sacrificed souls can live in that area of divine love. Not a tinge of this black enjoying, exploiting tendency, exploitation is black. The characteristic is not to be blamed but the motive of enjoyment that is bad, we are to take it, we are to understand that. The motive may be black, motive may be white, but the movement similar. Unbridled exploitation, that is the most heinous thing for us, that is the root of all disease. At the same time, sacrifice of infinite character, that holds the highest position, it knows no bounds of sacrifice. Surrender, the plane of surrender, the structure is there but the plain foundation is surrender, wholesale surrender, and the structure is going above, there is spiritual world, divine.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...there in America?

Student [Robin Sherwood ?]: Hmm, I'm a student.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A student? Studying in general line or any technical line?

Student: Philosophy and religion.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Philosophy, that is your subject? In what university you are a student of, the university, by name?

Student: San Francisco State University.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And where was this Dayādhara Gaurāṅga a professor? Do you know Dayādhara Gaurāṅga?

Devotee: No Mahārāja, I'm not familiar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's a Doctor there in some college and also research scholar he was. His previous name I forget. [Dr. Daniel Murphey Ph.D.] [Neuro]physiology perhaps was his department, researching.

So religion and philosophy, then you have not studied Hegel? Perfectionism, Hegel's philosophy is known as perfectionism, or panentheism, not pantheism but panentheism. The doctrine of Hegel's philosophy, German philosopher. Perfectionism. He says, "Absolute, absolute both conditioned, unconditioned combined. Thesis, antithesis, synthesis." That is his line. The progressive, every progressing, thesis, antithesis, and synthesis, in this method the whole thing is progressing. Panentheism is the name of his doctrine, and Perfectionism. The Absolute is by Itself and for Itself. Then die to live. These are his very chosen expressions. Die to live. If you want to live a proper life you will have to die as you are. Your ego must be dissolved and then the inner, finer self will come out. A good philosopher amongst the Westerners which helps Vaiṣṇavism, comes in the line of Vaiṣṇavism. Die to live. And He is the enjoyer.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, [bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["-Because I alone am the enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

This is the most vital point to establish God as person, He is the enjoyer. If anything is enjoyed the enjoyer will hold the supreme position, it cannot but be. Everything meant for His enjoyment then He is the Supreme, the Absolute is supreme and then everything meant for His satisfaction. A necessary truth and not questionable.

And also his one obiter dictum, that no object can exist without subject, there must be a thinker. I may say fossil, what is fossil? Black, hard, stony, but that is a state of a subject, thinking stage. Black, where is that black? A stage of consciousness. So any existence supposes subject, or consciousness. That is a strong point of argument. No object can exist without subject, and no subject can exist without object. Thinker and thought, if there is thinker he must be thinking something, the object is there. And if there is any object then what attribute it has got that must be reflected in the subject, otherwise no existence is possible, to stand. Do you follow?

Student: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: These are all Hegel's original conceptions, contributions. Very important philosopher, and very near to Eastern thinkers. Hegel's philosophy is very close to Rāmānuja's philosophy. And Kant's philosophy, Kant you know? Hegel, Kant, all these names you do not know? Whose name do you know?

Student: I studied most of the Eastern philosophers and avoided the Western.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Do you know Descartes who is told as the father of modern philosophy, Descartes. Locke, Hume, then Berkeley, the extreme subjective thinkers. Locke, Hume, Mill, Berkeley, Johnson, Kant, Hegel - all these Western philosophers.

Student: I prefer Eastern. I study Zen, and Taoism. I study Eastern philosophy the most. But I have to study the Western.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What? Śaṅkara? Yoga? What philosophies you study? Eastern philosophy is Sāṅkhya? Yoga? Nyāya? Vaiśeṣika?

Student: I studied Zen, Buddhism, and Taoism, from China.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: From China Christism (?), one previous prophet was in China before Buddhism, Christism (?) was present there in China. Taoism. Plato, have you studied Plato, Socrates, Plato?

Student: O yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Aristotle?

Student: I studied them a little.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Parallelism, parallelism by whom? Aristotle or Plato? This is also accepted to certain extent.

[na tatra sūryo bhāti candra-tārakaṁ, nema vidyuto bhānti kūto 'yam agniḥ]
tam eva bhāntam anubhāti sarvaṁ, tasya bhāsā sarvaṁ idaṁ vibhāti

["In the transcendental abode of the Lord there is no need of sun, moon, or stars for illumination, nor is there any need of electricity, what to speak of ignited lamps. On the other hand, it is because those planets are self-illuminating that all effulgence has become possible. Whatever there is that is dazzling is due to the reflection of the divine abode of the Lord. The Supreme Godhead is so brilliantly self-luminous that neither the sun, nor the moon, nor stars, nor lightning have any power of illumination in His transcendental abode, and what to speak of fire. It is a fact that all of them get their power of illumination from His effulgence alone. In fact, it is only because of His existence that the whole universe exists."]
[Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.2.10-2] & [Kathā-Upaniṣad, 2.2.25 - part 5, mantra 15]

This world's the perverted reflection of the original spiritual world. That is parallelism of Plato, parallelism. She's a student of philosophy and religion?

Devotee: Yes. And she was wondering have you any message for Haṁsadūta Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But this Dayādhara was given to me by Haṁsadūta Mahārāja?

Devotee: No, no, this is a letter from her. But she's returning to the area where Haṁsadūta Mahārāja is and was wondering if you have any message for Haṁsadūta Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nothing I can give to him. But only I can see him and meet me once I will be happy. If he comes here he may meet me. I want to see him, that is the meaning.
That Dayādhara Gaurāṅga what was his previous name? [Dr Daniel Murphey]. He was sent to me by Haṁsadūta Mahārāja. Haṁsadūta Mahārāja told that "I am initiating them there, but not all whom I think more in Malaysia." There is a centre of Haṁsadūta Mahārāja, he was working there, but there was some difference and he started a centre independently, I am told, in Malaysia. You have not seen him? Dayādhara Gaurāṅga.

Devotee: Yes, I've met him Mahārāja when he was here. I spoke with him one afternoon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you don't know his previous name, and previous address also?

Devotee: No, I don't Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But there must be office records.

Devotee: I think he mentioned he had gone to school in Texas, which is another state in America.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now he's in Malaysia, he has established a separate centre there in Malaysia. The other day we received a letter from him.

The ISKCON wanted to oust this Tamāla Kṛṣṇa, Haṁsadūta, and this Jayatīrtha Mahārāja. ISKCON wanted to oust these three Ācāryas. And Haṁsadūta Mahārāja came to me, Tamāla Kṛṣṇa, I called for the committee and some of the secretaries and Presidents came here. Bhāvānanda, Jayapatāka, and many others. And I told them that they're appointed from Swāmī Mahārāja direct, as Ācārya. So suddenly and eagerly you should not oust them and give any punishment. Then its whole structure will loose its prestige in the West. If anything wrong, settle it within yourself, make compromise, compromise. Otherwise the very root is śraddhā, faith, and the very foundation of faith will be shaken if three Ācāryas direct appointed by Swāmī Mahārāja you go against them and punish them. Then your own position will also be shaken towards the disciples. What do you think? All the Ācāryas are vulnerable, any day they may also do some wrong and maybe outcast. We hear also the took my advice and anyhow that compromise was made.

_____ [?] sent to me, special attraction for me. _____ [?]

Devotee: When I was in Vṛndāvana, the Goswāmī from Rādhāramaṇa Temple, he said that when your Guru Mahārāja came to Vṛndāvana he made much controversy because he was preaching Caitanya Mahāprabhu was Bhagavān. And he said that eventually a great debate was held in Bengal between the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇavas and those who were opposed to this idea of Mahāprabhu being God. Can you tell something about this?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The other day I told, perhaps you were not present.

The smārta section, that is generally the followers of Śaṅkara, they filed a petition to Mahārājah Krishna Candra of Krishna Nagar. "There was a famine or something at that time, the cause of this famine is that a man is being worshipped as God, that is the root." The smārta paṇḍits they gave signature to such petition.

So that Viṣṇu Prīya installed Mahāprabhu, so when they heard this news that this may be stopped or disturbed, then underground they built a provisional room, and there put the Śrī Mūrti and with some sweetmeats there they closed.

Then a dream was given to one Tota Rāma dāsa Bābājī in Vṛndāvana, he was a good Sanskrit scholar. And another dream was given to Rājā, the king of Manipur, he was a chief, giving some rent to the British. He was also Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, in the disciple line of Narottama Ṭhākura. And both of them came here.

Tota Rāma dāsa Bābājī came and he went straight to the king, that: "Paṇḍits of this locality they say that Śrī Caitanyadeva is a man and not God. So man worshipping must be abolished, stopped. Otherwise the people in general are suffering from famine and other natural catastrophe. So invite your scholars. I have come from Vṛndāvana to show that in many scriptures there is reference to the fact that Śrī Caitanyadeva is not a man but He is the Lord Himself, God Himself. I want to prove by quotations from the ancient scriptures. You call for your paṇḍits that are opposing to this fact."

So there was an assembly of the paṇḍits in Mahārājah's Krishna Nagar court. And Tota Rāma Bābājī he proved from the different quotations that Nāma-Saṅkīrtana is the Yuga-dharma. And to preach Yuga- dharma, Nāma-Saṅkīrtana, Bhagavān the incarnation of God comes down to establish. It is mentioned in many places, he showed those references. And the paṇḍits could not stand on his face.

And another, the Manipur Rāja, Mahārājah of Manipur, he also came and saw Krishna Candra who was inferior in position to him: "I want some land here as lease from you."

By his approach, Krishna Nagar Mahārājah he was very much satisfied that a man of higher position has come to see him. He offered, "Yes, not lease, I shall make a free gift to you as much land as you want were you please locate."

But, "No, no, I want lease from you."

Only dinar [athanni ?], half a rupee, lease. This Manipur soil was given by Krishna Nagar Mahārājah to that Manipur king. And there he constructed a temple and installed Mahāprabhu's sevā.

In the meantime when Tota Rāma dāsa defeated those śakta paṇḍits, then Mahāprabhu's sevāite at that time, they took up again from the underground room on the floor and began His regular pūjā, worshipping.

So after that, the construction finished here and Manipur Rāja he ordered that installation of Mahāprabhu must be done according to my dream. But they reported that original Mahāprabhu has already come up and regular worshipping is going on there. Then he put the name Anu-Mahāprabhu, Anu-pasya (?) after. That was main Mahāprabhu installed by Viṣṇu Prīya Devī, and next, after that, Mahāprabhu is installed here. So Anu-Mahāprabhu in Manipur side, there are two temples of the Manipur people here just on the front of that Devānanda Gauḍīya Maṭh, Manipur, two Deities. That Anu-Mahāprabhu is on the north side, that is ancient. And which is on the southern side, that was installed afterwards by a queen of Mahārājah.

But this is the story, that sometimes some objection came from the local scholars that Mahāprabhu is a man and not a devotee and not the Lord Himself. But it was proved by some paṇḍita Tota Rāma dāsa Bābājī. He was a scholarly bābājī and he from the scripture's quotations he proved that He was not a man, He was the Lord Himself. This is the story. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gone already, Robin, she has gone? Gone to Calcutta.

With one of you, this gentlemen who came from ISKCON?

Devotee: I have seen her before, I have seen her in Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vṛndāvana, six months ago she was in Vṛndāvana, she told. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: You once met with some big Muslim leaders in Pakistan, and you had very strong effect on them by your preaching. I was wondering how you approach preaching to Muslims?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I met perhaps twice, face to face, one in Allahabad, another in Dacca. The Dacca, he was a post graduate student, and in Allahabad he was a leader of the Muslim community but little liberal. He went by Bhagavad-gīta, or went through Bhagavad-gīta, had some knowledge. And this man was a student, his question was after I delivered a lecture in the university hall. Generally when before lecture we say that if any questions arises regarding some points delivered in the lecture, then don't disturb when the lecture is continuing. After the lecture is finished we shall answer any questions relating to religion. The lecture finished then one gentleman rose up and told: "Rāmacandra was the ideal king of your community."

"Yes."

"What is the justification of His murder, His killing a man who was born in a śūdra section, because he was engaged in penance. One, sambuk [?], a śūdra man, he began penances. A śūdra family man, by birth śūdra, he began penances, tapasya. And for that he was punished, he was dealt with by capital punishment by Rāmacandra. He Himself cut off his head. What religious conception may be there?" That was his question.

I answered, that who is śūdra? One who has to mourn, he's śūdra, sutaḥ dhari, sutaḥ means to mourn. One who mourns he's a śūdra. Whose property is mortal things, who is after search of mortal resources, he will have reaction when the things will go away. So śūdra means that.

So penance means to collect more power. Then collecting more power he will come to conquer the world, like Hiraṇyakaśipu, Rāvaṇa, etc. And that sort of struggle means a great disaster into the country, to give great trouble to a large portion of the country, troublesome. And as a reaction he will have to suffer the same effect. So, one who is making penance for acquisition of material property, that is not good for him and also for the people at large. So that was nipped in the bud. By being beheaded he was saved from that. You try to understand this.

And they're all satisfied in the principle of the Dacca college and came along with me. "Yes, I'm satisfied."

And another gentleman in Allahabad he came, my point I do not remember, to understand some portion of Bhagavad-gītā. He says: "I can't assimilate these things."

I helped him according to my might, that this is the solution here. And he was also satisfied.

Twice I meet Muslims I think and not a great affair.

Vidagdha Mādhava: One ISKCON devotee he's very much interested in diorama exhibition work, clay dolls. A sculpture of clay, straw dolls, painted. Sometimes scenes from Bhagavad-gītā, maybe Kṛṣṇa līlā, Rāma līlā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Construct so many Mūrtis?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes, it is, Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Prabhupāda, he arranged for a very large exhibit. And Bon Mahārāja said that this exhibit was documented. This one devotee is asking if you might know were this exhibit is documented, where one might find out more information about this particular exhibit? It was very successful. Crores of rupees came with, many, many crores of people saw the exhibits.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Exhibition, yes. He came to see the exhibition?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No, this devotee he wants to research information on this exhibit of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura. He wants to research more information, for more dioramas. And he's asking if you know possibly, is it Dacca where this exhibit was mostly? Or where it might be documented, there might be more information somewhere?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With relation to place, in Calcutta, in Navadwīpa, and Dacca, Allahabad, Benares, Patna, all these places. And in Kurukṣetra also, near Delhi. By exhibition, the līlā was shown to the public. Here such incidents took place, in Delhi, Kṛṣṇa came with His party from Dvārakā, and the gopīs also went from Vṛndāvana, met together. And what conversation, and all these things in Bhāgavatam and other places, and that was shown by figures there, in Kurukṣetra. Then the Calcutta exhibition, first year in a small scale, and next time it was in a higher scale, and it attracted a large number of people from different parts. And then in Māyāpura also an exhibition was shown, there also attracted the local people. And then again it was taken to Benares, Allahabad, and perhaps Patna.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Were there any pictures taken of this exhibit, any photographs?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Might have been, old Gauḍīya-Patrikā might have published such, the portrait of these exhibitions.

Vidagdha Mādhava: That's in Calcutta, Gauḍīya-Patrikā ?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They may have anywhere, even those Gauḍīya-Patrikā may be with this Manovirama (?) Prabhu. Or here, with the old members, old subscribers of Gauḍīya, with them it may be found.

Devotee: Mahārāja, some of the scholars, many of the scholars believe that the Āryans came from out of India into India. Maybe two thousand twenty-five hundred years ago, and they were not here five thousand years ago.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The name India, that is given, not a very ancient word. Sind, the Hind, Hind means from the Sindhu River in Punjab, now in Pakistan, Sind. The Muslims they called it Hind. And which is on the other side of the Sindhu River, that is Hindhustan India. In this way the name has come. But Bhārata-varṣa, Hari-varṣa, Kimpuruṣa-varṣa, in this way divided we find in Bhāgavatam and other places. And the jurisdiction, how much it is difficult to say now. Because the Himālayan Mountain was lower, now it has gone up. And so the places of the Āryans they have come on this side, from the peaks of the mountains are forced to come this side. Badarikāśrama where Vyāsadeva lived, that is also now so high. On that side, the Saraswatī River, Ambarīṣa Mahārāja, that ancient emperor, he used to perform yajñā on the banks of the Saraswatī that goes towards Dibyart [?] and other higher places. That was lower at that time, now Himālaya going up. And they're also going up, too much cold, they're migrating this side.

Devotee: Did the mountains go up suddenly or gradually?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then it is not, gradually it is this way spreading.

This is all from the empirical representation, but the spiritual representation is quite different.

It is in the line of Berkeley. "Not that we are in the world, but world is within us."

Mind is not in the world, world is in the mind, to everyone. The world means the conception of the world, nothing else. So the subjective reality, that is the most basic and fundamental. And this, what we say this gross material world, that is only idea. Ha, ha, ha. What one man sees another man may not see the same thing. As A sees B may not see the same sight as A sees, maybe different.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I remember once I read an interview with Swāmī Prabhupāda and one gentleman.

And the gentleman said: "Well, chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa is very nice, but still we want the material things."

So Swāmī Mahārāja said: "Well, chant Hare Kṛṣṇa and you will get that too, you will be satisfied."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I can't follow what he says.

Vidagdha Mādhava: He said one man was speaking to Swāmī Mahārāja, and Swāmī Mahārāja he said, "Chant Hare Kṛṣṇa."

The man he said, "But Swāmījī, I want material things."

So our Swāmī Mahārāja said, "Then chant Hare Kṛṣṇa and you will get those things also. You'll become satisfied materially and spiritually."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Vidagdha Mādhava: So he's asking is that...

Devotee: I was asking, you mentioned just before about performing austerities and penances for material things.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? What's his point?

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's saying previously you spoke about austerities and penances to attain material ends, material gain.

Devotee: That would not be the same as chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa in the material sense?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha.

Vidagdha Mādhava: No, he's saying it is not the same as chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa. That's his question. Austerities and penances for material things is not the same as chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa?

83.01.12.C

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I was told, one gentleman he had insomnia, no sleep.

Then someone asked him, "Go to Swāmī Mahārāja, join kīrtana party."

He came and the Hare Kṛṣṇa movement, the chanting was going on. Then anyhow some sleeping tendency came in him. And he was very much satisfied and also he gave good contribution, he was a rich man. Because he fainted, ha, ha.

As Swāmī Mahārāja told to Acyutānanda Prabhu, "What talk I had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja if I give it to you you'll faint."

So Hare Kṛṣṇa is such that he can't tolerate the least of it. The enemy force takes him away unconsciously. Ha, ha, ha. And your answer, na caidui nai gune sesa phala phalday [?]

Sometimes the real aim of Hare Kṛṣṇa movement is towards the land of Kṛṣṇa. But there may be a little slip, it may not be properly done. Whatever little defect here and there, that gives some benefit of this material world. It's proper aim towards Kṛṣṇa. But due to defect within us when we engage ourselves in that sort of realisation some internal defects appear. And in connection with that Hare Kṛṣṇa these worldly achievements come very easily, though we do not want it sometimes. In it's retinue from the negative side it appears, we are told. But that is not the object of pure devotion. Still, because there is some defect in that sort of realisation due to defective tendency, some unwanted auxiliary things are produced, sometimes. Nāma-aparādha, the offences to the Name, that sometimes contributes these worldly achievements, and not pure Name.

Vidagdha Mādhava: These are like weeds? These are what are called the weeds of chanting offensively? It's a watering process, and these weeds grow?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that may be something like that.

Devotee: But sometimes Mahārāja a person may only be interested in getting material things. A person may...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: They also do, that sakāma-upāsanā, that is not pure devotion. There are so many who are worshipping and getting.

kāmais tais hṛta-jñānāḥ, prapadyante 'nya-devatāḥ
[taṁ taṁ niyamam āsthāya, prakṛtyā niyatāḥ svayā]

["Persons whose good intelligence has been spoiled by illicit desires for exploitation and renunciation or other duplicitous pursuits, worship other godly personalities such as the Sun-god and the many demigods. Being enslaved by their instinct, they adopt the corresponding rules and regulations of fasting and other tenets accordingly."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.20]

And commits offence also. So many process of worship where they file a petition. "I want this, this, these things also. I'm saṅkalpa. I worship You. Please give me these things." And by that prayerful mood sometimes the gift comes.

krsna bhali ami bhaje magie visay shuk, amrta chadi vismagia sei bara mukha [?]

Sometimes He protects His devotee from such side issues, and sometimes He avoids. More bhakti, śuddha-bhakti, that means Kṛṣṇa to give Himself up to that person, the worshipper. Śuddha-bhakti means he wants to attract Kṛṣṇa Himself. But when Kṛṣṇa likes to avoid him He gives some other thing, and comes away. There is some intrinsic disability or impurity in the worshipper when Kṛṣṇa He deals in such a way, deceives him. The worshipper is formal but not very sincere, in that case it comes to happen like that.

Gaura Hari.

Devotee: In the Bhāgavatam, the appearance of Lord Buddha is given and His mission is given. But why did the Lord throw out the whole Vedic system?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not one Buddha, there are different Buddhas. Budhā means wise, from buddhi budhā, wise man. So Buddha is not one, there are different Buddhas. Different Kapilas, Kapilas are not one, one Kapila, Godless, one Buddha Godless, another Buddha incarnation of God.

Devotee: Godless Buddha, why did he come and throw out whole Vedas? Instead of coming as reformer, using the Vedas...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So many came reformer, not only Buddha, Buddha, there are so many persons, stalwarts, they come to preach their own doctrine, mostly atheistic.

Devotee: But if the Buddha was incarnation, Avatāra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That, he's another, what recognition in Bhāgavatam, Daśa-Avatāra Buddha, that is another Buddha. And this Buddha is another, nasthika Buddha, atheistic Buddha.

Buddha does not believe in the existence of soul even, not only God but jīva soul does not exist. But only he believes in transmigration of soul. He believes in the mental system and transmigration.

The Cārvāka, like a peculiar things, with the dissolution of this body nothing remains. But Buddha says with the dissolution of this body the mental system remains, and when the mental system is dissolved nothing remains. That is the atheist Buddha.

And the Avatāra Buddha, incarnation Buddha, He also came to preach against the yajñā, the karma-kāṇḍiyas. "Who will take, to kill the animals, leave them, it is reactionary. You rather take the holy path towards the realisation. You are making too much of the sacrifices of the beasts in the name of the Lord." He came with that object. When the sacrifice of the beasts was increased to its highest degree, then as a reaction to that Buddha came to preach. "Don't, in the name of the Lord, don't kill so many beasts in the world. Take some sattvika course."

There was a case in Buddha Gayā between the Buddhist and the Śaṅkara school. Śaṅkara school accepts Buddha as incarnation of God. And the atheist Buddhists they demanded that Buddha Gayā, that that must come to our administration. But the Śaṅkara school they put a suit into the court, brought a suit, "That this is not their Buddha, it is our Buddha. He's Avatāra, He's not atheist." And I was told that the Śaṅkara school they gained the case.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, are they dealing with the same personality or two different persons entirely?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Two different persons.

Vidagdha Mādhava: They appeared at the same time?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Then when did the atheist Buddha appear?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That's not very particularly known. In Bhāgavatam it is mentioned, buddho nāmnāñjana-sutaḥ, añjanā-sutaḥ buddha, kīkaṭeṣu bhaviṣyati.

[tataḥ kalau sampravṛtte, sammohāya sura-dviṣām buddho nāmnāñjana-sutaḥ, kīkaṭeṣu bhaviṣyati]

["Then, in the beginning of Kali-yuga, the Lord will appear as Lord Buddha, the son of Añjanā, in the province of Gayā, just for the purpose of deluding those who are envious of the faithful theist."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.24]

And this Buddha's mother was Mahā-Māyā, not Añjanā. In Bhāgavatam it is mentioned that Añjanā was the mother of Buddha, buddho nāmnāñjana-sutaḥ. Mother's name was Mahā-Māyā.

Devotee: Yes, He appeared in Nepal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Nepal. And that Buddha appeared in Gayā, Bihar.

Vidagdha Mādhava: In the incarnation Buddha He also preached non-violence.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, sauddhi niscat [?] He also preached non-violence against the comprehensive sacrifice of so many beasts ruthlessly. He stood against that.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Sometime ago you quoted one verse where Mahāprabhu was telling that people are so fallen in this Kali-yuga that some will imitate this chanting and dancing and simply go to hell. Could you explain how can someone chant the Holy Name and go to hell?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That only imitation. Though the taking the Name is so generous and so much effective to give out the highest thing, but it is deplorable that in spite of such a great gracious provision, there are some people who will imitate it and take advantage of this and do so much mischievous activity. That outwardly doing, imitating all these things, they will have ultimately to vanish. There is a saying.

kali kale loksa sankir sankir korive nasiya gaya sesh nara kiti yaidesh [?]

Where it is I don't remember. Maybe in Caitanya-maṅgala or somewhere. Mahāprabhu is addressing Nityānanda Prabhu. "We are trying Our hardest to give so maximum thing to the lowest section, unqualified. We are giving things very liberally. With least energy they will achieve the greatest gain. But still a reactionary school will come and they will spoil this movement by filthy imitation."

Vidagdha Mādhava: Meaning they won't follow principles?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Won't mark the very substance. But they will try to take advantage of the outer cover. They will try to utilise this good thing for very mean purpose. Just as the sahajiyā section, they're connecting sense pleasure, mixing with so much high things. In spite of the strong statement of the Ācārya, that,

[ataeva kāma-preme bahuta antara] kāma--andhatamaḥ, prema--nirmmala bhāskara

["There is a gulf of difference between lust and love; lust is dense darkness, love is the brightest sun."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 4.171]

One is the dense darkness and another is the glowing sun, but still they mix together. Āula, Bāula, Karttābhajā, Neḍā, Daraveśa, Sāṅi, all these things, sahajiyā, sakhībhekī. They will imitate these things, the spirit is eliminated and mere imitation, physical imitation. As Jayatīrtha Mahārāja is supposed to be doing, mixing with intoxication. Through intoxication making experiments that with addition of intoxication he will quickly go to Goloka, to Kṛṣṇa, very quickly. The material thing will help him to go to the spiritual world very, very quickly. A mania, a mean mania has caught him, captured him.

The fundamental difference, no material thing can give spiritual thing. Kṛṣṇa can give Himself, He alone He Himself can give Himself. And His own agents also can direct us to take us towards Him. That is also He. He can only give Him, none else. He's Absolute. What is Absolute? The Absolute if He kindly condescends to accept us then we may be accepted. Otherwise other foreign things will deal with Kṛṣṇa like a market commodity, it is an absurd foolishness. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. Bhakti is its own origin. Nothing can produce bhakti. No other thing can produce bhakti. Bhakti is the most elemental, the highest elemental security is there.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, which can only be obtained from those who have it for bhakti alone can cause bhakti. Thus, even within this world, their spiritual bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

Most original substance is devotion, the service. Kṛṣṇa, the devotion, all these things. The most plenary, the deepest. Beyond that, no existence of anything. So He can give Himself, none can give Himself. Bhakti means His grace. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. Bhakti is the cause of bhakti. If bhakti comes through another's heart, it may come from the bhakti of the heart of a devotee it is transformed, it transfers there. Just as from one light another light is lit, one candle, another candle is lit. Something from the heart of a devotee devotion is coming, it is suppressed and comes to rise, helps to rise. The fundamental principle of devotion has been ignored when we think that any other ulterior things they can give me God. Ha, very, very foolish curse, cursed mentality.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. If anything can give God, then who can give he will be a thousand times more valuable than God. _____ [?] That is greater than God that can give God.

No other alternative but to surrender to that unparalleled substance. And He can give Him to us, nothing else. Then His quality of Absolute is disturbed, He's not Absolute. By a drug, a drug can give God. That is adhokṣaja. The drug cannot help to go that way, the way towards Him. It is His divine will, will descend, grace, and may take us there.

Devotee: If the Lord chooses, if someone is taking such intoxication out of desperation, sometimes the Lord can give realisation out of mercy? If the attempt is sincere, and someone takes intoxication, if it is sincere from the heart, a desperate search...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is sincere?

Devotee: Well, sometimes a soul becomes confused. I had one experience when I left ISKCON. My faith was almost completely destroyed. But without Kṛṣṇa it is like living hell. Without conception of God it is like hell, it is the worst hell. So in desperation I took some LSD. And then I realised that there's no escape from this world except by the mercy of Kṛṣṇa. And that there is nothing I can do except serve Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The knowledge which is drawn from that stage, that is vulnerable. That is no Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is absolute, does not depend on anything else but He.

Devotee: I swore not to take it again, ever again. I saw that coming from Kṛṣṇa, that realisation, not from the drug, that His mercy descended.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then how can you attribute that claim to the drug?

Devotee: No, not any more.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So in spite of that drug application, if some consciousness might have come, then come from other source, in spite of the opposition of the drug. Drug is tama-guṇa, tama-guṇa, raja-guṇa, tama-guṇa. Tama means which creates idleness, inactivity, sleep, that is tama-guṇa, idleness, tama-guṇa. Moha, illusion, all tama-guṇa. The worst condition of the soul.

Devotee: There is one theory that our karma and our spiritual realisations, they are programmed into our genes, within the body. And that at a certain point automatically they release, and such drugs sometimes speeds up. That is a theory.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: There's one theory that in the genetic code, in the genes, past karma is stored up. Also some spiritual karma, spiritual realisation unfolds from these genes. This is some theory. I don't know. And Bhargava Prabhu says the drugs, some say, speed up the process of the release of this realisation. It is pretty far out.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. You defeat yourself in the argument.

Devotee: But actually I'm asking is karma in the genes?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You try to understand. You think that everything within the gene. Then what's the Absolute? Every gene is an Absolute?

Devotee: Not Absolute. But basically, actually what I was asking, is the karma...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You try to think what is the position of the Absolute. By Absolute what does He mean?

Devotee: He has complete power.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wholesale. Against Him nothing can be done. Nothing can be done without His pleasure. The Absolute accommodates the whole within Him. The whole. Positive and negative way, conditioned unconditioned, and they're both controlled by the Absolute. The negative side and the positive side. The negative, this māyā negative, what is other than absolute. So what gene, gene are innumerable, and you say the Absolute is innumerable? Gene contains everything within it? And the gene can evolve Absolute within him? What do you think?

Devotee: Maybe not completely. But they're saying some realisation can come, some, partial.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah. That is avidyā, that is misconception, some sort of misconception _____ [?]

Absolute has reserved all the rights of being known to any other place. It is reserved in His own hand, then He's Absolute. If against His will anyone can capture Him or any part of Him, He's not Absolute. Not a second thing can control the Absolute. If it can then He's not Absolute. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas. Whom He will favour to attract, he will know, not others.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Supersoul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

The yogīs, jñānis, so many, Vedāntists, none - yam evaiṣa vṛnute - Absolute accepts whom? He will know Him as much as He will unfold to him. That is the Absolute.

Devotee: So it is coming from without, not from within?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is His. It must have to come down from Him, to be accepted. If He wants him to know, to anyone, he will know. If He does not want, none can know Him. That is the characteristic of Absolute. We cannot make Him subject of our consciousness, never. Our consciousness is gross, filthy, of lower materials. It cannot reach there. He can come down to us and show, 'I'm such and such.' If He withdraws, we're helpless, we're nowhere.

Vidagdha Mādhava: As you said the other day, spirit cannot come from matter, but spirit can go everywhere.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The ether can go everywhere, within every atom. But every atom, this sand dust cannot enter into ether. That is most fine thing. That is all pervasive. But the sand dust is not all pervasive. X-ray can pass through the wall, but that does not mean that wall can pass through x-ray.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Force Him to do anything? None without Him can interfere anything about which is His. He's Absolute. Intoxication can give us God? To think this is to invite sin. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā. Only God consciousness can produce God consciousness, nothing else. Only Kṛṣṇa consciousness can give us Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and no other thing, no other substance. What do you say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Some say this intoxication brings one close to death. And because a person is close to death, dying...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Close to? Death? Dying and poison, that also the faith must be there. That is controlling, poison, intoxication, many things can give end to this body of clay. Overfeeding may also give, the gas, heart failing, all these things, so many. Why intoxication? Intoxication, poison, many things can destroy this body of flesh and blood.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I've met many people who smoke ganja in order to try to imitate activities of Lord Śiva. Is there any place in the scriptures where...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just as in war time some _____ [?] was invented, for food. So the persons who were fond of renunciation they lived in the jungle, in the forest. With no sufficient dress, clothing available, they take some drugs, so that if it helps them from too much cold, as well as too much heat. Just like clothing, clothing also the cotton clothing, and also the wool clothing saves us more from the cold, more effective. In that way some sort of food may keep up the warmth in the body, preserve the heat in the body. But all meant for this body. A little comfort, we take some help of some wool. And they with this medicine they are in this cool atmosphere. Sometimes in the sun also helps this body to remain comfortable. But that has got no connection that they will help them to get God near them, not that. Only bodily comfort, and they may render, in heat and cold, and sometimes also from hunger. If we use this bilavatra [?] some leaf, the hunger is lessened. Like medicine so many things may be used like medicine purpose to protect this body. Then, to have connection with the Absolute, these things cannot help any way. They can give the body, just as food and medicine, something like that.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Is there some scripture mentioning Lord Śiva smoking ganja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, maybe, there may be, he did?

Devotee: These intoxicating mushrooms are very popular in the West. One man wrote a book and he was using his reference from the Vedas. He was saying what they call soma-rasa was actually coming from the mushroom.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Soma rasa, that is a kind of wine that was generally taken by the gods here. That does not mean that soma rasa can give, force the Absolute, the God, to come, to appear.

Any second thing cannot force the Absolute to come here. This very simple thing you can't follow. Then He's not Absolute, Absolute is He against whose will nothing can be done, then He's Absolute. That is the meaning of Absolute. Absolute if He's dependant on some other thing then He may not be Absolute.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Even soma rasa that is simply meant for some mundane effect?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, social mundane, intoxication means social mundane. What is there, soma rasa? This must have that as prasādam, can help us to approach towards Kṛṣṇa, it has connection with Kṛṣṇa, so. Otherwise not connection with Kṛṣṇa some material thing, however that pure it may be considered, it cannot do anything. No contribution for there. Only Kṛṣṇa, His relationship, His connection can contribute Kṛṣṇa, our energy can be taken to Kṛṣṇa. His connection. Nothing which has not got His connection can help us approach towards Him, then He's not Absolute.

nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
[yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

In Upaniṣad, this ātmā, this great spiritual substance, can never be attained, pravacanena, by hard discussion, na medhayā, by sharp memory, na bahunā śrutena, vast learnedness. Nothing can produce Him, force Him to come. But yam evaiṣa vṛnute, na bahunā śrutena, the vast learning of the revealed scripture also cannot give Him. Vastly learned in all the revealed scripture, but that also won't help him to give God. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute. The very spirit of the thing is this, that He will come to accept whom he will get. The only way, that He must come for acceptance. That is sweet will. Nothing can force Him. His sweet will will come to welcome Him he will get Him, no other course. Not a second or third thing can help even very little, crores, or millions parts of a hair can never help, impossible. He can give Himself, nothing else.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. By nature He's such. It is so high, so strong, so subtle, so powerful, so autocrat, so independent, that nothing can tackle Him. He can only tackle Him, He's self-sufficient. Against His will nothing can be done. Even the intoxication is giving some sort of effects to a man, if He likes He can withdraw. You may take intoxication a thousand times more, but if His will comes in touch, no effects can be produced. He has got such power over everything. He can take away the power, the attributes, from everything. What to speak of these drugs, and change it in another way. He can design and He can destine. Everything is designed and destined by Him. He can take away their own nature and give another nature to that. The ice may loose its coolness if He wills. Prahlāda was thrown into fire but fire could not burn him. When Prahlāda was applied poison, poison had no effect on him for His interference, His touch. The Master, His power is unbridled everywhere. Such must be His conception. Not exclusive from us and other society with some paramount power, may be big power, is it not, everywhere? He can stop everything, He can dissolve the whole thing into ashes in less than a second. His will is law. His will is unchangeable and un- opposable. No opposition may be effective there. He's such.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's not a party, and so many other parties are standing and deciding. Everywhere He is, and everything is in His full control.

Now I close.

...

According to the solar calculation this is the day when Mahāprabhu went to Katwa to take sannyāsa. [The day of Makara-sāṅkrantī in January of 1510]. He swam, crossed by swimming the Ganges, and with wet cloth ran towards Katwa. He eagerly expressed to a very few of His friends, Nityānanda, Mukunda, etc., that: "My renunciation, the role of renunciation is coming very near. And that will take place in Katwa from Keśava Bhāratī Mahārāja."

He left Viṣṇu Prīya Devī sleeping perhaps on the bed. Śacī Devī, mother, she got some scent, she sat on the gate. Mahāprabhu showing some respect to her went away. She could not speak anything, was dumb.

The day before, from the afternoon up till evening, there was a spontaneous attraction of the devotees and they gathered there out of their own accord with some flower garlands, or anything else to be presented to the Lord. Mahāprabhu accepted those garlands, and again He put them on the necks of the devotees and appealed to them.

"Don't do anything but always take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Always, working, eating, sleeping, whatever you do, take the Name of Kṛṣṇa continuous. Remember your home, your Lord. This is foreign land, nothing to aspire after here. Try always to go home, home recollection. In a nutshell I say to you come back to home."

Then suddenly in the morning the devotees heard that Nimāi Paṇḍit, Śrī Gaurāṅga has left Navadwīpa. And then they could know He has gone to Katwa, Keśava Bhāratī's āśrama to take sannyāsa and to bid goodbye to the people of Navadwīpa for all, for ever. A dark shadow came down. Many began to cry for Him. Many of them ran towards Katwa.

Then Mahāprabhu, Śrī Nimāi Paṇḍit, the unprecedented scholar, and beautiful figure, and tall, fair, benevolent, who has already made the people mad with saṅkīrtana. Already relieved Jagāi Mādhāi from their evil, nasty life. Checked the Mohammedan ruler Chānd Kāzī - gave a good check because in some place he broke the mṛdaṅga.

After all these things that famous Paṇḍit He has also defeated many scholars who came to conquer Navadwīpa which was very much renowned for its high culture. Especially Indian logic, nyāya śāstra. Nyāya, tantra, smṛti, all these departments of Vedic scripture were in high culture at that time in Navadwīpa. Big renowned place of scholarship. And paṇḍits, or scholars, if they could not defeat the scholars of Navadwīpa, they may not have any fame at that time. So from Kashmir also Keśava Kāśmīrī, he had to come also to Navadwīpa to get certificate that he's a paṇḍit. And Keśava Kāśmīrī was defeated by Nimāi Paṇḍit. He was so big a paṇḍit, he was already rumoured that he was the favourite child of the goddess of learning, Saraswatī. So none can face him. But he was defeated by Nimāi Paṇḍit.

So such Nimāi Paṇḍit left Navadwīpa forever. Taking sannyāsa He left. Because the people of Nadia could not appreciate Him. Came in opposition party it is said. The tantrics, the śākta, the worshipper of this low things, that the goddess, that prakṛti. Prakrti is the highest entity. Śākt, power, and not consciousness. Power is the ultimate reality and everything comes out of that. So consciousness is a product of power. That means fossilism to the extreme. Potency creates consciousness, that is fossilism. Without consciousness potency is matter, fossil. Einstein also said matter transformed into power, power into matter, atom to force, force to atom. So they, in the colour of some consciousness, they formed the śākta party. Śākti is all in all, potency is all in all, and consciousness is produced, the child of potency.

They began to abuse Nimāi Paṇḍit.

Nimāi Paṇḍit thought that, "I came to deliver the lowest, meanest. But if they commit offence against Me then there will be no hope for them to rise again." So, korila pippalikhanda kapha nibārite, ulatiyā āro kapha baḍila dehete

["Oh, I came to make a drastic treatment of the cold, but I see that what I came to give, that has an opposite reaction. The highest type of medicine I administered, but I find that the patient is such, that this is increasing his disease. Then what to do? I came to work out relief for the people, and the people they are standing against Me, the well-wisher, the relief giver. Then, what may be the remedy for them?"]

Suddenly He chanted this śloka. Pippalikhanda is the greatest medicine, for cough means, caught by cold. Cough means this mucus which is generated by cold, cough. Pneumonia is a form of disease, different, pleurisy, pneumonia, then so many other symptoms also may come, but the coolness, cold is the cause. In Āyurveda the pippalikhanda, what is the English of pippali? The ginger, then black pepper, and pippali also, thin, long something is very...

Devotee: Cayenne pepper? Red pepper?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not red, black. That is a good medicine for cough. So pippalikhanda is the preparation of that pippali, that is the greatest medicine for cough.

So Mahāprabhu suddenly spoke aloud, "I came with the greatest relief, medicine, for the people, the highest order. But I find that the disease is increasing with very high speed. And they're committing offence against Me, abusing the doctor, making arrangements to insult Me. So they take Me that I am as one of them, I am a gṛhastha. I am their sister's son, father's sister's son, as one of them they're taking Me. So at least I have to show that I am not one of you." Then He contemplated for this sannyāsa āśrama. "I shall leave the gṛhastha āśrama and take sannyāsa and wander from village to village, town to town, preaching Kṛṣṇa Nāma." That was His desire, and then He went to do that.

Today He reached Katwa. Just on the banks there was one sannyāsī, Keśava Bhāratī. He went to him and asked for sannyāsa. Keśava Bhāratī suddenly found that his āśrama is full of lustre. A bright person is approaching towards him. He rose from his seat and with strained eye approached, "What?" Then he came to know that Nimāi Paṇḍit has come, that great devotee scholar.

And Mahāprabhu also appealed to him, "I want sannyāsa from you."

In the meantime that is an auspicious day. So many people are going to take bath in the holy water of Ganges, they gathered there. And the rumour spread like fire, "Nimāi Paṇḍit of Navadwīpa has come to take sannyāsa." That red-clothed man, there was a big crowd, and part of the population they raised their voice against the sannyāsa. "You Keśava Bharatī, we won't allow you to give sannyāsa to this young man. He has got His family, His mother, father, wife, children, we do not know. But such a beautiful and bright person you want to give sannyāsa to Him? We won't allow it." They opposed him.

So the whole day passed on, no decision. Mahāprabhu pressing, then at last that Keśava Bharatī told that, "You must take the permission of Your mother - otherwise I won't, I can't do."

Mahāprabhu began running towards Navadwīpa back again. Then Keśava Bharatī thought, "He can do anything and everything, He has such a commanding personality." Again He was taken back.

Then also a few of His previous friends were present gradually. Candraśekhara His maternal uncle, Mahāprabhu's maternal uncle Candraśekhara. Then Nityānanda Prabhu, Mukunda Datta and Jagadānanda Paṇḍit, these four gradually reached the place. So this day passed. Mahāprabhu began kīrtana there. A crowd going and coming. The whole day passed. Some tried perhaps to make Him drink a little milk or so. Anyhow the mob was sometimes creating disturbance in this way. Then the next day, that is tomorrow also, somewhat opposition. And ultimately the appeal of Mahāprabhu, that pacified the mob, and a little before afternoon the sannyāsa was finished.

Before sannyāsa He gave name: "The mantram, is this the mantram you are to give Me?" He put to the ear of His Guru.

And Guru accepted, "Yes, this mantra I shall give."

In this way, tomorrow, the sannyāsa took place.

What is this sannyāsa? Is it redundant, auxiliary, or it is a necessary part, of bhajana? It is desirable though apparently undesirable, still it has got its necessity deep rooted. Co-relation, union and separation. Without separation union cannot be deep rooted. Plane of separation can enter into the depth more than the _____ [?] And because of such apprehension, or the want, the more we learn to want, the more we shall gain in satisfaction. Especially in love affairs. Everywhere if there is no want, then there is no necessity of that thing. Suppose a glass of water, it is valuable according to the degree of necessity. Ordinarily a glass of water, but according to the degree of necessity its value will increase. So degree of necessity. Necessity is rather separation. Necessity independent of gain, fulfilment, is separation, hunger, necessity.

So we find both in Navadwīpa and Vṛndāvana līlā, in both the places the separation is playing a great part, or rather the greatest part. How many years union of Kṛṣṇa with the gopīs? Very few years, from seven to twelve, five years. Saptahayana [?] From seven years, age of Kṛṣṇa, up to twelve years He was in Vṛndāvana. After twelve He went to Mathurā.

But it is mentioned in Padma-Purāṇa that in peculiar cases, extraordinary cases, the growth should be considered as one and a half degree. When He was eight years He should be considered as twelve years. When He was twelve years He should be considered as eighteen years. In special cases. So say from twelve to eighteen years Kṛṣṇa was there. He goes according to growth, but according to nyāya, seven to twelve.

For long time He stayed in Dvārakā. Altogether He showed His longevity here, one hundred and twenty-five years. Long, long separation, and the pangs of separation, the pains of separation, that was almost the whole life of the gopīs. And that has made them so dignified, so dignified. Test is there, whether it is love real, the test is in the separation. So long standing separation, so much test is never found. And the depth did not diminish, ha, ha, ever increasing depth which is impossible almost, to the last day.

And both the cases, the background almost similar. Here also in Navadwīpa, to meet the opposite party with victory, to be victorious, to gain victory over the opposite party, Mahāprabhu left His household life to control them here in Nadia.

And in Vṛndāvana līlā it is also similar, but a little different that the oppositions in Vṛndāvana līlā was coming from Mathurā side. Aghā, Bakā, Pūtana, Tṛnāvarta, they're all being sent by Kaṁsa from Mathurā. So to uproot the opposition group Kṛṣṇa had to go to Mathurā. And when He went there He found that it is widespread. The Kaṁsa had his father-in-law Jarāsandha, then this Kālayavana, all these things, Śiśupāla, Dantavakra, and so many enemies. And after finishing them He'll have to come to Vṛndāvana to play peacefully with these damsels. But that is also to uproot the opposition party Kṛṣṇa had to go to away.

And He told in Kurukṣetra, "There are several other oppositionist. Finishing them I'm coming to be united with you very soon." That sort of hope was given in Kurukṣetra to the gopīs. "I'm coming soon. Only a few more obstacles are there. Let Me finish and then I'm coming to be united with you."

And here also to conquer the opposition party Mahāprabhu had to go away from the place. And then conquering, after His conquest of the whole Āryan scholars, and religionists of different positions and creed, after five years when He came only after conquering the religious scholars of the south that was very famous at that time after five years when He came back to Navadwīpa, then Nadia, was another position, another different nature.

The mass approached Him madly. Which is difficult to conceive, the mass with how much madness approached Śrī Caitanyadeva, the child of their own village, soil. They crossed the Ganges and the whole of the Ganges as far as could be seen was filled with human heads, as they're crossing. This has been, the way they're passing, no jungle is left, all being cleared by human feet. The jungles are all cleared, they're going, running in such a way. And only for two days Mahāprabhu stayed with Vidyāvācaspati Mīśra in Vidyānagar then went towards Vṛndāvana. And sing.

yāhāṅ yāhāṅ prabhura caraṇa paḍaye calite se mṛttikā laya loka, garta haya pathe

["Wherever the Lord touched the ground with His lotus feet, people immediately came and gathered the dirt. Indeed, they gathered so much that many holes were created in the road."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 1.165]

Wherever He was putting His steps, the people behind taking earth from there. All going and taking earth and pits are being created. In this way.

About eighteen years He lived a scholarly life. After that, about six years the home preaching saṅkīrtana. And at twenty-four years He took sannyāsa. And after twenty-four years, six years He wandered through the length and breadth of India, including Vṛndāvana. And the last eighteen years He was posted in Purī, then He stayed continuously in Purī. First six years He mixed with the general public. And the last twelve years He almost retired from the whole human society and engaged Himself deeply in the tasting the separation, union in separation of Rādhā-Govinda. And so many extraordinary signs were present, were expressed in His apparent body which can never be experienced anywhere, not even heard of. The separation can produce so much, such a wonderful effect in the body, mind, all these things.

Śrī Gaurāṅga Avatāra, He's of two-fold characteristic. The apparent side to deliver the people from the sin, take them towards Vṛndāvana, from Braja līlā. To give them their highest attainment of living by giving Name, Yuga-Avatāra. Distributing the transcendental sound, through the sound divine how one can reach the highest position, to show that.

But another, and higher example was set there. Not in all Kali-yuga, but in special yuga, Kali-yuga. Once in Brahmā's one day, that Kṛṣṇa Himself comes with the mood of Rādhārāṇī to search Himself. Thereby He wants to taste the mood of Rādhārāṇī, what She is? How is Her inner earnestness or hankering for Kṛṣṇa? And how She can taste about Kṛṣṇa by Her mood, by Her same mood? And what is the joy She derives from there? All these phases Kṛṣṇa Himself wanted to have some experience of.

"Rādhārāṇī is so mad for Me, what is the cause? What is there in Me what She gets from Me that I can't receive? Immeasurably mad for Me, what sweetness She can draw from Me? I can't ascertain."

And to taste that He wanted to mould Himself in the mood of Śrī Rādhikā, and tried to taste His own self from that temperament, and came as Caitanya. When He proposed like that, conceived of such an incarnation, we're told that Rādhārāṇī, She on Her part told: "You will madly roll on the earth, taking My Name sometimes. I can't tolerate. I shall cover Your body with Mine, skin, or My colour. I won't, I can't allow You to roll on this body You will roll on the earth. I can't tolerate. I shall embrace You from outward."

So, rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam. So, those that know the ontological aspect they offer their respects for Śrī Caitanyadeva. The mood and colour of Rādhārāṇī, above, and the inner part is Kṛṣṇa Who is searching for Himself, tasting Himself. How sweetness is there? Why Rādhārāṇī is mad to taste Him? And what sort of sweetness is there? This we are told.

And twelve years, the last portion of Mahāprabhu, forty eight years He was here, and last twelve years He engaged Himself in such deep attention to taste Himself, as He thought. The greatest taster has tasted Him in the greatest way. Everyone is mad to taste sweetness. Sweetness Himself is also mad to taste Himself. That is His nature, the constituent, sweetness, the ānandam, the love, its nature is to taste His Own Self. To know Himself that is introspection. The consciousness can know consciousness, that one can feel his own body, consciousness can conceive his own. So that ānandam also can taste ānandam of Himself, what is there within. There is something there.

So Svarūpa Dāmodara Prabhu who is considered to be the Lalitā-Sakhī, the nearest friend of this līlā, he has said what Śrī Caitanyadeva is. Rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam.

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

The two pastimes are parallel and eternal, Svarūpa Dāmodara Prabhu says. Whether winter is first and summer is next, or summer is first and winter is next, it is rolling in a circle, it is difficult to say. It is eternal pastimes, eternal movement. So Svarūpa Dāmodara says whether Caitanya Avatāra is first and Kṛṣṇa Avatāra is next, or Kṛṣṇa Avatāra first and Caitanya Avatāra next, it is difficult to say. Both is eternal.

Rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir. Who is Rādhā? She is kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir. She's the development of the sweetness that springs from Kṛṣṇa Himself.

83.01.14.B_83.01.15.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...developed form as Rādhā. Coming from within. Springing up from within. A particular potency coming out of Himself. Hlādinī śaktir asmād ekātmānāv. So They cannot be conceived as quite separate thing, one and the same. Asmād ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau. But we're told that in ancient times They divided into two. Deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau, caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā. Again both of Them, They're the same, both parties, They're combined as Caitanya. Tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ, rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam. Whose lustre and mood is of that Rādhārāṇī nature, and the reality within is Kṛṣṇa. Just as fire and its heat cannot be separated, it comes from the fire, something, sun and light. So separately They cannot exist, They're one and the same, advaya-jñāna, Absolute One. But sometimes They show as divided, sometimes again united, in different moods. And sometimes when different They're enjoying They're separated self. And again little far, They're under painful separation, not with the possibility of union. That is Their nature.

[rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād

Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī says, aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]
[Ujjvala-Nīlamaṇi]

Just as the serpent goes naturally by crooked way, by zigzag way, natural, so the nature of love is naturally such. It is not straight. So the parties concerned, sometimes with cause, sometimes without cause, they quarrel and separation comes. It is necessary for the līlā. There is separation of four different kinds, one is prema-vaicittya, They're both very near, still some separation arises, that is known as prema-vaicittya, separation.

It is said, Kṛṣṇa is there, Rādhārāṇī is just nearby, She is seeing Her shadow just reflected on the body of Kṛṣṇa and so prejudiced She thinks that there is another lady. So a great pang of separation comes within. "What is this? Another lady is here?"
Again, but Her mate, friend, Lalitā, she is giving warning to Her. "What do you say? It is only Your reflection reflected there, can't see?" Then She's coming to consciousness.

This is such, they're high things, not to be discussed in details, but this is the nature of love divine.
Separation and union, both interdependent. One cannot stay without the other. And separation is created willingly to enhance union. And Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa to give that the people may take it easily.
Old mother Śacī Devī is crying so hopelessly, helplessly. The young wife Viṣṇu Prīya, she's helplessly passing her days. This will create an excitement into the hearts of the people and pierce their love divine. Mahāprabhu who was Nimāi Paṇḍit, what great benefit He took for us, He came for us. He made them sympathetic towards Nimāi Paṇḍit and for all these things it was necessary, the Lord took sannyāsa, went to take sannyāsa.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

For today is the day. _____ [?] Five hundred years. _____ [?] About four hundred eighty-three years ago. _____ [?] Four hundred seventy-nine years ago this day Mahāprabhu went for sannyāsa to Katwa. In our calculation. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So we shall try to understand that for our benefit, and to take us to the height, to the zenith of our aspiration, and our prospect, our destination, He came here and tried His best to capture our hearts and take to His domain in that plane. A very small portion of this. Trāyate mahato bhayāt. Svalpam apy asya dharmasya.

[nehābhikrama-nāśo 'sti, pratyavāyo na vidyate

svalpam apy asya dharmasya, trāyate mahato bhayāt]

["Even a small beginning in this devotional service cannot go in vain, nor can any loss be suffered. The most insignificant practice of such devotional service saves one from the all-devouring fear of repeated birth and death in this world."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.40]

The taste of the highest quality of such things, a small portion is enough, will fulfil our highest purpose of life. With this hope, let us go here.

vāñchā-kalpatarubhyaś ca kṛpā-sindhubhya eva ca patitānāṁ pāvanebhyo vaiṣṇavebhyo namo namaḥ

["I offer my respectful obeisances unto all the Vaiṣṇava devotees of the Lord. They are just like desire trees who can fulfil the desires of everyone, and they are full of compassion for the fallen conditioned souls."]

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.
Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda kī jaya!

["Amidst the showering of tears of sorrow from the eyes of millions, He gladly cut off His beautiful long hair. As He accepted His daṇḍa, millions of voices were singing the glories of Kṛṣṇa. Thereafter the people of all lands cried out desperately in grief when they saw Him in the dress of a sannyāsī. I sing with joy the unending glories of my golden Lord Gaurasundara the beautiful, the divine abode of pure love."]
[Premadhāma-deva-stotram, 16]

The scene was at Katwa some four hundred years back when Mahāprabhu took His sannyāsa. Beautiful tall figure, young, twenty-four, and curling beautiful hair.

And the barber approaching to shave but coming back. "How I can remove such beautiful hair from such a beautiful head." Began to cry.

And so many crying aloud. "What a horrible thing is being done here."

Some say, "Who is the creator who created this sannyāsa? Who is he? Who is so hard that he created the sannyāsa-āśrama? Give up all his nears and dears and go taking up begging occupation from door to door, leaving his own, they're crying helplessly. What is this creation of the Supreme? Is it logical, or hearty? Very cruel creation."

Mahāprabhu is smiling, He Himself is smiling.

Anyhow, the barber was forced to shave the head. In the midst of weeping, wailing, crying of the mob, a portion threatening, in the midst of it, it was done.

And the inevitable gradually came out, the sannyāsa function began.

Candraśekhara Ācārya, the maternal uncle, he was deputed to take function in the rituals in the ceremony of sannyāsa, and he did so. Mahāprabhu, He Himself He had no senses always in normal position, in ecstasy, joy, dancing. The shaving, half shaving, He came out and began to dance and kīrtana, chant. In this way. Then anyhow it was finished, sannyāsa was finished.

Mahāprabhu asked when the mantra will be conferred, Mahāprabhu asked His sannyāsa guru. "Is this the mantra I got in dream? You please check it."

"Yes, this is the mantram."

Then that mantra was given to Him. _____ [?] And the name of the sannyāsī not in ordinary way but came through Keśava Bharatī in a peculiar name, "Kṛṣṇa Caitanya." Neither Bhāratī, nor Purī, nor Giri, all these things. "Kṛṣṇa Caitanya" that Name came. And as soon as that Name came out the mob began to cry with the Name. Jaya Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya Mahāprabhu kī jaya! In this way.

Then Śrī Caitanyadeva in a new dress, red rag, robe, He embraced His Guru Bharatī and both of Them began to dance, chanting the Name of Kṛṣṇa. After some time the meaning of the Name was given out.

"That You aroused Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the whole world. You have come down to make the whole people Kṛṣṇa conscious. So Your suitable Name cannot but be Kṛṣṇa Caitanya."

Then after the function is done, Mahāprabhu in trance began to chant one śloka, poem of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam of tridaṇḍī-bhikṣu.

etāṁ sa āsthāya parātma-niṣṭhām, adhyāsitāṁ pūrvatamair maharṣibhiḥ ahaṁ tariṣyāmi duranta-pāraṁ, tamo mukundāṅghri-niṣevayaiva

["The previous great sages have accepted and shown the path of sannyāsa. I have now accepted that very form of life. Now, leaving everything aside, I shall run towards Vṛndāvana. There, taking the name of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa, I shall cross over the ocean of nescience. Crossing over this māyā, I shall reach Vṛndāvana and fully enter the service of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.23.57]

& [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.6]

In the eleventh canto of Bhāgavat, Kṛṣṇa is Himself giving description of tridaṇḍī-bhikṣu, a brāhmaṇa. How in the last stage he took tridaṇḍa-sannyāsa. And how he had to tolerate the torture of the society in different forms. There is in the last śloka one, etāṁ sa āsthāya parātma-niṣṭhām, adhyāsitāṁ pūrvatamair maharṣibhiḥ. "The previous great sages they have accepted, they have shown the path of sannyāsa. That very form of life I have got, I have accepted, I have got now. Now what to do? Leaving everything back I shall run towards Vṛndāvana. And there taking the Name of Mukunda, Kṛṣṇa, I shall cross over the ocean of nescience, of illusion, misconception, the ocean I cross out."

etāṁ sa āsthāya parātma-niṣṭhām, adhyāsitāṁ pūrvatamair maharṣibhiḥ
ahaṁ tariṣyāmi duranta-pāraṁ, tamo mukundāṇghri-niṣevayaiva

"The ocean of ignorance, nescience, that is misconception, I shall cross over, mukunda sevānaya, by My tendency to serve Mukunda Who is on the other side. Crossing over this māyā I shall reach Vṛndāvana and engage Myself in the service of Mukunda."

With this śloka Mahāprabhu suddenly started towards Vṛndāvana from Katwa, and entered into the adjacent forest therein on the banks of Ajai [?] River entered there.

prabhu kahe, - sādhu ei bhikṣura vacana, mukunda sevana-vrata kaila nirdhāraṇa parātma-niṣṭhā-mātra veṣa-dhāraṇa, mukunda-sevāya haya saṁsāra-tāraṇa se veṣa kaila, ebe vṛndāvana giyā, kṛṣṇa-niṣevaṇa kari nibhṛte vasiyā

["Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu approved of the (etāṁ sa āsthāya parātma-niṣṭhām) verse on account of the determination of the mendicant sannyāsī to engage in the service of Lord Mukunda. He gave His approval of this verse, indicating that it was very good. The real purpose of accepting sannyāsa is to dedicate oneself to the service of Mukunda. By serving Mukunda, one can actually be liberated from the bondage of material existence. After accepting the sannyāsa order, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu decided to go to Vṛndāvana and engage Himself wholly and solely in the service of Mukunda in a solitary place."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.7-9]

"Now My duty is to reach Vṛndāvana as soon as possible. And there in some solitary place I shall take My seat and go on chanting the Name of Kṛṣṇa."

With this, Mahāprabhu ran towards Vṛndāvana and entered into jungle before evening. And Nityānanda Prabhu, Candraśekhara Ācārya, Mukunda Datta, Jagadānanda, these four they pursued Him, followed.

Sometimes He's running, sometimes suddenly He falls on the ground and began to cry, "Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa." Again getting up suddenly again began to run. Sometimes west side, sometimes north, sometimes south, in this way, running, running. Sometimes so swiftly He's running away they cannot trace Him, especially in the night.

Then they're all disappointed. "Prabhu, our Lord must have left us." They can't find Him out. Suddenly they heard from far off from a place, in a very wailing tone He's crying, "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa." Then they ran that side and saw that just on the field He's lying and crying, "Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa."

So anyhow after some nursing again they began to start towards western side, Vṛndāvana side. In this way Nityānanda Prabhu is always wailing, taking the advantage of His trance. He's wandering, wandering in trance. So taking advantage of His trance Nityānanda Prabhu anyhow coaxingly turned His face towards Vṛndāvana this side, in this way. That from Katwa, after, when going long direction side, bhakesa [?] it is mentioned in Caitanya-Bhāgavata. But up to this antala [?] on the other side of Ajai [?], He went, mention is there, they're observing that place as the seat of Śrī Caitanya. Then they say Caitanya-daya. There is a place nearby they say Śrī Caitanya He turned His face from this side towards east. Anyhow, from the evening, the remaining day and night, and then also another day and night, then on the third day in the evening He came back by this side through Kalna to Śāntipura. Nityānanda Prabhu managed anyhow to take Him towards Śāntipura. So today began that sannyāsa. Bhramite pavitra kaila saba. Dik-vidik-jñāna nāhi, rātri-dina se. Bhramite pavitra kaila saba rāḍha-deśe.

[eta bali' cale prabhu, premonmādera cihna / dik-vidik-jñāna nāhi, kibā rātri-dina]

["As Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu was en route to Vṛndāvana, all the ecstatic symptoms became manifest, and He did not know in which direction He was going, nor did He know whether it was day or night."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.10]

[ei śloka paḍi' prabhu bhāvera āveśe / bhramite pavitra kaila saba rāḍha-deśe]

["Passing through the tract of land known as Rāḍha-deśa, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu recited the following verse in ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.5]

In such a trance He's moving that no trace of any direction. Sometimes this direction, this direction, and again this direction, no direction, running. "I'm going to Vṛndāvana. I'm going to Vṛndāvana, independent of the spirit of the material world, Vṛndāvana. Where is Vṛndāvana?"

Ṭhākura Mahāśaya says, kabe hamhera śrī-vṛndāvana visaya cadiya kabe sudra habe mora kabe habe hera śrī vṛndāvana

What is Vṛndāvana proper? That is a stage of consciousness. Vṛndāvana really, Vṛndāvana, Goloka, all stages of consciousness, difference in the stage. So comes that subjective reality, so all subjective.

God says, "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be earth." There was earth. "Let there be light." There was light. All come out from His will power, the potency, the sweet will of the Lord, all subjective. If the higher subject wants to make the lower subject to see something, like a hypnotiser, he cannot but see that thing. So this is all in the imaginary world, but above imagination also in reality, that is also all subjective.

sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ, yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ
sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo, hy adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate

[Lord Śiva says: "I am always engaged in offering obeisances to Lord Vāsudeva in pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is always pure consciousness, in which the Supreme Personality of Godhead, known as Vāsudeva, is revealed without any covering."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.3.23]

A śloka from Bhāgavatam, it says, "What is Vāsudeva?" Mahādeva says this to Devī Durgā.

When Mahārāja Dakṣa the father of Satī, he performed a great sacrifice, invited all the [demi] gods and respectful personalities, and Śiva also was invited, Mahādeva.

Not to speak of Nārāyaṇa, or even Brahmā, father of Dakṣa, all others they gave their due respect to Dakṣa Mahārāja, Prajāpati. But Mahādeva he did not, though formally he was his son-in-law, and Dakṣa Prajāpati was father-in-law. Still he did not show and special respect thinking that formally he's the superior relation.

Dakṣa was enraged. And he made arrangement for another bigger sacrifice and invited everyone with the exception of Mahādeva, Śiva, to insult him. All world invited, only Dakṣa's youngest girl Satī, and her husband Mahādeva that were exempted. So all were going to join the, to keep the invitations, going.

Satī's heart is very much mortified. "Father has exempted us, insulting." So she asked her husband, "Why did you not show any respect to him? Formally he's your father-in-law. Why did you not give any respect?"

Then Mahādeva answered.

sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ, yad īyate tatra pumān apāvṛtaḥ
sattve ca tasmin bhagavān vāsudevo, hy adhokṣajo me namasā vidhīyate

"Devī, this is not the question of belittling his position, not a question of insulting. But the fact is that my head is always engaged in giving, in dealing respect to Vāsudeva."

Who is Vāsudeva? Here it is explained. "Sattvam viśuddhaṁ vasudeva-śabditaṁ. Tama, raja, sattva, from nescience to science, from ignorance to pure consciousness. The viśuddha-sattva, that is the pure uncontaminated consciousness independent of any material touch, it is known as Vasudeva. Vasudeva, Who is Vasudeva? Father of Kṛṣṇa. From him Vāsudeva is coming out. What is, who is He? He's the representation of the uncontaminated pure consciousness free from any contamination of matter, that is Vāsudeva. And yad īyate tatra pumān. In that plane He appears as the enjoyer of the whole. He's Vāsudeva. I'm always in communion with Him, and my head is always engaged there. My attention, my brain is always captured by the charm of that Vāsudeva. I'm guided by that sentiment. So I cannot take off my head from there, attention from there, and to engage it in some other place. It is most difficult thing for me. Not that purposely I insulted your father, but it is by nature it was so."

So, in Bhāgavatam here we find that what is Vasudeva, Vāsudeva. Where is Vṛndāvana? Where is Goloka? Where is Vaikuṇṭha? We're to trace by the standard of this understanding.

So, Mahāprabhu He's already in Vṛndāvana, Goloka, in Goloka, Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, came to show us He's running in ecstasy, hither thither. Everywhere there is Vṛndāvana. Little after when He met Advaita Prabhu, ācārya kahe, - tumi yāhāṅ, sei vṛndāvana / mora bhāgye gaṅgā-tīre tomāra āgamana

[Advaita Ācārya disclosed the whole situation, telling Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu: "Wherever You are, that is Vṛndāvana. Now it is My great fortune that You have come to the bank of the Ganges."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.33]

"It is a very merry sport that You say You are going to Vṛndāvana. Wherever You are there is Vṛndāvana. We see, we feel it. Wherever You are Vṛndāvana is there. We have that experience. Still it is a very peculiar thing that You say 'I'm going to Vṛndāvana.' To teach us, this is Your formal expression."

In this way Mahāprabhu running hither thither in this way playing. Vṛndāvana is a stage of consciousness above Vaikuṇṭha. The simplicity, the plain dealings, and love divine, simple love, plain, very, humility. They do not think - the peculiarity is this - they do not feel that they are in Vṛndāvana, that is the peculiarity there, it is aprākṛta.

Knowledge has been classified under five heads. The lowest is sense experience of ones own, pratyakṣa, what I have experienced through my senses, that is the first stage.

The next, higher, I have not experienced by my own senses, but I have gathered from the experiences of others, their sense experience. Scientist have got his experience, I have gathered his invention, discovery, I am using that, the second stage.

Third stage which is over the stage of human experience, but non-differentiable, something like deep sleep. When we are awake we say, "I slept very happily. I slept a very good sleep." But at that time we can't assert, in deep dreamless sleep. But when we come back from the deep dreamless sleep we express some sort of experience. "A good sleep I slept." So some sort of hazy experience, aparokṣa _____ [?] That is the subject and material object they come together, material object vanishes in the subject.

After that there is a stage that Śaṅkarācārya, he explains up to this.

But Rāmānuja and his Vaiṣṇava followers, and other Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, they're of opinion there is a fourth stage that is called transcendental. That exist beyond the scope of senses whether gross or subtle.

How is that? A plane when of it's sweet will it can come down to our gross plane of understanding we can feel, we can have some experience. If He withdraws we're helpless, we can't find it. So we can't say that it is under our control, under our own knowledge, we can't count it like that. It is independent. At it's sweet will it may come down and may give some sort of experience, and if it withdraws I'm quite helpless. I have nothing to do. I may cry, I may pray. But I can't enter that forcibly out of dint of my power. This is to be the fourth plane and that is grand and awe inspiring and powerful. All these we get some experience of there, Vaikuṇṭha.

Then we are sure to say this is adhokṣaja, adhokṣaja plane. Pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, then fourth dimension is adhokṣaja. Adhokṣaja means we may say underground, or you are underground. The knowledge is on the surface, our experience is underground. Or that is underground, the thick cover. If we can pierce through the thick cover that are walling up our experience, then we can come in connection with that plane, another plane. That is adhokṣaja. Adhokṣajam indriyaṁ jñānaṁ, the knowledge that has made down, kept down the knowledge of our experience. Superior knowledge which has forced down our knowledge of experience of this world, that sort of transcendental, supramental knowledge. That is turiya, four classes of knowledge. There is something different in every point not similar with this world.

But Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam and Mahāprabhu come to know that, one fifth stage of knowledge there is which is very similar to this mundane but not mundane. This is aprakṛta. Prakṛta-vata, or according to Bhāgavatam, kevala, in which one may not have to think that he's out of this worldly knowledge. He's within this worldly knowledge, but really it is not so. A very peculiar thing, aprakṛta, no prakṛta, similar to prakṛta, very similar to mundane but not mundane. That is what is Goloka. In other words if you can think that the central knowledge that gives connection to the lowest level of mundane creation, can harmonise the worst portion of illusory world, that is aprakṛta. And that is possible only through love. The compensation is carried only through love it is possible, otherwise not.

Just as there's a saying, "A blind son seems to his mother as a very good eyed son." Ordinarily there is an expression, proverb in Bengali, kana seva pada locan [?] Really a blind son, one eyed, but mother says, "No, no, my child has got a very good eye, like lotus eyed." Blind by the affection.

What is mean and low, only compensated by the love that shines very beautiful. That is prema, or love. Through mercy, through pity, through grace, a king can come to play with a boy on the street. Affection can make it possible. The high and low, the difference disappears in such a stage. They think like that we are ordinary, jñāna śūnya bhakti, it is known as jñāna śūnya.

83.01.21.A_83.01.22.A

Devotee: Swāmī Mahārāja once gave me an instruction, in answer to a question. He answered my question about one thing, and then began to tell me about sādhana siddhi and kṛpa siddhi.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, that is according to _____ [?] stages. According to the capacity of catching the truth, instalments should be given. Śāstra has done so.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Higher plane, with the help of that you are to learn ABC of that plane. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Very crushing, the whole civilisation, smashing all the scientific knowledge. Science has nothing to do with that, it can only take us, draw us down. This is enemy, scientific knowledge is enemy, will always hunt me to take me away from that position. The knowledge is no knowledge, that is enemy, only draw from the back.

"Where are you going? Your trust is going too much further. Don't believe anything. It will bite from the back. Don't go forward. There will be a ditch and you will fall and you will be lost. Don't go." The science will say something like that.

"But you science, what you told, that is all mortal. You science, you can't go beyond mortality. I want immortality. I want to jump in the eternity and seek my position there. I hate you, your stability, your final proposal of finite pleasure, I kick it. I want to jump into the ocean of infinite, and there I want to find my eager position, if any. Your proposal of miserable life I hate." So you are to kick out science in this way. "You are all hateful, mortal. You mortal being, you have come to entice me. I want to be a part and parcel of the infinite if possible. Otherwise I don't want anything mortal, it is hateful to me." Can't you say? "Your mean proposal, I'm not going to be satisfied with that. My heart is hankering for something more. I have finished what you have really come to propose to me, what snare, I'm not going to fall on your snare. I want to be a part of the immortal world. If I'm mortal then I'll be finished. But if I'm immortal then I must live in the relativity of immortality. I want to, and not in mortal irreverence. This body, or that mind, or that reason, all that living in mortal relativity, calculation, pleasure, end of life, everything is of mortal relativity. I don't like it, I want to cross it off." Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. "Very troublesome, all destructive, no constructive. Your proposal, your statement all destructive. You can't tolerate any constructive proposal. I'm going to produce something and you're discouraging me. What is that?"

Devotee: They may think they do not want to be cheated.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Cheating, cheating, cheating, of different planes of cheating. Crossing the cheating then told the land of revelation, land of faith. Always cheating, our knowledge drawn from this mortal world, that is all cheating. Māyā means cheating, māyā, measured. What comes within measurement that is all cheating, all in finite. The calculation from the standpoint of infinite, measured, local values, provincial values are all cheating. We cannot go beyond provincial, of local calculation of values, local value calculation. They're all cheating, they cannot represent the reality of the infinite character. All of local valuation. Do you follow? That is māyā, mṛyate, all measured by local interest, all knowledge here measured by local interest.

Devotee: Supposing a scientist would question your realisation about the infinite world?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: First vacant you of all false realisation. Create a vacancy, you've already occupied. Make some room empty for the infinite to come down to your plane, allow.

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "Allow Kṛṣṇa to land in one part of your heart, you'll conquer the whole thing gradually. All other local calculations interest will fly away. Only allow Kṛṣṇa to land in your heart. He will conquer. Kṛṣṇa consciousness will conquer everything, capture you wholesale. He's so sweet and so comprehensive, absolute. Allow Him in the plane of your free will, allow Him to land. He will surely capture. All other considerations will be compelled to vanish. Nothing can stand against Him."

That our Guru Mahārāja told to one gentleman who was twenty years assistant editor to Manchester Guardian in England.

Devotee: To feel Kṛṣṇa for a scientist, to learn how to feel Kṛṣṇa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say scientist? Science means what? Who makes experiment on mortal things, mortal false aspect. With the art of misunderstanding, the scientists are plodding in the mud of misconception about the environment. One scientist saying something, another greater saying: "No, no, that is not, give one step further." In this way by the empirical method of working one cannot reach infinite. By step by step empirical method, by inductive method, step by step we can't finish infinite. No number of finite can make infinite.

It is to vacant everything and to invite faith within the soul, that may be awakened, that is buried. These rubbish's must be cleansed and the plane of faith that will come out, and that will connect with infinite place, that can come. And that is all covered with ashes, it is wasted, rubbish's, covered. It must be cleansed, cleared. The plane of faith will awaken and that plane can connect with the plane of infinite, the soul. Automatic, that is automatic that connection, but that is covered by the rubbish. And we're focussed towards this, forcibly focussed towards wrong conception.

Devotee: What can remove that rubbish?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By the agents of the child of that soil, they can remove. The sādhu and the śāstra, no other alternative. Only the men of that plane can remove these rubbish's. Others they know not anything, how they will clear? They do not know. They're relishing the rubbish's, tasting, distributing, giving a good hoax about rubbish.

Devotee: So the sādhu is beyond the plane of faith...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So the help must come from that plane, that is revealed truth, that by the special agents of that land, that plane. Inevitable, indispensable, help from that plane must come to remove our difficulty, that is indispensable, it must come from that plane. Falsehood cannot help one to get out of falsehood. Darkness of any type cannot remove darkness. Positive approach is necessary to remove the negative rubbish's which has occupied us fully. We're engrossed in the name of knowledge experience, science, all these things. The ego, that ego of the child of this rubbish. That ego must be dissolved. Ego must be murdered by the agents of that plane.

Hṛdaye karo sadvanatha [?] Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says in the course of Hari-Nāma, hṛdaya karo sadvanatha. The wholesale destruction of this figure, this body, both gross and subtle, new awakening will come from within.

Devotee: The position of sādhu, a man, if a sādhu...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sādhu, imitation sādhu won't do, sādhu, there is also real symptom of sādhu, that is also in the scriptures who is sādhu. A Vaiṣṇava, Kṛṣṇa conscious person is sādhu. Not this Brahman conscious, not this Virajā conscious, not Śiva conscious, Kālī conscious, so many. Sādhus are of different types. But Kṛṣṇa conscious there all comprehensive absolute beauty, that is necessary to cure us fully from this diseased stage. Not only out of disease, to become out of disease does not mean that I have got good health. Nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ, in Bhāgavatam [1.1.2] in the beginning it is mentioned, only liberated and not holding the highest position. Prasavena mukhari sambhiri asta [?] But the attainment of the positive thing. Only passport won't do. Visa is necessary. Positive, entrance into positive land is necessary, not to get out of the present land.

Devotee: Can a sādhu who is on the level of faith, in the śāstra, and just on that level, can he deliver a fallen soul to the level of faith? If he's only on the level of faith in the śāstra...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the land of faith also there is gradation, the boarder faith and the deeper country faith, there is also difference.

[upajiyā bāḍe latā] 'brahmāṇḍa' bhedi' yāya / 'virajā,' 'brahmaloka,' bhedi' 'paravyoma' pāya
tabe yāya tad upari 'goloka-vṛndāvana' / 'kṛṣṇa-caraṇa'-kalpavṛkṣe kare ārohana

["The creeper of devotion is born, and grows to pierce the wall of the universe. It crosses the Virajā river and the Brahman plane, and reaches to the Vaikuṇṭha plane. Then it grows further up to Goloka Vṛndāvana, finally reaching to embrace the wish-yielding tree of Kṛṣṇa's Lotus Feet."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.153-4]

The creeper of devotion will grow and will gradually climb on these, passes. Will pass through Virajā - the Buddhists liberation land. Then Brahmāloka - the Śaṅkarite liberation stage. Then Vaikuṇṭha - the Rāmānuja sampradāya. And then Kṛṣṇaloka - Goloka, as Vṛṣabhānu, as Mahāprabhu recommended from Bhāgavatam. The Reality the Beautiful, not reality the power. After crossing the reality of power, then the Reality the Beautiful.

Devotee: So as one travels from one level of realisation to another, one may go from one Guru to another?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Sometimes it is necessary. If a child may have fortunately a post graduate professor to begin from ABC, by fortune a child may have as a good scholar to begin his study. Otherwise he may have a less qualified teacher, and again crossing that another higher qualified teacher. In this way gradually he may have to go. But if by fortune one meets the saint of the highest type, then one Guru will do.

So the Lord says, "It is My function. Through those Gurus, the Guru of less quality, the higher quality, My delivering potency is there common."

You try to see the common thread within the Guru. Guru in this dress, another in another dress, another dress. But the common thread of devotion is to be traced there. That is chance coincidence, a question of sukṛti, what he gathered previously accordingly. Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ.

[sattvānurūpā sarvasya, śraddhā bhavati bhārata
śraddhāmayo 'yaṁ puruṣo, yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ]

["O Bhārata, all men have a particular type of faith according to their individual mentalities. The very nature of the living being is based on faith - their internal and external nature is modelled according to their faith. Therefore, their nature may be discerned according to the manner of worship or reverence in which they have faith."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]

According to our śraddhā, our faith, we flock to a person, flock round a person according to our classification of faith. There is in faith also, the perfect faith and adulterated faith there may be. In the beginning to have the highest form of faith it is very rarely found. So it is said, ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit

na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

"I have come to draw you up. You try to find that finest thread in the teacher. That will help you. Everywhere I'm there. I'm there, I'm trying to meet you and to take you up, and this consciousness will help you there. Ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān."

And there is also these various types that are vartma-pradarśaka, giving information of a true Guru. Then śāstra also there. Then śīkṣa Guru of so many types, different dīkṣa Guru, in this way. The fact is to be considered not the form, but the spirit, that is all important. Spirit within, that is to be judged. That is all important. You had Guru in Christianity but you have left. Then some or so many Gurus have their own family Gurus, they've left and come to Mahāprabhu as we did. We had our previous Guru in the śakti culture, śakti upāsanā, left that. Gītā, Bhāgavata has taken me towards this direction, leaving aside that worship of the goddess, Kālī. Ideal, ideal called me this side, the appreciation of the highest idea of Mahāprabhu. When Mahāprabhu began His preaching so many were converted. How? They left their previous religious conception and came to Him. Captured by the beauty of His proposal, they came. So Swāmī Mahārāja also preached amongst different sections. They had some sort of conviction, spiritual, but leaving aside have come to hear the advice of Swāmī Mahārāja. Why? For the ideal, for the ideal he preached. Form, everyone already had their forms. So,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhāgavad-gītā, 18.66]

Wherever there is truth our business is with that. And you'll be able to understand the comparative characteristics of the conception of truth. Your inner heart will respond, hṛdaye nābhya nujñāto [Manu- Saṁitā, 2.1] Yo yac chraddhaḥ sa eva saḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 17.3]. According to our śraddhā, faith, we flock to a particular direction. Śraddhā in Gītā is divided into three, tamasic, rajasic, sattvic, and then nirguṇa, the fourth. The definition of the tamasic śraddhā, rajasic śraddhā, sattvic śraddhā, and then nirguṇa śraddhā, it is there.

So we must not be afraid of the jungle. We must find out the path. We have to find out the path. Necessity is the mother of invention. At every step I may be faced with differ, whether I shall go this side or that side, or that side or that side. At every step judgement is necessary, clear and infallible judgement is necessary. Who'll guide? At every step, every second, guidance necessary. Our mind is always thinking, so many alternatives, alternative proposals are coming, every second to our mind. And we're to decide and dismiss one, so many, and accept one. We must not be afraid of that. In food, in drink, everywhere, in going, everywhere, alternative proposals are there. Ke?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Devotee: The angle is full of love.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Gaura Hari.

Bhāgava: When I first met you I was asking some questions, you were giving some answers, and in one statement you made it kind of disturbed my mind, attracted my mind and to understand as you said,

"When the higher taste comes you'll loose all your taste for this world."

And the way you said it was not academic. There was definite realisation in the tone of your voice.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Eh? I can't follow.

Bhāgava: When we were conversing one day...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, not today? Another day?

Bhāgava: No. Some time back. You said something that attracted my mind, and it's been there for weeks, almost two months now. You said, "When the higher taste descends to you, you will loose your whole taste for this material world." And you said it with great conviction and realisation. And I wanted to ask you when that realisation descended into your heart? Because I know when you spoke that it was realised, not faith, but realisation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's saying, you told him some time ago. When you receive the higher taste, that higher taste descends on you, you will loose all attraction for these lower things, lower taste. So this statement of yours was spoken with such realisation, Bhāgava prabhu was deeply impressed by that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now? What of that?

Vidagdha Mādhava: So he's asking, when, if possible, when was that time that you received that realisation, that enlightenment?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Parama [?]: Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Bhāgava: There was so much conviction.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Why she's smiling? Eh? You want to take the sweetmeat into your mouth. 'You give the sweetmeat into my mouth and I shall taste.' The question is like that. Ha, ha.

Bhāgava: It is a desperate question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha. It is the result of many past experiences transcendental, sukṛti. We are to enquire into the underground, how the creeper begins to grow, the devotional creeper, the underground. Then we're told that, sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ. Ādau śraddhā.

[bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate
sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ]

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the Guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads."]

[Bṛhan-Nāradīya-Purāṇa]

[ādau śraddhā tataḥ sādhu-saṅgo' tha bhajana-kriyā
tato' nartha-nivṛttiḥ syāt tato niṣṭhā rucis tataḥ
athāsaktis tato bhāvas tataḥ premābhyudañcati

sādhakānām ayaṁ premṇaḥ prādurbhāve bhavet kramaḥ]

["In the beginning there must be faith. Then one becomes interested in associating with pure devotees. Thereafter one is initiated by the spiritual master and executes the regulative principles under his orders. Thus one is freed from all unwanted habits and becomes firmly fixed in devotional service. Thereafter, one develops taste and then attachment. This is the way of sādhana-bhakti, the execution of devotional service according to the regulative principles. Gradually spiritual emotions manifest and intensify, then finally there is an awakening of divine love. This is the gradual development of love of Godhead for the devotee interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.4.15-16]

On the surface the first trace about devotion divine, that is śraddhā, faith. And how that faith comes? Duty, sukṛti, that unconsciously we're utilised for the purpose of that plane. And that is accumulated to certain quantity, weight, and produces that faith. We're told like that. Sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ. Acquired by various births previously, drop by drop, or part by part. That is accumulated to a certain degree and produces faith. Faith from the experienced world completely withdrawn.

"Where am I? This is unsafe." He can see the unsafe dangerous position where he's taking his stand. "I want some real ground on which to stand. Otherwise I can't pacify my mind where I'm standing."

Devotees: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Drop by drop. Constant dropping wears the stone. With that way it comes accumulated and suddenly breaks this plane where we're standing. On the plane below our leg is found unsubstantial. "I'm in infinite. No position to stand over where I am now. Undone, I'm undone, I'm unsafe, I'm lost." And earnest search for some plane to take some stand over. That sort of hankering comes like a mad man. "Where to take my position? The whole thing is wavering uncertain. All taken away. Every moment is eaten by death."

Such things come. And eager to take his stand on some real plane, and he finds that this body, this is also like that. A dangerous cage, full of so many diseases. And this is not myself proper, it is an encasement, this body. The figure is within, the soul. Not even the mind, mind is also full of experience drawn from this false world. The material by which the mind has been constructed that is all drawn from this mortal world, so not to be trusted. So something, some plane, some reality to be searched within, over the mind. This body and mind rejected, they're all false players. So where is the reality, where to spend, and who am I proper? That is adjustment within. Then the soul has to come out, and the soul's plane is to be found out, that eagerness, eagerness. Necessity is the mother of invention.

Follow a little? No? Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi.

Devotee: So it may come, one small statement may change a whole man's life because of previous sukṛti?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By previous sukṛti, it is gathered from the association, chance association of the divine agents. Bhakti is the cause of bhakti. Bhakti is causeless. Nothing can contribute devotion. Only devotion can give devotion. It is the causeless ultimate substance, nothing can produce it, bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti-yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, which can only be obtained from those who have it for bhakti alone can cause bhakti. Thus, even within this world, their spiritual bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

Ahaitukī and apratihatā, and nothing can resist its force also, apratihatā. Ahaitukī, causeless, apratihatā, irresistible. That is the nature of the most fundamental plane, that is love. Does not care for anything, for attraction, for its activity. Its attraction is absolute. The attraction of beauty is absolute, none can oppose, even power also hated. But beauty and love cannot be eliminated, universal demand.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol!

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, I have one short question. One devotee wrote asking about Śrī Jīva Goswāmī has mentioned he saw the author of Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī, himself always had the dhatry garland around his neck. So the question is, it is also said the dhatry garland, Śrī Rūpa Goswāmī wrote he wore one garland, Rūpa Goswāmī, it's quoted from some book, but I don't know exactly...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is it? I want to see that reference. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. So today I stop here.

...

Important things have been repeated in many places in Bhāgavatam. Repetition is necessary of salient points. Eh? What is this?

Devotee: It's the microphone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari bol. In Gīta also, repetition so many times. "That don't enter into duality, loss and gain, insult and honour, sweet and bitter. Don't allow yourself to enter into that duality." A hundred times it is mentioned in Bhāgavad-gītā. That is the key point for getting out of this world. Capturing from both sides, from desirable and undesirable, both is capturing. So both desirable and undesirable give up, to make yourself free from the positive and negative, both sides, not only one side. The advice from both sides, from spirit and from this side, no compromise is necessary. In this way both friend and foe all equal here, unnecessary, both friend and foe. Then you can get out of this snare of this body. This is repeatedly warned in this way. Friend and foe both equal, both false, both false in this world, both friend and foe false.

And in the third plane the friend that is the devotee divine, invite them. They're your friends, neither foe nor friend in this material sense. Sometimes they turn as doctor, pushes his knife into the abscess. Cinvanti manum bhasangam mukti [?] By his harsh and strong words he cuts asunder the attachment of the mind towards material things. Very sternly he cuts it, like doctor, operating the abscess he pushes the knife inside the body. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. _____ [?]

Vidagdha Mādhava: We're trying to catch every drop Guru Mahārāja.

...

And you were describing the inspiration that comes to move the hand of one Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Kavirāja, or anyone who is truly inspired to write transcendental literature. So I have one question came to my mind. That if one is moved purely by the higher plane to write inspirational literature, can there be defect?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: According to the dedication stage, stage of dedication.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Can there be any defects in those writings?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That cannot be taken under any law. That is sweet will. Generally, every movement from that plane, that comes, originating from the central will, to satisfy Him, the whole svarūpa- śakti...

83.01.22.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The inner potency, of the higher potency, of Goloka, Vaikuṇṭha. They catch inspiration from there. They're utilised for the purpose of the centre there. That means that Yoga-Māyā, or svarūpa-śakti means that. The inspiration from there. And here, inspiration from different stages of enjoying spirit. And there, devotion, and there is also sections, Vaikuṇṭha, Goloka, and different rasa, inspiration, and they do accordingly.

Inspiration, that vibration from the centre. And here vibration from innumerable local centres of local interest. And there Nārāyaṇa centre, Rāma centre, Kṛṣṇa centre. But all meaning towards the main with some consonance with the main centre. There are also different centres of interests, different interests, vātsalya, sākhya, and others specific, but all meaning for the satisfaction of the Absolute. Here also different centres, but almost all meant for local interest. All vibration, different vibrations coming into clash for different interests. On the whole all of separate enjoyment of these things here, up to Satyaloka.

Then in Virajā, Brahmaloka, no traceable vibration originating there. Again from Śivaloka, some serving vibration originates there, of different stages, but all centre carrying interest. So here in this mundane plane also if they come from higher region they're always connecting with the centre. And some here escape, getting escape from local interest, they may realise such a position that they may be used as agent of that world, sometimes. May be used as agent, connected from there and may be utilised as agent. Though not always cent per cent converted into that, but they're utilised according to their liking. As much as inclined towards that interest, they're utilised by the higher officers.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So one might be inspired from the higher plane to describe Kṛṣṇa consciousness according to time and place?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Maybe, maybe, if he's so qualified, so reliable, so pure, that he can catch and transmit. He may be selected as agent, to reveal the truth of that land.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But it is a rare thing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rare, of course.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Is it possible that someone who is not pure...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is possible. When Mahāprabhu was in Purī He utilised one of His devotees, Nṛsiṁhānanda, as a mediator. Nṛsiṁhānanda he lost his senses and being inspired by Mahāprabhu he used to talk here about Him. It is mentioned in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta. Nakula-brahmacārīra dehe 'āviṣṭa' ha-ilā.

sarva-loka uddhārite gaura-avatāra, / nistārera hetu tāra trividha prakāra sākṣāt-darśana, āra yogya-bhakta-jīve, / 'āveśa' karaye kāhāṅ, kāhāṅ 'āvirbhāve' sākṣāt-darśane' prāya saba nistārilā, / nakula-brahmacārīra dehe 'āviṣṭa' ha-ilā pradyumna-nṛsiṁhānanda āge kailā 'āvirbhāva' / 'loka nistāriba', - ei īśvara-svabhāva

["In His incarnation as Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa descended to deliver all the living beings in the three worlds, from Brahmāloka down to Pātālaloka. He caused their deliverance in three ways.] [The Lord delivered the fallen souls in some places by meeting them directly, in other places by empowering a pure devotee, and in still other places by appearing before someone Himself.] [Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu delivered almost all the fallen souls by directly meeting them. He delivered others by entering the body of Nakula Brahmacārī and by appearing before Nṛsiṁhānanda Brahmacārī. "I shall deliver the fallen souls." This statement characterises the Supreme Personality of Godhead."] [C-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 2. 3-6]

He's in Purī and Nṛsiṁhānanda here [Navadwīpa]. Nṛsiṁhānanda got inspiration like hypnotism from afar. Hypnotist can hypnotise only within the circle of his senses. But from far off also one can inspire, hypnotise, can use as medium. It is mentioned that Mahāprabhu did in Nakula Brahmacārī, who told, "Mahāprabhu is doing this, He'll be coming very soon." All these and many things foretold, and that was true and verified.

It is possible, it is mentally. Physically now it is possible by radio, by telephone connection, so many things are being made possible materially. But before it was done mentally. Mental psychic powers were more developed previously by the yogīs, devotees, and not these physical things. Now physically it's being done by scientific knowledge, and generally it is easy for people to believe. But it was psychic in previous days so ordinary people could not know how it is being done. We also think it is impossible. But now physically possible, by phone you are talking with America, with London. What is this? It is also miracle. And mental plane was previously used for such purpose. They got such development. Even the yogīs, not even devotees, or in the case of God, but the yogīs also could develop such psychic power as to conduct things in this way.

Haniman [?] has also recognised in his book that. "We hear that Indian yogīs they can cure diseases from distant place. It is possible I believe because a magnetic force is necessary to cure the disease." It is the opinion of Haniman. "A magnetic force is created and that removes the disease. So I believe that the yogīs previously as is said, the Indian yogīs could cure the disease by mental force and it is possible." Haniman told.

All the big Indian fights they all prove, say, and, that many wonderful things could have been done only by improving psychic power. Even so that they had communication with the demigods, they would come here and they also could go there, but only mentally. And that was a scientific transaction, though subtle, reliable transaction, not imagination.

Vidagdha Mādhava: There is a great interest in the west in this parapsychology, this subtle...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Some eight or ten years back, eight Russians came here to enquire amongst the Indian yogīs, "That how we can understand, we can read things that are far off, in the Moon, or in the Sun, or in the Mars, or in Jupiter?"

Came here to enquire, that the ancient yogīs in India could do, and that is very quick. The mental speed, speed of a mind is considered to be the most rapid, most quick, so even more than electric movement, the light. So Russians came to enquire if such yogīs are available, for material purpose.

They told: "We have come for material purpose. We have sent a rocket there towards Jupiter. And whether by mental speculation, mental energy it is possible to catch that, to get information from there which will be more quick than the velocity of light."

Velocity of light, velocity of electricity, electron or something, then quicker. Only mind can be quicker than that. And no other material thing can be quicker than the velocity of light, only mind can be quicker. And it had recognition in India, manogati. [The velocity of light is 186,000 miles per second] Mind can hear in a second you may remember your American abode, how far, in a second you can remember. Mind can go there, so mind is the quickest conveyance, medium.

So eight Russian persons came here some ten years back or so. "We have come with some material object if we can utilise the speed of the mind in the case of scientific researches." But they told that, "We failed, we could not do, we could not meet such men, now, here."

Once I was delivering lecture in _____ [?] in the assembly of the advocates.

They put a question to me. "What is this? That few years ago also we had connection with the gods, demigods, in Satyaloka, and now we have already detached. No god comes here, Devarṣi Nārada and others, so many gods they do not come here, or we cannot go there, disconnected. Only few years before, in the age of Mahābhārata also, freely the gods used to come here and Arjuna and others used to go there in the heaven. What is the reason?" That question came to me.

I told, the psychic power was very much improved at that time. Just as in dream or just as in, planched [?] you know? The departed soul they are drawn and we can have some talk with some departed soul in the planchet [?] - seance. Just as this is medium through a man or through a machine it is possible this sort of power was very much developed scientifically at that time, now we have lost that.

And I gave some instance, that suppose now the scientific civilisation has created much wonders, the aeroplane, the buses, the rockets. But if by some atomic war, what is that for which the whole world is afraid, that nuclear war, everything is damaged, the whole civilisation, atom bomb or hydrogen bomb. If such war breaks out and the whole civilisation finished, and then some books may be scattered here and there and they will find that before there was aeroplane, there was bus, all these things. The crippled persons they will be saved after this atomic war, they won't be able to understand.

"What is this written in the scripture? This is all false thing." Atomic war it destroyed the present civilisation. And in the books there will be much mention about those things, this aeroplane, this, this, and that, so many, passing. After the war the crippled persons that will remain they won't believe. "What is this here written? It is all false, all imagination." They will say, "All imagination, the scientific improvements all imagination." Nothing remained actually, no aeroplane, no rockets, no this or that, they will think 'this is all bogus.'

Now also it is such. That extensive culture of the mental power is no more. So we're deviated from that position. We can't see that Devarṣi Nārada is coming. If Devarṣi Nārada comes here he'll come in astral body. But my mind is not sufficiently developed to trace that here Devarṣi has come. I won't be able to trace. He won't come with physical body, his astral body. And if he comes here I won't be able to trace him. But if my mind had been sufficiently developed then I could see, "Oh Devarṣi has come." The impression would come to my mind, here Devarṣi comes, here Vyāsadeva comes, here Mahāprabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu has come here. My mind's eye, my minds, that impression in my mind would say it to me that here someone has come. But that side is blocked now. Rather with microscope I can see one insect is here, one virus is here, I can see through microscope. This is the age now.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Many years ago when Swāmī Mahārāja came to the west, one devotee arranged for a program. But when it came time for that program there was hardly anyone there, hardly any people came. So the devotee he apologised to our Swāmī Mahārāja. "I'm sorry Prabhupāda no one has come to the engagement." And our Swāmī Mahārāja said: "Well, Nārada Muni came and Lord Brahmā he came."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha, ha. "Yes, many come I see, I feel, but you can't see." Just as when Śukadeva delivered Bhāgavatam, his Guru Vyāsadeva, Nārada, Atri, Vasiṣṭha, all came there, the Gurus also came. So Swāmī Mahārāja went to the west with so much earnestness to preach the doctrine of love divine. His Gurudevas they went there to see how he's dealing in the way. It is not impossible.

[nāhaṁ tisthāmi vaikuṇṭhe yoginām hṛdayeṣu vā]
mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti tatra tiṣṭhāmī nārada

["My dear Nārada, I do not dwell in Vaikuṇṭha, or in the hearts of the yogīs, but wherever My devotees sing My glories."] [Padma-Purāṇa] & [Within the purports of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.2.41 & 4.30.35]

By revealed law we can conceive. "Wherever My devotees sing, I cannot but be present there." The Lord Himself says. "Nāhaṁ vasāmi vaikuṇṭhe. I do not live in the transcendental plane. Yoginām hṛdayeṣu vā. Nor in the heart of a yogī. Mad bhaktāḥ yatra gāyanti. But wherever My devotees are singing with most earnest heart. Tatra tiṣṭhāmi. I present Myself there. I take My seat and hear their hearty song. Their singing and chanting carries Me. From the heart of the yogī, and even from the throne of My Vaikuṇṭha. I run towards where the yogīs they're chanting, where the devotees are chanting with much hearty devotion about Me. That attracts Me most." Nārāyaṇa says Himself.

So the higher devotees of Nārāyaṇa, along with Him, they come and to attend the assembly. It is not hyperbolic.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Can that be developed as Kali-yuga is now, or is it finished?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is possible, but devotees do not like to waste their time in those affairs. They have no time to loose. Jñāna prayāsa. Yoga, this is the system of yoga. They do not care for that. Their concentration is towards service.

There is a story that a devotee is very busily engaged in the service of Gurudeva, and he's very deeply absorbed. He has attained the satisfaction of the Lord Himself, and He has come in disguise. "You, devotee, I'm satisfied with your services, you come, I shall take you to Vaikuṇṭha." The Lord says.

The devotee says, "No, no. I have no time. My Guru Mahārāja has given, entrusted me with this service. I shall have to attend that. I've no time to go to Vaikuṇṭha with You."

Do you follow? Such attention towards the service. Even the call to Vaikuṇṭha he's not finding time to attend.

"I am concentrated. This is my duty I've been given by my Gurudeva. I have no time to spare to go to Vaikuṇṭha to fulfil my curiosity."

Ha, ha. What is Vaikuṇṭha? No time, such sort of attention, this exclusive attention is necessary, is laudable for the devotee.

If to some faithful, dutiful, servant, the master says, "No, no, you have laboured a long time, now you are tired, you come and take food."

"No, no, my master, I have no time. I must finish this, then I'll go and take food."

It is not impossible. A faithful worker he may reply to his master's call that, "Stop the work and come and take some rest."

"No, no. I have no time to take rest now. I shall finish this then I shall go and take rest."

This is the responsibility of serving.

...

...concentrate in such a way, in the service. Kṛṣṇa and Yaśodā, she's boiling milk for Kṛṣṇa. And Kṛṣṇa that Gopāla, the boy Kṛṣṇa is engaged to suck the breast of Yaśodā. And on the other side the milk is being boiled in a cauldron nearby, and the milk is overflowing and going down in the fire. And Yaśodā threw Gopāla from her lap and went to take care of the milk that is flowing away from the cauldron. This is like that. It is so extreme example that that is meant for Kṛṣṇa and though Kṛṣṇa is dissatisfied, when Kṛṣṇa is snatched away from His breast He is dissatisfied. Still, the attention of the materials for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that must be saved. They care so much. Apparently it may seem that Yaśodā is committing error. The Kṛṣṇa direct satisfaction continuing. He's sucking the breast and Yaśodā forcibly threw Him away and went to protect the milk, which in future may be utilised or not utilised. But the tendency towards the things of Kṛṣṇa's service.

"Everything meant for Kṛṣṇa. The whole thing is meant for Kṛṣṇa. So I must take care of everything, preserve everything. For the time being Kṛṣṇa may be a little dissatisfied. What does it matter?"

That is the tendency. A very fine, very subtle thing to detect and understand. But what is the underlying tendency, that emotion? That everything belongs to Kṛṣṇa. At the cost of the present, future must be kept up. At present we may suffer but we must still store for our future. This sort of tendency is in the interest of Kṛṣṇa, to be appreciated.

So service, jñāna śūnya bhakti. No curiosity. "I don't want to be a big juggler, or a yogī, or jñānī, or a big person." A humble servant of the gopīs, half educated, half jungle life, that satisfies Kṛṣṇa most. That point, that humble point, not very grand, grandeur. That may be adored in Vaikuṇṭha, but that is ignored in Vṛndāvana līlā. Simple, simple, plain, ordinary. Neither high nor low, golden mean is there. The degree of meanness, that is also infinite. The degree of nobleness, that also is infinite. Grandness also infinite. The middle point we may say, the golden mean. There the love, love is there, does not want to see more future, only the present, concentrated present, love. It may risk whole future. Past may not care at all. But act, act in the living present. That grandness, reverence, that is not very suitable for love. The plain life, that is the highest position of the transactions of love. We're to think like that. Grandeur disturbs us in our transaction with true love.

Vidagdha Mādhava: In the west, Swāmī Mahārāja has given us Deity worship in a grand way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is arcana. Arcana that is specially meant for Vaikuṇṭha, not in Goloka, arcana. In Rāmānuja sampradāya the arcana holds the important position. But in Gauḍīya sampradāya, sevā, service, bhajana. Also in Vṛndāvana and other grand, many positions in a grand style it is seen, the worship, but that is only after realisation possible. Arcana has been recorded as of lower strata.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

["A devotee who faithfully worships the Deity, but does not properly respect the Vaiṣṇavas or the people in general is called a materialistic devotee, and is considered to be in the lowest position of devotional service."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.47]

Arcana and bhajana, difference, arcana, Deity. That is arcana means a trial.

Before the actual fight, that mock fight. When the planes or the navy they show some posing of fighting, what is that? What is the name of that? They're showing as if they're fighting. The show of fighting, what is that? Something like mock fight, that is a show.

So arcana is like that. The previous, with the dolls to acquire some habit and to practice something. As a child they play with the dolls as if after with the dolls as if after marriage they are playing. In this way. That mock playing, or something what you say.

So arcana something like that. As a preparation to the real service we're engaging ourselves in similar things. In the external plane, with the external senses, we're making attempts for some service. But there I'm also not fully grown, and whom the worshipping is going I do not see there fully, a mere appearance. I'm not a pure cent per cent servant, and the Deity before me I can't feel that really He Himself is sitting and taking my services. But approximate, dealing with some approximate trial so that after we can come in real connection it will be helpful for me. I'm making some practices, that arcana. So it is kaniṣṭha adhikāra.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

It is material conception. The higher conception one will leave arcana and go to serve a devotee. In the heart of the devotee, higher expression of the Lord, than the expression of the Lord in the Deity. The more real in the heart of a devotee, the presence of the Lord is more real, more in conscious form. And there in some material form to me. And there in the heart of a devotee the same Lord existing, but that is of higher form, very conscious. In conscious form He's present in the heart of a devotee, the devotees after that feeling, that sentiment, that is of conscious matter. But what we find in the Deity here we find those that cannot understand without in terms of sense experience, Bhagavān the Lord has come, has taken the form of a Deity towards them. Those that do not understand anything but which is not in the experience of their, within the bounds of their sense experience, the eye, the hand, the nose, the ear, He comes down to the lowest section as a Deity. But who can catch His spiritual existence, for them it will be more beneficial to serve a devotee than the Deity.

There was one incident mentioned in Bhāgavatam (eighth canto). Once, you might have heard the story of Gajaraja (Gajendra). There was a king in the Southern India, he himself was engaged in worshipping his own family Deity. At that time Mahāṛṣi Agastya, Agastya Ṛṣi, a devotee, he came to his palace as a guest. The information was given by a man, servant, to the king who was engaged in the worship. But the king he showed some attitude that he can't see. He heard that Agastya had come, a great devotee. But he did not care to answer in any way that he has got the information. He showed that he's deeply engaged in the worship, he did not hear. After finishing his worship he came and then he enquired, and then made arrangements for his refreshments, of the Ṛṣi. But because when the Vaiṣṇava guest came he attempted a posing that he can't see, he's deeply engaged in the worshipping, he committed offence against Agastya Ṛṣi, Vaiṣṇava offence. And for that, in the next life he got the birth of an elephant. And then there was a long fight between that elephant and a crocodile. And when the elephant was too much tired, he can't fight, he took the Name of Kṛṣṇa. "Lord save me." And that temperament came because he was a devotee, that king he came to take the form of this elephant, he was a devotee internally. So that Gajaraja, that king of the elephants when he could not save himself from the attack of that crocodile he chanted loudly, "Kṛṣṇa."

There is a Bengali saying: Braja rajay pukari krsna rakha apta jivana hari [?]
"Now I am going to be finished, oh my Lord protect me."
Krsna ke pukari mathurase godare cari ke dhari goaka hari mari ka mari udhari [?]

But the birth of the elephant came to that human king only for the offence that he disregarded the devotee guest with the plea of his engagement...

83.01.22.C_83.01.25.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...but he heard that the devotee has come, but he posed in such a way that he could not hear. Because he thought that, 'If I go there I shall commit offence here. By disregarding my worship of Deity, I shall go to take care of a man.' He took Vaiṣṇava as man, and the Śrī Mūrti as God Himself. There was his fault, and offence came. So it is the dictation of the śāstra that if we're engaged in the service of the Deity in the temple, and if we hear some devotee, Guru, Vaiṣṇava, has come, of higher order, then we shall take permission of the Deities and go and attend the devotee. And then again I shall come and finish my worship. I must make some arrangement. There, because this is not man, but there is also the expression of the Lord there. So he's to be given regard. Not as a man, but as a devotee. That means that God's existence is within the heart is clear. Is more important than within His order that within the Deity also He is, by will, by His direction He's there.

And at the same time it's His direction that, "I live in the temple of the heart of My devotee. And that is more clear, more useful, and more real, so you have to respect that first. My appearance in the heart of the devotion, that is more real, both My order, but here you'll find."

When I came first in the Maṭh, Gauḍīya Maṭh, I saw that in a hired house, the Deity of Mahāprabhu was installed in a room on the roadside, on the first floor, ground floor. And I also saw that the Guru Mahārāja, he in the first floor, in a room he was living.

I asked a devotee, "That this Mahāprabhu, made by wood, or earth, or what is that?"

He rebuked me like anything. "What do you say? Mahāprabhu He Himself is here. Not by earth or wood or by marble, no. He Himself is here." He told me.

"All right He Himself is here. But why your Gurudeva who is considered to be the greatest devotee, he's not by the side of Mahāprabhu, who Himself is here?" That was my question. "If Mahāprabhu Himself had been present here then the greatest devotee must have to be seen on His side. But he's on the first floor, and He's, the Deity on the ground floor, and near the road, and he's in a safe position, what is the reason?"

Then he told me, "That here is also Mahāprabhu, in his heart there is also Mahāprabhu, he's not without Mahāprabhu. He's always engaged in showing his devotion towards Mahāprabhu who is residing within his heart. And that is higher expression." He told.

I could not understand so much, but still I thought that, "Yes, there must be something, some reality in this argument, in his statement. And afterwards I came to know, that here also Mahāprabhu in devotee's heart, and the Deities there also Mahāprabhu, that this is higher expression than the expression in the Deity.

Para, vyūha, vaibhava, antaryāmī, arcana - In this way, in five gradations that original Deity expresses Himself in this world.

[Rāmānujācārya has classified the expression of the Supreme Entity in five forms. Para, vyūha, vaibhava, antaryāmī, and arcana. Para, the central conception of the highest entity. Vyūha, His extended self in different functions, in different figures. Vaibhava, His appearance in this mundane plane as Avatāras like Matsya, Kūrma, and Varāha. Antaryāmī, His presence in every heart and every soul, every conscious unit. And arcana, His appearance in the plane of our physical perception as the Deity]

Vidagdha Mādhava: In five expressions?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Para, the others in the original position. Vyūha, extended self on all sides to manage the Vaikuṇṭha affairs. Vaibhava, who comes down to this world, Matsya, Kūrma, Varāha, Nṛsiṁha, Vāmana, etc. Who comes down to this material world to do some help to the fallen souls. Antaryāmī, another expression is in the heart, the Paramātmā. Every soul on his side the Supersoul, Paramātmā. And then arca, the fifth is arca, that is, He comes to our level of sense thinking to attract my energy and attention towards that finest plane, from this gross plane, He has come down to me. These five expressions of the Supreme is specially mentioned in Rāmānuja philosophy. Para, vyūha, vaibhava, antaryāmī, and arcana.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Pastimes we read in Caitanya-caritāmṛta and Bhāgavatam of devotees having direct experience of the Lord through Śrī Mūrti speaking, Sākṣi Gopāla...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Sākṣi Gopāla, Rādhāramaṇa, then this Śrī Kūrma. It is also possible. He can assert everywhere. If He likes He can assert Himself everywhere, in the way, according to His sweet will. He's everywhere. Even He came breaking the pillar to Prahlāda as Nṛsiṁgha, not Vigraha. And it is easy to come as Vigraha as a whole, it is easy thing. Even He can come from an atom. He can come out and assert with full force. He can do anything.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But something is greater to be learned in the association of a devotee than with Śrī Mūrti because the devotee is devotionally better.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes of course. That is passive, and here it is active. And in book also it is passive but more living than Śrī Mūrti. The book, the śāstra, that will give me more than the Śrī Mūrti. And the sādhu will give more than what the book, the scripture can give. It is in general, but to a devotee, everything may be of fullest conception, especially when He wills.

vana dekhi' bhrama haya – ei 'vṛndāvana', [śaila dekhi' mane haya – ei 'govardhana' yāhāṅ nadī dekhe tāhān mānaye – 'kālindī', mahā-premāveśe nāce prabhu paḍe kāndi']

["When Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu passed through the Jhārikhaṇḍa forest, He took it for granted that it was Vṛndāvana'. When He passed over the hills, He took it for granted that they were Govardhana."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.55]

Even a jungle can give you conception of Vṛndāvana and Kṛṣṇa. Everywhere you may find. By His will we can do anything and everything with a devotee. That is separate thing. Otherwise this is under regulation, this regular, ordinary sanction is this, but by special will he can do anything and everything.

Ordinance, ordinary laws of the country, and then in the emergent law some ordinance may be proclaimed. Everything belongs to the state during the war. No personal property. Sweet will. His autocracy is above all. General law is there, for general public, general people, students, according to gradation, step by step. But special characteristic is reserved to be utilised anywhere and everywhere.

Vidagdha Mādhava: I read in Swāmī Mahārāja's Bhagavad-gītā that prescribed duties can be material, according to the psycho, physical condition of the jīva, or the conditioned soul, he can have prescribed duties. But then the spiritual master he may give spiritual duties, spiritual instructions. So there seems to be some distinction...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Prescribed, that is in the śāstra for the general?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. But we're not working on that...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Suppose in the medical book, there is some general instruction, for the patients for the disease. But a specialist, a doctor, he may compare there and he may give something more special, collecting from the general laws to a particular patient. That there are so many medicines recommended for this, but this particular medicine will be much helpful to you. The doctor, the specialist, he may select. And for in the śāstra the general direction of the public, and a special arrangement may particularly by a doctor who knows the patient very completely, that may be the thing.

Vidagdha Mādhava: And a question about, in reading some purports of Swāmī Mahārāja, it appeared that one should not take sannyāsa unless he's sufficiently purified, unless he's free from some anarthas. That it would be wrong to prematurely take this position. Is that correct?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is also general and particular. Ha, ha. When Napoleon came back from Moscow, the greater portion of his army was finished. Then he passed a conscription when he reached his country, France. "Anyone of this age must join the army." And the less qualified army led by an expert general, they could do havoc. Then what do you say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: I'm wondering if sannyāsa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah, sannyāsa. So when under the guidance of a good general, this ordinary soldier may be raised to a higher position for the necessity. He'll get the benefit of the grand guidance. So no risk no gain. It is generally, it is said in Bhagavad-gītā, sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo.

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt
sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ]

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

"Don't risk where you are. According to your capacity you do the needful. Don't be much ambitious." But at the same time, sarva-dharmān parityajya, [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66] The clarion call. "Give up everything. Come to Me." The constitutional method and the revolutionary method. You may lose, but if you gain you will gain very much. With this risk you will march.

Tasyaiva hetoḥ prayateta kovido, in Bhāgavatam. And sarva-dharmān parityajya in Bhagavad-gītā. Revolutionary method.

"If you are courageous enough, you want to risk enough, come, take revolutionary, shortly you will attain, get the success. And in the ordinary way it will take long, long, time to reach the goal."

Something like this, in śāstra it is admitted. So ordinarily when not such a strong spiritual guardian, you don't take so much risk, as to take sannyāsa. But if under the guidance you get some great personage, you leave everything, take courage and join him. And in a very small time you will gather such merit that if you fall afterwards, it may not harm you much. In the meantime what you have acquired that is enough for lives together. Do you follow? Something like that. If you get the chance of a higher guidance, a higher market of the war market only two years you will be a priest, a merchant priest? But in ordinary market don't risk so much. In this way, the guidance, the Guru. As you get, you may risk. And if you also find inspiration from within, to jump, you can't control it, you will jump. A leg may be broken but still you won't care, you will march. That is the, tasyaiva hetoḥ prayateta kovido, na labhyate yad bhramatām upary adhaḥ tal labhyate duḥkhavad anyataḥ sukhaṁ, kālena sarvatra gabhīra-raṁhasā

["Persons who are actually intelligent and philosophically inclined should endeavour only for that purposeful end which is not obtainable even by wandering from the topmost planet (Brahmaloka) down to the lowest planet (Pātāla). As far as happiness derived from sense enjoyment is concerned, it can be obtained automatically in course of time, just as in course of time we obtain miseries even though we do not desire them."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.5.18]

That ten śloka that Devaśi Nārada gave to Vedavyāsa. "Just concentrate on these, the meaning of these ten ślokas, and go on writing Bhāgavatam. This is the ten outlines I'm giving to you."

There is one śloka is this. From time immemorial you are moving in a vicious circle, going up, down, action, reaction, action, reaction. But any time you get some chance, you jump out of that vicious circle. Not describing that stale and eternal path, try to jump, come out. And if you get some harm, does not matter, because here in the vicious eternal circle, you have no chance to come out. So by coming out forcibly you lose something, that is also desirable. Because what you gain by that, that is very, very, rare. That cannot be acquired in this ordinary cyclic order. So for the service of the Lord, if you take risk from the varnāśrama dharma - the sannyāsa, brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsa. If you take immature sannyāsa, renunciation, you may lose your character. But if you can get some chance for serving under a pure devotee for the time being, constant service for the time being, you will acquire so much of that valuable thing at that time, that that will help you in your future life extraordinarily. Do you follow?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is the purport.

Devotee: Thank you Mahārāja. Thank you very much. It's wonderful.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. It is mentioned there. Tata kavarjuna udha musyakin [?]

What loss you incur there? And what is the development going high and next minute to come down, again going up, and next minute to come down? So the high and low have no peculiar position. But you try to jump out and of you incur some loss, for the time being, but for the good cause, you must risk otherwise you won't be able to come out of that vicious circle. So try for that.

So, sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. [Bhagavad-gītā,18.66] "Come to My refuge, My shelter. Ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo. If any injury occurs there, I am here, I am to compensate."

The assurance is there. So for the good cause otherwise if we are helpless, no hope, no prospect, nothing of the kind. So simply to get the name and fame of the roll of sannyāsa, that: "I am a leader of society, I have taken sannyāsa, Ācārya." For all these low reasons don't take risk, don't venture. But for the real cause you must take risk. No risk no gain. That method will be welcome.

Just as an instance Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, he recommended what you told, that not very easily you should give up this gṛhastha life, householder's life. This is more safe, though speed is not very quick but safe position.

But our Guru Mahārāja, he gave a general call. "Come and try to serve under me, you'll be more gainer." So he did not give much stress on the householder. "Take risk, come. I'm conducting a general march towards Mahāprabhu's throne. Come and join me and you will be paid honourably."

Devotee: I was going to say that I've also read in Swāmī Mahārāja's Bhagavad-gītā that a sannyāsa who's not pure in heart is simply a botheration to society.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sannyāsa is of three kinds. One being fully prepared. But how to be prepared? What way? So three kinds, vaidic, dīkṣa also, but the lowest if we get the chance of a good guide, then if at heart I can accept the very destination, then I can take risk. But if I have not a clear conception of the destination I need not take risk. Clear conception, but I'm not fit, but by the help of my friends and my guide, I shall try to make the - some loan like thing. That those defects, to compensate those defects, by the power of the guide and the company. That is necessary. In the eternal path I may receive some injury, does not matter. Still I must attend, I must be sincere. If I'm sincere, sincerity is always reckoned the highest place. If I'm sincere in my destination, that I want that, I'm not satisfied with anything but that, then I should take risk. Then I shall get such a chance.

yata kalar badra madhur ramashya kinko vaptva bara raja tvam sad atmata [?]

In the ordinary life also we may find you must take risk. That inner urge will come that I must take risk, the chance has come to me, you cannot but take risk. But the favourable circumstances surrounded by the friends and guided by the good guardian, they should take risk. The injury that may come due to my ineligibility that will be amply compensated, whatever, small thing I shall acquire in this short time. He's there.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

But still there will be some who cannot, who is insincere, if by imitating others, he may take such, he will be loser. The imitationist will be loser. The sincere aspirer, he may be rewarded. And the imitation won't help us. Imitation. Without having the necessary quality, if only by ambition I want to copy another self, for fame and name, that is another thing, that is bad. But sincere hankering, inner urge, that must be encouraged.

Na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid durgatiṁ tāta gacchati. Because He's everywhere and He's supporting the good. He has got a promise, that, "I'll always back the sincere and those that have got good object in life, I'll always back them."

But that must be taken sincerely, that is all important, the attempt must be sincere.

Devotee: Mahārāja, this also applies to Hari-Nāma and also to dīkṣa initiation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, always. Imitation is not laudable. Sincere hankering, that should be encouraged. And what defect is there, that can be minimised and compensated shortly. But sincere hankering must be there, and imitation is bad. The sahajiyā section, they're imitationists. In a short time you want to climb the peak of the mountain. Wholesale engagement, sannyāsa means wholesale engagement in the service, that means sannyāsa. And also in the ordinary sense gṛhastha and sannyāsī exclusively devoted and partly devoted, in this sense. But there is, it is possible that a gṛhastha may devote cent per cent, where as a sannyāsī may not devote a small per cent, it is also possible. Because there are so many pārṣada devotees, the eternal devotees they also come here as gṛhastha bhakta sometimes. But they're not to be reckoned within this circle. This is about the devotee, sādhaka, that are within, in the process of realisation, not fully realised soul. Fully realised soul, they may come as sannyāsī, or gṛhastha, or in any section, they're all right cent per cent, no question about them. But for those that are in the process of realisation, the question about them. The sincere should be encouraged and the imitationist should be rejected, discouraged.

...

To oppose the truth, truth comes to embrace us with greater speed and greater earnestness. He's so by nature. Only we're bared because of our free choice in the other way. Otherwise that is our birthright in one sense. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. Our innermost right is there, but we're foreigner in our own home. Now I stop.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There must be ear of that type which can catch that nectar, sweetness from the sound. Which is sweet to one that may be bitter to another. According to the taste. Rūpa Goswāmī says, syāt kṛṣṇa-nāma-caritādi-sitāpy avidyā-, pittopatapta-rasanasya na rocikā nu kintv ādarād anudinaṁ khalu saiva juṣṭā, svādvī kramād bhavati tad-gada-mūla-hantrī

["The Holy Name, character, pastimes and activities of Kṛṣṇa are all transcendentally sweet like sugar candy. Although the tongue of one afflicted by the jaundice of avidyā (ignorance) cannot taste anything sweet, it is wonderful that simply by carefully chanting these sweet Names every day, a natural relish awakens within his tongue, and his disease is gradually destroyed at the root."] [Śrī Upadeśāmṛta, 7]

"When our inner tongue is influenced by ignorance, the Name of the Lord tastes very bitter. But that Name is the medicine to remove that defect in our inner tongue." He says that, "If there is attack of bile in the body, then tongue is affected, then sweet things taste bitter. But the sugar candy, or some sweetmeat, that is medicine to me, that bitterness. And when the bitterness will be, the disease of the tongue will be removed, what was experienced previously as bitter, that will taste gradually sweet, sweeter, sweetest." In this way. So Kṛṣṇa Nāma is like that. To the ignorant it is very bitter, repulsive. But that is the medicine to remove that ignorance, and then gradually it will come. With His slowly glorious sweetness, that will charm the whole existence.

Vidagdha Mādhava: One ISKCON devotee once told our Swāmī Mahārāja that, "You are like a cow giving transcendental milk, but actually like a surabhi cow because you're never running out, always giving."

We feel like that with Your Divine Grace.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. - ...actually some emblem may excite us about Infinite, and we ignore that finite thing, and we are caught by the Infinite, we'll be excited there from.

Vana dekhi' bhrama haya – ei 'vṛndāvana', [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 17.55] Looking to a jungle at once the Vṛndāvana comes in His memory and He's captured by the whole, whole heart captured.

A brisky boy will give one the memory of Kṛṣṇa Himself. So many things in the world.

When we're in lower position, even the real portrait of Kṛṣṇa and other things, devotees, that may rouse some hatred within us. Ha ha. 'This is only doll, the idol worshippers, they're causing so much, creating nuisance in the country.' In this way.

But if one has got a real eye within, he will see not only the Deity outside, sākṣāda govindam. His mind will be carried to Vṛndāvana, so many līlā. A slight connection will rouse the whole thing. Kṛṣṇa līlā. His Dhāma. Anything.

There is a saying that one devotee saw a vulture in the sky and began to chant, "How sweet, how sweet, how sweet, the vulture." Why? The vulture reminded him about the burial ground, the cremation ground, where so many bodies are left. From vulture, mind goes to the cremation ground, and from cremation ground, "Oh there are so many cows. And that skin of this cow is utilised in the mṛdaṅga. And when that mṛdaṅga is played on with the chanting of Kṛṣṇa Nāma, how sweet that is." So immediately from vulture the mind coming through that cremation ground to the mṛdaṅga, then to the chanting of the devotees, and as if the sound is entering into his ear and he's, "How sweet, how sweet."

In this way, the connection may come to a proper heart. Slight connection may rouse ocean of joy. On the other hand a real thing may come, Kṛṣṇa Himself may come in his front.

"Oh you!" Duryodhana says. "Śiśupāla, you are at the root of all the mischief here."

Ha ha. So seer, looker on, the credit to Him. If no eye, then beautiful things are useless. But if eye is there, can see sweetness from ordinary things, things which is abused generally. Take good from everything. Can take good everywhere. See good everywhere, paramahaṁsa - paramahaṁsa devotee.

sthāvara-jaṅgama dekhe, nā dekhe tāra mūrti / sarvatra haya nija iṣṭa-deva-sphūrti

["The uttama-adhikārī, sees the moving and non-moving entities, sthāvara-jaṅgama, but never sees their outward form. One sees one's iṣṭa, one's most beloved Deity, Kṛṣṇa, everywhere, sarvatra haya nija iṣṭa-deva-sphūrti. This is a completely Kṛṣṇa conscious person."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.274]

Outwardly he's seeing this matter and living body, outwardly. But he sees in connection of Kṛṣṇa. Standpoint comes from within, and he's overjoyed by that feeling.

Mahāprabhu when He first approached to Purī, Jagannātha, six or ten miles from distant He saw the summit of the temple, and began to cry, and dance, and sing, like anything. Only few miles took long time for Him to come, He can't make any progress. Sometimes falling flat, prostrated, praṇāma, daṇḍavat, sometimes dancing, sometimes chanting, fainting, in this way, only few miles became a long distance. Such, the feeling may be weak.

The eye is necessary. Divya darśana, dīkṣa. Dīkṣa means to acquire such eye, inner eye, divya jñāna. The second eye upanayam, another eye from within, upanayam, another eye. By sacred thread ceremony, it is meant to be imparted, another eye, to see things around. That is the eye of judgement, the theistic eye. Try to see with the eye, your friend. Your friend with infinite affection for you. Don't be afraid of anything. Get the eye to see that you're surrounded by a friendly circle. The depth of the vision of the eye, that is appreciated.

divyaṁ jñānaṁ yato dadyāt, kuryāt pāpasya saṅkṣayam
tasmād dīkṣeti sā proktā, deśikais tattva-kovidaiḥ

["The process by which divine knowledge (divyaṁ jñānaṁ) is given and sins are destroyed is called dīkṣā by the highly learned scholars who are expert in spiritual affairs."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 27]

Those that have got a real knowledge about reality, they say that dīkṣā means such. To really read the inner meaning, inner movement, inner tendency, passing through the cover of things. What is the environment, what is the inevitable, irresistible, inevitable, that must happen, none can oppose. What is that? That is friendly, that is affectionate to us, to be able to read that. The ultimate power is friendly to us. Only local interests are clashing one another. Individual interests, provincial, local, they're clashing with one another.

But the Absolute interest, if we can connect with, then we shall see, if our interest may be included in the Absolute interest, if it is possible for us, then we shall see everything is happy, everything is good. From the universal calculation there is also my representation, but from the universal calculation, not from misunderstood individual calculation of interest. That is what is necessary. And the Absolute Good Autocrat is Kṛṣṇa. Sweetest. Which is above law. That is the most beautiful. Ha ha. No rhyme no reason. Ha ha. Even no room for justice, so sweet. The plane is so sweet that no question of justice can enter there. How can you think that? Autocrat, autocracy, the highest autocracy of the Absolute Good has no room for justice to enter in its realm. Autocracy, but autocracy of great, that autocracy is highest good, highest good is autocrat. It is not necessary for Him to think for any inconsideration, it is above that. His will is perfect. "Let there be light." There was light. "Let there be water." There was water. His will is all right. The Autocrat whose will is all right then no question of any justice. Wrong or right, everything is right, highest right. Separation, union, this embracing, and if kicking, bruising, and everything is sweet.

āśliṣya vā pāda-ratāṁ pinaṣṭu mām, adarśanān marma-hatāṁ karotu vā yathā tathā vā vidadhātu lampaṭo, mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva nāparaḥ

["Kṛṣṇa may embrace Me in love or trample Me under His feet. He may break My heart by hiding Himself from Me. Let that debauchee do whatever He likes, but He will always be the only Lord of My life."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 8]

The inner taste gives the assurance, whatever outer treatment you get, whatever cruelty may be seen at present to you, but He is the well-wisher, the centre of all good. So when consciousness comes to that high Kṛṣṇa consciousness they never want any separation from that, however treatment may come, apparently. Mat-prāna-nāthas tu. "He's my only Lord. So cruelly treating over me, still He's my only Lord, so sweet. Mat-prāna-nāthas tu sa eva, None else, He's the only Lord of my whole existence, none else. Though apparently I feel that I'm most harshly treated by Him. So sweet."

Can never think any alternative, of being separated from that sweetest centre, it is so sweet. His punishment is also sweet. What of union and embracing, welcoming, punishment to the extreme, that is also sweet. That consciousness grows in ones mind, awakens in ones heart, so sweet. No possibility, there cannot be any hope of our good to any other place. This is the place, the sweetest. He may behave with me in any way, but that does not matter. I cannot budge an inch, the slightest, I cannot withdraw from His connection. So sweet, so good, so well-wisher, affectionate, all these considerations. The Absolute is such to all of us.

Mahāprabhu told that in His last śloka of eight śloka He has given, eight poems, last poem says like that. "He's punishing. Yes, punish more, more, punish. Punishment also from Your hand is very sweet. Heart is contented. He's My guardian. Whole faith in Him, eternal faith in Him. You're My only shelter, none else. Nowhere have I got My safe shelter but under Your holy feet."

Such consciousness. But we shall pray for the day when our heart will rise up to that standard. What Mahāprabhu wanted to teach us. That this sort of exclusive reliance you must cultivate within you for the highest centre, your guardian. No complaint, no complaint. All possible complaints must be eliminated when we like to approach Him. That is the way to approach.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / [amāninā mānadena, kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

All responsibility of evil future with you. There everything is all right. With this consciousness you must begin your journey. The whole responsibility of ones success, or evil effects, all responsibility is with you, not with Him in any way. Then in no time you will reach the plane. If you want to reach the plane, then you are to adjust in this way. You are to take within you this thought that that is all good, all blissful. And where I am this is all evil, all nasty. This sort of attitude will bring success for you very shortly.

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, [kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

If you stand face to face, address Him, take His Name. Take His Name, Name means surrender to His feet, by taking the sound. But your attitude, to be fruitful, your journey to be fruitful, the attitude must be such. Tṛṇād api sunīcena. No complaint against anybody. All complaint against his own previous life. And with pure and open heart you are to approach there. The shortest period will take you there. Those that live there, they're of such good temperament people, they do not know to complain against anybody. They're seeing the environment as good as anything. And they're very cautious that they may not create any dirt there. "It is a pure realm, sphere, and I must not create any dirt here." Very anxious they will be, all purity. This temperament is allowed to enter such plane, where everything is good.

What about Bhāgava prabhu?

Vidagdha Mādhava: No news.

Devotee: Mahārāja. I was wondering since I'm just getting over sickness, I experienced several weeks ago when I had very high fever, I seemed to be battling with my faith in the Lord. Wondering why am I suffering in such a gross way? I seemed to be delirious. How does one maintain that faith, that everything that is coming to us is for our good?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: My previous acquisition. Mamāpi durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ.

nāmnām akāri bahudhā nija-sarva-śaktis, tatrārpitā niyamitaḥ smaraṇe na kālaḥ etādṛśī tava kṛpā bhagavan mamāpi, durdaivam īdṛśam ihājani nānurāgaḥ

["O my Lord, Your Holy Name bestows auspiciousness upon all. And You have unlimited Names such as Kṛṣṇa and Govinda by which You reveal Yourself. In Your many Holy Names You have kindly invested all Your transcendental potency. And in chanting these Names, there are no strict rules concerning time or place. Out of Your causeless mercy, You have descended in the form of divine sound, but my great misfortune is that I have no love for Your Holy Name."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 2]

Everything is helpful, eagerly awaiting to help me. But my fate is such that the least demand what is necessary for that, wanting in me. Complete surrender. In this way, a smallest ticket I shall purchase, no money. Not ticket of high order, but the most ordinary ticket I shall purchase, then I can enter the drama or the playing ground, but no money. This is something like this.

tuyā dayā aichena parama udārā, [atiśaya manda nātha bhāga hāmārā]

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu says: "Whatever may be lacking is on my part. There is no defect on Your side."] [Sermons of the Guardian of Devotion, 2, p 15]

"Your grace knows no bounds. Atiśaya manda nātha bhāga hāmārā. But My fate is the worst thing."

When we shall come to such consciousness we'll be in the relativity of that thing. Otherwise sincerely, one cannot say or feel like this. "I have something. I am someone." That is ahaṅkāra, ego, and only when ego finally dissolved, then these statements will come from within. "I have nothing. I'm the worst. And You are the most benevolent, and this is my hope, my Lord." That is the capital. What you think to be the capital, that all negative. A real capital that, "I'm liquidator, I have nothing, I have nothing, everything belongs to You, and I also belong to You my Lord, at the same time. Everything belongs to You, and not without myself, the most wretched person. I have nothing, no quality, nothing of the type, good. But I belong to You, I'm Yours." To approach the Infinite, this should be the attitude of the finite, completely merging. So self abnegation, mukti, not only liberation from the mania, from the imaginary pride, but to dive deep into this idea. "I'm Yours. Everything belongs to You, and myself also. I have nothing. You can do anything and everything with me. I'm a slave. If You kill me no charge against You. You have got that Lordship over me. You Lord it over. I hold such position in relation to You."

mārobi rākhobi yo icchā tohārā, nitya-dāsa prati tuwā adhikārā

["Slay me or protect me as You wish, for You are the master of Your eternal servant."]
[The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 13]

"You have every right to do away with me. What thousands like me, they're dissipated, no harm to Your pastimes area." This should be the attitude of the most faithful, suicide squadron of the general. They reach the most subtle type of existence thereby, which is undestroyable, so fine, undestroyable, destructible, cannot be destroyed. Such fine ego, or representation of the finite in relation to the Infinite.

With the dissolution, with creation, so many gross things develop. At the time of dissolution gross things are dissolved, gradually. From gross to subtle, then subtle to more subtle, more subtle, then the highest subtle thing, that remain eternal. Which cannot be traced to have any positive characteristic, that is eternal. Out of negative the positive will begin to come from other side. Yogamāyā, another structure where every unit is of such type. No possession, no individual possession there.

And Lord said, "Yes, I'm bhakta-parārdhīno. I'm subordinate to all these, My servants. They've purchased My heart. I cannot stay without them. By their serving attitude they've purchased Me in such a way like I can't stand without these friends. They're so dedicated intensely to Me, I can't sustain Myself without them."

[ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra iva dvija
sādhubhir grasta-hṛdayo, bhaktair bhakta-jana-priyaḥ]

[The Lord tells Durvāsā: "I am the slave of My devotees; I have no freedom apart from their will. Because they are completely pure and devoted to Me, My heart is controlled by them, and I reside always in their hearts. I am dependent not only on My devotees, but even on the servants of My devotees. Even the servants of My devotees are dear to Me."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 9.4.63]

In this way there the world is found. That is another thing. Not a matter of right, but the matter, the right of dedication, that develops in other way. Dedication has the greatest force but that is wholly of another type which we cannot be able to think in this plane. This negative light. Mahābhāva-dui eka rūpa. [Caitanya- caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.282] The whole ecstatic Absolute feels helpless, before such negative force as a whole. The defeat of the Lord to His servitors. Kṛṣṇa.

Jayadeva Goswāmī, a great devotee poet, he was writing a book in Sanskrit, the Kṛṣṇa līlā, inspired by Him. Then he came in one place where Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, They in Their secret union, so many sentiments, feelings, come and going. Kṛṣṇa, He's trying His best to pacify Rādhārāṇī in His favour. So eager, that He's about to say that: "I want Your holy feet. I want to serve Your holy feet, please extend it to Me."

Jayadeva could not write it, it came in his pen, before his pen, but he shuddered. "How can I say that Kṛṣṇa the highest God, He'll pray for the holy feet of Rādhārāṇī to serve, I can't." He stopped there and went to take bath in the Ganges.

In the meantime Kṛṣṇa Himself has come with the, in the figure of Jayadeva himself. And she, Padma, Jayadeva's wife, who was a great devotee, she saw that today, a little quickly, her husband has come. Still she managed everything for his food, etc.

Then after taking his food, Kṛṣṇa told, Lord in the form of Jayadeva, "Padma bring Me that book, I was writing that book, producing a copy, give it to Me." And she gave. And there He wrote, dehi pada-pallavam udāram [Gītā Govinda, 10.7] 'Be generous to extend Your holy feet to Me for service.' Then after doing that I'm going to take rest. You take your food." Now, He went to take rest in the bed, in the room.

Now real Jayadeva appeared. Padma was taking prasādam. Jayadeva wondered, "What is this Padma, you're taking prasādam?"

Padma looked puzzled on her face, "What is it my master, lord, you're coming now, what is this? You already came and took prasādam, and I'm taking the remains, now you come?"

"What do you say Padma? I'm coming just now."

"No, no, no. You came, you took food. You also asked for that book you are writing, manuscript, and I gave it to you. You did something and then you went to take rest on the bed."

"Let me see the bed. Nothing, no one on the bed."

"Then I have committed _____ [?]"

"What is the matter? Padma, give the manuscript to me." And there he wondered to find what he hesitated to write there, that is written. "Oh Padma, you are the most fortunate lady. The Lord Himself came and took prasādam and you are taking the remains." Jayadeva also went and began to snatch that prasādam. "You are so fortunate. Kṛṣṇa Himself came and took food from your hand, and you are taking. Let me have that. You are so fortunate you could see Him. But I can't, I couldn't."

So Kṛṣṇa is purchased by such devotees. That is also for our encouragement. The wholesale self abnegation for Him, what value fetches thereby. Surrender. Surrender has got it's positive value, but very, very subtle. It's very difficult to detect that, but still it is, and it is the highest force.

Ahaṁ bhakta-parārdhīno, hy asvatantra. "As if I'm parārdhīno, subordinate, as if I'm subordinate. Bhakta-parārdhīno. I'm under the direction of My devotees. I'm not free, as if I've sold My freedom to My devotees like that. Willingly, I've willingly given up My freedom to My devotees. My position is such. Really I'm free, but as if willingly I've sold My freedom to My devotees by the money, by the price of devotion in self surrender."

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Who will come to hear this mad talk?

kahibāra kathā nahe, kahile keha nā bujhaye, [aiche citra caitanyera raṅga sei se bujhite pāre, caitanyera kṛpā yāṅre, haya tāṅra dāsānudāsa-saṅga]

["Such topics are not to be discussed freely because if they are, no one will understand them. Such are the wonderful pastimes of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. Unto one who is able to understand, Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu has shown mercy by giving him the association of the servant of His own servant."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.83]

Not to be spoken in a normal assembly. Only the mad camp, they may discuss all these things. But who will come to rely on these things, topics? Kahibāra kathā nahe, kahile keha nā bujhaye. But those that have got some taste about these things, they can't leave it. They'll leave anything else, the kingdom, the leadership, name, fame, money, everything. But these sort of subtle discussions and the inter change of these such thoughts they can't avoid. Very tasteful.

...

_____ [?] is dangerous, but dedication is safe, and pain. And aggression is dangerous and killing, reactionary. And highest form of dedication, how, of what type, and how to be attained? That is the problem.
And Mahāprabhu, and the Vaiṣṇava's, Guru's, They have come to us our relief. "Come this way, this side."

These are very subtle points. With whole attention try to advance. Perhaps a point you will get. One drop is enough. And a drop of your gain will assert, you will see that here is Infinite. The part of Infinite is Infinite, it is such. No number of finite can make Infinite. But Infinite is the original thing and every part of Infinite is Infinite. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. So how much can we take, we can receive? How much thirst we have got? The ocean is there. How much thirst I may have in my tiny body.

Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Ha ha. I've got a habit that in the midst of discussion sometimes I cry, Nitāi Gaura, Nitāi Gaura. Even that gentleman Acyutānanda, he mentioned in his article in Back to Godhead that when discussing with him, in the middle sometimes say, Gaura Nityānanda, or say Nitāi, Nitāi. He mentioned in that article, in the first, beginning. Acyutānanda told that by January he'll come this side, here. But again some news came, for want of money he won't be able to come, someone told. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Sometimes you say, "No risk no gain." So there is evidently risk when one moves forward.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No risk no gain, relative to this plane of life. Where we are, here, especially Bhagavad-gītā has recommended for us, "Don't try for any gain, nor for loss, because everything is false. Gain also false, loss also false. Don't be very particular about any loss or gain here in this plane. And then your arrangement will come in a proper place, and there is gain and loss. Not committing offence, going on with dedicating service, that is gain."

brahma-bhūtaḥ prasannātmā, na śocati na kāṅkṣati
samaḥ sarveṣu bhūteṣu, mad-bhaktiṁ labhate parām

["The spotlessly pure-hearted and self-satisfied soul who has attained to his conscious divine nature neither grieves nor craves for anything. Seeing all beings equally (in the conception of My supreme energy), he gradually achieves supreme devotion (prema-bhakti) unto Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]

Both loss and gain equal, all false. Then we come to such a position as to get entrance into higher plane and there is loss and gain, again. And offence is loss, and service is gain there, progress is there, sādhana. Loss and gain we shall ignore only in the plane of falsehood, this māyā, the miscalculation, this local calculation, individual calculation of good and bad here.

But the attitude should be only the service, not any personal loss and gain and thereby we shall thrive. "However He may deal with me I shall be constantly adherent to the dedication of myself for His service." That should be the permanent beacon light of our life. Loss and gain in terms of His mercy, His affection.

Very particular, not by show. Service, dedication means such, dedication means ignores loss and gain for personal interest, and dedicate solely for Him for whom the dedication is necessary. One pointed.

...

The disciple that is very much faithful, showing faith towards Jayatīrtha Mahārāja as Guru, Guru may do anything and everything. I want to put one question to them. His Guru, whether he's putting such faith in his own Guru, Swāmī Mahārāja? Did Swāmī Mahārāja use this LSD, this intoxication? He does not follow his Guru Mahārāja in toto. How can he demand that his disciples will follow him unconditionally? Does he surrender to his Guru unconditionally? His Guru did. He, previously that gentleman was in connection with intoxication, this Jayatīrtha, and leaving that he had to come and join Swāmī Mahārāja. That hippy company of intoxication. Jayatirtha published a book also in favour of intoxication. From that society he came away to join Swāmī Mahārāja and he had to leave intoxication. Now again he's taking intoxication and he's asking his disciples to follow him unconditionally. What right has he got to ask the disciples to surrender to him unconditionally? Did he himself do so?

Devotee: He likes having followers.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He has invented something. Sometimes like a madman, stark mad, saying: "I am Mahāprabhu, I am Nityānanda, I am Jesus, I am Mohammed, I am Kṛṣṇa, everything I am." All the brain finished. After the brain is extremely damaged, then such words may come through our mind. "I am Mahāprabhu, I am Nityānanda, I am Kṛṣṇa, I am this, I am that, I am everything." What is this? Irrelevant talks.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] like to receive a good push. Hmm?

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] But the treatment will be accordingly.

...everything cannot be...

83.01.26.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the most eliminative anurāga. Love does not mean that whim. Love does not mean whim. The purest thing most eliminative. Even viddhi bhakti is eliminated. Only love and beauty. Nothing else. Which is tasteful to the Autocrat. Not under law. The Autocrat to be satisfied. Such thing, such is the standard of what is called love divine. Who does not, Autocrat means does not care for anything. He's to be satisfied. So how much attention and absorption towards that is necessary? All eliminative, all exclusive.

Devotee: Mahārāja, you said love and duty. [Guru Mahārāja actually said love and beauty].

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Loving?

Devotee: Love and duty.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Duty's far below devotee. In consideration of duty there is, in conception of duty there is room for law. 'I'm duty bound.' Four tendencies excites us to our action. First is fear. In the lower creation they work only for fear, the animals and others, fear, bhaya. Then next higher section they work for hope, expectation, prospect. In the first step only out of fear one works, and the next higher step he works out of prospect. 'If I do then I shall get something.' The third is duty, sense of duty, third. And fourth is anurāga. No question of duty is also there. 'Duty, yes, I have got some understanding, some obligation. If I do not do I'll be blamed like this or that.' The third stage actuated by the motive of discharging duty. And the fourth - no consciousness of duty even. Duty even, it is only through love. 'Cannot but do this. I cannot but do. I'm helpless.' That is anurāga, the fourth stage which excites us to any action. The fourth and purest, anurāga. 'I can't but do this.' That is anurāga. And the sense of duty next lower. And then prospect for which we do. And the last by fear - 'We had to, had to do.' Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given this light in Caitanya-śikṣāmṛta perhaps. Bhaya, asa [?] pasa buddhi [?] anurāga [?], four stages of action, movement. _____ [?] Cannot but do this, that is their position. They can't withdraw, can't, helpless. Heart is wholesale captured by Kṛṣṇa. The attraction of Kṛṣṇa has captured their heart wholesale. No way out. Hare Kṛṣṇa. God's grace is of such charming nature, and such intense, that no way out but to serve Him. So sweet. Not by, neither by fear, nor by hope, nor by duty, sense of duty, but helpless. Cannot do without that. Can't do. Serve and feel satisfaction. The monopoly. No marketing possible there. No one, no capitalist can enter and open shop there. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitai.

Lakṣmī Devī she herself wanted to participate, but that was impossible for her even. How the market, tight market. Lakṣmī Devī could not. All swallowed by Kṛṣṇa conception, Kṛṣṇa conciousness. Only one thing in the market. Kṛṣṇa conciousness ruling everything there. Everything controlled by Kṛṣṇa conciousness. The harmony, not only harmony by patch up work, but natural and most intense harmony existing there. Not a patch up work, laboured harmony. Living harmony.

Brahmā, Śiva, they're bewildered. "We had never such previous experience."

Ha, ha, ha. Not only they attract the service, but the servitors they feel they cannot continue their life, they can't live without that service. That is their food, and their dress, everything, is that.

Mahāprabhu how He says. "My friends, show Me Kṛṣṇa. Otherwise I can't live, I cant stand. I can't stay, maintain My existence without seeing, what I saw like lightning I saw, without further seeing that I cant tolerate the separation. Save Me by showing where is He. Where is He what I saw? That beauty like lightning touched My heart and then withdrew Himself. I can't stand." And He says, "The unit of measurement, in a second how many times one can die to earn that fortune? That is the unit of measurement. To get a seconds perception I'm ready to die one crores of times. By that unit it is to be measured."

rādhā-mukunda-pada-sambhava-gharmmabindu-, nirmmañcanopakaraṇe kṛta-deha-lakṣyām

[Rūpa Goswāmī says when Lalitā Devī finds a drop of perspiration at the feet of Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Govinda, she furiously engages herself to remove it. "How has it come there? We are circumambulating Them to see that not the least pain can enter this domain to trouble Them. But how without our notice has this perspiration appeared? Perspiration, perspiration!"] [Lalitāṣṭakam, 1]

Lalitā Devī says, Rūpa Goswāmī says, "Lalitā Devī's attraction towards Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa is of what type? That if any drop of sweat is found on the foot of Rādhārāṇī or Kṛṣṇa, she wants to efface that sweat drop by lākhs of her life."

Either wants to get at once one lākh of body, or busily engaged to remove the drop of sweat from the foot of Rādhā-Govinda. Kṛta-deha-lakṣyām. Or she's ready to sacrifice one by one, one lākh of bodies to remove a drop of sweat on the foot. That sort of unit is the measurement of how much love one feels for the Person. The object of Kṛṣṇa consciousness means, this type.

Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari. Mahāprabhu says, "My heart bursts without having a second view of that wonderful thing which I had experience with a little before. I can't stay."

Beauty and sweetness being so much cruel, oxymoron, opposite. Generally that shouldn't be cruel, but so cruel that once seen and then if I do not get that I shall have to die. How cruel the beauty may be? What power will do? They can neglect thousands of the shots of cannons, atom bombs, neglect. Atom bomb has no effect in them. That is all in the physical plane. They do not care at all for that. That is in the other plane.
_____ [?] A new body emerges from within and wants to cut off all the connection with this body of physical senses that can lead me to some other direction than Kṛṣṇa consciousness. To bid goodbye to this body with all the senses which draw toward external appearance, apparent world.

What one tongue will do? Enumerable tongues necessary to chant the Name of Kṛṣṇa. What one tongue will do? What only two ears will do? Crores of ears necessary to hear the Name, sweet Name of Kṛṣṇa. These are the feelings of the devotees. "You creator you do not know right creation, proper creation. Only two eyes you have given. Who'll have the chance to have a darśana of Kṛṣṇa, the face of Kṛṣṇa? Only two eyes you have given, and again you have given cover on those two eyes, cover. Dressed in such an attractive way, Kṛṣṇa filled up the holes of His flute with the nectar emanating from His lips. So they remembered Him, entering the forest of Vṛndāvana, whose soil experiences the pleasure of consorthood upon being embraced by the touch of Kṛṣṇa's lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.21.5]

Oh! How sweet personality. Kṛṣṇa is approaching Vṛndāvana step by step. Śukadeva, he says, "He's walking in the Vṛndāvana step by step. Taking one foot again puts. The earth of Vṛndāvana feeling with the touch of His divine feet, sva-pada-ramanaṁ. The Vṛndāvana earth is feeling the charming sensation of the union with Kṛṣṇa, with the divine touch in the dust. Ratesuka [?] The whole, the sweet fulfilment of the sense pleasure, by the touch of the Feet of Kṛṣṇa. Charming, charm. Vṛndāranyaṁ sva-pada-ramanaṁ prāviśad gīta-kīrtiḥ. And from the birds, insects, everything is singing in His praise. And the friends also accompany."

And Brahmā comes and falls at the feet. "I could not understand You my Master, My Lord. I was acquainted with my father, Nārāyaṇa. I'm somewhat acquainted with Him, His ways. But You are independent of His nature. It was difficult for me to understand. Now I feel that You are above my father. Your capital is just on the superior position to that of my father, Nārāyaṇa in Vaikuṇṭha. I feel that now."

Nārāyaṇam tam nava bhuja narayanam Taj yavi satyam natam eva nayam [?]

Bhāgavatam. _____ [?] Nārāyaṇa. "Not Nārāyaṇa but even the source of Nārāyaṇa ___ [?] Svayaṁ- Bhagavān, You are. I ascertain. Otherwise, I have somewhat, according to His sweet, my Fathers ways, Nārāyaṇa. But Your are completely of other nature. I could not understand You. Please forgive me my Lord, my ignorance. I could not think. I thought You were within my jurisdiction. Brahmāṇḍa is my jurisdiction and You are here. And what are Your ways? Mysterious. As if You do not care for anyone. Even not myself, or anyone. You are going on in Your own way. It's a mystic thing, so I had to come and test You. Some say that You have got some mysterious powers, supernatural. I came to test. And I really tried, but I find that I'm lost in my attempt. I tried my best to test You. Took away the cowboys and the calves. They are there already. But now within Your līlā it is continuing as ever. A part removed by me, and I find that the removed part is already there. But no harm here, it is all full. I can't conceive how it is possible. How infinite Your potencies. A part removed but that can't be known. So, though a cowboy eating with the cowboys in the same plate and with the rod, the whip, and with some ordinary bamboo flute. You are moving with some forest flowers and this and that, You are moving. But You are such and such beyond our apprehension. Who are You? Please forgive me for my impertinence that I came to test You."

Simplicity. Plainness. That has caused grandeur, judiciousness. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Mahāprabhu's method of argument was very simple and straight and comprehensive. That Kṛṣṇa is superior to Nārāyaṇa, and to prove this He just took Lakṣmī Devī as an instance.

The Gopāla Bhaṭṭa's father in Śrī Raṅgam, to him He put. "Just take the case of Lakṣmī Devī. What is in Nārāyaṇa, Lakṣmī Devī has got everything. Everything is known to her, but she's not satisfied, she's running after rasa līlā of Kṛṣṇa.

On the other hand, the gopīs that have association with Kṛṣṇa, they do not aspire after any connection with Nārāyaṇa. If the chance to have a meeting with Nārāyaṇa, "Oh my Lord, You bless me that we can have our affinity towards Kṛṣṇa." Not for Nārāyaṇa.

But Lakṣmī Devī's running to take participation in the rasa līlā of Kṛṣṇa. What is that? And more wonderful that Lakṣmī Devī could not participate.

Again more wonderful Śruti and Daṇḍakaranya Ṛṣis they could have entrance, but Lakṣmī Devī did not. And for that purpose she had to undergo penances for long time. But still she was not considered fit to enter into rasa līlā. What is this?"

And also in Benares He told to the māyāvādī sannyāsīs, "Take the case of the goddess of Ganges. Her position is on the head of Śiva. Gaṅgā, on the head of Śiva. But Ganges comes from the foot of Nārāyaṇa. Then who is superior? The feet washing which is originating from the feet of Nārāyaṇa, Śiva takes her on his head. So Śiva and Nārāyaṇa, who is superior here? You consider. Why should you bother Me? You consider for yourself."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. Common sense. To the māyāvādīs He told.

I went to Badrinārāyaṇa once, and there was an arrangement of explaining Bhāgavatam there, in Badrinārāyaṇa temple. So many educated men in the audience. One advocate of Bombay, a Gujarati gentleman, he was present there. I began to explain, and told Mahāprabhu in His argument with the māyāvādīns told, discarding Śaṅkara philosophy.

He told that, "Śaṅkara has partially accepted what is given in Upaniṣad or Veda, not wholesale." That is the contention of Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu wanted to accept the whole, Śruti as a whole, not part.

In this way, sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ brahma. "Everything which we see is Brahman." Śaṅkara took only Brahman and left _____ [?] everything. Then if there is not everything, why the necessity arises to say, to give such statement, that all these things are Brahman. Which is Brahman? Whatever we experience, we see, everything is Brahman. Śaṅkara says only Brahman is existent, and this is all false. How can he say? If this is false then why so much trouble is necessary for Śaṅkara to preach that this is not?

It is there, sarvaṁ khalv idaṁ, both. So plurality and unity, both to be admitted. Everything is existing, but there is unity, oneness in them and harmony. That should be, the whole. The whole as a whole. The Vedic sayings wholesale must be accepted, not partly. Śaṅkara is only taking partial.

Then, neha nānāsti kiṁcana. [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, part 4, mantra 11] This variegatedness, no, oneness. Śaṅkara says no variety, no plurality, only one. But if there is only one, what is the necessity of saying so? That no nāna, no variagatedness. Variegatedness is there, variety, plurality is there. So why is necessary that no variety to say. There is unity within. All these things are united internally.

That gentleman, that advocate, appreciated this very much. "Yes, what you say, this is strong common sense. We can't discard it."

...

Devotee: A few weeks ago you told me of one story of Akbar being a brahmin in a previous life. The emperor Akbar. The Mogul Muslim emperor Akbar.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, there is a story that Akbar was a brahmin. There was a well in Allahabad. Kamacoop [?] There was one well. If anyone jumped in that well and committed suicide with any prayer, that prayer was fulfilled, used to be fulfilled. So that brahmin could not tolerate his poverty. He jumped in the well praying that, "I may be a king." And then the brahmin got a birth of a Mohammedan, and he was Akbar. There is a saying in that way. And Akbar was concious of his previous life, so when he attained majority and got control of the kingdom, he closed that well, finished.

Devotee: That well is not there any more Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No. Kamacoop [?] is not there.

There is another, another Akhaya ____ [?] There is one banyan tree in that Allahabad fort. Only some fifty years back also one big trunk of that tree was shown that this is Akhaya _____ [?] Perhaps that is also finished. Under that banyan tree it is mentioned that even Rāmacandra passed through that tree. And Kṛṣṇa also, Dvāpara-yuga, He also used in His pastimes that tree. It is mentioned. A saying, not found in any Purāṇa which is very authentic in the society, not there, but it was something.

Even in Braja līlā we find Rādhārāṇī She's saying Her aspiration.

Kamana sadhana muri gaurami sadhiva morire sadha [?] "I shall kill Myself jumping in that well."

With this prayer, apani haiva sri nanda-nandana tomare kaiva radha [?]

Ha, ha. With this object, this prayer, "That I shall be Śrī Nanda-nandana, You, and You will be - You will take My position. Then You will feel, My Lord, how, in what hopeless position I'm passing My time. You can't, You don't know, in how adverse circumstances I'm living. You have captured My whole heart. My every atom of My body only wants You, and I can't come to You. The circumstance is very, very cruel, and unfavourable. And You do not like to appreciate that. Why I can't come? Why I cannot do so, that? So I shall jump into that well, and pray with a prayer that You will have to come to My position, and I will go to Your position. Then You'll be able to understand what is My trouble."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, what is the reason behind calling Lord Śiva the greatest Vaiṣṇava?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ah! Bhāgavat [12.13.16] says, "vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ."

But there are others also who say that Śiva is the ultimate, the conception of the absolute reality, and not Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa. In the south, four extreme Śaivite schools. Like Rāmānuja, viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda, Śaiva is there. Śrī Kantha is one paṇḍita scholar, he has shown like Rāmānuja, that the ultimate cause is personal, but He's the conception of Śiva, not of Nārāyaṇa. He has explained the Upaniṣad in that light, Śrī Kantha.

Devotee: Mahārāja, is there another identity, or some story behind Aurangzeb, like there is behind Akbar? Is there a story behind Aurangzeb, similar to the story behind Akbar? Some reason for his birth? Is there any previous birth history?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't know. I don't know any previous history of Aurangzeb.

But some history there in Sher Shah, previous to Akbar, the Mogul, he was Pāṭhāna. He captured for the time being the throne of Delhi, from the hands of Moguls. At the time of _____ [?] Previous he snatched the throne from the Mogul, and reigned for some time. And then again _____ [?] defeated his predecessor, his successors, and restored the throne for the Mogul. That Sher Shah, he was, when making plan to attack Delhi, he sat under a tree on the road.

And a brahmin astrologer saw him. "Oh, what you are thinking, it will be fulfilled." He told. "What are you thinking now, that will be fulfilled. I say."

"Yes, yes." Then he went and captured the throne of Delhi. Then he tried his best to find out that brahmin who foretold of his extraordinary success. But he could not do so, find him. He was pro Hindu, Sher Shah. And the Grand Trunk road from Delhi to _____ [?] was constructed by Sher Shah. And the rupee, Indian coin, that was also, was first named by him, Sher Shah. From ordinary history we understand this.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Akbar was pro Hindu, and Sajahan was also pro Hindu, but Aurangzeb was hopelessly against Hindu. In Vṛndāvana we have seen the old temple of Govindaji. That was broken by Aurangzeb. It was a seven storied temple, four stories from above was demolished. And the Deities they removed towards Rajaputan [?] Jayapur. That was the state of Mansingh, the famous general of Akbar, Mansingh. He was support against Rajaput, in favour of Akbar. Pratapsingh [?], the greatest man ever known to the world. Single handed he fought against a great empire. Even including his relatives and kinsmen. All one side and he alone one side. With few followers fought continuous fighting for twenty five years against a great emperor Akbar. Pratapsingh. His history is more strange than fiction.

Devotee: He was to start the guerilla art of fighting Mahārāja?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not guerilla. Front to front. Sivaji [?] fought more in a guerilla war, Sivaji, mahā-ratha. But Pratarajput he fought front to front. Face to face fighting.

Devotee: He was Kṛṣṇa bhakta or Śiva bhakta?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was mostly Śaivite, Śiva bhakta, Rajaput. But they do not ignore Kṛṣṇa.

83.01.26.C_83.01.30.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, is there any interesting history how the Deities of Vṛndāvana, Rādhā-Govindaji, Rādhā-Gopīnātha, Rādhā-Dāmodara, how they all came to Jayapura?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. When they apprehended the attack of Aurangzeb to Vṛndāvana, they removed stealthily the Deities there, in Hindu state. Jayapur was Hindu state. And Vṛndāvana, Mathurā was under the direct rule of the Muslims. So from Muslim state they removed and that could not remove so far, someone removed to Bharatpur [?] state. That was also Hindu state of the Jatts [?] near Kamovan [?] Some say first they removed to Kamovan, and from there to Jayapur.

Muslims they cannot understand that how eye experience can be used for spiritual purpose. If ear experience can be utilised for spiritual purpose why not the eye experience? This does not enter their brain. Every experience may be utilised for our advancement towards spiritual consciousness. We all admit ear experience, sound. Sound means ear experience. Ear experience can help us in our spiritual improvement, way. But the Ārya Ṛṣis they also told that eye experience also can be utilised for the development of our spiritual faith. And the touch, everything can be.

He can come down to our level through every experience. In a reverential way, superior, to draw our dedication, devotion, and not enjoyment. The ear experience also can be used for enjoyment. But there is no spiritual entity. Only sevonmukhe hi jihvādau.

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ]

["Because the Name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's name, form, qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

Only when we take our attempt to move upward towards superior plane, then anything we may meet through our senses, giving, in the beginning. _____ [?] Tulasī, Śālagrāma, Deity. The scripture also, the Bhāgavatam is to be worshipped, the Gītā, Bhāgavatam. Really we must learn to worship, that is mentioned, dedication. By dedication we can come in touch with superior plane. And with the spirit of exploitation we cannot but be in touch of our inferior plane. If we want to exploit anything then I have to control that for my exploitation. And I can control only things that are lower status. I can control and exploit that. That cannot but be of lower status than myself. And if I want the company of any superior, I must have to approach as lower, as mean, to the high, as low to the high. Superior in the mood of service, not of exploitation, not of enjoyment. That is the main thing we're to understand. We're in the marginal position. We can exploit only lower existence. And if we want at all the association of higher, we shall have to be utilised by their interest, guided by their interest. So service slavery, by attitude of slavery we can enter. Kṛṣṇa dāsa.

Jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'. If we're to calculate what is our position in relation to Kṛṣṇa, then our position will be we're slave to Him. He's so high and high. And I can be only utilised in His plane as a slave. But that is to try for His satisfaction wholesale, then I can enter there. Sevonmukhe hi. Praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34] Only sevā, service, can take us, take me there. And enjoyment can take me down to a plane where I can can control it to my sweet will. And I can enjoy it in any way I may like. The enjoyment takes us down, and our service, dedication, takes us up. And we're adaptable for both stages of life, taṭasthā jīva. Kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa'.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' / kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa'

["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him. The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

Devotee: We go back to Kṛṣṇa loka? Or we stay in...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, in soul. Soul when it will reach, our soul will reach that plane, "Oh, it seems to be known to me, because it was existing inside my soul. I'm a known child of this soil." The soul will say. "I like very much, it's friendly, I thrive here, very healthy position." The soul will say like that, our inner representation. But outer they won't, they'll vanish in the course of rising to that place.

Prithive kore sadhvanath [?]

Discarding this cover, both gross and subtle, they'll disappear, vanish. This is a medium through which we can contact with material world and to draw some sort of juice from there. The eye, the ear, this body, the touch, everything - an instrument through which we can connect with the material things and get something, material taste, satisfaction. If the body goes we're disconnected with this material world of experience, we're disconnected.

But mentally we can be in connection with them in the subtle world. Bhūr, Bhuvaḥ, Svaḥ, Mahā, Jana, Tapa, Satyaloka. After that we can live in mental body, of different value. Bhūrloka, Bhuvaḥloka. Bhūrloka is this world of mundane experience. And Bhuvaḥloka is Pitṛloka. We've got affinity for this world, but after death for some time we cannot enter into the physical body, we shall have to pass our time in the mental world. That is Bhuvaḥloka. And that is generally the moon centre. That is the satellite of earth. Moon is revolving around the earth. Earth is the centre of the moon. Moon is revolving. So after death the ātmā with the subtle body goes to Candraloka. Again from there he has to come.

[dhūmo rātris tathā kṛṣṇaḥ, ṣaṇ-māsā dakṣiṇāyanam]
tatra cāndramasaṁ jyotir, yogī prāpya nivartate

["If he expires on a dark night within a fortnight of the dark moon, during the sun's six-month southern orbit, the fruitive worker on the path of action reaches the heavenly plane, but subsequently has to undergo rebirth."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 8.25]

And those that go by the way of indifference and renunciation, they go, their soul goes towards the sun, crossing the area of attraction of the earth. Goes towards sun, the light. Light. And there within the light, the light of the light, that is soul. Nārāyaṇa. Nārāyaṇa is conceived as within the sun. Jyotir. Light means jyotir. Light. Jyotir, knowledge, light means knowledge. So as sun shows this world, so ātmā shows this world, sun does not show. Really, the spark of knowledge can show, can give some conception of the external world. To a dead man, sun cannot show anything. But ātmā, the spark of knowledge, light really, that shows. So savitur varenyaṁ, in Gāyatrī. So light is taken as the emblem of knowledge. So uttarāyaṇam, [Gītā, 8.24] not cāndramasaṁ jyotir, but solar, sun direction, the renunciate he needs to go. And within that they find another world, of Nārāyaṇa. _____ [?] Nārāyaṇa should be always meditated as within sun, savitur maṇḍala, the sun. And Nārāyaṇa is within, that light of the light, who gives light to the sun, to the light. He's Nārāyaṇa, that subjective character. Light of light is Nārāyaṇa. In Gāyatrī also, savitur varenyaṁ.

Devotee: Mahārāja, I read somewhere that Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, He gave a speech standing on the moon.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When? No, no. No such mention in any scriptures. But it is mentioned as He appeared here in this brahmāṇḍa, by turn He visits every brahmāṇḍa.

And just like sun. Sun is rising here, one hour after, only one thousand miles distance he rises. Always rising sun, always setting, always midday, because he's moving. And any time, in any place he's rising, and any place he's setting.

So Kṛṣṇa līlā is also like that. It is moving in a circle through all the brahmāṇḍas. The janma līlā finished here in this brahmāṇḍa, it is extended to another brahmāṇḍa. Then here developing and the - what is passing that is going to another brahmāṇḍa, like sun.

Brahmāṇḍa brahma labdha _____ [?] In Caitanya-caritāmṛta, _____ nitya haya [?]

In the brahmāṇḍa also it is eternal. How? The sun rise, the morning is eternal, evening is eternal, noon, every part of the day is eternal. Because when passes from there, in the next place it is that place. In this way. Always there is evening, somewhere else, always there is morning, somewhere else, always there is noon. Or any time somewhere else, always continuing.

So Kṛṣṇa līlā is also always continuing. Passing from this brahmāṇḍa extended to another. And from there to another, another, another, in this way, in cyclic order. Again Dvāpara comes, again here He comes. In this way. Do you follow? Morning is eternal. Do you follow? Evening is eternal. Do you follow? Morning, always there is morning in the world. Now here, now there, now there, in this way. Morning - the sunrise is always occurring. Sunrise here, the next moment sunrise little after, then a little after. Six hours after it is in London, twelve hours it is in America, again it is in Japan. In this way the sunrise is eternal. Evening is also eternal. Every part of the day is eternal. Can't conceive?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So in the same way Kṛṣṇa līlā is also eternal. One brahmāṇḍa passing, another brahmāṇḍa, another brahmāṇḍa. In this way it is passing. Again after Dvāpara-yuga, Dvāpara-yuga it is here, Kṛṣṇa līlā. Again passing away. Again in one day of Brahmā it is again coming here. In this way, nitya. Every Dvāpara-yuga Kṛṣṇa and Mahāprabhu comes, that for Yuga-Avatāra. But Rādhā-Govinda-milita-tanu, this comes only in one day of Brahmā. Aṣṭāviṁśa catur-yuge [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 3.10] Twenty eighth number of day of Brahmā. _____ [?] thousand years one Brahmā lives. And his one day is consisted of four yuga. Satya, Tretā, Dvāpara, and Kali. This constitutes one day for Brahmā. And such sahasra, thousand days his one day. Thousand such years is one day of Brahmā, and Brahmā has got hundred years longevity. And in every twenty eighth day of Brahmā this Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa comes.

Devotee: Why is it so rare? He's canvassing for Goloka, but He's such a rare appearance.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So rare? It is rare. It is earned by the karma of the jīva. It is rare to those who are the inhabitants of this place, by their karma, to them. Again who has attained that siddhi, entered into Goloka, they can find any time.

Your president of America, his visit cannot be at any time and every time. He gives his visit in a particular place, in a particular part of the year perhaps in any province, in state. Even it's once in a year the people of that place can have his darśana. In this way. But the personal staff of the president, they always see him. Something like that.

His līlā, the pastimes. Twenty four hours engagement with God is only to be found in the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school and nowhere else. In no conception of religion in this world can say that man can have twenty four hours engagement with God. Do you follow? Only in mādhurya-rasa in Vṛndāvana it is possible, that aṣṭa-kālīya-līlā, twenty four hours engagement in the service of God. It is possible in that nature, that mood. Otherwise eternal engagement with God, what is that? That will come to Brahman darśana. Something like deep slumber.

You'll faint there. As Swāmī Mahārāja told Acyutānanda. "If I say what talk I had with Śrīdhara Mahārāja you will faint." Have you heard this? No?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. But beyond your reach. You cannot have the true conception of that fact. You will have to faint. What's the time?

Devotee: Four thirty Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Four thirty. So I want to close now.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... and supplied from inside. Eye sees the colour, but to read things, by the eye, because the help is from within.

Suppose there is a war. Ordinary man is seeing that, and the general he's also seeing. The general is seeing through telescope the war is going. His seeing and ordinary man's seeing is not one and the same.

We shall learn to see things with interest, the interest within. What will be, that will be friendly or foe. And the friendly, how much friendly? And apparent friend or real friend, permanent? All these things to be considered, to see.

Apparent seeing, sight we may see everything as if the object of enjoyment. Then the conscience says, 'no don't go to enjoy, there is some trouble.' The deepest sight will see everything is friend, and everything is superior to you. Everything is to be worshipped, not to be predominated.

We're elevationist, exploitationist. The exploitationist nature should dissolve. And not only want of exploitation. That is the end of life. But they're all subject of my worship, of my service. That is the real inner vision of everyone. And there we live proper life. We're serving unit in the universe, and that is also gradational, that what type of service gradation. But the exploitation view must be transformed into pure dedication. And what type of dedication, how much dedication, there is classification.

And the question of loss and gain at the same time it should settled that, 'what am I?' This flesh and the blood or the mental system within? Or even the principle which sustains the whole mental system, as well as this body? What am I? What is my proper self, the real member in the universe, who is that?' This is like a dress, a garment, this flesh and blood. Then the inner mind is there, and that is also coating, subtle. Soul living within. And what is that soul? And what is his interest in the universe, the world around? These questions of deep understanding should be solved. Then we can cross the death. The body cannot cross the calamity of the death. And even not the mind, to certain extent.

But the soul is eternally existing in its own plane. And that is home. Back to God, back to home. In the plane of that sweet God we can live permanently and happily. And the all against the charm of this mundane life we have to look after what is death, destruction. Not only our body, but even this earth, moon, sun, the solar system and the whole universe cannot but die. In crores of millions of years everything will vanish, and again are coming and going, coming and going. We must be prey to that. If we want to come out of that dangerous position of being devoured by this general destruction, then we're to find out our own self, deeper self. Where the deepest self which is eternal factor, of the eternal environment of the world. That is my thing. And that life is sweet. That is real and that is sweet. And this is reactionary. Bitter, reactionary, and very fleeting and painful. Reactionary means painful, this life.

And what do you want? To enjoy this temporary reactionary pleasure? Or you are to dive deep and find your real internal self as a member of the world of that type, in that plane. Deepest plane, nirguṇa, the plane of Kṛṣṇa conciousness is the deepest plane. Just as the earth, water, air, heat, ether, more subtle, more durable, more efficient. So also we're to go on the plane of soul, jīva soul. The plane of Vaikuṇṭha, plane of Goloka. Sweet Home.

Now it is a fable like thing to us. But a deep response we get from our inner self, then neglecting all these apparent pleasures we shall try to attain that holy form of life. We shall _____ [?] knowing fully well the proposals of comfort that come from the surface, that is trifle, nothing, no charm. We must dive deep to find out our own plenary life, natural life within.

Sat cit ānanda. That is eternal, that is pure conscious, and that is ānandam. That is the loving, beautiful, ecstatic. Sat cit ānanda. Three attributes eternally existing there. Sat, unassailable existence, no destruction can touch it. Then the second, self conscious, that is not fossil like stage, but fully conscious. And the third, that is blissful, ecstatic. That is loving, that is beautiful, that is reality is such.

And we want to go back. Back to God and back to Home. We want to go back to our soul's country, not to live in the mind's, or body's country. At present we're living in the country of the body. We dive deep we shall find the country of the mind. Again if we can dive deeper we shall find the country of the soul. And there is also gradation. And the highest, sweetest country is there in Goloka, Kṛṣṇa conscious area.

In nutshell this is the ISKCON way, idea. It is not a formal thing, it is really a matter, an object. Not a fashion, neither a form nor a fashion, but substantial and real. And we're to find out that how we can make progress towards that sort of life. Do you follow, no?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If we've got any charm for such life - now think like a fable, abstract thing. But in Bhagavad-gītā what is darkness to one that is light to another. Just as the owls they can see in darkness. We cannot see in darkness. In daytime they're blind, and at night we're blind. So we must awake there to see. Now that is dark to us. And what is day to us at present, that must be converted into darkness, and we shall proceed towards that unknown country with the help of the agents. With the capital of our faith. And faith is less based on the transient characteristic of this life, which is after all devoured within the jaw of death. To avoid the death we must begin our march towards the country which is beyond death. That should be, the faith will be our capital. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha, ha. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Pārthamitra. What is the underlying meaning of the word Pārtha? What is the root?

Devotee: The son of Pṛthā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Pṛthā. Pṛthā is Kuntī and her son is Pārtha. And the friend of Pārtha is who?

Devotee: Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kṛṣṇa. But there are other friends also of Pārtha. Why Kṛṣṇa alone? He's the principle friend. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Govinda Mahārāja has gone out to market, he will come back...

...

Vidagdha Mādhava: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow what you say. Kṛṣṇa explain to the Ṛṣis, how...

Vidagdha Mādhava: Kṛṣṇa explained dharma, and the Ṛṣis they were very much appreciating the clarity, the simplicity, and the profoundness of the explanation. So I'm also appreciating your explanation. It is like that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Our Guru Mahārāja's way of explanation was like that, in a generalised way. Synthetically. From the point to go to the centre, and with all other paraphernalia, to come to explain the point, synthetically. In an analytical process to take a point and go on by analysing into details. And synthetically when where you begin from there you must come to centre. And from there you will go again with the paraphernalia to look at the position of the question, what is his petition and ground.

Rāmānujācārya's system was similar to that, synthetically. Madhvācārya's was told to be mainly analytical. Everything must be satisfied from the central consideration, must have its relation with the central consideration. What is it's point? Sambandha jñāna. What is that, what is it's paraphernalia, and what is the valuation from the consideration of the highest centre? All these things to be discussed, and clearly known. Our Guru Mahārāja's style was synthetically. Generalisation, to view the point from the sense of standpoint of generalisation, from general consideration. The valuation from the general and higher consideration, everything should be measured and dealt with.

Vidagdha Mādhava: You have given me an idea for preaching. Because in the west many people they're thinking we're speaking of some fable when we speak of Kṛṣṇa pastimes, some people. But they're so engrossed in the fleeting, temporary reactionary. That's the fable.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Nothing of the kind. Just the opposite.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes. So to convince them of this world...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How this plane, such plane is possible, and above renunciation. Full, real renunciation, and then begins the another side positive. This is all negative, and self aggrandisement. Everyone wants to exploit another. But that is just the opposite. And in the middle the stage of abscissa, or renunciation. After renunciation you are to begin the positive work, not here within the plane of exploitation. A little less exploitation, not that. Or highest absolute exploitation, not that. Nothing of the exploitation there.

The Lord is not the exploiter, but saver, saviour. And saviour is not abstract, but with nectar. By distributing nectar He comes to save us, supplies everything. The whole necessity of our inner self He supplies. His form is filled up with nectar. Nectarine conduct and reaction.

Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...We can approach God Himself, and we can find such a near guardian that as if we can live in His family. As family man we can live with Him to serve Him. God is our family head. Sometimes sonhood. Sometimes consorthood. Fatherhood. Somewhere fatherhood, somewhere consorthood, somewhere sonhood, friendhood. In different respects the God may deal very familiarly with every soul as His very near and dear, very close, like family man.

But in Bible He's far off. He's our well-wisher. He supplies all our necessary things. He's good and great, God is good and great, great and good, but far off.

But here Kṛṣṇa consciousness says, He will come to live with you as your intimate friend in different forms. This is the gift of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, that is more deeper than Bible has given. The Bible is not antagonistic, not enemy, but a friend in the way. Bible is our friend in the way, not in the goal.

The goal is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa. The father as Kṛṣṇa. And as Kṛṣṇa He's sometimes son, He's sometimes consort, sometimes friend, sometimes master. In different stages He accepts us and our service very intimately, very lovingly, very sweetly. Love, sweetness, beauty, charm, similar things, and He represents that there. He's charming, He's sweet, He's beautiful, He's loving embrace. The ultimate reality is such. Our own heart of hearts is He. He's the heart of our heart. Paramātmā.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

Vidagdha Mādhava: [reads a letter from Dayādhara Gaurāṅga]

...goes on to say, "According to this, it is more than just eternal, normally sat means eternal, is that true?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Vidagdha Mādhava: But here he says, "It has no meaning if devoid of relationship with the jīvas."

Then he says, "Is this connotation correct? Secondly the latter part of the statement that Brahman was without perception seems impersonal. Is this the correct meaning?"

Then he goes on, "I have read one of the Gauḍīya's yearly souvenirs where they criticise young men and women dancing in so called ecstasy throughout the streets of western cities. In our coming up issue I have tried to explain the reason we all dance through the streets in the west, or for that matter danced at all, being because our Guru instructed us in that way. And that our dancing is not seen as rāgānuga, but is vaidhi-bhakti. Am I incorrect in taking such a stance? I can see the Gauḍīya's criticism. I think that they feel that our dancing is a false thing, or imitation. But if we claimed to be in samādhi they would be absolutely right. But I do not think that we have ever claimed or implied such. Can you advise Mahārāja?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Do you want me to finish the letter?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes.

Vidagdha Mādhava: OK. He says, "Another item I read in Gauḍīya was that at the ceremony honouring Bon Mahārāja's life, following his passing, there were some words of praise written by Your Divine Grace about the activities of His Divine Grace. I wanted to know if you would mind sharing those plaudits with us.

By Your Grace, somehow I'm surviving, even growing. But due to my past activities and conditioning it is a very painful experience. At the same time the only experience worth having. So my indebtedness to you is complete. I'm bankrupt and I have nothing to give. But your sweetness lingers within me and I cannot fathom how I have come upon such Divine Grace. And I'm praying to Mahāprabhu, "Please give me something that I can give to Your Divine Grace. You are the possessor of everything my Lord, and I'm merely asking that You bless me with some aspect of Your indefatigable opulence so that I may in some small way make an effort to please my Gurudeva. Without Your mercy I'm a useless fool. Even with Your mercy I'm a useless fool. But at least I can be the agent of some of Your value ridden transcendental jewels, for the pleasure of my Gurudeva.

In this way I'm begging for Mahāprabhu's supreme mercy. First I beg from Śrīla Bhaktivedānta Prabhupāda, then from Śrīla Hansadhūtta, then from Your Divine Grace, and now I'm begging and begging and begging again. Even of the unapproachable for me, the Supreme Personality Śrīman Mahāprabhu. I think I'm nothing but a mercy wallah, hankering for mercy. All I can do is take. I cannot give one paisa, so actually I cannot call myself a mercy wallah, he would at least sell mercy. I'm a mercy thief.

All daṇḍavats to you Śrī Gurudeva Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja. Your useless dacoit. Dayādhara Gaurāṅga Dāsa."

Finished. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

divyaṁ jñānaṁ yato dadyāt, kuryāt pāpasya saṅkṣayam
tasmād dīkṣeti sā proktā, deśikais tattva-kovidaiḥ

["The process by which divine knowledge (divyaṁ jñānaṁ) is given and sins are destroyed is called dīkṣā by the highly learned scholars who are expert in spiritual affairs."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 27]

The spiritual specialist, they say, "What is dīkṣā? That is a process through which the spiritual knowledge is imparted." Divyaṁ jñānaṁ yato dadyāt. So new knowledge, new estimation about the environment, about the world, awakens in one's heart. New angle of vision arises within. What we saw, that is false, māyā. And what is reality, to want to realise that, to realise the reality. Kuryāt pāpasya saṅkṣayam. And the reaction was due to me, for my false calculation and activity, as a result of that false calculation. These things are cleared off, pāpasya. Pāpa means the reaction I acquired due to my false estimation and transaction with the environment. That is cleared when I get the real estimation of the environment, of the world outside. This is the result of dīkṣā, divya jñāna. Not knowledge from my narrow standpoint, but the standpoint of the most wide view. I see with my narrow selfish outlook. We must get rid of that false notion of selfish enterprise, and to replace that by the proper, true, estimation of the environment, of the world outside. And accordingly we shall learn to make transaction with the world. This is dīkṣā.

In doing that we are to understand what is the nature of the world we're living in. We're not masters of what we see. I'm not monarch of all I survey. This is totally wrong, downright falsehood. But there is some monarch. We're not monarch, I'm not monarch. The monarch is there, and I'm also within His survey. 'I'm monarch of all I survey.' I'm not surveyor but I'm an object of being surveyed. The world is being surveyed and I'm a part of this world. I'm also being surveyed by the monarch of the world. And what is the result of that surveying? To know that and to learn to go on accordingly, according to the instruction of the surveyor proper, Absolute Surveyor. That is dīkṣā, divyaṁ jñānaṁ, divine knowledge, divyaṁ jñānaṁ. What is divine knowledge?

īśāvāsyam idaṁ sarvaṁ, [yat kiñca jagatyāṁ jagat
tena tyaktena bhuñjīthā, mā gṛdhaḥ kasya svid dhanam]

["Everything animate or inanimate that is within the universe is controlled and owned by the Lord. One should therefore accept only those things necessary for himself, which are set aside as his quota, and one should not accept other things, knowing well to whom they belong."] [Śrī Īśopaniṣad, 1]

Not only is it false that I'm the owner, but none is owner, but only one master. Īśāvāsya. Not one, neither many, one but not myself. He's the master of the whole, that is God, the Lord, Kṛṣṇa. And not only the world belongs to Him but we also belong to Him. This knowledge. What are we? We're slave to the master of the world.

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa'
[kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa']

["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him. The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

To feel that this is the truth. I'm very small, very insignificant. My condition is very pitiful. I'm to crave mercy, to crave help from high, for my misguided life, misunderstood life. All these things are being dealt every day. This is the purpose of getting dīkṣā, divya jñāna. To do away with our local experience and to invite the perspective, the estimation from the centre, the surveyor from the centre. What is what. To be introduced newly to the environment. To forget my previous estimation and to invite the new estimation about the thing and to go on accordingly. To control my conduct accordingly. That what we see around us, that has got owner, not ownerless. Neither I'm owner of them. Neither I'm owner of what I see, what I survey - at the same time none is owner who are like myself. One owner there is and He's also my owner.

Now how to go on then? Mathematical calculation. This is also property, I'm also property, I'm a servant, this is His substance. According to the masters will I'm to deal with all. That is serving. The Lord is to be served, not to be enjoyed, and His things are also to be served, not to be enjoyed. That will be the deduction, that will be deduced from divya jñāna. I'm a serving unit in this world. Neither I can thrive by renunciation, no right to renounce. A slave cannot make any strike, that "I won't do the work." No, you're bound to do your duty. Neither you can go on with the work according to your own whim, nor can you strike, to say that I won't co-operate, no. Only one side open, that you must have to discharge your duty. You do not do that you commit offence, and offence means punishable, you'll be punished. The fact is so stern, the reality is so cruel. We have no independence of our own. We must not think that we're owner.

At the same time we cannot think that we're owner of our own self, that 'according to my will I can deal with my environment.' No. You're bound., you're duty bound to treat your environment in a particular way, in a reverential way, in a serving way. Then you're normal, otherwise you're abnormal, and you're to be punished. That is aparādha, offence. Sevā, neither bhoga, nor tyāga, neither enjoyment nor renunciation. No right, no right to enjoy, no right to renounce, non co-operate, but only one side open, that is to serve. And we're to face with this cruel reality. At first it may seem to be cruel, to be rough. But if we can understand the purpose, innate, underlying, then we shall gradually find that this is only the key to happy life.

Neither self aggrandisement, with the help of the others, one wanting to live on others energy, that is insulting, that is cowardice, improper. But because we cannot utilise it only for my selfish purpose, so I must leave it, that is also not honourable, not justifiable. We're living together, we must have some sort of duty towards my environment. I cannot see me cut off things from the environment. An organic whole, the parts are co-related, so we have also got co-relation with our environment, with our four sides things. This is natural. We're a part of organic whole and we've got our respective duty to one another. Just as this body, one part has got some duty to discharge for the whole, and through that to every part. So neither bhoga, nor tyāga, like the jñānī's, the Buddhists, the Śaṅkarites, the tyāgī, neither their formula or estimation is right. Nor the exploitationist, "whatever I see it is for me, I'm monarch of all I survey," That view also not true. To understand this deeply.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga is a good scholar, but still he's perplexed, nonplussed almost, to understand, intellect. He's a doctor, research scholar, but intellect is not sufficient to make us understand all these difficulties of this life. Not only reading from the scriptures independently, independent reading of the scriptures cannot impart us the necessary light to understand the things contained in the books, or scriptures.

ya'o paḍa bhāgavata vaiṣṇavera sthane [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 5.131]

Mahāprabhu says: "Go and read, study Bhāgavata from a Vaiṣṇava. Try to get the angle of vision from him."

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā

upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ

[Kṛṣṇa says: "You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

ācāryavān puruṣo veda ["Only one who has a Guru can know the truth."] [Chāndogya-Upaniṣad, 6.18.2]

You must have an Ācārya if you want to study that revealed scriptures. You can't study it alone, independently, not in an empirical way, that we'll be able to understand. Only in the descending method is it possible. It comes in a descending method, that knowledge. And that does not depend on our literary education. A literate man will understand more, and an ordinary illiterate person won't be able to understand spiritual truth, not that. Illiterate can understand, and literate may fail to understand. Independent of this worldly scholarship, that is.

Only praṇipāta, paripraśna, sevā, serving attitude, surrender. These things are necessary to be illuminated by the higher revealed truth. From Guru, from Vaiṣṇava, through them it will come down to my heart, then to my brain. Or really in my soul, soul will be awakened, soul's body will grow. I shall see, come out from the bondage. In this way, divya jñāna, dīkṣā means all these things. To engage oneself in the quest of the revealed truth through a particular process. Praṇipāta, paripraśna, sevā - surrender, honest enquiry, and serving attitude. We can acquire that sort of knowledge, understanding, and we're to adjust us accordingly to get the benefit of dīkṣā.

It is not a mere formal thing, it is not this, that we shall only repeat the mantram I have got. But the mantram wants to say something, he has got it's meaning, and he wants to say something to me, and ask me to do that and I shall have to do that. Then I shall get the desired result. The purpose of the dīkṣā will be fulfilled. But mere repetition of a few technical sounds, that does not finish dīkṣā. Knowledge is transmitted and you must utilise that sort of knowledge in favour of your realisation of higher life, real life, proper life. And eternal life, life after death, life after so many deaths, death also, this will continue. Eternal knowledge of the eternal soul about the eternity. Both the knower and the known and the knowing. These three things are eternal. He'll find himself that I'm an eternal part of this world, and there is eternity also, I'm a part of that, and eternal relationship is also there. And from that relation, so many functions, so many activities are presupposed and that should be done, that sort of duty should be discharged. This is dīkṣā, divya jñāna. Divya means non mundane, supernatural, transcendental.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. No more today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In that very place a temple is constructed, he was born there.

Devotee: I didn't have a chance, but I wanted very much to go there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Just over the way, Jagannātha's chariot is drawn, on the left side, there in Purī he was born. On Grand Road, when chariot's going on the left side.

Devotee: Oh. Is it where the Gauḍīya Maṭh āśrama is now?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Mādhava Mahārāja has got āśrama there. He purchased the land and constructed a temple and āśrama there, Mādhava Mahārāja did it.

Devotee: Then I was there, my mistake.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then that, another where Mahāprabhu lived, Mahāprabhu, He stayed there for eighteen years, that is Gambhīrā. Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura's samādhi tomb. Then Gadādhara Pandit's temple, that Kiśora Gopinātha. Then this side there is a garden house, Jagannātha-vallabha where Rāmānanda stayed, lived, Rāmānanda Rāya. Then there is Sārvabhauma's house. So many. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, he was the son of Vyeṅkaṭa Bhaṭṭa, in whose house Mahāprabhu stayed for four months continuously, on the banks of Kāverī, Śrī Raṅgam, the highest holy place of Rāmānuja sampradāya. Śrī Raṅgam, near Tiruchirappalli, Trichy, on the banks of Kāverī River. Śrī Raṅgam. There lived one Rāmānuja Vaiṣṇava, Vyeṅkaṭa Bhaṭṭa. And Mahāprabhu was guest in house for four months continuous during cāturmāsya. And his boy was Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, and his brother one Prabodhānanda, both of them followed Mahāprabhu to Vṛndāvana. By call of Mahāprabhu both of them came to Vṛndāvana. Prabodhānanda, Gopāla Bhaṭṭa's previous guru and paternal uncle, he lived in Śrī Kuṇḍa, Kamavana in Vṛndāvana. And Gopāla Bhaṭṭa he lived in Vṛndāvana in the association of Rūpa and Sanātana as he was asked by Mahāprabhu to do so. Gopāla Bhaṭṭa once came from Vṛndāvana to Purī to see Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanya Deva. And Mahāprabhu asked him, "Go stay in Vṛndāvana under the guidance of Rūpa and Sanātana."

He did that. He established a temple there, that Rādhāramaṇa Gira [?] at present in Vṛndāvana. That is the temple of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. First he was, he came from viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda, but he joined this Gauḍīya sampradāya. Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. It is said that he started the temple with Śālagrāma. But once some merchant came to visit Vṛndāvana and he offered many jewels, jewellery, the ornaments, to the Deities. And Gopāla Bhaṭṭa thought, "My Deity is only Śālagrāma, if mine would have been in a Deity figure then I could get many ornaments and decorate my Lord." It is said that in the morning he saw that from Śālagrāma a Deity has come out, a Kṛṣṇa concious Mūrti, and just on the back in a part, that Śālagrāma is connected. And that was spread, and the greatness of the Deity and temple had much admiration and propaganda. That Rādhāramaṇa was the Name of the Deity. Then at present, what, whom we find there, the householder disciple of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, they're living there and continuing the sevā. Generally they're scholars, study about Sanskrit and different scriptures.

Jīva Goswāmī has written this Bhāgavata-Sandarbha, he has mentioned there, "This original rough copy, copy of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, I have systematised them, I have grouped them in a system. First the epistemology, that is Bhāgavata, Tattva-Sandarbha, then Bhāgavat-Sandarbha, Paramātmā-Sandarbha, Kṛṣṇa-Sandarbha, Bhakti-Sandarbha, Pṛti-Sandarbha. Six parts of Bhāgavat-Sandarbha or Sat-Sandarbha." That was compiled by Jīva Goswāmī and there is reference, "That Gopāla Bhaṭṭa left some notes scattered here and there, and I have taken, consulted the notes by Gopāla Bhaṭṭa and making a system, I have produced this book Bhāgavat-Sandarbha."

Sanātana Goswāmī Prabhu, he compiled Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa, the Vaiṣṇava treatise book where this Deity worshipping and the formalities of Vaiṣṇava dharma, that how to fast on Janmāṣṭamī day, how to manage the worshipping, different Deities. All these things are mentioned in Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa. Vaiṣṇava-śruti, how one, a devotee will pass his days, how you should worship, how the temples, how the vrata, vow, how Hari-Nāma should be taken, details have been given in Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa, a big śruti grantha. He has also mentioned that, "I have taken, I have compiled this with the help of the southern brāhmaṇa Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, his collection, and I am only preparing the tikā, the commentary of it." So both Sanātana and Jīva referred to Gopāla Bhaṭṭa for their books. Gopāla Bhaṭṭa came from the Rāmānuja Vaiṣṇava section and also from the brāhmaṇa class. That was Gopāla Bhaṭṭa.

There was one disciple of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa by the name of Harivaṁśa, he was of a little different type, something like sahujiyā. He was seen one day to chew betel nut in the Ekādaśī fasting day, but objection was raised by other disciples of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa against him, his Godbrother Harivaṁśa. And there was some quarrel, and it is said that he got some support from Prabodhānanda, because Prabodhānanda wrote many Sanskrit books. Very good Sanskrit and very fervent and emotional. Vṛndāvana-Sataka, Navadwīpa-Sataka, Rādhā-rasa-sudanidhi, that famous book in praise of Rādhārāṇī. These books are very much appreciated by that section, Harivaṁśi, who came from Harivaṁśa, their main guru. First guru Harivaṁśa started a section named Harivaṁśi. Harivaṁśa himself was a disciple of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa. But some difference, little slackness in the strict life of a austere life of a devotee, little slackness that Harivaṁśa. That comes from Gopāla Bhaṭṭa we're told.

Yesterday also was the disappearance of that Rāmacandra Kavirāja. Rāmacandra Kavirāja he was a disciple of Śrīnivāsa Ācārya. We're told he had a very beautiful figure and a beautiful mind also. He had one house nearby Narottama Ṭhākura, Padar River, on the other side, the left side of Padara, big river coming from Ganges. There Narottama and this side, right side, the residence of Rāmacandra Kavirāja, and his elder brother Govinda Kavirāja. Govinda Kavirāja was a devotee of Śakti...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...was devotee of Kṛṣṇa. He asked Govinda Kavirāja to hear about the grace of Kṛṣṇa, but he did not give his ear to that. But lastly, when he's almost to die, he prayed fervently to his worshipped Deity, "Please give me salvation."

But it is told that the Deity told, "I have no right to give liberation. I can give different enjoyment of this mundane world, but no emancipation, or liberation from this world."

"Then who can give it?"

"That only Govinda, Nārāyaṇa, can give that."

"Then I ask your permission to worship Nārāyaṇa."

"Yes do that."

Then Govinda Kavirāja being disappointed, began his prayer to Nārāyaṇa, Govinda.

There is a valuable song, commonly it is chanted.

bhajahū re mana śrī-nanda-nandana-abhaya caraṇāravinda re [durlabha mānava-janama sat-saṅge taroho e bhava-sindhu re]

[śīta ātapa bāta bariṣaṇa e dina jāminī jāgi re biphale sevinu kṛpaṇa durajana capala sukha-laba lāgi' re]

(3)
[e dhana, yaubana, putra parijana ithe ki āche paratīti re kamala-dala-jala, jīvana ṭalamala bhajahū hari-pada nīti re]

(4)
[śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana, pāda-sevana, dāsya re pūjana, sakhī-jana, ātma-nivedana govinda-dāsa-abhilāṣa re]

[(1) "O mind, just worship the lotus feet of the Son of Nanda, which make one fearless. Having obtained this rare human birth, cross over this ocean of worldly existence through the association of saintly persons."

(2) "Both in the day and at night I remain sleepless, suffering the pains of the heat and cold, the wind and the rain. For a fraction of flickering happiness I have uselessly served wicked and miserly men."

(3) "What assurance of real happiness is there in all of one's wealth, youthfulness, sons, and family members? This life is tottering like a drop of water on a lotus petal; therefore you should always serve and worship the divine feet of Lord Hari."

(4) "It is the desire and great longing of Govinda Dāsa to engage himself in the nine processes of bhakti, namely hearing the glories of Lord Hari and chanting those glories, constantly remembering Him and offering prayers to Him, serving the Lord's lotus feet, serving the Supreme Lord as a servant, worshipping Him with flowers and incense and so forth, serving Him as a friend, and completely offering the Lord one's very self."] [Govinda Kavirāja, Songs of the Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas, p 100]

Then he began to worship the Deity that was very much adored by his younger brother Rāmacandra Kavirāja. Govinda Kavirāja, Rāmacandra. Several Bengali poems, he has got Sanskrit writings also. That was sent to Jīva Goswāmī and he, Jīva Goswāmī, gave his appreciation of those songs of Govinda Kavirāja. Rāmacandra Kavirāja was friendly to Narottama Ṭhākura. Narottama Ṭhākura and they on the two sides the same river, they lived. And sometime Rāmacandra went to Narottama Ṭhākura to meet him, sometime Narottama Ṭhākura used to come to Rāmacandra Kavirāja, very friendly. Śrīnivāsa Ācārya was of same rank and friendly to Narottama, and in that connection Narottama had much affection towards Rāmacandra Kavirāja, his nephew in spiritual relation.

Devotee: In the Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa, are the Vaiṣṇavas supposed to follow all those rituals? Is it important for us to follow all of those rituals?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rituals? In arcanā, that is in the lower position, they are to follow rituals. Kaniṣṭha-adhikāra, arcanā-adhikāra. Strictly they should observe the rituals, formalities. But when the taste is created, ruci, then they begin the bhāgavata-mārga. Then śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana, that will be principle, not much stress towards arcanā, rituals. But becomes more free when they make progress towards bhajana, anurāga, love, affection, taste. When taste is created, affection is created towards God, then the formalities of rituals are of less importance to them. But for the beginners they should try to follow strictly those rituals for their good, that is viddhi-bhakti, rituals.

vaidhi bhakta nikarastu raga vibhava navadhi [?]

[śāstroktayā prabalayā tat-tan-maryāda-yānvitā
vaidhī bhaktiriyaṁ kaiścin-maryādāmārga ucyate] [?]

["Devotional service which is governed by the rules and regulations of the scriptures (vaidhī-sādhana- bhakti) is also called maryāda-mārga, or the reverential path of devotion, the path of serving the Lord in opulence, by different scholars (such as Vallabhācārya)."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.269]

Rūpa Goswāmī in Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, he gives these lines to us. That the vaidhī-bhakti, the regulated devotion. The jurisdiction of regulating devotion is up to that stage when our taste for the service of the Lord awakens. Abhi-bhāva, pāvanāvatī [?] When our taste is created, our affection, attraction is created for Kṛṣṇa, then stress on the strictness of following the rituals has lessened, not so much place is given for rituals. Taste, laulyam, lobha, greed. Before that we're to follow very strictly the rules and regulations of devotion as prescribed in the religious books, so many Purāṇa, so many Smṛti, Saṁhitā. And all collected and made Hari-Bhakti-Vilāsa, made for the Vaiṣṇava devotees.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, is that when one reaches the stage of bhāva? Is that when the rituals become less important?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When bhāva arouses one is established in rāga-mārga, even before that. Ruci, anartha-nivṛtti, then ruci. Niṣṭhā, śraddhā, then bhajana-kriyā, sādhu-saṅga, bhajana-kriyā, then anartha- nivṛtti, then niṣṭhā. Niṣṭhā means nairantaryya, continuous mentality towards Kṛṣṇa, no break, always thinking about Kṛṣṇa, not otherwise. This is niṣṭhā, the continued remembrance of Kṛṣṇa and His own. Then real taste is created after that. After continued remembrance, then the taste. Otherwise in the lower position sometimes some taste is seen to be present within us, and sometimes our mind in thrown in another way. That is not taste proper. Taste proper is to be located after, niṣṭhā means nairantaryya, that is continued recollection of Kṛṣṇa. Then if any taste we feel within us that is bona fide taste, and from there we can trace rāga-mārga, rāgānuga. He can depend on his own inner tendency, and may not care much about the formality of worshipping.

Just as suppose for a, who keeps the child, what is she? A lady who keeps another child, nurse? Not only nurse but dhātrī, midwife, or what is she? Midwife, who is the representative of the mother, for her, rules and regulations necessary how to nurse the child, to take care of the child, regulations necessary for the midwife, for the nurse. But when there is affection of mother such regulations are necessary. Out of affection the mother will look after the child. No rules or regulations necessary because her natural affection towards the child will force her to look after the child.

But who is not a mother, her own child, for her formality is necessary. "That you must drink milk twice, thrice. Or do this thing, that thing." All these things are there, duty.

But when affection comes from within then the regulations are slackened. When affection, our inner awakening of the soul, and inner affection, the attraction we feel for Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of our heart, then regulations are slackened. Vaidhi bhakta dikha restu raga eva bhava navati [?]

As long as that inner taste for the service of Kṛṣṇa does not arise we must take to the śāstric regulations in our daily activities and worshipping. And thereby we shall hope that inner awakening will be done and our inner taste will awaken for the service of the Lord. Do you follow? Am I clear?

Devotee: Yes. Guru Mahārāja. Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura, there is mention of his mother, but I wanted to know why is there no mention of his father?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because his father did not have any recognition in the Vaiṣṇava society, we are told, so the name of father is not mentioned.

But it is also a rumour created by the anti Vaiṣṇava that the Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura's mother, Nārāyaṇī, who was a niece of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit, she took, swallowed some betel after Mahāprabhu took it. Mahāprabhu took some betel and some remains offered to Nārāyaṇī. "You take it." And Nārāyaṇī after swallowing that betel nut, already chewed by Mahāprabhu, Mahāprabhu offered something to Nārāyaṇī, "Take it." And after taking that Nārāyaṇī had child within her womb, and then Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura came, from her womb. This rumour was spread by the anti Vaiṣṇavite.

But really we are told that when Nārāyaṇī was married, anyhow to a non Vaiṣṇava, who did not have devotion, or affection for the Vaiṣṇava cult. So his name is not mentioned as the father of Vṛndāvana, only Vṛndāvana Ṭhākura, he's acquainted by his mother's name, Nārāyaṇī Nandana. Father's name not mentioned, only mother's name mentioned, Nārāyaṇī, because Nārāyaṇī was a devotee of Śrī Gaurāṅga Deva Mahāprabhu.

Just as Mahāprabhu is also told mostly as Śacī Nandana, not so much as Jagannātha Mīsra Nandana. Very famous Śacī, because when He took sannyāsa before long ago Jagannātha departed. His sannyāsa, His saṅkīrtana, all these came out after His father left, and mother Śacī had to bear all these troubles with the son. Leaving this ordinary pleasure of the worldly life, the only son given to exclusive devotion to Kṛṣṇa, showing so many fits, without caring for any improvements in the household affairs. Then after all He left the whole household, even the girl, wife, and He left, took sannyāsa. All these troubles Śacī Devi had to tolerate. So Śacī Nandana, Śacī Nandana, He's told, not so much as Jagannātha Mīsra Nandana, His fathers name, not so much mentioned.

So also here, Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura's father, he was an atheist, but his mother, she was cent per cent devotee of Kṛṣṇa, Mahāprabhu. So her name is mentioned Nārāyaṇī Nandana, Vṛndāvana. Not any trace we find in the literature about his father.

And some rumour also spread in the way, that some remains of the betel nut was given to Nārāyaṇī and that was the cause of her pregnancy, and Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura came. Amongst the sahajiyā such stories are going on.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, Prakāśānanda Sarasvatī, who Mahāprabhu converted...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was, and Prabodhānanda other person, Prabodhānanda was the uncle of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa, came from south. And Prakāśānanda, some say that he's the founder of Āmṛta Braja Pratika, Śiśir Ghose has mistaken there that Prakāśānanda was converted into Prabodhānanda, and he wrote all these things. But it is not, because Prabodhānanda he's reckoned as one of the original eight sakhīs of Vṛndāvana. Rādhārāṇī had eight very intimate she friends, Tuṅgavidyā one of those eight, and Prabodhānanda was Tuṅgavidyā in Vṛndāvana. That Prabodhānanda cannot be māyāvādī.

Prakāśānanda māyāvādī aparādhī. Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura writes in Caitanya-Bhāgavata. "Mahāprabhu says that in Benares there is a māyāvādī and a great offender, Prakāśānanda. He does not recognise My devotion, and cuts to pieces My spiritual body." conda conda [?]

In this way the Prakāśānanda Paṇḍit of Benares has been mentioned, and also we find that he's a great māyāvādī paṇḍit.

And Prabodhānanda he's reckoned as one of the eight principal she friends of Rādhārāṇī, so he cannot be a māyāvādī. These two are separate persons. Prabodhānanda was converted to Vaiṣṇavism, but he also might have gone to Vṛndāvana, but not much recognition he got in the Vaiṣṇava society. Both rejected from this side, and also not much respect from that side, almost gone to unknown quarters.

Devotee: Kavi Karṇapūra, who has written the Gaura-Gaṇoddeśa-Dīpikā, how does he know who those personalities are in Kṛṣṇa līlā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is his inspiration? His father was one of those eight sakhīs of Śrī Rādhārāṇī, Śivānanda. Former Śivānanda was one of the eight intimate sakhīs of Rādhārāṇī [known as Champaka-latā]. From him he got the inspiration.

When Mahāprabhu was in Purī and met that son Karṇapūra, He asked him, "You boy, take Kṛṣṇa Nāma, Hare Kṛṣṇa."

The boy did not take. Mahāprabhu tried His best but the boy did not pronounce Kṛṣṇa.

Then Mahāprabhu told, "What is this? I'm making so many chant in the world, chant this Kṛṣṇa Name, chanting Kṛṣṇa, chanting Kṛṣṇa Nāma, to so many in the world widely, and I fail to pronounce the Name of Kṛṣṇa from the mouth of this boy. What is this?"

Then Svarūpa Dāmodara came to relieve, he told that, "You have given this Name and the boy has taken it, he has īṣṭa mantra, and the mantra one should not speak out. So he has taken the mantram and kept it in the inner quarter of his heart, he won't speak it out." Svarūpa Dāmodara explained in that way.

Then Mahāprabhu out of affection, put the big toe of His foot into the mouth of the boy, and the boy began to suck Mahāprabhu's toe. And he became afterwards this Kavi Karṇapūra. Inspirations came in him. Such a good poem he has produced, very charming. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So inspiration, seeing some sign, some sort of similarity, and they could connect, what is what.

Devotee: Also Guru Mahārāja, I have heard that there are twin other Caitanya-Maṅgalas, one by a Locana Dāsa, another by - Locana Dāsa is one. It does not seem to be bona fide.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not bona fide in all respects. More or less influenced by Gaurāṅga-nāgarī-vāda, that is not accepted by the true Vaiṣṇava. And Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura himself was in opposition. The first book about Mahāprabhu written by Vṛndāvana. The reference of that we find in Caitanya-caritāmṛtam. Caitanya-Maṅgala was written afterwards. And that had some contamination of nāgarī-vāda, that Gaurāṅga like Kṛṣṇa, He also mixed with so many girls in the parakīya line.

But Vṛndāvana Dāsa he has discarded it wholly. "Mahāprabhu never cast a glance towards the girls in this life," he told. "Not nāgara. Because He's a brāhmaṇa in Ācārya family, and Kṛṣṇa came in the milkman sect. And He has come to show the position of an Ācārya, Guru, and Guru may not have such misconduct. Then who will care for him? Who will take him as Guru if he shows such slack character, mixing with the girls? Who will come to take and accept him as Guru, Ācārya? So He never showed that sort of conduct that He mixed with so many girls, never. He was very particular about that, very careful." Still Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura says, "He never by the corner of His eye cast any glance to any ladies or any girls. So the people must not give this name to Gaurāṅga, as nāgara, as an ordinary citizen. What is general temperament of a citizen, to mix with the man and woman, free mixing, not that. Gaurāṅga was not of that type. He was a very strict moralist, a life He maintained all through." So Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura mentioned this.

se heno nāma prabhu nama sane kane pathe gaurāṅga-nāgara heno sthali nahi boli [?]

"So none should pronounce such that Gaurāṅga was a frivolous boy who mixed with the girls in a slackened way. None can blame Him in this way. He was very strict about that."

It is written by Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura in his original book.

But in Locana Dāsa's, "There were many who had connection with Viṣṇu Prīya, and they with the help of Viṣṇu Prīya, Mahāprabhu's wife, with Viṣṇu Prīya they came in connection with Gaurāṅga, Nimāi Paṇḍit."

"No." Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura discarded. "This is all imaginary. This is only a foolish tendency to make Kṛṣṇa līlā and Gaura līlā similar. To prove that Gaurāṅga and Kṛṣṇa are one and the same, this sort of imagination has been taken resort to, resorted. So we're not at one with Locana Dāsa in that affair."

And many also, this Rūpa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī, then [Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī, Kavirāja Goswāmī, Vṛndāvana Dāsa Ṭhākura. So many, they have given description about Mahāprabhu, but none mentioned in that way. Very strict moralist He was in His previous life. So Gaura līlā is a līlā of an Ācārya, a preceptor, that of a Guru, suiting the taste of a Guru. To plead Kṛṣṇa līlā, why Kṛṣṇa līlā is so high, only in the position of Kṛṣṇa the Absolute can show that līlā, not otherwise. Even Nārāyaṇa, or all other incarnations of Kṛṣṇa never did so. Only with the exception of Kṛṣṇa and no other incarnation of Kṛṣṇa, or Nārāyaṇa, nowhere.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, it is sometimes said that Śrīdhar Swāmī in his commentaries sometimes agreed with Śaṅkarācārya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, he has refuted Śaṅkara, but he had his own sampradāyic creed which is viśuddādvaita. Amongst Vaiṣṇava sampradāya there are four conceptions with slight differences from one another. Śuddhādvaita by Viṣṇu Swāmī and Śrīdhar Swāmī followed that sampradāya. Then dvaitādvaita by Nimbarka. And śuddha-dvaita was Madhvācārya. Viśiṣṭādvaita by Rāmānuja. These four Vaiṣṇava specific sampradāyas. One coming from Brahmā, Śrī, Brahmā, Rudra, Sanaka. But there's little difference between them. Śrīdhar Swāmī he comes from śuddhādvaita, of Viṣṇuswāmī. And the Vallabhi sampradāya, at the present time, they also come from the śuddhādvaita sampradāya. And Mahāprabhu came from śuddhādvaita, Madhvācārya sampradāya, but with modification of acintya-bhedābheda.

So Jīva Goswāmī who was a strict follower of Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanya Deva, he differed in some point from Śrīdhar Swāmī. Mahāprabhu mainly supported Śrīdhar Swāmī because he has saved devotees from the interpretation of Śaṅkarācārya, in Gītā, in Bhāgavatam. Personality of Godhead he has admitted, he has proved, revealed, but impersonalism he encouraged. So mainly Śrīdhar Swāmī is Vaiṣṇava, but he followed viśuddhādvaita, and Mahāprabhu's creed was acintya-bhedābheda. So Jīva Goswāmī slightly differed from him here and there in the interpretation of Bhāgavatam. Just as in Bhāgavatam in the first śloka.

janmādy asya yato 'nvayād itararaś cārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ

["O my Lord, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, son of Vasudeva, O all pervading Personality of Godhead, I offer my respectful obeisances unto You. I meditate upon Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa because He is the Absolute Truth and the primeval cause of all causes of the creation, sustenance and destruction of the manifested universes. He is directly and indirectly conscious of all manifestations, and He is independent because there is no other cause beyond Him. It is He only who first imparted the Vedic knowledge unto the heart of Brahmājī, the original living being. By Him even the great sages and demigods are placed into illusion, as one is bewildered by the illusory representations of water seen in fire, or land seen on water. Only because of Him do the material universes, temporarily manifested by the reactions of the three modes of nature, appear factual, although they are unreal. I therefore meditate upon Him, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Who is eternally existent in the transcendental abode, which is forever free from the illusory representations of the material world. I meditate upon Him, for He is the Absolute Truth."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1]

Here, tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo, the meaning of the word vinimayo, Śrīdhar Swāmī has taken as ascription. He says that, "There is glass, we may take it for light. There is sun ray, mirage, we may take it for water. The thing is one thing and we accept that thing as another, this is the meaning of the word, vinimayo."

But Jīva Goswāmī has not accepted that. He has said, "No, the word vinimayo that never means ascription, but it is transformation. The gas, air, may be transformed into water. The water may again be transformed into solid or, and transformation, the glass may come, the stone may come, from water. In this way, air, ether, air, fire, water, earth, all, one can come from the other. By transformation and not one is ascribing another." In this way Jīva Goswāmī has explained, he's differed from Śrīdhar Swāmī. So here and there a little difference he had.

Devotee: Is this transformation the same as vikara or not?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vikara, yes. Not vivarta. Vivarta and vikara are of different kinds. Śaṅkara says vivarta, one thing misunderstood as another. Here Jīva says no, a real transformation is there in the potency, śakti pariṇam. The potency may admit transformation of it in different kinds, it is possible. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: How are we to take the differences we hear between great Vaiṣṇavas. Like you've just explained the difference between Śrīdhar Swāmī and Jīva Goswāmī. From our point of view they're both great Vaiṣṇavas, but they have some difference...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, amongst Vaiṣṇavas there are much differences. We are to follow the direction of Śrī Caitanya Deva.

In the conception of monarchy much difference. In the conception of democracy, communism, there is much difference. Some common, something different, it will always be there. Even in democracy, even in monarchy, every monarch is different from another monarch, one's rule is different. So this vaicitrī, variegatedness, will always be present. Not that you can find exactly congruent copy of one of the other, it is not possible, some sort of difference must be.

Even there is difference in Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa Svayaṁ-Bhagavān, Svayaṁ-Rūpa, then Svayaṁ-Prakāśa, Prabhāva-Prakāśa, Vaibhava-Prakāśa, Prabhāva-Vilāsaḥ, Vaibhava-Vilāsaḥ, in the conception of Kṛṣṇa Himself. So this distinction, not difference, rather distinction, we're to observe always, we must be alert to find.

A man, from mother, mother sees with some affection. Then his friend from another angle of vision. The wife from another vision. If he's a king the subjects with another vision. One and the same man, different conceptions. All cannot be congruent, some sort of difference there must be, according to their, the perception, the quality, the nature of the perceiver, the conceiver. But mainly something common, something different.

The main Vaiṣṇava groups, they're always after personal, eternal, personal God. These four, Madhvācārya, Rāmānuja, Viṣṇuswāmī and Nimbarka. "The Ultimate Reality is personal."

Then Śaṅkara and others, their group say, "No. He's impersonal is the highest conception of reality."

The main difference, but person of what type? The Svayaṁ-Bhagavān characteristic personality, that is only seen by the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, the Kṛṣṇa Svayaṁ-Bhagavān. To certain extent by the Nimbarka. But the svakīyā and parakīya, the distinction is there. Then the śuddhādvaita school, they like more vātsalya. Then the Rāmānuja section they consider Nārāyaṇa to be the original and Kṛṣṇa His extension. So much difference there may be, all may not be congruent. The conception of the truth may also have some degree and difference there.

Sajātīya-bheda, then vijātīya-bheda, sojātīya-bheda. A tree is different from a stone. A tree is different from another tree. A tree has got it's difference within it's own, branch, leaf, root, trunk, all these things. Sajātīya-bheda. The banyan tree, then so many other trees also there. Sajātīya-bheda.

So in the conception of Godhead that sort of difference, distinction. This Nārāyaṇa, the Kṛṣṇa, the Dvārakeśa, Rāmacandra. Then so many incarnations here. Nṛsiṁha, Varāha, all these things, difference. Avatārī, Avatāra. And amongst Avatāra also the degree of the Absolute characteristic represented differently, according to the section of the devotee, the capacity of appreciation in them.

83.02.06.B_83.02.07.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: "...compensate everything. We do not care for anybody here in this world. Bravely we move. But if you want to know really, then Uddhava is the most favourite of Kṛṣṇa. We're none."

Then Nārada went to Uddhava, "You are the most fortunate I see, all praise of you, even Kṛṣṇa has said that you are more favourite than His own body. What to speak of Baladeva, Lakṣmī Devī, not to speak of Brahmā and Śiva, even Lakṣmī Devī and His own Person is not so affectionate, so favourable, so important to Him, as you are Uddhava, to Kṛṣṇa."

"Yes, yes, what you say it is true. Kṛṣṇa has said that. But as long as I did not see the Braja gopīs it might have been true to certain extent. But when He sent me to see the gopīs in Vṛndāvana, that pride is demolished all together. What sort of love divine I found in the gopīs for Kṛṣṇa, that is unknown and unknowable, unaccountable, inestimable, inconceivable. That is never to happen. We can never even have a peep of that pure intense love and affection towards Kṛṣṇa, beyond our jurisdiction. And you know Devarṣi, after having a little experience, of the smallest part, what came in my mind I spontaneously uttered some words, expressions there."

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-[juṣām aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām
yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām]

[Uddhava says, "The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

"For the moment, I thought that if I could have a birth of a shrub, a creeper in this land, I would have been much more fortunate, because the feet dust of those divine damsels would naturally come on my head. So pure affection, and so risky, so intense, unintelligible love I have experienced there Devarṣi. Why do you come to praise me? I'm nothing. All my understanding has been surpassed. And with wonderful colour it has come to me to show that how dignified and purest love there can be for Kṛṣṇa. I wonder, I'm astounded to find this."

In this way. So different gradations, different sections of people, they say that our group's leaders are the highest devotees. Śaṅkara. Taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama. Yei rasa, sei sarvottama.

[kintu yāṅra yei rasa, sei sarvottama / taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama]

["It is true that whatever relationship a particular devotee has with the Lord is the best for him; still, when we study all the different methods from a neutral position, we can understand that there are higher and lower degrees of love."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83]

In one's own department he says, "Oh, our officer is _____ [?] In their group, officer, the leader of that party is that gentleman." But that party may not hold the supreme position. So bhakti is of different kinds, different layers, different stages, and there is also gradation.

In the pure devotion also, amongst the dāsya - Hanumān. Sākhya - there is Arjuna, one class says, and Vṛndāvana that is sākhya, this Sudama, Subala, highest standard. Then vātsalya is more fine, fine service, there Yaśodā holding the highest standard. In Mathurā, Devakī holding the highest position. In different classifications, different līlās. Sākhya rasa, vātsalya rasa, then mādhurya rasa, different groups, Candrāvalī, Rādhārāṇī, and so many other groups also there. But there is comparison possible, taṭa-stha hañā, relative position and absolute calculation, by both we're to understand things. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Yei rasa. Yaśodā says, the friendly school say, "We don't want to be Yaśodā or Nanda. We're friends to Kṛṣṇa, we play with Them. Sometimes we climb over His shoulder, sometimes taking on our shoulder. Sometimes give slap, sometimes get slap from Him. So many freedoms, we're so happy, we don't want to be a Yaśodā or Nanda. What are they? But in absolute calculation the measurement will come and show the Yaśodā and Nanda is higher there. They've got higher ecstasy, and of higher kind, both quantity and quality in favour of the vātsalya rasa. More intimacy is there, that we friends we seem to be very intimate, but their intimacy is more, higher."

Then the Yaśodā will say, "I want the Gopāla as a son. I don't want a consort. What of this? I'm the commander. I can do what I like with my child. And they're all under me. They're all under me. They're like servants and I'm master."

But anyhow, if the real standard goes to measure, then Yaśodā will have to go down, sometimes. That wholesale capturing is possible only by mādhurya rasa, twenty-four hour engagement in the service. Twenty-four hour engagement in the service of Kṛṣṇa is possible only in mādhurya rasa. Not even in vātsalya rasa, what to speak of sākhya rasa, and the quality is also higher. Taṭa-stha hañā vicārile, āche tara-tama.

The mother may serve the food, and the wife may also serve the same food. We're told that wife's serving is more tasteful than the mother's, mixed with mādhurya rasa. The service and the full service, or sometimes the chastising stricture, and confidential confidence, in every point the mādhurya rasa holds the supreme position. In feeding, generally with the parents, larlam parlam [?] taking care of the body, and the confidence, confidential discussions. And in all matters it is in the highest degree only in mādhurya rasa. Every rasa transaction can be disclosed in the mādhurya rasa service. But mādhurya rasa service secret cannot be taken out in the friendly circle, or in the filial, parent circle. That cannot come here, but these things can be taken there, the wholesale. In this way it has been described by the experts of the ontological, the theology of love.

What is that? We're to try to conceive, perceive, that is that, it is such and such. From here we can find, from the reflection we're to judge. Just as suppose if we want to investigate about the sun, we get the reflection of the sun in my hand, then from there I can try to trace what is that black spot? What is there? This is mountain, or this is sea, that is that, all these, in the sun or moon's reflection. But at present I cannot connect my eye direct with the sun, eye will be finished, reduced to ashes. So sometimes with this we're to understand what will be there. And we're to find the road, from the mathematical calculation, this is the lowest position here, and the highest is by exploitation, renunciation, and then dedication, and calculative, and over calculative, spontaneous. Gradual improvement in this way you have to understand things are such and such. The question was they conceived the elements, different units of pride. Everything is there, but only one thing we shall remember, that is in-carrying towards the holiest centre. And here, to be innumerable plurality branches like the opposite current, but similar not same.

kāma-preme dekho bhāi, lakṣanete bheda nāi, tabhu kāma 'prema' nāhi haya

[Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "My brother, lust and love appear as one and the same; yet, lust is never love."] [Kalyāṇa-Kalpataru, Upadeśā, 18]

One is darkness another is light. One is filthiness another is purity of the highest type. You're to understand, central-carrying, and this is out-carrying. We're to understand it very carefully where the difference is, out-carrying and in-carrying. That is normal, that is healthy, that is true, that is eternal purity. And this is flickering, this is taking us down to the lowest position and disturbing to the whole atmosphere and environment. Our selfishness must be eliminated and it cannot but be harmful to the environment. The local interest means it will clash with so many other local interests. But central interest, that means it will unify the whole interest, prānopahārāc.

[yathā taror mula niṣecanena, tṛpyanti tat-skandha bhujopaśākhāḥ
prānopahārāc ca yathendriyānāṁ, tathaiva sarvārhaṇam acyutejyā]

["Just as if you pour water onto the root of a tree, the whole tree is fed, and just as when you supply food to the stomach, the whole body is fed, so if you can gain knowledge of the prime cause, Brahman, then you can know anything and everything."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.31.14]

Put food into the stomach, it will satisfy the whole system. But put food in the eye, put food in the ear, what is that? Anomaly, disturbance, disease, that is there. And put food into the stomach, it is for the satisfaction of the whole. It is a pure thing, it is normal, it is truth, it is healthy. So to put our energy, our service direct towards the proper place everything will be fed properly, that will be distributed properly everywhere.

yasmin tuṣṭe jagat tuṣṭam priṇite priṇito jagat

If I satisfy Him, everything will be satisfied. If I serve Him, everything will be served automatically, and more efficiently, millions of times more efficiently. Pour water into the root, the whole tree will be fed. This sort of example has been given us for our understanding, that what is service towards the centre and service towards the smallest part. The difference is great, infinitely great difference. And we're all suffering from that, that local interest, personal interest and local interest. Local interest means clash between so many local interest, inevitable, a fight and action, reaction. And put everyone to the centre it will come in a harmonising way to satisfy everyone's inner demand, and taking him up towards the purest centre.

All right. I stop here. Vāñchā-kalpa...

Vidagdha Mādhava: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad...

...

Devotee: I'm reading the Caitanya-caritāmṛta that Jagadānanda Paṇḍita was in the mood of Satyabhāmā. Was he just in the mood of Satyabhāmā, or was he an incarnation of Satyabhāmā?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Incarnation of Satyabhāmā. Satyabhāmā's mood is bhāma-pradhana, apparent opposition. Her mood was apparent opposition, feeling, sentiment, more sentimental than considerate, consideration. Sentiment is predominating than consideration. Very sentimental, Satyabhāmā. Hare Kṛṣṇa. And the technical name is bhāma, that apparently oppositionist. Ostentatiously seems to give opposition but from the heart comes never, no opposition, only emotion.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: Mahārāja, the material world is rational, is the material world rational?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Material world.

Devotee: Man is rational animal.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rationality is a stage, internally a stage. The prime cause is autocrat, He's that, svarāṭ, cārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1] Though we find meaning, consideration, rationality in His dealings, but He's above that, highest call, He's free. Rational means to come under some law, rational. Rationality means that we judge by some law, regulation. According to that we may think this is rational, then this is according to some law and regulation. And what is irrational that is whimsical. But ultimately He's autocrat, He's svarāṭ. And rationality in affection there is want of rationality, in love - want of rationality, mercy - want of rationality. In justice there is rationality. But which is above justice in the plane of mercy, above rationality, above consideration, the grace. Examiner examining the boy and gives the mark according to his rationality, but when the question of grace comes, above rationality. Do you follow?

Justice, rationality, that is based under law, this is that meaning, irrational, what is? No consideration of any regular law, any regulation, that is irrational. What do you say, irrational? That does not come under calculation, under law, regulation, that is irrational. But svarāṭ, whatever He does that is all right. Rationalism, intellectualism, more than intellect, love, above intellect. Can't follow?

Devotee: Yes, I think I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Love is above intellect, above calculation. Autocracy is above calculation, absolute good and He's autocrat. And that is the fortune and a blessing of the whole creation, that the absolute good is autocrat. Nothing is going to mitigate, to check it. The movement of the absolute goodness means no law or regulation is coming to check it. That is desirable because it is absolute good, that is the justification. He's svarāṭ, in Bhāgavatam, cārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ, well versed in all the meanings, only He knows the purpose of every movement in this world. He Himself knows what is the purpose of every movement in this world of existence is within His fist. None can know the whole purpose of the whole movement of this world. Only one knows it. And yet, He's above consideration, svarāṭ, above law, autocrat, despot. Everything for Himself. He's not subservient to anything else, a second thing. Then He's svarāṭ, He's absolute. Everything for Himself. He's not for anything else, everything is for Him. What does it mean? Above rationalism, above any calculation, above any reasoning, above any demand, above any law, above any argument, tarkā-pratiṣṭhānāt. [Brahmā-Sūtra, 2.1.11]

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: You said yesterday that twenty-four hour engagement in Kṛṣṇa's service is only possible in mādhurya rasa. Would you explain a bit more on that point?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is mentioned aṣṭakālīya sevā, the service for eight praharas. One prahara means fourth part of a day or night is prahara. Day and night, twenty-four hours is divided into eight prahara, aṣṭakāla. And it is mentioned in the arcana kan [?] about Mahāprabhu.

_____ [?]

And about Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?]

The eight parts of His pastimes, pastimes have been divided into eight parts, and in all parts the mādhurya rasa party they have got some sort of service. When He's engaged in most confidential service is possible only in mādhurya rasa, and all forms of service, this vātsalya rasa thieving. Then servants service, a friendly talk of a friend. Everything may be within mādhurya rasa, and more palatable than those respective rasas. All rasa is the mukhya rasa, mādhurya rasa is called mukhya rasa, principle rasa, and it contains every sort of rasa within it. So all possible service is possible only in mādhurya rasa to remain there.

...

Devotee: Was it useful to set an example that Caitanya Mahāprabhu acted that way?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. In the realistic view only to warn others He showed through His own men. Internally He's not faulty, but externally to help us, to give us warning, He showed like that. In the perfect vision the most, in the full-fledged consideration, everything comes like that. Every atom is helping the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa, direct or indirect. And what is seen to be indirect at present, in deeper vision sometimes it reveals that it is coming towards direct service. Jagāi, Mādhāi.

[mahā-kṛpā-pātra prabhura jagāi, mādhāi] 'patita-pāvana' nāmera sākṣī dui bhāi

["Jagāi and Mādhāi, the eighty-ninth and ninetieth branches of the tree, were the greatest recipients of Lord Caitanya's mercy. These two brothers were the witnesses who proved that Lord Caitanya was rightly named Patita-pāvana, "the deliverer of the fallen souls."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 10.120]

Jagāi, Mādhāi came to show to the world how magnanimous my Lord is. In the beginning it was begun with indirect, came to give a good beating to Nityānanda. But ended in how? Submission and singing of the Name of Nityānanda, Gaurāṅga. And showing the example to the public. "How worse we were, rogue, and how we are converted into honest men by the great Lord."

I think you know the Judas in Christianity?

Devotee: Yes, I know him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who was he?

Devotees: Judas was the one who sold Jesus. He betrayed Jesus.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But I think when Jesus is coming with the cross on His shoulder, passing through the way, suddenly he cast His glance towards Judas.

Did you read that? No?

When Jesus had been ordered crucifixion, then the cross is put on His shoulder and He's ordered to go to the field to be crucified. And both sides of the way people thronged and passing through them. Suddenly, he does not know, but He's omniscient, suddenly cast a glance to the face of Judas.

And with such an impressive way He saw Judas, Judas thought, "I'm caught. I'm caught. I'm responsible for His crucifixion."

But Jesus' vision was, to me was something else. "Judas, I'm exploiting you. Not that you're exploiting Me, but I'm exploiting you. I'm using you to show the greatness of My life to the future world. I'm utilising you as a traitor. Here amongst our followers there is a traitor I knew." He already told, "Who will give the report to the authorities, he's within you. Amongst these twelve, one will betray Me."

He already told, He knew, and Judas was there. But He cast a glance in such a revolutionary way to Judas. "Not that you're exploiting Me for birth or money, I'm exploiting you for eternity. You will have to stand as sinful person against Me and to preach to the public that I knew that you were a traitor, still I did not disclose and I took you within My followers fully knowing. I'm exploiting you."

With that look of Jesus was that. And Judas was mad, he ran at once to the authority, threw away the money. "I have committed the worst sin, I can't tolerate it." A negative look. Judas' energy was drawn and drunken, his spirit was drawn. "A so good look? I'm a traitor and a look of gratitude to me? What is this?"

In Japan, jujitsu. When one is coming with great force, and he will push, jump on it, he went away and he fell on the face, withdrawn. The opposition withdrawn, and who is coming to fall on the play, the play will jump and he will fall on the face.

Judas was in that position. "He showed so much gratitude to me. I treated Him so evil. Ill treated by me. But His look is not of vindictiveness, but of infinite gratitude. That sort of look He cast to me." He was disarmed, Judas was completely disarmed and was mad, feeling, "What have I done?" He ran towards the authorities and threw away the bribe money.

So Jagāi, Mādhāi is also like that, enhancing the beauty of the conduct of their Lord. Sacrifice, sacrifice, playing the part of the negative side, great sacrifice. Forever they're giving away their own fame to make their Lord glorious forever. Their contribution, how great Nityānanda, Caitanya is, that such a great rogue he was delivered. So that sort of part played by Jagāi, Mādhāi. "So we're the culprits, the most notorious figures, and we were absolved by Gaura-Nityānanda." So a great sacrifice, eternal sacrifice of the eternal fame. He wanted to hit Nityānanda with some earthen pot, that part taken.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. So, if we can look so deep then all negative indirect service becomes direct, comes to direct service. Depth of our vision can detect as much as depth of one's sight he can feel and see so much direct service, even from the indirect section. Māyā is also rendering service. Satan is also rendering service to God by revolting. Without darkness light cannot be perceived. To play the part of darkness, that is sacrifice to show the greatness of light. Satan is making God great. His contribution is apparently negative, but one may think that Satan's contribution makes God how magnanimous, how generous, goodness. If Satan did not exist then how could we understand the goodness of God, the greatness of God. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The contribution towards service apparently indirect way, but to a spacious sight, eye, it comes within direct service. So wholesale, everywhere there is the grace of God, even in Satan.

Mahādeva, Lord Śiva says, sometimes He's repenting, mourning, "What can I do? You are absolute. You have engaged Myself to accept the position of a leader of the opposition party. I'm going against You. I'm encouraging, giving indulgence to the demons. You have given this post to Me, most unhappy, unfortunate post. But You are absolute, Your order is unchallengable. What to do? I'm doing on Your order, obeying Your order. But My heart is not satisfied there My Lord. But I'm obeying, carrying out Your order fortunately."

So, vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ. So Śiva is a devotee, but He's doing opposition, giving opposition to Kṛṣṇa and Viṣṇu in various ways, and encouraging the demonic powers against Him. Still, vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ, direct vision. And indirect, He's the leader of the opposition party. He's fighting with Kṛṣṇa, with His followers, the bhuta, preta, demons, etc.

[nimna-gānāṁ yathā gaṅgā, devānām acyuto yathā
vaiṣṇavānāṁ yathā śambhuḥ, purāṇānām idam tathā]

["Just as the Gaṅgā is the greatest of all rivers, Lord Acyuta the supreme among deities and Lord Śambhu [Śiva] the greatest of Vaiṣṇavas, so Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam is the greatest of all Purāṇas."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam,12.13.16]

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Devotee: What will be the benefit for a disciple that is serving a Guru, but the Guru is fallen and he doesn't know it?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Doesn't know?

Devotee: When the disciple doesn't know.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ignorance is no excuse. It is not an accidental thing, ignorance. It is earned. Man is the architect of his own fortune. Earned by our karma, previous action, so not to blame anyone. The environment where I am at present, this is already earned by me. So Bhāgavatam wants to teach us, don't complain against the environment, it is earned by you. But utilise it to the best use to try to see the grace of the Absolute there is.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam
[hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

The anomalies which I'm facing, that is ātma-kṛta, it is the product of my own action, so none to blame. We're to take it in that way. It is earned by me, so I'm to be blamed, none else. Not only that, but there is always present the grace of the Lord eager to help me in the disguise of danger of unfavourable environment as I see at my present experience. But that is also the necessary medicine to my own disease. To cure my madness that is like a medicine meant by the Lord. He's everywhere with sympathetic hand to extend, everywhere in the most intense danger, His sympathetic hand is present. We're to take it. This will be our attitude, and this attitude is the key to solution of our...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...unfavourable position. The Lord is there. Solution is there. He's not vindictive, that wants to punish you. But the punishment has come only to teach you. The punishment is there, but coming from an affection hand, only to teach you, to improve you, to help you, not to punish you. We're to see like that, all dangers, we're advised. And then in no time it will be cleared, the mist will be cleared, the bad weather will vanish, and sunlight weather will come in return.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.
This is a very important śloka in Bhāgavatam, the key to solution of our life, success.

tat te 'nukampāṁ susamīkṣamāṇo, bhuñjāna evātma-kṛtaṁ vipākam
[hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk]

["One who, in the hope of achieving Your grace, goes on enduring the inauspicious fruit of his own karma, and passes his days practising devotion unto You in every thought, word, and deed - such a person is heir to the land of freedom: he attains to the plane of positive immortality."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.8]

While you are suffering from your previous bad action, try to see the grace of the Lord therein, and in no time it will clear. Hṛd-vāg-vapurbhir. By thought, word, and deed, not partial, but wholesale. Vidhadhan namas te, jīveta yo mukti-pade sa dāya bhāk. He's entitled to get emancipation from the hands of all those dangers. Hare Kṛṣṇa. He's entitled to get released from unfavourable circumstances. That is the key to that success of life.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. And we are advised to see everything in connection with Kṛṣṇa, He's playing, it is His pleasure, He's playing.

Kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra. [From Vaiṣṇava ke? - Who is a Vaiṣṇava?]
If any lady comes to you, "Oh, she's for the enjoyment of Kṛṣṇa, not for anyone, what to speak of me, not to be enjoyed by anyone, but only for Kṛṣṇa."

The ladies are for Kṛṣṇa. The money for Nārāyaṇa - Lakṣmī for Nārāyaṇa. And the glory, the fame for Gurudeva, Baladeva, Nityānanda, Who gives the Absolute to the world. He's eligible to command all the fame, all the glory of the world. Because He's giving glory to everyone by distributing the Absolute Good, Baladeva, Guru, Nityānanda. The whole fame, whole credit is under His claim. He can claim the whole credit, the whole glory, or fame. And the whole energy Nārāyaṇa can command.

...

Enjoyment of lady love reserved for Kṛṣṇa. Kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā - three owners of the three aspects of enjoyment, kanak, kāminī, pratiṣṭhā.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.
Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Their due. Hare Kṛṣṇa. The whole credit will go to Guru who is distributing the truth to the world, whole credit, he commands the whole credit. Guru means Baladeva. And in mādhurya rasa Rādhārāṇī, She commands the whole credit of giving Kṛṣṇa to the world. Kṛṣṇa belongs to Her, as if Her property. Kṛṣṇa is the property of Rādhārāṇī. She can distribute Him to any and everybody. In the highest type of vision She's so. And a little lower, Baladeva, Nityānanda, vātsalya, sākhya, without mādhurya, vātsalya, sākhya, śānta, dāsya, all commanded by Baladeva, Nityānanda. And only mādhurya rasa including all the different types commanded by Rādhārāṇī. She can give Kṛṣṇa wholesale, and They can give partly, up to vātsalya rasa. Wholesale distribution can be allowed only by Rādhārāṇī.

Gaura Hari. Śukadeva could not take the Name of Rādhārāṇī in that scholarly assembly when he was giving Bhāgavatam. No mention of Rādhārāṇī's Name in Bhāgavatam. Jīva Goswāmī has given the explanation, why in that scholarly section who cannot appreciate that higher form of parakīya love, they're scholars but they're not high type devotees. So Śukadeva could not take the Name of Rādhārāṇī in that assembly of the scholars. Who will fail to appreciate the parakīya rasa sevā, service of Rādhārāṇī, of the gopīs. Absolute type of service not under any law, regulation, either social or religious, crossing both social and religious law. Religious conception and social demand, crossing everything, the complete unconditional surrender towards Kṛṣṇa, that is the highest position. Wholesale surrender, neglecting the existing social and religious law of the country, ignoring society as well as religion. So much risk to serve Kṛṣṇa with whole heart, that is found there. So Rādhārāṇī's Name could not be taken in the scholar's assembly by Śukadeva Goswāmī. This is the explanation as given by Jīva Goswāmī in his Sandarbha.

Gaura Haribol. So when taking the Name of Rādhārāṇī I give some praṇāma. "Oh, please forgive me. I'm not qualified to take Your Name. I'm not qualified. I'm making much, saying much in my small tongue. In my mean tongue I'm taking Your Name. Forgive me, forgive me. I've got the audacity of taking Your Name. Gaura Hari. Forgive me."

She's so high, so great, so noble. We don't, we can't consider ourselves fit to take Her Name. Śukadeva Goswāmī did not take Her Name in the whole of Bhāgavatam where he has given what is the true perception, true idea of divine love. The basis of divine love has been shown there rightly, above knowledge. Love is above knowledge, above intellect, above rationality. As he told, rationality, above rationality, intellectualism, the plane of love. The vibration of that plane is love absolute. Absolutely towards Kṛṣṇa, ignoring all other demands coming from the near environment.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari.
Today I close here. Gaura Haribol.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...should also be taken here. They also came, and we had a talk, and I tried to instruct this lady, Mañjuālī. Vaiṣṇava Charan also cried, wept, both.

Anyhow they gave consent. "Again he may go for the service of Kṛṣṇa. We're releasing him for Guru Mahārāja's service."

And they want to keep the prestige of ISKCON, he should return to ISKCON as a sannyāsī which was already conferred to him by Kīrtanānanda Mahārāja.

I asked, "Give a letter of request to Kīrtanānanda Mahārāja for giving you second time this sannyāsa, this robe. And he has to go to Katwa were Mahāprabhu took His sannyāsa, to get your mental strength there. At that place you take sannyāsa again, what you got previously from Kīrtanānanda."

Charu Swāmī was sent, and Charu Swāmī handed over the red cloth of sannyāsa as well as that daṇḍam, there just on the spot of Mahāprabhu's sannyāsa.

And he's too weak minded person, could not keep it, again...

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Approach, how we can improve our position and approach nearer to Kṛṣṇa. By leaving away our internal hankerings for any other things than Kṛṣṇa and His servitors. That is the problem for everyone, how?

Just - it reminds me that these hard chances are coming to take us a step further towards, closer to Him. What apparently we think, that this is troublesome and heart aching, and trying to push us down, but actually it's not so.

So Queen Kuntī invited such unfavourable positions. Unfavourable positions, they come only to give us a lift. We're under trial. Anyhow we must have to cross the line and advance, go forward towards Kṛṣṇa. One by one, waves are coming to take us away from Kṛṣṇa, but we must swim across, to go nearer. The waves will surely come.

These are coming to us as test, to prove our faithfulness to Him, to take proof, faithfulness in service. So we should not be afraid of those waves that are coming, apparently to push us away, but really it is not so. We must not be afraid. With heart within and God overhead, we shall boldly stand those tests, we have to stand. It is not that the path will be strewn with flowers, all covered with flowers, not that at all, not at all.

It is continuous, it is dynamic, it has got no end, even the competition is in the higher stage. And the original representative of particular service of particular rasa, they're in a similar position.

"I can't serve. I'm not satisfied by rendering service to my boy, or to my friend, but to my Lord."

No satisfaction, no satisfaction, always evolving. That means it is always progressive eternally, eternally progressive. The journey in the infinite is like that, of such nature, always running, running, running. Progressing, progressing, no end.

And with this disappointment. "I can't, I fail to do to my satisfaction. I fail to render service up to my satisfaction."

This is the very nature in the world of infinite. We're finite beings, lost there. But still we have got our paraphernalia of our own nature there. A long journey, long trouble, but if we have good association, good group, in a group we're going, then the disappointment, dejection minimised if we have a favourable group for us to make a long journey. By chatting with them, talking with them about the Lord, we can go, we can't know the weariness of the journey, long walking, fatigue, we forget all these things. So, kṛṣṇa-bhakti-janma-mūla haya 'sādhu-saṅga' [kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga]

["The root cause of devotional service to Lord Kṛṣṇa is association with advanced devotees. Even when one's dormant love for Kṛṣṇa awakens, association with devotees is still most essential."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.83]

The very origin of the devotion to Kṛṣṇa comes from the association of the sādhu. Kṛṣṇa-prema janme, teṅho punar mukhya aṅga. And when we acquire a drop of divine love within our heart, then also our hope, solace, consolation, health, everything, we get from the association of the devotees. The devotees are all in all, from the beginning up to the end. Our favourable companion can help us in our journey towards infinite. They're something solid, some concrete, similar in nature with me. So only with inter change of our thought, our good, bad, everything, our hope, our despair, everything they can appreciate and in a group we can go on. Sādhu-saṅga.

Otherwise if we're alone we'll think, "Oh, what are you doing? I'm wild goose chasing, chasing a wild goose." A reaction may come and he may leave his bhajan and go away. So our Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, gave very much stress on the association of the devotees.

Duṣṭa mana! tumi kisera vaiṣṇava? pratiṣṭhāra tare, nirjanera ghare. [From Vaiṣṇava ke?]
"You want in a solitary place to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa? This is a hoax of Māyā. She will come and take you by your ear. You won't be able to fight for a long time if alone."

But always try to be with the more, to do anything and everything, service, with so many other devotees you'll get strength from one another. And a long march will be a very pleasant thing to you. So a sincere devotee will always hanker after a good association, good company, who will be able to help me, giving encouragement at every stage.
"No, it is here, very near, let us go, let us go, a little more and then we shall get some clue."
In this way anyhow the mutual help.

The 'Napoleonic Chair.' I was told that once Napoleon reached somewhere with his soldiers in a marshy land. And standing, standing there for a long time they're very much tired, and at least they wanted to take a seat for some time. Can't go on standing any longer. Then he put them in a circle, and asked them to take their seat. Everyone is giving seat to another, and he's also sitting on another's lap. In this way in a circle everyone was a seat, and everyone got a seat. Do you follow? In a circular way, so everyone gave a seat on the thigh to one, and he also took on the other, in a circular way everyone could take their seat.

So sādhu-saṅga is like that. When my mind is a little depressed he will come to encourage me. When you are a little depressed I shall go him. It's a long journey. There is scripture, there are other lights of the sādhu by consulting them, by remembering them, reminding their association. In this way it is very comfortable, the journey, to go towards. The books, that is secondary, and the primary assistance should come from the living books, living scriptures, that is the Vaiṣṇava, the saints. Otherwise one will think for some time, for few days, he's not very advanced stage, then it is nothing, mere imagination, he felt, leave everything and went back, that is, so,

Pratiṣṭhāra tare, nirjanera ghare, tava "harināma" kevala "kaitava." [From Vaiṣṇava ke?]
Kaitava means sadhinar [?] deception, self deception. If you're really hankering for God consciousness, you should not be afraid of seeing God consciousness in some other person. You must feel encouraged, hanker, so,

'sādhu saṅga,' 'sādhu saṅga,' - sarva śāstre kaya [lava-mātra sādhu-saṅge sarva-siddhi haya]

["The verdict of all revealed scriptures is that by even a moment's association with a pure devotee, one can attain all success."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.54]

It reminds me more from the letter of that lady, whom I called daughter, when this Mañjuālī, after weeping she gave consent, "Yes Mahārāja."

Then I quoted the example of Viṣṇupriyā. Viṣṇupriyā allowed her about Nimāi Paṇḍit Śrī Caitanyadeva to go away from, to work for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. And she lived whole of her life, she was a girl of fourteen, but she lived her solitary life giving Nimāi Paṇḍit towards the people, to get, preach Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

So you also give up your husband. And your son will also be a general, I told. This little Vaiṣṇava Charan when grown up, with proper training, he will also turn to be a general to fight against māyā like his father. Very much encouraged to accept. Then anyhow they went away to London and this gentleman went towards _____ [?]

But to our disappointment that attempt does not seem to be successful, but deplorable. What to do? His will, will of the Absolute. We must think it is all for the best, it is all for the best.

viracaya mayi daṇḍaṁ dīnabandho dayāṁ vā, gatir iha na bhavattaḥ kācid anyā mamāsti [nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena]

["O friend of the needy, whether You chastise me or reward me, in the whole wide world I have no other shelter but You. Whether the thunderbolt strikes or torrents of fresh waters shower down, the cātaka bird (who drinks only the falling rainwater) perpetually goes on singing the glories of the rain cloud."]

Rūpa Goswāmī says, dīnabandho dayāṁ vā. "Oh, the Lord of the poor, helpless. You may display Your kindness to me, or You may come to punish me very cruelly. The cruel punishment may come from You. It is also possible. Or gracious, either punishment or kindness, grace, You may do. You may administer anything. You're free. You're Absolute. But what is my position? My position is, I have no other alternative. Whatever You do, however You want to deal with me, I shall have to accept it on my head patiently. No other alternative I've got. No alternative for me to go away from You. Whether You punish me or You grace me, both is one, equal to me. I won't go back."

Just as the example he gave of a particular bird. What is that bird? Cātaka, in Sanskrit the name is cātaka. Nipatatu śata-koṭir nirbharaṁ vā navāmbhas, tad api kila payodaḥ stūyate cātakena. There is a kind of bird who always drinks water from the rain, raindrops, and never are they accustomed to take any water, however thirsty, from the ground. Whether it maybe a spring, or the river, or lake, from nowhere they will take even a single drop of water, however thirsty they may be.

They'll always pray to the sky, to the clouds, patijal [?] Their sound is similar to this. "A drop of water, a drop of water." In this way they try with their faces above to the sky, "A drop of water." And water may come profusely in the rain, or a thunder also may come and efface him from the world. He does not care whether thunder coming or water coming. But he will always go on praying, "A drop of water, a drop of water." In this way.

Our position is just like that. Whether punishment comes like thunder, heavy punishment to demolish me, to efface me from the world. Or a huge water, rain water, to grace me, to quench my thirst within. No other alternative to this, ananya bhajana, exclusive devotion. I'm meant for that. I'm designed for that. I'm destined for that. You are my master, You are my Lord, and not for the temporary transaction, eternal.

Such preparedness we must have we must have within ourselves. Then we'll be able to taste how sweet the experience we can gather from the service. We're up to mark, if we're up to mark, then we can get the chance of some extraordinary sweet taste in the service of the Lord. As much as hunger, so much sweet taste in the tongue. Sweetness depends on the hunger. A healthy body is measured by the hunger. Whether the man is healthy we can measure it by his appetite. Yes appetite is all right, he has full life. So appetite, we're to increase our appetite, our earnestness, requirement for Kṛṣṇa. And a slight touch of His grace will inundate our heart with the most desirable sweetness we cannot conceive any time in our life, inconceivable taste, Kṛṣṇa.

In Vṛndāvana we find none is satisfied by discharging his duties towards the service of Kṛṣṇa. All mad to do and dissatisfaction. "I can't do. I'm not able to do up to mark." Below the mark, all these things, that is the peculiarity. This should be the relationship of the finite towards the infinite. Finite and infinite, only such relationship is possible. Finite can never say, "I have got in my fist, within my fist."

But at the same time it is a peculiar thing that one will think, just as by him saying that one does not, can't see, he wants, this at any moment he may die, this fact one may not think, and the same time, ye paramayi apare dhan [?] A moneyed man is never satisfied with his cash, always saying, "No, I'm in want, but he has got money." Always, "He has got money. I'm in poverty." That is the nature with the moneyed man. "I have no money but he has got money."

So here also, "I have no devotion, but he has got devotion. Kṛṣṇa is there." That is a point of understanding to us. "He's full in my Gurudeva, he's tasting." The pārṣada, they're mad in tasting, but that very pārṣada devotee, he says: "No, I'm not feeling any touch of Kṛṣṇa. Where is He?" Generally this is the case, and whenever a little connection, little touch, they become mad, sambhoga, vipralambha.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura.

The feeling of separation is normal and safe. And the feeling of union is mostly treacherous to the lower section. They may mistake one thing for another thing. The possibility of going down. So Mahāprabhu Śrī Caitanyadeva He showed for us the path of union in separation, safest way. "I have got Him," that is dangerous. Mostly the cases are bogus. We must be very much careful about that. We may not think getting anything and everything I have got some touch of the Lord. There we must be very, very careful.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. I close here the class.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With this warning that may be distributed.

No letter from another Post Office to the land? That Mysore (?) including Nārāyaṇa, and then as Vṛnda she has got some position in the management of the whole of Vṛndāvana līlā. Again she has got some particular function in Braja līlā as an individual gopī, three phases.

And sometimes Rādhārāṇī Herself says that, "All My attainment is due to the grace of Tulasī Devī. In My previous life," She says, "I showed My reverential service to Tulasī Devī, so I have got some favour of Kṛṣṇa this life." In this way She's representing Her.

These are all in jñāna śūnya, devotion mixed with ignorance, jñāna śūnya bhakti, mixed with ignorance or independent of measuring the immeasurable.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Another question she has got?

Vidagdha Mādhava: She is asking, "Is it better in Kṛṣṇa consciousness to use skills and desires you have, or is it better to go out on book distribution? And which is more purifying? And what service do you want me to do for you?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: One, book distribution, another, this arcana?

Vidagdha Mādhava: Is it? Her idea is that she wants to teach Gurukula, and sew for the Deities. And caring for Tulasī Devī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By the higher Vaiṣṇava, that has got some immediate value.

Vidagdha Mādhava: She's asking, "Why is it an offence to pick Tulasī leaves on Dvādaśī?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because it is supposed that Tulasī Devī, she has observed Ekādaśī fasting.

_____ [?]

If we get bhakti then automatically every inauspicious things will be removed. General devotion means,

kleśa-ghnī śubhadā mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā
sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā

["Uttamā-bhakti, the purest devotion, is the vanquisher of all sin and ignorance, and the bestower of all auspiciousness; liberation is belittled in the presence of such devotion, which is very rarely attained, the embodiment of the deepest ecstasy, and the attractor of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

By the progress of devotion in general, all these stages we will have to pass through. The first step, all the troubles will be removed. The second, all good symptoms will awaken. The third, śubhadā mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt, even we shall be able to belittle mere liberation and emancipation. Then, sudurllabhā, yet it is very hard to get the grace of devotion. The fourth, then sudurllabhā sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, inexpressible and very, too much intense joy, the devotion can give us...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...to favour us, towards us. These are the results of devotion in general. And to serve Tulasī Devī is a part of devotion, and it must give us all these effects to us. So a devotee of the higher order, he must not pray to any place, or any prayer that absolves me from the sin. He will say, the first class devotee will say, will pray, "Whatever I have done wrong, I'm ready to suffer for that to the paisa. But only my prayer is that I may get a drop of nectar of the favour of Kṛṣṇa." That should be the prayer of a real devotee.

paśu-pakhī ho 'ye thāki svarge bā niroye, [taba bhakti rahu bhaktivinoda-hṛdoye]

["Be my life in heaven or in hell, be it as a bird or a beast, may devotion to You always remain in the heart of Bhaktivinoda."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 4, The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, page 136]

"I may according to my karma, I may be a bird, I may be a beast, or I may be a worm, insect, in the heaven or in hell. I don't care for that. According to my own karma let me suffer for that. But only my prayer that I may not be devoid, or maybe deceived from the favour of Kṛṣṇa, I get that, His grace, devotion I want, only devotion I want."

nāsthā dharme na vasu-nicaye naiva kāmopabhoge yad bhāvyaṁ tad bhavatu bhagavan pūrva-karmānurūpam etat prārthyaṁ mama bahu-mataṁ janma-janmāntare 'pi tvat-pādāmbho-ruha-yuga-gatā niścalā bhaktir astu

["I have no attraction for performing religious rituals or holding any earthly kingdom. I do not care for sense enjoyments; let them appear and disappear in accordance with my previous deeds. My only desire is to be fixed in devotional service to the lotus feet of the Lord, even though I may continue to take birth here life after life."] [King Kulaśekhara's Mukunda-mālā-stotra, 5] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Adi-līlā, 4.33, purport]

And Bhaktivinoda, paśu-pakhī ho 'ye thāki svarge bā niroye, means hell. Let me, to enjoy my result of good works in heaven, or if I have to suffer for my bad actions in previous lives we're to go to hell, I don't want to get out of that. My karma I shall have to suffer or enjoy. I don't care for that. But my prayer, not to take away that sin, or that good merit or bad merit, but only my prayer is for pure devotion independent of these two. Neither happiness nor suffering, neither happiness from happiness, nor from suffering I want relief. Let it be according to my previous karma.

The least, what I want from this moment, I won't try to waste that favour of Kṛṣṇa to face with any eventuality. Whatever I shall acquire, a drop, I shall acquire friends, that must be the nectar of the highest order. And lower things can deal with these things, the heaven and hell. To remove, to deliver us from hell or from heaven, very lower things can do that. But Kṛṣṇa's favour we shall pray only as a positive attainment, and never to minimise our previous, the result of the bad activities of misconception. Misconception is nothing for that.

I want the visa, don't care for passport. If I get visa, passport will come automatically. Something like that. If I get visa, no passport trouble will be able to trouble me, something. This māyā, to do away with māyā it is nothing. But the positive attainment in the domain of Kṛṣṇa, that is a very higher thing. By passing māyā we can attain Virāja, Brahmaloka, mukti, the marginal position. But why should I waste my energy only to acquire a position in the marginal land? All my attempts must be focussed towards the prayer of a position in Goloka. That I shall try, and that will be gain of very higher order, highest order. I shall pray automatically this will be done.

There was one case in Sāvitrī - Satyavān, Purāṇa story. Sāvitrī from Yamarāja she wanted boon. She was a chaste lady. Went to the forest with her husband knowing that that day, she knew that that day was the day of death of her husband, so she followed her husband Satyavān to the forest.

And suddenly Satyavān, Sāvitrī knew already, Satyavān did not know. "I feel some ache in my brain. I want to take a sleep." Sāvitrī was ready. On her lap Satyavān put his head. He was cutting wood there and slept and heart failed, died of heart failure.

Yamarāja came to take him. First his agents came, but they found that Satyavān was on the lap of his chaste, very pure wife. They could not venture to take him. Then Yamarāja himself came. Sāvitrī is there with the head on her lap.

Yamarāja told, "You leave it, he's dead, you leave his body."

Then Sāvitrī told, "Yes, you take him."

Yamarāja took him, that soul. Sāvitrī is approaching, by her penance's she's approaching, following in pursuance of her husband.

Yamarāja told, "O you why do you come? I'm taking him. You must go back."

But, "No, I can't go, I shall go." In this way.

Yamarāja told, "No, you don't come. Why do you disturb my activity? This is the arrangement of the creator Brahmā, and you must obey that."

Sāvitrī told, "It's better to die than live without husband." In this way.

Then Yamarāja told, "I'm giving some boon to you. Accept and be satisfied."

"What boon you will give?" Then she wanted, her father-in-law and mother-in-law they were blind, "Let them get eye."

"Yes, they will get eye."

Second, then again going, "No, I'm not satisfied, can't live."

"Then take another boon."

"If you're pleased to give boon, then they have lost their kingdom, now they may be installed in their own kingdom."

"Yes, I say they will get back their kingdom."

"All right." Again Sāvitrī going.

"Again you are coming?"

"Yes, I can't live without the company of my husband. I'll take another boon."

"Yes, what is that?"

"I want a hundred sons."

"Yes, you'll get a hundred sons."

Then again she's going. "And why you are coming? I already told that you shall get a hundred sons."

"If you're taking my husband how can I get sons?"

Then Yamarāja was perplexed. "Yes, that's true." Then what to do? He appealed to the higher force and sanctioned Sāvitrī's boon. She got her husband back. So Yamarāja was already committed, "That you have got, you will get a hundred sons."

Then Sāvitrī put the demand. "You've already sanctioned that I shall get a hundred sons, you can't take my husband."

So if we get some space in Goloka, we cannot be detained in this mundane world. Why should we bother ourselves that Tulasi Devī who can give me a place there, say, "Please clear the dirts on which I'm standing." That is self-deception. Do you follow? No?

Devotees: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So always to the higher entity we shall pray for the higher service of the Lord. Wherever we are we won't care for that. That automatically will be solved. If we get some higher appointment there, then automatically they can't detain us here. So a śuddha bhakta, a pure devotee, from the core of his heart he will never pray for anything else. That will be waste of energy.

"Only pure inclination towards the service of my eternal Lord, that I want. I know nothing else but the loving service of my eternal Lord, that I want. I do not know anything else."

The gopīs, when Nārada came for the feet-dust. In Dwārakā, when Kṛṣṇa is playing that He has got a very bad headache and only the feet-dust of a devotee can remove that headache. So Nārada approached so many, none came forward to give feet-dust to Kṛṣṇa. "Kṛṣṇa says, 'I'm suffering great pain, all these things.'"

"No, no, we don't believe that. This is all to test us. We're the last persons to give feet-dust to our venerable husband whom we think to be God Himself, never."

Then Nārada came to Kṛṣṇa. "Have you got the medicine?"

"No, no, none is prepared to give feet-dust to You my Lord."

Then, "Nārada, go, go, go to Vṛndāvana, you seek for that there, go."

Nārada, by the power of yoga, he at once came. The gopīs flocked there: "Oh, how is Kṛṣṇa? Nārada, you have come, perhaps you are coming from Dwārakā?"

"Yes, yes, I'm coming. Kṛṣṇa is suffering from headache very much."

"How? He's suffering?"

"Yes, He's suffering."

"And no medicine, no cure?"

"Well only feet-dust of the devotee, that is the medicine, nothing else can cure Him. So I have come here, you are so many devotees."

"Oh, take, take feet-dust, say you give your feet-dust. We don't know who is the proper devotee, give feet-dust, collect feet-dust and take."

Nārada was astounded. "What is this? No one, even myself I do not venture to give. Thus the queens told, 'Nārada, you are a devotee, you give your feet-dust.' I also can't. But these ladies they're offering their feet-dust by competition. 'Oh take, please take hers, take hers.'" In this way. He stood dumb. "What do you think? You're giving feet-dust to Kṛṣṇa. Don't you know the consequence?"

"Yes, what consequence?"

"Eternal hell."

"We're prepared for that Nārada. We're only concerned with His pleasure. We do not care for our future. Our whole attention is to seek for pleasure of Him."

So a pure devotee won't pray for anything, but for the higher service of the Lord their heart. They can't see anything else. Nothing he can see, for him or her, for their own pleasure, but only the pleasure of Kṛṣṇa. Forgetful, as in Christianity also, there is self sacrifice, and greater than that is self forgetfulness. Self forgetful self is there, but forgetful for the pleasure of the Lord. No self interest. Self forgetfulness that is unconscious of their own particular interest, it is merged in the interest of the whole Lord Absolute. So a pure devotee should never want anything else but the pure service of the Lord. He does not care to know any other thing, can't see even.

Once, after the Pāṇḍavas and Kauravas got their training finished in the school of Droṇācārya, Droṇācārya to test them he put an artificial bird on the top of a tree, and asked them one by one, "Pierce, mark the eye of this bird I've put on the top of the tree." First he called up Yudhiṣṭhira, he was the senior most. "You are to mark, pierce the eye of the artificial bird that I've put on the top of the tree. Take your bow and arrow." And Yudhiṣṭhira at once came. "What do you see?"

"I'm seeing all."

"Bird?"

"Yes."

"The whole bird?"

"Yes."

"The tree?"

"Yes."

"Are you seeing me?"

"Yes. I'm seeing everything."

"Give up, give in your arrow."

Then in this way he say, this man, that man, then at last called for Arjuna. "You are to do this."
"Yes."
"Have you fixed you mark?"
"Yes."
"What do you see?"
"I see the bird."
"No tree, none else?"
"No."
"The whole bird?"
"Never, no, only the eye."
"The bird and only the eye, and you can't see anything else?"
"No, only the eye I'm seeing."
"Yes, mark."

So a pure devotee he can't see anything else, but hear the praise, the joy of his Lord of his heart. They're unconscious of everything. Let it be, whatever You may like. So that pure devotion of that Tulasī, or anyone, a pure devotee won't pray for anything else if he's got that higher sukṛti, śuddha bhakti, prema bhakti, the seed of prema bhakti. "Only Kṛṣṇa's pleasure, the pleasure of my Lord cent per cent." Unconscious of his own body, mind, everything. That is the type. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Do you understand?

Devotees: Yes Guru Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Gaura Hari. Mahāprabhu says,

[na dhanaṁ na janaṁ na sundarīṁ, kavitāṁ vā jagad-īśa kāmaye]

Something else, I forget the śloka, the gist is touched.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja. I have one question about Tulasī. The devotees here at the Maṭh, they say even if the japa-mālā is not real Tulasī Devī, when you touch, when you count the beads, you turn that japa-mālā into Tulasī Devī. My question is this, is it important to have japa-mālā of Tulasī Devī or not?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There is higher consideration, because, yasyātma-buddhiḥ kuṇape tridhātuke, sva dhī kalatrādiṣu bhauma ijya dhīḥ [yat tīrtha buddhiḥ salile na karhicij-, janesvabhijñeṣu sa eva gokharaḥ]

["One who believes this body, which is composed of mucus, bile, and air, is the self, who thinks of his wife and children as his bodily expansions, and who considers the land of his birth worshippable, who visits the holy places simply to go swimming, without seeking shelter of the holy saints who live there, is no better than a cow or an ass. His conception of reality is condemned."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.84.13]

What I really want to revere, if we consider them of this mundane thing that is offence, it is offence.

arcye viṣṇau śilā-dhīr [guruṣu nara-matir vaiṣṇave jātī-buddhir viṣṇor vā vaiṣṇavānāṁ kali-mala-mathane pāda-tīrthe 'mbu-buddhiḥ śrī-viṣṇor-nāmni-mantre sakala-kaluṣa-he śabda-sāmānya-buddhir
viṣṇau sarvveśvareśe tad-itara-sama-dhīr yasya vā nārakī saḥ]

["Anyone who considers the worshippable Deity of the Lord to be made out of wood, stone, or metal; who considers the Vaiṣṇava Guru to be a mortal man; who considers a Vaiṣṇava to be limited by the confines of caste, lineage, or creed; who considers the holy foot-wash of Lord Viṣṇu or a Vaiṣṇava to be ordinary water, although such water has the potency to destroy all evils of the age of Kali; who considers the Holy Name and mantra of Lord Viṣṇu, which vanquish all sins, to be common sound vibration; and who considers the God of gods, Lord Viṣṇu, to be merely on the level of the demigods - such a person is a diabolical devil."] [Padma-Purāṇa]

If we think that what we worship that is stone. Guruṣu nara-matir. Seeing Gurudeva to be a man. Vaiṣṇave jātī-buddhir. And if we see the Vaiṣṇava as brāhmaṇa, śudra, all these things. Viṣṇor vā vaiṣṇavānāṁ kali-mala-mathane pāda-tīrthe 'mbu-buddhiḥ. And the feet water, or the caranāmṛtam of Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, if we think that is water. Viṣṇau sarvveśvareśe tad-itara-sama-dhīr. And the Master of all, Lord of all, Viṣṇu, if we think one of many gods, then nārakī saḥ, we shall have to go straight to hell.

Yasyātma-buddhiḥ kuṇape tridhātuke, sva dhī kalatrādiṣu bhauma ijya dhīḥ, in Bhāgavatam. And that is in Padma-Purāṇa. Yasyātma-buddhiḥ kuṇape tridhātuke. In this body if one thinks he is the soul, identifying the soul with the body, tridhātuke. Sva dhī kalatrādiṣu. The wife, children, they're my own, if one thinks like that. Bhauma ijya dhīḥ. And our worshippable object is something material, if we think, bhauma ijya dhīḥ. Yat tīrtha buddhiḥ salile. And thinks this water is purifying, identifies purity with water, this material thing. Sa eva gokharaḥ. He may be considered as an ass which can be used only to carry the food of the cows, gokharaḥ. Kharaḥ means the ass that carries burden. Gokharaḥ means that cannot be utilised for the purpose of human utility, but only for the beast, very lower conception of beast.

So we're to take us out of identifying spiritual with material. Spiritual, that is necessary, not material. We're to understand the real position.

Rāvaṇa, he stole away Sītā Devī. And a devotee of the primary class was very much shocked to hear that. And when Mahāprabhu was a guest with that Rāmanūja devotee, he anyhow managed to give some food to Mahāprabhu and he himself observed fasting, and he's always bewailing.

Mahāprabhu told, "Why you don't take food?"

He told, "I want to die. I had to hear that my mother Janaki, Sītā Devī, She was stolen by a demon. I shall have to hear that in my ear? I want to die. I won't like to live any longer."

Then Mahāprabhu consoled him. "No, no, you don't think like that. Sītā Devī, She's Lakṣmī Devī Herself. She's cinmaya, She's consciousness personified, not body of any material stuff, this flesh and blood. Sītā Devī's body is not made of flesh and blood. So what to speak of Rāvaṇa to forcibly carry Her, Rāvaṇa even cannot touch, even cannot see Her. Sītā Devī is made of such stuff that Rāvaṇa he cannot see Her, cannot touch Her. This is the fact. Don't disturb your mind. This is the fact I say, you take prasādam."

Then he took prasādam.

Then Mahāprabhu went to further south and in one place He found that the devotees are reading Kūrma-Purāṇa. And there it is mentioned that when Rāvaṇa came to steal away Sītā, She took shelter into fire, and Māyā Sītā and the fire god gave some imitation Sītā to Rāvaṇa.

Then after killing Rāvaṇa, attaining victory, when Rāmacandra is taking Sītā from Laṅkā, Rāmacandra told that, "To prove Her chastity She must enter into blazing fire. Then if She can pass away from that test I shall accept Her. Otherwise She's for a whole year She's with the demon family, I can't trust Her chastity."

Then so many devotees they began to weep. But at the order of Rāmacandra the fire was ready and Sītā Devī had to enter into the fire. The fire quenched, Sītā Devī came out without any change, a smiling face. Devotees began to give jaya! "Sītā Devī kī jaya!" This was written in that Kūrma-Purāṇa.

Mahāprabhu asked the reader, "Please give Me that old page and put a new written page there. I found one brāhmaṇa he's too much troubled thinking that Sītā Devī was stolen by Rāvaṇa. I want to show this old page of this book to convince him it was not My consolation but you find it is already written in the śāstra that Sītā Devī, Rāvaṇa could not touch Her, that real Sītā Devī. She's consciousness personified, not matter, not any flesh and blood or anything, bone, only."

Just as a ghost can show his figure, a yogī can show his figure, but God won't be able to show such figure? He can do. By His will, "Let there be water." There was water. "Let there be light." There was light, there was water. His will is law. Whatever He wants to do at once that is done. And He will have to have a permanent flesh and blood body? At His will He can show anything as He likes. He's all spiritual, no touch of contamination of any mundane substance there. But still they can maintain. That eye is not this fleshy eye, Their eye, ear, everything is here but They're not.

Just as in dream this eye does not work, this ear does not work, but still we see, we feel, we work in dream. So in the mental plane are also these activities possible, so mind is also half material. Then transcending that there is pure spiritual world, and there also some spiritual eye, spiritual ears, spiritual mind, everything is spiritual it is possible. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In the war field when two tanks come to fight, one tank is pushing against another tank. The man within is safe. The tanks are moving like demons and one is pushing another, in this way, crashing. The man is within. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

So soul is within this body, and soul has got its own body, own plane of living, own food, everything of its own in the spiritual realm. This is perverted reflection. We're to aspire after that life. And purity depends on love, sacrifice. Love means sacrifice. Die to live. We're to die wholesale as our interested life here, and another sort of interest will awaken within us, and we shall live there in that plane.

That is our aspiration and for that we have left our houses, that concrete friends, the father, mother, son, child, the property, so many things left. And in quest of such life we're out. We have no charm, we have finished our charm for the mundane property, mundane things, and we're out to seek something which is super-mundane. Mundane means mortal, under mortality, every second it is dying, every second. On which we're depending through this body, wholesale is dying, passed, every second dying. So we want to be out of this death, this dying land, and if possible to live in a land where there's no death, amṛta, which is without death that is sweet.

Vaikuṇṭha and Goloka. In the consideration of infinite perspective conception, Vaikuṇṭha, kuṇṭha means limitation, Vaikuṇṭha means unlimited. To live in Vaikuṇṭha means to live in the relativity of the infinite whole. Again there is specification there, we can find when we enter and settle there, specification in different ways.

Just as these mundane things, suppose anything, an earthen doll, they can occupy some space. But if there is a flame, light, one light has got its own jurisdiction. Take another light, this light is intensified, that is also. But again withdraw that light, we can't say that this light only occupies this position, and that light that position, all mixed. That light withdrawn, one light is light, and light here and here mixed. The water hot and cold mixed together. And that may be removed, the light may be removed. Intensity may be less but that sort of limitation there is.

So in the infinite also, amongst the units there is also limitation of another type. That one light everywhere in the room, and another light also everywhere in the room. But still it has got, when removed some sort of form went away. So consciousness also may, conscious unit also may come and live together, and also go away. That is of another type, coming and going. And there also in Goloka it is just like here, all things seem to be limited, but not limited. We're told that it is managed by Yoga-Māyā for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. And here, this Kṛṣṇa is in its highest form of play.

Mahāprabhu told, Bhāgavata told, Svayaṁ Bhagavān, He's adjusted in a human way. The mode of life of the Lord in the highest position is very close to the human life.

kṛṣṇera yateka khelā, sarvottama nara-līlā, nara-vapu tāhāra svarūpa
[gope-veśa, veṇu-kara nava kiśora, nata-vara, nara līlāra haya anurūpa]

["Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa has many pastimes, of which His pastimes as a human being are the best. His form as a human being is the Supreme Transcendental Form. In this form, He is a cowherd boy. He carries a flute in His hand, and His youth is new. He is also an expert dancer. All this is just suitable for His pastimes as a human being."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 21.101]

That to the highest limit of the infinite that can, highest conception of the infinite can harmonise all things apparently limited. Apparently limited, but that also can be harmonised. The stealing, lying, and other things that are very objectionable, that also can be harmonised by the Absolute Good.

This is more beautiful, this is the most beautiful, that what seems to be defective, that also can be harmonised by the Absolute. That is the highest position of harmony which can harmonise even what seems to be unharmonisable, that is also harmonised. There is stealing, lying, deception, all these things. This is filthy, objectionable, evil, but evil things are also utilised in the harmony of the highest order. It is so good, nothing can be bad coming in its contact, like touchstone, whatever touches that turns into gold. Something like that. Whatever comes in His connection that is good, such goodness is the centre.

_____ [?] Not harmonise here, Kṛṣṇa līlā, full of immorality. But no morality, it is more than moral if it is connected with Absolute Good. His own thing He's stealing, what's bad? What is bad there? Own thing, everything is His own, or everything meant for His satisfaction. So that has finished everything.

That philosopher Hegel told, "Everything, Reality means everything for Itself." So He's the only enjoyer. You have got no right to give any remark. Who are you? As long as you think that your position is somewhat substantial and you give some opposition, you're nowhere, you're under māyā.

Cārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1]. He only knows for what purpose what is meant, what is created, only He is the knower, and He's svarāṭ, He's Absolute. We're to admit that, then we can live in a harmonious way. And as long as we shall think we can fight for our right, we're nowhere, we're in the jungle civilisation. Everything for Him, then He can be Absolute. And we're also for Him, not that He's for us. If we can think completely that we're for Him, then we can find only that He's for us also. Otherwise not, He's another party to compete, we make Him another party and we want to compete with Him. But in us there is a spirit within us, and full submission then we can find He's for us. We're for Him perfectly, then we can see He's for us. How beautiful, how beautiful to find our pleasure as a part dependent with His pleasure. Our freedom a part under His freedom. In this way connected we can find, then we can come in harmony, and we'll then be happy, otherwise not.

...

Suppose food is necessary. At that time if I go to write books that will be luxury. According to the necessity of the place the valuation of the service should be calculated. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

83.02.12.A

Devotee: Is the Guru a manifestation of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, or Nityānanda Prabhu? Depending on the rasa he's situated in, or depending on the disciple's attraction to a specific rasa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? Who are you?

Vidagdha Mādhava: This is Rasācārya Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's asking if the Guru is a manifestation, the Guru, it's in the śāstra, the Guru represents Nityānanda or Rādhārāṇī, depending on the rasa. So his question is, depending on the rasa he is situated in, does he represent Nityānanda, or Rādhārāṇī, or the disciples' taste, the disciples attraction to a specific rasa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: I don't follow.

Vidagdha Mādhava: The disciple is coming with an attraction, perhaps sākhya rasa, maybe mādhurya rasa, so...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In his development gradually it will come within, with the awakening of the soul from the identification of the body and mind. And even coming out of the renunciation tendency when in the service. Then the first way, whether in Vaikuṇṭha or in Goloka, first be decided that. If not he's satisfied after staying some time in Vaikuṇṭha, then he'll get connection of the higher sādhu, agent, and he'll be taken in the higher sphere. In Bṛhad-Bhāgavatāmṛta you might have read, it is clearly depicted there. Then gradually he will go somewhere else on the way to Ayodhyā, from there to Dwārakā, from there to Vṛndāvana. And according to the awakening in the heart, the environment will be tasteless gradually.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...Hydrabad Maṭh, he's the Ācārya of that Maṭh at present in ISKCON. He had a talk with Purnānanda and he told that, "I shall go to see Śrīdhara Mahārāja during Gaura Pūrṇimā ceremony."

He showed much cruel attitude towards Mādhava Mahārāja in Bombay Maṭh, or Vṛndāvana, Vṛndāvana also, or Bombay. Very rudely dealt with Mādhava Mahārāja and also another. But now a little change has come in him. Wants to be, he Trivikram Mahārāja to refute, but no necessity, it will be a waste of energy.

By Kṛṣṇa's will everything will be. Whatever He wants that will come.

So I have no idea in the beginning. Always I'm saying, "wait and see, wait and see, for a year or two, wait and see."

Then appealed to them for you to remove your grievance, appealed to them to remove your grievance.

Then I told, "Then all the affected people combined and give some ultimatum to them, combined ultimatum. 'If you don't take notice of our grievances, then we shall combine and we shall have to do our own way. Helping the disappointed, dejected, we shall form an association as a relief work. As a relief work we shall begin in an organised way. Those that are cast away, dissatisfied, disappointed, to collect them together and try to help them, may not go from the path of Swāmī Mahārāja, and Mahāprabhu and Kṛṣṇa consciousness.'"

And that was done gradually within fives years or so. Now if the Lord wishes it will thrive, otherwise what He wants that may take place.

I have not a mind to oppose them, organised opposition, no. Swāmī Mahārāja has done, by the grace of the Lord, in a short time such magnitude of great activity. That should not be given any opposition. Only a relief work like work, endeavour, relief work. According to the sukṛti, and the inner adaptability, the awakening which is effected by the circumstantial influence, with the awakening the inner soul as it comes to, comes out with some taste. And according to that taste he will adjust himself with the environment.

According to his internal taste he will find, "These are my own, this paraphernalia, these friends, this type of service, these seem to be my own, very, very tasteful according to taste."

You may kill some sort of food and some animals may be let loose, according to their choice they will take the food. So the awakened soul he will be able to select proper environment for him. Inner taste will guide him. "This is very charming, this is charming me, attracting my heart. I always seem to be helpless. I can't control me. So much attraction I feel for the particular scene."

In that way he'll be guided, intuition will direct him. What we say here to be intuition, there also intuition when undiscovered tendency in the self, that will come to him for selection. For acceptance, elimination and acceptance, selection and elimination, that will go with the sādhana. With the process of realisation, elimination and selection, that will come sādhana, slow, gradually it will come.

Why you have come? You are perhaps under Christianity? Mostly. What you have come, why Kṛṣṇa consciousness attracted your soul, your inner heart? You had some sort of conception of some religion, but why you left that? So many formalities, such association, so many friends within that circle, why you have left? Who takes you here in Kṛṣṇa consciousness? Where from you have come? Taking some risk, the country, the society, the religious conception, why you have left them and come forward for Kṛṣṇa consciousness as a general? That tendency will again push into the selection of different departments of service in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

"That inner tendency, inner liking, hankering, everything. This sort of service is very pleasing to me. I can't but associate with this sort of service."

That will be guide, cooperation with caitya-guru, the Guru inside, dictator inside. He's outside and inside. When we cannot catch the dictation of the inside caitya-guru we want some guidance from the mahāntaḥ-guru outside, and scripture. And when we reach a certain stage from there our ruci may guide us. Our inner dictating tendency, that may guide us like intuition. As birds, beast, they're guided by intuition.

Devotee: Mahārāja, it seems that there are so many of our Godbrothers who are leaving the association of ISKCON, but yet they're still not coming to hear from you.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's saying many devotees have left the ISKCON movement. They're finding reasons not to come.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. It is not very easy thing to swallow. So many difficulties in the way, the previous tendency, and also the possibility of offences in the choice of free will. In the choice of free will, the defect is there, it is not a perfect thing. Sādhana means acceptance and elimination, but in there also so many difficulties and disturbances. From the past tendency they do not allow us.

"I know it is true, but my previous tendency won't allow me to accept and to undergo that penances or pain that is necessary for the service."

So many difficulties in upaśākhā, just as, bhāgyavān jīva guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde.

[brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva, guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

["If a devotee commits an offence at the feet of a Vaiṣṇava while cultivating the creeper of devotional service in the material world, his offence is compared to a mad elephant that uproots the creeper and breaks it. In this way the leaves of the creeper are dried up. The gardener must defend the creeper by fencing it all around so that the powerful elephant of offences may not enter. Sometimes unwanted creepers, such as the creepers of desires for material enjoyment and liberation from the material world, grow along with the creeper of devotional service. The varieties of such unwanted creepers are unlimited. Some unnecessary creepers growing with the bhakti creeper are creepers of behaviour unacceptable for those trying to attain devotional perfection, diplomatic behaviour, animal killing, mundane profiteering, mundane adoration, and mundane importance. All these are unwanted creepers. If one does not distinguish between the bhakti-latā creeper and the other creepers, the sprinkling of water is misused because the other creepers are nourished while the bhakti-latā creeper is curtailed."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.156-160]

The creeper of devotion, it becomes a sprout and gradually grows. But Kavirāja Goswāmī says here, the creeper is there, main creeper of devotion, but there are so many weeds. They get that watering, nursing, and so many weeds may also grow along with the main creeper of devotion. What are they?

Latāra saṅge uṭhe 'upaśākhā'. 'Lābha', 'pūjā', 'pratiṣṭhādi' yata upaśākhā-gaṇa. The question of lābha, gain, very apparent gain, something, mainly position. Otherwise the appreciation creates so many enemies. Growth means creates some enemies also, come previous, some new enemies come. Śākhā, lābha, pūjā, to gain maybe for money, to the love of women, then pratiṣṭha, the hankering for fame, popularity. So many things may come when one is going up. So many difficulties come on the way to check him.

And we're to remove them consciously. So many difficulties come on the way. And we're to save us from so many so called enemies of our aspiration with the help of Guru, and sādhu, and scripture, our own sincerity, and then gradually we shall grow. As much as we shall grow, there also we shall find some other difficulty. So the path is not full of roses, you may think, it is a difficult path to walk on.

Then as much as we go nearer to the goal we become more and more free. In the beginning variegated difficulties come to take us. Our previous karma-phala, tendencies of different type, they chase us to keep us within their jurisdiction. But when anyhow meeting these difficulties, passing them, conquering them, if we can go and make some progress, go further, as much as we shall go higher, difficulties will be lessened. But still some sort will follow, especially pratiṣṭha, so,

tṛṇād api sunīcena, taror api sahiṣṇunā / amāninā mānadena, [kīrtanīyaḥ sadā hariḥ]

["One who is humbler than a blade of grass, more forbearing than a tree, who gives due honour to others without desiring it for himself is qualified to always chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 3]

When wandering in the path we shall be well equipped with these healthy mood, then less opposition we shall have to meet. Tṛṇād api sunīcena. Humbler than a blade of grass. So I won't allow myself to be a cause of any hitch with the environment, first nature, mood.

Second, sahiṣṇunā, taror api. Still if attack comes from outside I shall try to forbear it silently without giving any opposition.

Amāninā. I won't try to have any popularity, any good name or fame I won't hanker. At the same time I shall have to give proper respect to the environment, to everyone that are in the environment outside. We shall offer respect, but we don't draw any respect, we won't desire any respect from outside. In this way we shall try to go on our way. Then there'll be less difficulty we'll have to face.

Again, when we're in a mission, an organisation, then under the guidance of the higher realised soul, then you can face many dangers. When you go to preach, so many difficulties you'll have to face. But with the help of the higher guidance we can fight, we can subdue them, or we can invite them to be higher leaders. In this way we can give opposition for opposition. Preaching means offensive for offensive, we shall attack there. At that time we shall not take that we shall give no opposition to the outside, sahiṣṇunā, very patient. No. When we're engaged in preaching as soldiers, we shall approach and face opposition, and I shall try to disarm him. But if he can't I shall invite him to be disarmed to my Guru, to be disarmed. In this way I shall go on, carrying the orders of the Vaiṣṇava. There if I'm wounded also by the local environment, but my spiritual stamina will increase by obeying the order of the higher agent, Vaiṣṇava, Hari's pada, and sevā, thereby I shall be more benefited.

Vaiṣṇave pratiṣṭha. I won't want any popularity from the ordinary public, they're all almost insane. But I want position in the eye of the Masters, of my Gurudeva. "Yes, he's an encouraging boy, he will prosper." When they will look on me with some affection of encouragement, that will be my capital. Their liking for me, that will be my capital. Their good will, that will be my capital in my way towards, passing my way towards higher realm.

But when we're alone in a solitary place, we're going on with chanting the Name, then also of course this tṛṇād api sunīcena must be strictly observed. But when fighting under a general in a preaching campaign, our attitude should be a little different. More towards carrying out the order of the higher spiritual general. That will be more, love, more gaining.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, Badrīnārāyaṇa Prabhu's just arrived.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Badrīnārāyaṇa Prabhu, is it? Suddenly fell from the sky? Where is Anurādhā?

Badrīnārāyaṇa: She's still in Canada.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Canada? Not well?

Badrīnārāyaṇa: She's well, but some more tests, examinations have to be done on her. She should come in a month.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So progress is very slow, but improving, but it may take time? She may not join Mahāprabhu's birth celebration?

Badrīnārāyaṇa: She will try.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Will, try, then you will have to go back again?

Badrīnārāyaṇa: Only to Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: To take her, or anyone will come?

Badrīnārāyaṇa: Only to Calcutta, she will come to Calcutta alone, and from Calcutta...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course it will be easy to take her from there. All right. Now, where from you are coming? From Calcutta? You have not eaten anything, prasādam? Go wash your hand and feet and take some prasādam, then I shall talk with you further. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

...

Devotee: We've seen sometimes a disciple, a devotee go into māyā after...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Previous tendencies always trying to draw back. The acquired tendency when we're wandering in this world, we're acquiring so many, earned as a reaction. Whatever action we're doing we're incurring some opposite reaction. So they're in very subtle forms stored in our minds, and whenever I shall going back, they'll draw from that side. So it is not so easy that whenever I like to do anything, smoothly I shall do. It is not possible.

So many things, attraction for different things they will, "Where do you go? Wait for me. You have taken this loan from me, and please clear the loan and then you go." So many things in the environment will come and stand in our way. "Where do you go? Clear my loan, and then I shall allow you to go." Hundreds and thousands may come to flock on the way. So it is not very easy to go away. We must have strength, and above all we must have some divine favour.

Mama māyā duratyayā in Bhagavad-gītā [7.14], "She is My potency, that māyā potency, illusory potency, misconception, that also backed by Me."

[daivī hy eṣā guṇamayī, mama māyā duratyayā mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te]

["This 'trimodal,' supernatural, (alluring) deluding energy of Mine is practically insurmountable. However, those who fully surrender exclusively unto Me can certainly surpass this formidable fantasy."]

"So at your sweet will you will defeat her, it is not possible. If you go to fight with her alone you will be defeated, _____ [?] number. But if you have some certificate, some recommendation from Me, then the māyā, the misunderstanding, will be reduced, and sometimes show the way to get out. Mama māyā duratyayā mām eva ye prapadyante. So if you surrender to Me, and that is sincere, then the māyā will not be courageous enough to give opposition to you. Because when she can know that you have got My backing she will eagerly withdraw."

And even when a jīva soul is liberated, māyā comes with a very submissive attitude. "Oh, why do you leave me, my lord? Please stay with me. I shall try to please you in all respects. Why do you leave me?" In this way the nitya jīva comes to the status of a Śiva, Mahādeva, when liberated. Then māyā offers him, "Why do you leave, my lord? You stay here with me, I shall serve you, try to satisfy you according to my mind." In this way.

And when under māyā, within her clutches, she plays with him like anything, can't, don't allow him to go away. So many loans he has got here, there.

"From time eternal you're roaming, wandering within my domain and incurring debt. Wherever you are you're eating, and you're seeking comfort, help from many ways. And that is getting loan from me, and that loan must be cleared. In different, innumerable stages you've made loan. Clear it off."

So it is not a very easy thing. Only when backed by the divinity, higher power than māyā, then māyā becomes gentle, does not come forward with much difficulty, disturbance.

Mām eva ye prapadyante, māyām etāṁ taranti te. "Who comes to surrender to Me, and I accept his surrender, yes, you are Mine, when he's wholesale devoted and surrendered and I accept, yes I accept you, then māyā can't disturb him. Because she knows that he's backed by his Master, his Lord. Her Lord is backing these things, so she becomes servant."

So the sādhaka, according to the degree of his surrender, according to the degree of the acceptance coming from higher, recommendation coming from higher, his progress will depend. Not a very easy thing, but who are sincere, they get recommendation from above.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate]
na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

When sincerely one is _____ [?], then the Lord is omniscient, He sees everything, He comes for his sympathy and then his way is clear, in accordance with His sincere servitors. That is the only way, śaraṇāgati, surrender.

Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta, ambrosia, to hear so many stories, tales, of the surrendered devotees we're encouraged to surrender ourselves and we get the chance. In Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta there are many quotations from very dignified sādhus, saints, and if you go through that then you'll get encouragement within. "So many devotees in so many different stages, they're speaking like this, their feeling sentiment is like this." By all this we must feel much encouragement to surrender. And if we can surrender, encouraged by their example, then according to the surrender the relief comes from above. Śaraṇāgati, that is the only thing.

So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written Śaraṇāgati, a very, Bengali book. That is translated also by me. That is a very nice book for devotional life. And in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta I have also collected many valuable passage from many sayings and put together, in classification, systematically. That will help us greatly.

One of my Godbrothers, very senior Godbrother, he told me once that, "You have written Śaraṇāgati, every day I read one chapter." He's perhaps the senior most of all our Godbrothers, Paramānanda. At the age of thirteen he came to our Guru Mahārāja. Paramānanda Brahmacārī, he told me, "The others read one chapter of Bhagavad-gītā every day, but I read your Prapanna- jīvanāmṛta, one chapter every day. Because so many sayings of so many great devotees are very beautifully arranged and placed there...

_____ [?]"

Perhaps he was the earliest disciple of our Guru Mahārāja, senior disciple, Paramānanda.

Ambrosia. Hare Kṛṣṇa. I wrote while in a cottage _____ [?] there was a cottage, in 1942 [?] I entered into cottage here, and I compiled here, forty years ago. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, I just have a personal question I would like to ask. I came over here intending to stay till Gaura Pūrnimā and have your association. But I'm wondering lately if I'll be able to stay that long?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. You will have to do some service, and sometimes staying here, sometimes doing service. To stay is not a physical thing. Body may be far away, but we may stay nearby only by our submission. Submission of a soul to another soul means association, and not bodily association, the attitude. The attitude of a soul to another soul, that means the real association, not bodily closeness is association.

Mahāprabhu told Rūpa Goswāmī. Rūpa Goswāmī wanted to stay with Mahāprabhu in Purī. Mahāprabhu told, "No. You go to Vṛndāvana. What I say, do that, then you will be with Me. But you will come to thrust your own whim on Me, that does not mean that you are coming and living in My association."

So souls' association not barred by any physical distance, material distance. Only submission, our attitude of submission, that takes us to a particular soul. Physically he may be far away, but he will be near only when he's earnest to receive His direction in that mood. Then only he can associate. Physically two may live together, but of different type, different thought, different mentality. So it is necessary sometimes to stay. Always eating does not give nourishment, but eating in suitable time, that can give nourishment. So taking something and distributing that, then someone again to take capital and to distribute, in this way, Śravaṇa kīrtana, śravaṇa kīrtana, to listen to and to give vent to that feeling. From the higher capitalist to take something and to give to the lower. Again vacant, again to take, again, in this way transaction should be made.

So, John Edmondson, what does he say? He may reach here before the last week of February we may expect? Today's the eleventh or twelfth? Twelfth.

...

Devotee: ...the Name of Kṛṣṇa at least once. But the following year he says that a Vaiṣṇava is somebody who always chants the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Then I don't understand very well why he gave two different answers to the same question. Could you please explain?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. I don't remember the narration very clearly, but I have some hazy recollection why he'll repeat it. First here the Kulingrami people, they approached him and put the question, "Whom should I understand to be a Vaiṣṇava?"

Then he first told that, "Wherever you will find a single Name of Kṛṣṇa in the lips, you may take him as Kṛṣṇa's."

Then again they put the same question. Then he told, "When you find, without stopping, incessantly one is taking the Name of Kṛṣṇa, you will know him as a real devotee, and you will try to serve him."

Third time told, "If you find anyone, a devotee of Kṛṣṇa, by whose sight you feel to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa, then he will be the highest type of devotee of Kṛṣṇa."

These three classes he divided. But the Name must be free of offence, not nāmābhāsa or nāma-aparādha. If you find a single Name, real Name, pure spiritual Name, in the lips of any gentleman you will take him as a devotee of Kṛṣṇa. This is kaniṣṭha-adhikārī.

And the next higher, intermediate, whenever you find one is taking, try to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa always, then you will try, if you find such person who tries to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa almost always, a tendency, you will try to serve him and there you will be benefited good.

And if it is possible in your fortune, fortunately if you can find any Vaiṣṇava such, that whenever you come to see him you find excitement in you to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa.

yāṅhāra darśane mukhe āise kṛṣṇa-nāma [tāṅhāre jāniha tumi 'vaiṣṇava-pradhāna']

[Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu said, "A first-class Vaiṣṇava is he whose very presence makes others chant the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 16.74]

Whenever you come to his association, you feel a tendency within you to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. Then if you find that type of devotee then you will try your best to do anything for him, that he's saying.

Three classes of devotion, we find in Bhāgavata in one type.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ

["A devotee who faithfully worships the Deity, but does not properly respect the Vaiṣṇavas or the people in general is called a materialistic devotee, and is considered to be in the lowest position of devotional service."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.47]

And,

īśvare tad-adhīneṣu, bāliśeṣu dviṣatsu ca
prema-maitri-kṛpopekṣa, yaḥ karoti sa madhyamaḥ

["The devotee in the intermediate stage of devotional service is called a madhyama-adhikārī. He loves the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is a sincere friend to all the devotees of the Lord, shows mercy to the innocent and disregards the envious."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.46]

And,

sarva bhūteṣu yaḥ paśyed, bhagavad bhāvam ātmanaḥ
bhūtāni bhagavaty ātmany, eṣa bhāgavatottamaḥ

["A person advanced in devotional service sees within everything the soul of souls, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Consequently they always see Kṛṣṇa everywhere and in everything. One who is situated on the topmost platform of devotional service is known as an uttama-bhāgavata."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.45]

Three classes of devotion according to Bhāgavata is here. And another in Purāṇa.

surarṣe vihitā śāstre harimuddiśa yā kriyā saiva bhaktiriti proktā tayā bhaktiḥ parā bhaved

["O sage amongst the demigods - Nārada! Those activities prescribed in the revealed scriptures for satisfying the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Śrī Hari, are called the regulative principles of bhakti (sādhana-bhakti), by which practising one may attain the highest bhakti (prema-bhakti)."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.13]

This third class, beginner. And the second class, laukikī vaidhikī vāpi yākriyākriyate mune hari-sevānukulaiva sā kārya bhaktim-icchātā

["O great sage! If one aspires for devotional service one should perform all one's activities, whether they are mundane or Vedic, in such a way that is favourable for the service of Śrī Hari."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.93] [from Nārada-Pañcarātra]

This is middle class, and,

īhā yasya harer dāsye, karmaṇā manasā girā nikhilāsv apy avasthāsu, jīvan-muktaḥ sa ucyate

["A person acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, in the service of Kṛṣṇa, with his body, mind, intelligence and words is a liberated person, even within the material world, although he may be engaged in many so-called material activities."] [Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.187]

The highest class, this is also a type, Bhāgavata classification, this Purāṇic classification, tantric. And also Mahāprabhu's classification, only within a limited, within those who take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. And here, in general. That we shall deal with one day in details, not today.

Now, what's the time? I feel tired. So I close...

83.02.13.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In his last days our Guru Mahārāja used to say, every now and then, "Religion is proper adjustment." We're improperly adjusted with the environment, that is the trouble. So,

prāpañcikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ
mumukṣubhiḥ parityāgo, vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate.

[anāsaktasya viṣayān, yathārham upayuñjataḥ
nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate]

["That renunciation which is practised by those desirous of impersonal liberation and rejects things in connection with Śrī Hari, thinking them to be material, is called phālgu-vairāgya, external or false renunciation."]

["That renunciation in which there is no attachment for the objects of the senses, but in which everything is seen in relationship to Kṛṣṇa and all things are engaged in His service is called yukta-vairāgya, or practical renunciation."] [Padma-Purāṇa]&[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.125-6]

As recommended by the Buddhists, or Śaṅkarites, the salvationists, "That give up everything and reduce yourself to zero. Give up connection with everything, and as in deep sleep, so you're to reduce yourself to that stage. That is the perfect."

But this has been rejected hatefully by the Vaiṣṇava, specially the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava, those that are under the direction of Mahāprabhu. This is phalgu, or temporary, phalgu means which is apparent. Near Gayā there is a river whose name is Phalgu. That is, whenever we remove the sand from the bed of the river we can see the current is passing underground, but on the bed it is all sand, phalgu. So renunciation cannot be complete, it may be, however long time, still it is temporary.

ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas, tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ
āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ

[(Someone may say that aside from Vaiṣṇavas, who always seek shelter at the Lord's lotus feet, there are those who are not Vaiṣṇavas but who have accepted different processes for attaining salvation. What happens to them? In answer to this question, Lord Brahmā and the other demigods said,)

"O lotus-eyed Lord, although non-devotees who accept severe austerities and penances to achieve the highest position may think themselves liberated, their intelligence is impure. Although they may rise to the level of impersonal Brahman realisation, they fall down from their position of imagined superiority because they neglect to worship Your lotus feet."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.32]

In Bhāgavatam this śloka, the Brahmā in his hymns, addressing to Kṛṣṇa.

Ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas. "Oh You lotus eyed. Ye 'nye 'ravindākṣa vimukta-māninas. Those that can conceive themselves completely disassociated with their environment, completely disassociated, disconnected from the environment, completely liberated, emancipated. Mānina, they think like that, but actually it is impossible. Vimukta-māninas, they think themselves that they're perfectly independent of the environment, as if in sound sleep. But sound sleep is not a permanent thing. The reaction will come from the seed, and the sprout will come again. Inevitable.

Tvayi asta-bhāvād aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ. Their calculation is wrong totally, because they have not counted You, their counting is independent, they and the environment. But You are there to harmonise both, to keep connection with both the parties. They forget that, they can't understand that. If they can find that centre, then they can understand that their relation, the environment and his relation is not in his hand. It is in the hand of the Absolute, and it is unavoidable. It is not in their hand, it depends. And his position is an organic part, not an independent part from the environment, but his position is an organic part. So he and he has common relation there and management comes from there whether united or separated, or how related or not related, all that depends on the centre and not on them. They cannot negotiate independently, or discuss, or adjust independently of Him.

Tvayi asta-bhāvād. Because they do not count You they're on the - between You and them there is a wall, they cannot pierce the wall and understand the barrier, cannot break the barrier and come in connection with You, so they commit such wrong.

Aviśuddha-buddhayaḥ. What is their ultimate position, realistic position is what?

Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ. After much trouble they rise up to the highest point of liberation.

Āruhya kṛcchreṇa paraṁ padaṁ tataḥ, patanty adho 'nādṛta-yuṣmad-aṅghrayaḥ. And from there they do not count the upper relation and the adjustment with the main centre. All these calculations omitted, so they have to fall back again, hurled down for this mistake.

So we're not to shun, not to abandon anything, but we're to come to a satisfactory, harmless adjustment. Not only harmless, but the adjustment that can give our fulfilment of life. This is phalgu-vairāgya, and what is yukta-vairāgya, just the opposite.

prāpañcikatayā buddhyā, hari-sambandhi-vastunaḥ

mumukṣubhiḥ parityāgo, vairāgyaṁ phalgu kathyate.

Apparent, not real, undercurrent, in the very subtle most plane there we cannot detect. So who can detect that, that from revealed plane, from God's, who can see anything and everything, from His, the real prospect, He is coming through Veda, revealed scripture. What is that?

anāsaktasya viṣayān, yathārham upayuñjataḥ
nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe, yuktaṁ vairāgyam ucyate

Only you will have no greed to enjoy the environment, anāsaktasya, you must not have any particular tendency to enjoy it. But the thing is not to be blamed, your enjoyable tendency is blameable. So you must withdraw your enjoying tendency, that you are master of the thing, you can enjoy it in your own satisfaction. That sort of tendency must be withdrawn. Anāsaktasya viṣayān.

Yathārham upayuñjataḥ. And you are required to behave with them properly. And what is that properly? That is in connection with the calculation of the central interest. Neither you can enjoy, nor can you reject. A function between you and the environment is fixed already by His will. Ha, ha You can't change it. That thing belongs to Him. You also belong to Him. And how you are to deal with your endeavour that is also already prearranged, and you can't evade that. Only you are to be in re-adjusted position.

Anāsaktasya viṣayān. No local interest should be imposed. Yathārham upayuñjataḥ. Just proper, independent of you and He, the central, the real function between, relation between, that must be awakened, a real transaction. Yathārham upayuñjataḥ nirbandhaḥ kṛṣṇa-sambandhe. And what is the key to that, the test, the criterion? Kṛṣṇa-sambandhe. How you can utilise the environment for the service of Kṛṣṇa. You are a servant, and here is the object of service, you can't reject that. You are bound to utilise the object for the service of your Lord. You are a servant, and this is the object of service. It is not meant for you. At the same time it is not so that you can reject them and you can live independently without anything. This is also artificial life. It is not truth. So whatever is helpful for the service of the Lord, we must take care about those things, that they may not be lost, may not be missed.

What is necessary for the service of Kṛṣṇa, we must be attentive to the protection of that thing. That indifference, to protect things, which may be utilised in the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is no devotion. Sometimes we may think we have adopted the way to get out of this mundane world. Why should we be so much particular about these things? As much as possible we shall try, to keep things that are necessary for the service of Kṛṣṇa, properly. Proper attention should be given, to anything and everything, only for the purpose of the service of Kṛṣṇa.

Both exploitation and renunciation, both is bad, both is unnatural, both is unwholesome. And no fulfilment can be reached by either method, exploitation or renunciation. We're to be initiated in this angle of vision of life. This is Goloka. Everything may be harmonised by Him. He's so good, so great. Nothing coming in His contact can be wrong. It is only wrong when it is in contact with things that are defective. So nothing, everything is all right, if it is in connection, one condition, if for Kṛṣṇa. Everything is for Him. Everything is for Him. When deviation from that point, there is anomaly, derangement, and reaction, and misery. Misery is the outcome of māyā, that miscalculation, misrepresentation, miscalculation. It comes as the outcome of miscalculation.

And proper calculation, and to follow that, that is devotion. And that very life, nature is dedication, and dedication towards the centre, and the Absolute centre, and nothing less than that, that will fetch local value. Nothing less than Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. Other demigods they're also local, their position is also provincial, local. Kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam.

[ete cāṁśa-kalāḥ puṁsaḥ, kṛṣṇas tu bhagavān svayam indrāri-vyākulaṁ lokaṁ, mṛḍayanti yuge yuge]

["All the above-mentioned incarnations are either plenary portions or portions of the plenary portions of the Lord, but Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the original Personality of Godhead. All of them appear on planets whenever there is a disturbance created by the atheists. The Lord incarnates to protect the theists."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.3.28]

The Absolute Reality the Beauty. Everything is justified when it is meant for Him, His satisfaction. Then there is one thing we have to understand, and we must try to follow, this is devotion. Goloka. Criterion is this, and this is the test. We shall try to examine, how for, it is meant for Kṛṣṇa, for His satisfaction. Of course that depends on our stage of realisation.

Otherwise anything we may think, "Oh this is for Krsna's satisfaction. Kṛṣṇa is satisfied." I have done something and I may say, utter the words. "Yes Kṛṣṇa is satisfied."

Ha. My mere statement won't be exactly what is with Him. The Absolute position is there and we are to realise our position, that is sādhana. By the help of the saints, as well as the scriptures, revealed, and saint and scripture of different types.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

It is not a relative thing, it is absolute, and all relative positions, we shall have to learn to eliminate, and understand what is absolute. What is absolute, how it is absolute? We're to learn that, gradually, by progressing in a proper line, proper method, accepting, sādhana. This śravaṇa, varaṇa, sādhana, āpana, prapanna, five stages in our development of our realisation. And both the scripture, sādhu, śāstra, guru vākya, cittete koriyā aikya, [Śrī Guru-vandanā, 2] three things must come to prove that one thing. The saint, opinion of a saint, and the scripture, and ones hearty response. Hṛdayenābhyanujñāto [Manu-saṁhita, 2.1] The approval of the inner heart, with the opinion of the revealed scripture, and also which we'll be given, directed, or dictation of a proper saint. And the saint can be found only by the help of the scripture. And the scriptures meaning also will come from the saint, proper. They're inter-dependent.

We're to face that, the ultimate guidance, our sukṛti. Brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva. It is our good fortune, if we acquire sukṛti, that will guide me. Birds of the same feather flock together. It will carry me towards proper place. I'll be able to meet that and by comparison I'll be able to understand what degree of truth is where, the conception, the truth, absolute truth, and relative truth. What is the criterion of the Absolute Truth? How it is absolute? All these things to be understood by the reference of the scriptures, sādhu, and one's inner approval, heart's approval.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

Every step we're doing that, always eliminating and accepting, elimination and nomination, acceptance. Every time we're in progress, dismissing something and accepting another thing, always. This is progress, this is life, this is dynamic in character. And sometimes also if we are cursed, we may go down, more to down, down, down, that also happens in this world. Always everything going up, and no setback, it is not so, there is setback also. So the caution is given there in the śāstra, the aparādha, the error, the negligence, the idleness, so many things that may push us down. We must be cautious of the fact.

It is not a question of blind faith. The understanding is also possible, to apply here. And that will be astonished, your understanding will be astonished finding new things, things of new order. Gītā says.

āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam, āścaryavad vadati tathaiva cānyaḥ
āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti, śrutvāpy enaṁ veda na caiva kaścit

["Some see the soul as astonishing, some describe him as astonishing, and some hear of him as astonishing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.29]

The most wonderful, your own self is also wonderful, what to speak of Paramātmā, and Nārāyaṇa, and Kṛṣṇa. Your own soul, your personification proper, that is also of wonderful conception. Āścaryavat paśyati kaścid enam. When you come to conceive one's soul. "Oh how wonderful type of existence it is. So diabolically opposite to these material and mental things." Āścaryavat paśyati. Āścaryavad vadati. And when one begins to give description about the soul, he's also charmed, enchanted. "What am I saying? Can I say? Can I give vent to it properly, about the soul proper which I myself am?" Āścaryavac cainam anyaḥ śṛṇoti. Those who come to hear, they're also astounded. "What is this? Such strange things we have never heard before. Such thing is possible? Ātmā, eternal, all knowledge, all pure and eternal. Without food it can continue. A member of the eternal plane. How is it possible? And it is an understanding principle, an atom that can understand himself, and that can understand others also."

Our Guru Mahārāja used to give some example, many a time I have mentioned. A boy is born in a dark cell, then someone has come to tell him. "You come out, I shall show you the sun. It is very wonderful, the sun."

Then the boy will take a light, a candle with him.

"No, no. Why do you take the candle?"

"Without candle how can I see the sun?"

"No, no. To see the sun candle is not necessary."

"You are be-fooling me. Without help of candle nothing can be seen, and you say the sun can be seen by the sun, without candle. I don't trust."

Then he'll be forcibly taken.

"Oh! Sun is seen by his own light. Not only that, sun can show the whole thing, me, you, others, all things can be shown by the sun only. Is it possible?"

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.22.34 says.] Ātmā is self effulgent, it can show itself, it can show others. Only devoid of it, we are suffering from suspicion, and half knowledge, and ignorance. But when we can come to ātmā, we can feel ātmā by his own self. And at the same time by the standard of that light, we can comparatively know what is non ātmā, what is not soul. That also can be understood indirectly by feeling the position of ātmā.

Any concentrated energy, if anywhere to be invested, it is only in this, for this campaign, in searching for your own self. First, the beginning, the start of your energetic movement must begin from here. Try to understand you, your own self, your own ātmā, of what nature it is. Then you are to seek out what things will be necessary for the upliftment or development for that thing. Otherwise all false engagement. Know who you are and what is the demand, then you'll know ātmā wants Paramātmā. He's hankering to come in connection with Paramātmā. And higher type of ātmā there is. And that is generally said the plane of God, but partial.

Then there is, the yogīs are after that. Then there is devotion of Nārāyaṇa, Vasudeva, Brahmā, Nārāyaṇa. And supreme most position is held by Kṛṣṇa consciousness, Kṛṣṇa conception. The Autocrat. Absolute Good. Reality the Beautiful. The beauty, the sweetness, the charm, all charming. Ha, ha, ha. Struck dumb, seeing His charm, the centre of charm. Attraction is charming, beauty is charming everything and has made possible, cosmos out of chaos. Charm, beauty, that has given the very life of cosmos. Kṛṣ - ṇa. Attract, attraction, and He has reaction, to satisfaction. Attraction and satisfaction, that is the coming and going, attraction and giving, rendering satisfaction. Kṛṣ - ṇa, Kṛṣ means to attract, and ṇa means dealing in satisfaction, action reaction. The Absolute centre. That is Kṛṣṇa, with His paraphernalia.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, if someone is attracted for a long time to a particular rasa but is not fully satisfied, then can he aim for another rasa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. No question of selection, rather it is automatic. Ha, ha, ha, ha. They can't hold him back. The inner tendency, attraction will be such they can't avoid. His own nature, what to do? It is not a dress that I shall reject something and take up another, put on. Not like a garment, putting on and putting off. It's coming from within, out of necessity, the adjustment cannot but come.

Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.
Nitāi Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Dayal Nitāi.

Mahāprabhu was satisfied with Emperor Pratāprudra when He found that the king has engaged himself in a very mean service, that of a sweeper. The king is doing the service of a sweeper attracted Him most. He Himself, when Guṇḍicā Mārjana, Jagannātha will come to Guṇḍicā, Mahāprabhu with His party, in His uttariyam He's collecting the dust and He's throwing it outside, then washing. Jagannātha will come.

So nothing is neglected, but we're attracted, when with those menial service, we have got much, we can attract the attention of the high. So nothing is insignificant when it is connected with Him. Still there is gradation, gradation is there. Sincere beginning of the service must have always tendency to go towards lower side. But by Kṛṣṇa's will they'll be accepted for higher satisfaction. But the devotee's tendency will always be to go to the mean services, so called, not anything is mean, but so called mean.

[Śrīla Raghunātha] Dāsa Goswāmī says, "I want the service of a servant. And I want to show my reverence towards sākhya, friendly service."

sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam / dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

"The sākhya-rasa, the confidential service, I'm not fit for that. I always try to revere that, to show my reverence. And I shall try to, if possible, if accepted, to do the meanest service. If I get that engagement, I'm rewarded more than anything."

So full satisfaction, that should be the attitude.

But Kṛṣṇa will take him up. "No, do, to serve Me in this way."

Then what to do? We have to do that. According to the rasa it is such, for us. And those that are eternal friends, they won't go that side, won't admit. Ha, ha. A part and parcel, and surcharged with Yoga-Māyā. With the spirit of that particular service of that particular level, surcharged, injection by Yoga-Māyā. And Kṛṣṇa is pleased by that aggression. By the aggression of the friends, He's pleased, when it is manipulated by Yoga-Māyā. But we should not be puffed up in that way. We're beginners, not nitya-siddha, sādhana- siddha line. Non realised have come to realise. So our nature should be favoured that they're showing Dāsa Goswāmī Prabhu. Always try to go downwards.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi. Nitāi. Nitāi.

Nityānanda Prabhu, He broke the daṇḍam into three parts. "Mahāprabhu My Lord, He will carry you daṇḍa, I won't tolerate, I can't tolerate that My Lord will carry you in His hand."

And some say that He broke it into three parts, into tri-daṇḍam, not eka-daṇḍam of māyāvādī, but tri-daṇḍa of the Vaiṣṇava sannyāsīn. Any question?

Devotee: Did Nityānanda Prabhu and Caitanya Mahāprabhu appear at the same time? Or was Nityānanda Prabhu older? Did He appear before?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That you will find in the books. Nityānanda Prabhu was almost twelve years older than Mahāprabhu, nearly. And Acyutānanda was that Advaita's last son, youngest son, he was more younger, Acyutānanda. When Mahāprabhu took sannyāsa and went to visit Śantipura, at that time Acyutānanda was about five years child. So nearly nineteen years junior than Mahāprabhu, and Nityānanda twelve years elder than Mahāprabhu. So thirty one years older is Nityānanda Prabhu than Acyutānanda. Acyutananda's the youngest son of Advaita Ācārya.

What makes you to ask this Acyutānanda and Nityãnanda's age?

Devotee: No, it was not Acyutānanda. It was Caitanya Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu. Because I read in Adi-līlā...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Nearly twelve years elder, Nityānanda Prabhu. When Nityānanda came to Navadwīpa, at that time - twelve years. Mahāprabhu began saṅkīrtana, and Nityānanda Prabhu came here. For twenty two years. Ten years or twelve years elder, something like that. Nityānanda Prabhu after visiting all the holy places of pilgrimage, then He joined Navadwīpa līlā. And He was disciple of Mādhavendra Purī, Godbrother of Īśvara Purī, Mahāprabhu's Gurudeva.

Nityānanda Prabhu, Advaita Prabhu, They're all Godbrothers to Īśvara Purī, whose disciple was Mahāprabhu, Śrī Caitanya Deva. This is all show to us, līlā.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Guru Mahārāja, it's said that Swāmī Mahārāja he was attracted to sākhya rasa.
He was writing as if his līlā was sākhya rasa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sākhya rasa. I do not know what he has written, but I found it such position from his only one letter, what he wrote when he was going to America.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Yes, that's the poem.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That letter has been given to me and I read that, and from there I could suppose that his position, he's satisfied with that sākhya līlā. He mentions there that his Gurudeva is Rādhārāṇī, mādhurya rasa. And he's asking Kṛṣṇa's help, in his discharging the duty which is ordered by Rādhārāṇī, given by Rādhārāṇī to him.

He says that, "Rādhārāṇī will be satisfied if You help me in my carrying out the orders of Rādhārāṇī."

For the preaching purpose he's begging the help of Kṛṣṇa in his campaign, because Rādhārāṇī will be satisfied, and his Gurudeva is representing Rādhārāṇī.

That is mentioned there. From there I conjecture.

And what playfully he has mentioned there. "After finishing this job, I shall again join Your Vṛndāvana līlā as a friend, and we shall play to our highest sentiment, in this way."

There from it may be conjectured that his acme of serving pleasure is within sākhya rasa, a supposition.

Vidagdha Mādhava: So many devotees, disciples, that came to Swāmī Mahārāja, they have some, possibly, attraction for the, er...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not necessarily. All that will come under him, they will be forced to enter into sākhya rasa, it is not that. Maybe in mādhurya rasa, further. He may come with another mūrti, another dress, garment, attitude. So,

ācāryaṁ māṁ vijānīyān, [nāvamanyeta karhicit
na martya-buddhyāsūyeta, sarva-deva-mayo guruḥ]

["One should know the Ācārya as Myself and never disrespect him in any way. One should not envy him, thinking him an ordinary man, for he is the representative of all the demigods."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.17.27] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.46]

The ācārya-ship is not fixed in any type of devotee. We're requested to, we're given to understand that oneness in ācārya-ship.

"I am Ācārya. I am Ācārya indefinite. In particular man I can approach in a particular way. I am infinite, indefinite."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...devotion. Anything may be seen, it seems to him, as the representative of the Lord Himself. None attracts him to - whatever sees, wants to worship that, wants to serve that, to revere that. No possibility of self aggrandisement, no possibility. _____ [?] But that rather will give him some excitement of Kṛṣṇa _____ [?] and not for any reason for his own enjoyment. Whatever he'll see it will give him excitement for Kṛṣṇa. Automatically, naturally, everything is for Him, it is meant. Anything, he'll connect towards Kṛṣṇa, not with him, _____ [?] Then he's paramahaṁsa.
_____ [?]

"As much as other gods attraction towards this enjoying world, I want so much attention and spirit of enjoyment towards You my Lord. And I can feel that everything is meant for You, not for me, or for anyone else in this world."

Everything will remind him of Him. That is what is necessary, and sincerely. It is not an imaginary thing. Everything will remind me about the owner, enjoyer. Everything is For Itself. And I shall die, living in such conception of the world. Everything will excite me that it is for Him, everything. That we have positively seen. Not for me, not for others, but for Him.

Our Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja, when Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura passed away, years ago, one of his disciples he married.

Then, one gentleman came and informed Gaurakiśora Bābājī Mahārāja, "That disciple _____ [?] has married recently."

Then Bābājī Mahārāja told, "It does not matter that he married. But he must not try to enjoy the wife. He must serve her, as if she's - addressing her as if she's sent to Kṛṣṇa for His enjoyment. He must live with her in such a way. Like a great gopī - if he lives to the girl, to the wife, as a gopī, and he serves her in every way so that she's sent to Kṛṣṇa for His enjoyment."

That is the idea. To do anything and everything, but not for ones own self, not for any other man or anyone, but for Kṛṣṇa. That is, Reality is For Itself. Svarāṭ - ārtheṣv abhijñaḥ [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1].

aham̐ hi sarva-yajñānām̐, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

"I'm the only enjoyer of everything in this world."

That truth must be lived, so the heart must retire. That whatever I shall find _____ [?]

The māyāvādīs they fly away from here that that is reaction of enjoyment, so they fly away.

But the Vaiṣṇavas they won't fly, they'll handle and handle for (Kṛṣṇa's pastimes?) That is more valuable and more difficult, to face the truth, and very intimately to handle. But with whole heart for the service of the Lord, and not for anyone. For Him, and, Die to Live.

That ego of enjoying tendency, that must vanish, will be replaced. That will vanish, and inner ego will awaken _____ [?] That is what is necessary for a Vaiṣṇava. Not to fly away from the world, but to face everything. Not mine, but that _____ [?], preaching, handling, only sincerely for the service of Kṛṣṇa. From the heart of the heart, handling for Kṛṣṇa, not for him, neither for any other. That is the Vaiṣṇava, cent per cent. That will be that Hegel's theory. Reality is For Itself. And we're for Him _____ [?] cent per cent. Then he's a Vaisnava. _____ [?] but accepts anything and everything only for His satisfaction. That is Vaiṣṇava.

...neither he uses for himself, nor he abandons anything, but accepts anything and everything only for His satisfaction. That is Vaiṣṇava.

kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."
[From Vaiṣṇava ke? Who is a Vaiṣṇava?]

He's the only enjoyer of all the lady experience. And kanak, money, all for Nārāyaṇa, Lakṣmī. Lakṣmī for Nārāyaṇa. And pratiṣṭhā, name, fame, that is for Gurudeva, Baladeva, Rādhārāṇī. Who gives, the famous, who is the famous? Who can give the Absolute to others. That is the highest fame, name, highest name belongs to him who can give God to others. No more fame is possible anywhere. The Vaiṣṇava, Guru, they distribute, they give Kṛṣṇa, distribute Kṛṣṇa to the whole world. So they are the most, their credit is the highest, most famous are they, Baladeva, Rādhārāṇī, Nityānanda, Gurudeva. The fame, the name to him. And Lakṣmī the money, energy for Nārāyaṇa. And the lady enjoyment reserved only for Kṛṣṇa.

kāminīra kāma, nahe tava dhāma, tāhāra mālika kevala "yādava."

Only Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead. He's the master everywhere of everything. Beauty, enjoyer of beauty. Eye beauty, ear beauty, food beauty, everything, beauty stage is enjoyed by, reserved for Him, Reality the Beautiful. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

...

Our own experience is the guarantee. How we understand the purity in other departments? How? This is more life, this is vague life. This is more salt, this is less salt. This is more sugar, sweet, this is less sweet. How do we understand? That may be applied everywhere, it is possible. The tongue can say that this is less sweet, this is more sweet. Intelligence, how can we understand this man is intelligent and he's a fool, stupid. How can we understand? If we're acquainted with what is reason, what is intelligence, if we understand ourselves, then we can find this man is intelligent and this man is stupid. How do we understand?

Other things, that same thing, common sense may be applied here. Different departments. The ear has got its sound, sweet sound, this is very regulated sound, the ear can say about sound. Eye can say about beauty. Tongue can say about taste. So also our reason can say where is reason. So also our purity will say where is purity. Purity in renunciation, or purity in service? Everyone has got his own jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of the ear to ascertain what is good, bad. Tongue, touch, and reason, and also the inner purity, fairness.

Which is higher, the renunciation or service? Service means renunciation plus doing something. Not half enjoyment and half service, not. Not to enjoy anything, not to lord it over anything. I have connection with something outside, but not for my selfish purpose, but to help His existence. After renunciation, I have got enjoying connection, I cut off, I don't enjoy. Again I want to serve, is something more. In this way we're to understand what is more pure. To neglect something because it is harmful to me, and again to help that thing in a right spirit, and not in the name of help to kill it, to destroy it.

And all calculation from the centre, in relation to the centre, not my faulty local calculation. We're to understand that also, that my calculation may be faulty. There are higher planes and that calculation will be higher. In this way what should be the highest calculation I shall have to understand and follow. And that capacity is within me. Everywhere in our life we use such things, otherwise we're stone.

Living things means there is calculation, and good or bad conception, and reject the bad and accept the good. And what is good, what is bad? That also, that qualitative difference also we know in different plane. And plane also lower plane and higher plane, that also we can understand. That this man is living in the lower plane of life, this is higher plane. And how it is low and how it is high, that standard of measurement is here. And that is in general, the enjoyment is bad, renunciation is in the middle, and the service of everything that cannot but be the highest. To do good to everything. And what is that good? That is not to be calculated by my understanding, but from the central calculation. Goodness, that we're to accept.

Not rupee, or dollar, or yen, or rubble, but gold standard should be measured. Not partial. And what has got its prominent position with the gold, that paper must have a higher value. Which is in the credit, a small paper, given the stamp, dollar, that will be ten times rupee. The credit is there. So from the central calculation. So we're to understand for ourselves, the idea of enjoyment, the idea of renunciation, and idea of service. And service calculative and service spontaneous. What is higher, what is better? We're to understand for ourselves the degree of purity, how much where? Otherwise why we should enter at all in the society. Before we enter at all in the society we must have to test it, and to satisfy our full understanding that I am jumping, where? That is surely a better plane, higher plane, and only for this it is higher. Not for any ulterior motive, and if anyone comes with some ulterior motive he'll be deceived. If anyone does not come with sincere heart he'll be deceived, he can't stay for long.

At the same time also it is said, our knowing faculty fails to appreciate. Jñāna śūnya bhakti. That I can know, I can measure, I can weigh, this very idea is disqualification. The faith is more reliable than our knowledge of weighing things good and bad. Faith can take us nearer to that higher domain where our calculating faculty resigns to enter. How much calculation? What unit I have got to measure the distance of the sun and so many stars? This inch, mile, all this futile, that light years must be taken in for the measurement, light years. What is light year? One second, a hundred and seventy five miles speed and that is twelve years that sort of speed, that is unit. With that unit we're to measure such great distance.

So faith can measure to certain extent. Our knowledge of experience of the environment has got nothing to contribute in that area. Faith, śraddhā. "Yes, it is possible. Yes, it is my heart's approval. Heart within is approving and not my knowledge." Knowledge is running from this quarter to that quarter, the whole area of his experience, and getting out the file and record all these things, but no record there. "There is no record in all the files I have got." Knowledge will say, finished.

But the heart will respond. "Yes, it is home like thing. I feel that it is like my home, home like thing. So I must take risk to go to my home. The sound of sweet home is coming to my heart." The approval of the heart will come. "I think I'm quite at home with this idea. It is very sweet. Let me risk and give a lift."

jñāne prayāsam udapāsya namanta eva, jīvanti [san-mukharitāṁ bhavadīya-vārtām

["Oh Lord, Oh Unconquerable One, those devotees who, completely giving up all attempts on the path of jñāna of attaining the non-differentiated platform known as Brahma by hearing the transcendental narratives of Your pastimes, which emanates from the lotus mouths of the mahā-bhāgavat sādhus and pass their lives by engaging their body, mind and words in pure devotion, easily conquer You (they easily get Your transcendental association), although You are the most difficult to attain in the three worlds."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.14.3]

No possibility of any being a loser, but gainer, it gives like the sun ray in the morning some sort of news coming from my sweet home. That inner feeling, that will help him embrace the truth. Śraddhā, sukṛti, the comprehensive solution.

['śraddhā' - sabde - viśvāsa kahe sudṛḍha niścaya] kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

["By rendering transcendental loving service to Kṛṣṇa, one automatically performs all subsidiary activities. This confident, firm faith, favourable to the discharge of devotional service, is called śraddhā."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 22.62]

If I put food to the stomach, the whole body is fed. If I pour water into the root, the whole tree is fed. This is the most encouraging thing. If I do service to the centre, the whole universe will be fed. The most encouraging principle. I must jump here. And sweetness, sweetness, beauty above power, mercy above justice, all these things will appeal to the heart. The mercy is above justice, affection is above punishment, beauty, sweetness is above power. This is good, will appeal to the heart. I want that thing. In this way.

Pure and impure, superior and inferior. _____ [?] By which we can know the unknowable. _____ [?] That is the principal learning. We're in bondage, this is the concrete fact, trouble with us, we're under bondage, we're under mortality. All our attempts are redundant, abnormal, irrelevant, without the (style?) of get out of this mortal zone, that has got realistic view. He's always devoured by this fate in the jaw of the death, and he's running after luxury or enjoyment, that is all foolish, madness. So real education will be such which can help us to get out of this bondage, this mortality, that always dying stage, egoistic feeling. Apara, that is which is of lower type education, that is education to continue under this bondage and to search for relief from the fleeting difficulties, temporary difficulties. To run after that phantasmagoria. That is lower class of study by which we only give attention to the immediate problems, and not the permanent eternal problems. But by the study by which we face the real and eternal problem, that is study proper, and that study is revealed scripture, study of them.

Then today also in general the Sāraswati pūjā, bhagvedi [?] That means apara vidya [?]

Ordinary learning under these three dimensions, which is concerned with our senses and the body interest, try to solve that, that is lower class of study. But higher class of study is that which gets us relief from the wholesale trouble. And that is not only negative but positive by the attainment of the, by the fulfilment of our life. That is the higher study.

So Viṣṇu Prīya Devī she appeared also this day. When the people are mad with this material study of lower type, at that time, that day, Viṣṇu Prīya Devī, the potency of Śrī Gaurāṅga, Nārāyaṇa, who generally comes here to distribute the Name of Kṛṣṇa, to relieve the people every yuga, Yuga-Avatāra. Yuga-Avatāra, Gaura, Nārāyaṇa, and His potency Viṣṇu Prīya Devī she appeared in this day.

And leaving her, Mahāprabhu went away when she was a very young girl at that time. And she also led a very strict spiritual life. We're told that she used to take the Name, as long as Śacī Devī lived, she was under her guidance, used to nurse her, obey her, to look after her, she was an old lady, mother-in-law, engaged in her service, exclusively devoted to her. But after that Śacī Devī disappeared very soon, and then Viṣṇu Prīya Devī was independent.

One old servant, Īśāna was there, another his brother Vaṁśi Vadanānanda was his guardian living there. And she did not get out of the room, or house, the high compound wall. And she used to count the beads, and counting one bead, she put some counting emblem by rice, one Name one rice, one Name one rice. One means sixteen Names, one rice. In this way how many rice she counted, and she boiled them and offered to the Lord Kṛṣṇa, and she used to take that much. So her body emaciated gradually. But she continued that sort of life of privation, austerity, very strictly she was.

She came, her father was Sanātana Mīsra. Her brothers, their lineage is still found in Banapura near Kalna. And she established Mahāprabhu's Vigraha for her life worshipping, whole life.

And the Vigraha - first when Vigraha was presented to her she told that it is not up to mark. Then third time when the Śrī Mūrti was taken to her she suddenly covered her face. It was so vivid, vividly representing Mahāprabhu, Nimāi Paṇḍit, Śrī Gaurāṅga.

Then that Vigraha, her father's lineage they're worshipping therein Mahāprabhu perhaps. But as is the case within the mundane world gradually everything degrades.

They're also in the same line, not practising their holy observances. Eat anything and everything. And anyhow just like a trade the Vigraha worship is going on. There in their own way. And the, as general the pūjā that has been, the Deity is the property, and every partner has got his own share. They look after, some six months, or even three months, or one month, or a fortnight. In this way according to the relative keeping the worship is also divided, and they do.

And what pranami comes, not only pranami, pranami as usual they receive, and also they have appointed a tax like thing, give. Everyone, every onlooker must give one rupee, or two rupees, or (eight tanners?) or something must give. Pay and then you'll be allowed to have a vision.

Gauḍīya Maṭh is against that. A poor man who cannot pay the visiting money then he won't be able to have a look of the Deity. What is this? So as much as possible as one can give he will give so much pranami. Pranami should be given of course for the respect of the Deity. But there should not be any fixed rate that one must pay a rupee then he'll be allowed to have a look. This is trade. So we're against that way, their system.

And also those that are worshipping they do not follow the strictly regulations of a pure devotee. All these things going on. But still, that is the Deity, of course, after worship was almost nearly five hundred years ago, so many times that has been changed. And also they show the wooden sandals of Mahāprabhu, which Mahāprabhu gave to Viṣṇu Prīya Devī. That sandal is still here continuing. In this way, here the Deity.

In previous days sometimes some complaint came from the Hindu public who are learned, especially the (śakta or smārta ?) brāhmaṇas. "That Mahāprabhu, he was a man. Why his figure will be worshipped?"

There was some famine or some flood and they complained like that to the king of Krishnanaga under whose jurisdiction this pūjā used to take place. Then for fear of that, that the pūjā may be checked, may be closed by the order of the king, so underground they managed to keep for some time the pūjā.

Then Manipura Mahārāja came and one paṇḍit from Vṛndāvana, Tota Purī he also came, and there was a discussion of the scripture. And the brāhmaṇa paṇḍits they could not refute the argument of that Tota Purī paṇḍit. He proved that according to śāstra the Yuga-Avatāra is Śrī Caitanyadeva.

And also the Manipura Raja came, and he was an independent king at that time. He took leave from Mahārāja of Krishnaga, certain portion of the land there, and he started worship of Mahāprabhu, every day doing. Krishnaga zamīndār line under the Mohammedan rule could not oppose. So in this way that worship continues.

Then it was on the other side of the Ganges. And at that time this river Sarasvatī, she was this side, and gradually that Sarasvatī approached towards that northern side. And the town on the other side of the Ganges, the course of Sarasvatī went that side, and all broken, the people they used to come this side. In this way the town came this side, and that side was jungle. But this Deity was also brought to this side of Navadwīpa. Before, it was on the other side, Māyāpur, Yogapiṭha there.

In this way Viṣṇu Prīya Devī she lived worshipping Mahāprabhu's Deity, and very strictly following the rules of a pure devotee. And in a very, observing too much austerity, she did. Viṣṇu Prīya Devī's day of appearance today.

Another, Raghunandana, who is supposed to be the Pradyumna Avatāra. Vāsudeva, Saṅkarṣaṇa, Pradyumna, Aniruddha. The four delegated appearance of Kṛṣṇa, and also in Vaikuṇṭha. That Pradyumna, he came in the family of the sakhas in Śrī Khanda near Katwa. And from his childhood he was a born devotee, necessarily.

And one day his father Mukunda Sakar, he was a good physician, kavirāja, he had some important call from a place which was a little far off. Before leaving the house, there was no other person to take the charge of worshipping Gopāla Mūrti there, their family Deity, he asked the young boy, Raghunandana, "Raghunandana, you please look after my Deity that He may get some food." Said in this way. "You please feed Him, feed the Deity."

Raghunandana was a simple boy. His mother prepared the dish for the bhogam. Raghunandana performed his pūjā regular, then the bhogam was offered. And he thought, a simple boy, young man, thought, 'what is given to the Deity, the Deity will take it, eat it.'

And especially father told, "You must give bhoga to my Deity."

And he thought the Deity will eat. He put the dish before the Deity, and shut the doors as his father did. Then entered again the room and found it is there as it is, and began to cry. "What is this? My father asked me to feed You, and You are not eating. Father will come and punish me. What is this?" Began to cry.

Again he tried bhogam, closed the door. "Please, You take this prasādam, otherwise I will be punished by my father."

In this way, twice, thrice. Then Gopāla had to take that food.

Then his mother came. "Why so late? You open the door. I shall take the prasāda and distribute to all. Your father will come soon perhaps."

Then he opened the door.

"What is this?" Mother came to take the prasāda. "What is this? Nothing here, you boy, you have eaten up everything. You are to offer to the Deity and the Deity takes it, not physically, but by His gracious glance He accepts misti bhoga, and we take all maybe, with that prasāda we go on. A small quantity we'll distribute to everyone, then other foods also take. But today what is this, the whole pot is empty, what is this?"

"No, no, Gopāla has eaten, no, Gopāla has eaten."

"You are lying. Gopāla never eats."

In this way. Then the father came, mother wept. "You have given the charge of worshipping to this foolish boy. I produced the dish, the bhoga to the Deity, and when I came very late I came to take the prasādam and the dishes were empty. The boy must have eaten. But he says Gopāla has eaten. You see how your son has grown. So much down right lies, falsehood, he speaks, that Gopāla has eaten."

The father also pressed. But that one line, "Gopāla has eaten. I cried when first Gopāla did not eat, but I cried, appealed, prayed, cried, appealed, then Gopāla ate it."

"Is it?"

Then what to do? Some other day he was given again to do that.

"You try to get Gopāla to eat this."

And some other day also he did so.

"What is this? This boy can feed the Gopāla this prasādam, Gopāla eats. Can you show us?"

Then anyhow he talked with Gopāla. And it was managed by - they can see by peeping, not straight.

Such was Raghunandana. A good dancer, in Purī, before Jagannātha when seven parties used to dance and chant the Name, saṅkīrtana, one party used to come from that Sakar family, Śrī Khanda, near Katwa. And there, in that party, Raghunandana was the only dancer. He used to dance.

Then, that was Raghunandana. His birthday is today, day of appearance.

The third is Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi, the spiritual guide of Gadādhara Paṇḍita. He was born in Chaṭṭagrām. He was a devotee of Mādhava Purī. He was a small zamīndār like man...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...things are done everywhere.

Not all of a sudden that the highest realising sentiment will grow in one's heart. Gradually he will feel within himself, according to the degree of awakening he will be able to find who is he properly.

In Sanātana Goswāmī's Bṛhat Bhāgavatāmṛta the Gopa Kumār is gradually, in accordance with his awakening of the inner heart and sentiment, he's led to different planes of life. But not feeling satisfaction, again some connection from the higher, and he's taken to the higher plane next. Again some time he's staying there. After some time some dissatisfaction came in him, and another agent came from another higher position, and he's taken there. In this way, gradually, according to his own inner awakening, he's taken to different, higher planes. It is found there in Bṛhat Bhāgavatāmṛta.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. In the Bhāgavatam, in the eleventh canto, and also in the seventh canto, the sannyāsa of dharma, that is mentioned, it seems that one has to go to a forest and he stays in one place for only one day.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is external, one day in every place. Kuṭicaka, bahūdaka, there are different stages. First kuṭicaka, he will construct a cottage and he will live there for some time.

Then bahūdaka, the next, second stage, he won't fix himself in a particular place, but he will take different types of water. Bahūdaka means many types of variegated waters. That he will wander, to any and every place, and go on practising his own life.

Then haṁsa, the next, third stage will be haṁsa. Haṁsa means, water and milk mixed together, but the swan can take out the milk leaving the water intact. So he will be sāragrāhī.

Whatever he may mix, what society he may mix, he must try to take the very gist of truth, leaving that which is unnecessary, in the society. That is haṁsa.

Then paramahaṁsa. The highest stage is paramahaṁsa. That wherever he may stay, he will be all right. No external environment will be able to affect him, or to change him. The highest position. These are the - and again more than that it is said sometimes, that avadhūta the fifth stage. At that time he's particularly seen to mix with the filthy atmosphere, but that can never affect him. That is the fifth stage. In this way it has been mentioned, in general, independent of Godhead.

Sannyāsa is of three kinds, vidvat, vibisva, and narottama. Vidvat sannyāsī has been described of such a degree, that when one can understand fully, he even leaves his body, and gets relief of that bondage, immediately. That is vidvat. And vibisva, gradually he wants to accept different stages, and pass through that and go to the highest realisation. And there is another, narottama - hṛdi kṛtvā hariṁ gehāt pravrajet.

[yaḥ svakāt parato veha, jāta-nirveda ātmavān / hṛdi kṛtvā hariṁ gehāt, pravrajet sa narottamaḥ]

["A narottama, or first class human being, is one who awakens and understands, either by himself or from others, the falsity and misery of this material world and thus leaves home and depends fully on the Personality of Godhead residing within the heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.27]

He wants Hari and finding in his heart, he gives up his family life, and wanders here and there, but Hari, in his heart he wants. And naturally whenever there is a congregation of the saints, he stays there.

[mac-cittā mad-gata prāṇā, bodhayantaḥ parasparam]
kathayantaś ca māṁ nityaṁ, tuṣyanti ca ramanti ca

["My devotees mix together, talk about Me, and exchange thoughts that give consolation to their hearts. And they live as if this talk about Me is their food. It gives them a high kind of pleasure, and they find that when they talk about Me among themselves, they feel as if they are enjoying My presence."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 10.9]

The sādhu saṅga. So the summary of everything for a Vaiṣṇava sannyāsī is this, that he will mix with the sādhu, the Vaiṣṇava saints. And what is the mixing with the sādhu? That is serving him. In other words he will serve under his Guru. That will be the most profitable. If such high Guru is not within his conception, such high guide, then also within the equal association, he will try to maintain the higher thoughts, divine, within his heart, by such activity. And the association means a form of service, serving attitude. Without serving attitude, we cannot enjoy a saint, a Vaiṣṇava. To associate with Vaiṣṇava means to serve Vaiṣṇava. To associate with anything holy, that means to serve. Otherwise, if I exploit, I want to get some pleasure from the environment, I shall have to go down. Serving spirit must be maintained in ones heart, and that will be dynamic and gradually lift him from higher to higher.

And a static aim is with the māyāvādīs, that is different order. They want to have a temporary life full of rest. That has already been discarded. That is impossible, temporarily it may be possible, the slumber, the samādhi. But the samādhi will break down one day.

[mukti, bhukti vāñche yei, kāhāṅ duṅhāra gati?'] 'sthāvara-deha, deva-deha yaiche avasthiti'

["And what is the destination of those who desire liberation and those who desire sense gratification?" Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu asked.] [Rāmānanda Rāya replied, "Those who attempt to merge into the existence of the Supreme Lord will have to accept bodies like those of trees. And those who are overly inclined toward sense gratification will attain the bodies of demigods."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.257]

In Rāmānanda Rāya [saṁvāda]. Those that aspire after highest salvation, they have ultimately come to be a fossil. They're unconscious, fossil is also unconscious, not conscious of his own soul, fossil. Sthāvara- deha in Rāmānanda Rāya. He may become a Himālaya, or an Alps. Long, long, time, sleeping there, no awakening of any consciousness. And deva-deha, the demigods, there they enjoy, and the puṇya, the merit is finished, then again come here to work, to begin his life fresh, with fresh prospects.

I stop here today.

Vidagdha Mādhava: Jaya Oṁ Viṣṇu-Pāda Paramahaṁsa Parivrājakācārya Aṣṭottara-śata Śrī Śrīmad His Divine Grace Śrīla Bhakti Rakṣaka Śrīdhara Deva Goswāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

Devotees: Jaya!

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda. Swāmī Mahārāja kī jaya!

...

Devotee: In the second stage of sannyāsa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Kuṭicaka, bahūdaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa. And then again, there the sections divided, vidvat, vibisva, narottama, three kinds of sannyāsa. Vidvat, vibisva, narottama. Again every sannyāsa subdivided into four stages, kuṭicaka, bahūdaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa.

Vidvat sannyāsa does not come under division, because when taken it is finished. He thinks himself in such a safe position he at once leaves his body and vanishes, vidvat. He does not want to - this is of course not Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa - he does not want to lose any time here. He's so disturbed with the present atmosphere, he does not want at all to live here even for a second, he finishes himself. This is not very optimistic line.

Vibisva, he comes under regulation. Vibisva means itcha [?], not finally fit, but wants to be fit. In vibisva sannyāsa four sections, kuṭicaka, bahūdaka, haṁsa, paramahaṁsa.

The first, to settle in a particular place, with some simple and humble life, and to go on with the mantram. And bhikṣā, taking food by bhikṣā. Not talking much with anyone, or mixing with the society at large. This is the first stage.

In the second stage, he will try to mix with the society. Not only in that place, but he will have an experience of the wide world, as much as possible. And to come in connection with different classes of men, and to test what he has done, whether it is right or wrong. He must consolidate his position by meeting and coming in contact with different forces, anti as well as favourable and unfavourable. Parīkṣeta, test, the life of test stage.

The third haṁsa. Haṁsa means, he will try his best to draw what is the essence of every teachings, every book, every society, every community, every different conceptions of theism. All these, he may contact, but he will try to draw the essence. The third stage.

And fourth stage is the stage of ones well established position. He may do this, that, anything, but he's settled in his idea what he got previously from his Guru. Perfectly undisturbed, he may pass his time. Whatever things may come from outside, can't disturb him. In such position he'll live, and then one day he'll pass away.

And another is narottama sannyāsa. They do not care for all these things, formalities. But their simple thing that they will take shelter to Hari, to Nārāyaṇa, who is within. Thinking of Nārāyaṇa he will wander here, there, tīrtha, everywhere. But his main thing will be the worship of Nārāyaṇa, whether in Vṛndāvana, Purī, or some such place, Ayodhyā, according to his conception. In this way he's a devotional class. He may be a tridaṇḍi - hṛdi kṛtvā hariṁ gehāt, pravrajet [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.13.27], will take shelter under the holy feet of Hari. And he will leave the worldly life, and will wander here, there, everywhere, taking the Name of the Lord, and mixing with the devotees of the Lord, in this way. This is the general conception of the sannyāsa. This is some negative side. The positive side will be in the case of narottama sannyāsa.

When we take particularly to this system, in a practical way, we want to deal it very successfully. Then we are to find that anyhow we must come in connection with the service of the Hari, Guru, Vaiṣṇava. Merely the recollection of Hari is not forceful enough to expedite our realisation. Something positive should be done.

Just as Prahlāda Mahārāja told, when Nārada went to see after Mahādeva, went to see the positive participation in devotional line to Prahlāda.

Prahlāda told, "What do I do Devarṣi? You know everything about me. I'm simply trying to recollect my Lord. Recollection, remembrance, but remembrance is not enough, it is very weak connection with Hari. Mere remembrance, it is śānta-rasa, may be taken, found to be counted as śānta-rasa. A very weak but favourable position towards the service. But actual service of Hari, always to be busy to find out how we can satisfy Him, that is the laudable thing. And I've not got that temperament. If you want really a devotion of Hari, just go to Hanumānji, he's surcharged with spirit of serving Rāmacandra. How wonderful he did it. So I'm in weak position. It is His grace that I'm not engaged in any worldly thoughts. But very meagre and lower order, not very intense remembrance I've got about Hari."

So the mere connection with Hari is not enough. That is good, but from there we have to enter into the serving stages. And there also are classification and intensity also. Really we come to face the opportunity, by taking sannyāsa, exclusively giving up everything, and the whole time service of the Hari. Not mere recollection, remembrance only, but actual service to satisfy Him, that is necessary. So dāsya, sākhya, vātsalya, mādhurya, that will come gradually in the retinue there after.

Do you follow? Who asked this question? Chidānanda, oh!

Sannyāsa, the renunciation has been described in this way. All these things you will find in Gauḍīya Kaṇṭhahāra perhaps, vidyat, vibisva, narottama sannyāsa.

Devotee: What is the spiritual significance of taking water from different parts of the world? You said the other day that in the bahūdaka stage the sannyāsī takes water from different parts of the world.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is not very important for our section. Bahūdaka, ūdaka means water, bahūdaka means multifarious types of waters. The significance is that he will wander in many places and drink many different types of water. That is only a connection, to show, really, water is not the important thing, that he'll drink. But many variegated natures of water means in various countries he will move. That is mixed with various types of men and culture, and consolidate his own position, whether he's moving on rightly or wrongly. That is the purpose internally.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja, for the Vaiṣṇavas, what is the position of bābājī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bābājī, that position was given by Mahāprabhu, was taken by Sanātana Goswāmī, just in presence of Mahāprabhu. Bābājī veśa, was first taken by Sanātana Goswāmī in Benares in front of Mahāprabhu. And Mahāprabhu gave His consent, it is supposed. That is considered to be above the sannyāsa, above. That is generally considered the paramahaṁsa bheda, sannyāsa āśrama.

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśya na śūdro [nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā
kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of divine ecstasy."] [Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī's Padyāvalī, 63]

& [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

Nāhaṁ varṇī means brahmacārī. Na ca gṛha-patir - gṛhastha. No vana-stho - vānaprastha. Yatir vā - sannyāsa. These four stages in āśrama. Now nāhaṁ vipro, I'm not within that, I'm above. Even a sannyāsī he has got some sort of position. He's also to follow some regulations, some particular forms of life.

But bābājī, when they are considered to be above any sort of law, no position in the society. The sannyāsī have got some position in the society, as a general guide of the society, Guru. But bābājī, they do not care even for anything. They cut off all connection with the society. And they're given wholesale towards Vraja, Vṛndāvana sevā, in Vṛndāvana. And in parakīya bhajan also they're engaged.

But our Guru Mahārāja, he saw that the imitationists, they're accepting the dress of bābājī, but they're not fit for that, for the standard. So in the dress of bābājī, their bābājī dress is being misused, and in the name of that dress they're going on with adulteration. The sahujīya. There are so many different outcomes of that degraded bābājī section. They're not fit for that high position, but take the dress, and go to imitate the thing. But it is impossible for them to catch the real spirit of life. So they degrade and create so many pests in the society. And create a bad name for Rūpa and Sanātana, and Mahāprabhu, and Gauḍīya sampradāya at large.

So he laid stress in this sannyāsa. "You first prepare yourself, that the head of the society, as a teacher of the society. Then when such high time will come, then you may see to take to that position, if you find necessary. That does not depend on external dress, but internal improvement. Really that thing depends on internal improvement of ones heart or realisation, and does not depend on the external dressing."

So this way Prabhupāda came and created this sannyāsa, tridaṇḍa sannyāsa, Vaiṣṇava sannyāsa, and to preach that bābājī, our Guru, above us.

"And we do not recognise you, anyone taking the dress of bābājī. No, you're not bābājī. Only external dress cannot give you the honour of the post of bābājī. But you're all hypocrites, and you're dis-serving the society and the Vaiṣṇava proper. We don't care, you all go down. Don't venture to take the dress, to pollute the dress of Rūpa and Sanātana. Never do this." This is the warning of our Guru Mahārāja. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

So Prabhupāda introduced the sacred thread. Become a brāhmaṇa first, Brahmaloka, then Virajā, Brahmaloka, then Paravyoma, Vaiṣṇava place. First become a brāhmaṇa, daiva-brāhmaṇa. Try to acquire the quality of a brāhmaṇa, and have the sacred thread. Then above this the Vaiṣṇava, crossing Brahmaloka.

But they put this kaupīna, the bābājī class they do not use, they're afraid of using this brahma-sutra, but they uses kaupīna. But kaupīna, Guru Mahārāja told it is higher. Kaupīna means to stop all mundane sensual inclination to the utmost. So don't venture to take kaupīna, as Rūpa and Sanātana did. Before that try to, in a position of a brāhmaṇa, take the sacred thread. If you have courage and real sincerity to go towards spiritual world, then come forward and take sacred thread, and red robe. And then make some substantial progress in the spiritual line. Then when you'll find yourself quite safe in the spiritual line, not only that but established in Kṛṣṇa līlā in Vṛndāvana, then you may take the honour of that dress of Rūpa and Sanātana. Otherwise, to dishonour them, you should not imitate that dress. That was the temperament of our Guru Mahārāja, and he inaugurated this tridaṇḍa sannyāsa into the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Once I was in Vṛndāvana, one educated brahmacārī, he took bābājī in Kaliban [?] I had a talk with him.

"You don't have any respect for the bābājīs, and we're in the line of Rūpa and Sanātana."

Then I told him, "We think that we're within āśrama of sannyāsa. That is servant of Rūpa and Sanātana, of the bābājī section real. We pose ourselves to be the servants of the bābājī."

"Yes. That is well and good."

"But we do not know that. And at the same time you should know that we cannot give you people the position of that bābājī. We do not accept you as bābājī. You are intruder, forcibly entered physically, the plane. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread. Your position is such."

Then he was infuriated. "You don't care for us, yes?"

"No."

Then that man who posed as a bābājī, he was caught red handed. And he himself left that position, came back to family life. Not exactly family life, but giving up this bābājī vocation, he came to the town and he was educated, he began to coach students and thereby to earn something and eat. It is such.

Gaura Haribol. It is a very hard nut to crack. Not imitation can take us there. But by the grace of the Vaiṣṇava, the inner awakening, that can only be affected by the service of Kṛṣṇa and His servants, His devotees. One must earnestly try to achieve that sort of stage, really, and not outwardly. A proper realisation is necessary, the conviction, the faith. The faith will take us to the complete realisation, the faith.

A man, a friend, died somewhere, news came, I began to cry. Why? I don't see that he's dying here, my friend is dead, dying, but only through faith I began to cry, my friend has died. Through faith from far away, the feeling may arouse, and many things may be done through faith. So for the farthest world, the faith, faith is a positive thing, it is not imagination. Imagination is worthless. Faith is not imagination. It is more substantial than anything. What we experience here, that is futile, that is nothing, that is illusion. What we feel, what we say concretely, realisation of the concrete world, that is all hallucination. But faith is such that it can show in a very subtle way the truth, more than mathematical calculation. The computer is showing so many things beyond the reach of our senses, by mathematics.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

So Giri Mahārāja has been bitten on the face while sleeping. Who will come?

...

Swāmī Mahārāja told that he's the most wretched person, in Bengali he told, Swāmī Mahārāja.

I told Tamāla Kṛṣṇa. So that he told, a Bengali word, not guṇḍā, but something like desperate, the Bengali word I'm trying to remember.

...

... of a soldier, he has committed something wrong and he must be punished.

But [Queen] Victoria, she did not like to deal the first case with punishment. She wanted to release him.

But the advocate on the other side told that, "Thrice he's already forgiven, thrice, so this is the fourth time. You can't forgive him."

But still Victoria is only pushing, pressing. "What you say, everything is against him. But can't you incite any instance in his favour?"

Then that gentleman, he could understand her position, and told, "His house of life is said to be good, household life."

Then Victoria, "Then this time also, when some goodness can be traced in him, so this time also forgive him."

I incited this example when I requested the committee, they forgive this first time, all them, the Haṁsadūta, then this Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, Tamāla Kṛṣṇa and some other.

...

I'm taking a portion of his energy, consciously or unconsciously of him, and I'm connecting it with the service of Kṛṣṇa, through a devotee. So he's surely being benefited in his life eternal. This accumulated, this energy utilised, through some devotees, that will be accumulated, and when sufficient in magnitude it will attract him towards the Lord. It will create śraddhā in him, faith in him.

So our Guru Mahārāja, previously told that, "I want one lākh of paisa, pence."

Then when one gentleman came with three lākhs of rupees to construct a temple, one of his sannyāsa disciples told him, "Gurudeva, you wanted one lākh of paisa, but three lākhs of rupees have been given by one single man."

Then he answered, "I did not want from one person. One lākh of paisa means from one lākh of men, creating sukṛti in at least one lākh of persons."

So to collect, apparently it may seem that I'm a beggar and he's a giver. But really, I'm giver under the direction of the Lord, and he's beggar. I'm giving him unconsciously some, injecting some goodness in him, sukṛti. That is nirguṇa. Nirguṇa means transcendental. A drop of transcendental devotion I'm giving him in return. By utilising his energy unconscious of him, I've put in some service of the Lord. This is the underlying principle of begging from door to door, or any place. That they're using the mortal world, their energy is being more and more mortalised. But I'm giving some connection with immortal, through his energy, and that is sukṛti. And sukṛti when sufficiently accumulated, creates śraddhā.

bhaktis tu bhagavad-bhaktasaṅgena parijāyate
sat-saṅgaḥ prāpyate puṁbhiḥ sukṛtaiḥ pūrvva-sañcitaiḥ

["Actually we can recognise a sādhu by sukṛti. Apparently we can know him from the śāstras, the scriptures, because the śāstra helps us to know who is a sādhu, and the sādhu gives us the interpretation of the śāstra. So sādhu and śāstra are interdependent, but the sādhu holds the more important position and the śāstra has the secondary position. The living śāstra is the sādhu, but to know who is Guru, who is sādhu, we are to consult the descriptions given about them in the scriptures. The symptoms of the sādhu, both of the Guru as well as the disciple, have been written in the Bhāgavatam, in the Gītā and in the Upaniṣads."]

[Bṛhan-Nāradīya-Purāṇa]

Sukṛti will bring us to the association of the sādhu. No other way to come to the feet of the real sādhu, only sukṛti can come _____ [?] So for that, and also for us, to give everything for the service of Kṛṣṇa, that is our name, fame, everything. Our credit, everything we should devote to Kṛṣṇa, wholesale I shall devote to Kṛṣṇa. I shall do anything and everything for His satisfaction, through His devotees, and _____ [?]

So if you like to do some service, I think I asked Parivrājaka Mahārāja also, he perhaps, his visa may allow him to stay for fifteen or some, more days. So for at least ten days he may approach the religious public, they help this festival to be managed.

"So you come and you also help. Many sādhus and many ordinary gṛhasthas, men, women, they will come for the circumambulation of the nine islands, Navadwīpa. Mahāprabhu. With saṅkīrtana. That will be a very religious scenery. You all come and see and partake in that. And for that some rice, wheat, some vegetable oil, some potato, whatever you like to give, give us, we shall take it."

This way, the method is in this way to collect funds for the annual celebrations.

...

To try in our hands, but the result will be in the hands of Kṛṣṇa. Sometimes this experience we have got, sometimes we tried hard in one place, but no sufficient result. But in another place with least endeavour we get much. Where we give more, much attention, sometimes we may fail there. And with very least attention and energy we get more. It is managed by Kṛṣṇa. So we do not know what will happen, but we shall try.

karmaṇy evādhikāras te, mā phaleṣu kadācana
[mā karma-phala-hetur bhūr, mā te saṅgo 'stv akarmaṇi]

["I shall now describe niṣkāma karma-yoga, the path of selfless action. You have a right to perform your natural prescribed duties, but you are not entitled to any fruits of that action. You should neither act with desire to enjoy the fruits of your work, nor, as a result, should you be attached to neglecting your duties."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 2.47]

Don't look after the results. But concentrate yourself wholesale in the discharge of your duty, that there may not be any fault in discharging your duty. That is your part. And what result will come, good or bad, you have nothing to bother with that. It is His will. With this spirit we're to go on collection. And also underlined, that if I can get something from him to be utilised for the service of Mahāprabhu, then this man will be unconsciously benefited for his eternal life. That will be in the subconscious area. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

...

Never bother your head, but wholly concentrate in your transaction, in your duty. This is the key to success of ones life towards eternity. Then we come very close to eternity, the eternal will, the absolute will. I'm doing so much, expecting, how my labour is met with the eternal will. But I must not be dejected. Try to satisfy myself under any eventuality. That is a test in our life. This is not an endeavour for a day or two, but I am going to practice my transaction with the Infinite, with the Absolute, for whole life. With that spirit and courage we shall come in the field...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...curled hair. He used to take pipe, this tobacco, and..

Taṭa-sthā, [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.83], impartial judgement. We're to understand all these things. So Guru, generally, any point connected with Kṛṣṇa, to make himself known to the environment.

"Come to Me, come to Me. But what am I? Gradually you will come to know. First call, come to Me, I am such and such, in a general way."

Then as one will advance more and more, he'll gather knowledge particular after particular about Him.

...

Then he asked Gadādhara, "A great saint has come here in Navadwīpa. Will you go to see him paṇḍit?"

Gadādhara, he was very fond of saints. "Yes, I shall go, when, you take me there."

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita, young boy of sixteen or seventeen was taken to his house. Gadādhara Paṇḍita saw he is sitting on a good sofa, curled hair, and that is also brushed in a good style, and very scented oil is also mixed there. And with a pipe tobacco smoking, and that is also very gorgeous type. So at heart Gadādhara Paṇḍita he hesitated and thought otherwise.

"You told that you will show a saint. This is the type of saint? What is this? He's a man who dives deep in luxury, tobacco smoking, that also in a gorgeous way. Curled hair scented. And the sofa, the bedding, all valuable. Some many ornaments, house is ornamented. And he has come to show me a sādhu? What is this?"

Mukunda could understand the mind of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, his heart he could understand. Then he in a good voice, he was a good singer, Mukunda. He began singing a śloka in Bhāgavatam.

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī lebhe gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ tato 'nyaṁ, kaṁ vā dayāluṁ śaraṇaṁ vrajema

["How astonishing! When Pūtanā, the wicked sister of Bakāsura, tried to kill child Kṛṣṇa by offering Him deadly poison on her breasts, she reached a position befitting the Lord's nursemaid. Could I ever have as merciful a shelter as that of Lord Kṛṣṇa?"] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 3.2.23]

This śloka from Bhāgavatam was chanted by Mukunda very sweetly. After the death of Pūtanā, after Pūtanā is killed, Kṛṣṇa gave her the very high position of His own nurse in Goloka, He granted Pūtanā. He killed her Himself by sucking her breast, Pūtanā. You know the tale of Pūtanā. Pūtanā was the sister of that Bakāsura, Bakī, so her name was Bakī. Bakā, her brother he was a great demon and his sister Bakī means Pūtanā. Pūtanā was sent to search after and kill Kṛṣṇa. They're all agents of Kaṁsa sent to Vṛndāvana because Kaṁsa heard when that Devī Kātyānanī slipped from his hand and he went to dash her into death, but slipped from his hand and went up and told, "Who will kill you He's growing in Gokula." This was told by her.

Then Kaṁsa wondered, "What is this?" Then he had some suspicion that in Gokula, the Kṛṣṇa must be growing. So he used to send so many demons in search of Kṛṣṇa, and if possible kill Him.

So Pūtanā was sent. She came with the garb of a very affectionate lady. "Oh, Yaśodā, you have got a very beautiful good child I heard. Where is He? Where have you put Him? Oh, you have put Him in such neglected condition. How hard is your heart? You don't know to nurse such a beautiful child." She pressed and took Him, took the child and put on her breast.

Kṛṣṇa of course He knew everything and waiting for the breast. And when put sucking her breast, that sucking was with such tremendous force that she came out with her real figure, a gigantic figure, and cried at last, dreadful figure and died, fell dead, Pūtanā.

And then Kṛṣṇa granted her the position of His eternal nurse, dhātri. Here the śloka.

aho bakī yaṁ stana-kāla-kūṭaṁ, jighāṁsayāpāyayad apy asādhvī / lebhe gatiṁ dhātry-ucitāṁ

"The Pūtanā, that lady demoness, she went to kill Him. And He's so gracious, Kṛṣṇa is so gracious that He rewarded her with the position of eternal nurse of Him. So kind. So leaving Kṛṣṇa whomever I shall go towards, such a grand and gracious and kind Lord. Who approaches to kill, what to speak of worshipping, she's going to kill Him, anyone going to kill Him, and He granted her that eternal position of His own nurse. So gracious, so kind, where shall we get. And leaving Him whom shall we approach for worship?"

This is the purpose of the śloka. Mukunda chanted in a sweet voice and it entered into the ear of Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi. The change came in his mind and body also. He left the pipe, the pipe fell on the bed. Began to move, began to cry. Then tearing his hairs, then tearing his dress, tearing the bedding. He's convulsion continued. And from the bed he fell on the ground, there also convulsion can't be stopped.

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita was very much afraid. "Oh, what is this? How great the devotee in his heart. I misunderstood him. Only a śloka of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam was chanted, and so much high divine love dawned in his heart that he forgot himself totally. All this luxury, all these things, even his body, and he's rolling on the bed and tearing things. What? The śloka of Bhāgavatam has given such impression in his heart. Such a great devotee he is."

Then, after an hour or so, I don't know, when it was finished, then Gadādhara Paṇḍita came to Mukunda. "I have committed offence to this great saint. I thought that what sort of sādhu you took me to see? He's a man of luxury, his dress, his body, his hair polished, all these things, smoking. What sort of sādhu? But you are very kind to me. You chanted one śloka of Bhāgavatam and I saw what change that śloka brought in this great holy man. With my own eyes I saw all these things. Now I think first I took that he's how? What sort of saint is he? I have committed against him. Now try to deliver from that offence."

In this way came. Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita told that one thing. "My Lord is Gaurāṅga. I shall ask, take His permission. I have not yet taken any initiation. Anyone who is to enter into the line of devotion he must have initiation. So I'm not yet initiated. If I take initiation from this holy man, then as Guru he will forgive me all my offences, and then I'll be relieved. You please ask whether he will accept me as his disciple or not. And I'm also to ask Nimāi Paṇḍita, He's my guardian."

Then Gadādhara approached Nimāi Paṇḍita, Śrī Gaurāṅga, Viśvambhara.

"Oh, that is the proper man to initiate you. He has come here from Sitagrama."

Already Mahāprabhu began to cry, Premānidhi. His title was Vidyānidhi. Mahāprabhu used to call by Premanidhi, that Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi.

"Bāpay Puṇḍarīka, Bāpay Puṇḍarīka." Mahāprabhu inspired by the feeling of Rādhārāṇī, suddenly He's crying one day, "Puṇḍarīka Bāpay, Puṇḍarīka Bāpay." He's crying.

Then this Mukunda and others asked, "Puṇḍarīka, who's this Puṇḍarīka? Is he a sādhu of our neighbourhood in a far off place? Then Puṇḍarīka must have come. Mahāprabhu is crying, taking the name of Puṇḍarīka, "Bāpay Puṇḍarīka, O My father Puṇḍarīka." Inspired with the feeling of Rādhārāṇī."

Then He went. Mahāprabhu says, "Yes I know Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi, Premānidhi. My father has come, you take initiation from him."

Then Gadādhara Paṇḍita took initiation from Puṇḍarīka.

Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi outwardly he's a gṛhastha, a man of luxury. But inward he was a great devotee. His friend was Svarūpa Dāmodara, a very intimate friend.

And once he went to Purī and it so happened that in the front of Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi the pāṇḍās of Orissa, the new clothing put on Jagannātha, but that clothing was not washed. There was some application of rice boiled water. What is that? Rice is boiled and then some water…

Devotee: Starch?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That was smeared on the cloth, and without washing that cloth, that has been given to put on Jagannātha.

Then Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi told, "These fellows they do not know what is śāstric practice, holy practices, do not know. These pūjā people they're savage, they're half civilised. Without washing they're going to put on such cloth which is that mark that the cloth extract of rice, that they gave and they're putting."

Then at that very night Jagannātha and Balarāma appeared in his dream.

"And what do you say? You have come to find fault with My servants, servitors here? A long way you have come to see Me, and you are finding fault with My eternal or daily servitors."

And Both of Them began to give slap on both cheeks of Puṇḍarīka. And in the morning Puṇḍarīka saw his two cheeks had swelled by the slap of Jagannātha and Balarāma.

Then he went to Svarūpa Dāmodara. "You see friend, I did some, I committed some offence. Jagannātha is so gracious He does not care for the defects of His devotees, His attendants. But I took some offence, and so both Jagannātha and Balarāma this night have punished me with slaps, and both of my cheeks are swelled so."

Svarūpa Dāmodara knew his value. "Oh you are, you have got the favour of Jagannātha's punishment. We do not have such favour. You are so great. You are so intimate devotee of Jagannātha that They have come to punish you. But that punishment we do not get any day. You are fortunate enough in this way."

This is Puṇḍarīka Vidyānidhi, very intimate devotee. So much so that he's told to be the father of Rādhārāṇī, that Vṛṣabhānu King's incarnation. His day of appearance is also today.

Then another, Dāsa Raghunātha. You perhaps everyone of you have heard his name. He was the son in the Hoogly near Bandan [?] station that side, a zamīndār's son. At that time their income was twenty lākhs, and twelve lākhs to be given to the Muslim bursar, king. And eight lākhs net income. Only one son, father and elder uncle, elder brother of father, and only one son, Raghunātha. And his heart began to cry for Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

When Mahāprabhu after sannyāsa He went to, on the way to Vṛndāvana He went to Ramakeli. And after seeing Rūpa, Sanātana came back here, stayed in Advaita bhavan. Raghunātha anyhow got permission from his father and came to see Śrī Caitanyadeva at Śantipura Advaita bhavan. And Mahāprabhu several days stayed there.

And Raghunātha also stayed so many days there, always praying, always praying. "How can I get rid of this affectionate protection of my guardians? I want to follow Your path. I want to follow Your footsteps. But I'm a rich man. I'm under the strong rule of my father and my greater uncle, elder uncle. How can I get relief?" In this way.

So anyhow Mahāprabhu told him, "Be calm and quiet. Don't be very bogus. And don't be very strictly a renouncer. But as much as necessary you take the help of food, etc, everything, food, bed, everything, don't do too much. Neither more enjoyment, nor more renunciation, but follow the middle path, yukta-vairāgya.

cidhau grhayau naha batu [?] Don't be mad, but go on and follow the middle way. And then Kṛṣṇa will be gracious enough and He will give you relief, release from this bondage. You go home."

With this benediction of Mahāprabhu he went home.

And anyhow once he met Nityānanda Prabhu. Nityānanda Prabhu blessed him.

All these things you'll find in the books.

Then one day anyhow he managed to escape from his home and went to Purī. About fifteen days perhaps he used to walk. Only three days he took anya prasādam by bhikṣā, otherwise on other days anything, a little water, or a little milk, begging, anyhow went.

And sixteen years he lived in Purī, with utmost vairāgya, abnegation. He used to anyhow to beg prasādam from the gate of Jagannātha Temple. Sometimes he used to take food from chatram.

Lastly we're told that the prasāda of Jagannātha which even, which is extra, superfluous, given to the cows of Jagannātha, the cow also did not, could not eat it for its rotten scent, that was left in some place. Raghunātha used to collect that rotten prasādam of Jagannātha, and took to his quarters. And with much water he used to wash them. And whatever little solid prasādam he found, applying some salt he used to take that.

It went to Mahāprabhu. "Raghunātha, he's taking prasādam in this fashion these days."

Mahāprabhu was charmed. He went to see. Just one day He was present when Raghunātha was taking that sort of prasādam. Mahāprabhu took it forcibly and ate it.

"I say I have eaten many types of prasādam, but so sweet prasādam I have never taken. I have never taken so sweet, so tasteful prasādam. Raghunātha, you take such prasādam every day and you all deprive Me, deprive us of such prasādam. How Jagannātha gives you prasādam, how sweetness is here?"

In this way Raghunātha's conduct was such. He was the only son of a big zamīndār and his case was such vairāgya. Then after the disappearance of Mahāprabhu, Raghunātha went to Vṛndāvana. He did not like to keep up his life any longer.

He thought, "From the top of Govardhana I shall fall down and finish mine."

But there he met Rūpa, Sanātana, and thought, "Oh, Mahāprabhu has not gone. He's still here in Rūpa and Sanātana."

He could find Mahāprabhu living in their writings, in their behaviour, in their fashion of discharging the duties faithful to Mahāprabhu as ordered.

_____ [?]

So Dāsa Goswāmī, "Oh, Mahāprabhu is living in Rūpa, Sanātana, so I can't leave this world."

So very closely he followed Rūpa, Sanātana, and what they wrote he studied. He himself also wrote many passages. Many fine beautiful devotional passages he has given us. So much so he's considered to be the ācārya prayojana-tattva, what is the highest end of our life in Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school. That was given by Raghunātha very, very clearly. That is Rādha-kaiṅkaryya, Rādha-kaiṅkaryya.

"Oh Kṛṣṇa."
No! He's addressing to Rādhārāṇī.

"My Reverent Lady, if You are not propitiated with me, this low servant, then I do not want anything else. Neither I want this Vṛndāvana, nor my life, even I do not like Kṛṣṇa. I don't want to have Kṛṣṇa, His grace, if I do not get You with Him. I want Your grace. I want Your service. We cannot venture to approach Kṛṣṇa for His direct service. You can do it. And we can help You so that You can help sometime and use our energy for the service of Kṛṣṇa. We are, You are our highest point of rich realisation. Fulfilment of life is with Your service, not direct service of Kṛṣṇa."

In this way he has given. And this is the siddhānta of the rūpānuga Vaiṣṇava, Rādhā-dāsya, Rādhā- kaiṅkaryya. So prayojana-tattva ācārya, this Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, his birthday, or day of appearance is today.

This appearance. And the disappearance day of Viśvanātha Cakravartī. You might have heard about him. He was a brāhmaṇa on the other side of the Ganges, Algadesa [?], this Devagram. A great scholar in Sanskrit, an erudite scholar, he had vast study of the different scriptures. He has very elaborate commentary of Bhāgavatam, given by Viśvanātha Cakravartī, and also Gītā, commentary on Gītā - Rasika-ranjan.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given two interpretations on Gītā. One, Vidyana-ranjan by Baladeva Vidyābhūṣaṇa, and Rasika-ranjan by Viśvanātha Cakravartī.

He dealt about the very sweet aspect of the līlā, Viśvanātha Cakravartī, especially in Gītā and Bhāgavatam. In Bhāgavata he has very, very elaborate commentary. And so many other books also.

He has also shown, as Kavirāj Goswāmī in Govinda-līlāmṛta, full eight hours, eight prahara (a three hour period) means twenty-four hour service to Kṛṣṇa. [Aṣṭa-kālīya-līlā].

This Viśvanātha Cakravartī Ṭhākura has written Śrī-Kṛṣṇa-Bhavanāmṛta there the twenty-four hours service to Rādhārāṇī, that is given by him, how it is possible.

And many books, Tridaṇḍim-Dukhana [?]. Sanātana Goswāmī has given Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, a substance, a short summary as given by Cakravartī Ṭhākura's Bhāgavatāmṛta, Amṛta-Kana, a drop of nectar, kana means drop, and nectar Bhāgavatāmṛta. Sanātana Goswāmī a summary of Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta given by Cakravartī Ṭhākura.

Kiran-Ujjvala-Nīlamaṇi, the very high order of mādhurya rasa vilāsa, gopī and Kṛṣṇa given. It is described relation in Rūpa Goswāmī's Ujjvala-Nīlamaṇi, and Nīlamaṇi Kiran, a ray of the gem of Ujjvala-Nīlamaṇi. In this way a very short description of what is found in Ujjvala-Nīlamaṇi by Rūpa Goswāmī.

Bhakti-rasāmṛta-bindhu-sindhu, the ocean of this bhakti-rasa, the juice of devotion given by Rūpa Goswāmī. And sindhu-bindhu, a drop of the ocean. In a very short book he has given the summary of all these books given by Cakravartī Ṭhākura.

This is the day of his disappearance. Lastly he left everything and resided in Rādhā-kuṇḍa, and his bābājī name was Harivallabha. Viśvanātha Cakravartī sannyāsa name, bābājī name was Harivallabha. And there he spent his last days and disappeared.

Another two gentlemen's day of disappearance. One was Bhāratī Mahārāja our Godbrother, a senior sannyāsī of Prabhupāda, he was a good preacher. And Siddhāntī Mahārāja is continuing his mission in Calcutta.

Another, Parvata Mahārāja, he preached in Orissa from where this Advaita Dāsa has come.

Advaita Dāsa has gone to attend that annual ceremony day of disappearance of Parvata Mahārāja, and also the annual festival of the Maṭh, he came to attend that. He also was a very good preacher, he was born in this Svarūpa Gañja.

From the beginning, from his childhood, he saw Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura next door. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura show the kuñja he built and lived there for his last days. Parvata Maharaja at that time he was Haripada Bhattadesi [?]

He told me, "I saw Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is chanting with very high, at the top of his voice, just as a man calls for another person who is far off, crying hard. So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura used to take the Name as if he's calling Kṛṣṇa who is very far, at the highest pitch of his voice. Hare Kṛṣṇa." In this way he saw him chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa.

His birth place is Svarūpa Gañja, and while young he went to our Guru Mahārāja, and lived for some time in Purī, then got sannyāsa and preached. A very, very hard worker we found him. From sometimes Gauḍīya Maṭh Uttsava ceremony period, from eight in the morning to eight at night he's wandering and begging for the service of the Lord, we found, hard worker. And also very, only two paisa, today suppose four annas maybe. This fried rice but he took it and whole day labouring, bhikṣā, for the service of Gurudeva, I saw.

So the day of disappearance of these two Godbrothers also this day. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So anyhow by our good fortune, good luck, from previous karma and sukṛti, we have come in connection with such thought.

brahmāṇḍa brhamite kona bhāgyavān jīva [guru-kṛṣṇa-prasāde pāya bhakti-latā-bīja]

["Wandering throughout the material universe, the very fortunate living entity who receives the grace of Guru and Kṛṣṇa receives the seed of the creeper of devotional service."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 19.151]

The appreciation, our soul, that is the witness, or evidence, what is our inner approval, that we have come to such a thought which can be thought to be the highest realisation of life ever conceived. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the highest realisation. And anyhow we have come to its connection. And we're trying our utmost that we may go on, forward, go forward, on this way, until and unless we come to our highest destination. Let our superiors, our Guru, our guide, help me in our feeble attempt, that one day we may go under, up to their feet, and may be allowed to get direct service of Them.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Markani-Saptamī, marka means Māgha, marka, Markani-Saptamī. The waning and waxing, waxing fortnight of the month Māgha [January-February] which is represented by the symbol of markara, generally a class of fish that lives in the sea in the jyotiśa astrology. Saptamī, the seventh day in the waxing moon in the month of Māgha occurred. Rasicakra [?] twelve months, twelve emblems. This day, the day of advent of Advaita Ācārya, Markani-Saptamī. Advaita Ācārya. Advaita Ācārya is told to be the incarnation of Mahā-Viṣṇu.

["Lord Advaita Ācārya is the incarnation of Mahā-Viṣṇu, whose main function is to create the cosmic world through the actions of māyā."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 6.4]

Who is at the background of the whole misconceived area. Puruṣāvatāra, Kāraṇodakaśāyī, Garbhodakaśāyī, and Kṣīrodakaśāyī, these three incarnations of Viṣṇu, Nārāyaṇa. The relativity with this misconceived world, in three forms, in three phases. Mahā-Viṣṇu. Sadāśiva and Mahā-Viṣṇu, almost similar. One aspect is devotional function towards the higher. Another function to supervise and manage the misconceived area of the whole, between misconception and proper conception.

Brahman is the buffer state, the marginal line. On the other side, the beginning of the specified liberated area in the spiritual realm. That is Sadāśiva, or Mahā-Viṣṇu, the worshipping stage of the conscious area, all devoted that current towards the centre. The first trace from this side. And the last trace from the central side, nearby māyā. That is Mahā-Viṣṇu, Advaita Ācārya. From the other side, the inner side of Vaikuṇṭha, Brahmāloka, that side is, when Śiva, a devotee Śiva. When after crossing the nirviśeṣa, the non- differentiated part, when again differentiation is found in the illusory area, there is Śiva, māyādveśa Śiva, māyāpati Śiva. mayam prikrtim vidvam maheśvaram [?]

The jīva soul, as a general, when master of māyā, and not within the clutches of māyā, this misunderstanding, misconception. That is Mahā-Viṣṇu, Kāraṇodakaśāyī. He's in a plane, and by His, ____[?], the slight suggestion, the working in the misconceived area can begin.

Tal-liṅgaṁ bhagavān śambhur, in Brahmā-saṁhita [8]. The ray from Him, coming and entering into misconceived area. That is Śambhu. Passing that non-differentiated conscious, and half-conscious area, coming. The ray coming, the focus coming into dark area. From the true conception, to the misconception, like a breeze coming. And that is at the bottom of the whole creation. Kāraṇārṇava. Blissful substance. The mixing with misconception, the first...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...this way, then we shall be considered a proper candidate to march in the infinite world. That is the key.

...also very particular about this nirjana bhajana, this solitary taking of the Name, or thinking, meditation. No, not reliable.

...

...He's so wonderful that in spite of all these cheatings everything is all right. Ha, ha. How it is possible? Cheating is also more than grace, cheating is not cheating.

When you think, suppose mother affectionately is cheating her child, if he's not fit to get proper diet. When he's sick she may not give a sort of diet to him. She may give other children some food and may not give that very food to another child. That is the affection in the bottom. The difference in the dealings of the same mother to different children, that may be in different ways, but it is all affectionate and healthy.

So vaicitra, variety, variegatedness means difference in response from the centre. As you deserve, so you have. You may think that 'I'm being deceived,' but it is not deception. It will fit you best. You may not know. Jñāna śūnya bhakti, ignorant faith.

"You do not know everything. But in My dealing there is nothing wrong, absolute good."

He's cheating, stealing something from someone, and giving that thing to another one. In such dealing also there is fairness and perfect affection. Ha, ha. He's stealing His own things.

Yaśodā has kept things for His utility. He can take it plainly, but He won't take it, He will steal it. And causing some agitation in the mind of the mother, causing a sort of happy impression. Though apparently she seems to be angry, Yaśodā, but still at heart she's very, very satisfied.

"My Boy is my Boy. They say that He's not my Son. Some say He's God. Some say He's a great soul. He's not my Boy. Who? He's stealing, feeling, playing with me. I'm punishing Him and He's crying. He's my Boy. But they say wrong, foolishly." Very satisfied at heart. "He's my Boy, exceptional qualities, but my Boy. He's not God, He's not God. If He's God then I'm nowhere. I'm an insignificant woman, and He's God, how can I have any connection with Him? That is horrible. I can't tolerate that, that He's not my Boy He's God, I can't tolerate that idea."

Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

So what is cheating, and what is giving? Everything may be played as in a drama. Drama's credit is in show, not in the matters that is dealt within it. Only the cleverness in the show, that is the credit of the drama, and not in the fact. If a man can show, play the part of a thief or a dacoit very well, then the applause will come: "Oh." So only concerned with the show, not with the material in the drama. So like that.

First I was told in Benares by Guru Mahārāja, Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura. He was talking with a māyāvādī, discussing. In course of that, I was a newcomer, but listening to his words with very rapt attention. I marked, he told, siṅgha prasena arovin dwaraka [?] The lion is devouring this prasena anabadit prasena [?]

Prasena was perhaps the brother of Satyabhāmā, siṅgha prasena anabadit [?]

Satrajit's son in the morning he went on a pleasure tour in the jungle, and one lion charmed by the dazzling appearance of the gem murdered that, killed that gentleman Prasena, and took that gem with him.

In that incident Guru Mahārāja is explaining there that the both parties are enjoying. Prasena, though he's killed, but still he's enjoying. And the lion he's also enjoying. Both the parties are enjoyers, none losers, because real death is not possible in that playing. Both are enjoying. One who is dying, and one who is killing, both the parties are enjoyers. We're to understand that, how it is possible. The gainer and the loser in the same incident, gainer and the loser both are gainer and none is real loser. Such is the playing. We're to try to understand how it is possible. Both the parties, one is being murdered and another is murdered, both are gainer, none is loser. Ha, ha.

Such is the play, it is a play, līlā, līlā means play. Not really any loss, that is līlā. Ahaitukī, apratihatā, which is causeless and which is irresistible. The wave, the vibration, that is existing and moving, and that is cent per cent irresistible, and cent per cent causeless, automatic, none can oppose it. That is devotion, that is prema, that is love. But it has got its flow in a crooked way.

aher iva gatiḥ premṇaḥ, [svabhāva-kuṭilā bhavet / ato hetor ahetoś ca, yūnor māna udañcati]

["Just as a serpent naturally moves in a crooked way, in a zigzag way, the nature of love is naturally crooked. It is not straight. So the concerned parties quarrel, sometimes with cause and sometimes without cause, and separation comes. Separation is necessary for the transcendental pastimes of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."]

[Ujjvala-nīlamaṇi]

In a crooked way, but still it is playing. Līlā means such. Everything, ārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ, [Śrīmad- Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1], He knows what for these movements, only He's supposed to know, none else. And svarāṭ, He's not to explain for His movement to anyone else. He's self-sufficient, svarāṭ. He's master of His own, not responsible to explain His movements to any other person. Then He's not svarāṭ, not Absolute. Because He's Absolute, so He won't have any responsibility to give explanation for any movement of Him to anybody. And ahaitukī, apratihatā. This must be the nature of the Absolute Good. And it is wholesome at the same time. Svarāṭ, Who is free, absolutely free, Who is Absolute Good He should be free. Absolute Goodness, that should get all sort of freedom, and not absolute bad, and not relative bad, or relative good. Only Absolute Good has got Its full play. It is desirable for anyone and everyone. So the autocracy and He knows Him fully, ārtheṣv abhijñaḥ svarāṭ.

How do you know? How do you say? Tene brahma hṛdā, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1), through Veda, through revealed scripture, and that He sends through the creator here. Bhāgavata's first śloka. Tene brahma means Veda, revealed scripture, tene, He extended here in this mundane world. Ādi-kavaye means the first creator, Brahmā, through him He extended this Vedic Truth, the revealed scripture, here in the mundane world for us to understand, to follow, that I am so and so. Otherwise we can't know Him. Unknown and unknowable. Avāṅ-manaso gocaraḥ [the mind is full of misconception]. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

Only when He wants us to make Him known we can know Him, otherwise not. He wants, and how much He wants to be known by us we can know that much only, nothing more. His will. Muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ, [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.1], the great scholars they will fail totally to understand, to follow this idea. The sūrayaḥ means the scholars, they can't understand all these things, can't accept, can't understand, can't follow, muhyanti yat sūrayaḥ. Tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā. What you see here concrete, the matter, the water, the gas, the heat, the fire, the ether, all transformation, one into another. Now what is very hard, next moment that can be converted into gas, or ether, electricity, maybe transformed. In this way, into mental consciousness, into understanding and intelligence also it may be converted.

As our Guru Mahārāja used to tell, "If you can break the electron, atom, proton, the most constructive smallest piece, still it is matter. Again if you break you will find consciousness." That was his argument. "If you can break, you can smash, the last particle of matter, then you will find consciousness. It is under, at the back of every existence is consciousness. It is in the plane of consciousness that the material dusts are moving, you will have to find. The magnitude, atomic energy with the least magnitude, break it, you will find consciousness." Sometimes he told like that. "The background of all the existence is consciousness."

Tejo-vāri-mṛdāṁ yathā vinimayo yatra tri-sargo 'mṛṣā. "So what do you say to be rigid matter, or water, or air. It is real and non real. It is My sweet will. I'm at the back. If I withdraw, nothing there will be. I'm everywhere, I'm nowhere. Everything in Me, nothing in Me. Pasyama, My, this mystic inconceivable position try to understand."

Dhāmnā svena sadā nirasta-kuhakaṁ satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi. By His ray only we can see what is what, dhāmnā svena sadā. When His wish comes to act in us, then we can know what is proper, what is improper. Nirasta-kuhakaṁ, unreliable things are withdrawn. Satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi. Truth and real truth, truth is always real and again real higher truth, what is that? Satyaṁ. Satyaṁ means existence, that is not finite. Already we find in the Vedas that satya has been given, truth has been given perfect importance, full importance. But the Bhāgavata says under adjective paraṁ satyaṁ, satyaṁ paraṁ. In Brahmastal [?], satya-vrataṁ satya-paraṁ tri-satyaṁ, satyasya yoniṁ nihitaṁ ca satye

satyasya satyam ṛta-satya-netraṁ, satyātmakaṁ tvāṁ śaraṇaṁ prapannāḥ

["The demigods prayed: O Lord, You never deviate from Your vow, which is always perfect because whatever You decide is perfectly correct and cannot be stopped by anyone. Being present in the three phases of cosmic manifestation — creation, maintenance and annihilation — You are the Supreme Truth. Indeed, unless one is completely truthful, one cannot achieve Your favour, which therefore cannot be achieved by hypocrites. You are the active principle, the real truth, in all the ingredients of creation, and therefore You are known as antaryāmī, the inner force. You are equal to everyone, and Your instructions apply for everyone, for all time. You are the beginning of all truth. Therefore, offering our obeisances, we surrender unto You. Kindly give us protection."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.2.26]

Truth, truth, truth, so many aspects of truth. Satyasya satyam ṛta-satya-netraṁ. Truth of the truth. Satyasa satyam means, literally, truth of the truth. Satyasa satyam. So satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi. Satya means not law, not any, the inner substance. Satyasa satyam. The truth of the truth. The essence of the essence. Satyasa satyam. Ṛta-satya-netraṁ. Satyasya yoniṁ nihitaṁ ca satye. How the conception of Kṛṣṇa, and the conception of truth are interrelated, it is mentioned here. Truth is the most comprehensive word, truth. But truth is not sufficient, it is not full, so many modifications in truth. That is wonderful to hear and to understand. Truth is the most general conception, truth. But it is not satyaṁ paraṁ dhīmahi. Let us meditate on the highest truth. What is that? Who is helping the very existence of truth, so called. So,

satyasya satyam ṛta-satya-netraṁ, satyātmakaṁ tvāṁ śaraṇaṁ prapannāḥ

"We have come to take refuge under You my Lord, who has got so many variegated postures and gestures and relations with what we know as the truth proper. Truth is not sufficient. You are above truth. Truth is truth to us because You are there in the background. You connect us with the truth, then we can know the truth. So without You everything is nonsense. You are such...

...gods have come and with folded palms he's singing in praise of Kṛṣṇa.
There this poem in Bhāgavatam we find, begins with that. Satya-vrataṁ satya-paraṁ.

So our number of - let us hope wherever this body may be does not matter, only by thinking we can come together, similar thinking keeps us closer. Similar thought, similar heart, similar movement, similar aspiration, that brings us nearer. The body may be far off, does not matter.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.
So I close here.

Devotee: Concerning a Deity, a brahmacārī who has a Deity, who carries a Deity with him. What is some prescribed worship of the Deity for the brahmacārī, not for householders?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Deity worship is necessary in the primary stage. Just as our ear experience can help us by taking Name, hearing. So eye experience cannot be excluded. That also can help us. If material sound can help, then material vision also can help. Through that also, transmission is possible. When we have faith in sound, sound is more subtle, but still it is material thing, sound, which is received by the ear, this material ear, sound material. So material eye can see material form and that experience also can help us.

He can come through that medium also, but that must have spiritual connection, that is what is all important. All sound, the Nāma-aparādha, we may take Name from any man in the street. That won't do. But from a proper Gurudeva we must have the mantram or the Nāma. Why? The sound has also classification, śabda-brahma, that real sound and the spiritual sound. Do you follow?

So, what we can see, that also may be spiritual, and also can be material. So matter won't help us to get out of the material experience. But a spiritual sight can help us to get out of the material, as spiritual sound can help us to get out of the material sound. So everything, that transcendental medium. But it is more efficient, the sound more subtle, more efficient. Prasāda, taste, that also real prasāda, that also helps us to get out of the material conception of life. Touch also like that, everything. Everything if backed by transcendental interference, then everything may help us, even our dress, tvayopabhukta-srag-gandha, if we dress ourselves Uddhava says,

ucchiṣṭa-bhojino dāsās, tava māyāṁ jayema hi

["Adorned with the articles that have been offered to You, such as garlands, fragrant clothing, and ornaments, we, Your personal servitors who partake of Your holy remnants alone, will certainly be able to conquer Your illusory energy (māyā)."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.6.46]

The famous statement of the devotee Uddhava. "We shall conquer this illusion of māyā, our illusory experience, only by engaging ourselves in the service of Your prasāda remains. Srag, this mālā, prasādi mālā. Gandha, which You have already taken, that sweet scent. Srag-gandha-, vāso, the dress what we have already taken to that prasāda to dress ourselves. Alaṅkāra, and other ornaments also. We can, what You have used, that prasāda, that it is remains You have given it to us. With this idea we shall conquer the māyā, this world of misunderstanding."

Only anyhow to connect sincerely with things connected with transcendental Lord, that is necessary. So ucchiṣṭa, the sight, our eyes must not be let loose to see anything and everything. But wherever I shall see, seeing connection of the Lord, His figure, His dressing, His ornaments, His Dhāma. The eyes must be engaged in His connection. Ear must be engaged in His connection. Tongue His connection, touch His connection, everything should be engaged in His connection. And that must be developed, that sort of experience, then we shall get out of this mundane environment. Do you understand?

Then also it is mentioned.

yena janma-śataiḥ pūrvaṁ, vāsudevaḥ samārcitaḥ tan-mukhe hari-nāmāni, sadā tiṣṭhanti bhārata

["O descendent of Bhārata! What was previously obtained by hundreds of lifetimes of worshipping Vāsudeva through arcana - Deity worship - can now be attained by vibrating the Holy Name of Śrī Hari; therefore you should always keep the Holy Name upon your tongue."] [Hari-bhakti-vilāsa, 11.237]

One who has used himself in arcana for a hundred births, then he will find that automatically in his tongue the Name of the Lord will appear. Yena janma-śataiḥ pūrvaṁ, vāsudevaḥ samārcitaḥ. This Vāsudeva Mūrti has been worshipped for a hundred births, then he will have some facility in taking the Name of the Lord, which is more subtle. So arcana for the lower class, and the Nāma for little higher class, arcana. But arcana depends on sound. Sound also guides our arcana. Who cannot independently take the facility of the sound, some model is necessary for him, in the lowest stage, arcana. He will be allowed to handle the things that will, he can't concentrate on the sound and the meaning underlying the sound. But if he's allowed to handle the Vigraha, with the hands, with the eyes, and so many movements, he will have the facility, and in his stage he will think it's some realistic movement for him. The wholesale, more demand on the bodily engagement in arcana than sound. Sound is more abstract, and arcana is more concrete. Much energy is necessary to perform arcana. But to take the Name, very least energy necessary, to take the Name. And arcana, you're to do many things. So the movement, it will catch the movement of the whole body. And regularly you'll have to rise in the morning, for maṅgala-ārati. Then you're to purify yourself, and then to attend, and then to take the bhoga, and taking out, ārati, all these things. More physical intense engagement in arcana.

Devotee: For a brahmacārī who doesn't have any fixed residence...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahmacārī or sannyāsī does not matter. But that stage of the devotee is conscious, not only the form, the stage, the internal realisation, accordingly. But generally the sannyāsī they're meant for preaching, and brahmacārī is for the arcana. But in brahmacārī dress also one can preach. In gṛhastha dress also one can preach. The preaching thing is something else. Arcana also, a gṛhastha may do arcana. Anyone can do anything. But the general classification is that arcana in the beginning, and the Name is a higher form of service, Nāma-bhajana.

When to take Name means to preach, that is something solid. And when to only take the Name, that may be abstract, and there is possibility of self deception. Self privation, no attention may come, the repetition of the sound is going on, with any sort of idea.

Arcana means we must have to utilise some energy more than in Nāma-bhajana. Nāma-bhajana is higher than, must be in higher plane, and arcana in the physical plane has more necessity. That is a gṛhastha he should have arcana, because he's in gṛhastha āśrama he's to deal with many things...

...material things, and very little in the sound. The serving attitude in connection with the personal truth must have connection, whatever we do here. Either arcana or bhajana, preaching, or śravaṇa, kīrtana, smaraṇa, vandana, any form of devotion, the very life, very spirit is to have connection with the Supreme. Some sort of movement must be created in our mental plane. And some change must be brought in our mental system. That is, the tendency of exploitation and renunciation, both must vanish, and it will be replaced by the tendency of service. We're serving units. We're not a member of the world of exploitation, nor a hunter of the imaginary liberation. But we're a concrete part of the realistic world, whole centre. The Lord is all good. Die to live. Everything for Himself. We're for Him. We're not for us, our individual interest, but we're for the whole. And whole is revered, whole is sweet, whole is healthy, wholesome, loving. That sort of change must come in our midst, anyhow, utmost trying...

Sanātana Goswāmī, he's also seen - offer something, to Madana Mohana. But that is not the arcana of a beginner devotee. But something direct, giving and taking.

Madana Mohana, Vigraha, Deity, He was in a gṛhastha house.

Sanātana Goswāmī got a dream, that, "I'm there, in that village, in that family. You please take Me and install Me in a place and serve Me."

Sanātana Goswāmī was acquainted with the family. He went everywhere for mādhukarī.

And the householder was also given dream at the same time. "Sanātana will come, and you must give, hand over Me to him."

Sanātana approached that householder. But the householder was very mortified. With broken heart he gave, he delivered the Deity to Sanātana.

Sanātana went to take that Deity, and placed in his cottage. And something, he gives flower, ____ [?] he collects, and with some salt he prepared _____ [?] bread, and offers to Him. And he takes that.

A few days after, another dream came in him. "Sanātana, I can't eat this _____ [?] salt. First deliver salt. You must give some salt there, because I can't eat without salt."

Sanātana Goswāmī told, "You, my Lord, You have come to tease me. To tease me You have come. I'm a sannyāsī. Where shall I get that salt thereby?"

"No, no."

Then what to do? He's to get some salt. Then again, Sanātana found he must apply. Otherwise ____ [?]

He does not keep me in His camp _____ [?] Then Sanātana says, "You have come to tease me, my Lord. _____ [?]

"Sanātana, you'll have to do much more, higher duty _____ [?]

That is not under arcana. That is another, higher thing.

arcayam eva haraye, pūjām yaḥ śraddhāyehate
na tad-bhakteṣu cānyeṣu, [sa bhaktaḥ prākṛtaḥ smṛtaḥ]

["A devotee who faithfully worships the Deity, but does not properly respect the Vaiṣṇavas or the people in general is called a materialistic devotee, and is considered to be in the lowest position of devotional service."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.2.47]

When a devotee cannot appreciate devotion into the heart of a devotee, a Vaiṣṇava. Can't appreciate Vaiṣṇava. Can't serve Vaiṣṇava. _____ [?] a man. And there is the Deity. Deity has come direct. And here's a man - how much devotion he's got I don't know. So in such stage the Deity worship will help us more. And when we can understand that in the heart of a devotee, whatever thing is there, he's regulating his whole activities, whole life, for God consciousness. A little of God consciousness is regulating a man, there is higher presence of Deity, than the Mūrti. _____ [?] Then he will, leaving the worshipping of the Deity, he will come to serve a Vaiṣṇava. He finds that the higher kind of spiritual presence is in the heart, and that is regulating his whole mental system. That is more efficient presence there. And if I serve a Vaiṣṇava, then that kind of pure and higher spiritual serving substance, will come from his heart to my heart, and will awake in me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...the background of the whole of misconceived area, māyāic area, māyā. Then, that mixing produces so many brahmāṇḍas. So many particles of misconceived area.

...

...who are connected with the misconceived area.

And the second representative of Him as Garbhodakaśāyī. He's at the bottom of each brahmāṇḍa. There are innumerable brahmāṇḍas.

And Kāraṇodakaśāyī is at the back of all the creation in the ocean of māyā. So many bubbles are floating on the ocean of māyā, misunderstanding.

And the next, there are so many brahmāṇḍa constituent parts of the māyāic world and at the bottom of each brahmāṇḍa there is one Whose Name is Garbhodakaśāyī, the representative of Kāraṇodakaśāyī.

Just as with the governor or district magistrate and this local magistrate.

In this way the Kāraṇodakaśāyī at the head of the whole misunderstanding area. And He has got some connection so that we may think Him as Mahādeva, Śiva, Who is in connection with māyā. The consciousness that has got direct connection with misunderstanding, misconception, that which is at the root of the whole misconception area, Kāraṇodakaśāyī. And so many constituent parts in the misconceived area and every representative in the Garbhodakaśāyī, or Hiraṇyagarbha, He represents Kāraṇodakaśāyī in each brahmāṇḍa, Garbhodakaśāyī, Hiraṇyagarbha.

And from His navel, this navi, a lotus coming forth and there the fourteen stages of misconception have been adjusted. And on the top there is Brahmā, and through Brahmā He begins creation. That is this cosmic world, cosmos. Garbhodakaśāyī.

And then another representative of His, the third, He enters into every jīva soul, Kṣīrodakaśāyī, or Paramātmā. So three Puruṣa, one at the bottom of the whole māyāic, the whole misconceived area. Another at the bottom of the whole brahmāṇḍa, the constituent parts. And the third Puruṣa Avatāra at every jīva soul's heart, at the heart of every jīva soul, to guide him as Paramātmā. Three phases of Nārāyaṇa, Viṣṇu, within this Paramātmā who is at the heart of every soul, individual, He's known generally as Kṣīrodakaśāyī, or Paramātmā, or Viṣṇu. He's palankata, He maintains, He sustains everything here in the māyāic world. Satya, raja, tama, creation and destruction, and the sustenance in the middle. Creation and destruction, raja and tama, and the sustenance in the middle, that is done by Viṣṇu, creation by Brahmā, destruction by Rudra, Mahādeva. Which we find in this mundane world of misconception.

And Advaita Ācārya is identified with Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī [a.k.a Kāraṇodakaśāyī]. Who is at the background of the whole of misunderstanding creation. And also, His another aspect as a devotee just in the verge, in the lower position of the Vaikuṇṭha Nārāyaṇa. This is Advaita Ācārya. And as Mahā-Viṣṇu's devotee, he comes, he appears here, just as before Mahāprabhu comes, and he began to pray.

"We see so many painful stages and positions of the jīva suffering."

And perturbed by that, moved by that, he prayed for the Lord to come here, and to deliver and to save them from the clutches of māyā, and by giving them proper devotion and attraction and affection for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. So first Advaita Ācārya descends here, and then he looks around and finds that people are all apathetic to the truth, to Nārāyaṇa.

"They're very fond of worshipping demigods, so many demigods. And going on with their temporary pleasure searching. Mad with that, without caring for their own soul, or liberation, or the life after liberation to have a proper adjustment in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

And he's too much disturbed by this scenery, he prays very fervently for the Lord to come here and to preach the Name, the Supreme Name, Nāma-saṇkīrtana, by which a general amnesty, and peaceful trial, effort, may be done to start a campaign towards home, back to God, back to home. This Nāma-saṇkīrtana.

And Mahāprabhu with others they also gradually come down here and begin Their Nāma-saṇkīrtana.

golokera prema-dhana, hari-nāma-saṅkīrtana, [rati nā janmila kene tāya.]

[Narottama dāsa Ṭhākura regretted that he did not pursue his attraction for the transcendental vibration of the Hare Kṛṣṇa mantra.] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 4.22.15, purport]

The Kṛṣṇa Nāma and Kṛṣṇa, one and the same. That vibration, that sort of sweet vibration anyhow taken down to this miserable ocean of the world. That is where all they do not understand their own interest, own self, or the environment, but they're madly dancing. As a drunkard they dance without caring, or knowing about who are they, or where are they, what for they're dancing. Just as they say these people are madly engaged in their self-killing attempt. But there, that vibration of the highest type of love divine brought in, and with that saṇkīrtana disinfecting this atmosphere. And also creating some influence which can attract them passing so many stages towards Vṛndāvana, the place golokera prema-dhana, to Goloka, Vṛndāvana conception of the highest position of reality or consciousness, spiritual world. Which is above justice, above knowledge, above calculation, above morality. The mercy, the affection, the love, the beauty, charm absolute. That is the type there.

I wrote a poem about my Guru Mahārāja, long ago, it runs in this way.

nikhila-bhuvana-māyā-chinna-vichinna-kartrī
[vibudha-bahula-mṛgyā-mukti-mohānta-dātrī śithilita-vidhi-rāgārādhya-rādheśa-dhānī vilasatu hṛdi nityaṁ bhaktisiddhānta-vāṇī]

["Slashing and smashing the illusion of the whole mundane plane, Dealing the deathblow to the scholars' manic search for liberation's throne; Relaxing calculation, for the realm of Pure Devotion in Love of Śrī Rādhā's Lord Supreme: O Abode of Divine Love - Divine Message of Śrī-Bhakti-Siddhānta, May you dance and play and sing your song within my heart forever."]

Our Guru Mahārāja's name was Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī. Saraswatī means vāṇī, words, expressions, his talk, his speech, vāṇī, Saraswatī means vāṇī, speech. With the speech, with the storehouse of which I am. Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, what does he mean? His name, what does it mean? Saraswatī means vāṇī, that is his words surcharged with what? The first thing is nikhila-bhuvana-māyā-chinna-vichinna-kartrī. We can find in his speech that he's cutting asunder all the ties and attraction of all the people in this world for mundane purpose, the world of exploitation. His speech is always cutting asunder, demolishing, smashing everything in this misconceived world. All the misconceptions are being smashed by his words. This is the first effect of his words.

And the next, vibudha-bahula-mṛgyā-mukti-mohānta-dātrī. The second result we find from his speech that he goes to deplorable end, all the different attempts of the great theological scholars to search for liberation. Bhukti means enjoyment, mukti means liberation, emancipation from enjoyment. He puts a stop to all scholarly investigation of all different kinds of conception of liberation. That is the second result of his speech, his words. This effect, first stops enjoyment, and second stops liberation. So this is nothing, mere liberation is nothing. That is, we must get something positive, and not only liberation from the negative that is not the highest acquisition. So vibudha-bahula-mṛgyā, vibudha means scholars, bahula means their various and deep attempts for the solution of the liberation, the attempt. That is smashed also by his words.

And the third, śithilita-vidhi, loosening the strictness of the rules and regulations. Raga, which is our inner earnestness and faith and attraction, affection, love, only through that to take us towards rādheśa-dhānī. By that to worship, to serve, where Rādhārāṇī is serving Her own Lord. Takes us there.

These three steps, by first step he drives away all our moha, our ignorant attraction for this māyāic attraction for the enjoyment of this material world in the misconceived area.

And the second also he discourages only to search for liberation or emancipation from this enjoyment. That also he discards. He offers something positive. And what is the nature of that positive? If we make much attention towards the śāstra, the rules regulations, calculation, according to that if we approach towards our achievement, then that will be less gaining.

But if we neglect any calculation, and from the heart of our heart, we with much earnestness without caring for rules, regulations, śāstra, mahājana, sādhu, we can offer our heart for the charming Lord, beauty, and where Rādhārāṇī is serving in that, through that divine love, Her consort, Her Lord, that he really wants us to gain.

Our Guru Mahārāja's words are surcharged with such things. First smashing this misunderstanding, and neglecting mere liberation, and also discouraging the calculative devotion. And finally he's giving us the unlimited beauty and domain of love, and to approach through the love of our hearts, sincere love of our hearts. That is his gift. His words are a storehouse of such things. Firstly neglecting all these three stages, this brahmāṇḍa, then the Brahmāloka, and Paravyoma, neglecting entrance into Goloka. And there that sort of wealth he comes to distribute to all.

nikhila-bhuvana-māyā-chinna-vichinna-kartrī
vibudha-bahula-mṛgyā-mukti-mohānta-dātrī
śithilita-vidhi-rāgārādhya-rādheśa-dhānī

Neglecting the formality, but with the heart's spirit, proper spirit, and love, the searching for Kṛṣṇa, he gives us, encourages us that thing within us. And that can lead us to the domain where Rādhārāṇī has been through Her highest love is worshipping or serving Her Lord Kṛṣṇa. That he gives us, in one very short śloka.

That is appreciated very much by Acyutānanda and Maṇgala ____ [?] when this Maṇgala _____ [?] went to see Acyutānanda.

Acyutānanda before that he told something, "By the request of ISKCON some are against me."

Maṇgala _____ [?] told that, "I saw him and I told, do you remember that stanza of Śrīdhara Mahārāja? That nikhila-bhuvana-māyā-chinna-vichinna-kartrī?"

He also told, "Yes, I remember. That comes from his heart. And you have said something against him. What is this?"

"Oh. I was somewhat manipulated to do that."

Then he wrote a letter. Have you seen that letter of Acyutānanda's?

Devotee: Yes Mahārāja. (I've read it many times.)

(Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Many times, after coming or before?)

(Devotee: After coming.)

(Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And he told that I like to come here. But I did not reply to his letter. Let him come, if he comes then I shall talk. That gentleman heard from me something. He lived here...)

...for nine months, and heard from me, and gave an article into Back to Godhead. And that was appreciated very much I was told by him. "From shore to shore" he told, just pronounced these words, "From shore to shore it was very much appreciated, this article, the materials I got from you, and I wrote in the Back to Godhead."

Then a reaction came against him. "Leaving away Swāmī Mahārāja, you are taking in another gentleman as a preceptor, in the preceptorial line, you are indenting another gentleman from Navadwīpa. This will loose our credit."

Then some pressure came. Then he came here to enquire from Govinda Mahārāja, because Swāmī Mahārāja gave a letter in the name of Govinda Mahārāja, that, "I rely on Śrīdhara Maharaja. I send them two disciples there, and they will remain, and they will be able to learn true devotion from him. With this idea I send them there."

So Acyutānanda told them that, "By the order of Swāmī Mahārāja I came, and he has written that I shall have to learn many things from Śrīdhara Mahārāja. So I did, I heard from him. I'm not to be blamed for that."

But at that time that letter could not be found. Ha, ha. The original letter, that could not be found. So he had to tolerate some undesirable things from his Godbrothers. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

The form and the ideal. So Kīrtanānanda came, "Do we not care for form?"
"No."
Form breaker. You are also all of that type. You were already in some formality, either Christianity, or Islam, or Judaism, or something, you were there within the form. Why you have broken that form and come, joined Swāmī Maharaja? For the ideal. If the form can distribute the proper ideal, then that is all right. But mere form cannot be respected. As long as it's doing service to the highest ideal, so long the form should be encouraged, and that should have recognition. Otherwise, deviating from the ideal, that form is abusing itself. So we're not worshippers of form. We're worshippers of the ideal.
Sarva-dharmān parityajya. Sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ.

[sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

[śreyān sva-dharmo viguṇaḥ, para-dharmāt svanuṣṭhitāt
sva dharme nidhanaṁ śreyaḥ, para-dharmo bhayāvahaḥ]

["It is better to carry out one's own duties a little imperfectly rather than faultlessly perform another's duties. Know that even death is auspicious in the discharge of one's duties appropriate to his natural position in the ordained socio-religious system, because to pursue another's path is perilous."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.35]

That is also to make too much for the form. We must die in our own position where we are born. But again, sarva-dharmān parityajya, the revolutionary advice is there. No risk no gain. If you are caught by the high ideal, you must leave the formalities outside you, around you, and march boldly towards the ideal. Especially in this human form, it is very rarely to be found, and if we lose this chance, then again when we shall get that, another occasion, such a chance we're not sure of that. So this most valuable time in human body we shall try our best, utmost, to march towards the goal, recklessly and boldly so that our, with the great devotees, the agents of Kṛṣṇa on our head, they will help us, guide us. Those unknown and who are para-duḥkha duḥkhī [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.18.12, purport], always feeling pain for other's suffering. Those magnanimous guides are on the way, they will help us to take towards our goal. We shall try our utmost. He is there. He's everywhere.

[pārtha naiveha nāmutra, vināśas tasya vidyate] na hi kalyāṇa-kṛt kaścid, durgatiṁ tāta gacchati

["O Arjuna, son of Kuntī, the unsuccessful yogī does not suffer ruination either in this life or the next. He is not deprived of the pleasures of the heavenly planetary systems in this universe, nor is he denied the chance to personally see the Supersoul in the divine realm. This is so, O dear one, because a person who performs virtuous actions never becomes ill-fated."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.40]

If I'm making an attempt for higher things, then how can I be disturbed by the agents of Satanic clan. He's there. I must be sincere in my search. That is what is necessary, I must be friendly to my own self. That is sufficient. Others cannot do anything on us much injury, much harm, others cannot do. We're our own enemy. We must have control of our own house. That is what is necessary. And with the help, heart within, God overhead. He's everywhere with His full mercy. He's eager to receive us as His friend. And we must prepare ourselves wholeheartedly to make advance towards Him. That is what is necessary. He's everywhere. He's hearing everything. Only we have built wall against Him. Our own built wall must be broken down. That is misconception, in the form of exploitation, that is enjoyment, and renunciation, mere liberation. Not positive participation into His service. So cruel, so hard hearted we are. But when that wall is broken we can find His self everywhere. Everywhere, His assurance.

man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī māṁ namaskuru

["For one who sees Me in everything and everything in Me, I do not remain unseen and he also is not unnoticed by Me: he never sways in his thought of Me."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.30]

"Who wants to, tries to see Me everywhere, I always protect him, seeing Me everywhere, and ultimately he sees Me everywhere. And while in this life or after, he cannot but be within Me, or within My direct consciousness. Try, that I'm to be searched."

Kṛṣṇānusandhāna. Searching we are always for our little negligent comforts. That must be dismissed, brushed aside. Search for Kṛṣṇa.

Where Mahāprabhu showed, "You, My friends, show Kṛṣṇa to Me. I can't stand without having a glimpse of His figure, My Lord's figure."

Searching, deep hearted searching for Kṛṣṇa. He's worth deep searching, worth deep searching. And the searching as much as it will be deeper, so much we'll be sustained. It will feed us, that sustenance that will feed us, give us strength for searching more and more. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

The bhakti will encourage bhakti. Devotion will produce devotion. In this way, further we shall go.

The capitalist with a small amount he begins the business, but rolling business, rolling gradually capital grows and the income also grows. In the beginning with small capital a merchant may begin his business, but in the rolling business the capital also grows, and the income also grows.

So in this way, bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, devotion will breed devotion, devotion will breed devotion, produce devotion. In this way it will go on. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. One who has got this sort of higher experience of divine love in their heart, they cannot find any taste anywhere. Nothing is tasteful to them, but Kṛṣṇa. No less than Kṛṣṇa conception of the Lord, friend, can satisfy them, any time.

"And who are satisfied with Me." maya santustami sadba sukha maya do [?]

"Whatever direction he will cast his glance he will find, 'Oh, good news is coming,' who is satisfied with Me. And who cannot find Me whatever direction he casts his glance he will find only anxiety and trouble."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Yasmin tuṣṭe jagat [tuṣṭam priṇite priṇito jagat] [By satisfying Kṛṣṇa, the whole universe becomes satisfied, for one who is dear to Kṛṣṇa is dear to the whole universe.]

If we can find Him, then we'll be quite at ease.

"Oh, my guardian is everywhere. His hand is everywhere. Everything under His control. And He's my friend, my guardian. Then why should we care for anything else here? I won't care for anything because everything must have to come through the direction of my guardian's hand. He's friendly."

Suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ.

[bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram
suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati]

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

"I'm the controller of everything, but I'm friendly to everything, to everyone."

So when you can realise this fact, then only you are relieved from all sort of anxiety, no anxiety, because the director and dispenser of everything, I'm represented there, well represented. He's my friend, my well-wisher, my guardian. Then no anxiety.

Suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati.

"He can only find peace, who can see Me everywhere, over all."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Here I close the class.

Devotee: ...Caitanya Mahāprabhu ever carry a tridaṇḍa, or only eka-daṇḍa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Formerly He took eka-daṇḍa, but mentally or spiritually He took tridaṇḍa. Because, after taking that eka-daṇḍa when He was starting towards Vṛndāvana, He chanted a śloka, and that is mentioned in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam from the chapter of tridaṇḍī-bhikṣu. In Bhāgavatam, eleventh canto, where Kṛṣṇa is giving advice to Uddhava, there is a story relating tridaṇḍī-bhikṣu of Avantī.

(Avantī means Jaiminī, parent with Jaiminī, in Gauḍīya [?])

Where Kṛṣṇa took His training from Sāndīpani Ṛṣi. Got His sacred thread of a kṣatriya and passed sometime there. Went to fetch the fuels from the next jungle in the āśrama of Sāndīpani, Avantī.

There a rich brāhmaṇa, he was very miserly, and not discharging any duty of varṇāśrama. Everyone was very much vexed with his behaviour. At last his fate turned down, and everyone came to be his enemy, the dacoits, the thieves, then the borrowers of money, and then the court case. So many disasters at once fell on his head, and he turned to a poorest man of the town. Then he took tridaṇḍam and left his house.

"Why this great change in my life? What is the cause? This is the time, or the planets, or my ill fortune, my karma, or the society, or the gods? Who is the real cause of my misery?"

Discussing all these points he took tridaṇḍa and began to wander at large in the country. And at last he came to conclusion. There was a śloka from his mouth.

etāṁ sa āsthāya parātma-niṣṭhām, adhyāsitāṁ pūrvatamair maharṣibhiḥ
ahaṁ tariṣyāmi duranta-pāraṁ, tamo mukundāṇghri-niṣevayaiva

[The brāhmaṇa from Avantī said, "I shall cross over the insurmountable ocean of nescience by being firmly fixed in the service of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa. This was approved by the previous ācāryas, who were fixed in firm devotion to the Lord, Paramātmā, the Supreme Personality of Godhead."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.23.57] & [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 3.6]

At last he came to this conclusion. "By accepting this dress of a tridaṇḍi I shall engage my thought, word, deed, in the service of Kṛṣṇa, and cross the ocean of ignorance and misunderstanding. And I shall reach the feet of Mukunda for His service, in this way."

So Mahāprabhu took externally the daṇḍa from a māyāvādī sannyāsī, Keśava Bharatī. Though just before His taking sannyāsa, He gave His mantra to the ear of that sannyāsa guru.

That sannyāsa guru sanctioned that, "Yes, this is the mantram I'm to give to You."

In this way He took it from him. And no sooner He got that daṇḍam He ran madly towards Vṛndāvana singing this śloka of Bhāgavatam, this poem, tridaṇḍī bhikṣu.

And what is tridaṇḍa? Eka-daṇḍa māyāvāda eka-daṇḍa, only one, nothing else. _____ [?]

And the tridaṇḍa, Puruṣa Avatāras, Kāraṇodakaśāyī, Garbhodakaśāyī, Kṣīrodakaśāyī, representation of these three aspects of Godhead that are in connection with this mundane world.

And also it shows the way, that you control your body, word, and mind - thought, and engage, the punishment, daṇḍa, punish them for their previous activities cooperating with this world. And from this time engage them in the service of Kṛṣṇa, and not for any other purpose. This is that tridaṇḍa.

"I have taken it. Now I'm meant only for the service of Kṛṣṇa, and not for any other worldly purpose."

With this token in hand, one goes out here, there, everywhere. Kāya-mano-vākya. He'll chant the Name of Kṛṣṇa, think the līlā, the pastimes of Kṛṣṇa. And as body also he will roam about the holy places of Vṛndāvana, Navadwīpa, the līlā form of Kṛṣṇa. In this way.

And if they have got any positive engagement in coming in connection with the sādhu, superior devotee, then under his direction he may have engagement more intensely learning higher devotion by engaging the body, the mind, and the words, in the service of Kṛṣṇa, for preaching the noble and greatness of the Name of the Lord. That sound aspect, and from sound many other aspects will also come in connection.

That is tridaṇḍa, three, representation of three.

And also at the same time it is conceived as Kāraṇodakaśāyī, Garbhodakaśāyī, and Kṣīrodakaśāyī, these three aspects of the Supreme Lord that are in connection with this mundane world. Kāraṇodakaśāyī, that is the root of the whole māyāic sphere. Garbhodakaśāyī, at the bottom of one whole brahmāṇḍa. And Kṣīrodakaśāyī, at the heart of every jīva. In this way three aspects of the Supreme Lord that are connected with this mundane, misconceived portion of the truth. Their representation.

And there is another representation of His own servitors, tridaṇḍa equal, and one a little less, and that less, that represents the jīva himself, the carrier of daṇḍam, jīva daṇḍam, there represented.

"That I'm ready as used myself in the service of the Lord."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

In Manu-saṁhita also it is mentioned tridaṇḍa, vākya daṇḍam, mano daṇḍam, kāya daṇḍam, _____ [?]
These three are punished, daṇḍam. The mind, body, and words, for their misapplication. Mistaken individuals, they're punished, and they're set right, and they're given new, positive, serving line.

"Work in this line. No further, in previous line."

Tridaṇḍa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He gave an announcement to all the paṇḍits under that state.

"That if you accept me as the principal paṇḍit in the whole kingdom then no trouble. But if any of you think that you can defeat me in scholarship, in discussion, theological discussion, then you come."

A challenge was given, issued by the court paṇḍit of the then king of Kerala.

And a token was sent. "That whoever will accept this, a golden pumpkin, he must catch this, keep it, and he will come to sit in a discussion with me about the scriptures."

Then Yāmunācārya, boy, he was reading in a tol, in a school, and the challenge came to his teacher's tol. Teacher did not want to displease the paṇḍit, so he did not care to take the challenge, accept the challenge.

But this boy, Yāmunācārya, he asked his teacher, "Why don't you accept the challenge?"

"No, no, he's a court paṇḍit. We receive much help from the state. If he stops that, then much disturbance will be for want of money in my administration in the schools, so I don't like to disturb that man."

But that boy he didn't care. "If you do not accept the challenge, I shall do it."

"Yes, in your own risk you may do."

And he caught that golden pumpkin. They are rather astonished, the agents.

"You boy, you have the courage to fight with that great paṇḍit, a court paṇḍit? What do you do? You don't know how great a scholar he is?"

"No. I know or do not know. But I want to sit in a discussion with him. And I think I'll be able to defeat him."

What to do?

Then the boy was presented in that day, the fixed date, in the court he attended.

And just going to attend, the king and queen through the window, they're looking at the path by which the boy will pass towards the assembly where the debate will take place. Then the queen is on the side of the boy, a very beautiful and clever boy, intelligent look. "He will conquer."

The king said, "No. It is not possible. Our court paṇḍit is a great learned man of high experience. This boy what he will..."

"But I say this boy will win," the queen told.

"No, no, no."

Then there was a bet.

"If this boy wins the fight, what you'll do? I say you'll have to give your daughter and half of the kingdom. Are you ready?"

The king told, "Yes."

Anyhow, the boy came in the court, a large public throng, crowd.

"The boy is coming to fight with the great renowned scholar of the king. What is this?"

There is a great uproar.

And they sat face to face. The court paṇḍit asked, "You boy, will you be able to answer my questions? You want to question me? Put your questions. Whatever you'll say, I'll do away with that, smash your questions."

The boy put very strong common sense, put three questions.

First question is that, "Your mother is not a barren lady? That is my question. You must, you will have to demolish it. I say that your mother is not barren. Now you have to prove that your mother is a barren lady.

Next, the king is a sinner. I say the king is not sinner. You'll have to prove that king is a sinner, a criminal, or something.

And the third, I say the queen is chaste. You will have to prove that she's not chaste."

These questions created a great mood. What to do? What to answer? How to refute it? A dangerous position. Then for some long time the paṇḍit was in a very serious mood and waited silently.

Then he came out. "These are absurd questions you put to me. You boy, can you prove this? Can you prove against this?"

"Yes I can."

Then there was a great commotion. He failed and this boy he will now answer his own questions, so bold answers, how can he do this? And there must be some evidence from the śāstra.

Then anyhow he quoted one śloka from the śāstra and proved that somewhere written that, "Whose son, the lady who has produced a son like you, who has got no real merit, but only boasts about his merit, she's a barren lady. Bogus son, a cheater, who gives birth to a cheating man, she's called a barren lady." He gave some quotation from some śāstra and also, like, something like that, he produced the quotation from some Purāṇa. "Whose son is worthless, his mother can be considered as a barren lady, should be considered."

Then there were so many other paṇḍits, and so they approved, and they gave their claps in favour when he produced the quotation from some Purāṇa. Anyhow the first question finished.

Next, "The king is a sinner." How to prove that the king is sinner? Then also he proved from the quotation of the śāstra. "That the king is receiving the rent from the subjects, and with the money the sin of the subjects is always passing to the king. And the king, to get out of that sin, he practices many sacrifices, yajña, towards many gods, and thereby he keeps himself released from the sin." Gave some quotation from Purāṇa. And he told that, "With the money going towards the king, their sin is also passing through that. And as it is continued, always taking more money and trying to get out of the sin, sins of the subjects are being accumulated always in the king. And king also by performing yajña, trying to get relief from that sin. But it is always continued, so he may be taken that he's committing sin, he's sinful."

In this way he proved with quotations, and the paṇḍits were satisfied, then that man was benumbed.

Still one question to be answered, that is the most dangerous. "The queen is not a chaste lady?"

That question also he put in this way, all from the quotations of the śāstra.

"The king is supposed to hold some eight gods in him, Indra, all these things, some demigods are supposed to stay with the king in his body always. It is mentioned in the śāstra.

Mad devata rajan naropena sthistiti [?]

With him perhaps six or eight demigods are always living with him. So when he enjoys something, the gods are also enjoying with him. So in this sense it may be thought out, that the queen is being enjoyed by many." In this way he produced the śāstra quotations.

There were other paṇḍits who also approved. This man could not speak anything against him.

But this boy got the extraordinary victory there, and his name from that time was Pritivadhi Vankara. There is still a Maṭh in the south, the sampradāya, the name is Pritivadhi Vankara. "Who is a dreadful figure to the opponents." Pritivadhi means opponent, and vankara means "dreadful, furious to opponent." That Maṭh continues today. This was Yāmunācārya boy, young boy.

Now, as there was the bet between the king and the queen, the boy was married with the daughter of the king, and half of the kingdom given to the boy.

Now, this Yāmunācārya , he came from a Vaiṣṇava family. He engaged himself in some study, and also in the enjoyment of the kingdom.

One Vaiṣṇava, [called Nambi], he saw that, "He's a great genius, but now he's married, he's become king, it is a great loss to our sampradāya. The Śaṅkara māyāvādī sampradāya, they are rising their head so much. And there are not so many good scholars on our side to fight with them. So he thought that anyhow, that Yāmunācārya, he must be taken out from his enjoying life as a king. If he takes up the cause, then of course the Śaṅkara school, we can make them down."

So he used to - Yāmunācārya was very fond of a particular vegetable, śak, the leaf of vegetable [called tuduvalai]. And that man managed to collect that sort of vegetable every day and give regular supply to the cook of the king, Yāmunācārya.

One day Yāmunācārya told that, "I like very much this vegetable, but this is not available all year round, so where do you get it?" He asked the cook.

"I do not know. One gentleman he supplies it for you."

"Why one gentleman, outsider, he supplies this my favourite vegetable every day? Ask him the cause."

He asked and, "I want to see him once."

Then he told "Yes." Fixed a day and he came.

And when he was present before him he began to cry.

"What is it brāhmāṇa? You are crying. I did not do any harm to you. You love me so much, every day you gather from anywhere these vegetables I love so much. And just meeting you, you begin to cry."

"You do not know what pain we're feeling for you."

"Why? I did not give any pain to anybody."

"No, you have done."

"You say what I have done wrong."

"You have left our sampradāya. You are mad in enjoyment as a king. But you forget that you are such a great scholar, and lost to our sampradāya. The māyāvādīns, they're encroaching our sampradāya, and you are sleeping. We can't tolerate this. You must come out to save our section, our Vaiṣṇava sampradāya. You are the saviour."

Then anyhow he was affected. "Yes I am trying to do."

So gradually he came to the study and to write books against the māyāvāda, so many things he wrote. And when he was sufficient aged, old, Rāmānuja was a boy then, rising boy, rising scholar, this Rāmānuja.

Rāmānuja has also got peculiar history. Rāmānuja he first began his study near a paṇḍit teacher who came from Śaṅkara school, named Yādavaprakāśa. He was a good paṇḍit and he used to teach many students. Rāmānuja, a very young boy, he's admitted in his school. He's serving his Gurudeva.

Gurudeva is teaching so many students, grown up. And there came one line, [Chāndogya] Upaniṣad.

[tasya yathā] kupyāsum puṇḍarīkam nāyānam [evam akṣini]

And he, as Śaṅkara explained it. Kupyāsum puṇḍarīka nāyānam. "Nārāyaṇa's eye is reddish like the buttock of a monkey. The buttock of a monkey is red. Kopi means banara, that monkey. Asana where kopi takes his seat, the part on which the kopi, the monkey takes his seat, that is the buttock, and that is reddish. So Nārāyaṇa's eye is compared how? As red as the buttock of the monkey." He was explaining as Śaṅkara did.

Rāmānuja could not tolerate that sort of explanation, and tears fell on the back of the professor. He was perhaps rubbing the back or something, or the head, serving his Guru, the professor Yādavaprakāśa, and a few drops of his tears fell on his back, Yādavaprakāśa.

"You are weeping? Why you are weeping? What has happened here? Is there any pain in your body suddenly? Why do you weep?"

Rāmānuja had to tell. "By hearing your interpretation of the Upaniṣad."

"Interpretation? What interpretation I have given which can make you weep and shed tears?"

"You compared the holy eyes of the Lord Nārāyaṇa with the buttock of a monkey, as red as the monkey buttock."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...came from that demon, Manima [?], and he came here as Śaṅkara. That is the opinion. But we do not accept that. What is given by Mahāprabhu, we put it on our head.

And also, Śaṅkarācārya told, that Madhvācārya told, that the gopīs in Vṛndāvana they're all heavenly prostitutes. Of course it is mentioned that some such entered into them, into their body. Just as Droṇa entered into Nanda, Dharā into Yaśodā. There are so many things come and live together with one soul, it is possible, it is mentioned in many places. So they may come to live along jointly with the gopīs. But really gopīs are very high, higher than ordinary conception of any Deity of any places. But Madhvācārya had some sort of opinion in this way.

Then also he preached, as we're told by one of his very paṇḍita scholarly followers, that in Śrī Mūrti, within, there is the Deity. Whereas we think that wholesale of Śrī Mūrti is Divine. And we had a talk with one of the biggest Ācāryas of the sampradāya. But he could not stand when I cited the example, that when Kṛṣṇa was hit by an arrow by Jarābad, then blood was oozing from His body. But that blood is not material blood. That was a show. So also with the Śrī Mūrti. Though it may be seen to possess some of the mundane characteristics, that is all māyā, misconception. Really, it is all spiritual.

Just as Sīta Devī. Sīta Devī's body was not mundane, though it was treated like mundane by Rāvaṇa. It was allowed to be treated like that purposely, but the body was not mundane in any way.

So some difference we have got from the Gauḍīya standpoint of Śrī Caitanya Deva with Madhvācārya. But still as He accepted this Keśava Bhāratī as His sannyāsa Guru, He accepted Īśvara Purī, Mādhava Purī, they all came from Madhva group, Madhvācārya group mantram. And the Gaya at that time was a big seat, a temple of the Madhva school at the time of Mahāprabhu.

So Madhvācārya he was very strong. He's told to be the incarnation of Hanumān and Bhīma. They say they connect with Madhvācārya Vyāsadeva, and Bhīma Kṛṣṇa, and Hanumān Rāmacandra. As Hanumān's duty towards Rāmacandra relation, as Bhīma's duty towards Kṛṣṇa, this friendly service, and so Madhvācārya's relation towards Vyāsadeva. Vyāsadeva is also incarnation of Viṣṇu. In this way they put it, the Madhva sampradāya.

Madhvācārya one day - he had strength, very Herculean strength. There was a piece of stone which was removed from one place to another for some purpose, to bridge over or something. And there it is written, "This piece of stone was carried from that place, here to this place, by the single hand of Madhvācārya. What is not possible to be carried by at least twenty or more strong people, with one hand Madhvācārya carried the same." It is mentioned, it is written in that inscription there in the stone.

Then Madhvācārya when he went to Digvijayī in his journey, to hold meeting and refute in the opposite party, he had a bull which carried his books, necessary books for the evidence of the, to be shown to the opposite party.

And once one disciple asked him, "After you, who will preach your doctrine, and who will write commentary on your valuable books?"

He pointed out to the bull. "This bull will do that."

Then after Madhvācārya, his four disciples successively sat in his throne. Padmanābha, Śrī Madhava, Śrī Padmanābha, Śrī Nṛhari, Mādhava, Akṣobhya, Padmanābha, that Acyuta Prakha, first disciple, that was the first successor, Madhva, Śrī Padmanābha, Śrī Nṛhari. Then there was Narahari, he was a minister of this Behanara royal family, that Narahari, good scholar, he was the second successor. Then Mādhava, the third successor was one Mādhava, direct disciple of Madhvācārya. And the fourth, Akṣobhya, the fourth successor of Madhvācārya and his own disciple.

Then Akṣobhya was thinking one day, whom to accept in succession in our line.

Madhvācārya told that, "This bull, he will come afterwards to preach my doctrine."

In this way, in a preaching campaign he's sitting in a mango garden. And a tank, a lake, was on the side. And suddenly found that a man dressed in military dress, garment, uniform, just came and there was a bathing ghāṭa. And he got down into the tank, and with his mouth connecting with the water he's drinking.

Then that suggestion of Madhvācārya just came in his mind.

"This man is just like a bull drinking water in the tank." A suggestion came.

Then after he had finished his drinking, this Akṣobhya Tīrtha called him nearby. And then began to talk with him and gradually found that he's much interested in religious philosophy. And he became his disciple. And afterwards he became Jayatīrtha. Akṣobhya Jayatīrtha.

Jayatīrtha was a great scholar, and he has written the books very argumentative, especially against the Śaṅkara school. Jayatīrtha. One of his books is named Shudhar. Shudhar means nectar, nyāya-suddha, the nectar in logic. That is the name of the book. And that has earned much fame against this māyāvādī school. Refuting is very natural, and very strong, in that Jayatīrtha's book. His madhacharia [?] and other things, madhachari Madhvācārya.

You know the Guru-paramparā, Śrī Madhapraha _____ [?] Jayatīrtha, then Rājendra, then Vidyānidhi, some Nidhi, then Lakṣmīpati. From there Mādhavendra Purī comes. Vyāsatīrtha Tanudas through Lakṣmīpati and then comes Mādhavendra Purī. From Mādhavendra Purī the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava they reckon their origin. A new line, deviation from, because previous to Madhavendra Purī, real symptoms of divine love in Kṛṣṇa was not to be seen anywhere. From Mādhavendra Purī it is traced, that love divine, living love. Living love divine for Kṛṣṇa can show so many signs in the mind and body that makes one cry, or dance, or so many other feats, emotions may come from divine world in the devotions of our affections in Vṛndāvana. Vraja bhakti, in the Vṛndāvana type of bhakti, this Mādhavendra Purī. And from Mādhavendra Purī comes Advaita Prabhu, Nityānanda Prabhu, and Īśvara Purī, and from Īśvara Purī, comes Śrī Caitanya Deva.

In this way from the Madhva school, the Gauḍīya school has sprung up. Though there is much difference between the theological conception of both the parties. Still, we respect Madhvācārya as he preached against advaita school of Śaṅkara, advaita school. And he established the difference between the servitor and the served. And it is very natural and real difference. The servitor, the Lord, and the servant, a real difference. And jīva is servant, and He's the Lord, to receive the service. And not in any time he can be one with the Lord. This is blasphemy. In very strong term he has abused this. That to think that, it is the most heinous thing, the servant in some time, or in any time, He can attain the post of his servitor, never, eternally different. Then bhakti can stand. The bhakti is eternal when the difference between the Lord and His servant is eternal. Then only bhakti can be eternal. Otherwise, the bhakti will be finished.

What is this? Very strongly Madhvācārya placed this position, from Upaniṣad bekha [?] then this anubekarnam [?] the Vedānta, and many others, the Mahābhārata have got their explanation, and many other scriptures. They're all strongly based on difference of the Lord and His servants, jīva and Bhāgavan. And difference, eternal difference, and the gradation between the servitors.

This world is also real, although it is not fictitious. Then if at all fictitious why we're caught, then no trouble, all imaginary, then why we're feeling so much trouble? All these things. He has got some sort of reality, but we can get escape from this influence of māyā, ignorance.

So Madhvācārya's day of appearance today. We must show some reverence to him. Ānanda-tīrtha- nāma-sukha-maya-dhāma yatir jīyāt. His name after taking sannyāsa was Ānanda Tīrtha.

ānanda-tīrtha-nāma-sukha-maya-dhāma yatir jīyāt saṁsārārṇava-taraṇīm yam iha janāḥ kīrtyanti budhāḥ

["All glories to Śrīman Madhvācārya Prabhu, who is known as Ānanda Tīrtha, the holy abode of transcendental bliss. The wise know him as the boat for crossing over the ocean of material existence, and so they always chant his glories."] [Prameya-ratnāvali]

The paṇḍits, the scholars, they accept them as the boat by which we can cross this world of nescience, ignorance. By His instruction, by His grace, we can cross this ocean of nescience, and to go to the liberation, and liberation means to attain the service of the Divine Feet of the Lord Kṛṣṇa, Nārāyaṇa.

Gaura Hari. So I close...

Yesterday, the day was of Madhvācārya.

Today, Rāmānujācārya disappeared. He lived near about one hundred and twenty five years, we're told. Of all the Ācārya, the first opposition was given from the Vaiṣṇava section towards Śaṅkara's māyāvāda, run by Rāmānujācārya, his viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda. Śaṅkara's philosophy is known as advaita-vāda, or keval advaita-vāda. Rāmānuja's philosophy is known as viśiṣṭādvaita-vāda, Panentheism. Pantheism and Panentheism. Distinct, absolute with distinction within.

Rāmānuja followed a particular school in southern India. And before him, Śrī Sampradāya was existent. And they can trace the origin of the present sampradāya, in the modern age, from one Śaṭhakopar. Satarji [?], Śaṭhakopar, Manmalar [?] All these names. He did not know Sanskrit, but in Tamil language, the origin has come, and that gradually developed, and Sanskrit knowing people also came to join that.

Rāmānuja sampradāya has conceived there many Āḷvārs, or the agents from the Vaikuṇṭha, has come in that country. One was Kūreśa, Kūreśa, a contemporary of Rāmānuja. One Kulaśekhara Ācārya, he was king of Kerala, but a great devotee. He has written many Sanskrit verses, which is known as Mukunda-mālā- stotram. That is contribution towards pure devotion, successful contribution to establish pure devotion. He lived nearby, first century A.D. before Śaṅkara.

So the basis of Rāmānuja sampradāya, of course they trace from Lakṣmī Devī. The catuḥ sampradāya, the four pure Vaiṣṇava sampradāya origins come from four persons. Śrī Brahmā. Śrī Lakṣmī, from her began the Rāmānuja sampradāya. Śrī Brahmā from Brahmā. Then Madhvācārya came this Brahmā-Madhva sampradāya, Mahāprabhu Caitanya Deva. Rudra sampradāya. Viṣṇuswāmī, Śrīdhar Swāmī, they all come from Rudra sampradāya. Śiva, He's the first propounder of that sampradāya, śuddhādvaita. Śaṅkara philosophy keval advaita, vidadvaita. Śrīdhar Swāmī or Viṣṇuswāmī, Rudra sampradāya, śuddhādvaita. And Madhva is śuddha-dvaita, not śuddhādvaita, śuddha-dvaita. And dwaitādwaita Nimbarka, origin from Sanaka, Sanātana, Sanandan, and Sanat Kumāra. Catuḥsana.

And Nimbarka was the middle age Ācārya, he has got bhāṣyam, commentary on Vedānta, Pariyad bhāṣya nimbarka. Rāmānuja has got his bhāṣya, Vedānta. Every - Madhvācārya has got bhāṣya, Śrīdhar Swāmī has got bhāṣya. Then Gauḍīya sampradāya has got bhāṣya, bon vedānta. Śrī Bhāṣya is the name of the commentary of Rāmānuja.

There is no caste distinction in the Vaiṣṇava school of the Rāmānuja sampradāya. The main, first, modern Ācārya, he comes from a so-called lower class section, that Śaṭhakopar. But he's revered very extensively by the Rāmānuja Vaiṣṇava. Śaṭhakopar, Satari, Nammālwāra, all these is his name. And from there so many Āḷvārs of so many descends of the agents of Vaikuṇṭha, from Vaikuṇṭha, so many, especially twelve in number, dvādaśaka. And as I told that king of Kerala, he's considered also one of them, numbered as one of them.

Then Yāmunācārya, from where it got more strength in the Śrī sampradāya. Yāmunācārya. When he was a boy [of twelve years old], there is a story, he was reading in a...

Devotee: Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Prabhupāda, he used to recommend for brahmacārīs the worship of Nṛsiṁhadeva along with Prahlāda Mahārāja. For gṛhasthas Lakṣmī Nṛsiṁhadeva. And for sannyāsīs Nṛsiṁhadeva alone. Could you explain a little bit.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Badrinārāyaṇa: [Repeats it]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where do you find it?

That Ramakrishna himself went to attend that drama and he showed so much charm, "Oh." One young prostitute, she played the part of Śrī Caitanyadeva. And Ramakrishna was very much impressed. "Oh." And even the next day he went to see her in her own quarter. "Oh, you have given me much pleasure, _____ [?]
I'm much impressed, so I have come to see you in this way."

So we shall try not to attain anything which is food for the mind, or food for the senses, but food for the soul. We must hanker after food for the soul.

nivṛtta-tarṣair upagīyamānād, bhavauṣadhāc chrotra-mano 'bhirāmāt

["Glorification of the Supreme Personality of Godhead is performed in the paramparā system; that is, it is conveyed from spiritual master to disciple. Such glorification is relished by those no longer interested in the false, temporary glorification of this cosmic manifestation. Descriptions of the Lord are the right medicine for the conditioned soul undergoing repeated birth and death. Therefore, who will cease hearing such glorification of the Lord except a butcher or one who is killing his own self?"]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.1.4]

Of course the Lord's līlā that is sweet, no doubt, but this mundane sweetness, and that sweetness differs. That is not one with here. We must be always careful not to mix these two together.

arcye viṣṇau śilā-dhīr [guruṣu nara-matir vaiṣṇave jātī-buddhir
viṣṇor vā vaiṣṇavānāṁ kali-mala-mathane pāda-tīrthe 'mbu-buddhiḥ
śrī-viṣṇor-nāmni-mantre sakala-kaluṣa-he śabda-sāmānya -buddhir
viṣṇau sarvveśvareśe tad-itara-sama-dhīr yasya vā nārakī saḥ]

[Śrīla Vyāsadeva states: "Anyone who considers the worshippable Deity of the Lord to be made out of wood, stone, or metal; who considers the Vaiṣṇava Guru to be a mortal man; who considers a Vaiṣṇava to be limited by the confines of caste, lineage, or creed; who considers the holy foot-wash of Lord Viṣṇu or a Vaiṣṇava to be ordinary water, although such water has the potency to destroy all evils of the age of Kali; who considers the Holy Name and mantra of Lord Viṣṇu, which vanquish all sins, to be common sound vibration; and who considers the God of gods, Lord Viṣṇu, to be merely on the level of the demigods - such a person is a diabolical devil."] [Padma-Purāṇa]

When we shall look to the Deity, we must warn ourselves very cautious not to identify the stone with the Deity. The Ganges water, or caraṇāmṛta, not to identify the experience of our senses with that holy thing. That is separate thing, beyond my sense experience.

We are always, 'I can't understand. I can't see.' This should be our failing, 'that I can't approach the reality. It is there, but I can't understand. If that happens to make me understand, then I can understand. It is all unknowable, all unintelligible. Still it is there. I can't see.' In this way.

That must not be identified with our sense experience. We must try to find out that it is something else. What I can command by my senses, it is not there. It is in that mood, that colour, in that show, but it is not that. What it is I can't feel. I can't understand. It is aprākṛta, it is transcendental. It is not one with my sense experience thing. This sort of feeling should always be when we attend some transcendental object. That is always on the subjective side, super subjective side, not in the objective side. That can never be experienced by our senses, nor by our mind, or even by our intelligence. It is on the higher subject. The matter, the sense, the mind, and then the enjoyer, then the intelligence, and then the soul, and Supersoul on the other side. That is no eye, that is feeler. Subjective symptoms should be tried to trace, subjective. It is in that side, all subjective, not in the objective side. But only to remind that, that comes in symbolic form but it is not identical with that, with the help of this.

Just as the watch is not the time. Watch can show some conception of time, but time is not contained within the watch. The watch may be wrong, disorder. We'll be frustrated.

So here, what we can feel, that can have some corresponding to remind me of that, but that is not this, always this sort of, māyā deesh māyā varsh isvaraya jiva ved [?]

The permanent distinction between jīva. Jīva is susceptible to māyā, victim of māyā. And He's the master of māyā, on the other side. Māyā is servant. Māyā is handled by His own sweet will. But we're to be handled by māyā, misunderstanding. Otherwise we'll be misguided, misled. So no material attraction should invite us. We must be very careful about where my aim will be always in the transcendental. And it is not very cheap, to get that is not very cheap. The help must come from above.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Even very few of the liberated souls can go up to that stage of confined consciousness. Even consciousness, even intelligence fails to guide us in the higher level. Only grace of the highest person may be our capital in the highest position. They will guide us. And even our intelligence, reason, all will fail. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Hari.

Simplicity, sincerity, love, affection, but must be independent of mundane relativity. That's the trouble. We're a child at present in the mundane soil. It is very difficult to shake off the mental propensities and experiences. Pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, in the third stage aparokṣa, that is complete withdrawal from the world of experience, complete withdrawal, aparokṣa. Then adhokṣaja, then entrance into some other world. And that is all consciousness, and not only made up of such consciousness, my soul is built up by which, Supersoul, Supersoul soil.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

The earth, the air, the water, everything, they're all spiritual, and not only ordinary spirit, Supersoul. The spiritual substance by which I am made of, higher than that, Vaikuṇṭha. There I'm to go. How is it possible? I shall have to travel there, travel, wander, but the soil is more valuable than myself who will walk on the soil. The soil is made of higher stuff than one who will walk over the soil. It is almost impossible. Still it is possible only when any necessity from that land comes for me, only then. So for His satisfaction. Reality is for Itself. So for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa I may be taken over, I may have to walk over a soil, the stuff of which is of higher order than one who is walking over, than my soul. Can you dream? Can you imagine? The soil on which we shall have to walk, that is more venerable, more valuable, than one who is walking over that, that is myself, ourselves. When is it possible? Only possible when a demand is coming from the upper side.

"Admit him, and to come to Me."

They will have to obey the order. "Yes, you go there. You go there."

Only for the purpose of the satisfaction to attend any call from the highest position, that is possible, otherwise not. So sevā, service, service of Kṛṣṇa, that can only allow us to walk over the soil which is made up of higher stuff than we ourselves. It is more than imagination, more than dream. Still it is necessity for His satisfaction. So it has been stressed very highly, the Kṛṣṇa priti, Kṛṣṇa priti, for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa we're to go there, never otherwise. Our inner soul has got the capacity to attend the call of Kṛṣṇa and that soul may go over the Vaikuṇṭha, over Goloka, Vṛndāvana, anywhere and everywhere, which is made of higher material than our soul is. It is almost absurd thing, almost absurd.

So the māyāvādī says, "No, we can go up to abscissa. From the negative side we can withdraw, and we are to stay permanently in abscissa. We can't go higher."

But only devotional cult comes to us to give this information. That yes, it is possible to go up, but only with the object of satisfaction, not concoction of satisfaction. Real necessity, then we may be allowed. By service my heart will be so pure, and so intolerant, that we cannot live without the service of the Lord. We may be allowed to pass over the soil. So it is not a very cheap thing. It is not emotion, or anything else. The reality is so cruel, so stiff, so high. Only showing some tears, or some shivering sentiments, gesticulation, no chance. How much purity, self abnegation is not sufficient. But Kṛṣṇa interest, Kṛṣṇa higher servant interest, that is all in all. That must be created within our heart. Kṛṣṇa interest, Kṛṣṇa priti, Kṛṣṇa prema, that is the thing.

So Mahāprabhu says, "Not a drop of that divine love of Kṛṣṇa is within Me. I'm shedding tears so much. It is only to canvass the people, show to the people, 'oh you see how fortunate I am. I have got Kṛṣṇa prema, which great numbers of liberated souls cannot hope to get, I have got,' I'm shedding so much tears only for canvassing to the ignorant public for My fame that I'm a great devotee. But really, not a drop is within Me." Mahāprabhu says.

How great a warning it is. Now, should we try for this? Or we should go home and live happily with our mundane family? What is this? This is a hard nut to crack. Gaura Haribol. Mahāprabhu Himself says. So the great devotees, they're of the same temperament. "I'm trying but have not yet got, not yet have I got."

None says that I have got within my fist. But it is a very peculiar thing, that one says, "I have not got, but that devotee has got." They say, they can see, "He has got some favour in him, favour of Kṛṣṇa in him, but I'm devoid of that, I have not got." That is a peculiar thing.

"I have no money, but that gentleman he has enough money." A moneyed man, he may not think, generally, 'I have no money, some, scanty, that is for no purpose. He has got substantial money.'

So this is the nature. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. It is written there, we all overlook.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

The soil, that is the earth, the water, the air, everything of Vaikuntha, is made of spirit, soul. And I come from taṭastha-śakti, and they from svarūpa-śakti, higher potency. We jīva are the outcome of taṭastha-śakti, the marginal plane, and they're of the svarūpa-śakti. So the one who is sprung up from this taṭastha-śakti, only with the help of svarūpa-śakti can they go over that land which is more valuable than him, only by their help. So according to the visa they will be allowed to travel over that soil. Passport has nothing to do. The visa, and there must be nature of visa also. How much confidential freedom may be attached to any particular visa? Will he be able to see the governor, see the president, see the king, the queen, such visa? Or ordinary visa to wander about the street? But classification of visa also.

Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. So here in this mundane world ...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Affection is such a thing, very valuable, and the possessor cannot say that I have got affection for Him. I have got love for Him. "No, no. How much love have I got? Nothing."

That is the nature of love. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Love can only give. The nature of love is only to give, and never to assert that I have love. Even that is also denied there, that I have got love. Love is such a thing, one who possesses that thing, he can never say that I possess that thing, I have got in my possession real love. So fine, so undistinguishable, and so valuable, and so free in it's nature, so subtle, susceptible, sentient, touchy, all these things.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "Suddenly I may have a flash that Śrī Gaurāṅga is Gadādhara, but the moment I wanted to look at it a little attentively, vanished." Vicakṣaṇa kori' dekhite cāhile, hoy ānkhi- agocara [Gītāvalī, 8a] "Suddenly it may flash something wonderful, but only when I'm more attentive to catch it, finished."

So susceptible, so subtle, so independent, so valuable. It is for that thing we're trying. Independent. So wholesale surrendering to Him, still no surety that we shall get it. The condition is such.

On the other side He's very gracious. He comes to our level to uplift us, that is also true. But that is His will, His will. That is not our demand. We have no right to demand in that way. But from His side everything is possible for Him. He can do anything and everything. He may take up the most fallen, and neglect the higher position also. Everything is possible with Him. He's free, fully free. No explanation to be given to anybody from Him.

Should we try to get friendship with such susceptible, and such rare, and such whimsical, beautiful, ha ha ha. But His beauty is such that everyone wants to become His slave, beauty. And beauty, love, all similar. Love is beauty, beauty is love. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, how are we to propagate, or preach amongst the ordinary people?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We shall, so this is our safe position, that who will go on carrying the order of some superior agent. Āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa.

[yāre dekha, tāre kaha 'kṛṣṇa'-upadeśa / āmāra ājñāya guru hañā tāra ei deśa kabhu nā vādhibe tomāra viṣaya-taraṅga / punarapi ei ṭhāñi pābe mora saṅga]

["Instruct whoever you meet in the science of Kṛṣṇa. Teach them the instructions of Kṛṣṇa in Bhagavad-gītā, and the teachings about Kṛṣṇa in Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. In this way, on My order, become a Guru and liberate everyone in the land. If you follow this instruction, the waves of materialism within this world will not affect you. Indeed, if you follow My order, you will soon attain My association."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 7.128-9]

His order I'm carrying out. I have got it by succession from the scriptures, from the succession agents, successive agents, I'm doing. This sort of relative connection in the case of the Infinite. Everywhere there is centre, nowhere circumference. Infinite means everywhere centre, nowhere circumference. We may find agent anywhere. But if you want to go to measure, no possibility. From the scripture. I'm floated to a particular stage, to catch a particular conception of truth. Connecting with that I may go on. Selflessness, self surrendering, and self inspiration.

Vaikuṇṭha, kuṇṭha means measurement, Vaikuṇṭha, immeasurable. Vaikuṇṭha means a plane of immeasurable. We're to think like that. Our measuring temperament won't have any position there. So we're to jump there, should we? Ha ha. The world of limitation, we can measure the length, breadth, this height, so many things within our conception. From this reality, should we jump into this land of infinite uncertainty? But we're told that this is transient angle of vision, of reality, this is also like that. We're fools to think that this will remain this for eternity. Never. Everything is Vaikuṇṭha. Everything is infinite.

The atom, break it, the electron, break it, proton, neutron, again if it is possible to break that, in this way, this is also going infinite way, no end. No end, no finite, all infinite. Only the relative position we feel something. Everything is infinite. Our Guru Mahārāja used to tell, that break the most finest constituent part of the world, the atom, electron, etc, again break it, ultimately you will find that Vaikuṇṭha, infinite. Infinite is at the back ground of everything. Which is measurable to you, that is only relative, holding relative position for the time being. Then again it will merge into infinite, so not reliable. What you see, what you trace, what you feel, nothing is reliable. Nothing will stand there forever, so all unreliable, all uncertain. And calculate that and live.

We're afraid to dive into the water, but fish and others, they're enjoying that sort of climate within the water they're happily living. So the souls in Vaikuṇṭha, there they have acquired merit to stand there. They are living happily. From here we're seeing the impossibility, the uncertainty there. But already there are so many devotees, and their company is encouraging, and it is reality. So sādhu-saṅga, sādhu-saṅga, everywhere the trace is laid, the association, the company. We cannot know the trouble of travelling, or anything else, what is where, which is which, if we've got a good friend. An intimate friend, if we get there, everything will be easy. So Guru, Vaiṣṇava, sādhu, all these things. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

This is from this side. There are many things to be talked of from the other side. By grace everything is possible. They're benevolent, they're gracious, they're very generous. Everything good is there, so we must not be a pessimist. If we go from the line of right, then we have no hope. But their gracious nature, then of course we can hope many things. This little difference makes a great gulf. The ego, and their grace. Ego is unfit. But we must be conscious of their grace only. Forgetfulness, self forgetfulness for their grace, that can easily take us in that soil. Self forgetfulness for their interest, for the interest of that soil, self forgetfulness. Degree of self forgetfulness, nature of self forgetfulness, that also can be traced. Self forgetfulness may be of different type, different quality, that is also possible.

They're not afraid if they distribute their own thing then that will be finished. That is infinite, no fear of finishing. So the persons they're not afraid that if I distribute our own capital to the newcomers, then we will be in want. No, that is infinite. So not that sort of limited prejudice can be traced there. Only what is unfitness in our side. It is very difficult for us to find out our inner self, which is made up only to give, without taking anything in remuneration. That is the nature of that material, nature of that substance, only to give. By giving, we're calculating how much I can gain, and how much I'm giving for the return. This sort of filthy mentality must be given up, this māyā. Giving, that is normal, and that is within us, and that must come together, birds of the same feather come together. Everything will be all right. Only sādhu-saṅga. By the association of the devotees we must have training to give. Serve means to give. Self effacement, self surrender, self effacement, self giving, self dedication, finish, self forgetfulness, finish. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Today is the appearance day of Narottama Ṭhākura.

So hard. After long period of service we heard our Guru Mahārāja say to one of his sannyāsī disciples, "You have not seen me. You could not meet me." So many years of service he's rendering under him, still we heard him say that, "You could not see me, what am I." But still he's giving him so many duties to him, to do all these things. After about twenty years service we heard him say, "You did not meet me, could not see me. What you have seen, I'm not that, I'm something else."

Another thing I heard from him. When a brāhmaṇa, a priest, got mantram from him, and was talking outside that "this sort of mantram I have got, this way."

Suddenly I entered the room and found him in a very despaired mood.

"They're all trying to understand, catch the meaning, as if they have got everything in the mantram. But I'm devoting lives after lives, but still I'm not able to touch the thing."

I suddenly entered the house and I found that his look, his eyes are disappointed, in despair, showing some sign of despair. What is that? Then I found that he's muttering something, my ear attended what he's very mildly talking. I found that he's attentive to the talk outside. Then I gave my attention towards outside, what sort of talk is going on there. I heard that they got mantram just now, and they're trying to realise the meaning, explain the meaning of the mantram. They've got initiation and very cheerfully they're trying to consult the purport of the mantram, hopefully.

But here within he says, "I don't touch the real thing, but only from outside I'm dealing it, with the mantram, disappointing. After long trial from different births after births, I'm towards that aim, but still I'm not able to touch. And you beginners you think that with the mantram you have got everything."

In this way, the infinite characteristic. So the measurement of the progress is taken in some negative way. As much feeling of separation, as intense feeling of separation, progress is that much, negative measurement. How much demand, how much hunger, earnestness for the truth, so much he has got. Hankering is the capital, hankering, that is the negative side, hankering. "I'm so low, so mean. No other way but Your grace."

ye yatha patita haya, tava dayā tata tāya, [tāte āmi supātra dayāra]

["Your grace is given in accordance with the necessity of those who really deserve it. In that consideration, I have some claim. I am fallen of the fallen, the most fallen, so I have some claim to Your grace."] [Gītamālā, Yāmuna-bhāvāvali, 19]

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura says, "As much as one is fallen, s/he deserves so much for Your grace my Lord. And in that consideration I'm the most fit person. I'm the most fallen, so I have got the greatest demand for You, I can demand for Your grace. I'm fit because I'm the lowest. I'm the meanest of the mean, so I'm Your prey. You must have to come to show Your grace to the meanest."

But that feeling must be sincere, not imitation, must be sincere. There's the rub, difficulty is there, the sincerity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...nirguṇa.

...

Devotee: He should try to inquire, and he should be submissive, and have an attitude of rendering service. There's any disqualification that will make the disciple bona fide if he's got those three qualifications?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm?

Devotee: A disciple that he wants to inquire about the truth. He's submissive, and he's got an attitude of service. Will any disqualification make him not bona fide disciple?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is the question? Disciple?

Badrinārāyaṇa: He says, "If a disciple is submissive, is there any disqualification to make him not bona fide?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then?

Badrinārāyaṇa: If he's submissive, and he's rendering service, any disqualification to make him not bona fide?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's submissive, and?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Renders service.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rendering service, and inquisitive. And what is want in him?

Devotee: There may be any other thing that this one will make him not bona fide? That's the question.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does it mean by bona fide? What is bona fide?

Devotee: Well qualified to approach the spiritual master and get his mercy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The Guru and the śiṣya, the preceptor and the disciple, we find in different planes of life. Everywhere the disciple and Guru they meet, and that transaction we find everywhere, in many planes of life. In Paramātmā, the plane of exploitation, mainly, that is also bad and good. Plane of renunciation, that is also of variegated nature. The plane of devotion, there is also different stages. But everywhere the submissive attitude if necessary, and the preceptor will teach him general things. But in the plane of knowledge also, the plane of liberation seekers, there also we find the Buddhistic school, the Śaṅkara school, everywhere the Guru śiṣya, the preceptor and the disciple. They must have some qualification, both parties. So first question is, the real plane. Both must come in the highest plane, and there the negotiation, the submission, and the teaching. That may occur in any plane, such things.

tad viddhi praṇipātena, paripraśnena sevayā
[upadekṣyanti te jñānaṁ, jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ]

["You will be able to attain all this knowledge by satisfying the enlightened spiritual master with prostrate obeisances, relevant enquiry, and sincere service. Great souls who are most expert in scriptural knowledge and endowed with direct realisation of the Supreme Absolute Truth will teach you that divine knowledge."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 4.34]

In Gītā. Praṇipāta means surrender, paripraśnena honest inquiry, and sevayā serving attitude. Three qualifications in the disciple, in the plane of the inquiry of the higher truth.

And the preceptor he also must be qualified, jñānī and tattva darśi. He must have śāstric knowledge that he can explain the thing how it is. And he must have some realisation of the truth, practical knowledge, both theoretical and practical knowledge the Guru must have.

But the apparent paramārtha, spiritual life, even the Buddhistic, the Śaṅkara, the Rāmānuja, the Mādhva school we may find in different planes of life. They think that to renounce the world that is the holiest position, to give up everything and to enter into eternal samādhi, which means the eternal stop of his life. Nothing remains, to get out of the undesirable elements forever. That is, according to them, the highest position. Any transaction with the environment is troublesome, so to get the highest relief means to dissociate the environment permanently, successfully. That is their aim and object. There also they require such submission and they explain about the paramārtha.

But the Vaiṣṇava they have got another plane of life. They do not want the stop of activity, of movement, that is not. But movement will remain, movement will be for positive purpose, not for negative purpose, undesirable things, but wholesale desirable and positive things. The life must be there, movement must be there, and still that cent per cent holy life we must have.

...bhakti is ahaitukī, means causeless, and apratihatā.

sa vai puṁsāṁ paro dharmo, yato bhaktir adhokṣaje / ahaituky apratihatā, [yayātmā suprasīdati]

["The supreme occupation (dharma) for all humanity is that by which men can attain to loving devotional service unto the transcendental Lord. Such devotional service must be unmotivated and uninterrupted to completely satisfy the self."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.2.6]

Ahaitukī means causeless, it is its own cause. None from outside can produce bhakti. And apratihatā, none can resist its cause. This is bhakti, so bhakti can give bhakti, no other thing can give even a drop of bhakti. This is the nature, this is the most original plane of the whole existence. That is love, that is beauty, that is charm, that is the highest conception of divinity. Nothing in the world can produce bhakti, only bhakti is self existent.

Just as Hegel's theory, "Reality is by Itself and Reality is for Itself."

None can produce reality. Then if anything can produce reality he will be in the first position. The reality must be causeless, it is its own cause. So bhakti is its own cause, none can produce bhakti. This is the original nature of bhakti, devotion. And bhakti exists for bhakti, not for any other thing, not subservient to any other existence, then also it must not be absolute. Because it is absolute so its cause is within and its object is also within. It does not exist to satisfy any other persons whim. Then if it exists for any other to satisfy him, then he will be the greater thing.

So reality must be, "By Itself and for Itself." Bhakti is for bhakti and bhakti is by bhakti. No other outside thing can contribute to help anything about bhakti, it is quite independent and absolute. That is our understanding from our Gurudeva and from our śāstric knowledge. That it is absolute, none can give bhakti, nothing in the world, only bhakti can give bhakti. So any other foreign element can never produce or enhance our devotion. That must come, the cause of its development must come from within bhakti and not from outside. That is our understanding by them, and we're settled, established there firmly. Bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā.

[smarantaḥ smārayantaś ca, mitho 'ghaugha-haraṁ harim
bhaktyā sañjātayā bhaktyā, bibhraty utpulakāṁ tanum]

["The devotees of the Lord constantly discuss the glories of the Personality of Godhead among themselves. Thus they constantly remember the Lord and remind one another of His qualities and pastimes. In this way, by their devotion to the principles of bhakti yoga, the devotees please the Personality of Godhead, who takes away from them everything inauspicious. Being purified of all impediments, the devotees awaken to pure love of Godhead, and thus, even within this world, their spiritualised bodies exhibit symptoms of transcendental ecstasy, such as standing of the bodily hairs on end."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.3.31]

One great sage asked Kṛṣṇa after the battle of Kurukṣetra, "Kṛṣṇa, I will curse You."
"Why brāhmaṇa?"
"You have caused a great disaster. So many widows, orphans, are crying after Kurukṣetra battle, and You are responsible for that. So I want to curse You."
"Brāhmaṇa, you have gathered with great penance some power. But that will be finished by your cursing. I won't be affected. Why? I'm in the nirguṇa area, I'm beyond all this reality, good or bad. Ahaitukī apratihatā. Where I take My stand, that is causeless and that exists for its own purpose, not for any other purpose. So you have with great penance you have collected some force (over all?) that will be finished. But I shall remain unaffected."

Ahaitukī apratihatā. The deepest plane of whole existence is of that character. It is automatic, and it is irresistible, and it is causeless. The wave going on, constant. And anyhow we're to come to the harmony of that. We're out of that so the clash. Local interest or provincial interest has made us separate from that wave who is original and irresistible, that wave going, that wave of love. And our local interest, or provincial, selfish interest has created all clashes. We're to give up that, and anyhow to dance in the same tune with that original plane, that is of devotional love. That is what is necessary. No other thing can give any help to bhakti but bhakti can give bhakti, nothing else.

Cakravartī Ṭhākura in his commentary he has written there. Ahaitukī and apratihatā. Ahaitukī means causeless, she's her own cause, and apratihatā, nothing can oppose her. Irresistible wave is going. And we're to identify, go back. Back to Godhead means to catch that wave. And giving up all other local and selfish interest waves, all giver. And that is within us. Really the soul can come in touch with that. And the body and the mind they can never come to any understanding in that plane, it will vanish. And the soul can only dance in that plane, participate in the dancing wave of that plane. This is bhakti proper we have understood _____ [?] And it is not possible to budge an inch from that position standard of thinking. No other thing can enhance any bhakti but bhakti. Only bhakti can give bhakti, enhance bhakti. Everything, that must come from bhakti.

And bhakta means bhakti. And no other thing in the world can give bhakti - good karma, or any power, or anything else of the kind. Only bhakti can give bhakti, nothing else can give bhakti. He can give Himself.

Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ. Whomever He will come to accept, he will get it, and not otherwise. He can give Himself, and no other thing can give Himself. Yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyaḥ. Na medhayā na bahunā śrutena.

[nāyam ātmā pravacanena labhyo, na medhayā na bahunā śrutena
yam evaiṣa vṛnute tena labhyas, tasyaiṣa ātmā vivṛnute tanūṁ svām]

["One cannot understand the substance of the Paramātmā, the Super-soul residing within everyone's heart, by means of expertise in logic, intelligence or learning. When the living entity begs the Lord for His mercy, being desirous of His transcendental loving service, then the Supreme Lord reveals His self-manifest form directly before him."] [Kaṭha-Upaniṣad, 1.2.23] & [Muṇḍaka-Upaniṣad, 2.3.2]

Scholarship, extensive study, and so many things are mentioned, but nothing can give bhakti, only Kṛṣṇa can give Kṛṣṇa, and no one else in the world. And His devotee means His potency, he's delegated, so there means Kṛṣṇa. But no non Kṛṣṇa things can give Kṛṣṇa.

Devotee: _____ [?] is Mahāprabhu Himself, His weapon in this age of Kali. You have Kṛṣṇa. You have love of Kṛṣṇa. But what about the millions of people in the age of Kali who have no Kṛṣṇa and don't care for Kṛṣṇa? They don't care about Kṛṣṇa. The Hare Kṛṣṇa movement has failed. ISKCON has failed. Swāmī Prabhupāda, A.C. Bhaktivedānta Swāmī Prabhupāda's movement has failed miserably. So the Ācāryas will not give up. Lord Caitanya will not...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It is very rare thing. Failure does not mean on the surface if there is not seen much, that is not failure. Ha, ha, ha.

Devotee: I understand that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Real failure is to come out from the quality and not the quantity. It is already mentioned in the scripture the quantity will be very small. Denotation increases, connotation decreases. Connotation increases, denotation decreases. So highly developed persons their number will be very, very few, few and far between.

manuṣyāṇāṁ sahasreṣu, kaścid yatati siddhaye
[yatatām api siddhānāṁ, kaścin māṁ vetti tattvataḥ]

["Out of countless souls, some may have reached the human form of life, and among many thousands of human beings, some endeavour to attain direct perception of the individual soul and the Supersoul; and among many thousands of such aspirants who have attained to seeing the soul and the Supersoul, only a few receive actual perception of Me, Śyāmasundara."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.3]

And in Bhāgavatam.

muktānām api siddhānāṁ nārāyaṇa-parāyaṇa sudurlabhaḥ praśāntātmā koṭiṣv api mahā-mune

["O great sage, among many millions who are liberated and perfect in knowledge of liberation, one may be a devotee of Lord Nārāyaṇa, or Kṛṣṇa. Such devotees, who are fully peaceful, are extremely rare."]
[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 6.14.5]

bahūnāṁ janmanām ante, jñānavān māṁ prapadyate
vāsudevaḥ sarvam iti, sa mahātmā sudurlabhaḥ

["After many, many births and deaths, one who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.19]

tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogī, jñānibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikaḥ karmibhyaś cādhiko yogī, tasmād yogī bhavārjuna
yoginām api sarveṣāṁ, mad-gatenāntarātmanā
śraddhāvān bhajate yo māṁ, sa me yuktatamo mataḥ

["The yogī who is a worshipper of the Supersoul is superior to persons engrossed in severe austerities such as the cāndrāyaṇa, superior to the worshippers of Brahman, and superior to the fruitive workers. Know this certainly to be My conclusion. Therefore, O Arjuna, be a yogī."] ["Among all types of yogīs, the most elevated of all is the devotee who has full faith in the authoritative pure devotional scriptures, and who adores Me with all their heart by hearing and singing My divine glories, rendering all services unto Me. Certainly this is My opinion."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.46-7]

So, then connotation increase, denotation decrease. And denotation higher increase, then connotation must be less, decrease.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mother, you take some prasādam, and then after we shall talk again. Now high time take some prasādam.

...

...What is religion? I'm not very careful to know. To create sukṛti, that unconsciously their energy anyhow should be utilised for the service. And the underground work for those souls he gave his attention very carefully. All these things, whatever he did for the highest good of the people, and that the highest service of the Supreme Lord and Guru. In one word he tried his best to take the Goloka in this Bhūrloka, the Goloka - to take the Bhūrloka into Goloka.

Transformation, transformation, wholesale transformation. The struggling consciousness we've got within us, everyone of us, that struggling is to be converted into transformation of the centred calculative object. Not any provincial, individual, or national, or provincial, or any sort of higher local interest calculation. But the calculation from the standpoint of the whole. And what sort of whole infinite?

"Whatever infinite conception you may have Arjuna, that forms only one of My negligent parts. Your infinite is a negligent part in Me."

That sort of infinite, that sort of infinite is centred, all our movements, calculation, every step we must take. For Itself - Reality is for Himself. Everything for Him. We must initiate ourselves to that sort of knowledge. Everything belongs to Him. That central, and that universal knowledge, we shall be an agent, and we shall be a unit to that sort of movement, where everything is for the highest centre. And what sort of centre? As I told that, my conception of infinite is His negligent part. Such sort of habit, only through faith it can be connected. Not by knowledge, not by senses, nothing of the kind. Only faith can pass there. Just as electricity can go to a sun or a star, not anything else here. So the faith can reach there, and no other means can connect us with that sort of higher infinite. And we're told that is love divine, that is good, that is beauty, that is your home, after all. This is the most encouraging word. Back to God, back to home. Svarūpe sabāra haya, golokete sthiti. You are requested to go back to your home. Everything is quite at home to you, going to the friend's circle that you can conceive what sort of friendliness.

This most courageously he came to preach this, instead of what is going in the name of religion you all know. But he had to establish a particular program cancelling, opposing, and discarding all other waves that are coming to devour us every moment _____ [?]

So this day is the day when our Guru Mahārāja Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, whose attempt, whose life was such, he appeared. So it is a blessed day for the world, and we have come together to show our honour and respect to him, and to the day also which gave him to this world.

As we find in Rāmānanda Rāya [Jagannātha-vallabha-nāṭaka, 3.12-3]
Tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala. Alaṅkṛta karimu sakala.

[ye kāle vā svapane, dekhinu vaṁśi vadane, sei kāle āilā dui vairi
'ānanda' āra 'madana,' hari' nila mora mana, dekhite nā pāinu netra bhari' punaḥ yadi kona kṣaṇa, kayāya kṛṣṇa daraśana, tabe sei ghaṭī-kṣaṇa-pala
diyā mālya-candana, nānā ratna-ābharaṇa, alaṅkṛta karimu sakala]

["Whenever I had the chance to see Lord Kṛṣṇa's face and His flute, even in a dream, two enemies would appear before Me. They were pleasure and Cupid, and since they took away My mind, I was not able to see the face of Kṛṣṇa to the full satisfaction of My eyes."] ["If by chance such a moment comes when I can once again see Kṛṣṇa, then I shall worship those seconds, moments and hours with flower garlands and pulp of sandalwood and decorate them with all kinds of jewels and ornaments."]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 2.37-38]

[This verse was spoken by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu while in trance in the mood of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, in the company of Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāmānanda Rāya.]

"The moment when suddenly a flash came about the Supreme Lord, I wanted to give a little condensed attention towards and it disappeared. But if such occasion comes again, then what should I do? I shall honour the time. The time which gave Him to me, I shall try to satisfy my best the time, so that if time being satisfied with me, he takes some fixed position, then he will be there in the background. But neglecting the time I wanted to approach direct what the time expressed and I missed. The time passed, that finished, disappeared. But it is a kind of sentiment. But now if such a time comes anyhow in my fortune, then I shall try to worship, to satisfy the time, so that the time may be, may stand for some time. Then on the background my object of heart will be there in the present."

So his day in which he came to this world, we want to worship and show our reverence to that day. That the time may again give that same jewel to us so that we may be highly benefited. Our fulfilment will be assured, we'll be satisfied, wholesale satisfaction we can get there.

Wholesale, full fledged theism. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam says, after giving all the scriptures Vyāsadeva says under the dictation of Devarṣi Nārada. "Full fledged theism I'm giving. So far what I have given in the name of religion, all partial standpoint. Because no such person to purchase with price. None I found to give proper price, so I shall have to make the standard down. But here in the last time I'm giving the truth as it is. And those persons that are nirmatsara, that can tolerate that if I say them to be servants they won't feel any disturbance. The so ham class, that 'I must be a holder of the highest position,' that section eliminated here. And those that have got more tolerating spirit to hear what is truth naked, they have got that courage, that perseverance, that toleration, that higher truth is so high and they're so low, their heart may not fail them, they may not die of heart failure. Such courageous nirmatsara where jealousy is eliminated fully, such audience I want to deliver the truth of Bhāgavatam that Kṛṣṇa is everything. You are nowhere, you are His eternal slave."

jīvera 'svarūpa' haya-kṛṣṇera 'nitya-dāsa' [kṛṣṇera 'taṭasthā-śakti' bhedābheda-prakāśa']

["The constitutional nature of the jīva soul is that of an eternal servant of Kṛṣṇa; the jīva soul is a manifestation of divinity which is one with Kṛṣṇa and different from Him. The jīva souls are the marginal potency of the Lord."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 20.108]

Everything belongs to Him, you belong, you are a property to Him. Can you tolerate to hear? You may not be present in the civilised world, you have no position, a position of a slave. Gauḍīya Maṭh preaches slave mentality to the world. But they're dealing with which? Slave to whom? Slave to the Absolute Good, Divine Love. Your heart, you may not die of heart failure. Such toleration to hear, bold to hear what is truth. Your position you know every moment changing, changing. And every moment you're a prey to death, mortality, every second you're dying. Everything here is always dying, in spite of their trying utmost to maintain their existence. All failure. This is your position, and you're puffed with energy, 'I am the ultimate reality.' This false, hoax. You're being cheated.

But Vyāsadeva says that, "Non-cheating things I'm delivering here, that the Truth is all in all, and you are only a slave, and this slavery is a very highly valued jewel. You try to understand. Slavery to whom? Slavery not to a neighbour, a jungle king. Slavery to whom? All love, all beauty. Everything that comes from Him that is nectar. And you are His property, you are part of the potency, tatasṭha potency, or external potency, higher potency. They're all guardians."

[bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram]
suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati

[Kṛṣṇa says, "I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."]

[Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

You will only find peace in your mind when Who is the dictator of the whole world, He's your friend. He's friendly to you. He's not a robber. He's not a cheater. He has ample, He's infinite, He has ample. Why will He come to rob you, to cheat you? Is He a bankrupt that He will come cheating to collect money, capital by cheating? Only He can give, and you'll be able to give if you come in His connection. He's so high, so noble, so great. Such a news the Vaiṣṇava, the Bhāgavata, and Mahāprabhu's school, they want to take to our door. Nityānanda Prabhu approached every ordinary person and rolled on his gate.

"Accept what Gaurāṅga says. Accept Gaurāṅga. Your highest fulfilment is guaranteed."

Appealed with folded palms and weeping and rolling on the gate in the dust.

"Accept Gaurāṅga and you will have such brightest future which is unknown hitherto to the world."

["May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacīdevī, be transcendentally situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4]

All these things. A pioneer in the present age, this mahātmā Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Goswāmī Prabhupāda. He appeared this day, so this is the holiest to us.

With this I want to finish, retire. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

83.03.04.B

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that is the line, not that _____ [?] No. That is not the line.

Devotee: Bhakti Vijayatīrtha, he always teaches us to think like this. And any offence is my offence. He's not - he's always the humble servant.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When there were so many came to me with some such sort of hallucination, I asked them - Kṛṣṇa has come to them, so many ladies and gents, Kṛṣṇa Himself is coming as a friend, as husband, as this and that. I requested fervently to them, ask that Kṛṣṇa who comes to you, please withdraw Your, this fascinating self, and appear to me with Your real self. Withdraw these fascinating - the ghostly aspects, and come in real form to us. Please reveal Your grace in the real form, and not in such fascinating ghostly hallucinative form.

Devotee: It's not ghostly Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: There are so many tests to a devotee. In different stages, different kinds of temptations come, in different colour, in different figures. We're to avoid them. It is mentioned in the śāstra.
Aṇimā, laghimā, vyāpti, like the yogīs, so many siddhis they come. They become, like a servant they approach, so many siddhis. Aṇimā, laghimā, vyāpti, kāmāvasāyitā, so many things will approach to dissuade from the path of pure devotion. And most humbly we're to beg to be forgiven, and humbly we shall appeal them, please withdraw.

"O Lord. Withdraw Your māyā, different sections, different classes, and come graciously in Your real form. As given by Mahāprabhu and Nityānanda Prabhu. The Vaiṣṇava Ācārya come in that form, withdraw these forms. However glamour we may find there, but that should be completely dismissed."

There in Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta you'll find when a jīva attains liberation, Māyā Devī, in different fascinating ways, approaches him and says, "I'm your maidservant. Whatever you'll like, I shall serve you. Why do you pass away from my zone to the higher zone? Remain here. I shall serve you to your satisfaction." In this way Māyā herself approaches the liberated yogī and comes to him as devotee.

But devotee, the ways of the Vaiṣṇava, they will all dismiss all fascinating figures and proposals, and they will become only the dust of the feet of the Vaiṣṇava. That is their wealth.

Dhūlī-sadṛśaṁ vicintaya. Mahāprabhu Himself says, "Oh Kṛṣṇa, please consider Me as one of the dusts in Your feet. Not even servant."

[ayi nanda-tanuja] kiṅkaraṁ, patitaṁ māṁ viṣame bhavāmbudhau kṛpayā tava pāda-paṅkaja-sthita-dhūlī-sadṛśaṁ vicintaya

["O son of Nanda Mahārāja, I am Your eternal servant, yet because of my own karma, I have fallen into this terrible ocean of birth and death. Accept this fallen soul and consider me a particle of dust at Your holy lotus feet."] [Śikṣāṣṭakam, 5]

"Not even a servant of Your Holy Feet, but a dust of Your Holy Feet. Please consider Me."

This should be the nature, and way of our prayer. Others, many things may come as the result of our bhajan. But those phantasmagoria should be given up, dismissed. And only the feet dust of the Holy Vaiṣṇava, that should be the aspiration, our goal. The beacon light will be the dust of the feet of the Vaiṣṇava. That is the real path to go to the damsels of Vṛndāvana, their service to attain. From my own heart I appeal to you. Don't bring any blasphemy in the name of Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī, and A.C. Bhaktivedānta.

Devotee: I'm saying he appeared to me, he did. He did appear to me. It's the truth. He appeared to me. _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course. After reciting the whole of Bhagavad-gītā, then Kṛṣṇa addresses Arjuna. "What I have to say, I have said. Now, you're free to select your own course."
Yathecchasi tathā kuru.

[iti te jñānam ākhyātaṁ, guhyād guhyataraṁ mayā vimṛśyaitad aśeṣeṇa, yathecchasi tathā kuru]

["I have now disclosed more and more hidden treasures to you. Remember all this, and then do as you wish."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.63]

"What I have to say, I have said Arjuna. Now you're free to choose your own course."

That is my last word to you madam. You may take any course. But this is my appeal to you all. What more can I tell you. This is my heartfelt appeal to you. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Are you to leave today or tomorrow?

Devotee: I leave today. I came without permission from Bhakti Vijayatīrtha, so actually I was wrong. I shouldn't do that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Please say to Jayatīrtha Mahārāja, this is my appeal, please convey to him. These are my words to him, my request...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If he himself, or anyone, wants to see me, I like that avoiding that LSD, they may come to me. Not along with that. On my behalf you'll request them, if anyone of you comes to see me, then they may. Leaving aside that LSD they may come here.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because I think that it is my bad fortune that LSD will come with the shadow here. Our Guru Mahārāja was greatly opposed to these things. He fought his whole life against all of these things.

Devotee: LSD is not intoxication _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: We know it thoroughly well, that he fought the whole of his life against all these malpractices. Hare Kṛṣṇa. I'm tired. Old age. I'm tired.

...

...Vṛndāvana is included, Mathurā maṇḍala. And then another, Dvārakā. Mathurā Kṛṣṇa, sometimes in Mathurā, then the latter part in Dvārakā. Mathurā, between the two, Vṛndāvana and Dvārakā. Such conception. Then, anything else?

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. Is each and every living cell within the body a separate living entity?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hmm? Can't follow. Every living soul?

Devotee: Cell - within the body, is that a separate living entity, separate jīva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not separate jīva. No question of connection with any cell. Cell, if analysed, there are many constituent parts. And every soul there, they also again divided, and everywhere there is soul, it may not be so. Innumerable souls are wandering. When necessary they're connected with a particular material substance, and that may grow. If cell is the origin, of the soul, then cell can produce souls. That sort of idea will come. The soul has nothing to do with cell. According to its karma it will connect with any cell of any form, or any animal, or any vegetable. Its origin is not cell.

Soul is independent of matter. Matter cannot produce soul. Soul also cannot produce matter.

Soul is marginal potency, and matter is gross potency of the Lord. They're two branches, main, principal, and of lower, comparatively. Two potencies coming from the same source. Aparā śakti, the lower potency of the Lord is matter. And little higher potency of the Lord is jīva soul, the origin of jīva soul. So different potencies coming from the same substance. One is Brahman, another is Virajā. And when they're connected, then it can grow. One is prakṛti, another is puruṣa. One is light, another is watery substance, another is like light. Two different potencies of the Lord. _____ [?]

[bhūmir āpo 'nalo vāyuḥ khaṁ mano] buddhir eva ca

["My deluding potency in this world is divided in eight ways: earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence, and false ego."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.4]

"Aparā yam, this is a lower potency of Mine."

apareyam itas tv anyāṁ, prakṛtiṁ viddhi me parām jīva-bhūtāṁ mahā-bāho, yayedaṁ dhāryate jagat

["O mighty hero, Arjuna, this worldly nature known as external, is inferior. But distinct from this nature, you should know My marginal potency, comprised of the individual souls, to be superior. This world is accepted by this superior conscious potency as an object of exploitation for sense enjoyment, by the agency of each individual's fruit-hunting actions and reactions. The divine world emanates from My internal potency and the mundane world from My external potency. The potency of the living beings is known as marginal, on account of their medial adaptability - they may choose to reside either in the mundane plane or the divine."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 7.5]

And there is another, finer potency, named as jīva soul. And that potency, entering into this potency, the movement of the world making possible.

The material potency also in its different stages has been described as earth, water, fire, air, ether, but all material, fine and gross. All material.

But soul - though ether is the most fine - but soul is not in this category. The stone, earth, is gross. And ether is very fine, but still it is the outcome product of material potency. But soul does not come from this, from the same. It is something categorically different from this. And when that can come in contact with this gross potency we find life. These are all lifeless things, life here. And soul also, without this material substance, soul also can live in the higher sphere also, if it's connected with the spirit of dedication. Not with the spirit of predomination.

Gaura Haribol. Any other question?

Devotee: Mahārāja. In Swāmī Mahārāja's books, he says that there's two types of brahman. Saguṇa brahman and nirguṇa brahman. I was wondering if you could explain the difference between the two, saguṇa and nirguṇa brahman.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Brahman when connected with prakṛti guṇa, sattya, raja, tama, three guṇa symptom of prakṛti, that is material existence. This is conceived as the most gross, and fine, and middle stage, saguṇa. When brahman is connected, that is caitan, spirit, soul, is connected with this matter, then it is known as saguṇa brahman. Baddha jīva. Baddha jīva is saguṇa brahman. He's also brahman. Brahman means consciousness. The portion of the consciousness that's in contact with matter, that is saguṇa.

And which has got no relativity with this material world, that is nirguṇa.

Guṇa means satya, raja, tama, three guṇa. Guṇa is a thing like a disease. Diseased brahman or healthy brahman, normal brahman or abnormal brahman. Though brahman is always normal, pure, but still, when it's in contact with this mundane world, that is with the tendency of 'lording it over,' or the tendency of exploitation, enjoyment, that is saguṇa.

And when it is above the touch of enjoyment, or exploitation, engaged in the service, it is nirguṇa.

Guṇa means disease. Brahman when endowed with enjoying...

[Śrī Gaurasundar is the Personified Form of that oceanic consciousness of the flavour of nectar which is found in the Holy Name of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. Demigods, perfected beings, salvationists, mystic yogīs and dedicated devotees of Śrī Kṛṣṇa sing the glories of the Holy Name of the Lord. Like a rain cloud showering nectar, the mere shadow of the Name extinguishes the blazing forest fire of tormentful cravings and insatiable desires that chain the jīva within the material world, a place where the jīva again and again experiences the agonies of birth, death and rebirth. I sing with joy the unending glories of my sweet Lord, my golden Gaurasundar, the One and Only Divine Abode of Pure Love.] [Śrī Śrī Prema Dhāma deva stotram, 1]

Mahārāja, can you talk on that, speak on that.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is translated there in the book?

Badrinārāyaṇa: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Deva, the demigods. Siddha means the mystics who are masters of subtle powers, siddha. Mukta, the liberated salvationists. Yukta, the yogī, that wants union with Paramātmā, or wants the darśana, the touch or sight of Paramātmā, that is the inner voice of the Supersoul. Then bhakta, who is a devotee. Then, who is praised and worshipped by all these sections, vanditaṁ. Admired and praised and praised by all these different sections of higher personalities, vanditaṁ.

Pāpa-tāpa-dāva-dāha-dagdha-duḥkha-khaṇḍitam. By whom all the troubles that come out of all these circumstances are quite finished. What are they? Pāpa, the sin. Tāpa, the pain that is the outcome, product of our sin. Dāva-dāha, dāva means dāvanal [?] that in the forest, the conflagration in the forest, automatically some fire breaks out in the forest and the whole forest is burned to ashes, that is dāvanal, dāva-dāha. Pāpa, from the general sin, the fire of suffering that comes from our, the sins of the past years, past ages, lives, and that is quenched, extinguished. That fire is extinguished by whom? Who can do away with all the pains which comes like conflagration, rising from different births of previous lives, they're all finished, extinguished.

And kṛṣṇa-nāma-śuddha-dhāma-dhanya-dāna-sāgaraṁ. And who is the giver of the nectar of the Holy Divine Name of Kṛṣṇa? Śuddha-dhāma. The Name which is the very abode of divine nectar. Dhanya-dāna. Such a very notable gift, dhanya-dāna, which makes us very fortunate. That sort of gift, who is the ocean of such gift, ocean of such gift. Dāna-sāgaraṁ. There the technical meaning of the word dāna-sāgaraṁ means a ceremony in which different types of gift are offered, including even elephants. Various things are offered as gift in some occasion, that is known as dāna-sāgaraṁ. He's the ocean of various divine gifts, nāma-śuddha-dhāma, His gift is the abode of the divine nectar, the very Name of the Lord Kṛṣṇa. That is whose gift.

Prema-dhāma-devam eva naumi. We praise in hymns, we offer our prayer to such God only Who is the abode of divine love. Prema-dhāma-devam eva naumi gaura-sundaram. We chant in praise of such God only adored Who is Gaurasundara Whose gift is such. That is the meaning.

First inauguration that He has, He's in an established position hold up and commands respect of different sections of high personality. The second, the negative side of He is, He can extinguish the fire of all our troubles, the fire. And the third, the positive gift, that nectar which makes us very caught, everyone, very fortunate that the Name Divine. And Who is the abode of such love and sympathy to others, that Gaurasundara alone we shall bow down, none else.

What is this? Flag? Only? Not mosquito?

Devotees: Yes. Flag.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: tomari godhiya avidya bilai vidhita rasana more [?]

I am forgetful of You. So my tongue is influenced by ignorance. Avidya bilai. Attacked by the disease of ignorance, the tongue. Kṛṣṇa-nāma-śuddha. That nectarine Name of You does not please me, does not produce any hankering, earnestness. No taste for me, it is not tasteful to me, the Divine Name. But the devotees they say only one tongue, one mouth is not sufficient. Crores and millions of mouths are necessary to take the Name of Kṛṣṇa. There are such devotees, and they deplore their own construction, blame Vivarta [?] Only one mouth he has given to him who is to take Kṛṣṇa Nāma. Millions of mouths, lips, and tongue is necessary for him who will take Kṛṣṇa Nāma. So much tasteful honey is there, but we're devoid of that. Why? Avidyā, ajñāna, misconception. We're not getting the proper conception or touch of the thing. It is so sweet, but to us we do not feel so much sweetness there. That is covered with ignorance, the tasting sense is covered with clay, so no direct touch with the honey, so we can't taste. But those that have got their uncovered tongue, they can feel the sweetness of the Name, Nāma. And the eye, the figure, the mind, the quality, and the līlā holds that also the heart and mind. So very sweet, so very loving, and so very sweet. But our barren heart does not produce anything useful - thing of truth, of the creeper of devotion which will connect with Kṛṣṇa ..... and connect me with Him. Bhakti-latā, will go to Kṛṣṇa and roll on His feet.

sado bhasya sri mam detamoni ya cari pranayitam bahid vidyadvan grihisa parames cit prakrti bhi [?]

Who is always being worshipped, alovasya. Sri mam. For His beautiful appearance, worshipped by so many. In the garb of human body. Ditamani yacarhay. Who has accepted this human body, come down here to worship Him. Anyatam bhahadvi. And who has great affinity towards Him, love, affection towards Him. Pranai tahai dibyanai. The gods, dibyanai. Pranai tahai dibyanai giri sa parames cit prakṛti. Girisa means Śiva and parames cit means Brahmā. Brahmā, Śiva, and so many other gods coming in disguise of this human body are worshipping the earnestly charming figure of Śrī Gaurasundara. Beautiful appearance that is related anywhere and everywhere, they're all eye witness. Rūpa Goswāmī, Ragunātha Dāsa Goswāmī, Sanātana Goswāmī, so many writers, they're all eye witness to His beautiful figure. Very charming stalwart. And eyes are very lotus like. And charming complexion, tall figure, and every limb has got the charming representation. They've all described Him, the exceptionally beautiful figure, Mahāprabhu. So many gods came here and in human form, came to worship Him in the form of devotees.

sado bhasya sri mam detamoni ya cari pranayitam bahid vidyadvan grihisa parames cit prakrti bhi [?]

So many gods whose - the principal amongst them, Brahmā, Śiva, etc, the creator and the destroyer of this universe, including them, all the demigods.

sarvatbya sudarn bhajana mudrani [?] And who is showing to His own devotees, His own Name, what is the real line of worshipping the Lord, who He Himself is.

sabhaktay bhasya sudham nija bhajana mudra uprarisam nija bhajana mudra [?]

The way in which He's worshipping that, and also His own worship how it will be managed, it will be done. In both meaning He's showing. sa caitanya kinme pundara pivitoria [?] Rūpa Goswāmī says, "Should I be able to see that holy figure again? Will that come again? Will that appear on my eye again, what I saw previously? Would I be fortunate enough to have a view of that extraordinary wonderful figure? Should I get once more, once more?" Rūpa Goswāmī, he saw first in Rāmakeli. Second he saw in Allahabad, Prayāga. Third he saw, he came to Jagannātha, there. Thrice he had direct experience of His beautiful darśana. In this poem he says, "Should I see Him again that beautiful figure whose just directing us how to worship our Lord of heart?"

su esa nama durgam [?] The gods can approach Him with great trouble. It is not easy for them to approach Him, for the gods even. Even the gods could approach Him but with much difficulty.

durgam koti lati sai nopati saran [?] Upaniṣad, the highest type of revealed scripture also anyhow showing Him far-fetched. Patishai naiva [?] not very plain. If we can study very deeply, then we can find the Upaniṣad is giving hints that He's the most original, the Lord of love, He's the fulfilment of everything. Deep study can disclose only these things. Patishai naiva. The munis, the speculationists, good normal speculationists, they will find everything what we want, all is embodied here, it can satisfy all our hankerings.

mahinam sarvasyam prano pati nama madhuri nama [?] And those that surrender, submit to Him, they find Him sweetest of the sweet, madhuri nama.

bedhi jasa prema nama esa pati baddhi bhava [?] And who is seen by the fortunate. He's the very substance and the gist of the divine love of the gopīs in Vṛndāvana. As if the divine love of the gopīs is personified in Him.

vini jyasa premna nihila pasu balam _____ [?] The heart, the object of the thirst of their heart, as if personified, wholesale. Such said Caitanya Deva.

"Will She come once more before My sight, My eyes? Will She come? Will He come?"

svarupam divyano jagata tulam advaita dvaita [?]

She showed His figure as above everything that has been showed up till now, jagata tulam. Which can never be compared with anything in this world. In such a way he has showed His beautiful sweet figure. And at the same time another meaning, svarūpam, Svarūpa Dāmodara, He showed that Svarūpa Dāmodara he's the possessor of the unparalleled wealth, capital in Him. Svarupam divyano jagata tulam. He's incomparable in the whole of the world. Who? Svarūpa Dāmodara. Because he's in possession of the highest capital of the Divine Love of the highest order. Jagata tulam advaita dvaita. And he showed himself that he's very devoted to Advaita, Kṛṣṇa, or the Advaita Ācārya Prabhu, he's very favourite to Him. By his request He had to come here, as if. Prapanna srivasa. He showed Himself as surrendered in the holy feet of Śrīvāsa, Lakṣmīpati, Nārāyaṇa. And at the same time the devotee Śrīvāsa who was always surrendered under His feet.

prapanna srivasa janito paramananda galima [?] One meaning, that due to ecstatic divine sentiment in him, he's seen by the public as a proud figure, galima. Nothing, incomparable difference he has got in his figure from the whole other beautiful things. The pride of beauty as if very clear in his figure, Paramānanda.

And another, Paramānanda, the sannyāsī, Paramānanda the disciple of Mādhavendra Purī, he was a staunch supporter of Śrī Caitanyadeva, and for that he felt himself proud. "That my Guru's brother," Godbrother of his Gurudeva Īśvara Purī, he was a staunch supporter and follower of Śrī Caitanyadeva. For that he felt much pride. "That my Guru appreciates me. My Guru's Godbrother he appreciates me." This sort of high feeling was in him.

paramananda vaina hari dinodhari gagapati devosay gatha _____ [?] And He, the Lord Hari, He's dinodhari. Who is the friend and deliverer of all the fallen souls, the deliverer of the fallen, of the poorest of the poor, that Hari He is. And here also the suppressed meaning, dinodhari. "We're very poorest of the poor." Rūpa Goswāmī says. "And this fellow is also delivered by Him, dinodhari, because He's deliverer and friend of the poor, so this humble person has got a position in His holy feet, dinodhari."

gajapati krpor seka sataka [?] Nārāyaṇa, the Kṛṣṇa, He delivered the elephant Gajarāja. Gajarāja in his past birth he was a king in the Pāṇḍava country. For some fault, he committed some offence against some devotee, so he became an elephant. He showed some gesture of an elephant towards a devotee without caring for him. So he had to become an elephant in the next life. And when that elephant went to take bath in a lake there was a big crocodile and that attacked him, And there was a long fight, and ultimately the elephant he was very much troubled, tired, and prayed for the help divine. And Kṛṣṇa went and destroyed that crocodile and saved that elephant. That reference is here, gajapati krpoor seka tavata [?] Whose heart is melted by the prayer of that elephant devotee, and who went to deliver him from his danger. And the other side the Gajapati, Pratāprudra the king of Orissa, Whose heart melted with kindness for the king, Gajapati. And he was taken in within his home. _____ [?]

"Will it be possible that I shall again have the chance of having a darśana of that Caitanyadeva whom I saw in this way previously? _____ [?] Will He come? Will He appear in the jurisdiction of my fleshy eye again?" Rūpa Goswāmī. _____ [?] Whose appearance is like kamad budha madhura dhama ujaratano [?] If it is possible that the god Cupid, millions of Cupids, Cupid who is supposed to be the most beautiful god, and when that is in the fullest stage of its excitement, full grown Cupid and millions in number, if we can imagine, such appearance we find in Him when He's surcharged with the divine love and taking the Name of the Lord."

rasodama kama dhyo madhura dhamo jana tano [?] Looking at His beautiful figure it seems that millions of the beautiful Cupids they're combined into one in its most proud position in its highest glaze. His figure seems like that. _____ [?] That beautiful figure and in the garb of a sannyāsī, red robe. _____ [?] And His dress is also seen modified by the lustre of His body, just like the lustre of the sun's glaze. The dress has also been merged by the glaze of His lustrous body. In this way we find Him.

herana nama laksmi _____ [?] The golden colour, all the high quality gold they have got their lustre and beauty, and that has been subdued, such a colour, by His colour. Such a colour we find. The good gold, not this tampered, bad gold, but good gold of the highest type. And that ray, that has been subdued by His ray. Defeating the lustre of so many gold of different high types of gold, that has been defeated by His lustre. Such was the glaze of His body. Should I be fortunate enough to have a look of that figure once more? When He's chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa at the top of His voice, and at the same time He's counting the beads. And around His waist there are the sutra and the counting bead bag, and there He's counting, the sutra. And there His hands were seen to play with that. The great big lotus eyes. And the hands seem to be like the...

The stand by which we close the door, what is it? Bamboo or wooden? Latch, or bar? A bar, generally, is very flat. Long like that door closing stand.

His hands are playing like that _____ [?]
Both the hands, which can be compared by the door closing stand, they're playing in various ways when He's counting His beads. In such playful posture, Śrī Gaurāṅga. Should I be able to see Him again, by these eyes once more?" _____ [?]
As I've seen, will that come on my eyes once more? Just before the chariot of Jagannātha _____ [?]
Just a little in the front, a little distant _____ [?] He's dancing madly. And the sweat, and so many symptoms of devotion coming on His, apparent, patent on His body. His body is sweating, and He's dancing, and so many signs of devotion are expressive on His body. Will I be fortunate enough to see that figure any more, once more?

_____ [?]

And His own devotees are all chanting the Name of the Lord, surrounding Him. And with pleasure He's dancing. If such a beautiful scenery will come in my eye once more in my life?

_____ [?]

When He was seen just on the shore of the ocean, in Purī, _____ [?] And there were so many jungles, forests. And He took them, took the scenery, just as the forest of Vṛndāvana. _____ [?] And there, "This is, I'm in Vṛndāvana." With this excitement His tongue used to pronounce the Name of the Lord very sweetly. _____ [?]
And with the excitement that "I'm in Vṛndāvana" His gesture, posture, used to take some divine lustre. A new, or exceptional beauty, came, emanated from His figure, that He's in Vṛndāvana.

Should that figure will come to my sight once more in my life?

_____ [?] Sometimes He was seen that He's shedding tears profusely. And near about land all becomes wet with water of His tears. _____ [?]
And His body is full of that - the hairs stand on end. And some inflammation like boils also come, during the root of the hairs in the body. _____ [?]
And His body appeared like a kadamba flower.

Have you seen this kadamba flower? In the flower, so many branches oozing on all sides. It's a round flower, and on all sides something oozing from the middle, in a circular way. So many stems are coming out.

"His body seemed to be like the flower of a kadamba tree. The hairs all standing on their end. And the lower part of the hair also like so many boils are coming. Such a beautiful figure. When He's shedding tears, taking the Name, the whole surrounding earth is being wet. And His body is such, with the extraordinary feeling that the Divine Kṛṣṇa and His līlā. That appeared in His body very plainly, showing such signs, like a kadamba flower. Will it be possible? Should I get that fortune once more, to get such a figure just floating on my eye?"

In this way Rūpa Goswāmī, who saw Him with his own eyes, he's giving description of His beautiful figure. So it is not an abstract conception from a different place. Like a poet he's describing the beauty of a person in an abstract way. But the eye witness, that had got eye witness of His beautiful figure, they're describing His beauty in such different ways.

"Will it be possible once more to have that appearance before my eyes?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Jagannāthaḥ swāmī nayana-patha-gāmī bhavatu me. [Jagannāthāṣṭaka] This is by Mahāprabhu.

And _____ [?] by Rūpa Goswāmī.

And Sacisundar kim me _____ [?] by Dāsa Goswāmī.

He's also eye witness. He's also describing His beautiful pastimes, His beautiful gestures, postures, figure, sweet movements. Dignified devotion, all these.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Here I stop.

[01:21 - 33:15?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hari, the Divine Lord. There is a poem in Sanskrit literature.

_____ [?]

All our senses are useless, if it does not get the touch of the taste of the divine ecstasy. It is described in a very intense way. The nature's food, soul's food. _____ [?]

The divine food, rasa, anugraha, the ecstasy. But by serving attitude, not with any tinge of enjoying temperament. Only through service we can contact with that sort of food. Without which we cannot live. It is impossible to live without food. So also it is like that, soul's food. But to be connected with the serving attitude of high quality people.

So the conception of God is not far and away to the devotees of Śrī Caitanyadeva. Without Him they cannot live at all. That is the position. _____ [?] Our inner urgency of the inner soul. If we can approach with that inner, innate, urgency, which is buried within the soul - if that is awakened, and has connection with the Lord, then our position will be such. It will be impossible to live without His connection of us. Service is food, everything.

The eye cannot live, ear cannot live, tongue cannot live without the corresponding food of them. They will _____ [?] they will cry, disappointed. "I'm not getting the touch of the corresponding faith." That sort of hankering is within for the Truth Absolute. That is the Reality the Beautiful. So much attraction we shall come in connection with, in contact, if we come to touch the Reality the Beautiful. The search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa Reality the Beautiful. So strong attraction if once we can come in connection with Him, that the corresponding side will cry, disappointed. If apparently disconnected for a few seconds, "I can't stand. I can't live."

Gaura Hari. It is possible. So how thick and thin, a natural connection we've got with the Absolute. And now we're far away. We do not care to know Him, to give any recognition that He's our own, we belong to Him. Nothing of the kind. So, so, far away we have come. But the real position is such, if we're in normal stage of life. That is our connection, position, with the Reality the Beautiful. The force of beauty _____ [?]
Duty. The central beauty, attraction. The force of attraction of the central beauty is such. Cannot be measured by our worldly standard.

Those that reached within the jurisdiction they're giving description in such a way. The degree of attraction is so much. The gopīs say that, "Only two eyes to see the face? Two eyes only. And there is also the eyelid. What injustice in the creation. The creator does not know how to create. One who will get the chance of having a look on the face of Kṛṣṇa, he has been given only two eyes. And again, that is covered with a lid, eye cover. Such is the way, the creator does not know how to create. It is impossible. So for the ear, so for the nose, the corresponding part."

Such intimate friendly connection we have got with the Lord of our hard heart. And it is very peculiar that we're away, and we have nothing to do with Him. This is māyā. This is vulnerable free will, combined by māyā, has taken us in such position. Māyā, in cooperation with the vulnerable free will, has taken us so far away.

Devotee: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: The existence, the consciousness, and the ecstasy. Martineau, one gentleman, instead of ecstasy, he used the word beauty, beautiful reality. Reality the Beautiful. It is Martineau's expression, one Mr. Martineau. Reality the Beautiful. The beauty - some say harmony, but he says beautiful. Reality the Beautiful. Reality the Harmony. Reality the Ecstasy. Happiness, joy, rasam, ānandam - in Sanskrit. _____ [?] Our heart's innermost necessity, to be found out, what it's aspiring after, innermost aspiration of our heart, of us. What is that? That is to be detected _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...that is difference in the temperament. Then, Kṛṣṇa of Vṛndāvana, Balarāma of Vṛndāvana. No presence of Pradyumna, Aniruddha. In Mathurā also, no Pradyumna, no Aniruddha. In Dvārakā there is Pradyumna and Aniruddha, and Kṛṣṇa, Balarāma already, but They're of different type.

Devotee: Does Rādhārāṇī...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rādhārāṇī has nothing to do with Pradyumna, Aniruddha. They're in Dvārakā. Rādhārāṇī is only in Vṛndāvana, there, Vṛndāvana Kṛṣṇa. Up to twelve years of Kṛṣṇa, the direct connection with Rādhārāṇī. After that, indirect connection, viraha. Viraha Prakāśa, your Gurudeva. Viraha Prakāśa of Rādhārāṇī for Kṛṣṇa. Meeting, very - one in Dvārakā, and another in prabāsa, _____ [?] in Kurukṣetra, from a meeting from far away, enter environment. And that's enhancing more separation pain.

But what's your question?

Vidagdha Mādhava: I can do it. As the Viṣṇu Tattva expansions are coming from Kṛṣṇa...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Viṣṇu Tattva is generally known, who is the particular function of Kṛṣṇa, that keeps the balance of the creation, helping as a saviour. Helping the good, and controlling the bad. That function of Kṛṣṇa is Viṣṇu Tattva.

Devotee: Śakti Tattva...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Vistay dalan sistay palan [?] Sustenance of the good, and suppression of the bad. Sustenance and suppression, that is the function of Viṣṇu, in relativity with this world, the outer appearance.

Jaya idam visvam vyapnoti [?] Sometimes in the broader sense also used, that whatever is pervading through everything, everywhere, can be perceived everywhere. That is also a conception of Viṣṇu. Jaya idam visvam vyapnoti [?] He's pervading, permeating everywhere.

Badrinārāyaṇa: Mahārāja. He's asking if Rādhārāṇī also has Her partial expansions? Like Rukmiṇī?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That is partial representation.

Devotee: That's not the question.

Vidagdha Mādhava: He's asking if the śakti tattva expands just as Viṣṇu tattva?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. One and same. Yes. Mahāprabhu says that, "Don't divide the śakti tattva into different independent parts. They're all one and same. But their function and presentation are different." In Caitanya-caritāmṛta we find, after advising Gopāla Bhaṭṭa's father, Vyeṅkaṭa Bhaṭṭa, then Lakṣmī Devī tried her best to have admission into the rasa līlā of Kṛṣṇa, but she failed. For that she's still seen to make penances in the Bilyavan [?], but she could not, she was unfit. Whereas others, Daṇḍakaranya Ṛṣis, and the śruti, whose positions are inferior to Lakṣmī Devī, they got entrance into the rasa līlā, and Lakṣmī Devī could not."

To minimise the sorrow of the followers of Lakṣmī-Nārāyaṇa, Mahāprabhu says that, "Lakṣmī Devī in the form of gopī are serving, getting the advantage of serving Kṛṣṇa. And the gopī in the form of Lakṣmī is getting the chance to serve Nārāyaṇa. On the whole they're one and same."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mostly we're captured by the element of the cover of things, which we can grasp with our senses, eye, ear, tongue, touch, nose. We're captivated there. That is the danger.

We must pierce through, and to find out our connection with the things within the cover. We shall try to find out what is within the cover. Then we shall come in connection with the truth proper.

This apparent charm must be broken to pieces, must be removed. And we're to dive deep into the innermost substance, to get back our connection. Ignoring our outer representation, we must look to the necessity of our deeper person. And at the same time, what we see outside, we shall pierce through that and try to connect with the innermost substance. Covering me, and covering outside, both must be eliminated. Not altogether eliminated, but we must come through - the interest of the inner thing - through the cover, again. Then we'll be able to have an adjustment proper on the whole thing.

And ignoring the inner substance we're only making much of the cover. That is bad. Here also we're making much of the cover, the body, ignoring the mind, ignoring the faculty of judgement, ignoring the soul. That is the non faculty. If we're too much busy with the cover, that is the flesh and bone, there is also misguidance. At the same time, about the environment also, if we concentrate only with the cover, that is also to ignore the truth, where inside there is immense to be explored, to be had, most valuable things within.

Just within us - a man with a good body, but not good mental system, what is his position? Body is a good looking body, but derangement of mental system. No judgement faculty, no heart - that is magnanimity, all these qualities, nothing, only good body.

So, the wealth is within, similarly, what we see, the world of our experience, the wealth is within. And we must not be, must not allow ourselves to be charmed by the cover. In this way we're to move from deeper to deeper to deepest. And we'll be benefited.

The knowledge has been classified into five stages. Pratyakṣa, parokṣa, aparokṣa, adhokṣaja, and aprakṛta. Five planes of knowledge.

Pratyakṣa, our sense experience. The plane of our understanding which we gather from the direct experience of our senses. Experience of my own. My own experience. We may consider our knowledge to be confined to that limit.

But if we want to develop it, then we're to accept the experience of others. The experience of the scientist, they're preparing medicine, they're inventing, and I may get benefit of their invention. That is not my direct experience, but that is the experience of an expert. We can get utility of that, other's experience. So pratyakṣa, parokṣa, my experience, and the next, experience of other persons. We can get benefit from that knowledge.

Then the third knowledge is of higher type. It has been considered that when we're in deep dreamless slumber, we can come in touch with some sort of plane, which is not within the experience, either of me, or of other experts. A third type of plane, which, where we reach when we're in sound sleep. And when we come back from that sound sleep we sometimes assert that, "I had a very good sleep, happy sleep." So some sort of inexplicable experience, or happiness, there. "I had, I got a very good sleep, very happy, peaceful sleep." So some sort of experience of peace is to be traced there. Though it is beyond the jurisdiction of the experience of mine, as well as others, experts of the world. This is the third plane of knowledge.

Now the period is, fourth plane of experience has been inaugurated by the Vaiṣṇava Ācāryas. That we're the subject, we feel, we conceive. We're conceiver, we're thinker, we're feeler. And other things we feel, the object of our feeling, of our knowledge. But there is higher kind of knowledge, who is seer of me, feeler of me, knower of me, but I cannot know Him. My knowing capacity cannot rise up to that plane. It is so fine. My knowing principle is gross. But that is more fine. That can come to contact with me. But I cannot go up to contact with Him. It is so fine. I may be handled by Him, by that substance, my soul, that is Supersoul. Super subjective area existence. That is adhokṣaja. The _____ [?] when that comes down to my eye, we may get some sort of experience. And when withdrawn, I can bear only the memory of that, nothing else. I cannot give any proof at my sweet will. I can't do. I'm helpless. Because that is withdrawn. I cannot stand in the witness box, cannot produce Him in the witness box to prove my case. The fact is not there, it is withdrawn already. A fourth class of knowledge. But we can't deny the existence. The most of us who have got such experience they can't deny that there is possibility of such higher experience. We cannot force them, try to remain under our command.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...towards the satisfaction of the Lord. And everything automatically done. None knows how.

yasmin vijñāte sarvam evam vijñātam bhavati
[yasmin prāpte sarvam idam prāptam bhavati]

["By knowing Him, everything is known - by getting Him, everything is gained."] [Upaniṣads]

If you know one, everything is known. If you get one, everything is got. This is key to the highest life. So you try to have some understanding with the main consumer of everything. All things automatically done. You will get a peaceful life.

[bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram]
suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntiṁ ṛcchati

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

"I am all in all. Only have understanding with Me proper. And then everything is done for you."

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

bhoktāraṁ yajña-tapasāṁ, sarva-loka-maheśvaram, suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ

"I am a friend and a guardian to you, and I do everything."

Everything is done from this centre, and you can make some proper understanding with the centre, you have got, you may not have any worries in your life. It is not unreasonable thing. The greatest peace you can find only in this method, that understanding with the highest controlling centre.

And understanding reality comes surrender and faith, that He's good. Absolute Controller is Absolute Good. And He's Autocrat, so no law, no science, nothing has to give anything, He's Autocrat.

So you're not to explore anyway, waste your energy anywhere. Concentrate all your energy to make understanding with the Autocrat Controller. And He's loving, He's sweet absolute. He's not responsible for any other thing, He's all in all. And higher understanding we should surrender and He will take up your case, consider your case favourably. That is what is necessary in the whole of the universe this one law that will satisfy everything.

Mādhava Maharaja: So, Mahārāja. Parīkṣit, he wants to study international politics, to serve Kṛṣṇa by that study (of a new?) subjects, politics, he wants to serve in that way. Now, is it better to directly approach the controller or to...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
[ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

As much as you eliminate other obligations of the environment, and collect the whole of your energy and lead towards the centre, that will be more beneficial, bring more prospect for you.

...

Mādhava Mahārāja: One devotee has come from England also, Bhakta-rasa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: You take care of him, a newcomer known to you only.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. So inform everything to Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, about the latest developments there.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Not much change.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mādhava Mahārāja has secured a promise to clear off the debt of the loan of Ambrosia. One gentleman he has undertaken to relieve him. Ha, ha, ha.

Mādhava Mahārāja: The same day your letter came, he also came and said that he can help. So I thought it's by Kṛṣṇa's arrangement he has come. I was also having a difficult time getting my visa to India, and when your letter came I thought, "Oh, you didn't want me to leave England, that's why I was having difficulty with visa. Until I solved this problem, then I could get my visa." And other devotees they have also promised to help, Janaka and Saranga, they will also all help to collect money.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A bond to him.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Yes. They've all said that I can come, and they'll take care of the problem for me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. They're unhappy because of leaving you there they have to come ahead.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Also, Dr Sharma, he proposed that he wanted Aranya Mahārāja to buy the house for £40.000. He's ready to sell it to them, by some instalments, if they'd like to purchase it.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If possibly arranged. Dayādhara Prabhu is also expected to come. A little indifference and pressure from Haṁsadūta Mahārāja perhaps. He was indifferent first, now a little pressure against him. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari.

One half-mad boy came here I'm told, this morning I heard from Govinda Mahārāja. One half-mad boy came and told that one foreign lady she was coming from ISKCON to this Maṭh, and she's taken away by the hooligans. _____ [?] We do not like to believe this. But anyhow we heard these things.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Yes. We were there, last night he told. But we could not believe him. We're not sure.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not sure. Is it possible? But to draw our attention towards that matter, some conspiracy. _____ [?]

Mādhava Mahārāja: We don't know. Vidagdha knows him, no? He's seen him before. But I could see from him, not trustworthy.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ... Kṛṣṇa Dāsa Bābājī Mahārāja. I'm told his portrait has been very nice.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Wonderful.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Wonderful?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Yes. We appreciate very much.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When will they begin Samādhi Mandir we don't know, but something is already come out from here.

Devotee: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He had much affection and appreciation of mine, from the beginning of Maṭh life. I sometimes chastised him, but he did not care.

Devotees: (Group laughter)

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. When I wrote to Prabhupāda, our Guru Mahārāja, I was in Delhi Maṭh, in charge. "If you allow, I can take Vaivikānanda [?] Prabhu here."

He told that, "If you can do so, you will do the duty of his friend, work of his true friend, if you can take him there and engage him in the service."

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ]
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

["Because the Name of Kṛṣṇa is identical with Kṛṣṇa Himself, and on the absolute spiritual platform, Kṛṣṇa's Name, Form, Qualities, and associates, cannot be appreciated by the material senses. However, when one engages the tongue in chanting the Holy Names of the Lord and tasting the remnants of the Lord's food, Kṛṣṇa gradually reveals Himself to the purified senses of that devotee."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrva-vibhāga, 2.234]

This was the main point of the whole activity of our Gurudeva. Whatever, you take the Name, or whatever you do must be in a serving attitude of the surrendering basis. Our faith, should not be miser there, then the foundation will be otherwise. The foundation is the śraddhā, faith, that the real form service, dedication. All other forms will be productive only when it is done with the spirit of dedication. If you're miser there then so many forms of bhajana, of serving attitude, won't do us any good because the miser to surrender, that is the test. With how much intensity you require you really require, want it. The degree of your requirement will be judged by your surrender, your real want. Not by the fashion outside. Inner thing is wholesale. We all belong to Him completely. Then we shall go to make trade with Him, "that I shall do so much, He must give so much." Trade mentality is not possible there. Wholesale we belong to Him. He has got every right _____ [?] Try to realise your position, give recognition to that, _____ [?] must have that recognition. In the beginning I'm hearing Bhāgavatam, who will get the benefit? My Lord, not me.
I'm studying a book, whatever I'm doing, who'll get the benefit? My Lord. He's my owner, I'm His property, property belongs to Him. That consciousness must be there.

16:00 - 24:40 [Most of this section where Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja is speaking is too inaudible to transcribe accurately] Where is Yaśodānandana? _____ [?]

25:50 - 26:08 Devotee: He's in New York now. He started a temple in San Francisco, with his associate, Gurukṛpa Mahārāja. They've just got out of jail, prison.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: 26:40 - Hare Kṛṣṇa. No trace of Rāmānuja, who came along with Acyutānanda here, some twelve years back?

Devotee: No. Acyutānanda, he'll not be here this year. He'll not come this year. He has no money.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is the ISKCON want of money? _____ [?]

Devotee: But he's left ISKCON. Now he's going back, so he has to regain his standing there. They're suspicious of him. Anyone who goes to see Sudh - they become suspicious of.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyone _____ [?]

Devotee: Anyone who goes to visit Sudhīra Goswāmī, they become very much afraid of, and suspicious of.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Afraid of which?

Devotee: Any person.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His authority?

Devotee: Yeah. They become - if they go to visit, like Acyutānanda went to visit Sudhīra Goswāmī. So after that they're afraid of him.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Distrust him.

Devotee: Distrust.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Discourage.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Bad man.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Because he's of uncompromising principle.

Devotees: Yes.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Not a yes man to the committee.

...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?]
I have got within me the real self, that is immortal, and that has got a plane within. He's a child of a particular soil, a plane that is immortal realm, and a member, I'm immortal. But proper knowledge, proper estimation. The Bhāgavatam says, tvaṁ tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imāṁ jahi

[na jātaḥ prāg abhūto 'dya, deha-vat tvaṁ na naṅkṣyasi]

["O King, give up the animalistic mentality of thinking: 'I am going to die.' Unlike the body, you have not taken birth. There was not a time in the past when you did not exist, and you are not about to be destroyed."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 12.5.2]

At the conclusion of Bhāgavata, Śukadeva is giving impression to Parīkṣit Mahārāja. Tvaṁ tu rājan mariṣyeti, paśu-buddhim imāṁ jahi. That you will die, this animal consciousness you kill. You kill this animal consciousness that you will have to die. That is this body will die, and you don't die, you never die. And that aspect of yourself must be brought out from this cage of flesh and bone. You don't die, so no fear of mortality in yourself. But your attention is focussed towards the mortal elements and so you think 'I'm dying.' And everything which is dying, and your concentration only with that environment. So solve yourself. You're to face this one day or other, otherwise you will continue to be mortal, the play of birth and death.

uddhared ātmanātmānaṁ, nātmānam avasādayet
ātmaiva hy ātmano bandhur, [ātmaiva ripur ātmanaḥ]

["The living being must be delivered from the dark well of material life by means of the mind detached from sense objects, and he must never in any way be flung down into the material world by the mind enchanted by sense objects - because the mind is sometimes his friend, and in another situation the very same mind is rather the enemy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.5]

We're our friends, we're our foe. If we help me to get out of this entanglement then I'm my friend. Otherwise, if I indulge in going through the mortality I'm my foe.

bandhur ātmātmanas tasya, yenaivātmātmanā jitaḥ
[anātmanas tu śatrutve, vartetātmaiva śatruvat]

["For the soul who has conquered his mind, his mind is his friend and well-wisher. For a person unable to control it, his own mind remains constantly engaged in his disservice, like an enemy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 6.6]

One who has got self control, control over the senses, and guide according to the scriptures, he's his friend. And who plays like a doll at the hands of the senses, kāma, krodha, lobha - lust, anger, greed, etc., at their hand play like a doll, he's his own enemy. So Parīkṣit Bābū, he has come up to this mark of consciousness.

It is very valuable time for you. Now whether you will begin to have a wholesale solution of all the lives together in the future. Or having this human birth, coming to the goal like a footballer. Or coming to the gate to get out of the prison, again you will enter into the prison. That is to be decided. So think very, very seriously whether you're going to help you in what way? And this ordinary stereotype way, or a novel way? You will try to help yourself.

Mādhava Mahārāja: Revolutionary way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Revolutionary, or this mundane, this ordinary stereotype method. So many going on, the progress has got no value.

Mādhava Mahārāja: He wants to revolutionary in the world, but with himself he's in ordinary way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Try to help yourself. You have got the chance, a human birth, it is most valuable. It is not sure that once we have come to human birth it will continue, no. _____ [?]
Very valuable. _____ [?] It can serve the highest purpose, but it is flickering, it may vanish next moment.

In Bhāgavata, Bharata Mahārāja, he went up to such a stage that when young he left his whole kingdom, whole empire, just like one passes his stools. _____ [?] Passing like stool, so hatefully he left his empire and went to the Ṛṣis for tapasya. But last moment slight deviation. He was nurturing the calf of a deer, and when the time of his death came he was engrossed in the thought of that infant deer, that the jackals and other tigers may devour him. Just the very moment his life passed away and got a figure of that deer.

yaṁ yaṁ vāpi smaran bhāvaṁ, tyajaty ante kalevaram
[taṁ taṁ evaiti kaunteya, sadā tad-bhāva-bhāvitaḥ]

["O son of Kuntī, at the time of leaving the body, whatever object a person meditates upon will be attained by him, due to his constant contemplation on the object."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 8.6]

Whatever idea will capture in the last moments of our departure from this body, that idea will take me to a particular factory and give a material body. So Bharata Mahārāja who could leave his empire just like stool, he had some attraction for the infant deer, and he had to get the birth of a deer.

Such are the subtle laws of the nature. So we must be very careful about our own future. All that glitters is not gold. Things that seem to be good may not really be that. What is the proverb? As it seems to be, as it appears, things may not be so as it appears. So sādhu sadvan [?] Think seriously what to do. We've got a most valuable chance in human body. When by the help of the scriptures and the saints, living scriptures, we can work out our salvation from this bondage of mortality. Should we use that in that way, or in a stereotype way _____ [?] Go on as a slave of the senses. At present we're slaves of our senses. The tongue, the nose, the ear, sweet sound, sweet taste, sweet sight, they attract us and we gather some money and purchase these pleasing sense experience, and deceive ourselves and distribute to others. We distribute this sense pleasure to others then, we're religious men? What is this? To be religious that I distribute sense pleasure to others. I'm selfish when I use for myself. And when I distribute them for others, this sense pleasure, then I'm a good man, and very kind, benevolent? But the transaction of sense pleasure is mortal. The wholesale should be dismissed. We're to find out what am I?

Where am I? The senses, or the mind, or the faculty of judgement, the reason, or transcendental, something more, but where am I located?

indriyāṇi parāṇy āhur, indriyebhyaḥ paraṁ manaḥ manasas tu parā buddhir, buddher yaḥ paratas tu saḥ

["The learned proclaim that the senses are superior to inert objects, the mind is superior to the senses, and the faculty of resolute intelligence is superior to the mind. And he who is superior to the intelligence is the soul himself."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.42]

I'm that element which is above reason. Our senses are very important. If all our senses wanting, then no world to us. If no eye, no figure, appearance. No ear, no music. No tongue, no taste. So no senses, no world experience.

But the mind, sometimes we say, "He passed by our front?"

"No, no, I have not seen. I did not see. I was unmindful, inattentive, I could not see."

So mind is the recipient through the senses. And then there is the faculty of judgement, reason, more important.

Mind says, "I want this thing."

Reason says, "No, don't go there, rather take this, this will be helpful to you."

This is more finer and more fine and more valuable within us. Then above reason, the judgement, there is ātmā, soul. What is its characteristic? It's like a spark, it gives light. Then the judgement is possible.

"This is black, this is white, this is good, this is bad." The light must be there. Ātmā is like that.

Then buddhi will select, and the mind will say, "I want this, I don't want that."

And then our senses will come to experience, to perceive good or bad.

But we're that ātmā, that spark of knowledge. And it has got its own soil. The plane of that light, a part of which is our ātmā, soul, the soul's plane.

vaikuṇṭhera pṛthivy ādi sakala cinmaya [māyika bhūtera tathi janma nāhi haya]

["The earth, water, fire, air and ether of Vaikuṇṭha are all spiritual. Material elements are not found there."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 5.53]

The earth, water, air, ether, everything is conscious in Vaikuṇṭha. Subjective plane - there is also earth, water, air, all these things. And this is perverted reflection here. These things are to be discussed, and thought out, and accepted, realised. It is cash transaction, not any loan. You can feel it, you can make experiment, what I say. I have made experiment when I was a college student. I found out where is my ātmā, eliminating the scope of the senses, the mind, the intelligence, crossing them, tried to find out what is my soul. What characteristic? How it is? If we can do that as recommended in Bhagavad-gītā, if you really want to check your senses, then this method will help you most.

evaṁ buddheḥ paraṁ buddhvā, saṁstabhyātmānam ātmanā

jahi śatruṁ mahā-bāho, kāma-rūpaṁ durāsadam

["O mighty Arjuna! Knowing the soul to be thus perfectly distinct from the intelligence, steady the mind with resolute intelligence and destroy the indomitable enemy, lust."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.43]

This attraction for mundane things, this kāma, this lust, if you want to check it successfully, conquer it, then you adopt this process. You first try to understand what is world. Then next your senses through which you receive them. Next stage, you take your affinity towards these pleasures, mind, saṅkalpa vikalpa - "I want this I want that. I don't want this." This element within you that is your mind. Then there is reason also within you who can say: "No, this is good this is bad, don't take it, take this." That faculty also within. Then above that there is soul proper. In Bhāgavatam there is an illustration. In the moonlit night the cloud has covered the moon. The Bhāgavatam says, na rarājoḍupaśchana, svajyotsnā bhāsitairghanaiḥ ahaṁ matyā bhāsitayā, svabhāsā puruṣo jyathā

["During the rainy season the moon was prevented from appearing directly by the covering of the clouds, which were themselves illumined by the moon's rays. Similarly, the living being in material existence is prevented from appearing directly by the covering of the false ego, which is itself illumined by the consciousness of the pure soul."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.20.19]

Giving an example. Just as the moon is there. The cloud is seen by the light of the moon, but that very cloud has covered the moon. Cloud has covered the moon, but cloud is seen only through the light of the moon. So also, your mental system you can feel only with the light of your soul. But this mental system has covered your soul. This example has been given in Bhāgavatam. A very good example. The cloud has covered the sun. But the cloud is seen by the light of the sun. So ātmā, the soul, is making everything expressive. I can feel only by that light. But what I can see, they have covered that ego, mental system has covered that soul completely, can't come in direct touch with our soul, the mental system, so pass through them.

Anyhow, we like to go, now time is up.

83.03.25.D

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Inconceivably greater, higher. This is what we are, our proper position. And our prospect is very, very great. As given by Bhāgavatam. The Absolute.

vidyato avadhuta tatani prkriti susrustas vigravan [?] By the process of surrender we can get favour of the Highest Entity, by devotion. That is a process given by the devotional school. The Absolute may be very close friend to you. Śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā.

[kleśa-ghnī śubhadā mokṣa-, laghutā-kṛt sudurllabhā
sāndrānanda-viśeṣātmā, śrī-kṛṣṇākarṣiṇī ca sā]

["Uttamā-bhakti, the purest devotion, is the vanquisher of all sin and ignorance, and the bestower of all auspiciousness; liberation is belittled in the presence of such devotion, which is very rarely attained, the embodiment of the deepest ecstasy, and the attractor of Śrī Kṛṣṇa Himself."]
[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Pūrvva, 1.17]

The higher devotion is such that the Absolute - just as a great general after the victory of a great war he has come home. And his child, catching by his finger, is drawing him, attracting him towards a room, and the general is going. The general is defeated by the child's attraction, his son. He has got big force, strength, but the child is drawing, and the great general is going, following the child. He's defeated by his affection. So affection is so forceful.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Hari bol.

Came to distribute Their Own wealth to the public, that sort of. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa combined, giving Their most secret wealth to the public. Coming in that form, anyhow. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Parīkṣit how, when Aśvatthāmā threw his brahmāstra, particular weapon. Apāṇḍavam idaṁ kartuṁ.

[sūta uvāca

[Sūta Gosvāmī said: Having patiently heard her words, Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, who is always very affectionate to His devotees, could at once understand that Aśvatthāmā, the son of Droṇācārya, had thrown the brahmāstra to finish the last life in the Pāṇḍava family."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.8.11]

"The name of the Pāṇḍavas should be fazed from the surface, this world."
With this idea, this aim, he threw his particular weapon, brahmāstra.
Then it entered the womb of Uttarā, and was just going to kill the child within the womb.
Suddenly Uttarā began to wail. "Oh, too much pain in my womb." Fainted.
Kṛṣṇa could understand that this is the weapon of Aśvatthāmā. He entered into the womb and He touched the child within the womb. Viṣṇu-rāta is one of the names of Parīkṣit. _____ [?] "Saved by Viṣṇu in the womb." [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.12.17]

Then the pain went away, and in time Uttarā gave birth to Parīkṣit, the child of Abhimanyu, grandson of Arjuna, came Parīkṣit. When that child was born, when Kṛṣṇa touched the child in the womb, he could see Him. So when that child was born he was searching. "Oh, where is that man, that figure whom I saw in the womb?" Parīkṣeta, testing. Whomever he found, "Is he that man who was seen in the womb?" In this way, parīkṣeta, he used to examine every face. "Is he that man whom I saw from the womb?" So Parīkṣit, this nāma, this name came from that act. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Fulfilment of life ... that is the universal, and that is the most fundamental question of everyone of us. Ostentatiously how to save us from the jaws of death, from destruction, how to save? Apparently money may help us, to save us, this body, but this is not mine. Who am I? What is my real need? That diagnosis, the most important and urgent. Without that everything is valueless, all movement valueless.

When Śukadeva Goswāmī is inaugurating his speech of Bhāgavatam, just in the beginning, such ground has been shown to us. We're all busy, but very busy about nothing. We must be busy only for our real, to satisfy our real need. That is what is required of us. Work, but intelligent work.

That Hitler divided his workers into four sections. Clever and industrious, clever and lazy. Stupid and industrious, stupid and lazy. Four classifications.

He told that, "Generally my workers I take from clever and industrious."

And it's peculiar to hear that he selected his leaders from the clever and lazy class. That the time of need they will be ready to work, and they will save energy, and when necessary they will be able to give more energy. So leaders from clever and lazy. And ordinary workers, clever and industrious. And the next, stupid and lazy, if possible they may work. But stupid and industrious he avoided very carefully.

So most of us are stupid and industrious. What way to labour we do not know, but we're very fond of working. Stupid and industrious, the karmī. The karmī section generally represent stupid and industrious.

Stupid and lazy, this renunciationist, Buddhist, Śaṅkara, wants samādhi, or zero, that is lethargy, the renunciationist, stupid and lazy.

And clever and industrious is the devotee section. They work in a proper line, not missing the aim. They're clever and industrious.

And clever and lazy, we may say, Kṛṣṇa. He only enjoys, but does not work.

Ha, ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. So we must be, we should be afraid to be grouped in the stupid and industrious, always doing, but doing progress in the wrong direction. We're to come back, to retrace again that thing, abnormal activity, movement. Movement is there, but not systematic.

That will go against my own interest. We must be saved from that, that my energy working against my interest.

niyataṁ kuru karma tvaṁ, karma jyāyo hy akarmaṇaḥ śarīra-yātrāpi ca te, na prasidhyed akarmaṇaḥ

["Perform your ablutions, worship, and other daily duties. Since even bodily sustenance is not possible without action, it is better for an unqualified person to perform his duty rather than renounce it. By giving up fruitive action and regularly performing your daily obligatory duties, your heart will be gradually purified. Then, surpassing the plane of renunciation, you will attain pure devotion, beyond the mundane plane."]
[Bhagavad-gītā, 3.8]

But.

yajñārthāt karmaṇo 'nyatra, loko 'yaṁ karma-bandhanaḥ
tad-artham karma kaunteya, mukta-saṅgaḥ samācara

["Selfless duty performed as an offering to the Supreme Lord is called yajña, or sacrifice. O Arjuna, all action performed for any other purpose is the cause of bondage in this world of repeated birth and death. Therefore, remaining unattached to the fruits of action, perform all your duties in the spirit of such sacrifice. Such action is the means of entering the path of devotion, and with the awakening of true perception of the Lord, it will enable you to attain to pure, unalloyed devotion, free from all material qualities (nirguṇa- bhakti)."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.9]

Do for sacrifice. Otherwise, that karma will tie you down with reaction. Every karma has equal and opposite reaction, but do for yajña. Who is yajña?

Ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca. "Do for Me. Always do, but do for Me. Otherwise, all other doings will bind you down with reaction, unavoidable."

...

Laziness is not recommended. Karma jyāyo hy akarmaṇaḥ. To become lazy that is tama-guṇa, the worst position. Working, energising is better than that. But that must be regulated, and regulated to that one end. It must be performed for yajña, sacrifice. Sacrifice for whom?

"All sacrifice will lead to Me."

Everything is for itself. Reality is by Itself and for Itself.

ahaṁ hi sarva-yajñānāṁ, bhoktā ca prabhur eva ca
[na tu mām abhijānanti, tattvenātaś cyavanti te]

["I am the Lord and I alone am the only enjoyer and rewarder of all sacrifices, of every action and all movements in this world. Everything belongs to Me, unconditionally, and you must be fully conscious of this fact. But since they cannot know Me in this way, they again undergo birth, disease, infirmity, and death."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.24]

Work for yajña. Yajña means sacrifice. Sacrifice for whom? Not for any local interest, extended interest, extended selfishness. Work for the country, for the society, all extended selfishness, all local and provincial. Do for the Absolute. You are saved there. You are released from any prejudices, for universal cause.

"And universe is in My one part. I am so and so."

athavā bahunaitena, kiṁ jñātena tavārjjuna

["But Arjuna, what is the need of your understanding this elaborate knowledge of My almighty grandeur? By My fractional expansion as the Supreme Soul of material nature, Mahā-Viṣṇu (Kāraṇārṇavaśāyī Viṣṇu), I remain supporting this entire universe of moving and stationary beings."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 10.42]

"The infinite of your conception forms My one part. I am so. Do for Me."

sarva-dharmān parityajya, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

Bāl Gaṅgādhar Tilak, he has mentioned in the commentary here. "In this last śloka of Bhagavad-gītā the Lord has given, has distributed nectar in a golden plate." _____ [?] In a golden plate He has served nectar.

"Wherever you are does not matter, turn towards Me. Surrender. I shall embrace. I shall accept you. Does not matter in whatever position of your life you are at present, does not matter. But keep towards Me and I.m ready to embrace you."

With this assurance is most hopeful for all of us, most encouraging and hopeful. Does not matter. From time immemorial we're moving, and changing our position from here, there, infinite position. But the last call of Bhagavad-gītā says, "Does not matter where you are at present, whatever will be your acquired position. Only towards the centre come. Look forward for Me. I'm shelter, by direct connection with Me you can have. And you won't have to be loser. Mā śucaḥ. No repentance will come to you."

With this assurance in Bhagavad-gītā the last grand call of the Lord is very, very sustaining, hopeful, for all of us. So we need not waste our time and energy for any other thing but to attend that call. How to understand that call? What is that call?

"Come to Me. Surrender to Me. I shall be your guardian. Accept Me as your guardian and everything will be done from My side for your best benefit. How much welfare you know about yourself? What do you know about you? You do not know fully about you, but I know everything, so depend on Me, you'll be benefited beyond expectation."

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Nitāi Gaura.

Human birth is a great chance, very happy chance. It should not be utilised in discharging the duties of so many animals, to cleverly gather the fodder of senses. Āhāra, nidrā, bhaya, maithuna. These are our aims ultimately. It should not be wasted. This valuable time of human birth should not be wasted only to collect the food, the sleep, the slumber, āhāra, nidrā, then for apprehension of future uncertainty, bhaya, and maithuna, and sense satisfaction. It is present anywhere and everywhere in life. So you should not waste your time only for the acquisition of the sense pleasure. But engage yourself wholesale to analyse you, your necessity, your prospect, and your fulfilment. That will be the clever step, most clever step of life will be there. Self analysis and self fulfilment. Diagnosis and treatment. First diagnosis and then treatment. So many diagnosis have been recommended, there is a jungle. The Cārvāka, the Buddhists, the Śaṅkarites, so many classes, the Jains. And Vyāsadeva in his last book, Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, he has given a comparison of so many past things, and something is given in the end.

dharmaḥ projjhita-kaitavo 'tra paramo [nirmat-sarāṇāṁ satāṁ vedyaṁ vāstavam atra vastu śivadaṁ tāpa-trayonmūlanam śrīmad-bhāgavate mahā-muni-kṛte kiṁ vā parair īśvaraḥ sadyo hṛdy avarudhyate 'tra kṛtibhiḥ śuśrūṣubhis tat-kṣaṇāt]

["Completely rejecting all religious activities which are materially motivated, this Bhāgavata-Purāṇa propounds the highest truth, which is understandable by those devotees who are fully pure in heart. The highest truth is reality distinguished from illusion for the welfare of all. Such truth uproots the threefold miseries. This beautiful Bhāgavatam, compiled by the great sage Vyāsadeva (in his maturity), is sufficient in itself for God realisation. What is the need of any other scripture? As soon as one attentively and submissively hears the message of Bhāgavatam, by this culture of knowledge the Supreme Lord is established within his heart."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 1.1.2]

Hitherto liberation, liberation, liberation, from undesirable condition, that is the end of our life. In this way a hue and cry was raised so long, but that is all negative. The positive attainment is there, the engagement with the perfect good, absolute good. Participation in His līlā, in His service, the positive characteristic of life. Not withdrawal from the negative side, that is be all and end all, but participation into the positive life. And what is the conception of that positive life? There is also gradation. He has given all these things to consider.

No time, we can't believe our longevity. How long I shall live in this form I don't know, any moment.

Grhita lakesu suvitra na macaret [?] The lord of death has caught me by my hair, my tuft, and any moment he may take me. With this sort of mentality you will begin your work. Any moment I may be withdrawn from this plane. I may have a change, hopeless, the chance will go away. Again when I shall get such chance it is uncertain. Because the impulse as the effect of my previous karma they're waiting to get their satisfaction, with their demand. So where they will take us we don't know. But now only I've got this chance. And whatever be the time extended before me, to every per cent I shall try to use for that universal demand, not any provincial, local, or selfish demand. We're living in an organic whole. My interest cannot be considered partial, independent part, never. The organic connection of the outside is there. So mukti, samādhi, that cannot be a conclusion. I have no - independent of my environment, I can live like a zero.

But that is also temporary. Durability may be a little more, but still it cannot be but temporary, sleep, temporary sleep, samādhi. Because the environment is there, watching, and it will arouse me. So mukti is not also permanent, that sāyujya mukti.

Enter into the positive direction, bhakti, service. As we say, virtue is its own reward. So service is its own reward. We're to feel that, understand that. By exploitation we die, by service we live. We're to understand this principle of life. By service we live and by exploitation we die. We become fodder of reaction by exploitation. Service, and service to the Autocrat and the Autocrat is beauty, is sweetness. In a nutshell this is the thing to understand. We cannot demand any law and rules.

By all our senses to serve Him, that is the highest type of devotion. Nothing to renounce, nothing to reject. Engage everything at your command for the service of the central truth. Religion is adjustment. Our Guru Mahārāja used to say this expression often. "Religion is proper adjustment." Improperly adjusted, or no adjustment, the stop of adjustment, stand still, they're both artificial. Religion is adjustment, organic whole, smooth working organic whole, every part must contribute for the smooth working of the organic whole. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari.

He's dancing with His own Name, Gaurāṅga Sundara, taking His own Name in a different way and dancing. A śloka is in Prapanna-jīvanāmṛta. Sasiddha [?] Advayaika lakṣaṇaṁ. He's the fullest form of rasa. That is shown by His dancing. Mahāprabhu is advaya, undivided whole, absolute rasa, ecstasy, absolute ecstasy. And that is the perfect phase of absolute ecstasy. He's full in Himself and that is shown by His dancing, mattasya-nṛtyam. A madman also dances. So dancing is līlā, tasting His own sweetness and dancing, the perfect in Himself. And kīrtana means distribution of the same ecstasy. So nṛtya, self sufficiency. The dancing indicates self sufficiency. And kīrtana, to distribute the same to the environment. This we find in Śrī Gaurāṅga.

Kṛṣṇa attracting in His own group. And Kṛṣṇa-Rādhā combined distributing Themselves outside. The two types of absolute conception in the highest quarter, Goloka. Mādhurya, audārya, side by side. One tasting within the circle, another to throw it outside the circle, propaganda, enlist more to join, invite more. Two compartments in Goloka, that has been given the idea.

I asked Swāmī Mahārāja to build a temple there, Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta scale, how the adjustment, this karma, jñāna, vidhi-bhakti, rāga-bhakti, and the two phases of rāga-bhakti. All these should be shown in the temple in a spiral development.

the Ultimate Reality. He is mad in tasting His Own internal nectar, and His dancing is the outcome of His transcendental ecstasy. And He is chanting, distributing that to others. Mental strain is more, to compensate the defect in the eye, the memory is being taxed, is it not?

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has given explanation of the self fighting in Yadukula, in Yadu, amongst the Yadus. He wrote that this is an example. In an organic whole, generally we find if one part is defective then another part comes out to help it. This is the normal position. One eye is defective another eye works more to compensate this defect. But when the last day comes, just the opposite. When the dissolution final is approaching, then one part wants to live at the cost of another part, his neighbour. So Yadukula they're fighting amongst themselves, just showing, setting this example of the mundane world, that at the time of withdrawal such things happen. Who were friends with close connection, they began to live at the cost of another, by killing another, wants to establish. To show this example, ideal of this world, it was done in that way. In Śrī Kṛṣṇa-saṁhitā he has written in that way, that it was a show of the picture of this world, when one's going to die he tries to live at the cost of his very nearest and dearest.

But there are exceptions, in the case of Sidney.
"Thy necessity is greater than mine, you come."
He was dying for water, but still he gave that last glass of water to an ordinary soldier.
"Thy necessity is greater than mine."

Mental balance was not lost, but generally things are such.

In B.A. class I read one book Landers Imaginary Conversation. There one article I found that two philosophers in England in a garden in summer time. Two philosophers are talking together, engaged in some private discourse on philosophical topics. One was Sidney and the other gentleman I forget his name. One thing that can be appreciated even now. In the course of their talk they mentioned - they're comparing different types of examples of life, different ideals of life. Then when they came to this public works, one put the question. "How do you think about the fate of the, about the nature of the public workers?"

Then the other philosopher he replied, "I consider them like hotel boy, hostel boy. Whoever wants a particular dish, the boy is only supplying that. Whether that dish is good or bad, he's not concerned with that. According to demand he's supplying that, not responsible whether it is poison, or it is healthy, he does not care. Taking from one. The public workers like that."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: [Describing the new book, The Search For Śrī Kṛṣṇa - Reality The Beautiful]

Then it begins with a Foreword, by Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. His talk about the Bhāgavata, and the principle of new revelation. And then after Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura there's a picture of him, a picture of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, and his Foreword. Then there's a Preface that's written by our Guru Mahārāja, and he's speaking about you.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Then there's a picture here of our Guru Mahārāja and you sitting on the vyāsāsana. That is Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī. That is a picture of Your Divine Grace.

And this is a list of your books. Ambrosia In The Lives Of Surrendered Souls, The Search For Śrī Kṛṣṇa Reality The Beautiful, Guru And His Grace, Śikṣāṣṭakam, Premadhāma-deva-stotram, Prapanna- jīvanāmṛtam, Bhagavad-gītā, Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, Kīrtana Mañjuṣā, and Gauḍīya Darśana Journal Founder.

And that's the introduction, about rasa, everyone's searching for rasa.

And then you talk about kṛṣṇānusandhāna, the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa.

This is first chapter, it's called Kṛṣṇa Consciousness: Love and Beauty. This says, the Banner of Divine Love. And this is the quote, "The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power." This says, Dive Deep into Reality. This is a picture of Mahāprabhu reading Bhāgavatam with His associates. This says, The Samādhi Phantom.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahāprabhu reading, or Mahāprabhu hearing?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Hearing, He's hearing.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And reading? Gadādhara Paṇḍita? Whose reading?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Whose reading? I'm not sure. Do you know whose reading?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Purī?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: It looks like Purī because Haridāsa Ṭhākura's there, in Purī. So who would that be? Gadādhara?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

nīlāmbhodhi-taṭe sadā sva-[virahā-kṣepanvitaṁ bāndhavaṁ

["On the shore of the broad blue ocean, Gadādhara Paṇḍita used to read Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam to Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who was suffering from the great internal pain of separation from Himself (Kṛṣṇa). Gadādhara Paṇḍita supplied the wine of Kṛṣṇa līlā to intoxicate his afflicted friend and give Him relief. As he read, tears would fall from his eyes like flower offerings onto the pages of Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. May the pleasure of that brilliant personality, Gadādhara Paṇḍita, the best of the Goswāmīs, be my only object in writing this book."]

[Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja originally composed this verse to introduce his summary study of the 18,000 verse Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam. Just as Śrīla Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has condensed the whole Bhāgavata principle into 1,000 verses in his Bhāgavata-arka-marici-mālā, Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja said he had a mind to consolidate it even more, to represent it within 300 verses, but he did not finish it. This verse glorifies the position of Gadādhara Paṇḍita, the most intimate associate of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. Gadādhara Paṇḍita used to read Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam in Jagannātha Purī, at the Toṭa Gopinātha Temple. He would read, and Śrīman Mahāprabhu and the great devotees like Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāmananda Rāya were his audience.]

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: His one śloka is there.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This śloka of mine.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Next episode.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Oh. Right. Here's Kṛṣṇa. It says, Autocrat, Despot, and Liar.
This says, As Śrī Caitanya, Kṛṣṇa came to preach about Himself.

Where you said, how shamelessly Kṛṣṇa is pleading for Himself. And man manā bhava mad bhakto.

And this is the second chapter called, Saints, Scriptures, and Gurus. And this is when you were speaking to those boys from Holland, those Dutch boys.

That's a picture of Kṛṣṇa instructing Arjuna. It says, Cure Thyself. Because you said one German scholar said that Bhagavad-gītā says not to try and correct the environment, but to go within yourself and cure thyself.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Adjust thyself. The harmony is already there.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Dissolving Ego.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: This talks about dancing in the happy waves, the sweet, sweet waves of Vṛndāvana.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Infinite Blissfulness.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: This says, Hegel's "Self-Determination."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Die to live.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Hegel. Die to live.

This says, Saints: Living Scriptures.

And then here's a picture of Your Divine Grace. And under the picture it says, "Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja lecturing at his āśrama in Navadwīpa." And then the quote says, "The association of scriptures and saints can lead us to the ultimate realisation."

This is when you talked about World War Three. When you said it's a point on a line, a line on a plane, a plane on a solid.

This says, The Zone of Nectar. Ha, ha. Of which you're the GBC.

This is the third chapter, called Fossilism Versus Subjective Evolution. And in the introduction it says, "The following chapter is an excerpt from a conversation between Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja and neurophysiologist Dr. Daniel Murphey, Ph.D." [who later became an initiated disciple of Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja, named Dayādhara Gaurāṅga.]

And this is about subjective evolution. The Ghost of Darwin. Fossil Fathers. Karmic Boomerang. Science Devours Itself: Sucks its own blood. Neutron Bomb: Death Ray.

And then this is the chapter [four] Origin Of The Soul. Because you said this question was a thousand times asked, a thousand times answered. So we put this, your explanation about the taṭasthā.

Electrons of Consciousness. And about Gandhi saying, "We want the right to do wrong."

And this chapter [five] is Knowledge Above Mortality. You said that is knowledge proper. And Super-knowledge. Knowledge through Sound. Vedic Revelation. And this is some Sanskrit from Bhagavad-gītā, just to show the people the original language, for some authenticity.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then this is Reality: by Itself and for Itself.

Then you have, Guru - Heavier than the Himālayas. Then, The Land of Dedication.

Then this is chapter six. It's called The Six Philosophies of India.

And this is that song: keśava! tuyā jagata bicitra, of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

Then there's, Analysis, Yoga, and Logic. Atomic Theory and Karma. And then, "Dissolve Your Mind" - Buddha.

Then this next chapter, seven, it's called, Beyond Christianity.

And this was when different devotees they were asking you questions about Jesus. So you said, "Is he a member of the stagnant world or dynamic world?"

So this says, Adam and Eve: Forced to Labour. Then, Father, Son, and Ghost. Because you said, "The Ghost conception is like brahmavāda-nirviśeṣa."

And this tells the story, in Germany they put a God figure in a balcony, an old man with a beard.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: God's image, eh?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So then we put a beautiful picture of Kṛṣṇa. And underneath it says, "The centre of all attraction is Kṛṣṇa. His attraction is by beauty, by love, and by charm; not by coercion and force."

So then, this one says, Beyond Jesus. And then, here you have, you tell the story of Professor Nixon, and the Bishops telling him to go to India, to meet the Lord face to face.

Then we have a picture of Jesus Christ. And underneath it says, "We must cross the threshold given by Jesus Christ. He has declared, 'Die to live.'"

And then you said here, you said, "So, is the position of Jesus - is Jesus stagnant or progressive? Where he has reached, is that finished forever, or is he dynamic?"

Then a devotees says, "The Christians will say that he has full knowledge."

And you said, "So is he stagnant there, finally fixed? Is that Jesus' position? Do the Bishops say that his position is final? Does he have a progressive life? Or is Jesus alone barred from making further progress? Is he a member of the dynamic world, or the stagnant world?"

So this will be a thunderbolt to the heads of the Christians. It will revolutionise.

This is, Reincarnation - Transmigration. "Do Unto Others" Includes Animals.

Then this is chapter eight. It's called, Levels of God Realisation.

And that's the Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, when you're giving a summary of Sanātana Goswāmī's Bṛhat- Bhāgavatāmṛta.

And here's a picture from a south Indian temple of Brahmā and Śiva. Because in that story, Nārada Muni is going to Brahmā, and then to Śiva.

And this is explaining, Neutral Love of God. Śanta rasa.

Then, a picture of Hanumān: Servant of Rāma. Dāsya rasa.

Then, Kṛṣṇa's Friends, the Pāṇḍavas. Sākhya rasa.

Then we have, Uddhava: More dear than Kṛṣṇa.

na tathā me priyatama ātmayonir na śaṅkaraḥ
[na ca saṅkarṣaṇo na śrīr naivātmā ca yathā bhavān]

["Neither Brahmā nor Śīva are as dear to Me as you; My elder brother Saṅkarṣaṇa is not as dear to Me as you, nor even Lakṣmī Devī. Even My own Self is not as dear to Me as you."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 11.14.15]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Like a ladder.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. A ladder. Then,

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja:

āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām, [vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām
yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām]

["The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Oh, yes, āsā maho, that verse.

Then this is chapter nine, called, The Kṛṣṇa Conception.

And this is where you explain how Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta he was giving dīkṣā to one gentleman that you brought to him from Calcutta. And he said, "Kṛṣṇa must be allowed to land in our hearts."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. "And He will conquer, everything."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So that chapter is there. Where you talk also about, Mental Mushrooms.

praviṣṭaḥ karṇa-randhreṇa, [svānāṁ bhāva-saroruham dhunoti śamalaṁ kṛṣṇaḥ, salilasya yathā śarat]

["The sound incarnation of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Soul (i.e. Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam), enters into the heart of a self-realised devotee, sits on the lotus flower of his loving relationship, and thus cleanses the dust of material association, such as lust, anger and hankering. Thus it acts like autumnal rains upon pools of muddy water."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.8.5]

And this is chapter ten. It's called, The Hare Kṛṣṇa Mantra.
And this is a talk that you gave when giving dīkṣā, your general talk, about chant,

Śrī Kṛṣṇa-Caitanya, Prabhu Nityānanda,
Śrī Advaita, Gadādhara, Śrīvāsādi Gaura-bhakta-vṛnda.

Then the Mahā Mantra. There's a picture of Mahāprabhu and the Pañca Tattva in Naga Saṅkīrtana.
Then here's a picture of Your Divine Grace chanting on japa-mālā.
Then this is explaining the ten offences. First offence: Abusing Saints. Second offence: Demigod. Third offence, so then the ten offences are explained. And there's a heading for each one. Then, nāmābhāsa.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Back to Godhead.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: There are four different kinds of nāmābhāsa.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ajāmila reference...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, that is there, the story of Ajāmila. This is chapter ten.

Then, chapter eleven, this is called Service of the Holy Name.
And this is when I brought Satsvarūpa Mahārāja here once to see you, with Tamāla Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja. And Satsvarūpa Mahārāja asked you, he said, "Sometimes I'm chanting japa, but I think of services that my Guru has given me."
And then you said, "Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta was in favour of kīrtana." And you gave a talk about the importance of serving attitude. And you said about, "Chanting without serving is like firing a gun without any bullets in it." And that mentions how you say that kīrtana is a fight. Preaching means to fight with māyā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Offensive for offensive. Kīrtana.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So here the breaker says, Preaching Means a Fight. Then it says, Gauḍīya Maṭha : War Against Māyā. Then here's a picture...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Totalitarian war.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Here we have this photo of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura.

And it says, "Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura, Founder Ācārya of Gauḍīya Maṭha, declared totalitarian war against māyā, and even all other existing conceptions of religion."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. _____ [?] We will be fed by this expression only. This single expression will satisfy.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then this says, Vṛndāvana Express Train. Because you said, "Kṛṣṇa Nāma takes you to Vṛndāvana, and nowhere else."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Without stoppage at any intermediary stations.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: This says, Quality not Quantity.

Then this is chapter twelve. It's called, The Nectar of the Holy Name.

And this is where you're speaking about the Prema-vivarta of Jagadānanda Paṇḍita, as published by Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura.

[nāmākṣara bahiraya batu nāma kabu naya] [From Prema-vivarta]
[Merely the sound of the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa should never be thought of as the actual Name.]

And then Rūpa Goswāmī's verse.

nikhila-śruti-mauli ratna mālā, [dyuti nīrājita-pāda-paṅkajānta ayi mukta-kulair upāsyamānaṁ, paritas tvām hari-nām saṁśrayāmi]

["The acme of all the Vedas, the Upaniṣads, are like a string of transcendental jewels. The tips of the toes of Your lotus feet, O Holy Name, are eternally worshipped by the radiance emanating from those jewels. You are constantly worshipped by the great liberated souls (headed by Nārada and Śuka, whose hearts are reposed in complete absence of worldly aspirations). Therefore, O Name Divine, I surrender unto You in every time, place, and circumstance."] [Nāmāṣṭakam, 1]

So then there's a picture here of Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī. And then it says, "A sixteenth century portrait of Śrīla Rūpa Goswāmī, who is described in the Caitanya-caritāmṛta as "an exact replica of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu." He authored one hundred thousand verses on Mahāprabhu's instructions."

And then that verse is there, nikhila-śruti-mauli ratna mālā, and then your explanation.

Then, where you say, "The Vedas would only be a jungle of sounds."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Which?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The Vedas, if they're not pointing to the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa.

Then here's a picture of your Deities, Guru-Gaurāṅga-Gāndharvvā-Govinda-Sundara. And Tapana Miśra he's offering the āratī lamp. Because you said, "Just as while performing āratī we offer a lamp to show the Deity form of the Lord - the principal śrutis are helping us to have this clear conception: by sound only can we have the Supreme Lord."

Then, this says, "I Want Millions of Ears!"

tuṇḍe tāṇḍavinī ratiṁ vitanute tuṇḍāvalī-labdhaye [karṇa-kroḍa-kaḍambinī ghaṭayate karṇārbudebhyaḥ spṛhām cetaḥ-prāṅgaṇa-saṅginī vijayate sarvendriyāṇāṁ kṛtiṁ no jāne janitā kiyadbhir amṛtaiḥ kṛṣṇeti varṇa-dvayī]

["When the Holy Name of Kṛṣṇa appears on the lips of a devotee, it begins madly dancing. Then the Name takes over and handles him as if the person to whom the lips belong loses all control over his lips, and the devotee says: 'With one mouth, how much can I gather the ecstasy of the Holy Name? I need millions of mouths to taste its unlimited sweetness. I'll never feel any satisfaction by chanting with only one mouth.'"]

[Vidagdha-Mādhava, 1.15]

That verse.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Lips, ears. Ears means this ear?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Karṇa.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then this says, Ecstasy of the Holy Name. Ocean of Nectar.

Where you said that, "Sometimes he thinks 'I'm in an ocean of nectar, and my whole existence is within an ocean of nectarine liquid."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ānandāmbudhi-vardhanaṁ [from Śikṣāṣṭakam, 1] Ever increasing ocean.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And then this is the last chapter. It's called, Reality the Beautiful.

And it's the talk of Rāmānanda Rāya and Mahāprabhu. So there's a theme. You said the Search For Śrī Kṛṣṇa - Reality the Beautiful. So in the beginning - just like these boys were visiting you from Holland, they're searching India, they're engaged in the search. Then we find out that Jesus, he's at a particular stage of search. But then at the end of the book we find out in this conversation that even Mahāprabhu Himself, Kṛṣṇa Himself, is searching for Kṛṣṇa.

So this explains, this shows - let's see. Beginning with varṇāśrama, this shows... about the talk of Rāmānanda Rāya that...

Devotee: _____ [?]

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. Then it starts, varṇāśrama. The Ultimate Goal of Life. Then, Devotion Mixed with Desires. Karma-miśrā-bhakti. Then jñāna-miśrā-bhakti. Knowledge and Devotion. Then, brahma-bhūtaḥ [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.54]. You said, Beyond Spirit "Go Deeper." So it has a very dramatic ending. It starts building up, the book, to a crescendo. Then, Divine Slavery. Then, The Science of Rasa. Rasa begins, dāsya rasa. Then here, God the Friend, so sākhya rasa. God the Son, vātsalya rasa. Mathurā: The Kṛṣṇa Conception.

And you said there that, "Rūpa Goswāmī leapt from Vaikuṇṭha to Mathurā in one stride." In Upadeśāmṛta [9] "Whereas Sanātana goes step by step." In Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta.

Then the next page says, Conjugal Mellow. And then comes the position of Rādhā. Rādhārāṇī: Queen of the Gopīs.

rādhām ādhāya hṛdaye tatyāja vraja sundariḥ

["Her devotional service is categorically higher than that of all the other gopīs. The whole group of gopīs can be cancelled for one: Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī."] [Gītā-govinda, 3.1]

[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.106]

Then, Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa: Union in Separation. Then here's one picture of Rādhā and Govinda. And it says, "Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, ecstasy Himself, and Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī, the embodiment of ecstatic love of Godhead."

Then, Śrī Caitanya Avatāra. Because you said that, "This hints at the appearance."

Then, Rāsarāja: Ecstasy Himself. And then Mahāprabhu's, Transcendental Madness.

Then here's a picture of Mahāprabhu with Svarūpa Dāmodara and Rāmānanda Rāya.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Rāsarāja and mahābhāva, the other aspect, Rāsarāja...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes, that's presented.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mahābhāva presented?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. But in the breaker it says, Rāsarāja: Ecstasy Himself. But in the text mahābhāva is presented.

And then here's the picture of Mahāprabhu, Rāmānanda Rāya, and Svarūpa Dāmodara.

It says, "These associates of Mahāprabhu..."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "Rāmānanda Rāya, and Svarūpa Dāmodara, how they assisted Mahāprabhu in tasting ecstatic love of Kṛṣṇa during the last twelve years of His manifest pastimes."

Then this verse,

rādhā kṛṣṇa-praṇaya-vikṛtir hlādinī śaktir asmād [ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā deha-bhedaṁ gatau tau caitanyākhyaṁ prakaṭam adhunā tad-dvayaṁ caikyam āptaṁ
rādhā-bhāva-dyuti-suvalitaṁ naumi kṛṣṇa svarūpam]

["I worship Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who is Kṛṣṇa Himself, enriched with the emotions and radiance of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. As the Predominating and Predominated Moieties, Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa are eternally one, with separate individual identities. Now They have again united as Śrī Kṛṣṇa Caitanya. This inconceivable transformation of the Lord's internal pleasure-giving potency has arisen from the loving affairs of Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.5]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ekātmānāv api bhuvi purā.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And you explain, like summer, autumn, winter, and spring, we cannot tell where is the beginning of this.

Then, this is the page where you say that, "The Predominating and Predominated Moiety are mixed, and an extraordinary ecstatic feeling is there. Kṛṣṇa is overpowered by His potency, and He Himself is searching after His own Self: kṛṣṇasya ātmānusandhana. Kṛṣṇa Himself is engaged in the search for Śrī Kṛṣṇa."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Svabhajana vibhajana prayojana avatari. Searching for Himself.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "Who is Śrī Kṛṣṇa, Reality the Beautiful. The influence of Rādhārāṇī over Kṛṣṇa has transformed Him into a devotee, and He's searching Himself. Sweetness is tasting Itself and becoming mad. And it is a living sweetness."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And mad, and dancing.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. That comes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And distributing, that is chanting, and that is distributing.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. And it says, "And it is living sweetness; not dead or static, but dynamic ecstasy - sweetness endowed with life. And He's tasting Himself, the personification of happiness, ecstasy, and beauty, and dancing in madness. And His performance of kīrtana means distributing that ecstasy to others. The ultimate sweetness, or ānanda, is such that no other thing exists that can taste itself and express its own happiness with such intensity. I have described Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu in the Prema Dhāma Deva Stotram."

ātma-siddha-sāva līla-pūrṇa-saukhya-lakṣaṇaṁ svānubhāva-matta-nṛtya-kīrtanātma-vanṭanam advayaika-lakṣya-purṇa-tattva-tat-parātparaṁ prema-dhāma-devam-eva naumi gaura-sundaram

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: A conquering conclusion.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: The last paragraph of the book says,

"The highest conception of the Absolute Truth must also be the highest form of ānanda, ecstasy. Mahāprabhu's dancing indicates that He is full of ecstasy, and His kīrtana is distribution of that rasa. So, if we scientifically search out who Mahāprabhu is, we cannot but find that He is the Ultimate Reality. He is mad in tasting His Own internal nectar, and His dancing is the outcome of His transcendental ecstasy. And He is chanting, distributing that to others. So, studying quite closely the character of Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu, we cannot but think that He is the Supreme Absolute Truth, in Its fullest, and most dynamic expression." [Prema Dhāma Deva Stotram, 66]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now, how it is taken by the ISKCON-ite, as well as the other scholars? Not yet known?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well, the scholars, we're going to be presenting it to them when we go back. We have a list of around fifty scholars in America that we're going to present this book to. And I think it will meet with their loud approval.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Let us see, wait and see, how they may take it. Any opinion of the ISKCON members? No? Not yet?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Well, not of the official members of ISKCON, no.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Have they got it? No?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. These are advanced copies. These are special copies. And the book will be available on the 31st the printer will start shipping it. They're going to ship three thousand copies to South Africa, where Yudhāmanyu Prabhu will fly there and begin to distribute them.

And then two thousand copies will come to San Jose. Then we're going to start sending them to different scholars, and distributing them.

Devotee: Mahārāja wants give one proverb [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: _____ [?] Propagate your war against all. Māyā and all the so-called conceptions of the religious world.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Giri Mahārāja he missed the plane?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. He came with me, but he left his money in the Hotel Bangkok [?].

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bangkok, here?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. So unfortunately the money is there. He's trying to connect with that hotel.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What's the matter? The Bangkok, so many cheques are being robbed there. And his money - there is some agent? Eh?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. It was his absent mindedness. He left it in the shower.

So I'm taking shelter of that verse in the Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam where Prahlāda Mahārāja talks - if you loose some money in the street, that you may come back and find it there, by God's grace. Whereas if you try to protect your money very well, it may get taken away from you.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: ...Mukunda Mālā Vilasa Prabhu, he's the one who worked very, very hard, on producing this book, for the pleasure of Your Divine Grace. So he's trying to come here in one week.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: After you go back there?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: No. He's trying to come now. But he's having some difficulty getting all the money together.

So I wanted to associate with him. Kṛṣṇa and Prabhupāda Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura liked him to prepare me. Our relationship is very intimate. After the breakdown of our Spiritual Master's institution I wanted to organise another institution making Śrīdhara Mahārāja the head. Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura told me that Śrīdhara Mahārāja is one of the finest preachers of Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the world. So I wanted to talk him everywhere."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Take him.

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: "Take him everywhere. This was my earnest desire. But since he could not go around the world and preach, at least the people of the world should come to hear from him. For spiritual advancement of life we must go to someone who is actually practising spiritual life. So if one is actually serious to take instructions from a śikṣā Guru...

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then there's a line missing, and it says, "...or instructing Spiritual Master, then I can recommend him, the one who's the most competent of all my Godbrothers. This is B.R. Śrīdhara Mahārāja."

Śrīla Govinda Mahārāja: Yes. "Śrīdhara Mahārāja. I consider Śrīdhara Mahārāja to be even my śikṣā Guru. So what to speak of the benefit that others can have from his association."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You sent us one telegram saying that you made your heartfelt prayer to Mahāprabhu for our success. So it's only by Your Divine Grace, Guru and Gaurāṅga, that we're able to present this to you today.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: It commands the heart, for prayer. What you have produced, that is almost a medicine to encourage, to excite the heart to work for prayer.

Pure eyes are necessary to see the līlā of Gaurāṅga here. Only variegated prejudices are covering our real vision, or estimation. Vision and estimation covered by our own created prejudice. They can't allow us to see things independent of our own interest of different type. Interest of different type, like so many dusts covering the real glance. To see properly we're...

...

...the environment, what is there. The whole trouble is there. Anyābhilāṣa, karma, jñāna. Some fleeting desires, then some organised attempt to exploit, then indifference to the environment of different type. And to read the environment from the selfish standpoint, but not preparedness to receive the standpoint from the universal angle of vision. The trouble, the problem is there.

Bhuli bhuta bhakcak dulayi visaya dhuli te karmana sei para tattva bayhile dekhi te [?]

Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari, Gaura Hari. And not only unprejudiced, but there is also some positive qualification. That is interest for the līlā of Śrī Gaurāṅga, or Śrī Kṛṣṇa, etc. Not only to brush aside the undesirable prejudices within us, but positive affinity towards the real nature of things outside. Reality, by Itself and for Itself. By Itself in the background, but for Itself, that is floating over. Everything meant for Him. That positive prejudice is necessary for us. Everything for Him, for Him. And Gaurāṅga, Mahāprabhu came here with His party to introduce this vision that everything is for Him.

Beauty, Reality the Beautiful, and by serving the beauty we can contribute something to make it more beautiful, and to make others also beautiful. So service is the sacrifice, service, that is the unit of beauty, harmony. By sacrifice we can participate into a real harmony, and harmony is beauty. Harmony is beauty, and harmony contributed by the sacrifice of so many units, together for the common end. So we can make ourselves beautiful, environment beautiful, and we can add to the beauty of the beauty if we really can understand what is service and sacrifice ourselves to that positive. Die to live, self participation, apparently, self sacrifice, or self...

Devotee: Abnegation?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Abnegation, negative side. Positively giving ones self, with that die to live, self dissipation or something. Disown the selfishness, the positive, dynamic. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Then beauty will come on our front, the beauty. When our contribution will be for the beauty, beauty will come to flow, to show it on us. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Beauty, sweetness, we all want sweetness, beauty, all these things. Inherent nature and that is harmless. But how to get that, raso vai saḥ, that is only by service.

[ataḥ śrī-kṛṣṇa-nāmādi na bhaved grāhyam indriyaiḥ]
sevonmukhe hi jihvādau svayam eva sphuraty adaḥ

["Therefore the material senses cannot appreciate Kṛṣṇa's holy name, form, qualities, and pastimes. When a conditioned soul is awakened to Kṛṣṇa consciousness and renders service by using his tongue to chant the Lord's holy name and taste the remnants of the Lord's food, the tongue is purified, and one gradually comes to understand who Kṛṣṇa really is. In other words, the holy name of Kṛṣṇa can never be grasped by the material senses. Only by rendering devotional service, beginning with vibrating the Lord's glories upon the tongue, can one realise Kṛṣṇa, for He will reveal Himself directly to the sincere soul."]

[Bhakti-rasāmṛta-sindhu, 1.2.234]

The very gist of spiritual life is sevonmukhe, whether taking the Name, or talking about Him, or whatever form may be of the serving attitude. Innumerable types of service, the very life will be the serving and the dedication. Otherwise all imitation, all may be imitation. We should not be afraid of service life. Die to live, a very good expression. Die means our ego, who are we. Ego means a particular type of ego, and to die means to dissolve that ego. More and more you dissolve your ego, more and more you come in contact with the universal plenary position. So die, die, die to live.

Now there is only one exclusive and super excellent taste, the nectar of pure devotional service, compared to which, nothing else is attractive any more."] [Caitanya-Candrāmṛta, 113]

When Mahāprabhu had His descent here, Prabhodānanda Saraswatī, a preceptor of Gopāla Bhaṭṭa Goswāmī, he's describing. Strī-putrādi-kathaṁ jahur viṣayiṇaḥ. Those who are busily engaged in household talks, for the time being, that was stopped. He began to talk about Śrī Gaurāṅga. Giving away their household talks, they began to talk about Gaurāṅga. What He's doing? The general talk of every lip was Śrī Gaurāṅga when He came here.

Śāstra-pravādaṁ budhā. And the scholars they're fighting to find out the proper meaning of the śāstra, every Hindu scripture. They for the time being stopped that, and began to read what Śrī Caitanya Deva is doing, what He's giving out to us, what is that? Is that the real purport for the whole scriptures?

Yogīndrā vijahur marun niyamaka-kleśaṁ. And those controllers, the yogīs that are out to control their lower phase of life, and want to enter into higher and more subtle position of life, by controlling the air, the breath, they for the time being stopped that. 'That we are trying so hard, by controlling our breath, we are going to achieve some astonishing stage of consciousness. But what this Nimāi Paṇḍit teaches here, that was very wonderful. That we should continue in our own way, or should we accept the course of Nimāi Paṇḍita recommended?'

Tapas tāpasāḥ. And those are very favoured of under going penances by voluntary apprecients on our free will, we can rather give loan to nature, pleasure. The first, I shall do some misdeed, and then suffer after that, no. I'm suffering in the beginning, and then I shall enjoy as a result of that penances. There's a party whose business is like that. The suffering first, not that enjoying first and then suffering, no, suffering first, and then we shall enjoy. Tapas tāpasāḥ. They also gave up their policy for the time being.

Jñānābhyāsa-vidhiṁ jahuś ca yatayaś. The sannyāsīns, the renunciationists, they also for the time being stopped their culture about Vedānta. Athāto brahma-jijñāsā, brahma-jijñāsā, janmādy asya yato, Why brahma-jijñāsā? With everything coming out of it, so that is the prime cause, and we must be acquainted with the prime cause of the whole. It is most reasonable. Brahma-jijñāsā. They also left their campaign for the time being.

Jahuś ca yatayaś caitanyacandre param, āviṣkurvati bhakti-yogapadavīṁ naivānya āsīd rasaḥ. When Mahāprabhu came with a novel style of devotional sentiment, all lost their affinity in their respective departments.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. To understand Him, that requires great fortune, bhāgya. To eliminate exploitation, renunciation, and calculative service. Love, infinite sacrifice. Infinite sacrifice for whom? For whom? He's meant, He's in a constitutional position to be the receiver of all of the whole. That peculiar position, that Absolute centre. That Absolute centre who can consume them and digest. Who can receive the produce of all, and can digest them, and can distribute them in some form or other. Like the stomach receives the food and distributes properly. Stomach knows how to distribute, and what sort of food where. So put food into the stomach, not into the liver, or to the lungs.

pucaitav karma phalam sri krsnaya samut pi stuto [?]

All the religious experts, here they're all one in opinion, that all the results should be given to Kṛṣṇa, the all attractor. Kṛṣṇa means attractor, the all attractor. Who can attract? Who has got something, supernatural power, for attraction, He can attract. Kṛṣ - ṇa, two functions, to draw and to distribute. And the distribution makes everyone happy. Just as the stomach draws the food and distributes it in the form of blood, or something. So Kṛṣ - ṇa, to attract everything. That is not a small matter to attract everything. And then Kṛṣ, then ṇa, ṇa means (that vidivacara?) When religious receives, and when religious everyone feels satisfaction by that type product. Kṛṣ - ṇa. And He's accepted as the all consuming principle underlying. Kṛṣ - ṇa. Good or bad does not matter. Kṛṣṇa. Sun attracts water of different type, and then it also supplies in the way of the gas, the cloud, pure water, which is deserving for us. He attracts water of different types, but when He gives back it is very healthy. So Kṛṣ - ṇa, connect with that.

Mahāprabhu told that. "Connect with that, the life of pure life, the existence of your existence, the desirability of your desirability. The basic principle of all our existence and hankering."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti.

From oxymoron or something like, which seems to be of opposite concern. Just as when we were a child in the mothers womb, no knowledge of our own improvement is there, for a child, but the motherly affection helps us. And Mahāprabhu says to attain that stage, that will be most desirable and judicious. Throw yourself in some motherly care, in the land of affection, opulent affection, affection herself, that will nurture you. Your intellect of the child is unnecessary, when in the early stage as a baby. No growth of care taking intellect there, but automatically in such position, he's well handled.

So there is a plane where you need not try for yourself for your good, it is automatically done. Try to acquire that plane for your home, where everything is automatically, and perfectly done to satisfy your selfish, satisfy your real welfare, automatically done. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. No necessity for you to calculate what is good for you, bad for you. But the atmosphere will do what is necessary on your behalf, and that will be perfect, good. So jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. The most peaceful stage of life, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, peaceful stage. And when you're labouring, engaging your reason, to full view, sometimes by exploiting the environment, or how you can look after your own interest, so much trouble, the stage of this trouble it is not a good life. A good life is to acquire such a stage, such a plane of life, where automatically everything is done to my best interest. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti.

Gaura Haribol. That is internal. Mahāprabhu says that. And still, you're not desired to be idle there. You'll have your engagement, and that is also very peaceful. Suppose if you can get any service where all our fundamental necessities are free, the quarter, the food, all free, and then we work something. The indispensable necessities of life are automatically supplied. We have no worry for that, and then also we do some service, quite happily, something like that, this, jñāna-śūnya-bhakti. Everything necessary for us automatically done towards highest satisfaction. Still, we're engaged in some loving service, more and more. And the company there is also suitable, and the competition is also there, but all happy competition. Happy competition harmonised by the same quarter which sometimes may be apparently seen to be clashing with one another, but still it is not so because the common interest comes and decides between them. In this way, from far away we're having separately.

Mahāprabhu came with all these things, as I told, to book a special train. Our Dhīra Kṛṣṇa Mahārāja, Goswāmī Mahārāja has pointed out that, a special train, left from Navadwīpa and went to Vṛndāvana, no halt in any place. Jñāna-śūnya-bhakti, Kṛṣṇa-loka, Vṛndāvana. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. We are to be educated what is to be desired, what should be our summum bonum of life, that is all important factor to select. Anyābhilāṣ, karma, jñāna, devotion, and this prema-bhakti, love divine, different planes. But go on with your sukṛti, previous sukṛti helps us for selection, and free will has got a little part to play.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Madhvācārya says, mukta-pragraha [?], again unlatched, like a rein of the horse. Horse is controlled always by the rein, but when rein removed, the horse runs at his own way.

So every word, when you take off the rein from the meaning, it will reach to Kṛṣṇa, as if to find it's origin. And by our local interest we put rein and try to take the meaning to this direction, that direction, according to our own interest, local interest. But if the reins removed,

na te viduḥ svārtha-gatiṁ hi viṣṇuṁ, [durāśayā ye bahir-artha-māninaḥ
andhā yathāndhair upanīyamānās, te 'pīśa-tantryām uru-dāmni baddhāḥ]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja says: "Persons who are strongly entrapped by the consciousness of enjoying material life, and who have therefore accepted as their leader or guru a similar blind man attached to external sense objects, cannot understand that the goal of life is to return home, back to Godhead, and engage in the service of Lord Viṣṇu. As blind men guided by another blind man miss the right path and fall into a ditch, materially attached men led by another materially attached man are bound by the ropes of fruitive labour, which are made of very strong cords, and they continue again and again in materialistic life, suffering the threefold miseries."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.31]

All the meanings of all the words and everything will run towards the centre.

mukta pragraha vriti _____ [?] These things have been analysed by Mādhvācārya.

Mahāprabhu also began to explain the grammar in that light when He came from, He returned from Gayā. He began to explain grammar as a devotional scripture. Grammar, to go, to do, all these to analyse, what is doing? What is going? All potency of Kṛṣṇa. He deeply analysed everything, every wave coming from Him. This sound is sleeping, sound is exciting, or reading, running, all different potencies, different waves coming from the centre. So dhatti [?] means clear, all the bhavas [?], they have got their origin from Kṛṣṇa. So whatever word comes to Him, He takes it to Kṛṣṇa. A new line of explanation came from the _____ [?], everything.

The students went to complain to the teacher of Mahāprabhu, Gaṅgā Dāsa Paṇḍit.

"He used to teach us exceptionally well previously, but now after coming from Gayā, how He explains things we can't understand. Some say we understand, but it won't serve our purpose, our present life."

Went to complain to Gaṅgā Dāsa Paṇḍit who was the teacher of Mahāprabhu, Nimāi Paṇḍit.

Gaṅgā Dāsa Paṇḍit asked them, "Send Him to me. I shall request Him to teach you properly."

That information came - Mahāprabhu visited.

"You Nimāi, why do You explain things in a peculiar, different way, new fashion? What's the reason?"

"No, no. By the grace of your feet dust, none can challenge Me."

"Yes, I heard Your name as a teacher. But what is this after coming from Gayā You are explaining things in a different way. Your students came to complain to me. One thing, I remind You, that go in a proper channel, as the ancients have chalked out. What do You think? You're a devotee and Your forefathers and the other scholars they're not devotees? What do You mean that You have come to preach a new thing, crossing Your forefathers and the other respectable persons of the country? You have come to create a new thing here, that's not desirable."

Mahāprabhu told, "No, by the grace of your feet dust, what I shall do rightly. You need not trouble yourself with this."

That universal vision everywhere. To save us from local prejudice, local interest, and no interest. Local interest and no interest, no interest is also a dangerous thing. To be reduced to zero, that is also all devouring, all devouring temporary demon. But interest is there, and that should be properly located. Religion is proper adjustment, our Guru Mahārāja used to tell. Religion is proper adjustment. We're in the discordant way, discord must be eliminated. And apparent discord also we find in Vṛndāvana, but that is of quite different type. That comes from another centre of interest, that encourages more in our progress, that sort.

Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol. Nitāi. Nitāi.

...and Vṛndāvana to be the highest, which seems to be mundane, apparently. And he's making the basis of that, making much free will. After Śaṅkara, Rāmānuja, what Mahāprabhu has given, if we've got free will, free thinking, then we can eliminate these old Ācāryas and find out something new. Prepare ourselves for finding something higher. With this attitude if we try to understand, then we'll be able to appreciate what Mahāprabhu has given. And if we allow ourselves to be fully captured by the previous Ācāryas, then we'll have no freedom to give them up, and to seek a new one, and realise and appreciate Mahāprabhu's decision and advice. It is a ground he's preparing for that. The free will. Not engrossed in the so-called interpretation of the Upaniṣads ever given in India by the Ṛṣis.

na me viduh sayo napi deva kutu muyeshar [?] This higher truth has been delivered in Bhāgavata, and Mahāprabhu is giving that. One who has got free will, from the religious stereotype conceptions, then he can understand the new thing Mahāprabhu has given. That is, he'll be able to appreciate. So we must not make our free will slave to the ancient interpreters of the Vedas. Do you follow?

Devotee: Yes, I follow.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

["May that Lord, who is known as the son of Śrīmatī Śacī Devī, be transcendentally situated in the innermost chambers of your heart. Resplendent with the radiance of molten gold, He has appeared in this age of Kali by His causeless mercy to bestow what no incarnation ever offered before: the most sublime and radiant spiritual knowledge of the mellow taste of His service."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Ādi-līlā, 1.4]

Never delivered in this world, ever been delivered. A new thing Mahāprabhu has come to give to us, and we must have our free nature to welcome that. If we're prejudiced, covered with the old prejudice, it will be difficult for us to understand what Mahāprabhu wants to give.

And also giving some hint in Vṛndāvana līlā, the freedom. There Kṛṣṇa, gopī Kṛṣṇa, _____ [?] means that free. Even not bound by the social laws, and Vedic laws. A hint to that also we may find here.

Svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām.

[āsā maho caraṇa-renu-juṣām aham syām, vṛndāvane kim api gulma-latauṣadhīnām
yā dustyajaṁ svajanam ārya-pathaṁ ca hitvā, bhejur mukunda-padavīṁ śrutibhir vimṛgyām]

[Uddhava says: "The gopīs of Vṛndāvana have given up the association of their husbands, sons and other family members, who are very difficult to renounce, and they have sacrificed even their religious principles to take shelter of the lotus feet of Kṛṣṇa, which are sought after by even the Vedas. O grant me the fortune to be born as a blade of grass in Vṛndāvana, so that I may take the dust of those great souls upon my head."]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.47.61]

How that can be the highest attainment in Vṛndāvana, ignoring the existing social laws, and also the association of our so-called guardians and well-wishers. Kṛṣṇa's position is so high, so loving, so natural, so innate that, that must, if there is any comparison, everything should be cancelled and the selection must go to His holy feet. Neglecting all other possible engagements and demands from us from any other side. That's also hinted there. Ke?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Akṣayānanda.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: How do you do?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Very well, by your grace, very well.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Ha, ha, ha. Very well, you're always very well. Ha, ha, ha.

Our Guru Mahārāja told, "When we're very well? When we're in bhajan we're very well. Otherwise the physical comfort is not very well." Ha, ha.

Haridāsa Ṭhākura he was put into prison by the Kāzī. He was considered criminal, because he used to take Kṛṣṇa Nāma. Coming from the Mohammedan association, put into prison.

But when released, the co-prisoners, they're all so very mortified. "That we got one prisoner so, taking Hari Nāma, such strength and holy temperament, and he's going away."

Then Haridāsa Ṭhākura gave blessings to them. "I bless you to be as you are at present."

Then they misunderstood, some of them. "You bless that we shall remain in this prison house, as we are?" Then some complaint came.

Haridāsa Ṭhākura told, "That is not the meaning. At present by my association, you are all conscious of some sort of God consciousness, your mind is filled up. So my blessing is only looking to that aspect. Kṛṣṇa keep you in this temperament as you are at present, that some holy conception predominating your mind at present. Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa. Not your physical environment, but your mental aspiration, I bless for that."

So how we are in relation with Kṛṣṇa, Vaiṣṇava, Guru. That is our proper concern, existence. Other existence to be ignored and eliminated. That is real life. Life proper is there in which we're in connection with Kṛṣṇa. That is considered to be the life, others ignored, māya. Māya means illusion _____ [?] that has no value, negative value.

Who is he?

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Vidagdha Mādhava.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Where is Dayādhara?

Devotee: I think Dayādhara went to Calcutta.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: When?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yesterday, with Brahmā. He had something to do there.

Devotee: He wanted to get a battery pack.

Devotee: He's coming back, Dayādhara.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And Brahmā?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: He's gone to San Jose.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And where is this newly initiated gentleman, Balarāma?

Devotee: He's staying with me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: With you, here? Now he's not here?

Devotees: He's taking prasādam, he's downstairs.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Consulting my Gurudeva, I showed some special conduct about him. That he may be of service to Sudhīra Goswāmī Mahārāja and Akṣayānanda Mahārāja. And also this Maṭha. His father has got some money, and if he remains in connection with his father he can do some monetary help to enhance this movement. Very sincere boy. He wants to do that. So he may be utilised by Mahā Maṇḍal, as well...

...own hands to quash the devotees. What is this? This is suicidal, suicidal. It will slacken the very foundation of ISKCON, such attempt. And the gainers will be the opposite party.

Nityānanda Prabhu, He got the wound on His head by Jagāi, Mādāi, and that promoted His propaganda to a high level, Nityānanda Prabhu. Even Mahāprabhu went to punish them. Nityānanda Prabhu stopped Him. "No, no, not this time. In this Avatāra such action does not look well, but it is beyond Our promise."

So Swāmī Mahārāja when attacked here by the local guṇḍās in ISKCON temple in Māyāpura. Whether you know or not, I heard he sent a saṅkīrtana party on the street. They entered the compound and showed some rowdyism by physically striking some of the devotees.

Then Swāmī Mahārāja ordered, "Form a saṅkīrtana party and go out on the street, and if any attack comes you all tolerate."

And it was done, he was present within, and the party was sent on the road with saṅkīrtana to be prey to all those guṇḍās, but they vanished gradually.

Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah. Goptṛtve-varaṇam tata. He will protect.

I remained in our main Maṭha, but I first stayed in a rented house on the banks of the Ganges.

Some senior sober man, an advocate, he loved me, he told: "That there is a conspiracy to finish you."

I remarked that, some gentleman, he put some name of some gentleman, he told on my face, that advocate says that: "Śrīdhara Mahārāja will be finished very soon, so he need not stay in a solitary place on the banks of the Ganges, you go in the inner side of the town."

I remarked: "That if that gentleman has got the power to do, to make or mar, then it is better to die. Kṛṣṇa is not there? Kṛṣṇa is there and he thinks that he can do anything and everything, that he has become the ultimate authority, it is better not to live in his in this way life, nothing."

So many times came such things. Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah. Who is the protector? Who is the keeper in the practical life? We're to understand, we're to examine ourselves.

So Jesus is revered for His sacrifice of life, so by length and breadth, the Christianity could spread. Not so much for His principles, but as much for His sacrifice, it spread like anything.

If I'm accepted in the political field also, so many persons that he, if I'm accepted as a sacrifice for the cause, if I will be faultless.

It is not so easy to acquire such fortune, that I will be prey for the service of Kṛṣṇa. It will be individual consideration at least. And in a group we may sometimes take up a Vaiṣṇava is being molested, so we must try in any way. That conclusion can come from other plane, not from ones own self. But a Vaiṣṇava is being molested, disturbed, and it will be our duty to drive away those inauspicious forces. Adjustment is there. Viṣṇu, Vaiṣṇava, to protect Them we shall take any measure, sincerely. But not for one's own self.

Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah - Goptṛtve-varaṇam. "Accepted Him as my protector, sustainer, my guardian, my everything. I won't care for my own protection." Sometimes in sākhya-rasa we find that.

rakṣā koribo tuhuṅ niścaya jāni, pāna korobuṅ hāma yamunā pāni

["Fearless and confident of Your protection, I shall drink the waters of the Yamunā, whether they are poisoned or not. I am Your property. You must take care of me; You can't leave me."]

[The Songs of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, p 26-7]

We shall indent, welcoming danger. "My friend is there, we do not care for anybody, we may take poison." The vraja rakal [?] The Kṛṣṇa's friends, they was aggressor to drink poison. "That Kṛṣṇa is there, whom we should fear?" None, nothing, not there is nothing to be afraid of, Kṛṣṇa is there. So such indulgence one may have in śaraṇāgati. Rakṣiṣyatīti viśvāśah. "He'll protect me. Other's protection I won't accept. I shall hate other's protection in the physical world. Who'll protect? I deny, if any proposal comes I should deny. I'm under His care." Is it not practical then? Is it all theoretical, abstract? Then my life is an abstract thing, only imagination? Religion is in imagination, not in practice?

This is our own case. But in the case of the molestation of the Guru, Vaiṣṇava, Vigraha, there of course, that chance we get. And that will be in devotion, not for one's own.

He will say, "No. Let him do, let him do, abusing."

But Vaiṣṇava says, "No. What are you saying? I'm already filled up with so many abuses, so this abuse is nothing. So many things of abuse is in me."

And the fact is that if one Vaiṣṇava is abused, then the abuser he takes up the defect himself. The poison is taken by him, it is transferred. If one is above abuse, and any abuse comes to him, then who abuses, he gets that, he eats it. And he becomes more pure, more pure.

So, vaiṣṇava ninda vankor, very dreadful thing. But if we're well wisher, well wishing is there, then not aparādha. To the subordinate if any defect is there the guardian will say: "Oh you have these defects, you must be careful." Careful, with well wishing, then you may utter. Otherwise, śūlapāṇi-sama yadi vaiṣṇavere ninde, [tathāpiha nāśa pāya, - kahe śāsta-vṛṇde ihā nā māniyāye sujana-nindā kare, janme janme se pāpiṣṭha deva-doṣe mare]

["It is the conclusion of all the revealed scriptures that one who blasphemes a devotee is doomed. For such a person, everything is torn to pieces by the powerful trident of his sinful reactions. A sinful person who disregards this principle and insults great souls will suffer birth after birth for his offence."]

[Caitanya-Bhāgavata, Madhya, 22.55-56]

He may be in the position of Mahādeva, but if he abuses any Vaiṣṇava he will be punished. But if with the abuse there is affection, from his own heart wants to remove that bad habit, then it is all right, well wishing. Otherwise only to remark, it will be dangerous, it will be transferred to him.

api cet sudurācāro, bhajate mām ananya-bhāk
sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

It is so dangerous, ananya-bhakti is a dangerous thing. So many apparent anomalies cannot make him the object of blame. Because that very rarest thing of ananya-bhakti, whose future is guaranteed, ananya, connection, exclusive connection with the Lord, that means his bright future is guaranteed. Only question of time. What he has, the connection, the high valuable connection that he has got, that is very, very, very, very, rarely to be had, and that he has got. And other things are negligible, negligible of the negligible. So don't approach that dangerous place, or you'll be doomed. So, api cet sudurācāro. At your consideration he may be much filthy. But at once the day will dawn there, and you'll be nowhere. You have no position at all. You're now as a commentator making remarks, you'll be nowhere. But his position is sure because that ananya-bhakti connection, exclusive devotion connection, that highly earned most rare, valuable thing he has got. So I'm such that my real connection is so valuable that all the worldly attributes in consideration to that, no position at all. The worldly relative consideration of good and bad, that has got no value. It is all illusory. But that is reality, whatever least it may be, that is reality.

Devotee: Mahārāja, would you explain this again. The good and the bad, would you explain this again.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. You're disturbing the thought. What good and bad? Good and bad...

'dvaite bhadrābhadra-jñāna, saba-'manodharma', 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama'

["In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions. Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad,' is a mistake."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176]

As in a dream, you may have a good dream, or a bad dream, but both is false, something like that.

In the relative consideration of this worldly position we may think that he's a good man, he's a bad man, but everything is all illusory. The imaginary standard conception, everything.

And the connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is reality. That is absolute. That connection, His protection, His sympathy, it is genuine, it is real thing.

And all others are, they have got their own position...

83.03.30.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...I answered, that you have got ideas of the sādhu, but a sādhu will fly away from the human society, and retire into some solitary place. And there...

...

...I may be a beggar, and in this life also may be a beggar, even may be murdered as because my kings position. So all these things. I'm a scholar, then next I may be a madman.

This one Brajanshil [?] a good scholar of international fame (Brajanshil [?], philosopher. Many world conferences he attended. But in the last stage he was, he became mad.

A scholar next moment may be mad. So in this world no permanent value of any attainment.

But our plenary connection with Kṛṣṇa, that is from the soul to the Supersoul. The soul's connection in eternal plane that has got, however slight, but still it is substantial, it is real.

Others are all flickering, temporary, hoaxing, no value. In the movement, coming, birth and death. We're moving within birth and death, birth and death, in this world. But that all relative positions are illusory. Now it is, next moment it is not.

But the soul to Supersoul, soul is real, Supersoul is real, and any friendship or any connection with that, it is permanent. So however bright may be this prospect of this illusory world, that must be dissolved for the slight connection of the souls plane towards Supersoul. Such importance we must give in our whole life, in all the activities, they may be influenced by this thought.

api cet sudurācāro, [bhajate mām ananya-bhāk
sādhur eva sa mantavyaḥ, samyag vyavasito hi saḥ]

["If even a person of extremely abominable practices, abandoning all non devotional pursuits of exploitation and renunciation engages in My exclusive and uninterrupted devotional service, he is venerable as a true saint because he has embraced the revolutionary plane of life."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 9.30]

What is from the relative consideration, from the worldly consideration, is good or bad.

'dvaite bhadrābhadra-jñāna, [saba-'manodharma', 'ei bhāla, ei manda',-ei saba 'bhrama']

["In the material world, conceptions of good and bad are all mental concoctions. Therefore, saying, 'This is good, this is bad' is a mistake."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Antya-līlā, 4.176]

Dvaite means we are separate conception, not organised whole, connected with the Absolute, not universal, but provincial, local interest. Bhadrābhadra-jñāna. Calculation from the local or provincial interest, good, bad, all false, no value. The paramount power will come and smash this provincial.

If there is war - in the second war time, in England, when they were apprehended, the greatest attack from Hitler, after France was crushed, there was some ordinance. All individual properties came to the prime minister. An ordinance was, all the properties, of all, big or small, all came to the state. Individual ownership was abolished for the time being. Because anywhere, any preparation for the defence may be taken. So there for that view the whole individual rights were given away to the state.

So all our acquisitions of this local interest, provincial interest, they've got no value from the standpoint of the Absolute Interest. Dvaite bhadrābhadra-jñāna. Any moment the Absolute Interest may come and demolish these local transactions. So, dvaite bhadrābhadra-jñāna, saba-manodharma. It is mental speculation, mania, it is all mania. But from the Absolute consideration what is the truth, that is ever truth, not unchangeable truth. That may have, vilasa, have play. The change of play that is not death. Līla, that is līlā, pastimes, that may come back again. In this way. Your points clear?

Devotees: He's not here. He's gone.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh, put the questions and fled, ha ha, because I did not like the question, interruption.

Badrināràyaṇa: No. Govinda Mahārāja called him.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Call of Govinda Mahārāja, a practical call, this is theoretical. Ha ha ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

yā niśā sarva-bhūtānāṁ, tasyāṁ jāgarti saṁyamī
yasyāṁ jāgrati bhūtāni, sā niśā paśyato muneḥ

["While spiritual awareness is like night for the living beings enchanted by materialism, the self-realised soul remains awake, directly relishing the divine ecstasy of his un-interrupted spiritual intelligence. On the contrary, the wakefulness of materialistic persons addicted to sense enjoyment is night for the self-realised person who is completely indifferent to such pursuits. The realised souls, indifferent to the mundane, are ever joyful in the divine ecstatic plane, while the general mass is infatuated by fleeting mundane fancies devoid of spiritual joy."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 2.69]

There is a world where ordinary people are fully awake there, in their own interest there. But there are others, they do not find any interest in that worldly life. They dive deep and awake in some other world, and they have got all their interest in that plane. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Awake in your world of soul, and awake in the world of matter.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. How much our attraction to Kṛṣṇa will be that we may be taken to His real connection, that should be our all concern. What the others will do, making, fabricating this conspiracy, this or that, may be ignored for our own interest. But according to the capacity, according to the stage of realisation, everything varies.

na buddhi-bhedaṁ janayed, ajñānāṁ karma-saṅginām
[yojayet sarva-karmāṇi, vidvān yuktaḥ samācaran]

["The scholarly proponents of the path of knowledge must not confuse ignorant, attached men by deviating them with advice, 'Leave aside action, and cultivate knowledge.' Rather, cultivating their own minds, the learned should perform all the various duties without desiring the results, and in this way, subsequently engage the common section in action."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.26]

Karmārpaṇa. First varnāśrama karma. Then to be very particular to give up the result to Kṛṣṇa, to offer the result of all the duties towards Kṛṣṇa. Then to give up wholesale and jump into the service of Kṛṣṇa, gradually advancing. According to ones own stage of realisation it will work, the advises will be suitable and work.

Kṛṣṇa says: "To teach the people, I have also to undergo, to practice their duties."

utsīdeyur ime lokā, na kuryāṁ karma ced aham [saṅkarasya ca kartā syām, upahanyām imāḥ prajāḥ]

["If I do not perform duties, then, following My example, all the inhabitants of these worlds will renounce their duties and thereby come to ruination. Thus I will be the cause of social turmoil due to unvirtuous population, and in this way, I will be responsible for spoiling posterity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.24]

"Sometimes I have to take the, make imitation for their activities to save them, to help them in their position."

So Kṛṣṇa also comes here, sometime, He engages Himself in worship, Kṛṣṇa also worships. So many Deities, father, mother, all, brāhmaṇas. He's also washing the feet of the brāhmaṇas, to teach them, in their layer, their plane, He does so. Different stages of realisation.

Na buddhi-bhedaṁ janayed, ajñānāṁ karma. [Bhagavad-gītā, 3.26]. But ultimate things are of this type. Progress, elimination and acceptance, progress means elimination and acceptance.

Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura explained free will. "All will be open for our free will, free understanding, all will be open to receive new light, new idea, that must be tasted by the criterion."

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol. Gaura Haribol.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Mahārāja. I have a few confusing thoughts in my head.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What is that? Say.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Trying to serve the Absolute Good. In Malaysia many nice things happening. But at the same time the resistance is very great from Haṁsadūta. And so I'm wondering, sometimes the sentiments are mixed, in my head, to keep going. Every time they produce some insult, it seems that Kṛṣṇa supplies more reciprocation from the public, more preaching opportunities. But my presence there is an irritation to them.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Naturally.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: So I wonder, which is the better service for Kṛṣṇa? To go on preaching, or to consider that they are also preaching Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and to relinquish the field to them?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What do you find in your heart, that the type of your preaching is more purer, or their type of preaching is purer? How does your heart responds, your conscience respond to your activity?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I think by Your Grace our preaching is more mature, and theirs is more immature. But I don't say that they're not preaching Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. But in the consideration of position, do you find you can understand that your attempt is more sincere and of purest type? Is it?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I could not say that. They're very sincere. But I just think that their preaching is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Only the quality of their preaching is of lower standard?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Not as mature standard of preaching. Their preaching is more obligatory.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: As a duty.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Obliging the public to serve Kṛṣṇa. Whereas our preaching, somehow, by your mercy, our preaching is...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Then with the call of the book distribution and you can give the idea which is within the book.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Yes, yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So of greater, higher level, you're preaching. And they're only distributing the books, and inviting them, and making friendship with them, in this way. Your level will be in higher plane.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: Their conception is that it's more like a club or a society, this Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Our conception is that it's more individual necessity.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: More nearer to ideal, more abstract towards spiritual ideal. And they're more in the material surface.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I think.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Diplomacy, dollar, all these things, society, social. And yours ontological, more ontological. And their attempt more social.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I feel that way.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But now what do you like? They're in such a fighting position, you want to go on, or you may have your field of action somewhere else? Haṁsadūta Mahārāja, he has taken you to me. You have got some obligation to him. And whether under his direction, his subordinates are doing something wrong to you, or he does not know the local authorities are giving some resistance to your activities? What do you think about that?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I think he's condoning.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He's concerned?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: He's condoning the irritation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Their attempt is corroborated by him, directed and corroborated?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: I think corroborated. Maybe not directed. But they feel the irritation.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Whatever they do he gives consent, approval? Now what do you think? If you like you can change your field of preaching of activity. In London a centre is established. Then in San Jose he has got very big preaching centre. In South Africa, Bhāratī Mahārāja, he was attempting, but now he's a little depressed for want of assistance, proper. Then other places also where service of your type of scholarship may be well utilised. You consider with Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, and our Goswāmī Mahārāja, and Mādhava Purī Mahārāja, and this Aranya Mahārāja, etc. And then inform me what you will like to do. How energy should be best utilised with less hitch with ISKCON. Less hitch, and more activity.

Relief work. I first told that our object is like relief work, starting a relief work. Those disappointed and dejected, with no place in ISKCON, still they're sincere, hankering for Mahāprabhu, and Kṛṣṇa, and Swāmī Mahārāja, how we shall try to help them in our sincere way. And so if any hitch we don't want, still if any collision comes we shall try to tolerate it as much as possible, and go on with our relief work. It is not a new creation, but to help the real movement of Swāmī Mahārāja from the ontological standpoint. To keep up the ontological standard of Swāmī Mahārāja's mission, with something more little added. And that is mādhurya -rasa. Not so much cultured by him, perhaps for the social position of the foreign country, that may not be undermined. The social position is such that mādhurya rasa may be dishonoured as the custom of the country. So he perhaps...

But as we are given up the mantram but we do not go to analyse the meanings of the mantra very much, only selected few. In this way we're to say there is something, but we must approach very, very carefully. It is there on our head. In this way keeping harmony with the mantram, and the other advises in Bhāgavatam and Caritāmṛtam, and Mahāprabhu, they're fully engaged in that. But respectable distance, that should be kept. And never we shall think that we can walk over that plane. But it is just over our head. In this way we're to tread that there are such things, higher things like that. You consult with your friends, and select about your field of work, preaching. Fight is not very desirable, relief, a spirit of toleration we must have.

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: The field has grown so intense in the last few months. The activity is very nice. There's so much to do.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Very successful. So many men are favourable to you? But you have got some substantial thing to give to them. But they have got only book distribution, and no intellectual food, or religious food, to explain?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: They just have some loyalty that they're pushing, pushing, like this. But since I returned to Malaysia you asked...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Anyhow, wherever you'll go you'll find your field, amongst the intellect. So Malaysia, London may be higher field for you. Many people of high calibre may appreciate your characteristic of preaching. Recently our Akṣayānanda Mahārāja, Mādhava Purī Mahārāja, and others, they went there and preached. Where Mādhava Purī Mahārāja also delivered lectures in some universities there. The Parvata Mahārāja, that Āśrama Mahārāja, they also want help of relied preachers, everywhere. In many places your preaching may be welcome. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol.

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja. It seems even though we're working in the spirit of relief, they take it as a fight, or a competition with them. How can we overcome that?

Dayādhara Gaurāṅga: They feel threatened.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Who are you?

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: Giri Mahārāja.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Giri Mahārāja. Ha, ha. That will help us to particularly look for another plane. The decision, the Absolute decision will come from higher plane. It will help us to search for the higher plane more intensely. Whether the path I have taken is only imagination, or there is reality there? That Kṛṣṇa is everything, He protects His devotees. All this is imagination, theoretical, or it is real? We must make experiments with this truth in our own life, and then we'll make progress step by step. Such test will come, will be extended to us by Kṛṣṇa Himself.

"You have faith in Me as Absolute, or in any other potency, that they're master?"

Only lip deep? When you speak that Kṛṣṇa is everything, He's over all, is it a lip deep statement, or it really comes from your heart and conscience? Nothing can be done without His consent. All these imaginary propaganda, or it is real? To live in, reality to live in, or only to preach?

Fight for fight, that is not a very high stage. Ignore the fight. Let it go on in its own way, and I shall be busy in my own thing. Let them come on the back, not in the front. They will come as the consequence of my previous lives. So we shall show our back, and many wounds may come to my back. But in the front there will be peace, and Kṛṣṇa, and I shall make progress towards that. Go forward towards Kṛṣṇa. And as a result of my previous activity they may attack in my back. Ignoring them I shall make progress towards the front. Kṛṣṇa is everything, and that must be realised as truth within me. Otherwise what value has it got, only lip deep propaganda? There must be life within to back this preaching. The words that come from our lips must be backed by spiritual realisation, that Kṛṣṇa is all. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

In Manipur, some hundred years or two hundred years, I don't remember. There, all Vaiṣṇava disciples of Narottama Ṭhākura. The King also. And one General named Mr Tikendrajit, he wanted to overthrow the influence of the British there. And he used for those war materials the temple of Rādhā-Govinda's compound. And anyhow they sent the British military god. And one Captain, or one military officer, was sent to find out the truth behind the rumour. And the King did not allow him to enter into the temple compound, 'he's a mleccha.' But he forcibly entered. And the General Tikendrajit he murdered him at once, that European General was murdered. Then a military force was sent to capture the whole Manipur, and with special instruction that the temple compound that was utilised for this political purpose, so that must be demolished. And it was so demolished that the Deities, by the shots of the cannon, the whole temple and the Deities was also smashed and destroyed.

Then our Guru Mahārāja was explaining the thing. "Then what is this? People will say the Deity which was worshipped by the disciples of Narottama Ṭhākura, They had not the power to protect Themselves? Kṛṣṇa has no power to protect Themselves, They're all idols, dolls? What is this?"

Prabhupāda explained in some other way. "That without the will of Kṛṣṇa nothing can be done. So what is the will of Kṛṣṇa, that His worshippable figure will be demolished by the shot of cannon? Nothing can, even a straw cannot move without the will of Kṛṣṇa. And such a great thing, disaster was done by the will of Kṛṣṇa?"

He told, "Yes."

"Why?" He explained. Arcye viṣṇau śilā-dhīr guruṣu nara-matir vaiṣṇave jātī-buddhir. We generally identify, if spiritual truth comes down in this mundane world, in our plane to help us in that formula, that is not the same as wholesale spiritual. So to do away with our wrong conception, that what we see that Deity that is Kṛṣṇa. To demolish that wrong idea, this was done by Kṛṣṇa's will.

Do you follow? Am I clear?

Giri Maharaja: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja:

arcye viṣṇau śilā-dhīr guruṣu nara-matir vaiṣṇave jātī-buddhir
viṣṇor vā vaiṣṇavānāṁ kali-mala-mathane pāda-tīrthe 'mbu-buddhiḥ [śrī-viṣṇor-nāmni-mantre sakala-kaluṣa-he śabda-sāmānya -buddhir]
viṣṇau sarvveśvareśe tad-itara-sama-dhīr yasya vā nārakī saḥ

[Śrīla Vyāsadeva states in Padma-Purāṇa: "Anyone who considers the worshippable Deity of the Lord to be made out of wood, stone, or metal; who considers the Vaiṣṇava Guru to be a mortal man; who considers a Vaiṣṇava to be limited by the confines of caste, lineage, or creed; who considers the holy foot-wash of Lord Viṣṇu or a Vaiṣṇava to be ordinary water, although such water has the potency to destroy all evils of the age of Kali; who considers the Holy Name and mantra of Lord Viṣṇu, which vanquish all sins, to be common sound vibration; and who considers the God of gods, Lord Viṣṇu, to be merely on the level of the demigods - such a person is a diabolical devil."]

We're really pilgrims to the hell, by knowing only the superficial things. Thinking that this what we see as stone, that is Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is limited there. To do away with such conceptions, Kṛṣṇa takes such bold steps.

"That I'm not your, this sense conceived, eye conceived, stone piece. I'm something else."

To elevate you to that position, what was given by him to elevate you from the lowest position to somewhere again, that is demolished to give you some higher type.

Suppose the national flag, that is the honour of a nation. But if the flag, by the enemy party is captured and it's trodden underfoot, of course that is something. It's dishonoured, nation's honour is demolished. But still we're to think that the nation is there. Though honour of the freedom, the freedom is related with that flag, that is torn to pieces, or bruised underfoot, or maybe burned to ashes, but independence may be there. Again coming and conquering the enemies. So some sort of relation is there. The honour of the freedom of a country is with the national flag, but still the national flag does not represent the whole of the freedom. In such a way.

It is necessary, this Vigraha, but by that you must try to understand, go further, that is a symbol given to you. And you're encouraged to say that It is He Himself, not otherwise. But that Himself is not what you conceive by your senses. You're to differentiate there.

So elimination and acceptance, progress means, always. Here Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, free, all will be unprejudiced to accept truth. Expectant to understand revealed truth, and there, comparative study in the revealed truth.

As I told, the Christianity - Goswāmī Mahārāja is here?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: That Christianity is static or stagnant, and this is dynamic, what is that?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You said, "Is the position of Jesus stagnant, or dynamic and progressive?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: His Kṛṣṇa conception, dynamic and progressive, which?

Devotee: Or static.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Static is Christianity? Conception of Jesus is static?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: You said, "Is the position of Jesus static or dynamic? Is Jesus' position static or dynamic? Can He make further progress?" You were saying that Jesus, "Is His position dynamic or static?"

Because the Christians may say, 'Well He knows everything.'

So you said, "Is He barred from making any further progress? Is He a member of the dynamic world or the static world?"

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Hare Kṛṣṇa. Further consideration and realisation than what was given by Jesus. Fatherhood of Godhead. Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Haribol.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So when we see the writings of Ṭhākura Bhaktivinoda, we see that he's discussing this comparative theism of Christianity, and Vedānta, and then the Bhāgavata. He has this one English talk that he gave on the Bhāgavata, and...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Bhāgavata Speech.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Booklet.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Do you know when he gave that?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In Dinajpur [West Bengal], when he was an officer in Dinajpur District he gave that lecture [in 1869]. The Brahmo party, they were trying their best to take him towards their support. But there in Bhāgavata speech he declared clearly: "No connection with you. I am a servant of the Vaiṣṇava creed." In his Bhāgavata speech openly he declared.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Yes. He spoke in that lecture, he mentioned Ram Mohan Roy, who was the founder of the Brahmo Society.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. The Brahmo. He asked them to make further progress.

"It's not ended there. With free will you're to start with open inquiry. Then you'll be able to see that what Mahāprabhu has told, that is not idolitary."

And their main objection was that these Vaiṣṇava's are idolitary, idolitors.

"No. It is not idolitary. You come to see in this light."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But when I was reading this of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, it reminded me of so many things that Your Divine Grace had told us at different times. Because Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī Ṭhākura he said that you are carrying the conception of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura. So by examining these writings...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: He was satisfied by that poem written by me [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha- daśakam] so much that: "It is not his writing, Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has himself written it through him." He remarked like that. It was so accurate representation of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's creed was to him that he remarked in this way. "It is not written by him, but Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura has written it through him."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he said in that lecture that when studying a particular author that we must trace out his exact position in the line of thought.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: And meant for whom? What section? Same author may write a book for the primary students, school students, college students, same author may prepare such books. It is like Veda, for different classes. According to the capacity, and the standard, they will accept the teachings. In Gītā also, Gītā also recommending many things as karma, jñāna, bhakti, yoga, so many things. But there is a comparative study. If we're particular we see that all taken towards bhakti, surrender, how? How karma ends in devotion. How jñāna ends in devotion. How yoga ends in devotion. Everything ends in devotion. The connection is given there.

Who cannot, who miss this connection giving, they say, "Oh, Gītā has supported us." The political revolutionary people they also get their support from Bhagavad-Gītā. "Gītā has supported us." Everyone: "Gītā has given us support." But the link is there, ultimately leading towards devotion. And in the end,

sarva-dharmān parityajya, [mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja
ahaṁ tvāṁ sarva-pāpebhyo, mokṣayiṣyāmi mā śucaḥ]

["Totally abandoning all kinds of religion, surrender exclusively unto Me. I will liberate you from all kinds of sins, so do not despair."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.66]

"All phases of duties should be abandoned." Mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja. "And ultimate end will be to take refuge under My feet, clearly. And you will have not to be pained for that, amply rewarded you'll be. Leaving aside all conceptions of duties you ever can imagine and understand, give up everything. So give up everything you have acquired so far. So much risk you're to take. Whatever conception of duty you have got so far, give up everything. Kṛṣṇa conception of Godhead is a revolutionary thing, for which the right, My relationship with you, if you hear it will seem to you to be quite revolutionary. You have no independence. You're wholesale Mine. So independently you're coming to sue transactions from Me? You've come for transactions? Wholesale, every inch, you're Mine, not outside Me. That is your proper location, And you have come for transactions. You're a separate party, I'm a separate party. Give up all such conceptions of duties and inquiries, and everything, wholesale. You are Mine wholesale."

That is Kṛṣṇa. This is the truth. Prepare yourself for that, śaraṇāgati, mām ekaṁ śaraṇaṁ vraja.

To Arjuna also He told,

man-manā bhava mad-bhakto, mad-yājī māṁ namaskuru
mam evaiṣyasi satyaṁ te, pratijāne priyo 'si me

["Think of Me, serve Me, worship Me, offer your very self unto Me, and surely you will reach Me. Sincerely, this is My promise to you because you are My dear friend."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 18.65]

"I promise you that I'm everything. I'm not deceiving you. You're My favourite. You're my friend. At least I won't deceive you, cheat you. So plainly speaking Arjuna I'm everything of you."

Painfully He's speaking of Himself to His friend Arjuna.

83.03.31.A

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...he had another policy of bhajan. He wanted to attack the māyā. "Why this māyā, this misconception, will at all stand here, to trouble so many so-called innocent souls? The māyā, I must drive away the māyā wholesale from the land." With that spirit he wanted to preach.

And Mahāprabhu also came here to relieve the people from māyā, protect from misconception.

Īśāvāsyam. "Everything belongs to the Lord. Nothing belongs to me, or my country, or human society. All false notion, and they're all suffering for this. And this is a grave situation. Sometimes man, sometimes beast, sometimes an insect, sometimes - this is the prime problem of the country. And that must be handled effectively. And that sort of misunderstanding must be driven from the country. And Kṛṣṇa consciousness must come to reign here in this plane, everywhere. As much as possible I shall spread Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the kingdom of Kṛṣṇa. Everything belongs to Him. And to release from them the birth and death and mortality, and all these things, liberation."

Attacked in this way, he began a fighting, totalitarian war. And we're his servants. We do not care for anything. But report where only these misconceived problems are judged, let them come with advocate, and the judge, let them come. We have got the śāstric difference between the sādhu. And I shall anyhow come with Kṛṣṇa consciousness. They quote anything, let them come. I quote and cultivate about Kṛṣṇa consciousness. We want that. We do not care for anything, whether these half mad persons will remark against us, we do not care for that. _____ [?] Everything for Kṛṣṇa. We do not care for our fame or name, or we're not ashamed for the remarks of the so-called ignorant persons of the world.

Devotee: Gaura Haribol. Guru Mahārāja, I'm going to have to take your leave. I have to go now.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Yes. Totalitarian war. As soldier going to fight in the material world, to deal with everything against Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Smash. Misconception is at the bottom of all these misdeeds. That fundamental plane should be shaken, of the whole country, everywhere, that misconception, misunderstanding, māyā. All guided, from the scientist, from the politician, everyone guided by the misconception. And everyone's to suffer for that, and that must be captured, come in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

We belong to Him. There is one Master. And we must have a direct, sincere life under Him. The environment we cannot ignore. 'I'm king of all I survey. I'm monarch of all I survey.' No. We're subject to the Absolute Monarch. A diabolic change is necessary in our conception. And accordingly in all our activities and behaviour, conduct, sociality, in politics, everywhere. The Kṛṣṇa consciousness must be the emperor.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja. This is Rasācārya [?] Mahārāja. The reason why I'm leaving, is the preaching party's leaving.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: What does he say?

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Rasācārya, he'll go with the preaching party _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. All right. All saviours of Kṛṣṇa and preaching party. Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja. But Govinda Mahārāja said that only one sannyāsī and one brahmacārī should go. So Aranya Mahārāja and Mahānanda are going. That's what Govinda Mahārāja told me.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Now he's here for preaching, why should he be taken back? And you do not like to go?

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Well, Govinda Mahārāja said only one sannyāsī one brahmacārī. So I don't know _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: No, no. Hari Charan and another two preachers from your section must go. Those that can deliver lectures, at least two of such persons.

Mādhava Purī Mahārāja: Then maybe I should call Govinda Mahārāja.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja said _____ [?]

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: But you have got any business for consultation here, any urgent business, that is also Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Then you may remain. Anyone. Another one may go. If you, for the discussion amongst you, some important member his presence is necessary then he may remain.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: So, once you were talking of the life of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura and Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta. And you said that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī when he was younger, he was creating some disturbance in the school, because he was always arguing the supremacy of Vaiṣṇavism.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. Yes.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: And Bhaktivinoda was wondering how he was going to get on in life in his later years. And you said that Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta Saraswatī said, "Don't worry about me."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Ha, ha. I heard it from his own lips, in Purī. Our Guru Mahārāja when he was reading in the Sanskrit college, he was always very eager to talk about Mahāprabhu and discarding others. Got into trouble with the students and the professors. And it was so intense he left the college.

"I don't want to be educated by you."

And Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura he's looking at his external life, he told, "You do not do anything more. You've left the college, and also not engaging in any business, anything. How you'll go on in your future life?"

"You may not have bother about me. I shall manage anyhow, go on by the grace of your feet dust."

In this way he answered.

I considered something like - I wrote also a poem, that is not published. I considered Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura as Vyāsa, and Guru Mahārāja as Śukadeva. A thought of Vyāsadeva was inaugurated into public by Guru Mahārāja, as a brahmacārī, and a philosophical scholar. Śukadeva, though imbibed from Vyāsadeva, pitur dvaipāyanād aham.

[idaṁ bhāgavataṁ nāma, purāṇaṁ brahma-sammitam
adhītavān dvāparādau, pitur dvaipāyanād aham]

["At the end of Dvāpara-yuga, I studied this Mahā-Purāṇa Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam from my father, Śrī Kṛṣṇa-Dvaipāyana Vyāsa. I conceive that to be the highest standard of education and you are the fittest man to receive it. Therefore I shall deliver it to you."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.8]

"What I have received from my great father, I want to give that wealth to you Mahārāja Parīkṣit. You are a proper person to receive that with proper respect." Mahā-pauruṣiko bhavān.

[tad ahaṁ te 'bhidhāsyāmi, mahā-pauruṣiko bhavān
yasya śraddadhatām āśu, syān mukunde matiḥ satī]

["That very Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam I shall recite before you because you are the most sincere devotee of Lord Kṛṣṇa. One who gives full attention and respect to hearing Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam achieves unflinching faith in the Supreme Lord, the giver of salvation."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.1.10]

"You have got capacity of receiving greater purpose of life, higher fulfilment of life. You're a proper person to grasp. So I like to deliver to you that great thing what I got from my father, Dvaipāyana."

In this way he began his speech in that sabhā. And Dvaipāyana is also present, and Dvaipāyana's Guru, Nārada is also present. The son and the grandson, they're also witness. "How he's putting properly what we told, whether really represented, getting real representation or not, through this boy."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Then, you're like Sūta Goswāmī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Sūta Goswāmī. Ha, ha, ha. Gaura Haribol. Ha, ha. Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: Ugraśravā.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: This personal attack, getting benefit of that.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I was reading one lecture of Śrīla Bhaktisiddhānta, and he said that Śukadeva Goswāmī when he saw his audience, the mixed audience, different types of devotees, that he did not want to mention the Name of Rādhārāṇī.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes. Jīva Goswāmī has pointed out in that way. That Śukadeva, in course of his discourse, sometimes he approached near about to mention the Name of Rādhārāṇī, but considering the characteristic of the audience he came back. Did not take Her Name out of respect. That they may not appreciate. The mixture, the audience, they're of so many thoughts were, they're specialists of different types of thinking, they were present there. And after giving careful audience to Śukadeva Goswāmī they went on in their former business. Very few they converted. But they could not approach - they were not so much bold as to approach Śukadeva Goswāmī, how to appreciate to certain extent. And to check them, now and then, Śukadeva Goswāmī he's inaugurating some sort of tap.

tapasvino dāna-parā yaśasvino, manasvino mantra-vidaḥ sumaṅgalāḥ kṣemaṁ na vindanti vinā yad-arpaṇaṁ, tasmai subhadra-śravase namo namaḥ

["I offer my repeated obeisances unto the Supreme Lord, who is all-famous as the Supreme Good. Without offering their actions unto Him, neither the liberationists (jñānīs) who are dedicated to austerities, not the charitable worldly workers (karmīs), nor the world famous, nor the performers of Aśvamedha sacrifices, nor the sages or yogīs, nor persons dedicated to chanting mantras, nor persons of virtuous behaviour - none of them can attain any auspiciousness in life."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 2.4.17]

He sometimes, now and then, he's inaugurating such thoughts.

"That all-harmonising. You, of different schools of ontological thought represented here, you are authorities of different departments, you are present here. I fully know that. But you must remember that you've got this defect, and to compensate that you're to take connection of some higher substance. And what is that?

Tapasvino, there are so many lovers of penance. Dāna-parā, big men who are famous for making gifts of valuable things, dāna-parā. Yaśasvino, and there may be many leaders and popularity seekers, leaders of the country may be here, yaśasvino. Manasvino, so many speculationists, research scholars, there may be many amongst you, manasvino. Mantra-vidaḥ, so many tantrics by the power of mantram you can do anything and everything, who can show so many feats of the mantra, mantra-vidaḥ. Sumaṅgalāḥ, and there are many amongst you who are of sincere heart and think about the real peace in the world, sumaṅgalāḥ. Kṣemaṁ na vindanti vinā yad-arpaṇaṁ, but ultimately every one of you, every section, you're to connect with some higher power to conduct your things safely. Your aspiration, your campaign, may not be hindered by the external opposition. So you're to seek for some transcendental help. It is mentioned.

Isvara paramato sada visidyati udan [?] One wants samādhi. Samādhi means cessation of your consciousness permanently. But to facilitate that process, you're asked by the original authority to take the Name of Hari. Why? You want complete exclusion from Hari, Hari consciousness, Kṛṣṇa consciousness, God consciousness. You want to retire forever. But why then you're to take His assistance for your campaign?

In this way, anyhow, somehow or other, as in the government, in the country, there may be so many enterprise. Some iron business, some other business, some agriculture, all these, but they must have got some sort of connection with the government. Some came to pay to the government and to have some facility from that. Without the help of the government no different types of individual enterprise can grow.

So, you're all so many departmental heads. But at that same time, in somehow or other you have got some recognition of the higher background whose good will you want for your own improvement, in your own line. In such śloka we found here and there.

nivṛtta-tarṣair upagīyamānād, bhavauṣadhāc chrotra-mano 'bhirāmāt
ka uttamaḥ-śloka-guṇānuvādāt, pumān virajyeta vinā paśughnāt

["Glorification of the Supreme Personality of Godhead is performed in the paramparā system; that is, it is conveyed from spiritual master to disciple. Such glorification is relished by those no longer interested in the false, temporary glorification of this cosmic manifestation. Descriptions of the Lord are the right medicine for the conditioned soul undergoing repeated birth and death. Therefore, who will cease hearing such glorification of the Lord except a butcher or one who is killing his own self?"]

[Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 10.1.4]

So sometimes he's striking hammer on the head of the authorities of the different departments there. Most generalising thoughts are indented in the midst of the description of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa is a person, but He's unlimited. Just as, aṇor aṇīyān, if you go to analyse things, the smallest of the smallest, no end. The smallest atom, then analyse it, then electron, then analyse it. Then proton, electron, and again that may be analysed. Again that may be analysed. No end. And towards bigger, no end. There is the biggest, then another biggest. But after that - what after that - no end. Mahato mahīyān, no end, and aṇor aṇīyān no end.

[aṇor aṇīyān mahato mahīyān, ātmasya jantor nihito guhāyām
tam akratuḥ paśyati vīta-śoko, dhātuḥ prasādān mahimānam ātmanaḥ]

["Smaller than the atom, greater than the greatest, the Supreme Self secretly resides even within the core of the atomic individual soul [the jīva]. When the devotee beholds Him he is freed from lamentation, and by the grace of the Lord [Dhātṛ] he realises the superiority of the Supreme Soul."] [Kaṭha Upaniṣad, 1.2.20]

So the middle size, that should be considered as the prime cause, the medium, madhyama ākāra. If we search the prime cause within, we're not injudicious, because no end of bigness, and no end of lowness, no end. So the prime cause must be located in the middle, madhyama ākārti. Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Sonhood of Godhead, in the centre, not in the circumference. In this way the centre must be found here, and the centre of attraction which can give cosmic character to everything. That must be located in the centre, under this ānandam, sat-cit-ānandam, in this way.

But those that cannot appreciate, from them he did not want to take the Name of Śrī Rādhikā, that they will misunderstand Her and will commit only offences against Her.

Our Guru Mahārāja also, he also told so many things, but very rarely he took the Name with great respect of Rādhārāṇī.

Once perhaps I told happened something. One big zamīndār disciple of Guru Mahārāja, he had some respect, he was well educated and he was wealthy. So ordinary people had much respect for him, and he mixed with many sections. He came to Guru Mahārāja, and anyhow he opened the topic that 'Lakṣmī Devī, or some, Pārvatī's beauty is better, higher, than that of the gopī.' In this way, something.

Prabhupāda could not tolerate that idea. Then he began to, from internal emotion, began to describe the beauty of Rādhārāṇī.

[21:13 - 23:13 ?]

Then Sadyen Nārāyaṇa Rāya, [?] he opened the topic. And Prabhupāda began emotionally to describe the beauty of Rādhārāṇī, but another force is checking his attempt.

[23:40 - 24:00 ?]

Prabhupāda can't tolerate that the Rādhārāṇī's beauty will be challenged by some quarter. And also he can't describe that beauty in the ordinary public section. Not to be exposed to them, they're all of another type, unable to appreciate a very small portion of that. So two opposite forces were fighting in him and he fainted, fell from the chair. He will speak it, that extraordinary beauty, he can't give up the challenge without, that talk without challenge, at the same time, before the ordinary people, he can't speak also. He's not prepared to describe the beauty extraordinary of Rādhārāṇī. The two forces from different directions came into clash, and Prabhupāda fainted and fell from the chair.

So Jīva Goswāmī, he mentioned that Śukadeva in the course of his lecture came to mention the Name of Rādhārāṇī, but again She's pushed back from the position, did not. Only in one place it is mentioned, pradana gopī, the principal gopī, in this way, in Bhāgavatam.

She lodged complaint against Kṛṣṇa in different ways, in the front of Uddhava, Her grievance.

He represented the grievance of the gopī and Vṛndāvana against Kṛṣṇa and then minimised in the end.

"He's all in all. He can make or mar. He can do everything. Everything is justified. Who are we? We're the most negligible part of His friends circle." In this way.

And there is another, that during the rasa, when Rādhārāṇī could not tolerate the common dealing of Kṛṣṇa with all the gopīs. Not any distinctive nature in His dealings to the superior, inferior, not such, common dealing, general dealing. That She could not tolerate, and She came forward, and by Her song and dancing, charmed the whole field, and then suddenly disappeared. And Kṛṣṇa when He could detect that Rādhārāṇī is not seen here, She has left the place, then He left the whole rasa ceremony and tried to follow the footsteps of Rādhārāṇī.

[28:00 - 28:58 ?]

That is a very important factor, otherwise it will do wrong instead of right. Adhikāra.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: Does Mahāprabhu consider adhikāra?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Of course. He used to do saṅkirtana, nāma-saṅkirtana in the public, but when He used to cultivate about the rasa of Vṛndāvana, with closed doors, none could have any entrance.

One brāhmaṇa who used to drink only milk and nothing else, he came with boast that: "I must have admission. I do not eat anything, but I only live on milk drinking. I must be qualified to enter into."

Then Mahāprabhu ridiculed him, showing His thumb. "Only drinking milk is no qualification to get admission in Kṛṣṇa bhakti. Go off." So under closed door He used to go on with saṅkirtana about the high rasa of Vṛndāvana, and nāma-saṅkirtana in the public, He did. Saṅkirtana. In Caitanya-Bhāgavata, the poem, bahiraṅga saṅga godhi nāma-saṅkīrtana antaraṅga saṅga koraḥ rasa sadan

Within the selected circle He used to culture about this rasa. And, bahiraṅga, the ordinary public, this Nāma-saṅkirtana, that He did strictly. So much so that one day the mother-in-law of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit, who was not up to mark, the mother-in-law of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit. It was at night in the yard of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit's Śrīvāsangam, He used to, that rasa kīrtana, He used to do that, and none could have any entrance. Now out of curiosity the mother-in-law of Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit, she hid herself within a basket there on the veranda.

And Mahāprabhu is going on with the rasa kīrtana but He says, "Today I do not find any inner encouragement, inspiration. There must be some outsider who is not fit to attend, understand all these things."

Then Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit he tried his best to find out whether any outsider, any trespasser is there, he could not find any such person. Again Mahāprabhu attempted but He did not find any real inspiration.

"You, I can't find any real inspiration, why, there must be some..." Then in this way, twice or thrice.

Then Śrīvāsa Paṇḍit he found out that his mother-in-law in a big basket concealed there. Then he was so much enraged. "My Prabhu, my Master, He's not finding ecstatic joy and you have come here to disturb us." Caught her, though as mother-in-law she should be respected, wife's mother, but he could not restrain himself, he caught her by her hair and ousted her, so much strict.

Because we're not to belittle the thing. It's not a thing of luxury, or our mental food of the pleasure seeking thoughts, not like that. This is the highest of the highest, highest of the highest. Śiva viriñcira vāñchita ye dhana. Which is aspired after by Mahādeva and Brahmā but they may not get it.

emana gaurāṅga vinu nāhi āra, hena avatāra habe ki hayeche hena prema paracār, śiva viriñcira vāñchita ye dhana jagate phelila ḍhāli, kāṅgāle pāiye khāila nāciye bājāiyekaratāli, nāciyā gāhiyā khola karatāle, dhāiyā mātiyā phire, tarāsa pāiye śamaṇa kiṅkara, kabāṭa hānila dvāre,
e tina bhuvana ānande bharila, uṭhila maṅgala śora, kahe premānande ehenā gaurāṅge, rati nā janmila mora

["O mind please listen. You have nothing else to be attached to except Śrī Gaurāṅga. Never in the past, nor in the future, will there be such a benevolent incarnation who has presented the matchless divine love ecstasy of God so generously. He poured into this world that ambrosial wealth which is ever cherished and hankered for even by great powerful personalities like Śiva and Viriñci (Brahmā). By His merciful grant, even the most common destitute persons were blessed with the chance to imbibe that nectar with great delight. Overwhelmed by spiritual ecstasy they began to sing the glory of the Lord and dance accompanied by the concert of rhythmic drums and sweet karatālas. Frightened by the power of such holy saṅkīrtana, the inauspicious atheists who were slaves to their mortal ego, ran away and hid in locked rooms to protect themselves from such purifying effect. All three worlds of existence (svarga, martya and patala) became blessed by receiving transcendental bliss and reverberated that auspicious sound. Premānanda says: "I can never have enough devotion to my beloved Gaurāṅga."] [Premānanda Dāsa]

Our Guru Mahārāja. So many imitationists in Vṛndāvana, after, during a tour of Vṛndāvana in the beginning, Guru Mahārāja came and he stroked his forehead. "I came to Vṛndāvana but I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava here. But so many bābājī's were there, so many bābājī's. I could not find a single Vaiṣṇava, my fate is so hard, I'm so unfortunate." That was his remark.

They who will give due respect to Rādhārāṇī. When we went to Vṛndāvana we were ordered to read there the, Prahlāda carita of Bhāgavatam, not about Kṛṣṇa topics. In Vṛndāvana, sannyāsīns of Gauḍīya Maṭh are holding classes and there they're explaining, Prahlāda carita and Ambarīṣa carita, the primary stages of śuddha bhakti. And they're not ordered to take, to explain Kṛṣṇa līlā.

Guru Mahārāja himself, he also sometimes read, in Rādhā-Kuṇḍa and Śyāma-Kuṇḍa, there is a boundary, in that place he held classes for some time in, kartika mass ujarvita. We attended, but he explained Upadeśāmṛta, not any līlā of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa.

pūjāla rāgapaṭha gaurava bāṅge [mattala sādhu-jana viṣaya range]

["The path of divine love is worshippable to us
and should be held overhead as our highest aspiration."]

The whole sphere is taken at respectable distance on the head. Go on working in the lower level. To show proper respect to the highest thing, don't venture to enter. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread. With this idea _____ [?] everywhere.

Once his class mate of the student life, afterwards he became attorney of high court and then retired and went to Vṛndāvana and lived there. His Guru was one Yati Goswāmī. And he came to pay visit to our Guru Mahārāja, as he was known from his childhood. And Guru Maharaja for formal courtesy went to see him in his quarter. And there he found that he's engaged in hearing the rasa-līlā explained by a famous Goswāmī, Pran Gopāla, there. Guru Mahārāja went to see him, he was engaged there, he bowed down there and coming out.

Then that gentleman leaving the position, leaving the listening to the Bhāgavatam, he came down.

"Why you are going on? Rasa-līlā is being read here and you must take your seat. And you are coming and in a second you are going away?"

"Oh, I cannot stand here. My Guru Mahārāja did not allow me. He told that I will have to commit offence if I attend any rasa-līlā talk. So I can't stay here I'm going off."

To hear rasa-līlā from the lips of a person who is not so much realised, and who is a slave of lust, and he's expressing rasa-līlā and to hear that, who are not fit to go to that level, that is committing offence, nothing else. And that offence means that will shut the door for long time to enter there, offence means that. It will close the door for long time, until that offence is removed. Then we may have entrance there, admission there.

So not to belittle, it is not a novel, that I shall enjoy the pastimes of the male and female. Aprākṛta, adhokṣaja, aprākṛta. Beyond the reach of the soul, the Supersoul area and the highest quarter of the soul of the spiritual world, that is that. Otherwise it will depreciation and it will be eternally closed to me. Not to trifle. The highest fulfilment of life, that may not be spoiled. I can do or not do, but I should not spoil my highest fulfilment of life.

What we can understand or appreciate from far off, that is enough for us, to feed us. The little ray, what will come from far away, that is of such superior quality that that can dismiss all aspirations that are known to us. What to speak of having any direct connection with there. Ābhāsate [?] That is such. We can conjecture from far away what superiority of the position will be there. An ordinary man's private life, that we cannot enter into, that is a concealed thing. Then what about that pastimes of the Supreme most entity. So, sakhyāya te mama namo 'stu namo 'stu nityam

dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu raso 'stu satyam

["I won't allow myself to become fascinated by the proposal of the higher level service as a friend, sākhya. Rather, I shall tend always to do the lower service, dāsya, the service of the servant. I shall not consider myself to be a high-class servitor and I shall always tend to go towards the lower class of service. But He may forcibly take me to a higher service - "No, you are no longer to serve there; now you must serve in this higher category."] [Śrīla Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī's, Vilāpa-kusamāñjali, 16]

We must not be, must not try to run up, but we shall try to go down to begin, to utilise my energy. And automatically I shall find myself that I'm taken by the current to a suitable position. The current of the environment will take me to my suitable position. But my tendency will always be to begin from the downward service. That should be the tendency. Dāsyāya te mama raso 'stu. My sincere attraction I shall try to regulate towards the lowest service. And the environment will take me up and put me in proper position. That is healthy. And to try to go up, setting others on the side, to make progress forcibly, that is the etiquette which is not admired there and not workable. That pushing others right and left and to make progress forcibly with pride, that etiquette is unfit. Everyone is thinking that 'I'm the smallest.' And the Yoga-Māyā is there. You make proper adjustment.

Hare Kṛṣṇa. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Hari. Gaura Haribol. Nitāi Gaura Haribol.

Devotee: Guru Mahārāja, can you explain antaraṅga asasva [?] please.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Antaraṅga, that is to engage himself in the private talk, the talk of Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa and the gopīs in Their private life...

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: ...in fact I'm everything. All your aspirations is within Me, cannot go outside. Your highest aspiration is within Me, can't seek it outside. I'm so friendly, so near, so loving, so affectionate. In all respects you are Mine."

Such loving share, or service, or anything, our relationship we have got with the truth, Kṛṣṇa. Then He's wonderful, holding such position in the absolute sense, how we have become otherwise? That free will, and the position of that marginal position. That is responsible. Self determination. Die to live. Everything for Himself. This is the condition. We're for Himself. Accept this then negotiation begins.

"First you have to accept everything for Me, then the negotiation may begin. How and why you are for Me? First you have to understand that I'm for Myself. The Absolute must be for Himself. You understand this properly. Reality for Himself, for Itself, otherwise He's not Reality. If He's subservient to any other law or any other agent He's not Reality. So if Reality has got such position, Absolute position, with this basis, 'For Itself' now negotiate what will be your position with Me. Complete surrender, there you are normal, otherwise you are thinking abnormally about reality. That is really your creation and not in the absolute sense, your created reality. But reality independent must be of this nature, and then your position will be within Me, within My sweet will. And that is your highest position. You try to - I'm your friend, I'm your guardian."

suhṛdaṁ sarvva-bhūtānāṁ, jñātvā māṁ śāntim ṛcchati

["I am the enjoyer of the results of sacrifice performed by the fruit-hunter, as well as the results of austerity performed by the liberation-seeker - I am their only worshippable object; I am Nārāyaṇa, the indwelling monitor of all planes of life, and the Supreme Worshippable Personality who awards liberation. And I am the well-wisher of all - I am Kṛṣṇa, the devotee's most adorable friend. The soul who thus knows My true identity attains the ecstasy of knowing his own original divine identity."] [Bhagavad-gītā, 5.29]

"You can only find peace in such condition when you accept Me as I am. I'm your guardian, but I'm your friend, your greatest friend."

So harmony lies there. Otherwise we're god of gods. We go to the friend, rules and regulations, how a god will be, otherwise we won't accept him as God. Not that God created man, but that man creates God, man created God. That goes to Darwin theory, the fossil is the cause of everything.

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: Guru Mahārāja. In progressive realisation of Kṛṣṇa, does one have to go through the stage of Brahman realisation, Paramātmā, and then Kṛṣṇa?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Not necessarily, not necessarily. He may go through that way. After general education then one goes to some specific education. After passing B.A, M.A, then goes to medical, or engineering departments. And from the beginning one may get admission in the engineering college. Something like that, with little primary education he goes. So through varnāśrama dharma, this yoga, jñāna, everything may lead ultimately to śuddha bhakti and there He says, Mahāprabhu says: eho bāhya āge. This may be excluded, without this, this only sādhu saṅga with śraddhā. We have got faith, and we have got good devotee association. Wherever, from any position śraddhā and sādhu saṅga, these are primary necessities. Without that it is not possible. We must meet His agent, and we must have some faith in His agent. Minimum demand in the bhakti school is this. Neither this brāhmaṇa Mahāprabhu says,

nāhaṁ vipro na ca nara-patir nāpi vaiśyo na śūdro
nāhaṁ varṇī na ca gṛha-patir no vana-stho yatir vā [kintu prodyan-nikhila-paramānanda-pūrṇāmṛtābdher
gopī-bharttuḥ pada-kamalayor dāsa-dāsānudāsaḥ]

["I am not a priest, a king, a merchant, or a labourer (brāhmaṇa, kṣatriya, vaiśya, śūdra); nor am I a student, a householder, a retired householder, or a mendicant (brahmacārī, gṛhastha, vānaprastha, sannyāsī). I identify myself only as the servant of the servant of the servant of the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the Lord of the gopīs, who is the personification of the fully expanded (eternally self-revealing) nectarean ocean that brims with the totality of Divine Ecstasy."] [Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 13.80]

All these, the yoga, jñāna, nothing is necessary. Only minimum necessity is His agent's association, connection, and faith for his association. Then through that done, without that impossible.

rahūgaṇaitat tapasā na yāti, na cejyayā nirvapaṇād gṛhād vā na cchandasā naiva jalāgni-sūryair, vinā mahat-pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekam

[Jaḍa Bharata said: "O King Rahūgaṇa, the perfectional stage of devotional service, or the paramahaṁsa stage of life, cannot be attained unless one is blessed by the feet dust of the great devotees. It is never attained by austerity, Vedic worship, acceptance of the renounced order of life, the discharge of the duties of household life, the chanting of the Vedic hymns, or the performance of penances in the hot sun, within cold water or before the blazing fire."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 5.12.12]

matir na kṛṣṇe parataḥ svato vā, mitho 'bhipadyeta gṛha-vratānām adānta-gobir viśatāṁ tamisraṁ, [punaḥ punaś carvita-carvaṇānām]

[Prahlāda Mahārāja said: "Because of their uncontrolled senses, persons too addicted to materialistic life make progress toward hellish conditions and repeatedly chew that which has already been chewed. Their inclinations toward Kṛṣṇa are never aroused, either by the instructions of others, by their own efforts, or by a combination of both."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.30]

naiṣāṁ matis tāvad urukramāṅghriṁ, spṛśaty anarthāpagamo yad-arthaḥ mahīyasāṁ pāda-rajo-'bhiṣekaṁ, niṣkiñcanānāṁ na vṛṇīta yāvat

[Prahlāda Mahārāja states: "Unless they smear upon their bodies the dust of the lotus feet of a Vaiṣṇava completely freed from material contamination, persons very much inclined toward materialistic life cannot be attached to the lotus feet of the Lord, Who is glorified for His uncommon activities. Only by becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious and taking shelter at the lotus feet of the Lord in this way can one be freed from material contamination."] [Śrīmad-Bhāgavatam, 7.5.32]

Without the help of the Vaiṣṇava we cannot reach there. This is the general thing, minimum. Others may be redundant, other departmental knowledge about this, that, so many things that are not necessary. That may be sometimes ornamental for a preacher. If a devotee is a preacher, then he can be a good preacher, if the devotee is educated he may be a good preacher to the educated section, not for the ordinary. That is something ornamental. But the minimum necessity sādhu saṅga and śraddhā, śraddhā in the disciple and the genuine preceptor. This connection, praṇipāt, paripraśna, sevayā, and this jñāninas tattva darśinaḥ, this connection necessary.

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: In Bṛhat-Bhāgavatāmṛta, Sanātana Goswāmī shows the travels of Gopa Kumāra. And he's going through different stages of progressive realisation. But that is not necessary for everyone?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Yes, passing through. Not everyone. Of course we'll have to pass through those stages unconsciously. Virajā, Brahmaloka, Śivaloka, Vaikuṇṭha, we have to pass, but no stopping at the station, we pass quickly through towards the destination. The stages are there, but from one stage, one station to another, then another, then another, in this way many stations not stopping. He may go from anywhere unconsciously passing through those places he'll leave there. Stages are there, but no stop, he may not stop there. Necessarily he'll pass through those places, or stages, unconsciously. Very quickly it will pass unknowingly, unconsciously.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: But if he had some attraction, then he may stop there?

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: If any special attraction he may have to stop. But if the guide is strong enough he'll say: "No, no, no stoppage here, come. No charm here. What is here is already known as this and that and that is only detention, no value, come."

Aranya Mahārāja: There's one breaker here, it's called Vṛndāvana Express Train.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Oh. Express also stops in the main places. Only this is a special train. Ha, ha.

And there is also Navadwīpa Special. And that is considered above Vṛndāvana. And we're there. Appreciation, realisation is necessary, why so? Why Vṛndāvana is superior to every stage of life? And why Navadwīpa also considered, to our poor he has got no money. Navadwīpa with very least capital we can get in Navadwīpa which is in Vṛndāvana, and more. It's difficult to understand. The highest power of positive negative combined is giving something.

[tabe hāsi' tāṅre prabhu dekhāila svarūpa] 'rasa-rāja', 'mahābhāva' — dui eka rūpa

["Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is the reservoir of all pleasure, and Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī is the personification of ecstatic love of Godhead. These two forms had combined as one in Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu. This being the case, Lord Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu revealed His real form to Rāmānanda Rāya."]
[Caitanya-caritāmṛta, Madhya-līlā, 8.282]

"The sweetness and the taster of the sweetness in its highest degree, They're combined to bestow, to distribute Themselves for us. If you can give away all so-called religious prejudices and concentrate towards the naked truth, the rasam, and sympathy towards Me then we shall be able to understand how Both combined together. Both the parties, giver, taker. The greatest giver and the greatest receiver. Both combined a pot to give to the ordinary people. That is only in a limited circle, to the qualified circle. And here, ordinary mass can have entrance and in no time maybe given the tickets of that high positioned theatre. Percolated."

Achievement of Kṛṣṇa's service also may be done by the Nimbarka, the Vallabha, and others. The māyāvādīs they also have recognition. But the whole Vaiṣṇava school they have got real position of Kṛṣṇa. But their conception of Kṛṣṇa is also different from the conception of Mahāprabhu, in some respects. So if we can approach Kṛṣṇa through Mahāprabhu, the highest attainment, and any defect, that fullest, highest fullest, not partial attainment of Kṛṣṇa. We're to clearly understand for ourselves where's the difference with Nimbarka and others conception of Kṛṣṇa.

And so much so, inconceivable, that we're to give more stress towards Rādhārāṇī. That is the peculiarity of the Gauḍīya Vaiṣṇava school. There may be sweetmeat, but the absence of tongue, nothing to be lived. If proper tongue I may have, the standard of the tongue, that will give me the standard of sweetness. Something like that. Without tongue no meaning of sweetness. Without ear no meaning of music. In this way.

Independent of Rādhārāṇī we can contact with Kṛṣṇa we'll be loser. But in the service of Rādhārāṇī we get the highest quality of Kṛṣṇa realisation, highest quality. Because so much high sweetness, so much high and real intense realisation about Kṛṣṇa is not possible anywhere. And that quality I can have if I participate in Her line. That quality, quantity and quality, highest quality only can be drawn from that rasa, ecstasy, by Her alone. And that type of quality I can expect to have in Her line. It is running, the current is running through high to us, towards His inmates towards His campaign, that quality. So much so that one who can understand the taste of that quality, the other current is tasteless to them, quite tasteless, the rasa. The rasa may come through other channels, that will be tasteless to the tongue who has tasted that rasa coming through Rādhārāṇī. Something like this. Rādhā-Dāsya, kaiṅkaryya.

In Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's poetry I developed that in the last stanza.

śrī-gaurānumataṁ svarūpa-viditaṁ rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ śuka-śiva-brahmādi sammānitaṁ śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum īśo bhavān

["What was sanctioned by Śrī Caitanya Mahāprabhu by His descent was intimately known only to Śrī Svarūpa Dāmodara Goswāmī. It was adored by Sanātana Goswāmī and served by Rūpa Goswāmī and his followers. Raghunātha Dāsa Goswāmī tasted that wonderful thing fully and enhanced it with his own realisation. And Jīva Goswāmī supported and protected it by quoting the scriptures from different places. The taste of that divine truth is aspired for by Brahmā, Śiva, and Uddhava, who respect it as the supreme goal of life. What is this wonderful truth? Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanā: that the highest nectar of our life is the service of Śrīmatī Rādhārāṇī. This is most wonderful. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you are our master. It is within your power to allow them to bestow their grace upon us. You are in a position to bestow the highest gift ever known to the world upon us all. It is at your disposal. O Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, please be kind to us and grant us your mercy."] [Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 9]

The extent of Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura's gift, how high it is to show that Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura is so great that he has given gradually this highest thing he could give. What is that? Śrī-gaurānumataṁ. Sanctioned by Śrī Gaurāṅga. Svarūpa-viditaṁ. That value is known only to Svarūpa Dāmodara. He can estimate the value of such gift by Mahāprabhu. Mahāprabhu's sanction how valuable, it was known only to Svarūpa, the Lalitā Devī Avatāra. Rūpāgrajenādṛtaṁ. Sanātana Goswāmī who is the master of the sambandha-jñāna, he has appreciated it very much. Rūpādyaiḥ pariveśitaṁ. Rūpa Goswāmī with his followers has served them direct to the public, to the proper persons. Raghu-gaṇair-āsvāditaṁ sevitam. Raghunātha Dāsa he has tasted it properly, and enhanced, developed, gave some development. Jīvādyair abhirakṣitaṁ. Śrī Jīva with his followers have supported, gave protection, that in the name of this Rādhā-Dāsya any other thing may not come within. And this is the aim of the whole scripture. In this way, Jīva Goswāmī with his followers have, very earnestly they tried to prove to the intellectuals that how this is the highest. Śuka-śiva-brahmādi. The Śuka, Śiva, Brahmā, and Uddhava, they showed their aspiration for this thing, not all, they have paid due respect to that thing. And sammānitaṁ. Such service, the service means the satisfaction, propitiation of Rādhārāṇī, and you are in the position to bestow this to us. Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura, you hold such dignified position that you can give that thing to us. Śrī-rādhā-pada-sevanāmṛtam aho tad dātum īśo bhavān. Your position is so dignified that you are bestower of this highest thing and you have shown it in your writings how this is the highest aim of our life, highest realisation of the life of every soul is here.

And the next concluding śloka.

kvāhaṁ manda-matis tvatīva-[patitaḥ kva tvaṁ jagat-pāvanaḥ sarvasvāvadhi-rādhikā-dayita-dāsānāṁ gaṇe gaṇyatām]

["But where am I? I am in a most fallen condition, my intelligence bound with fault. Where are you, O deliverer of the universe? O master! By your causeless mercy alone, my unlimited offences can be pardoned. O ocean of compassion! O Gurudeva! I humbly beg for one favour before your lotus feet: kindly count me as one of the servitors of Śrī Śrī Rādhā-Kṛṣṇa, that Divine Couple Who are an ocean of matchless wealth."]

[Śrīmad-Bhaktivinoda-viraha-daśakam, 10]

Where am I? A fallen soul with so much disqualification, patitaḥ, fallen of the fallen. And where are you? Your position in the highest peak of respect. Jagat-pāvanaḥ. You purify the whole world, in such a position you are, you hold. In this attempt I might have limited you. I have no capacity of doing real justice to you in this description of your greatness. This is a very ruff and audacious attempt. For this haughtiness you must forgive me I hope. You are so great. And I have got one prayer to file under your holy feet. What is that? The most favourite of the favourite of you, your most loving Dayita Dāsa, your disciple Dayita Dāsa, our Gurudeva, you please grant my admission into his fold. This is my prayer to you. You recommend me to get admission amongst the so many servants of your heartfelt, affectionate disciple, our Gurudeva. You recommend me to have entrance, admission into his fold. That is my prayer to you Bhaktivinoda Ṭhākura."]

So Govinda Mahārāja wants there to expand. What do you think?

One or two or three centres may be given more attention, and all possible workers should do for that. Then when they're in firm footing, then to exchange gradually.

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: I think that that is a good idea, but there may be a strong independent desire amongst the devotees coming this side. So immediately they feel the necessity to do something completely independent. And as a result a few centres are not strengthened.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: So make the best of a bad bargain, that policy. Where it is not possible to bring them within the central rule, they may be given a little freedom, as less as necessary. But one, two, three, four, a few centres should be strengthened, strongholds just like fort. The fort and the ruling country, something like that. Strong centres, two, three, here there like fort, and to extend the government from there, here, there so many centres may be.

This is my suggestion. You consider it according to your own knowledge and go on doing. You are known to the habits and ways of the foreign affairs more. I'm only sitting here in some narrow quarter, limited field. Only through books may have some knowledge of the foreign country, not practical ideas. You're in the practical field, you're to adjust, final adjustment will be with you. My advice more or less theoretical. You're in the practical field.

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: Yours is the central interest and ours is provincial, so therefore yours is more broad.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: Mine is ontological, legal interest. But to translate that ontology into the practical activities that depends on you, and your knowledge, your experience. So I say mine is theoretical and yours practical, how to do it practically. Hare Kṛṣṇa. You may utilise me, my thoughts, ideas, my experienced knowledge about the śāstra, and the Vaiṣṇava of the sampradāya. That you may try to utilise for your purpose.

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: We'd like that you utilise us for your purpose.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: In the higher sense end of course it may be like that. The idea, the ideal, the moralism, more or less you depend to be supplied from me. But how to translate them into practical line? You have got your own better experience of the locality. You're to do that.

Akṣayānanda Mahārāja: That has been shown most by Goswāmī Mahārāja, by the book, books of your speeches, that is the most major step in the practical line, your vāṇī. Such books should be given first encouragement we all feel. The Search for Kṛṣṇa: Reality the Beautiful, we find this to be the first step of the practical development.

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: All right.

Aranya Mahārāja: Swāmī Mahārāja used to say, "Books are the basis."

Bhakti Kanan Giri Mahārāja: "Utility is the Principle."

Bhakti Sudhīra Goswāmī: "Preaching is the Essence."

Devotees: "Purity is the Force."

Śrīla Śrīdhara Mahārāja: By distributing books, by publishing, by delivering lectures, and also by reading the scriptures, in many ways. Our Guru Mahārāja also did by exhibition also. In various ways he wanted to push on the ideas, thoughts _____ [?]. Swāmī Mahārāja also doing, a variety of portraits in the books of different kinds, educating, pictures through the books.
